Support Is Needed In Water Program

Progress in water development has reached a new impetus through the efforts of county water associations. Local water groups have been organized in 13 counties, and others are expected to follow suit. They have the advantage of representing the people on the "grass-roots" level.

Many water leaders have realized the need to follow the wishes of the people and to depend on them for the kind of support necessary to secure imported water for the area.

Organization on the local level gets the people involved, and leaders of county water associations are working together and with Water, Inc., in the task of providing enough water to save the agricultural economy of the High Plains.

Farmers and businessmen throughout the area are becoming aware of the impending danger of losing underground water supplies. It is an established fact that the underground water formation is not being replenished, except by an almost negligible amount of rainfall.

Unless additional water is obtained, sooner than people like to recognize, irrigation agriculture can no longer be maintained. The dependence of all farms of business activity in the area upon agriculture has convinced businessmen that everyone must support the import water program to protect its economy.

The Texas Water Development Board's time schedule of acquiring surplus Mississippi River water would provide the additional supplies in the High Plains before underground water exhaustion seriously endangers the local economy. However, in order to meet the strenuous schedule, people in the area to receive water must contribute the necessary backing, and the people of the Mississippi Delta States would have to be willing to allow the export of surpluses during high-flow river stages.

Benefits to Louisiana, other Delta States, and all of Texas could insure the reality of the fabulous multi-billion dollar water plan if all the people of the High Plains exert their support for the project.

Deaf Smith County Water Association challenges everyone in the county with the realization that not one of its citizens can afford the failure of the water plan. Economic and social activity in the region depends first upon the hope and finally upon the delivery of imported water supplies.

Waste Check Is Conducted Here

James Wilson and Dwight Pittman, hydrologists for the Texas Water Quality Board, reported Wednesday that a crack-down is in effect for local feed lot owners concerning the waste that has been escaping from their pens and running into the Tierra Blanca Creek.

With the recent heavy rains in the area, many of the feed lots were plagued with waste material washing off into the creek, and Wilson and Pittman issued a warning to several of the local lot operators to prevent further pollution of the creek. Hereford Feed Yard had 13 of their pens flooded when the Tierra Blanca overflowed and intermingled with waste from the yards, and at Sugarland Feed Yard the hydrologist said one of the waste disposing pumps was broken and while operators were repairing it, an estimated 800 gallons of waste per minute flowed into the creek, which runs adjacent to the yards.

Both men estimated that waste flow into Buffalo Lake was about 50 cubic feet per second from the Tierra Blanca Creek and from the Frio Draw into Tierra Blanca was estimated at 20 cubic feet per second.

Though no fish kill threat is possible due to the recent elimination of the fish at Buffalo Lake, Pittman and Wilson stressed that pollution is still a very serious threat for future restocking of the lake.

The city sewer, located uphill from the Tierra Blanca Creek, was reported to be within one foot of overflowing and the hydrologists said that any excessive amount of rainfall or moisture could very easily force overflow there into the creek, adding to the pollution.

A check of several of the other local feed lots in the area along the creek indicated that they were all using proper methods to dispose of their waste and no action was taken toward stopping their operations.

Wilson is the District Supervisor of District I, Amarillo and Pittman is a hydrologist of the Technical Service of the Texas Water Quality Board, Austin.

Both men and other representatives of the Water Quality board remained in the area throughout last week checking other feed lots and creeks for waste.

Transportation Is Set For Satellite

Transportation for some of the students enrolled in the Satellite Day Care classes here was presented to the board of directors Thursday as the only real problem the program has and agreement was reached for the employment of a paid driver in the future as a solution.

Report was made by Don Chaney, transportation coordinator, that various volunteers and civic clubs had previously donated time and money toward the transportation of three of the 13 students, who could not be otherwise transported to classes. However, Chaney said that this situation would present a greater problem during summer months.

Preschool and post-school aged retardates attend classes in space provided by the First Christian Church in Hereford twelve months per year. Mrs. Maxine Thompson is teacher. Burtis Hollis, director of education at the Amarillo State Center for Human Development, reported that transportation presented a problem in all the satellite schools and that "there is no one answer to it." He was in agreement with the solution in Hereford by the board.

Hollis also reported that he is well pleased with the teacher for the Hereford classes and with the progress here. Mrs. Raymond Higginbotham said that she is impressed with the entire program and as Volunteer Coordinator, was equally impressed with the dependability and sincerity of the number of volunteer teacher aides who have donated their time since the classes began last September.

Mrs. Higginbotham stated that volunteers will again be needed, beginning June 1. However, she reported that she will be out of the city until May 15, but persons who will be available to volunteer one day per week for a 3-month period (either morning or afternoon) should call her after that date at 364-1545.

Director Bruce Coleman, who is chairman of the board of elders at the First Christian Church, told the board that his church is "delighted with having the classes meet there" and that they believed the classes were performing a community service.

Neil Cooper presided over the directors meeting.

(Continued from Page 1) water from outside our area," asserted Denzil Pulliam, president of the county water group, "we had just as well pack up and leave, because when our farmers can no longer afford to pump water from the depleted underground formation, irrigation will dwindle, causing a continual and insidious decrease in agricultural productivity. All of us can easily see what would result from this. We must have a dependable source of water."

Jay Boston, chairman of the membership committee, plans to seek support in the county, as are other water-minded individuals in other counties. "We hope all of our people realize that their membership and financial contributions are necessary to have water here in time to save our economy," Boston reported. All individuals interested in helping in the membership campaign for Deaf Smith County Water Association are requested to contact Boston by calling 364-1105.

Hereford TEC Says:

Senior Citizens Need Employment

President Richard Nixon has proclaimed the month of May as Senior Citizens Month and the Hereford office of the Texas Employment Commission has encouraged those citizens who are seeking employment to leave their applications with the office.

TEC manager Lester Rapaport pointed out that "today we find that there are 20 million Americans who are 65 years of age or older. How easy it is for us to forget that these outstanding citizens are the very individuals who have molded, created, and developed this great country. Recently we were heralding the great achievements of our moon astronauts, who are the pioneers for a trip to the moon. But we have stopped to consider the individuals who some 40 to 45 years ago were pioneers in bringing America out of the Great Depression?"

The TEC office, located at 403 W. Seventh, has extended an invitation to local employers who are now in need of such employees to use their services. "This office is part of a state agency. Our services are provided at no charge to either the applicant or employer."

Rape reported, "It is very noticeable in the Hereford TEC office that older people, working in paid or volunteer capacities, are proving highly capable in performing community service roles. It has been demonstrated that senior citizens, working as teacher aides, community workers, food service assistants, and working in libraries and homes for the disabled, can vitalize the community — and at the same time increase their own sense of worth and well-being."

He gave as an example the Corps of Senior Citizen Teacher Aides, a pilot project, which was conducted in the Dade County, Florida, public school system during the 1967-68 school year as a test toward the use of elderly persons in such a setting there.

"Today, Dade County is still employing 30 of the aides with its own funds, and other schools are showing an interest in adding these aides to their own programs."

Older people are also making significant contributions in many projects funded under the Older Americans Act, Rape said. Other older people are serving in VISTA, the Peace Corps, Operation Green Thumb (conducted by the National Farmers Union), the National Council of Senior Citizens senior aides projects, Community Action Programs, and as volunteers in the Senior Corps of Retired Executives sponsored by the Small Business Administration.

"By 1985, the older population is expected to increase about 40 per cent to 25 million," Rape pointed out. "It will grow to over two million in two states (California and New York) and it will number over one million in five other states — Texas, Florida, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania." Quoting President Nixon's pro-

V. A. Patients Needs

C. L. Walker of Hereford has reported current needs for patients now in the V. A. Hospital in Amarillo, where he said that approximately 50 per cent are Deaf Smith County and vicinity residents.

Walker said that among the primary needs of patients is eye glasses. They also want books — library, paper bound, etc., "especially Westerns. That is what they really like."

Also among the needs are disposable slippers for all wards, cloth slippers, electric razors, one for each ward; paint sets, do-it-yourself; picture puzzles, crossword puzzle books, stationary and envelopes, toothpaste, future supply; toothbrushes, future supply; fingernail clippers, small, one for each ward; fingernail files, buffers, plastic lids or covers to place under planters and flowers (plastic lids from coffee cans are good), shampoo.

The supply of small lap sheets or blankets is reported as adequate for this year. There is no need for shoulder capes during the warmer months. However, Nursing Service would like for organizations to save stamps to be used for Patient's Day Room improvements.

Walker said that persons who wish to donate any of these supplies should contact him at 364-4429. If they wish to deliver them personally, he is at home at 518 Mable.

Blood donors are also needed, Walker emphasized. The clamation: "It is therefore fitting that each year we designate one month in honor of older Americans. This is a special time to express our appreciation to older citizens for their services to the Nation, to recognize their potential for further contribution, and to consider whether we are doing all we can to assure their full participation in the adventures of our time and in the affluence of our society."

Date for blood donors is May 17 (Saturday) in Amarillo.

He reported that contributions of clothing, shoes, glasses and money have been contributed during the past eight months by Hereford Rebekah Lodge 228, VFW Auxiliary 4818, American Legion Auxiliary 192, World War I Auxiliary, and others.

Players Sought For Colt League

All boys 15 and 16 years of age, interested in playing Colt League baseball this summer are urged to attend he tryouts set for May 15-16 at the high school baseball field.

Floyd Driver, president of the Colt League, said that at least 36 boys are needed to fill the minimum for a roster, and at least this many must show up before the league can participate this year. Official league rules state that a minimum of 12 boys must be in uniform for each team, and due to Nazareth having dropped out of the Tri-City Colt League this year, Hereford has taken on the responsibility of supporting three teams instead of the two they had last season.

It is hoped that enough boys show up for the tryouts that 15 can be suited up for each team, making it where 45 boys can participate. All interested boys are urged to bring their applications and if they do not have them, are urged to get one and bring it to the tryouts.

Time for the tryouts has been set at 5 p. m.

26-Bed Hospital Addition

Absentee balloting on the $500,000 bond issue for improvements and an addition to Deaf Smith County Hospital, now being conducted in the County Clerk's office in the court house, only totals one vote as of late Friday afternoon.

Absentees made by qualified voters will continue through Friday, May 16, according to County Clerk B. F. Cain. Election is set for Tuesday, May 20.

Hospital administrator T. E. Seigler reported that the bond issue will include space for 26 new beds — 16 for surgery and ten for obstetrics.

"We will then take the present O. B. department and convert it into an 11-bed Medicare department," Seigler said. "That will be a gain of two beds in this department."

He said they would also enlarge the kitchen, dietary department, laboratory, pharmacy and central supply. "We are also providing for an additional emergency room and a larger lobby. Also, the present nurse's home is being converted into a delivery area."

Seigler reported that construction of the new addition will result in a loss of four beds in semi-private rooms of the 1947 addition, but that there will be an additional two beds upstairs — a net gain overall of 24 beds. "We would have a total of 91 beds at the hospital then."

To be located between the east wing and the nurse's home in a modern radial design, he said that it is to include a provision for a second floor, if needed in the future.

"In keeping with the 1964 plan" Seigler stipulated, "the bricks can be lifted out now and the corridor put through to the new addition."

Michael Kemp Receives WT Scholarship

Michael C. Kemp, a senior at Hereford High School, has been awarded an Applied Music Scholarship in the Department of Music at West Texas State University.

Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Clois A. Kemp of Route 1, was awarded the scholarship after an audition before a faculty committee, at which time his outstanding performance capability was demonstrated in voice.

An Applied Music Scholarship exempts a student from paying the additional fees that are normally charged for private lessons.

By MELVIN YOUNG

Tom Porter, former news editor of the Brand, now living in Abilene, recently made headlines in the Abilene Reporter-News because of the size of a catfish that he caught. But there's more to the story than that. During the recent rains in and around Abilene, a rise on one of the creeks in that area deposited the 10½ lb. catfish (10½ tons according to Porter) in a puddle in the middle of a bunch of trash. Porter, the brave young man that he is, was out looking over the situation, not with camera in hand, but a rod and reel. He spotted the tail of the mammoth catfish swishing out of the water and with one cast he hooked the big fellow by the tail, reeled it in and carted it back to Abilene whereupon he photographed the luckless catfish — probably because he needed evidence of the size. But being the ham that he is, Porter could not resist sending the picture to former staff members at the Brand. And to get the most mileage for his 6 cent stamp, he wrote the following remarks:

"With all the cunning and daring I have picked up over the years, I brought in this monster without batting an eye. Sighting only a small portion of his tall waving in the swirling, muddy water, I made one perfect cast and hooked the fish. Not yielding an inch, I battled the powerful fish for hours before I brought him to the bank. Both myself and the fish were exhausted."

"Many persons were astonished that such a feat could be accomplished. 'I wouldn't have believed it if I hadn't seen it. That's the most amazing demonstration of fishing skill I have ever seen,' declared one man. Another stated, 'I had heard about this Porter fellow and his prowess with a rod and reel, but this is unbelievable. No one else in the world could have accomplished that. My hat's off to him.' Porter, the gallant sportsman that he is, took it all in stride. A television spectacular is now being planned about the local fisherman, in which he will demonstrate his skill and give numerous fishing tips."

And that ends the saga of Tom Porter, Esq., the fisherman. But we doubt seriously if the fellows from the local Lions Club will believe it.

American Bicycle Safety Month

There are more than 6 million bicyclists in the United States who are observing May as the American Bicycle Safety Month.

There are many reasons why the nation's number one participating sport has grown so popular in recent years. First and foremost, riding a bicycle is fun.

Many of the cyclists are youngsters, riding for fun and transportation. Many are racing cyclists, competing in track and road events which lead to state, national and international recognition. Others are touring cyclists who take long, overnight weekend and week-long trips by bike, enjoying the countryside as no vacationing motorist can, making friendships where none existed before. Still others are "garden variety" cyclists of all ages, riding for fun, physical fitness, and family recreation.

Many adults have discovered the free-wheeling feeling of a few hours spent on a quiet road or bikeway.

Equally important, however, is the established fact that cycling is good for you. Noted heart authority Dr. Paul Dudley White and other medical authorities advocate cycling for maintaining good muscle circulation and proper breathing. He says that a pre- or post-dinner bicycle ride aids the digestion, helps with weight control and promotes, sound, relaxed sleep.

Anything is more fun when you do it right. You have a responsibility to ride your bike properly and safely on public roads.

Leaflets on bicycle safety are being distributed by Johnny Pol at the Western Auto Store in Hereford in observance of bicycle safety week throughout the nation.

Twelve safety rules listed in the booklet to be remembered and observed are:

1. Observe all traffic regulations — red and green lights, one-way streets, stop signs.
2. Keep to the right and ride in a straight line. Always ride in single file with traffic.
3. Have white light on front and a state approved reflector on rear.
4. Have satisfactory signaling device to warn of approach.
5. Give pedestrians the right of way. Avoid sidewalks — otherwise use extra care.
6. Look out for cars pulling out into traffic. Keep sharp look-out for sudden opening of auto doors.
7. Never hitch on other vehicles, "stunt" or race in traffic.
8. Never carry other riders — carry no packages that obstruct vision or prevent proper control of cycle.
9. Be sure your brakes are operating efficiently and keep your bicycle in perfect running condition.
10. Slow down at all street intersections and look to right and left before crossing.
11. Always use proper hand signals for turning and stopping.
12. Don't weave in or out of traffic or swerve from side to side.

Practically every modern improvement in the automobile of today can be traced to the development of the bike: pneumatic tires, differential steering, seamless steel tubing and expansion brakes — all were developed for the bike.

The bicycle has rightly been called the "father of the motor car and the grandfather of the airplane." Aviation pioneers Wilbur and Orville Wright originally were bike makers as were car manufacturers Henry Ford, Glen Olds, Glen Curtis and Charles Duryea.

The first modern bicycle was the Draisine, or Hobby Horse, invented in 1816 by Baron Karl Von Drais in Karlsruhe, Germany while the first bike made in America was manufactured for Col. Albert A. Pope of Boston in 1877. It weighed over 70 pounds and cost $313.00.

There are more than 30 million bicycles in America today, ridden by more than 60 million people — a greater number than at any time in history.

A Thing of Beauty...

CORINNE J. NEELY

Inscribed on an old photograph of a young woman are these words from Keats, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever." They were written by a poetry loving young man who knew her in college. These words might be said to have become a sort of a creed with her.

The woman later became a pioneer wife, not of the young man, though she remembered him all of her life. She was as beautiful in spirit, perhaps more so than of face.

Her early childhood had only the bare necessities of life, as was the case of most pioneers. This lack seemed to intensify her love of the beautiful.

Later this woman wrote a short history of her life at the request of her children. It included the following: "While I was away at Plainview in school, Dad built us a new house (before that they had lived in a dug-out beside the Tierra Blanca). When we got home that night, cold, but happy to be home for Christmas, how beautiful it looked. The stove was red hot; the walls covered with black paper with bright tacks to hold it. And on the table was a lamp which shone brightly. On either side was a pretty vase. The table was covered with an embroidered flannel cloth with a rose colored mat under the lamp.

We had come home in a carriage, the ground was covered with snow. This was a seventy mile trip which took a day to make. I will always remember just how it looked that night."

Although as a child she had had rheumatic fever which left her with an enlarged heart for life, she bore nine children. She did all the things to make a home that a pioneer woman had to do.

These chores included making clothes for all the children, until the older ones were well into their teens. Three meals a day were prepared for the family — which was easy for her because she liked to cook — except in the lean years. Then it became a problem. But because she canned and preserved everything she could manage, the family never went hungry, though at times the meals might be limited.

This mother along with others of her day, did her washing in a tub with a wash board. The white things were boiled on top of a coal stove-though in rural areas it might be done outside in a big black pot over a fire. The ironing was by the tubful and was done with stove heated irons (well named sad irons). This chore took another day to do.

How she ever found time to follow her creative works of loveliness is still a mystery to her family, as it once was to her friends. But she did. Part of the answer was because she wanted to and sat up after the children were in bed to work until midnight. In so doing she left a lasting heritage to her children.

The oldest child remembers before she was old enough to tic and cord tires, ball bearings, differential steering, seamless steel tubing and expansion brakes — all were developed for the bike.

The bicycle has rightly been called the "father of the motor car and the grandfather of the airplane." Aviation pioneers Wilbur and Orville Wright originally were bike makers as were car manufacturers Henry Ford, Glen Olds, Glen Curtis and Charles Duryea.

go to school, watching her mother make beds with an open book of poems from which she read aloud to memorize them. She bought as many books as she could afford.

It was during the many and long absences of the father, who was away on various businesses that she did most of her art work. It was then, too, that she had the full responsibility and discipline of the growing family.

These creative arts included burnt wood articles, so popular in the early 1900s, some of which were painted. Later there was the brass work on boxes, pictures, trays and other items.

Women in those days did a great deal of embroidery. Other than fine drawn work, hardanger, many fancy stitches of white on white linen; she took lessons in colored silk embroidery. This was in varied shades and brought forth a picture, usually flowers, much as an artist would do in oils.

In the "good times years" before WWI she took up china painting, buying at one time a barrel of Haviland china. Before this she had begun a collection of cut glass and other china. She left a large full china cabinet to her children which today is highly valued by them.

Always in spite of the late hours she spent in her art work or reading, she was up early to carry on the mundane things of life, and she did this willingly.

Along with the basket of mending and socks to be darned there might be the ever popular quilt scraps for piecing. Or it might be some crochet or other current fad in handwork.

From the first bud of spring until late fall colored leaves there were always flowers in the house to add beauty and the brightness of the out of doors.

This pioneer woman, like many others, gave her full time and life to her family and was seldom seen outside the home. There was no time. So she created her own beauty in life. In so doing she left a priceless legacy to her children more valuable than material wealth.

She was my mother!

Time To Store Winter Things

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Color and Color and Wardrobe were well received by many people in our area. The Clothing Committee is well pleased with the results of our presentation of the color workshop.

MOST EVERY person is quite interested in dressing in colors that are most becoming. Some people have a natural knowledge of color and some of us have to work long and hard to develop our sense of seeing color. Anyway, thanks to everyone who helped make the programs last Thursday and Friday successful.

PERSONS LIVING in four season climate areas have the wondrous pleasure of watching nature change her garb every few months. But putting the poetry aside, homemakers must face practical aspects of changes in weather.

One perennial problem posed is sorting and packing away seasonal clothing. Our winter breaks abruptly into summer. Most years we wear coats one day and put on sleeveless dresses the next. Anyway, we have to be wise in our clothing storage. If clothing is carelessly stored, it can be a real hazard.

Never store soiled clothes. Any dirt or food stains are the insects' invitation to dinner. Any already deposited larvae must be removed, too. Clothing is their favorite meal and larvae can eat many times their weight every day.

Before storing clothes remove belts from loops, close all fasteners and hang garments on a padded coat hanger. This insures the garment's shape retention.

Many sweaters and knitted garments should be stored flat. Place tissue paper in the garment to prevent fold marks.

After garments are cleaned and moth-proofed, seal them from air and moisture. Select storage areas that are cool, dry and out of sun light.

OUR PROGRAMS on laundry recipes have been helpful to homemakers. There are new products on the market and many new homemakers are inexperienced in laundering. Anyway, there are some booklets in the office if you want some.

Here are six commandments for permanent press clothes.

1) Use quality laundry products. Measure accurately for best results.
2) Wash frequently. Permanent Press garments stay fresh-looking, so tendency is to post-by soaking an inconspicuous portion of the fabric five minutes in the bleach you had planned to use. You will find most of today's colored washables are completely chlorine bleachable, if handled carefully. Or use other type bleaches.

4) Wash small loads. Overloading washer can cause wrinkling.

5) Select correct washer cycle and water temperature. Use permanent press cycle; if not available, use the warm wash setting with cold rinse. Heavily soiled items require hot water wash with cold rinse. Agitate delicate fabrics 4-6 minutes; heavy duty fabrics 6-8 minutes.

6) Use automatic dryer for best results. Do not overcrowd dryer; remove garments as soon as they are dry; hang immediately. I personally think leaving clothes in the dryer after it has stopped turning is one of the hardest things on clothing of any kind. The dead heat does wrinkle and damage clothes.

LAST SATURDAY night we got a real treat when we attended the district convention of the Toastmasters. Connie Goring represented this club well at the contest. He won second place in district competition on his speech Prescription for Guilt.

The titles of some of the other speeches were Our Society, Destiny, Say What You Mean, Concerning Confidence, That Noble Task, and Save Your Child. Congratulations, Connie, on an excellent speech.

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Rain — that wonderful stuff! falls in quantity here seldom enough that it nearly always causes a lot of upsets, no matter how glad we are to see it. Meetings of several women's clubs were somewhat put out by after-effects of our recent moisture.

THE PRESIDENT of El Llano Study Club, Delores Foster, couldn't get through the mud to pavement Monday night, so her deputy presided for her.

Young Homemakers of Texas had a bigger problem Tuesday night; it has members living here and there over the county, and quite a few of them couldn't make it — with election of officers scheduled. So about a dozen members enjoyed a nice, informal session, and a telephone poll was taken next day to pick officers.

So far as I know, nobody is really complaining about the rain. Of course farmers are accused of always finding something to object to in the weather, and some were heard, after admitting that it was nice to have the moisture without damaging hail or wind, to mutter about it being too wet to get into the fields to plant something or other.

But here in the newsroom we were pleased to hear Andrew Kerschen say heartily, "Just perfect!!" when he was asked how the rain was. Either it was a remarkable rain or he is a remarkable farmer.

KATIE McGEHEE, who says casually that she is "around 90" but who celebrates her 39th birthday each year on May 8, was accused by friends of trying to stretch the celebration over a whole week this year.

At any rate, she was honored with open house at her home, 504 North Miles, Thursday afternoon and spend a couple of happy hours chatting with callers who kept dropping in, even after the stated time of the party was past. Gifts, flowers, and dozens of cards were overflowing tables in the living room before the afternoon ended, and Katie was still swapping jokes with Clifford Trotter, one of the after-five callers. Several birthday cakes had been consumed with gallons of coffee.

Her daughter, Mrs. Russell Hupp of Long Beach, Calif., was here for her annual birthday visit with Mrs. McGehee, and helped the other daughter, Mrs. R. O. Stark, play hostess for the informal reception. The family had its own observance of the birthday on the actual date, Tuesday.

To Katie: A very happy 39th birthday again, and many more of 'em!

SOME HEREFORD folks might want to drive over to Canyon this afternoon for the concert of WTSU's University Chorale. It begins at 3 p. m. in the Fine Arts auditorium, is free, and Lynda Lohr of our town is a member of the ensemble.

Summer Club Plans Are Made

Summer activity for La Madre Mia Study Club members was tentatively planned at a dinner in the Chaparral Restaurant Thursday evening, when officers for next year were installed to end the current season. Committees to serve with the new officers were appointed.

Two summer social meetings are to be held at dates still to be set, members decided, and names were drawn for secret pals to be remembered then. A rummage sale was also planned to raise funds for the treasury before a new year begins formally.

Mr. Herschel Black, completing her term as club president, installed her successor, Mrs. Waldo Baxter, and other 1969-70 officers. She used the theme, Precious Jewels, comparing each officer to a gem. Centerpiece on the dinner table was a rainbow with a treasure chest spilling jewels at one end.

Taking office with Mrs. Baxter were Mrs. G. C. Merritt, Jr., vice president; Mrs. T. D. Hodges, secretary; Mrs. Don Walsler, treasurer; Mrs. David Honea, reporter; Mrs. Don Lane, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Ben Scott, historian.

Committees named by the new president include: Yearbook, Mmes. Gerald Martin, Charles Frye and James Gentry, membership, Mrs. Merritt, Ray Don King and Black; finance, Mmes. Walsler, Ron Zimmerman and Dean Herring.

Also, social, Mmes. Eugene Sparks, Carl Carlile, Wayne Lady and Bill Lankford; project, Mmes. John E. Smith, Harvey Penner, and Richard Ward; courtesy, Mmes. Bobby Owen, Smith and Lane; telephone, Mmes. Lynton Alfred, C. D. Adams and Scott.

Class Of 1919 Slates Meeting

A golden anniversary celebration for the Hereford High School class of 1919 is scheduled to coincide with Mid-Plains Pioneer Day, May 30.

Dancing Role To Be Filled For Recital

Five girls in the ballet class of Larrymore Dance Studio are vying for the role of Gretel in the Hansel and Gretel Ballet which will be a feature of the spring recital in Hereford High School auditorium next Saturday evening.

The girl chosen is to be announced the first of this week, with the boy who is to appear as Hansel, and who has already been selected. Other dancers in this fairy-tale ballet will appear as animals in the forest, angels, gingerbread boys and children. Marie Roberson has the role of the wicked witch who is foiled at the end.

In addition to this ballet number, there are dances as varied as Rainbow Fairies, Country Western Jazz, You're a Grand Old Flag and Satin Doll. The acrobatic class will present a special dance and Junior Cotillion members will appear in ballroom dances.

Lewis Larrymore, director, invites the public to see this annual recital by pupils from three years of age through high school. The program is to begin at 8:30 p. m. mbaugh and out-of-town members, Frankie Mae Baker Nunn of Childress and Dorothy Boardman Gray of St. Louis.

The class dinner, a program and visiting are planned for the evening of May 29 at 8 p. m. in the Caisson House. The class will attend Pioneer Day activities, including the picnic dinner, on the 30th.

At 2:30 that afternoon members will meet at the Community Center for a bus tour of the town and area points of interest, which has been arranged by Stambaugh. Small groups will meet before the dinner and following the bus tour, which return to Community Center.

Mrs. Neely reports 20 couples and singles have indicated plans to attend the special class activities. Only four members of the class have not been located and notified of plans. All are girls, married names not known.

Their names on the class roll are Lucy Harwell, Ruth Smith, Dorothy Shore and Dorothy Ramsey Swain. Anyone who knows the names and addresses of these is asked to notify Mrs. Neely.

Three years ago the class held what members called a "dry run" reunion, to begin plans for the 50th anniversary gathering. The actual event is expected to bring even more of the group together.

Will Receive Special Course In Accounting

Jeanne Ann Brashear, a senior at Hereford High School, will leave this evening for Dayton, Ohio where she will have a 5-day training session in electronic accounting by Reynolds and Reynolds.

Mrs. Brashear is employed at Orval Watson Ford Sales under the Vocational Office Educator program of Hereford High School. She has worked at the Ford Company since September going to school in the mornings and working in the afternoon.

HPRF Has 7-Point Cotton Program

PLAINVIEW — A seven-point cotton research program for 1969 has been adopted at the High Plains Research Foundation that may provide answers to cutting cotton production costs.

Dr. Tom Longnecker, Foundation director, cited several factors making it a necessity to reduce production costs for High Plains farmers to continue to produce cotton.

"These factors are: the increase in cost of labor, machinery and other production items; reduction in cotton exports; loss of domestic markets to synthetics and possibility of losing part or all of government subsidy payments during the next few years," Dr. Longnecker said.

"With production costs averaging 28 to 30 cents per pound of lint, the potential profit in growing cotton is low under existing conditions," Dr. Longnecker stated. "The only answer to the present situation is to reduce cotton production costs to an extent that cotton can be produced profitably at world market prices," he added.

"There are two ways costs can be reduced — increased yields and/or elimination or reduction of certain production costs," Dr. Longnecker said.

In outlining the proposed seven-point program Dr. Longnecker said, "One or more of these practices added to existing cotton production program can be helpful, but for maximum effect all seven practices would need to be combined in the overall management program."

Under the program, minimum tillage studies would be increased. "Present production practices on cotton may include as many as eight or 10 trips over the land before cotton is planted. Tests are underway at the Foundation to determine if all these operations are necessary," Longnecker said.

In the tests, cotton following double-rowed grain sorghum or soybeans will be planted in the old beds between the two stubble rows. A contact herbicide will be used to control weeds and volunteer grain. "The stubble will provide protection from wind and sand for seedling cotton and surface residue will reduce evaporation losses," Longnecker pointed out. Planting time plays an important role in the program. Due to the necessity of planting cotton as early as possible, many farmers become impatient and plant when the soil is too cold leaving the cotton easy prey for seedling diseases which destroys newly formed roots. Dr. Longnecker said.

"Rather than relying entirely on soil temperature to determine cotton planting dates, we need to make use of weather patterns to spot the last cool spell of the season and plant during this last cool period to take advantage of the rapid warm up that follows for quick seed germination," he added.

Treated seed also is a necessity to reduce the possibility of seedling diseases.

Two other methods of seedling cotton protection from wind and sand erosion will be tried in the seven-point program. One method will be to plant cotton in herbicide killed wheat with the wheat to provide protection. The other method will be to inter-plant corn at the time cotton is seeded. The corn will come up first and by the time cotton has reached the seedling stage, the corn will provide wind protection. When the corn is 24 to 30 inches high, a knife running three inches below the surface will be used to kill the corn plants but leave them standing to hold more heat on the soil surface. Previous micro-climate studies have already proven this type of protection will increase temperatures near the cotton plant.

Starter fertilizers, particularly phosphate, in addition to regular fertilizer program, will help provide the necessary quick start for seedling cotton. Research has shown that cotton absorbs 75 per cent of its total phosphate during the first 25 per cent of its growth and banded phosphate close to the seed can increase yields as much as $45 per acre with some varieties.

Dr. Longnecker said that misapplication of a non-volatile form of 2-4-D (Lithate) in the squaring stage of cotton crop in 1968 produced effects ranging from severe damage to an increase yield of as much as 200 pounds of lint per acre.

"This variable effect was caused by different amounts of Lithate the cotton received but it was not possible to determine the rate where he cotton yield increased," Dr. Longnecker said.

Different rates of Lithate will be applied on cotton in 1969 in an effort to determine the rate that can be used to set more early squares during the first 30 days and to prevent shedding of the fruit during the latter part of the growing season.

as the cotton starts squaring rather than waiting until first bloom. From 80 to 90 percent of the total cotton crop is produced from the first four weeks of blooming. If we provide optimum moisture during the squaring stage more early squares will set and increase both yield and quality," Dr. Longnecker said.

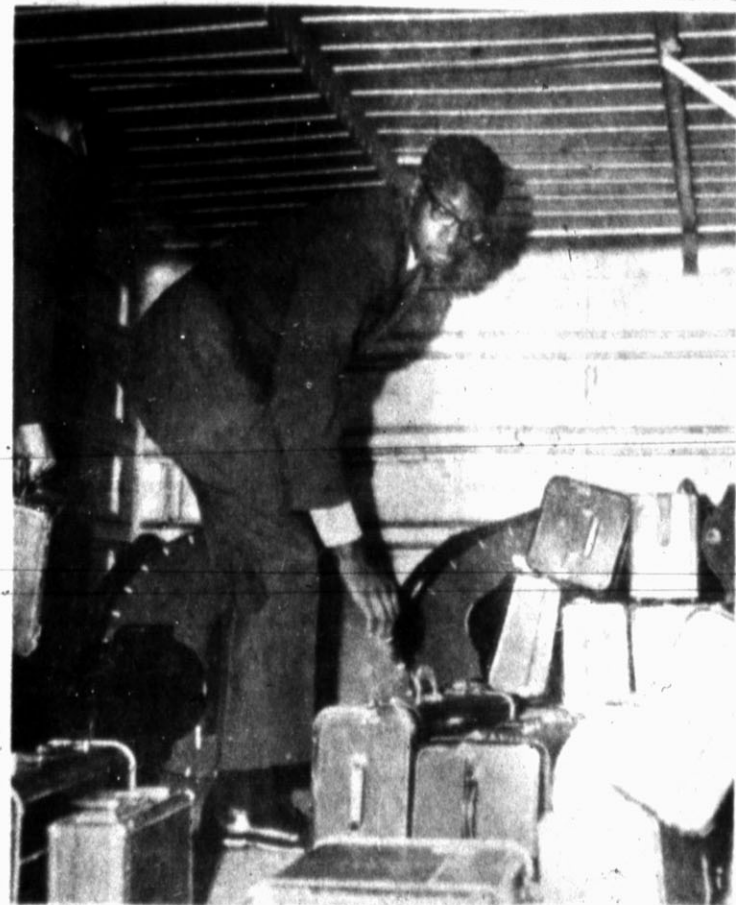

Earlier cut-off date for irrigation water also is urged in the program.

An accidental finding during the 1968 crop season has added the seventh point in study — use of plant hormones to promote earlier and heavier fruiting.

Law Officers At Boys Ranch

Law enforcement officers from the tri-state area will gather at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch Tuesday for the 17th annual convention of the United Peace Officers of America.

Registration for the more than 300 delegates is scheduled for 9 a. m. A welcome by Virgil Patterson, president of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, will be followed by a program of entertainment. A barbeque luncheon will be prepared and served by the officers at noon. A business and tour of the Ranch will round out the day's activities.

The UPOA officers are Potter County Justice of the Peace Cliff Roberts, president; County Judge Clarence Williams of Panhandle, treasurer; and Hartley County Sheriff Joe Noble Thomas, secretary.

It was through the efforts of the UPOA that the Ranch's high school building was built in 1953, and the officers have continued their help through the years. They are currently helping boys of the Ranch FFA Chapter with a loan fund. At the present time, 348 boys from 4 to 18 are being cared for at the Ranch.

"On Mother's Day, our peak calling periods probably will be 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 6 p. m. to 12 midnight. If possible, calls might be placed in early morning or the afternoon to more equally spread the load."

Patrick said, "Incidentally, the lowest possible long distance rates are in effect all day Sunday and since Direct Distance Dialing is designed to spread calling, we encourage customers to use DDD for station-to-station calls."

More LD Calls Are Made Today

Mother's Day means flowers, candy, gifts — and phone calls.

Mike Patrick, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Hereford, says that 2,560 operator-handled telephone calls are expected Sunday. That's approximately 1,000 more long distance calls than on a normal Sunday.

In addition, about 2,700 more calls will be direct-dialed by Hereford customers. Patrick said there may be some delays in completing calls at times on Mother's Day because of the large volume.

However, he offered suggestions which might help alleviate the Mother's Day rush:

Sen. Tower Reports On Campus Unrest

STUDENT UNREST
As you know, student unrest on the campuses of many of our nation's colleges and universities has reached major proportions.

Dissenting students have taken over buildings and administrative offices by physical force. Sometimes these students have engaged in violence in behalf of their demands. In at least one state, the governor has found the need to call out the National Guard to bolster the forces of law enforcement in dealing with student unrest.

The number of students involved on each campus has usually represented a very small part of overall enrollment. The number of colleges and universities which have experienced actual disturbances has been small in comparison with the large number of institutions of higher learning in our nation.

Nevertheless, student unrest in our nation has reached crisis proportions. It has drawn the attention of the Congress and the administration. A number of men known as leaders in civil rights work have been moved to criticize the methods of dissenting students.

Bayard Rustin, a long-time activist in the Negro civil rights movement, recently criticized students demanding so-called black studies courses for seeking the easy way out.

He called it "tragic that, instead of taking advantage of the opportunity for learning, they are reducing the situation to a series of courses that cannot really prepare them for the kind of life which they have to live when they get out of college."

President Nixon noted recently that student attempts to take over universities in Latin America in past years succeeded and that the result was that the Latin American educational system generally is "one of the most inferior in the world."

He urged college faculty members and administrators to have the "backbone" to stand YES Needs Jobs

Youth Employment Service (YES) is beginning its third year in Hereford, according to Lester Rape of the Texas Employment Commission, and jobs for the summer will be needed for young people.

"School is just about out and it is time to think about jobs for our high school and college students," Rape said. "There will be a large number of boys and girls looking for work during the summer. Some of them will have to work in order to return to school in the fall."

Rape has issued a call to local businessmen, home owners and others who have jobs which can be done by young people to contact him at 361-2776.

"Register these jobs and we will see to it that a deserving boy or girl will have the opportunity to work this summer," Rape stated. "Any type of work will be appreciated — part-time or fulltime."

up against dissenting students who terrorize teachers and other students, who engage in violence and who carry weapons in the classroom.

Attorney General John Mitchell has echoed the President's mood. He has called for "an end to patience. The time has come for us to demand, in the strongest possible terms, that university officials, local law enforcement officers and local courts apply the law." Those were the words of our Attorney General, and these comments accurately reflect my own view.

Actions of violence, whether on a college campus or elsewhere in our land, must not be condoned. Several members of Congress are ready to take legislative action against student violence.

They have introduced bills which would provide fines and imprisonment for persons found guilty of disrupting the administrative operations of educational institutions which receive federal assistance.

Attorney General Mitchell has indicated that the 1968 Civil Rights Act might be properly invoked to deal with leaders of student protest which results in violence.

That act made it a federal crime to use force or the threat of force to intimidate persons engaged in federally-assisted programs. It also made it a federal crime to cross state lines with the intent to incite a riot.

I sincerely hope that it will not be necessary to employ federal sanctions in order to prevent violent protest on our nation's campuses.

But it is imperative that order prevail on the campuses. As a former university professor, I know of the work which goes into obtaining a college education. For most students, a higher education is the result of long hours of study and the expenditure by someone, maybe several people, of large sums of money.

Campus disorders can only be detrimental to the efforts of the vast majority of students who are making a conscientious effort to learn.

Disruption of classes results in less teaching and less learning. It might result in failure for a student who otherwise would have earned a passing grade. And failure of a critical course could result in the necessity for attending an additional semester of school — or leaving a college without the desired degree.

This is the real tragedy of student unrest. It may be possible for students who are frustrated in their academic goals due to other students who have been a disruptive force on their campus to obtain relief in civil court procedures.

But more importantly, it is primarily the responsibility of school administrators to act to prevent campus disruptions.

Campus administrators should take that action if they have not already done so. On the one hand they should act to satisfy legitimate student complaints. But, on the other hand, they should lay the groundwork necessary to obtain appropriate court injunctions and appropriate law enforcement assistance to deal rapidly with possible future disorders.

We cannot tolerate the disruption of America's educational system.

Boston Reports On New Council

Jay Boston of the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association reported that a number of commodity groups and other farm organizations have formed the Texas Agricultural Council and elected Bruno Schroeter, head of Texas Cooperatives, as chairman.

Among the organizations involved are sugar beet growers, wheat, grain sorghum, peanuts, rice, sesame, soy beans, peach growers, pecans, four cotton growers associations; turkey, chicken and egg (combined), cattle raisers, sheep and goat raisers.

The Council meets in Austin each first and third Tuesday of the month, as long as the legislature remains in session. Boston said the members have discussed all present bills in the hopper. "We hear both sides of each bill," he said, which have included pollution, agriculture, research and a check-off law.

He said that 28 grower's associations were represented at the last meeting. They receive a newsletter each month on the latest legislative action.

"It is working real good," Boston said.

FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT

I am sure that you have heard or have read of individuals who have been denied a new job, a life insurance policy, or simply basic credit because of an erroneous credit report. To protect individuals against credit reports that are arbitrary, malicious, or erroneous, I introduced H. R. 10139, the "Fair Credit Reporting Act," on April 15, 1969.

The purpose of my bill is to provide to individuals the right to "due process" in credit rating transactions. That is, it protects a person's right to be advised what information is contained in his credit report. Further, it gives him the right to correct any false information, and to submit an explanatory statement for other information of public record that adversely affects his credit report.

There is also a specific clause protecting the individual's right to privacy by limiting the collection of information to that which is essential to his credit rating.

Basically, my bill would affect only credit reports made by credit agencies which operate in interstate commerce or make use of the facilities of interstate commerce. It would not, therefore, have any impact on merchant-to-merchant credit inquiries within a community. Further, the Federal Reserve Board would be empowered to oversee the operation of the law. However, attempts to block disclosure by denying that an agency has made a report on an individual would be prohibited.

MEATS
On Monday, April 21, I introduced H. R. 10350 to amend the Federal Meat Inspection Act to require that a label with the words "imported" or "imported in part" be affixed to any package containing meat or a meat food product until delivery to the ultimate consumer. This bill is the same as the amendment to the Federal Meat Inspection bill which I offered in the House Agriculture Committee last year. This amendment had enough support to pass on the current standings on bills.

"It is working real good," Boston said.

FARM PROGRAM

On April 12, I spoke before the Texas Grain and Feed Association. In my speech, I referred to the remarks made by Mr. Rudolph A. Peterson, President of the Bank of America, Mr. Peterson's remarks were made at a meeting of the California Canners and Growers in San Francisco on November 25, 1968, and published by the Foundation for American Agriculture. The portion of Mr. Peterson's remarks, which I quoted in my speech, follows:

"... the commercial farmer has emerged as an independent businessman running a highly mechanized factory in the field who neither needs — now in most cases desires — price supports, or subsidies or acreage controls. A free market is to the advantage of the commercial farmer. He understands market forces. He is or can be well financed. He is sophisticated and capable in his production and marketing decisions."

Unfortunately, some have interpreted Mr. Peterson's remarks to be my own position and views. My reason for quoting Mr. Peterson was to present a sample of what other people are saying about solving agriculture's perplexing problems.

And, particularly, I presented Mr. Peterson's views in some detail because an increasing number of the Members of Congress appear to hold similar views. Mr. Peterson's views do not represent my own approach to agriculture.

Today, Panhandle Congressman Bob Price was instrumental in obtaining the House Agriculture Committee's approval of H. R. 10595, to extend the Great Plains Conservation Program. As a member of the Agriculture Committee, Price cosponsored H. R. 10595, in addition to having introduced identical legislation last year and two similar bills this year. H.R. 10595 extends the Great Plains Conservation Program for ten years beyond its 1971 expiration date.

"Progress in the Great Plains Conservation Program which includes all of the Panhandle and south plains area has increased each year in Texas since it was started," Price said. "The program has demonstrated its ability to do the following things: First, assist small low-income farmers to make maximum use of their resources thus improving and stabilizing far income;

Second, accelerate land treatment of critical sediment and wind erosion areas;

Third, reduce maintenance cost of public utilities, businesses, etc., and reduce pollution of water and air;

Fourth, stimulate local economy, local pride and confidence in conservation program objectives; and Fifth, make rural areas more attractive places in which to live and encourage people to stay in the country or to move back to the country.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ: Within a few weeks thousands of young Texans will trade their classroom chores for a three month turn in the world of work. Perhaps in our affluent society the students are earning money for those extras or for those extras or for money to buy that car. Contrary to the practice followed by quite a few employers, students or any employees who work for a short period are subject to the same withholding, social security and other employment taxes for both the employee and the employer, that apply to regular employees. Even if you are only going to work a short time, you must take your employer your social security number and fill out a Form W-4. Don't forget to get your W-2 on the job at the end of the summer, or by January 31. Taxes withheld during the summer spend quite well during the spring term of school. However there is one little chore — you must file a tax return for the government to know that you are due a refund of part or all of your tax withheld during the summer.

It's Easy! It's Fun! It's Decorative! DECOUPAGE

Decoupage is a French word (pronounced day-coo-page) meaning to cut out, or to decorate surfaces with cutouts. The art originated in several European countries in the 17th and 18th centuries to imitate the elegant and expensive oriental lacquerware. Decoupage is an art form which everyone can enjoy. You do not need to be artistic. You do not need any special skills. All that is required is a desire to create an exquisite object which will be useful, and perhaps become an heirloom. Beginners could create a masterpiece on their first try. Most surfaces, such as wood, metal and glass can be decoupage. The items most frequently used are jewelry boxes, trays, card boxes, waste baskets, handbags, furniture, plaques, etc. Earlier methods of decoupage required many hours of waiting for materials to dry. It took months to complete a project. Today, due to modern and improved methods and materials, decoupage is becoming the nation's number one hobby. It is now possible to complete a work of art in a few days. Decoupage will provide your home with beautiful decorations; gifts which the receiver will treasure forever. Or, if you wish, you may enjoy a part-time income by selling your finished products.

You too will enjoy this wonderfully relaxing and productive hobby. Start now. Check today with the folks at Carl McCaslin Lumber Company for the workbooks and supplies that you will need. You'll see how easy it is to produce beautiful, decorative Decoupage for your home and for gifts.

Music Underlines Life

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Music has been a vital part of Mrs. G. E. Hamilton's life, and she brought it with her when she came from Matador to Kings Manor to make her home a few months ago.

HER PIANO is a part of the furniture in her room, and she often plays it and the organ which she gave to the Manor. She serves as accompanist for singing at worship services and on other occasions at the Manor, and has directed vocal groups for special programs.

All this activity is in the pattern she formed in the West Texas cities where she previously lived — Childress, where she taught piano and was accompanist for church, civic club and school groups a number of years, and Matador, where she continued those pursuits after her marriage to the late Judge Hamilton.

When she moved to Childress with her family before World War I, as Maggie Knight, the Methodist Church there needed a Sunday school pianist and her uncle recommended his teenage niece for the position. She was still Sunday school pianist when she left Childress in 1940.

HER VOLUNTEER service to the church did not stop there; she played much of the time for church services, often for weddings, funerals and special programs. She organized and directed a Sunday School orchestra for several years, and when another church pianist was on duty she took her place to sing in the choir.

Born at Wortham, she began piano lessons as a child and completed her study with Sam Losch, who operated a school of music in Fort Worth which was then well known over Texas. Her first teaching was done in Childress, after she and her sister had worked for a time as telephone operators.

"Off and on, I've taught ever since," she says, and indeed there were few times when she didn't have some pupils. In the 1930's she operated the Retail Merchants Association in Childress but she did not drop her music classes.

IN ADDITION to routine teaching, she coached her pupils to appear as soloists or in groups on school, church or community programs, as she encouraged them to use their talents for the pleasure of others. She was often called upon to accompany soloists or audience singing, and was pianist for the Childress Rotary Club, Lions Club and Business and Professional Women's Club a number of years.

Friends remember programs by nervous school children or even adult amateurs where her skill as accompanist bridged bobbles and recalled forgotten words.

They also praise her for being always willing to play background music at teas and on other occasions where the pianist could contribute to the merriment while she herself was not noticed.

HER TEACHING and contributions to the musical life of Matador went on during her years there. Her husband, a prominent attorney of that city who had previously lived in Childress also, died in 1962.

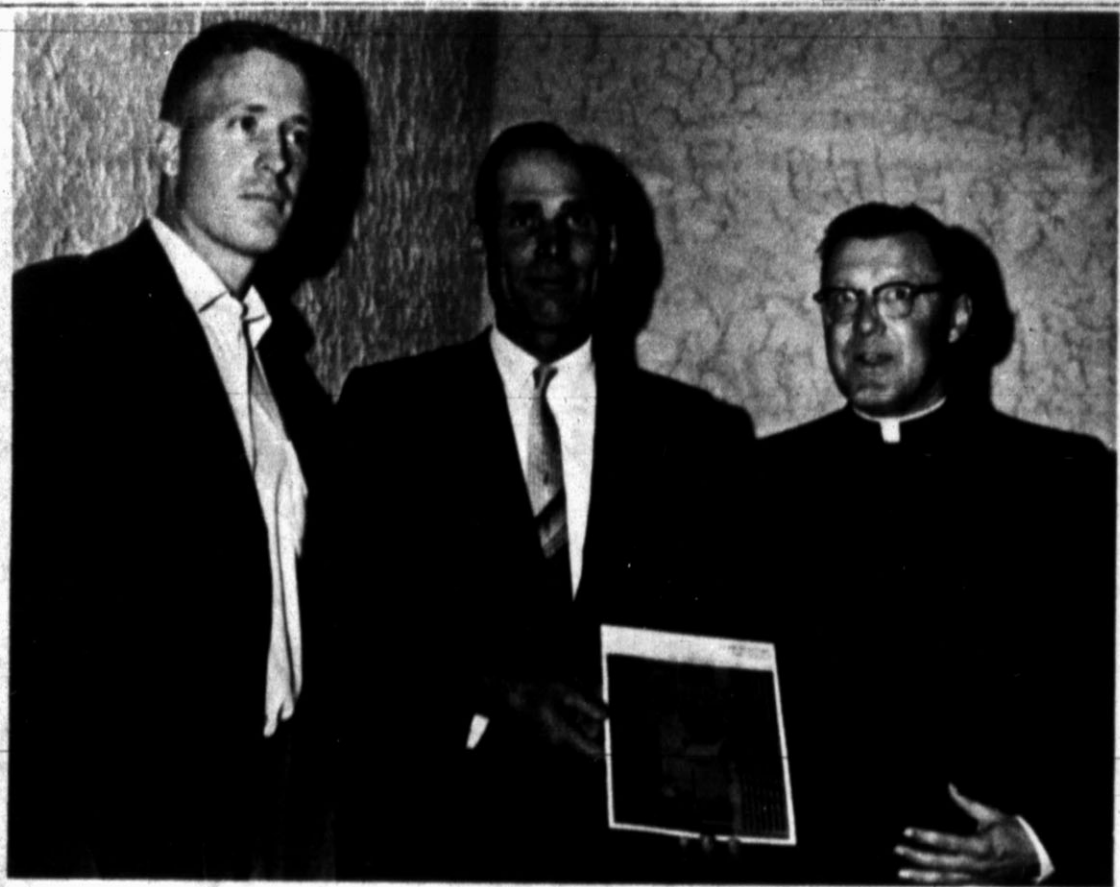

His title of judge, by which he was generally known, was a courtesy title; he served a term in the state legislature and was county attorney at Matador several years, but never a judge.

When formal presentation of the organ as her gift to Kings Manor was made at an Easter program she directed, a group of members from the Matador Methodist Church choir came up to assist on the program, a gesture of appreciation for her service to that church which was typical of much such service in her lifetime.

DOUBLED AND REDOUBLED, Mothers Day greetings come to Mrs. Warren Jorde today from two teenage sons and a pair of blonde twin daughters. Pictured with her at their home, 148 Mimosa, are Julianne and Jennifer, who will be

Brown-Diller Wedding Is Held In Levelland

The marriage of Miss Barbara Gail Brown of Levelland and Duane Anthony Diller of Hereford was solemnized in a late afternoon ceremony Saturday in St. Michael's Catholic Church at Levelland with the Rev. R.H. MacLellan, pastor, officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Brown, Route 2, Levelland, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Diller, Route 3, Hereford. Mr. Brown gave his daughter in marriage.

A background archway of green foliage was arranged before the altar, with tiered candles and baskets of white gladiolus and stock on either side.

Miss LaDonna Gressett attended Miss Brown as maid of honor and the bridegroom's brother, Mike Diller, was his best man. Wayne Reinart of Hereford and David Cook of Levelland showed guests to their pews. Wedding music was by Mrs. Kenneth Massengale, organist.

Silk organza in stars and white made the bride's gown, with long-sleeved bodice of Chantilly lace scalloped at the neckline. Wide bands of the lace circled the A-line skirt just above the hemline, and the circular train, attached at the waist, was bordered with lace scallops.

Over her hair she wore a lace mantilla, and her bouquet was a cascade of eucharist lilies, carnations, stephanotis and the green leaves of ivy.

Miss Gressett's dress was in style similar to the bride's, of blue dotted Swiss with scallops edging the bell sleeves and the skirt.

A reception in the community room of First National Bank at Levelland followed the wedding. Sisters of the bride served refreshments. Mrs. John Beival the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Alvis Robinson the punch.

Mrs. Jimmy Todd was at the book where guests registered. Mrs. Clyde Weaver and Mrs. Hubert Cook assisted in serving.

The table was covered with white satin and blue taffeta and had a centerpiece of blue tapers in a silver pedestal candelabrum surrounded with white stock blossoms.

Leaving on the wedding trip to New Mexico, Mrs. Diller wore a pale blue suit-dress with white accessories. After the trip the couple will be at home in Hereford.

The bride, who attended Levelland schools, has been employed as a bookkeeper. Diller is an employee of Schlabs Manufacturing, Inc. He was a student in South Plains College, Levelland, after attending Hereford and Dimmitt schools.

Streu Announces Tourist Promotion

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is one of 24 in the Panhandle-Plains area participating in a group program designed to bring additional tourist dollars to the communities working together in the program, it has been announced by tourist and convention chairman, Oliver Streu of the Chamber of Commerce.

The promotion is the largest area tourist information program ever set up through the cooperative efforts of individual chambers of commerce. It has increased five times in participation since its inaugural last year by five communities. The Area Development Department of Southwestern Public Service Company designed the program and presented it for approval to each of the participating communities.

The program is built around a "Land of Coronado" theme and will use outdoor advertising, window and table cards to acquaint tourists with the attractions of the area.

Fifty-three outdoor advertising boards located along the major highways of the area are the principal tourist information sources in the plan. The boards will contain a welcome to Texas, suggest a stop at the next participating community for further tourist information, highlight area attractions, and pinpoint things to see and do in the communities supporting the promotion.

The window cards for display in motels, service stations and eating places will have complete information on all area tourist attractions including those in the Hereford area. The same information will also be found on the table cards for restaurants and cafes.

"If nine tourist cars a day stop in our community overnight the economic gain is the same as adding a $100,000 a year industrial payroll," Streu said. And, the tourist dollar is a 'new' dollar, one that otherwise would not find its way into the community. It is estimated that between 20,000 and 25,000 tourist cars pass through the Panhandle-Plains region daily, so the prospects are there."

Although the basic promotion features the use of outdoor advertising, Streu said that he was hopeful that those businesses which are direct beneficiaries of the new tourist dollars would use other advertising media to supplement the program.

"It seems to me if we had a special tourist section in area newspapers frequently during the vacation season and radio announcements on accommodations available in the community were broadcast, we'd have a well-rounded program going," Streu said.

The outdoor signs will be on display from May until September, the major tourist months.

"People in this part of the country are noted for their courtesy and friendliness. If we get tourists to stay in our community, can tell them about our area attractions, and give them some southwestern hospitality, they'll tell their friends, and we'll enjoy repeat business. A new dollar, like the tourist dollar moves, on the average, seven times before it leaves the community, so there is benefit for all in this type of program," Streu concluded.

Mercers Are Honored On Silver Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mercer were honored on their silver wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon, when their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sims or Lubbock, were hosts at the Mercer home, 112 Aspen.

Callers during reception hours registered at a lace-covered table centered with white pompon mums in a crystal vase, where Miss Kimberlea Vandiver of Lubbock, a niece of the Mercers, presided.

Mrs. Mercer's sister, Mrs. Travis Caraway of Lubbock, poured coffee from the silver service which was a gift to the honorees from their family. A niece, Mrs. Curtis Vandiver of Lubbock, served the white and silver anniversary cake, topped with the silver numerals, 25.

A large silver wedding ring holding pink roses, white pompons and fresh foliage centered the table, which was covered with lace over mint green.

Mrs. Otis Lee and Mrs. G. C. Merritt Jr alternated at the punch bowl where mint julep was served in the den. Also in the houseparty were Meses, J. B. Sowell, Cecil Boyer and Herman Drake.

The Mercers' wedding was a home ceremony solemnized in Hereford May 6, 1944. Mrs. Mercer is the former Miss Dorothy Funderburg. Mrs. Sims is their only child.

CARMICHAELS RETURN
Mr. and Mrs. Pete Carmichael of 213 Sunset have returned from a visit with their son Kenneth and his family at Winifred, Montana.

Upon their return to Hereford Dr. Bill Carmichael and 7-month-old Laura arrived from Bedford, Tex., on Thursday evening. Dr. Carmichael is also set to attend a dental meeting at Amarillo during his stay here.

Agricultural research over the past century has produced scores of far-reaching and diverse products. Among them: commercial penicillin, wash and wear cottons, concentrated fruit juices, faster growing pine trees and air-pollution detectors.

Class Says Farewell

A farewell compliment to Mrs. Bill Lankford, who will move from Hereford soon, was a salad supper given by Golden Rule Class of First Baptist Sunday School recently in Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

She was presented a gift certificate from the class members. The evening was spent in informal conversation after supper.

Those present included Miss Shirley Curtis, Meses, Charles Watson, Ken Rogers, Waldo Baxter, Thomas Millegan, A. H. Cook, Ray Seale, Don Lane and Danny Martin.

Couple Living At Galveston

Lieut. and Mrs. Don R. Henslee flew to Galveston after their marriage in an afternoon ceremony last Sunday at the Presbyterian Church, and the bride will finish classes for a degree in physical therapy from the University of Texas Medical Branch on May 23.

She is the former Miss Merle Evelyn Carmichael, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Troy Carmichael, 148 North Texas. Henslee, a second lieutenant in the United States Army, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Henslee, 123 Star.

The double ring wedding service was read by the Rev. Russell Wingert, pastor of the church, at an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums, white tapers in paired candelabra backed by greenery.

Only attendants were Miss Ann Prewitt of Baylor University, Waco, as maid of honor and Kip Morgan of Happy as best man. Her father gave Miss Carmichael in marriage.

Serving as ushers were the bridegroom's brother, David Henslee; the bride's cousin, Danny Carmichael of Lubbock; Steve Racich, Carlos Pedrosa and Arthur L. York; all of Canyon.

The bride's gown of white linen was fashioned on slender lines, floor-length and sleeveless, with a wide chapel train, Venetian lace edged the front yoke, circlet neckline and sleeve line and extended around the hem and train.

Her elbow-length illusion veil was caught to a headpiece of Venetian lace flowrets. She carried a nosegay of white roses and pompon chrysanthemums.

The maid of honor wore a sheer yellow frock with satin ribbon trim, and her flowers were white chrysanthemums frilled with yellow lace in nosegay style.

Wedding guests were received by the couple and their parents in the church fellowship hall after the ceremony. Mrs. Kip Morgan was at the guest book.

Mrs. Richard Connolly of Fort Worth served the cake while Mrs. Stephen Knox poured punch. Others in the houseparty were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. A. O. Thompson; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Martha Moore; Mrs. A. J. Schroeter, Mrs. Johnny Pool and Mrs. Ed Schroeter.

A candelabra arrangement of white chrysanthemums centered the refreshment table, with the silver punch bowl at one end and the wedding cake, touched with pale yellow in sugar flowers and wedding bells on top, at the other.

Mrs. Henslee attended West Texas State University before entering the University Medical Branch, and was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Chi and LXA Crescent Girls. She is a graduate of Hereford High School.

Officers' basic training completed at Fort Sill, Okla., Lieutenant Henslee is on a 30-day leave from the Army and has been assigned to service in Korea beginning June 6. He was a distinguished military graduate in January from WTSU, where campus memberships included Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and Seaboard and Blade, honorary military fraternity. His high school work was completed in Odessa.

Guests here from other cities for the wedding were Mrs. Eleanor Frewitt, Miss Patty Roach, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Sigman of Lubbock; Raymond Bowman of Burbank, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. George Mager and family of Amarillo.

Major and Mrs. W. T. Rives, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Don Whitaker, Misses Nancy Martin, Shirley Hale, Sherry Killingsworth, Lil Coward and Lynn Gill, all of Canyon; Lieut. Pete Tobin of Fort Sill; Mr. and Mrs. D.L. Carmichael and Mrs. M. C. Griffin of Friona, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ireland of Sweetwater.

Girls Attend State Meet

Attending the state VICA meeting in Irving recently, Melody Ott and Bonnie Walker were accompanied by their cosmetology teacher, Vanna Belle Thurlow, Mothers of the girls, Mrs. Sally Walker and Mrs. Dorothy Ott, also accompanied the contestants.

Both Miss Ott and Miss Walker received excellent and superior ratings at the district meet which made them eligible to compete in the state meet.

At the state meet, Miss Ott received an excellent rating in wig styling and Miss Walker received an excellent in the notebook division.

About 300 boys and girls competed in the VICA contests.

Let's Continue Forward

It won't be long until voters will be asked to go to the polls and cast their ballots on a $500,000 hospital expansion bond issue. Hospital administrator T. E. Seigler, and the hospital board have stated that if this issue is passed, there will likely be an increase in local ad valorem taxes amounting to approximately 7 per cent.

Certainly, no one likes to have taxes raised, but we do appreciate an honest appraisal of the situation and that the authorities in this case did not try to hide the fact that the improved services to local citizens will cost a little more money. We also appreciate the effort the county commissioners have made over the past 8 to 10 years to keep county taxes at an absolute minimum. At the present time, with all three taxing agencies using the same base valuations on tax rolls, the county not only has the lowest rate (80 cents per $100 valuation), but also the lowest percentage of valuation taxed (22 per cent as compared to 40 per cent for the school district and 45 per cent for the city). We are not publishing these figures to try to embarrass either the city or school district, since the growth problems here has affected these two governmental bodies more than the county, but we feel that a comparison will help you realize that county taxes are low and that the increase brought about by the addition to the local hospital will be minimal. To top it off, we feel that the increase in trade brought about by the additional hospital services will offset any additional taxes paid — a hundred times over. There is no organization that means more to a community than does a first-class hospital with the accompanying medical services offered by two fine clinics and their top-notch medical staffs.

In recent months we have had an opportunity to observe first hand, the effects that a hospital has on a community. We're thinking primarily of the little Hi-Plains Hospital at Hale Center, Texas, which is not nearly as large as our own, yet it is the cement that hold the community together. Patients come from many around, and many other communities, because of the fine medical services at this hospital. It has helped to keep the city of Hale Center moving forward while the economy of less fortunate towns throughout the area continues to move downward with the eventual result of a loss of population.

If you honestly feel that you cannot afford the increase in taxes (which will amount to about $4.00 on a valuation of $22,000), then by all means you should vote against the bond issue when it is presented May 20. On the other hand, if you believe, as we do, that the returns — not only in health services, but in dollars and cents as well — will more than offset the additional taxes, then we urge you to vote for the forthcoming bond issue. We believe that a community that does not continue to grow, has only one recourse — to wither on the vine and die. We believe the progressive citizens of this county will choose the road of progress.

HAPPY, HAPPY PEOPLE

For glimpses of the full life on television, never mind football, society dramas, egghead dialogues or Western saloon brawls. Concentrate on the cigarette commercials. See the girl romping with flying hair and feet through fields of daisies, meanwhile blowing smoke rings and registering joy.

See the stern-faced he-man, astride a horse in the snowy mountains, lighting up a butt with the serious mien of a brain surgeon. See the happy couple smooching in the park with half their attention on smoke, a silly diversion of attention. Hear the happy mixed chorus atop the bus, around the camp fire, on the beach or on top of a transatlantic jet, singing hymns of praise.

Who are these gay people? Have they homes and responsibilities? Are they really friendly with each other? How friendly?

These folks are obviously the winners in the game of life. It must be that cigarettes make them as happy as nose drops do the victims of post nasal drip. But possibly there's a catch in it. A local resident has been smoking three packs a day for 20 years, trying to reach such states of bliss as are represented. And all he has so far is a morning cough. Boston Globe

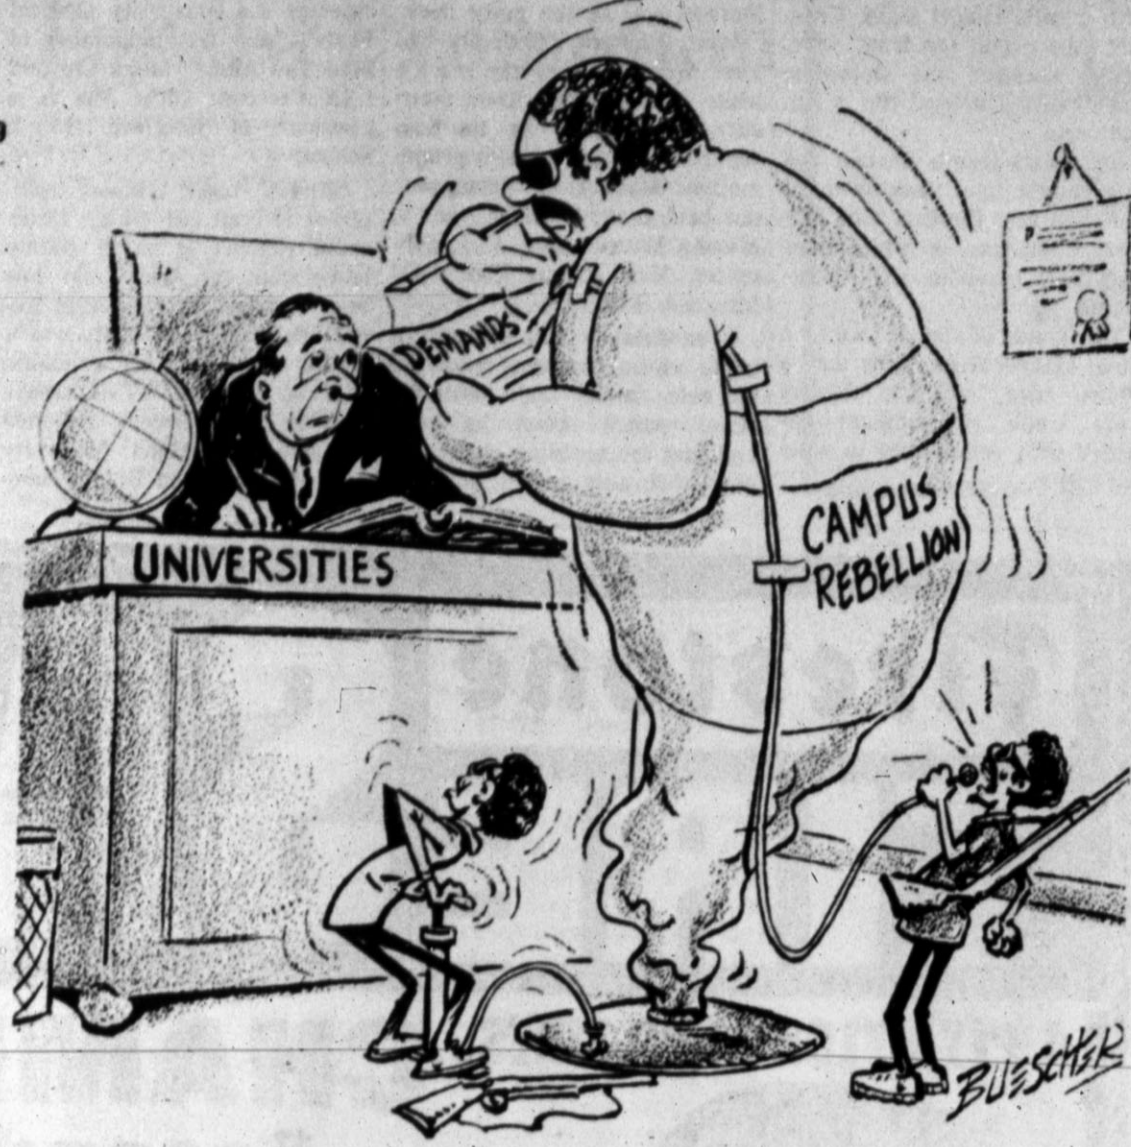

A WOMAN'S JOB

There was a bit of a whirl in London recently when a young woman won a prize as London's top men's hairdresser in competition with six men finalists.

The result couldn't have been more predictable. After all, if men are indisputably the best women's hairdressers in the world, why shouldn't women be the best men's hairdressers?

Come to think of it, most men would rather have their hair done by a Miss Susan than by a Mr. John. The fact is more of them might have their hair styled if women, not men, were the stylists. — Hamilton (Ont.) Spectator

Administration Practicing Cart-Before-Horse Politics

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — President Nixon and Postmaster General Winton M. Blount are practicing cart-before-the-horse politics in advocating another postal rate increase before reforming the postal system — and improving mail service.

Chairman Thaddeus Dulski (D., N. Y.) of the House Post Office Committee is giving the cold shoulder to the White House request for another hike in mail rates, even before the recent increase is fully effective. Rep. Dulski insists reform must come first, and that may turn out to be the Congressional verdict.

Late in April, Rep. Dulski opened hearings on postal reform, over the objections of PMG Blount. The Post Office Department wants more time to study the reform problem and won't be ready to take a stand until June. In the meantime, the Administration wants a hurry-up rate increase to raise more than $600 million in additional revenue in the fiscal year starting July 1.

The White House wants a 7-cent letter rate, 6 cents for postcards, a 12 percent increase on newspapers and magazines on top of other increases already scheduled next January, plus a 16 percent boost in the cost of mailing advertising circulars.

Not so long ago, it cost only 3 cents to mail a letter, and by last year the rate had doubled to 6 cents. Now the demand is for another penny. The 3-cent letter rate went to 4 cents in 1959, to 5 in 1963, and to 6 in 1968.

Many members of Congress are loath to jump the price to 7 cents so soon after this succession of increases.

Reform Blueprint Gathers Dust
In June, 1968, a blue-ribbon group headed by Frederick R. Kappel, retired Chairman of the Board of A. T. & T., produced a comprehensive report on Post Office reform. It found the Post Office "faces a crisis" and urged the mail service to be taken over by a government corporation which would operate the system on a self-supporting basis.

After nearly a year, little has been done to implement the Kappel recommendations. The Nixon Administration has removed Postmasters from politics, to the accompaniment of screams of protest from Congress, but otherwise the Kappel report has gathered dust on the shelf. Mr. Blount can't make up his mind whether or not he wants a government corporation.

The postal unions are generally against the Kappel blueprint, because it would deprive them of their opportunity to get almost annual pay increases through Congressional action. If a government corporation were formed wages would be set by negotiation between the managers of the service and the employees.

The current hearings before the Dulski committee are on legislation embodying the Kappel report, and a counter proposal fathered by the unions and sponsored by Rep. Dulski. The Dulski bill would make drastic changes in the postal system but keep it an executive agency headed by a Cabinet member.

Deficit Concept Challenged
The root of all evil in the postal service is money. President Nixon told Congress recently the deficit next fiscal year "will reach nearly $12 billion." This is not quite the whole truth, since about half that sum is labeled by law as public services and written off as a necessary cost which the taxpayers should meet from general revenues and not from charges levied against mail users.

Actually, the whole concept of a postal deficit is open to challenge. Sure, it costs money to run the system just as it costs money to operate the Department of Agriculture and almost all other governmental services. The Post Office is a public service and not a business.

Congress would be wise to defer another postal rate increase until reform is achieved and service is improved. The public will be glad to pay for an efficient delivery system. Let reform be achieved first and opposition to higher rates will melt away.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson-grass farm asks a hard question this week.

Dear editor:

I found this newspaper on the floorboard of my car after I'd taken it in to have some repair work done — some people say they don't make cars like they used to but I don't know about that, my 1946 model car can burn out a tail pipe just as fast as these new ones — and to get my mind off the repair bill I sat down and read it.

The thing that caught my eye was an article about how many new cars have been called back in on account of defective parts.

It's not just lower-priced or mass-produced models but all kinds, all the way up to Rolls-Royce. When the manufacturer discovers some models have gotten out to the public with defective parts, he calls them back in for correction.

I have been thinking about this and it has suddenly occurred to me: why can't we use this system on people?

Right now there must be a good many parents all over the nation who'd like to call back their college kids to see if they can correct the defective parts. Obviously they weren't ready to come off the assembly line.

And it's not just college students. You run into people in all walks of life with defects clearly demanding a recall. There are even college presidents whose mainsprings seem to be understrength, and you'll find a college professor here and there whose muffler has fallen off and his motor hitting on only two cylinders, some even who have blown a head gasket, as well as politicians needing new carburetors, not to mention others so antiquated they can no longer pass a safety inspection and ought to be taken off the road, but not stored in Congress.

Unfortunately, the car manufacturers have the edge on the rest of us. When they recall a car they have a place to fix it in. Where's the garage that can handle a college kid?

On the other hand, while I don't have the figures, I estimate there are more cars than kids with defects. The current models may not be improved much, but they're just as good as the ones produced over the last 1000 years.

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Legend to the contrary, Sam Bass was a failure as an outlaw.

Crime certainly didn't pay for him — except in notoriety. The only real haul he ever made was the $10,000 he got as a member of the gang that held up a Union Pacific train at Big Spring, Nebraska, in March, 1877. After this success, he organized his own robber band. Their first holdup netted exactly $11.

Sam's gang only grossed $2,000 during the few months that it operated and these robberies were conducted almost entirely without gun-play. In fact, Sam Bass had never shot a man until July 21, 1878, when he decided to rob the bank at Round Rock, in Williamson County. Officers trapped him and he shot his way out, killing a deputy in the process. Sam was shot, too, and died later of his wound.

FRONTIER MEDICARE — Long before Pasteur discovered his successful vaccine, a popular treatment for rabies was the "madstone."

Madstones, similar to kidney stones, are concretions found sometimes in the intestines of plant-eating animals. Older generations believed that the stones, when applied to any animal bite, would remove the dangerous rabies germ.

The remedy was so popular in Texas that one madstone was sold for $250 at public auction in 1879.

TRAVELING TEXAS — San Juan, in the Rio Grande Valley, has a church which serves 23 different denominations. Organized in 1918, it is known as "The People's Church."

CIRCUS QUEEN — From 1869 to 1918, the most popular traveling show in Texas was Mollie Bailey's Circus.

The only major show of its kind ever operated in the state by a woman, the Mollie A. Bailey Circus boasted 31 painted wagons, 170 head of trained circus stock, a small menagerie and a troupe of acrobats. Mollie was both the manager and star of the show, and when she died in 1918, the show died with her.

IT STARTED IN TEXAS — Denison, Grayson County, claims to be the birthplace of the ice cream soda.

One day in 1873, J. A. Euper, who operated the only non-alcoholic oasis in town at the time, was experimenting with his new $900 soda fountain made of fancy Italian marble. Accidentally, he squirted carbonated water over a dish of ice cream. Hoping to salvage what seemed to be a loss, he added some chocolate syrup.

The result was so satisfying that he began serving the concoction to all customers as a gimmick — and thus a new confection was born.

IT'S A FACT — Because most Texas real estate laws trace their ancestry to Spain, the Spanish vara, a unit of linear measurement equivalent to 33 one-third inches, is still accepted as a legal standard in this state.

One good restaurant such as the "Squire" conducts, is a benefit to a town of this size, but, like a good newspaper, one does more good than more, as a concentrated patronage to one concern of this nature enables the proprietor to much better serve his patrons.

The hearing, which was scheduled for Friday, was postponed until June 3. Letter To The Editor

Dear editor:
 This is something that I must say.
 All this talk about all the bad kids makes me ill. Because it leaves a mark against the good, along with the bad; which is very unfair.
 I "sat in" on all the meetings at the State Meet and assisted in some of the contests. Now, what I saw, I shall never forget!
 There were 3,000 kids there and not one time did I see anything out of order. Everybody was so friendly and behaved so well. The boys and girls went out of their way to be nice to us. Were so cordial and nice.
 We had a dance-banquet and it was so orderly. Everyone had a wonderful time.
 During the installation ceremony of new State officers, I was so impressed that it brought tears to my eyes. To see those kids so dedicated (they really believe in what they're doing)! And the meeting was conducted with such precision, you'd think you were in a House meeting in our government.
 I really believe that our vocational program not only trains these students for a profession but develops our leaders of tomorrow!
 All I can say is, "Hats off to VICA" and our teenagers.
 Sincerely,
 Vanna Belle Thurlow,
 Cosmetology,
 Hereford High School.

Youth Farm Jobs Under Guidelines

Summer is almost here and many farmers and ranchers will be hiring boys and girls to fill in for the critical labor shortage during the summer months. But before employing such youth, certain requirements must be met under the Fair Labor Standard Act as amended in 1966.

Employers must abide by the Agriculture and Child Labor Requirements when hiring youth under 16 years of age other than the owner's or operator's own children, points out Ed Garnett, Extension area farm management specialist, Amarillo.

These standards do not apply when a youngster under 16 is employed by his parent on a farm owned or operated by such parent, explains Garnett. Also, those youth under 16 who have completed a bona fide cooperative vocational training program are exempt from the provisions of the act.

Many county agricultural agents in the area are conducting such training programs at the present in order to prepare youngsters between the ages of 14 and 16 for summer employment, says the specialist.

This training mainly involves the safe operation of tractors and farm machinery. Identification cards are issued after successful completion of the training program, and employers should make sure that youngsters have these cards before hiring them, emphasizes Garnett. A employer can be fined up to $10,000 for willful violation of the Labor Act.

Check with your county agricultural agent for additional information on Child Labor if you have plans to employ youngsters on your farm or ranch this summer, urges Garnett.

The United States minted 2-cent coins from 1864 to 1873 and 3-cent coins from 1865 to 1889.

Teacher Aides Needed

Kindergarten teacher aides who are bilingual are now in demand, according to Hereford Independent School District assistant superintendent Robert Holman, and summer institutes have been set for training.

Project Teacher Aide is designed to train 100 teacher aides for placement in area schools — such as the seven kindergarten units on Hereford elementary school campuses — for the 1969-70 school year, Holman said.

Four institutes, each four weeks in length, have been scheduled at Amarillo College from July 21 through Aug. 15; at Hardin Simmons University in Abilene from June 9 through July 3; at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls from July 21 through Aug. 15; and at Texas Tech in Lubbock from July 21 through Aug. 15.

Holman said that all those who feel they are qualified and are interested should contact him at 364-0606 and see him personally at the school administration building.

He said that the institutes' program components will include orientation, child development, general goals and procedures of the local schools, instruction in specific skills, basic communication skills, and guidance in behavior suitable to the employment situation.
