Expectant Mother Overturns Car

Mrs. Pete Gonzales, 22-year-old expectant mother, was slightly injured when the car she was driving overturned in front of the old Frio School house, eight miles south of Hereford Wednesday morning.

Highway Patrolman Kenneth Maxwell said Mrs. Gonzales told him she overturned when she tried to avoid another car approaching the intersection from the west.

Mrs. Gonzales was issued a ticket for driving without a license. Her husband works on the O. W. Parris farm 12 miles southwest of Hereford.

SWEARING-IN CEREMONIES—Immediately after the results of Tuesday's city commission election were made and the votes canvassed, Mayor Ray Godwin, center, swore in the two successful incumbents Troy Moore, left, and Dr. R. Moore, Wills Remain on Commission

The $100,000 street improvement bond issue received more than a 4 1/2 to 1 approval in Tuesday's voting while city commission incumbents Dr. R. R. Wills and Troy Moore were returned to office for another two-year term each.

THE FINAL VOTE count was the second-largest in Hereford's history, 578. Largest in history was the 896 votes cast in the Airport election last year.

Opposition to the street improvement issue was completely overwhelmed by a 447-127 majority.

Moore, in being returned to office, received 312 votes to gain a comfortable margin over Dr. H. A. "Hap" Cavness, who had 127 votes cast for him.

Wills received 449 votes. He was unopposed in the election.

Four write-in votes were cast. Receiving one vote each were J. C. McCracken, Pete Peterson, S. O. Wilson and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taff Benson.

Both Moore and Wills were sworn in shortly after 9 p.m. by the mayor of Hereford, Ray Godwin.

Voting got off to a good start early in the day, with 187 votes being cast by 1 p.m., and 427 at 5:15 p.m.

All members of the commission had expressed concern on the lack of general comments by the public on the bond issue. To stimulate interest, each made talks at various civic organization meetings, over the radio and had published a full-page ad explaining the necessity of the program passing.

Final counting of votes was made at 8:20 by election judge S. O. Wilson and his assistants Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Walter Seed and Mrs. Nona Jewell.

WHEN ASKED if he had any comment on being returned to office after the results were announced, Moore said, "I don't know of anything to say except just thanks."

Included in the $100,000 street improvement bond issue were: $48,000 for storm drainage on Highway 60; $17,000 for sealing of more than 35 city blocks; $22,000 for the city's share in paving streets which include Grand Ave. and New York St.; $10,000 for street drainage improvements; and $3,000 for new traffic signal.

FIGURING 3 MILLION BUSHELS

Price Support Bill Veto Costs County $690,000

President Eisenhower's veto of a Congressional bill to freeze farm price supports at the 1957 level has cost Deaf Smith county wheat growers an estimated $690,000 on their 1958 crop.

Last month Faust Collier, county ASC manager, estimated Deaf Smith could possibly produce 3 million bushels of wheat off the 155,000 acres planted.

Voting of the bill "cuts 23 cents a bushel off what we get for wheat," stated Collier.

Twenty three cents a bushel on 3 million supported at $2 per figure at $690,000 less for the county.

Some figure Deaf Smith will far surpass 3 million this year. Grain sorghum prices will remain the same, Collier added.

When asked if he thought the market price might possibly rise enough to offset the difference, Collier commented "... with good prospects, there is always a depressed market."

The Associated Press story Tuesday morning quoted Eisenhower as saying in a letter to Congress "With regard to government controls, what the farm economy needs is a thaw rather than a

Election Saturday For School Boards

Board of directors will be elected Saturday for the County, Hereford and Walcott school districts.

RUNNING FOR re-election in the Hereford Rural High School District board race are incumbents Tom Robinson and Wilburn Axe local electrical contractor. Bill Phipps is also running.

No individual competition is held for the two places open on the school board, but two of the three must be selected.

Robinson, presently serving as president of the board, and Axe have both served one term each. The only candidate for county school trustee at large is Leo Forrest. He is running for re-election.

ELDRD BROWN is seeking position as county school trustee in commissioners' Precinct No. 3. S. N. Thweatt is retiring from that post and will not be in contention.

JACK WEAVER is running for re-election to the Walcott Common School District and is unopposed. All school board terms are for two years.

2-Vehicle Wreck At Union and H

Two traffic tickets were issued following a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Union and Ave. H at 9:45 a.m. Tuesday.

City police cited Jesse Culp, 69, 218 Ave. H, for failure to grant right-of-way and Arthur E. Hay, 23, 115 Ave. B, for defective brakes. Hay was driving a pickup truck owned by Walsh Food Service.

Damage to Culp's car was estimated at $150 and $200 to the pickup.

Congress Puts New Teeth In Wheat Acreage Law

The local U. S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office was notified this week that the Congress, in its last session, passed into law a provision that for 1958 and thereafter, any wheat acreage seeded in excess of the farm allotment would not be considered in establishing future state, county and farm allotments.

"This means," stated office manager Faust Collier, "that when a farm is overseeded in 1958, the history for that year is automatically reduced to the amount of the farm allotment."

Listing the results of overseeding in 1958, Collier said a guilty farmer would be "ineligible for a 1959 loan; must pay penalty on excess wheat; and would lose history each year for four years, beginning in 1960."

"Since the average of the history of the farm for the years 1954 through 1957 will be used to establish the 1959 base," Collier continued, "the base and allotment will not be effected in 1959 by overseeding in 1958. However, in 1960 the base will be reduced by approximately seven per cent due to the 1958 history being reduced to the 1958 allotment because of such overseeding. This reduction in history will affect the base and allotment for the years 1960 through 1964."

Deadline for eliminating excessive seeding is May 10. Collier said he has six men measuring wheat acreage at the present time, who are about 45 per cent through measuring. Weather has kept the men from their work, much like the farmers whose land they are measuring.

$153,000 REA Loan Is Studied Today

The board of directors for the Deaf Smith County Electric Co-op will decide at a meeting today whether a proposed request for a $153,000 loan from the Rural Electrification Administration should be made.

INCLUDED IN the proposal, made by manager Leo Forrest, are $117,000 to re-connect rural telephones for 64 members and build to 305 new members; $23,000 for improving central office facilities; and $21,500 for system improvements.

Expenditure of the loan funds, according to Forrest, would be o-for the county, which was far from enough according to Miss Betty Smith, acreage and conservation reserve secretary at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

"We have notified all these people," stated Faust Collier, manager of the ASC office, yesterday morning. "They have 15 days in which to complete an

The request is in response to a letter from David Hamill, administrator of the Rural Electrification Admin., who sent a letter last week to the agency's 1,572 electric and telephone borrowers asking them to step up needed construction and the purchase of necessary materials and equipment.

The REA administrator specifically suggested consideration of such items as project construction and system improvements; purchase of office, transportation and work equipment; construction of

Berlin Makes Fashion Bid

BERLIN — With chic styles designed for the middle class woman, West Berlin has won back its prewar eminence as one of the world's top fashion centers.

Women in cities ranging from Stockholm to Chicago to Cairo are wearing smart gowns made in Berlin's thriving garment center.

Travelling incognito with their sketch books, dress designers from the Communist countries come to West Berlin; fashion shows hunting style tips.

"Berlin ranks once more with Paris, London and Rome as a leading fashion center," says Willy Janke, of the Berlin Clothing Assn. "While Paris specializes in haute couture for the select few, we provide couture for the many. We know how to take an international mode, quiet its extravagances and make it wearable.

"For example, there is the 'Sack Line.' We have taken only the basic line and then added our variations. The result is typical Berlin chic, a unique charming style that has become internationally popular."

Janke says the Berlin fashion houses can take a Paris gown that costs $360 and turn it out in quantity for $70. Smart models can also be produced at $12.

Most of the foreign buyers flocking into Berlin come from the Netherlands, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the United States and Austria.

Firmly established in trade with northern Europe, the Berlin houses now look more and more to America, the Middle East and Africa for new markets.

Recent Berlin shows put on in London and Paris brought orders and queries from places as distant as West Africa, Ghana, Egypt, Tunisia and Morocco.

Since 1950 the business volume done by the Berlin fashion houses has zoomed from about 25 million dollars to nearly 200 million dollars a year.

With American economic aid, a new five million dollar "Garment Center" went up this year in the heart of West Berlin, as the headquarters of what has become the city's second largest industry.

The 400 fashion firms employ about 60,000 men and women, including some 2,000 mannequins.

In contrast to West Berlin, fashion has such gone out of fashion in Soviet-run East Berlin. There women's clothing is mass-produced in stereotyped styles and fabrics and at prices well above the equivalent sold in West Berlin.

Occasionally the Communists put on a fashion show in East Berlin to compete with the glittering style parades in West Berlin. But the models of the dresses shown rarely turn up on sales counters of the government-run shops.

In a separate statement recorded for television and radio, the President said: "I vetoed this legislation because I wanted to help, not hinder, farm families in their efforts toward a balanced, more prosperous agriculture. It is my firm conviction that the situation today calls for forward-looking action — not enforced stagnation. We must improve the farm program — not freeze it."

The AP story went on to state "Without making any concessions to those in Congress who have contended that a scheduled decline in support levels would be a disastrous economic blow to farmers, Eisenhower repeated in his veto message his January appeal for enactment of a five-point program. Among other things that program would give Benson authority to reduce supports to even lower levels.

"The vetoed bill, which would have held price props and acreage allotments for one year at 1957 levels or higher, was the Democratic-controlled Congress' substitute for the Eisenhower-Benson program.

"AN IMMEDIATE EFFECT of Eisenhower's action was to permit a reduction in dairy price supports to become effective at midnight."

"Eisenhower said in his veto message the bill would pile up more farm surpluses, restrict the growth of markets, bypass small farmers and postpone the day when agriculture can be released from the straightjacket of controls."

"He said there is 'impressive evidence farmers stand to profit from less rather than more governmental intervention. To meet the rapidly changing conditions in agriculture, farmers must be able to make their own management decisions on their own farms. They must not have their production and prices frozen in an outmoded pattern.'"

All news analysts have said they were very doubtful the Congress would be able to muster up enough votes to override the President's veto. Democratic strategists said they now are short at least four votes of the required two-thirds of those voting to override in the Senate.

The House will not act unless the Senate overrides and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas said he doubts any such results will be achieved.

"AGRICULTURE IS still having difficult times," Secretary of Agriculture Benson told the Senate Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee recently.

MOWING THE LAWN IS MADE EASY by this 1958 mowing rotary power mower. The blade can be padlocked as a safety measure. The mower is driven by a four-horsepower motor.

By JOHN O. B. WALLACE
AP-Newsfeatures

WITH SPRING just around the corner, manufacturers are unveiling the latest equipment for the army of American home-owners taking the field shortly in the seasonal battle to keep yards and lawns looking trim and neat.

A preview shows a wide array of 1958 models. They range from basic models to power mowers which carry you and can be operated like a small automobile.

First, who in the family is going to cut the lawn? Dad or a teenage son may be happy with a push-type, walking style. Mother, or an older member of the family, may need the assistance of power propulsion.

BLADE SIZE IS important. The difference in cutting time between an 18 and a 20 inch blade is 11 per cent; the cutting time difference between an 18 inch and 22 inch size is 22 per cent.

Earl Mathis, a research and engineering specialist in the power mower field, says an 18-inch blade is satisfactory for lawns up to one-quarter-acre. From a quarter to half an acre, the blade should be 20 or 22 inches in a push type. This blade size also is satisfactory in power propulsion models for areas between a half and a full acre.

A relatively new type is the riding rotary. You sit on this one and steer and operate it like a small automobile. Its advantages lie in a larger blade, 24 inches, for easier and faster cutting of flat lawns. Mathis recommends this type for steep slopes. In this case use a power-propelled model for more accurate control on slopes.

IN THE RIDING rotary mower, you need at least 3½ horse-power, because this one is hauling you while it cuts and it needs plenty of power.

Safety is another factor. Some models have a steel grille covering most of the blade area to help prevent accidents. The grille is spaced to let the blade do its cutting job but still protects your feet at the rear of the mower.

Question: I have some concrete work to do this summer. In using wooden forms for concrete, I know that the inside of the form should be oiled so that they separate easily from the hard concrete. Is there a particular kind of oil that should be used?

Answer: Almost any kind of oil or grease will do. I know one who has been using old crank oil from his car for many years. He says it works perfectly.

Question: I intend to put new mesh on all window screens in our house. I have done two of them so far and have found it difficult to tighten the mesh, which is ordinary galvanized screening. The only way I was able to do it was to have my wife hold the mesh taut while I did the tacking. Isn't there some way I can handle this without having someone help me?

A BEAUTY CONTEST to select Miss Deaf Smith Rural Electric of 1958 will be held in the Bull Barn April 24.

Sponsor of the contest is Deaf Smith County Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc. The girl who wins the contest will go on to enter the state-wide contest for Miss Rural Electric of Texas at Lubbock. The state winner will compete in a national contest next year.

Co-op officials have invited contestants in high schools from Hereford, Bovina, Dimmitt, Friona and Farwell to enter the contest. Future Homemakers of America chapters in each school will choose candidates.

CONTESTANTS WILL be judged on beauty, poise, personality and ability. The entries must be the daughters of parents who have homes which are served by the Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative. They must be between 16 and 21 and agree to remain single throughout the local, state and national contests, if selected.

The winner of the county contest will receive an expense-paid trip to the Lubbock contest and the organization sponsoring her will receive $25.

The contest will be held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the co-op.

Little Imagination Goes a Long Way in Home Decor

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer

A difference between a beautiful and a dingy garret may be the decorating. So, too, with areas in the home.

Test of home decorating acumen is to visit a home decorated differently by different people at different times.

One living room in mind. An example.

Second occupants put a Oriental rug on the floor. Proceeded to "decorate" it.

Third occupants put a new plastic wall tiles in trap-

were covered in a dull wine fabric, the color chosen, they said, from the rug.

Test your own decorating prowess, by doing over a small section of a room, foyer, bathroom or other small area, if you've been timid about putting your imagination to work on a larger area.

There are so many innovations for do-it-yourself enthusiasts these days, that you can do a test area at little cost, and effort.

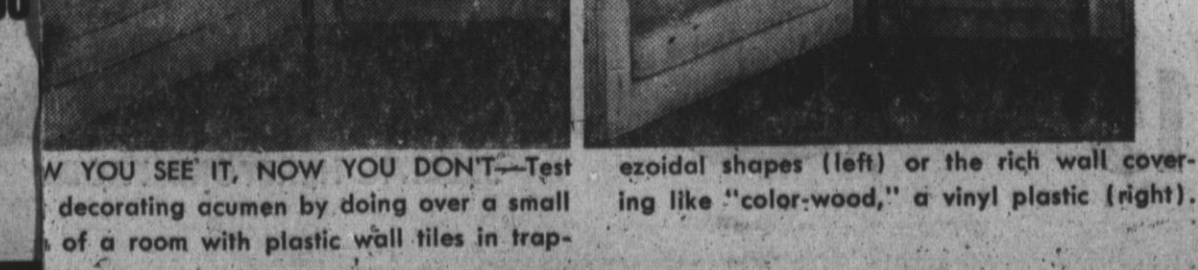

New plastic wall tiles come in unusual shapes — a wedge-shaped trapezoidal for instance, may be employed to create an interesting pattern on any flat surface. These modern mosaics would be particularly adaptable for one wall of a room.

Other materials in the luxury wall styling group include a rich wall treatment that is vinyl plastic, soft and flexible, but it may be applied with wallpaper paste. For all the deceptive appearance of elegance, these wall coverings are easy to put up, resist scuffing and may be scrubbed. They are backed with resin-treated cotton fibers laminated to prevent shrinkage.

If you are unhappy about your present decor, talk it over with the man of the house. Discuss colors that are mutually attractive. Then decide how you can improve an area. It may be a little jogging up that is needed — a new slipcover, lampshade, draperies, a small paint job or wall covering.

Gold Mines Give Johannesburg Chronic Hiccups

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Johannesburg is a city that suffers from chronic hiccups.

For the past 20 to 30 years, hardly a week has gone by without crockery dancing on shelves as the city shudders.

The hiccups are earth tremors which vary in intensity and length.

The reason for the spasmodic tremors that ripple along the Witwatersrand lies in 12,000 miles of tunnels, which criss-cross in a 70-mile-long maze.

These are the workings of the Witwatersrand gold mines which are so interlocked that a man can walk (in theory) for a distance of 70 miles from east to west or vice versa, without seeing daylight.

Scientists say the reason for the earth tremors along the Witwatersrand is the great strain placed on subterranean rock somewhat weakened as a result of mining operations.

The pressure causes the rock to crack and the city shivers.

Severe tremors do not follow a regular pattern, Witwatersrand University's Bernard Price Institute of Geophysical Research says. But observations have proved that minor earth tremors occur daily between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m., when miners dynamite the gold-bearing reef.

There is nothing to indicate that the tremors will increase in the future or that the bedrock will weaken and the city disappear into the tunnels.

Bible Words for Today

JOHN 17:17 - "Consecrate them in the truth; thy word is truth." (RSV)

The story is told of Sir Walter Scott that when he lay dying he said to his son-in-law, "Lockhart, give me the Book." Lockhart looked around the room and said, "What book, Sir Walter, do you want?" Then the immortal author said, "Lockhart, there is only one book, the Bible." There is but one book in which God has so fully given His revelation to man, one book that has endured down through the years as the Word of God, one book that is God's message to man today and proved to be an adequate lamp to his feet and light to his path. That book is the Bible. Jesus said in prayer to the Father, "Thy word is truth." That word, that truth, is found primarily in this blessed Book. If you will read through the 119th Psalm, you will see how many different expressions the Psalmist uses in referring to the truth of God.

RECESSION KILLER?

Little Woman Has Big Stick

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The American housewife who holds the family pursestrings, say the economists, can stop the current recession in its tracks — by keeping her nerve, her temper and her head in a difficult period.

Many factors combine today to affect adversely the nation's complicated economy: production cuts, rising food costs, housing costs, expansion slow-downs, unemployment.

"But if you add to that an arbitrary personal refusal to spend money, this can send the economy into a tailspin," says economist Leo Cherne of the Research Institute. "The very worst thing that could happen now is for the American family to be panicked into saving beyond its normal saving." Statistics indicate, at least to the economists, that housewives and breadwinners so far have been maintaining normal habits in that huge area called "consumer spending." Sharp drops have been noted, however, in some special fields, notably automobile purchases.

And although the diagnosticians differ among themselves on the recession's cause, and differ even more in their opinions on the cure, they are generally agreed that money hoarding — the wide development of a fear of buying — can be disastrous.

"The primary thing about the current slump is not to get pessimistic, to keep one's confidence up," says an economist who is also a housewife. She is Jo Blingham, executive of the Government Finance Department of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and in private life the wife of a Connecticut businessman.

"Psychology is one of the largest factors in a boom or in a depression," she says, adding this word of caution: "But I think that any housewife will feel as I feel — that being pressed into buying just means higher prices. The 'buy more' pitch just leads to 'buy more inflation.'" "Every buyer should shop for the best purchase," she continues, "and every woman should try to get the most for her money. It isn't necessary to go on a buying spree to ward off the worst. Just don't get scared and stop normal buying — keep on trying to get the best product for the best price."

A different theory on the cause of the economy's troubles comes from psychologist Ernest Dichter, who heads an organization whose specialty is "motivational research," or digging for the motives behind the actions of people. Dr. Dichter agrees heartily that recessions as well as boom times are psychological. But he thinks much of the current slump has been wrought by consumers — housewives and breadwinners — who are not so much scared as irritated.

"Several of our studies have welcome signs of a recession," Dichter recently told a meeting of sales executives. "This is a period in which the consumer is putting the manufacturer on the spot. He wants to find out how much he has been overcharged or whether he has been treated with fairness, in the past. If prices are indiscriminately slashed, there is a grave danger that the consumer will become more than ever convinced that he was being cheated during a period of prosperity. He will hold out and wait for the moment when he really has the manufacturer over a barrel — a moment when prices hit rock bottom. What is needed, then, is not merely a reduction of prices, but even more a better communication between the advertiser and the consumer, an explanation of price policies."

Hereford Women To Attend P-TA District Meeting

Mrs. Henry Sears, district historian, Mrs. Merlin Kaul, music and recreation chairman, and Mrs. Elmer Patterson, district council representative, will attend the 35th Annual Conference of the Parent-Teacher Assn. to be held in Canyon, April 14 and 15.

Mrs. Kaul will be in charge of the relaxation and singing period at 10:30 a.m. April 15, and Mrs. Patterson will attend the Board of Managers meeting on April 14 and will attend the dinner to be given for the District Board of Managers in the Blue Room of the College cafeteria on the Campus of West Texas State College.

The 35th annual District Conference of Parent-Teacher Assn. will be held at the Church of Christ April 15.

Registration for delegates and visitors will be held April 15 from 8 to 9:30 a.m. with coffee and doughnuts being served. The first general session will be held after registration. Group officer training work shops will be held during the morning session. A general work shop with a panel discussion will be presented during the afternoon. The conference will adjourn at 3 o'clock.

Theme of the conference this year is "Education is life in the making." Dr. Joseph Ray, president of Amarillo College, will address the assembly at the beginning of the afternoon session on "Perspective and Balance in Today's World."

Delegates from all five P-TA units in Hereford will attend the conference. Each unit is allowed one delegate for every 20 members.

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—A California motorist was stopped here by city police who reminded him that he'd forgotten something at a service station in Paragould, Ark., 20 miles away.

He had left his wife behind after she went into a restroom while the car was at the station. The motorist said she had been sleeping on the rear seat and he assumed she was still there when he left Paragould.

RURAL DELIVERY

By JIMMIE GILLENTE
Tuesday was a day to cheer on the family calendar. The beamed down all day — and Baker was found "Not Guilty" on the noontime TV soap op. Honest, the sun hasn't really much since Jeff's murder started, and that was one of a long time ago. Now that has been acquitted, I am preening sunshine for some little to come.

or later the subject of boating, fishing or water skiing will creep into the conversation. Unquestionably, water sports are the most popular of all fads in the Southwest today. Maybe it is because we are so high and dry. I have always been amazed at the large number of Texans who consistently show up in the navy — including Admiral Nimitz.

SHERIFF CHARLES SKELTON says he is finding out a lot of things about being a father. Most of his schooling seems to be in night classes, however. The Skeltons got an unusual package when a friend decorated the box with a deputy sheriff's badge and a miniature gun and holster set.

I have heard nothing but praise for the recent production of "Oklahoma," as presented last week by the Hereford choral students. Understand they even had an offer to reproduce the play in another city.

The city bond election carried around 4 1/2-1, and that is good. It also stands as unquestionable proof that any progressive issue, based on good planning, sound economy and general progress will meet with general approval of the people. All of which is one of the big reasons that Hereford continues to grow, while many other areas are dropping population. This community has turned down several bond issues but, in most cases, they seem to have been out of step with public thinking. All in all, the community is quite progressive.

These new homes are wonderful during the winter months, and the recent rains are fine for the wheat, but the combination can change a man's outlook, come Spring. N. L. Wesson, who completed his new place south on Highway 51 this fall, was standing in front of a display window this week thoughtfully contemplating the stacks of rakes, garden hoes and trowels; his chin was set and his eyes had that gleam of determination which every home owner sooner or later acquires. No question, that time of year is approaching. If a fellow doesn't get off fishing soon, he will find himself out in the yard grubbing like mad.

Recreation Workshop Had Many Women Mighty Busy

By ARGEN DRAPER
Thanks to Mrs. Earl Plank, J. E. Dyer, Mrs. R. L. Will and Mrs. Edd Cox for help with the recreation workshop. They used the methods of recreation that have been taught by the Extension specialists and the Texas Home Demonstration Assn. Plans were made for club and community entertainment.

Under the leadership of club members attended: Mesdames H. Hershey, T. J. Parsons, Zeldrick, P. B. Sowell, Louis Ol-Clinton Jackson, Muri Little, Johnson, Bill Gilleand, Tomay, A. C. Hershey and W. E. Emb. There's never been a when there was greater need leadership and these 16 ladies answering the need.

Extinguishers should be placed strategically in all fire danger areas — in home kitchens, barns, machine sheds, storage tanks of gasoline and butane.

The best extinguisher in the world won't be ready to go into action when you need it most, unless you check and recharge it regularly, according to Earl Phillips. Follow the manufacturer's instructions on this. And don't wait for a fire emergency to read the directions on how to operate the extinguisher — know how to use it and make sure everyone on the farm or in the home knows how. You remember Earl Phillips, Glenn Witherspoon, and Clay Angelo trained club leaders in safety and fire control. In the kitchen keep a hose and hose adapter handy. Faucts need the adapter so the hose can be attached.

Particularly for home safety, ladders to reach the highest roof tops and windows should be quickly available at all times. Frayed electric cords often start fires. Are all electric cords in your home in safe condition? Club women and 4-H girls and boys have

Notes on an Old Calendar Tell Story of Early Days

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With the annual Pioneer Day approaching rapidly, Mrs. Corinne Neely of Hereford has contributed this article, dealing with days past in this area. Mrs. Neely is president of the Mid-Plains Pioneer Assn.)

By MRS. CORINNE J. NEELY
When I was in my early teens, I can well remember the old kitchen calendar which hung on my Aunt Minnie Walker's wall. There was enough space around the dates of each day for short notations. In this space, weather and other events were listed. It was interesting to me then, and now, years later, these old calendars interest me even more.

There are 16 of them, dating from 1915 to 1931, with only the year 1923 missing. Because we have rain nearly every Pioneer Day, I have chosen the month of May and the years 1916 and 1919 to show the contrast in weather and events occurring at that time on a ranch and farm.

Farm Loan Program Expansion Planned

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has announced expansion of loan programs for construction work on farm structures as an additional anti-recession measure.
Secretary Benson directed the Farmers Home Administration to broaden its farm housing construction loan program, and the Commodity Credit Corporation to work aggressively with farmers and others on constructing needed grain storage. He told these agencies to broaden their programs to the fullest possible extent under existing authorizations so more farm people can obtain farm construction loans.

Secretary Benson said adequate loan funds are available for the expanded loan programs and that such construction will stimulate economic activity locally as well as nationally.
"Utilization of materials and labor in farm construction work will bolster the economy across the board," he said.
"President Eisenhower," he continued, "has stressed the Government's responsibility, when an economic downturn occurs, to help bring about an increase in employment and business activity. Use of these credit measures will do just that," he continued.

"Construction loans will enable farmers to repair, alter, modernize, or erect new dwellings, needed grain storage facilities, or service buildings like machine sheds and barns. Industry, local workers, the many construction trades, local businesses and the farmer himself will all benefit."

Kernit H. Hansen, Administrator of USDA's Farmers Home Administration, has issued new instructions to field offices authorizing the new program.
"In addition to major construction on farms of eligible borrowers," Hansen said, "there are many other needs for farm building and farm home modernization. They include providing water for farmstead and household use, and adding bathrooms, utility rooms,

Band Director Establishes New Standards

A new set of standards for Hereford High School Whiteface band students has been established by Director Charles Bell with the aim of improving musical and marching abilities.
Bell is in the process of creating the Domino Band, named for the famous strain of Whiteface cattle. In order to play with the Domino Band, each student must attain certain standards of performance as stated in the Rubank Elementary Band Book.
At present there are 115 members in the Whiteface Band and Bell hopes at least 80 of these will qualify for the Domino group before the Tri-State Music Festival at Enid, Okla., on May 1. Only the Domino Band will go to Enid.
The standards must be reached by April 23, Bell said.

Members who fail to reach the higher standards will play in a second band and attend classes at a separate time. They may continue to try to reach the Domino standards.
Band members must play their instruments individually for Bell, and he will judge if they are meeting the new standards.
Students who make the Domino Band will automatically be promoted to private first class. The band also has ratings of corporal and sergeant, each denoting a degree of ability.
"Once a student qualifies for Domino, he's in it until he finishes school," Bell said.
The 15-member stage band will be renamed "The Lamplighters," after one of the Domino strain's most famous bulls.
Bell said that eighth graders finishing at Stanton Junior High will have until July 1 to qualify for next year's Domino Band.

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

A Death in the Family

To the people of the 18th District:

of the country and the conduct of the Constitutional form of government under which we are supposed to operate.

Tragedy struck in the Rogers household last week. Peppi passed away. Peppi was the dog, but he was as near a member of a human household as an animal could be. Although he showed deep affection for all of us, his favorite was obviously Mrs. Rogers in whom he had the most complete faith and trust.

However, they all feel that the tax burden should be spread equally and that some select few should not have access to concessions that are not available to all. The tremendously heavy burden of taxation that has been the lot of the U. S. citizen for the past several years makes it all the more necessary that every possible effort be made to afford the so-called "little" people tax relief.

He would romp and play with all of the children, but when he was in trouble or needed someone to understand him, he would bypass all of us and go to Jean. According to the veterinarian, he contracted some kind of virus and was just never able to shake it off. No one gave up hope until the very last, but it just seemed to be God's will. As one of the children put it, "I don't know whether there is a dog heaven, but I am sure that if there is, that's where Peppi has gone."

I was starting out to write my views on the subject to the party above-named when my secretary (Continued on Page 6)

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

Candidates Begin Sharpening Needles

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN. — It's "needling" time in Texas. That is the period when those in office start feeling the barbs of those who have their eyes on the same office.
Filing deadline for the summer's primaries is May 5. In any pre-election period the "outs" have a busy season of looking for "bugs under chips." Any likely looking "bug" is hauled out to test public reaction on its value as future campaign fodder against the "ins."
But this year no one has to look hard. Texas' problems are all too obvious. Unemployment highs persist stubbornly into spring weeks. Oil, the state's No. 1 money-maker, is seriously bogged down. A multi-million-dollar deficit in state revenues is in prospect.
Hence: an open season for "viewing with alarm" and prospect of lively campaigns if some hard runners line up for major offices.

Water conservation has been one of Daniel's "most-pushed" projects since gubernatorial campaigning days.
Daniel said, in effect, the new Water Development Board had moved in a cloud of dust to get organized, set up rules, establish procedures, begin hearings and give preliminary approval to two projects — all within 90 days after taking oath of office.
Two projects, if finally approved, would lend $5,000,000 to the Sabine River Authority for a new lake and $350,000 to the Williamson County Water District No. 1 for a water diversion project.

STORM CELLAR GOOD INSURANCE

COLLEGE STATION. — If you were to see the destructive, black funnel of a tornado rushing directly toward your home, where would you and your family go for protection and safety?
No, this question is not far-fetched. In fact, many Texans have experienced this and other similar disasters from time to time. Many of them had never realized the value of a safe place just as we never miss the water until the well goes dry.
But, why not construct a storm cellar before a tornado strikes to remind you that you need one? It can be constructed easily without any special skills and only a few special tools.
Since tornadoes generally move from southwest to northeast, the storm cellar should be located southwest of the house. Its entrance should face northeast. It should be located far enough from the house that a falling wall, large trees or other debris will not block the entrance. Too, select a well-drained site which can be landscaped to harmonize with the home surroundings.
STORM CELLARS should be constructed strong enough to withstand the impact of falling debris. It should also be watertight, economical and relatively easy to keep.
The size of the cellar depends on expected use. For an extended period of comfortable occupancy, allow about 10 square feet of floor area per person. Short occupancy requires only about two square feet per person. Adequate ventilation should be provided.
Instructions on constructing a satisfactory storm cellar plus other information, such as other uses for the cellar, food storage, for example, is contained in a Texas Agricultural Extension Service leaflet, L-388, "The Disaster Cellar." It may be obtained from local county agents or the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Tex.

Accessory Care Is Club's Topic

Mrs. Paul Rudd presented a program on "Accessory Care in the Home" to the Westway Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. P. B. Sowell last Thursday.
Mrs. Rudd told the group, "Accessories for the home are defined as pillows, pictures, pot plants, collections and scatter rugs."
The group was shown pictures on how to improve a room by adding accessories to the decor. She explained how to revive old plastic lampshades by painting them with a spray paint. She suggested to put a thin coat of wax on brass wall plaques after cleaning them. This is to make them easier to clean thereafter.
The next meeting will be a luncheon at the Community House April 17 at 1 p.m. Mrs. Art Manjeot will show colored slides of flowers.
Present were Mesdames George Turrentine, Harold Rudd, Paul Rudd, Ken Rudd, Everett McIntosh, Beva Werner, Howard Walker, G. C. Merritt, Charles Owen and P. B. Sowell.

Dan True Speaks To Dawn P-TA

Dan True of Amarillo was guest speaker for the Dawn P-TA at the Dawn School house recently. The topic of his speech was "Tornadoes."

True told the group that even though there is radio, television and radar to help warn people of approaching tornadoes, "there isn't anything like our own two beady little eye balls to protect us from tornadoes."

A piano duet was presented by Mrs. Carl Wimberley and Phyllis Ann. Numbers which they played were Largo and Polonaise-A.

New officers were elected. They are Mrs. Ray Polan, president; Mrs. Jack Higgins, first vice president; Mrs. H. H. Miller, second vice president; Mrs. Ted Richardson, third vice president; Paul McClung, secretary, and Orval Galle, treasurer.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses who were Mrs. Ray Stewart, Mrs. Gayle Neal, Mrs. Melvin May and Mrs. Reece Stewart.

CIO is stoking the fire from outside.

TEC's member representing labor, R. F. Newman, blasted the fuss into orbit by accusing the other two members, Chairman Jerry Brown and Maurice Acers, of dealing him out of policy decisions. Brown represents the public and Acers the employers.

Argument focused initially on policy toward employees within the area. Newman contended moral of TEC's 2,000 employees was shot. They live in fear, he said, of knife-in-the-back retaliations, salary cuts and denials when their decisions offend trade groups, corporation lawyers or volunteer legal counselors.

Acers retalled in a letter to trade organizations and employers charging Newman and "representatives of organized groups" with using the recession to gain their own ends.

That brought AFL-CIO leaders into the fray. State President Jerry Holleman fired back that Acers was flagrantly wasting state funds for propaganda purposes. Acers was also accused of denying just claims for unemployment compensation and forcing workers to go to court for rightful benefits.

Acers had a reply for that, too. Merely another attempt by AFL-CIO to influence commission policies, he said.

TEC supervises collection of unemployment taxes from employers and payment of benefits to unemployed workers.

NO HELP FROM IKE — More tears than oil flow these days in Texas petroleum circles. President Eisenhower's token tightening of the voluntary oil import quota plan just won't help, oilmen say.

They had pled for an import crackdown to relieve the slump in demand for domestic oil. What they got was "much too little and much too late," said J. J. O'Brien of San Antonio, president of Texas

Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

Governor Daniel called the action from Washington wholly inadequate. Railroad Commissioner William J. Murray didn't see how the effort could be effective.

Eisenhower's plan called for a minute curtailment of voluntary imports of crude oil but left products untouched and the import door wide open to newcomers.

Texas fields were on a nine-day production pattern throughout March with an eight-day pattern ordered for April.

TWO PLUS TWO — In most educational circles, prime interest has shifted from "Why Johnny Can't Read" to "Why Johnny Can't Calculate the Orbit of a Satellite."

But even before Sputnik, the State Board of Education set up a special 20-member commission to study the effectiveness of mathematics teaching in Texas public schools.

School administrators, teachers and board members making up the commission began their one-year study at a meeting in Austin. Broad aims are to discover whether requirements are adequate, courses sound and teaching methods effective.

NO BREAK YET — Payments to the jobless hit a record high of $1,568,938 in one week, according to the Texas Employment Commission's latest report.

Number of persons filing compensation claims inched up from 89,309 the previous week to 92,435.

TEC's mid-February report showed some 75,000 persons covered by unemployment insurance out of work. At that time it was hoped that approach of spring would bring the usual pick-up in jobs.

Instead, unemployment has increased more than 20 per cent.

SHORT SHORTS — Miss Doris Connerly, legislative reference director for the State Library, was cited as "Public Employee of the Year" at the first awards banquet of the Austin chapter, American Society for Public Administration.

better kitchens and many other improvements to the homes as well as to farm service buildings.

"These loans are available to farm owners, either for themselves or their tenants."

Farm construction loans are made on favorable terms, for periods up to 33 years at four per cent interest. FHA serves farmers who are unable to obtain adequate credit through commercial or cooperative lenders. Loan applications are filed at the local county FHA office.

Meanwhile, to help solve the tight grain storage situation which USDA officials believe will arise this year, the Commodity Credit Corporation is urging farmers to build needed bins and cribs, and to expand present storage facilities and replace worn-out or unsatisfactory structures.

Under CCC's continuing farm storage and equipment loan program, producers can borrow up to 80 per cent of the cost of the new bins and cribs. The loans, made at four per cent interest, can be paid off over a period of five years.

"This is a prime opportunity for farmers to further their interests," Secretary Benson said. "The additional needed storage space farmers can obtain with CCC help now — will pay for itself."

Plan before you plant is a basic rule for successful vegetable gardening, says R. G. Hancock, extension horticulturist. Many vegetables grown in home gardens are wasted because too large a quantity of one vegetable matures at the same time. To avoid this trouble, Hancock suggests a succession of plantings in order to keep wastage to a minimum and more garden fresh vegetables available over a much longer period of time.

These bulletins from the agents' offices will help you in planning a successful and adequate vegetable garden: Your Families Food and How You Plan to Get It; Vegetable Gardening. Recipe of the week:

3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter, optional
1/4 cup lemon juice or vinegar

Mix dry ingredients, add egg yolks and milk and beat to blend. Stir in vinegar slowly. Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly until thickened. Stir in butter, if used. Makes 1 1/3 cups. To use, thin with fruit juices, milk, sweet or sour cream.

Reading the Label is a good motto for you whether you are buying fabric for a dress or crop seed for planting.

A few years ago no one could have made me believe home demonstration agents would be teaching farm women how to use dry milk but homemakers interested in trimming the food budget or keeping family figures in line, can rely on non-fat dry milk solids, or dry milk, to help. Dry milk is high in food value as only the fat, vitamin A and some of the amino acids contained in whole, fresh milk have been removed. This means fewer calories. It is less expensive than whole, fresh milk, and can be stored without refrigeration in its dry form. After it has been converted to liquid form, it should be refrigerated. There are many ways to use this nutritious food in family meals. It can be whipped for use as a dessert for the child and used as a beverage, converted into a delicious butter milk, or used in any recipe that calls for milk.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wives of some of the government's most famous officials recently contrib- uted their favorite recipes to a charity bazaar attended by Mrs. Eisen- hower and other notables. Here are some of the most interesting offerings:
MRS. RICHARD NIXON'S CHOCOLATE BUTTER COOKIES: Cream together 1 lb. butter or margarine and 1 cup sugar with 2 squares melted chocolate. Add 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon van- illa and 4 cups flour. Mix well, then chill, roll thin and cut. Bake in 400-degree oven for 10 or 15 min- utes. Makes about 8 dozen cookies.
MRS. RANDOLPH PATE (Wife of Marine Corps commandant) — SPOON BREAD: Scald 1/2 cup corn- meal in 1 pint scalded milk in top of double boiler. Add 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 well-beaten egg yolks. Fold in 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour in well-greased baking dish and cook in 375-degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve at once.

MRS. HOWARD SNYDER (Wife of President's physician) — TOMATO SOY RELISH: Cook to- gether until tender the following: 1 can tomatoes, 4 chopped onions, 1/2 cup chopped sour pickles, 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cin- namon, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1/4 tea- spoon paprika, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar. Add 1/2 teaspoon Worcester- shire sauce.
MRS. HAROLD E. STASSEN'S OLIVE, NUT AND CHERRY SAL- AD: Dissolve 1 package lemon gelatine in juice from a can of pitted Bing cherries, juice of 1 lemon and enough water to make two cups. When mixture begins to congeal, add cherries, 1 bottle stuf- fed olives and 1/2 cup blanched and shredded almonds. Pour into oiled ring mold. Chill until firm. Invert on platter of shredded lettuce. Sur- round with halved peaches filled with strawberries and serve with fruit mayonnaise.
MRS. SHERMAN ADAMS' MUSHROOM SPAGHETTI SAUCE: Melt about 1/8 lb. butter in chafing dish. Add about 2 tea- spoons minced onion and 2 tea- spoons minced chives. Simmer. Then add 1/3 cup cream. Mix and add 1 1/2 cups sliced canned or fresh mushrooms, 2 cups tomato sauce and dash of pepper. Let simmer for a few minutes. Sprinkle grad- ed Parmesan cheese on Spaghetti, then add sauce.
BURMESE EMBASSY — BEEF CURRY: Cut 1 lb. round steak or other lean beef into thin 2-inch strips. Put 2 oz. cooking oil in saucapan and when hot add 2 minced medium-size onions, 2 small pods crushed garlic, 1/2 tea- spoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon turmeric, and a granddaughter, Mary, brought Cecil home. We made ice cream." (In those days, ice cream was a special treat and I remember there was always a cake or two and plenty of cookies to go with it.)

Throughout the calendar were written comments on farm produce.

"Sold 42 dozen eggs at 15 cents, 4 hens for $2, 10 dozen eggs for $1.50 and 3 gallons of buttermilk for 30 cents."

"May 9, planted corn in the garden. A visitor, Seymore Patton, (a relative) came from Colorado. We went fishing this evening, caught two bass and five perch." (The old fishing hole was located a few miles south of their home on the Tierra Blanca Creek.)

"Cecil went to see Tom. (an uncle who worked for a rancher a few miles away)."

A notation which concerned tragedy in a rancher's home was, "A little girl died tonight." Notation the following day stated, "Buried in Canyon."

In those times birthdays meant a lot and were celebrated. The calendar listed three birthdays in the month of May. May 16, "Corinne's birthday - 16 years old." May 17, "Alice's birthday, 25 years old." May 31, Mama's birthday, 69 years old."

ON MAY 20 the calendar said, "Cal and I went to town. Sold eggs and butter for $2.25 at Joel." (Joel is now a switch. At that time railroad or section hands lived there.) "Mabel (a niece) came home with us in the wagon."

A later date had these listings. "Sold two roosters for 50 cents, two pounds of butter for 60 cents, three turkeys for $6." The household chores read, "I worked on my dress. Set out sweet potato slips. Finished the dress and swept floors. Cal is planting kaffir. I washed." (This was the day the wind blew a gale and it partly explains the next day.) "We dried the clothes. Went fishing, no luck."

She ironed the next morning according to the calendar. In those days wash days and ironing days were really work days. The washing was done on a board and the water carried in and out of a tub to do it. The ironing was sprinkled down by the tubful and was done with sad-irons.

The last notations of the month read, "Men went fishing, good luck. Paul came and Mabel went home." These nieces and nephews lived in town and it was a great treat to go home with the Walker family for a few days, especially with school out.

WE WILL SKIP now to the year 1919 and the month of May. This was reported to be a wet May, judging from the record kept by Cecil Walker. The farm planting seems to vary from that of today.

May 1, "Showered. Germany was to sign peace treaty today."

May 2, "Big hall in Hereford, fixed fence today and disked."

May 3, "We went to town today to see aeroplane. Troy Womble and Helen Sisk got to ride."

May 4, "Wind in the northeast. Planted corn, beans and peas in field and melons east of house."

May 5, "Wind in east and cloudy. Planted kaffir."

May 6, "Rainy looking in west. Family made trip to Hereford and Umbarger for seed."

May 7, "Rained a good rain. Ma ironed today."

May 8, "Still cloudy, big for in morning. Worked on drill. Ma washed."

May 9, "Broke sod today. Plowed the garden."

May 10, "Came a good rain. Went to town, stayed all night."

May 11, "Went to town round by Sulphur Park. Sold $4.15 eggs. Grandma came home with us."

May 12, "Still cloudy and rainy. Mr. and Mrs. Money stopped by awhile. Planted maize."

May 13, "Planted more kaffir today."

May 14, "Wind in northeast and cool."

May 15, "Very still and warm."

May 16, "Wind in southeast."

May 17, "Came up a little shower."

May 18, "Good rain. Stayed in town all night. Took grandma home."

May 19, "Had about one half inch rain. We came home on passenger train today."

May 20, "Set out cabbage and tomato plants. Fixed milk trough."

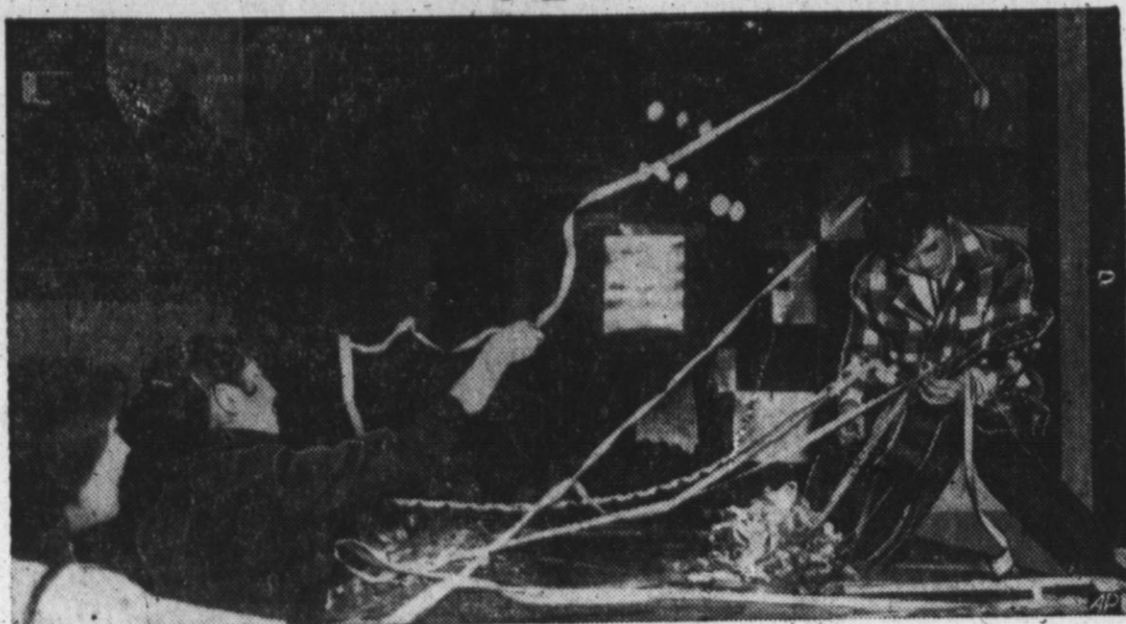

May 21, "Several showers today. Perry Wheeler came home this morning." (a friend who was in the army.)

May 22, "Plowed sod and harrowed beans and corn."

May 23, "Wind blew a gale from southeast."

May 24, "Cold day, wind got up from the north about 9:30 last night."

Japanese Younsters Go Wild For Western-Type Rock 'n' Roll

REAL GONE—Keijiro Yamashita, aping Western rock 'n' roll performers, drops to his knees but keeps twanging guitar as fans scream and throw streamers.

TOKYO (AP) — The Wild West has moved East, and rockabilly music is jolting its way to the top of the Japanese hit parade.

"This is one of the biggest booms we've ever had," said the manager of Tokyo's Nichigeki Theater. Some 7,000 teen-agers a day are packing the seats — and aisles — of the big vaudeville house for the "Western Carnival," a chaotic hoedodgepodge of the latest American tunes, sung with a pretzellegged Elvis Presley delivery, slam-twangling guitars and garbled lyrics.

The Japanese difficulty with "R's" and "L's" in English — plus ready admission by the singers that they don't understand the words anyway — makes the tunes come out something like: "Ret's go on a moonlight swim," or "Lock around the crock," and "Just-a ronesome cowboy."

"What difference does it make?" said one American in the audience. "You can't hear the music for the screeching."

The audience — wearing sideburns, blue jeans, black student uniforms with only a few throwbacks in kimonos — goes wild over such up and coming groups as the "Chuck Wagon Boys," the "All Stars Wagon," and the "Crazy West."

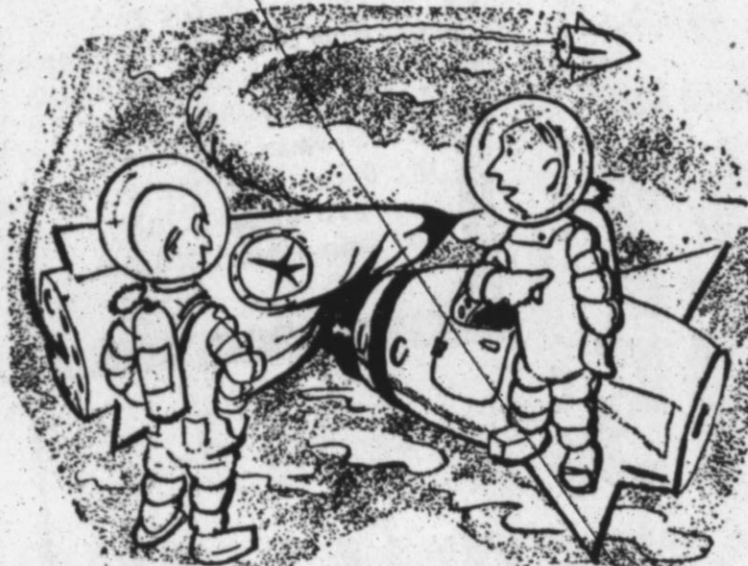

Where did it all start? From the American juke boxes around Tokyo. Few of the hundreds of rock-abilly singers and musicians working in the city can read music, but instead lift the notes and lyrics direct from American records.

The Presley-inspired gyrations of the singers serve a functional purpose on a Japanese stage. A rightly-timed wiggle can save a vocalist from getting beamed by a paper streamer with a weighted end, or getting pulled off the stage into the crowd.

The show's finale is a tour de force which draws out even the audience. On stage are 50 or 60 assorted dancers in left bank western costumes, two pianos, two drummers, three bass fiddles and 15 — count 'em — 15 guitars.

"I don't like the music much myself," admits Theater Manager Kenkichi Katsuyama. "But why fight the trend? Business is off the stage into the crowd."

"I'll be right back... I'm going to call my agent," discovered that there was no address and that the signature on the letter was not the name of anyone, but was "a constituent" spelled backward.

Frankly, I would appreciate it if everyone who writes would sign their name. Whether we agree or disagree on a subject, we live in a country where every citizen has the right to express himself without fear of retaliation. I feel very deeply about the freedom of speech, and I do hope no one will hesitate to sign their right name to any mail addressed to my office. The President's Press Conference — The newspapers here have praised the President's recent press conference. They take the position that the President came forth with some affirmative views for the first time in several of these conferences — the most notable being the President's position with relation to our future activities in moving into outer space.

The columnists and commentators seem to think that the President's position on this subject, in conjunction with the excellent results that have been attained by the Army and Navy in putting satellites in orbit, will do so very much toward regaining the "face" that we lost because Russia was the first to accomplish entry into outer space. The great fear that seemed to engulf many of our people immediately after the Russians sent up their two "sputniks" seems to have calmed, and it is generally conceded now that we were not nearly so far behind as some propagandists would have had us believe. The President's statement as to our future plans has proved most reassuring.

VISITORS It was good to see some of the delegates to the National Association of Rural Electric Cooperatives here in Washington last week. They included Mr. Leo Forrester of Hereford, Mr. A. T. Frye of Dawn, and Mr. George Henry from Wellington. We also had a fine visit with Charles Ford from White Deer who stopped off in Washington for a few days to see the sights. Mrs. W. T. Aaron, who teaches school in Amarillo and whose husband was here attending the President's Conference on Occupational Safety, also came by the office.

The magazine "Mexico This Month" recently devoted almost an entire issue to "lost treasures. Here are just a few:

MOCTEZUMA'S LOST TREASURE — Axayacatl, father of the last Aztec emperor, accumulated the fantastic hoard. Moctezuma sealed it up in his palace. When the Spaniards invaded Mexico and took the Aztec capital, they found the treasure, stole much of it, fleeing before frantic Aztecs, the Spanish soldiers lugged all they could carry. But many were so greedy their loads were more than they could handle, and they drowned in the surrounding canals. The Aztecs recovered much of it, buried it. This hoard, and more of the Aztec treasures never discovered, is still there. Somewhere. Some say in the Valley of Toluca.

QUETZALCOATL'S FORTUNE — This dates back into legendary days before Moctezuma. Quetzalcoatl was an Aztec God whose wealth could not be estimated. It was buried in a place described as Atepanamechco, to this day a mystery. But it is thought to be near Tula.

THE CONDOY TRIBAL TREASURE — The powerful chief Condoy buried his tribe's fortune in a cave during a major battle with the Zapotecs. He lost, the treasure was lost, too. It is in Oaxaca, somewhere in the mountains known as Zempoaltepeque.

PERSISTENT ELK JACKSON, Wyo. — A large bull elk roamed the streets of Jackson for several days this-winter before finally given a bum's rush out of town.

THE SACRED WELL OF CHICHEN ITZA — To appease the Rain God, the Mayans hurled human sacrifices carrying valuable ornaments and jewelry into a deep sacred well. Some of this treasure has been found, and is in the Peabody Museum of Harvard University. Much remains undiscovered.

Residents of the little resort community just couldn't keep the elk out of the business district. He just kept hanging around.

Treasure is believed to exist near all the old ruins — and many ruins have not even been found in Mexico's jungles and isolated mountain areas.

But not all of the nation's hidden wealth dates back to archaeological or conquest days.

Pirate chests exist, and many have been found. During the Revolution, wealthy men buried their possessions, dropped them in wells, or sealed them in the thick walls of their haciendas.

More definite, and easier to find but harder to recover, are the treasures that went down to the sea in ships — and then sank.

Harry E. Rieseberg, self-identified as a deep-sea treasure salvor, lists these, among others:

The steamer "Golden City" sank off the coast of Baja California Feb. 22, 1870, with $500,000 plus a valuable general cargo.

The "Golden Gate" rests some 400 feet off Manzanillo, under 20 fathoms of water, with gold bullion and silver specie originally totalling $1,500,000. It sank in 1862.

Residents of the little resort community just couldn't keep the elk out of the business district. He just kept hanging around.

About $500,000 was recovered by a small expedition, the rest remains under 15 feet of sand. Included in the treasure are $35,000 in rare octagonal $50 U. S. gold coins, minted just once and discontinued.

They're said to be worth about $165 each now.

But long before these days, older treasure-laden ships went to the bottom along Mexico's Gulf and Pacific coasts. There was the Spanish galleon "Bueno Jesus" en route to Madrid in 1596, deliberately sunk near Puerto Morelos, Yucatan, to prevent capture by pirates. It is supposed to hold millions.

Love Licks Airline Anti-Marriage Rule

CUPID WINS—Mrs. Lorrie Jern, 24, of Dorset, Minn., shows wedding ring to fellow stewardess Eileen Hunt, of Holden, Mo. Mrs. Jern is still on the job after recent marriage.

KANSAS CITY — Wedding bells no longer signal an end to the careers of airline stewardesses.

At least one major airline has surrendered to Cupid and the other big domestic lines have granted him a number of concessions.

These concessions were probably inevitable but it was taken almost 27 years to dent the once non-yielding airline policy that required a stewardess either to resign or to accept a ground position if she married.

The policy changes are not attributable to any decline in the supply of attractive, young, unmarried ladies. It is rather an attempt to slow down the turnover detouring from the aisle of a modern airliner to the aisle of matrimony.

In 1938 TWA had only 60 stewardesses. Today there are almost 1,400. Because of the turnover, the airline trained 583 hostesses in 1956 and about the same number or more in 1957.

Marion Filkins, in-flight service director, says the first change made in the policy gave former hostesses grounded by marriage the opportunity to return to flying on a permanent basis provided they could meet the other requirements. She adds:

"The vast majority contacted were of the opinion that they didn't think the uniform would fit them since they had started raising their own crop of hostesses and pilots."

The airline also decided to allow those already in service to continue to fly after marriage if they wished to do so and as long as they too continued to meet the other requirements.

As TWA was formulating its new policy a pretty 24-year-old blonde was in the midst of the usual pre-marriage preparations at her home in Wheaton, Minn.

"I was really thrilled," says Mrs. Lorrie Jern, "when they called from Kansas City just three days before my marriage to inform me that I wouldn't have to resign."

Lorrie became the first TWA stewardess to marry and continue her flight duties when her father, the Rev. Arthur Dirks united her in marriage on Sept. 7 with Jean Jern.

While the airline has relaxed its policy considerably, it still will not hire married women and train them as hostesses, nor will it hire divorcees.

Turkey now has 139,155 telephones, more than double the number of five years ago.

A flippant young man had just been urged by his friend to attend to spiritual matters. Unimpressed, he shrugged his shoulder and answered, "I've still got a lot of time for religion. Remember the thief on the cross?"

"Which one?" asked the more serious young man.

Yes, which one? There were two thieves crucified with Christ. For one the eleventh hour was too late.

Someone has said, "He who postpones repentance a single day has one more day to repent of and one less day to repent in."

The Bible tells us: "Now is the day of salvation."

If you have not yet found forgiveness for your sins through faith in the Christian Gospel, our Church extends to you a most hearty invitation.

SIZE 20 SALES LADY:

Anyone Can Wear Chemise

By DOROTHY ROE
Staff Press Women's Editor

Do you think you can't wear a chemise?
"Look at Mrs. Charlotte Winters, saleslady for dress manufacturer Abe Schrader, who got hearing buyers say: 'order the chemise in sizes 14, but none larger.'"
Winters is a woman of convictions. She felt if a style is good, everybody wear it. So she bought a dress from the line and then wearing it in the show-demonstrating to buyers the new fashion need not be to mere wisps of girls with straw figures.
Winters is a woman of general proportions. She is 5 feet 8 inches and wears a size 20 dress. Buyers seen steering firmly away from the new sack styles for larger women until they saw Charlotte Winters. Then things changed.

SEEING IS BELIEVING—Charlotte Winters, saleslady for dress manufacturer Abe Schrader, wears a size 20 chemise in beige silk linen, to convince store buyers in showroom.

buyers came, saw and captured. Orders for chemises in sizes 18 and 20 picked up briskly.
Winters picked one of the extreme styles on the line—completely unfitted sack dress, with a full envelope back. She was able to see that it fitted perfectly—shoulders, bust and neckline. She wore it in the salon the next day, the comments were unanimous: "It honestly makes you look like a woman usually can't wear a dress in a size smaller than your usual dress size, and this is for morale."

There's a Flaw in Our Frozen Foods Testing

Bacteria commonly occur in foods, and wholesomeness largely depends on the number present. But in our testing of foods to learn whether they are contaminated—and if so, how much—we inadvertently destroy many bacteria before we have a chance to count them.

USDA research on precooked and frozen foods has shown ways to preserve a sample's bacteria long enough to count them and find just how wholesome the food is.

ARS bacteriologists R. P. Straka and J. L. Stokes, of the Western Utilization Research and Development Division, Albany, Calif., found that commonly used diluting agents such as tap water, physiologic saline solution, and distilled and phosphate-buffered distilled water cause fast and extensive destruction of bacteria.

FOR INSTANCE, research showed that in food samples treated with distilled water, 40 to 60 per cent of the aerobic sporeformers, pseudomonads, and other common inhabitants of food died within 20 minutes, 90 per cent within an hour. In similar tests with saline water and phosphate-buffered distilled water, from 20 to 30 per cent died within 20 minutes, 80 per cent within an hour.

Researchers found that these losses could be avoided by using diluents containing complex protein nutrient substances—peptone and yeast extract, or mixtures of amino acids and even single amino acids.

As little as 0.1 per cent was enough to give full protection to bacteria for at least an hour, provided the solution wasn't brought down below pH 6 by the food sample. This period of time is long enough to make it possible to count all bacteria accurately.

Use of a nutrient solution such as peptone would seem to encourage bacterial growth. Tests showed, however, that such growth occurred only after about two hours.

Yeast extract, casein hydrolyzate, glutamic acid, and glycine big western. Admission for children will be 25 cents and each child will be given two candy Easter eggs.

also protect bacteria long enough so they can be counted. Ammonium sulfate may give some protection. Glucose and dextrin aren't very effective, but sucrose seems to give some protection.

DEGREE OF ERROR in counting will vary with the number of sensitive bacterial cells present. length of time they're in contact with water, and size of the initial bacterial population. Frequently, food with few bacteria shows smaller losses than food with many bacteria.

Not all types of bacteria die rapidly when placed in tap or saline water; some survive for hours and even days. But the more common food bacteria die quickly.

Reasons for the marked sensitivity of some bacteria and the resistance of others to destruction in water and saline solution aren't known. Nor is it known definitely how peptone and related organic nitrogenous substances protect the sensitive bacteria. It will take further investigations to provide the explanation.

Bacterial-contamination tests are usually made by macerating and diluting a sample. Then the food suspension is mixed with nutrient agar in plating dishes and incubated. Each living organism forms a colony that can be counted; from this count, the number of organisms in the original sample is calculated.

Group Takes Austin Trip

By MRS. E. L. PINNELL
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Pounds, Ninette and Billie Grubkey accompanied Nell Pounds this weekend on a trip to Austin to visit Mrs. Nell Pounds who is taking further nurse's training there. Billie visited her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Grubkey, who are attending Texas University. Members of the Wesley Players, a religious drama association of the Methodist Student Center of Texas Tech, Lubbock, presented a service Saturday night at the Methodist church. The play was entitled "The Crown of Thorns" and was written by Elliott Fields. In the group were Hugh Smith, Kay Lee Smith, Carl Mathis, Jennice Marsk, Robert Sewell, Carol Cummings, Sue Mims, Jerry Matthews and Ann Henry. The group enjoyed supper at the D. W. Morgan home. They were sponsored by the MYF and the WSCS. Refreshments were served after the service in the Fellowship Hall. They spent the night in various homes in town. Mrs. John Proctor was absent last week from the school cafeteria. She was visiting with her mother, Mrs. Jim Kelley, at Tucumcari, N. M., where Mrs. Kelley is in the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Engle and family left Friday for Houston where Mrs. Engle is to undergo heart surgery in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Proctor are the parents of a son who was born Saturday in an Amarillo hospital. Baby and mother are reported to be doing fine. Mrs. Lillie Horton and Mrs. John Horton visited in the R. L. Pinnell home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Ward of Hereford was guest speaker to the WSCS Tuesday night for the last four studies of St. Mark. Accompanying Mrs. Ward was the R. L. Fuhrman family, formerly of Adrian, now of Hereford.

Standish Descendents Speak for Themselves

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP)—More than 300 years ago, legend relates, a Pilgrim named Myles Standish was unable to speak for himself and thereby lost the prize.

Intervening centuries have brought a change. Descendants of the silent Standish are speaking for themselves, and winning prizes for doing it.

The latest is Betsy Cushman, 16, of Mechanicsburg. An 11th generation descendant of Capt. Standish, Betsy already has won speech contests, and her mother, Mrs. Robert Cushman, won one in the late 1920s.

Betsy's ancestor is most often remembered because Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote a poem 100 years ago called "The Courtship of Miles (Longfellow changed the spelling) Standish." It tells of the Pilgrim's inability to propose to Priscilla Mullens, the girl he loved.

According to Longfellow, he asked his friend John Alden to propose for him, which set the stage for Priscilla's famous reply: "Speak for yourself, John." John did, and Priscilla married him instead of Standish. Historians dispute the truth of the tale, but not the existence of Standish, who died in 1656.

Although she doesn't have her ancestor's reputed reluctance to speak, Betsy appears to be just as much a leader as the Pilgrim captain. She's head band-majorette at her high school during the football season and a varsity cheerleader during basketball season.

Her great grandmother, a daughter of a seventh generation descendant of Standish, moved from New York to Ohio in the early 1800s, married Charles Cushman and began the present branch of the family.

Betsy isn't shy about proposals of marriage, either. She says she's already had one, and it's under discussion.

Boxes Protect Spuds in Shipment

Potatoes that show bruises, scraped places in the skin, and discoloration often get that way during shipment to market. How to protect them against such damage? U. S. Department of Agriculture market researchers decided a change of container might help. Would fiberboard boxes carry potatoes more safely than the conventional bags?

California Long White potatoes shipped in ventilated fiberboard boxes to eastern markets come through in much better condition than those shipped in bags, according to studies made in seven terminal markets and five packing plants. Fifteen test shipments were checked.

All showed that the boxed potatoes arrived with less bruising and discoloring. Boxes were especially helpful against the bruising that occurs especially on the floor layer of railroad cars. Although some boxes compressed slightly when loaded at floor level, neither the appearance of the containers nor the condition of the potatoes was affected.

About 21 per cent of the potatoes shipped in bags were skinned and discolored on arrival, the studies showed, but only 11 per cent in fiberboard boxes showed such damage.

The boxes cost more as did packing labor and shipping in boxes. The report indicates that most of the potato trade felt that addition-

Inventor Says New Hydrofoil Boat Is a Big Improvement

HYDROFOIL SPEEDSTER—German Engineer Friedrich Wendel has built a hydrofoil he calls a major improvement on earlier models. The boat's "wings," connected to hull by thin legs, always remain completely submerged and thus are unaffected by wave action. Wendel also has moved propellers to the front of the boat.

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—A Hamburg engineer has come up with a new version of the hydrofoil boat he thinks will send earlier models scurrying to drydock.

Hydrofoil boats — which use various kinds of fins to lift a hull completely clear of the water at top speed — are out of the dream stage. Two of them, for instance, are in regular ferry service between Italy and Sicily carrying up to 75 passengers at 50 m.p.h.

But Friedrich H. Wendel, 37-year-old marine engineer who designed torpedo boats for Hitler's navy, has a new twist.

In the most common form of hydrofoil, the boat's "wings" extend from the hull in a curve, with more and more of their surface appearing above the water as speed increases. Wendel says this is a severe disadvantage. Waves strike the exposed portions of the wings and cause the boat to pitch and roll, and could throw it out of control.

In his system, the wings always remain completely submerged. Wave action can only effect the three slender legs connecting wings with the hull. He also has moved propellers from the conventional aft position to the bow wings. Wendel says his craft handles like an airplane. During "take-off" its nose is pulled up, going around turns the boat is banked. The maneuvers are accomplished with an aviation-style steering gear.

A 30-foot model — with legs long enough to lift the boat above three-foot waves — has been built. This summer, Wendel hopes to begin construction of a 64-foot version that he says could carry 65 passengers at a cruising speed of 40 knots. He maintains the boat would be seaworthy and could carry passengers from Cuxhaven, Germany, to the North Sea island of Helgoland.

"The only thing holding me back is money," Wendel said in an interview. "But if all goes according to plan, I should have enough financial support in a couple of months."

Wendel has been plugging away at his dreamboat since 1951. He has demonstrated the model to various parties, including the U. S. Navy.

The Soviet Union recently announced that Russian engineers have built a hydrofoil boat that can carry 75 passengers and now are working on a sea-going model to carry 300.

SHERIFF'S OPINION

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—If Sheriff Leonard A. Friberg has his say, there'll be no padded cells in the Winnebago County jail.

He spoke his piece after the grand jury recommended the sheriff seek an appropriation for at least two padded cells to facilitate handling of mental patients. He discussed the problem with County Judge Fred J. Kullberg.

"A jail is no place for those people," said Friberg. "They should go to a hospital with a security section."

U.S. Women Know Their Spices

AP Newsfeatures

American women are becoming gourmet cooks, and the American kitchen now is stocked with a wide variety of herbs and spices.

This is indicated by a recent survey made by a pharmaceutical company which discovered that women were re-using their apothecary vitamin jars as herb and spice containers. To encourage the trend, the company decided to offer a kit of herb and spice labels together with a recipe booklet along with their vitamins.

At first they offered only eight labels: allspice, cinnamon, cloves, mustard, nutmeg, oregano, parsley and pepper — the most common spices. Housewives throughout the country, when queried, said eight labels were not nearly enough. They requested the following additions: ginger, sage, thyme, celery seed, curry, basil, savory and marjoram.

A few years ago, many of these herbs and spices were little known or used in the average American home. But interest in gourmet foods has doubled the national spice shelf.

Texans Slate First Time-Morrow Duel

BIG SPRING, Tex. — The men who stage the American Business Club Relays are still pinching themselves to see if it's for real.

They have had the choice track feature of the year handed them on a silver platter.

It's the first sprint due in nearly two years between Bobby Morrow, 100 and 200 meter Olympic champion, and Dave Sime, who many think would have won had he gone to the Melbourne games.

Morrow and Sime haven't clashed since 1956, when Sime beat the Abilene Christian star in the Drake Relays then lost to Bobby in the NCAA 100 meters.

Sime, the world record smasher from Duke, pulled a muscle running against Morrow in the NCAA AA 200 meters and couldn't try out for the Olympic Games.

Last year Sime passed up the NCAA in favor of baseball, this didn't test his legs against Morrow, who repeated as champion in both sprints.

The first '58 meeting between the two was set for the Penn Relays April 26. Then Duke Coach Bob Chambers discovered that a schedule mixup had left him with an open date the first week in April.

He called officials of the ABC Relays and asked if he could bring

DAVE SIME
... A Silver Platter

Sime and the rest of the Blue Devil team to Big Spring for the meet April 4 and 5.

ABC officials almost dropped their teeth but they hastened to assure Chambers they'd sure like to have him, especially since Abilene Christian already had entered, thus making possible a Sime-Morrow duel.

Then they approached Coach Oliver Jackson of Abilene Christian. They feared Jackson might not want to pit his star against Sime because the Duke flash had been running indoors during the winter whereas Morrow had had no competition.

Jackson turned out to be enthusiastic.

The two can't run the 220 here because that event isn't carried on the program but they will meet in the 100 and in the 440-yard relay. Each is anchor man.

ABC officials are getting applications for tickets from all over the country. The stadium seats only 10,000 and they can see already that there'll be a sell-out and a lot of people outside wanting to get in.

STERNWHEELER SAVED

SUMMIT, N. J. — A calliope has been termed at least partially responsible for saving the S. S. Delta Queen, America's last surviving sternwheeler overnight passenger boat.

Edwin J. Quinby, a 64-year-old Summit resident who loves Calliope music and played that instrument for two weeks on the Delta Queen many years ago, purchased the ship with friends to keep it running.

The Delta Queen will ply the Ohio, Tennessee and Mississippi rivers.

Easter Morning

Christ the Lord is risen today, Hallelujah! The Rugged Cross and the dark tomb have both been snatched from their association with death. Christmas is sanctified in Easter. Christ is risen! Heavenly love turned Dark Friday into Good Friday... an event packed with all the drama of human emotion and Divine sacrifice. He lives and we, too, shall live, in the measure in which we learn to kiss the Cross... our cross as well as His. His promise, "Three days and I shall build this temple again," has been fulfilled. It is the time for beginning again... time to start anew. Golgotha and Crucifixion take on radiant beauty when they are seen through the fragrant glory of the Easter lily. That is where the spirit was triumphant over death. So, Raise your joys and triumphs high, Hallelujah!

It is Easter!

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then why on Sunday "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

ADVANTAGE OF TURNPIKE—Fore plaza at Dallas end of Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike illustrates convenience provided motorists for paying fares to ride the $58 1/2-million super-highway. More exit lanes than entrance lanes speeds up movement of traffic, and it's one of a total of two stops turnpike travelers make, compared with 45 traffic lights on U. S. Highway 80 and 19 on U. S. Let Us Forget: When we view Christ on the Cross, the question arises, How could men be so cruel? It is a revelation of the abysmal depths of our sinful condition. How could God be so severe? It is a revelation of the wrath of God for sin when Christ took it all upon Himself. "God spared not His own Son." How could the Innocent Savior endure such agonies? It is a revelation of His infinite love which paid the penalty of our guilt. "By His stripes we are healed." A most cordial welcome to you!

WALCOTT NEWS

Bill Steward's Brother Dies

By MRS. T. L. COLLINS Bill Steward received word Thursday of the death of his brother, John Berkeley Steward, 66, a farmer near Dekalk. He was found dead that morning following a heart attack. Bill attended the funeral of his brother Friday afternoon. He returned home Monday.

Wednesday Walcott students saw two films. They were "10,000 Feet Deep" and "The Birth of An Oil Well."

Friday the principal, Thomas L. Collins, took a bus load of children to Hereford where the speech teacher, Carroll Hickey, heard their declamatory speeches and judged them. Winners were: Gay Wyly and John Perrin, first place; Phyllis Tice and Keith Henderson, second place, and Adair Melton and Ronnie Buse, third place.

In the junior division the winners were Kahryn Burrus and Clyde Lockhart, first place; Diane Jack and Johnny Buse, second place, and Betty Lockhart and James Burrus, third place.

Others making the trip were Rose Neinst, Geneva Cates and Elizabeth Burrus. The first and second place winners will compete in the District Interscholastic League Meet in Happy Wednesday, April 2.

Friday afternoon the Walcott community had high winds, heavy rains, sleet and snow all within 15 minutes. By the time school was out the sun was shining all that could be seen were puddles of water.

Farm and Ranch club met at the school Friday night. Several Walcott people attended the performance in the Hereford High School auditorium Friday night of "Oklahoma." It was presented by the high school mixed choir. Attending were Mrs. Virgil Bomar and Don, Travis Shields and Thomas L. Collins and Bruce.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Shelton spent Saturday in Amarillo transacting business. Travis Shields graduated from Television Electronics Institute at Albuquerque, N. M., Tuesday. He came home Wednesday with a friend, Gene Jojola. Jojola is to be here for a few days visit. Larry Minks was 11 years old April 2. The boys in his classroom gave him a party Friday morning. Refreshments were served.

A cottage prayer meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Perrin Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller and sister, Frank Merrell of Hayti, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Collins were present.

Easter Suits Star Chemise Blouse

MIDDY—This white linen midy with navy trim is perfect with a navy Easter suit and makes a smart outfit when worn with skirt alone.

CHEMISE BLOUSE—This cocoa linen overblouse exactly matches the spring suit with which it is worn, may be worn without jacket.

SILK PRINT—Spring suit magic in a colorful print with flattering neckline.

By DOROTHY ROE, Associated Press Women's Editor
Easter suits have a dividend this spring.
The new chemise blouses which they require team up with suit skirts to make a coordinated costume that often looks like a two-piece dress when the jacket is removed.
Blouses are more important in the spring fashion picture this season than in many years. The most important style is the chemise overblouse, hipbone length, just slightly shorter than the boxy jacket, which often is worn open.

The new blouses are soft and feminine in styling and are shown in many handsome fabrics, from printed silk to linen, always carefully coordinated with the suit color. Sometimes the blouse is shown in linen or chiffon exactly matching the suit. Sometimes it is a contrasting color or print matching the jacket lining.

Next in importance to the chemise blouse is the blouson, which is bloused over a band or drawstring, but worn outside the skirt. This is particularly effective in chiffon or very light-weight silks.
Some of the new details to look for when you go shopping for your spring blouse wardrobe are: wide necklines, tailored slotted vents or shirtdetail finish on chemise blouses, feminine touches such as neckline bows or jabots, lace edgings, panel inserts, colorful trimmings of applique and embroidery.

When buying a chemise or midy type blouse, it is important to be sure that it hangs smoothly and fits snugly at the neckline. Then you can remove your jacket with pride.

Beauty At Home

Q. I am embarrassed about the freckles on my face. Is there anything I can do?

A. There certainly is nothing at all "embarrassing" about freckles. Indeed, many of our famous beauties are freckled, and freckles can well be a part of one's personality and charm. Naturally, though, if you are inclined to "spot" profusely in the sun, the answer is to avoid undue exposure to Sol's rays by protecting the face with a broad-brimmed hat or an extra-heavy application of makeup base.

Q. How can I make a good job of cleaning my facial pores?

A. By use of a complexion brush and soap lather, giving the skin a hard, but gentle and firm, rotary movement. Concentrate on the areas where fat glands are most active, generally around nose and chin. A brush is your best bet for a good cleansing.

Q. What is an exercise for relieving tired and aching feet?

A. Here are a couple of good ones: In the first, hold the feet on a book and repeatedly curl and uncurl the toes over the edge of the book. In the second, procure a sawed-off section of broom handle and roll the bottom of the feet back and forth over this.

Q. What treatment will remove grass stains from some of my dresses?

A. For washables, rub with a clean cloth dipped in kerosene, then wash in soapy water. For unwashables, use alcohol or carbon tetrachloride.

Q. My foundation makeup seems always to dry very fast on my skin, which is quite dry. Is there something I can do about this?

A. Try leaving a thin film of your cleansing cream on when you apply your foundation makeup.

Q. What is the best method of eyebrow tweezing?

A. Remember, every hair counts! Never touch the top line itself, but take out strays above it. If the brow is too wide, remove one by one the lowest line of hairs and all those below it. Before starting your tweezing, run cotton dampened with skin-freshener over the eyebrows and surrounding area. It will act as a mild antiseptic and tone for the skin for less painful pulling. Also, repeat this at the end of your tweezing.

Q. What should be my initial steps when I begin to see dandruff appearing on my scalp?

A. More frequent brushings, scalp massages, and shampoos are your best answers. Hot-oil treatments are beneficial, too.

Q. What is a good rule to observe regarding powder shade for a suntanned skin?

A. Choose a powder to supply what the tan lacks. If the sun gives you a yellow tan, use a copper powder to add warmth. If your tan is on the reddish side, use a brownish powder — one with no red in it.

Q. Is there any cream or lotion that will eradicate bags or circles under the eyes?

A. While there are creams that will HIDE these things, there are none that will CURE them. Only intelligent living and good health will ward off these blemishes.

Q. How can I cause a rather heavy jaw to appear less noticeable?

Household Scrapbook

Paint Spots
To remove a paint spot from a woolen garment, even if it has become hard and dry, use equal parts of ammonia and turpentine, well diluted with water. Wet the spot thoroughly several times, then wash with soapsuds.

Roast Beef
The flavor and color of roast beef will be improved if a tablespoonful of brown or white sugar is added to the gravy when basting the beef.

Velvets
Place a funnel in the spout of a teakettle and you will be able to cover a larger area with steam when renewing velvets.

Gelatin
The gelatin will not take so long to harden if only a quarter of the amount of liquid is added while boiling hot and after the gelatin has been dissolved adding the rest of the liquid as cold as possible.

Winter Window Washing
A little salt added to hot water will permit you to wash windows even in the coldest weather without any danger of their freezing.

Fruit Tarts
Mix a little cornstarch with the sugar before adding the sugar, when making fruit tarts, and it will not only make the juice thick but will prevent its boiling over.

Foot Bath
The mustard foot bath should be prepared by dissolving the mustard in cold water first, then adding it to the hot water. If the mustard is just poured into the hot water, it is liable to stick to the skin and cause a blister.

Mashed Potatoes
Mashed potatoes, or any other similar vegetable, can be made light and fluffy by adding 1/2-teaspoonful of baking powder to every three cups of the mashed vegetable.

Cleaning Chinchilla
Borated talcum powder is a good medium to use for cleaning chinchilla.

Bluing Streaks
Do you have trouble with bluing streaks in your laundry? If so,

How Can I?

By Anne Ashby

Q. How can I blanch almonds?
A. By placing in boiling water for a few minutes. Remove skins, dry and brown in heated butter on top of stove, stirring constantly. Remove from fire when they are very light brown, then drain on brown paper and sprinkle with salt.

Q. How can I make a celluloid cement?
A. Use one part camphor and four parts alcohol. Dissolve and add to this solution an equal quantity, by weight, of shellac.

Q. How can I get more cream out of milk?
A. Heat the milk until lukewarm; then chill it, and it will bring more cream to the surface.

Q. How can I renew dull patent leather?
A. The dull patent leather bag, or other articles of this leather, can be made to look like new by rubbing it thoroughly with a little milk and then polishing with a dry cloth.

Q. How can I clean varnished wall paper?
A. Melt a bar of yellow soap and pour into a pan of warm water. Apply with a soft whitewash brush. Do not have the brush too wet.

Q. How can I keep lettuce crisp and fresh for several days?
A. It will stay crisp if washed thoroughly, the leaves separated, then put into a tin receptacle with an air-tight cover.

Q. How can I clean silver slippers?
A. Silver slippers can be cleaned with very finely powdered alabaster. Take up some of the powder with a soft brush and rub until the surface becomes bright and clean. Then polish with another brush until the powder is removed and the luster appears.

Q. How can I remedy cream that seems too thick to whip properly?
A. Place the dish of cream in another dish containing cold water. When it is chilled, place it in a dish of hot water for a few minutes. It will then whip very readily.

Q. How can I easily clean sponges?
A. Soak them in milk for three or four hours, wring them until perfectly dry, then rinse thoroughly in hot water.

Q. How can I remove fat from soup?
A. All fat should be removed from the top of soup, as it is indigestible. Use a spoon to do this with a spoon, wet a cloth with cold water, wipe over the top of the soup and the hot fat will adhere to the cloth.

Q. How can I make the taste of olive oil more palatable?
A. A small pinch of salt added to the olive oil will make the taste more agreeable.

HERE FROM SUDAN
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Masten, Gale, Dale and Danny of Sudan, visited with relatives in Hereford last Sunday.

first dissolve your bluing thoroughly in a small quantity of boiling water, stir, and then add it to the rinsing water. This will avoid streaks.

Chapped Hands
Rub a little cornstarch on the hands before hanging out clothes on a cold day, and it will prevent chapping.

Crankcase Crisis!

It seems this nice old lady drove into a Phillips 66 Station to fill up with Flite-Fuel. When the attendant checked the dipstick, he found she had only about a quart of oil left in her car. When he pointed this out, she replied: "Fine... as soon as I use that up, I'll put in some more!"

Of course the Phillips Dealer explained that she needed five quarts of oil for adequate lubrication!

Now that spring is here, it's time to think about the oil in your crankcase. If you are still using "winter grade" oil, it's time to change it. But why use two, when one will do? Better switch to Phillips 66 Trop-Artic which gives you the effects of 10w, 20 and 30 grade oils. Compared to old-fashioned oils Trop-Artic Motor Oil can actually double engine life. Drive in today for your spring change-over. *A trademark

In any case, wouldn't YOU say one is enough?

1. For needed protection
2. For adequate coverage
3. To carry the load
4. For all your property insurance

Do you carry three or four—or even more—insurance policies on your home, when just one may be enough? A single package insurance policy on your home and its contents can protect you against fire and other perils. And you can include protection on almost any risk you are likely to face as a home owner.

We'll be glad to tell you about the advantages of a package policy. Should you choose one, we offer Stock Company Insurance, known for quality protection and full-time service. And remember: if you're not fully insured — it's not enough.
