 Solutions Offered For Drive-Up Mail Boxes

BY O.G. NIEMAN

Folks have complained for a long time about the inconvenient drive-up mail boxes at Hereford Post Office; suggestions for solving the problem have been advanced, but each time the issue fizzles out before action is taken.

If you don't know what the problem is, all you have to do is watch the action around the drive-up boxes about 5 p.m.

each day. The main problem, of course, is for cars with no passengers. If there is only the driver in the vehicle, the boxes are on the wrong side of the street. Some folks slide across the seat to reach the slots; others simply get out of their car and walk around to the box.

And, while folks are getting out of their cars near the boxes, drivers are also parking on the south side of the street and dashing across to make the mail drop. When the traffic gets thick, you also see some cars double-parking on the south side. When there's no traffic in sight, you can occasionally see a motorist veer across the street from the south lane, illegally of course, and drive to the boxes on the driver's side.

The Brand checked this week with the postmaster, the city manager, and the chamber of commerce to inquire if any recommendations or suggestions were in

C of C executive vice president Bill Albright says the chamber board has approved a plan which would have a driveway built onto what is now post office property, with westbound traffic driving through to drop the mail on the driver's side. The boxes would be at about the present site. about the present site.

Postmaster Nolan Grady doesn't feel the Postal Service would go for that plan. His suggestion is to build an "island" in the middle of 4th Street, extending to near the alley which goes behind the post office. The island would have boxes to service drivers on both sides. In order to have four lanes of traffic, however, some of the sidewalk would have to come off one side or other of the street.

City Mgr. Dudley Bayne thinks the simple and least expensive solution would be to put the drive up boxes near the alley on the back of the post office property. Drivers could enter at the alley, drop the mail and pull back onto 4th in the driveway which now services the loading dock at the post office. This' would require moving a power pole and

'Help' Asked From Taxpayers Not Receiving Reappraisal Notices

BY BOBBY TEMPLETON Brand News Editor

A cry of "help" was released by the school district tax collector this morning after his office was inundated with calls this week from puzzled citizens who had not received tax notice this month like most local taxpayers.

A large number of the Hereford Independent School District taxpayers have been left in a quandry since they have not received notices advising them of the newly established reappraisal values according to Orpha Click, school district tax assessor-collector.

HE SAID THIS MORNING that his office, located across from the courthouse on Sampson Street, has been bombarded by a flood of calls from individuals who said they have not received any letters stating the values of their property. The school district and Deaf Smith County tax offices sent out notices early this month notifying taxpayers of the values figured under the reappraisal program completed this summer by Jim McMorries and Company, property appraisers and "We want anyone who has not received a notice to call either this office (school tax office, 364-0625) or Jim McMorries (364-4454) to find out their values," Click said.

The Tax Board of Equalization, which meets today until about 4 p.m., has been hearing appeals since Thursday morning from taxpayers who desire a review of their values. As word of the meetings circulated throughout the county, some persons discovered that they had not received their reappraisal notices and began asking questions. Click suspects that a lot more persons than the number calling in have not been given notices. "I don't know what happened; whether the post office isn't delivering notices or what," he explained.

NELL MILLER, COUNTY tax assessorcollector, said that only three persons have called about county notices.
"We've only had a few people call and we sold them their values," she said. A second meeting of the tax equalization board will convene in two weeks, Click confirmed. The board. serving both the county and schools, will then rule on any change in the values based on the evidence presented this week by taxpayers and McMorries.

"This will give those who have not received notices a second chance to meet with the equalization board," the school ax official said. "We want everyone to have a chance to check on values.

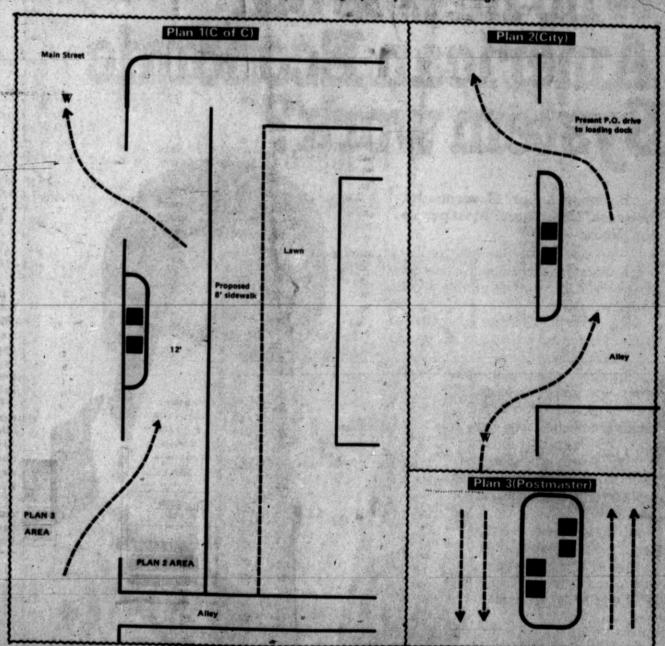

The city is not a part of the reappraisal program this year and therefore is ecting a separate equalization board hearing at the city hall. It met Thursday to hear cases. The new reappraisal values will be used by the city next year.

CLICK SAID THAT only about 14 persons appeared before the tax equalization board Thursday. They were first screened by representatives of the McMorries firm, who were meeting in the District Courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse. The equalization board was meeting in the County Commissioners Courtroom on the second floor of the

COMMIT EE MEMBERS reviewed their stand on the nation's agriculture policy and moved to encourage maintenance or commodity prices at levels which insure profit for producers and establishment of a cost of production index which would encourage legislators, to set workable target prices on Gerald McCathern, agriculture committee chairman, moved that full copies of proposed farm policies be obtained from each of the presidential candidates, . and committeemen approved the motion.

Bill Albright, executive vice president of the chamber, was appointed to request farm policy statements from each of the candidates.

Endorsement was also given by the committee to the position of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce concerning agriculture chemicals and meat inporta-

THE WTCC position on chemical bans is that they should be made only after ing their effect on humans, and that their detrimental effects should be weighed against their advantages in crop production.

The WTCC has also called for the formation of an impartial committee to investigate the compliance of foreign meat exporters with certain standards with which U.S. producers are expected to comply. In essence, the WTCC's position on meat imports is that foreign meats should be subjected to the same standards as American-produced beef.

Conservation during the course of the meeting turned to some of the recent directive of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and Albright read a portion of a letter which he recently received from 19th Congressional District Representative George Mahon.

The letter read: "You might be interested in the investigations I have made regarding the insulting and silly OSHA brochure entitled "Safety With Beef Cattle." My staff and I have had several meetings with OSHA officials about this matter and have identified the people responsible as well as the cost of this absurb project. Those attending also voiced their approval of the formation of an agriculture promotion and public relations committee to visit area towns and tell the story of local agriculture and the situation facing today's farmer.

Members also called for a visit by the new committee to the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce's agriculture committee sometime in the future.

School board member James Gentry appeared before the committee to explain the recent re-evaluation of county property which will lead to higher school taxes for most local farmers, and committee members agreed that the firm which handled the reappraisal locally did so fairly, and had been responsive to requests for corrections by local farmers.

MCCATHERN PROPOSED the possibility of the chamber sponsoring a pheasant hunt on locally owned land and requested reactions from the committee

Charles Schlabs responded that he felt such a project would be good for public relations here if it were handles correctly, and pointed out the need to obtain the cooperation of a large number of farmers here to implement such a project.

"This isn't something that would just fall into place in the first year, it would probably take several years to get such a thing running," said Schlabs.

Committee member Jay Boston pointed out a need to inform the hunting public that individuals cannot "just go onto any land they want to and start hunting, there is such a thing as tresspassing."

"WE WOULD have to limit this thing, and in the first year, we might just invite people from neighboring chambers. I'm sure some farmers would want to wait and see if the project was going to be a success before they opened their land up to hunters, and we would certainly have to limit this project to a certain number of hunters on a first come, first serve basis," said Committee Chairman McCathern.

Following a lengthy discussion of the pros and cons of the issue, the committee appointed Jay Boston to work with the chamber's Sports Committee to further study the proposed pheasant hunt

Officials Seek Unknown Suspects in Kidnapping

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) - Three young men sought in the kidnaping of 26 school children and their bus driver are in jail. But authorities say they are pressing their investigation for unidentified suspects who may have been involved int eh bizarre mass abduction.

The case broke wide open Thursday with the arrests of Frederick N. Woods in Vancouver, Canada, and his former schoolmate, James Schoenfeld, near Schoenfeld's San Francisco Peninsula

The arrests, just five hours apart after a week-long search for the pair, came as Richard Schoenfeld pleaded innocent to 43 felony counts at an arraignment in this small farming community where the kidnaping took place July 15. All three are held on bail of $1 million each.

Although Woods and the Schoenfeld brothers were the only persons sought on arrest warrants in the case, authorities are pursuing various leads that may bring about more arrests.

Thursday's developments tumbled out rapidly, beginning with the arrest of James Schoenfeld, 24, shortly before 7 m. in Menlo Park, Calif. FBI said Schoenfeld was spotted Wednesday night driving a green van with Idaho license plates by "a person who knew him well." Police spotted the van again Thursday morning and made the arrest without incident.

His arrest so close to home was something of a surprise since authorities had said earlier that Schoenfeld had tried twice to cross the Canadian border nearly two weeks ago and had been linked to incidents in Reno, Nev., Spokane, Wash., and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Attorney Edward Merrill said Schoenfeld had returned to California to surrender that morning to Merrill's law partner, William Gagen. "He was apposed to be in our office this morning at 8 a.m. to make arrangements to surrender," said Merrill.

Gagen said Schoenfeld had been in the area for several days, "perhaps camping on a beach." He said both brothers were "very naive" as to the seriousness of the charges against them.

About noon, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police acting on a tip from San Francisco FBI agents, arrested Woods, 24, at a Vancouver owns the quarry in Livermore, Calif., where the school children and their bus driver were held captive in a buried moving van for 18 hours before they managed to dig free. Officials said Woods, using an alias, entered Canada more than five days ago on a commerical airliner from Reno. He was immediately returned to this country. He appeared before a federal magistrate in Bellingham, Wash., and waived extradition to California.

Peace Plan Fails Again In Lebanon Civil War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Lebanon's civil war raged on today despite an agreement between Syria and the Palestinians on a peace plan.

Damascus Radio announced Thursday night that the Lebanese Christians' Syrian protectors and the Lebanese Moslems, Palestinian allies agreed on procedures for a cease-fire and political negotiations. The Christinas' radio indicated they might accept the plan.

The agreement calls for nationwide cease-fire supervised by a committee of Syrians, Palestinians and Lebanese Moslems, an Arab League peacekeeping force, a roundtable conference of the right-wing Christians and left-wing Moslems to work out a new political system in which they would share power equally, and a national unity government. However, the peace talk had no effect on the fighting.

Dallas Desegregation To Proceed

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Independent School District officials greeted with elation the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals' refusal to delay implementation of a federal court desegregation order for Dallas schools.

The appellate court, in a one-sentence ruling Thursday, offered no explanation in rejection a plea by the NAACP that the desegregation order be stayed from implementation this fall pending an appeal. "Praise the Lord and Hallelujeh!" exclaimed school board vice president Sarah Haskins. "It looks like we're going to be able to get on with a peaceful implementation of the court order."

Dallas School Supt. Nolan Estes said he was "delighted" to hear the stay had been denied, and school board president Bull Hunter said he was "pleased," calling the ruling "positive."

Judges James T. Coleman and Gerald Tjoslat issued this

'It is ordered that the motion of the intervenors, Oak Cliff Branch, et al, of the metropolitan branches of the Dallas NAACP for stay pending

CO. SUGARLAND appeal is denied."

The desegregation order was handed down in April by U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. It divides the Dallas Independent School District into six subdistricts and calls for busing more than 17,000 students in grades four through

Last spring Taylor denied an NAACP request that he stay the order and the NAACP then asked the appeals court to order the plan not be implemented this fall.

The NAACP, in its motion for a stay, cited costs of putting into effect the student assignment portion of the plan, which leaves 26,000 students attending all-black schools in the Oak Cliff

The denial removes apparent-ly the last legal hurdle to the plan's implementation when school opens Aug. 23.

However, NAACP attorney Brice Cunningham said denial of the request for a stay will have no bearing on the appeal.

"This means that the scho oard can go shead and implement the plan that the court ordered," he said. "It does not affect our appeal. Our appeal still goes forward. If the stay denial does not say that the order is constitutional or unconstitutional."

Hunter also warned that it would be a "mistake" to believe that the denial indicates the court's support of Judge Taylor's order. "I think we'll just have to wait until the court actually rules on the appeal," Hunter said.

Facts Presented Concerning Flour

Flour is the common denominator of home baking, providing the base of almost every baked food.

And with the interest in "natural" foods, many consumers are wondering if unbleached flour is any better than bleached flour.

Mrs. Sally Coble offers some insight into the differences chemically bleached flour, she between the two.

She's a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Nutritionally, bleached and unbleached white flour are almost identical. Both are suitable for baking. Unbleached flour is ideal for breads, though it does not make as good as cake as regular bleached flour."

She explained that freshly milled flour has a creamy color because it contains carotenoids, the same pigments that make fruits and vegetables yellow, When such flour is stored for several months, it becomes whiter and the baking qualitites

Want to be trendy this fall? Plan on extra dressing time

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The fashion route Seventh Avenue has mapped out for fall '76, goes in basically three directions:

(1) layered, in a country manner;

(2) man-tailored
(3) and so far removed from reality your friends and relatives will exchange concerned looks about you when you don the creations.

First, on the morning you decide you want a "shall we lunch at the inn?" look, plan on getting up an hour earlier. There's a lot to get into.

Start with a cowl-neck sweater. Not a conservative, mildly cowled neck, mind you — a COWL neck.

Now, before you tuck the sweater inside a wrapped tartan kilt or a straight or dirndl plaid skirt, button a shirt over it.

Next comes a weskit, or perhaps a tabard or tunic, even a bolero in a matching plaid or one that's complementary.

Before we continue if

Before we continue, if you've a taste for luxury, you'll be pleased to know the sweater probably will be cashmere, the shirt silk and the vest or tabard suede. (Colors include lots of soft neutrals as well as brights.)

All right, now you've got on the sweater, shirt, skirt, vest. . just a second. If you don't want to wear a skirt, you can just as well pull on a pair of knickers. That's right, knickers, or jodphurs, or a pair of gaucho pants.

Don't worry about your hose, no matter what your bottom choice is. Kneesocks are on the march, hand in hand, so to speak, with flats, short boots and those stacked walking shoes with the little fringed tongue.

Okay, we had on the sweater, shirt, skirt or pants, and the vest, so we're ready for the blazer, the hunting or hacking jacket.

Where are you going? You're not ready to leave just yet.

Take the cowl neck sweater and slip the neckline up over your head like a hood. (From the back, of course. If you pull it up from the front, you won't be able to see.) On top of that, you're going to plant a little

If you like you can put the beret or cap on first and then pull the sweater up over it. It doesn't matter which; the important thing is to achieve a sheltered, turtle appearance.

There's just one more item.

There's just one more item to go and then you're set.
Over all these plateaus and layers of material, you are now going to fling a blanket, solid or plaid, possibly fringed. If it has a hood, and some do, then you may have to forego the beret lest your head become too heavy. But you can get a note from your doctor explaining the deletion.

There are, of course, other outerwear options: ponchos, duffel coats, lumberjackets and shawls. Almost all are hooded, except, of course, the

In any case, if it's still daylight, toss a scarf around what's left of your neck and have a friend propel you to the

Is it classic, no-nonsense tailoring you'll be wanting the next day? Well, sleep a little later_it won't require as much work.

Pick a pair of waist-pleated trousers or a straight skirt, pin-striped, tweed or solid, with matching vest or argyle sweater-vest and shrug a single or double breasted blazer on top.

Put a flower in your lapel, an ascot that matches your shirt around your neck, or one of your husband's ties, and then beat the guy next door to a seat on the bus. If you want to make sure he doesn't give you any trouble, pull an Al Capone hat over your eyes and hang a long, slim coat on your shoulders and watch the waves part for you.

Now we come to what Seventh Avenue refers to as fantasy dressing. Actually, it's more a case of couturiers stepping onto the boards trod by costume designers.

Be A Friend,
Have A Friend

BY: JO ANN DWYER

Today we are talking about how to help young friends accept themselves and their feelings.

In order to facilitate self acceptance we must have a special attitude and certain skills.

This attitude is a willingness to let young people experience all of their feelings. We must accept the fact that all human feelings are okay.

Most of us grew up with the Most of us grew up with the idea that certain feelings are bad, should not be felt and that we should be ashamed of them. This, in my opinion, is a bunch of garbage! A feeling has no impact on other people, just on the person experiencing it.

The skills we need are to help our young friend recognize, label, accept and cope with his feelings. A person can't control how he feels, but he can control how he expresses his feelings. And this control is available to children if they first can recognize and label their feelings.

Now, for a list of "don'ts" in relating to a young friend. Don't 1) ignore feelings 2) try to stop feelings by talking them out of existence 3) negate feelings. Any of these "don'ts" confuss children. An example that comes to mind is the little girl who said, "I know there's no such thing as ghosts, but I'm still scared of them". Or if you say to the child "you aren't really mad", he's likely to think, "I must be crazy, because I sure thought I was!"

Follow the "don'ts" listed above and remember to accept feelings and not to label them good or bad.

BEING MAD IS NOT RAD!

Athletes Want Government Aid; Russians Hold Commanding Lead

By BOB GREEN AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) - The United States, looking at an embarrassing third place finish in the XXI Olympic Games, can anticipate even greater difficulties four years from now.

By MIKE RECHT AP Sports Writer

New teams, new coaches and new quarterbacks bring added interest to this weekend's first full schedule of pre-season games in the National Football League.

Six head coaches will be making their NFL debut and a seventh, Hank Stram at New Orleans, will be returning after sitting out one season following his ouster at Kansas City.

Of the newcomers, much of the interest will focus on two most successful Los Angeles coaches - John McKay of the new Tampa Bay buccaneers and Dick Vermeil of the Philadelphia Eagles.

McKay enters the pros after McKay enters the pros after an extrememly successful carrier at Southern California Fidrych Feeling Good, while Vermeil shocked UCLA by leaving after the Bruins won the Rose Bowl last January.

A third man to leave college coaching for the pros is Lou Holtz, who comes to the New York Jets from North Carolina State.

The other three new head coaches all were former NFL assistants, and the one certainly most on the spot is Bill Johnson at Cincinnati, who replaces the legendary Paul Brown. Brown, still the general manager with the Bengals, retired after last season and named Johnson to replace him.

Jack Patera takes over the other expansion team, the Seattle Seahawks, and Monte Clark is the new leader of the San Francisco 49ers. Adding interest to McKay's pro debut is the fact that his team plays in Los Angeles against the Rams in one of nine games Saturday night. Vermeil

A heavily-bandaged Ricky Romero squeaked out a victory over Dennis Stamp in Lions Club wrestling last Saturday night, and returns this Saturday to take on tough Swede Hanson, the 325-pounder who recently broke Romero's finger in a match in San Angelo.

The action was a deliberate one. Whether Romero is ready for a grudge match is debatable. He entered the ring last week after an accident in Claredon that completely demolished his sports car, and left the fiery 220-pound mexican with numerous injuries.

His win over Stamp was by disqualification. Hanson may be more careful in order to punish his opponent more our eyes are your windows of the world you live in, through which you are able to observe your surroundings, recognize your fellow beings, perform your everyday tasks and follow the pathway of your life. They enable you to concentrate on a single object or person, or scan every detail of the panorama within your field of vision. You can develop your powers of observation so as to enjoy the natural beauty of God's creation whenever you step out of doors, and you can also quickly identify a situation that should be remedied or a person in need of your help. At the Church of your choice you will learn to see all the good things of this world through the eyes of faith.

THROUGH THE EYES OF FAITH WE SEE LIFE MORE CLEARLY

"The light of the body is the eye." —Matthew 6:22

The eye of each man sees but what it has the power of seeing.

Women To Take Over Jobs Held By Men

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -The Air Force will begin training women this summer for jobs that once were considered for men only, and which may some day expose them to combat situatons.

The first 20 Women of the Air Force WAF pilot candidates are to begin flight screening program Aug. 26 at Lackland AFB Officer Training School

The Air Force_also hopes to recruit 600 enlisted women for its rugged antiterrorist course conducted by the USAF Security Police Academy at Lackland.

A Lackland spokesman acknowledged that women could be exposed to combat in either of the new roles although they will not be trained specifically for fighting.

Three female Air Force officers recently became the first women to complete the antiterrrorist course. They underwent the training to determine whether women should be assigned combat type duties.

Antiterrorist training had been given previously only to men in security and law enforcement specialities. The studenst receive academic. training at the police academy, and then spend two or three weeks at Camp Bullis, Tex., learining combat tactics under field conditions.

Security personnel are responsible for guarding base perimeters, flight lines and missile sites - all possible targets for terrorists, the Air Force says.

The female security recruits will complete the normal six weeks of Air Force basic training and then enroll at the police academy before starting

In the antiterrorist training, the women will be required to complete programs involving throwing hand grenades and firing the M16 rifle, M60 machine gun and M79 grenade launcher. They, also will learn how to use mines and will be trained in map and compass reading, land navigation, camouflage concealment, combat tactics, counterattack techniques and riot control. During the final week of. training at Camp Bullis, the women must undergo a 24-hour exercise where they put their knowledge to work.

Instructors, playing the roles of heavily-armed terrorists, do their best to wipe out the trainees' positions. Around the clock there is little rest as fire fights erupt, ebb and break out again in new locations.

Lt. Col. William Rectoring head of the program, said he liked what he has seen of the women so far. He predicts the 100 female recruits who will go through the training later this summer will open up the security field permanently to Rector said the women are expected to live in the same field conditions as men.

After completing the course, the women will be assigned to four Air Force installations in the United States and abroad for a year's trial period.

The 20 women pilot candidates will receive 14 hours of flight training in T41 trainers if they have no flight experience. They will then enter flight training at Williams AFB, Ariz.

The women trainees will enter pilot training classes with men, but will not train later in combat aircraft.

Public law, an Air Force spokesman said, prohibits women from being assigned combat duties.

The women, however, could be trained to pilot cargo, tanker and training aircraft. The Lackland spokesman said that in such a role combat could be encountered.

"We aren't training any

Another program also is opening navigation training to women in the Air Force. Six candidates will enter that training next year at Mather AFB, Calif., the spokesman

Cotton Fraud Case Upheld In Court

VERNON (AP) - The federal convictions of two Vernon men in a multimillion dollar cotton fraud case has been upheld by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, according to a court clerk here.

Huntley and Gipson Hemphill, had appealed their convictions on all 18 counts in the case. which led to the collapse of the First State Bank here in 1973. In a non-jury trial, U.S. District Court Judge Robert M.

Hill of Dallas convicted the two and assessed the cotton company executives the maximum sentence on all counts. Hill ordered the sentences to run concurrently leaving the two men facing 10 years in prison each.

In an opinion by the New Orleans appellate court, Judge Thomas Gee said the trial court had made only a "harmless error" in rendering judgment in the absence of a defendant in the fraud case.

Huntley and Hemphill also face trial on state charges of theft of more than $10,000 from the First State Bank.

ODESSA (AP) - A shapely Florida teen-ager pleaded guilty to a theft charge Wednesday but was freed on probation after agreeing to wear a brassiere.

District Court Judge R.L. McKim made that a stipulation in releasing Deloris Ann O'Shea, 17, of Key West, Fla., on three years probation after she admitted taking a $2,526 check from a mailbox.

The attractive young woman appeared in McKim's court wearing what spectators later described as a "see-through" blouse unencumbered by a bra underneath.

In granting probation, the judge stipulated that Miss O'shea return to Beaumont, Tex., where she had been living, go back to school and wear a bra.

Miss O'Shea, who told the judge she had been "working as a barmaid and hustling pool," accepted the terms.

Robber lakes Bible

FORT WORTH (AP) - Instead of losing all of the money at the motel where he works as a night auditor, John Heird lost only his Bible to a robber. But Heird got the bullets from the robber's gun in exchange.

Fort Worth police said Heird. a student at the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, began to pray out loud Wednesday when a young bandit walked into the motel and demanded all the money.

The startled robber put down his gun and began to push Heird against the wall, police said. Heird, 31, said he read Scriptures to the man and explained religion as the man pushed the auditor around the "I didn't have time to be frightened," Heird said. "And the guy kept asking me why I wasn't afraid."

Finally the robber tied up Heird in a store room.

When Heird freed himself, he said he found his Bible missing and bullets; apparently from the bandit's gun, on a table.
"I feel like the Bible was a good investment in someone's future," Heird said.

Contacted late Wednesday night at the motel, Heird said he brought another Bible with him.

"I have several Bibles," he said. "Maybe someone else would like to exchange bullets for a Bible and take something that will help his life."

Justice Department Asks Removal of Injunction

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department asked a federal judge to lift his preliminary injunction against the Ford administration's new regulations for the food stamp program.

If the ban were lifted, the Agriculture Department could put new eligibility standards into effect that would take food stamps away from about 1.29 million families but increase the aid for almost twice that number Lawyer Nathan Norton Jr. asked U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith Jr. to either lift the injunction or make it a permanent injunction without further hearings. Smith was expected to rule on the government's motion quickly.

If the injunction is made permanent without further hearings, the government could speed up appeals to higher courts, Norton said Wednesday. Otherwise, he said, the government has until mid-August to appeal the preliminary njunction. But it would have to repeat the whole process whenever a permanent ban is ruled upon. Norton said he did not expect Smith to change his mind about the injunction the judge imposed June 18 at the request of 26 states, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Conference of Mayors, 73 food stamp families and 107 private organizations. In addition to those whose eligibility for stamps would end entirely, about 1.38 million families would have their benefits curtailed by at least $5 a month under the new regulations.

The program now provides benefits to about 5.6 million families at an annual cost to taxpayers of about $5.7 billion in stamps and federal administrative expenses.

The judge said when he issued the preliminary injunction that the Agriculture Department exceeded its congressional mandate in promulgating eligibility and purchase price regulations.

Smith said the plaintiffs probably would win in the end because they "have shown in great detail the widespread, irreparable harm to states and to food-stamp recipients that would result...'

The Agriculture Department has projected that the poorest two million households left on the rolls if the rules were in effect would see their benefits increase by at least $5 monthly. About $1 billion would be trimmed from the federal budget, the department has

President Ford personally ordered the regulations drafted Feb. 19 to go into effect June 1 on the grounds that Congress was taking too long to tighten the program. Generally speaking, the new regulations would restrict food stamps to families whose average gross monthly income, during the three months before they seek stamps, has been not more than $100 above the official nonfarm poverty lines. A three-person family could qualify for stamps in August if its income in May, June and July averaged $483 a month or deducting household and mediand mandatory payroll deduc-less. Under the old rules, a family's estimated August income is what is considered. It must be under $433 after cal expenses, schooling costs

French React Emotionally To Death By Guillotin

PARIS (AP) - The French press reacted emotionally Thursday to the guillotining of a convicted murderer of a child, some newspapers calling the execution just punishment, other demanding abolition of the death penalty.

Most West European nations have abolished capital punishment for civil crimes. Many retain it for treason in time of

The right-wing newspaper l'Aurore said the punishment meted out at dawn Wednesday in a Marseille prison to Christian Ranucci, 21, for the stabbing death of Marie-Dolores Rambla, 8, was "in accord, for the moment, with the general sentiment of the French

L'Est Eclair in Troyes said the only thing unseemly about Ranucci's execution was "the exaggeration of certain partisans of abolition of capital punishment who like to picture those condemed as unfortunate victims, at the same time orgetting the sadness of the families of those they slay."

Nice-Matin said the only real way to determine whether French citizens want capital punishment is to hold a referendum, but that this solution "is rejected by the opponents of the death penalty. They know too well what the result would be."

L'Est Republican in Nancy wrote: "The assassin of children should not expect any mercy. If the execution of Christian Rancci had any meaning, it is that." The paper added, "There also should be no ilemency in the case of those who kill old people." However, the leftist newspaconsequence of the political risk "raising public opinion situation that we know." It said since the election of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing two years ago, France "is in a permanent security campaign," and that to consolidate his grip on power the president has restored to "the most reactionary measures." Le Quotidien de Paris said

Giscard d'Estaing knew that if he pardoned Ranucci he would

-against him. If the left had notmade such impressive gains in the last few months, if the majority was not racked by internal divisions, maybe Christian Ranucci would not have been executed yesterday morn-Ranucci's execution was the first since Giscard d'estaing took office two years ago, and the 22nd in France in 20 years. As a presidential candidate in-1974, Giscard d'Estaing said he had "a profound averssion for capital punishment" and last year demonstrated it by pardoning a convicted murderer condemned to death.

However, he turned down an appeal for clemency in the case of ranucci, and still has not rendered a decision on a third condemned man now sitting on death row in a Dijon prison for the slaying of an 83-year-old

Increase Said High

Insurance AUSTIN (AP) - State Insurance Board actuaries say the 27.9 per cent auto rate increase proposed by the companies it too high.

We are going to recommend in the neighborhood of 20 per cent, give or take a little-but not over a per cent either way. statistican Gaylon Daniel said.

The board's staff will present its recommendations Aug. 84, when the board resumes the statewide car insurance hearing that it recessed July 14.

New rates probably will take effect with policies written or renewed on Oct. 1, Daniel said. Rates normally are in effect for a

Daniel said the difference lay in the techinques used to predict how much auto accidents will cost the insurance companies over the period for which the rates will be in effect.

DENVER (AP) - Harry Schonfeld says he had only one thought when he saw the shadows of M16 rifles: "Oh my God. You've got to be kidding."

But the nine armed FBI agents weren't.

The agents wanted to know if Schonfeld, a 20-year-old salesman of telephone speciality items, was one of two men being sought in connection with the July 15 kidnaping of 26 Chowchilla, Calif., children and their bus driver.

Schonfeld's last name is similar to that of James Schoenfeld, who, along with Frederick Woods IV, was the subject of the nationwide search. Menlo Park, Calif., police said James Schoenfeld was arrested today.

Schonfeld isn't Schoenfeld and it took him only minutes to prove it to the FBI agents, who had been dispatched to Schonfeld's home early Wedtelephone tipster, who said the kidnapers were there.

The agents apologized before leaving, Schonfeld said. He added that he bears no grudges.

"They were very profession-al," he said. "I think they treated me with as much dignity and respect as can be exercised with a guy who's sleeping in his pajamas at 2:30 a.m.

Flu Bug May Strike Before Drugs Are Available to Combat Disease

NEW YORK (AP) - If a killer epidemic of swine flue strikes this fall or winter, it might make its hit-run attack just before the advent of drugs which, for the first time, could cure flu.

Two such drugs are ready for human testing, and most likely will be natural outbreak of flu of any strain occurs.

But if swine flu should come this year, there wouldn't be time for the exhaustive testing routinely required to prove effectiveness and safety of a new drug.

The huge program to vaccinate most Americans so they won't get swine flu might for one reason or another falter or fail, leaving millions of people unprotected.

This would present the Food and Drug Administration with a difficult problem, says Dr. Jose Canchola of the FDA, because there is no immunization substitute for the flu vaccine. Canchola is medical officer for the division of anti-infective drug products.

Antiviral drugs might be approved for use if they had shown benefit in limited trials, even if there had not been time to assess any possible undesirable long-term effects.

The flu threat comes at a time that some experts see as a new era in medicine - the development of drugs that can hit viruses.

Antibiotics have no effect because viruses enter living target cells to reproduce themselves there and kill or damage the cells. Bacteria cause their damage outside the cells. In a 'flu epidemic, doctors may well use antibiotics, not as a weapon against the viruses. but against a complication like bacterial pneumonia that is a big cause of death.

Now there is a handful of new drugs that show antivirus activity in test-tubes and animals, and in some human trials, against 'flu and other diseases, such as hepatitis affecting the liver, and herpes virus causing potentially blinding eye infections, infections of the genitals, and cold sores or fever blisters.

Antiviral drugs may act by clocking penetration of the virus into the cell or by blocking multiplication inside the cell.

One such newcomer is ribavirin - trade name Virazole developed by ICN Pharmaceuticals, Inc., in Irvine, Calin It is active in animals against at least 20 different viruses. It was effective against swine flu respiratory infections in mice and rhesus monkeys. In results and limited trials against influenza Type A and Type B, mostly when volunteers were intentionally infected with the

In one trial in a Mexico City school, ribayirin produced a marked decrease in the symptons and severity of naturally acquired influenza Type A-2, compared with patients not given the drug, said scientists of the National Only three of 21 girls given the drug showed any detectable virus, compared with 22 out of 24 girls given placebos of inert pills. This was a sign the drug kept the virus from multiplying.

He says he expects applications to be made for clinical trials of ribavirin here against influenza Type A, the family to which swine flu belongs. If the drug works against Type A viruses, he believes it would also act against swine flu virus.

Results of that trial have not yet been officially reported to the FDA, so it cannot use that data in evaluating the drug, PLAINS, Ga. (AP) - Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe talked politics with Jimmy Carter Thursday and said he does not believe the Republicans can carry Texas even if they put Texas John Connally on the ticket with President Ford.

the past, drug fanciers in search of legal highs nibbled nutmeg, fired up an occasional banana peel or smoked Scotch broom, the yellow blossom which grows beside freeways.

The highs from these vegetable products were, by most accounts, rather low. But a new "organic highs" market has sprung up as a result of the natural foods fad, fear of and the law helping to build a new business in "legal grass."

LSD, cocaine and marijuana remain available, but "the demand is here" for legal substances which affect the deals in herbal highs.

"A lot of people who use marijuana and other drugs now want legal highs that don't damage their brains." Through her mail order firm, Mrs. Day pushes products like kava root, goto kola, and "legal grass" - a concoction of hops, damiana leaves. Korean ginseng, lobelia and yohimbe bark. She says she has filled 4,000 orders a month since buying the business six months ago.

'Legal grass' sells for about $2.50 an ounce, compared to the current street price of about $10 an ounce for real pot. In addition, herbal highs can

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - In cial agent in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration office here, says he can't visualize cracking down on a damiana leaf deal.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP) - southwestern Pennsylvania a few miles north of the Mason-Dixon Line, celebrates the rain with a festival that includes a dunking machine in the town square, sidewalk sales, music-making and invocations to Jupiter Pluvius, the mythological god of rain.

According to legend, an unknown farmer started the tradition a century ago when he mentioned to William Allison, a drugstore clerk, that it almost always seemed to rain on July 29.

Allison began keeping records and became the first Rain Day Prophet. He was succeeded by his brother. Albert, who passed the title on to Byron B. Daily, a later owner of the drugstore and John Daily's father.

John Daily, a lawyer who has held the title since 1936, has made friendly wagers on Rain Days past and won hats and other tokens from such celebrities as Bob Hope, Jack Dempsey and Bing Crosby.
