Jury Convicts Padgett

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

A jury deliberated more than three hours Thursday night before returning a verdict of guilty against former Police Chief Marshall Padgett to a reduced charge of simple assault in connection with a fracas at a local club last October.

The maximum punishment for the crime is a $200 fine.

Padgett and his attorney, V. G. Kollus of Amarillo, asked that Dist. Judge Archie MacDonald, instead of the jury, determine the amount of the fine. MacDonald, who had a commitment elsewhere, deferred his action until later. Under law, he has 10 days to announce the size of the fine.

Padgett was charged with assault with intent to murder, following accusations that he threatened Homer Maslin of Glendale, Ariz., with a knife. Maslin, a produce salesman, was working in Hereford at the time.

Eight witnesses were called to the stand during the five-hour trial and contradicting testimony by several of the witnesses brought about the reduction in charges.

Padgett, 42, came to the local police force as a patrolman in 1962 and was promoted to sergeant within a year. A short time later, he was appointed chief of police and served in that position until his resignation in early 1969.

Prior to coming to the Hereford force, he served 13 years with the Amarillo Police Department vice squad.

Maslin, the first witness called by District Attorney Jerry Tucker, said he could think of no reason why Padgett might have wanted to harm him.

"I was sitting at the table in the club when Padgett walked up behind me," Maslin said. "I asked him if he wanted a drink and he said no, then slapped me a couple of times."

Maslin said Padgett forced him down against the table and stuck a knife to his side and said, "I'm going to kill you, you four-eyed Maslin said he grabbed a cue stick from the hand of another man sitting at the table and swung around and struck Padgett on the head several times.

"He made a dive for me then and we went to the floor. I hollered for someone to grab the knife and 'someone did,' he said.

Maslin said someone else helped him wrestle Padgett to the floor where they held him until the police arrived. During the time they were holding him on the floor, Maslin testified Padgett kept saying "you better kill me now cause I'm going to kill you and anyone helping hold me."

There were about eight or nine other persons in the club at the time of the incident, Maslin said.

IT'S SCHOOL BUS SAFETY WEEK

BUT DRIVERS DON'T ALWAYS STOP FOR BUSES

Hereford Has Enviably School Bus Safety Mark

By BETTY KOELZER
Staff Writer

Arthur Brock, substitute school bus driver, says that in 25 years with Hereford schools he does not recall any serious school bus accidents.

"No sir, I can't remember one where any of our kids were hurt," Brock said.

Tom Harkey, director of special services in the public schools system here, agrees.

"We have a real fine safety record, with only three minor accidents and one citation during the past four years," said Harkey, whose jurisdiction includes transportation.

School Bus Safety Week in Texas is being observed tomorrow through Saturday throughout the state.

The main theme being pushed in connection with that observance is the only one Harkey really feels is a significant problem in the Hereford area — drivers don't always stop when they come up to a school bus on the highway that is loading or unloading children.

"Annually in Texas, 15 to 20 children are killed carelessly. Thank the Lord, not one of these have been one of ours," Harkey said.

Daily reports are turned into the local school officials by parents or bus drivers concerning these thoughtless drivers, Harkey continued.

Harkey has only words of praise for the 32 school bus drivers, and bus barn officials, keeping the approximately 1,900 bus students transported daily to and from their classes.

"The boys and girls are real fine, too; I wouldn't trade for any other school district. We do have problems, but it is as fine as anyone can find," Harkey said.

Annual workshops, sponsored by the Department of Public Safety and the Texas Education Agency, are conducted in Hereford for the school bus drivers. Literature is periodically presented to the drivers as well as the students riding the buses, containing rules and regulations, Harkey said.

Twenty-eight buses run each day. Of the 32 drivers, eight are housewives; several of the men have retired from their usual occupations; the rest are school custodians.

Mrs. Lupe Flores, a housewife-driver, driving for the first time this year, says she "likes it so much. The kids are so nice and the noise doesn't bother me at all."

Mrs. Flores drives one of the bigger buses, having gained her experience from driving trucks for her husband.

Mrs. Flores also is concerned about the negligence of drivers to stop.

"Out on Highway 60, I sometimes use my headlights along with my flasher lights, but not even that is enough," she says.

Eldon Owens, bus foreman, says he has a "real good bunch of drivers. But it sure would pay for the auto drivers to think about the school bus kids, when a bus is stopped."

In proclaiming this week School Bus Safety Week, Gov. Preston Smith commended "the outstanding safety record" of the 12,000 bus drivers who each day transport a half million students more than 400,000 miles along Texas streets, highways, and country roads.

He stressed the importance of pupil transportation in making educational opportunity available, as well as the need for the public to help promote safety.

Richard M. Cummings, director of school transportation at the Texas Education Agency, emphasizes one way that the public can help. It's what the local officials and drivers would like to see, said Cummings:

"Observe the state law which requires cars to stop when approaching from either direction a stopped school bus that is loading or unloading. You just can't see a small child who steps out from in front of a bus. And even though they're instructed to look, they sometimes don't."

High School Band Wins Ninth Straight Sweepstakes

The Hereford High School band has won its ninth consecutive Sweepstakes Award.

The band attained the honor in the University Interscholastic League Concert and Sight Reading Contest at Amarillo Thursday. The band members received the necessary four Division I (superior) votes from a panel of four judges.

The band, because of its performance, now is eligible to compete in Corpus Christi the last week of this month at the Buccaneer Music Festival.

Outstanding AAA Honor Band, a distinction they have earned several times under the direction of Ben Gellehon.

In winning the concert division Thursday, the band performed "Carmina Burana" by Carl Orff, "Elf's Precession" by Wagner, and the Belgium Parachute Song, "March of the Parachutes."

The La Plata Junior High Band won Sweepstakes on Tuesday and Stanton Junior High just missed the same honor.

Only three other junior high bands — from Dumas, Pampa

Jury Investigates Drugs, Gambling, 'Other Problems'

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

A Deaf Smith County grand jury indicted eight persons in an eight-hour regular session Friday, then went into a lengthy special session to delve into the county's problem with drugs, gambling and several other items.

The grand jury refused to elaborate on the "other items," but the panel was believed to be giving intensive study to the methods of enforcement and discipline by certain county officials.

The grand jury, with Lloyd Sharp as foreman, met in regular session from 10 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Friday in returning eight true bills and passing five cases to a later grand jury session.

Among those indicted was Gary Dean Goheen, 17, charged with his brother and another youth in the burglary last month of two Hereford homes. The home owners, Charles Hoover and John McNeely, reported about $3,000 in money was taken and about $5,000 in property damage was caused by vandalism.

The jurors reconvened at 7:30 p. m. Friday in special session, recessed for the night at 10:45 p. m. and then returned to a special session at 8:30 a. m. Saturday to spend all day looking into various problems.

They still were not finished with their work when they broke up Saturday afternoon. The foreman said the jury will reconvene "very soon" to resume its investigations, although it was uncertain which day it will be.

"The final results of this session will be forthcoming in the near future, when our investigations are concluded," Sharp said.

In the time between Saturday and the date of the jury's return, Sharp added "We will be waiting for reports, to be used when we do meet again."

Of the special session, the foreman said: "We discussed at length and investigated the drug problem, the gambling and numerous other crimes that seem prevalent in the county. And, several other items."

The jury would not discuss the other items under investigation.

"There's still some secrecy about all this," one member of the jury said.

In addition to Goheen, the grand jury also indicted Alfred Casarez, Trinidad Ramirez and James Edward Wilde, driving while intoxicated, second offense; James Michael Isom, forgery; Caitane Villarreal, burglary; Margaret Franco burglary; and Sandra Chavez, burglary.

Villarreal is being held in county jail on charges of burglarizing the Nickerson and Laredo Hotels last week. He and two juveniles broke into several of the hotel rooms, taking a number of items, police said. Miss France and Miss Chavez were accused of burglarizing a home at 305 Witherspoon and taking two cameras, an iron and a wig stand.

Isom currently is in the custody of the sheriff's office in Clovis facing charges of taking a stolen car from one state to another. Similar charges face him in Lubbock. The car was reported stolen from Hereford, where he is charged with cashing a worthless check.

Goheen was arrested April 11 after Thomas Myers, 14, tried to cash a $50 bill at a Hereford supermarket. Store officials alerted to watch for persons trying to cash large bills, called police. Under questioning, Myers admitted involvement in the burglaries of the two homes and implicated Goheen and his 16-year-old brother, Dennis Goheen.

Almost $1,500 was found in a camera box hidden in one of the rooms in the Goheen house and $770 was found in the roof of the Myers home.

Crop-Helping Rain Falls On Hereford

While most of the Panhandle and West Texas were being raked by strong winds, damaging hail and heavy rain Friday, the Hereford area was getting a mild but helping hand from the weather.

Reports from throughout most of the region indicated heavy amounts of moisture accompanied by strong winds that caused considerable damage. In some areas, hail was also reported.

Crop-helping rain sprinkled across Deaf Smith County all day Friday and Friday night, providing spring crops with variable amounts of moisture. Some areas indicated as much as 1.5 inches of rain and others as little as two-tenths of an inch.

Phillip Miller, who lives 18 miles west and six miles north of Hereford, reported .95 of an inch of rain with "quite a bit of hail" after midnight Friday.

"The hail didn't do any damage," he said, "because it was real fine and little."

Miller said there was "quite a wind" but no damage was reported.

Community Grain, south of Hereford, reported the heaviest amount of moisture with 1.5 inches falling Friday without hail.

Dimmitt, 11 miles south of Community Grain, was one of the hardest hit spots in the immediate area during Friday night's storm. Gene King, owner of Community Grain, said the wind at Easter, where the grain company is located, was not quite as bad as that reported in Dimmitt.

"The wind got up pretty good here," he said, "and blew trash and other things around, but it wasn't too bad."

He said the rain was real good. Saturday morning, some of the moisture was still running out of the surrounding fields, he said.

On the J. E. McCabe Farm, two miles east of Dawn, .20 inch of moisture was reported, but again no hail.

McCabe said his farm received a little wind damage when winds "blew one wall nearly off" his barn.

 er Patsy Wood who was barmaid at the club at the time of the fight, but who has since married Maslin — testified that Padgett "came into the club looking kind of glassy-eyed and I told him he should go across the road and get a cup of coffee."
 "He just laughed at me and walked over to where Homer was sitting and stuck a knife in his side and told him he was going to kill him," she said.
 Mrs. Maslin said she had been playing pool when Padgett came in and had walked around the bar to mix an order of drinks when she noticed the "glassy-eyed condition of Padgett." She said she then walked back around the bar and it was then that Padgett pulled the knife on Maslin.
 She said Maslin grabbed the cue stick from another man, swung around and began striking Padgett over the head.
 "After they got him to the floor," she said, "I saw the knife laying on the floor near Marshall's hand and I reached down and picked it up. Someone else then handed me another knife and I put both of them behind the bar until the officers arrived."
 Gerald Kirkland, who was in the bar when the fight broke out, told the court he did not see Padgett with a knife during the fight. He said when the fight started he helped Maslin wrestle Padgett to the floor and hold him there until the police arrived.
 Cliff Baldwin, deputy sheriff, said when he arrived at the club Padgett was being held to the floor by several men.
 "We got him up," he said, "and I started to handcuff him, when he took off. We wrestled around and some others in the club helped me subdue him."
 He said someone then walked up to him and handed him two knives. He took Padgett to the sheriff's office for booking and then to the hospital for treatment of injuries to the head, he had been struck with the cue stick.
 Chief deputy Kervin Roper, who also assisted in arresting Padgett, identified the two knives, which were entered as evidence.
 J. B. Williams, a retired Friona resident who was also in the club on the day of the fight, testified that Padgett did not start the fight and that Padgett attempted to defend himself by shielding his face with a plastic waste basket.

 "My wife and I were sitting there when Padgett walked in but we did not pay much attention to him," he said. "We heard him call someone an S.O.B. Then this fella grabbed the cue stick out of the barmaid's hand and started hitting Padgett."
 Williams said Padgett then grabbed the plastic waste basket to protect himself, but the man knocked it out of his hand with the cue stick.
 Under questioning, Williams said Padgett had both hands on the waste basket and did not have a knife in either hand.
 Mrs. Williams testified also that Padgett did not have a knife and said that Maslin swung what she thought was the first blow.
 Padgett, testifying for himself, told the court he remembered nothing from the time he walked into the bar until he woke up in the jail cell. He said that since the time of the incident he has suffered dizziness and a loss of memory and hearing.
 Padgett said one of the knives entered as the state's exhibit belonged to him, but he could not identify the other. He said he did not remember pulling the knife on Maslin or anything else that happened in the club.
 Maslin, after being re-called to the stand, testified he and Padgett had come to words on one other occasion in late August of last year. He said Padgett began calling him names while they were in another bar. Maslin said he started to get up but sat back down when another man told him Padgett had two knives in his hands.
 "I only saw one knife," Maslin said.
 Randi Robbs, barmaid at a local club, said she had broken up a fight between Padgett and Maslin when they had come to words in the incident Maslin spoke of. She said she saw Padgett put a knife back into his pocket when the argument was over.
 tent to murder with malice — the original charge — carries a penalty of 2 to 25 years imprisonment.
 Charges drawn up by Judge MacDonald and presented to the jury asked that Padgett be found guilty of assault with intent to murder with malice, intent to murder without malice, aggravated assault, simple assault or be acquitted of all charges.

HOLLY EXECUTIVE SAYS Beet Change Has Little Effect On Hereford Area

BY JERRY ODOM
 Staff Writer
 The decision of the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to drop all 1970 sugar beet acreage allotments "won't affect the local area much at all," according to Holly Agricultural Manager Bob Ginn.
 The announcement was made Wednesday. USDA officials said the action recognizes the continued lessening of sugar recovery from 1969 crop sugar beets. They also said downward estimates of beet planting for 1970 influenced the decision.
 "The only ones around Hereford who'll really be affected by it are those who failed to sign up for allotment deadline Jan. 15th. There were a lot of growers who intended to sign up but they didn't get the message," Ginn said.

 Since restrictions have been dropped, anyone who would like to plant this year should contact Holly Ginn said. "We can still take on acreage."
 Ginn estimates around 36,000 acres will be contracted with Holly this year. Last year's total was 45,000, but 5,000 of that number were under the Early Harvest Contract which required they be harvested by the end of September.
 "We won't have an Early Contract this year," Ginn said, "and we're not going to contract over 40,000 acres, especially this year," he added.
 He said 40,000 acres is probably too many because it requires too many beets to be stored too long in storage piles. Because of the low sugar content in 1969, Holly stymied the pile practice, but even during a normal season excessive pilage is not recommended.
 The outlook, thus far, on the '70 beet crop is good. "The beets that were planted when the late freeze hit weren't hurt and there appeared to be no adverse effects," Ginn said.
 "But if they had been planted in February, as some beets have been in previous years, we could have been in trouble. The freeze could have reached the sprout at that time."
 The beets which have been planted and broken the ground appear to have good stands, he said.
 The downward estimates of 1970 planting by the USDA are not as extreme here as other areas according to Ginn. "We didn't lose a very big percentage of our growers, not even 10 per cent. Five per cent may have dropped, but we just don't know for sure," he added.
 Ginn said the 36,000 acres estimate to contract is about the number they have expected since harvesting completions last year.

Local Couple Injured

Jerry and Essie Pennington, owners of Jerry's Appliance here, were both listed in critical condition in intensive care at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo Saturday, suffering from injuries sustained when a tornado hit Clarendon, Friday night.
 The couple was at Sherwood Shores at Greenbelt Lake when the storm hit. They own a trailer house on the shore of the lake, but it was undetermined whether they were inside the trailer house when the storm hit.
 Jerry Pennington, son of the couple, said the last condition report from hospital officials indicated his father's condition was stable but still critical and Mrs. Pennington's condition was critical.
 Reports Saturday said as many as 14 persons were killed when the storm hit the Clarendon area. Between 100 and 150 mobil homes were destroyed by the tornado.

HHS Qualifies Five For Region Track

The Hereford High School track team battled hand-and-fist Saturday with gusting winds and the powerful Dumas and Perryton squads, but came out on the short end of both encounters in the District 1-AAA track meet in Canyon.

Hereford totaled 84 points for third place, finishing behind Dumas, who won the meet with 145 points, and Perryton who had 105 points. Canyon finished fourth with 76, Tulia fifth with 60 and Muleshoe sixth with 12.

The Whitefaces qualified four boys in five events for the regional meet in Odessa this weekend. Tony Gorman captured first in the 100 with a heave of 147 feet and also took honors in the shot event with a toss of 49-feet-11-inches.

Also qualifying were Percy Mays in the 800-yard run with a time of 2:00.5 for first place; George Fuller in the broad jump with a leap of 20-feet-7-inches for second place; and Ralph Waits in the high jump with a leap of six feet for first place.

First and second place winners in the district meet are eligible for competition in the regional meet and the winners there will qualify for the state meet to be held in Austin.

The La Plata Mavericks freshman squad took first place in team standings in their division of the meet and Stanton finished third behind second place Perryton. Total points and winners were not available at press time Saturday.

Wickerham's program features operation of the long-distance switching network, plus a laser, a hologram (three-dimensional photograph) and a model Picturephone.

Wickerham has been presenting similar science programs for the telephone company for four years. He has more than 20 years of technical telephone experience.

Wilson Plant Opens Its Doors For Daily Tours

Guided tours of the new multimillion dollar Wilson Beef and Lamb Packing Company are now being conducted, plant officials said Saturday.

Vern Swanson, plant manager, said plant personnel will conduct the tours each day at 2 p.m. for persons wishing to view the plant facilities and operations.

"Most of the equipment being used in construction is being moved around and will not be in the way now," he said. Swanson said that large groups should call in advance for tours and if the number is quite large, two or more tours will be taken.

Several groups of visitors have already taken tours of the plant, Swanson said.

Convention A Success

By Mrs. Argen Draper

Thanks, folks, for all efforts that made the District THDA Meeting successful. Everyone concerned thinks the convention was well planned and was very good, in every way. I still insist Deaf Smith County people can make a success of any endeavor. I appreciate the cooperation of all of you.

Some thoughts from the Extension specialists:

Senior citizens have expressed some needs that we have overlooked. A group of interviewers discovered this for themselves as they talked recently with 53 older, rural Americans about their life.

Minnie Bell, Extension specialist for aging reports these needs of Senior Citizens which the interviewers found:

1. They need to be better informed about programs which will help them.
  2. Health programs need to better help them to reduce discomfort and to help change their outlooks on life.
  3. Services of a visiting nurse or someone comparable may be better than sending an older person to an institution.
  4. Housing needs improving and taxes reduced on homes owned by elderly.
  5. They need help to benefit more from social activities.
  6. They need help to "get out"; lower fares for transportation.
  7. The older people need help to make use of their skills or train them in new skills.
- Remember — May is Senior Citizen Month.

One food company soon will market a ready-to-drink iced tea in easy-open aluminum 11 1/2 six-pack containers, reports Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. The canned tea will be in price competition with other soft drinks. Can you believe this?

If their present rate of growth continues, soft drinks will rank as the number one beverage product in terms of per capita consumption, reports Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. Soft drink growth is the most rapid of all beverage groups. Meanwhile, coffee, tea and milk consumption is declining.

Do you realize the versatility of apple sauce? Here are unusual ideas for its use from Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist: Blend peanut butter and apple sauce and serve on raisin bread. Wheat Farmers Face Possible Crop Quotas Area wheat farmers may have a marketing quota for the 1971-72 crop, chairman Frank J. Beizer of the Deaf Smith County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee said Saturday.

If so, it probably would be announced this month.

Marketing quotas for wheat producers were suspended by the Agricultural Act of 1965, but that act is due to expire with the 1970 crop. Without new legislation, wheat programs revert to provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938.

Under the 1938 act, the Secretary of Agriculture must determine before April 15 each year whether a national wheat marketing quota should be in effect the following marketing year — in this case, the 1971 crop, Beizer explained.

If the Secretary determines that a marketing quota is needed, a referendum of wheat producers would be necessary before Aug. 1. Marketing quotas must be approved by at least two-thirds of the eligible producers who vote. Quotas then would limit wheat acreage a farmer can plant for market without penalty.

The last time a similar situation arose was 1965. Beizer said. That year, the Secretary proclaimed a wheat marketing quota referendum on April 15, 1965, but it was delayed by Congressional resolutions and the 1965 Agricultural Act became law the following November.

David Collins Places In WT History Contest

A Hereford youth was among those who placed Thursday in a history contest sponsored by the history department of West Texas State University.

In the U. S. history portion of the competition, David Collins won a gold medal in Class I. The contest is an annual affair. The West Texas State Extension Association provided the awards.

Trophies went to the top two winners, gold medals to seven who were rated in Class I and silver medals to eight who were rated in Class II.

Hereford Golf Squad Competes In Region

Hereford's golf squad, winner of the south zone championship in its district, will compete in regional competition Thursday and Friday at Andrews.

The Whitefaces earned the right to compete in the tournament by winning the zone title, even though they lost to Canyon by eight strokes Friday in the district championship match at Farwell.

Canyon's Eagles shot a team total of 325 and the Whitefaces a 333.

The teams, in search of a neutral course, chose Farwell and both teams were real pleased with the course beforehand," Hereford golf coach Jim Holmes said.

A heavy rain began falling, however, and the play of both teams suffered. Marsh Pitman, district medalist, shot an 80 to pace both squads. Wayne Stoerner shot an 81. James Jorde an 83, Dana Rush an 89 and Paul Hendon a 92.

Through balls in water hazards, out of bounds, etc., Hereford lost 16 strokes and Canyon four.

"If we could have eliminated the penalty shots, we could have probably won very easily," Holmes said.

Mrs. Randall Foy
with sons Randall II and Rodney

Newcomers In Profile

Family First Interest

The role of wife, homemaker and part-time secretary for her husband is a time consuming job for Mrs. Marsha Foy, a recent newcomer to Hereford.

The Randall Foy's, with sons Randall II and Rodney moved to Hereford in February where he is manager for Commonwealth

Theatres, Inc. Marsha enjoys the work she does for her husband, squeezing it in her busy schedule of rearing two lively boys.

Marsha is very enthusiastic about West Texas and says it's quite a change from Albuquerque where they lived for about seven months before moving from their home state, Indiana. Marsha thinks this part of the country is an improvement over the middle west and is meeting new friends each day.

Another active member of the Foy family is their four month-old Saint Bernard, Toby. They obtained him during their stay at Albuquerque and consider him one of the family.

Marsha and Randall are both natives of the Hoosier state. Randall from Montpelier and Marsha from nearby Hartford City. Montpelier was their home before moving to New Mexico.

Marsha enjoys working with hand crafts and loves to bowl in her spare time. "Randall is the bowler of the family," said the blue-eyed brownette, "and he has the trophies to prove it." Randall has joined a league here and is substituting on another. Numerous trophies are displayed throughout their apartment.

Wig Show, Art Display Are Study Club Events

A wig and hair styling show and art display, following a dinner at the Chaparral Restaurant were activities at the Hereford Study Club meeting Thursday evening.

After dinner and a brief business meeting, members viewed an art display at the Mall consisting of paintings by local artists, then were joined by several members of the Hereford Newcomers Club for the wig and hair styling show presented by Mary Helen Askew in Mary Helen's Beauty Salon.

The new trends in hair styling for spring were shown and explained by the beauticians from the Salon. Curls of all sizes on the back of the head are popular and they explained a new style for spring, the Question Mark Hair-do. It sweeps low in the front, higher in the back with curls forming a question mark at the nape of the neck.

Mary Helen displayed a large assortment of wigs and hair pieces and explained the care and use of each. The program included the correct use of eye makeup and facials.

During the brief business session, with Mrs. N. D. Bartlett presiding, members voted to make a curtain for the Sun Room at Westgate and to act as hosts for the Deaf Smith County Museum the first two weeks of June. Mrs. Art Stoy was appointed chairman for a work schedule to be announced at the next meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. H. Gentry and Mrs. Larry Ballard, co-hostesses for the evening. Others attending were Mmes. R. P. Conaway, T. E. Braddy, Noble Howard, Merlin Kaul, R.N. Yarbro, Bob Poston, Don Robinson, Maurice Tannahill, Ed Wilson, C. R. Winget and J. W. Witherspoon, and Miss Gladys Settiff.

The next meeting is scheduled May 7 in the home of Mrs. Robinson with Mrs. Shirley Garrison as co-hostess.

Needle Club Meeting Held

MRS. LEE CURRY

She's Retired, But Still Lives In The Present

By SUE COLEMAN
Scrapbooks dating back several decades share space in Mrs. Lee Curry's room at Kings Manor with pictures she painted this year, photographs of her great-grandchildren, current newspapers and magazines and other indications that as a retired lady she lives very much in the present.

A well-known resident of the Summerfield neighborhood since 1924 and a member of a family which pioneered in the Panhandle, coming to Armstrong County in 1889 on the first through passenger train from Fort Worth to Denver, she has lived in the Methodist retirement home here six years.

Life in her present comfortable surroundings, she contrasts favorably with that in her first home on the Plains, a dugout near Claude, such as many early-day residents occupied until houses could be built. It is also different from the years she lived in jail — while her father was sheriff of Armstrong County two terms.

There is no rocking chair existence, though. She goes to meetings of the Summerfield Study Club, of which she is a founder and a life member; to First United Methodist Church and its Mary-Martha class; out to her former home, the farm now operated by her grandson; and for frequent visits to friends as well as family members who live in this area.

"And I find plenty to keep me busy here at the Manor," says the briskly cheerful old-timer, listing an art lesson Monday afternoon, china painting lesson Tuesday, work three days a week with other residents on handcraft articles offered for sale at the Manor, religious services on Sundays and Tuesday evenings.

Also many organizations from Deaf Smith and nearby counties visit the Manor, giving programs and musical entertainment. Ethel Curry especially enjoys the groups of Camp Fire Girls, Scouts and other young people when they come out.

Her painting lessons are part of a hobby which has proved a continuing pleasure to her for a number of years, and she has taken the opportunities to study further with Mrs. Alex Petersen and now Mrs. O. Wertenberger, local art teachers who have given time to instruct Manor residents.

"Painting had to take last place in my life for a while, when my girls were growing up," Mrs. Curry explains. "I had started painting about the time I got out of school, then returned to it after skipping the busiest years."

She has two daughters, Glenn, Mrs. Guy Walsler of Summerfield, and Mary Lee, Mrs. Pat Morse of Fort Worth. In addition a niece, Mrs. Luther Foust of Plainview, was brought up in her home. Her family now includes nine grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Her scrapbooks, kept for years with clippings, letters, pictures and other mementoes of an active life, do not go back as far as her memories of childhood in the raw country to which her father came in a covered wagon to build a dugout home first, ten a frame house and later, after doing his part as a pioneer law enforcement officer, the two-story red house Mrs. Curry has depicted in one of her paintings, the home from which she and her sisters were married.

She was a baby when the family moved from Collin County, the place near Claude. The dugout was replaced by a house while she was still small, but her North Texas birthplace, to she vividly remembers one incident in the underground home, when a small lizard called a water-dog fell from the wall into a wash basin while she was washing her hands.

The dugout became the basement for the big two-story house. But before it was built, the family lived in the sheriff's quarters of the county jail. In spite of tales about western lawmen and lawbreakers, life there was generally uneventful, Mrs. Curry says, and the family felt really afraid only one time.

That was when a prisoner charged with murder was transferred from Clarendon because mob violence was threatened, and the jail at Claude was considered the strongest in the Panhandle at that time.

This prisoner had killed a man and a youth on a Fort Worth and Denver freight train and feeling ran high against him. He was later tried at Clarendon and hanged.

Mrs. Curry finished school at Claude — "We didn't actually have graduation then" — and attended the old Clarendon College, where she says the curriculum was about like that of modern schools.

After marriage she and her husband lived in the big house on her father's farm, later in the town of Claude for a time, then came to this area to the place near Summerfield.

Even in the 1920's farm homes here were in the coal stove and kerosene lamp stage, and Mrs. Curry talks happily of improvements made during the years she lived there. At first the Currys lived in a three-room house, one of the oldest in the community.

Heating and cooking were from an old-fashioned "bachelor stove," and they burned cow chips and corn-cobs as well as coal. She missed the roomy house on the farm near Claude, with its six fireplaces for heating and an up-to-date coal range in the kitchen as well as other conveniences available at that time, but says "We made out until we could build a better house."

Also missed was the orchard which her father had started at a time when there were few fruit trees in the Panhandle.

There were apples, peaches, plums both blue and yellow, and one pear tree, Mrs. Curry says.

"My father planted peach seed and had a thicket of young peach trees which he gave to anyone who wanted some to set out. People came from all over West Texas to get the seedling trees."

"We had to do without some things that we take for granted now," she continued, "but we always had plenty to eat, because we raised it. There was always a garden, a cow and chickens — when I first bought milk and eggs at a grocery store I couldn't help feeling sort of ashamed!"

Honors have come to Mrs.

When she came to Summerfield, she sparked the organization of its Study Club in 1926. Later she was a leader in starting the Deaf Smith Federation of Women's Clubs, served as its first president and is still a member.

A few years ago the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, celebrating its diamond anniversary, sponsored the selection of "club jewels," members with long service records in each district. Ethel Curry, nominated by the Summerfield club and Deaf Smith Federation, was the choice in Top of Texas District.

Sears Again Heads Committee Of WT Chamber

Henry Sears of Hereford was named again Saturday to head the Agriculture and Ranching committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber, which conducted its business Saturday morning on the final day of the 52nd annual convention in El Paso, named F. V. Wallace of Amarillo as president and A. L. Scott of Fort Worth as vice-president.

In his acceptance remarks Wallace pointed out several areas for concentrated work during the 1970-71 year of the WTCC. Great emphasis will be placed on pollution information dissemination and educational analysis and increase of technical and vocational training courses at high school and higher levels, according to Wallace.

"Pollution of the air in West Texas is at a lower level today than it was 30 years ago," Wallace said, "and we should tell the world about it. The old fashioned carbon black plants have practically disappeared. There is no more burning of solid wastes by cities, cotton gins and other farm processing plants now profitably return their waste to the soil and the petroleum industry has found ways to profitably utilize the waste gases formerly exhausted in smoky torches."

"Too, our water pollution is at a low ebb. Modern sewage treatment plants now treat and reuse the affluent for irrigation, recreation and even domestic purposes. Cattle feeding operators now construct giant earth works to prevent drainage into waterways and industry carefully designs facilities for treatment of plant liquid wastes."

James V. Roberts of Andrews and Joe A. Clarke of Fort Worth, vice presidents; Richard W. Moore of Abilene, treasurer and Jack G. Springer of Abilene, executive vice president. District Vice Presidents named were: Paul Timmons, Amarillo; John Whitcomb, Lubbock; L. D. Jones, Sr., Seymour; Murray Kyger, Fort Worth; Lloyd Cope, Abilene; Bill Cox, Odessa; L. H. Koogle, El Paso; Richard E. Morrow, Fort Stockton; W. L. (Stive) Stephens, San Angelo; J. R. Beadel, Brownwood; and Silas B. Ragsdale, Jr., Hunt.

The three-day convention featured major addresses by Winthrop Rockefeller, governor of Arkansas, and Dan Thornton, former governor of Colorado. The theme of the convention was "Prospects for the '70's" and most of the speakers predicted a good climate for growth and expansion of the entire West Texas area during the next decade. Spectacular growth was predicted in manufacturing, livestock feeding and farm product processing.

Besides Sears, other committee chairmen named by Wallace were Community Development, Don Lewis of Denton; Cultural Affairs, Tom Barnett of Fort Worth; Education, Emil C. Rassman, Midland; Industrial, Claude W. Brown, McCamey Information, W. H. Collyns, Midland; Mineral Resources, Jack W. Seaman, Midland; National Affairs, Dr. Joe T. Nelson, Weatherford; State Affairs, Reuben Senterfitt, San Saba; Tourist Development, Charlie Langford, Abilene; and Water, George McCleskey, Lubbock.

REMODELING PLANNED

Moorman Co. Buys Local Feed Plant

NEW MOORMAN PLANT — The Swift and Co. feed manufacturing and warehouse facilities of Hereford, which have been acquired by Moorman Manufacturing Co., Quincy, Ill.

The Swift and Company feed manufacturing and warehouse facilities in Hereford have been acquired by the Moorman Manufacturing Company of Quincy, Ill.

R. B. Hulsen, president of Moorman's, said in making the announcement that the plant will be remodeled to provide greater service to Hereford area customers.

Officials of the two companies completed final negotiations in Hereford for the sale.

The new plant is expected to play a large role in the company's plans to provide an extended and specialized service to commercial feedlots and individual beef producers in West Texas and New Mexico.

The Moorman company is in its 85th year of business. It markets livestock and poultry feed supplements, sanitation and parasite control products and livestock equipment.

The company sells direct to livestock and poultry producers in more than 33 states.

The company already has one feed manufacturing plant in Comanche and a warehouse in Panhandle. Services at those two will not be affected by the acquisition of the Hereford plant.

Absentee Vote For Primaries Is 'Very Light'

Only 10 absentee votes have been cast for the May 2 Democratic and Republican primaries and "maybe only 10 or 15 more are expected by the deadline," according to county clerk B. F. Cain.

Absentee voting began Monday and will continue through April 28 in the county clerk's office on the second floor of the courthouse. The county clerk's office will be open Monday through Friday of each week, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. except during the noon hour.

The county clerk's office said persons planning to vote in the primaries are required to present their voter's registration certificates when appearing to vote, either absentee or in the primaries.

For the primaries, voters in Precinct 1 will vote at the driver's license room in the courthouse; Precinct 3, the J. E. McCathern residence; Precinct 4, Simms Community building; Precinct 5, Hereford Community Center; Precinct 6, Ford School; Precinct 7, Dawn School; Precinct 8, Walcott School; Precinct 9, Bippus Community building; Precinct 10, Palo Duro Church; and Precinct 11, Central School.

Not counting statewide races, four nominees will be determined in the Democratic primary—Precinct 4 commissioner, justice of the peace, state senator and county treasurer.

Seeking the office of county treasurer are Wanda Newman, Nell Williams and Vesta Mae Nunley. Vying for the nomination of state senator are Max R. Sherman, Nancy Moyer, Jack Hazelwood and Walter Knapp Jr. Justice of the peace, candidates are Bill Rowland and Glen Nelson and commissioner candidates are Donald Hicks and James Bullard.

No area races are being contested in the Republican primary where Malouf Abraham is seeking the office of state senator and Bob Price is opposed for the House of Representatives, 18th Congressional District.

Unopposed in the race on the Democratic ticket are H. C. Williams, county judge; M. R. Latham, commissioner, Precinct 2; Lucille Posey, district clerk and Archie MacDonald, district judge 69th Judicial Dis-

Managers Pick Little League Team Rosters

Major league managers and coaches of Little League bid Friday night for members of their teams this summer.

The coaches were forced to rely on Thursday's view of the players in tryouts because of trout cancellation Friday due to rain.

Decisions of Friday night's meeting were released to the boys Saturday at the ball park. The minor leaguers were chosen in that auction at 5:30 p.m. Monday at the ball park.

Peeeweewees will be selected at 6 p.m. Monday at the park. This includes boys not selected previously and all 8-years-old.

The average investment per dollar is highest for products which require the least amount of processing and packaging.

If you lose it, it isn't lost.

Maybe you've never lost a U.S. Savings Bond. Or had one stolen. Or somehow torn one up.

If you ever do, you'll quickly find out how indestructible Bonds really are.

Because we replace them. All you have to do is let us know they're missing.

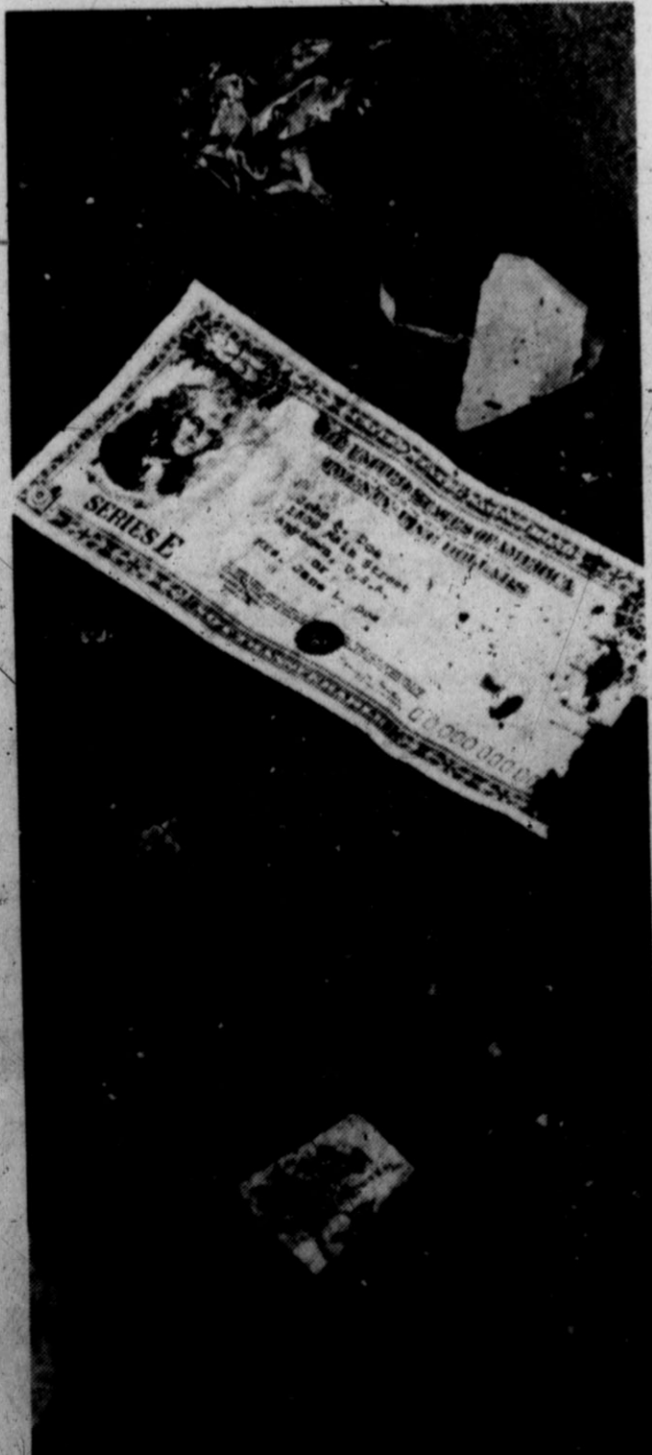

It's another reason why Bonds are one of the wisest ways to save.

Buy Bonds on a regular basis through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Once you've got 'em, there's no way to lose them.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Four Daughters Go Four Distinct Ways

-At the Deaf Smith County Library this week is the gentle story of four daughters who grow up together, wander, and live considerably different lives. Some experience happiness while others fall to scandal and pain. Check into them today.

THE BEST OF FAMILIES
 By Ellen Berlin

This is the lyrical and gentle story of the four Cameron daughters, growing up, marrying and living out their very different lives in the New York and Southampton of the early 20th century. Nell, the youngest, narrates this poignant novel, observing her sisters, their men, and the other members of her family and the Four Hundred as they move about in the intricacies of life in fashionable society.

Gliding through a romantic world of wealth and comfort, Nell is witness to the happy marriages, painful decisions, shattering scandals and a lifetime of experiences and memories, many of them beautiful, some heartbreaking, all wistful when viewed in later years. These haunting remembrances that illuminate the joys and anquishes of the Camerons and their set are also a chronicle of a bittersweet era of Fifth Avenue, old Murray Hill and the Colony Club, a fascinating period now gone forever.

IN HIGH PLACES
 By Arthur Hailey
 Secret negotiations between the Prime Minister of Canada and the President of the United States, vital to the security of both nations, are jeopardized by a bizarre and seemingly unimportant immigration incident in Vancouver. From this situation, Arthur Hailey develops a fast-moving, suspense-charged story of the ambitious, volatile, greedy, corrupt and saintly men-and their women-who guide the destinies of two great nations in a time of grave crisis.

This novel displays the same meticulous eye for detail and the same ability to capture the human drama behind the facades of our great institutions that have made Arthur Hailey's later books, Airport and Hotel, runaway best-sellers. With this new edition, his thousands of admirers are sure to discover why In High Places is, among all his works, Hailey's personal favorite.

Musical Prodigy to Perform

Musical prodigy Attila Galamb will perform for local elementary and junior high school students this week.

Attila is scheduled to appear Tuesday at Blue Bonnet Elementary School at 9 a.m., Stanton Junior High at 10 and La Plata at 2 p.m.

Wednesday, Northwest Elementary will view the musical performance at 8:45 a.m., and Aikman Elementary at 10 a.m.

Teenage Attila Galamb has achieved great acclaim for his accomplishments with several musical instruments.

Born in Hungary, he soon showed extraordinary aptitude for music study. He was only two when he learned to play the drums by listening outside the door during one of his father's classes.

Today he plays drums, clarinet, saxophone, accordion, piano, tarogato, organ, guitar and harmonica with equal ease and especially enjoys his newest instrument, the Hohner Melodica. Attila has appeared on the "Ed Sullivan Show," on TV, at Radio City Music Hall, at the Hollywood Palladium and Hollywood Bowl, and with the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra.

He has traveled and played throughout most of the United States, always keeping up with his school work, in which he is something of a prodigy as well. He is in his second year of college correspondence work, after graduating high school at age 10½. Attila passed college entrance examinations with a general average of 86 per cent, points higher than national average for high school seniors.

Not content with performing alone, Attila has copyrighted many compositions and made many recordings. He is also a composer, and has recorded his own song "A Lonely Day," on the Attila label, on which he also performs instrumentally. He has scored and directed the music for a film to be released early next year, "Aimless People," produced by Tom McGowan of "Born Free."

Martin will play the role of Mr. Shears, while Kuper will appear as a Passion Pilgrim Gospels.

The 1970 Spring Musical, opening Thursday and running through Saturday, will reopen next week, April 30 through May 2.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m., with all seats reserved. Tickets are available at the Branding Iron Theatre box office, Phone Canyon, 655-7141, extension 2224. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students and children.

Bull Barn Theater? --Only In Hereford

A Barn Theater won national fame in America some years ago, but how about a Bull Barn Theater? Only in Hereford, perhaps, is that an actuality.

Hereford Community Players will put their next production, "The Curious Savage," on stage at the Little Bull Barn Friday and Saturday evenings after arrangements with the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court to use that facility, a part of the county's auditorium-banquet hall-livestock arena complex in the east part of the city.

The amateur acting group is building its own stage in the auditorium and will add necessary lights, footing the total bill of more than $1,000. The board of directors of Hereford

Lions Club has given its permission for the Players to use other lights owned by the club, already at the Bull Barn.

Cooperation of county officials and of the Lions Club with the community dramatists is typical of support being given by civic and service groups to the Players, one of the area's newest cultural facets, comments Tom Kendrick, Hereford attorney who has lately been elected to his second term as Players president.

School officials have given the organization use of auditoriums for previous plays. Business firms have loaned stage furnishings and props used in the productions. Mayor Jim Sears is a sustaining member of the Players, and former Mayor Ray Cowsert served as the legal advisor as the group was being organized and chartered.

Membership has attracted area residents in many professions, as exemplified in the cast of next week's comedy. It includes lawyers, teachers, a doctor, a minister, a nurse, a secretary and housewives. The director, Polly Ballard, is a hospital technician and her assistant, Fred Howard, another minister.

Awards Made For Water Conservation

The High Plains Research Foundation's continuing studies in artificial recharge and more efficient use of irrigation water was recognized this week in the 25th Annual Texas Conservation Awards program.

The Foundation was named state champion in water conservation in the contest sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and 23 co-sponsors.

The awards program is conducted in cooperation with conservation districts throughout the state. The Foundation was entered in the contest by Hale County and Water Conservation District.

The Foundation entered water conservation programs from the time of its inception in 1956. Among early practices included timing of irrigation studies to produce optimum crops with less water. Since then, the Foundation has led the field in artificial recharge studies.

Other water conservation practices under study at the Foundation includes underground permanent sprinkler installation, and irrigation on bench-leveled parallel terraces.

Foundation and conservation district officials will be among state conservation winners to be honored at the awards presentation banquet in TCU Student Center Ballroom in Fort Worth May 2.

FHA Members To Attend State Meet

Nine Hereford High School Future Homemakers of America will attend the 1970 state meeting in Austin this weekend. Representing the two Hereford chapters will be Dee Dee Walden and Amy Ballard, incoming presidents; Sherry White, out-going Area I 4th vice-president; Olinda Baird, Diana Adams, Cindy Lea and Terie Beth Line, slated to receive state Homemakers degrees of achievement; and Donita McDermitt and Sue Shirley, high point girls.

More than 5,000 members, junior and senior high school homemaking students, and teacher-advisers, will represent the 1,600 chapters throughout the state. Sherry White of Hereford will narrate the Area I talent number in Friday night's talent show, and will also be featured on the Friday morning program.

Dr. Jane Vincent, counseling psychologist at the Testing and Counseling Center, University of Texas, Austin, will give the keynote speech on the convention theme, "Our World-To Know, To Care, To Dare."

Mrs. Dortha Prowell and Miss Jamey Anthony, advisers and Mrs. Charles Walden and Mrs. Ed Line, chapter mothers, will accompany the girls to Austin for the Friday and Saturday meet.

Tom Robinson says it's getting a little embarrassing these days. Everytime he goes in and sits down with one of the loan officers over at the First National Bank, the burglar alarm goes off.

Congratulations to the Hereford High School Band and to director Ben Goljeon and all those who work with him. This is the eighth consecutive year that the band has won Sweepstakes award in competition. See story elsewhere in this issue of the Brand.

Politicians have been swarming over Hereford the past few days as the primaries draw nearer. The hottest race of all we suppose is the race for the state senate seat to be vacated this year by Grady Hazelwood. There's a raft of candidates battling for the job, most of them Democrats.

One of the candidates, Jack Hazelwood, is holding a political rally and free barbecue today at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, scheduled for 5:30 p. m.

Max Sherman has also been busy in the county, and most of the other candidates, including the lone Republican in the race, Malouf Abrahams from Canadian, have been to Hereford at least one time. Abrahams of course, is unopposed in the Republican Primary but will meet the winner of the Democratic contest this fall in the general election.

There isn't much action on the local scene except for the post of County Treasurer. Three local women are trying for the spot, all under the Democratic banner.

On the state level, the race that is drawing all the interest, both Democratic and Republican primaries, is the U. S. Senate seat now held by Ralph Yarborough. Yarborough, of course, plans to keep it, while one of his fellow Democrats, Lloyd Bentsen, would like to unseat him.

On the Republican side, Robert Morris, who is President of Plano University and formerly President of Dallas University, will be trying for the nomination with George Bush as his opponent. Bush is now serving in the House of Representatives. He lost to Yarborough six years ago in the Senate race.

However the primaries go, we're betting that the general election campaign is going to be a real battle. It should be interesting.

The latest appliance on the market, we understand, is a combination record player and air conditioner. It's for people who want to play it cool.

Lot of the fishermen who regularly travel to Falcon Lake have been having weather problems down there the past few weeks. It has been raining in the area and the weather generally lousy. However, most of them report good catches during the time they could fish.

From the conversation of those who have been down recently, we're betting that the lake at Del Rio, Amistad, will be taking some of the local anglers from Falcon. This is going to be one of the largest lakes in the country when it reaches its peak level. According to information we have, the lake is only at about one-third capacity now, yet boaters can travel 50 miles up the Rio Grande without any navigation problems.

Amistad is located on the Rio Grande 12 miles west of Del Rio and impounds water from not only the Rio Grande but the Pecos River and Devil's River. If you're planning a trip down that way soon, you might enjoy a stop at Del Rio. There's also some good places to eat across the border.

An old timer by the way, is a fellow who remembers when it cost more to run a car than to park it.

Hereford Firemen Attend Lubbock Training School

Ten members of the Hereford Fire Department went to Lubbock the past week to participate in a training school on safety techniques and methods to use in fighting various types of fires.
As part of the training, a two-bedroom house was set afire several times and the men had to put it out. Other phases of the training in the three-day school included fighting gasoline line, butane and chemical fires.
"We went through one house full of some kind of chemical that if you breathe it, without an air pack, you're dead in 12 seconds," said Jay Spain, one of the Hereford group who attended the fire-fighting school.
"In the past 10 years, 80 per cent of firemen's deaths have been caused by smoke inhalation," Spain said they were told at the school. Part of the reason for this, he said, is the new synthetic material being used in furniture and material that produce carbon monoxide and other fumes when they catch fire.
Instead of cotton stuffing and wool covering, a piece of furniture may have foam and some kind of plastic or synthetic covering nowadays. To avoid smoke inhalation, the firemen were drilled in the proper use of "air packs" and other breathing apparatus.
Besides Spain, Lloyd Brooks, Terry Hale, Glen Hendrickson, Hap Haggard, Jay Ward, Leon Tawk and Ray Smith also attended the course. Ward and Smith are lieutenants on the Hereford Fire Department.
Earl Phillips of Hereford past fire chief and past president of the Texas Fire Marshals Association was on the planning committee for the school, which was operated by the Texas fire extension service of Texas A&M. Some 279 firemen from 40 Texas and 15 New Mexico towns attended.
Jap Dickerson, the Hereford fire chief, and Bob Spalding, training officer for the Hereford Fire Department, were instructors at the school.
There were four phases to the training-fighting house fires; fighting gasoline tanker truck fires; fighting butane tank and christmas tree (butane) fire; and properly using breathing apparatus and other protective equipment.

Hereford Women Hear Republican Senate Candidate

Robert Morris, one of two Republican aspirants for the U. S. Senate from Texas, stopped briefly in Hereford Thursday and outlined his difference in philosophy on several points with the other GOP candidate, George Bush.
Morris said he and Bush have different feelings about a proposed guaranteed annual income, a suggested change in Congress' seniority system and the question of whether the United States faces an internal security threat.
Bush "is supporting a guaranteed annual income and I am opposing it," Morris said. "It would put anywhere from 15 to 30 million people on federal subsistence. It would cost from $4.4 billion to $12 billion a year. We can't afford this and it would further shrink the labor market."
Bush also is for changing the seniority system, Morris told the Deaf Smith County Republican Women in his appearance at the Caison House, "but I feel it would radicalize Congress and put liberal senators into key committee posts. For instance, Sen. Ted Kennedy would take over judiciary role if the seniority system was scrapped."
Morris said he feels Bush is wrong in thinking there is no internal security threat to the nation.
"I think there is, because I've been chief counsel to the U. S. Senate for five years and it is evident that revolutionists are now up to the terror stage in our country," he said.
Morris is president of the University of Dallas. He served 12 years as counsel to U. S. Senate committees, was elected a judge in the New York City court system, and was counsel to the New York State Legislative Committee.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
One essential for any community worthy of the name is justice for all its citizens, opportunity for each person to develop his or her talents, and a community spirit of mutual help and friendliness.
As of Thursday's Brand, these things have been called into question, publicly. All of us who want our children to be able to grow up here in a friendly, helpful atmosphere had better take this opportunity to examine the issue and ourselves.
On the specific charges which have been leveled against our school personnel, I want to say that I know of no other school system in this area where the administrators, principals and teachers have worked harder to see that every little child is helped, encouraged, and allowed to develop to the limit of potential. Many state and federal programs have been used in this effort, plus hundreds of thousands of dollars in local taxes. This is the best investment we could make, and I think the success of these efforts is reflected by the outstanding contributions being made by the young citizens of our community, black, brown and white.

I know of no other high school principal more totally devoted to the youngsters with whom he works than our high school principal, and when self-discipline, family discipline, and school discipline fails, and if it is necessary to send a young person to our County Judge, someone is going to have to prove it to me that there has been discrimination because of race. Our judge is tough, and a lot of parents might wish that their children had not had to go before him, but I have seen enough to convince me that if there has been any discrimination, it has been in dealing with spoiled young people whose problem has been too many material things, not too few.
It is fashionable these days to blame everyone but ourselves for our problems. It is easy to misrepresent facts to take the heat off of our own misdoings and mistakes. It is easy to overreact on one side of an issue or the other.
Likewise, it takes hard work on the part of a lot of people to make a community better, and one of the reasons that Hereford has been a good place to live is that men and women of all races have worked together to give their children the benefits and fun of Little League, Campfire Girls, Scouts, and a good education. If our school system is going to be attacked for trying to help young people to develop skills with which to earn a good living without the tremendous expense of college, then let's just be sure that we continue to plead guilty to that charge. Of course we should encourage all qualified young people to continue their education, but it doesn't take a college degree to be smart, or to be able to make a big contribution to our society.

I am not saying that we don't have problems that need to be worked on — we all know better than that — but let's work on them together in a spirit of mutual respect and common cause.

Sincerely,
Frank Ford Jr.

Captain Dan Wall Is Bay View Guest

The Value of Space Photography was explained to members of Bay View Study Club Thursday at a meeting conducted at the Camp Fire Lodge.

Capt. Dan Wall of Lubbock, who recently returned from Vietnam, was the guest speaker introduced to the group by Mrs. Earnest Langley, hostess and program leader.

Capt. Wall explained the value and use of satellite photography in weather reporting and displayed recent satellite charts.

He also pointed out the use of infra-red film in scientific and geological study. "The future photography from outer space," he said, "will be beneficial in the survey of the world." They have found mountains which they didn't know existed and such photography can show sources of pollution and even traffic control, he surmised.

Professor Devises Game To Put Fun Into Math

Since mathematics must be learned by elementary school children. Why not make it fun? Why not make it a game? Such was the idea of Dr. William G. Henry, assistant professor of education at Southwest Texas State University. Dr. Henry created "Operations," a game which can be both educational and fun. "Operations" is a card game specifically designed to exercise basic math skills such as addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. The game is played through a simple process of draw and discard similar to rummy. The players attempt to arrange the five cards they are dealt, which consist of numbers and the mathematical symbols, to equal a Goal Number which has been determined during the deal. There are also "x", and

"z" cards which are "wild" and may be substituted for any number. Each winning hand must consist of three number cards and two symbol cards requiring two mathematical operations to be performed to reach the Goal Number. For example if the Goal Number was 36, some of the winning combinations would be 3x10 plus 6, 11 x 3 plus 3 or 7 x 6-6.

One of the unique aspects to this game, according to Dr. Henry, is that it "is designed so that it can be changed to be used from elementary or high school to social playing with adults."

It is also unique in that it is built upon extensive research of what is available for math study. Dr. Henry feels that there is too little attention directed to assisting teachers in teaching math skills.

Because "Operations" fills the objective of developing the basic mathematical skills, Dr. Henry feels that no teacher should be the least bit apologetic in using the game for any level of elementary, intermediate or remedial math instruction.

"Operations cannot be played without constantly requiring the players to exercise their basic math skills," he says.

Dr. Henry feels confident that "Operations" has a definite advantage as a teaching skill. "It requires the alert and intense use of the basic mathematical concept, it provides drill in the use of ALL number combinations rather than in number 'patterns' such as computing by twos, fives, tens, etc.," says Dr. Henry.

It is also appropriate for use with bilingual groups because of the inherent universality of mathematics itself.

Dr. Henry has been marketing this game on a part-time and localized scale. The City Parks and Recreation Departments in Houston, Austin and San Antonio use "Operations" as well as the Brown Schools for the Mentally Retarded and Camp Gary Job Corps Center in San Marcos, The Texas State School for the Deaf and the Athena Montessori School, both in Austin, also use this new game.

"Operations" was three years in development. As Dr. Henry explains, it went through many stages. First there was the original concept, then extensive testing and revision. It was one year in manufacturing in Austin. The game is now being considered by some large scale publishing companies.

DR. WILLIAM G. HENRY — Assistant professor of education at Southwest Texas State University, checks a young card player's hand. These students are playing "Operations," a card game developed by Dr. Henry especially to make learning mathematics fun for elementary school children.

Law East Of Potomac

IF YOU LISTEN carefully, you can hear the far-off sound of fluttering wings. Can it be the sound of chickens coming home to roost?

Could be. For some reason or other the popular spokesmen of the old New York-Washington axis seem to be weakening a bit on their stand that it is a splendid thing to break the law if this is done as a matter of principle.

In fact, on a recent day two syndicated columnists of the New York Times made some remarks that sounded almost like law-and-order talk. Though it is highly unlikely, of course, that they really meant to endorse either law or order — as we've been told repeatedly in the past, this is a code term for racism — it still sounds a little strange.

One gentleman hurled himself into a denunciation of the air traffic controllers' illegal strike, deploring the fact that "as usual, militancy and publicity has set the pace."

THAT CRITICISM is interesting, since "militancy and publicity" have set the pace for nearly all the spectacular exercises in civil disobedience, direct action and so on. Yet previous exercises in this line have brought praise from all the somebodies who are anybody. The rest of the country has been hearing a constant stream of lectures from that quarter about how it is right and proper to break the law when one's conscience tells one to break the law.

Now comes the scribe saying that the sick-out air controllers have been guilty of using "public-be-damned tactics."

But who is to say, we wonder, whether the civilly disobedient air controllers have not been following the dictates of their conscience, rather than the dictates of their liver or their attorney?

We all can see, of course, that those public employes who strike against the government are violating the law. But since, according to recent theory, that is irrelevant to the larger question of whether they are obeying their conscience, it is rather difficult to judge whether the Times man is being insensitive in griping and carrying on in such a reactionary manner.

THERE ARE some significant differences, admittedly, between the latest outbreak of conscience and the other examples. This one is not creating an uproar in a Southern town or a West Coast college campus. This one seems to be hitting hardest around the New York area, where it is inconveniencing enlightened progressives, upper-middle-class liberal and other VIPs. Coupled with an earlier show of untrammelled conviction by the New York postal workers, this circumstance could conceivably make a difference in the old viewpoint.

And in another instance, a Times man writing under a Washington date-line mentions the high incidence of muggings and beatings there in a way that implies disapproval of these activities and those who engage in them for fun or profit. And yet, though these activities are presumably against the law, who is to say whether the muggers are not merely using this method to speak out against oppression or the brutal economic and psychological pressures of urban society?

They, too, may well be following the dictates of conscience. Admittedly, that doesn't reduce the wear and tear on the victims of this form of self-expression, but since when did that bother the enlightened progressive? Since the enlightened progressive realized he was a potential victim of the conscience-stricken, perhaps?

—The Dallas Morning News

Who Is The Real Boss?

Here's a question we'll bet you could ask a thousand working people and get the right answer. The question is "Who's the Boss?"

There's only one boss and whether a person shines shoes for a living or heads up the largest corporation in the world, the boss remain the same.

It's the customer. Here is a person who pays everyone's salary and who decides whether a business is going to succeed or fail.

And he doesn't care if a business has been around a hundred years. The minute it starts treating him badly, he'll put it out of business.

The customer has bought and will buy everything you have or will have. He's bought all of your clothes, your home, your car, pays for your children's education and your vacation.

He pays all your bills and he pays them in exact proportion to the way you treat him.

The man who works deep inside a big plant on an assembly line might think he's working for the company that writes his pay check, but he is not.

He's working for the person who buys the product at the end of the line. In fact, the customer will fire everyone in the company from the president on down.

And he can do it by simply spending his money someplace else. This is one of the reasons why taking pride in our work is so important to us personally.

Aside from the joy that comes from doing an exceptionally good job, it will help get more customers, keep the ones we've got, and insure the weekly pay check.

Some of the largest companies that had flourishing business a few years ago are no longer in existence.

They couldn't... or didn't... satisfy the customer.

They forgot who the boss really was.

No Substitute For Work

A brief news item may help explain why it is so difficult in some places to obtain repairs on a car or home appliance. It says, this country needs 50,000 more auto mechanics each year, but the actual net increase is only about 16,400. The figures are taken from findings of the U. S. Department of Labor. Another news report notes that college students with the highest academic degree-dictator of philosophy — are among the hardest hit by the shrinking job market. Demand for college graduates in many fields is declining, and one college placement official observes, "... young people are going to have to work a little bit harder."

After the millennium of a college education for everyone has been reached, the old virtues of willingness to work and common sense will reassert themselves, and those who possess them in the greatest measure will find opportunities on every side — including the repairing of automobiles.

Law Protects Whom?

Just who is protected? Recently, a farmer in Iowa rigged up a device to foil burglars who had been breaking into his house at a rapid rate. A burglar climbed through a window one evening and was shot in the ankle by a shotgun that was rigged up to a string. The burglar was arrested and fined $50 entering a house at night. He turned around and sued the owner of the farm for $35,000 for getting shot in the ankle. He was awarded the money through court action and the farmer had to sell his farm to make a down payment to the burglar. What will be next??? — Cleveland, Ohio, Leader

Senate Liberals Retaliate For Fortas' Court Defeat

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Senate liberals beholden to the labor unions, by their vote to bar Harold Carswell from the Supreme Court, have exacted their second pound of flesh in return for the forced resignation of Justice Abe Fortas.

Victim number one was Judge Clement Haynsworth, rejected by a five-vote margin last November after President Nixon had nominated him to replace Fortas. Victim number two was Judge Carswell, another Southern conservative. He lost by three votes, for the same reasons.

The role of AFL-CIO in its successful lobbying against both nominations was important. A majority of members of the present Senate were elected with labor support. The union leaders do not want a Southern conservative on the Supreme Court and thus far they have been able to prevent it.

An analysis of the Senate vote against Carswell in comparison with other key issues important to AFL-CIO makes interesting reading. Almost without exception, the 51 Senators whose votes defeated Carswell are regularly in labor's camp. A few Senators who are generally pro-labor did support Carswell, chiefly for geographic reasons.

Election Results Were Misleading

Most Americans thought the 1968 election was won by conservatives, led by President Nixon. So it seemed but the Senate remained with a liberal majority, as has been twice proved on the Supreme Court nomination of recent months.

As happened before in the Haynsworth vote, Carswell lost because Republican liberals crossed party lines and voted with liberal Democrats to make a majority. The party split on the Carswell vote was 38 Democrats and 13 Republicans against confirmation. Eight of the 13 Republicans who deserted their President on the Carswell vote are first-termers.

The conservative minority of 45 consisted of 28 Republicans and 17 Democrats — every one from the South or a border state, except for Sen. Alan Bible (D., Nev.). Four Senators, two from each party, did not vote. Two were in the hospital and two overseas. Their absence did not affect the outcome since the opponents had 51 votes, a majority of the 100 Senators.

The 13 Republicans who turned their back on their party's leader included the only Negro, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, and the only lady, Margaret Smith of Maine. Three others from the Northeast who regularly vote with Democrats and did again were Jacob Javits and Charles Goodell, both from New York, and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Others opposing Nixon's man were Marlow Cook of Kentucky, Hiram Fong of Hawaii, Mark Hatfield and Robert Packwood of Oregon, Charles Mathias of Maryland, Charles Percy of Illinois, Winston Prouty of Vermont, and Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania.

Battles Lost But War Goes On President Nixon has lost two major battles but the war goes on. There is still that seat left vacant by Abe Fortas and the only man able to pick the man to fill it is the President. He is determined to put a conservative on the court and his two rebuffs by the Senate are not likely to diminish his determination.

The public has been treated to two prolonged struggles over personalities and ideologies. With all the other important matters the Senate has to consider, the average voter may be ready to cry "enough." Who holds that ninth seat on the Supreme Court may be vital to "warring politicians" but it is suspected the politicking has already been overdone.

It is to be hoped that the Nixon-Senate war will be terminated and that little further time will be wasted on the matter. Let's have no third round in the court appointment battle. Let's hope the next nominee will be somebody that everybody can agree is qualified. Surely the public has no stomach for another confirmation battle.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

HOW IT BEGAN — The U. S. Weather Bureau was the brainchild of a Union Army major general who learned his soldiering in Texas.

General William Babcock Hazen, who organized the Greeley expedition into the Arctic in 1881 and who is credited with creating the Weather Bureau while serving as chief signal officer of the Army, once was stationed at old Fort Inge, Uvalde County.

As a young lieutenant there, he was wounded seriously while leading an attack against a band of Indians. His bravery under fire was partially responsible for his rapid promotions in rank.

SWEET CLEAN — Broom City, now a virtual ghost village in the piney woods of Anderson County, got its name and livelihood in the old days from the manufacture of brooms.

The area not only produced the special corn required in the manufacture of brooms, but a local sawmill turned local pine into broomsticks. Both industries left Broom City 30 years ago and most of the residents followed. The Broom City Church, however, still serves the rural area.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Coyote, in Bosque County, originally was called Coyote because of the numerous wolves that howled each night in that area during the early days. Through a misspelling, it became Coyote.

SWEET JUSTICE — One of the legends of Roy Bean, the famed "law west of the Pecos," concerns the time the Southern Pacific Railroad derailed a car of sugar on a bridge outside of Langtry.

Sweets were scarce in the frontier town, and it wasn't long until many of the citizens were at the site of the wreck gathering up sacks and buckets of sugar. A railroad official asked Judge Bean to stop the stealing.

The old judge replied that he couldn't believe that anybody would stoop to stealing railroad property, but did promise to check into the matter. He acted quickly, arriving at the site about an hour later in a wagon equipped with shovels and a helper to load sugar for him. For a long time after, there was no shortage of sweets at Bean's "Jers ey Lilly" Saloon in Langtry.

TRAVELING TEXAS — It's rarely seen because it isn't on public property, but there are remains of a small petrified forest in Scurry County.

Near the old ghost town of Camp Springs, ten miles east of Snyder on Farm Road 1614, one can still see the base of a petrified tree that measured 12 feet in circumference and was estimated to be 300 feet tall when it was found in 1890. Other petrified trees, bones of prehistoric animals and Indian pictographs in nearby caves also have been discovered.

THE PASSING PARADE — In the not-so-long ago, prospective brides in Texas' Czech and German communities never mailed invitations to their weddings.

Inviting relatives and friends to the wedding was the job of groomsman who went personally to the house of each prospective guest to announce the time and place of the ceremony and the supper and dance that followed.

65 YEARS AGO — 1905

A. P. Armstrong who came here a few months ago from Garland in Dallas county called around to see us this week and in telling of what he is doing on his farm just west of town, stated that he had planted five acres of alfalfa this spring and the recent good rains have not only brought it up to a good stand, but have produced a very rapid growth.

Elder Jesse B. Haston on last week received a letter from the management of the Christian College at Celina, Texas tendering him the presidency of that institution at a salary of $100 a month.

50 YEARS AGO — 1920

Hereford High's track men proved to fast for their competitors in the Panhandle Interscholastic meet held at Canyon last week and cleaned up handsomely, bringing home two loving cups, seven gold medals, seven silver medals and four bronze medals. Hereford is undergoing some more of the "Beastly" weather the Englishmen talk about. Not the English brand, however, but rather the Panhandle kind. High winds have been the rule for several weeks now and are beginning to get on the nerves and dispositions of everyone.

35 YEARS AGO — 1935

Bill McLean has been named the valedictorian of the 1935 graduating class at Hereford High School. Dust storms of the past four days indicates that erosion work has not yet taken full effect in these parts. Which is by way of saying dust has been just as bad as ever in recent days. A spring football game between veterans of the Whiteface teams of recent years and eligible members of next fall's team will be played at Whiteface Field next week. Hereford High School has been awarded one credit in band by the State Department of Education. This means one credit in band will be recognized as a college entrance unit.

20 YEARS AGO — 1950

Work is well along on paving West Park Avenue or Harrison Highway from the intersection of Highway 51 to the city limits and all property owners are providing curbs and gutters for the 50 foot paved street. Light showers broke the five-and-one-half month drought Deaf Smith County has been undergoing then a little more moisture fell the last three days of the week. Hereford may not be quite as big as Boston, Mass. but it has a boat Boston can't make. Hereford has never suffered a bank robbery.

5 YEARS AGO — 1965

Free parking goes into effect here Monday with removal of all 224 parking meters, the first of which were installed in 1947. Stiff breezes, including Wednesday afternoon's powerful gusts, played havoc with the city's attempt to erect its 60-foot-high $50,000 incinerator at the dump ground east of Hereford. A delegation of public health officials will be here Monday and Tuesday to view the Labor Camp and talk with Dr. Lena Edwards and other St. Joseph's Hospital officials about a $30,000 health grant application.

A Training Program Of Minority Journalists

By NAOMI ROCK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK — Last June, George Lane, 28-year-old letter carrier in Denver, Colo., quit the job he had held for ten years, left his wife and two children for ten weeks, and came to Manhattan to change his life.

Today George Lane is a race relations and poverty beat reporter for The Denver Post.

The summer before Gloria Rojas, 29, left her nine-year-long job as a New York City school teacher to pursue the career she might have chosen "if my world had not been so limited" years before.

Gloria Rojas is now a reporter for WCBS-TV in New York.

At 21, Monica Kaufman was working as an editorial aid last year on the Louisville Times, when one of the newspaper's executives asked if she'd like to be a reporter.

Today Monica Kaufman is a feature writer in the Times' Women's Department.

Angela Terrell, 32, married and the mother of two young children, worked for a time as a secretary in Philadelphia after two years of college. She had begun writing plays in elementary school and had continued writing — poetry, plays, short stories — but had been unable to get a job in journalism "because I was a woman and because I was black."

Then, last year, she read about a unique program. Today she is features and obituary writer for the Philadelphia Bulletin.

George Lane, Gloria Rojas, Monica Kaufman and Angela Terrell have more in common than their professions. Lane, Miss Kaufman and Mrs. Terrell are black and Mrs. Rojas is a Puerto Rican. They are members of a tiny corps of minority group journalists — thought to number about 150 across the entire country. And they are among 56 black, Puerto Rican and Mexican-Americans trained over the past two summers in what, thus far, is the only program of its kind in the country: The Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism's summer course for minority group members.

Twenty students from ten states made up the first class — for broadcast journalism — in the summer of 1968. Of the 20, aged 20 to 35, 13 had little or no journalism experience, and the others were cub reporters for radio and television stations which sponsored their sojourn in New York and took them back as newsmen.

The following summer the program was expanded to 36 students and two divisions: broadcast and print. The program's 44 graduates — 43 men and 13 women — were chosen from more than 250 applicants.

This summer Columbia Journalism expects to have at least 35 students in its highly intensive ten-week course.

The program, financed by grants from the Ford Foundation, teaches the fundamentals of news reporting and news writing — at a grueling pace. The students' minimal 40-hour week is infinitely longer. For in addition to reporting and writing, there are endless reading assignments, seminars, lengthy research papers, and special projects involving cameras, tape recorders, film, editing and television equipment.

While at Columbia the students have no financial worries. They are provided with tuition, room and board and, when necessary, family stipends. And when they leave they are virtually guaranteed that the school will find them a job.

"For me," said Gloria Rojas, "the summer program meant a second chance. It provided the opportunity to pursue the career I really wanted; the career I might have chosen had my world not been so limited when the time came to decide what I would do.

"But being in the ghetto led me to consider only those careers that members of minority groups traditionally follow: library work, nursing, teaching. I never realized then that people actually decided to go into radio or television."

George Lane, on the other hand, had thought in high school about writing as a career, but had discarded the idea because "there was no future for black writers."

He went to college for a year, married, dropped out of school, and went to work for the post office. Three years ago he took a part-time job as a copy boy for the Denver Post. When Post editors offered him sponsorship at Columbia he grabbed the opportunity.

"The Columbia program gave me a chance to do something meaningful," Lane said recently. "At first I didn't want to cover news about black people and about the ghetto. But now I find that I can handle these subjects better than a lot of my

Miss Gerber Is Bride Of Ray Charles Berend

Miss Nadine Marie Gerber became the bride of Ray Charles Berend in a double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Amarillo. Father Michael Graham and Father Kenneth Keller officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerber of Amarillo. Mr. Berend is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Berend of Hereford.

Nuptial music was furnished by Miss Chris Parra, organist, and Mrs. Joe Baker, soloist. Acolytes were Bobby Gerber and Wayne Harms.

A bouquet of white gladiolas formed a background for the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irene Gerber, as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Linda Weatherly, Mrs. Ralph Cabe and Miss Mary DePauw, all of Amarillo.

Phil Berend served his brother as best man and groomsmen were Rick Reinart, John Huseman and Ronnie Reiter.

Ushers were Billy Albracht, Dennis Hoffman and lecturer was Tommy Albracht. Joseph Albracht was ring bearer and Cathy Rossi flower girl.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride was a lovely picture in her formal gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace. The empire bodice of organza overlaid with lace was designed with portrait neckline and Juliet sleeves. A lace panel front enhanced her bouffant skirt which swept to a chapel train. Scalloped Chantilly lace outlined the formal hemline of the gown.

Her veil of illusion fell from a beaded organza rose and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

The feminine attendants wore pink empire gowns overlaid with hot pink organza. Bands of pink embroidered rosebuds circled the bodice and the Juliet sleeves. Pink flowers made their headpieces and they each carried a single pink rosebud.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Gerber wore a powder blue dress and lace coat with beige accessories.

Mrs. Berend, mother of the bridegroom, chose a light yellow silk dress with an embroidered lace coat and white accessories.

Guests were registered at the wedding by Mrs. Larry Alley.

A wedding dinner, followed the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Members of the house party were Misses Libby Rossi and Deniece Rossi, both of Tulsa; Mrs. Gordon Rea and Mrs. Fred Maddux, both of Amarillo.

Following a wedding trip to New Mexico the couple will be at home in Hereford where he farms northwest of the city.

The bride was graduated from Northwest Texas Hospital School of Nursing and was employed in Intensive Care at that hospital.

ROTARY GUEST — Capt. B. J. Wallace, USMC, from the Marine Corp Training Center in Amarillo, was guest speaker for Hereford Rotary Club Monday. A film strip entitled "A Day In Vietnam" was shown relating the experiences of the service men in Vietnam.

Survivors include his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

CLOSED BOOKS CRITICIZED

LOS ANGELES — Citing the widespread habit of the Roman Catholic Church not to make public its financial affairs, the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice says that only 2,000 of the nation's 47.5 million Catholics have anything to say about the way the church uses its money, and the poor are completely excluded from any voice in it.

BATHS DISCOVERED

UPLYME, England — An octagonal Roman plunge bath and a complex of hot and cold rooms were unearthed on a farm near here, on the Dorset-Devon border.
 The pool, which has a mosaic bottom, was found by members of the Devon Archaeological Society, and is the only one of its kind known in Britain. A coin found in the mortar dates the building to between AD 323-337.
 Output per man-hour in this country increased 82 per cent between 1957-58 and 1968.

A FORTRESS — By tying small tree limbs together, these Stanton seventh-grade history students made a miniature Texas fort and settlement, similar to those they have been studying about.

Texas School Officials To Meet Saturday

AUSTIN — Teachers, administrators, and other professional personnel in Texas schools brought a variety of viewpoints to the first public hearing on a statewide "Code of Ethics and Standard Practices" in Austin Saturday.
 The Teacher Professional Practices Commission, appointed by Governor Preston Smith under provisions of the 61st Legislature, heard representatives of professional groups, individual teachers, and other interested persons throughout the day.
 Once the code of ethics is adopted by the commission, it will be submitted to all certified teaching personnel in the state by the Texas Education Agency. Members of the profession will vote on each provision during the statewide referendum set for February, 1971. The final draft, including revisions resulting from the referendum, is due by June 1, 1971.
 The new code, first of its type in Texas, is scheduled to go into effect September 1, 1971.
 Commission members include Dr. John W. McFarland, University of Texas at El Paso dean of education, chairman; Claude A. Hearn, Jr., Randolph Air Force Base Independent School District superintendent, vice-chairman; Mrs. Jacqueline Brown, El Paso, secretary; Mrs. Marjorie Bays, Mesquite; Mrs. Newell Burke, Freeport; C. J. Cartwright, Fort Worth; Stephen Fey, Beeville; Mrs. Alyce Hamilton, Duncanville; Mr. S. Jewell Harris, Abilene; Mrs. Christine Higginbotham, Houston; Jones Pearce, Richardson; Mrs. Betty Petty, Corpus Christi; and Mrs. Ione Stewart, Austin.

Sutan
 + atrazine lets your corn
 grow free

Your corn grows free from all major grasses and weeds. Free from the growth stress that weeds cause. Free to develop strong, vigorous roots that reach down to make maximum use of soil nutrients and moisture. Free from extra cultivations, possible root damage and free of trashy fields at harvest time.

This season, use dependable, economical Sutan plus atrazine on all your corn acreage. Stop the toughest grasses and weeds—nutgrass, wild cane, foxtails, fall panicum, Johnsongrass seedlings, crabgrass, annual morningglory, lambsquarters, pigweed, ragweed, nightshade and others that lower your profits. Mix Sutan plus atrazine in the soil as you prepare your seedbed. There's no need to depend on unpredictable rainfall to move the herbicide into the weed seed zone. Sutan and atrazine will be waiting to control weeds as they sprout. Used as directed, Sutan controls weeds without leaving harmful residues in the soil. Free yourself from work and worry... see us today for your supply of Sutan.
