

Reagan says economy headed for 'second boom'

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — President Reagan, touring Dixie on behalf of GOP Senate candidates, claimed today the nation's economy is "headed for a second boom" and urged voters to reject Democratic leaders who he said nearly brought the economy to its knees in 1980.

At the first of three campaign stops in states where Senate GOP candidates are in close races, the president painted a glowing picture of the economic achievements of his six years in office.

"You know, I could tell it was working when they stopped calling it 'Reaganomics,'" he said.

Reagan's first stop of the day was on behalf of Sen. Mack Mattingly of Georgia. His schedule called for a later appearance in Alabama for Sen. Jeremiah Denton and a hurriedly arranged airport rally for North Carolina Sen. James Broyhill.

Before addressing the campaign rally in Columbus, near the large Fort Benning military installation, Reagan signed legislation providing a 1.5-percent cost-of-living increase for 2.2 million veterans who receive disability compensation, effective Dec. 1. The legislation also makes improvements in veterans' health care, education, housing and other programs.

Reagan struck familiar chords in his campaign speech for Mattingly, saying Democratic leaders in the Senate have tried to "torpedo our choices for judges" and repeating his oft-made statement that after his six years in office, "not one square inch has been lost to communism, and one small country, Grenada, has been set free."

Reagan also made a plug for his "Star Wars" space-based missile defense system. "Our goal is to save the West from mutual nuclear terror, to make ballistic missiles obsolete, ultimately eliminate them from the face of the earth," he said.

It was not clear whether Reagan was signaling a change in policy with that remark. Spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters several days ago that the administration's goal is to eliminate all nuclear weapons, not only long-range ballistic missiles.

Reagan offered few specifics to bolster his claim that the economy is headed for a second boom. He cited last week's report of 2.4 percent economic growth for the third quarter of the year, and said that "some other indicators show our economy gathering momentum for even more growth, higher take-home pay and more new jobs. In short, we're headed for a second boom," he said.

While the third quarter growth was 2.4 percent, the GNP grew at an anemic 0.6 percent in the second quarter, and expansion is running well below the administration's official forecast of 3.2 percent for the year.

Some economists believe the economy could wind up in recession over the next year unless there is improvement in the massive trade deficit.

But Reagan made no mention of those forecasts, and said the Democrats who held office until 1980 handed Republicans "the worst economic mess since the Great Depression."

Farms shrinking in number, but analyst sees halt to decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although the number of farms in the United States dropped in 1986 at the sharpest rate in more than a decade, some Agriculture Department experts think the worst may be over.

"The biggest year-to-year declines may have already occurred," says economist Donn A. Reimund. "In any case, the magnitude of the declines is likely to ease as the earning capacity of the land starts to buttress farmland values."

An analysis of this year's drop in farm numbers is scheduled for a forthcoming issue of Farmland magazine by the department's Economic Research Service, which recently made advance copies available.

The analysis was based on an annual report released in August, which showed the number of farms and the amount of land in farms in 1986 compared with 1985. Nationally, USDA estimated the number of farms at 2.21 million, down almost 3 percent from about 2.28 million in 1985.

Farm acreage was down less than 1 percent to slightly more than 1 billion acres. That meant the average size of a farm grew from 446 acres to 455 acres.

In the late 1970s and the early 1980s, it appeared the number of farms might be leveling off after dropping every year since the mid-1930s, when the count peaked at more than 6.8 million farms.

After a small increase in 1980 and 1981, the annual number turned down again, showing declines of 1.3 percent from 1982 to 1983, 1.8 percent from 1983 to 1984, 2.3 percent from 1984 to 1985, and then the 2.7 percent drop from 1985 to 1986.

Reimund suggests that the larger declines in recent years probably reflect the troubled financial condition of American agriculture.

But he said it is probably impossible to determine how much of the recent drop in farm numbers is related to financial hard times and how much reflect the long-term structural change in U.S. agriculture.

"The trend toward fewer and larger farms has been going on for 50 years, and it will probably continue even when demand and prices in the farm sector improve," Reimund said.

"We saw large declines in the 1950s and 1960s, but that was a different situation," he said. "Then, we were going through a technological adjustment as a new generation of machinery reduced the labor requirement for farming and generated a big demand for farmland expansion. Farmers willing to quit could sell at a pretty good profit."

But today, Reimund said, many farmers are leaving the land as debtors. Some are forced out because they don't have cash reserves and can't get the refinancing to cover their expenses and debt payments.

The latest declines in farm numbers are heavily concentrated among those that have sales of $40,000 to $100,000 a year, he said. Such farms are often too small to earn sufficient income from agriculture, but too large to operate on a part-time basis while the farmer holds a job in town.

The recent decline in farm numbers has been felt hardest outside the Midwestern farm belt.

U.S. walks thin line with Syria on terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syria's influence with radical Arabs and its potential role in a Mideast peace settlement have restrained the United States from following through on the suspicions of terrorism it harbors against the Middle Eastern country.

Eager to find all the help it can in gaining the release of the seven Americans listed as hostages in southern Lebanon, the Reagan administration repeatedly has turned to President Hafez Assad's government — even while accusing Damascus of giving terrorists safe haven.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz told reporters in New York earlier this month, after appealing for help to Foreign Minister Faruk Shara, "I never miss the opportunity

Half-cent tax option tabled

The Deaf Smith County Commission elected to table action on the possibility of adding an additional half-cent sales tax to county residents during a regular meeting of the commission held Monday at the courthouse.

Commissioner Troy Don Moore explained that under new legislation, the county would be eligible for the sales tax if the measure is passed by a county election.

"If we pass this, we would reduce property taxes by whatever amount the tax would generate," said Moore. "The county would still be drawing the same amount of money, but it would come from property taxes and the sales tax."

The commissioners asked County Clerk David Ruland to look into the possibility of an election. The tax proposal will be looked at during the next meeting of the commission to be held Nov. 10.

In other business the commission: -Heard a presentation from Ron Sanders of West Texas Rural Telephone. Sanders told commissioners that the current radios used by the sheriff's department are costing the county too much money to keep repairing. Sanders advised the commissioners to look into the cost of replacing the system. Commissioners decided to look at the problem and bring up the possibility of asking for bids at their next meeting.

-Appointed Dr. Tim Revell as the county health authority.

-Granted permission to Jail Administrator David Castillo to purchase a fingerprint kit for the jail. Commissioners also decided to allow Castillo to begin taking applications for the position of jailer.

-Granted permission to Gary Jones of Bottlers Inc. to place a Pepsi machine on the first floor of the courthouse.

-Adopted a county social services manual.

-Granted permission to Contel to place a phone line along a county road.

-And granted permission to David Ruland to purchase a new filing cabinet for the county clerk office.

Vicious dogs worry officer

Hereford Animal Control Officer Butch Trevino is concerned that children walking to school may be in danger of being attacked by pit bulldogs and is asking persons to report any problems with the vicious dogs.

Trevino estimates that scattered throughout Hereford there are between 70 and 80 of the pit bulls which have been trained to be mean and are suspected to be used in dog fighting.

"The more I pick them up, the more there seems to be," he said. "They attack anybody," Trevino said. "You don't have to make them mad."

He said that the dogs are trained to attack the neck and shoulders to knock a person down with its 60 to 70 pound weight.

Trevino said local law enforcement agencies believe that several cases of smaller livestock being killed has been by pit bulls because of the wounds all being near the mouth and throat.

Owners of any dogs running loose can be fined.

Impact of law hard to forecast

AUSTIN (AP) — Judging the economic impact on Texas of the federal immigration reform law is difficult, Comptroller Bob Bullock said.

"There's going to be little effect on the state's finances or the Texas economy in the short run and there's simply no concrete evidence to predict an impact for the long-term picture," Bullock said in a statement Monday.

Bullock said his office has estimated as many as 600,000 of the one million estimated illegal aliens in Texas might be eligible to apply for American citizenship under the new law.

However, Bullock said if there is strict enforcement of the sanctions against employers who hire illegal aliens, the action might dry up a source of cheap labor for many Texas businesses and industries.

"For the most part, illegal aliens in Texas are paying virtually all the same taxes — sales taxes, gasoline taxes and excise taxes — as you and me," Bullock said. "If they become permanent citizens we aren't going to see a big jump in state revenue."

He said the federal government will make $220 million in federal impact payments over the next five years to help the state adjust for aliens' use of public services if they become citizens.

"I'm not sure that amount of money is really going to take up the slack, but still there is no evidence to say that the impact is as severe as some officials suggest," Bullock said.

Challenger crash duplicated

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Early tests show that a new rocket engine design will eliminate the flaws that caused space shuttle Challenger to blow up, a NASA official said.

John Thomas, manager of the space agency's solid rocket motor redesign team, also said Monday that NASA is on track toward a resumption of space flights in early 1988.

A new engine "has been tested and we are much more confident than ever before that it is a good design," Thomas said, but added that much more testing remains to be done.

Challenger blew up 73 seconds after launch Jan. 28, killing all seven crew members. A presidential commission determined that a joint on the solid rocket engine leaked flame that ignited rocket propellant.

Among the factors blamed by the commission were warping of the metal parts of the joint that unsealed two rubberized O rings and low temperatures that reduced the seals' resilience.

Thomas and his team designed a joint with an extra lip to prevent warping, added another O ring, and developed a heater to keep the joint warm. All of these elements worked well in early testing, he said.

Thomas said engineers also tested the joint design used on Challenger and duplicated the leaks that the investigation concluded occurred.

The new design was subjected to "hot fire" tests using a scale model burning some 70 pounds of propellant for 80 seconds, said Thomas.

"The results have been very, very pleasing," he said. In one of the tests, he said, the joint sealed even without the use of O rings.

Engineers are testing two ideas for insulating the steel walls of the engine from the 1,500-degree heat generated by the propellant, but Thomas said the experts are confident of the new metal parts design.

Couple wins burglary lawsuit

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A couple who sued two teen-aged burglars for setting fire to their house say a $288,000 jury award should encourage other crime victims to file lawsuits.

Edward and Joan Mutchek of this southern Illinois city won the award Friday against the homeowners' insurance policies of the parents of two juveniles who broke into the Mutcheks' home five years ago.

The St. Clair County Circuit Court award will be reduced by $115,000 the Mutcheks' insurance has paid, said their attorney, Stephen M. Tillary.

Both of the burglars testified at the trial that they had inadvertently started the fire in the Mutcheks' garage while trying to remove a radio from one of the family's cars on Oct. 9, 1981.

The fire was discovered by Edward Mutchek, now 56, when he was awakened by the family dog. The Mutcheks, their daughter and the dog escaped unharmed.

One of the youths was placed on probation. Charges were dismissed against the other, who has since been convicted of two other felonies.

"Now the message is out that there is justice out there," said Joan Mutchek, 54, adding she would encourage other victims to file suits.

Bankruptcy law may help farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan signed a major change in the nation's bankruptcy law Monday that backers said will give new hope to thousands of farmers being forced into foreclosure by impatient lenders.

The action was welcome news for Republican candidates in hard-pressed farm states a week before the election.

The revision, part of a law that creates 52 new bankruptcy judgeships, establishes a new chapter of bankruptcy law allowing farmers holding up to $1.5 million in debt to declare bankruptcy and seek protection from creditors under a streamlined procedure similar to those already used by small businesses.

The measure is restricted for use only by family farmers, defined as those who receive at least half their income from farming and for whom 80 percent of their debt is due to agriculture.

Supporters of the legislation, led by Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, argued that current bankruptcy law is not designed to meet the special needs of farmers.

Sikhs attack at prayer time

AMRITSAR, India (AP) — Sikh terrorists sprayed machine gunfire at praying Hindus early Tuesday, killing three people and seriously wounding five, Punjab state police said.

A Sikh politician was killed in another terrorist attack.

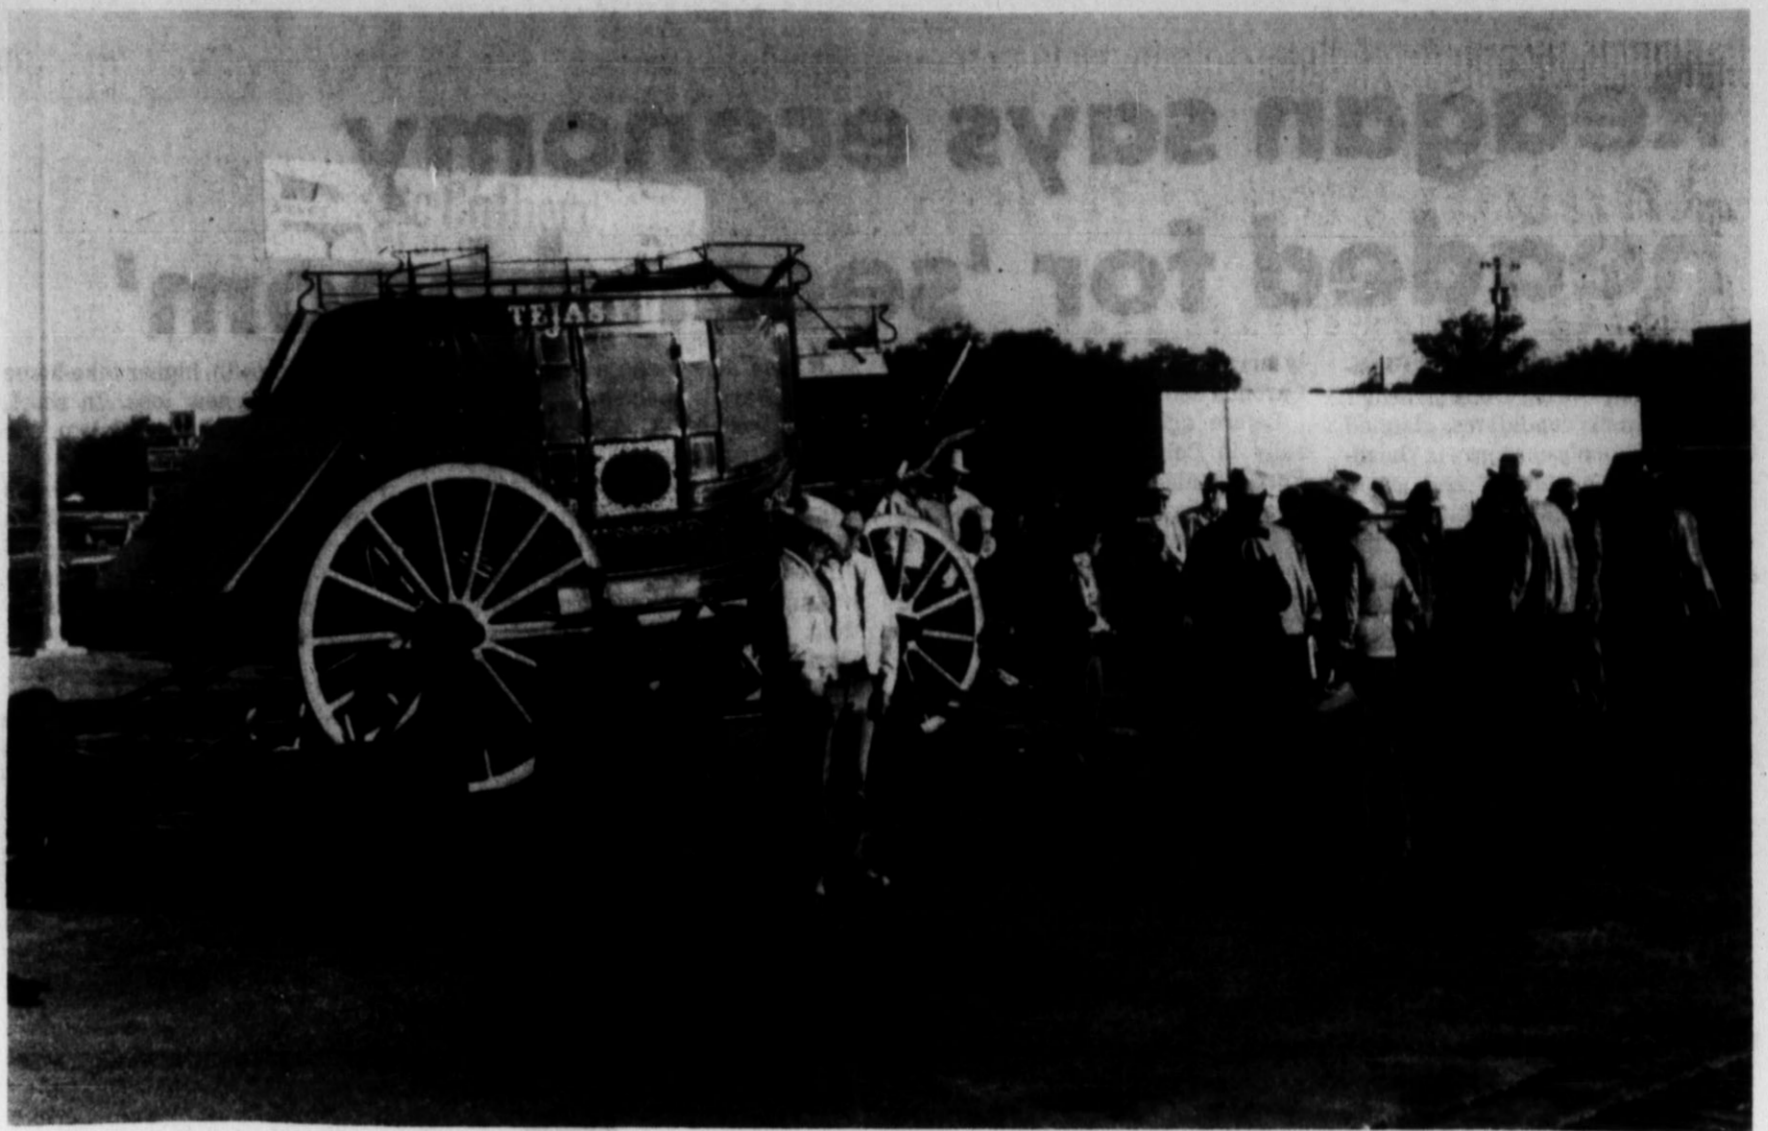

The gunmen opened fire on an outdoor congregation offering prayers prior to Diwali, India's major Hindu festival, police said. The attack took place in village Dharmkot Bagga in north Punjab and the killers escaped on foot.

Sikh extremists also assassinated an elderly Sikh leader of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi's governing Congress Party on Tuesday.

The slain leader, Sewa Singh Bhinder, was gunned down by two assailants on bicycles as he came out of his home to take a morning walk, District Police Superintendent J.P. Birdi said.

Both the terrorist attacks occurred in Gurdaspur district, north of Amritsar, the Sikh holy city.

The attacks followed the weekend terrorist slayings of seven civilians that triggered a brief anti-Sikh riot by Hindus in New Delhi on Sunday. It was followed by a general protest strike Monday in Punjab state, where Hindus and Sikhs clashed in Hoshiarpur city.

Reagan signs drug measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan and Sen. Paula Hawkins are two of the driving forces behind America's changing attitude toward drug abuse, says President Reagan, who signed a tough new anti-drug bill into law at a White House ceremony.

Reagan was surrounded by senators and representatives Monday as he signed the $1.7 billion measure, which doubles the federal budget for chasing drug dealers and smugglers and stiffens penalties for traffickers.

Even though the measure was born of a strong bipartisan effort on Capitol Hill, Republicans outnumbered Democrats on the White House attendance list, and Reagan took the opportunity to single out Sen. Paula Hawkins as being the "driving force" behind the anti-drug abuse effort.

The Florida Republican is locked in a tough battle against popular Democratic Gov. Bob Graham and she has made her anti-drug efforts a hallmark of her campaign. Graham has stressed that his own tough law-and-order background has been as strong as his opponent's.

Reagan has traveled three times to Florida to aid Mrs. Hawkins' reelection campaign, one of the seats needed to keep GOP control of the Senate. On a visit last Friday, Reagan lambasted "the liberals," whom he accused of jumping on the anti-drug bandwagon after Mrs. Hawkins took up the cause.

Using the glittering East Room ceremony as a backdrop, the president praised Mrs. Hawkins and his wife, Nancy, for making a commitment to fighting drugs "long before it was the popular thing to do."

Grieving is normal

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am ashamed of myself and need some advice. Six weeks ago, my beloved friend "Buddy" died of cancer. I can't seem to get myself together.

Don't tell me "time is a great healer" or "family and friends will help you." More burn advice: "Take a trip or become involved in volunteer work." None of this worked for me because Buddy was my dog.

Everyone I have talked to says, "What's the matter with you anyway? With all the terrible things that are happening to PEOPLE, you can't stop blubbering because your dog died?" Honestly, Ann, I can't help it. Every time I come home from work I expect Buddy to greet me at the door and I start to cry.

Am I crazy? Have you ever heard of this before? Is there anywhere I can go to get help? -SICK-AT-HEART GUY IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SAN DIEGO: No, you aren't crazy, you've lost a dear friend and it's okay to grieve. Run, don't walk to the nearest dog pound and get yourself another dog. There are dozens of homeless mutts out there waiting for a guy like you to come and rescue them. I promise you'll be glad you did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three months ago my husband was diagnosed. It's Alzheimer's. He is 75, I am 70. I have read all the literature and am prepared to do the very best I can. The experts have covered it all pretty well but maybe you can help by printing this letter.

Tell your readers if they have a sweet friend who suddenly becomes abusive and insulting, it is human nature to avoid him.

But when you find out he is sick (Alzheimer's), please remember the good things he has done in his life and try to be understanding. There are 3 million people in this country who are victims of this terrible disease. Most of them suffer from isolation and need the companionship more than ever. You can tell the story far better, Ann. Please do it. -ENGULFED IN SADNESS (ILLINOIS)

DEAR ILLINOIS: You told it very well, but I add this: Please give some thought to the spouse who is "caretaker." Give that person some relief. She (or he) needs a few hours away from the patient. How about dinner and a movie? It would be a godsend.

POLLY'S POINTERS Easy threading with candle wax

DEAR POLLY - Cassette-tape cabinets and cases are good organizers for decks of playing cards. Dust Christmas wreaths with a soft-bristle paint brush.

DEAR POLLY - If you're trying to thread a needle with thread that splits badly, draw the end of the thread through candle wax, beeswax or any other kind of wax. The thread will then slip through the eye of the needle very easily. - S.R.

Up Goes Jeanette

Jeanette Mumau (30) begins to leap up for a spike during last Saturday's varsity volleyball match between Hereford and Pampa. Hereford suffered a 15-7, 15-4 District 1-4A loss to Pampa. Other

HHS spikers lose to Pampa

Hereford High School's volleyball teams had a tough afternoon Saturday when they lost to the visiting Pampa teams.

In matches played at the La Plata Junior High School gym, Pampa defeated Hereford in the varsity match, 15-7, 15-4, and Pampa won over Hereford in the junior varsity match, 15-6, 15-8.

The HHS varsity is 2-8 in District 1-4A matches and 2-17 overall, and the Hereford junior varsity has a 2-14 record.

Hereford plays at Levelland tonight, with the junior varsity match at 6:30 and the varsity match 20 minutes after the junior varsity match ends.

On Saturday, Hereford closes out the 1986 season at home in matches against Borger. Match time for the junior varsity match is 2 p.m., and the varsity match will be played after the junior varsity match.

A dink by Darla Newton gave Hereford a 1-0 lead in game one of the varsity match, with Hereford later leading 3-0 and 4-1. Pampa tied up the game at 4-4 and then held leads of 7-4, 9-5 and 10-6 in winning game one, 15-7.

Kamille Martin had a service ace in the game, and also gave Hereford a side out with a dink.

Hereford again gained an early lead, 2-0 in game two. After Pampa scored a point, a kill by Jeanette Mumau brought the service possession back to Hereford.

Hereford failed to score in that possession, but got it back without Pampa scoring any points. A kill by setter Tricia Kahlich was achieved for that HHS side out.

Pampa tied the game at 2-2 before Hereford went back into the lead by two points, 4-2. But that was all the scoring Hereford would do in the game, as Pampa rolled to a 15-4 victory and match win.

Wisty Mars hit a dink for a side out, and Shea McGinty recorded a kill for a side out.

Boston Red Sox fans must 'wait till next year' again

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — People waited all season for the Boston Red Sox to lose. When they finally did, they insisted it was the work of the New York Mets, not some supernatural force.

"Every team made a run at us and we held them all off," said Bruce Hurst, the left-hander whom Manager John McNamara had entrusted the Red Sox' fate in Game 7

Monday night. "But whoever invented 90 feet between bases and three outs an inning knew what he was doing. We never could get that third out."

Thus, the 1986 Red Sox go down in history with other seventh-game failures in 1946, '67 and '75.

Nevertheless, Hurst insisted that all other failures in Boston history didn't count Monday night.

"What happened in the past, doesn't have any bearing on what happened today."

"All we had to do was get 27 outs," he said. "History is great to learn from, but all that matters is what we have in front of us."

"During the season nobody ever thought we'd come this far. This team showed a lot of character. Winning the World Series would have been a great honor. I'd trade anything for a world championship, but it wasn't meant to be. We had our chance, but it didn't work out."

The Red Sox saw their first Series championship since 1918 virtually ripped from their grasp by the Mets.

After their dramatic comeback for a 6-5 victory in 10 innings in Game 6, the Mets rallied again for an 8-5 win and the championship.

In Game 6, Boston was within one strike of the championship before the Mets tied the score on a wild pitch and then won on a fielding error by first baseman Bill Buckner.

Rested after Game 7 was postponed by rain Sunday, the Red Sox jumped to a 3-0 lead in the one-game showdown for the championship.

Hurst, starting for just the second time this year on three days' rest, allowed only one hit for five innings. Then, arm-weary, he tired as the Mets tied it 3-3 in the sixth. New York added three more runs in the seventh and two in the eighth as the Boston bullpen failed.

Wade Boggs, the American League batting champion for three of the last four years, sat in the Boston dugout and wept for several minutes after the loss.

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, replaced by Hurst as the seventh-game starter after the rainout, wept while sitting in front of his locker.

For the most part, though, the Red Sox accepted the disappointing ending with heads held high.

"There's nothing to be sorry about — it was a great Series," Buckner said.

"We gave it a good shot and came up short," slugger Jim Rice said. "Those guys hit the ball when they had to."

Calvin Schiraldi, who became a reliever this year and came up from the minors in the second half of the season, was the losing pitcher in both Games 6 and 7.

"I couldn't hold the lead the other night and I couldn't do anything tonight," Schiraldi said. "We didn't get the good with the bad. I thought we took the bad the other night and we'd get the good tonight, but it didn't work out that way."

Boston Manager John McNamara praised the Mets, but noted, "We let them get off the floor." He cited the four runs scored by New York in the first inning of Game 3 in Boston as giving "them back some confidence."

"But the turning point," McNamara said, "was Saturday night. With two outs, they win. That was tough."

Stanton teams close out 1986 volleyball season

Volleyball season ended last week for two Stanton Junior High School teams.

The Stanton eighth and ninth grade teams played in the Clovis Tournament.

On Thursday, each team opened tournament play against Marshall. The ninth grade lost to Marshall 15-8, 15-2, and the eighth grade lost 15-8, 15-14.

The losses put Stanton in consolation bracket matches Friday against La Plata. Instead of traveling to Clovis to play Friday, Stanton and La Plata stayed home in Hereford and played the matches.

Stanton was eliminated from the tournament by La Plata. Scores were 15-2, 15-5 in the ninth grade match and 15-0, 15-12 in the eighth grade match.

Both the Stanton eighth and ninth grade teams finished the season with 0-7 records.

Mets turn out as good as they said they were

By HARRY ATKINS
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, it turns out, were as good as they said they were.

After their 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the seventh and final game of the World Series Monday night, no one can doubt the Mets were truly the best team in baseball in 1986.

From the first day of spring training, the Mets considered this championship their destiny.

They said so, even though the rest of baseball hated them for it, called them arrogant.

"We went out there and proved we were as good as we felt we could be," said right-fielder Darryl Strawberry, who batted only .200 with no RBI in the first six games, but hit a towering solo homer in the eighth inning of Game 7. "It was because we went out there and did things right."

"From the start of spring training, we believed in this team. This was destined. There's no doubt about it in my mind. This was a dream come true," he said.

Manager Davey Johnson even sounded a warning to the rest of baseball, suggesting his club has the makings of a dynasty.

"When you win 116 games in a year, you are a good ballclub," Johnson said. "We will get better. This Series taught us a lot. A lot of our guys will get better for it."

"We had the best record in baseball. We should be champions. Boston is a great team, but the good guys got it. This is what we were sweating for."

It was the second World Series championship in the Mets' 25-year history, their first since 1969, and capped a dramatic turnaround from their last-place finishes in 1982 and 1983.

"This has to be, in my mind, the greatest Mets team of all time," first baseman Keith Hernandez said as he dodged sprays of champagne in the joyous clubhouse. "It's better than the 1969 team. This team did everything it said it was going to do." Hernandez, who hit .231 in the Series, drove in three runs in the Game 7 triumph to finish with four RBI.

"I think we accomplished all our goals," he said. "We're the world champs."

Veteran outfielder Mookie Wilson said the team's key to success was never giving up.

"They are the loosest bunch of guys I've ever seen," he said. "Some people call it arrogant. I call it amazing."

"Everyone says you are not supposed to come back like we did in a playoff and World Series, but this club doesn't fit the mold. We have a bunch of fruit cakes, psychos and crazies that can all play baseball."

"The makeup of this club is that we never say die, as you just saw."

The victory was especially sweet for catcher Gary Carter, who toiled in the big leagues for 13 years before finally playing on a championship team.

"There was no giving up," said Carter, whose two home runs over the Green Monster in Fenway Park powered the Mets to a 6-2 victory in Game 4 and evened the Series at 2-2.

"It was just meant to be," Carter said. "I don't have adjectives enough to explain it."

Ron Darling, who lasted just 3 2-3 innings Monday night while giving up three runs in his Series' third start, said the Mets were never intended to lose.

"We were destined to win after finishing second the last two years," Darling said. "Somehow, some way, we got it done."

Special Olympics bowlers qualify for state tourney

Athletes from the Hereford Satellite Center competed in the Area 16 Texas Special Olympics bowling tournament in Amarillo last Saturday.

This Friday, the athletes will participate in a bowl-a-thon in Canyon, to earn funds for a trip to the state tournament.

The state tournament is scheduled in Dallas on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21-22 at the Don Carter West bowling alleys.

Hereford athletes who placed in the Area 16 competition were: Karen Shore, first; Trudy Brown, Travis Johnson, Roger Garcia, Jessie Galan, and Mitch Merritt, each with second place finishes; Mary Brown, Royce Legate, and Kip Redwine, each with fourth place finishes; Dale Brownlow, Tonie Dominguez, and Jerry Hall, each with sixth place finishes; and Joe Brown, sixth place.

Athletes must participate in an area tournament to qualify for the state tournament.

Janie Maldonado of the Hereford Satellite Center said, "If you would like to make a donation for Special Olympics, you can send it to Hereford Chapter, Texas Special Olympics, P.O. Box 1834, Hereford, TX, 79045." Or, she adds, she may be contacted at 364-5861, or call Kay Redwine at 364-0893 or Bill Shore at 364-4148.

La Plata 9th spikers win tourney consolation

La Plata Junior High School's ninth grade volleyball team won the consolation title in the Clovis, N.M., tournament last weekend.

La Plata split a pair of close games with Gattis of Clovis, leading to a third game in the consolation match. La Plata won game one, 16-14, and Gattis won game two, 18-16.

La Plata then scored a 15-8 victory in game three for a match victory.

The La Plata eighth grade volleyball team also played in a consolation match, but lost to Gattis 15-11, 15-11.

Both La Plata teams opened the tournament on Thursday with losses to Melrose, N.M. Melrose beat La Plata in the ninth grade match, 12-15, 15-13, 15-1, and won over La Plata in the eighth grade match, 15-1, 15-4.

The way the Thursday competition went, La Plata and Stanton Junior High School were matched up for Friday's competition in the tournament in both the eighth and ninth grade divisions.

Rather than travel to Clovis to play each other, La Plata and Stanton just played in Hereford.

La Plata won both matches—15-2, 15-5 in the ninth grade match, and 15-0, 15-12 in the eighth grade match.

The tournament was the last competition of the season for the La Plata teams. The ninth grade Mavs finished the season with a 6-1 record, and the eighth grade team finished at 3-4.

HHS harriers run in Midland meet

Hereford High School's cross country teams will run in the District 1-4A meet on Saturday in Lubbock, and the top two teams and top five individuals qualify for the regional meet.

Last Saturday, the HHS girls' team placed fourth in the Midland Invitational Meet, and the Hereford boys' team placed seventh.

Nancy Garza and Alina Benitez of Hereford both finished in the top 10 of the varsity girls' race. Garza was fourth in 10:25, and Benitez placed sixth in 10:40.

"The course was shortened a little because of heavy rain early Saturday, so the times seem a little fast for two miles," Hereford Coach Martha Emerson said about the girls' race.

Other placings and times for Hereford in the varsity girls' run were: Carolyn Rieves, 19th, 11:21; JoAnn Tohm, 29th, 11:54; and Elia Hernandez, 39th, 12:27.

Hereford's team score was 90. Teams finishing ahead of Hereford, and their scores, were: Lubbock Monterey, 62; Lubbock Coronado, 78; and Abilene High, 80.

Other team scores were: San Angelo Central, 100; Lubbock High, 121; Abilene Cooper, 158; Big Spring, 164; and Odessa Permian, 206.

The HHS varsity boys' team, in placing seventh, finished just behind fifth place Andrews and sixth place Midland High. Scores for those three teams were: Andrews, 130; Midland High, 133; and Hereford, 134.

Levelland won the boys' race with a team score of 78. Midland Lee was second at 96, Lubbock Monterey third with a score of 96, and San Angelo Central was fourth at 118.

The other team scores were: Odessa Permian, 171; Abilene Cooper, 212; Frenship, 220; Sweetwater, 234.

Benny Carrasco placed 12th for the highest finish for Hereford. His time was 15:34.

Hereford High School had three pairs of runners close together in the race. Ishmael Castillo was 28th in 16:08, and Manuel Diaz was 29th in 16:11.

John Cordova placed 41st in 16:27, and in 44th place was Craig Waddell in a time of 16:35.

The other pair of runners finishing close together were Herman Nava and Arturo Martinez. Nava was 51st in 17:02, and Martinez was 56th in 17:06.

"This was a good meet for us to run to prepare for the district meet," Coach Emerson said. "The district will be an outstanding race."

"Levelland probably has the lead but Hereford and Canyon will be in the race, and possibly Dumas."

The Region I meet is scheduled on Saturday, Nov. 8 in Lubbock. The top two teams and top five individuals qualify for the state meet in Georgetown on Saturday, Nov. 15.

Ray Knight is World Series MVP

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Ray Knight left for spring training with the New York Mets last February, he took with him an encouraging word from his wife, champion golfer Nancy Lopez.

"She said, 'You can win the third base job,'" Knight recalled. "And what did he say?"

"I said, 'No way.'"

The man was just being realistic. Knight knew the Mets had tried hard all winter to trade him and the only reason he was still around was that General Manager Frank Cashen could find no takers for a 33-year-old infielder coming off two straight sub-par seasons.

Knight, however, had one important person in his corner. Manager Dave Johnson saw him as important, veteran stability for a mostly young Met team.

"He was always in my ear, always telling me how good he was," Johnson said. "He came to spring training in great shape. He had lost some weight and worked hard. You can tell a guy with tremendous desire, tremendous fight. The situation on my ballclub was such that Ray was instrumental in solidifying our team."

Knight started the season platooning at third base, but a sizzling April — six homers in the first nine games, a .333 average for the first 31 games — made him the everyday starter. Just as Nancy said.

He finished the season with a .298 batting average and was an important bat in the middle of the lineup. In the World Series, he became the most important bat.

Three hits, including a tie-breaking, seventh-inning home run in Monday night's 8-5 seventh-game victory, clinched the Series MVP award for Knight. He batted .391 with nine hits, five runs batted in and four runs scored.

Knight was in the middle of the dramatic 10th-inning Met rally that won Game 6, singling home one run and then scoring the winner. And he was the catalyst in Game 7 with a home run that put his team in front to stay.

"I've come a long way," he said, as he claimed his MVP trophy, "but a bunch of guys deserve this thing.

"I'm a positive thinker, but the last two years there was nothing to think I would be an integral part of this club."

Knight had come to the Mets from Houston for three young players at the end of the 1984 season. He had suffered from kidney stones and vertigo that year and finished with a .237 batting average.

He started 1985 on the disabled list after elbow surgery for bone chips and wound up appearing in only 90 games, hitting an almost invisible .218.

After that year, he was the longest of long shots to wind up as World Series MVP. "It shows hard work and diligence paid off," he said. "I thank Dave Johnson. It's unbelievable that I'm up here now."

The irony of Knight's MVP performance was that it made a loser of the man who gave him his first full-time job in the majors, Boston Manager John McNamara.

"He's one of the people I respect in this game," Knight said. "I told him I love him. But only one can be a winner. He was the first manager to play me every day in Cincinnati. He just told me, 'You're my third baseman, now just go out and do the job.'"

Unfortunately for McNamara, that's just what Knight did in the World Series.

James Hillwig wins Brand football contest

James Hillwig missed just three games in last week's Brand football contest to come out in first place.

Hillwig is the winner of the first place prize of 25 Deaf Smith County Bucks.

The use of the tie-breaker was necessary in deciding the second and third place prizes. Four contest entrants tied with four misses each.

Roy Herrera predicted the Hereford-Canyon District 1-4A game exactly to claim the second place prize of 15 Deaf Smith County Bucks. Hereford defeated Canyon 14-10.

Larry Brodgon was three points off in the tie-breaker, good enough to win the third place prize of 10 Deaf Smith County Bucks. Brodgon predicted Hereford to defeat Canyon 14-13.

The others who missed four games each were Curtis Richie and W.B. Dowell. Richie predicted Hereford to beat Canyon 21-7, and Dowell predicted that Hereford would win 21-10 over Canyon.

Five people missed five games each. They were Paul Page, Gladys Cavness, Danny Jones, W.H. Kitchens, and Quintin Gilliam.

Twenty-seven other entrants missed six games each. There were 144 entries in last week's contest.

See the football pages in today's issue of the Brand for this week's football contest games. Prizes must be claimed within five working days or else the prizes will become null and void.

Accent on Health

At a time when more Americans than ever before are breaking the cigarette habit, an alarming number of young people are turning to "smokeless tobacco," according to the Texas Department of Health (TDH). The long-term effects of this trend, health officials say, is expected to be a dramatic increase in the incidence of oral cancer, dental problems, and other serious health conditions.

The upsurge in popularity of snuff and chewing tobacco use follows a period when it steadily lost its public appeal. From 1944 to 1968, smokeless tobacco production declined by more than 38 percent. However, tobacco companies regained 36 percent of their lost production between 1970 and 1985.

Ron Todd, Program Coordinator, of the TDH Office of Smoking and Health, explained that research shows long-term users are at increased risk of developing oral cancer, and usually suffer receding gums. As their gums recede, users develop tooth decay, or teeth loosen without the support of surrounding gums.

A 1983 survey of 5,392 Texas school children who use chewing tobacco or snuff revealed that about 55 percent began regular use before age 13, and 88 percent had developed the habit by age 15. A national survey shows the average age when users first try smokeless tobacco is less than 11. Commissioner of Health, Dr.

Robert Bernstein said, "One of the most disturbing factors in the available statistics is that children in increasing numbers seem to believe that smokeless tobacco is not harmful. Being ignorant of the possible health threats of snuff and chewing tobacco, they're most susceptible to peer pressure and advertising promoting these products."

A recent national survey of smokeless tobacco users at the junior high level showed that six out of ten believed that there was little or no health risk associated with snuff and chewing tobacco. Among high school users, four out of 10 thought they were taking only a slight health risk. About 81 percent of the users said they thought smokeless tobacco was a safer alternative to cigarettes. Todd said the health risks associated with snuff and chewing tobacco were until recently overshadowed by "macho" advertising, primarily on television. "Since August, TV ads such as those featuring ex-athletes in western costumes in the great outdoors, have been banned from the airwaves as part of the Federal Comprehensive Smokeless Tobacco and Health Education Act," he said.

Congress passed the act in 1985, to become effective Aug. 28, 1986. Besides banning electronic media advertisements for smokeless tobacco, the act further requires warning labels on the products and in print advertisements, effective Feb. 28, 1987.

Cash register

According to The Second World Almanac Book of Inventions, the cash register was invented by James J. Ritty, an Ohio bar owner, on Nov. 4, 1879. During a boat trip to Europe he noticed a machine that registered the number of times the propeller turned, and he applied the same principle to invent the cash register. It served as a printing-adding machine as well as a till.

A SHOCKING THING

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — It may come as a shock to many new car buyers, but shock absorbers are not considered "a lifetime part" by automobile makers.

They must be replaced periodically, according to National Car Rental, which regularly performs a "bounce test" on its fleet of 110,000 cars in the U.S.

"Anyone can do the test," says a National spokesman. "Press down firmly on the fender and bounce the car up and down. When you stop bouncing, the car should stop, too. If the car keeps bouncing, chances are your shock absorbers are worn and need replacing."

Inventions always bolstered dreams

BOSTON (AP) — They were the days when some people believed X-rays might be used to cure broken hearts or to actually view someone's thoughts.

They were the days when industrial chemistry was applauded for creating the potential for "Plastic Man" who could live in a world "free from moth and rust and full of color" and promise.

They were the days when writers imagined escalator sidewalks, machines to control climate and pneumatic tubes that would deliver store goods right into individual homes.

Those heady days of modern American invention have been chronicled by 10 historians of technology in a new book edited by Joseph J. Corn, "Imagining Tomorrow: History, Technology, and the American Future" (The MIT Press, $17.50).

Corn, a lecturer in values, technology and science and society at Stamford University, wrote the introduction and compiled the individual chapters and essays.

The essays deal with reactions to some of the major inventions of the last 100 years, including the automobile, radio, X-rays, nuclear energy, plastics and the electric light.

By culling popular science and general circulation magazines, the authors tell of a time when writing about science meant seeing technological breakthroughs as additional steps toward a utopian world.

Some of the reactions and predictions are funny, some are sad and a few turned out to be appropriate.

X-rays, for example, were heralded as the means to cure almost every ill, although the announcement of the technique also prompted one firm to advertise protective lead underwear for women.

Some utility companies were so taken by the electric light that they promoted their services through "electric girl" hostesses adorned with filament lamps.

There were outrages, such as the heated opposition to talk of using electric lights to advertise on clouds.

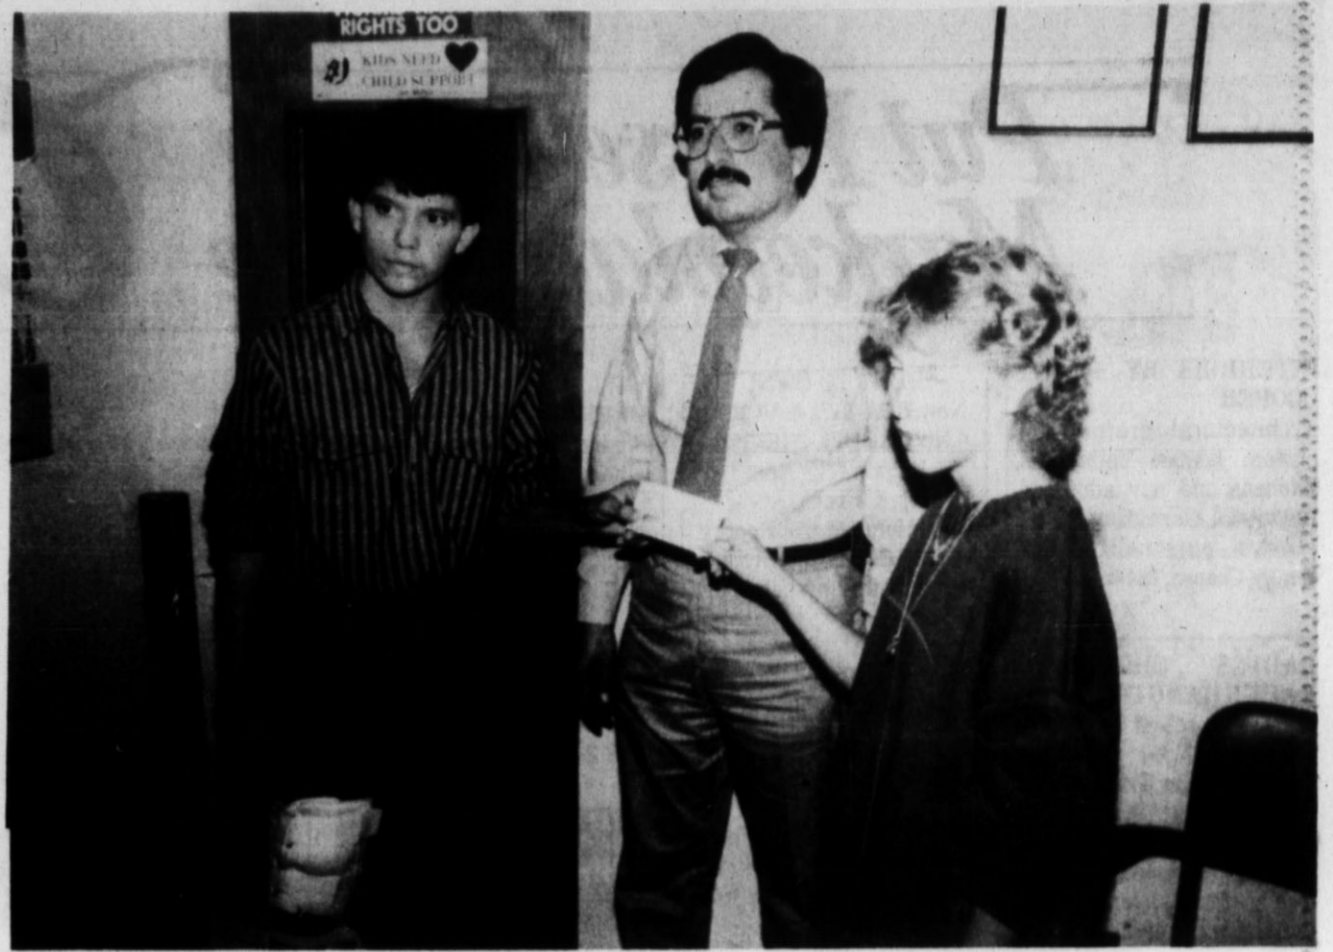

And there were high points of consumerism: the rejection of mass-produced houses; the quick acceptance and use of radio by amateur operators who set the stage for commercial broadcasting before being banished by regulation to the short waves; and the desire to have natural goods replace the plastics that proliferated throughout the world during World War II.

Throughout this history of technology, the writers reflect an abiding faith in progress.

The idea that atomic blasts could be put to good use lasted from 1957 until 1970, during which time millions were spent planning a Panatomic Canal — a new canal across Panama that would be built through nuclear explosions.

It all makes for an important adjunct to general history, enjoyable reading and a strong reminder of a tendency to embrace too quickly the technological fix.

As Corn says in his epilogue: "As we anxiously ponder our destiny on the eve of the 21st century, striving to understand and manage technologies of fearful complexity and danger, an understanding of how people in the past thought about technology and the future may provide useful insights and even a modicum of humility."

DR. GOTT — Treatment of thyroid problem

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is surgery or radioactive iodine the preferred treatment for hyperthyroidism?

DEAR READER — That depends on the age of the patient, as well as on other medical factors.

Hyperthyroidism (overactive thyroid gland) causes nervousness, weight loss, increased sweating and appetite, rapid pulse and — sometimes — prominent eyes. The disease is easily treated with medicine. In certain circumstances, however, surgery or radioactive iodine are preferred. Surgery is usually curative, but requires anesthesia and leaves a scar on the neck. Radioactive therapy is not ordinarily administered to younger patients, particularly women in the reproductive years. Both radioactive therapy and surgery can produce hypothyroidism (underactive thyroid gland).

—As a general rule, I prefer drug treatment to either of the other two options.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Last year my husband had surgery for abdominal aortic aneurysm. Since then he has had retrograde ejaculation. The vascular surgeon said it might be a temporary condition, but said that even if it was permanent, there would be no difference to my husband. Fat lot he knows! Why did this happen, and can it be corrected?

DEAR READER — Retrograde ejaculation is common after any type of operation that injures the nerves that direct ejaculation, including aortic and prostatic surgery. In retrograde ejaculation, a man's semen is ejected into the bladder instead of in the usual direction. The condition causes sterility but usually does not interfere with sexual arousal or satisfaction. It is not correctable.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The last time I had a Papsmear, the doctor said I had leukoplakia of the vulva. Would you please explain this term? I have areas of depigmentation on my hands and arms, but never thought of it as cancer.

DEAR READER — Leukoplakia is a smooth, pearly-white, filmy skin lesion that is considered to be precancerous. It can occur in the genital tract, in the mouth and on the tongue. The mouth and tongue versions are more common in smokers. The le-sions must be watched; if they grow or change, excisional biopsy is required. The white patches you have on the exposed surfaces of your skin probably are not related to leukoplakia.

Beef Stroganoff

When the occasion calls for something elegant, this modified beef stroganoff fits the bill.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|------------------------|
| 1 lb. lean beef round | 2 cups beef broth* |
| freshly ground black pepper | 2 tbsp. tomato paste* |
| 1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced | 1 tsp. dry mustard |
| onion, sliced | 1/4 tsp. oregano |
| 3 tbsp. oil | 1/4 tsp. dill weed |
| 3 tbsp. flour | 2 tbsp. sherry |
| | 1/3 cup low-fat yogurt |

Remove all visible fat from the meat and cut into thin strips, about 2 inches long. Sprinkle with pepper and let stand in a cool place for 2 hours.

In a heavy skillet, saute mushrooms in oil until tender. Remove from skillet, and saute onions in the same oil until brown. Remove from skillet.

Brown meat quickly on all sides until rare. Remove and set aside. Blend the flour into the oil in the skillet and gradually add the broth, stirring constantly until smooth and slightly thick. Add the tomato paste, dry mustard, oregano, dill weed and sherry. Blend well. Combine the sauce with the meat, mushrooms and onions in the top of a double boiler. Cook for 20 minutes. Beat yogurt (to prevent it from curdling). Blend in the beaten yogurt 5 minutes before serving.

*Use unsalted or low-salt products to reduce sodium content.

Yield: 6 servings

REDUCE STRESS

ATLANTA (AP) — It is important for people with arthritis to learn to do everyday tasks in ways that reduce stress on joints affected by arthritis.

The Arthritis Foundation offers some tips to help people conserve energy and reduce stress to the joints when working in the kitchen.

- Store items close to where they are used and within easy reach. For example, keep pots by the stove.
- Keep appliances which are used frequently out on the counter.
- Use lightweight bakeware and disposable aluminum baking pans for ease in carrying and cleaning.
