Rotarian Banquet Is Set for Monday

An after dinner speaker who offers a money-back guarantee on his performance, plus a main course of pheasant with wild rice have been scheduled to entertain and delight guests at the annual Rotary Club Ladies Night banquet here Monday.

The speaker is Chuck Hanna of Chicago, who specializes in delivering "entertaining type" speeches, according to Melvin Young, Rotary president. About 115 persons, Rotarians, their ladies and special guests are expected to attend.

The banquet will start at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 2, in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom. The club's regular Monday noon meeting will not be held this week.

Hard wind on Wednesday, followed by gales up to 50 miles per hour Friday dealt a harsh blow to High Plains grain and forage sorghum harvest efforts. Damage to the milo crop is believed by grain handlers to have been so extensive as to extend the harvest into February.

Already running weeks late, the combining of grain sorghum will be slowed drastically now by the necessity for cutting stalks right above the ground or the use of time-consuming pick-up attachments for the harvest of toppled heads of grain.

Putting a price tag on the immediate loss is considered impossible by local observers. If open weather should continue, enabling the growers to complete the slow work of harvesting "down" grain, the loss to growers might be held to the $500,000 mark.

Should a big, early snow cover the crop the toll might be much more extensive.

Best guess, actually a compilation of estimates from several sources, as to the overall damage: Loss of 15 to 25 per cent of the milo on 50,000 acres that remained uncut.

After Wednesday's high winds swept through fields, many farmers began a diligent search for patented pickup attachments to install on their combines. So far, they have proven hard to find, and the demand great from north of the Canadian River south to Lubbock where grain crops have suffered from a harvest slowed by wet weather, snow and finally the big winds.

Before the latest damage to the crops, Hugh Clearman, county agent, estimated yields in the county were averaging 3,700 pounds, the highest in history. During the past eight weeks, however, very little grain has been cut at the 13 per cent moisture level — minimum for obtaining government loans on the milo. E-

Long Tom's Set Shot Ruins Whiteface Bid

Tulla's long Tom Garrison hit a set shot with eight seconds remaining in the game to give the Hornets a 59-58 basketball victory over the Hereford Whitefaces here Friday night.

Hereford had, playing its opening game, lead all the way until Tulla, of District 2-AA, tied the score at 53-53 with five minutes left and the Hornets pushed to the front, 57-54 with 3 1/2 minutes to go.

Terry Higgins, Hereford center, hit a crisp shot and then tipped in a missed free shot for a 58-57 advantage with 2:56 left. The Herd stalled most of the remaining time but Tulla grabbed the victory after taking the ball

It's Beef Week Here and All-Across Texas

Mayor Ray Godwin, on behalf of the citizens of Hereford, today formally saluted the cattle industry of Texas by proclaiming Dec. 1-7 as Beef Week in Hereford.

"The state of Texas is proud of its cow-country heritage, and looks forward to many more years of leadership in the industry," Mayor Godwin said in signing the proclamation. The Texas Beef Council's Deaf Smith County chairman, Colby Conkright, received the proclamation which read in part:

"Economically, Texas began its growth as a cattle empire, and the beef industry remains one of our largest industries. Therefore, I proclaim Dec. 1-7 a Beef Week in Hereford, and urge due recognition on the part of our people to the many contributors of this great industry."

Conkright, local rancher and Hereford breeder, explained that the week will be observed in many counties throughout the state.

None Injured as Trucks Collide

Two grain trucks were demolished but no one was injured in a collision at the intersection of two dirt roads just north of Highway 60 at Black Tuesday night.

The trucks were driven by Henry T. Fangman, 21, of Rt. 3, Friona, and John Lee Pendergraft, 25, Rt. 1, Friona. Pendergraft's truck was loaded with grain.

Fangman was charged with failure to grant right-of-way at an intersection.

Through such activities as Beef Week and extensive promotion of beef consumption through education of Texas housewives in the proper preparation of the less-expensive cuts of beef, the Texas Beef Council has aided in increasing consumption of the commodity in the state by 33 per cent, Conkright said.

He explained, "Three years ago Texas cattlemen organized the council to fight the latest threat to their industry, under-consumption of beef which was causing a surplus. This, in turn, pushed the industry toward price supports and federal buying programs. During the first two years of this program, the cattlemen proved they were not over-producing their product but that the public was just suffering from under-consumption."

Research Program To Test Value of Area Food, Water

Plans were completed this week for a long-term joint research program by the University of Texas Medical School and the Deaf Smith Research Council into the bone-healing, anti-tooth decay and nervous system influence properties of Deaf Smith County foods and water.

Equipment will be bought and in use around Jan. 1, 1958, and construction of a laboratory will be head about the same time. The program is scheduled for a minimum of 10 years.

HEADING the program will be Dr. Ben Wilson, head of the surgery department, Southwestern Medical School, University of Texas, Dallas.

The program will cover the following four phases:

1. To determine if factors in the area's food and water might be brought to bear in other areas which might produce faster and more complete bone healing in people. Dr. C. E. Gregory, associate professor of surgery and head of the department of orthopedic surgery, Southwestern Medical School, will be the direct supervisor of the part of the program.

2. To study the influence of chemicals that occur naturally in foods and water upon the central nervous system, more especially to try and determine some of the causes of such diseases as epilepsy and mental disturbances. This program will require use of all the facilities of the local laboratory and those of the university. Dr. Kemp Clark, chairman of the division of neurosurgery, Southwestern Medical School, will supervise this project.

3. The influence of foods and water on teeth and related problems will be approached from a number of angles. Dr. Robert V. Walker, director of oral surgery, Southwestern Medical School, will head this project.

4. General and basic research dealing with nutrition of laboratory animals and livestock of this area and detailed studies of the chemical composition and nutritional values of feeds and produce grown in this area. Considerable work has been done on this phase at present and will include additional programs, all related to the first three phases. Dr. L. B. Barnett of Hereford will supervise this phase.

Dr. Barnett said the establishment of the research lab may affect the location of a Shrine hospital for crippled children in Hereford.

HEREFORD has made application for a hospital to be located here. Dr. Barnett said a hearing on the application has been set for February.

Application also has been made for a research grant from the U. S. Health, Education and Welfare Board, but Dr. Barnett said the federal group will not participate in the initial part of the program.

"The method of financing such a program as this requires the careful consideration of every person that is interested in the welfare of human beings and his own environment. Therefore, the Deaf Smith County Foundation will be in a legal position to accept gifts and donations. The local Oasis Shrine Club is in a position to accept."

Woman Injured as Auto Hits Cable

Mrs. Clifton Allman, 29, of Summerfield suffered a broken neck Tuesday afternoon when the car she was driving hit a winch cable stretched between two trucks on FM 1057, five miles south of Summerfield.

A Dimmitt Motor Co. winch truck driven by Abraham T. Winkle, 58, was trying to right a grain truck which had overturned before Mrs. Allman hit the cable. Mrs. Allman's daughter, Barbara Lynn, 4, was with her mother but escaped serious injury.

Impact of the collision yanked the grain truck and winch truck onto the road. The grain truck, driven by Alvin B. Jones, 25, Rt. 1, Hereford, had overturned after failing to make a curve. It was in the ditch on the west side of the road and the winch truck was on the east side.

Mrs. Allman was taken to Deaf Smith County Hospital by a Kreig-Marcum Ambulance. She is reported in good condition by attendants.

Jones, who was not injured, was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road, resulting in his turning over. The grain truck is owned by Wayne West, nine miles south of Summerfield.

West told Highway Patrolman Kenneth Maxwell that two men with red flags were posted on either side of the scene to warn motorists.

Maxwell is continuing his investigation.

Illness Is Fatal to Mrs. Clark, 84, Pioneer Resident

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today for Mrs. Ida Mae Clark, 529 W. Second, a resident of Hereford for the past 50 years. Mrs. Clark, 84, died at 6:15 a.m. Saturday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Davie Grimes, 116 C. St. She had been ill for several months.

Crime-Fighting Is Theme of Exhibit

A novel and graphic exhibit, housed in a 48-foot truck trailer designed to serve as a rolling classroom to impress Texas citizens with the efficiency and ingenuity of modern police techniques, will be here all day Tuesday.

The exhibit and its van, called simple the Crimemobile, is originated and presented by the Texas Law Enforcement Foundation.

Mayor Ray Godwin has designated Tuesday as Crimemobile Day in Hereford and urges all citizens to visit the exhibit. The Crimemobile will be parked at Third and Main, and will be open to visitors from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Local policemen will aid Bill Squier, Crimemobile supervisor, in explaining the various exhibits to visitors.

Arrangements are being made to enable all public school children to visit the exhibit, according to Bill Lenderman, chamber of commerce manager. The chamber of commerce and Hereford Police Dept. are sponsoring the Crimemobile's appearance here. It is a free exhibit and no funds are collected with its showings.

On exhibition will be a lie-detector, handwriting and fingerprinting equipment, firearms — including tear-gas equipment, nauseating gas, special issue weapons and regular firearms that are displayed on one whole wall of the Crimemobile, chemical apparatus used in crime detection, x-ray machine, ultraviolet light, comparison microscope used in ballistics studies, short wave radio, plaster casts, and other equipment.

A panel of photo murals above the exhibits demonstrates all equipment in action, showing police technicians and specialists using the devices against the criminal.

In proclaiming Crimemobile Day, Mayor Godwin cited the exhibit as a method of enlisting the aid of good citizens in support of law enforcement in Texas, and of calling attention to the great cost of crime in terms of wasted lives, violent deaths, human indignities and property loss estimated at $989 million last year.

A modern police arsenal, including tear gas, riot guns, machine guns, pistols, rifles and handcuffs is on display in the Texas Law Enforcement Foundation Crimemobile. Wall pictures show Texas crime fighters in action protecting citizens of the state.

By JIMMIE GILLENTE

ONCE IN AWHILE something on a national level comes along and completely overshadows things around home (even including the maize plight). That's about what happened when President Eisenhower underwent his "slight stroke" this week. In addition to it's effect on the markets, national planning and other big scale items, talk of Eisenhower's illness still echoes from conversations in every nook and cranny of the smallest hamlet to the largest city.

Possible resignation of the chief executive, among other things, has created considerable interest. Many people still feel that this is the best way out — in spite of the fact that Vice President Nixon has never been too popular out in this country.

LYNDON JOHNSON, generally expected to be a Democratic candidate, was probably put on the shelf by Eisenhower's attack. Chiefly, the situation points out too well what could happen to a man with a weak heart. Lyndon, however, gave the people quite a jolt when he compared the U. S. A. to Pearl Harbor from the standpoint of preparedness. He was also right when he recommended that they lay the cards on the table — and let the American people know just where they stand. Actually, it looks as if we need to get on the ball more than any of us realized.

Jim Kirby, who is attending Texas Tech, accompanied with his family, was home over the holiday. Jim says going to college these days is a lot different from his youth. Mostly, it is a matter of outlook and attitude which comes with getting older, but he allows that the youth of today is different from the kids in his generation.

"Where they used to hit class with blood-shot eyes from night life," says Jim, "the fellows with blood-shot eyes today have probably been up all night with a sick baby. Or maybe the wife got sick and they had to wash diapers."

All in all, Jim has come to the conclusion that most of our students are sincere and that they are really trying to learn something. He thinks the youngsters are getting more out of school than did their mothers and dads.

ONLY FOOLS and new-comers predict the weather in West Texas! This is an old saying and a true one. Usually folks get mad because you miss on weather predictions. This week, however, Tom Alderson is giving me a lot of trouble because I was right when I forecast a long, hard winter.

"If you hadn't been right," says Tom, "we wouldn't be having all of this trouble with the milo crop."

Although it provides little consolation, the present milo situation has created a real Thanksgiving atmosphere in some areas. We drove through Canyon to Claude, en route to Wellington Wednesday, and many of the farmers have put their feed in shocks. This is the way they used to do it before combines became so popular and, especially in this area, the feed shock was used by artists and photographers as a symbol of Thanksgiving. It is the first time in recent years that I have seen any large amount of shocks — and they were downright pretty.

DICK CULPEPPER, who operated a candy kitchen for many years on Main Street, is now located in Canyon. Dick and Mrs. Culpepper were hard at it when we dropped in Wednesday, but seemed real glad to see someone from "home." They say they like it fine, but still miss Hereford and their many friends in this area.

Robert Sparks, who handled The Brand city deliveries for several years, was also in with his family for the holidays. The Sparks now live in Haltom City, and said they almost broke down and cried when Hereford lost in the area play-off of Little League last summer. Robert said he got so mad when Hereford lost that he didn't even go out to see any of the games.

OUR BASKETBALL team, incidentally, is due to be pretty hot. Coach Kitchens may not agree, but I am expecting a lot out of the boys. I don't know why, but each one are a lot like farmers when it comes to taking a pessimistic attitude over prospects. I guess they have been out on a limb and sawed off so often that they get "gun-shy." Besides, it sounds a lot better to predict "low" and end up on top than to predict "high" and wind up in the cellar.

Harold and Charlotte Close were also in town during the holidays. They were returning to Lubbock from Clovis, where they spent the holidays visiting with Harold Jr. Harold, father of two boys, always moaned and groaned because they had no girls in the family. He is walking on clover now that he has a granddaughter.

EVERYONE WHO drops in these days is deeply impressed by the change on Main Street, due chiefly to demolition of the corner where the bank building is under construction. All seem to think that the new structure will make a profound difference in the appearance of the town. Like parents who are around their children all of the time, it is hard for us natives to notice any radical change.

The new Baptist building is also going up on Sixth and Sampson at a rapid rate these days, but one of the biggest construction jobs in the area is the underpass on Highway 51. When you stop and count it out on your fingers, a lot of things are happening. No big boom, just a steady, natural growth.

Boys Win First Cage Game of Season, 65-50

By MRS. R. L. PINNELL

Basketball season is upon us again. Many are happy with the idea. Moms are thinking of all the added laundry but, the fact remains, "Let's all go out to the ballgames!"

Adrian met Gruver, boys and girls both, in Matador's gym Tuesday night. The girls were nip and tuck most of the way with Adrian losing 36 to 39. The boys game was quite another thing. The Gruver boys were very strong opponents and half-time score was 32-26 in Adrian's favor, but the last half Adrian pulled out to a full 65-50 to win.

Spartan was much in view Tuesday night. Many reported having seen her at exactly 6:47 p.m.

WSCS met this week in the home of Mrs. Ed Jacobson. The regular program was presented to Mesdames Grace Baker, Nellie Davis, Vic Lemke, Leland Burns, N. L. Jacobson, John Skaggs, Johnnie Williams, Robert Jacobson, Anna Witt, Lorin Creitz, Hazel Chilton and Earl Kromer.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Don Brown have announced the arrival of Dennis Don Brown, born Tuesday morning, Nov. 26, at 10:30 a.m. at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 12 1/2 ounces. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brown of Adrian and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Biddles of Vega. Wednesday afternoon Mesdames Floyd Brown, John Skaggs and great-grandmother, Lillie Horton, spent the afternoon with the mother and child.

Mrs. Ferris Kromer and family planned their Thanksgiving with homefolks, the Kings, her parents, at Shamrock. They left Wednesday after school. Grady Skaggs and Ralph Th-mas of Amarillo were visitors in the home of Grady's parents over the weekend. The men did some goose hunting while here. Wednesday Ed Klein was taken to his doctor in Amarillo. He was ill with the flu. While he is ill Paul Ferguson of Grant Pass, Ore., remained to help out on the farm. Ferguson's father returned to his home in California.

The Joe Speeds and Carl Crawford of Muleshoe were guests at a chili supper Sunday night at their son's home, Bobby Speeds.

The Methodist Men met Monday morning in Fellowship Hall for breakfast. Cooks were Leland Burns, John Skaggs, Wilbur Harris and Fred Harwood. Guest speaker was Lorin Creitz who spoke on Thanksgiving. Around 17 men attended.

hospital in this area," Dr. Barnett said. INCLUDED in the equipment for the research lab will be a radioactive isotope for both medical treatment and experimental work. Initial expenditure for equipment will be $7,000, with plans. The overall research program will be under the direct supervision of a 10-man research council. Members of the council are Drs. Wilson, Gregory, Clark, Walker and Barnett, Dr. Millard W. Nobles, Hereford radiologist; Dr. A. T. Mims, Hereford surgeon; O. A. Golden, ASCP, chief technician and consultant; T. E. Seigler, Deaf Smith County Hospital administrator, and Owen Bybe, Hereford attorney.

The council will be charged with the direct responsibility of seeing that all research facilities will be used to the fullest advantage.

INTEREST in the effects of Hereford foods and water was stirred in 1940 by Dr. G. W. Heard of Hereford when he pointed out the low rate of tooth decay in this area.

Since that time attention has been focused from time to time on the factors responsible for the phenomenon.

As a direct result of Dr. Heard's observations and preliminary surveys, approximately 25 million people in the United States now have one part of flourine per million in their drinking water, which had reduced the dental decay rate by approximately 60 per cent in children.

Other observers have said there possibly might be other factors that could have equal influence upon the bone and tissue structure of people and animals in this area. THE DEAF SMITH Research Foundation was formed in 1951 to do chemical research upon the soils, water, foods and produce of the area. Papers on the subject have brought attention and interest on the elements in the water.

Among the observations brought out by this research was one that bone heals considerably faster here than in other areas used as comparison. The Foundation has been seeking a tie-in with a medical school for several years and arrangements were completed this past week.

"We feel equipped by experience, and motivated by curiosity, to help explore the more fundamental problem of the influence of various elements as they occur naturally in various areas of the world on normal development of bones and teeth," Dr. Wilson said in a letter to Dr. Barnett.

DR. BARNETT said any of the four major phases could require a number of research men spending years, or possibly a lifetime, finding all the answers which will be sought.

Controlled experiments will be carried on in the local lab and at the medical school to test the correlation between composition of drinking water and bone and teeth structure.

Dr. Barnett said the lab, whose site is as yet undetermined, will be a 40 feet by 50 feet structure and a lounge, two offices, a library and animal room in addition to the laboratory proper.

"This entire program will require a full cooperative effort if the potential good this is possible is derived. Each individual is requested to ask any member of the research council or his friends anything he might like to know about the entire program. Hereford has always supported any worthwhile project that has been presented. Therefore we feel that close to 20 years of planning should certainly make this one of the most successful attempts by any community anywhere," Dr. Barnett said.

HOLIDAY MELODIES

Holiday music is the theme for these groups of high school music students as they hold practice sessions for programs they will present for various organizations in annual Yuletide festivities. Spreading the Christmas spirit in song has become a traditional custom with the students—it's their way of saying "Happy holidays to you." Don Moore is the director.

THE UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE—This trio of singers will present a Christmas program built around the theme "Music—The Universal Language" at the Bay View Study Club Christmas party on Dec. 5. They will sing Christmas carols of many lands as well as America's best loved Yuletide music. They will also sing some popular ballads. The singers are Linda Noland, left, Sylvia Wiman and Yerna Kay McBroom with Bette Jean Noland at the piano.

BARBER SHOP HARMONY—These four girls love to go from the sublime to the ridiculous in a camouflaged version of barber shop harmonizing, but their favorites are old hymns

Monday afternoon in a program from the Romantic Era, featuring compositions by Beethoven, Schubert, Mendelssohn and Brahms. These girls are happiest when singing and their repertoire includes music on the light side, popular music and semi-classical music for entertainment.

RHYTHM-AIRES—Always eager for a bit of rhythm-making are Leon Roberts, left, Glenn Reeves, Gwin Morris and Carroll Willoughby. There is a special excitement in the air when they get to practicing their favorite barber shop tunes. They like to sing popular songs too, and their programs always include various selections of the latest song hits as well as the standard variety. Eugenia Alexander is their official accompanist. (Staff Photos)

Mrs. Larry Boston, the former Miss Phyllis Jane Sumner. (Angel Photo)

Miss Phyllis Jane Sumner Is Bride of Larry Burton Boston

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Jane Sumner and Larry Burton Boston was solemnized Wednesday evening in the First Christian Church chapel with the Rev. Gilbert Davis officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Sumner and is a senior student in Hereford High School.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Boston of Summerfield. He is a graduate of Hereford High School and is a student at West Texas State College, Canyon.

An all white theme was used in decorations of the church. A tall basket arrangement of large and small white chrysanthemums and stock against a background of Emerald Palms centered the nuptial space at the altar, and pyramiding wedding tapers burned in seven branched candelabra.

Mrs. Ellis Coombes, organist, played "Raindrops - Prelude" by Chopin preceding the ceremony and accompanied Miss Monta Kay Gragg and Miss Patsy Cowart who sang "O Promise Me." She also accompanied Miss Gragg singing "The Lord's Prayer" in conclusion of the ceremony, and gave the traditional wedding marches at the processional and recession.

Miss Dolly Paetzold served the bride as maid of honor. Her princess style dress was of ice-blue rayon in brocade design, fashioned with sleeveless bodice and match-shrug jacket with small Peter Pan collar. She wore a small white hat banded with flowers and carried an arm bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Best man was Roger Shipley, roommate of the bridegroom at WT, and ushers were George Paetzold Jr. and Alan Neff.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. The sleeveless bodice was attached to a bouffant floor length skirt featuring a deep ruffle of nylon net with overskirt of lace falling to points in the front and back and at the sides. The lace jacket topping the bodice had long sleeves and a small Peter Pan collar edged with pearlized sequins. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a half hat encrusted with pearlized sequins. The bridal bouquet, carried on a white Bible, was a single white orchid showered with fringed carnations.

The bride's mother wore a brown and beige silk sheath with matching jacket and hat and brown and beige accessories. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

The bridegroom's mother chose a red wool jersey dress featuring a white beaded hat and white accessories. She wore a white corsage.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table, laid with a white linen cloth, was centered with a colonnade wedding confection decorated with tiny blue sugar spun rosebuds and topped with a miniature bridal couple. Ice blue tapers gave soft candlelighting for the scene.

Mrs. Anna J. Brandon, grandmother of the bridegroom, served punch and Miss Billie Peters of Amarillo served the cake. Assisting in the house party were Mesdames George Paetzold, Bert Brown, Jay Boston and John Hunter.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a royal blue woolen shirt waist dress with white scarf. She wore a small white fur hat with white gloves and black purse and shoes. The orchid from the wedding bouquet was worn as a shoulder corsage on a full length brushed wool beige coat.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Anna J. Brandon of Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Wood Boston of Kress, Ted L. Sumner of Canyon, and Miss Billie Peters of Amarillo.

Buddhism Is Club Topic

Members of the Lone Star Study Club continued the study of "The World's Great Religions" with a program on Buddhism given in the home of Mrs. Vivian Major Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. John Jacobsen Jr., was cohostess. Mrs. Coy Phillips, program leader, gave something of the history of Buddhism, a system of religion embraced by more than one third of the human race. She said, in part, "Buddhism reaches abstinence from worldly pleasures, self deprivation, complete forgetfulness of self and equality of all. Nirvana is regarded as the supreme good and a state of heaven. It is the highest reward of virtue among men."

During the business session plans were completed for the annual Christmas party which will be held on Dec. 10 in the home of Mrs. Jim Higgins.

Members present were Mesdames R. G. Blue, Roger Corbett, H. E. Henslee, Jim Higgins, John Jacobsen Jr., C. D. Kelton, Joe Kendall, Louie LeGrand, G. W. Newsom, Coy Phillips, Robert Thompson, Ed Warren, Jack Grady and the hostess.

A program on Bible appreciation was presented at the November session of the Pioneer Study Club held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Mary Seigler.

A luncheon at 1 p.m. preceded the program with decorations featuring a Thanksgiving theme. The table from which the luncheon was served, was centered with a horn of plenty overflowing with fruits and flowers of the harvest season.

Roll call on "What Happens to Me When I Pray" opened the study program with Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr., leader, giving the "History of the Printing of the Bible," assisted by Mrs. Ray Johnson who read selected passages from the Twenty Fourth Psalm, and Mrs. Wirt Phillips giving the concluding prayer.

Mrs. Lookingbill commented "The Bible is not only the oldest book, the most printed book, the best printed book, the cheapest book and at the same time the most expensive book, it is the widest read book, the most loved and cherished book, the most often banned, censored and burned, mutilated and destroyed book."

During the business session members voted to assist with the Seventh District, TFWC project, Christmas stockings for Boys Ranch and members will bring the small stockings with donations to the next meeting of the club.

Members also decided to sponsor a spot in the February issue of the Texas Clubwoman, official club magazine, with items concerning the local club activities.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party which will be held in the home of Mrs. C. N. McClure on Dec. 10.

Those in attendance were Mesdames Fred Barrett, A. G. Bell, J. E. Beyer, Burl France, Henry Hastings, O. H. Herring, O. G. Hill, E. S. Ireland, Ray Johnson, F. M. Kester, L. H. Lookingbill Sr., A. L. Husbands Are Entertained

Members of the Young Mothers Study Club entertained husbands at an informal Thanksgiving dinner party Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bradley. Assisting hostesses were Mesdames Jimmy Bownds, Hugh Clearman and Stanley Slagle.

The buffet table and tables laid for four carried out a red and white theme with a winter bouquet centering the large table and miniature candles decorating the quarter tables.

Games of forty-two provided diversion for the evening with high score awards going to Mrs. Clinton Massie and Bill Stanford. Attending the Thanksgiving affair were Messrs. and Mesdames Jimmy Bownds, Gid Brown, Hugh Clearman, L. J. Jones, Clinton Massie, Gerald McCaskill, Jess Robinson, Stanley Slagle, Wayland Smith, Bill Stanford, Labray Ballard, Wendell Burdine, James Headstream and the hosts.

Bad Weather Hampers a Promising Harvest

By ROY CLARK

Three warmly dressed men squatted Indian fashion on a muddy turnrow. Behind them were two mud-splattered combines, looking top-heavy with big, square class-covered and winterized cabs hulking above the grain bins. And behind the combines were several hundred acres of grain sorghum, overdue for harvest, and for all practical purposes locked in their muddy rows by the moisture from six weeks of intermittent rains and finally a four inch snow.

The men, J. E. McCathern Jr., half-owner of the field of milo, was pondering with his combine operators, Cleo Lee and Jerry Anders, "what to do next." Cleo's combine had just been bogged down as he turned into what they had hoped would be a new section of the field "dry enough to cut."

As he rose, J. E. said, "We'll wait until Gerald gets back from the elevator, they try again or move to Friona and help Dad."

Lee, who works for the McCathern Brothers the year around and depends on the harvest for a worthwhile year-end bonus solved the McCathern dilemma by finding a drier section of the field several hundred yards away. Soon, both combines were back at work.

J. E. made the next haul to the elevator. Bert Boomer at Pitman's told him, as he ground to a halt on the scales. "Most everybody has stopped for the day. Say about everything they have is stuck."

"We had two combines, three trucks, a pickup and a tractor stuck when things thawed out this morning, but we're still trying," answered McCathern.

And long after dark, the McCatherns and their crew were still "trying."

Sunday night, muddly and cold — but not as cold as the crackling five degrees in which they'd worked early Saturday, the McCatherns and their crew, Lee, Anders and A. S. Traweck of Lubbock, Gerald's father-in-law, were cutting and hauling the grain.

Explaining their determination to keep cutting, "Last year at this time we had been through cutting so long the harvest was forgotten. Now, we've been cutting between spells of weather for seven weeks and all of the profit is still out there," and as J. E. concluded, he looked out over acre after acre of milo.

Right on the edge of those acres, the two green combines were kicking up clouds of dust and chaff from the stalks and grain as their big tires slipped and skidded before moling on slowly down the water-soaked rows.

The grain too, was testing too high — Boomer reported the "driest we've had all day was 14.68" — but like many others, the McCatherns figured they would be better off to take a lower price for their grain than to lose it all if more snow or high winds should sweep across the countryside.

With a combine able to cut hardly more than 30 acres a day in normal weather, and very few custom operators left in the area where bad weather has hampered practically every harvest effort, getting the most out of the machines when, if and as possible is a primary consideration. A consideration emphasized by farmers cutting grain in snow, mud and darkness late in November.

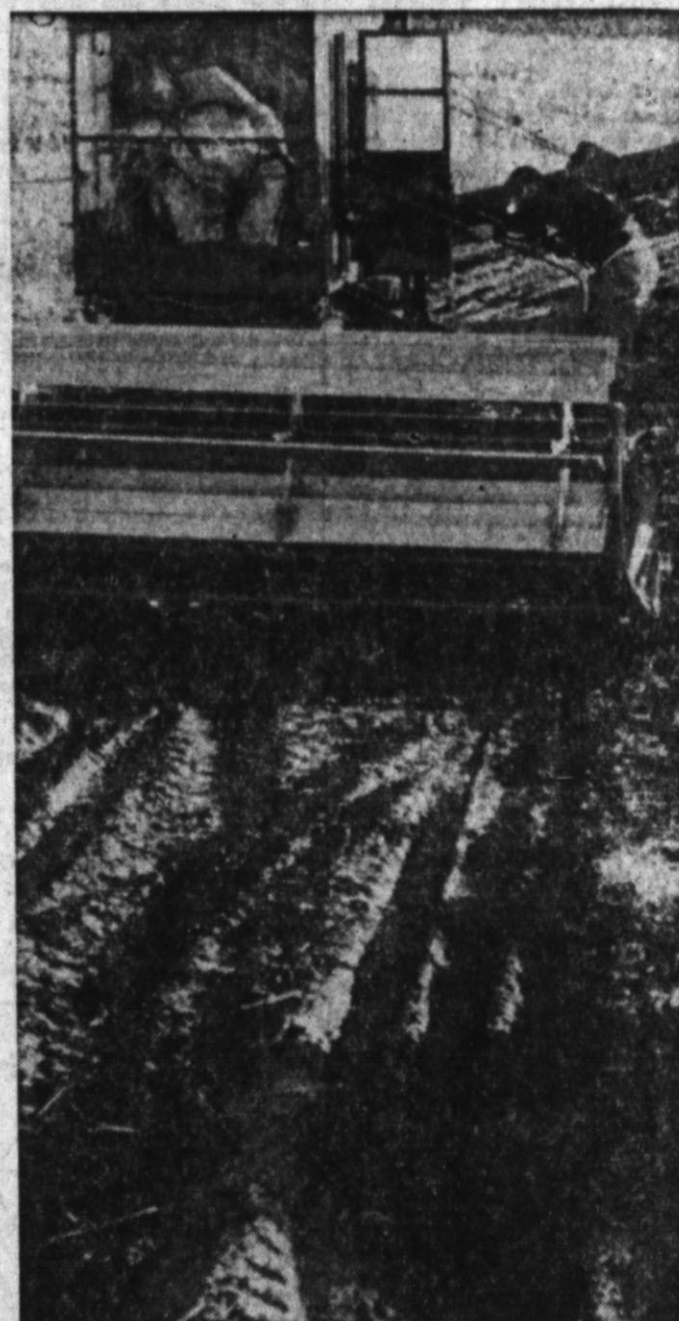

FLOWING GRAIN—As hybrid grain flows from a combine into a truck, above, Gerald McCathern waits to bring a second truck into position. Snow still lined the ditches and boggy turnrows. Boggy turnrows were keeping trucks out of the field, forcing combines to "rode" the grain a quarter-mile to unload on a county road.

Hereford, Texas, Sunday, December 1, 1957 Section Three

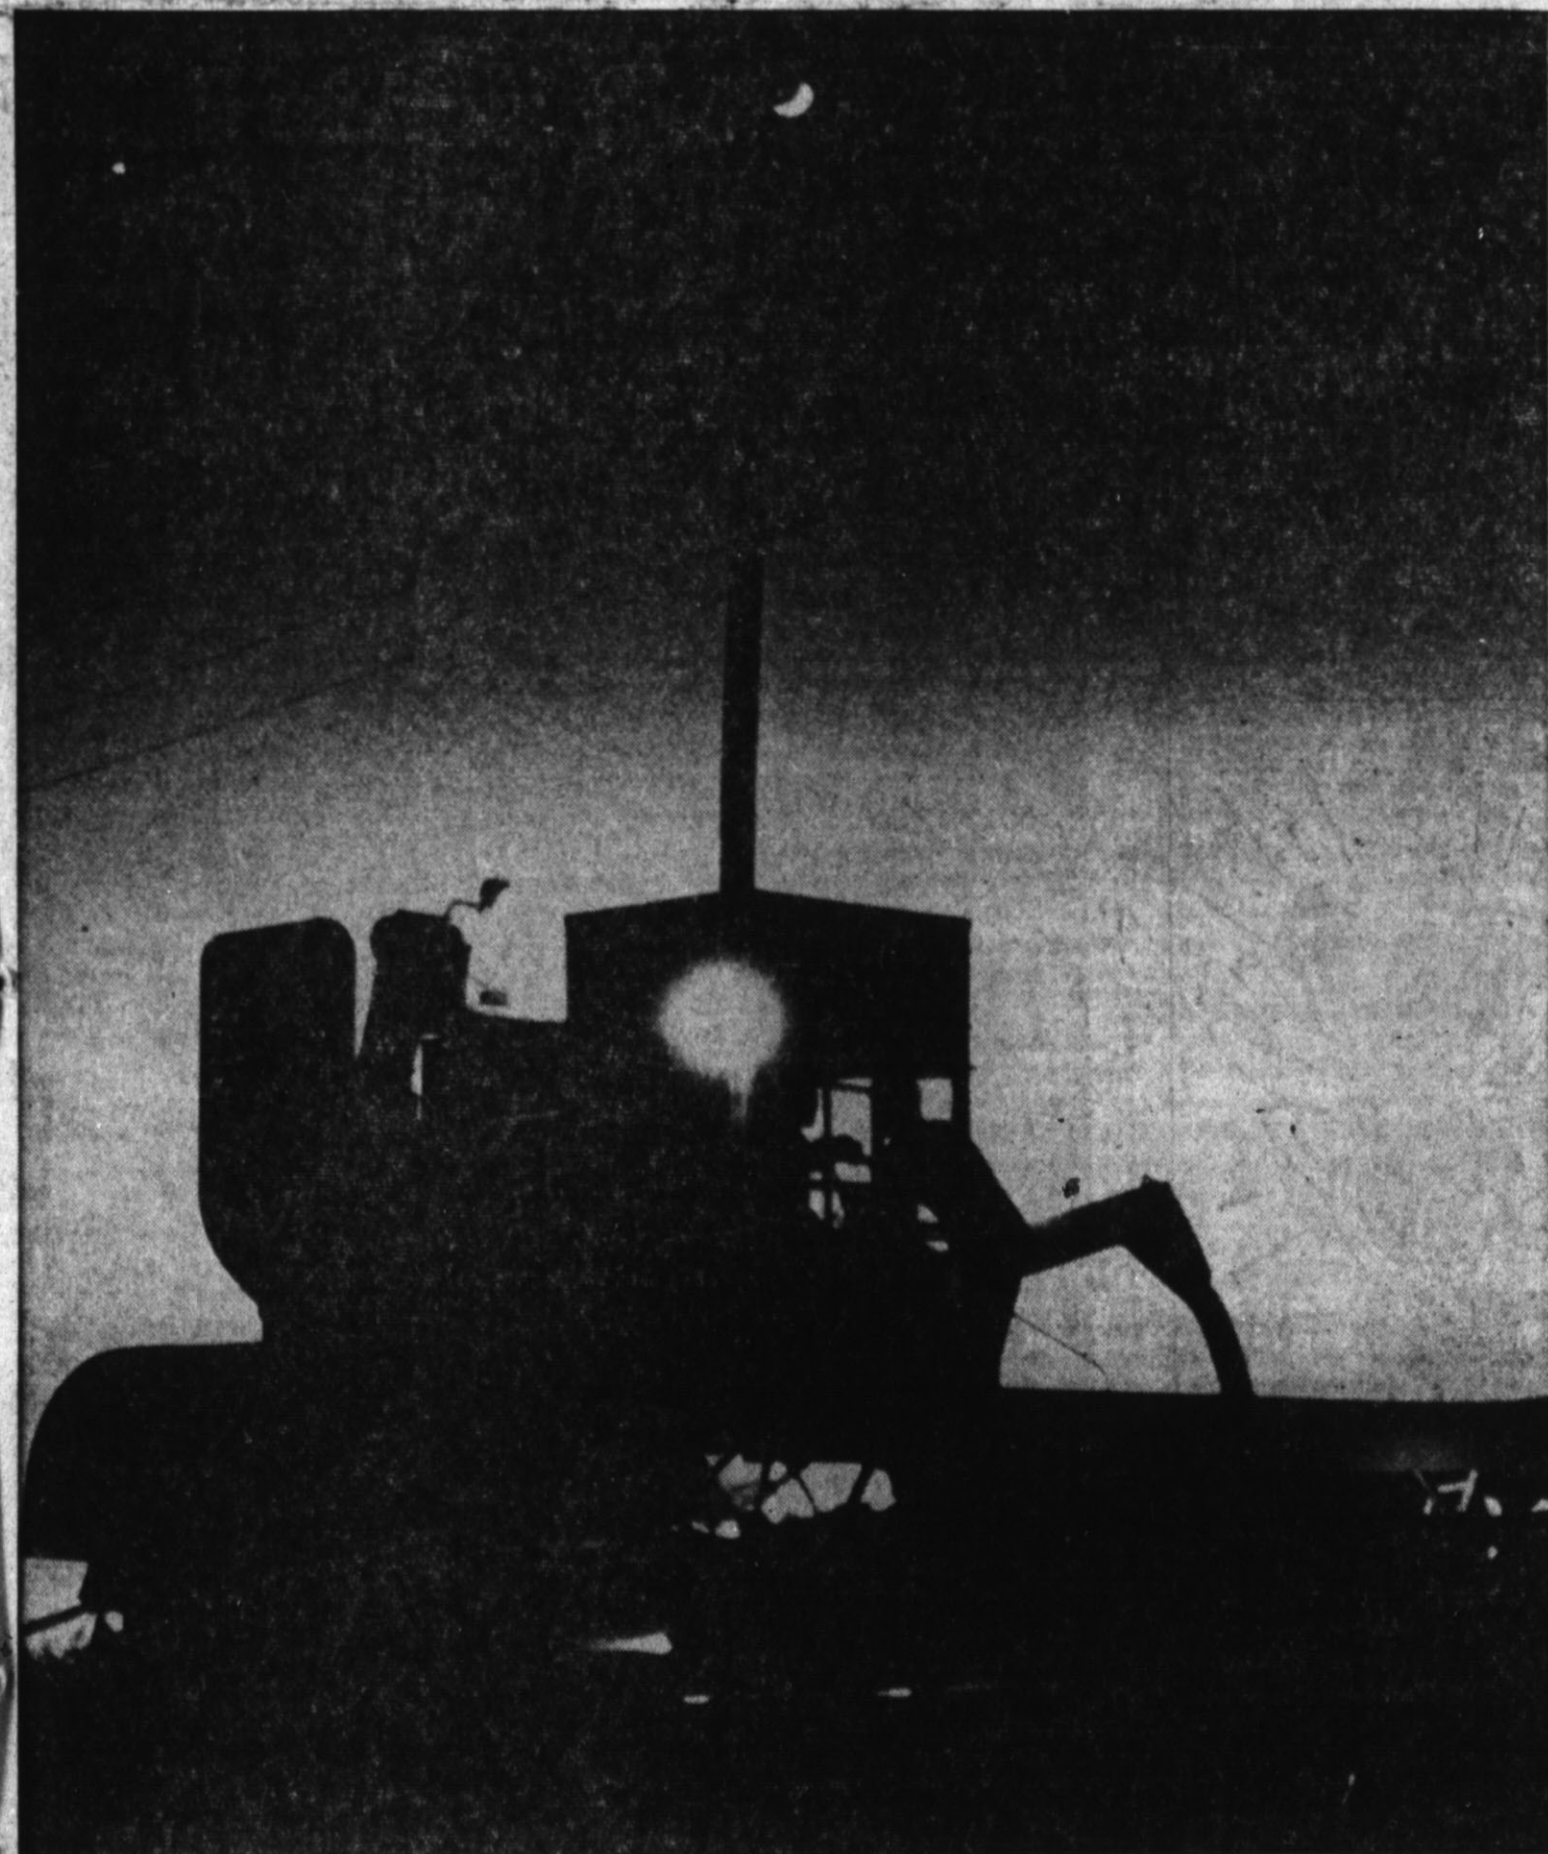

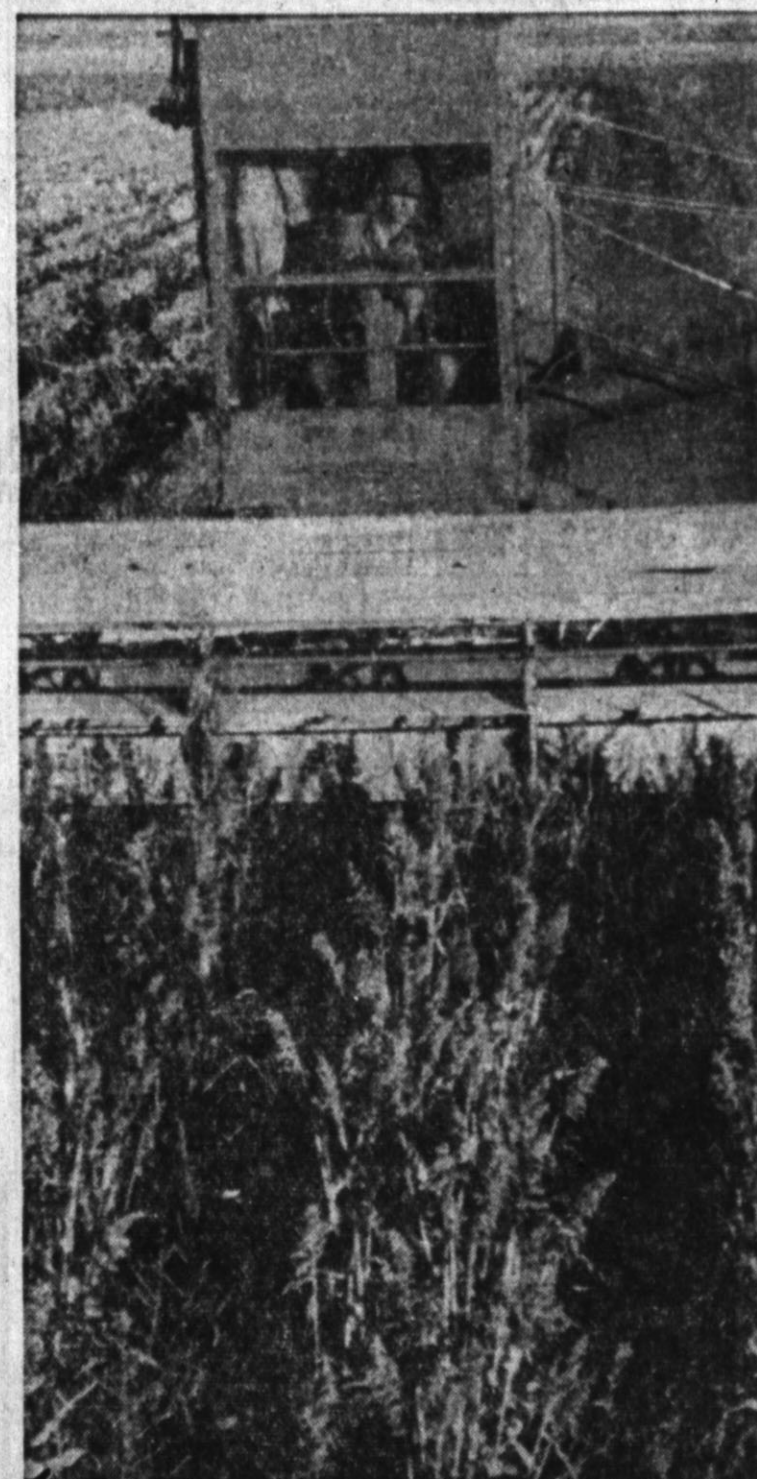

SUPPER TIME—A hot supper of turkey and dressing is served by Mrs. J. E. McCathern Jr. from the tailgate of a pickup truck, with the lights of a second truck providing the necessary illumination for the diners. The 7 p.m. "break" for supper stopped field work for barely 15 minutes.

CONFERENCE—After Cleo Lee skidded and spun as he drove into and through a different field, Gerald McCathern climbed to the cab, above, for a check on "how bad is it."

CUTTING—Jerry Anders, above, right, the younger of the McCatherns' combine operators, keeps both hands on the wheel as he wrestles the machine down the muddy, slick rows.

COMBINE CAB—Cleo Lee, picture at right, sits in heated, glassed cubicle as he wheels a McCathern combine down the field. Windows icing-over at low temperatures proved an unexpected handicap during night operations in extreme cold. The McCathern Brothers built and installed the cabs. (Staff Photos)

AFTER DARK—As a combine unloads beneath a new moon, J. E. McCathern Jr. climbs to the cab to talk briefly with the driver. Lights on the cab and behind the platform enable the driver to keep cutting grain after dark. With so few good breaks in the weather, McCatherns, like many other grain sorghum growers, keep cutting grain after dark despite an increase in grain's moisture content.

When South Carolina Made 21 Points in 95 Seconds

By ED YOUNG

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The afternoon of Nov. 1, 1952, was sunny but cold here in Norfolk, and at Foreman Field the boys in the press box watching the Virginia-South Carolina football game felt a need for hot coffee.

It had been a long, dull afternoon with heavily-favored Virginia giving South Carolina's Gamecocks a bad battering as expected. At the moment the score was 14-0, and with the outcome obvious, some sports writers already had begun writing their accounts with about seven minutes left to play.

There was no hot coffee in the press box. A downhearted South Carolina publicity man volunteered to walk downstairs and buy some at a concession booth "if you guys will take it easy on us in the papers."

By the time he got back with the coffee, he'd missed the only part of the show he'd have cared to see.

In the space of 95 seconds, the Gamecocks — "fired up by a substitute quarterback and abetted by Virginia's acute attack of galloping nerves — had scored three touchdowns and added three extra points to triumph 21-14.

The final 15-minute quarter was 8:35 old when South Carolina, able to get across midfield only three times previously, stopped a Virginia drive on its 25 and sent third-stringer Dick Balka in as replacement for its star quarterback Johnny Gramling.

Balka, who had been South Carolina's varsity quarterback in 1951, had obvious instructions. A good passer, he was told to pass.

He missed connections on his first two. But on third down he hit Lockhard McLendon 34 yards away on the Virginia 41. His next pass went 16 yards to Frank Shea on the Cavalier 25. And his next was right in the arms of Clyde Bennett in the end zone. Jim Jarratt's extra-point kick made the score 14-7.

Herman Gatling, big Virginia fullback, took the subsequent kickoff for the Cavaliers and fumbled on his 6. South Carolina recovered and in three plays, Mike Caskey barreled over for the touchdown and Jarratt added a second conversion that tied the score at 14-14.

It had taken South Carolina just one minute and 15 seconds to close the gap.

South Carolina kicked out of bounds. The second kickoff went to Virginia's fleet halfback, Eddie Knowles, who sped up field — but Virginia was detected clipping and was penalized to its 6.

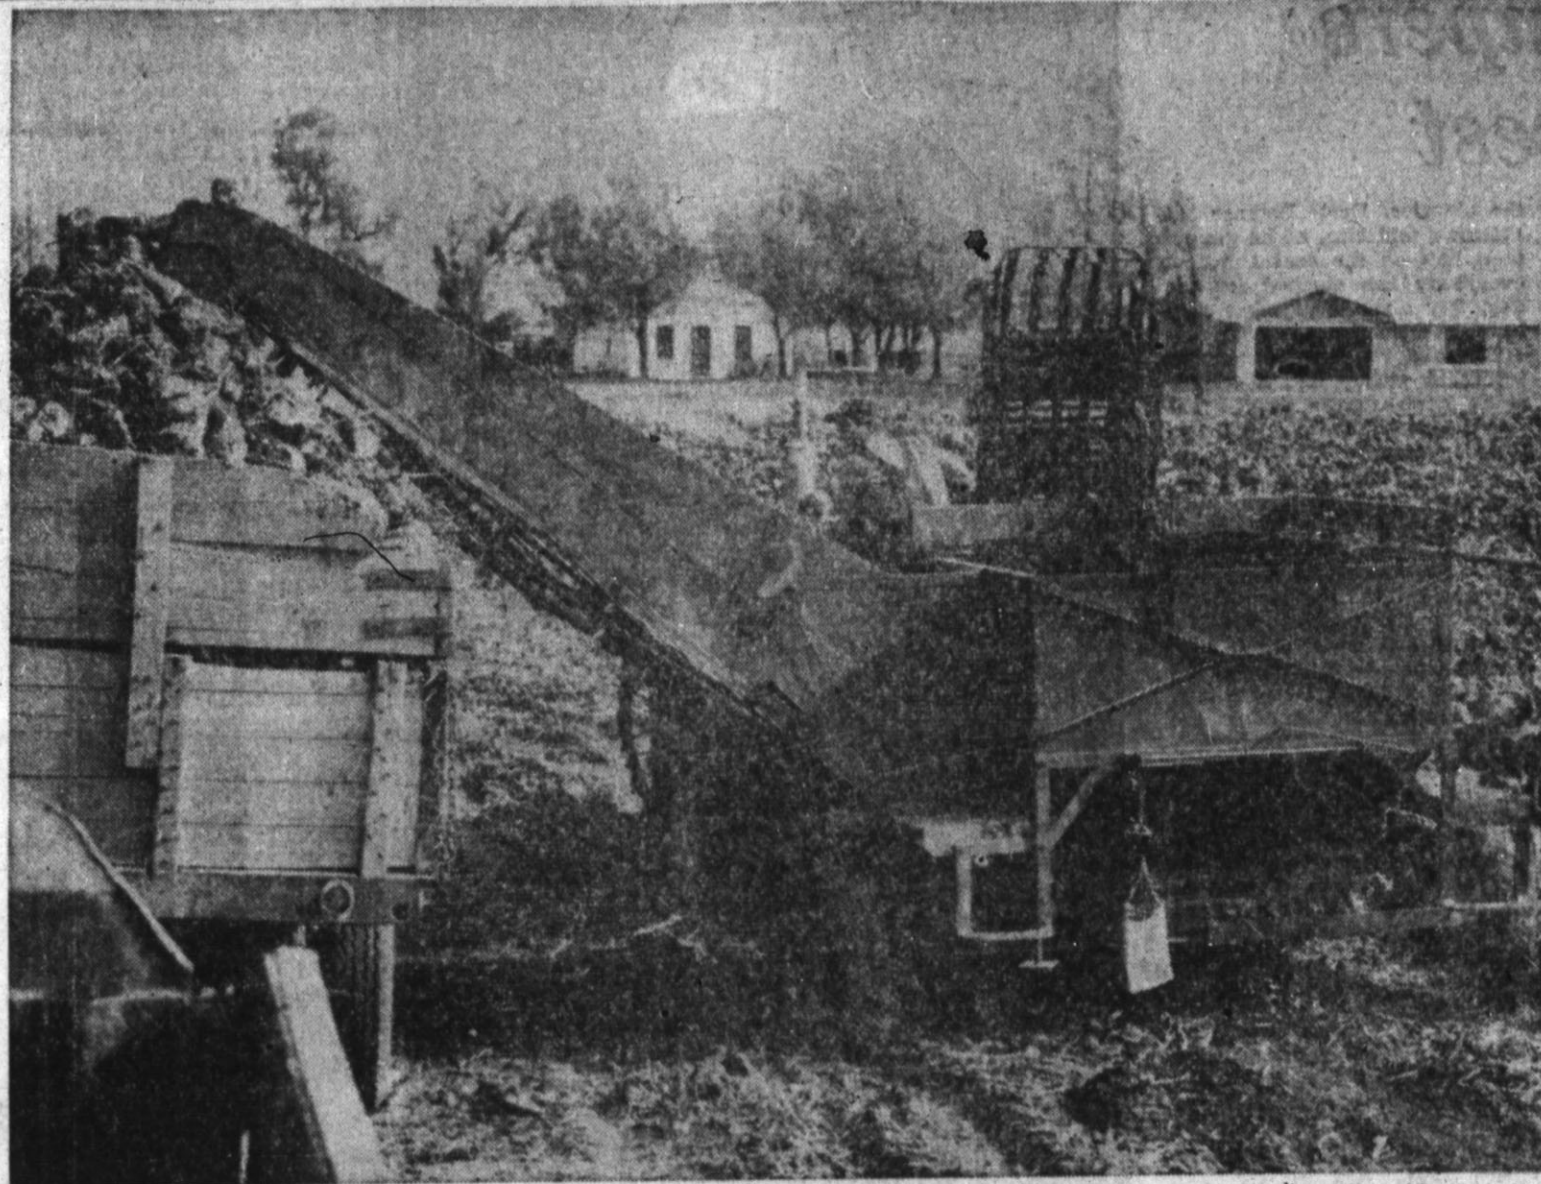

On the Cavaliers' first play from scrimmage, quarterback Charlie Harding fumbled, couldn't locate the ball, finally spotted it rolling in the end zone, raced back to pick it up, let it squirt out of his hands and watched in horror as South Carolina's Bob King plopped on it for the touchdown that won the game. Jarratt kicked another conversion to make it 21-14.

Tough Season Ahead for Buff Basketball Team

CANYON (Special) — A young squad and a tough schedule will make Borden Price's baptismal season as West Texas State basketball coach a real challenge.

Price, who was freshman coach at West Texas for 10 years after starring in both basketball and football for the Buffaloes, succeeds W. A. "Gus" Miller, head coach since 1942.

The 41-year-old Price will be initiated into the coaching fraternity with an assignment that would scare off most veteran tutors. West Texas opens with four games on the road, including a rugged three-game tour of California. Opening with Pepperdine at Los Angeles Dec. 4, the Thundering Herd moves on to meet Santa Clara on Dec. 5 and University of San Francisco on Dec. 7. National champions in 1955 and '56, San Francisco finished third in the NCAA Playoffs last year and has its starting five returning. Several forecasters predict Coach Phil Woolpert's Dons will return to the nation's No. 1 spot this season.

The Buffs follow up this man-size chore with a road game against strong Texas Tech at Lubbock before returning home for their first home appearance. Price has a varsity squad of six sophomores, three juniors and three seniors. Of that group, only one was a regular all through the 1956-57 campaign. Allen Simpson, Borger senior who averaged 9.1 points, is the only regular back in harness.

There are several who started a few games and they will be counted on to shoulder much of the load. Hugh Tilson, 6-1 Plainview junior playmaker, moved into the starting circle at the close of the year; Charles Beaton, 6-5 Oklahoma City senior who has been moved to the low post, saw a lot of action early in the season; Don Rogers, 6-2 Amarillo senior, has been in and out of the starting lineup the past two years; Jim Farren, 6-5 McLean jumping jack, has seen considerable service at the high post; and David Hatcher, 6-3 Borger junior, had some big moments last year, including the night he scored 17 points against Texas Tech.

Coach Price has a promising group of six sophomores ready to go along with the older hands. Milt "Junior" Fitts, 6-5 forward from Tahoka who was the most sought after high school boy in the Southwest two years ago, will be expected to move into the starting lineup. Max Miller, 6-foot All-Stater from Borger, also should give the Buffs some scoring punch and take up the slack left by the graduation of Bookie Rogers.

The other sophs have fine potential and are expected to see a lot of action. They are Larry Corbin, 6-7 center from Levelland; Jim Reid, 6-6 Amarillo center; Gene King, 6-5 Peacock forward; and Judge Perry, the little man of the squad at 5-7, from Phillips.

Inexperience will be difficult to overcome but with exceptional hustle and desire, Coach Price thinks the club might surprise a lot of people. "We're coming along slowly but should improve with each game," he added.

In view of the tough schedule, this year's club can't be expected to improve much on last year's record of six wins and 14 defeats, the worst in school history.

"IT WAS A NICE TRY, BUT..." seems to sum up public opinion about competitive cars attempting to equal the styling and features of the Swept-Wing 58. They tried to get as low, but had to lower the roof to do it. (Less headroom, same high, boxy, cooped-up look.) Their windshields got smaller, while ours got bigger. Most of them still don't have Total-Contact Brakes to assure smooth, even, safe stops when needed. Nor do they offer push-button TorqueFlite, the proven automatic transmission, and Constant-Control power steering that works full time—not part time as some other systems do. And Dodge no-sway, no-dip Torsion-Aire is standard equipment. (Bus-type air springs offered by some cars cost well over $100.00 extra.) So compare all the 1958 models with Dodge. We think you'll agree: Other cars are catching on, but they can't catch up.

Why Do Children Have More Colds in Winter?

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Why do our children have so many more colds in winter than in summer?

One reason is the very dry air in most of our well-heated homes. We keep our houses warm, all right. There is scarcely an American home without central heating, but until comparatively recently little attention has been given to the humidity of our warm winter houses. Warm dry air is quite irritating to the mucous membranes of the nose and throat. The dry air parches these sensitive areas and as a result much of the protective secretions which normally ward off germs are unable to function. As a result, a few germs reaching such dried out tissues get a chance to grow and produce illness. If the nose and throat were in better condition these few germs might easily be killed off by the body's natural defenses.

To understand what happens to our houses in winter we must understand this question of humidity. The amount of water that air can absorb depends upon the temperature of the air. The warmer the air the more water it can "hold." When air has absorbed all the water it possibly can at any given temperature we say the humidity is 100 per cent.

Suppose we bring cold winter air into our houses. The temperature of the outside air is, let us say, at freezing temperature and it is full of water — 100 per cent humidity. We warm up that air to 70 degrees in the house without adding any water to it. Warm air at 70 degrees could hold a great deal more water than it could at freezing temperature, but since there is no water for it to absorb it is no longer full of water but at about 20 per cent humidity. Air at 20 per cent humidity is dry air and it absorbs every bit of water it comes in contact with. One place the air finds water is in our noses and throats. So each time we breathe in this dry air, the air hangs onto a little of our water. Before long our noses and throats are parched and are good places for those cold germs to grow.

A healthy humidity for human beings is about 70 per cent. To maintain healthful conditions within our homes we should add water to the cold outside air when we bring it into our homes.

Many modern heating systems have a device for doing just this. However most older type heating systems ignore the need for adding water when air is heated and even quite a few new ones do not do the job adequately.

If there is any question about the adequacy of the humidifying system in your house, a worthwhile investment for your family's health this winter would be an instrument for measuring the humidity. If you find that your house is about as dry as the Sahara desert, you'd better take steps to remedy the situation. You do not need to buy a new heating system — but you can buy some humidifying device to put in various rooms — especially the baby's room. Throwing a wet bath towel over the radiator helps, or running a vaporizer for a few hours. A few green plants which you water frequently also help.

If you keep the humidity in your house around 70 per cent you may well find that the whole family has few colds this winter.

Remember the colder it is outside the drier it will be indoors unless you do something about it.

PERILS OF BEN CAPPS
 MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP) — It looked like a scene from a movie.

Ben Capps was halfway across a narrow trestle when a train bore down on him. He didn't have a chance of getting off in time, not unless he jumped to almost certain death 75 feet below.

The engineer applied the brakes but the train didn't stop until the locomotive and several cars had run over Capps.

Several trainmen jumped off and began looking for the body. It couldn't be found.

Finally some one spotted Capps in a crowd of spectators.

He had escaped by squeezing down between cross-ties, then crawling from beneath the train before it backed off the trestle.

Capps only injuries were a scratched back and a torn shirt.

Once Again, It's Up To The People

School Expansion Plans Demand Careful Study

Hereford's proposed $639,000 school expansion plan is beginning to create widespread discussion. When you review the situation, this result was inevitable.

Since the town started growing around 1941, school expansion has been a problem of gigantic proportions and, consequently, could arrive at nothing but divided public opinion. The fact that the school district serves most of Texas' fifth largest county, instead of a small independent district, does not make the situation less simple.

In a nutshell, the proposed plan is generally an expansion or continuation of previous planning. It is sound. It is practical and, best of all, it proposes to make the best use of previous construction and building methods. The one drawback seems to rest on the fact that it is also expensive.

While many neighboring communities have sought less expensive school plants in past years, the Hereford Rural High School district has more or less "gone first class." Never do we hear criticism on the safety, quality and efficiency of structure built by the district in recent years. The sole complaint seems to center around rising tax costs.

The way we see things, the trustees have done about all they can. They have called in citizens' committees for advice; they have supplemented this advice with professional surveys and professional advice from planners and educators, along with architects.

The problem now is passed on to the people. The man on the street is, and should be, the one to decide. However, he should do some careful study and investigation before making up his mind; he should remove all of the chips from his shoulder and go into the situation with an open mind. After he does inform himself intelligently, he will be in a position to vote in behalf of his own best interests and those of his neighbors. A bond election, above all other types of voting, should be free of prejudice and personal feelings. In this case, it represents an expensive investment, around which will be built the future of our children and possibly our children's children.

Despite the critics who have termed us as "decadent democracies," the American people have a way of coming up with the best answer in most cases. This one, we feel, will be no exception. In buying schools, like other commodities, the voter gets about what he pays for. The big question today appears to be, "How much do we want to buy?"

WHY NOT PUT VICE PRESIDENT TO WORK?

President's Illness Focuses Interest On Needed Improvements In Our System

The sudden illness of President Eisenhower this week brings into sharp focus a problem which has been facing the American people for a long time. The problem centers around the extreme responsibility to which our nation's chief executive is subjected.

The President, as things stand now, assumes a man killing job and, worse still, it is logical that any man elected to the office will in all likelihood be beyond middle age. The Vice President, on the other hand, serves little purpose except in case of the President's death.

In a nation now over-ridden with bureaus and red tape, it hardly seems logical to create more of these departments. Since the President is held accountable in the eyes of the people, it is also necessary that he continue to hold the whip hand in the nation.

Meanwhile, in case the President become incapacitated who is to say what course he should follow? His wife? His cabinet? The legislative bodies? In these days of high pressure politics, it is not likely that any of these question offer a practical workable answer.

Changing times and conditions have had widespread effect on the life of the average citizen, the average business and on the average community. Despite tremendous industrial growth, a complicated form of civilization and gigantic population increases, our nation is still following the plans of the Continental Congress in setting up duties and responsibilities of the nation's President.

There is probably an answer somewhere. It will take long study and careful planning, and may not even work the first time. In the meantime, it seems to us that the time has come when the Vice President should settle down and really go to work. Naturally, the office would gain more respect with new responsibilities and, another good result would appear within the fact that people and political parties would pay far more attention to the nomination of our Vice Presidents. This factor alone would make such a plan attractive.

Certainly our Presidents deserve more than a "death sentence" or, at best, four years of grueling service which is most likely to leave them in bad health should they manage to survive the ordeal. And, in case the President does die in office or resign, it seems to us that the people of this nation deserve more than a "running mate" who will take over the reins of our country.

Safety Education Seems Worthwhile

Ironical on two accounts comes the 1956 report from the National Safety Council. In the first place, it was accompanied with one of the most extensive outbreaks of accidents in recent years; second, the report shows a much higher rate of efficiency, despite sharp decreases in public safety education and safety organization.

The fact that Hereford showed improvement on six of the eight classifications reviewed by the council indicates that the city is making inroads on a serious problem. Lack of interest in safety education and organization, on the other hand, indicates that a similar report will not be likely in future years.

Add to the report the fact that no deaths were reported in the city, while three appeared in the county, and it definitely appears that the community is making a mistake in dropping its previous program which included an active safety council, distribution of literature and general safety education in the schools, public and otherwise. Since well more than 50 per cent of the people in the county live within the city limits, it seems that previous programs along this line have had some good results.

The problem is not necessarily a municipal or governmental one. Safety education is a program which requires the interest and cooperation of the people if it is to be a success. At least one such program should be included on the agenda of all civic clubs, study clubs, home demonstration clubs and similar organizations each year. Likewise, it should appear on school programs at regular intervals.

While the overall report was encouraging for the past year, it is possible the benefits were totally offset by dropping of the previous safety education and organization movement, which may well foretoken bad reports in years to come. Certainly, it is a question worthy of extensive thought and study.

Planned Parenthood Centers Giving Texans Advice, Help

HOUSTON — Planned Parenthood centers in eight Texas cities are both teaching birth control and helping childless couples have children.

Such centers, located throughout the United States, have been in Texas more than 20 years.

Miss Grace Buzzell, director of the Houston center for six years and formerly with the Dallas office for seven years, says the centers have four aims:

1. Medical advice on child spacing.
2. Education for marriage.

Buzzell says the centers always refer young couples to their doctor and clergymen for additional advice and help.

3. Educating and interviewing childless couples is a main task of the centers. They refer couples to doctors for medical examinations and to child placement centers if adoption is necessary.

4. Medical research, which is carried out only in the New York center, is the fourth aim.

MISS BUZZELL says that about one marriage in 10 is "involuntarily childless" and that about one-third of childless couples are able to have children after receiving medical help.

Years ago, she said, a woman was told to wait about five years before seeking medical aid because of the inability to have children. Now husbands and wives are told to get medical help if they feel something is wrong after six months.

The majority of the 2,898 patients who came to the main Houston center last year sought information to help on birth control, or child spacing, Miss Buzzell said. This was an increase of 17 per cent over 1953. About 70 per cent of the patients come from homes where the income was less than $3,000 a year.

The two centers here, and the ones in Dallas, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, San Angelo, El Paso and Fort Worth give treatment on a "pay what you can basis" and no one is turned away because of inability to pay.

Doctors examine all patients and give treatments for some conditions. Patients who need more complex aid are advised to see their personal physician.

THE CENTERS distribute thousands of pamphlets and picture-story books, some in Spanish. At some hospitals all women who give birth are given information about planned parenthood centers.

In some areas, volunteer workers from the centers knock on doors and talk to housewives about the centers and about spacing their children.

Miss Buzzell said the biggest change in the approach to birth control is consideration for the entire family. New pamphlets stress the good of the family and not just the mother's well being, she said.

Some of the titles on the booklets are, "Plan Your Children for Health and Happiness," "A Warm Welcome in a Happy Home is the World's Best Beginning." A magazine reprint titled "Expecting Again" tells the story of a woman who had three babies in three years.

"Breaking the Vicious Circle," a 35-page booklet, states that families larger than parents want lead to ignorance and poverty; that the average New York family on relief has one more child than self supporting ones; it takes $1,000 a year to support a dependent child; and that for every four million births there are one million abortions, most performed on married women.

To persons who have been unable to have children the centers give articles titled "How Can We Have a Baby," and "To Those Denied a Child."

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his blind farm is concerned about the U. S. missile program, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor: Everybody is looking for reassurance in these days of intercontinental missiles, and while I am not prepared to believe yet that Russia can line up all its long-range missiles, take aim, and blow up every city in the world in thirty minutes, still her success in launching a 1100-pound satellite is hard to argue with when it comes to saying who's ahead in this department, and naturally all of us have been concerned.

Consequently, Washington is getting on the ball and think we can catch up all right, but I was interested in what a Washington expert had to say to a Congressional committee the other day along this line.

According to an article I read in a newspaper I paid nickel for, after all, I recognize this missile program is going to cost us all some money and I figured the least I could do was face up to my part of the load and spend nickel to keep posted, this expert in Washington, when pressed for an answer on how our missile program is coming along, said it "was on schedule."

I have thought his answer over and don't know whether I'm reassured or not.

That is, you take my farm out here. According to the agricultural expert, it's one of the worst run-down places in this area, fences falling over, barn doors sagging, floors steps rotted out, loose boards on the back porch, loose bricks in the chimney, etc., but according to my work plan it's right on schedule.

The reason I haven't fixed the front steps is because I scheduled that work for year after next. The barn door hinges are coming up in 1959, the front gate has sagged through two world wars and no tax assessor has failed to get through it yet.

Now I'm not saying the U. S. missile program is in the same shape my farm is, I don't know, but I do know it's possible to be right on schedule and still be 10 years behind your neighbor.

I also hope the U. S. plans to do something about it quicker than I do about this farm.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Imports from the Americans Filling London Music Halls

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON — The accent is becoming American in London's concert halls and small recital rooms.

The billboards proclaim the names of Elman, Menuhin, Isaac Stern, Tossy Spivakovsky, Rosalyn Tureck, Marie MacKenzie, and Julius Katchen.

As never before, the London concertgoer is lining up to get seats to hear the Americans. The musical "invasion" is the biggest since the war. The Londoner loves it and the feeling is shared by the performers.

A spokesman for impresario Harold Holt, who handles many of music's biggest names on their London visits, explains:

"Box office finances are dictated largely by the artists which we and other agents bring in from the United States.

"Of course they are not all native Americans. But practically all the musical giants who come to London for concerts nowadays are U. S. citizens. So many of Europe's great artists have settled in America because it is the best place in the world for artists to live."

Many young Americans seeking to make their names come to London to sing, or play the piano or violin, at the Wigmore Hall, an intimate little music-making center tucked away behind the fashionable big stores in downtown Oxford Street.

"They take advantage of the low currency exchange rate to come and give recitals at their own risk," one impresario's spokesman said. "Then, if the venture shows a loss, they are less in the red than if they give the recital in New York."

"The large number of young American artists who have been doing this since World War II have helped to establish the American dominance of London's musical life," he added.

Spivakovsky, who recently played Beethoven's Violin Concerto to a jam-packed Royal Festival Hall, rates London as the musical center of the world.

Spivakovsky played in the first of eight concerts comprising a Beethoven festival in which German Otto Klemperer conducted London's Philharmonic Orchestra. Chilean pianist Claudio Arrau played concertos in the same series.

PROFITABLE IMPORTS—Conductor George Byrd, left, and Shura Cherkassky discuss a problem in orchestration during rehearsals for a George Gershwin concert in London's Royal Albert Hall.

Rosalyn Tureck, American pianist who has made Bach her specialty, has found such a warm response to Bach among Britons that she spends much of her time here.

"I am proud to say that for the first time in the history of solo Bach playing I have been drawing full houses for my Bach recitals in the larger halls," Miss Tureck said.

"There is a real response to Bach here — greater than in America. If I have helped in any way to build a new public for Bach, that is a very happy thought."

Miss Tureck tours Europe from her London headquarters and presents other music, including some by contemporary American composers.

The invasion from America is not restricted to performers. Massive Royal Albert Hall was given over this fall to a concert of George Gershwin music. The two central figures were both Americans — Conductor George Byrd and pianist Shura Cherkassky.

During 1956, 1,400,000 persons were injured in motor vehicle accidents, the National Safety Council says.

Practical photography is a workable mixture of inspiration and application. The best learned lessons are from application: shooting and yet more shooting until you get the feel of exposures and handling the camera. But for inspiration, deeper insight and knowledge, camera fans might turn to photo books or specialists who lead the way.

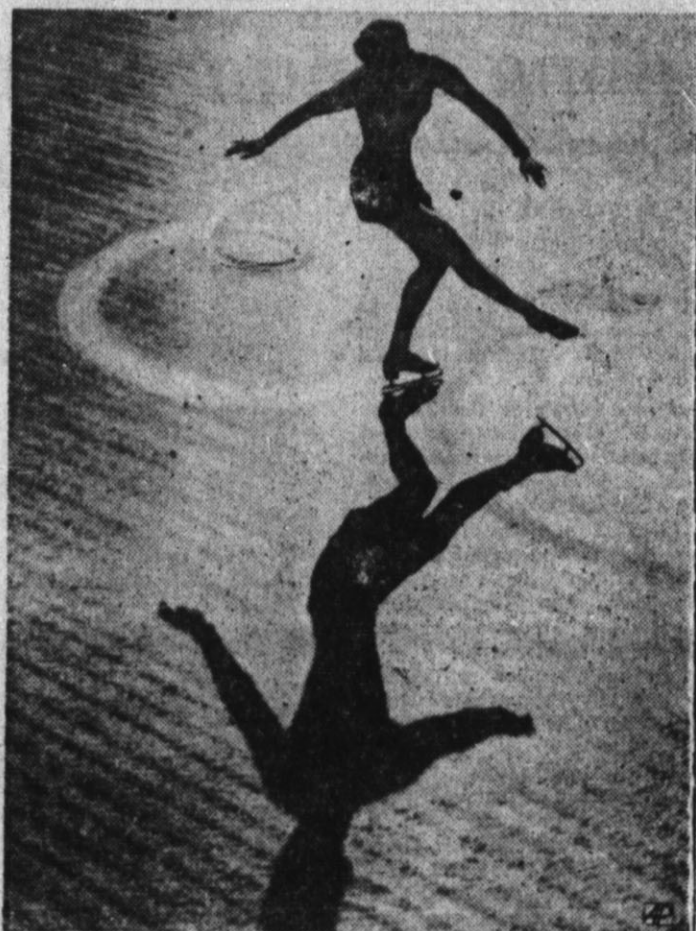

At this time of year, just before Christmas, camera store bookshelves are loaded with a variety of new photo books. Some have all the answers to any point of information you seek. Some explore a particular photo facet like sports, 35mm or marine photography. And there are the various annuals which gather the year's outstanding photos to provide a visual romp or more leisurely browsing for the picture minded.

One of the new books is the heaviest, fattest single volume on the injury is not known. Vickie and Marsha Burns were overnight guests of Linda Pinnell Friday night and Saturday.

The bus traveling west of Adrian driven by Coach Pat Shipp was overturned Thursday evening as the children were being taken home. Roads were slick and the bus was traveling slowly so the accident was not serious. Only Gaye Brothers was on the bus at the time and she and Shipp walked to her parents home for help. Damage to the bus was thought to be minor.

Mrs. Percy Gruhkey and John Henry were Sunday guests of the R. L. Pinnell family.

photography I've ever seen, which proves, no doubt, that photography is indeed one of our heavy industries.

It's "The Focal Encyclopedia of Photography", a five-pound, 1400-page alphabetical accumulation of photographic knowledge. It took ten years of research and preparation and the work of 197 experts from 23 countries to compile this comprehensive, ready-reference source book.

Whether you're looking for a definition, a fact or formula, equipment or technique, historic theory or present practise, you'll find an authoritative explanation here. A British publication, the book was printed in London and is distributed in America by the Macmillan Co., New York City.

After hurdling the encyclopedia, we landed next, appropriately enough, on "The Spectacle of Sport." Name your sport and you'll find it in this book, superbly illustrated by a color photograph or a sensitive story. All were originally published in Sports Illustrated magazine.

It is interesting to discover that although 40 different photographers are represented in the book, they all used miniature cameras and the 200 color photos were reproduced from original 35mm transparencies.

"Through the use of maneuverable miniature cameras, the events were covered for mood and atmosphere," said editor Norton Wood, who selected the photos. "Instead of merely factual camera reporting of particular points."

A little inspiration from these pictures might well rub off on many camera fans in their own spheres of sporting activities.

From color and all sports we turn next to black-and-white in marine photography. Prentice-Hall, which published "The Spectacle of Sport," also offers "Under Full Sail," 50 years of great marine photographs by Morris Rosenfeld.

Anyone with the slightest interest in the sea, boats and photography has heard of the master craftsman, Rosenfeld, who has parlayed the trio into a personal national institution. This book will justify that reputation to those landlubbers who have avoided contact thus far with sailing boats. It might even inspire them to set out with their own camera for the nearest body of water. Even if they don't get a great marine picture, there seems to be a lot of fun in sailing.

WELCOME GUEST

OKEMAH, Okla. — Mrs. J. G. Bruton said a friend wrote a Texas motel for a reservation and asked if he could bring along his dog.
