deficit of $50 to $100 million. "It is the opinion of RMA members that the tax load on consumers and businessmen alike are already excessive, and what is needed now more than anything else is a reduction in taxes that will increase the purchasing power of families and thereby stimulate our economy," Wilson said.

The RMA also has voted to support corrective legislation that would reduce the cost and expedite the collection of small claims and debts.

Small claims courts can take action only on cases involving $50 or less, except wage and salary claims where the amount is $100. The RMA will ask that the amount be made $100 for all actions.

The RMA is also interested in having the jurisdiction of justice courts raised to cases involving $500. The present maximum is $200, Wilson said. These changes are needed because the value of the dollar has greatly decreased since the limitations were set and because litigation in higher courts is too expensive and requires an excessive amount of time.

Corrective legislation involving mechanic lien laws and bonding of public construction work also has the endorsement of the RMA he said. The present lien laws and bonding laws on public works are ineffective to enable material furnishers to recover just debts, Wilson said. The RMA is joining with

Wesley WSCS Hear Rev. Hardwick

Rev. W. H. Hardwick, pastor of the Texico-Farwell Methodist Church, was guest speaker here Tuesday evening, when he concluded the study of "The Gospel of Mark" for members of the Wesley Methodist WSCS.

The study had been directed by Mrs. George Terry and has been in session for four consecutive weeks, with Rev. Hardwick discussing the last three chapters of the gospel. Various members of the group had assisted Mrs. Terry during the study with special reports and devotionals.

On Tuesday night, a short playlet, "Four Words, Four Years, Four Women" was presented as a devotional. Sandra Vaught served as Mary Magdalene, Ila Rose Bell was Mary of Bethany, Sharon Seay characterized Mary of Jerusalem, and Judy Crume portrayed Mary Magdalene. Reader for the playlet was Jean Terry, with Mrs. Bernard Seay as soloist and Mrs. Vance Crume at the piano.

Accompanying Rev. Hardwick on his visit here was Mrs. W. H. Graham Sr., of Farwell, Mrs. Ruth Fetter and Mrs. Rieger.

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Pete Sherron was hunting for some firewood when he noticed the handle of a knife barely sticking above the ground. He pulled it out and found a

Aikman P-TA Has Officer Election

The Aikman Elementary P-TA held its final meeting of the year in the Aikman Cafeteria Thursday evening. The election of officers was completed for the coming year.

Newly elected officers are Mrs. Glen Allred, president; Mrs. Pete Guin, first vice president; Mrs. G. W. Duncan, second vice president; Mrs. H. A. Caveness, third vice president; Mrs. Cecil Hart, secretary; Mrs. Jack Nunley, treasurer; Mrs. Mark Woodall, historian; Mrs. C. D. Corley, parliamentarian; Mrs. E. D. Hopson, reporter. Miss Della Stagner, in installation ceremony, used the flag as a symbol of unity. Each new officer was handed a small flag to be placed side by side, forming a unit, as they accepted the responsibility of their new office. The installation was concluded with the pledge of allegiance given by the entire group.

Mrs. Earl Springer, school nurse, spoke to the parents on health, diet and habits of children starting to school next fall, urging them to attend to vaccinations before hot weather.

A sincere expression of thanks was given by the outgoing president, Mrs. Ernest McGee to officers, committees, teachers and Don Martin for complete cooperation during the past year. Mrs. Pete Guin was commended for a complete record of Aikman's first P-TA, which she presented to incoming historian, Mrs. Mark Woodall.

Special guest for the evening were children who will enter first grade this fall. The children and parents were invited by Martin to make a tour of the building, visit the first grade teachers who met them in their rooms and the final note of the evening was a visit and refreshments which were served in the cafeteria.

GREASY GRACE
NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A minister asked guests at a dinner meeting to join hands around the table as he returned thanks before eating.

Halfway through the prayer he had the uneasy feeling that the hand on his left — that of his 16-month-old son — was greasier than it should have been before the meal started. Out of the corner of his eye, the minister saw that what should have been his son's hand was a pork chop.

LAKE-OWNERS' LAW
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A Wisconsin landowner who builds an artificial lake can't exclude public paddlers if his body of water is connected by a channel to a navigable natural lake.

That is the opinion of Stewart Honeck, Wisconsin's attorney general, after studying the Wisconsin statutes.

Honeck says the Privacy-loving landowner has one recourse. He can fill in the connection channel again — unless his artificial lake has been in existence so long that it is presumed to have become a natural body of water.

Texan Designs Dazzler For Marilyn Monroe

ALICE (AP) — For the opening of "The Prince and the Showgirl" in New York, shapely Marilyn Monroe wore a dramatic floor-length sheath, both daring and original.

Skin tight and simply designed of silver beige satin with a low décolletage and forming a deep U at the back, the striking gown was the creation of a 29-year-old top-flight designer who calls Alice home.

John Moore, a blond, blue-eyed six-footer, has become one of the nation's leading fashion authorities in the past six years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moore. The father is a lumberman.

His design courses completed, he worked for Elizabeth Arden's Couture Salon and Jane Darby's fashionable establishment both in Manhattan.

On his first trip to Paris he met Matty Talmack, head of a New York wholesale house, at a Balenciaga fashion showing. He joined her organization in early 1952 and his career began to zoom.

In 1953 under his employer's sponsorship, he won the Coty American Fashion Critics Award "for outstanding excellence in the development of original clothes with high fashion quality at a medium price." Moore was the youngest designer ever to be so honored being only 25.

A talented pianist, the designer has a high-bracket income, occupies a swank Manhattan apartment where his mother visits often, attends the International Fashion showings in Paris each July and vacations each February in Nassau and Havana. He spent 10 days in Alice during the year-end holidays.

AN ONLY CHILD, John came to Alice from Ardmore, Okla., with his family in 1940 when he was 12. He attended school at Strickland and took his high school work at Texas Military Institute in San Antonio.

"John became interested in women's fashions right here at home while in his early teens," his youthful-looking, attractive mother says.

"His father had hoped he would take a liking to the lumber business, but our son was allowed to choose his own vocation."

Mrs. Moore, whose clothes are especially designed for her by her son, said a sister, 11 years senior to Mrs. Moore and a fashion designer in her own right, lived with the Moores while John was growing up.

"The boy was the type who stuck close to home," Mrs. Moore said. "And all he heard from my sister and me was talk of women's fashions. The magazines he found to read were those featuring pretty clothes, like Vogue, Harper's Bazaar and Town & Country. It's no wonder he turned to designing."

SINCE MOORE'S rise in the fashion world, his mother has become somewhat of a commuting New Yorker herself, staying a month or two each year at her son's apartment.

"He took me to the Marilyn Monroe-Arthur Miller wedding," Mrs. Moore reported. "And I was in Miss Monroe's dressing room at the Music Hall when she made a personal appearance at the opening of the picture she made in London with Sir Lawrence Olivier."

John Moore's mother has become the Alice telephone company's star long-distance customer since her son moved to New York. She said she calls him regularly every Saturday and one or two other times each week.

AFTER YOUNG Moore was graduated from the University of Texas, he studied under Pauline Trigere, fashion designer and critic at the Parsons School of Design in New York City.

Inspiration for the Bloomer Girls was Mrs. Amelia Jenks Bloomer, 19th century advocate of abolition, temperance and women's rights.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Fifteen sixth graders at Patrick Henry school here are studying the Chinese language on an experimental basis.

After a few lessons the children seem fascinated, says Mrs. Priscilla Humbert, teacher. She is the daughter of a Baptist missionary who lived in China 15 years.

Principal Malcolm U. Pitt Jr., says the study of Chinese is being offered as a "language experience" rather than as a basic course.

STUNTED AMBITION

INDIANAPOLIS — A teen-age youth with ambitions of becoming a "private eye" suffered a slight setback the other day. Police caught him and two other boys driving a stolen car. A search of the youth in question turned up a private detective's badge and a pair of handcuffs. The would-be sleuth went to jail in his own manacles.

If you are a competent do-it-yourself man, you should be able to hang a single roll of wallpaper over 36 square feet of wall in 15 minutes.

TV Plays Opera Role

BUFFALO, N. Y. — Up went the stage lights. Somewhere an orchestra swung into the overture to "Don Pasquale." The small, 220-seat theater in the University of Buffalo's sleek new music building was filled with the music Donizetti wrote more than a century ago — but there wasn't a musician in sight.

The only things separating audience and singers were three unobtrusive cabinet TV sets pushed up against the rim of the stage. Music for the rollicking tale of old and young passion came from a 19-piece orchestra tucked away in the upper reaches of the theater's overhanging balcony.

The conductor's waving baton was visible to the singers thanks to a closed-circuit TV hookup that put his image on each of the three sets just above the footlights.

"It's the first time that industrial TV techniques have been applied to the arts this way," says Jim Bravar, one of the two faculty members who produced the student version of the 19th-Century opera.

"Our theater is really too small for stage, orchestra and audience, so we moved the musicians out of sight and flashed the conductor to the stage. It works like a charm."

Applied to opera, Bravar and music director Herbert Beattie feel, the technique can open up the field for schools and community theaters were limited space makes standard operatic productions impossible.

"The real beauty of the technique," says Beattie, "is that it creates a more intimate theater."

"These days," he explains, "the trend is away from huge theaters. Audiences want to be close to the stage to see and hear what's going on. With these TV sets there's no orchestra and waving conductor taking up the view and the music doesn't crash into everyone's ears, drowning out the singers."

The two innovators feel the system works best for operas like "Don Pasquale," so-called chamber operas, written with comparatively few roles and not requiring massive orchestras and expansive settings.

For grand opera extravaganzas like "Aida" or "Lohengrin" perhaps the TV technique would not work too well, Bravar admits.

"But you never know," he is quick to add.

In any case he and Beattie are confident that if their method catches on in America any community that can scratch together the musical talent can have its own live opera — with TV attachments.

How Do You Tell When Spring's Fell? IT'S: HER POINT OF VIEW

By BETTY BABIONE
 Goodness gracious! A body hasn't even had a chance to have a good case of spring fever — it hasn't gotten through being winter yet. I guess the people who hadn't stored away their coats and sweaters are feeling pretty smart. And people, like Juanita Bennet and me, have been feeling pretty COLD.

to warm, warm Mexico. They report that the fishing was excellent, and Ray got a kick out of his first try at skin-diving. The Johnsons had such a wonderful time that it made up for their deluxe sunburns and their plane getting weathered in by dust and wind at El Paso on the return flight home.

Luella and Ray Johnson chose a perfect time for their fishing trip.

NADINE WADE is another of the fortunate few who have recently returned from a wonderful trip. She's been to San Antonio for the annual state convention of the National Association of Banking Women and, according to Nadine, it was a marvelous experience. . . not only was the convention itself a complete success, but the whole town was in a state of excitement over the beginning of San Antonio's annual Fiesta Days celebration.

By the way, the Association of Banking Women is a very interesting organization. There are only a few in the whole Panhandle area who have the privilege to belong — it is a unique honor, and I think it's really something for Hereford to have a representative in the organization. Hats off to Nadine and the Hereford State Bank!

I FOLLOWED through with my notion of taking a poll in order to compose a list of Hereford's best dressed men. I only quizzed the ladies and that may have been a mistake, but the men who pay any attention to the way other men dress are so few and far between!

Of the women I questioned, there was only one who didn't have a name or two to add to the list. There was one who gave a blanket nomination: all of our local lawyers and doctors. . . and I'm surely inclined to agree with her. There were a couple of readers interested enough in the idea that they mailed me their nominations and I didn't even have to ask.

Of all the men specifically named in the poll, Judge Jimmy Witherspoon ranks as number one — he was nominated the most times. Some of the remarks were: "He is always appropriately dressed". . . "He wears his clothes well". . . "His attire always shows quality and good taste". . . "He always appears well-groomed and never seems self-conscious or uncomfortable in what he wears" (does that make you think of someone you know who looks nice but it's obviously killing them?).

And, at random, here are others who were suggested for my list: Roy Peet. . . J. L. Marcum. . . Clyde Truly. . . Walter Seed (described to me as a "sporty" dresser). . . Bill Messick. . . D. C. Martin. . . Rev. Russell Wingert. . . Woody Wilson. . . Fred Cunningham. . . The McLeans — both George and John. . . Howard Gault. . . Bill Waldrep. . . Dr. L. B. Barnett. . . Douglas Womble (typed by his admirer as "band box or immaculate"). . . Dub Hair and A. J. Schroeter (were both spoken of as being spic and span in their grooming). . . Irving Alexander. . . J. T. Carroll. . . Wayne Thomas. . . J. J. Boydston and Doye Rose (called well dressed in "Western" style). . . Bruce Miller. . . Ed Line. . . and Bill Decker (described as a "natty" dresser). And there you have it! Any additions or corrections?

I thought it rather interesting to note that one mark by which the women judge the men is whether or not their shoes matched their clothes.

GOINGS-ON in Hereford this week: Monday night at 8:00 — Beta Sigma Phi Founder's Day Banquet at the Episcopal Church. . . Wednesday afternoon at 1:00 — Golden Wedding Anniversary group at the Star Theatre. . . Thursday night at 7:30 — Lions Ladies Night at the Bull Barn. Also this week winds up the local drive for the Cancer Crusade.

Note to the City Commission: Harry Denges and I, and umpteen more tax-payers on our side of town, are sure hoping that those 55,000 square yards of Seal Coating Lone Star Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Coy Phillips Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Charlie Sowell serving as assistant hostess.

During a brief business session plans were made for the final meeting of the year which will be in the form of a luncheon on May 13.

Members answered roll call on "What I Do, When I Do what I Want To Do" preceding a program on "Should I Retire" presented by Mrs. Jack Grady. Mrs. Grady reviewed an article written by Dr. Geo. H. Women who have a sense of importance outside their families and household duties have a good chance for happiness after retirement."

Hereford GOC Woman Recognized for Work

Mrs. LEONARD DAVIS, 338 E. 2nd, became the first woman member of the local Ground Observer Corps to qualify for the 100-hour service medal. She was given the award at the regular GOC meeting Monday night.

Clay Angelo, director, and Douglas Womble are the only men in the Hereford group to hold the 100-hour medal.

Receiving 25-hour silver wings Monday night were Bobby Heavin and Robert Bell. The 25 hours must include at least one alert.

Mrs. Davis told the 13 people present that the most urgent need at present is a safety fence atop the Hotel Jim Hill, where observers stand watch during tornado or airplane alerts.

"A watch there is both dangerous and frightening, especially under tornado conditions," she said.

Womble conducted a quiz on Civil Defense at the meeting. Answering questions, members said that, during the tornado season, each person in Hereford should know the location of the nearest shelter and should see that provisions for three days, including boiled water and concentrated foods, are stored in the shelter. During an alert, all persons should stay tuned to Station KPAN for warnings.

The Hereford GOC now has 26 active members. Angelo is supervisor and Gerald Wilson is chief. Assistant chiefs are Ogle Riddle,

Tech Graduates Working on X-15

LUBBOCK — If the North American X-15 rocket plane becomes the first manned craft to be thrust into space, two Texas Tech engineering graduates will have helped put it there. Charles Feltz, formerly of Dumas, and Jim W. Gaines, formerly of Bronte, are two 1940 Tech graduates who majored in mechanical engineering here and now live within three blocks of each other in Los Angeles.

Together with a number of other engineers, Feltz and Gaines are working on the X-15 — half plane, half missile, a hybrid of the hypersonic age to take man to outer space and back. It is being built by North American Aviation, Inc., for the Air Force, Navy and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. Feltz is X-15 project engineer and Gaines is group leader in the structures laboratory. Both are pictured in "Skyline," a company magazine published by North American.

Solving the heat problem is the key to the X-15 design, according to the magazine, for no proven manned craft has been built so far that can withstand the temperatures of the "thermal thick" and bring its occupant and flight test data back to the ground. The X-15 is expected to do this many times. Gaines, who has tested components of company airplanes for sixteen years, says the X-15 project has required more ingenuity in laboratory work than any other aircraft.

Feltz is a graduate of Dumas High School. He and his family now live at 5815 W. 75th in Los Angeles. Gaines, who was graduated from Blackwell High School, lives at 6026 W. 74th in Los Angeles.

Bible Words for Today

II CORINTHIANS 5:17 - "Therefore if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come." (RSV)

As one travels from the sun warmed beaches of Mexico to the frozen wastes of the Alaskan Interior he is impressed by the variety of God's creation and by the adaptability of much of the plant life. However, nothing in life is so adaptable and so enduring as the soul of man. One of the greatest joys in life is to see the power of the resurrection in a family and see them become entirely different people than they were before. We can repair machinery and "makeover" clothing; we graft new characteristics into plants and breed animals for special purposes, but they are all partial changes. When the spirit of God takes hold of our lives and we have been willing to surrender ourselves and be lost "in Christ," God turns us around and we have a clean slate before us to tell of our own experience within His grace and His love.

John Rogers of Denton served as best man. Ushers were Stevie Culpepper of Collinsville and Don Farris of Denton.

A reception was held in the church annex.

Leaving for the honeymoon trip, Mrs. Plummer was attired in a yellow sheath dress with black and white accessories. Following a trip to Louisiana the couple will be at home in Dallas.

The Time Has Come When We Should Start Training Program For Diplomats.

For hundreds of years, the American people have been talking about how our nation "wins a war, then loses it around the conference table." We have even come to the place where we point jokes at ourselves and at our inability to cope with other world diplomats. Still, like Mark Twain said about the weather, no one ever does anything about it.

In many nations, diplomats are trained from the time of birth for the position. In America, they are appointed. Sometimes they are selected for political purposes, sometimes because they know the right people and, sometimes, because someone else wants to get them out of the way.

Certainly, all of our diplomats are not incompetent. On the other hand, many of them do fall into that category. Instead of example the success of armed forces trying to do the most capable men in the nation as officers, our diplomatic services often find its hands tied through lack of material.

What the ultimate answer will be, none of us knows. However, it does appear feasible that some of our elected officials would get the idea of establishing a special training center comparable to Annapolis or West Point, and adopting a program whereby applications might be made along the same plan. Many youngsters would unquestionably be attracted to such a school, where the government furnished the training. Compulsory service, along the same plan as that of Annapolis and West Point, would assure a vast selection of young, would-be diplomats each year from which the leaders might choose.

Such a plan worked for the army. It worked for the navy. It worked so well, in fact, that a similar institution is being sponsored in Colorado Springs for the Air Force.

All of us want to win any future wars, of course. However, we see no sense in throwing them away at the conference tables. And, should such a training plan be adopted, it is entirely possible that many of the wars might well be averted and never occur. Nothing could better suit the wishes or fulfill the dreams of the people of the United States.

Walking Blood Bank Important To You

Hereford's "Walking Blood Bank" now includes more than 1,000 citizens, each of whom is willing to sacrifice his time and give his blood in behalf of his fellow man.

The versatility of such a blood bank plan makes it probably the most practical of all forms of blood banks yet devised. Pure, whole blood from the "walking bank" bypasses such cumbersome things as plasma, refrigeration and storage, just to mention one of the advantages. The local organization also provides availability of on-the-spot donors, in most cases, regardless of the type desired. To say the least, the "walking blood bank" can handle somewhere above 90 per cent of all types needed.

No one, we feel sure, would question the importance of the organization—and certainly not a man or woman who needed blood, and needed it in a hurry to survive.

Most remarkable, though, is the interest shown by members of the blood bank, who volunteer as automatic donors. Down through the years, "life's blood" has come to hold a lot of meaning to most people as a valued asset. When you have 1,000 to 1,500 people in a community of 7,500—probably 3,800 adults—who are willing to sign up in a program to give their blood to their neighbors and friends, along with others they may never before have seen, it unquestionably speaks well for the community.

It also emphasizes the importance of life in the smaller town as compared with the cities, where thousands of people supplement their income by selling blood to commercial centers.

Scientifically speaking, it is probably just as good and certainly there is no criticism against the practice of selling blood but, somehow or other, if we had to have a transfusion, it would provide some little consolation to know that the new blood flowing through our veins was that of the type person who was willing to make the sacrifice to help his fellow man. What's more, we think even the city folks would probably feel the same way.

Just One Person

Printed recently in a local church bulletin was a little item, clipped from some other bulletin and marked "Copied." The item, in our opinion, was indeed appropriate—and seems to apply as well to towns as churches, with a few changes:

An Open Letter To the President

Tereford, Texas, April 23rd, 1958.

Dear Mr. Eisenhower: I think I would not be exaggerating to say that your decisions on imports of oil and agriculture have directly or indirectly put one and a half million people out of work, which means these people are having to house up with relatives and live on short rations like they did in the 1930 years of depression.

It doesn't seem that the price of wheat makes much difference in a loaf of bread, for I remember when we were getting $3 per bushel for wheat, we could buy a loaf of bread for 17 cents that now costs 26 cents and wheat is selling at $2 per bushel. Everything the farmer buys has gone up, up in price and everything he sells is down. In many cases, a farmer can not hire help because he doesn't have a margin that will enable him to do so.

Mr. Eisenhower, can you tell us where the importing of oil gives the needy home-folks one bit of justice? When he had twenty (20) days allowable, our domestic oil industry was healthy. They found the huge oil reserves in foreign countries and our Government began to cut our days of allowables here at home, so that the most powerful oil companies in the world could flood us with foreign oil and we were cut from twenty (20) days down to eight (8) at the present time. These mighty oil companies that have ruined our domestic industry have tried to pose patriotism by saying, use foreign oil in time of peace and our home oil in case of war. You take the extra profit they make out of imports, over domestic oil, and you will see where their patriotism will be.

Mr. Eisenhower, just the fellows who work on the drilling floors are not the only ones that are put out of work, every industry in the nation is seriously affected. I understand there are about twenty-two (22) companies that are doing the major part of this importing—they are already fat with wealth, for instance, Mr. Paul Getty averages 100,000 barrels of import every time the sun comes up. Is it right for that few, who are already too rich to even have any feeling for humanity, to destroy the biggest industry of the nation and put a million people out of employment?

Already, Mr. Eisenhower, many independents have gone under, because of the excessive oil imports. The few huge oil companies have tried for years to put independents out of business, but never could as long as independents had a fair deal, but now with the huge oil fields in the far East and with stragling eight (8) days allowable here at home, so that the mighty oil companies can have room for their oil when their tankers reach our ports they can and will.

Well, Mr. Eisenhower, I could go on and talk for hours but it looks to me like a twelve (12) year old boy not informed on all of it, but I have seen enough and heard and read enough to know that it is terribly unjust. You have the power, Mr. Eisenhower, to impose mandatory control, why don't you do it and thus put a million of our people back to work and, at the same time, save many an independent from going completely under—many of them are hanging on by a slender thread.

Hon. Lyndon B. Johnson on March 12th, 1958, made a speech explaining this terrible situation—on March 8th, 1958, he wrote you a personal letter, I have a copy of each.

Mr. Eisenhower, the people of the nation are depending on you to give relief in places where you have the power to do so.

Sincerely,
s/ Joe G. Evans.

P. S. I mentioned I could go on for hours and could only touch the high spots, that made me think of a fourteen-page letter a humble layman wrote a powerful baron that had waxed fat because he had the power and privilege to do so.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor, We, of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross, take this means to thank you and your fine staff for the cooperation you gave us preceding and during the Walking Blood Bank. Without your help we could not have accomplished what we did in this community project working with the doctors and the hospital staff.

LAST OF A SERIES

Three Questions On Delinquency Need Answering

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a series of articles on juvenile delinquency by Dr. Elmer M. Knowles, head of the department of child development and family relations, Texas Tech College.)

By DR. ELMER M. KNOWLES
Society still needs to answer as completely as possible three questions about juvenile delinquency:

1. What do we know about juvenile delinquency?
2. What is it we don't know about juvenile delinquency?
3. With the knowledge we have, what is the best way to cope with juvenile delinquency?

We do have some information like statistics, descriptive material, case histories and programs of treatment which have had various degrees of success. The knowledge we do have and the scattered programs currently underway are gratifying. But what we do have is far from enough. Our national attention has been focused upon the problem, but mere attention is not enough. We are scarcely keeping pace with the problem.

IN ADDITION, the trend in delinquency has changed in the past years. A few years ago the big concern was about delinquency in the high school age groups. Today much attention is directed toward the junior high school age group. Young people today develop more rapidly and come of age sooner than did their parents.

Today's children are taller than their predecessors—even their feet are two sizes larger than those of the parent of the same sex.

What does this mean in terms of Juvenile Delinquency? When a child is delinquent at a pre-teen age, we are not too concerned, because he is small, much smaller than adults. But when he becomes as big or bigger than ourselves and can carry knives, clubs, guns and fights with them, we are suddenly surprised and concerned.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Flowers Were Wed on Christmas Day

By MRS. E. L. CRISWELL
Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Flowers, now of 906 W. Eighth, were married Dec. 25, 1906, in the town of Wilson, Okla.

"We did our courting on horseback or walking," said Flowers. "Walking makes for nice courting if it is in the moonlight. If some of these rockets hit the moon, just what will keep it from exploding? It surely will spoil a lot of lovely moonlight nights. That is just an idea."

"We had been courting for almost a year. Bessie was to go to boarding school in the fall and we really got serious. I had a little trouble in getting her father's consent. Bessie was part Indian and we were only 17, which is too young I admit, but we had made plans for an elopement. Her grandmother talked with her father and he consented. We were married on Dec. 25, 1906. We were married on Christmas Day and she is the loveliest Christmas present that I have ever received. The preacher who read the ceremony was young and very nervous, but he tied us tightly and we have had a happy life together."

"WE FARMED a year or two and left the Indian Territory for Hobart, Okla. Our first baby was only 10 months old and we worried that she would get sick, but she made the trip fine and was not sick at all. It was one of those wet falls. It rained and rained. We tried to keep dry wood in the wagon to use for cooking, but it rained so much we were forced to swipe a couple of fence posts to cook our food. When we reached Blue River, it was so high, we had to wait for it to run down and it took a week. We lived in the wagon and made it fine. We had an overjet and springs on it and it made a very comfortable bed."

"One night I left my billfold on the wagon seat, along with a 21 jewel watch and crawled into the back of the wagon to bed. The next morning my watch and money were gone. I have never owned a watch that kept so perfect time since. I did not have a cent to my name but did have a check for some $30. A man cashed it for me after looking my wagon and teams over. I did not have any identification at all. I really appreciated it as I was worried. No money and a wife and baby to care for."

"Oh, yes, and there was a trip I made from Texas to Comanche, Okla. We drove a herd of cattle and again it rained and rained. The rivers were up and there was so much quicksand after we got into Oklahoma that we had some of the cows to bog in the sand. One man and horse could not pull a cow out of it, two of us would throw a loop on the same cow and in this way we got them out. We had a team of mules hitched to the wagon and they learned that the quicksand would bog them down. We had to take the harness off so they could flounder out of the sand. This happened several times and they learned to flip on to their sides and lay perfectly still until the driver took the harness off. After getting rid of the harness they would fight their way out. They seemed to sense the stuff and at times it was difficult to drive them into it.

"WE MADE OUR first trip to Hereford in 1938 to visit my brother. I decided to stay and work for him and this I did for eight or 10 months. We left but we loved the Plains and moved here to live in 1941. I had a milk route for a time but have retired."

Mrs. Flowers said, "We were married in my uncle's home. It was a very simple wedding. The preacher was very young and very nervous. I believe we were the first couple for whom he read the marriage ceremony. I know we were too young, but it has worked out all right. We were both orphans as we lost our mothers in just a few days, when we were only nine years old. I lived with my grandparents, his father reared his family alone."

"My grandmother was part Indian and she, along with my grandfather, would put us children into the covered wagon and we would travel around to see about her property. She had several blocks of land and it would take a week or more to get around to see all of them. My grandchildren often ask me if I used to wear feathers in my hair and off they go to find chicken or turkey feathers to put in their hair so they could be Indians."

"Our school house served for church and school too. The school house was called Rocky Springs, as it was built in the valley. We drove up a rocky hill and walked down as it was impossible to drive a team down the steep rocky hill."

"The young people of our day entertained themselves. We had never heard of picture shows and it did not enter our minds that we should go to some town just to have a good time. When we did go to town it was for business. We had candy pulls, parties, box suppers and dances. We had a lot of

IT IS TRUE that shocking experiences can go a long way toward handicapping a child. But it isn't so much what happens to a child as it is how he feels about what happens to him. Some of the major tragedies of life are family-centered—such as divorce, disease, dependency and delinquency. Yet, we do little to overcome this influence. The family is often given the least attention of the basic institutions in society. It receives most of the blame for Juvenile Delinquency but the least help in correcting and preventing this social evil.

If this growing problem of Juvenile Delinquency is to be curbed and eventually reduced, it most likely will be done by families with adequate knowledge about how each individual child should be reared through his or her formative years.

The work of supporting agencies should be concentrated in help for the family.

The composition of this and the other three subcommittees reports will later be submitted to the state legislature for action.—CASTRO COUNTY NEWS.

WELLINGTON ATHLETE TO PLAY IN ALL-STAR GAME

Randall Raburn, who stacked up the largest number of points for the Rocket basketball team this season, has been selected to play on the North Squad at the all-star game of the Texas High School Coaching Assn. coaching school in Houston Aug. 7. He is the first Wellington athlete to be picked for such a state honor, and the distinction takes added significance by the regulations under which he was chosen. E. W. Clement said this week. Only 12 players are picked from the entire north half of the state, representing schools from B through AAAA classification. Five of the 12 must have played in the state basketball tournament of that year. Two boys are picked from each classification and two at random.—WELLINGTON LEADER.

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bandweed farm gives an unscientific discussion of science this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editor: Last night I was reading in a copy of a magazine which a friend handed me, I've heard you're not supposed to look a gift horse in the mouth or a used car under the hood, but still I figure a magazine is put out to be read and what attracted me in this one was an article on the school system.

According to it, the American school system is far behind the Russian system, and the main trouble with ours that we're not turning out enough scientists.

Now I know that everybody is talking about science today, about how we've got to develop more, pay them more, pay teachers better to turn out more, etc., and how the future of mankind rests in the scientist's hand.

In fact, some people are saying that what this country needs is more scientists in positions of leadership. Maybe a scientist for President.

Well, now, I'll tell you, I'm in favor of scientists, and I'm especially in favor of scientific results, like a flat-proof tractor tire, but science isn't everything and the scientific attitude doesn't answer all the problems. I'm not acquainted with any live scientists, at least there aren't any living out here, probably not the right kind of soil, but I have a notion that even the purest scientist must have his common troubles.

Don't scientists have unpaid bills, don't they get bad colds, don't they occasionally turn up with a delinquent child the same as other human beings? How would a scientist go about fighting a recession? Is there a scientific formula for arranging for the nations of the world to get along with each other? Can a scientist figure out a scientific system for getting elected to Congress? How's he stand on taxes?

Some day scientists may even grow all the world's food in test tubes, providing us unscientific people will keep them in laboratories, but until they do somebody's got to go up one row and down another if the world is going to keep on eating. For every man launched into space, somebody's got to launch a good many tractors up and down the rows of America.

Maybe the Russians can order a thousand new scientists to be turned out every two weeks in their school system, but over here we sort of let things turn out as they will. I don't mean we shouldn't offer more science courses, but what a boy turns into in this country is mostly the boy's choice. It may not be very scientific, but freedom, like a session of Congress, is no exact science anyway. I don't know whether our school system is behind Russia's or not, but if it has to produce a Stalin or Khrushchev to catch up, I'd just as soon it slid along like it is.

Yours faithfully,

His name was Bill Bevens. He was not a well-known pitcher on the Yankee roster. But he almost reached the pinnacle of baseball fame on that October day.

Then came one of the most dramatic moments in World Series history. Cookie Lavagetto, a veteran Dodger third baseman nearing the end of his playing career, was called off the bench to pinch-hit with two down. He was the last man between Bevens and the Hall of Fame. Cookie ran out the count, then caught hold of Bevens' last pitch and drove it out for a double. Two runs and the ball game! Bevens not only lost his no-hitter, but he lost the game.

INSPECTING HIS INVESTMENT—Bob Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, sold his motor scooter a year ago and has since realized well over $200 profit, and has more coming. The 15-year-old high school freshman used the money from selling his scooter to buy pigs, and is now one of the youngest, and most successful, businessmen in the county. (Staff Photo)

Local Youngster Shows Promise Of Making A Top Business Man

BOB JACKSON is one boy in Deaf Smith County with a head for business on his shoulders. Though only 14 years of age at the time (he's 15 now), Bob saw where he could make money with what he had invested in a motor scooter, sold it, and bought a litter of young pigs.

So far, 13 months later, he has netted $224 and has nine more almost ready for market. Bob paid $100 for a 1954-model scooter in September of 1956. In March he sold it in an auction for $165. He had earned the initial $100 working for his father. He paid $113 for the first 13 pigs. For feed he only purchased $21 of barley and traded one of the animals to his father for the rest he needed.

After receiving $400 for his first batch of pork on the hoof, they averaged weighing 210 pounds, he invested $7 a piece for nine more in November, when they were only three weeks old. Bob says he didn't buy as many the second time because of his studies at school and the winter cold, but he was expecting to have a larger number this summer.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, Bob is an active member of 4-H and FFA. He is a freshman in high school.

BOB'S FAMILY lives on a two-section wheat farm 15 miles west of Hereford. Business is nothing new to the youngster; he and his brother Don have 85 acres of wheat. From their profit they pay their father for the fuel and irrigation expense, and use the rest for school.

"Looks like we might have a pretty good harvest this summer," he said, "because this rain has really helped dryland and saved irrigation expenses."

THE JACKSONS have four children in their family. Pat is a senior education major at West Texas State College and is presently

Still Finds Niche in Atomic Age; Turns Out Hydrogen for Reactors

BOULDER, Colo. — There's a still in operation here that has nothing to fear from the Revenooers.

Its output is pure, but a far cry from pure mountain dew. This still is operated by the government's own National Bureau of Standards and its yield is heavy hydrogen.

Heavy hydrogen and oxygen produce the "heavy water" required by atomic reactors which use uranium as fuel. Someday stills such as this one may have the same importance in the production of atomic power as coal mines and oil refineries have in the age of fossil fuels.

For every atom of heavy hydrogen found in nature, there are about 7,000 atoms of ordinary hydrogen. The two forms of hydrogen so far can't be easily separated.

Existing methods are slow and costly, but scientists at the Bureau of Standards Laboratory here are confident they can lick the problem by fractional distillation. It's the same method used to separate alcohol from water or gasoline from kerosene. The stuff is boiled in a still and the lighter stuff passes off first, leaving the heavier liquid behind.

With hydrogen, the big task is to get it super-chilled into liquid form. This is done by using liquid nitrogen which gets temperatures down to hundreds of degrees below zero where the hydrogen can be liquified mechanically. The next problem is to get the liquid hydrogen to boil gently and smoothly so that the ordinary hydrogen will bubble away first, leaving the heavy hydrogen behind.

Ordinary hydrogen boils at 422.9 degrees below zero while heavy hydrogen boils at 417.1 degrees below.

Daniel H. Weitzel, laboratory leader on the project, said work has been going on for three years, "each still a little larger and more complicated in design than the one before." The equipment is now advancing from laboratory to pilot plant proportions.

The project has cost about $45,000 a year for the past three years. Technical studies for the Boulder practice teaching sophomore English and speech at Hereford High School, where she graduated in

STAR THEATER

Sheepman: Jason Sweet, central figure of "The Sheepman," portrayed by Glenn Ford, is no ordinary Western hero. When he comes to the town of Powder Valley, determined to bring his sheep into the cow country, his laconic responses to threats and his tongue-in-cheek sallies have the town toughs guessing as to what manner of man he could be. But not for long. He starts out by picking a fight with and thrashing Mickey Shaughnessy, the town's biggest and toughest character. He proves himself an almost unbelievably fast shot in a remarkable piece of shooting. He begins his romance with Shirley MacLaine with a comic flirtation. He outmaneuvers the plot of Leslie Nielsen, shady cattle raiser, to get rid of him, and, finally, in one of the most suspenseful three-men-against-one gun draws devised for a screen play, he once and for all proves his right to bring sheep into cattle country. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Three Faces of Eve: Eve, a woman who has three personalities living within one body, all fighting for control. One is the drab, mousey Eve White, the second the sexy, provocative Eve Black which is known as her other self and the mature, poised Jane, a personality born of the struggle between the other two. Stars Joanne Woodward and David Wayne. Booked for Wednesday and Thursday.

TOWER DRIVE-IN

Lure of the Swamp: The arrival of a man-with-a-satchel, at an isolated swamp town, starts the tale of greed over stolen money. When his picture appears on the front pages as having been found murdered and three other strangers arrive in the same town, much happens in this out-of-way town. NEW ELEVATOR AT BLACK—Cement pouring started Monday on a new 600,000-bushel capacity elevator for the Black Grain Co. Contractors are Chalmers and Barton Co. of Hutchinson, Kan. An around-the-clock operation after cement pouring has begun, it is expected to reach its 113 feet in height in another day or so. Walls of the 12-tank unit are seven inches thick. Approximately 22,000 yards of cement will be used in building the elevator, and there are five and a half sacks of cement in each yard used. That's a bunch of sidewalk! (Staff Photo)

New Daily Food Guide By USDA Specialist

One simple rule — eat a proper variety of ordinary foods — is the basis of good nutrition. Using this rule, U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists have developed a new daily food guide that everybody can use. Called "Food for Fitness," it is presented in a colorful USDA leaflet showing how easy it is to choose foods for well-balanced meals.

The guide suggests you base your daily diet on four kinds of foods: (1) milk; (2) meat, and alternates such as eggs and dry beans or peas; (3) fruits and vegetables; and (4) breads and cereals. Together these foods can supply the nutrients you need to keep in top shape and looking your best.

Milk is a must for good nutrition. USDA specialists say it is almost impossible to obtain the calcium you need for strong teeth and bones unless you get some milk each day. Children should have at least 3 to 4 cups of milk daily, teenagers at least 4 cups, and adults at least 2 cups.

If the members of your family eat meat or an alternate twice a day, they should get a main part of the protein they need for growth and repair of body tissues. One day, for example, you might have an omelet for lunch, and serve 2-3 ounces per family member of beef, lamb, pork, poultry, or fish for dinner. Dry beans, dry peas, lentils, peanut butter, and nuts are good meat alternates.

You should eat four or more servings of fruits and vegetables every day to give you many of the vitamins and minerals you need. For example, vitamin C is essential for healthy gums and body tissues, yet it is often short in American diets. Try to include one vitamin-C-rich food — a citrus fruit or juice or other fruit or vegetable important for vitamin C such as tomatoes or broccoli — in your diet every day. To be sure that your meals provide enough vitamin A — which helps maintain good eyesight, healthy skin, and normal growth — serve a dark-green or deep-yellow vegetable at least every other day. For a proper variety of fruits and vegetables, you might have on a single day tomato or grapefruit juice for breakfast, carrot sticks at lunch, and potatoes and peas for dinner.

with four servings of whole grain or enriched breads and cereals, you'll add essential B-vitamins, iron, protein, and food energy to your diet. There's wide choice in the bread-and-cereals group, which includes breakfast cereals, baked goods made with whole grain, enriched or restored flour, noodles, cornmeal, crackers, grits, macaroni and spaghetti, rice, and rolled oats. To get the full nutrient value from these foods, be sure you buy only those that are labeled "whole grain," "enriched," or "restored."

THE NEW USDA FOOD guide will help ensure a good foundation diet. Most people will include in their meals foods not listed in the guide — such as butter, margarine, or sugar — as well as extra items from the guide's four main food groups. These additions will supply extra food energy — as well as extra appetite appeal — to round out the well-planned diet.

Single copies of "Food for Fitness" (Leaflet 424) are free on request from the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

AUTOGRAPH WALL
KINNELON, N. J. — The Oscar Porters never got around to papering their hall wall and now it's too late.

When the Porters moved in in 1955, Oscar, as a gag, wrote on the wall "ye olde 1955 house. Visitors please register." They intended to paper the wall later. But when autographs of congressmen, senators, mayors and other friends who visited them accumulated, the Porters decided to leave the wall bare.

INCHES COUNT
KITCHENER, Ont. — The Mothers' Auxiliary, of the 14th Kitchener Boy Scout and Wolf Cub Troop are raising money a different way. Each member has been asked to contribute one cent for each inch of their height.

New State Highway Map Is Released

AUSTIN—The Texas Highway Department has released the big new 1958 Official Highway Travel Map. Maps may be obtained by writing the Texas Highway Department, Austin 14, Tex., or at the Highway District Offices and Travel Information Bureaus. County tax offices have map cards available for requesting copies of the map.

The official Highway Travel Map is used by all state and governmental agencies in Texas for determining highway distances, mileages, zones, and like information. The same map is used by Texas tourists seeking roads to recreational and historical attractions throughout the state. The reverse side of the map reflects in full color some of the outstanding scenic and recreational facilities in Texas.

Texas' new 1958 travel map is the answer to today's demand for more and more travel information. The steady growth of Texas from a state with a population of slightly over seven million just ten years ago to its present estimated population of more than nine million is reflected by the information shown.

The number of cities and towns indicated on the 1948 map was 867. Today, there are 1,812 — an increase of 1,345. State and U. S. highways have been increased by 2,028 miles, and farm-to-market roads from 620 miles to 17,126 miles — a 16,506-mile increase. The map reflects a total of 45,292 miles of highways.

Roadside parks, long cherished by Texas highway users, were not shown on the 1948 map. Today, 1,026 roadside parks are pinpointed as pleasant stopping places. Divided highways also show a startling jump in the 10-year period. In

IVANHOE' DEPARTS
SAN DIEGO, Calif. — School officials have finally jostled "Ivanhoe" out of the 9th grade English classes.

The Sir Walter Scott novel was ordered replaced by Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations."

Mrs. Mildred Rock, supervisor of secondary education, said Ivanhoe, a 9th grade classic for as long as she could remember, didn't seem sophisticated enough for modern pupils of that class. "Teachers were sick and tired of it," she added.

Audie Murphy, the most decorated American hero of World War 2, is also a member of the Texas National Guard.

1948 there were 110 miles of divided roads shown. Now there are 1,007 miles marked on the map with the black bands and red center indicating divided highway miles.

BAD-TEMPERED BULL

KEWANEE, Ill. — The next time James L. Krause poses his registered Holstein bull for pictures, he'll stay clear of the consequences.

He landed in the Kewanee Hospital with two fractured ribs and internal injuries when photographer Richard Ogorzalek attempted to take the bull's picture.

The bull battered Krause against the barn in the first attempt, but he rolled with the blow on the second charge. Before he was attacked again, Ogorzalek grabbed the bull's nose ring and another man helped force the bull back in the

Community Facilities Bill Would Be a Help

To the people of the 18th District: present federal loan fund, which is available interest free for long range public works planning, by 50 million dollars. The present fund is 48 million dollars, and it is increased to 98 million dollars.

The bill was hotly contested, and the division was very sharp on many of the votes on proposed amendments to the bill that could cripple it. However, when these amendments had been voted down, many of those who had been supporting the amendments came over and voted for the bill on final passage. Many of the cities — especially smaller ones — have been experiencing much difficulty in financing water and sewer systems, hospitals, and schools.

Many have voted the bonds but were unable to sell them because of the high interest rate that was being demanded and the burden

First, it would increase the 100 million dollar Housing and Home Finance Agency's public facility loan program to $1 billion. This would provide loans for financing local water and sewer systems, hospitals, and school buildings.

Second, it would establish a new interest rate formula which, under present conditions, would produce a rate of interest of 3 1/2 per cent rather than the current 4 1/8 and 4 5/8 per cent.

Third, it would raise the present 40-year maximum payout period on these federal loans to 50 years.

Fourth, it would increase the

Blakley's Move Fouls Up Plans

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON (AP) — Around the Capital:

If dogwood blooms prompt political talk in Texas, the famed Cherry Blossoms here have the same effect on Texans in this fair city.

On Capitol Hill, congressmen and recent visiting Texas constituents, including numerous editors, speculated on former Sen. William Blakley's jump into the contest for the seat he held briefly by appointment last year.

One state official in a phone conversation from Austin told a Texas congressman the Dallas millionaire's decision had thrown a monkey wrench into a lot of political plans.

Speaking of blossoms and spring, Editor Harry Provence of Waco came to town bearing a large carton filled with Texas Bluebonnets. A corsage of bluebonnets at meetings of editors' wives from over the country drew more attention than those of orchids.

Texas in the spring was something Mrs. Lacey Sharp and young son Rusty had always wanted to see. Her husband is administrative assistant to Rep. Bob Poage of Waco, and his wife hails originally from North Dakota. During the recent Easter congressional restock and barrel and without question. They are asking why it is that such a plan was of proposed long ago, if its importance even approaches the proportions represented.

They want to know why the President, who represents himself as a man with greater knowledge on the subject than any other active person, and a man who has been associated with the military all his life, waited so long to come up with the program. Many feel that if it took the President so very long to get the matter worked out with his vast experience and knowledge, the Representatives of the people should have an opportunity to study the plan and weigh its merits and demerits very carefully before taking action.
