ORE ABOUT THE KINDERGARTEN

It must be remembered that the ed. Froebelian plan of education is one of Froebel likens the instructed mind to side, leaping over rocks and impediments, in beautiful cascade or noisy waterfall, or in its rush sending high, rainbow hue spray, then rushing noisily round the boulders, winding in and out and shaping its course by the oblands, it quietly spreads its waters, flowing from such a spring must be broadening its channel, then quietly and one of power of force. skillfully slips to the sea.

The developed mind he likens to a mighty rushing river which in its onward course meets obstacles, overcomes them, wearing rock and even mountain away, and goes on its way. broadening and deepening its channel, inundating the plains, then through the deep channel dug for itself, the grand onward current loses itself in a might

A whole country—perhaps the world feels its influence.

On such a high ideal is based the system of education, planned by Froebel, for little children.

He looked far back into the history of man, and found there the thing by earliest formed and most prominent instincts of childhood, and one that continues through life as the basis of the kindergarten plan.

Through play the children of all ages and races have learned the greater lessons of the working world around them. Through play, they may learn self-control which when well-learned is half the battle of life.

It is evident that while the childmind is so plastic-that is, in early childhood-is the time that theese les s should be taught—these lesson that have all to do with the child's success at making a real man or wo-

Froebel saw no better way to do this then through the medium of this Godgiven instinct so natural to childhood -play-hence he planned a series of gifts, or "playthings" by which the child-mind might be developed, joyfully, naturally and wisely.

Also he planned a system of occupations by which the hand and the eye Tuesday on business might be trained.

Hogs carrying cholera germs have now the farmers of this country will have this disease to contend with if they do not take immediate and effective measures to get rid of it. In the middle western states where hogs have en raised for many years, the pens have been practically depopulated again and again. Until the government took the check is received at the market. the matter in hand, all kinds of useless remedles were folsted upon the farmer been warned times without number that on his operation last winter. there is but one cure and that is pre- Crawford understands the sheep grow

Just why anyone should haul a dead cholera hog out on the prairie and leave it unburied to spread infection to the four winds of heaven is incomprehensible but it has been done many a time indeed, is being done in some parts of the Panhandle right now. Doubtless those who do it are ignorant of the danger of such a practice for it is scarcely conceivable that anyone would willfully endanger his own and his neighbors' herds so needlessly.

Harmon Benton, the Government Agricultural Demonstrator for this se tion has sent to all the farmers in his dations for preventing cholera of which we give a copy below. If the Panhandle is to be freed from this scourge it is going to be necessary for the farm ers to cooperate with the County Agents and each other in a thorough and efficient campaign of extermination. It can be done and the best time to do it is right now. Here's how it may be accomplished:

To keep cholera from your herd locate hog lots and pastures away from streams and public highways and do not allow hogs to run free range.

Do not buy or exchange hogs unless you knew that cholera does not exist in the herd of the one with whom you exchange, and even then it is safer to keep exchanged hogs quarantined from your herd for at least two weeks.

Do not visit your neighbor or allow him to visit you, if either of you have hog cholera on your premises.

Do not loan or borrow wagons, farm implements of farm animals of your neighbor, if either of you have hog.

Do not drive into hog lots when returning from market or after driving on public highways.

Do not use hog lots for yarding wagons or farm implements.

Burn to ashes or cover with quick and bury under four feet of eart all dead animals and the viscera renoved from animals at butchering time, because they attract the attention of birds dogs, coyotes, etc., which are liable to carry hog cholera infection.

Confine your dogs and do not keep pigeons unless you confine them.

If hog cholera appears in your herd treat your hogs immediately with antihog-cholera serum, after which they should be kept on a light diet and pure drinking water and confined to limit ed quarters that may be cleaned de and sprayed three times a week with one part of compound eresol solution to thirty parts of water, until the dis ease has abated in the herd. To obtain the best results the server must be ad-ministered before the disease has proressed in the herd.

Notify your neighbors that your herd is infected, that they may take the necessary pregautions to keep hog cholera from reaching their herds.

To rid seemises of typective how all manure and saturate with quick By V. L. Mortineau, Colfax County, cleaned, spray the walls, floors and other surfaces with disinfectant (one part compound cresol solution to thirty not be worth cutting. parts of water.) Where hog houses are small turn them over, exposing interior to sunlight.

Wallow holes and cess pools should be filled in, drained, be fenced off. All runs underneath building should be cleaned and disinfected and then boarded up. Destroy hogs that do not fully recover, as they may be carriers of cholera infection:

Don't trust your knowledge of hog cholera. If your hogs get sick, consult a veterinarian or your County Demonstration Agent.

LODGE DIRECTORY

Ridding Hogs of Cholera

Lamb feeding when intelligently een brought into the Panhandle and done,, is a good business and year in and year out will pay a reasonable profit. Like every other business to be successful lamb feeding and other feeding operations as well, must receive careful attention to detail from the growing of the feed crops to the time

Detailed statements from feeders are difficult to get. Every feeder has his whenever cholera broke out in his system and he is not anxious to give ing business, but this was his first attempt at feeding lambs for market.

> Mr. Crawford made a businesslike investigation of the business from the growing of the feed crops, the feed lot equipment, methods of feeding, etc., to the shipping of the finished stuff to market. He spent time around the Colorado lots last year to see how the feeders there handled the business.

Ten miles below Carlsbad Mr. Crawford has an irrigation farm and this he fitted up for lamb feeding. He brought in about 2,000 lambs, 500 of which a neighbor fed on shares. Mr. Crawford personally saw that things were carrid on properly and he has the satisfaction of being successful in the first

Lan in January Mr. Crawford placed 739 lambs in his feed lot at a cost of $3030.0. During the feeding period of eighty ix days they were and alfalfa hay, singe, milo maize and a little cotton seed heal at a total cost for feed of $1216.16. Freight to Chicago and other shipping expenses were $980 47. Labor and other expenses total $247.47. The total cost of this lot when the lambs went over the scales at the Chicago yards was $474.80. The amount received for the of was $7,-343,21. There are 342 fleeces of wool on hand from these lambs that is estimated at $460.85, making a total of $7804.06, leaving a net profit of $3329 .-

The initial weight of these lamb was 59 1-2 pounds, the selling weight in Chicago 843 pounds each, the net gain being 24 3-4 pounds. The scales were used throughout the feeding period, all feed being weighed. The average gain per week was a fraction over two pounds per head. The co per hunderd pounds gain for feed alone was $5.94. The labor and other sundries increased the cost per hundred pounds gain to $7.15

Mr. Crawford conducted his feeding with great care and is very well pleased with the results. He will continue next season on starger scale, his feed lot equipment maving been constructed with this end in view. His sile is concrete, so the grain house.

It may be noted here that getting the fat stock to market without too heavy fink requires the feeder's careful consideration. The tendency is to take advantage of fast trains and rush the stuff through in the shortest possible time. The wise shipper never hurries and takes time to rest and feed on the way to market. The stock lands in the yard in good condition and the buyer may give a little more for it. Any way feeding is a business that requires attention from start to finish from grewing and putting up the feed to the time the stuff passes over the scales in the

If properly handled, during the summer these fields will produce above the normal next year, thereby making up for a part of this year's loss. From observation throughout this country I am convinced that good summer fallowing results in greatly increased yields. This is especially true when winter wheat is the crop.

Summer fallowing means to cultivate the land one season without growing a crop. Weeds must not be allowed. to grow. The sooner weeds or poor crop can be destroyed the better. If the land was well plowed a thorough going over with a double disc will be sufficient to destroy the weeds. If the field was poorly prepared it should be plowed 6 or 7 inches deep as soon as possible. The land should then be cultivated sufficiently to keep all weeds in check. Crusts should not be allowed to

During the month of July the land should be plowed thoroughly and well packed by a subsurface packer or a weight disc harrow. This method of handling the land will result in the formation of an excellent seedbed and will assure the storing of nearly oll the moisture which falls during July and August.

Summer fallowed land should be seeded to winter wheat during the latter part of August or the fore part of "Criminal Thoughtlessness" ought to be a violation of the law of humanity. Were such a term on our statute books and the offense made punishable it would banish a world of heartaches and materially lessen the sum of human misery ...

At the primary election on the twenty-second of this month the people of Texas will be called upon to express their will as to whether the people shall be granted the privilege of again voting on state wide prohibition in Texas.

This is a time when no good citizen should fail to register his ballot in favor of good government, morality and the home and in opposition to the lawless saloon and the entire liquor traffic, both licensed and unlicensed.

The liquor interests of this country are a moral corruption—a lawless gang. The saloon interests of this country have as little regard for law and are more destructive of life and property than all the bandits of Mexico. The saloon is the training school for crime and the recruiting station of lawlessness. The liquor interests have no regard for the home, womanhood or God.

For years in attempting to save their business from the just wrath of an aroused public conscience they appealed to the pocket-book of the public, setting forth what large sums they pay in license and taxes and the employment of large number of laborers. This line of argument has been effectively answered by statistics that show that for every dollar the liquor traffic pays in taxes and license five dollars is required to care for the criminal and insane it produces.

Of more recent years the liquor interests have turned to the plea of Self-Liberty. One important principle that these great defenders of freedom overlook. is the one that one man's libertles end where another man's rights begins. Vi the liquor business there is no progress until it runs against some one's rights.

In the first place every man has a right to object to paying faxes to support eriminals, Insane and paupers that another makes. Every citizen has the right to have places of contaminating influences removed from his community. Every child has a right to be reared in a moral, healthful, God fearing Jome. The saloon denies this right to millions of children.

The liquor traffic is not a business, but a crime. Legitimate business is based on service. The liquor traffic renders no service. To legalize it is a crime against humanity especially that part of hunmanity that demands our protec-

The co-operative meeting begins Sunday. What it shall mean to Hereford depends largely upon the Christian people of the town. It can be a great spiritual revival such as we want and need or it can be a failure.

If the best part of the meeting is wasted in overcoming the Indifference of those who should be vitally interested, the result might be written as accurately now as after the meeting has closed.

"The Master has come and calleth for thee."

We've waited until the last hour of the last day in the morning hoping to be able to chronicle a good rain for this section of the Panhnadle. To date, however, we can only record the presence of a number of encouraging looking clouds hanging around in our immediate vicinity. "There's rain in 'em for a tantalizing bit of it dropped out Tuesday-just enough to inspire the belief that rain is coming, and coming soon.

The continued dry weather has, however, emphasized one thing and that is the wonderful "resisting power" of the Panhandle combination of soil and atmosphere. The luxuriant growth and healthy green color of the row crops that have had so little moisture and such hot weather is a condition that could not be paralleled in "the states." While we need rain, and it is true the yield will be less to in last year, still there'll be a much better showing than would exist in the "farming regions" under similar conditions-conditions which are not unown in those states —and the rain is coming

. . . . . . . MAKE IT UNANIMOUS

There is only one more week till the Democratic primary that will deermine who shall be elected in November.

Deaf Smith County has a candidate in the person of Judge W. M. Knight for associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals.

The vote for Mr. Knight should be made unanimous in the county. He is a home man whom we all know an able lawyer, a good citizen and worthy in every way. If elected, and he will be, he will do honor to the office and his

Get in line with the Civic Club. Its work in every particular may not accord completely with your ideas. You may have a better way of saying and doing the things which you or they or some one else must say and do if our town is ever to become a clean town materially and morally-a town such as we all want it to become To make personalities of the club's efforts to effect improvements in sanitary conditions is to be little and narrow, and selfish. - Every woman in the club realizes the difficults of getting rid of flies and of keeping, aperfect state of canitation and cleanliness about her own home and she further realizes that this difficulty is increased many fold in the business bouses, especially in grocery stores, bakeries, markets, etc.

Screens at these places are opened hundreds of times to where they are opened once in a private home. Customers are not always careful in handling goods. Some have even been known to spit on floors or just outside the doors, for all of which the proprietor is held responsible.

The clubs "officiousness" is a mark of confidence in the integrity and progressiveness of those who are asked to co-operate with the club-to help it, to help our town. If it criticises, the criticism is general and includes those who make it as every citizen is more or less directly at fault. Besides the Civic Club is the universal Club of Hereford. If you are not a member its your own fault you will be as welcome as the flowers in May and will be allowed to express your prerogative as a dirt-finder to the fullest extent. Be big. Realize that one death from typhoid in Hereford is a greater misfortune than an "officious" club and the pride you will take in your "city beautiful" will more than compensate for a few imaginary insults your oversensitive makeup may have received.

Think They Have Found Unlimited Supply of Water

J. R. and P. B. Brummett of the Cottonwood Valley country, were in town Monday, and while here, J. R. related a recent experience in well digging that is quite unusual for this country. He stated that he took a common post hole digger and made a hole several feet deep on his farm until he struck a rock. He then picked up a piece of water pipe about twelve feet long and after pounding with it for some time, succeeded in bursting through the rock and was delighted to observe that he had found an immense quantity of very fine water.

The water seems to be in unlimited quantity, and is soft. Mr. Brummett has placed a windmill over the well and thinks he has water enough for

The Leaks in Irrigation

(From Denver Field and Farm.) Every western farmer knows how e ential water is for the production of crops and misguided by the idea that the more applied, the larger the yield, he uses every endeavor to obtain the greatest possible amount of water for his fields. With the present development of knowledge such ideas are no longer justifiable. Experiment and skillful practice have demonstrated beyond question that excessively large irrigations actually decrease the yield of all ordinary farm crops. Considering the value of water, light irrigations are the most profitable; and the farmer who, instead of drowning the plants on one field, waters moderately two or three fields will get much large returns for the capital and labor invested.

An acre of sugar beets to which had been added water enough during the season to cover the land to a depth of thirty inches yielded nineteen tons, Two acres which received together as much water as was added to the first acre alone yielded thirty tons of beets an increase of eleven tons due to the wise use of water. It is a fairly safe rule to follow that on the majority of the grain fields of the west not more water should be added than would cover the land to a depth of ten inches if applied at one time. On clay soils much less would be better. For sugar beets and similar crops fifteen inches of water, would probably be ample and for grasses 7, 5 or fewer inches would suffice even in dry seasons like the present. Actual tests have shown that the use of water averages over forty inches in a season which is two or three times as much as would yield the best results.

Aside from the diminution of crop rield over irrigation does irreparable damages. As the soil is satuated again and again the valuable plant foods are washed down lower and lower until the ground water is reached. Thus the in the summer. soil is robbed of its fertility and the water table is filled with alkali. By and by the ground water rises, aproachareas of desirable farm country. there an irrigated valley in the whole west, the low lying lands of which are not being filled with bitter aikali water farms? A lot of hustle, a few teams and men, plenty of clay, a little rock and motar, and a few barrels of cement and the leakage from most of our canals can be reduced to five per cent or less. The expense will be more than offset by the increase flow of hustling will be of incalculable value to the whole community. Let a leaky canal be a disgrace to those who own your country.

The Lindley and Acker farm illustrates how careful management and the cutting down of little items of waste go to make a farm successful. When the crops are sent to market on four legs and the family raises what they eat instead of buying everything, the owner scarcely can keep from winning #### Combatting the Grasshoppers By J. W. Knorr, Eddy County, (N. M.

The grasshopper has been me a very serious pest in many localities in Eddy county. The farmers are combating them in various ways, and excellent results are being obtained. A number of poisoned baits have been recommended but the one that has proven, most satisfactory thus far i sthe bran mixture: bran, 25lbs., paris green, 1 lb., syrup or molasses, 2 qts., lemons and oranges, 3 fruits of each. One farm in particular was visited about four weeks ago where the hoppers were appearing in large numbers. The bran mixture was tried and when a visit was made a week ago the hoppers had disappeared.

The hoppperdozer is becoming popular amoung farmers. One farmer in the northern part of the county rigged up a machine by using an old hoy rake. The teeth were taken out and a large sheet iron pan was attached. The tongue was taken out of the rake and a wheel put in its place. The horses were hitched on the outside of the wheels. The advantage of a machine of this kind is that it can be used in tall alfaira as well as short. Another farmer using a hopperdozer saves the grasshoppers that he catches and after soaking the oil out of them they are fed to the pigs. He claims that they make excellent feed. Another kind of hopperdozer was made, one that could be attached to the mowing

Considering that we have had about es in all said districts and 'for the produced by Mr. Martin on his farm 10 miles northwest of Ralls, is something territory wholly within a county or in acre. The reason for this remarkable parts of tw oor more counties. And yield is found in the fact that Mr Martin followed dry farming methods as approved and urged by our agriculit cultivated and free from weeds all summer. It was, consequently, in fine condition to catch and retain all of the moisture that fell up to planting time in the fall and is as good an argument as could be found for dry farming methods on dry farms."

Crop Estimates in Randall County According to estimates made by farmers, which usually are very much 68,686 bushels of wheat in 35 per cent of Randall county this year. These figures are gathered by Thompson Hardware Company, who recently sent out letters for information regarding the crop and other conditions of the farmers of the ocunty. With the letters they covered about half of the county. About 75 per cent of the farmers answered the letters, giving a detailed analysis of the crop situation. The average estimate of the wheat crop was 7 bushels to the acre as compiled Estimates placed thus have never failed to be too low, and it is confidently expected that the crop will be better than this in spite of the unfavorable.

Approximatly four thousand peo took part in Amarillo's great patric parade on the Fourth. This is believed to be one of the largest demonstrations ever held in a city the size of Amarine. About fifteen thousand people viewed the parade from the sidewalks aus from the windows of buildings along the line of march. The line was he ed by a platoon of police and by Governor Ferguson and city officiars.

Music was furnished along the line of march by the Amarillo Concert Band, the Elk Drum Corps, the Young Men's Band and a chorus of forty your under Prof. E. F. Meyers.

Much credit is due to C. H. Yost chairman of the parade committee and parade marshal, for the success of the affair.

The afternoon celebration at Glenwood park was attended by several thousand people from the city. Following Governor Ferguson, Rev. Mobley introduced Hon. J. H. Davis of Dallas candidate for United States

The Hair Thief Again.

Out on a ranch thirteen miles we of Chico, lives a Mr. J. C. Hash. Mr. Hash has a daughter fifteen years old with long, beautiful chestnut brown hair, or at least she did have before last Sunday night. Last Sunday Susie (that is the gir's name) attended Sunday school in the neighborhood. She wore her hair in two braids down her back. The long, benutiful hair attracted quite a lot of attention.

Surse sleeps in an adjoining room to her father and mother alone, and Sunday night she retired as usual. Monday morning when her mother went to wake her imprine her surprise to find that some me had entered the girl's room that mich and cut her hair close to her bend and left without awakening her. The thier dropped some short strands of the halk on the back porch. The girl said she thought she heard someone leave the porch that night. There is no clue to the Wilef and the affair has created quite a stir in that unusually quiet community Chico Review.

Wheat Harvest Good

Practically every tarmer in the county has been working fifteen hours a day lately, getting the wheat barvested. The yield is turning out much better in some fields than was expected, while in others it is not doing to good. Some of the growers are already threshing, and some of the wheat is yielding as high as 15 bushels per acre. The lowest field we have beard of was six bushels and this was on fields which had been hailed out. The grade of wheat this year is averaging the best it has in some years. Hardly any wheat that has been put on the mar-ket has fallen below No. 2 grade. Many of the geople who have the wheat off the land are already running large forces of plows and are getting the ground in shope for another crop. Miami

The youthful guests were met at the door by the winsome sister of the small host, Miss Grace Ferguson and served with punch by Miss Emma Rell Elliott.

Within the deep shade which renders the Ferguson home especially attractive in summer, a long table was spread Four flags were grouped at each corner giving a pretty touch of color. In hte center of the table "The old Woman that Lived in a Shoe," sat in state sur rounded by forty members of her family to each of which she had attached a long red, white and blue ribbon which found its way to the plate of some delightful guest, who, later, claimed both doll and ribbon.

An immense birthday cake occupied the place of honor at the head of the table, its four candles proudly proclaiming the dignified age to which Master Charles had attained.

After an hour given to games on the lawn, the cake was cut and a generous slice served with ice cream to each small guest.

Then followed a flag hunt which was most heartily enjoyed by the children. Those invited to enjoy the party were Fila and Mary Broadwell, Dorothy Clinkenbeard, Margaret and Audrey Ruby Thompson, Louetta Borden, Imogene Wilson, Frances Ray, Frances Oberthier, Mary Lewellyn Parker, Wanda Mary Wilkinson, Fay O'Brien, Vida Hicks, Frances Guinn, Pauline Fertsch, Ruth Conkwright, Elva Clyde Wright, Ruth Anna Jones, Mary Ipez the club members, Hough, Ruth Marie Mountz, Elmeda and Evelyn Witherspoon, A. M/ Ste-Paul Wright Barnett, Herbert Keith Guthrie, A. M. Jones, Junior, A. L. Clinkenbeard, Jim Potts, Paul Baker, Jack Collins, Emerson Barber and Thornton Shirley.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Otho Beene was the scene of a delightful party on Wednesday of last week when a number of guests were invited to enjoy a social evening in honor of Misses Floriene and Jewell Bradford of Pilot Point.

Forty-two was the pleasant diversion of the evening six tables of enthusiastic players enjoying this popular game. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Among the pleasant children's party's of the week none have been more enjoyable than that which celebrated the Birthday of Master Daniel Bell on Saturday, July 8th at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bell. With all the dignity of his newly acared twelve years, the young host did infnors most acceptably to the happy is and lauses who were privileged to

On Tuesday of this week, Mrs. Pollock was hostess to the club and a number of guests. 'Parents Problems," was the subject for the afterpoon and in addition to some very excellent papers,a roundtable discussion was most helpful lutions: and interesting. Papers were read by Mesdames Bowg's, Kibbe and Mercer, the latter substituting for Mrs. Bell. The aftergoon's guests included, Mesdames Perkins of Milam county, Albert Johnson of Amarillo, F. P. Wilson, J. H. Miller Edgar Johnson and Welliver.

The hostess was assisted in serving trait sherbet and cake by her daughtrs, Misses Blanche and Pearl, Zola Williams and Nellie Parmer.

On Thursday July 6th, at the restdence of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Osgood in Amarillo, ocurred the marriage of two prominent young people of Hereford Gahagan, the bride being Miss Katle Lou New, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. New and the groom Don R. Doolittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Doolittle, both families living in the neighborhood immediately northeast of Hereford.

The young couple were accompanied to Amarillo by Miss Opal Vaughn and Taylor New, the party making the trip by motor.

The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by Elder F. L. Young of the Church of Christ, who is conducting a meeting in Amarillo and was witnessed ply by relatives and a few intimate friends.

The pretty living room of the Osgood home was a bower of summer flowers sweet peas and carnations in harmonizing color tones giving brightness to the elaborate decoration of ferns and vines

Very charming and sweet was the girlish bride in her dainty wedding gown of ivory taffeta and the simple ceremony brief and impressive seemed especially fitting.

The party returned to Hereford Saturday morning and Mr. and Mrs. Doolittle will soon commence housekeeping on the groom's ranch where a home has already been prepared.

Both of these young people number among Hereford's most worthy citizens. The bride was a student in Lockney College last year, and has recently returned from Corpus Christi where she spent the latter part of the winter. The groom is an industrious young farmer well known and respected.

The young couple are receiving the congratulations of many friends.

A Fly Decalogue.

Three years ago the health department of Asherville, N. C., issued what it termed "The Good Citizen's Decalogue," dealing with the fly as sanitary me as follows:

1. Remember thy garbage can to keep it covered, lest thy garbage become a stench in the nostrils of the people and

2. Thy shalt cut the weeds in thy acant lots, lest it become a hiding place for old 'tin cans, which catch water and breed mosquitoes; papers and divers sort of trash.

3. Thou, shalt bear witness against thy neighbor's rubbish heep, likewise his dirty back yard.

4. Thou shalt clean out the habitation of thy horse and thy cow frequently, keep it wholly. lest the stable fly flourisheth and spread infantile paralysis and the house fly breed by the thousands and milfions duce much sickness in thy family.

5. Thy shalt prevent the breeding of the fly in the springtime that thy children unto the third and fourth generation need not swat it later.

6. Remember thy back yard and alley to keep them clean. Six days shalt thou labor to keep thy premises clean, and if yet the task is not accomplished thou couldst do worse than continue on the seventh.

7. Thou shalt covxet all the air and sunshine thou canst obtain.

8. Look not upon the milk when it cometh from the unclean dairy; for the doctor will not hold thee guiltless if thy infant sickeneth therefrom and die. 9. Remember thy cleaning up day and

10. If thou dost harken unto these sayings, to do them, thou shalt live long in the land.
