

Korean Troops To Stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Expressing its own views on foreign affairs, the Senate is unwilling to endorse President Carter's proposal to withdraw U.S. ground troops from South Korea.

Senators also don't want to impose preconditions on talks which could lead to normalized relations with Cuba, and are making it clear they are not prepared to accept any administration proposal for aid or reparations to Vietnam.

The Carter Administration has not recommended any such assistance for the communist government in Vietnam.

The Senate made its views known on foreign affairs on Thursday during a 10-hour debate on a $6 billion State Department authorization bill. The measure passed 64-21.

The Senate dropped from the bill a provision recommended by the foreign Relations Committee endorsing the timing and wisdom of the proposed pullout of ground forces from Korea.

Instead it voted 79-15 that any reduction or withdrawal should be ordered by the President and Congress. The provision was written by Majority Leader Robert Byrd.

The vote made it clear that the Senate wants to be consulted on any withdrawal, a concept on which it is still sharply divided. Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said the vote was a defeat for the President. Baker and other senators said that withdrawal over four or five years, as Carter is proposing, could tempt North Korea to invade the South and could lead to a possible war involving the United States.

Baker and other senators said that besides the possibility of a possible invasion, the troop withdrawal proposal could upset the military stability of much of Asia. They said it could encourage the resurgence of Japanese militarism by posing a military threat to that country's security.

Carter has said the troop withdrawal he proposes would involve ground forces only. He has said the United States remains firm in its commitment and will defend South Korea from attack and intends to maintain air and naval forces equipped with nuclear weapons to carry out that commitment.

Earlier, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., tried to defuse what he predicted would be a "long and vitriolic" debate on Cuba. He deleted an amendment he was backing which would have permitted Cuba to buy medical supplies and farm produce in the United States.

McGovern sought originally to have the 16-year trade embargo against Cuba lifted. He said the reduced scope of his amendment would have been only a "small gesture" to encourage the success of negotiations aimed at normalizing relations between Cuba and the United States.

But a group of senators insisted on pressing for passage of amendments offered by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., to impose a rigid set of preconditions on Cuba before the United States could move to restore diplomatic and trade relations.

Special Session Date Scheduled For July 11

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says he believes House and Senate members are close enough to agreement on public school financing that he can call a special session for July 11.

"I think we should be able to accomplish the work of the session in a week or 10 days," the governor told a news conference Thursday.

The formal call for the special session, only the second in Briscoe's five years as governor, will be issued later, detailing exactly what he wants the 181 legislators to consider.

"Right now the only subject I have definitely decided to include in the call is public education financing," Briscoe said. "I have not decided on the other matters which have been discussed with me."

He said the other possible issues for the special session include repeal of state sales taxes on residential electric and gas bills and revision of property taxes.

Briscoe said he planned to complete his review of all the work of the 65th Legislature's regular session, including the $15.5 billion general appropriations bill, by Friday afternoon.

The governor said he planned to be in Houston Friday and Friday night and Amarillo Saturday for a luncheon.

Sunday, he and Mrs. Briscoe with their daughter, Cele, plan to fly to Vienna where Cele will be among those presented at an international debutantes' ball. Briscoe said they plan to return to Texas by July 7.

Briscoe was reminded that his original announcement for a special session said he would not call the 181 legislators back to Austin until he was sure they could agree promptly on public school financing.

"I think we have enough agreement now where it would be possible in a relative short period of time to work out a reasonable public education financing

Decision 'Wrong' On Time-Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress soon will be asked to wipe out the effects of a Supreme Court ruling that says workers have no legal right to take a day off for religious reasons.

The Supreme Court decision is wrong, Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said Thursday after hearing the high court's ruling. "I shall renew my legislative efforts in this issue."

It was Randolph who in 1972 pushed legislation through Congress making it clear that the under Civil Rights Act of 1964 employers would have to accommodate religious employees whenever possible.

But the Supreme Court in a 7-2 decision Thursday, ruled that employers are not required to give an employee certain days off because of religious beliefs if a seniority system bars such accommodation or if such action would amount to preferential treatment.

"In the absence of clear statutory language or legislative history to the contrary, we will not readily construe the statute to require an employer to discriminate against some employees in order to enable others to observe their sabbath," Justice Byron White said in the majority opinion.

The ruling is a major legal defeat for millions whose religions dictate that they not work on particular days of the week. It carries impact for Orthodox Jews, Seventh-Day Adventists, Seventh-Day Baptists and members of the Worldwide Church of God.

Randolph, a Seventh-Day Baptist, indicated he would seek a new law that could not be misinterpreted by the court.

"Our great tradition of religious freedom and our nation's accommodation of religious diversity has been severely damaged," he said in referring to the high court's action.

The court's two dissenters used even stronger language.

"All Americans will be a little poorer until today's decision is erased," said Justices Thurgood Marshall and William

Brennan. "The ultimate tragedy is that, despite Congress's best efforts, one of this nation's pillars of strength—our hospitality to religious diversity—has been seriously eroded."

The case decided by the court involved a Trans World Airlines worker, Larry Hardison, who was fired in 1969 for refusing to work from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday, observed as the sabbath by the Worldwide Church of God.

Hardison sued TWA and his union, the International Association of Machinists, charging religious discrimination. He won in the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hard Luck Greets Mexican Laborer

Editor's note—There are an estimated 12 million illegal aliens in the United States, most of whom are among the 40 per cent of the labor force in Mexico that is either unemployed or underemployed. The illegal aliens, more commonly known as "wetbacks", enjoy better wages, work security and usually fewer hours while working in this country's farming areas. One such Mexican never realized those benefits. The following is his story, which he assured the Brand is true.

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Many try again, those who are caught, but Higinio Higuera, seven days an illegal alien in the United States, has decided that once in enough.

Higuera, disappointed but seemingly harboring no resentment, slumped in a Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office chair and related how a land of opportunity and hope suddenly had become a heartbreak.

"What they're doing to me is right. I'm from Mexico and I don't belong here. I don't have anything bad to say about this jail. I belong here. If I lost, I lost," Higuera said through an interpreter, a Mexican-American trustee of the Deaf Smith County Jail.

Higuera was taken into custody late Wednesday afternoon by Texas Department of Public Safety troopers checking citizenship papers in a sugarbeet field on a farm near Hereford. He remains in a jail cell today, awaiting deportation to Mexico by the U.S. Border Patrol, a few short days after he left his home in Nuevo Laredo in search of work.

His wife, he says, is eight months pregnant, his grandfather sick with lung decay. Higuera's story would make a good scene in a Mexican soap opera.

Compadres in Nuevo Laredo told him of Hereford and how they had made good money working on the farms. None had been caught and sent back. The thought never crossed Higuera's mind as he journeyed northward, walking and thumbing rides, toward the Texas Panhandle.

It took him five days to reach Hereford, in the middle of one of the country's richest farming areas.

"I met some Mexican people here and they asked me what I was doing and I told them I was looking for a job. So they found me a job. They took me to a farm and I started hoeing sugarbeets."

Westheimer Might Be Added To Voting Rights Act Cases

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The number of Voting Rights Act cases in Texas involved in the consolidation under the heading "Hereford Independent School District vs. Griffin B. Bell" probably will be seven when the hearing for the lawsuits convenes either later this month or in early July.

There now are six cases involved in the consolidation, with the Westheimer Independent School District expected to be added prior to the hearing. A three-judge panel in district court for the northern district of Texas probably will decide whether or not school districts and cities in Texas are covered by the controversial Voting Rights Act of 1965.

The act was amended to include Texas political subdivisions in 1975. Any political entities changing voting procedure is required, according to the U.S. Department of Justice, to submit a pre-clearance application with the office of U.S. Attorney General Bell.

Bell's office turned down the Hereford Independent School District's request to change from an at-large to place system of voting in 1974. The HISD filed suit against Bell, then went ahead with the election.

The other five entities in the consolidation which include four school districts and the city of Beeville, were the subject of lawsuits from the attorney general.

Westheimer Independent School District was created in 1972. Westheimer is an area inside the city limits of Houston with a population of around 8,000.

Both the Justice Department and a Houston citizen's group, the Coalition to Preserve Houston, have filed suit against the WISD.

"We're trying to organize a school district inside Houston where basic education will be taught to children," said a source familiar with the new district. "We formed it because of the poor quality of education in Houston schools."

The source said Houston schools support a no-fail system in the classroom because of the large enrollments in most schools.

The Houston Independent School District has spent more than $225,000 fighting the formation of the new school district, according to a recent Houston Post story.

U.S. District Judge James L. Noel Jr. in Houston is considering a request to consolidate a portion of the case with the other six entities. Westheimer attorneys want the issue of coverage under the Voting Rights Act and the question of whether a three-judge court must hear the case decided in the consolidation.

Graham Challenges Baptists To Action

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Calling for an all-out war to win souls, evangelist Billy Graham closed the annual Southern Baptist Convention Thursday night by challenging Christians to stand up to mental, possibly physical persecution.

Earlier, 16,000 delegates reaffirmed their position that homosexuality is a sin, passed a resolution praising singer Anita Bryant for her stand on the issue, and heard U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young Jr. describe the world as divided in a "balance of terror."

An estimated 20,000 persons were on hand for Graham's speech, the concluding event of the three-day convention for the nation's largest Protestant denomination. Southern Baptists claim some 13 million members nationwide, including Miss Bryant and President Jimmy Carter, who addressed delegates opening night via videotape.

Five Years Ago, Watergate Started

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the rear stairwell door of an office on the sixth floor of the Watergate building is a plaque commemorating a pipsqueak burglary that occurred five years ago today.

The plaque is one of the few tangible reminders of the July 17, 1972, break in at the Democratic Headquarters that eventually forced Richard Nixon out of office and his chieftains into prison.

Now the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences occupies the offices. For the many curious visitors who want to peek at the famous spot, the institute installed the plaque and hands out pamphlets.

Company Enquiled With Possible Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department may be asked to investigate whether Gulf Oil Corp. violated U.S. antitrust laws by joining an international uranium price fixing cartel, says the chairman of a House investigations unit.

It's "quite possible" that the committee will decide to turn its evidence over to government prosecutors, despite Gulf's contention that it did nothing wrong, said Rep. John Moss, D-Calif.

The commerce investigations subcommittee, headed by Moss, continues hearings on the cartel today with testimony from former and present Gulf officials who attended meetings of the cartel around the world.

Gulf admits participating in the cartel through its Canadian uranium-producing subsidiary, but says it was compelled by the Canadian government to join the organization.

Police Report

Hereford police Thursday investigated a stolen citizen's band radio antenna and a report of criminal mischief.

Albert Cherry, 309 Lawton, reported that a CB antenna valued at $10.50 was stolen from his car along with a mirror valued at $5.50.

A water balloon was thrown by a juvenile through the windshield of a pickup owned by N.D. Kelso, 243 Aspen, at 2:42 p.m. Thursday.

Texas Regent

Gov. Dolph Briscoe Thursday re-appointed Clint Forby of Hereford, owner of Radio Station KPAN in Hereford and president of Forby Radio Stations, to the board of regents of Texas Tech University in Lubbock. Roy K. Furr, of Lubbock, president of Furr's Inc. grocery chain, was named a regent to replace Bill E. Collins of Lubbock, whose term expired. James L. Snyder, Baird, a rancher, was named to succeed Dr. John J. Hinchey, San Antonio, whose term also expired. Forby, past chairman of the board of regents, was graduated from Tech in 1949 with a degree in journalism and government. He was appointed to his first term as a regent in 1974. "I kind of have mixed emotions about it [the re-appointment]," Forby said. "Six years is a long time. But because of the medical school and the other challenges at Texas Tech, the opportunity of one board can help it achieve the goals that have been laid out but have not been fulfilled." Letter To The Editor

To The Editor:
I'm getting tired of the fact that every few years someone new (such as your reporter) rediscovers the Labor Camp. We read the same old reports about the terrible conditions out there. Once again, area news media are picking up the story and Hereford is getting another "black eye". Why continually raise old issues that can't or won't be solved? Sure, some improvements can be made in the Camp, but they must be done by its inhabitants. The City of Hereford absolutely cannot, legally or practically, do ANYTHING about it!

The Camp was not planned to be a community. It was to be free housing a few weeks each year for imported, male laborers, who saved their earnings and took most of them back to Mexico with them. Unfortunately, home sites were sold adjacent to the Camp for permanent housing. Then the Catholics moved church buildings out there. This was all well meant, but it helped to make something permanent which never should have been.

Even if unlimited funds were available with no legal restrictions, we still could not solve this dilemma. Streets and allies are all wrong, and there is a major flood hazard which I doubt could be corrected. Many, if not most, buildings would have to be condemned or moved. Its proximity to Hereford would make utility services practically impossible. There are just too many major problems with no practical solutions.

Possibly a new housing development could be constructed less expensively than the Camp could be rehabilitated. Normally, an addition is planned and then approved by the City before it is annexed and supplied city services. You just can't do it backward and make it work. IT A TIME WE FACE THE FACTS.

The latest articles never mention past efforts that were made by local citizens to solve the problems. A few years ago, several Hereford businessmen agreed tentatively to underwrite construction of new living units to replace the barracks out there. They had to rescind the offer when informed that they must guarantee the loans involved for a full FORTY YEARS! And who wouldn't?

It's bad enough when outsiders repetitiously stir this thing up, but why do we do it to ourselves? Once and for all, the citizens of Hereford are not responsible for the conditions in the Labor Camp; did not cause them, and have not stood in the way of improvements. Nor have they benefited from the thing. If someone has something constructive to say or do, then let's hear it; otherwise, they should remain silent. We don't need to be told that story again—we know it better than they do!

Respectfully yours,
Gene Campbell

Driver Safety Concern Of Deaf Smith REC

Safety is a priority concern of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative. Recently, 18 REC employees who have been assigned responsibility for various vehicles were honored with a breakfast by USF&G Insurance Co. for their safe driving.

Calvin Stevens of USF&G Co., Lubbock, complimented these drivers for their skill, expertise and safety consciousness, despite their continued exposure to accident-causing situations.

Bill Feagley and Boyd Collins were cited for driving 16 years without an accident, as was Tommie Weemes for 15 years. Others receiving awards included: Marion Carter, Don Cox, Harold Finch, Sam Garrison, Max Griego, Ed Hartley, Jimmie Holmes, James Hull, Lee Jones, Dick Montgomery, Lorran Nixon, Monty Noyes, Don Rieves, David Pruitt and Morley DeSautell.

These employees have accumulated a total of 121 years of safe driving.

Spain's Premier Considers Economy

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Bolstered by the prospect of a near-majority in Spain's first elected parliament in four decades, Premier Adolfo Suarez gave top priority today to meeting the nation's deepening economic crisis.

A spokesman for Suarez' Democratic Center Union UDC said the economic situation would be the primary problem for the new government the 44-year-old premier will form. The fight to solve the crisis must have "the support of all Spanish political forces," he declared.

Political sources said devaluation of the peseta was being considered to make Spanish exports more competitive.

Spain's annual inflation rate is more than 20 per cent, one of the highest in Western Europe. Unemployment is also high, increased by the return home of Spanish laborers laid off in France, West Germany and Switzerland. This has also cut off an important supply of foreign currency and of funds for the workers' families.

Industrial development has been stalled by uncertainty over the political future.

The cabinet, most of whom Suarez inherited from Francoist Premier Carlos Ari Navarro last July, is expected to resign this weekend so the premier can form a government reflecting the outcome of the election Wednesday.

Final official results of the voting were expected tonight. But the Interior Ministry said it appeared that Suarez' moderate coalition would get 170 of the 350 seats in the Chamber of Deputies, only six short of a majority in the lower house of the new Cortes.

The ministry figured the Socialist Workers party headed by Felipe Gonzales would get 116 seats, the Communists would have 20, dictator Francisco Franco's disciples in the right-wing Popular Alliance would get only 17, and Catalan and Basque regional parties would each get 10.

Both the Justice Department and Coalition to Preserve Houston reportedly want the entire case consolidated.

Judge Noel is expected to make a decision within a few days.

School districts already involved in the consolidation are Hereford, Midland, Trinity and Hawkins. Beeville's case involves a city election.

Earlier, Briscoe said he had said he might call the lawmakers back on July 8 in order to let committees work over the weekend. Speaker Bill Clavton, who recommended the July 8 date, said he thought the session could be over by Friday, July 15, unless Briscoe opened the debate to subjects other than public school financing.

The special session became necessary when the regular legislative session quit May 30 without acting on a $900 public school financing bill, including $308 million in school teachers' pay raises.

The property tax revision bill and the repeal of utility taxes passed the House in the regular session but died in the Senate.

Juvenile Arrested In Midland Murder

Midland police arrested a 16-year-old youth Thursday in connection with the stabbing death of a pregnant Midland woman Tuesday.

The arrest was made at the youth's home about 12:30 a.m. Thursday on suspicion of two counts of capital murder and one count of forgery.

Earl Luckey reported that the youth was arrested after he passed a forged check which belonged to the murder victim, Mrs. Janice Abernathy, at a Midland grocery store. Luckey labeled the youth "Mr. school," and stated that he was one of the finest junior high athletes to come out of Midland schools.

Juvenile Judge Barbara Culver ordered the youth held in Midland County jail.

A motion is expected to be filed in the Midland district attorney's office to have the suspect certified to stand trial as an adult.

Law enforcement officials from Borger had been making preparations to travel to Midland to compare notes with law officials there. Borger police have been investigating a similar murder believed to have been committed by the so-called "Traveling Rapist" but Thursday's events apparently disproved that theory.

Detective Captain B.D. Ray of Midland reported that a fixed handle knife with a 5 1/2 inch handle was found near the body of the 23-year-old Mrs.

Abernathy, and was the murder weapon.

Ray added that the knife was not a utensil from the Abernathy home but was apparently carried in by the killer.

Upon recommendation of the youth's court-appointed attorney, Judge Culver decided that the offense was of a serious enough nature to warrant segregation from other prisoners at the juvenile facility in Midland.

Grapefruit shield, gum locket, cheek pad

Rummaging in the Patent Office attic

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Americans have been inventing things since well since they invented America. In two centuries more than four million federal patents have been issued for individual or collective genius. For Morse's telegraph, for Edison's incandescent lamp for Faliek's grapefruit shield.

Faliek's grapefruit shield? Joseph Faliek was responsible for that one patent number 1,661,036 issued in February of 1927. The invention was designed to be attached to the fruit as a kind of mud flap where it was guaranteed to protect the eater from a squirt in the eye. Ah, yes, whatever would we do without it?

And what also would we do without the chewing gum locket? It was patented in 1889, number 395,515. The creator described it as an object for holding used gum with safety, cleanliness and convenience. Thus secured around the neck, the gum was handy for re-chewing and also hidden from the hands of persons to whom it doesn't belong.

Quite obvious, not all of America's four million patents have become household favorites. Inventors like songwriters give birth to fewer hits than misses. Lonely is the genius who labors in his workshop for the progress of man, lonelier still is he who succeeds merely in finding a solution which is worse than the problem.

Take Thomas Best, for example. Early this century he was struck by the fact that some people had sunken cheeks and therefore looked to him emaciated. So he invented a "cheek expanding pad," two of which were to be used as falsies for the mouth. Unfortunately, they made wearers look like they really were sick, with mumps, they bombed.

Then there was the classic fire escape invention of 1879. It was in actuality a small parachute which could be buckled to a fire victim's head so that he "may safely jump out of the window of a burning building." There is no record of whether it was ever tried, if it was no survivor has come to public attention.

Incidentally, fire escape inventions have been frequent. One man marketed a device in the 1920s which he called a co-cone the wearer would get in it, blow it up like an innertube and allegedly hit the ground with a bounce. Also there is patent number 323,416, a pair of elastic suspenders that may also be used as a fire-escape rope.

Very often, according to the U.S. Patent Office, inventions have merely been improvements on other inventions. Such as Phillip Anthony's patented privy of 1886. Not content with just a hut over a hole, inventor Anthony created a privy on wheels — it rolled over the hole when in use, and then rolled away to facilitate clean up.

Of course, that privy could also be outfitted with an "improvement in privy seats" which was patented in 1869. To eliminate discomfort and to increase mobility, the seat inventor attached rollers to his sit-downer. The patent application said the rollers were a security and convenience and would "precipitate the user on to the floor."

Convenience. It's a word that appears again and again on U.S. patent descriptions. It was obviously what the inventor of the "male bicycle seat" had in mind when he hollowed out the padding for convenience of the genitals. It was also what J.C. Boyle considered when in 1896 he invented a fully automatic, self-tipping derby.

But necessity, not convenience, is more often the mother of invention. And so in 1896 someone invented an electrical bedbug exterminator. In 1905, Emmie and Emily Thayer devised a "no hands" makeup mirror which was hooked to one's ears. And, in 1907, Ignatius Soares created an ominous contrivance to be worn for reshaping noses.

Not all of the inventions of necessity have been so frivolous. Last century an undertaker named Almon Strouger found that the central telephone operator was tipping his party lines whenever the party lines reported a community death. To fix that operator, and to save his business, Strouger invented the direct dialing system.

And yet for every invention that has filled a need, there have been many others that haven't. Balloons powered by eagles. Shoulder braces to keep students from slouching at their desks. In 1882 a man invented an alarm clock which, at the appointed hour, dropped a large frame of wooden blocks to beat on the unfortunate sleephead.

What's more, this kind of genius is not on the wane. Many of today's inventions also seem destined for utter obscurity.

The Abundant Life

LIBERTY NOT LICENSE

By Bob Wear

We cannot be free in any absolute sense of freedom, but there is a very real sense in which we can be free. Freedom is not license to do as we please. It is submission to the best known guidelines and standards. License is self-indulgence and the most distressful kind of personal bondage.

A society in which license is mistaken for freedom will destroy itself. Such unrestrained behavior will soon bring anarchy, confusion and chaos. Calling license freedom will not prevent the inevitable loss.

Our right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is not the right to do as we please. No one is entitled to such unrestrained behavior. The rights and privileges of all must be limited by the inherent rights of others.

We must grant to others the same freedom we expect for ourselves. If we are able to abridge another's liberty, to that extent somebody can limit our liberty. Liberty is not license to mistreat others, or damage their possessions.

During our brief national life, the individual citizen has probably known and enjoyed more personal liberty than any other person anywhere on earth. We must remember, however, that there is no guarantee that such freedom can continue forever.

Freedom is always threatened. This is why Jefferson warned, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." This is the obligation of all who wish to be free, with each one meeting the obligation to the best of human effort.

We must understand enough about the fundamental principles of individual liberty to know when the liberty is being threatened by men or ideas or movements. We must also remember that looseness in personal and social morals will eventually destroy freedom.

We must know which political concepts endanger and which protect our cherished freedoms. We can know, and for the sake and that of our posterity, we must know.

People, in times past, have been known to perish because of a lack of knowledge. Historically, truth and freedom are inseparable, but knowing is not enough. We can know, and still lose all we have because of indifference. Therefore, we must be intelligently alert.

Liberty for the individual is based upon the value and worth of mankind as having been made in God's likeness. This type of freedom depends upon morality, decency, industry, thrift and devotion to ideals. It requires the exaltation of spiritual values, the intelligent actions and the continuing appreciation of human dignity.

"Liberty cannot be maintained without morality, nor morality without faith." Anon. When these are undermined and treated with contempt, liberty will be lost.

Liberty is not license to do as we please, but is the right to do right, so far as we know the right.

Helicopter Transfers Newborn

The newborn child of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Casey was flown to the Emergency Receiving Center in Amarillo Thursday morning after complications developed.

The baby born was born prematurely at Deaf Smith General Hospital here and a helicopter from the Potter County Sheriff's Department was called in when the child developed respiratory difficulties, according to a spokesman for the local hospital.

The helicopter arrived in Hereford at approximately 10:30 Thursday morning and transferred the child to Amarillo.

The newborn's condition was reported as stable at Brand prestime.

A neurosis is a conflict in the mind of a fundamentally healthy person; a psychosis represents a distortion in the personality.

Produce Abundant At Supermarkets

COLLEGE STATION--Fruit and vegetable abundance and low prices are this week's food buying newsmakers, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist.

Mrs. Clyatt is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her analysis of this week's buying picture follows:

FRESH FRUITS--Watermelon and honeydew supplies are larger, and prices are lower. Adequate supplies of strawberries, oranges and grapefruit are still available--and winter pears are plentiful with attractive prices.

FRESH VEGETABLES--Good supplies and low prices signal economy buys on soft-shell squash, yellow, patty pan and zucchini. Other good buys are cabbage, carrots, snap beans, broccoli, mustard greens, corn, head lettuce, green onions, radishes, cucumbers and sweet green peppers.

PROCESSED VEGETABLES--Plentiful items include canned sweet corn and green peas, frozen corn-on-the-cob, cut corn and frozen potatoes.

DAIRY--Features include cheeses, half and half, sour cream, yogurt and margarine.

POULTRY--Egg protein is comparable to meat protein in quality--and the price is lower. Fryer chicken prices are advancing with increased summertime demand, but the whole bird costs less per pound than parts.

BEEF--Prices are up just slightly, but economical choices are cuts in less demand--chuck roasts and steaks, rib and round steaks, ground beef and liver.

PORK--Supplies are in a seasonal decline, but excellent choices are still on the market, so check for features on Boston butt roasts, shoulder steaks, quarter-loin sliced into chops and pork liver.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Quality cantaloupes will pass several tests--most have a smooth stem scar, distinctive fragrance, course-corky netting and yellowish background.

Fewer Walls Suggested As Space-Saver Idea

COLLEGE STATION--"Space emphasis" in home planning can give a family about 30 per cent more of it, says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Space is expensive, but it is abundant when families rethink their shelter needs--remembering that average American home designs waste about 30 per cent of their total space, she said.

Mrs. Young is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Most important, she says, is to budget for the most square footage possible for family indoor freedom.

To save space--and money--build fewer walls, she advises. "Fewer walls mean fewer halls, which need only five per cent of total floor space--freeing the surplus for well-planned storage space.

"When storage needs are met, most bedrooms can be smaller.

"That, in turn, frees living areas of the cluttered, closed-in feeling--and adds spaciousness to family living areas."

When it makes sense, let one room do-for-two, she suggests. "A living-den, for example, is practical--while the formal living room dining room syndrome usually is not, except on holidays."

Also, the master bedroom might play double by serving as a sitting room by day.

Save space in a compact kitchen and bathrooms, too, by planning them with "step-savings" in mind. Overall, stay stingy with footage, in lesser-used areas--and spend the leftover freely in family breathing s-p-a-c-e.

Wife's Career Gives Spouse Extra Stress

COLLEGE STATION--Most wives with careers put extra stress on their husbands, says Debby Johnson, a family life education specialist.

"Dual-career" marriages are increasing, but for most husbands, coping with this new life style is difficult, she added.

A recent study of husbands with career-oriented wives found that the husband faces many stresses.

"Husbands whose wives work are in poorer health and are less content with their marriage, work and life in general than husbands whose wives are not employed, the study reported.

"This indicates that men whose wives work face greater stresses--even though their standard of living is enhanced by the wife's income," she said.

Miss Johnson is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In general, she said findings pinpoint three major reasons for husband inability to adjust to a wife's career:

--In many cases the husband loses his wife's attention and must spend time helping with chores around the house.

He may also view her employment as a loss of status for himself.

While the wife grows and expands her roles and gains feelings of self-esteem, the husband feels he has taken on "lesser" roles that threaten his self-esteem.

Men do not feel that their "lesser" role in a dual-career marriage contributes to the personal growth and fulfillment of the marriage.

MAYOR BARTLEY DOWELL SIGNS PROCLAMATION ...for CowBelles Ruth Newsom and Sunny Lemons

Ann Landers Lonesome Blues

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have never written to you before but after I read the letter signed "Lonesome" I knew my time had come.

My in-laws are also "Lonesome"--or at least that's what they tell everybody. We hear from many people that they complain constantly about how we ignore them and how hurt they are. It burns me up.

Last Sunday my husband and I and the kids went to see them and it was the same old story. Grandma and Grandpa talked about nothing but how sick they are, how much they suffer (she with backaches and he with rheumatism in his legs). It is a real contest to see who is in worse shape.

Then they tell us for the 50th time about how bad their operations were. (Hers two years ago for a tumor, his five years ago for a hernia.)

They are so self-centered it is awful. Never a question about the children or my husband's job or my interests. All they want to do is talk about themselves and their sicknesses.

Also, whenever we go to see them they greet us with "We didn't think you were coming." I wonder how many other "Lonesome" parents there are around? If so, maybe there's a good reason their children don't visit them more often.-- Cause And Effect.

DEAR CAUSE: There are plenty around, and I heard from dozens of them. Your signature was most appropriate. Whenever you get an "effect" like the one described in your letter there's got to be a "cause." Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN: Asking a waiter where he bought his shirt and telling him it is SO attractive it surely must be imported. (The waiter squirms and says, "Lady, it's from Ward's.") Asking a local tailor what country produced his "interesting" accent. The embarrassed man apologizes because his English is poor.

Asking a bus driver if he is Jamaican and having him reply: "Why is it important to where I come from?"

Asking a librarian if she had ever been an actress because she speaks so professionally. (The woman explains that she had speech therapy to overcome a stroke.)

Every time my friend does this number on strangers I cringe, and she does it everywhere--L.M. From Kansas City.

DEAR L.M.: Your friend, I suspect, asks "none-of-your-business" type questions because she wants to show strangers that she is interested in them. While it may seem gauche to you, I don't think she comes off quite so crass to others.

Some people act embarrassed because they don't know how to handle a compliment. Minus the Jamaican bus driver, the rest of the question were actually praise in disguise. Your friend sounds like a jewel with some rough edges. CONFIDENTIAL to Back to God Maybe?: Maybe. According to a recent Gallup Poll, U.S. church and synagogue attendance was up in 1976 for the first time in 18 years.

Citizens Asked to Include Beef on Father's Day Menu

Mayor Bartley Dowell urged all business organizations, producers and consumers to eat beef on Father's Day in a proclamation signed here Wednesday.

In cooperation with Hereford CowBelles, Mayor Dowell designated June 19 as Beef for Father's Day in Hereford. In his declaration, Mayor Dowell encouraged the serving of beef in local homes on Father's Day so that beef "may take its rightful place among those foods served on special days and, in so doing, recognize the importance of the beef industry in our state and national economy."

The proclamation cited several reasons for planning a beef menu on Father's Day. The document stated:

"Whereas beef is a traditional American food; and Whereas the family is the backbone of this country and an important source of strength in modern society; and

Whereas the beef industry is the largest segment of the nation's agriculture industry and is vital to the local economy as well; and

Whereas beef is one of America's finest foods, rich in protein and other health-building nutrients proven beneficial to people of all ages; and

Whereas it is important that the people of Hereford recognize the importance of beef in their everyday lives; and

Whereas Father's Day is traditionally the time to honor the family and the beef industry for their contributions to the strength and welfare of this great state and nation;

I, W.B. Dowell, Mayor of the City of Hereford, do hereby proclaim the use of Beef for Father's Day on June 19, 1977."

YOUR GIFT

A minister I was listening to this week made the statement that the difference between us and other peoples is that we came to know why we were endowed with life. I've only recently accepted the fact that life is a gift. A gift that we can treat any way we like.

But to make this gift meaningful and significant, be a "giver"--give love, kindness, friendship and help to others. Achieve something each day, no matter how large or small it may seem.

Do something to have fun. Fun is an essential ingredient in the recipe of life.

Be responsible--practice self-discipline. Doing something you don't like builds strength.

Look for options and alternatives for dealing with stressful aspects in your life. Don't just "give up" when things get hairy!

Take your gift of life and make it meaningful to you and to the world in which you dwell.

Pentagon Recalls General After Comments To Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) - An American three-star general who predicted that the United States may become entangled in a Soviet Chinese war is in hot water with the Pentagon less than a month after another general lost his job for warning of a possible war in Korea.

John Singlaub was relieved as the Army's staff chief in Korea for saying President Carter's plans to withdraw ground troops from that country would lead to war.

Singlaub was ordered home from Korea for a meeting with Carter. But in Starry's case, White House press secretary Jody Powell said "There are no plans for Carter to speak with the general."

The difference may be that Singlaub publicly questioned Carter's planned troop withdrawal from Korea, while Starry did not cross any administration policy position. Even so, public comments about war by high U.S. officials are frowned upon when the administration is trying to ease world tension and eliminate nuclear arsenals.

Starry, a West Point graduate recently nominated for a fourth star, said in a commencement address that the Soviet Union and China probably will fight a major war during the students' lifetime and that the United States probably will become involved.

Late last month, Maj. Gen. Starry, commander of the Army's 5th Corps in Germany, was directed Wednesday to postpone a planned leave and report to the Pentagon today to explain his remarks to Army Secretary Clifford Alexander and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Bernard Rogers.

Starry, speaking at graduation exercises of American High School in Frankfurt last Friday, told students that "in your lifetime the Soviets will fight the Chinese, possibly simply continuing their 10-year-old border conflict, but more probably in a major war."

"Difficult as it may be to see the United States becoming involved in such a war, it is likely we would do so once it became apparent that one or the other of the antagonists was about to win and gain absolute control over the bulk of the Eurasian land mass," he added.

An Army spokesman said Starry's remarks do not represent the position of the Defense Department or the Army. "He was speaking on his own."

In his speech, Starry also talked about the Middle East, saying, "The Soviets will continue to encourage and help their Arab friends to try to eliminate the state of Israel. Our country may not be willing to go to war over this, but to turn our back on Israel would be very difficult, and to allow Soviet control of oil resources in the Middle East would be almost impossible."

Slovik Hearing Set After Widow's Request

WASHINGTON (AP) - Five military officers will decide whether the Army was wrong more than 32 years ago when it ordered a firing squad to kill Pvt. Eddie Slovik, a self-confessed deserter who was terrified of the sound of guns.

Antoinette Slovik, the soldier's crippled and indigent widow, has asked the Army Board for the Correction of Military Records to pay her insurance benefits stemming from her husband's death.

The widow also asked that her husband's body be removed from the dishonored section of a small cemetery in France and placed in a more hallowed part of that graveyard.

Slovik was 24 when he confessed to twice fleeing from combat during World War II. He was held up as an example, given a 90-minute trial and then executed by firing squad in France on Jan. 31, 1945. He is the only American soldier shot for desertion in this century.

To release the $68,000 in GI insurance payments and interest sought by Mrs. Slovik, the board must find that Slovik's execution was a legal mistake or unjust. The board is expected to take several weeks to reach a decision.

"This is a case without parallel in the history of our government, a case which has resulted in an error and in injustice," Bernard Edelson, Mrs. Slovik's lawyer told the panel. Edelson said he found several technical errors that occurred following Slovik's court martial, but he conceded that Mrs. Slovik's claim would succeed or fail on issues of conscience.

With Mrs. Slovik sometimes weeping quietly in her wheelchair, Edelson recounted Slovik's life, presenting five witnesses who traced his life from his native Detroit to the U.S. Army and his final moments before a firing squad in the French countryside.

Slovik was a depression-era delinquent with a ninth-grade education, Edelson told the panel: He served time in reformatories for several petty thefts the lawyer said.

Slovik's criminal record automatically classified him unfit for military duty, Edelson said, but he was reclassified as fit and drafted in 1943 when the Army needed infantrymen.

The Sloviks had been married 15 months when the induction notice arrived.

Arnold Shook of Lufkin, Tex., Slovik's commander during basic training, testified that Slovik had a paralyzing fear of weapons and during training was never allowed to use live hand grenades.

Shaw said he tried to have Slovik discharged as unfit for combat or transferred to a non-combat unit. Neither request was answered by Army supervisors, Shaw said.

Once overseas, Slovik first left his unit for 40 days, then again for 24 hours. He confessed voluntarily to two counts of desertion and wrote in his confession that he would flee again if returned to battle.

There were 49 men sentenced to death for desertion at the time. Only Slovik was executed. He was picked to set an example for other would-be deserters at a time when morale was extremely low, Edelson said.

and Management. Lancel said earlier rate increases were uncalled for, and asked the banks to exercise restraint.

Commodity Prices Dip

NEW YORK (AP) - Some highly significant events in recent weeks have heightened inflation fighters, who for months and years have relied heavily on hope and on promise that couldn't be kept.

Most significant perhaps has been the pronounced downturn in world commodity prices, which had risen steadily through the winter and into the early part of spring.

Prices of commodities for future delivery also have been weakening in recent weeks, adding to the feeling that a fundamental change is occurring in the prices of raw materials.

At the beginning of this week, prices of almost all food futures - corn, wheat, cocoa, livestock, coffee and the like - fell simultaneously, along with cotton, wood, precious metals and other items.

The good news already is being reflected in wholesale prices. The official index of such prices rose only four-tenths of 1 per cent in May, after having leaped more than 1 per cent in each of the two preceding months.

At the same time, productivity is rising. The first-quarter increase was a sizable 4.7 per cent, much higher than the long-term average, despite some of the century's most unfavorable production weather.

Productivity increases indicate a growing level of efficiency in the use of men, machinery and capital, and therefore are the most potent of all anti-inflationary events.

Unexpectedly, good news came also in the form of lower interest rates. Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank, declined to raise its prime rate when its own formula called for it. Morgan Guaranty did it one better a few days later by lowering its rate one-quarter per cent to 6.5 per cent.

Two events followed criticism last week by Bert Lance, director of the Office of Budget and Management. Lance said earlier rate increases were uncalled for, and asked the banks to exercise restraint.

Whether the moves by Citibank and Morgan were in response to Lance's request, or simply in response to market conditions, the effect was the same-to lower the cost of doing business.

Several other factors can be included in the increasingly bright assessment: prices of imported oil seem to have been stabilized for the rest of the year, the crop outlook is good and wage demands have been moderate.

If the outlook remains bright and some bank economists are forecasting that consumer prices will fall to an inflation rate of only 5.5 per cent in the second half of the year - the stock market could be a beneficiary.

Perhaps the most common complaint of stock analysts has been inflation, of the fear of inflation growing worse, and taking interest rates along on the ride.

These two factors - inflation and high interest rates - strike fear into investors and send them rushing from equities into the fixed return of debt securities, such as bonds. Remove the fear and investors might return.

But the consequences wouldn't be limited. Lower inflation might have an effect on employment, budget deficits, the balance of trade imbalance and a host of other economic ingredients.

Turn From Shine To Weed Noted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Many moonshiners, rather than fight raising sugar prices, are turning to another cash crop-marijuana.

The price of sugar, a prime moonshine ingredient, soared a few years ago, said Riley Oxley of the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. And that, he said, combined with stricter enforcement of white lightning laws and a market that's going dry, discouraged many long-time whiskey runners.

"The thing with young people seems to be marijuana and not booze - that's the market now," Oxley said in an interview. "The last moonshine we got was going for about $20 a gallon and that was the wholesale price. So by the time the retailer sells it, he's about the same price as bonded whisky."

Said another agent: "Most moonshiners are farmers, so the next available thing for them to grow is marijuana, and we think it'll get more prevalent as time goes on."

From 1960 to 1968, federal alcohol agents in Tennessee seized more than 1,000 stills a year. In 1976 they broke up only eight.

"More than a year and a half ago, authorities found a marijuana field in Cocke County and it was tied to an ex-bootlegger," Oxley said. "There was enough to fill a couple of police cruisers."

FAITH TEACHES HONOR AND RESPECT FOR FATHERHOOD

Your father was your first line of defense against the perils and hardships of the outside world, and yet from your earliest recollections of childhood you always had a dual image of him. You loved and trusted him, while at the same time you feared him as a symbol of authority and a source of punishment, even though your own transgressions were to blame. What you were not aware of then was the burden of care and anxiety he undoubtedly carried with him about the material and spiritual well-being of his family, then and in the future. You learned only in later years that the seemingly harsh, rigid rules he laid down for you were all to the good. Your Church will teach you to appreciate your father's wisdom and to thank him for all the love he has bestowed on you.

One father is more than a hundred school-masters.

Grand Jury Probes Release Of Official

HOUSTON (AP)—The foreman of a Harris County grand jury investigating reports that an elected city official was arrested and released in a police trap said the panel may have more witnesses Monday.

Foreman Bill Vawter said

Thursday the grand jury may need several more weeks of work from Horizon Creek and the old gentleman barricades himself at Freedom Farm, determined to protect his three acres. (Part 2 of 2) (R) ment agency handled the alleged drug raid.

"This may be only a vicious rumor," Vawter said. "But only a grand jury can substantiate or refute it."

Lawyer Bob Scott was selected by the grand jurors as an outside prosecutor and the panel has heard three witnesses, Vawter said.

The grand jury foreman said that widespread rumors about an alleged May 3 raid, coupled with news accounts of city political occurrences led to the investigation.

Cost-Of-Living Raise Due For SS Recipients

A cost-of-living increase in monthly-social security benefits will be included in checks delivered on July 1, according to James A. Talbot, social security district manager in Amarillo. The increase will amount to 5.9 per cent for most people getting social security payments. The automatic cost-of-living provision was added to the social security law in 1972. "People getting social security checks don't have to do anything to get the higher payments," Talbot said. "The increase will be added automatically."

The increase is based on the rise in consumer prices from the first three months of 1976 to the first three months of 1977. With the cost-of-living increase, average social security retirement payments to retired workers will jump from $221 to $234 a month. Average social security disability payments to disabled workers will go from $248 to $262 a month. Average social security survivors payments to widowed mothers or fathers with two children in their care will go from $517 to $547 a month.

Social security pays monthly benefits to over 33 million people. The payments are funded by social security contributions from employees, employers, and self-employed people. Social Security checks are usually delivered on the 3rd of the month. When the 3rd falls on Saturday or Sunday, the checks are delivered the preceding Friday. July 3 is on a Sunday this year, and the checks will be delivered Friday, July 1.

The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Judge Encounters Criticism For Religious Sentences

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) - A Bible-toting judge has launched a personal crusade against separation of church and state, reasoning that he who keeps God out of government shall find a lock on the gates of heaven.

Hugh Wesley Goodwin, 54, explains simply, "You can separate religion from government or any other place of life, but you can't separate God."

Since his municipal court appointment by Gov. Edmund G. Brown last year, the soft-spoken black judge, a devout Baptist, has offered more than 200 misdemeanor defendants the option of attending church or Bible-study classes instead of going to jail.

The practice has not been popular with state judicial authorities. Equally unpopular are his widely quoted opinions of California's legal hierarchy. When the state Commission on Judicial Performance began an investigation of Goodwin early this year, the judge told reporters the commission was "out to crucify the Lord."

"You know that guy - the one that was crucified on the first Easter - was completely innocent, and I'll remind the commission not to make the same mistake," Goodwin said.

"I also intend to remind them the Lord is watching very closely what they are doing, that they had better be very careful, for some day they will have to account for it - not to me - but to someone who really has some power," he said.

The state judicial commission took its first action in February, informing Goodwin it had launched an investigation into charges he violated the separation of church and state doctrine and had "brought the judicial office into disrepute."

When the judge replied by publicly warning commissioners to worry about their own salvation, they sent him another memorandum "telling me to keep my mouth shut," Goodwin said.

He said offering a defendant the option of attending church is in no way a threat to religious freedom.

From the standpoint of law enforcement, Goodwin said church is far more rehabilitative than prison. He said only five of the more than 200 defendants who have chosen church instead of jail have committed crimes again.

"And five is a liberal estimate," he said. "I've seen a lot of lives change. One guy came back to me after joining a church and said, 'I've never seen so much love. I never had this before.'"

"There was an initial fear in the community over having crooks in the congregation. But people ended up loving them, and businessmen offered them jobs," Goodwin said. "We have more people in the churches involved in rehabilitation than the probation department. And it's not costing the county a dime."

Soviets Grant Release To American Journalist

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet secret police who questioned American journalist Robert C. Toth for nine hours told him Thursday that he is free to leave the Soviet Union. Toth said he and his family would leave for the United States today as planned.

The Los Angeles Times correspondent said the KGB telephoned him to say he was "no longer needed and I can go when I want." He had been barred from leaving the country while he was being questioned.

The 48-year-old newsmen went to the passport registration office to clear exit papers for himself, his wife and their three children. He has completed a three-year assignment in Moscow.

KGB agents grilled Toth four times - including two sessions for a total of 6½ hours Wednesday - about his articles and his contacts with Soviet dissidents.

Toth said the police told him on Wednesday he was a witness and "not the accused."

He said the KGB refused to divulge who was accused or to specify charges. But he said much of the questioning was about his relations with imprisoned Jewish activist Anatoly Shcharansky, against whom the government is believed to be preparing treason charges.

The decision to let Toth leave came after the U.S. Senate approved a resolution condemning his detention as a "gross violation" of the 1975 Helsinki accords, and after President Carter told reporters he expressed his "strongest objections" to the Soviet Union.

Carter said Toth's case could have an impact on the Belgrade conference, now in a preliminary session, which is to review human rights progress since the 1975 Helsinki agreements were signed.

Toth was the first picked up by security police and questioned for three hours last Saturday after he received an article on parapsychology - the study of extra-sensory perception - from a Soviet scientist.

On Tuesday, the Soviet Foreign Ministry gave the U.S. Embassy a note claiming Toth had engaged in "the collection of secret information of a political and military character." It said his "departure from Moscow until the end of the investigation is not desired."

The newsmen said an interrogator told him scientific information from other than official sources was considered secret.

Toth said the KGB knew about all the articles he had written in Moscow, including pieces on sociology, linguistics and genetic engineering. He said the police also knew about interviews he had conducted which were not used in his dispatches.

Toth was interrogated at Moscow's Lefortovo Prison. U.S. embassy officials were not allowed to be present during the sessions.

Downtown Nashville Dies With Opry Move

NASHVILLE (AP) - The former heart of Nashville's tourist business is now overrun with adult movie houses, bookstores and massage parlors.

Just four years ago, the Ryman Auditorium in downtown Nashville was the home of the Grand Ole Opry and was the city's top tourist attraction.

But in 1974 the Grand Old Opry moved to a new home at Opryland U.S.A., an entertainment park just northeast of Nashville. And as Nashville braces for an estimated two million visitors this summer, the tourist industry is no longer concentrated on the downtown Ryman Auditorium area.

Instead, the tourism business is centered at Opryland and along Music Row, a succession of record companies and song publishing companies, plus the Country Music Hall of Fame, a mile away from the Ryman.

The Ryman remains open for tours, but a reporter recently counted 10 adult movie houses, bookstores or massage parlors within three blocks.

about country music. A Gospel Music Hall of Fame is under construction across the street and plans are being made to construct a plush, high-rise hotel in the area.

Also open on Music Row for the first time this summer is a Songwriter's Hall of Fame. Plans are to have a songwriter present - not necessarily one of the 66 Hall of Fame members - to answer questions from visitors.

A hotel-convention complex, under construction at Opryland, is scheduled to open Nov. 1 and is expected to double the number of persons attending conventions in Nashville. Some 101,000 were here for conventions in 1976.

American Saint To Be Canonized

VATICAN CITY (AP) - After a 91-year campaign, the first male American saint is being canonized on Sunday by Pope Paul VI.

He is John Nepomucene Neumann, an immigrant from Bohemia who was bishop of Philadelphia from 1852 until his death in 1860 at the age of 49.

The campaign to add Bishop Neumann to the Roman Catholic Church's official list of holy persons was launched 26 years after his death by his successor, Archbishop Patrick Ryan. Prompted by reports of ailing persons who said they were cured after praying to the "little bishop," he started collecting evidence about the life of his predecessor.

A report was sent to the Vatican and prompted the Congregation for the Causes of Saints to accept the candidacy of Bishop Neumann for canonization. This gave him the title of "Servant of God."

It also started the costliest and lengthiest part, the process and trial of the candidate, involving the collection of eye-witness testimony so that no major period of his life would remain blank. All written matter had to be translated into Latin.

A postulator to investigate the case was assigned from the Redemptorist Order, which Bishop Neumann had joined in America. The Congregation also appointed a "promoter of the faith," often called the devil's advocate, to investigate anything in the bishop's life that could disprove his holiness and kill his chances for sainthood.

The case hit a snag in 1912 when the Congregation ruled Bishop Neumann's life was hardly worth special consideration.

"Americans were just breaking in on the saint-making field," Redemptorist Father Nicola Ferrante said in an interview. Father Ferrante has been the postulator for the Neumann case since 1958.

In 1921, Pope Benedict XV proclaimed that Bishop Neumann had practiced virtues in an "heroic degree" and bestowed on him the title of "Venerable."

The next steps, beatification and then canonization, depend on miracles, except for martyrs whose violent death for their faith is enough to smooth the way.

Two miracles are required for beatification. In 1921, Eva Benassi, an Italian girl of 11, recovered from acute diffused peritonitis after praying to Bishop Neumann. The second recovery attributed to him was that of J. Kent Lenahan of Villanova, Pa., who when 11 recovered from a crushed skull and broken collarbone.

The Vatican accepted them as miracles and Pope Paul proclaimed Bishop Neumann "Blessed" in 1963.

The final step toward canonization came in 1975 when the Vatican accepted as a miracle of 1963 cure of Michael Flanigan of west Philadelphia from Ewing's sarcoma.

fact, the Adult Mini Cinema is right across the street from the Ryman.

Roy Acuff, "the king of country music," owns one of the buildings housing an adult bookstore. He says there's nothing he can do because the person he leased to sub-leased.

Veteran steel guitarist Little Roy Wiggins owned a music store a block from the Ryman until his store went bankrupt this spring.

Since spring, police have been periodically raiding massage parlors on prostitution and related charges. The arrests seem to have hindered the establishments because a few have closed.

Additionally, local officials are considering an ordinance that would allow property owners to vote on whether they want a certain type of business within 500 feet of them.

Meanwhile, the other two pockets of tourism are continually developing.

The Country Music Hall of Fame, standing stately at the head of Music Row, has just opened a new $1.3 million wing to house a restored touring bus, a chart tracing the roots of country music, a costume collection, art gallery and a minitheater for vintage films

Heroin Flow Being Slowed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)- Federal drug agents say there is evidence they are beginning to slash the flow of Mexican heroin into the United States.

Bill Kline, San Antonio special agent for the Drug Enforcement Administration DEA, says the supply of heroin finding its way here is more expensive, less available and less pure than it has been for some time.

"It's as sharp and definite a change in activity as I've seen here in recent years," Kline said in an interview.

Kline said his agents and informants report that traffickers who used to deal in kilograms of heroin are now dealing in grams.

As a result, he said, many "big dealers" who once were high priority targets for investigations "have been downgraded because they can no longer meet the DEA criteria."

A DEA spokesman in Washington said San Antonio's situation is not unusual, that indications are that the flow of heroin is diminishing throughout the country.

The spokesman said more of the heroin seized has been

Representative Says Minister Payments OK

NEW YORK (AP)- Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., told corporate directors Thursday that commercial bribery of foreign officials was banned under proposed federal legislation but that certain "greasepayments" to speed things up were not.

He said the bill does not cover payments to employees of foreign governments whose duties essentially are clerical or ministerial.

"Things might be slowed down unless you give a tip to a ministerial official," he said. "This is quite common. As long as that person doesn't determine policy, it shouldn't be illegal."

Eckhardt, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Consumer Protection and Finance, spoke to about 100 corporate directors at a conference sponsored by Business Week magazine.

Asked about small payments to customs officials to speed up the movement of goods that might spoil, he said, "Those would be grease payments. We exempt that."

He said that even though some people argue that bribes might be necessary to compete with high-pressure tactics in other countries, he believes that in the long run making such a practice illegal would be advantageous because foreign governments know "our nationals are acting with respect and restraint."

The proposed legislation prohibits a corporation from giving anything of value to a foreign official to influence any act of decisions in his official capacity, or to any foreign political party or official to influence an act of that government.

It provides penalties of a fine up to $1 million for the corporation and $10,000 or five years in prison for an individual.

One corporate directors complained the legislation does not cover cases where some foreign governments extorted payments not through black bags full of money but more subtly by requiring certain officials or governmental relatives to be appointed to boards of directors and the like at high fees.

Another said such a practice also was disadvantageous to small firms which could not meet those demands.

"In other words," Eckhardt said drawing laughter, "a little company has a black bag and a big corporation has a king on the board."

Eye Doc Turns Lawyer To Help Old Profession

SAN ANTONIO (AP)- Dr. Jack B. Lee's nimble fingers, which have performed delicate eye surgery for nearly 40 years, will soon be plowing through massive law books.

After nearly 40 years in medical practice, the 63-year-old San Antonio eye surgeon notified his patients May 1 that he was quitting practice and enrolling as a freshman law student at St. Mary's University Law School.

He starts classes there in August. "I'll just be freshman Lee, not Dr. Lee," he said. "I don't want any special consideration. I just want to take my chances with the other students."

"It was not a snap decision and certainly not an easy one. I love medicine," Dr. Lee added. "But it's a move I've planned for a long time."

Dr. Lee said he hopes to narrow the gap between the medical and legal professions, a gap that has widened in recent years as a result of the growing number of malpractice suits against doctors.

"There is, unfortunately, a rift between the professions of law and medicine that too often catches the general public in the middle," Dr. Lee said. "In some small way, I hope to do something to bring the focus of both professions back on the person they both deal with, the patient and client."

Dr. Lee said he intends to specialize in medico-legal problems and serve as a legal consultant on medical issues in San Antonio if he graduates in 1979.

"In the capacity of doctor-lawyer perhaps I can help bridge the gap between the two professions," he said. "He said he really won't be leaving the medical profession. "There are many similarities between medicine and law. Both deal with problem solving and both do for the client what he would do for himself had he the knowledge."

Dr. Lee said his retirement from medicine was pre-planned but he felt like he had 10 or 15 years of useful life left and wanted to do something with them.

He chose law school because he said, like Mt. Everest it was there.

"I've always been fascinated by the law and I would have done this a long time ago, but I just didn't have the guts."

"But then I thought, 'Well, you're retiring. What the hell, go to law school.'"

Nazi March Blasted By Camp Survivor

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)- Concentration camp survivor Sol Goldstein says a Supreme Court ruling clearing the way for Nazis to march in a July 4 parade protects the spread of hatred rather than free speech.

"We have 6,000 to 7,000 survivors of the holocaust living in Skokie, and they're not going to sit by idly while nazis march in the street," Goldstein said Thursday.

"This is not a matter of free speech. This is a matter of protecting somebody's freedom to spread hatred, something we don't need," said Goldstein, who lives in this Chicago suburb and is president of "remnants of the Holocaust," a group of 16,000 concentration camp survivors.

The National Socialist Party of America plans to have members from across the country gather here on July 4 for the parade and a "white supremacy" rally. Skokie is Chicago's most heavily Jewish suburb.

"The idea that we shouldn't have free speech rights in Skokie because of some holocaust is just Zionist propaganda hogwash," said Frank Collin of Chicago, the national coordinator of the National Socialist Congress.

On Wednesday, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that Skokie could not permanently bar the Nazi organization from holding a rally in the city after the group appealed a lower court ban of the demonstration. The high court said free-speech rights could not be adequately protected if the Nazi group were barred from demonstrating during a long legal battle.

Despite the high court ruling, Harvey Schwarz, Skokie village attorney, said he expects three recently passed ordinances that bar marches in military uniforms to prevent the Nazis from coming to Skokie.

"This was a major victory for the First Amendment," said David Hamlin, executive director of the Chicago American Civil Liberties Union, which represented the Nazis in court. He said he expected the three ordinances to be declared unconstitutional.

"It showed that no matter how unpopular a cause is - and it was very distasteful to most of us here - the First Amendment still works."

Hamlin said Thursday he hoped that the threats of a counter-demonstration by anti-Nazis wouldn't occur.

"The Jews have a legitimate complaint that in Germany nobody spoke up when Hitler began his rise, and they feel they must not be silent now," he said. "I just hope we can have free speech on all sides - the Nazis and the Jews - without any violence."

Napoleon Bonaparte died at the age of 52. He lived his last five-and-a-half years on the island of St. Helena off the coast of Africa, prisoner of war of the British.

Legion Limelight

Alan Daugherty has been called the American Legion baseball team's most improved player by coach Joe Don Cummings. Daugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Daugherty, is in his first season with the Legion team.

"Alan is a good bunter, works hard in practice, and has improved in both bat and field," Cummings said. Daugherty plays both right field and catcher for the team.

He played Bronco League baseball five years, and Pony League ball for two years. His accomplishments include three years of All-Star honors. Daugherty also plays football at Alan Daugherty HHS, where he will be a junior next year.

Fidrych Back In Groove

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Watch Mark Fidrych, the Detroit Tigers' eccentric right-hander, pitch long enough, listen to him speak long enough, and you'll learn to expect the unexpected.

Thursday night, he needed just 81 pitches to beat Toronto 4-1. That is pretty close to baseball's version of shooting a 59 on a golf course.

Backed by Ron LeFlore's two home runs, he collected his fourth complete game in five starts since returning to duty after spring knee surgery. He had the Tiger Stadium crowd of 26,000 chanting, "We want Bird! We want Bird!" after the game.

One big surprise came when Fidrych said, "I dedicate this game to Vern Riffe," referring to a pitcher the Tigers hours earlier had optioned to Evansville of the American Association.

The reason? "He taught me how to get strikeouts," explained "The Bird" after beating the Blue Jays in the Audubon Society Classic.

Not to get strikeouts? We told you never to be surprised.

"In the minors I said I wasn't striking anybody out and he said, 'Why would you? You have eight guys behind you. You're not a strikeout pitcher. Get 'em to hit the ball on the ground.'"

In the other AL games Thursday, the Minnesota Twins beat Nolan Ryan and the California Angels 7-6; the New York Yankees bombed the Kansas City Royals 7-0; the Baltimore Orioles beat the Milwaukee Brewers 6-0; the Chicago White Sox drubbed the Boston Red Sox 7-3, and the Seattle Mariners topped the Oakland A's 3-1.

Fidrych's aura of mystery appears to be contagious. Consider the case of LeFlore, whose birthday made him 25 years old going on 29.

"If I could have days like this on my birthday all the time, I'd want one every day," said LeFlore after hitting home runs in the third and fifth innings, giving Fidrych all the scoring he needed.

Asked his age, the outfielder said, "25," then broke into a grin which cast doubt on the number's authenticity. Some contend he is four years older.

At any rate, he collected two of Detroit's five hits off Toronto's Jerry Garvin, 7-4. One of the others was a two-run homer of Steve Kemp in the eighth.

the ninth with the score tied and Wynegar later scored the winning run on Rob Wilfong's single.

Yankees 7, Royals 0

Young Ron Guidry solved a mental block about pitching complete games, hurling a nifty three-hitter and cruising to victory on three hits by Mickey Rivers.

Rivers craked a two-run homer in the fifth inning in support of Guidry. Four times this season the pitcher had carried leads into the ninth inning, only to leave before the game's conclusion.

Orioles 6, Brewers 0

Andres Mora and Al Bumbry smacked two-run homers for Baltimore in support of Rudy May's six-hit shutout of Milwaukee. Mora's second homer of the season followed an infield single by Doug DeCinces. Bumbry connected for his third after a single by Rick Dempsey.

May, 9-5, erased sporadic Milwaukee threats in winning his third straight game and recording his 20th victory for the Orioles since being obtained from the Yankees last June 15.

White Sox 7, Red Sox 3

A two-run homer by Oscar Gamble and a five-run seventh inning gave Chicago its victory over Boston and knocked the Red Sox out of first place in the AL's East Division. Boston trails the Yanks by one-half game.

Gamble's 12th homer of the season gave Chicago a brief 2-1 lead, but Jim Rice tied it in the sixth with his 15th homer of the year.

Then the White Sox drove starter Luis Tiant, 4-5, from the game in the seventh.

Mariners 3, A's 1

Seattle right-hander Glenn Abbott pitched a five-hitter and beat his former Oakland teammates with is first complete game since 1975. Dan Meyer hit a fourth-inning home run and Bob Stinson contributed a two-run single for the Mariners.

Thinclad Meet Here Saturday

Despite a possible shortage of help the Hereford YMCA will conduct the Hereford AAU Track Meet at Whiteface Field Saturday.

Meet director Weldon Knabe reported that he has been having trouble securing help for the event, and has sent out a call for assistance. "Any person interested in helping in any way will certainly be welcome," Knabe said Thursday.

The meet will cater to teams from Amarillo, Lubbock, Clovis, Muleshoe, and Kress in addition to several other Panhandle towns. Five divisions for both boys and girls will be running.

Competitors will begin registration at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, with the senior boys 100-yard dash to kick off the running events at 10 a.m. Field events will get underway at 9:30.

Ribbons will be awarded to the top four finishers in all events, Knabe reported. A concession stand will be open to provide some relief from the heat.

Hereford graduate James Mays will be a featured performer at the meet. The Texas Tech-bound Mays will compete in the 880, 220, and 440 in the senior boys division.

Sox Nip Indians; Twins Get Victory

Norman Hill limited the Indians to two hits Thursday night as the Red Sox claimed a 5-2 win to send the boys Pony League race into a standoff as the teams aim at placings in a post-season tournament for the league title.

Hill picked up 14 strikeouts enroute to the win as the Red Sox upped their mark to 7-3, the same as the Indians. Matt

Collier was tagged with the loss.

In the other league tilt Thursday the Twins grabbed their first win in 10 tries with an 11-9 conquest of the Tigers. Ken Cosper got credit for the win, defeating Tigers hurler Aubrey Richburg along the way.

Bob Foster, with two doubles, and Harold Terry with a double and a single, led the Twins to the initial win.

Twins 7, Angels 6

One thing is certain when Nolan Ryan pitches: that the strikeouts will come in bunches for the veteran right-hander. He struck out 14 Minnesota Twins but contributed to his undoing with a throwing error, a balk, two wild pitches and a costly walk.

He fanned Bostock in the eighth inning for the 2,250th strikeout of his career, reaching fourth place on the all-time strikeout list. But he walked Butch Wynegar in the bottom of

Golf On Agenda This Weekend

Some 110 twosomes have entered the Ninth Annual Hereford's Men's Partnership Golf Tournament set for Saturday and Sunday on the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course. In addition to the men's event, the women hit the course today for their fourth annual event, which has been moved up from September this year to correspond with the men's tourney.

The men will play 18 holes both Saturday and Sunday with teams flighted by handicap Saturday and then re-flighted by performance in the first round for the final round Sunday, which will be a low ball event. The first round will be run on the Florida Scramble-selective shot format.

The women played 18 holes today; and concluded the festivities this afternoon with a luncheon at the country club. In addition to tourney prizes, door prizes were given away at the luncheon.

The men's defending champions, Allen Johnson and Bunky Preston of Amarillo, will not be back to defend their title, but the women's champs, Rosemary Thompson and Carman Snook of Amarillo, were to have been on hand.

A total of 48 teams entered the women's event, which included five flights. Included in the field were 11 Hereford duos. A total of 47 Hereford teams entered the men's event, which will be divided into "probably eight flights" according to Curtis Stoerner, assistant pro at the course.

Tea times for the men are set at 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. both days of play. Players with handicaps of 11 or better will tee off in the morning Saturday, while those with 10 or below will hit the course in the afternoon.

Both men and women golfers compete for money in the form of gift certificates at the pro shop at the course in the tournaments.

Course pro Cal Garrett reported that the men's field was full with the 110 teams entered. "That's about all we can handle," he said.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Olympic gold medalists Brian Goodell, Tim Shaw and Bruce Furniss are the top entrants in an open swimming meet, scheduled Friday-Sunday. A total of 20 defending champions return.

Seven Share Lead

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer provided the electricity. Jack Nicklaus was happy to get out alive, and the brutal 18th hole at Southern Hills scored a clear kayo of the field Thursday with defending champion Jerry Pate its prime victim in the first round of the 77th U.S. Open.

Seven players who have never captured a major championship shaved a stroke off par over the 6,873 yards of one of the toughest par-70 courses in America.

Rod Funseth, Terry Diehl, Larry Nelson, Hubbie Green, Grier Jones, Tom Purtzer and Argentina's 38-year-old Florentino Molina struggled to 69s in pleasant 80-degree weather that featured gusty, trick winds.

Never in history had so many players been clustered in first place.

There was a logjam of 10 players at par including the 46-year-old Palmer, who had to qualify to get here and sent his "Army" into a frenzy by holing a wedge for a birdie on his roller coaster round of four birdies and four bogies.

Nicklaus shot 74, Masters champion Tom Watson, looking for the Grand Slam, also floundered to a 74, and Pate suffered an agonizing six on the unforgiving final hole for 72.

"The best thing for a man to do is come to that hole Sunday with a three-shot lead," said Al Geiberger, who bogied it for a 70.

The 449-yard, dog-leg right last hole was strickly X-rated by the 153-man field which fired and fell back in headlong retreat against the monster.

Only Molina had a kind word for the hole—a backhanded compliment since he parred it.

The hole averaged 4.9 strokes Thursday with par outnumbered 2-1 by mini-disasters.

Palmer, using only 29 putts, charged up a large majority of the total crowd of 14,818 with the some of his old magic. He made three putts longer than 15 feet.

Nicklaus, the dreaded giant of the game with 16 major championships, bogeyed two of the first four holes.

Pate played the last hole like a 16-handicapper. He plucked his second shot into the sand, hit the green with a wedge, dubbed a chip and two-putted.

Tommy Bolt, the 59-year-old who won here in 1958 and was given a special exemption, shot a creditable 75. Sam Snead, 64, who has captured more titles than any golfer but always let the Open escape his grip, fired a 74.

There were 53 players within four shots of the lead.

The usually fiery tempered Weiskopf made one of the classiest comebacks of the day. He went double bogey-par-triple bogey then rallied for 71.

Wrestling Takes This Saturday Off

Wrestling takes a week off at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, Hereford Lions Club officials have announced. Next week's card will see the return of the Super Mex of professional wrestling, Ricky Romero, returning after a long absence.

Last week's action saw Cyclone Negro triumph over Nick Kozak in a bitterly contested best two out of three falls match. Each man dropped a fall before the Venezuelan squeaked by the third, in a grueling contest. Prior to the main event, midget girl action saw Princess Little Dove defeat Mairie La Veau of Canada with a Leg Nelson. Little Dove is a full-blooded Cherokee from North Carolina, while La Veau hails from Quebec. Both girls stepped in at a winsome 95 pounds.

The opener saw Chief

Thunder Cloud, White River Apache from Arizona, got to a twenty minute draw with Alex Perez, the self-proclaimed "Texican". Thunder Cloud at 226 pounds spotted the former boxing great twenty pounds.

Newcomer Ervin Smith of Florida made a sensational Bull Barn debut against Doug "Pretty Boy" Somers of Minnesota. Smith is a former shot putter, footballer, and national A.A.U. wrestling champion. Ten pounds lighter than the 245-pound Somers, Smith won by disqualification. Somers was caught using a thrust to the throat by the referee.

Smith was substituting for Teddy Dibiasi, who was storm-bound in Kansas.

Wrestling returns to the Bull Barn Saturday, June 25.
