Work Starts Wednesday On Major School Construction

Chief Urges Check During Fire Prevention Observance

Hereford Volunteer Firemen once again focus the general public's attention on fire dangers during National Fire Prevention Week here Oct. 7-13.

Pointing out that fire losses were fewer during the past year than in recent years, fire chief Dub Reeves urged local residents to check fire hazards during Fire Prevention Week.

Keeping with their belief that fire prevention is a job for which everyone should be responsible, Hereford Volunteer Firemen will be training all local first and second grade students as Junior Fire Marshalls during the week.

Beginning Wednesday morning, Oct. 10, the Volunteer Firemen will take first and second graders on 20-minute rides atop gleaming red fire trucks.

Following the rides, each child will receive a Junior Fire Marshal's badge and fire helmet. All 900 first and second graders in Hereford schools will take the spin, firemen declared.

As a reminder to the general public to aid in fire prevention, annual calendars will be distributed during Fire Prevention Week to all businesses, schools, and public places, Reeves pointed out.

Unofficially, Hereford citizens can celebrate a bargain buy during Fire Prevention Week.

As a result of the success of last year's city-wide fire hazard inspection and the efficiency of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, the city gained an extra one percent credit on the key rate on fire insurance this year, Reeves pointed out.

"Last year's fire inspection was successful in helping to eliminate fire hazards," Reeves commented. "We had only 67 calls within the city."

"This is the lowest number in recent years. Fire losses were among the lowest in the history of the department."

"This year we are asking that residents and businessmen inspect their own places in search of fire hazards," Reeves stated.

"People should especially be on the look out for overloaded circuits, oily mops and rags, and storage around hot water tanks," Reeves warned.

AFTER KIWANIS MEET

Barry Questioned On Political Stand

Des Barry, Republican candidate for congressman-at-large, switched from a non-partisan speech to party politics as Kiwanis Club members adjourned their regular meeting and began firing questions at the candidate.

To add to the hard-hitting answers and create an informal atmosphere, Barry removed his coat, and said, "Now let's get down to politics," as the motion to adjourn carried.

A Kiwanis Club ruling states that no politically partisan speeches can be made during a regular session of the club.

Barry speaking during the regular session told Kiwanis and guests of his battle with the Teamsters Union and what he encountered as he sought help from governmental sources.

However, he switched from a non-partisan speech to his platform as club members voted to end the meeting in order to question the candidate about his political beliefs.

The candidate predicted that conservative Republicans would Contracts for more than $618,000 in school construction are expected to be signed here Tuesday night. Trustees of the Hereford Rural High School District met Thursday night for bid opening and agreed to take the low bids on general, electrical and mechanical work for two major projects.

They will sign contracts during regular meeting Tuesday night and work is to start Wednesday morning on large additions to Northwest Elementary School and Hereford High School.

Successful bidder on the general contract was Knox & Gabley Construction Company of Lubbock, which has just completed construction of King's Manor retirement home in Hereford. Their base bid was $493,419, about $14,500 less than the second bidder.

Rountree Company of Lubbock was low bidder on plumbing, heating and ventilating with a base bid of $76,000 while Owens Electric of Hereford was low bidder on electrical work with a base bid of $41,570.

According to specifications, work is to be completed not later than Aug. 1, 1963.

Bids were taken on science equipment for two new high school laboratories, but none were accepted Thursday night.

The meeting had to be moved from the board room in the administration building to the high school cafeteria to accommodate the 150 persons who were on hand for the bid-opening by architect Herbert Brasher of Lubbock.

Bids were submitted by construction firms from Abilene, Amarillo, Lubbock and San Angelo.

Also accepted by the board were alternate bids to make the kitchen at Northwest Elementary School larger than had been planned in order that it might be used as a "central kitchen" from which food would be taken to other school cafeterias. Mechanical and electrical contractors also bid on a small alternate project to provide evaporative air conditioning for the present high school auditorium.

School superintendent Paul Stevens, architect Brasher and board members also expressed pleasure with the low bids submitted, saying they were much lower than they had hoped. It had been estimated that total cost would be as much as $700,000 without any alternates.

Following are base bids, and additional cost for an alternate on the larger kitchen at Northwest: Doyle Construction Co., $336,900, $3,878; G. A. & S. L. Jones Construction, $571,740, $390; J. D. Jones Construction Co., $541,000, $4,000.

Knox & Gabley Construction Co., $493,419, $3,850; Claude Martin & Sons, $508,000, $4,770.

King's Manor Is Finished; Staff Now Moving In

Staff members for King's Manor will move into the large new retirement home here Tuesday.

The Rev. Don Davidson, executive director of the Methodist operated home, said that he expected eight staff members to take up residence on Tuesday as they start preparing for the home's first residents.

First of the home's occupants are expected to start arriving on Oct. 15 and 16.

The $200,000 home, which was carried from an idea to completion in less than two years, is the first of three units expected to be constructed on the site in the northwest part of Hereford.

Dedication of the home is tentatively set for the middle of November.

Davidson announced that complete financial arrangements were completed this week for a nursing care unit, which will be located near the present building, Hill-Burton Funds totaling $97,000, recently were allocated for the nursing care unit. Other financing will come from a grant by the Hereford Area Foundation and a loan from a Lubbock firm.

The Hereford Area Foundation provided the 17-acre site and $100,000 to assure location of the home here. The home was built and will be operated by a special committee appointed by the board. General supervision will be by the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference, which authorized construction of the home.

A VOLUNTEER CREW of Labor Camp tenants mans a line as firemen battled a stubborn blaze in one of the camp's barracks. Three of the building's apartments were destroyed, but the department was able to cut off the fire and four others were saved.

Two families were living in the barracks at the time and the household belongings of another were stored there. The fire, which broke out about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, was blamed on a kerosene stove.

FAST ACTION PREVENTS EXPLOSION

Part Of Labor Camp Unit Goes Up In Fire Thursday

A blaze touched off Thursday in a Hereford Labor Camp barracks by a kerosene stove completely destroyed three of the building's apartments plus the household goods of three Latin American families.

Following an investigation to determine the cause of the fire

Domingo Pesina, deputy sheriff and Dub Reeves, fire chief, blame for the fire was laid on a kerosene stove.

The stove, it was reported, was shoved up against the wall of one of the apartments. Heat from the stove is believed to have set the wall on fire.

In the investigation following the fire, Reeves and Pesina discovered that both burners were turned on full.

When the alarm was sounded at about 7:20 p. m., all of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department's trucks were sent racing to the fire.

Flames from the blaze were shooting 20 feet into the air from the three blazing apartments of the barracks when firemen reached the Labor Camp.

Before the fire could be effectively controlled, a butane storage tank outside of the building had to be removed. Flames had almost reached the tank.

The butane had been shut off by Pesina, but he was driven away from the tank by the flames.

Fireman Glen Nelson and Reeves cooled the tank down. Then Reeves and a Latin American Labor Camp tenant, Virgilio Gonzalez disconnected the bottle and moved it away from the fire.

Nelson kept flames away from the pair working to disconnect the tank with the fog nozzle on his hose line.

Reeves described the tank as "being so hot you couldn't put your hand on it," when firemen began trying to remove it.

The tank containing the butane was about five feet long and about a foot in diameter. It is said to have contained approximately 30 gallons of the highly inflammable gas.

When the tank was moved away from the blaze, members of the Volunteer Fire Department moved in to cut the fire off and prevented it from spreading to the remainder of the building.

As the department's members moved in to fight the fire, tenants at the camp joined firemen in their efforts to control the blaze.

"We appreciate the cooperation given to us by the Latin Americans," commented Reeves. "They contributed greatly in the fire department's effort to effectively control the fire."

While fighting the two-hour blaze, one fireman, Arthur Tietel was slightly injured as debris falling from the ceiling hit him in the face.

Tietel was taken to Deaf Smith County Hospital.

Around Town

If you received a letter during the past week or so from firms in Dallas or Houston about having your house made into a demonstrator for aluminum siding, check thoroughly first. The Better Business Bureau urges extreme caution before entering such an agreement. If you are in doubt, call the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office before you invest —not afterward. It could save you a lot of money.

Deaf Smith County Commission will meet in regular session at 10 a. m. Monday, Oct. 8. Regular school board meeting is set for 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Also set for Tuesday is a meeting of the Tierra Blanca District Scout committee. It will be held at noon in the Jim Hill Hotel and is for all district committeemen and institutional representatives.

Ground-breaking ceremony of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation amphitheater will be held in Palo Duro Canyon at 4 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 14. (Continued On Page 6)

Stubborn Band Of Mules Kick Herd To 13-6 Loss

Mules are notoriously stubborn. Mules from Muleshoe are among the worst, a herd of Hereford Whitefaces learned the hard way Friday night.

The Mules delighted a home crowd by upsetting the Whitefaces 13-6 for their first win after three losses and a tie. For Hereford, it was the third setback in four outings.

Hereford scored quickly in the first period, but got in a hole with a fine punt and a penalty at the wrong time that gave Muleshoe a touchdown and the go-ahead conversion just before halftime.

But it was after the half that Hereford noticed the balky qualities of mules. It was a fired-up bunch that took the field the second half and contained every Hereford scoring thrust after marching 68 yards for a third-quarter touchdown.

Hereford, which has not been able to play through the first quarter in any game this season without fumbling, did it again Friday night.

The herd took the opening kick-off and ripped off 29 yards in five hard blasts by Austin Hodges, Jim Haney and Arnold Powell. Then came the fumble and Muleshoe recovered on Hereford's 46.

But Muleshoe was a generous host as it fumbled three plays later and linebacker Eugene Green recovered for Hereford.

Each team then ran three plays and punted. Taking over on the Mule 44 after a short, 19-yard punt, Hereford used Haney for two yards.

Then came Hereford's longest touchdown run of the season as halfback Arnold Powell carried over left guard on a trap play, went to the sidelines and outraced the secondary for the team's only score. That came with 3:03 left in the first period.

However, the snap from center on an attempted conversion was fumbled and Hodges was dropped as he tried to run.

Muleshoe got its first first-down of the game, then had to punt just before the first period closed.

Moving from its own 24, Hereford sent Haney for 10 and 6 before Hodges and Powell took their turns. Hereford moved to the Muleshoe 25 where a pass on fourth down and three fell incomplete to kill that drive.

Mule Clifford Gray scampered 23 yards for his team's longest gain here Hereford held. Kenny Heathington punted and Hereford's safeties watched the ball roll between them toward the end zone.

But an alert Muleshoe player fell on the ball at Hereford's one.

Hereford quarterback Frank Cain kept for five yards, but metal work, wood work and ed. Then came the drive that broke Hereford's back. Muleshoe took the kick-off and started operating from its own 32. They covered the 68 yards in 18 plays, marred only by one incomplete pass and a run for no-gain. Gray blasted the last yard over left tackle sometime in the middle of the period (the scoreboard clock went berserk and time was kept on the field during most of the game). Muleshoe failed on its conversion attempt.

that was nullified by an off-side penalty that moved the ball just 18 inches from Hereford's goal. Cain again carried, this time for about four, but was jarred loose from the ball and Gerald White recovered on the two for Muleshoe.

On the next play, fullback Gray carried over left guard for the score. Jimmy Cabrera kicked the point-after and Muleshoe led 7-6 with less than three minutes left in the half. Hereford got one first down then had to punt. Muleshoe was near mid-field as the half ended.

Smith County Hospital by a Sheriff's deputy. After having debris washed from his eyes he returned to the fire.

At the time of the fire, only two families were living in the building. The household goods of a third family were also stored there.

The Latin-American families losing household possessions and clothing were the Ramon Gonzalez family, Virginia Gonzalez family, and the Natividad Rendon family.

Possessions of one of the families was described as only "partially destroyed."

As firemen moved into the building to wet down the smoldering debris, a case was discovered containing one family's important papers and "several hundred dollars" saved during the harvest season.

Look Who's New!

Mr. and Mrs. George Clemente Zuniga are the parents of a girl, Irma Martha, born Oct. 3 at 12:42 a. m. She weighed 5 pounds and 10 1/2 ounces.
Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Reyna Perez are the parents of a boy, David Rodriguez, born Oct. 3 at 1:47 a. m. He weighed 7 pounds and 6 1/2 ounces.

Muleshoe took over on its 30 to run out the clock. Hereford's three running backs had good averages. Haney carried 19 times and averaged 4.3 yards. Powell carried 16 times for an average of 4.9 and Hodges carried six times for a 4.8 average.

End Eugene Green kept Hereford hopes alive as he took the kick-off and returned it 30 yards to midfield. Hereford rolled to a first down and then got a break on a 15-yard penalty against the Mules.

With the ball on the Mule 16, it looked like Hereford might come back. Cain got three on a keeper before Powell was spilled for no gain. Cain's third-down pass was batted away incomplete. On fourth down, Hereford's pass protection broke down and Cain was dropped for a 12-yard loss. Muleshoe moved the ball up to its own 41 before Powell recovered a fumble back on the Mule 31.

Again, however, Hereford was unable to capitalize. Haney and Powell moved the ball to the Muleshoe 20 before a penalty moved the ball back five yards. Cain and Powell each got three yards, but Cain lost eight trying to pass and Powell was dropped for no gain.

Muleshoe moved for a first down, then had to punt. From its own 30, Hereford started a last-minute drive. After runs had gained 13, Cain hit Ronnie Duncan with a sideline pass for eight. Another pass fell incomplete, but Haney got five yards.

Then Cain hit Green for 14 yards, a pass fell incomplete and Green caught another one for two yards. But the next two passes were incomplete and

by FRANK FORD
Deaf Smith County Farmer, Businessman and Republican Candidate for STATE REPRESENTATIVE
(Fourth article of a Series)

As will be shown in the coming elections, the American people are going to be demanding a higher standard of honesty among public officials. This is a must if we are to bring about a re-vitalization of purpose in our United States.

We have deluded ourselves too long in thinking that material wealth means security and that friends, whether next door or across the seas, can be bought. The qualities of simple honesty, sincerity, and consideration for others would be welcome in a world increasingly torn by strife.

The only security we or our children have is in our spiritual strength, in our intelligence, and in our willingness to create, produce and contribute in society. These are the things which money cannot buy. These are the qualities that endure.

Barry...

(Continued from page 1) pick up four to six seats in Congress adding enough new congressmen to gain control of the House of Representatives.

"We will swing back to individual's and states' rights as guaranteed under the Constitution," declared the candidate. When asked about a recent court ruling by the Supreme districts, Barry commented that he thought it was right under the Constitution.

But, he added, "I guarantee that if you send me to Congress on Nov. 6, the Texas Legislature will move to redistrict the state and get rid of me."

Another question fired at the Houston trucking firm president asked what he thought of arguments calling for the re-election of incumbents because they had worked their way to important committee appointments and had seniority.

Barry commented, "I don't believe a man should have so much power. I am in favor of legislation restricting the number of terms a Congressman may serve."

"Such a move will return the government to the people of the United States."

When asked about his opinion of the Supreme Court, he commented: "I do not believe in naming political appointees with no judicial background to the court. It is causing the destruction of the democratic process. I am speaking out against both Democratic and Republican parties on this."

Questioned on his stand on Cuba, Barry stated that he was in favor of a "get tough" policy to show the communists that "we will not be intimidated."

To a question concerning an investigation of the state department, the candidate commented that the House had been told that such an investigation was impractical because of secret material.

He pointed out that Congress could "bring the state department around" by cutting its appropriation.

"Congress has the responsibility to investigate the department, and it is about time we do," he declared.

"It is our responsibility as people to see that they do. I am mad enough to give up my business to go to Congress and do something about it."

Commenting to a question on foreign aid, the candidate stated he would "cut it off tomorrow" except in cases of dis-

National Business Women's Week Observed Oct. 7-13

National Business Women's Week is Oct. 7-13, sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., was observed with a breakfast on Monday morning, Oct. 1, for members and guests and prospective members of the Hereford Chapter of Business and Professional Women's Club.

The observance comes at the time of the opening of King's Manor, the Methodist home for the aged in Hereford. The home was a project of the Hereford club in its beginning.

Theme for this year's observance is "Leadership - A Dimension in Democracy". National Business Women's Week is designed to pay tribute to all business and professional women. It is sponsored annually by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., of which there is a membership of 175,000. The group was organized in 1913 and has a membership of 175,000 in some 3,500 clubs over the 50 states, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. The purpose of the federation is to elevate the standards of women in business and the professions...

...to promote the interests of business and professional women in the United States, and to extend opportunities to these women through education in industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

"Super government control will destroy agriculture," he warned, "it is time we gave it back to the people."

On taxes, the candidate commented that he would move to stop spending and balance the national budget. He also called for a revision of the taxing structure.

During the program of the club, Barry told members of his fight with the Teamsters Union following its demand that he sign over his drivers to the union "or else."

"I have a strong belief in the Constitution and the Bill of Rights," said Barry, "and I could not see handing over my men to the Teamsters since they did not want to join."

He commented that such a "sign or else" demand was a denial of his employees' rights and of his own property rights.

He charged that it "is our responsibility for the things that have happened". Businessmen have been so apathetic that they let a super government and the Teamster Union move in to create such a situation.

"A poor picture has been painted of the American businessman," he stated.

Barry also told of seeking redress for the illegal action taken against his trucking firm as the Teamsters placed what amounted to a secondary boycott on shipments by his firm.

As he ended, he commented that the fight against the union still goes on and that he is faced with another "sign or else" ultimatum.

...ties. Serving the Hereford Chapter of Business and Professional Women's Club as president is Mrs. Byrdie D. Fellers.

Chief...

(Continued from page 1) "The city's number one fire hazard during 1961 was clogged hot water tank ventilator pipes. We answered more fire calls caused by this than any other one thing."

"Sometimes these ventilators become clogged, preventing the heat from escaping. Heat gradually builds up until a fire results," Reeves explained.

"Electrical circuit overload was the second worst hazard," Reeves added.

"Any fire hazard that is found should be corrected as quickly as possible," Reeves cautioned.

"As a result of last year's city fire inspection and schooling volunteer firemen received, the city gained an extra one percent credit on the key fire insurance rate."

"This reduced the key rate from 23 to 22 cents per hundred dollars of protection," Reeves pointed out.

"This is an all-time low for Hereford, and places the city within the top ten Texas cities of this size with volunteer fire departments," the chief continued.

Not content to rest on past laurels, Reeves emphasized the importance of continuing to be on the alert to prevent fires.

He also commended city residents for cooperating with the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department.

chairman of the Deaf Smith County March of Dimes drive this year, according to MOD county president John Aikin. Pat will announce plans later.

Notes about coming home-comings: West Texas State's will be Saturday, Oct. 20; Littlefield High School's is planned for Oct. 26.

Near the end of the game in Muleshoe Friday night, one Hereford fan turned to another and said, "I sure wish we could get that Muleshoe coach (Bill Taylor) to come talk to our boys at halftime!" I imagine Hereford is still wondering what Taylor told his players. Maybe we can plant a tape recorder in their dressing room and find out, since the same technique also seemed to work last week against Clovis.

Right now, it seems that Moore County is trying to become the football capital of the state. Dumas has lost just one and won three, all against AAAA competition, as it eyes a repeat of the AAA state crown. And Sunray has won four straight, all against top-notch teams.

Without any hanky-panky, I'm a fan of the Yankees. Others, however, constantly dream of defeating that powerful team.

Persons who signed up for the adult Spanish class are asked to meet at 8 p. m. Monday, Oct. 8, in the Hereford High School cafeteria for an organizational session. About 60 persons signed up for the class, which will be taught by Sue Hess and Paul Abalos. There will not be a French class, since there was not enough demand.

E. H. Klein Rites Held Saturday

Funeral services for Edward H. Klein, 74, farmer and resident of Adrian since 1900, were held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 6, at the Adrian Methodist Church, with the Rev. Bernard F. Seay, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery at Vega under the direction of N. S. Griggs and Sons of Amarillo.

Mr. Klein died at 6:47 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 4, in Deaf Smith County Hospital in Hereford where he had been a patient for about two weeks.

Surviving are a brother, W. E. Klein of Lubbock; three sisters, Mrs. Otto Redlick of Arlington, Mrs. John Halliburton of Vega and Mrs. R. W. Parker of Kemp.

"As chief of the fire department, I would like to thank the people of Hereford for their fine cooperation in granting the right of way to volunteer firemen on their way to fires."

"Volunteer firemen in unmarked cars may be recognized by their blinking headlights," Reeves stated.

"We hope that people who see this signal will cooperate by granting the right of way to these volunteer firemen."

"After all," the chief concluded, "they could be on the way to your home!"

Loreta Fowler-John Henderson United In Wedding Ceremony

Miss Loreta Fowler of 308 Jowell, Hereford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenford Fowler of Crosbyton, and John C. Henderson of Dimmitt, son of Mrs. Frank Henderson of Dimmitt, exchanged wedding vows at 6 o'clock in the evening, Saturday, Oct. 6, in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church of Hereford.

The Rev. Herschel L. Thurston, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony before the altar, decorated with two bouquets on the altar, and flanked by two candelabra, with seven branches, and two baskets of white mums and gladioli.

Mrs. Duane Barrett of Hereford, cousin of the bride, served as organist. The soloist, Duane Barrett, sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because". Before the ceremony, the organist presented traditional wedding selections, "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Richard Wagner was played as the bridal party entered the church.

As the bridal party left the church, "Wedding March" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Felix Mendelssohn was played.

Mrs. Wyverne Flatt of Natalia, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, and Miss Veradelle Andrews of Hereford was bridesmaid. The attendants wore dresses of cognac silk with linen veils and were made by the same pattern as the bride's gown. They wore bandeaus of self-material and brown tulle designed and made by the bride. Their shoes were dyed to match. They carried nosegays of white miniature mums.

The flower girl, Miss Ivena Flatt of Natalia, niece of the bride, wore a dress similar to the gowns of the bridesmaids, wristlet of white mums and a bandeau of self-material and matching shoes.

Nancy Smith, niece of the groom, wore a dress similar to those of the bridesmaids, shoes dyed to match, a bandeau of self-material, and a wristlet of white mums.

Best man was Howard Smith of Denver, Colo., and ushers serving the groom were J. M. Fowler of Crosbyton and Steve Messenger of Friona.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown made by the bride's mother. The gown was made of white peau de soie with a fitted bodice of Alencon lace. The portrait neckline was enhanced with applique medallions embroidered with pearlized sequins and seed pearls. The long fitted sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her elbow-length veil of silk tulle fell from a crown of seed pearls and pearlized sequins. The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of cymbidium orchids, surrounded by miniature mums, and carried atop a white Bible.

Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church was the scene of the reception immediately following the wedding ceremony. The bride's table was covered with an antique lace cloth, designed and made by Mrs. L. W. Kiker, an aunt of the bride. The punch bowl was flanked by four brown candles in crystal candleholders. The tiered wedding cake was in the center of the table, surrounded by the bride's and bridesmaids bouquets.

Mrs. Tom Draper of Hereford, Mrs. Alvin Smith, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Wayne Fowler, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the refreshment table and guest register.

For the short wedding trip, the bride wore a three-piece wool knit suit in brown and beige. Her suit was complemented with a mink hat, beige gloves, and lizard shoes and bag. Her corsage was the orchids lifted from the bridal bouquet. The couple will be at home on Rt. 5, Dimmitt.

The bride is a graduate of Crosbyton High School, West Texas State College, and has done graduate work at Texas Woman's University at Denton. She has been employed as assistant county home demonstration agent in Hereford for the past three years.

The groom is a graduate of Happy High School, West Texas State College, and attended Texas Tech in Lubbock. He spent several years teaching in the Morse and Muleshoe schools and is now farming near Dimmitt.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding include Mr. and Mrs. Wyverne Flatt and children of Natalia; and Howard Smith of Denver, Colo.

OFF THE Shelf

BY H. A. TUCK
 Alan King is a nightclub and television comedian who talks frequently about suburban living... and how he hates it. Now, with the aid of Kathryn Ryan, he has written a witty book, Anyone Who Owns His Own Home Deserves It.

King explains that he grew up in a New York apartment and thought it was the best possible arrangement. But his bride had other ideas. Tears and approaching motherhood (she was expecting for 18 months, King insists) finally broke down his reserve.

Thus begins the battle with suburbia, with the King the loser of every round. He describes the first house they bought, and the second. To his wife, it was heaven on earth. To King, it was just the opposite.

King overlooks almost nothing. Here are some of his comments on: A new house: "My wife convinced me we were getting it from an ex-GI. I think it was Benedict Arnold. We paid $33,000. It was listed at $12,500, but we wanted a few extras—like windows, floors, ceiling, etc." Kids' birthday parties and suburban supermarkets. Moving and moving men: "Six guys who look as though lunch break had just been called on The Untouchables set". Interior decorators and European status trips and insurance salesmen.

Housing developments: "A community of 450 houses that all look exactly alike. The development is called God's Little Acre — and only He could afford it". Baby sitters: "You don't hire a baby sitter, you put in a sealed bid." Disciplining the children and house parties: "You can always tell the hostess — she's the one wearing taredor pants."

The female mania for neatness: "How would you like to get up at 5:00 a. m. to go to the bathroom and when you come back the bed is made?" King also covers a night out on the town, with its attendant expenses, the family dog and a special color green that makes you tingle, ideal husband quizzes and such.

And for men only, there's a special section giving Alan King's list of ready answers to silence the complaints of suburban wives.

The only silence guaranteed for the readers, however, comes with putting the book aside. Otherwise, there will be giggles and chuckles all the time. King really says a mouthful with Anyone Who Owns His Own Home Deserves It.

The book is available at the Deaf Smith County library.

Local Student Chosen For Part

Durward Jacobs of Hereford has been selected to play the part of Tristan in the Lope De Vega comedy, "The Dog In The Manger," to be presented at Texas Tech on Nov. 12-17, according to an announcement by Ronald Schulz, director.

The first play of the season is to be presented during the annual Tech Fine Arts Festival. "The Dog In The Manger" is a "cloak and dagger play", a type with which Lope's name is particularly associated. It is a romantic comedy dealing with flamboyant aristocracy and built on whirling affairs of intrigue and mistake, said Schulz.

Prominent in the play is the theme of love versus honor which recurs in most Spanish literature of Lope's time.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a street length dress of white fashioned with long tapered sleeves. Her headpiece was a small white satin pillbox hat and shoulder-length veil. She carried the bridal bouquet of white sweetheart roses atop a white Prayer Book. For the wedding traditions she wore the wedding ring of the bridegroom's grandmother and a 1940 penny in her shoe, the date of her birth.

Mrs. Walter Becker, twin sister of the bride from Fort Worth, served as matron of honor. She wore a light aqua short-sleeved satin dress fashioned in a princess style and carried sweetheart roses. Junior bridesmaids, neices of the bride, were Terri and Patti Patterson.

Best man was Ed F. Bulls of Hereford. Ushers were Martin D. Patterson and Melvin R. Patterson, both of Houston, and Homer Patterson, all brothers of the bride. Sarah Widmer was organist.

smooths bumps better than a bulldozer

If all roads were superhighways, Chevrolet's remarkably smooth and silent ride might be just another luxury. But as most town and country roads will demonstrate, this is one Chevrolet advantage that's mighty easy to get excited about. (The way those four deep-coil springs put the kibosh on bumps, you'd almost think Chevrolet was working for the highway commission.) The '63 Bel Airs, Biscaynes and Impalas are equally easy going on upkeep. Brakes are self-adjusting. New Delcotron generator s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-s battery life. 'Fallout Shelters' Topic Of Club Study

Members of the Hereford Study Club met Thursday evening, Oct. 4, in the home of Mrs. Tommy Braddy, 105 Elm Street, for the regular meeting.

The president, Mrs. Marvin Knox, called the meeting to order. The next meeting, the fall style show on Oct. 18, was discussed at the business session.

Mrs. Argen Draper, special guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Art Stoy, program chairman. Mrs. Draper gave a timely talk on "Food For Fallout Shelters." She said that fallout shelters can be fixed in a room of the home by covering the windows and having an adequate supply of necessary foods for survival for a six months period. The foods should be those that can be kept safely for long periods of time without benefit of refrigeration.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Argen Draper, special guest, and Mesdames Tommy Braddy, S. L. Garrison, Marvin Knox, George Springer, Art Stoy, Maurice Tannahill, L. E. Taylor, Ed Wilson Jr., R. N. Yarbro, and Miss Gladys Setliff.

MONA'S COFFEE BREAK

Salesmen Have An Easy Mark With Us

By Mona Jette
Anyone can take a course in Spanish or French; you can learn to knit, sew basketweave, replace a television tube or a thousand and one useful things, all in a few easy lessons. What I need is a good, stiff course in Sales Resistance.

Now I'm not knocking the selling profession. Everyone, to a certain extent, has to be a pretty fair salesman to succeed. It's just that when money and I come face to face, I become a blithering idiot and a spending fool.

The door-to-door salesman is my Waterloo. In the "old" days, the most common gimmick used was the "foot in door" pitch. The trend of the '60's seems to be a combination of a large black case filled with goodies, a whole mouthful of large, shiny teeth and a "Hello... is your mother home?" (Brother, do I fall for that one!)
I used to pretend I wasn't home, but now my children can make it through the house

Kenneth Coker Makes Best Talk For Toastmasters

Kenneth Coker was named best speaker of the evening Tuesday at a meeting of the Hereford Toasters Club. His topic was "How I Got That Way".

Virgil Dodson served as toastmaster for the evening and Kenneth Rudd gave the invocation.

Other talks given were by Carl Ray, "Increase Your Word Vocabulary;" and Hardy Benson, "68 Years Young". Irving Alexander had charge of the table topics for the evening.

VISIT IN HEREFORD
Mrs. Eddie Montague of Whittier, Calif., and her mother, Mrs. W. T. Jordan of Tulsa, visited Tuesday, Oct. 2, in Hereford with their sister and daughter, Mrs. Leora Calhoun's daughter, Mrs. Bobbie Crow and children, all of Hereford.

halo of menthol vapor around his head. He might not be my favorite salesperson, but I feel better just looking at him. It always makes you feel better to see someone sicker than you. And is he sick. He'd have to get better before he could die! I had been pretty lucky in the past with vacuum cleaner salesmen. The technique in this particular case is to open the front door, yell "I've got one!", then shut it again before he can open his mouth. But my six-year-old shattered the record one day when I was out in the back yard hanging clothes. I came back into the house and there they were, she stirring sugar into his coffee and the salesman busily vacuuming my rug. I politely accepted his invitation to have a seat and watch. Well, after all, what else can you do in a situation like that?

The demonstration was rather lengthy. It took a little time to show how the 57 various attachments worked, including the moth-baller, the mattress agitator, (have you ever heard of body dust?) the delincher and even a little gadget which enabled you to vacuum AND polish your floors, all in one "simple" operation.

The man of the house has a soft spot in his heart for encyclopedia salesmen. I could understand it if he had worked his way through college selling them. But he didn't. Now my father has a good excuse for buying socks, since he worked his way through school selling "Real Silk Hosiery". It really breaks him up if he meets a young man in the same profession.

But back to the encyclopedias. We have sat for hours listening in glassy-eyed wonder as salesmen spread out technical folders before us. Free bookcases, expensive dictionaries and even expense paid trips to Six Flags Over Texas are waved under your noses for inducement. If none of these works, there is a heart break ing tale of (1) Sick Wife; (2) Sick Child; and (3) Sick Salesman. (Last Resort.)

Up to now, my children and husband are given most of the blame. But my sin is the blackest. My weakness? The Grocery Store! And if some of you men don't know to what I'm referring, just go with your wife the next time she shops. You'll quit eating!

The instant I pass through the pneumatic doors of the market, I go into an absolute trance. Soft music floats through the air over speakers, lulling me into a false sense of a big bank account. Row after row of attractively arranged products blur before my eyes. With an almost drunken stagger, I catch myself throwing my carefully made list to the four winds. The next step is to systematically proceed to put my husband in the poorhouse.

I used to take the children with me, but that was even a bigger mistake. The last time I took all three of them, I swallowed three Miltowns and needed a shock treatment. And to top it off, when I got to the checkout stand, the greedy little things had smuggled three eight-pound hams and seven cans of Comet Cleanser into my basket!

The ringing of the cash register usually jolts me back to reality. And when the clerk presents me with the bill, I have to hang on to the counter until the butterflies in my tummy clam down and my knees quit buckling. The sensation is hard to explain. I feel completely exposed, naked before the entire world. It must be something like a bubbledancer feels when she spots a bright eyed old geezer sitting in the front row, armed to the teeth with a slingshot and a bag of pebbles.

But surely I'm not by myself. Tell me I'm not... please. Surely there are other women... somewhere... that sit and look at their two vacuum cleaners, dozens of basting brushes, bookcases of encyclopedias (but don't they look educational?), stacks of magazines and mountains of groceries

We won't give up! Perhaps at this very moment, some unknown genius is perfecting a formula in Sales Resistance.

But on second thought, we don't really need sales resistance at all. In fact, we're not even using the proper word.

We might as well face it. You and I both know what we really need, don't we?

It's will power.

Last Thursday one person received neck and back injuries about 8 a. m. in a traffic accident, 16 miles west of Adrian on U S Highway 66. Preston Davis High of Crescent City, Calif., was an occupant of a pickup truck parked on the right shoulder of the road.

He suffered minor injuries when his truck was hit in the rear by a west bound truck loaded with household furniture, operated by Milton McGee of England, Ark. McGee told investigating officer that he thought the pickup was moving and so he pulled off the road to let another motorist pass.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Nancy Perrin's father in Haskell, Okla., last week. Adrian community 4-H Club met Thursday night at the John Horton residence at 8 p. m. with approximately 45 adults and young people attending. Projects and club divisions were planned and organized. Different demonstrations were discussed for participation during the coming year.

A new branch club division, a horse club, was set up, with some seven or eight members joining. Adult leaders for the club will be Mr. and Mrs. Dean Whaley and about seven new boys and girls joined the various divisions. The beef division, headed by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Garrivson, now has 17 members and plans for feeding have reached 30 head of steers.

Cooking and Sewing division, led by Mrs. Dean Whaley and Mrs. John Horton, will have about 17 members. The park project buying committee, comprised of Ricky Gruhkey, Martha Gruhkey, Dorris and Mike Horton, ventured to Amarillo and purchased a few shrubs to be planted in the Adrian City Park. More shrubs will be added later this fall.

The Adrian 4-H Beef and Horse Club met last Friday afternoon at the L. E. Garrison farm. Plans were set up for meeting dates during the coming year. The beef club will meet on the fourth Monday of each month and the horse club will meet the second Monday. Both meetings will be at 4:15 p. m.

Justin McBride, county agent, briefly went through the records of several feeders, showing the club what profits were made on the steers just finished and marketed.

He pointed out several ways in which the feeders could increase their daily rate of grain and thereby increase their profits in the coming year. Plans were made to start purchasing calves next week. These calves will be bought at market price and put on wheat pasture until February or March, then put on full feed for 200 days, and then taken to a commercial show. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Chock Garrison and Mrs. Dean Whaley.

Mrs. Sylvia Jackson and Mrs. Evelyn Tarver from Wellington visited with the Earl Browns and the Pat Maupins last week. Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Speed and Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Zaring enjoyed the boxing match in Amarillo last Tuesday night for as long as it lasted.

Mr. and Mrs. Renfro from Clayton, N. M., visited their daughter and family, the R. D. Sisks, and while here Mrs. Renfro and Mrs. Sisk attended the funeral of an uncle, Bill Malone in Tulla, and remained there for two days. The Junior Class of Adrian High School is selling subscriptions to the school paper. It is published every two weeks.

Paul Nash from San Antonio is visiting his son and family, the Bob Lanes, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hale and Ralph Hale from Goodwell, Okla., visited their son and brother and his family, the Ted Hales, last weekend.

REMAIN UNDEFEATED

Redskins Scalped By Stanton, 20-0

Friona Chiefs had their war drums silenced to the tune of 20-0 here Tuesday as the Stanton Junior High seventh graders rampaged to their fourth win of the season.

Stanton's win came on the heels of a 14-0 triumph over Dimmitt here Saturday morning. The seventh graders have a clean record thus far this season, claiming four wins in as many tries.

Dogies commanded the gridiron with little opposition in both wins, while holding their opponents scoreless.

Hereford seventh graders scored early in the game, and were never challenged by Friona. Stanton's first tally came after Dogie quarterback Cliff Crowell hauled in a bouncing Friona fumble on the Herd's 38 yard line on the fifth play of the game.

Carries by Crowell and halfbacks Jerry Fowlkes and Gary Goodin moved the ball to the Friona 22 yard line. Then Goodin rounded left end for the remaining yardage and the first score. The try for two extra was mobbed at the line.

Friona was forced to punt as the first quarter ended, and Hereford returned the ball to the 39. On second down halfback Sidney Shaw picked up 12 yards a first as Stanton again moved into the Chief reservation.

Fullback Gary Kendrick ran for seven more before Goodin was dropped for a seven-yard loss, and Stanton gave up the ball on a fourth-down pass attempt.

Dogie defense granted no ground to the braves, and on third down Stanton guards Roger Beasley and Charles Atchley raided the Chief backfield for a ten-yard loss. Friona was forced to punt on a fourth and 20 situation from their 31.

Stanton returned the ball to their own 49, but had to punt late in the second quarter after losing five yards on a third and five pass attempt.

BROTHER DIES
 A fatal stroke took the life of Edwin William Dunavant, 56, brother of Floyed Dunavant of Hereford, recently. Funeral rites were conducted in the Wall Street Church of Christ in Floydada, with Frank Poyner, minister of the Portales, N. M., church, officiating, assisted by Garland Lipe of Clovis, N. M.

HOSPITAL PATIENT
 Barbara Paschel of Hereford is a patient in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Friona had time for only two tries before the half ended. Both teams found the going slow during the third quarter, as neither squad was able to fire up a drive.

Early in the fourth quarter the Dogies blocked a punt deep in Indian territory, setting up their second marker. Dogies took over on the 28. Clyde Evans carried the ball three times to cover the remaining ground for the score. Evans also tallied with the extra points to make it 14-0.

On Friona's first play from scrimmage after the kick off, Stanton's Gary Goodin leaped to intercept a pass, giving the Dogies possession on their 48. Shaw picked up four yards in two carries and then halfback Jimmie Childers carried for six yards and a first. Evans picked up six yards, and then twisted and turned 32 yards for the final score of the game, making it 20-0. Friona ran only two plays before the game ended, leaving them on the 50 yard line.

Since this is Mark's first year in school, the school motif was carried out on the decorations of the cake and each guest was given pencils with the guest's name engraved on them as party favors. Refreshments of cake, ice cream and punch were served.

Dogies Strike 36-6 Win After Chiefs Score First

Friona Chiefs hit pay dirt first, but the Stanton Junior High eighth graders claimed the gold mine as they struck a 36-6 win over the Chiefs here Tuesday in Whiteface Stadium.

It was the third win in four tries for the Stanton Dogies. Their victory followed another run-away here Saturday morning, when Hereford caged Dimmitt 30-0.

Receiving the opening kickoff, Friona marched to the Hereford 30 yard line in five plays, but Stanton's Billy Frank dropped on a fumble to give the Dogies the ball on their own 35. Hereford was unable to move, and quarterback Jim Allison boomed a 40 yard punt.

On Friona's second play, the Chiefs connected a pass good for 50 yards. Dogie Charles Barnard finally hauled down the receiver on the Dogie 15. Friona then rounded right end for an early score, but their try for two extra was stopped.

As the quarter ended, Stanton returned the kick to the 42 yard line. Ricky Fangman powered 16 yards for Stanton, and then Allison passed to end Billy Watts, which was good 26 yards to advance the Dogies to the Chief 16.

Fangman covered the remaining distance, but the play was cancelled by a holding penalty. After three unsuccessful pass attempts, Fangman returned the ball to the 15, but the Dogies lost possession on downs.

Friona was pinned, and forced to punt with the ball going out of bounds on the Friona 31 yard marker. Allison scampered for 16 yards, and then Fangman dodged 11 more to place the ball on the six.

Fangman plugged three more times before scoring, and then ran the extra points to place the Dogies in the lead, 8-6.

The Chiefs ran two plays before losing the ball on a pass interception as Allison leaped into the air to haul one in on the Dogie 25. Friona drew an unnecessary roughness penalty and the Dogies started play on their 40.

Allison tossed high to end Billy Watts, but the Dogie end came up with the ball and 60 yards later a touchdown. Fangman ran the extra points as the Dogies claimed a 16-6 margin late in the second quarter.

The Chiefs were stopped at the line twice, and then Dogie Charles Brewton got through to slam them for an eight yard loss. Friona punted as the half ended, and Gary Story was drilled as he caught the ball.

Dogies had no mercy on the Chiefs in the second half as they returned to score twice in the third quarter and again in the final round.

Gene Duvall ran the kick-off back 17 yards to the Stanton 47, and then Jimmie Allison picked up 22 yards. After two short gainers, Allison danced on to the Indian 12. Allison then scampered the final 12 yards to make it 22-6.

Friona was allowed to handle the ball only two plays during the third quarter, as they fumbled and Stanton's Dennis Latham recovered on the 43 to set up another Dogie 14.

Following an incomplete pass, Allison romped 23 yards to the Chief 17, and then two plays later moved on to the three for Stanton. Fangman carried the remaining distance for the score, but the pass for extra points fell incomplete.

The Chiefs were forced to punt from the 50 early in the fourth period. Allison picked up the ball on his 25 and followed well-timed blocking to the Chiefs' 30 yard line.

Felix Albiar took over signal-calling duties and promptly completed two passes. He connected to Watts for six yards, and then to Gene Duvall to move the ball to the one yard stripe.

Albiar's keeper got nowhere, but his hand-off to Duvall was good for the final Stanton touchdown. Albiar then passed to Duvall for the two extra to set the final reading at 36-6.

Friona threatened for the first time since early in the game as they mounted a drive which carried the Chiefs to a first-and-ten situation on the ten.

But after two incomplete passes, Billy Watts caught a Chief for a five-yard loss and Friona then gave up possession on downs.

Stanton took over on the 18 and tried one pass before the game ended.

Where Do We Go From Here?

Where do we go from here? Hereford and Deaf Smith County are in need of some new targets, or goals if you prefer.

In recent years, Hereford has gotten out and worked for many projects. One of the latest, a sugar beet refinery, now seems to be almost a reality. All of the work has been done, and only the decision is to be announced to make it official.

This has consumed the time and efforts of many people, some for a little while, some almost full-time.

Other projects have included a children's wing for the hospital, a community drive for a hotel, a community center, and a home for the aged.

Oh, we're not completely out of projects yet. There are still a few that need to be accomplished. A meat packing plant seems to be the next logical step, tying in with our agriculture economy and a good follow-up for a sugar refinery.

Following that, very logically, might be a frozen food processing plant. That is under consideration by one local committee, which has met some serious obstacles but hasn't yet given up.

Both of these seem to be immediate challenges and the odds are that they can be accomplished.

What should be next? Within a few years, a separate library building would seem to be in order. Present facilities are adequate, but will be too small as the "volume of books" increases.

Hereford has a lot of parks, although some of them need more picnic and recreational facilities in them. There also seems to be a need for improving the Veterans Park area, said by many outsiders to be one of the finest park properties in the area.

Also in the recreation line, it would seem that there is, or will be soon, a need for a second municipal swimming pool. Another pool might be indoors in order to provide year-round aquatic activity.

Within a year or two, the way the program is growing, a second Little League park will be needed. In fact, by the time a second one is built, still another might be in order.

It's also probable that at least nine more holes will be needed for the municipal golf course. This has been talked about for the past few years and some planning has been made. But the sport's popularity is booming now and the local course is overcrowded on weekends . . . and often on weekday afternoons.

Another project that has been discussed is a local museum, dedicated to the pioneers who settled and developed this country.

Through the years, there has been occasional discussion about a community junior college. Even with West Texas just a half-hour away and Texas Tech not too much further down the road, it is conceivable that there still might be a need for a small college closer to home. Both area schools are growing rapidly (Texas Tech now is over 11,000) and may not be able to provide for all the community's young people who would like some additional education after high school. Many feel that junior colleges will provide at least part of the solution to overcrowded colleges. So many youngsters now attend college only a year or two, or not at all, who would take advantage or lower rates and convenience.

Almost without a doubt, Hereford is about ready to experience a rather sizeable growth. Now is the time to decide what else might be needed to go along with it. True, many of the projects mentioned above are best handled by local governments. But who comprises the local government and foots the bill? It's our money... it should be our idea.

Others mentioned would need to be handled on a local subscription basis, as many of our projects have been financed in the past.

Regardless, it's up to us to think now about . . .

Where do we go from here?

Firemen Deserve Your Cooperation

The small firehouse used to be pictured, and still is at times, as the place where all the town loafers got together for unending games of pinocle and other similar pursuits. And the old joke was that the firemen always arrived in time to save the brick chimney and little else.

But Hereford's fire station is a place for work, hard work, and lots of it.

As this is the start of Fire Prevention Week, it seems fitting to salute an otherwise unnoticed community group. Hereford's Department is recognized as one of the best in the state. This results in a very low rate on fire insurance for Hereford homes and businesses.

With excellent cooperation from other officials, the fire department is provided with outstanding equipment to do its job. Firemen then are trained in the proper use of the equipment, whether it's a new nozzle, a rescuator, a smoke mask or a new pumper truck.

Firemen in Hereford aren't loafers; they are leaders. Almost all of them belong to one of the town's civic clubs. They hold offices in these organizations and many others. They are active in church leadership, they do a lot of youth work, they help build a better town.

One little-known aspect of their devotion is that they do not accept their pay for fire calls and drills. As in other volunteer departments, the city pays so much per man per fire or drill. However, Hereford firemen put all this money into their own treasury and keep none for themselves. These funds are used to help buy additional equipment for the department, to purchase plastic fire helmets and badges to be handed out to school children. They also buy all the printed material that is given to children during Fire Prevention Week.

Hereford firemen feel if they have to answer a fire call, they have really failed in their job. Their first duty, and one they take very seriously, is fire prevention. Through continuing public education, they try to eliminate fire hazards before they can cause loss of property or life.

Yet when a call comes in, they drop everything else and risk their lives to help others. They are dedicated to the ideals of service to others.

At present, Hereford firemen are taking a 15-hour course in fire fighting techniques and use of equipment. Most of the firemen have taken at least one course at the annual Fire School at Texas A&M College. Usually they have to use their vacation or take off time from their jobs in order to attend.

Yes, Hereford's firemen are a dedicated group and an asset to the community. All they ask in the way of thanks is your cooperation in fire prevention, not just during Fire Prevention Week, but all year-long. That, to them, is pay enough.

ATHLETIC CONTROVERSY

Controversy flared in print this week between the athletic directors of West Texas State College and Texas Tech over who is terminating the football rivalry of a quarter of a century between the two schools. Dr. James P. Cornette, WT president, in a speech before West Texas State body Monday placed the blame on Texas Tech. He laid most of it at the door of Tech Athletic Director Polk Robison. An Amarillo newspaper Tuesday portrayed Robison as having put the blame for the termination on officials of West Texas State. The Amarillo Globe-Times Wednesday quoted Robison as having said Tech contacted WT earlier this year and offered to come to Canyon for the 1963 season. "I talked to Frank Kimbrough (WT's athletic director) and he made an unofficial offer of $20,000," Robison was quoted as having said. "He said the date under consideration (Nov. 16) was a bad time due to weather." Kimbrough Wednesday told The Canyon News no such conversation took place. He said he never was authorized to make such an offer. Kimbrough said he made Tech a guarantee of $30,000 on a home and home basis for the 1964, 65, and 66 seasons.

BULA VOTES 'NO' ON CONSOLIDATION

Bula voters defeated the consolidation move Saturday as expected. The vote was 107 against to 47 for, this keeping the Bula School district in tact. Littlefield voters cast 34 ballots for and 47 against the move. The question had to carry in both districts to become effective, so the Littlefield vote carried little weight in the election, one of the reasons for the voting in Littlefield being so light. A spokesman for the Bula School District said the election went "about like we thought it would." An open house was held at Bula Thursday in the newly redecorated school buildings. Just last spring the district voted bonds for necessary repairs and remodeling of school facilities.

USDA QUIET ON SUGAR BEET QUESTION

R. M. Buckles and Paul Chesmer returned to Stratford early Wednesday morning from a trip to Washington, D. C., where they were among several other men from the Panhandle area who intended to testify on the question of obtaining sugar beet acreage for this area. "There is nothing definite on sugar beets for any area," said Buckles and Chesmer. "However, it does appear that the only area that will get a plant okayed this year will be in California." The group from the North Plains area including representatives from the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles, called upon various Senators and Representatives who are members of the committee that will hear arguments for sugar beet acreage. "We got the impression that the Hereford area is pretty well in line to get a plant located there, but still anything can happen," both men agreed.

SLOW SOAKING RAIN STOPS HARVEST

Slow, soaking rains Monday and Tuesday of this week brought Olton's grain harvest, just getting underway, to a standstill. Most area farmers and grain elevator operators however, agreed that there is no damage other than postponement of harvest. Most felt, "if good weather holds," the harvest will be in full swing early next week. Up to two inches of rain were measured in the area for the two-day period. In Olton, rain measured 1.73 inches.

CHAMBER GROUP BACKS COURTHOUSE PROJECT

The civic affairs committee of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce has recommended that the chamber pledge its support of the forthcoming courthouse and jail remodeling project, it was announced Thursday. A civic affairs committee has studied the need for adequate courthouse and jail facilities for approximately three years, and has met with the commissioner's court several times during that period urging the commissioners to institute action on the project. At a meeting set for next Friday, the court will make final evaluation of plans for the remodeling and renovation of the present facilities.

How Dangerous, Or Safe, Is Sport Of Football?

(Editor's Note: This report, one of the most comprehensive ever compiled, is presented as a public service by the Sunday Brand in order that parents, players and spectators may have the facts on the subject.)

An over-generous chrysanthemum, a snappy pep squad, pert cheerleaders and a marching band—all add to the spirit of football.

As the boys suit out, the enthusiasm of the fans builds up.

This enthusiasm is equally matched by the apprehension of parents whose sons will soon be involved in one of the roughest sports in the nation.

Each year parents of junior high, high school and college students go through some anxious moments.

Even if parents have made the pre-season decision to let their sons play football, they are still concerned about the possibilities of their sons being injured in the game.

However, the Texas Safety Association reports that parents can relieve some of this tension by investigating football safety before Junior reaches the age of eligibility.

Safety experts do not attempt to answer the age-old question, "Should my boy play football?" — but, they can give parents some help in their decision by objectively reporting on "How safe is football?"

The Texas Safety Association has come up with some answers to major questions that parents frequently ask.

Just how safe is football? The safety association says for every 100 student accidents in the nation during the 1960-61 school year, 12 accidents were from football. The majority of the football accidents involved students from grades eight through 12. Twelfth grade students had three times as many football injuries as eighth and ninth graders and almost twice as many as tenth and eleventh grade students.

Out of 57,587 school jurisdiction accidents reported to the National Safety Council for the 1960-61 school year, there were 6,795 football accidents. Accidents included in the reports were those requiring a doctor's attention or causing absence from school of one-half day or more.

How do football injuries rate with other popular school sports? There were 4,376 basketball injuries, 3,340 baseball injuries, 1,858 injuries in track and field events and 1,728 injuries in volleyball and related sports.

These NSC figures, plus statistical reports from other groups doing specific research in the athletic field, show that your child has a greater chance of being injured in football during his school years, particularly after grade seven, than in any other athletic activity.

How rough is football? Football injuries number in the thousands annually and some deaths are directly the result of the sport. Approximately 760,000 boys are expected to participate in high school football this season. If one boy in every 11 were to be injured during the season, there would be more than 69,000 players hurt.

Some experts predict about 60,000 football injuries, with about one-third of these serious injuries—brain concussions, head injuries—being expected here this week.

First Irrigation Project Begins In Castro County

The first of a number of irrigation wells on the Flag Ranch in Castro county was tested Wednesday of this week. The developing test was made in the presence of D. L. McDonald of Hereford, who sold the equipment and Mr. Peden of Amarillo, who has charge of the development of that large body of land. The first run was entirely satisfactory. Large quantities of sand were pumped, requiring the work of a number of men and teams to keep the sand removed from the discharge basin. "Oceans of Water" were found in the well, which is something over 150 feet, but only 110 to the water level. The pump is a four stage Layne, placed at 150 feet deep with proper equipment of shafting and discharge pipe. The power is furnished by an 80-H. P. Bessmer Gas Engine using fuel oil. This equipment is pumping a large volume of water. The well is located on the extreme left "L" of the Flag Ranch, about 1 1/2 miles from Stiles settlement and about 6 miles from the south line of Castro County. The location of this well widens the irrigation territory in this section considerably and the result will be watched with interest. It might be well to mention that the Flag Ranch consisting of 48 sections of land, is owned by C. T. Herring, president of the Amarillo National Life Insurance Company. If this well proves profitable and satisfactory, other wells will be put down as rapidly as opportunity offers. Mr. Peden and his associates, who have charge of the development, have a drilling outfit of their own which will enable them to proceed as they find it proper.

25 YEARS AGO

Following the arrival of several representatives of J. E. Morgan and Sons, contractors on the Rural Electrification Project, in this territory, offices of the contractors has been established in the Williams Building, south of the City Hall. The building will be used for offices, storage of supplies, and as a storage place for company trucks. Work orders have been received by the contractors and all of the right-of-way easements have been secured by the Cooperative, according to H. V. Hennen, project supervisor. Contractors estimated that poles will be here by October 15, when actual work is scheduled to begin. Poles are expected to go in at the rate of four miles per day once the work is started. The date for hiring local men was also tentatively set for October 15. General equipment to be used in constructing the lines is expected here this week.

Archie And Tex View The Series

"Who's gonna win?" Archie asked as he slid into the booth opposite Tex.

"You talkin' about Ol' Miss or the World Series?" Tex wanted to know.

"Well, seems like Kennedy and Barnett and Meredith and Walker have that all taken care of now, so I must be talkin' about the Series."

Tex pondered a moment, just for emphasis; he'd already made up his mind. "The Yankees are runnin' too fast for the Giants to catch 'em," he opined, sipping his coffee noisily for emphasis. "Another thing, it sure was nice that they scheduled Saturday for travel. That way I didn't miss that football game on TV."

Nodding agreement, Archie said, "I sure hate it, but I guess I have to go along with you. But I really would like to see those Giants, or anyone else, knock off the Yankees."

Tex poured down the rest of his coffee, chased it with water and got up. "Only thing about the Series is that October don't seem the right time for baseball. After September, we oughta just have football. Well, so long!"

Archie drained his cup and stubbed out his cigarette before it dawned on him that he'd been stuck for the coffee again. "One of these days," he mumbled, "I'm gonna learn to sit by myself."

Football...

 hemorrhages, torn knee tendons, ruptured kidneys and broken bones.

What about deaths? Last year there were 10 deaths among high school football players which were attributed directly to the game. This is one less than for the previous year. In college football there were six fatalities — four less than in high school football. However, the fatality incidence last year per 100,000 high school players was much lower than for college.

How do football fatalities rate with other accidental deaths of high school age children? According to national statistics, over 4,000 children from age 14 through age 17 die from accidents annually. About 2,500 of these accidental deaths are results of motor vehicle accidents; 730, drownings, 400, firearms; 113, fires and burns; and 270, other causes.

Compared with other accidental deaths, a football fatality is considered rare, whether it involves high school, college or professional football. In the past 30 years there have been some 530 deaths attributed to the sport. This includes deaths from playing football on sandlots, in high schools, colleges and pro ball games.

There were 37 football fatalities in the nation last season. Eighteen of these were from indirect causes, such as heat exhaustion and heart failure, and infection. The other 19 deaths were from direct causes such as hard contact in games or practice. Three of 19 were sandlot fatalities; six, college; and the 10, high school.

Why all the fuss about football? The popularity of football as a national sport increases its news value. It is given prominent play by all communication media. A football fatality, naturally, receives wide-publicity. Apprehension of parents increases with each fatality.

What is being done about injuries and fatalities? Parents are not the only ones concerned about the safety of football. Those associated with the sport are too. Safety associations, football organizations, coaches, equipment designers and manufacturers and our nation's medical doctors are concerned.

Continuous scientific research is being carried on by such groups to eliminate football injuries. Their findings and recommendations can be useful to parents in making the decision of whether or not to let their sons head for the locker room with the rest of the boys.

Where do parents begin? At home. Why your son plays football is important. A sincere desire to play and a love of the sport is important. A boy should not be pushed into playing football because someone else wants him to, nor should he be expected to measure up to the family football hero.

There is more danger of a boy making mistakes and getting hurt if he goes into football half-heartedly. He may also be inclined to take chances in playing to impress others, or worse yet, a psychological problem may develop if he feels his poor playing or judgment is hurting his team.

What are the physical requirements? A boy should be in the best physical condition. A complete pre-season physical with periodic check-ups is necessary. Team physicians usually are men familiar with the dangers of sports and aware of the physical needs of a boy for participating in the rugged game of football.

A medical history of the player is of great assistance to a team physician in determining the player's condition. In addition, a physical given by the family physician also is extra insurance of his fitness. The family physician is more likely to be familiar with particular health problems of the individual player.

A boy may be physically healthy and still not be football material. His physical adequacy plays a large role. The stature of the boy should be taken into consideration. A tall thin boy may have a ligamentary structure unsuited to the game. Ligaments must be binding to support skeletal structure; otherwise, there is a danger of fractures, dislocations and slipped bone growth junctions.

How much preparation is necessary for each season? Conditioning for football is a 12-months job. A boy planning to play football should work for muscle development. Hard summer labor is recommended for physical development.

The American Medical Association recently cited some special precautions which should be observed for workouts in excessively hot and humid weather as guards against heat exhaustion and heat stroke. With almost one half of the football fatalities last year attributed to indirect causes — heat exhaustion and heart failure and infection — parents should take note of these suggestions of the AMA and see that they are being carried out on their son's team.

AMA suggests: workouts be scheduled for cool morning and early evening hours; athletes be acclimated by graduated practice schedules; coaches provide rest periods of 15 to 30 minutes during hour workouts; clothing should be applied which reflects heat, permits heat escape and allows heat loss via sweat; extra salt and water should be furnished in recommended amounts; and athletes should be watched for signs of trouble.

Temperature and humidity are the important factors in heat exhaustion and heat stroke; not the sun. The medical association also says the old idea of withholding water during workouts has no scientific foundation. Such restriction as depleting water in the body can lead to heat exhaustion. Gulping water is not recommended, but drinking half a glass at a time is better.

What about equipment? If your school cannot afford good equipment for each boy, including scrub players, then the school should not have a team. Ill-fitting and worn-out gear is dangerous. The most important item is the helmet. Nine of last year's 10 fatalities in high schools were caused by blows to the head or neck.

As the shock factor is inseparable from the game there may never be a perfect helmet that will take up the difference between the impact from a blow on the head with impunity and the impact that may seriously injure the player.

Research in this field is continuing. The plastic helmet is generally accepted as the best helmet being used today. Various studies have revealed it to be superior to many other hard shelled helmets. Helmets equipped with an inner suspension are favored as they are thought to reduce and distribute impact. The helmet must fit properly and be adjusted carefully.

Equal attention should be given to the shoulder pads and to the girdle which includes protection for hips, kidneys, abdomen and other regions. The mouth or tooth guard, can prevent not only tooth and tissue injuries, but also jaw fractures and concussions. A test in Kansas City schools has showed that of 540 players wearing mouth protectors, not one suffered tooth injury.

What do you look for in a coach? The coach should be many things — first, he should be safety-minded. His attitude may determine whether a player gets hurt or not. His record at other schools will show how many gridiron injuries occurred while he was a coach. A good coach usually establishes a good safety record.

All coaches, like all players, want a winning team, but a good coach puts the welfare of the players first. He requires a physician to be present at all games and ready to call. He will never overrule the advice of the physician on the ability of an injured player to go

Mrs. Leggett Is Named Librarian

Mrs. Olean Leggett of Wellington, former resident of Hereford, has been named head of the Clovis, N. M., public library and will leave Wellington Sunday, Oct. 7, to begin her new work.

Mrs. Leggett returned to Wellington to make her home in June after retiring as librarian of Hereford High School, a post she held for six years. Prior to that time she was librarian of the high school and college at Clarendon for five years.

She is also a former teacher in the Wellington Schools. Mrs. Leggett has four children: Mrs. Don Little of El Paso and Richard Leggett of Dallas, both former residents of Hereford; Mrs. Charles Villyard of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. James Bunting of Albuquerque, N. M.

back into the game. He insists that all players are suited out properly for practice as well as for games. He keeps close check on the attitude of his players and sees that the playing field is safe—that it is kept grassy and free of glass, stones and other dangerous objects.

In defense of coaches, it must be stressed that the public should never pressure him to win. If his job depends on winning a game or getting fired then he might weaken his safety practices. His take-home pay also should be in line with other coaches.

The football official is also important to the safety of the player. He should be well-trained for his job and not be easily intimidated by crowds, coaches, or players. Putting the welfare of the players first, he will have a fast whistle for unnecessary roughness and other violations of football rules.
