Vote cards mailed with new numbers

Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland sent out 3,500 voter cards informing residents of the new numbers that will be used on voting boxes.

The new numbers are a result of recent changes the Deaf Smith County Commission approved in order to implement automatic tabulators into the county. The tabulators will be used to count votes and thus enable the county to streamline the election by cutting down on voter boxes and to abide by state regulations.

Under current laws, no more than 2,000 registered voters are to be assigned to one voting box. In Deaf Smith County, there are currently two voting boxes representing more than 2,000 voters in each. Under state laws, if a county is using automatic tabulators, the limit on the number of voters who can vote in a specific polling place increases to 5,000.

The changes the commission approved will eliminate voter boxes that were formerly at the Bippus Community House and at the Zinser residence. Voters who had voted at the Bippus box will now be voting at the Simms Community House. Voters who had voted at the Zinser residence will now be asked to vote in Hereford.

In previous elections, 23 voters voted at the Zinser residence, and 18 voters voted at the Bippus Community House.

All other voting sites remain the same for the November election.

Neither the Zinser residence and the Bippus Community House complied with requirements for the handicapped.

Commissioners are planning to discuss the purchase of automatic tabulators following the November election.

After the November election, the county would combine the voter box located at Northwest Elementary with the box located at LaPlata Jr. High.

Voters who are currently voting at Northwest Elementary will be notified about the change and where they will be required to vote.

Robertson sues for libel concerning his war record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Television evangelist Pat Robertson, suing for libel, says liberals are trying to discredit him and his dead father even though he has not yet announced he will seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1988.

Robertson, in separate lawsuits filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court, says a former congressman and a current congressman wronged him when they circulated assertions that he tried to avoid combat duty during the Korean conflict in 1951.

He said former Rep. Paul "Pete" McCloskey, D-Calif., and Rep. Andy Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., "willfully, intentionally and maliciously" disseminated untrue statements suggesting Robertson was a coward and that he sought to use the political influence of his father, then-Sen. A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, to avoid combat duty.

Robertson said McCloskey sent a letter to Jacobs on Aug. 4 in which he said the evangelist, a 2nd lieutenant in the Marine Corps in February 1951, left a troop ship in Japan to telephone his father to request transfer from a group bound for combat in Korea.

"This statement is false and defamatory," he charged.

Robertson said Jacobs then gave the letter to newspaper columnist Roland Evans and Robert Novak, who distributed the material Sept. 5 under the title: "Did Robertson Skip Combat Duty?"

Robertson asked the federal court to order a retraction and to award him $35 million from each defendant.

In a statement, Robertson said the actions by McCloskey and Jacobs "is an attack by liberals to discredit me because of my support of national defense and our armed forces."

He said he believes McCloskey and Jacobs took their action "to sully my name and reputation for political purposes."

"I recently announced that I may become a candidate for president of the United States," he said in the statement. "It is important that I demonstrate the falsehoods of these stories. Otherwise, if I am elected president how could I, as commander-in-chief, ever order a young American into combat if the record is not absolutely clear that I never shirked military duty."

McCloskey said from his law offices in Palo Alto, Calif., that he stands by his comments on Robertson.

"Since this controversy began, five other lieutenants on that ship have called me and said their recollection of his father's intervention and a hypocrite in seeking to stand up against the worldwide Communist movement."

Clements says taxes damaging Texas, but doesn't pledge rollback

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements says the new taxes enacted during Democratic Gov. Mark White's term have seriously damaged the Texas economy.

But Clements stopped short Tuesday of pledging to roll back any of the White-approved tax hikes.

"Whether we can in fact roll back taxes from where they are, or the fees that have been established under Mark White's governorship, I don't really know," Clements said.

Clements, seeking to regain the job White ousted him from in 1982, said repealing the tax increases is "a question we'll have to explore."

Clements said that as governor he would examine the entire state tax structure to see if it should be overhauled to keep up with a changing economy.

"If we can roll back some of these more significant taxes that have been increased under Mark White, I would certainly be willing to take a hard look at that. But the whole (tax) restructuring process has to be revenue-neutral. We are not going, overall, to increase taxes in the state of Texas while I'm governor during this next legislative session."

In 1984, White signed a $4.8 billion sales and fuel tax increase to fund school reforms and highway improvements. Last month, he OK'd temporary increases in the sales tax — raising it from 4½ cents to 5½ — and gasoline tax to help overcome a $2.8 billion state budget deficit.

In a speech to officials of the Texas Soil and Water Conservation Districts, Clements said those tax increases had made Texas less appealing to businesses. That means fewer new jobs being created, he said.

"It has been impossible for business in Texas — or thinking about moving to Texas — to know what it would confront. Time and time again, Mark White insisted that he would not raise taxes. Then he increased state spending and taxes."

The Republican said state spending under White has raged out of control, calling the swelling budget a major factor in the state's economic bust.

"If taxes are falling — and believed to be falling — the economy will grow," he said.

Clements said Massachusetts learned that lesson several years ago and began to cut taxes.

"That state's economy has begun to grow again. Surely, what Massachusetts can do, Texas can also do and do better," he said. "All it takes is credible and capable leadership. And that requires the

Official says U.S. surprised at summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — American negotiators were caught off-balance when Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev offered broad arms reduction proposals at the Iceland summit, one of President Reagan's arms-control advisers says.

And should reductions in one of the weapons discussed at Reykjavik — intermediate-range nuclear weapons — come to pass, the West will no longer be able to defend Europe "on the cheap," the adviser, Kenneth Adelman, said Tuesday.

Adelman, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, told the American Stock Exchange's annual conference for international investors that President Reagan and his aides at the Oct. 11-12 meetings did not expect Gorbachev to propose such a wide range of agreements.

"To be very honest with you, we were surprised," Adelman said. "We thought that it was going to be a situation where a summit was set up and was not executed right there. The president said in some exasperation on Sunday afternoon ... that this was not a meeting to set up the summit at all, this was an actual summit."

Adelman said U.S. officials had expected the Soviets to propose something new on reducing medium-range missiles in Europe.

"We did not expect that they would give us the time of day on strategic arms," he added. "We knew that they would be opposed to SDI (Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, or "Star Wars"), but not that they would want to drag down everything that was accomplished (because of opposition) for SDI."

Adelman said it would be possible to reduce medium-range missiles in Europe "without a redressing of the conventional balance" as long as other nuclear weapons are not eliminated.

"Since 1946 we have relied on nuclear weapons to prevent a conventional attack by the Soviets into Western Europe," he said. "That kind of imbalance would have to be corrected before we vastly reduce the reliance on nuclear weapons."

"Basically Western security has been bought on the cheap all these years," Adelman said.

Western allies decided after World War II that they would not try to match the Soviets in conventional forces as a way of deterring them from attacking Western Europe with "tanks and artillery and soldiers," he said.

Instead, Adelman said, the West decided "that we would make up for any superiority on the Soviet side by our nuclear weapons."

He did not elaborate on how the imbalance would be redressed, whether through a negotiated reduction in Warsaw Pact forces or in a conventional buildup in NATO.

Hospital year census down

Deaf Smith General Hospital averaged 30.3 patients per day during the month of September, according to reports given during a directors meeting Tuesday.

Patient days for the fiscal year ending in September were down roughly four percent, but the national average for that time period has dropped 10 to 15 percent, administrator Jim Bullard said. DSGH had 9,089 patient days for fiscal year 1985-86 and in fiscal year 1984-85 had 9,384.

Also for the month of September, patient revenues were at $576,557 and operating revenues are at $535,000 and expenses were at $456,500.

Junior class supper slated

A Junior Class enchilada supper is scheduled in the Hereford High School Cafeteria Friday evening, just prior to the football game between Hereford and Canyon.

Serving will be from 5 to 7 p.m. and tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for children 8 and under. Each high school class sponsors a supper during football season as a fund-raiser for the class.

Absentee deadline set

Oct. 31 will be the last day for absentee voting for the Nov. 3 general election, said County Clerk David Ruland.

Ruland reported that 84 voters have filed to vote absentee this year, with 45 of those being walk-in voters.

Voters are allowed to vote in the county clerk's office located on the second floor of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse up until Oct. 31.

Police report

The Hereford Police Department heard reports Tuesday of violation of a restraining order in the 300 block of Jackson, a runaway in the 100 block of Ave. H, harrasing phone calls in the 400 block of Ave. K, defacing a sidewalk in the 600 block of Irving, criminal mischief at the Thunderbird Apartments, a prowler in the 200 block of Center, theft of a charcoal grill in the 900 block of Grand, a prowler in the 100 block of Redwood, burglary of a motor vehicle that was parked at the YMCA parking lot, and disorderly conduct in the 900 block of Grand.

White signs conservation bill

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill to allow Texas farmers and ranchers to participate in federal soil conservation programs without losing their surface water rights has been signed into law by Gov. Mark White.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Jim Parker, D-Comanche, and Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, was passed during the Legislature's recently-concluded special session.

The bill amends a provision in the state water law that had required cancellation of all surface water rights which weren't used for a 10-year period.

"This loss of surface water rights was discouraging Texas farmers from participating in the federal Conservation Reserve Program enacted in 1965 to help them conserve and improve soil quality," White said Tuesday.

Under the federal program, participants contract with the U.S. Agriculture Department to take land out of production for not less than 10 or more than 15 years.

"Our farmers and ranchers should not be unduly penalized for participating in soil conservation programs by losing their surface water rights," White said.

Man gets 50 years for child abuse

HOUSTON (AP) — A man was sentenced to spend 50 years in prison after being convicted of forcing ground pepper down the throat of his girlfriend's 2-year-old son, who later died.

Raymond Edward Coffey, 26, also was fined $10,000 Tuesday by a jury who deliberated about four hours, court clerk John Washington said.

The same jury on Monday convicted Coffey in the May 7 death of Christopher Kalmbach.

Assistant District Attorney Chuck Rosenthal said the case was one of the worst episodes of child abuse he has ever seen. Pictures of the child introduced in the trial showed severe bruises all over the boy's body, as well as scalds and cigarette burns on his arms. Rosenthal said Coffey deserved life in prison.

But Coffey's defense attorney, Wayne Hill, argued for probation, saying the facts of the case did not warrant a long prison term. He asked for 10 years probation or at the most 10 years in prison.

Hill said it was the boy's mother, Patty Kalmbach, and not his client who force-fed the pepper.

Ms. Kalmbach, 21, refused to testify in Coffey's two-day trial despite an offer of immunity. She is facing a charge of murder by omission.

Authorities warn of epidemic

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Health officials warn that dengue fever, which has afflicted nearly 10,000 people in Mexican states just south of Texas, may possibly creep across the Rio Grande.

Health officials said Tuesday that the painful flu-like tropical disease, also known as "breakbone fever," and is transmitted by the aedes aegypti mosquito, which is common in South Texas.

Officials have not issued a travelers advisory for northern Mexico, but they are urging the public to take the usual precautions against mosquitoes.

The virus could spread in Texas, not by mosquitoes crossing the border, but by people returning to Texas with the disease, Roger Sanchez, an epidemiologist with the San Antonio Metropolitan Health District, said.

"Part of the problem is that 40 to 70 percent of the people carrying the disease never experience the effects," Sanchez told the San Antonio Express-News.

Sanchez said that when the symptoms, including a high fever, rashes, a loss of appetite, severe headaches and severe pains in the joints, appear, the disease can be painful.

Two cases have recently been reported in Texas, Sanchez said. One case involved a person who brought the virus from Mexico, and the other occurred near the border in Brownsville, officials say.

There is no vaccine against dengue fever. The disease, seldom fatal, has been monitored closely by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta as it spread north through Mexico following an outbreak in the Caribbean Sea area in 1977.

Cold weather and higher health and living standards appear to have halted the tide of the disease at the Rio Grande in 1980, when nine cases were reported in Brownsville.

Only four cases had been reported in Texas since 1980 until this year when the two cases were diagnosed.

Sex education needed earlier

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sex education should begin in early grades so children will know how to protect themselves from AIDS, Surgeon General C. Everett Koop says in a report on the deadly disease, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Koop's report, which was to be issued today, also says that acquired immune deficiency syndrome should not be used as an excuse for discrimination, the newspaper said.

Sex education "must start at the lowest grade possible ... so that children can grow up knowing the behavior to avoid to protect themselves," the report said.

"There is now no doubt that we need sex education in schools and that it include information on heterosexual and homosexual relationships," Koop wrote. "The need is critical and the price of neglect is high. The lives of our young people depend on our fulfilling our responsibility."

The Times, quoting unidentified sources, said the report was presented to President Reagan earlier this month and was approved by the White House.

The report was quoted as saying that quarantining patients "has no role in the management of AIDS because AIDS is not spread by casual contact."

"AIDS should not be used as an excuse to discriminate against any group or individual," Koop wrote.

Kidnapped professor reported freed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Christian professor at the American University of Beirut, kidnapped more than five months ago, has been freed, university authorities said today.

The report of the release of Nabil Matar, 36, came the day after an underground organization said it kidnapped Edward Austin Tracy, one of a handful of Americans left in Moslem west Beirut.

University spokesman Radwan Mawlawi said Matar, an associate professor of cultural studies, was freed Tuesday night in west Beirut and was in "fairly good shape."

"He's back home with his wife," Mawlawi said. But he offered no explanation as to why Matar was freed.

Matar, a Lebanese citizen, was kidnapped May 7 as he walked from his home in Moslem west Beirut's Ras Beirut residential district to the nearby campus.

A group calling itself the Independent Movement for Freeing Civil War Kidnap Victims claimed responsibility for the abduction in a statement May 18.

Add tires to vehicle inspection list

DETROIT (AP) — Add tires and hoses to your car-care checklist and consider doing much of the maintenance work yourself to save money. The first thing you should check on your tires is the tread. Make sure there's ample tread before setting off on a long trip. Bald patches across the tread — known as wear bars — show up when the tread is under 1-16th of an inch deep. That's a danger point. You also should check for other signs of damage such as cracks, cuts or bulges.

The tires on the driving wheels will wear out first. This wear is even more pronounced on front-wheel drive cars. One solution is, when starting with four new tires, move the front tires to the back after 20,000 or so miles.

Remember, with radial tires, you should try to keep left-side tires on the left and right-side on the right. Consult the owners manual for tire rotation diagrams.

Tire pressure also is important. These days, you'll often find double listings — one for normal driving and the other for driving with loads. A chart showing the amount of tire pressure for the load you're carrying is often found in two places: the owners manual and on metal tags attached to the car body inside a door.

You'll want more pressure in the tires if you're off to vacation with a full load of luggage and people.

However, you should remember that hot weather and the heating of the road surface can transfer heat to the tires and raise the pressure. When you make your first comfort stop on a long, hot trip, pull out a tire-pressure gauge and check the pressure to make sure it's still OK.

Loss of pressure also can be a warning of a slow leak.

Tire gauges are inexpensive and should be in the glove compartment at all times. A foot-operated tire pump also is handy to have and they take up little space in the trunk.

You also should check the engine hoses and clamps. Hoses that are in good condition are firm, but not rock-hard. You can find out what a good hose feels like by checking one the next time you're at a parts store or by feeling those on a new car.

If the hoses feel spongy or hard or if they have cracks or bulges, replace them.

Replacing a hose isn't as difficult as you might expect.

Allow the engine to cool, remove the radiator cap and check the cap to make sure the gasket is in good shape and the spring works properly.

The Automotive Information Council says that if the cap needs replacing, be sure to get one rated at the same pressure.

After checking the cap, drain the radiator by opening the valve at the bottom. Remove the clamps from each end of the hose. If that's difficult, cut them off with tin snips. You then should be able to pull off the hoses and take them to a parts store for an exact match-up.

Clamps are cheap. Buy many. Place them over the hose then put the hose over the opening and slip the clamp on the end of the hose and tighten it as much as possible.

Replenish your radiator fluid as needed.

Gray to rerun winning performance

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Joel Grey is going back to the cabaret.

Grey, who won a Tony award on Broadway and then an Oscar for his film portrayal of the master of ceremonies in the musical "Cabaret," plans to recreate the role next year in a new stage production of the musical, show spokesman Bert Fink said Tuesday.

The revival of the '60s musical will begin a seven-month national tour in March in Cleveland, and is scheduled to arrive on Broadway in October 1987.

The revival will be directed by Harold Prince and choreographed by Ron Field, who were associated with the original show, said Fink.

The role of Sally Bowles, played on Broadway by Jill Haworth and in the movie version by Liza Minnelli, has not yet been cast, Fink said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rhythm-and-blues star Ike Turner says he'll enter a drug-abuse treatment program to kick a cocaine habit he's had since the early '70s.

"When I faced the mirror, I knew I had to go back to reality," Turner, 53, told a news conference Tuesday at the Los Angeles Press Club. "If I can go two weeks, three weeks without it, I can stay clean."

Turner, rock star Tina Turner's ex-husband, refused to say which program he would enter, but he did say it would cost $4,000.

He said he plans to form a new band and start performing after his release next month. Turner said he still had "a lot of music to give" and that recently "like drugs, I kept it to myself."

Turner was arrested in June 1985 after police discovered a substance that appeared to be cocaine at his Los Angeles apartment. He faces a preliminary hearing Oct. 31 on whether he should be tried on drug trafficking charges.

following 2½ weeks of treatment for addiction to prescription painkillers, his publicist says.

"The prescription drugs are out of his system, and he is going to continue therapy in Los Angeles," Pat Kingsley said of Chase, who checked out of the clinic over the weekend.

Chase entered the clinic earlier this month. He had become dependent on the painkillers, which he took for back pain caused by his stunt falls on NBC-TV's "Saturday Night Live" show. He left the show in 1977.

Chase plans to make his first post-treatment appearance as guest host on the "Tonight Show," said Kingsley.

Business conference planned

Entrepreneurship Conference '86 will be held Saturday Oct. 25 at the Sheraton Twin Towers of Amarillo from 9 am to 7 pm. The conference is offering 15 seminar topics broken into three major categories. These consist of how to start a business, how to manage a business, and special problems facing owners and managers.

To start the conference, Margo Fields, President of Palo Duro Savings and Loan, will speak at 9:30 with the seminars beginning at 10:00. A noon luncheon will include a keynote address by Scott Burns, syndicated business and financial columnist from the Dallas Morning News.

The seminars will continue from 2:00 pm to 5:00 pm. There will also be a trade show from 2:00 pm to 7:00 pm.

Several professional business organizations, trade associations, financial and investment institutions will have booths to present the assistance they offer to business owners and managers. Business contacts, networking, financial advice and business planning are some of the services to be provided.

The cost for the seminars, luncheon, and trade show is $35.00. Pre-registration must be received by October 22 in order to attend the luncheon. For additional information contact: the Small Business Center of West Texas State University at (806) 656-3897 or 656-2431.

Combest plans meeting with ag officials

LUBBOCK — Rep. Larry Combest was scheduled to meet here today with West Texas agricultural officials and county judges to inspect weather-damaged crops.

Combest met with area county agricultural extension agents, county judges and ASCS officials this morning. Following the meeting, Combest and officials were to survey the West Texas fields to assess the level of crop damage.

"Extensive rainfall combined with an early frost on the South Plains has wreaked havoc on area crops. In some counties we're seeing as much as a 50 percent reduction or more in yields due to adverse weather," Combest said.

"Several counties such as Lubbock, Dawson, Gaines, Terry, Hockley, Lamb, Cochran, and Bailey have been extremely hard hit by the recent frost and excessive rainfall. Upon crop inspection, I believe it will be evident that disaster payments are severely needed for West Texas farmers," stated Combest.

Combest said, "In the recent Continuing Resolution legislation passed by Congress, $400 million was authorized to mandate the disaster payment program as set forth in the 1985 Farm Bill. Under this program, if a county is declared a disaster area, eligible farmers can receive up to 50 percent of their loan payment for lost acreage."

"Eligible producers can receive a payment-in-kind (PIK) certificate for their damaged acres after any harvested commodities and crop insurance payments are deducted," Combest said.

Annual Festival open to public Oct. 31

First Christian Church's annual Fall Festival is planned Oct. 31 at the church.

Featured at this year's event will be the popular General Store, lunch and supper prepared by church members, and booths and games Halloween night.

The General store will open at 10 a.m. that day and items to be sold include handmade arts and crafts, Christmas decorations and gifts, baskets, cookies, pies, bread and other homemade food items and a special collection of articles from the men's corner.

The General Store will be located in the church fellowship court area. It is being chaired by Susan Barrett. For those browsing at the store, refreshments of coffee, spiced tea, cookies and rolls will be served.

Two Mexican food meals highlight the noontime and evening kitchen events of the festival. Pam and Susan Perrin are co-chairing the kitchen committee which will be turning out fajita dishes.

Lunch hours are from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and supper hours are 5-8 p.m.

Meals will include beef or chicken fajitas, beans, and salad. Cost is $3 for a single fajita meal and $6 for a two fajita meal. Carry-out orders will be available by calling the church by 11:30 a.m. for lunch and 5:30 p.m. for supper.

A variety of games and booths are planned for the annual Halloween evening festivities.

Halloween costumes and activities already planned for the festival are sucker pull, prize maize, face painting, fishing pond, pumpkin painting, pillow fights and prize tosses.

Connie and Steve Gilbert are chairing games and booths and Christy Wright is serving as general chairman of this year's festival.

Preparing For Meals

Vickie Lindse, at left, and Judy McCarter are busy sorting beans for the fajita lunch and supper to be served during the annual Fall Festival Oct. 31 at First Christian Church. Lunch hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

that day and supper hours are from 5-8 p.m. Proceeds from the annual event will be used for improvements in the church kitchen area.

Emergency steps limit shock

The condition known medically as shock results from a lack of blood circulating in the body.

External or internal bleeding or the loss of body fluids in severe burns can interrupt circulation. Hard blows, crushed bones or muscles, bone fractures, and bullet wounds may cause shock.

Shock is dangerous because its symptoms can go unnoticed by the untrained person, according to the Texas Medical Association. An accident victim may appear only slightly injured but can be suffering from shock. If not treated promptly, shock can cause death.

The ZIP code for Aliquippa, Pa., is 15001, and the area code is 412.

Texas was admitted into the Union on Dec. 29, 1845.

Stephen Sondheim and James Lapine won the 1985 Pulitzer Prize for drama with "Sunday in the Park with George."

Daniel Webster of Massachusetts was President Millard Fillmore's secretary of state for two years.

801 N. Main 364-8461

Early signs that may indicate shock include cool, pale, clammy skin; restlessness and anxiety developing into mental cloudiness, listlessness and unconsciousness; and a pulse that is weak but of normal rate.

If you encounter an accident victim, you should first try to control severe bleeding and restore breathing while someone calls a doctor. Next, treat for shock. Here are some tips:

- Keep the person lying down. If neck or back injuries are apparent, keep the victim lying flat. If the person has chest pains or difficulty in breathing, slightly elevate the head and shoulders, but not the legs. For other injuries, elevate the feet and legs 8 to 12 inches.

- Protect the person from chill or dampness, but don't let the victim become overheated.

- Lost fluids must be replaced, but do not try to force liquid into the mouth of an unconscious person. If the person is conscious, give plain water. Never give alcoholic beverages. Start slowly but give the person all the water he or she can drink.

- Anything that lessens pain will help in reducing shock damage.

- Reassurance often works like medicine. Handle your patient calmly and confidently. Above all, do not panic.

Guidelines developed for family caregivers

Some simple activities can help both Alzheimer's patients and their family caregivers better cope with this progressive disease, says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren.

Once a person is diagnosed as having Alzheimer's disease, family members may assume that caring for the patient's personal needs is all they can do, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

This is particularly true of families with little access to continuing professional advice or family support groups, she remarks.

A family caregiver spends many hours each day assisting the patient with eating, dressing and personal care. But there are still many hours of the day that remain unoccupied.

Warren maintains that doing a variety of activities will provide the patient with a greater sense of usefulness and decrease the agitation and restlessness that is so characteristic of the disease.

The gerontologist says that depending on their level of impairment, Alzheimer's patients may be able to do gardening tasks such as raking leaves, watering or weeding; cooking chores like peeling vegetables, stringing beans or setting the table; and simple cleaning jobs, including folding towels, dusting or polishing pans.

Activities that encourage self-expression include making paper collages, molding play dough, painting, drawing or taking museum trips. Simplified versions of "concentration"-type games, trivia games and jigsaw puzzles may also be appropriate activities for some patients.

"Other family members, friends, a volunteer or paid aide can also work with the patient on recreational activities while the caregiver takes a much needed break," Warren says.

She suggests following several guidelines developed by Alzheimer's resource groups, when planning activities:

- Develop a regular routine of a limited number of activities.

- Draw on remaining abilities and knowledge.

- Select activities that a patient has done and enjoyed throughout life.

- Offer simple repetitive tasks that can be performed by quite impaired persons.

- Avoid activities that the patient refuses or perceives as childish.

- Be creative and experiment with new ideas.

- End activities when the patient becomes bored or restless.

"Alzheimer's disease is a progressive neurological disorder that results in the gradual decline of mental and finally physical functions," Warren points out.

"Although the family must assume more and more responsibility as mental capabilities are lost," says the gerontologist, "it is often still possible to enrich patients' lives by helping them stay as active as possible."

BOOSTING LASER POWER
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Improved performances in lasers — in fields as diverse as industrial machining and surgery — may come out of an advance in laser technology made at the University of Rochester.

University scientists say they have developed a way to strengthen the glass rods that lie at the hearts of many lasers. The strengthened glass means the lasers can be used at up to 600 percent higher power levels and can be fired at significantly faster rates.

The key to the process is the immersion of the glass in a bath of molten salt for a period of days.

CYO to sponsor dinner

A roast beef dinner is planned from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Sunday in St. Anthony's School cafeteria. The annual event is sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization.

Tickets are priced at $4 for adults and $2 for children and may be purchased from any CYO member or at the door.

The menu will consist of roast beef, mashed potatoes, green beans, gravy and a variety of homemade desserts.

Proceeds will benefit the CYO and community and church activities.

VETERANS
NEW YORK (AP) — American war veterans aged 65 now number more than 3 million.

By the year 2000, that number will grow to more than 9 million, presenting the nation with an explosive demand for veterans' health care, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

World War II veterans, the parents of the baby boom, will account for most of this growth. At the current level of health benefits now available to veterans through the Veterans Administration, VA health-care expenditures would rise from $8.3 billion in 1983 to $15 billion in 1990.

HHS varsity spikers fall to Estacado in three games

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor
The Hereford High School varsity volleyball team had an up-and-down night Tuesday in a District 1-4A match, losing game one 15-6, winning game two 15-8, and losing game three 15-7.

Estacado also won the junior varsity match, 15-4, 15-2. In a junior varsity match played in Hereford on Saturday afternoon, Canyon defeated Hereford 15-10, 2-15, 15-9.

Hereford High School has three matches left this season. On Saturday, Hereford hosts Pampa, beginning with the junior varsity match at 2 p.m.

On Tuesday, Oct. 28, Hereford plays at Levelland, and on Saturday, Nov. 1, Hereford closes out the 1986 season at home against Borger, beginning at 2 p.m.

In the 15-6 loss in game one of the varsity match against Estacado, two of Hereford's points were scored on service aces by Kristi Wells. Wisty Mars and Kamille Martin blocked an Estacado spike for a point, and Mars scored a point with a dink.

Tricia Kahlich opened game two with a service ace for Hereford. A kill by Jeanette Mumau later gave Hereford a 3-0 lead, and two straight aces by Mars gave Hereford a 6-0 lead.

Hereford then led 8-0 after Estacado committed two errors.

After Estacado scored its first point, a dink by Mars gave Hereford a side out, and another dink by Mars made Hereford's lead 9-1.

Two errors by Estacado, followed by a kill by Mumau, increased Hereford's lead to 12-1. After Hereford lost possession of the serve, Mars gained it back for Hereford with a kill of an overset ball by Estacado.

A violation was called on Estacado for interfering with the ball on Hereford's side of the net, and the lead stood at 13-1.

Estacado then rallied for points off seven straight serves to close to within five points at 13-8. But that was all Estacado could get in this game.

A service ace by Wells, and an Estacado error, gave Hereford its last two points for a 15-8 win.

Hereford fell behind 4-0 and 5-1 in game three, but scored a pair of points off Estacado errors to close the gap to 5-3.

Estacado then built up an 11-3 lead before a kill by Shea McGinty gave Hereford its fourth point of the game. An ace by Mumau and a kill by McGinty cut the lead further, to 11-6.

"The sophomores did a really good job for us throughout the match. Our setting was also very consistent, thus allowing us to use many different attacks which we needed to do against such a tall team," said HHS Coach Brenda Reeh.

Kamille Martin Spikes It

Hereford High School varsity volleyball player Kamille Martin (11) attempts a spike against Lubbock Estacado in game three of a district match Tuesday night in Hereford. No. 30 of Hereford is Jeanette Mumau and No. 12 is Wisty Mars.

Hereford split the first two games with Estacado, losing game one 15-6 and winning game two 15-8. But Estacado came back to win game three, 15-7, to take the match. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Landry says Cowboys must avoid letdowns

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry says the race is so tight in the NFC East the Cowboys can't afford to have letdowns like they did in a narrow victory over Philadelphia.

"That old door can swing closed in a hurry if we lose a game now," Landry says. "It's been a long time since we've had this tough a schedule for the second half of the season."

After the Cowboys close out the first half of the season on Sunday against the St. Louis Cardinals, they play at the New York Giants, home against the Los Angeles Raiders, at San Diego and Washington, home against Seattle on Thanksgiving Day, at the Los Angeles Rams, and at home against Philadelphia and Chicago.

Dallas is 5-2, tied with the Giants a game behind Washington in the NFC.

"It's a rough November," Landry said. "We have five games, and two of them are on the East Coast and one of them is on the West Coast."

Landry recalled that Denver went 11-5 last year and missed the playoffs.

"You can miss the playoffs with a good record just like Denver did," Landry said. "If we don't win the East we could be out of the playoffs easily."

Landry said the Cowboys are shooting for 12-4 in the NFC East.

"That would win the East, but we haven't been 12-4 for awhile," Landry said.

Quarterback Danny White could start Sunday's game against the Cardinals, but he's got to improve 25 per cent physically this week in practice.

White, who has been slowed by a pulled groin muscle, has yielded his starting role to Steve Pelluer for three straight weeks. White was pressed into service when Pelluer was hurt Sunday and contributed a vital third down pass completion in the Cowboys' 17-14 victory over the Eagles.

"Danny will have to be 100 per cent for us to use him as a starter," Landry said on Tuesday. "We had to use him against the Eagles. Right now he's about 75 per cent. He can move and set up, but he can't make any quick moves."

Landry admitted White's injury "could be a problem all year" and said doctors would make the final decision on whether he would start in the 3 p.m. game at Texas Stadium.

"Once the injury heals, Danny will be OK, but we won't use him until the doctors say it is strong enough," Landry said. "The doctors have been very cautious because if Danny does something out of the ordinary he could hurt it again."

Pelluer threw a touchdown pass but suffered two interceptions against the Eagles.

"Steve dropped off a little bit, but that's going to happen," Landry said. "Those interceptions shook him up a little. Steve still has a high confidence level."

The Cowboys beat St. Louis 31-7 on Sept. 29 in a Monday night game, but Landry said the Cardinals are improving rapidly under former Dallas secondary Coach Gene Stallings. The Cowboys are 11-point favorites.

"They are playing better," Landry said. "They beat Tampa Bay and almost beat the (Los Angeles) Rams last week. They have the talent to have a good second half of the season. I just don't want it to start on us."

Ann Landers

Stop seeing bum

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been seeing a psychiatrist for several months. My husband wants me to stop going to this man even though I am feeling a lot better as a result of our sessions. Please advise me.

Dr. "Y" insisted from the beginning that I be completely honest with him and trust his judgment. On the fourth visit he suggested I take off some of my clothes as a symbol of shedding my inhibitions. It made sense to me and I agreed. On the sixth visit he asked me to take off ALL my clothes. I followed his instructions.

That evening I told my husband about the session. He hit the ceiling. When he asked if the therapist touched me, I lied and said no. Actually he has not gone beyond touching and there is no indication that he might.

I need to know if my husband's rage is justified. Bear in mind that this therapist has helped me and I don't want to give him up. Meanwhile, my husband re-enacts the Spanish Inquisition after every therapy session. I need the advice of an unbiased person. -TORN ASUNDER IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR TORN: Thousands of people in therapy are shedding their inhibitions and leaving their clothes on. So can you.

A doctor who would take advantage of a patient's vulnerability in this way is a lowdown snake. I advise you to stop seeing this bum at once, report him to the local licensing authority and the American Psychiatric Association. Ask that they recommend a replacement. The address is 1400 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I disagree with your reply to the reader who complained that he applied for a job and was told, "I'll call you by Friday." The call never came and you accused the personnel director of lacking compassion.

Not so. He was simply following standard business procedure. What he was telling the applicant, in a subtle way, is this: There are many applications for this job. I'll make my decision by Friday and will call the person I've selected.

It's not practical for the personnel director to call every person who didn't get the job. Since most of these people are away from home much of the time job-hunting, it may take several calls to reach them. Even when reached, some "losers" become abusive, demand to know why they were rejected and threaten lawsuits for "discrimination."

Absolutely no purpose is served by calling people to tell them they didn't get the job. It's a waste of time for all concerned. Sign me - ONE WHO'S BEEN ON BOTH SIDES OF THE DESK

DEAR ONE: Sorry, I don't buy it. "Subtlety" has no place in an exchange between a personnel director and an applicant. If the interviewer does not intend to call, he or she should say, "I'll phone IF you get the job. No news is bad news." This leaves absolutely no room for apprehension or disappointment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our cousin Penny's daughter was married 16 years ago. My two sisters, who live 3,000 miles away (and had never met Penny or her daughter), received invitations and sent small but nice gifts. The sisters at the time were struggling newlyweds.

One sister's daughter had a 13th birthday last week. Cousin Penny sent back both wedding gifts with a note saying, "I've been waiting 16 years to return those cheap trinkets." The package was opened by my 13-year-old niece who was perplexed and hurt.

How can I smooth over this situation? My mother insists that I try. -FAMILY RUMBLE IN L.A.

DEAR RUM: Cousin Penny's vulgarity is indefensible. Tell your mother your magic wand is out of commission and she's welcome to try hers.

Military Muster

Airman Kevin L. Redus, son of Betty J.A. dams of Highway Contract Route 6, and grandson of Mildred Adams of 605 Whittier, both of Hereford, has graduated from Air Force Base basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Shea M. Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Adams of Rural Route 2, Fort Smith, Ark., and granddaughter of Lola Moody of Rural Route 2, Hereford, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force medical administrative specialist course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught medical resource management, patient administrative control, filing, typing, and the use of computerized medical information systems. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

She is a 1986 graduate of Greenwood High School, Ark.

Endowment chairman speaks to study club

Margaret Reed of Stratford, Girlstown Endowment chairman of the Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, was the guest speaker for the meeting of the Pioneer Study Club recently. Mable Heard and Leatrus Clark were hostesses for the luncheon at Something Special.

Reed, who has served as Top of Texas District President from 1978-79, stated that the Girlstown Endowment Fund was established three years ago to provide supplemental income for operating expenses which might be needed for any of the four Girlstown campuses. Memorial and special occasion gifts in any amount are always welcomed by the Girlstown Endowment Fund.

She also asked that the club women continue to send gifts of clothing and supplies for use by the girls. Girlstown, USA, has been a district project for a number of years.

To add emphasis to the program, Reed presented Debra stopper and Nona Johnson of Shieldknight, Stopper and Associates of Amarillo, who gave an informative explanation of estate planning, citing the tax advantages of including charitable giving as a portion of one's estate. They encouraged the women to consider the Girlstown Endowment Fund when planning their estates.

The speakers were introduced by Mable Heard, Girlstown chairman of Pioneer Study Club.

The pledges of allegiance to the flags of the United States and Texas were led by Bea Hutson.

"My Turn", in which a club member is permitted three minutes to speak on any subject, was given by Fern Ford. She spoke of how much living in Hereford has meant to her.

The business meeting was conducted by Mary Panciera, president. She noted that the copies of the year-books had been mailed to the district and state officers and expressed appreciation to Eunice Petersen who designed and painted the pioneer woman on the cover.

Members attending were Helen Bishop, Lucy Fay Cocanougher, Hazel Ford, Fern Ford, Heard, Bessie Hill, Hutson, Billee Johnson, Etoile Manning, Petersen, Fern Sigle, and Panciera.

Guests were Margaret Reed, Nona Johnson and Debra Stopper.

The next meeting will be at 11:30 a.m. on Nov. 9 at the Hereford Country Club. Marion Gamertsfelder, Top of Texas District President, will be the guest speaker.

Abundant Life

PLEASANT ASSOCIATIONS
By Bob Wear

IT IS NORMAL for most of us to desire that our associations with others be 'pleasant associations', and most of these associations can be pleasant. Whether or not this is to be depends largely upon us, because most folk will be pleasant with us, when we are pleasant with them. Since this is true, we hold the key. Of course, once in awhile there may be someone who is implacable and does not intend to be pleasant; but the majority of people are just as eager for pleasant interaction as we are.

WE LIKE for people to be pleasant with us, and most of them are and will be. Many will be pleasant with us even when we are not so pleasant with them, and we can be thankful that they are; however, it is much better that we accept the fullness of our responsibility, and remember how much we can accomplish in our associations with others by being pleasant with them. This is not being naive, or weak or anything else undesirable. Quite to the contrary, it is being wise, and strong and understanding in a very special kind of way.

WE CAN SMOOTH the way for pleasant associations by being dependable; by being understanding of others; by being respectful; by giving others the benefit of the doubt; by being genuinely interested in others without being nosy; by being appreciative and expressing it; by listening to others (even when we disagree); by managing ourselves wisely; by being cheerful; by refraining from criticism; by treating everybody as somebody; by being strong in self-esteem, without being boastful or egotistical; by maintaining true expectations; and by maintaining our desire for and appreciation of 'pleasant associations'.

"Good manners and soft words have brought many a difficult thing to pass." -J. Vanbrugh.

OUR ASSOCIATIONS with others may never be perfect, but they can be pleasant so far as we are concerned.

Horse trade has pulled up lame

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Overpriced, overstocked and over-riden by the state's oil-based economy, the Texas horse trade has slowed from a gallop to a sluggish walk.

In the frenetic oil-boom days of the late 1970s and early 80s new wealth was lavished on horses for cutting contests and other performance events, for breeding animals to be led proudly through show arenas, for weekend riding pleasure and for tax shelters.

"Let's face it. We had some horses ridiculously priced," said B.F. Yeates, a horse business specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In the boom years, prices for prize-winning horses first hit $1 million, then topped $2 million. Some stallions with records of winning shows and contests were syndicated for more than $6 million, each like a horse corporation with shares sold to investors and each touted as the top of his breed.

From the late 1970s into 1984, prices on the rest of the horse population followed a similar pattern — first doubling, then tripling or quadrupling — although at lower price levels.

Those values were said to be based on contest winnings, potential for producing future champions, looks and the scarcity of prime horses.

Contest purses in the cutting horse sport alone rose to a point where it was possible for one horse to earn its owners $2 million in one 12-month season.

The purse total of contests sponsored by the Fort Worth-based National Cutting Horse Association was nearly $15.9 million last year, more than triple the 1981 figure. The group's membership also more than tripled in that time, to almost 15,000 by early 1986, and the number of contests doubled to 1,300.

"It couldn't continue to grow at that rate," said Gary Webb, horse center manager at Texas A&M University.

Purses and entries among professionals at two of the National Cutting Horse Association's four major contests in Fort Worth this year have been down 18 percent, officials said. Association membership fell from 15,000 earlier this year to slightly more than 13,000, mostly because of the faltering economy.

Prices have dropped for virtually all horses, down 30 to 70 percent from prices just two or three years ago, said Tom Lyons, a cutting horse breeder and trainer in Grandview, south of Fort Worth.

"You might say that we have (taken) some of the 'funny money' out of it," Lyons said. "The good side is they're cheaper, and more people can play now."

Lyons, 41, isn't doing too badly in this new economy. He has been riding the hottest horse in the cutting sport this year, winning $450,000 since December.

For quarter horses in general, average prices at major sales have dropped 20 to 30 percent since last year. But the drop has spurred an increase of first-time owners, said Don Treadway, spokesman for the Amarillo-based American Quarter Horse Association. Quarter horses far outnumber all other breeds in the state.

Dozens of professionals in the Fort Worth-Dallas metropolitan area train horses to compete by cutting calves from herds in the rodeo arena. These horses are usually from the quarter horse, paint horse or Appaloosa breeds.

Cutting horses do what their less glamorous cowpony counterparts do — they weave and whip back and forth to separate calves from herds. The cowponies work on the ranch to cut calves from the herd for branding; contest horses aim to beat a clock and impress a panel of judges.

Also affected by the boom-and-bust cycle, horse farms once valued at $1.5 million to $2.5 million for their big barns, climate-controlled stalls, manicured pastures, well-stocked tack rooms and plush offices now have trouble drawing buyers at $750,000 to $1 million. Some farms can't even attract a serious offer.

But horse and horse farm values will explode if pari-mutuel betting is legalized in Texas, said Doug Shelton, owner of Shelton Realty in Dallas, who deals in farms in the prime horse country of Denton and Cooke counties.

If wagering is approved, a new Texas horse trade would erect two to four major racetracks in the state, at least one being positioned for Fort Worth and Dallas gamblers, and horse lovers, Yeates said.

Land values could rise as newcomers rush in to provide services and invest in new farms, Yeates said. The current market for sandy land needed for horse farms ranges from $2,000 to $15,000 an acre.

The current situation developed in 1977-1978, as the U.S. oil boom matured and good horses were overpriced by ambitious traders tapping an influx of oil and real estate wealth.

Yeates called the boom "unsound, accelerated growth."

Stud (breeding) fees ran more than $5,000, even $8,000. There were a few $10,000 to $20,000 stud fees, said Dick Gaines, a banker turned professional cutting horse breeder now based in Wichita Falls.

Prices on offspring even from mares with no proven contest performance records reached $50,000 or more. When some of those mares lost the big contests, investors and horse traders felt compelled to breed them and try to recover some costs by selling what usually turned out to be mediocre offspring.

In the boom years, colts and fillies with good contest prospects — even before they had proved themselves in the cutting arena — brought prices of $50,000 to $100,000 and more, Lyons said.

But overproduction pushed prices on good horses down even before the oil price plunge of 1986.

Stud fees have dropped by 50 to 75 percent, to as little as $1,000 and usually no more than $5,000 for the top animals, Gaines said.

Quarter horses bred and trained for cutting contests and once priced at $10,000 to $25,000 won't bring more than $2,500 to $7,500, said Bill Freeman, a cutting horse trainer and breeder.

"Some, you can't give away," Freeman said.

Known as one of the most successful in the business, Freeman manages a 113-acre horse farm he built two years ago for $700,000 near rolling wooded hills at Rosston, 23 miles south of Gainesville.

For Freeman, 36, there has been method to the madness of staying in the quirky business: He pays attention to detail, "anything to put the percentage back into our ball court," to produce arena winners.

Freeman had a contractor build on his farm a replica of the rodeo arena in Fort Worth's Will Rogers Coliseum, identical even to the width of the gaps between the boards in the chutes. The contractor even hung one of the gates crooked to match one in Will Rogers.

He said he wanted to make sure that there are no surprises for the horse he trains to compete in the big events held at the Fort Worth facility.

"A horse is just like a little child, especially young horses at the Futurity," Freeman said. "They will look off at new things" and not keep their minds on the calf in the arena. Concentration is vital — $200,000 is on the line in the December contest.

Freeman uses three arenas to train horses to do one thing — "think about the calf ... These are athletes we work with every day." His horses' comfort, health, food, atmosphere, exercise and training are all meticulously planned.

Freeman is one of two managing partners in one of the most famous of the living cutting horses, Smart Little Lena, a stallion.

Like the horses in the 23 other stalls in his main barn, Smart Little Lena enjoys a ceiling fan, special lighting, climate control, and soft wood shavings across an earthen floor.

And rightfully so — the horse won $12,000 in four major cutting contests in the 1982-83 season under Freeman's hand and made it possible for him to buy his farm, he said.

Three of the victories form what the cutting association calls the "Triple Crown," and Smart Little Lena is one of only two horses ever to have won all three.

Smart Little Lena, age 6, has been syndicated for $6 million — at $75,000 a share for 80 shares — by Freeman and his partner, Hanes Chatham of Aubrey, a member of the family that controls Hanes Underwear and Chatham Blankets.

Freeman still owns 24 shares of the horse and is trying to sell more of them, but the oil market's crash has slowed that effort.

Five other horses with multiple owners under Freeman's management have won from $50,000 to $200,000 each in contests.

Freeman won't say how much money he earned last year, but it topped $1 million and required him to pay $225,000 in income taxes.

He said he doesn't expect his income to suffer this year.

Freeman and his clients face tax increases next year if tax breaks are eliminated on horse sales income and investment credits, and if capital gains treatment changes.

But he says most of his clients will stick with the horses because they love participating in the business and the sport.

DR. GOTT This surgery isn't dangerous

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Could you tell me something about pterygions on my eyes? The doctor says he can take them off if they get any bigger. Is this a serious operation?

DEAR READER — Pterygia are abnormal wings of membrane that grow on the eye covering, usually extending from the area of the tear duct across a portion of the white of the eye to the cornea. The operation to remove them is standard and safe.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband had three lesions on his bladder. The doctors burned them off. He still has sharp pain when he urinates and ejaculates. The X-rays and blood tests show nothing wrong with the bladder, kidneys or prostate. Can you help us?

DEAR READER — I assume that your husband had bladder tumors that were fulgurated (burned off). The tumors could have spread to other parts of the bladder and reproductive tract. Your husband may have developed a prostatic or bladder infection as a result of the tumor treatment. Sometimes infections and tumor-spread are difficult to diagnose using X-rays and blood tests. Therefore, he needs further evaluation by a urologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a healthy 60-year-old woman. I work five days a week, plus I do house and yardwork. I can't get to sleep until 2 a.m. most nights, but I don't want to get into a sleeping-pill habit. One doctor told me to try tryptophan. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Insomnia is a troublesome and common ailment for which tryptophan, a naturally occurring amino acid (building block of protein), often is helpful. There's lots of it in milk, which may be why the warm-milk-cure works for some people. If tryptophan doesn't work, try taking 50 to 100 milligrams of phenhydramine (Benadryl), a harmless over-the-counter antihistamine that causes slight sedation and, therefore, may help put you to sleep.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 32 and in good health, but I sweat profusely, even if I only exert myself a little. Is there something wrong with me?

DEAR READER — Some people sweat more than others. If this has been your pattern for years, disregard it. If your profuse sweating has occurred recently, check with your doctor.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How do bunions develop and what is the present method of removing them?

DEAR READER — A bunion is an abnormal swelling at the base of the big toe. Initially, it is caused when the bursa (joint covering) is irritated by pressure, as can occur with tight shoes. As the swelling increases, the normal front-back orientation of the toe is disrupted and the toe tends to turn to the side. Alteration of footwear — wearing less-snug shoes, for example — can retard the growth of a bunion, but as the mechanics of walking are affected, surgery may be necessary. The operation of choice seems to be the Keller procedure, in which part of the bone is removed and the toe is realigned.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In 1976 I had my first back surgery for a ruptured disc between the fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae. In June 1984 I had the same disc rupture and repeated the surgery. Recently I lifted something heavy and heard a pop in my lower back. I now have severe hip and buttocks pain. Does it sound as if I ruptured the disc again? What's my next step?

DEAR READER — The tendency to rupture lumbar discs appears to be inherited. Unfortunately, once one disc has slipped, others can follow suit. Therefore, surgery may correct one problem, but, with time, other discs can cause difficulty.

I suspect that you are working on a new rupture, so I advise you to return to the surgeon who did the first two operations. The pain you are now experiencing could be due to further disc degeneration or it may be the result of further injury to the operated area. In either case, seeing your surgeon is the most appropriate next step.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have been taking tetracycline for my skin. It's cleared up my pimples, but how long can I safely continue to take it? I'm 15.

DEAR READER — For most adolescents, tetracycline is safe to take for months or years. Usually, a maintenance dose of two capsules a day is adequate. Remember that tetracycline can cause sun sensitivity, a form of drug allergy, in some individuals, so watch that exposure or use a sunscreen.

DEAR DR. GOTT — In your opinion, what is the maximum safe daily dosage of vitamin D? I have gotten startlingly different opinions from doctors.

DEAR READER — According to "Vitamins and Minerals: Help or Harm?" by Charles Marshall, an extraordinarily useful book on the subject, the limit for vitamin D is 1,200 international units (I.U.) for children and 2,000 I.U. for adults. Above these doses, toxicity is likely. The recommended daily allowance is 400 I.U. for children and 200 I.U. for adults.

Incidentally, Dr. Marshall's book is available in paperback from George F. Stieckley Co., 210 W. Washington St., Philadelphia, PA 19106.

Selleck vindicated by ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Selleck has no reservations about making a fool of himself. After all, he's the guy who turned up on David Letterman's show, stuck his face in a tank of water and favored the nation with his impression of a motorboat.

He got a bit annoyed, however, when the ratings appeared to make a fool of his show, "Magnum, P.I."

In a showdown between two former college jocks, Bill Cosby ran Selleck ragged on Thursday night. Selleck congratulated Cosby for an excellent show, but burned at the sniping he felt "Magnum" was taking as it nearly dropped out of the top 50.

"What I think people forget is that we were at a level, even at 48th, where we could have stayed on the air for several years," Selleck said in a telephone interview from Honolulu.

This season, CBS has moved "Magnum" into a later time slot Wednesday nights, and the show is prospering. Last week, it was 22nd on the A.C. Nielsen list.

"I'm real pleased that there has been a response," Selleck said. "It vindicates the show in a way."

He was bothered, he said, by what seemed to be an increasing fascination with the weekly Nielsen numbers in newspapers and on shows like "Entertainment Tonight."

At the television writers tour this summer in California, Selleck recalled, he had urged writers to do more reviews and fewer top 10 lists.

It's one thing for the network and advertisers to fuss about ratings, Selleck said, "but when people are coming up and quoting share points to you, it gets ridiculous."

This year's high-rated "Magnum" is the same show as last year's struggling "Magnum," Selleck said.

With one difference — there is a much deeper personal commitment from the star.

This summer, Selleck turned down all movie offers and spent the 10-week break working with the writers and producers.

"I knew if we didn't have our stuff together, budget consciousness would result in pulling quality off the screen," he said.

And Selleck claims the best shows this season are yet to come. One involves the possibility that bachelor Thomas Magnum has a 5-year-old daughter, and another tells of a chase for a serial killer.

There's also a "crossover" show with "Murder, She Wrote," in which Selleck and Angela Lansbury appear on each other's shows to wrap up a single case.

The remarkable comeback for "Magnum" comes in the last year of Selleck's contract.

"I have some tough decisions to make," he said.

Brandi Bender, a Hereford High School athlete works out on a Schwinn "Air-Dyne" ergometer at the HHS gym. The exercise equipment was presented to the school athletic department by the Whiteface Booster Club. Two members of the booster club, Butch White, right, a board member of the club, and Linda Daniel, second from the right, secretary of the club, watch Miss Bender. Also pictured are Martha Emerson, left, girls' athletic coordinator, and Larry Sowers, HHS girls' basketball coach. Sowers said the "Air-Dyne" is used for rehabilitation of leg and knee injuries, noting that Miss Bender had knee surgery two weeks ago. He said the multi-exercise machine is also used to help keep athletes from suffering leg injuries.

lose 20-8 to Plainview Red

Stanton Junior High School's seventh grade football team fell behind Plainview Red 14-0 in the first half, and lost the game played at Plainview Tuesday, 20-8.

Stanton's record is now 0-4-1. The Dogies play Plainview Blue at home next Tuesday, with both "A" and "B" games on the schedule—at 4 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

On Thursday, Nov. 13, Stanton plays La Plata at Whiteface Stadium at 4 p.m. in a seventh grade game. The eighth grade game between the two schools is set for 5:30 p.m., and the ninth grade game is scheduled for 7 p.m.

Stanton's lone touchdown against Plainview Red was scored in the third quarter. Leo Brown rushed 35 yards for the touchdown.

Stanton scored a safety in the fourth quarter by tackling the Plainview Red quarterback in the end zone. The Stanton defenders in on the tackle included Joe Varela, Pedro Aguilar, and Marty Griego.

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on a minimum of 20 words. One day is 13 cents per word or $2.60 minimum. Rates below are for consecutive issues, no copy change, and apply to solid ad lines only.

TIMES	RATES	MIN.
1 day per word	.13	2.60
2 days per word	.22	4.40
3 days per word	.31	6.20
4 days per word	.40	8.00

5th day FREE
Add 9 cents per word for additional days: 10 days (2 free) is 15.20 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is 22.40; month 78.00.

Classified display rates apply for special captions, paragraphing, bold type or larger type, and ads not set with full lines. $2.00 per column inch, $2 a column inch for additional insertions, or $1.75 a column inch per month.

LEGALS
Advertising rates for legal notices are $3.50 per column inch for the first insertion and $2 per column inch for consecutive issues.

Deadlines for classified ads are 3 p.m. daily for the next day's edition; 3 p.m. Friday for Sunday's edition.

Cash is required on advertisements under $10.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in Classified Ads and legal notices. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. In case of errors not the fault of the advertiser, an additional insertion will be given.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ESCAPED...THROUGH LOCKED DOORS!

When the police arrived at the jail, the men weren't there, so they returned to the Council and reported. "The jail doors were locked, and the guards were standing outside, but when we opened the gates, no one was there!"

When the police captain and the chief priests heard this, they were frantic, wondering what would happen next and where all this would end! Then someone arrived with the news that the men they had jailed were out in the Temple, preaching to the people! The police captain went with his officers and arrested them (without violence, for they were afraid the people would kill them if they roughed up the disciples) and brought them in before the Council.

"Didn't we tell you never again to preach about this Jesus?" the High Priest demanded. "And instead you have filled all Jerusalem with your teaching and intended to bring the blame for this man's death on us!"

But Peter and the apostles replied, "We must obey God rather than men. The God of our ancestors brought Jesus back to life again after you had killed Him by hanging Him on a cross. Then, with mighty power, God exalted Him to be a Prince and Savior, so that the people of Israel would have an opportunity for repentance, and for their sins to be forgiven. And we are witnesses of these things, and so is the Holy Spirit, who is given by God to all those who obey Him." Acts 5:22-32

The first bicycle trip around the world was made by Thomas Stevens, who started from San Francisco, Calif., on April 22, 1884 on a 50-inch bicycle and returned January 4, 1887.

Tennessee River Boys to perform

Hereford Community Concert Association' first concert of the 1986-87 season will feature The Tennessee River Boys.
 The performance is planned at 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27, in the Hereford High School auditorium.
 The vocal and instrumental group combines a contemporary blend of fast-paced up-temp numbers to moving renditions of modern country ballads.
 The group has appeared on several television shows and have been on state with Ronnie Milsap, Jerry Reed, John Anderson, George Jones, Mel McDaniel and others.
 Other concerts planned during the CCA season include Phil Coulter's Pops Orchestra of Ireland, The Alexandria Quintet, and Arthur Woodley.
