Ray's 'Retin'

By RAY MARTIN
This is being written by ole 442-09-7121 from 79347. In case you don't savvy, that first number is for me, and the second one is for Muleshoe, Texas.

Of course the 442-09-7121 business is nothing new. I once wrote a column for several years which I called "American Hired Hand No. 442-09-7121." But the other figure, that 79347 business is brand new. It means Muleshoe, Texas, to the post office department.

And beginning with July 1, you're supposed to put 79347 on your return when you write to Aunt Minnie. Chances are that Aunt Minnie won't remember Muleshoe's number and go right ahead and write you in the old-fashioned 1962 manner of Muleshoe, Texas. Chances are pretty good that you will get the letter anyway, because it's going to take Aunt Minnie a while to substitute 79347 for Muleshoe.

Because Aunt Minnie already has a lot of numbers to remember. Most towns she's got to remember her postal zone number, too, and her area code number when she places a long-distance call. And if she's in a city that's big enough to have DDD (direct distance dialing) she has to know the area code number of the town she's calling long distance, plus the number of the person she's calling.

So, it probably will be a while before she remembers to put 79347 on her letters to you, even if by putting that number on the envelope below Muleshoe, Texas, she can speed up her letter to you. Chances are that it doesn't really matter anyway, since Aunt Minnie never get around to much more important topics than the baby's colic, grandpa's arthritis or her own sinus trouble, and they'll all still have colic, arthritis and sinus trouble tomorrow the same as today.

But the day probably will come when you'll pick up the telephone, dial 927 for the area code, then 345-3456 for the number and they will charge the call to you as No. 4343456779, because eventually everybody will just be a number.

Or maybe the boss and his secretary will have a conversation something like this:

"Miss 3845787, please get me the file on 345837489 who lives in 34894, although it's possible they have since moved to 34899 or maybe it's 34908. Anyway, look up the file on 345837489, Miss 34-45787."

And a few minutes later, she will come into his office and say: "I'm sorry, Mr. 3458788, but I couldn't find the file on Mr. 34-5837489, but I found the file on his wife, who is 345787499. But they don't live in 34894 or 34899, but in 43558 now."

And the boss will come back with, "Oh, well, just get them on the phone, it might be quicker." So she'll dial area code 344 and the number 344-4498 and ask for extension 348 and pretty soon she will have Mr. 345837489 on the phone, after first going through his secretary, Miss 3458788, and eventually Mr. 3458788 will get to talk with Mr. 345837489 who lives in 43558, Ohio.

And maybe eventually, society items in the newspaper will read something like this:

"Mr. and Mrs. 3485768 announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss 3485789 of 34894 to Mr. 3458789 who lives in 79344.

"The announcement was made at a dinner last night, given by Mr. and Mrs. 3458789 of 79333.

"The wedding is to take place May 3 at 73344 and after a short honeymoon trip to 34587 and 34588, the couple will be at home at 34458 North Elm Street in 48888 where the groom is employed in bank No. 3458934 as a teller."

Or shorter items will read like this:

"Mr. and Mrs. 3485748 (I'm assuming that the wife will take the husband's name-number after they marry) are spending a few days visiting his sister, Mrs. 34-89949 in 34533, and later will go to 34588 to visit his mother, Mrs. 348596949.

But if everyone is as foggy with numbers as I am, this world is going to be an awfully confusing place in which to live in a few more decades. Already have trouble remembering whether my phone number is 33441 or what and whether my post office box is 582 or 852.

In any case, we'll be living in good old 79347, formerly known as Muleshoe, Texas, and prior to See RAY'S, Page 5

Two More Towns Get 'Zip Code' Mail Numbers

Two more area towns have been assigned postal "zip-code" numbers, it was announced Friday. Muleshoe received its number — 79347 — earlier this past week, Spencer Beavers, postmaster announced.

Marjorie Simmons, postmaster at Bula, announced that the zip code for that post office will be 79320, while at Lazbuddie, Mae Mahan, postmaster, said that post office has been assigned zip code 79052.

The new zip code system will go into effect July 1 on a nationwide basis, the post office department has announced, and is designed to speed up dispatching of all mail.

All persons are requested to memorize their own code (7947 in Muleshoe, for instance) as soon as possible and to start using this number as part of the return address. The zip number is to follow the town and state. In Muleshoe, this would mean that the address would read: Muleshoe, Texas, 79347.

The post office department says use of zip code will short-cut See Mail, Page 5

Hails Smack Roofs, Damage Runs High

Spring hails have left scores of roof-tops heavily damaged throughout Muleshoe, insurance companies are paying off to the tune of thousands of dollars, insurance dealers here said Friday.

One dealer said 20 percent of all residence roofs must be replaced. "Losses were exceptionally high," he said, "and more of the losses were 'total' than we have had in several years."

The roof replacement was a banana for roofers, but insurance companies were hard hit. Especially hit were home owners who did not have coverage on their roofs, and one insurance man said approximately "ten percent of the home owners do not carry this type of insurance."

Equalization Board to Meet

Bailey county commissioners will sit as an equalization board, starting July 1, it was announced Friday by County Judge Glen Williams.

On the board are I. M. Stinson, Loyd Stephens, W. H. Eubank, R. T. McCall and Judge Williams.

Tattle-Tale Screwdriver Puts Eight, Including Two Boys, Behind Bars Here

Five adults and three juveniles must face charges in district court soon of breaking and entering three Muleshoe business houses which scarcely netted enough loot to pay the fine of one of the defendants.

Sheriff Dee Clements said Friday the entire group had been gathered up and put in jail, to await a hearing before the next grand jury.

At one business, a gin, they got cigarrates and candy out of jimmied-up coin dispensing machines. At another place they took a clock, a portable bar and a pair of bronzed baby shoes. But at all three places, they did considerable damage, knocking over a television at one business.

The sheriff said a long-handled screwdriver which he found under the bed of one of the young defendants was the item that put the boys behind bars. The red paint on the screwdriver matched the paint on one of the dispensing machines, and the nicks in the end of the screwdriver exactly matched the jimmied locks of the machines.

Two of the men and boys held are from Muleshoe, two from Plainview and the rest from western Bailey county. All were young.

Next weekend Muleshoe will start observing its 50th anniversary, and the calendar will be rolled back a half-century to the time when trains were pulled by big "iron horses" that puffed steam and whistled lustily at the crossing instead of giving out with a throaty diesel squeak.

Those were the days when the "gentlemen of the rods" roamed the country, inside an open box car or lying on the rods beneath. They even formed their own clubs and some of those gentlemen of another era became famous for their treks across country without bothering to procure a ticket first. Hobo clubs flourished and so did some of the members.

Of course they frequently got tossed off by the railroad detective or even by the train crew. But after they had cooked up a few grains of rice in an abandoned can or had panhandled some tender-hearted housewife into a handout, they were right back on the rails again, waiting for a fast freight to halt at the waterfront. Then they were off again east, west, north or south — whichever direction the train was going.

Such a gentleman of that bygone day was in Muleshoe again this last week. He set up his little one-man camp down on the railroad tracks, fished out a smoked-up coffee can and stirred in a bit of rice. He cooked the rice and some coffee afterwards on a fire he put together from bits of abandoned lumber. And afterwards he unrolled his blankets and spread himself out to sleep, there beside the railroad track.

The Journal asked him where he was going. "East," he said. Where had he come from? "West." How long had he been on the road? "Oh, two months, maybe, maybe longer, what difference does it make." How long had he been tramping around the country? "Oh, a long time — 12 years, maybe 15 years, maybe longer."

Where was he going tomorrow? "What's east of here?" Plainview. "Then I'll make Plainview tomorrow."

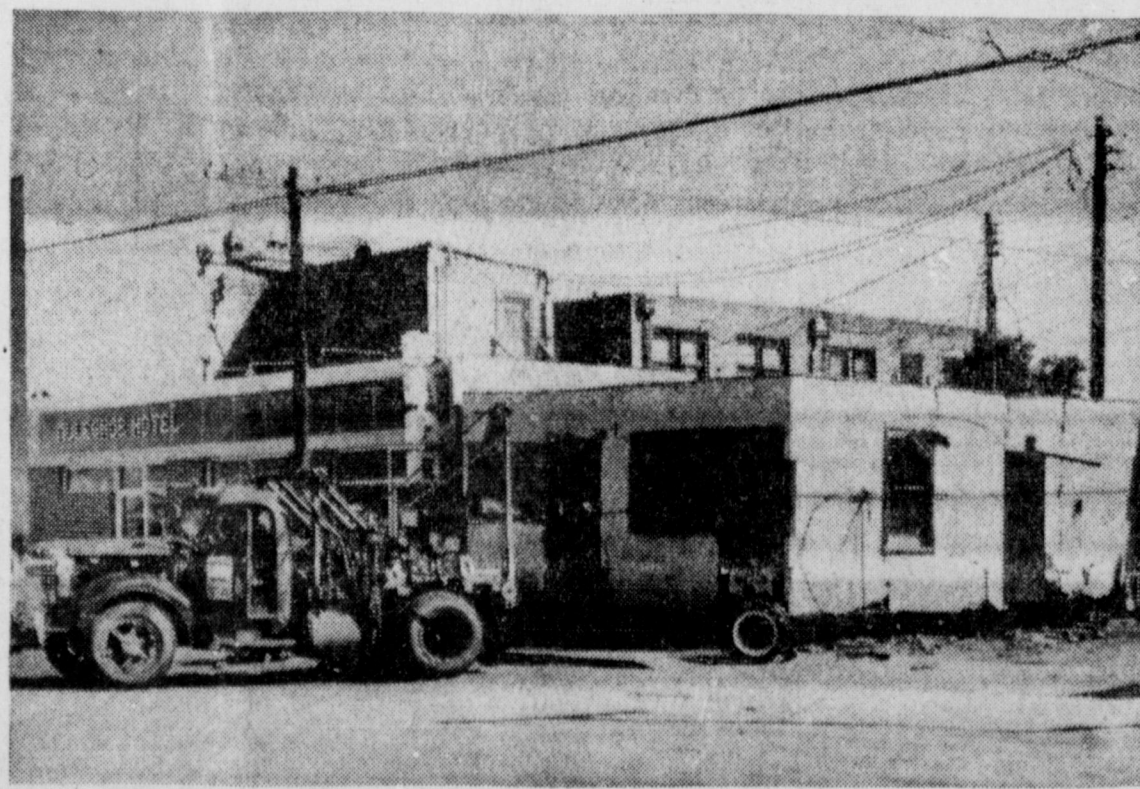

But it rained the next day, so he stuck around another night, guest of the county in the county's accommodations atop the courthouse. He got up the next morning, combed his long hair and his equally long beard, put on his entire wardrobe, strapped on his bedrolls and was on his way, heading east.

Courthouse folk remembered he had been here in 1939. Maybe even before that. Born to roam. "But don't take my picture," he told the Journal. Why?

"Because I don't look so good now. These shoes, they are too big. These socks, they don't match. This coat — this outside coat — it is not good material. My friends, back east, would be embarrassed if they saw my picture and saw me wearing these clothes."

"No, you can't take my picture. Some people might think I was just a bum, a hobo or a tramp. I don't want folks to think

Tour to Boost Celebration; Pioneers' Reception is Set

Old-Timers Club In Bailey County May Be Formed

Old-timers in Bailey county are being invited to a reception to be held at C&H Chevrolet showrooms Wednesday, July 3, starting at 1 o'clock.

The announcement was made Friday by the Bailey County Historical Research Survey committee which will sponsor the pioneer hospitality reception.

Especially invited are all pioneers who have lived here for 25 years or more, and special recognition will be given to those who have lived in the county 50 years or longer.

The announcement of the special recognition program for old-timers was made by Mrs. Vera Engleking, chairman of the committee and a member of the historical survey organization.

Members of the society will be in the receiving line for the July 3 downtown program. These include Cecil Davis, president; Mrs. Engleking, vice-president; Mrs. Lela Barron and Mayor Arthur Crow.

Members of the committee will serve as hosts at the reception. Registration will be done by members of the Muleshoe study club. The Muleshoe Chamber of commerce is assisting with the program, and is arranging to send letters to every pioneer whose address can be found. People were asked to call the Chamber, 2480, and give them the names and addresses of these pioneers.

The historical group made it clear, however, that all pioneers are invited to the reception whether they receive a written invitation or not. The reception will be an "open" affair for all pioneers.

The pioneers also will have a spot on the July 4th celebration at Benny Douglas stadium when Muleshoe stages its annual talent program, fireworks display and old-fashioned picnic supper. The old-timers will be introduced at that program.

A steering committee will be set up by the historical group to form a permanent pioneers' club if people show sufficient interest to sign up as charter members. Among those on this phase of the program are Mrs. Cecil Cole and Arnold Morris.

32 Students Given Transfers for '63-64

Bailey county school board met at the courthouse this week and transferred 32 pupils to other districts, three of them out of the county, Judge Glen Williams, who also serves as county superintendent, said Friday.

Of the number transferred, 14 are whites and 18 Negroes. All the Negro pupils live in the south part of the county, nearer Morton than Muleshoe. For this reason, they were transferred by the county school board to Morton.

The board also set up bus routes for next school year. Bula and Three Way school bus routes were unchanged, but a number of changes were made in routes served by Muleshoe busses. The board also approved the naming of a special service teacher to teach at Bula and Three Way on a co-operative plan.

Under the state education system, rules, a teacher may be named for two districts for such See TRANSFERS, Page 5

Towns in Area To Hear About July 4 Program

Muleshoe's 50th anniversary celebration — hospitality day June 29, merchants' jubilee days June 29, July 1, 2 and 3, and the Fourth of July talent and fireworks show — all will be given a boost by a tour of nearby towns to be made Monday, July 1, it was announced Saturday.

The tour will be sponsored by Muleshoe Jaycees, and all towns within a radius of 30 miles will be visited on the tour which will leave the west side of the courthouse, starting at 8 a.m.

Rufus II, the Jaycees' mule, will make the tour, along with the KMUL wagon which will provide the public address system for the tour, J. C. Spain, president of the Jaycees said.

Everyone who can make the trip is urged to join the tour, and to call the Chamber of commerce, 2480, and list name and passenger space.

Meantime, everything was moving smoothly in the plans for big four-day event. A hospitality day is set up for next Saturday when travelers will be stopped to give them a free information booklet about Muleshoe and coupons good for a cup of coffee at Muleshoe restaurants and drug stores.

That also marks the opening of the Jubilee sales days for downtown Muleshoe stores when special bargains will be offered. A downtown sound truck will be set up at an information and entertainment center. Programs will be presented from time to time from the platform, including contests of various kinds. Drawings will be held each day for gift certificates given by Muleshoe merchants.

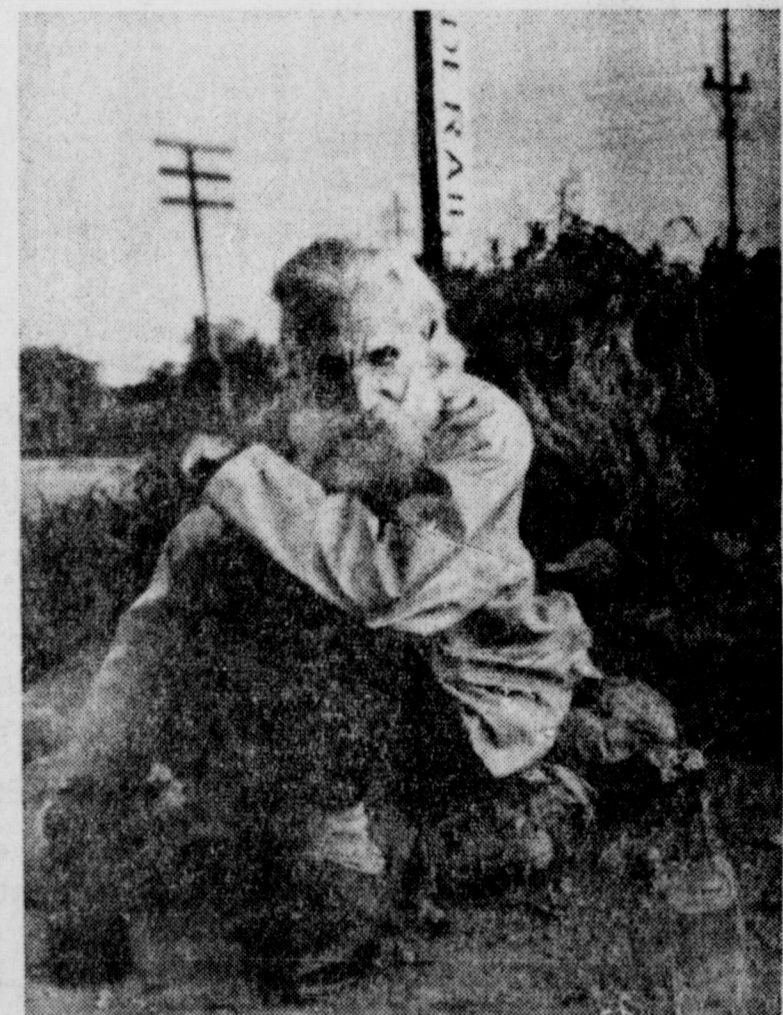

July 3 will be the meeting time for pioneers who will gather for a reception at C & H showrooms, starting at 1 o'clock.

Then at 8 o'clock that evening Jaycees' beard-growing contest will come to a climax when members of the ESA sorority will be the judges. The winners will be announced until the following night at the third annual talent contest and fireworks display at See TOWNS, Page 5

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Brown, Route 3, Muleshoe, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peterson, Route 1, Muleshoe.

The church altar was centered with a topiary tree of white gladiolus, cornadore, and salal leaves; and was flanked by carnadelabras with arrangements of white gladiolus, salal leaves and blue satin bows. The family pews were marked with blue satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length dress of hand clipped imported Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped Sabrina neckline accented with pearls and sequins and long sleeves with petal points over the hands. A controlled bouffant skirt with a band of wide satin ribbon accented the lower tier of the skirt which extended into a chapel train. Her headress, a tiara of seed pearls, held her tiered veil of imported silk illusion. Atop a white lace covered Bible, she carried a bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis, accented with lily-of-the-valley and a touch of pale blue tulie, surrounded with white satin-beaded grape leaves entwined with a white, hand made linen and lace handkerchief.

Carrying out tradition, the bride carried something old, the handkerchief in her bouquet which belonged to her mother and was made by the bride's great-aunt; something new was her wedding ensemble; something borrowed was a cameo brooch, once belonging to the bride's great-aunt; and something blue, the traditional parter, a gift of Vohs & Co., Clovis, N. They exchange pictures with their "little sisters" and correspond with them throughout the summer, telling them what to expect at college.

The "Big Sisters" are on campus a few days before the beginning of the fall semester to welcome the new girls, introduce them to their other classmates, acquaint them with the college campus and routines and offer information and assistance in planning schedules and registering. tee. No action was taken, but the matter of marking Bailey county historical spots will be considered later. Mrs. Hall reported to the group that people who know of old-time stories that should be carried may still write to the Muleshoe Journal and the Bailey County Journal, even though the deadline has passed for material for the big special edition to appear next Sunday. These stories and letters, Mrs. Hall explained, will be printed in subsequent editions of the papers. Although this is the 50th anniversary of Muleshoe, the county won't be 50 years old until 1968.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Engelling, Mrs. Barron, Mrs. Hall, Judge Williams, Mrs. Lamb, Mrs. Major Woods and R. H. Carlyle.

"The address on mail must often be read as many as eight or 10 times by postal employees to get it to the proper destination, postmasters Simmons and Mahan pointed out. "Each handling slows the process of mail dispatch and adds to the opportunity for human error."

With zip code, a clerk needs only to glance at the code to know immediately to what national area, state and post office the letter is destined, and to speed it on its way, cutting up to 24 hours off the time between deposit and delivery, the postmasters explained.

The system is similar to postal zone numbers used in large cities to route the mail inside the city limits. The new zip system will be used throughout the nation at both large and small offices and eventually numbers will be available for all postoffices.

"When you figure that replacing just one big roof costs around $500 to $800, you can see how much the damage would be when such figures are multiplied scores of times."

One insurance agent here said he had to replace the roof on a brand-new house which had not yet been occupied.

The damages were called "delayed" by one dealer. "It had first appeared that damage from the early hails was not great, but after the sun came out, shingles began to curl — and this went for both composition and cedar shingles."

How Does Your Crop Look? GIVE IT A BOOST WITH Golden URAN

Realizing that the weather in recent weeks hasn't been conducive to "tops" in crop growth, we would like to offer a suggestion. Heavy moisture and cool weather have slowed young cotton growth considerably — to counteract this condition in the face of a shortened growing season, we recommend an application of from 5 to 7 gallons per acre of GOLDEN URAN. The nitrate content of this excellent nitrogen fertilizer will provide a quick boost of growth power to the dormant plant. This small amount of nitrogen will in no way affect the maturing of the crop, but will give it added leaf and root growth. IF YOU ARE ONE OF THE MORE UNFORTUNATE WHO HAVE TO REPLANT—WE WOULD LIKE TO SUGGEST THAT YOU APPLY A BOOSTER SHOT WITH YOUR SEED.

Why John XXIII Differed

The worldwide mourning for Pope John XXIII was a tribute to his tolerance, which stood in contrast to that of so many of his predecessors.

We all know about others of relatively recent history who were not so inspired by peaceful concepts, and under whom discrimination, persecution and wars were arranged in the name of church and God and faith.

Pope John was seemingly trying, as fast as he dared to go, to lead the Roman Catholic Church out of medieval concepts and practices. His opposition did not come so much from the world outside as it did the world within the ruling hierarchy.

Even as the Cardinals of the church assembled in Rome, a poll showed that only a small percentage of them favored the policies of Pope John XXIII.

John XXIII taught love and understanding and came nearer saying that all should be equally respected in the pursuit of their faith than any other Pope in centuries. But he could not, quite obviously, make progress as fast as he probably hoped, and he also was limited by the state of his health, which finally caused his death.

The Christian world sincerely mourned his death, for it left he was tending toward democratic and tolerant concepts, of which there has been such a tragic need among the various religions, not only among the Roman Catholic Church hierarchy but among so many church bodies.

One hope that Italians, and non-American Roman Catholics the world over, will reciprocate in respectful consideration of the leading, Protestant churchmen. Too often Protestants find they are legally discriminated against and viewed with less than equal respect and recognition by Roman Catholics in Italy, Spain and in other Catholic countries.

Newspapers and Dollars

Newspapers in the United States are facing several trends which are worthy of the average citizen's attention. First is the squeeze on profits, caused by higher costs, especially in competitive, organized labor areas, which has become critical.

Likewise the small weekly newspaper has endured, or succumbed to, rugged economic times in the past decade. Several thousand weeklies have gone out of business because of the cost squeeze, and high labor costs, in recent years. They have not been replaced by a like number of new weeklies either.

There is also a trend toward chain ownership of newspapers. These conditions have exerted a pressure on editorial policy in many cases and the reader should be aware of the forces which play on newspaper policy.

The best editorial is one which is written freely and which centers on a topic of community or state or national interest and not intended as a pat on the back to some one or some group or organization.

The reader is entitled to one place where he can find unemotional, intellectual discussion, free from commercial pressures & hidden commercial influences or other influences. Newspapers which are profiting and which are strong in their communities can give their communities a clear, honest voice — which has meant so much in the building of this United States.

IT'S FOR THE BIRDS

By MELVIN R. EVANS
 Refuge Manager, Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge

During 1961 Congress gave the Federal Government's Wetlands Development Program impetus by authorizing the expenditure of $165 million in a seven year accelerated program.

This money is to be repaid into the United States Treasury from the money received from the sale of duck stamps.

This program has been held almost at a stand still since this act was passed. The projects which have been initiated have been strongly opposed by state and local groups because lands purchased would be exempt from tax roles.

The legislation provided that before waterfowl habitat can be purchased, from the Migratory Bird Conservation Fund, that approval must be received from respective governors or appropriate state agencies.

Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota contain considerable percentage of the key wetlands which are desirable under this purchase program.

Under the present system, a 1935 law, 25 percent of the net receipts from wildlife refuge lands (timber, minerals, oil, grass, and so forth) is paid each year to the counties where refuges are located.

The Interior Department has proposed legislation which would place all funds received into a single fund. The distribution of this fund would be done by a formula tied to local real estate values.

It is felt that this will give a fairer distribution system.
 In 1961 net receipts from 120
 National Wildlife Refuges, game refuges, and waterfowl production areas were about $2 million.
 The maximum received by a single county was $277,000 and the smallest amount received by a single county was $1.
 The new formula would also require that the funds be spent to the benefit of public schools and roads.

It Takes Grass to Grow Grass, So SCS Says Conservation a 'Must'

By DALE FISCHGRABE
Work Unit Conservationist, SCS
Like the old saying, "It takes money to make money," it takes grass to grow grass. Proper use of rangeland is the most important practice in conservation ranching. Simply defined, it means to take half and leave half of the annual production.

Many acres of rangeland in the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District are producing only a fraction of what they are capable. This has been caused by a deterioration of range condition due to drought and over-grazing. Sites formerly occupied by such high producing grasses as blue grama, little bluestem, sand bluestem, and sideoats grama are now covered with needlegrass, sand droopseed, buffalo grass, weeds, and other low producing plants.

Grass plants are a lot like a building. "The bigger the building, the deeper the foundation," likewise, "the taller the grass, the deeper the root system." The manufacturing part of grass is leaves, and if grazed off too short, regrowth occurs by drawing on the food reserves in the roots. Grass that is constantly grazed too close gets in a weakened condition and has a shallow root system. When drought hits, the grasses will then die out and are not readily eaten by livestock.

Some ranchers become concerned about weeds on their ranges, but this is simply nature's way of covering up bare land and preventing excessive erosion on over-grazed grassland. They provide soil. Rangeland having an abnorncover and return residue to the soil amount of weeds on it is either in a process of deterioration of recovery. If your range is like this learn to determine which process it is in and manage it accordingly.

Proper use is essential on all rangeland regardless of its condition. Ranges in poor condition should be grazed properly in order to maintain adequate cover and residue for protection against erosion. The residue will aid in more efficient use of rainfall and condition the soil so that more desirable plants can be grown. On good and excellent condition ranges, proper use will maintain the desirable vegetation by keeping vigor high and root system strong.

There are several methods of determining proper use on ranges. All of them aim at leaving about fifty percent of the current years growth of the key grasses at the end of the grazing season and adequate residue for soil protection. The easiest and most practical method is to locate some ungrazed plants of the selected keygrasses to get an idea of what the total production has been. A pretty close estimate can then be made of the percent utilization by comparing them with the average grazed plants found in the pasture.

The conservation rancher should first learn to identify the desirable plants on his range. Secondly, he should select the best plants that are present in significant amounts and which will be favored in his grazing system. Thirdly, he should make periodic checks of the range during and at the end of the grazing season then make sure proper use is being attained.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service at Muleshoe assisting the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District are available to assist ranchers with proper use and other range management practices. Ranchers who are not cooperating with the district are urged to contact the district supervisors, sign up as a soil conservation district cooperator, and with the assistance of an SCS technician, develop and start applying a complete conservation plan on his ranch.
