Races will be decided Saturday

Local elections to decide city, school and hospital board seats will be held Saturday at the Hereford Community Center and polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Voters will have contested races on all three ballots, and absentee totals indicate the possibility of a large voter turnout. More than 590 absentee ballots were cast in the hospital board election, which is a countywide vote, and only slightly lower totals were recorded in the school and city elections.

Four places are up for vote on the city ballot, but only the mayoral position is contested. City Commissioner Tom LeGate and former Commissioner Paul Hamilton are vying for the mayor's seat after longtime Mayor Wes Fisher chose not to seek reelection. Sylvana Juarez, Place 1 incumbent, and James McDowell Jr., Place 3, are unopposed. Because of two resignations, there are four seats up for election on the school board and three are contested. Ron Weishaar is unopposed in District 1; incumbent Raymond Schlabs is challenged by Martha Rincon in District 3; Mike Veazey and William Gromowsky are seeking the District 4 position, and David Bone, Steve Wright and Joe Flood are candidates in District 5.

This election has drawn much interest due to controversial issues surrounding the operations of the hospital. Financial problems and the loss of local doctors have plagued the hospital in the past year.

The hospital board election has drawn five candidates in the at-large race for the three terms which expire.

Incumbents Raymond Schroeder and Ralph Detten are on the ballot along with Dr. Randal Vinther, Seletta Gholson and Mal Manchec.

Celebrating Cinco de Mayo

Bentsen wants Pantex safety

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says thousands of new jobs in the Panhandle created by expansion of the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant would be an economic coup for Texas, but not at the expense of the environment.

"If they decide to bring in these additional facilities, what you are going to see is a state-of-the-art facility with the utmost protection for the environment and safety," said Bentsen, who cautiously pledged his support for the Pantex expansion. "(Safety) is going to be a criteria that has to be there."

Pantex, the nation's only final assembly plant for nuclear bombs and missile warheads, is one of five sites under consideration to take over the plutonium-processing duties of the Department of Energy's Rocky Flats plant near Denver.

If DOE moves Rocky Flats' operations to Pantex as part of its reorganization of the nation's atomic weapons plants, the Amarillo area could gain between 2,500 and 10,000 new jobs.

Bentsen, who held a brief press conference at Pantex before being given a tour of the highly-classified plant Thursday, said he would meet with other Texas congressional members to muster support for expansion if safety can be assured.

The General Accounting Office said Monday that the plant has one of the worst occupational safety records in the Department of Energy's weapons complex.

GAO cited the plant for deficiencies in its radiation protection program and said two accidents resulting in workers being exposed to tritium and depleted uranium raise questions about the adequacy of Pantex's attention to safety and health.

Grand jury gets Commerce audit

AUSTIN (AP) - An attorney for the former executive director of the Texas Department of Commerce said he believes Bill Taylor can explain any alleged wrongdoing at the agency while it was under his control.

The agency Thursday was sharply criticized by Gov. Ann Richards and Comptroller John Sharp. They revealed results of a partial audit of the agency by the comptroller's office, which they said turned up waste, possible conflicts of interest and apparent misapplication of funds.

They blamed much of the problem on Taylor, who resigned from the four-year-old agency in February after 30 months at its helm. Several other top agency officials also stepped down.

"I think to draw an implication of dishonesty or immorality or anything like that is unfair. I think everything that he (Taylor) did there was done in the interest of promoting tourism in Texas, and not for his own self-interest or benefit," said Charles Burton, an Austin lawyer hired by Taylor.

"I'm very confident that Bill Taylor can offer a reasonable explanation for any of the apparent improprieties, and hopefully he will not have bent any rules or gone beyond what is the accepted way of doing things," Burton said.

The audit findings were turned over to a Travis County grand jury investigating Taylor and possible illegal activity at the agency, Sharp said.

"If you or any other taxpayer were to read this report, you would wonder why the hell you sent any money to Austin to begin with. It will make you sick at your stomach," he said.

Richards and Sharp accused the agency of disregarding state purchasing and competitive bidding rules and wasting state money "in outlandish and improper ways."

Among their examples: - A charge that Taylor knowingly misapplied federal funds, directed for use promoting Texas in the United Kingdom, to pay for a barbecue party in Texas for agency employees.

5 indicted in cattle thefts

A Castro County Grand Jury has indicted five Hereford residents in connection with the theft of cattle from Smith Feeders near Easter during December, 1990.

Eddie Cannon, Dan J. Simpson, Vickie Schultz Heintschel, Kristi DeAnn Jarrett and James W. Martin Jr. were named in the indictments.

Kenneth Chambers, investigator for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle

Raisers Association, announced the arrest of Cannon, 30, in March and said others were facing charges in the case. He said the group allegedly stole 15 head of cattle.

Chambers said the case came to light after two employees at the feed lot became involved in an argument and the details of the incidents were reported.

Money runs out for bee battlers

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - Officials fear that Africanized honey bees will get a free ride into the United States, now that state and federal agencies have run out of money to slow the invasion.

"We need to dig a ditch, and we haven't got a shovel," John Thomas, a member of the Texas Africanized Honey Bee Advisory Committee, said Thursday. "It's exceedingly frustrating."

Since the so-called killer bees were first spotted in Texas last October, officials had been surveying a two-mile radius of each trapping to make sure domestic hives were not Africanized and to destroy any wild swarms.

But funding for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's bee surveying program expired last weekend. Texas A&M University announced Thursday that without emergency money from the state it cannot afford to survey areas where Africanized swarms are found.

Thomas, an entomologist with A&M's Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the lack of funding will hasten the Africanized bee's permanent establishment in the United States.

Fifteen AHB swarms have been found along the Rio Grande from Brownsville to Laredo since last October, including 14 swarms found in the past three weeks.

Officials have stopped looking for more swarms, "because there is no money" to do so, said Dave Mayes, a spokesman for Texas A&M.

The Texas Apiary Inspection Service has only two inspectors to cover the entire state.

Gov. Ann Richards asked the Legislature in March for emergency funding for the Texas Africanized Honey Bee Management Plan. The House recommended $197,000 to last through August, but the Senate still had not acted on the measure Thursday.

Alaska rejects spill deal

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) - The Alaska House rejected a deal that would let Irving-based Exxon Corp. pay $900 million over 11 years to settle the nation's worst oil spill, proposing instead that the company pay $1.2 billion up front.

Gov. Walter J. Hickel isn't bound by the vote, but he has said he would terminate the settlement if the Legislature didn't approve it.

The action late Thursday came one week after a federal judge tossed out the settlement's criminal plea bargain. He said its $100 million fine for Exxon was inadequate punishment for the Exxon Valdez spill.

After more than five hours of debate, the House voted 27-13 to reject the pact agreed to by Exxon, the federal government and other state officials. All 23 Democrats and four of 17 Republicans voted to kill the settlement.

The Senate is to take up the settlement at a future date. But the House appeared unlikely to reverse itself even if the Senate votes in favor.

The House proposed that Exxon pay $700 million within one year - rather than $900 million over 11 years - plus a $500 million criminal fine.

Letters to the Editor

Candidates respond to EnCoRe letter

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the Letter to the Editor from the board of directors of EnCoRe.

I am totally in favor of recycling in Hereford and every community. The problems Hereford and every city in the country will have with waste management will be greatly helped with proper recycling. Any amount of trash that can be kept from entering the landfill will be a great help.

If elected or not, I along with every other citizen has to take a supportive role toward recycling. I myself have not done near as much as I could have to help the recycling programs, but I also know it's never too late to start.

The only seminars I have attended, which were sponsored by the Texas Municipal League, were targeted toward the landfill and EPA regulations. If elected, I will attend all meetings and seminars on this subject that I possibly can.

I believe at this point in time the actual collection of materials for recycling will have to be done by a recycling company. The City at this time, to my knowledge, does not have any equipment to handle these materials.

I would be very interested in looking at the possibility of a local recycling center. I have stated...that all my goals need citizen participation. This would be a citywide project. It is my hope that decisions effecting every citizen will not be made by the Mayor and City Commission only. If the taxpayers are ready to take the blame for the condition of the landfill, and take the responsibility to totally become involved in recycling, I will be behind it, the center, all the way.

I will be willing to do whatever needs to be done to keep our landfill in full operation. I would be in favor of allowing only citizens in our local surrounding area to use the landfill. I would also like to fine some way to re-open the incinerator. The laws that are good for Dallas, Fort Worth or Houston do not always fit Hereford, Texas.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County were born to be a great giant in the eyes of the whole country. It is everyone's job and responsibility to ensure that our environment and ground water supplies will not be damaged. There are very few occupations, if any, in our area that are not in some form or fashion linked to agriculture. Any economic development considered in this area will have to be suitable for maintaining the high standards of living that we are all accustomed to.

I would like to thank EnCoRe for the questions. I have tried to respond to each one of them to the best of my ability.

Paul Hamilton
Candidate for Mayor

Dear Editor:

Following is my response to the EnCoRe letter to the editor, should you choose to publish the information:

The city recently endorsed the concept of recycling. I voted for that endorsement because I think recycling can become an effective method of extending the life of our landfill operation. It is very important, however, that recycling produces cost effective results. That will depend on three major criteria--the quality of recycled products, marketability of the products, and competition with new products. As each of these areas improve, cost effectiveness will increase and the concept will become more acceptable.

As an elected official, I will continue to stay current on new developments in the area of recycling and waste management. Mayor Wes Fisher and City Manager Darwin McGill have served on the waste management task force, through Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC) since its inception. I will continue that relationship. I feel that the city's investment in the regional landfill study will prove to be very valuable. Furthermore, as more information becomes available...city as well as the community support will increase.

I have attended one seminar on waste management and it primarily addressed the EPA's inability to establish and agree upon concrete regulations regarding waste management and landfill operations. I determined that our region is progressing far more rapidly on the subject than most regions of the state. My willingness to participate in conferences, updates and seminars which are beneficial to this community, time permitting, will always be a priority.

The city does not currently have staffing capabilities to effectively handle collection of discarded materials for recycling. Budget restraints will naturally dictate the city's involvement in recycling. The idea of EnCoRe's embracement of recycling seems like an ideal approach to the initiation of the concept... As mayor, I would consider a local recycling center as a wise investment of taxpayers' money when it becomes economically feasible or, again, cost effective. At this point, I would caution that if insufficient planning prevails and a significant market does not exist for recyclable goods, we could set our efforts back indefinitely...

Definitely, I would prefer to keep our local landfill operational. The convenience of being able to stay local can surely not be disputed. However, under proposed EPA regulations, it appears that any community under 50,000 population will not be able to afford to keep a landfill operational. At this point, I can only hope that some reasonability will prevail when final landfill regulations are adopted.

I will oppose recruitment of any industry which is proven to be damaging to the health, safety or welfare of the citizens of our community. I would discourage high waste usage business from locating in Hereford. I hope that all of our citizens are concerned about preservation of the environment. I most certainly am.

Let me assure you that not just your mayor nor your city commission has the full responsibility for the direction of your city. It is the responsibility of each and every citizen in this community to assess your attitudes, organize your thoughts, and communicate your ideas to those who are elected to represent you.

Tom LeGate
Candidate for Mayor

Cettie seeks hospital support

Dear Editor:

In a successful county hospital, you see an active out-patient day surgery department, doctors who inter-refers patients and the community actively supporting the doctors and hospital by having the majority of their medical and surgical needs met locally.

The salary of the administrator, the doctors, the nurses and the rest of the staff at a county hospital are paid in part by the taxpayers of that county. In Hereford, we are currently paying 13.2 cents per $100 valuation, which netted the hospital district $612,480 in tax funds last year.

Therefore, the taxpayers have the responsibility to demand that the hospital provide the best quality medical care that can be given. Deaf Smith County General Hospital's out-patient day surgery is virtually inactive logging cases in the past year. A county hospital of this size should be at least double or quadruple that figure.

Some of the "local physicians" of Hereford, myself not included, have not or will not refer enough patients to the new doctors/specialists that come to our town. For instance, I have received less than 10 doctor referrals in the two years that I have been practicing here. It has been my experience that the doctors try to treat the problems themselves or they refer their patients to a hospital or doctor in Amarillo. Hereford has lost seven doctors in the past four years, is wasting tax dollars and is subsidizing

Potter and Randall counties' hospitals and economy.

Seventy percent of the Deaf Smith county population either has medical insurance or are financially able to pay for medical care--this statistic has remained unchanged for decades. A relatively recent change has been occurring though, a significant number of patients who go to DSGH are in the 30 percent poverty level with the paying patients seeking medical attention outside the county, either on their own or via a doctor referral. Our local businesses expect to be patronized, why should our hospital expect less? If the taxpaying citizens of Hereford want to throw their hard-earned money away, I have some prime swamp land in Florida for sale.

The people of Hereford must reject the proposal of doubling our hospital tax, especially when most of those paying the taxes aren't benefiting from them.

We as concerned citizens must keep our county hospital to insure quality health care for its citizens and to insure the future economic development and viability of our county. Simply put, this means we must support and use our hospital. We must also demand the necessary changes in our hospital and from our doctors so that we can once again boast about our fine DSGH, the doctors and the functions they serve to us and the community.

Dr. Grant E. Cettie, D.P.M.
A concerned local physician

'Dallas' limping into TV sunset

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The series that made television history will be history as of tonight.

After 13 seasons, "Dallas" limps into the sunset on CBS with a two-hour finale and a fraction of the popularity that transformed a Texas soap opera into the world's most talked about television show.

In its boom days, the saga of lust and treachery amid oil rigs and sprawling cattle ranches was America's No. 1 prime-time show.

Viewers in 85 countries considered "Dallas" a more valued American export than blue jeans. In 1980, Turkey recessed Parliament so representatives could find out who shot J.R.

Over the years ratings plummeted; cast members quit; story lines grew old and just plain preposterous - the infamous 1986 shower scene in which Bobby rose from the dead created an outcry from critics and viewers that it ranked as a new low in lame plot developments.

But all those rich Ewings down on the Southfork range left an indelible mark on TV history, with all their fussin' and feudin' and lyin' and dyin' and sleeping with half the population of the Lone Star state.

Viewers around the globe were obsessed with patriarch Jock Ewing (played by Jim Davis, who died in 1981) and matriarch Miss Ellie (played by Barbara Bel Geddes except during the 1984-85 season when Donna Reed filled the role).

Each week, evil son and oil magnate J.R. (Larry Hagman) and handsome and scrupulous younger brother Bobby (Patrick Duffy) sat down to dinner with cousins, wives and siblings at Southfork.

The series took cliffhanger endings to new heights, created one spinoff (the still-running "Knots Landing") and spawned nighttime imitators including "Dynasty," "Flamingo Road" and "Secrets of Midland Heights."

The "Who shot J.R.?" episode created so much speculation that the Nevada Gaming Control Board halted Las Vegas betting. It also ranks as the second-most popular show in TV history (behind the last episode of "M-A-S-H").

They were selected by a panel of judges including WTSU students, a high school cheerleading sponsor, a former WTSU cheerleader and an athletic department representative. AHA suggests a memorial tribute for Memorial Day

With Memorial Day approaching, the American Heart Association (AHA) reminds Deaf Smith County residents of the opportunity to honor and remember loved ones, friends, and associates through a gift to the AHA's memorial program. Memorial contributions represent a good portion of the American Heart Association's fundraising income, making them a vital part of the association's efforts to support the excellent heart research, education and community service programs of the AHA.

While honoring family and friends, memorial contributors strengthen the AHA's fight to reduce death and disability due to cardiovascular disease and stroke. Heart attack and stroke annually account for nearly half of all deaths in the Panhandle and in the nation, making cardiovascular disease the number one killer.

Memorial Chairman, Charlene Sanders, says that the memorial program gives people a meaningful way to honor the memory of family and friends while supporting the important work of the AHA. She adds that Memorial Day is a special opportunity to make such a gift. A Hereford resident, Sanders has enjoyed her volunteer job as Memorial Chairman for two years, saying it gives her a chance to help the community, the AHA, and her neighbors.

Sanders not only volunteers her time for AHA but is an officer at Hereford State Bank and stays busy keeping up with her husband Ed, and two children, Lori, 17 and Stacey 15. They are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church and enjoy being involved with the Catholic Youth program. Sanders work is greatly appreciated by the AHA, as she is continuing to help memorial donations become "gifts of life" for others.

Memorial contributions made to the AHA are carefully handled based on the purpose of each gift. Memorial donations are not only to honor the deceased, but also to acknowledge wedding anniversaries, birthdays, illness, or other occasions. Upon receipt of a memorial donation, Sanders sends an appropriate card to the recipient of the donor's choice. Included with the card is a thank you which the recipient may then mail back to the donor to acknowledge his or her thoughtfulness.

To make a memorial contribution to the AHA in Deaf Smith County, please include the following information with your donation: name and address of donor, name and address of recipient, and name of person being honored. Contributions should be mailed to the Hereford State Bank, P.O. Box 272, Hereford, Texas 79045. For more information about the AHA's work in Deaf Smith County call 806-374-8291.

The Confirmands are invited to meet at the church at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the Sears/church parking lot for an evening of bowling and pizza. Each person is to bring $2. The activities will conclude at 7:30 p.m.

A special offering will be taken Sunday during the worship service to support the work of the Golden Cross Fund. The Golden Cross program promotes the work of the health and welfare ministries and collect funds and provide care for the sick, with special emphasis being given to provide direct financial assistance to persons unable to pay for the cost of care. The Golden Cross Fund at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock is supported by members of the local churches of Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The newly organized Children's Council of FUMC will meet Monday, May 6, at 7 p.m. The council agenda will include VBS and Summer Sunday School, along with a vision for the fall and what Children's Ministry will include.

FUMC Men's softball team will be facing their first opponent the week of May 6 at the Nazarene Church ballfield. Though all the men are experienced players, fan support is requested to insure victory after victory. New players are always welcome.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading your column for a very long time and have learned a lot from you although I'm almost old enough to be your father.

I know you like to encourage people to be affectionate and loving even though they are in the sunset of their lives and you have even pointed out that it is physically healthy to do so. I believe you are right and that is why I am sharing this with your and your millions of readers. And now for a bit of history.

I was 25, and "Della" was 20, a good-looking, tall, well-built girl, and also my neighbor. We flirted a bit but that was as far as we went. To be perfectly honest, Ann, I lusted for her, but I kept my feelings a secret. You see, her brothers were pals of mine and in those days when you ran around with a girl's brother, she was considered off-limits.

The years moved on and we both were married to others. I decided that my future was in California and Della remained in the Midwest.

A few years ago, Della sent me a clipping from the hometown paper. We exchanged notes that Christmas. I told her that I had lost two wives to cancer. Last December, Della wrote to say her husband had died. I wrote back and told her I had this very special yearning for her that went back to my youth. She replied, "The yearning is mutual." I told her that even though I am 85, I'm still ready, willing and able. She replied, "I am, too!"

Well, Ann, I am going to visit Della this summer and am very excited about it. Any advice? -- Looking Forward in California

DEAR CALIF.: You don't need any advice. Sounds as if you're doing fine. Please drop a line and let us know how the reunion went. A flame that can burn for 60 years sounds pretty darned spectacular.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the loving and devoted wife of a man who was recently promoted. Now he must travel four days a week. "Brad" and I have a wonderful marriage. The problem started almost the first week he had to go out of town.

Brad's parents warned him that I would cheat on him. He resented their remarks but being a soft-spoken person, he didn't get his point across very well. Since Brad has been on the road, my in-laws have kept very close tabs on me. Last week they openly accused me of cheating with Brad's brother.

I believe most of the problem stems from their jealousy of our wonderful marriage. They become very upset when they invite us for dinner and we have already made plans with Brad's brother and his wife. My husband says I should ignore their digs, but these mean comments are eating away at what is left of my already-shaky relationship with my in-laws. Any suggestions?

Please don't print the name of my hometown. It's a small one and there would be no doubt about who wrote this letter. -- Embattled Woman

DEAR WOMAN: "She who excuses herself accuses herself." Make no denials or defensive statements. Be calm, confident and steadfast. Time is your staunchest ally.

Gem of the Day: At every party there are two kinds of people -- those who want to go home and those who don't. The trouble is, they are almost always married to each other.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

NEW YORK (AP) - The irrepressible Ed Koch may be out of City Hall and off the air at CBS, but he's found another way to get into New Yorkers' living rooms as a regular commentator for Fox television affiliate WNYW.

The former mayor left his job as a commentator on WCBS-TV's weekly "Sunday Edition" news show in February. He said the station wanted him to tone down his combative style.

But WNYW apparently likes Koch as is. The station called him "bright, brash, controversial, feisty and fun" in announcing Thursday he was coming aboard.

He'll appear once a week on "Good Day New York" and the "The 10 O'Clock News."

Koch, who was mayor for 12 years, was beaten by David Dinkins in the Democratic primary in 1989.

Railroad commissioner scheduled to speak

Newly appointed Texas Railroad Commissioner Lena Guerrero will make a short "motivational" presentation at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 8, in the quiet lounge of the Jack B. Kelly Student Center on the West Texas State University campus. A reception will follow and is expected to last until 6:30 p.m.

Guerrero, 34, is the first female and first ethnic minority to serve on the Railroad Commission's three-member panel. She was appointed by Gov. Ann Richards and was sworn in on Jan. 23, 1991.

Guerrero was first elected to public office as a member of the Texas House of Representatives in 1984 at the age of 26 and was only the second female Hispanic to serve in the Texas House. As a member and vice chair of the House State Affairs Committee, she developed knowledge of energy, utility and transportation regulations.

She was named to Texas Monthly's "10 Best" list when she passed more legislation than any other non-chairperson during the 71st Session, and the Texas Observer rated her as an "exceptional" legislator. Newsweek called her one of the nation's up and coming Hispanic leaders.

Guerrero served as political director of Richard's campaign for governor during the 1990 primary season. During the general election, Guerrero was co-chair of Unity '90, the statewide coordinated campaign of the Democratic Party.

A veteran of three terms in the House of Representatives, Guerrero was elected to a fourth but was tapped for the commissioner's position before taking the oath for her fourth term.

Her career in politics began on the campus of the University of Texas in Austin where she received a degree in broadcasting. After college, she became active in local, state and national political campaigns.

The presentation/reception at WTSU, sponsored by the Mexican American Association, Student Association for Black Unity (SABU), Ethnic Honors Council and Young Democrats, is free and open to the public.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My twin sister and I are both 47 and are going through the menopause. We live in different states. Her doctor is not planning on giving her estrogen, but is encouraging her to exercise and take calcium. My doctor told me that when I miss three months of my period, he wants to start me on estrogen. We are both small-boned, so I am concerned about osteoporosis and drying of the vagina. What is the general thought on these items?

DEAR READER: In terms of preventing osteoporosis, the most important time to provide estrogen replacement is at the onset of the menopause and for 10 years thereafter. Some think it should be started at the first signs of menopause. Those 10 years are the time when the loss of calcium from bone is the greatest. Estrogen has a direct action on bone cells that act to rebuild bone. You are constantly losing and replacing bone tissue. If you cannot rebuild bone properly, you will have an excess of bone loss or osteoporosis.

Calcium intake is quite important. Many women develop osteoporosis because they do not get enough calcium. It is important to have adequate nutrition, including an adequate calcium intake during the years the skeleton is developing, until the early 30s, and it needs to be increased again at the time of the menopause and thereafter. It is important to have both an adequate calcium intake and estrogen replacement.

I am sending you Special Report 98, Understanding Osteoporosis (Dissolving Bones), to update you and your sister on the current thinking. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/98, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908. There are other factors involved in osteoporosis as well which are discussed in the report I'm sending you. You can give a copy of the report to your respective doctors if you wish.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 71 years old, healthy and active physically and sexually. I get regular examinations and am always pronounced fit. During a proctology exam several years ago, the doctor said he thought my prostate could be a bit swollen in one lobe and suggested I see a urologist. I did and he said that he couldn't detect any swelling and that the prostate was soft and pliable.

I told him I was going to the bathroom two or three times a night and that the stream wasn't as forceful as when I was younger. It was only necessary to urinate once or twice a day. He suggested to cut back on caffeine and not to take a lot of liquid before retiring. I did and didn't notice any difference.

I am about to have a regular prostate exam and should the doctor suggest any surgical treatment, I intend to ask about a drug I heard mentioned on a TV program that made surgery unnecessary in several cases being discussed. Is this drug available? What exactly does this drug do?

DEAR READER: The size of the prostate does not always indicate the degree of obstruction of the bladder. You can think of the prostate as a doughnut. The urethra that drains the bladder passes through the hole in the doughnut. What counts is how compressed the urethra is that passes through the center of the prostate. If the center is compressed, you will still have symptoms of bladder obstruction, even though the prostate is small. On the other hand, if the prostate is large, but the hole in the doughnut is of normal size without compression, there will be no symptoms of obstruction.

The only sure way to evaluate the amount of obstruction is to measure the residual urine in the bladder after urinating. There are several techniques for this.

Much of the prostate gland is muscle fibers and these can contract to obstruct the urethra. There are medicines to relax these muscles and relieve obstructive symptoms. The first one of these studied was Dibenzylamine, a medicine once used to treat high blood pressure. It has been reported to relieve obstructive symptoms in many men with minimal enlargement but with obstruction from contraction of prostate muscle fibers.

I have discussed this approach to relieving prostate obstructive symptoms in Special Report 71, The Prostate Gland. If your address had been on your letter, I would have mailed you a free copy. Those who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/71, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

Other medicines have been used that will actually shrink the prostate. Nafarelin acetate and leuprolide injections inhibit the brain's action in stimulating the testicles to produce testosterone. They cause impotence during the time the medicine is being used. That is temporary, and about half of the men who take the injections for six months do get relief from prostate obstruction.

Now, inserting a balloon through the urethra and into the area of the obstruction is being used. When the balloon is inflated, it dilates the obstructed urethra. This is currently used only for men with mild prostate enlargement, not in cases of a markedly enlarged prostate. It is less traumatic than surgery and can even be done on an outpatient basis. Dr. Flavio Castaneda of the University of Minnesota reports a success rate of 70 percent in men with mild or moderate prostate enlargement he has treated with this method.

DEAR DR. LAMB: In 1983 I had an EKG (electrocardiogram) and was told everything was OK. This year I went to the hospital where I have been getting my blood tests and had another EKG. When I gave my new doctor a copy of the old EKG he asked me if I had ever had a heart attack. I told him not to my knowledge. Then he told me both EKGs showed that I had had a silent heart attack. I am very worried and afraid to exercise and go for walks. My heart sounds loud to me and my left arm was numb this morning after I got out of bed — only this one morning so far.

Please explain silent heart attacks. I don't remember having the first one. Could I have another one? I am a 62-year-old woman and take Dyazide and Calan along with Premarin and Synthroid.

DEAR READER: Nearly a third of heart attacks are silent, meaning they cause no symptoms or so few symptoms that they go unrecognized. Sometimes the attack is thought to be a case of "mild indigestion." That tells you a lot about what some people can do after a heart attack. Autopsy studies have shown that even heavy laborers have evidence in their heart muscle of having had a heart attack although there was no history of having had one. Others are identified with an electrocardiogram which identifies an area of muscle damage. I saw a significant number of these when I started the U.S. Air Force's program to take electrocardiograms on all their flying personnel. These heart attacks occurred in apparently healthy young men.

The good news is that since your old electrocardiogram showed the heart attack (myocardial infarction) it must have occurred at least seven years ago. In that seven years it hasn't bothered you, so I wouldn't get too upset about it now. Having just found out about it is no reason to curtail your level of activity from what it has been. Your medications do tell me that you have either high blood pressure or some heart problem.

The outlook for individuals who have had a silent heart attack is about the same as for those who had symptoms with a good recovery. You need to follow the same guidelines as discussed in Special Report 79, About Heart Attacks. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/79, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 19-year-old man. I weigh 135 pounds and am 5 feet 6 inches tall. I'm in good health and enjoy sports. I am self-conscious about my lack of height. When I was 12 years old a pediatrician gave my knees and rest of my body a good dose of X-rays. He said my bones were three years behind the rest of my body and I would continue to grow until at least 22 years of age.

Both of my parents are short — my dad, 5 feet 7 inches, and my mom, 5 feet. I eat very well and take calcium and vitamins but this doesn't help. I haven't grown an inch in three years. Will any new drugs help? The doctor I have now says there is no hope and I should live with being short.

DEAR READER: It is unlikely that you will grow any more, but the final answer would be your bone age, which is determined by X-rays. If your growth plates are calcified, you are as tall as you will be. If they are not, there might be a chance that using growth hormone would help. Surgery is sometimes done to gradually lengthen bones, but I doubt you would want to go through that or that anyone would do it for someone with a normal body that is just a little bit short.

Tom LeGate
 Candidate for Mayor

Ed. Pol Adv. by Tom LeGate 129 Nueces, Hereford, Tx.

Allow me to introduce myself and my family!

Dear Friends:

In order for you to become better acquainted with your candidate for Mayor, I would like to introduce you to my family. In so doing, hopefully it will become clear as to my interest in continuing to help create a favorable future for Hereford an all of its citizenry.

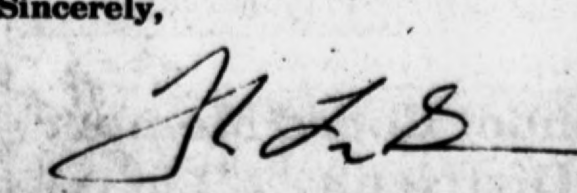

My wife, Carol Sue, and I have been married for 25 years; we are the proud parents of two daughters. Carol Sue has served on the Chamber board for three years, serves on the Cowgirl Hall of Fame board, and is a member of the Hereford Hustlers. She currently is president of the Hereford Board of Realtors and is active in the First United Methodist Church.

Tiffany Confer, is our 21-year-old daughter who is currently a senior at Texas Tech University. Tiffany is married to Blake Confer, also a senior at Tech. Blake and Tiffany are the parents of the "pride and joy" of both the LeGate and Confer families. Jordan Brooke Confer turned one year old on April 20.

Jennifer, our 17-year-old, will be a senior in Hereford High School. Like her sister, she was born and raised in Hereford. Her interests have included band and drill team and she participates on the HHS varsity tennis team. Jennifer also plans to attend Texas Tech University upon her graduation from high school.

My family would like for me to be mayor. I would like to be your mayor. However, I know that being mayor is not a one-man show. It will take each citizen's support and effort to make our city the place we want it to be or become.

Sincerely,

Tom LeGate
 Candidate for Mayor

SPORTS

Jazz eclipse Suns, advance

By The Associated Press

The Utah Jazz got back at the Phoenix Suns and got back into the second round of the NBA playoffs.

First-round losers the last two years, the Jazz moved into the next Western Conference round with a clinching 101-93 victory over the Suns on Thursday night.

That gave the Jazz a 3-1 victory in the best-of-5 series and vindication for last year's knockout by the Suns.

"Our guys wanted this really bad," Utah coach Jerry Sloan said. "Our guys have taken a lot of heat in recent years for not competing well enough to get to the next level. (But) we hung in there and got the job done."

In other playoff action, Atlanta beat Detroit 123-111 to tie their Eastern Conference series at 2-2 and Seattle beat Portland 101-89 to tie their Western Conference series at 2-2.

Two games were on tap tonight - Boston at Indiana in the East and San Antonio at Golden State in the West. Boston and Golden State lead 2-1.

Karl Malone scored 11 of his 38 points in the fourth quarter as the Utah pulled away from Phoenix.

The Jazz lost to the Suns last year despite having the homecourt advantage. This time, the situation was reversed.

Jeff Malone had 19 points and John Stockton added 14 points and 13 assists for the Jazz. Jeff Hornacek led the Suns with 30 points while Tom Chambers had 22 and Kevin Johnson 17.

An 8-0 run, keyed by a pair of 20-footers by Jeff Malone, gave the Jazz a 99-85 lead with 3:02 left to play.

Hornacek's jumper and a layup closed the gap to 99-89 at 1:14, but the Suns could only get two points closer - on Cedric Ceballos' dunk with one second on the clock.

"(In the second half) they really shut us down and made us play their game," Hornacek said. "We weren't able to get any easy baskets and that hurt us."

Hawks 123, Pistons 111

Glenn Rivers scored 34 points and Sidney Moncrief 12 of his 23 in the final five minutes.

The Hawks won at the free-throw line, hitting 44 of 51, while the Pistons made only 14 of 22.

Dominique Wilkins added 24 points for the Hawks, who never trailed after John Battle broke an 80-80 tie by hitting one of two free throws with 59 seconds left in the third quarter.

Vinnie Johnson led the Pistons with 26 points and Joe Dumars and James Edwards each added 19.

SuperSonics 101, Trail Blazers 89

Eddie Johnson scored 34 points as the SuperSonics evened their series with Portland.

By taking Games 3 and 4 of the best-of-5 series in Seattle, the Sonics sent the series back to Portland for Game 5 on Saturday.

The Blazers, who had the league's best regular-season record with 63 victories, missed seven of 10 free throws in the fourth quarter. They made only 20 of 39 in the game.

Nate McMillan put the Sonics ahead to stay by putting in an offensive rebound for an 86-84 lead with 4:55 to go. Seattle outscored Portland 17-5 in the final five minutes.

HWGA to start playdays on Tuesdays, Thursdays

The Hereford Women's Golf Association will be starting its semi-weekly playdays on Tuesday at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course in Hereford. Playdays start at 6 p.m. every Tuesday and at 9 a.m. every Thursday.

"This is a fun time to get acquainted and improve your golf game," Teresa Albracht said. "We especially invite beginning golfers to come join us for a round of golf and fun."

Albracht suggested that golfers be at the course 15 minutes before the tee time so that teams can be formed.

Jays bounce back against Royals 3-1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - With nine more hits and 16 fewer strikeouts than the night before in Texas, the Toronto Blue Jays seemed to be telling Kevin Appier he's no Nolan Ryan.

But in beating the staggering Kansas City Royals 3-1 immediately after Ryan no-hit them, the Blue Jays were telling themselves something, too.

"Last night it was Nolan Ryan's night," said Roberto Alomar, who struck out three times, including the final out of the game, in Ryan's 3-0 no-hitter Wednesday night. "Tonight was our night."

Alomar did not have a single strikeout against Appier (1-4) or reliever Jeff Montgomery. But he did have a sacrifice that set up a run in the first inning, a double in the third and a home run in the sixth.

"I feel good about what I did," Alomar said.

In only other major league game Thursday night, Milwaukee beat Minnesota 5-1.

The same team that struck out 16 times against Ryan did not fan once against the Royals and quickly put to rest any thoughts of a second straight no-hitter when Devon White doubled leading off the game. Alomar sacrificed him to third and the Blue Jays seized a 1-0 lead on Joe Carter's sacrifice fly.

Todd Stottlemyre (3-0) pitched seven innings of two-hit ball. Mike Timlin pitched a hitless eighth and Duane Ward picked up his sixth save with a hitless ninth off a team mired in a deep and disturbing hitting slump.

At least the Royals tried to make the most of their scanty opportunities. They drew even in the second on a walk to Kirk Gibson, Jim Eisenreich's single and Kirk Stillwell's sacrifice fly. But that would be their last hit until Stillwell's two-out single in the seventh.

Brewers 5, Twins 1

Kevin Brown held Minnesota hitless for 5 1-3 innings, and Dante Bichette and Willie Randolph had two RBIs apiece as surging Milwaukee beat the Twins.

Ryan inspires over-40 golfers

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Nolan Ryan's no-hit heroics generated some me-too activity from his fellow over-40 athletes on the PGA Tour.

"I was yelling and screaming and waking up the whole house. It was great," said Lanny Wadkins, who saw the last two innings of Ryan's epic on television at his north Dallas home.

"I'm thinking, 'Hey, maybe this is going to be a good week for the over-40 guys,'" Wadkins said.

So Wadkins, Tom Watson and Ray Floyd, all on the shady side of 40, followed Ryan's Wednesday night no-hitter with some exploits that put them among the first-round leaders Thursday in the Byron Nelson Classic.

"It was inspirational," said Watson, a dedicated baseball fan who, like Wadkins, saw the last two innings of Ryan's masterpiece on television.

"That's what sports is all about. It just shows that in sports anything is possible.

"I drew inspiration from it," Watson said after he'd performed some unlikely activities of his own in a 5-under-par 65 that staked him to the first-round lead.

Wadkins, 40, who has finished third, third and fifth in his last three starts, chipped in for an eagle in a bogey-free round of 66 that put him in a tie for second with Emlyn Aubrey and Mark Wiebe.

And Floyd, 48, was in a large group at 67, just two off the pace.

Watson, a six-time Player of the Year but a non-winner since 1987, missed a playoff in Phoenix by a stroke earlier this year, had a shot at the title in New Orleans and had a chance at the Masters until he double-bogeyed the final hole in his last start.

Feats don't change Ryan

By ARNIE STAPLETON
AP Sports Writer

He strapped the baseball world to his mighty right arm and slung it through the magnificent Texas night straight toward seventh heaven, but all the while Nolan Ryan stayed - where else? - right down to earth.

The Texas Rangers right-hander took time out from a charity appearance and his meticulous workout regimen Thursday to join in what just about every other sports fan was doing: He reflected on his unprecedented seventh no-hitter, a 3-0 jewel over the baffled Toronto Blue Jays Wednesday night before a near-capacity crowd at Arlington Stadium.

But unlike the others, Ryan didn't mention that only eight of his 122 pitches found fair territory or that he circled the earth on a military mission asked controllers if Ryan had really thrown another no-hitter or was just delirium?

Undoubtedly, they weren't the only ones who shook their heads in disbelief upon hearing the news, then acknowledging that if it's Ryan on the mound, it's always a possibility.

Even with all the incredible feats and 48 Major League records, Ryan said he had been haunted by a void in his career - until Wednesday.

"I don't usually think about no-hitters, but I can honestly say I hoped to be in the position to throw another no-hitter and to do it at Arlington Stadium," Ryan said.

The chasm is filled.

"Isn't it funny," asked Arlington mayor Richard Greene, who threw out the ceremonial first pitch, "we tell Nolan thank you for throwing a no-hitter and he says, 'No, thank you for being great fans.'"

The city has named its largest amateur baseball complex after Ryan and a street planned for the new Rangers stadium, set to open for the 1994 season, will be named Nolan Ryan Expressway.

"I don't know how else we could honor him," Greene said. "But we'll think of something. He's our No. 1 hero."

Flowers and phone calls swamped the Rangers ticket offices Thursday. Fans wanted to grab up seats for Nolan's next home start and collectors tried to hoard unsold tickets to Wednesday night's historic game.

Space shuttle crew members tied the Rangers record for 16 strikeouts in the most dominating performance of his remarkable 25-year career.

In typical Ryan fashion, he turned the tables and saluted the game itself. Most of baseball's superstars, the showmen that sell out the ballparks and roam through children's dreams, most of them soak up the glory like a sponge. Ryan deflects it like a mirror.

"I had hoped I would get the opportunity in front of my home fans here, and I'm glad it worked out," Ryan said of no-hitter No. 7.

The pilot who flew the Rangers to Detroit Thursday chased him down for an autograph.

The news reached all the way into the heavens.

Hot new lure excites anglers

By MARK McDONALD
Dallas Times Herald

DALLAS (AP) - At first light one day recently, Dallas tackle shop owner Key Puckett of Fishin' World gingerly got out of his truck and gently pushed the door closed. Looking both ways, he tiptoed to the door of a warehouse in Forney.

I am so clever, he thought, ignoring the morning chill to get here early, picking up the hottest lure in fishing. I shall slip back to town before business hours and own the market, Puckett's inner voice told him. I'll be the only shop in town to have a supply of Chatterboxes. Heh-heh-heh.

"Morning, Key. Howya doing?" Startled, Puckett straightened with an invisible rod up his back. Sudden reality.

Before him was the familiar figure of longtime friendly rival Jimmy Smith, who helps run Smitty's Sporting Goods in Oak Cliff. Ah, another retailer has had the same capitalistic idea.

Fast forward to Lake Fork, a 22,000-acre pond near Quitman known for trophy bass weighing 15 pounds or more...

A UPS delivery truck pulls into Lake Fork Marina and is immediately surrounded by fishermen. These wind-burned anglers look like old biddies at fire sale, tearing at the packages, grabbing pouches of lures, waving money. The shop owner is sold out before he can inventory the baits and stock them on the shelf.

So it is these days with the soft plastic, cigar-shaped lures - Chatterbox, Texas Critter, Sluggo - that have gripped the Southwest bass fishing community. The second-generation stickbait.

In the package, they look like a plastic worm on steroids. In the water, these baits dart and dive like a drunken shad. In the marketplace, they sell like nothing since the imitation crawfish.

"I've never seen such a dumb bait catch so many fish," Fork bass guide Ricard McCarty said. "You can beat the bank with everything in your tackle box, then back off, make a cast into the same water with one of those stupid things - bonk! - you've got a hit."

Dumb, maybe. Stupid, perhaps. Effective, definitely.

On reservoirs in northern Texas, this new twist on an old idea has accounted for more bass than any other single type.

Example: In their maiden voyage using the Jawtec Chatterbox, Forney's Gary Kinard and Dallas' Jack Baker caught and released 50 bass up to eight pounds in one day at Fork.

Example: The same day, on the same waters, Old Thumbs here caught five bass - four more than his personal limit - up to seven pounds that, all told, must have weighed 25 pounds before they were released. If you must know, Jawtec's Bruce Benedict, in the same boat, caught 27 fish, one weighing nine pounds.

Trophy bass? The soft stickbait accounted for a 15.95-pound largemouth at Fork that now swims in the state hatchery lab in Tyler for study.

The fish-catching attraction is that it imitates, not a worm or a snake, but an injured bait fish. Benedict and Fort Worth's Craig Workman, who designed the Texas Critter, agree the lure is effective because, in two to 10 feet of water near flooded moss or brush it darts and dives as it sinks.

First-generation stickbaits, sometimes called "jerkbait," such as the Rogue, Redfin, Slapstick or Long A, are floating plugs that dive and wobble on return. Good lures all, but by design they must be retrieved some distance to be most effective.

"The key for this new style is putting the bait in the strike zone and making it act injured continuously," Benedict said. "It moves sideways, but if you work it right, it doesn't move away from the fish."

Somewhere, Paul C. Johnson, the scuba-diving angling analyst from Berkeley tackle, must be smiling. He has long maintained that a lure hovering lifelike in "neutral density" is most effective.

To best keep these baits on the job, rig it with a size 30 or 40 hook. Poke the hook through the underside of the lure so the barb is exposed and the bait hangs straight.

Benedict uses a baitcasting reel and 20-pound test line on a 6-foot graphite rod with a medium-action tip and lots of gristle. Make long casts and let the lure sink out of sight.

From a standing position, work the bait with a low rod tip pointing toward the water. Give the rod two sharp, short flicks so the tip moves six inches maximum. Pause. Give it one more. Now two flicks. Pause.

"Keep the bait below the surface, just out of sight," Benedict said. "Every time you move the rod tip, feel for the lure. Weigh it. If the resistance changes, if it gets heavier or lighter, that's your bite. Pull your rod flat to the water. Set the hook!"

Common errors, he said, are working too fast and not feeling for the lure, which is impossible in the wind unless you cast directly into or with the wind. No bow in your line.

Beauty of this second-generation bait is anglers are still experimenting. To make the lure sink faster, some are clamping a tiny lead split-shot four inches above the lure. Benedict takes a small carpet nail and inserts it directly into the plastic, just behind the hook.

If the bait has a drawback, it is price. A 10-count pack of Chatterboxes, the ones with the built-in rattle chambers, may retail for $4.25 to $5. An active bite might destroy 20-25 baits in a day of hard fishing.

"I don't think this craze is a flash in the pan," said Keith Blair, who sold 2,000 packs in a 10-day period recently. "People are just now learning how to use it. Some of the fishermen will come up with different ways to rig it, you can bet on that."

"Reminds me of the days, in the 1950s, when Creme first came out with that awful-looking thing called a rubber worm."

We all know the rest of that story.

Rangers want Ryan back

The 44-year-old Nolan Ryan is being paid $3.3 million this year, and he earned every penny of it in an incredible two hours and 28 minutes Wednesday night, overpowering baseball's best hitting team in the first no-hitter by a Ranger at Arlington Stadium. It was his 60th shutout.

Asked what he would do if the Rangers wrote him a $5 million check to play next year, Ryan smiled and said, "I'd probably sign. But it doesn't mean I'd play next year. If my ability diminished at the end of the year, then it would be time to retire. I'm here to help this team win."

There's little question about how Rangers' management feels about Ryan.

"We want to sign Nolan again for next year. If he wants to play again, he'll be here," Rangers general manager Tom Grive said.

"I'd like to finish my career here," Ryan said.

Some dream of winning a spot on the U.S. Olympic team, racing in the Indy 500, or playing in the World Series. Bass fishermen dream of fishing in the B.A.S.S. Classic. Sure, it's only a dream, because out of several million fishermen, only five "club" fishermen are selected to compete against the best professional anglers.

Sometimes dreams do come true. Ask Mickey Trousedale of Tucumcari. He has defied all odds and earned an all-expense-paid trip to the 1991 Classic. This dedicated angler has become a legend by winning tournaments on Ute, Conchas and Elephant Butte in a borrowed bass boat - his uncle's rig.

Mickey, who works for the Ford dealership in Tucumcari, is a frequent guest on Southwest Outdoors, my weekly Wednesday-evening TalkRadio show on KGNC. He has been our expert on New Mexico lakes and now will be the expert on B.A.S.S.

Win or lose, Mickey Trousedale is a class act, and I can't wait to see him on TV as proof that dreams can come true. Good luck, Mickey!

Congratulations to Jay Friemel of Canyon for catching over 30 pounds and winning another MiniBoat Bass Club tournament on Duncan City Lakes.

Some lucky person will win a fishing boat at the West Texas Sportsman Show May 10-12 in Lubbock. Jim Martin of Martin Marine in Levelland has donated a 14-foot aluminum fishing boat, and anyone who drops by his display can register. I will draw the name of the lucky winner on Sunday.

During this three-day sportsman's show, enjoy free fishing seminars by bass experts like former Dallas Cowboy Randy White, Dr. Loren Hill and Ted Miller. Learn more about trout fishing by attending seminars by Ti Pippier, the author of Fishing New Mexico.

The West Texas Sportsman Show will display the newest in boats from all the boat dealers on the South Plains. See the full line display of the newest recreational vehicles, from the practical fold-downs to the magnificent motorhomes. Visit the three casting tanks for seminars and hands-on demonstrations of the newest fishing tackle, and don't miss the indoor archery range or the gun show.

Admission for all this great entertainment is only $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for kids.

Special deal for my readers: Present this copy of my column and save $1 off the cost of an adult ticket. Limit one per adult. Stop by and visit our Southwest Outdoors booth.

Fun Tournaments are held three times a month. They are at Lake Meredith on the first and third Thursdays of each month, and at White River on the second Thursday. All Fun Tournaments start at 6 p.m. and are catch-and-release, three-fish events with $20 entry fees. If 100 anglers enter, the winner takes home $750.

Fly So Free favored in Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Fly So Free is the early Kentucky Derby favorite and last year's 2-year-old champion, but his bad luck doesn't end there.

On Thursday, Fly So Free, the 5-2 early choice, drew the No. 1 post position in a field of 16 for Saturday's Derby.

Not since 1979 has a favorite or 2-year-old champion won the Derby. That was Spectacular Bid's year, and he was both the favorite and a 2-year-old champion.

"Maybe they shouldn't have been the favorites," trainer Scotty Schulhofer offered, and then he was slapped with yet another jinx.

His horse drew the rail, and only one horse, Ferdinand in 1986, has won from the far inside in the past 28 years.

"At least we won't have to worry about getting to the rail," Schulhofer said. "We'll be able to save some ground, I hope."

The 117th Derby, at 1 1/8 miles, will be worth $905,800 if all 16 start, with the winner earning $655,800. Both would be Derby records.

The field, from the rail out, is Fly So Free, Alydavid, Wilder Than Ever, Sea Cadet, Strike the Gold, Hansel, Forty Something, Green Alligator, Lost Mountain, Mane Minister, Paulrus, Corporate Report, Another Review, Happy Jazz Band, Best Pal and Quintana. All will carry 126 pounds.

Hansel, winner of the Jim Beam and Lexington in his last two starts, was made the 3-1 second choice, while Santa Anita Derby runnerup Best Pal was the third choice at 7-2.

Best Pal, trained by Ian Jory, will have to start from the auxiliary gate along with Quintana because the main gate holds only 14 horses.

"I said this morning I didn't want to be on the outside or the inside," Jory said. "Then, I told Scotty I'd rather be in 15 than 1, and Scotty said he'd rather be in 1 than 15."

Swale won from the No. 15 post position in 1984.

Fly So Free will be ridden by Jose Santos, who was aboard when the colt lost his last start to Strike the Gold in the Blue Grass at Keeneland on April 13. Schulhofer took partial blame for instructing Santos to rate him off the lead instead of letting him run.

Cowboys sign Miami OL

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys will add offensive lineman Mike Sullivan to the roster after all. Sullivan, a sixth round draft choice from the University of Miami, failed a Cowboys physical April 26 because of back problems.

However, a review by a back specialist and additional evaluation by team medical staff led to Sullivan's being offered a contract, team officials said Thursday.

"We're really happy that Mike will have an opportunity to be with the Cowboys," said head coach Jimmy Johnson. "He's a talented player who has a lot of intangibles that we are looking for."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

METHUSALEH IS THE OLDEST RECORDED PERSON IN THE BIBLE (969 YRS.) AT THE AGE OF ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY SEVEN HE HAD A SON, LAMECH. WHEN LAMECH WAS ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY TWO, HIS SON, NOAH, WAS BORN—AT THIS TIME, METHUSALEH WAS THREE HUNDRED AND SIXTY NINE YEARS OLD....

...THE BIBLE STATES THAT NOAH WAS SIX HUNDRED YEARS OLD WHEN THE FLOOD CAME UPON THE EARTH. THIS LEADS TO THE ASSUMPTION THAT METHUSALEH'S LIFE WAS ENDED BY THE FLOOD AND, HAD THE FLOOD NOT OCCURED, HE MIGHT HAVE LIVED TO AN EVEN GREATER AGE—NOT THAT HIS RECORD SEEMS TO BE IN ANY DANGER OF EVER BEING BEATEN!

Junior high students win honors with projects

Senator unveils new plan

AUSTIN (AP) - A plan for redrawing the boundaries of state Senate districts has been sharply criticized by a Hispanic activist, who said the proposal would make it difficult to elect a Hispanic senator from Houston.

Sen. Bob Glasgow, chairman of the subcommittee in charge of redistricting the Senate, unveiled his proposal Thursday night. The plan would pair two senators in McLennan County and create a new, largely Hispanic district stretching from San Antonio to El Paso.

The proposed map also would leave some room in minority areas to allow for a presumed undercount of minorities in the 1990 census.

Marc Campos, of the Houston Area Advisory Council of the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, testified against the Glasgow plan. He encouraged senators to redraw the Houston district now represented by Sen. John Whitmire, a Democrat, so that a Hispanic could more easily be elected.

"The current boundaries for state senator discriminate against Harris County Hispanics," he said. "It would be very difficult to elect a Hispanic to the Texas state Senate in 1992."

Campos said his organization had prepared a plan that would reconfigure Whitmire's district while retaining that of Sen. Rodney Ellis, a Democrat who is black.

Also discussed during the public hearing was a proposal by Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi. He recommended adding some Cameron County residents to bring his district closer to the target population of 548,000 rather than including more from Hidalgo County, as Glasgow's plan would.

Men won't admit being overweight

WASHINGTON (AP) - Nearly one-third of overweight Americans don't think they are too heavy, and men - far more so than women - refuse to acknowledge that flabby form filling the mirror, a national survey shows.

The annual survey of various health-promoting practices found that 64 percent of American adults are overweight. Of those, 31 percent feel they are "at about the right weight."

At the same time, 14 percent of Americans are underweight, of whom 77 percent think they are at about the right weight, according to the survey released Thursday by Louis Harris and Associates for Prevention magazine.

Overall, Americans scored 66.2 out of 100 in the November survey of their health practices, the same as a year earlier. But that score is up from 61.5 percent in 1983, the year of the first survey.

The survey measures practices such as smoking, alcohol and drug use, exercise and weight control, diet and nutrition, control of stress, frequency of medical exams and safety precautions at home and in the car.

The survey found that health behavior "has improved significantly since 1983, with greater numbers of individuals actively watching key elements of their diet such as their cholesterol level," a summary said.

But it called the lack of overall progress in the past year surprising and said the nation needs to foster "a climate that encourages habits such as healthy eating, regular exercise or daily stress control."

Recycling bill clears Senate

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill to significantly reduce waste by recycling was approved by the Senate.

The goal of the comprehensive effort is to recycle 40 percent of the state's total municipal solid waste by 1994.

Bill sponsor Carl Parker said if Texas makes a commitment to recycling, "there are at least four major companies that will put recycling facilities in this state. This will mean economic development and jobs for Texas."

Parker's bill was sent to the House on voice vote Thursday after a procedural motion carried 25-2.

The bill would create campaigns to raise the public's awareness of recycling and a marketing study to determine the potential benefits and costs.

The measure would restrict the dumping of yard waste such as leaves and grass clippings, at certain landfills, and would require state standards for household hazardous waste.

The bill states that recycling of paper products, including old newspapers, is vital to Texas' economy and preserving the environment, and sets goals for recycled newsprint of 10 percent by the end of 1993, 20 percent by 1997 and 30 percent by 2000.

The state would give preference to purchasing products made of recycled materials, and state and local agencies would establish programs to separate and collect recyclable materials generated by the agencies.

A $2 fee would be imposed for each new tire sold, which would be used in part to clean up used tire dumps and conduct research for using rubber from scrap tires.

"We have a horrendous situation in Texas with dangerous and unsightly piles of old used tires," said Parker, D-Port Arthur. He said the health department already is requiring tires to be quartered before they can be disposed of at land sites.

Civil and criminal penalties are provided for violators.
