

County sets tax hearing

Actual 'bite' is the same

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Commissioners Monday adopted a $3,038,413 budget for fiscal year 1991-92. Although the total is about the same as the current budget, it will require a tax increase and a public tax hearing is set for June 18 at 7 p.m.

The tax rate automatically drops by 4.76 cents per $100 valuation for the coming year because the jail interest and sinking fund has been paid off. Commissioners propose to keep that 4.76 cents in order to maintain current services and provide a four percent increase in salaries for all employees and officers except the commissioners.

If the tax rate is set at the same 46.97 cents per $100 valuation as last year, county taxpayers will be paying the same taxes on property as they did last year. Since taxes are not being reduced because of the jail bond, however, it will be considered a tax rate increase.

"For five or six years, we've been balancing the budget with carryover funds," noted County Judge Tom Simons. "Operating costs have been increasing and we have no contingency funds for capital improvements." He also noted there have been no across the board salary increases in four years.

The 4.76-cent rate for the jail bond, which has been added for seven years, generates about $225,000 in tax revenues.

In other business at the regular commission meeting Monday, Mike Carr and Wes Klett from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce asked the commission to help with the fireworks display being planned for July 4.

The Chamber asked for $2,500 for the expenses that will be incurred during the day's events. The fireworks display, planned to welcome home desert storm participants, will be the first in 18 years.

Commissioners agreed to donate the $2,500 for the celebration.

A delegation from the Texas Department of Highways asked the commissioners to sign a resolution pertaining to a right-of-way on Farm Market Road 809 near Dawn. If the county signs a resolution, they would be liable for the utility expense.

Southwestern Public Service and West Texas Rural Telephone both have lines that would have to be moved. The TDH estimates the county's expense around $60,000.

"I think it will generate problems if we sign the resolution and have to go back because we don't have the money," said Commissioner Troy Don Moore.

"I think we should go ahead and proceed. We won't know if we have enough money until we get to that

Battle brewing on loans

A loan for expanding tannery facilities at Hereford Bi-Products is tied up in a turf battle between Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry and Mary Webb of Gorman, the head of the Texas Agriculture Finance Authority Board (TAFAB).

The dispute between Perry and Webb centers around the authority to approve loans authorized by a 1989 constitutional amendment.

In December, just after Perry was elected agriculture commissioner and before Gov. Bill Clements (like Perry, a Republican) left office, the TAFAB approved rules giving the agriculture commissioner sole authority to review and approve loans. A new TAFAB was appointed by Gov. Ann Richards, but it is unclear whether the new board can rescind the action of the old board.

Webb, in a letter to Perry, said the action in December to change the loan approval rules "was a direct attack on a new (board) and in my own personal opinion highly unethical—if not illegal."

Dick Waterfield, Perry's director of agriculture finance, said Perry has scheduled a credit review meeting on Wednesday. While the timing is not crucial on the Hereford Bi-Products loan, loans for a cotton-related plant in Post and another plant in Abilene must be approved in July.

Reinauer named 1991 Miss Hereford

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Brenna Reinauer, 18, was crowned as the new Miss Hereford Saturday night at the annual scholarship pageant held at Hereford High School Auditorium with approximately 500 persons attending. The event is sponsored by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Brenna, a 1991 Hereford High School graduate, won the judges' nod over 10 other contestants and was crowned by Gina Alley, the 1990 Miss Hereford. She is the daughter of Bob and Brenda Reinauer.

Jeri Ann Parker, also 18 and a 1991 HHS graduate, was first runnerup in the pageant. Vanessa Gonzalez, 16-year-old junior, was second runnerup. Jeri Ann is the daughter of Gerald and Mary Parker, and Vanessa is the daughter of Armando and Debbie Gonzalez.

Dawn DeBord, 18, was a double winner in two of the pageant's other categories. Judges picked her as the talent winner, and the other contestants selected her as Miss Congeniality. A 1991 HHS graduate, she is the daughter of Martha and Claude DeBord.

With a theme of "Stars and Stripes Forever," the colorful pageant stage had a huge U.S. flag as a backdrop, and three U.S. Marines served as escorts for the candidates in the evening gown presentations. Each candidate also participated in sportswear and talent divisions and each was interviewed by judges Saturday prior to the pageant.

Before ending her reign as Miss Hereford, Gina Alley presented special entertainment with a twirling routine, then teamed with her younger sister, Aimee, in another crowd-pleasing dance and twirling performance in the second portion of the show. County Judge Tom Simons served as master of ceremonies again this year.

As the new Miss Hereford, Brenna received a $500 cash scholarship, a $400 wardrobe scholarship, a special photo frame and an arm bouquet of roses. The wardrobe is sponsored by Patsy Cagle, Little's, The Vogue and Etcetera. Cash scholarships of $250 and $150 were awarded to the first and second runners-up. Each of the girls received gift bags with items from local businesses.

Candidate Jennifer LeGate received an award for selling the most raffle tickets in a fund-raiser associated with the pageant. The name of La Gay Carlson was drawn as the winner of a trip for two to San Francisco.

Brenna performed "Norwegian Concerto" on the piano for her talent. She plans to attend the University of Texas. Brenna was a member of the National Honor Society, Kiwanettes, Concertees, Fellowship of Christian Athletes during high school, was a cheerleader and was active in tennis, basketball, the DARE program and PALS. She was the class favorite her sophomore, junior and senior years.

County receives flooding rains

Storm misses Hereford; up to 3 inches reported

Hereford just missed out on a series of storms that dumped up to three inches of rain in a short time in portions of the county on Monday.

Hereford officially received just a trace of rain as the storms moved through the northern half of Deaf Smith County, mostly on a northwest to southeast track.

Unofficial reports ranged up to three inches at Milo Center and in the northeast section of the county between Dawn and Wildorado. Water was up over the roadway on U.S. Highway 385 at the Palo Duro Creek bridge and on Farm to Market Road 809 about 12 miles north of Dawn on the county's east side.

Bobby Hammock, county precinct foreman at Bootleg, said he recorded .90 of an inch of rain in Monday's rain. "It must have rained a lot more northeast of here because water is running into the lakes this morning," Hammock said.

Hammock said he has recorded 3.25 inches of rain in the past week at the county barn at Bootleg.

Cal Mitts at Northwest Grain, northwest of Hereford, said he recorded an inch of rain at the elevator and an inch at Simms, but the storm missed some places in between.

There is a chance for more rain tonight at Wednesday, and the extended forecast calls for a chance of showers through the remainder of the week.

Murder suspect found in Wyoming

A Hereford man wanted for a May 19 murder in Amarillo was arrested Monday in Casper, Wyo.

Billy Wayne Cochran was arrested without incident by Casper police who received a tip that Cochran was in the area. Cochran is in jail there, and bond has been denied.

Lt. Ed Smith of the Amarillo Police Department's Special Crimes Unit said it was not yet known whether Cochran would waive extradition. If Cochran waives extradition, he could be brought back to Amarillo later this week. If Cochran extends extradition proceedings he could remain in Wyoming for up to 90 days.

Cochran is wanted in connection with the May 19 murder of Catherine Trace Angell, 28. Her body was discovered in an East Amarillo motel room on May 19. There were signs of a struggle in the motel room, police said.

Sales tax rebate down

The sales tax rebate for Hereford this month was below the rebate received by the city last June, but the county's rebate check for the month was higher than the check for a year ago.

Rebates were mailed this week to cities and counties in Texas by State Comptroller John Sharp. Sharp, in a news release, said the state's economy has seemed to "shift into drive" with sales tax rebates up almost 13 percent statewide and an increase in the numbers of new businesses collecting the tax.

The City of Hereford will receive a check this month for $44,547, down 8.6 percent from the $48,735 gained last year from the one percent tax. For the year, Hereford has received $315,493, down only $240 from the year-ago total.

Soldiers honored Saturday at event

Three Hereford soldiers who served in Operation Desert Storm were honored Saturday at a "Welcome Home" ceremony at Sugarland Mall.

A large crowd was on hand to welcome Army PFC Samuel Lopez, Army PFC Tommy Ramirez, and Army Reserve Sgt. Edward Allen Skaggs.

The program included songs performed by several singers and Operation Heart Shield; presentations from Sugarland Mall, Heart Shield and local Camp Fire groups; and a speech by Bill Devers.

Skaggs also presented a special plaque to the Chosro Camp Fire group, which corresponded with him and other soldiers stationed in the Middle East.

"I hope we never forget what you did for the people of Kuwait and for us," Devers said.

No babies left from baby-boom group

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sometime in the last decade, the last baby boomer grew up.

The generation whose music, drug use and radicalism inspired the phrase "generation gap" found itself moving into the leadership positions vacated by their retiring parents.

Boomers seeking the establishment had only to look in the mirror. And what a huge establishment they'd see.

An AP analysis of 1990 census data found that baby boomers - those born between 1946 and 1965 - now make up nearly one-third of America's 248.7 million people.

The youngest of them became adults in the 1980s and the oldest are now middle-aged.

Laid out on a graph, the baby boom looks something like a pig moving through a snake.

Simply because of its size, the baby-boom generation has a profound impact on the nation at each stage of its life.

One consequence of their coming of age is that the nation will be spared a big drain on its resources. The boomers at last have learned to do their jobs.

"Before, they were takers. Now, they're givers," said Martha Farnsworth Riche, a sociologist with the Population Reference Bureau, a Washington research group. "We should be entering a 10- to 20-year highly productive period for our economy."

Politically, the boomers may have turned their back on the radicalism that gave their elders such a fright in the late 1960s and early '70s.

Neil Howe, co-author of the book, "Generations," believes boomers will add a moralistic tone to public life because they came of age during a time of vivid social change highlighted by the civil rights movement and the Vietnam War.

"They'll be less compromising on the issues of good versus evil," said Howe, a boomer himself. "We're going to be insufferable."

But Riche said the generation may have tended toward conservatism all along.

COUNTY-----

point," Commissioner Johnny Latham said.

Latham made a motion to go ahead with the proposal and sign the resolution, but the motion died for the lack of a second.

"It's the court's feeling that we don't have the funds available right now," Judge Tom Simons said. "We might and probably will have the money at the end of the budget period. We won't know until September."

In other business, commissioners allowed the Justice of the Peace to advertise for a court clerk.

"The Woodstock flower child and hippies people were a very small minority," Riche said. "Anybody that wants to reach these people as a group has to understand that."

The boomers' entry into adulthood also means businesses will have to scramble to keep up with aging tastes.

"Businesses for years have been focusing on young adults," said Cheryl Russell, author of "100 Predictions for the Baby Boom." "They think young adults spend the most money. They're wrong. The middle-aged spend the most money."

Lots of baby boomers are now having children of their own; the number of kids under age 5 was 14 percent higher in 1990 than a decade earlier. And that also is having an impact.

"With so many parents out there, it will have an effect on about everything we do," Russell said. "I think that's why the nation has become so conservative lately - anti-drug, anti-drunken driving. All these people are concerned for the health and safety of their children."

That's also likely to change national spending patterns, Russell said:

-Fine dining with a big tab will be out.

-Relaxed, inexpensive eating at places that serve kids will be in.

-Women's clothing stores will be less profitable.

-Kids' clothing stores will take off.

The size of the aging boomer generation pushed the national median age upward by three years in a decade, to 33. In 1970, 28 was the median age, meaning half the population was 28 or older and half was 28 or younger.

How to pick strawberries

NEW YORK (AP) - When shopping for strawberries, select plump heart-shaped berries with a natural shine, rich, red color and fresh-looking green caps.

Strawberries do not ripen after picking, so they can be stored in the refrigerator until ready to eat. To maintain flavor, appearance and nutrition, cover strawberries loosely with plastic wrap. Allow strawberries to reach room temperature before serving.

Just before using, rinse strawberries with caps still attached under a gentle spray of cool water; pat dry with a paper towel. Do not remove the green caps before washing. The caps prevent water from breaking down the flavor and the texture inside the berries.

If the recipe indicates that caps should be removed, give them a light twist, or use the point of a sharp paring knife.

NUTRITION INFORMATION

Eight medium strawberries, fresh and unsweetened, provide 50 calories, 1 gram protein, 230 milligrams potassium, 13 grams carbohydrates and 3 grams dietary fiber.

The following strawberry usage ideas are provided by the California Strawberry Advisory Board:

- BREAKFAST PARFAIT: In stemmed glasses, layer non-fat yogurt, granola cereal and sliced strawberries. Repeat layers, ending with strawberries. Serve for breakfast or brunch.

- SWEET STRAWBERRY TOAST: Spread a thin layer of light cream cheese on whole-grain toast. Top with sliced strawberries; drizzle with honey.

- BLENDER SPLENDOR: Combine strawberries, white wine, honey and ice cubes in a blender container. Blend until smooth. Pour into glasses and top with a generous spritz of sparkling mineral water. Serve with straws and garnish with fresh whole berries.

- SAUCE SUPREME: With food processor, finely chop a pint basket of stemmed strawberries, pulsing on and off. Mix in 2 to 3 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur. Mix in honey or sugar, to taste. Spoon over ice cream, frozen yogurt or fresh pineapple and melon chunks.

- STRAWBERRY SALSA: Mix coarsely chopped strawberries with sliced green onions, grated orange peel, Dijon-style mustard, a few raisins and a dash of red-wine vinegar. Serve with chicken or fish.

- FRUIT SKEWERS: Thread strawberries, thick banana slices and fresh or canned pineapple chunks alternately onto bamboo skewers. Serve with barbecue entrees.

- DIPPING AU NATUREL: Dip whole strawberries with caps still attached first into light sour cream or non-fat yogurt and then into brown sugar. Or dip whole strawberries into mounds of powdered sugar.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is an open letter to all the couch potatoes who feel unloved because their wives are no longer interested in sex.

If your wife's life is anything like mine it goes like this: I am up at 6 a.m., get myself ready for work, see that the kids eat a good breakfast and get them off to school. My couch potato gets up whenever he feels like it and goes to work. He's home around 5:30 or 6, picks up the remote control and heads for the recliner. I head for the kitchen to fix dinner, serve it and then clean up. I then straighten up the house, spend time with the kids, start a load of laundry, bathe the children and put them in bed. Finally, I am able to sit down.

While folding the laundry I try to engage my husband in conversation and all I get back is a grunt. He doesn't even take his eyes off the TV when I speak to him. After a while, I give up and go to bed, disgusted, too tired to be angry.

With a life like this, sex becomes nothing more than one of those chores that is tolerated because I was brought up to believe it was my duty. I am not a demanding woman. All I want is a kind word, a little conversation, some small sign of recognition that I am human and maybe a little help around the house in the evening.

I hope all you couch potatoes out there will take this letter personally. You just might rediscover the girl you used to date. -- Worked to Death in Florida worked and Unappreciated, I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I agree with "Too Much Homework in Oxnard." My 11-year-old has hours more homework than his brother and sister had at his age. We lived in another state while his two siblings were growing up and I'm convinced that part of the problem is the sweet deal that teachers get here in California.

My mother taught grade school for 20 years. She corrected her own class papers, did playground duty and lunchroom supervision, prepared report cards, attended teachers workshops and had parent conferences after school hours.

My son has classes for about four hours a day. The rest of the time it's some social or fun activity. As often as three days out of the month there is no school because of a "teachers workshop" or "teachers prep" day, etc., etc. During parent conferences, there is no school for an entire week. Lunchroom and playground supervision is done by parent volunteers because the teachers have it in their contracts that they don't have to do this sort of thing. Parents are asked to volunteer to be class "Spelling Mom" or "Math Dad" and correct the papers for those classes. If you divided teachers' annual salaries by the number of hours they actually work, they are making over $30 an hour. Not bad -- with three month's vacation.

Kids now need homework so they can learn what was at one time taught during school hours. We are unable to afford a private school, but I'm considering teaching our son at home because I seem to be doing everything anyway. I'm with you, Oxnard. -- Another Fed Up Mom in Orangevale, Calif.

DEAR ORANGEVALE: I am not close to the California public school system to respond intelligently, but you can be sure I will receive a ton of mail from many who are. Meanwhile, teach your child at home if you want to, be he will miss an important part of his education -- learning to get along with other children.

THE AMOUNT SHOWN BELOW REPRESENTS THE TAX RATE YOU WILL PAY FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1991-1992. THE TOTAL AMOUNT OF TAXES YOU WILL PAY THIS YEAR IS THE SAME AMOUNT YOU PAID LAST YEAR ON YOUR COUNTY VALUE.

Paid for by County Commissioners

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The (Deaf Smith County) will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in (1991) by (1492) percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on (June 18, 1991) at (Courtroom)

FOR the proposal: John Stribling, Troy Don Moore, Guadalupe Chavez, Johnny Latham

AGAINST the proposal: None

PRESENT and not voting: None

ABSENT: None

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the (Effective) tax rate that the unit published on (June 11, 1991). The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$ 50,000.00	$ 50,000.00
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	-0-	-0-
Average taxable value	$ 50,000.00	$ 50,000.00
Tax rate	$.4697	$.4697 (proposed)
Tax	$ 234.85	$ 234.85 (proposed)

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would (Increase) by $ (-0-) or (-0-) percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would (increase) by $ (.0701 cents) per $100 of taxable value or (14.92) percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

TSHSRA finals: Lewis all-around girl

Hereford's Regina Lewis was named the girls' all-around champion of the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association when the finals in Amarillo concluded Saturday.

Lewis and Chasity Rickman, also of Hereford, advanced to the Texas High School Rodeo Association state finals which were to begin Monday night in Abilene. Lewis qualified in breakaway roping and goat tying, and Rickman qualified in barrel racing, pole bending and goat tying.

Results from Monday night's state finals were not available. Also, individual places and times from Saturday's performance were not available.

Rickman earned top rookie girl honors on the strength of winning the year-end title in goat-tying. Lewis was the year-end reserve champion in goat-tying after having the best average at the finals.

Lewis also was the reserve champion in the barrels and the poles. She was beaten out by Shan Til Hext of Canadian in the barrels and by Amy Hill of Channing in the poles. Hill was named all-around reserve champion.

Shawna Davidson of Floydada was the year-end champion in breakaway roping, with Cody Bell of Canyon in reserve.

For the boys, former Hereford resident Mickey Gomez is the year-end champion in steer wrestling and shared the team roping championship with Tye Maben. Gomez now lives in Snyder.

The boys' all-around champion was Mark Eakin of Spearman, despite the fact that he was not a year-end champion in any single event. A reserve championship in saddle bronc-riding was his best finish.

Randy McEntire of Wheeler was the all-around reserve champion with honors including the year-end championship in ribbon roping and calf roping. Jim Locke of Canadian was the top rookie boy.

Other boys' champions were Ross Kelso in bull riding, Alex Brown of Wellington in saddle bronc riding and Toby Leffew of Wheeler in bareback.

Nieman closest in Rotary contest

Nieman has good weekend

No one pocketed the money Sunday in the Hereford Rotary Club's $20,000 hole-in-one contest, but Speedy Nieman still had a pretty good weekend. He put his ball closest to the pin in the ace contest to win a set of PING woods, and his team won the Rotary Club's scramble Friday.

Nieman's shot was a low one, so the gusting cross-wind had little effect on it. The ball hit in front of the green on No. 3 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, rolled by the hole as close as 18 inches, according to Rotarian officials, and came to rest eight feet, nine and three-quarters inches past the hole.

The 25 golfers who were closest to the pin during qualifying all last week each got one shot at a hole-in-one on No. 3. An ace in Sunday's finals would have been worth $20,000, with the provision that if no one got an ace, the golfer whose shot ended up closest to the pin would receive a set of PING woods valued at $360.

In Friday's nine-hole scramble, Nieman teamed with Bobby Valdez, Danny Haney and Don Cumpton to shoot a 29.

Three teams shot 30, so the second and third place teams were determined by a scorecard playoff. John Robinson, Blair Rogers and Ken Wilkes were awarded second place and Bobby Baker, Max Goforth, Gerald Gamboa and Jerry Shipman got third.

The other team at 30 consisted of Arthur Valdez, Steve Stevens, Bartley Dowell and Dickie Simms.

Baker and Cumpton won $25 gift certificates to Boots and Saddle: Baker for the long drive, and Cumpton for closest to the pin.

Denver, Miami to get NL expansion teams

NEW YORK (AP) - For Denver and Miami, it's "Wait 'til 1993!" They have been selected to receive major league baseball's first new teams since 1977.

Among the losers in the competition were Buffalo, Orlando, Fla.; St. Petersburg, Fla., and the nation's capital, which has gone 20 years without the national pastime, ever since the Washington Senators left to become the Texas Rangers.

"We're obviously rejoicing. It kind of gives a stamp of certification as a major city in the United States," said Miami Mayor Xavier Suarez.

The National League expansion committee announced Monday its recommendation that Denver and Miami receive teams. They will begin play in 1993 provided they receive final approval from the major league ownership committee and both leagues.

Approval is considered routine. "We're rounding third base and heading for home," said Denver Mayor Federico Pena.

The new teams will have to pay $95 million each to join the big leagues. The additions, the first since Seattle and Toronto became the American League's 13th and 14th teams in 1977, will give the National League 14 teams, too.

The losing cities weren't giving up.

"One strike doesn't mean we are out," said Washington Mayor Sharon Pratt Dixon. She said she would work with investors and other baseball boosters to try to buy an existing team and bring it to the nation's capital.

Investors in Buffalo and St. Petersburg also said they would try to buy a team that may be put up for sale.

The Miami team would play in Joe Robbie Stadium, midway between Miami and Fort Lauderdale. The potential owner of the team, H. Wayne Huizenga, chairman of Blockbuster Entertainment Corp., said it would have a regional identity.

He said the name of the ballclub won't be announced until the franchise is awarded. But Florida Marlins is a name frequently mentioned.

Suarez said Miami's large Latin population helped the city with the expansion committee.

"We have the Caribbean, which produces probably half of your players, and Panama, Puerto Rico, Colombia, Venezuela are all very important producers of talent," he said.

Denver's team would play in Mile High Stadium during its first two seasons and move into a planned 43,000-seat Coors Field in 1995. Names mentioned for the ballclub include the Denver Bears and the Colorado Rockies.

The city has fielded a minor-league team since 1886 and first tried to break into the big leagues in 1959.

St. Louis Cardinals president Fred C. Kuhlmann, chairman of the ownership committee, said he hopes to put the recommendations to a vote on Wednesday.

The recommendations would then need the approval of nine National League teams and eight American League teams.

A vote probably won't happen this week, Commissioner Fay Vincent said in Santa Monica, Calif., where owners were to hold their quarterly meeting Wednesday and Thursday. Instead, they could vote in a conference call or by mail.

Rejected cities explore other ways to get teams

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Baseball Writer

Officials from the four cities rejected by the National League expansion committee are now scurrying to come up with alternate plans to bring a baseball team to their town.

Commissioner Fay Vincent confirmed Monday that the committee has recommended Denver and Miami for entrance into the National League in 1993.

Approval from the major league ownership committee is expected when it meets Wednesday in Santa Monica, Calif. However, the 26 club owners may not vote on final approval at the meeting.

The cities need approval from nine NL owners and eight AL owners. If it does not happen at this week's quarterly meetings, it could take place in a telephone conference call or a mail ballot.

The expansion committee's decision leaves Buffalo, N.Y.; Orlando, Fla.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Washington, D.C., still searching for a team.

"My gut reaction is we're going to get a baseball team, and I think we're going to get a baseball team in the next two or three years," St. Petersburg mayor David Fischer said. "I think St. Petersburg, or Tampa Bay, was really the logical site. ... I think baseball recognizes that we were a strong, strong entry and it's just a matter of time before we get an existing team."

The Florida Suncoast Dome in downtown St. Petersburg has a capacity of 43,200. At least $37 million in improvements are needed to equip it for baseball, with about $23 million of that coming from a financial package approved by the state legislature.

Hereford hosts Monterey in summer league

Hereford will host Monterey in the home opener in the West Texas Summer Baseball League at 6 p.m. today at Whiteface Field.

The Hereford team consists of players who will be sophomores, juniors and seniors in high school next school year. The team is coached by Bill Watts.

Hereford is 0-3 after dropping a doubleheader at Plainview on June 2 and falling to Randall last Tuesday. The league also includes teams from Coronado and Frenship.

The Monterey team includes all but two players from last year's state playoff team at Monterey High School. The program is rich in tradition and the team is expected to challenge Coronado for the league title.

Teams which received prize money were Brandon and Clark for first place; Western Union for second; Hereford Janitor for third; and Three Broads and a Lady was fourth.

Vi Moore and Loni Long received the top prize in doubles, followed in order of finish by Janice Holmes and Kim Dawson; Charlene Sanders and Karen McPherson; Kippi West and Linda Shipp; Loujana Kubacak and Faye McGee; and Charlotte Fowler and Kim Hogan.

In singles, it was Kim Dawson on top, followed by Marilyn Bell, Carolyn McDonald, Rhea Scott, Kippi West, Pat Fowler, Selena

Bridges takes HWBA's Star of the Year tourney

Sandi Bridges bowled a 633 with handicap to win the Hereford Women's Bowling Association's Star of the Year tournament Saturday. Gayle Nelson bowled 22 to finish second in the field of 26.

The HWBA elected new officers at a meeting Thursday. They are Lajuan Fowler, vice-president; Carolyn McDonald, secretary; Shelley Brock, treasurer; and Sandi Blevins, Priscilla Lacey and Kim Dawson, board members.

HWBA officers who have served one year and have a year left on their terms are Cleta Weemes, president; Betty Taylor, sergeant-at-arms; and Linda Wilcox and Brenda Bell, board members.

Awards from the HWBA's city tournament were presented at the meeting. The number of places paid were in proportion to the number of entries in each category, Weemes said. The top three finishers in each category also received a trophy.

Lakers could set mark for low scoring

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - The Chicago Bulls are turning the Los Angeles Lakers, the team of the '80s, into the team of the 80s.

The Bulls denied Los Angeles both its inside and outside games in winning 97-82 Sunday for a 3-1 lead in the NBA Finals.

The Lakers shot 36.6 percent - other than Vlade Divac and Magic Johnson it was 24.5 percent - and for the series they are averaging 89.3 points, a far cry from the potent attacks that won five championships in the 1980s.

With the Bulls one victory away from their first championship in the franchise's 25-year history and their third straight win on the Lakers' home floor, Johnson on Monday said that what was supposed to be a classic series is turning sour.

"This series has been like going to a movie expecting it to be great, and then it gets to the love scene and the film breaks," said Johnson, who admitted he is "upset, frustrated, mad - all those things," about the Lakers' situation.

To make matters worse for the Lakers, who face a 3-1 deficit no team has ever overcome in the Finals, they could be playing Wednesday night without starters James Worthy or Byron Scott, or both, because of injuries.

Worthy aggravated the injury to the left ankle he sprained two weeks ago, and Scott has a bruised right shoulder. "I have until Wednesday to make a decision on playing. I can't put a percentage on my chances," Worthy said. "We have to have hope, like we have all season. If we can get one win, things might turn around."

"It looks very bad with James out, and myself, I don't know," Scott said. "We'd like to go into each series completely healthy and we didn't. We're beat up and we're not playing well. The Bulls are taking advantage of it."

Johnson said he could tell that Worthy was in pain even before he left Sunday's game late in the third period.

"Even if James plays, he probably shouldn't be playing," Johnson said. "He's trying, but when he sees a lane open, he can't get there. He also can't defend, and the Bulls aren't stupid. They see that and use that to their advantage."

If the Bulls win Wednesday, they only have to hold the Lakers to 109 points to set a Finals record for fewest points allowed in a five-game series.

The Lakers have 357 points in four games. Fort Wayne had 467, an average of 93.4, in losing the 1956 Finals 4-1 to Philadelphia.

"We knew we could have success defensively, but we didn't have any idea scores would be this low," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "The Lakers had been keeping the number of possessions down against Portland, so we knew if they kept doing that, scores would be low. We just wanted to be a thorn in their side on every possession."

Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said the key to scoring points against the Bulls' pressure defense is "to make some outside shots to loosen them up inside. We've done a pretty good job of finding good shots, but we get out of position too often. When we spread the offense, we've been OK."

"We've been attacking them the right way. We just have to make the shots," Johnson said. "You never expect Sam Perkins to go 1-for-15. He was getting his shots."

Perkins, the hero of Game 1, said he was missing "little simple layups.

They just didn't fall. They collapsed on me, which made it even harder. But the shots just didn't fall. I don't understand why."

Scott has made only five of 18 shots in the series, allowing the Bulls to concentrate on the Lakers' post-up game that was effective in their only victory in the series opener.

"They have the ability to trap and then recover," Dunleavy said. "Part of that is quickness and ability, but a lot of it is heart. I've been very impressed with their defensive talent. Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen are in the top five in the league."

"They stay on Byron and then double-team from the blind side so we don't see it coming," Worthy said.

Michael outplaying Magic

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

Showtime used to be Magic's time. Now it belongs to Michael.

Statistically speaking, the distance between them is nothing like the gulf that separates their teams. Glance at a composite boxscore from these playoffs and you find Michael Jordan enjoying only a slight edge over Magic Johnson in most of the categories that can be counted.

But look at Jordan's edge in the one all-important category that doesn't lend itself easily to measurement - timing - and it becomes apparent why his Chicago Bulls, now holding a 3-1 advantage over Johnson's Los Angeles Lakers, are about to become the newly crowned champions of the NBA.

Magic seemed to concede as much after Game 4 went into the books Sunday night.

"They have someone that no one else has," he said. "When he's going great and they're going great, you just can't beat them. I tip my hat to my competitor. He's doing a great, great job."

How great? By the numbers alone, this great:

Johnson has played more minutes than Jordan (180 versus 172), he's taken more free throws and made a higher percentage of them (33-of-35, or 94 percent, versus 22-of-25, or 88 percent) and they're dead even on rebounds (29).

But in a head-to-head matchup, everything else belongs to Jordan.

He is scoring considerably more points per game (31.5 average versus 19.2), shooting better from the floor (51-of-90, or 57 percent, versus 21-of-46, or 46 percent) and from behind the 3-point stripe (2-of-4, for 50 percent, versus 2-of-8, or 25 percent). He has turned the ball over fewer times (12 versus 16), blocked it more often (five versus zero), stolen it more often (nine versus five) and incredibly, even dished it off to teammates for baskets more frequently (47 assists versus 42).

Now, put those dizzying numbers aside for the moment and look at it another way. Conventional wisdom always held that Michael was the single-best player in the game and Magic the best at making the players around him better. But it is easy to argue that now, Jordan is not only the best individual player, but the best team player as well.

Johnson's reputation flows from many things: He is a good shooter, he rebounds unusually well for a guard (in no small part because he is 6-foot-9), and he rarely turns the ball over.

But his real genius shows from his ability to force defenders into double-teaming him and then - magically sometimes - putting ball into the hands of a shooter at the spot on the floor just vacated. Because the ball is always in his hands, he directs the flow of the game and creates points like no one before him. And that genius, along with the presence of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (who ironically spent Sunday back on the Laker bench) are the reasons Johnson has five championship rings in a drawer back at his LA mansion.

But Jordan is steadily proving he is better at each of the first three things - shooting, rebounding and protecting the ball - a much better defender, and now, better at creating points as well.

(He is even better at subtracting points; while Jordan wound up covering Magic for most of the games, Byron Scott, the man who is covering him, went nearly two full hours of playing time between baskets.)

Jordan was labeled as the best individual player because he was. But after six seasons without a championship, it began to sound like a rap. And once upon a time, it might have been deserved because Jordan approached most double-teams as just two men to leap over instead of one.

But now that the Bulls have surrounded him with enough players worth passing to, he has usurped Johnson's throne in that realm. He has become a better point guard than the man for whom the position was named, in part because he can call his own number whenever he wants.

Bash Brothers repel pretenders

By The Associated Press

The Oakland Athletics, Bash Brothers Inc., aren't afraid of anyone.

They are, however, wise enough to recognize a challenger to their power structure. The Detroit Tigers present just such a threat.

"They can put some runs up there in a hurry just like we can," Mark McGwire said Monday after the Athletics downed the Detroit Tigers

12-6. "They've got a good offense."

On this day, Oakland had a great offense. McGwire was a key figure. He drove in five runs with two homers, including a three-run shot to cap a six-run rally in the eighth.

"Too many times you see cream come to the top," said Oakland manager Tony La Russa. "If a guy's produced all his career, and if he's struggling right now, chances are the production will be there at the end."

Two streaks continued as Minnesota won its ninth straight with an 8-5 victory over Cleveland and Texas dropped its eighth in a row, falling 3-2 to Chicago in 13 innings. In those games, the White Sox extended their winning string to five, the same numbers of consecutive losses for the Indians.

Milwaukee snapped its seven-game skid with a 7-2 decision at California.

Jose Canseco's three-run double off reliever Mike Henneman (5-2) broke a 6-6 tie. McGwire homered off Jerry Don Gleaton to highlight a stretch of seven straight A's hits. But Canseco's was the big one.

"It was kind of a good game for eight innings, but then they came up with the big inning," Detroit's Alan Trammell said.

Oakland left-hander Johnny Guzman (1-0) faced one batter, Whitaker, in the eighth and got credit for his first major league victory when Whitaker grounded out.

Red Sox 6, Mariners 2

The Red Sox had their longball magic working. Carlos Quintana hit two, Ellis Burks and Jack Clark one each as all three awoke from batting slumps.

White Sox 3, Rangers 2

Rangers right fielder Ruben Sierra's error with two outs in the 13th inning led to two unearned runs. The loss was the Rangers' 10th in their last 11 games after winning a club-record 14 in a row in May.

Lance Johnson led off the 13th with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice. One out later, reliever Gerald Alexander intentionally walked Tim Raines. Joey Cora then lifted a fly ball to Sierra, who was backpedaling to the warning track. The ball kicked off Sierra's glove as both runners scored.

NL pennant races could end early

By The Associated Press

There are signs that the pennant races might be over early in the National League this season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have a comfortable six-game lead over New York in the East, and first-place Los Angeles has moved 10 games over .500 in the West to open a 2 1/2-game margin over surprising Atlanta.

Certainly there's a long way to go, but the signs are there.

The Dodgers, for instance, are winning without much offense from Darryl Strawberry. When he gets hot, they just may run away and hide.

Pittsburgh's 35-19 record is the best in baseball, and the Mets keep tripping over themselves and giving games away with shoddy defense and poor relief pitching.

Back to the Dodgers. They have Orel Hershiser again and he's looking strong. On Monday, Strawberry returned, but Los Angeles really didn't need him as it turned out.

Lenny Harris highlighted a six-run fourth inning with a grand slam as the Dodgers routed the Chicago Cubs 13-5 at Wrigley Field. Los Angeles took three of four games in the series and have won 17 of 22 at Wrigley Field since 1986.

"We've been winning without Darryl Strawberry," Harris said. "I think he shocked everybody by coming back so soon. But that's the type of guy he is. He wanted to come back. That's the kind of ballclub we have. Everybody wants to participate."

Strawberry had been sidelined with a sore shoulder as a result of running into the right-field fence at Dodger Stadium last month.

"My shoulder feels pretty good," said Strawberry, who went 2-for-4. "The time I've had an opportunity to rest has really helped me, especially the treatment I've received. It's nice to be back in the lineup though and it feels real good."

Chicago was picked by many to win the NL East, but now trails the Pirates by eight games.

Things got so bad for the Cubs' beleaguered pitching staff that outfielder Doug Dascenzo relieved in the eighth against Los Angeles. He was the best the Cubs had, too, tossing two hitless innings.

Elsewhere in the NL, it was Cincinnati 9, Philadelphia 3; St. Louis 3, San Francisco 2; Pittsburgh 5, San Diego 3; Montreal 7, Atlanta 1; and Houston 6, New York 4.

Astros 6, Mets 4
Jeff Bagwell's two-run double and Rafael Ramirez's game-winning, two-run single off reliever John Franco in the eighth inning rallied Houston.

Dwight Gooden gave up two runs and seven hits in seven innings before Franco (1-5) relieved.

Curt Schilling (3-4) pitched one inning for the victory.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Bears' Morris doesn't forget Texas roots

By TIM WAITS
The Paris News
PARIS, Texas (AP) - On the field, Ron Morris' career as a wide receiver with the Chicago Bears rides with every shot.

But what hurts him more than a chop from Ronnie Lott is young people cut down by drugs.

Morris, a native of Cooper in Northeast Texas, spends his time away from the football field coaching kids to avoid the dangers of drug use.

"Just looking at the youth in Chicago and coming back here, seeing people I know and played ball with, I see them indulging in these type of drugs, and it's sad to see," said Morris, who visited Paris recently on a trip back home to raise funds for his mother's church in Cooper.

"I may talk to 60 kids (at one time), and if I help just one person, I did my job," he said. "And I'm happy to do that." Morris makes his year-round home in the Chicago suburb of Hawthorn Woods, with his wife, Kandi, and children, Meghan, 4, and Ron, 2.

But he hasn't forgotten his roots, which are firmly planted in Cooper. "What I always take with me is to not forget where I came from," he said. "That's something my mom told me long ago, and I try to remember that."

When Morris returns he makes his presence known and felt.

"As far as character is concerned, he's as good a kid as I've ever met," said Larry Stowers, Morris' high school football and track coach who still lives in Cooper. Stowers now coaches the Paris High track team.

"He was a straight-A, national honor society student. Everybody in the school liked him. Whenever he comes back to this area he goes to Cooper High School and signs autographs," said Stowers. "He's a good Christian, family man and all of that."

Morris said he and other Bears give talks dealing with self-esteem, motivation and anti-drug abuse education. Morris also plays for the "Good News Bears," the team's charity basketball team.

Training never stops for Morris, who was drafted out of Southern Methodist in 1987. Morris spends his weekdays in the weight room and in stretching class as a tuneup for training camp which begins in July. "The downfall of any team is to come into camp to get into shape," said Morris, who still holds the Texas Class 2A 100 meters record of 10.3 seconds, set in 1983. One year Morris scored 32 points on his own at the state meet, competing in the 100, 200, sprint relay and long jump. He also qualified in the high jump, but didn't compete.

Things are shaping up for Morris and the Bears, and he feels the team is poised to make a run at the Super Bowl. The Bears won the Central division last year with an 11-5 record. They were defeated in the second round of the playoffs by the New York Giants, who went on to win the championship.

That was a marked improvement from the dismal 6-10 output in 1989. They had won the Super Bowl in 1986.

"We turned it around a lot," said Morris. "As long as the rookies come in and do what they're asked, we can take a couple of steps (to the Super Bowl) - providing we stay away from injuries."

Morris' personal output continues to soar. He is coming off his best season - 31 receptions, 437 yards and three touchdowns. He has caught 109 passes for 1,800 yards and nine touchdowns in his four-year career.

The Bears' offensive philosophy may keep Morris from ever reaching superstardom. Mike Ditka's teams will always be hard-nosed, ground attacks, currently led by Neal Anderson and Brad Muster.

"We have a short, controlled passing game," said Morris. "I wish we could throw more."

What gives Morris one of the biggest reasons for optimism this year is that for the first time there will be no quarterback controversy coming into camp. In his four years he has seen the merry-go-round with Jim McMahon, Doug Flutie, Mike Tomczak and Jim Harbaugh. The job belongs solely to Harbaugh.

"We keep looking, keep looking and keep looking, and we're finally beginning to gel," said Morris, who added that now close to 30 Bears participate in off-season workouts in Chicago, far more than in the past.

It's a team that's growing more confident in itself and has a leader whose sideline demeanor is all that has changed.

"(Ditka) is the same. The way he coaches is the way he played the game," said Morris. "If you take that away from him, you take the heart out of him. If he ever changes, he'll be the first to leave the game."

Morris himself has no plans in that direction.

"They've made it clear they don't want me to go anywhere," said Morris. "My attitude is I've had a great four years. That's the thing I'll always look at if it had to stop."

Hazeltine dry for U.S. Open

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) - Less than two weeks ago, Hazeltine National Golf Club looked more like Atlantis than the cow pasture it was once purported to be.

Several successive days of heavy rain had rendered the site of this week's U.S. Open unplayable.

Helicopters were summoned in a desperate attempt to dry the greens. Some fairways were under water. The parking lots were submerged; Hazeltine officials made contingency plans to shuttle spectators to the course from miles away. The 40,000 daily spectators were being advised to wear wading boots because the gallery areas were quagmires.

"I was worried as hell," Reed Mackenzie, U.S. Open general chairman and former Hazeltine president, said Monday. "But today ... today, I'm delighted."

And for good reason. The last week has brought sunny and breezy conditions. Humidity has been low. The course and the parking lots have dried to the point that the three-eighths inch of rain that fell late Sunday was a welcome sight and not a prelude to disaster.

"There was talk yesterday afternoon that the fairways and greens were too hard and that we might need to put some water on them," Mackenzie said. "But the little bit of rain took care of that."

Ten days ago, rain was truly a four-letter word to Hazeltine officials.

The Open, which runs from Thursday through Sunday, was seen as Hazeltine's big chance to prove that the disaster of 1970 wouldn't be repeated. That was the year that Tony Jacklin fought off rainy, cold conditions to win on a young course that wasn't ready to host the Open.

Hazeltine is surrounded by farmland in this Minneapolis suburb. Dave Hill, who finished second in 1970, likened the course to a cow pasture, and almost everyone who played the course criticized famed designer Robert Trent Jones for his liberal use of severe doglegs.

Under the direction of Jones' son, Rees, the course has undergone a million-dollar face-lift. Doglegs have been reduced or eliminated. Trees have matured. Tees have been elevated to improve sight lines.

And most pros who practiced Monday gave thumbs-up to the new, improved Hazeltine.

"It's a nice course," said big hitter Davis Love III. "It's going to be challenging but not impossible, like a U.S. Open course should be."

"It's a good golf course," said Andy North, who won the 1978 and 1985 Opens and is trying to rebound from injuries. "Good and tough."

Golfers were pleasantly surprised by Hazeltine's dry condition.

"I heard so much about all the rain. I thought we were going to be playing under water," Love said. "But the course is fine. The greens and fairways are hard and fast, and you expect that at the Open."

Added Larry Mize, the 1987 Masters champion: "It's definitely a U.S. Open course. You're going to have to drive the ball accurately because you don't want to be in the rough. The greens are fast and slick."

MODEST BILL

NEW YORK (AP) - Nobody ever accused Bill Russell of being a shrinking violet, whether as a basketball player for the Boston Celtics or as a coach and television commentator later.

An inexperienced newsman once asked Russell how he would have fared playing against the great Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The towering Russell replied: "Young man, you have the question backwards."

NOT A FELONY

PHOENIX (AP) - Georgi Glouchkov, a native of Bulgaria, proved he hadn't lost a Middle-European style of thinking when he played for the Phoenix Suns of the NBA.

The aggressive Glouchkov committed five fouls in 11 minutes, a rather alarming number.

He saw nothing wrong in it. "I am not all pleased," he said. "But I did not do anything for which I should be hanged or beaten."

David Robinson of Navy blocked nine shots in an NCAA basketball tournament game against Cleveland State in 1986.

Bill Hewitt, a member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, played an end position for most of his career without a helmet.

Alley gives performance

Gina Alley waits for a baton to come down during her twirling routine at the 1991 Miss Hereford Scholarship Pageant on Saturday. Alley, the 1990 Miss Hereford, also performed with her sister, Aimee, before taking a farewell walk at Miss Hereford.

Get kids to help with meals

The supermom of the eighties tried to do it all. In the nineties, Mom now admits she can't and looks to the family for help at mealtime.

"Working women should not overlook the contributions of children in the kitchen," suggests Donna Higgins, director of Del Monte Kitchens. "Although most recipes require cutting and cooking that a child cannot do alone, kids can be taught to measure, mix and assemble ingredients accurately--as well as help clean up."

Ham Skillet Pasta and Enchilada Pie Ranchero are quick and nutritious recipes the whole family can enjoy making and eating together. They both take advantage of the convenience of canned stewed tomatoes that come already seasoned.

HAM SKILLET PASTA

- 1 can (14-1/2 oz.) Del Monte Italian styled stewed tomatoes
- 1-1/2 cups diced ham
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/8 tsp. red pepper flakes
- 2 medium carrots sliced
- 4 oz. (about 1-3/4 cups) mostaccioli or other tube pasta
- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen broccoli, thawed
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Drain tomatoes reserving juice. Pour into measuring cup; add water to measure 1-3/4 cups. Brown ham with garlic and red pepper flakes. Add reserved tomato juice mixture, tomatoes, carrots and pasta; bring to boil. Reduce heat; cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in broccoli and cheese. Cover and cook 3 minutes or until pasta is just tender. Garnish with chipped parsley and additional cheese, if desired. (4 servings) Prep time: 10 min. Cook time: 25 min.

Helpful hint: Use leftovers within 2 days.

ENCHILADA PIE RANCHERO

- 1/2 lb. lean ground beef
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 can (14-1/2 oz.) Del Monte original style stewed tomatoes
- 1 can (8 oz.) Del Monte tomato sauce (no salt added)
- 1 to 3 tsp. minced jalapeno chile
- 1 small green pepper, chopped
- 1 cup cooked rice
- 6 corn tortillas

Microwave directions: In skillet on top of stove, brown meat with onion; season to taste with salt and pepper, if desired. Stir in tomatoes, tomato sauce and jalapenos. Cook, uncovered, over medium-high heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add green pepper. Cover and cook 4 minutes. Stir in rice. In oiled 2-quart microwavable dish, place a tortilla in bottom; cover with meat sauce. Repeat, making a 6 layer stack. Garnish with shredded Cheddar cheese, if desired. Pour 2 Tbsp. water down edge of dish. Cover and cook on high in microwave 10 to 12 minutes, rotating once. (4-6 servings) Prep time: 10 min. Cook time: 25 min.

Kelln and Tori Mazurek, the bride-elect's sisters, served refreshments of punch and cookies from a table covered with a white cloth and a white floral arrangement.

The honoree's sister, Sammee Mazurek, invited guests to register.

Hostesses presented Miss Mazurek with an electric mixer. They included Carolyn Evers, Jeanette Fowler, Bernadette Kalka, Jo Ann Jesko, Ann Meyer, Rita Morgan, Shannon Perez, Geraldine Schlabs, Leona Schilling, Joyce Smith, Joan Strafuss, and Joyce Tindal.

Hints from Heloise

Q. I would like very much to know how to make a glaze for carrots. If you have one, could you run it for me? — Shelby Bradford, Tuscumbia, Ala.

A. Years ago a reader sent in a glaze our readers really enjoyed: Slice the carrots and cook until tender. When you drain the carrots, combine the liquid with the juice from a can of pineapple tidbits. Thicken the sauce with cornstarch and cook.

When this is thick and bubbly, add the carrots and pineapple and heat. If you really want to make it fancy, toss in a handful of coconut flakes. — Heloise

KITCHEN COMPOST

Dear Heloise: I use my blender to pulverize potato peels, lettuce leaves, coffee grounds, tea leaves, etc. I pour my "compost" in an unused area of the lawn or flower garden, such as behind a storage shed. It makes composted soil for future use but doesn't build up to a mountain or reek as it decomposes because it sinks immediately into the soil. Don't use meats or fat in the compost. — Anna Fornash, San Antonio, Texas

MIXING MEATBALLS

Dear Heloise: It took me a long time, but today I decided to use my pastry blender to mix the ingredients for meatballs. It worked beautifully and there were no large chunks of meat missed, as can happen when you're mixing recently thawed ground beef by hand.

When the meat is cold, most people are anxious to get the mixing over with, especially those with a bit of arthritis. Maybe this will save someone a little misery! — Vesta Feuquay, Omaha, Neb.
