

School Board Calls Bond Issue, Hearing Set

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Tuesday has been reset as the date for the public hearing on two separate bonds of $600,000 for a new elementary school and $150,000 for football stadium improvements by the Hereford Independent School Board of Trustees.

The hearing Tuesday will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school cafeteria.

Tonight was originally the date set by the trustees. But through a conflict of another meeting already set in the cafeteria prior to their announcement, they found it necessary to postpone it.

The necessary petitions for such bond elections have been prepared by Columbian Securities Corp., setting the date of the election for Friday, Oct. 11 (although this date can be changed after the petitions are received, it was reported. The law stipulates that the election must be not less than 10 days or more than 30 days of the official announcement.)

According to the school administrators and trustees, the new elementary school is most important, based on 458 students more this year than in 1967 (now totaling 5,264 with 73 in pre-school kindergarten). Trustee Bill Gentry said, "I don't know what we would do without a new school building."

However, the trustees decided that the public here should be given the opportunity of making separate decisions on the two projects, although each will be balloted upon at the same time.

Superintendent Johnny Clark Jr. said that the site of the new school "may or may not be decided" Tuesday but the subject would be placed under discussion.

Cost of the new elementary school was estimated at $530,000 for the building alone (24 classrooms). With furniture and other necessities, the total will reach $600,000. Clark said that he had been advised that the cost was 20 per cent higher than the construction of Bluebonnet, which totaled some $440,000 for the building, due to rising costs since that time.

Herbert Brasher with Brasher, Goyette and Rapier Architects and Engineers of Lubbock mentioned that there were contractors here but carpenters were scarce. He said that they had gone to Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston where the scale was higher. The trustees appreciated the problem of lack of "mechanics" but felt that this problem could be worked out.

The stadium improvements consisted of increasing the present site to 5,000 seating capacity (with additional room for expansion) from its present 2,600. Clark said, "When we do something with the stadium, we might fence it in too. And we may have to raise the center light."

After a survey of nine area stadiums, they discussed building one similar to the Dumas stadium. But they indicated that this was "still flexible and could be discussed at the open meeting."

Also pointed out was the fact that part of the old bleachers would be moved to the baseball diamonds and a second football field would be in the offing for the junior highs here with the remaining bleachers, "so that Stanton and LaPlata could play their games on the same nights as the high school."

"We do have excess money in the building fund now," Clark reported, and that they might want to "look over bleachers in other places" for additional plans.

At the present, the idea is to allot $30 per seat for the new stadium, which would include a good press box and concessions section.

Bob Davis of Columbian Securities said that he had worked out two schedules on the bond to total $750,000 for the complete issue, both based on a 15-year payoff. Davis said that Schedule 2 "was a more rapid payoff," but that he preferred Schedule 1 better "because if you have to go into a new building program within the next five or six years, you can retire your bonds sooner through continued growth."

(total) would figure 56 cents with a 95 per cent interest. Clark pointed out that the tax rate was figured at 70 cents now on a value of almost $70,000,000 and "we are safe on this. We should have $166,000 in the Interest and Sinking Fund by the end of the year. We would be continuing to add to the Interest and Sinking Fund instead of drawing from it, on the property evaluation."

Several different plans for both the elementary school and the stadium were presented and discussed by the trustees and administrators. Of the school plans, they had previously visited some of the actual designs of them completed in other locations.

Of the five plans for the stadium, it was pointed out that they had seen variations of them in nine locations. Trustee secretary Dr. A. T. Mims said, "We have doubled our present capacity in our present plans," in answer to the question of why the number 5,000 had been selected, "with the possibility of expanding later. We feel that it is a more economical standard."

Other officers are Olin Parris, president, and Raymond White, vice president. Trustees along with Dr. Mims and Gentry are Hilkey Aven, Hugh Clearman and Ed Loerwald.

The trustees will meet today at noon for a luncheon meeting at the Caison House for approval of the bond election agenda. Clark described this meeting as a formality required under the law. No other business will be placed under discussion.

The polling place has been designated as the Hereford Community Center on the election date.

Mrs. Frank L. Pinckert

Funeral Service For Long-Time Resident Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Frank L. Pinckert, 80, of 1014 East Third, area resident since 1918, were conducted Tuesday morning in First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Herschel Thurston of Ute Park, N. M., former pastor, and Gene Fooks of Central Church of Christ, officiated.

Burial was in West Park Cemetery, directed by Gilliland Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pinckert died in a local hospital just after noon Sunday. She was born Oct. 4, 1887 in Sauk Centre, Minn., and before her marriage Oct. 10, 1903 in Pine River, Minn., she was Lotie Carver. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinckert came to Deaf Smith County from Longville, Minn. in 1918, and were farmers and ranchers in the Jumbo community southeast of Hereford many years. They moved into the city in 1946.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, Chester D. Pinckert of Hereford and Robert Lee Pinckert of Ignacio, Colo.; a daughter, Mrs. Buddie Taylor of Canyon; 13 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Demo Rally Is Set For Oct. 17

According to Leo Witkowski, Deaf Smith County Democratic chairman, a Democratic Rally will be held in the Bull Barn on Oct. 17.

Congressman Jim Wright, of Ft. Worth, confirmed in a telegram to Witkowski Tuesday, that he would attend the rally. A time for the rally is yet to be set.

County Seeks To Improve FM Roads

Deaf Smith County Commissioners made resolutions to the Texas Highway Department at regular Commissioners Court meeting Monday involving Highway 60 widening from the west city limits to the Castro County line and various Farm to Market Roads.

Judge H. C. Williams was not present with Commissioners Earl Holt, Marcus Latham, Bruce Coleman and Donald Hicks. The judge was at Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, for the previously scheduled check-up on his three-month-old throat operation. He was slated to return to his office Wednesday morning.

On the Highway 60 widening project (of which one-mile through the site of the Wilson and Co. plant is approved for four-lane traffic), a letter recommending four-lane traffic for approximately six miles on a 50-50 basis between the County and the Highway Department was drafted.

Plans include the purchase of the right-of-way for the project.

The commissioners pointed out that there will be greatly increased truck traffic with the coming of the Wilson Co. and that they felt the entire western section of the highway would be overloaded under its present two-lane system.

Highway Department is also being requested to improve the miles of FM 2856 (South from the Holly Sugar plant to Highway 60) including the bridge.

Representatives from the department, though not opposed to the commissioner's request, pointed out that there will be no more farm-to-market road funds available for "another eight or 10 months." The commissioners pointed out that they had invested $450,000 of county money outside the farm-to-market funds to such construction, and since this was the people's money the state should realize through the growth of Deaf Smith County that funds should be allocated here soon after the new funds are dispersed for the 17-county area.

Also discussed was a possible loop plan on a road in western Deaf Smith County into Black connecting at Harrison Highway. Commissioner Coleman explained that this is a need for that area, which has become populated through its improved farm irrigation practices.

Chili Smith of the Highway Department suggested that the county commissioners might consult with the city commissioners on their plans for local highway improvements. Smith explained that the city, through a HUD grant, is now making a survey of traffic and improvements in that line, "which could work to the county's advantage." The commissioners agreed.

Jacksons Get Pakistan Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Jackson were notified Monday by Farmers and World Affairs that they have been selected as the Farm Bureau couple from Texas to go on our exchange trip to Pakistan.

The Jacksons will arrive in Washington D. C. on January 12 with the other group that is going to Pakistan from other parts of the United States, for the beginning of their orientation and trip.

Lyle Tatum, executive secretary of FWA of Philadelphia, Pa., was in Hereford to see the Jacksons on Sept. 8 and 9, which included an inspection tour with couples in Swisher and Collingsworth counties. Tatum said then that he was in Texas to select one of the three couples for the Pakistan trip. He notified them Monday that "you will probably want to start getting some of your shots and getting your passports."

Jackson said that the Farmers Union president, Jay Naman, had originally submitted his name for consideration. "I certainly appreciate Mr. Naman for his confidence." The Jacksons are very interested in making the trip.

"Through our work in the Farmers Union here, we have become interested in world affairs — and we appreciate this opportunity to study the situation first-hand."

But he said, "This is not a Farmers Union thing. Farmers and World Affairs is working through major corporations. The people of Pakistan are trying to develop — irrigation, fertilizer, etc. Since the Texas Panhandle is so well known as a major irrigation district in the United States, the FWA wanted a farmer picked from this area."

"FWA is supported by contributions from individuals and businesses throughout the United States. Their purpose is to create better relations between all countries through agriculture." See JACKSON'S Page 2

FIRST HAND LOOK — Members of a Greek livestock team, here to study better feeding methods for their cattle got a first hand look at how grain is graded according to moisture content and bushels per acre. Gene King, employe of Community Grain Inc. of the Easter community, gave the demonstration Tuesday.

City Officials Play Host To Greek Livestock Team

Members of the West Texas Grain Elevators Association, in Hereford Tuesday to hold a routine business meeting, were pleasantly surprised when they found themselves dining with several of their customers — a Greek livestock team.

The delegation of six from Greece, including the interpreter, had been touring the local feedlots and elevators when they decided to have lunch at the Hereford Country Club. When members of local Chamber of Commerce who were hosting the group here found out that the grain dealers also were meeting at the same site for lunch, they immediately got the two groups together.

The foreign visitors are in the United States under the auspices of the U. S. Feed Grain Council, showing them around the area Tuesday was Walker Bateman of Amarillo, an export-import businessman. Bateman substituted in that capacity for Bill Nelson, executive director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

Bateman introduced Soto J. Vlastaris, director of the Athens office of the U. S. Feed Grains Council. Vlastaris, who served as interpreter for the Greek delegation, explained that the purpose of their visit was to observe, study and discuss ways and means to improve development of the livestock industry in Greece.

"We have visited many places, and we hope we are ready to transfer what we have learned to our own country," he pointed out. Vlastaris said another purpose of the visit was to promote a demand for U. S. feed grains in Greece.

He explained that his countrymen are setting up feeding trial demonstrations all over their country in an effort to expand the livestock industry in Greece. He estimated that $100 million in meat is imported to Greece each year, and it can just as easily be developed there.

Each individual in Greece usually has about 10 to 20 calves in a feedlot operation, with the high cost of housing facilities keeping down the expansion. "If the method used in this country is properly introduced and explained, it may create expansion," he continued.

In closing, Vlastaris extended to our own country," he pointed out. Vlastaris said another

Wilson Makes Plans

Oct. 23 has been set as date for ground breaking ceremonies at the Wilson & Company plant site, about 3 miles west of Hereford on U. S. 60.

It was announced Wednesday that the Hereford Lions Club will sponsor a noon luncheon on that date to welcome the visiting dignitaries. It is expected that the luncheon will be open to all civic clubs and interested citizens.

Invitations have been sent to several high ranking officials, but none had been definitely confirmed Wednesday. Gov. John Connally told members of the local Chamber of Commerce that he believed he could be in Hereford, but would know definitely today.

Farm Convention Is Slated Tonight

Approximately 300 persons are expected to attend the annual Farm Bureau Convention for Deaf Smith and Oldham counties tonight at 7:30 in the Hereford High School Cafeteria.

Craig L. Thomas, executive assistant to the Texas Farm Bureau president, will be the speaker. As assistant to the president of the TFB, Thomas heads the organization's staff and is responsible for coordinating activities of all Texas and affiliated company staff members.

Born in Wyoming in 1933, Thomas received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Animal Husbandry in 1954 from the University of Wyoming. Following his graduation from the University of Wyoming, he served as an officer for four years in the US Marine Corps.

In 1958, following his discharge from the service, Thomas became claims and adjuster for the Wyoming Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance and after serving in that position for about 3½ years, he was appointed program and research director for the Wyoming Farm Bureau in January of 1961.

Also among his list of positions he has held, Thomas was the first secretary of the Wyoming Council for Economic Development and has been president of the Wyoming Association of Trade Executives and state chairman of Farm-City Week.

A resident of Waco, Thomas and his wife have three sons and a daughter.

Also scheduled at the convention, will be the election of six new directors to serve with the 12 that are presently serving.

Homer Brumley, Paul Lyons, Martin Wagner, Bill Walden, Steve Clements and Denzil Pulliam are the outgoing directors and present officers include Walden, president; Lyons, secretary; and Clements, treasurer.

MASONS SUPPER TONIGHT

A supper and program will be held at the Masonic Lodge, on Country Club Drive, tonight at 7:30 with the topic of the program to be the "Masonic Home and School."

All area Masons and their wives are cordially invited to attend the supper and program.

Local Residents Are Winners In Horse Show

Local residents garnered top awards in the Quarter Horse Show of the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo last Saturday, with David Cooper taking the top award in his division and a stallion owned by Jim Monroe taking runnerup honors in another class.

Cooper, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Cooper, was awarded a trophy for scoring the highest in riding events of the Junior Quarter Horse Show. Cooper won four times and finished third in Pole Bending to win the award, which was donated by the American Quarter Horse Association.

Cooper's first place awards were in Class 3, Showmanship at Halter, Junior; Class 5, Western Pleasure, Junior; Class 7, Reining, Junior, and Class 9, Barrel Racing, Junior.

Pat Cooper, sister of David, also was a big winner, coming in second in Class 4, Showmanship at Halter, Senior and second in Class 6, Western Pleasure, Senior.

Monroe's sorrel was picking up its 10th first-place ribbon in 14 showings. It also has won two seconds, two thirds, one other grand championship and five reserve championships.

Tufferhenel was also winner in the Stallions foaled in 1966. Other winners from Hereford included an unnamed mare foaled in 1968 owned by Sylvia Brooks, third in that class, and Big Roll, a gelding foaled in 1965 by Pete Caviness, first in that class.

PAKISTAN BOUND — Mr. and Mrs. Clinton N. Jackson of Hereford still glance with disbelief at the letter from the Farmers and World Affairs executive secretary Lyle Tatum that said they were the choice over two other Panhandle couples to leave in January for 3 weeks each in east and west Pakistan.

Jackson's . . .

Mrs. Jackson said that the only thing the FWA requested of them upon their return from the trip was to take the slides made in Pakistan and show and report on them for one year to various civic groups.

In January, they will travel across the Atlantic toward Pakistan — where they will stay a total of six weeks — and hope to return to America across the Pacific. "This way it would be a round-the-world trip."

In the past, FWA has selected farmer groups to tour and make studies of India, Egypt and Venezuela, as well as Pakistan. Tatum explained that they take no stand on political questions, whether foreign or domestic, but believe that the well-being of our country is possible through being dependent on the democratic participation of well-informed citizens.

The Jacksons live on North Highway 385. They have their real estate and insurance office at 807 N. Main in Hereford.

Loerwald Wins Football Contest

Jeff Loerwald, of 212 Center, tied with four other people in guessing the winners in the second round of this year's football contest, but missed the tie-breaking Dallas-Detroit game by only three points to win first place.

Loerwald predicted the tie-breaker to be 28-10, in favor of Dallas, and as it ended up, he was only three points off as the Cowboys won 28-7.

Winning second was Foster Hill, Route 1, Hereford, with third place prize money going to Thomas Littleton of Route 4. All three winners missed the same game and that was the upset victory of Iowa over Oregon State.

Loerwald won $8 for his first place finish and Hill and Littleton won $4 and $2, respectively.

With 16 games listed, and three of these ending up in ties, and not being counted, there were five people who tied for first with 12 of 13 guesses correct. There was a slight increase in the number of entrants this week as compared to the number in last week's contest, as 143 persons tried for the prize money.

4 Are Charged For Fighting

Four Hereford men were charged with assault following a melee Sunday at the M and P barracks which hospitalized one of the men.

Cleto Martinez, who received a skull fracture when he was hit in the head with a hoe, was listed in satisfactory condition Wednesday at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Also arrested by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office were Jesus Mendoza, Nieves Mendoza and Juan Martinez. All four of the men face a fine of $200.

Officers said the men had apparently been finishing a fight which had started three years ago. Weapons used in the melee, included a hoe, a knife and a club made from the leg of a stool.

BURNED DOWN — This barn on the L. B. Wortham farm south and east of Hereford was hit twice by fire within three days, with the last fire Monday destroying it. Wiring caused a fire Saturday afternoon, when this photo was taken, but light damage was done that time as Hereford Volunteer Firemen had little difficulty putting it out. However, lightning reportedly struck the building shortly before 7 p. m. Monday and the building burned. Damage was estimated at $6500, with the greater portion of that amount being in tools which were stored in the barn.

JACK-O-LANTERN OR PIE? — Lovella Blankenship, secretary at the Monsanto Agriculture Center, ponders the question as to whether to make pies out of this over-grown pumpkin, or just use it to give the trick-or-treaters a big scare on Halloween. The pumpkin was one grown on the Dick Ellis farm, south of town, where he said he had two more that were large than the one shown here.

Morris Nears WT Record; Buffs To Entertain Pacific

CANYON, Tex. — Eugene "Mercury" Morris needs only 122 yards Saturday night to become the career rushing leader in West Texas State football history.

The 190-pound All-American halfback candidate, who has 2,353 yards rushing, gets the opportunity to better the 2,474-yard record of Bill Cross against the University of the Pacific in Buffalo Stadium. Game time is 8 p. m.

Cross of Canadian, Texas, compiled his record yardage in four years of activity, finishing in 1950.

This will be Morris' second chance to set an all-time West Texas record against Pacific. Last year he broke the one-game rushing mark with 264 yards on 29 carries in a 34-6 triumph over the Tigers.

The meeting between the two schools marks the 500th game since West Texas State began playing football in 1910. The Buffaloes have won 253, lost 231 and tied 15.

Last week West Texas State defeated Wichita State 26-0 as two Buffs rushed for over 100 yards apiece. Duane Thomas netted 134 yards on 19 attempts and Morris gained 129 yards on 18 carries. Quarterback Roy Winters completed 12 of 21 passes for 182 yards and the Buffaloes rolled up 529 yards in total offense.

The Pacific defensive line is strong, bolstered by 6-foot-7, 265-pound tackle Bob "The Tree" Heinz. Kevin Shea, Mike Siegfried, and Steve Simondi, all JC transfers, appear to be the leading defensive linemen.

The defensive secondary is in excellent shape with top returnee, Rudy Redmond, and junior college transfers to add depth.

Over-all, the Tigers appear ready for their "Big Year" as they call it.

The West Texas defense, which limited Wichita to 77 yards rushing and 79 passing, was much improved over the previous week when the Buffaloes opened the season with a 45-7 victory over Lamar Tech.

The Olympic games of 1912 saw the first decathlon competition, when it was introduced as a one-day event.

BEHIND THE SCENES — Members of the Hereford High School Whiteface Marching Band don't just meet each Friday night to perform for the pleasure of fans during halftime of the football games. There are many hours of practice on and off the field during the week, as evidenced by these photos by Tyler Vance. Director Ben Gollehon is at top right with speaker.

Realtors Leading In Sunset Keglers

In Sunset Keglers action for the week, Martha Emerson rolled a 517 to win the "High Individual Series" while Mari a n Davis collected the "High Individual Game" by rolling a 192.

Sunset Lanes won the "High Team Series" with a roll of 2339 and the "High Team Game" went to Team No. 4 with an 816.

The week's results show that Team No. 4 won 4 and lost 0; Team No. 11 won 0 and lost 4; Sunset Lanes won 4 and lost 0; Team No. 12 won 0 and lost 4; Justice Realtors won 3 and lost 0; Boyd Machine and Supply won 0 and lost 3; Arrowhead Drive-In won 3 and lost 0; Chester Gin won 0 and lost 3; Hereford Insurance won 3 and lost 0; Hereford Welding won 0 and lost 3; the Medics won 3 and lost 0; and Hays Implement won 0 and lost 3.

Ohlig, Scott Are Players Of Week

Though the Whitefaces suffered a 28-0 defeat at the hands of the Plainview Bulldogs, the team showed aggressiveness throughout most of the game and Jim Scott and Billy Ohlig, through their efforts, were named "Players of the Week".

Ohlig received his honor with the defensive unit as he was credited with 17 tackles and assists while Scott led the offensive unit with two pass receptions for a total of 44 yards and held a 38.1 average for nine punts.

Scott fills in at the end position while also taking on punting and kicking duties and Ohlig alternates at center and the backfield while on defense.

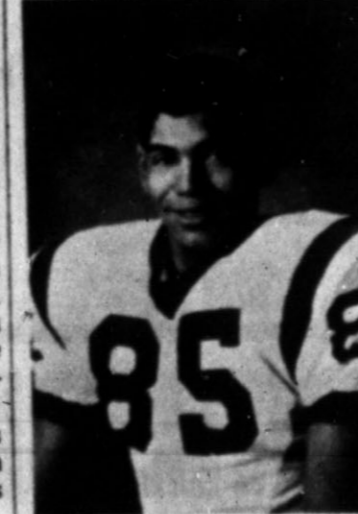

Standings to date show that first place is occupied by Justice Realtors with a record of 10-2 and is closely followed by: Sunset Lanes, 9-3; Medics, 9-3; Boyd Machine, 8-4; Chester Gin, 6-6; Team No. 4, 6-6; Hereford Insurance, 6-6; Hereford Welding, 6-6; Arrowhead Drive-In, 5-7; Hays Implement, 2-10; Team No. 12, 0-8 (incomplete); and Team No. 11, 0-8 (incomplete).

For the first three weeks of bowling action at the lanes for the Sunset Keglers, "Stars of the Week" included Anne Radney with a bowl of 521, Joan Munnerlyn, a 542 and Mart h a Emerson with a 517.

Those with splits converted were Bonnie Jones, picking up the 7-8; Faye White, the 6-10; Nancy Moore, the 3-6-7-10; Anita Knox, also the 3-6-7-10; and Marvin Davis, the 5-10 split.

Mavs Defeat Pups; Dumas Nips Doggies

In opening games for both Stanton and La Plata Junior Highs last week, Stanton lost a close contest to the Dumas bunch, 26-20, while La Plata registered a win over the Plainview Blue Pups, 18-0.

In La Plata's conquest of the Plainview team, the Mavericks put points on the scoreboard in every quarter except the third while rolling up 17 first downs and getting 209 yards rushing. On the air attack, the Mavs gained 35 yards for a total of 244 in the air and on the ground.

Leading the rushing was John Page who carried the ball 23 times and gained 140 yards for an average of 6.2 per carry. Also toting the ball were Danny Charest with an average of 2.0 on three carries; Billy Bob Taylor, who carried seven times for 30 yards and an average of 4.2; and Charles Allison who had an average of 8.0 per carry while hauling the ball eight yards on one carry.

Page also carried the load of passing duties as he threw the pigskin six times and completed two. Allison also threw one pass during the contest and completed it.

Scores came in the first quarter on a 26-yard run by Page and in the second period one a 13-yard scamper by Taylor. Accounting for the final tally of the Mavs was Page again as he plunged over from the four yard line, ending the scoring of the game with the Mavs ahead 18-0.

Stanton found themselves playing a sloppy pass defense game and that was all it took for the Dumas 11 to roll up 26 points to stop the Doggies in their season opener.

Stanton, following the same scoring pattern against Dumas that La Plata followed in their conquest of Plainview, put points on the board in each stanza with the exception of the third, but could not stop the Dumas air attack.

Dumas trailed by one touchdown going into the locker room at halftime, 12-6, but held the Doggies scoreless in the third while adding 12 more points to their score to take the lead. Both teams scored in the fourth before the game ended with the Dumas team winning by a six-point margin, 26-20.

Scoring for the Doggies was David Spain on a short run, with Eugene Stuttle rambling across for two TD's on short yardage. Dumas, on the other hand, threw for two of their touchdowns and ran for two.

Coach Walter Bryan said that the team "basically looked fairly good, but the pass defense was poor and the boys weren't aggressive enough."

La Plata's next game will be

Texas Sought To Join NFO

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization spoke to a crowd of around 1,000 persons at the "Golden Dollars for the Golden Spread" meeting, Saturday night at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. In his talk, he explained the needs and operations of the NFO and its purpose of collective bargaining in Texas.

Prior to the meeting at the Little Bull Barn, Staley held an informal coffee and news conference at the Hereford State Bank. Directing his talk at the meeting-barbecue, toward the need for a mass organization for collective bargaining by farmers throughout the country, Staley told his listeners that the American farmer, no matter where he lives, is the "strength of our organization. Not in a single person, not in its officers, but rather in its members."

"We of this organization believe that this group should not go into business and also that farmers should combine their strength," he stated, "toward one single structure."

Staley told the audience that there are six parts of collective bargaining, the thing which the organization uses, to get better prices for their commodities. These six parts included (1) mass organization; "You have to organize, then solve your problems, not try to solve them then organize," he said; (2) must organize industry-wide; (3) must work on all commodities, not just individual ones; (4) must use holding actions when they are necessary; (5) contracts must be the ultimate goals; and (6) farmers must buy together and sell together. He gave a detailed outline of the organization of NFO, pointing out the opposition that the group met in its early stages of development. Using the holding actions that the organization attempted earlier as examples, Staley pointed out that the farmers group is slowly gaining recognition through these actions. "We have made a lot of progress since the fall of 1955, when the organization became active, and we are proud of it," he said. "And recently, because of the actions we took a number of times in the form of holding actions, we now have major processors signing contracts for a guaranteed buying of our commodities."

Staley explained the organization's purpose in seeking membership in Texas as being "because we can not, and do not, have enough production in grain in the areas we are already in. We will never be successful in grain bargaining unless we have the support of Texas combined with the efforts of other areas."

Grain farmers must realize that they must maintain their grain at harvest time and must block production together, he said, and move it as a block to make it possible to compete with other growers and buyers throughout the nation. "What this really boils down to, is that every commodity you can maintain ownership of, then block production together, the market will then pay the price you deserve," he explained. Staley said that the American farmer is being forgotten in this economy because, (1) they have remained dormant for too many years, and (2) because of misinterpretation and distortion of facts pertaining to farming. He said that now is the time the American farmers are going to have to make their decisions that, together, they will be able to mark the prices of their products. "If we don't, the future is evident," he emphasized.

"I am proud of the leadership that has come forward in Texas, but a handfull of people can not do the whole job," he said in ending. "All we are going to try to do is to get people to be a part of a team with people in other states. We are hoping that when we all get together, moving in one direction, that we will have a representative of Texas with us. These are the results we are seeking down here in Texas."

IS YOUR BOAT IN THE WAY?

A well placed boat is just as important as an accurate cast, and the hand on the throttle may be as responsible for subduing a trophy fish as the trembling fingers locked around the rod.

Proper boat handling, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, plays a vital role in fishing. Unfortunately, they add, its true significance often becomes apparent too late — after a good fish has been lost.

Most anglers are reasonably adept at handling their rigs while trolling and casting. And hooking and netting ordinary size fish present no special problems.

However, things change quickly when the once-in-a-lifetime lunker comes along. Everyone focuses attention on the battle, and tends to forget that the boat can be a big aid to a happy outcome.

Some guides run their motors during the entire battle to help the fisherman hold the fish out in unobstructed water and to turn with the fish. When the fish shows signs of tiring and resistance slackens, the guide backs off steadily so that continual pressure can be exerted without letting the fish get a second wind up near the hull.

Hagans Honored On Anniversary

Silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hagans, Hereford residents since their marriage Sept. 25, 1948 until they recently moved to Muleshoe, was celebrated with a party Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kendall, 116 Douglas.

The couple was married in a home ceremony here; Mrs. Hagans was Miss Bettye Kendall, daughter of J. R. Kendall. Her cousins, Mrs. J. B. Noland and Mrs. C. J. Crump, who served coffee and cake at the wedding reception, had the same duties at the anniversary reception.

Hosts with Mr. and Mrs. Kendall were the Hagans' daughters Mrs. Earl Jackson, Misses Sharon and Tamara Hagans; his mother, Mrs. Lillian Scott; Mrs. Hagans' sister, Mrs. Delbert Bainum, and Mr. Bainum.

Mrs. Gary Tyler and Mrs. Don Cartwright, nieces, were at the guest book where approximately 70 relatives and friends registered.

Refreshments were served from a circular table covered with a white net cloth over satin, appliqued with streamers of satin ribbon and pairs of silver bells. A cluster of bells and lilies-of-the-valley which topped the colonnaded anniversary cake was the one which decorated Mrs. Jackson's wedding cake.

The cake and the silver coffee service were at opposite ends of the table; midway between was a single large taper, its base surrounded with pink roses in a silver bowl.

Guests from other cities were the Fred Kralls, Mrs. Jeff Burk Jr., Mrs. Ema Dixon and Mrs. Cartwright of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smith of Dimmitt, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schultz and Joe Ky of Melrose, N. M.

Schools Plan To Affiliate, Student Reports

Pamela Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce L. Miller who reside on Harrison Highway, and a junior student at Rosemary Hall in Greenwich, Conn. (her second year there), reports that two famous Connecticut preparatory schools are planning to affiliate.

The Choate School for Boys in Wallingford and Rosemary Hall School for Girls will join forces.

The principal reason for the decision to combine the two schools, according to the Rev. Seymour St. John, headmaster of Choate, and Miss Alice E. McBee, headmistress of Rosemary Hall, is a conviction shared by both schools that coordinate education is academically desirable, and that boys and girls benefit most, both intellectually and personally, from closer association in study, the arts, and recreation, prior to reaching college.

Dr. St. John and Miss McBee emphasized that no details of the actual coordinate curriculum have yet been completed. However, it is generally agreed that under the new arrangements the boys and girls will work together mostly in special activities such as music, drama, art and communications courses, and perhaps also in advanced science, mathematics and humanities classes.

Shooting The Bull At HHS

By CONNIE HOOVER
And away we go! Now that things are under way — the action begins. It is being proved to the WHITEFACES that a fun and exciting year is ahead.

The elected officers of the class of '69 are president, Trisha Hill; vice-president, Kathy Fooks; and secretary, Jane Witkowski. This year the seniors are loaded with determination. Trisha said, "The greatness of the senior class lies in quality not quantity," as they have an enrollment of 197. Because the cost of a banquet for two classes is too great, the seniors will have the east-side concession stand at the football game to raise money for their own banquet. They ask for student, faculty, and public support.

Busy — the word to describe the class of '70! For a great representative the juniors have decided Paul Hendon as president. Vice-president and secretary will be elected soon. Under the direction of Kerri L. Meron, the juniors had a highly successful car wash. October 5 — a rummage sale at 218 North 25 Mile Ave. Volunteers are needed to work and bring rummage. The 304 united juniors will reach their goal.

The last but not least, class of H.H.S. has also voiced its Whiteface position with Mike Wartes as president. Rick Lee has been elected as secretary of Student Council to help Lani Buck, president and Betty Hodges, vice-president. Congratulations Sophs for the Spirit Stick. All 331 of you add spirit and noise that H.H.S. has seldom had in a sophomore class. Keep it up!

Speaking of spirit, Mr. Gollehon had made a move to conduct the band to play loud and march with fight so they will be ready to accompany the HERD TO STATE. Along with the student and faculty body Mr. Gollehon and the band want to support school spirit like never before.

Student Council met last Monday. The decided theme for homecoming floats is "The Page of History."
Now is the time to buy your Christmas greenery from any Student Council member. The orders must be in by November 30 get in the spirit and support your school.

The first 68-69 Whiteface edition will be out this Friday — Free! Mrs. Wartes and the staff welcome any letters to the editor as long as they are signed (your name will not necessarily be included).

Twirling lessons will be given by Trisha Eill. For further information get in touch with her.

On the whole, the students of H.H.S. are a very fine group but Mr. Michaels would like to remind us of one particular policy:

Any student who in the opinion of teachers is wearing a dress that is too short shall be referred to the office. No pant dresses shall be worn to school. No pantalon type garments shall be worn to school. Boys' side burns should not be excessively long and their hair should be cut appropriately.

For the convenience of the community, FHA is sponsoring a Salad Supper before the game tomorrow night. Adult tickets are $1.25 and children under 12 are $.75. They will have enough food for everyone so they expect to see you between 5:30 and 7:30 at the High School Cafeteria. Also the public is invited to attend a Future Homemakers of America panel discussion on morals the night of October 28.

FFA has succeeded in winning 1st prize of $70 for their educational booth at the Tri-State Fair. The theme, Rat Control, held a good standing against its other competitors. The Wheat Improvement Contest was held last week at the fair in Amarillo. Hereford was well represented with three winners: Otis

Robinson was runner-up Wheat King and was awarded a trophy and $40. Jimmy Christie placed sixth receiving $10. Five dollars was given to Luis Fetch placing ninth. The Future Farmers of America concession stand is on the west side of the stadium.

WHO IS A WHITEFACE??

Problems Of Alcoholism Are Discussed By Local Pastor

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Rev. Fred Howard told the Deaf Smith County Council on Alcoholism that "it has to be a total community program to deal with alcohol problems."
Under the chairmanship of Gene Fooks, minister of the Central Church of Christ, the St. Thomas Episcopal vicar was introduced to make his report on the Texas Summer Studies on Alcohol, which he attended in July.

The council also elected a committee for Alcohol Information Week, which will begin in the latter part of November. The Rev. Howard was chosen as chairman with Florence Robinson and Maurice L. Means serving with him.

Rev. Howard prefaced his remarks with "alcoholism is the fourth major disease in our society. Alcoholism and alcohol problems are no longer a concern — but rather it is a cause. How can we set up a program to adequately cope with alcohol problems? We must know the kind of program we need and want; we must plan and plan well."

He spoke of the "revolving drunk" problem and how an attorney is trying to keep such persons out of jail on the basis that they are ill. Another was a program for the teenager in his third year in the final two years of high school, the role of the clergy with alcohol, a psychiatrist who spoke on the addiction route of both tranquilizers and alcohol in the human body, and a "house" in St. Louis is that specializes in "revolving drunk" cases with a measure of success.

He also told of a speaker who described 10 myths about alcoholism people labor under — the professionals not the people who know nothing about it. "These revelations were very startling," he said.

But Rev. Howard seemed more impressed by the program presented by George Dimas, president of North American Association of Alcoholism Programs, director of the State of Oregon Mental Health Division, Alcohol Studies and Rehabilitation Section of Portland, Oregon. Rev. Howard gave Dimas' definitions of alcohol:

Alcohol problem — an issue arising related to alcohol but requires thoughtful solution. Howard said, "The alcohol problem is simply there because we have alcohol. But we do not condemn marriage because there are those with marital problems. The illustration would be true in this case." The list followed with Problem Drinker — a person who uses alcohol to the excess so that it effects some part of his life; Addictive Drinker — the problem drinker who has lost control over his drinking.

Thus, our consideration is focused upon alcohol, the individual, and the social-cultural elements," he said. "That is why it must be a total community program."

He gave the program concepts the planning phases, mission of the total community program, its objective, services and activities. "Implementation of the program including the services and activities will fall into three major areas: The general public — including the government, voluntary groups, business and industry."

He said that specific areas of responsibilities for the program of understanding and rehabilitation of the alcoholic must be defined and understood (by the community at large) and that specific techniques of prevention, treatment, rehabilitation and control must be kept current.

"One sure factor is that abstainers, users, and excessive users of alcohol have little or no knowledge about alcohol," Rev. Howard stated. "The alcohol problem and alcoholism. The lack of public education on alcohol is the major barrier preventing effective programs to meet the needs of the alcohol problem."

"There is much knowledge about alcohol and related problems available, but it is not in the hands of community leaders. Agencies dealing with alcohol and related problems have poor communications; professionals working with problems related alcohol feel that it is hopeless."

But Rev. Howard said, "It is not hopeless: Much can be done and much is being done in communities that avail themselves to the total program. It may take a few working hard to begin. We must be ready to spend more — more time, more money, more effort. We have an alcohol problem (in Deaf Smith County an estimated 500-600 people.) It is no longer just a concern — it is a cause. The success or failure of the cause across our society rides upon the response or lack of response at the local level."

Fooks commented later on the ways of the people in regard to alcoholism: "If they are not faced with the problem, they tune it out — no matter what they have seen in the papers or heard about alcoholic programs. When they have the problem, they say 'Where have all these things been all the time! Then many of them will tune it out when the problem is all over.'"

But Fooks, too, maintained that "making it a community project is not hopeless." Committee member Francis Hardwick reported that he had learned here "there are fewer drunks and DWI's in this county than there have been for years. They say that it is because of fewer transients. But I don't believe this is altogether true. It may be that we (the council) are catching on."

It was agreed that the council will continue to meet in the Hotel Jim Hill ballroom at noon on the last Tuesday in each month (immediately prior to the Alcoholics Anonymous open meeting which is always held on the last Thursday at the Rock House in Jaycee Park.)

BIOGRAPHY OF A WINNER — Rafer Johnson, shown winning a decathlon race at the 1960 Olympics in Rome, began his winning ways as a newspaperboy in Texas. After moving to California, he was a high school letter man in four sports, setting seven track and field league records. As a UCLA senior, Rafer was student body president in 1959. He had first broken the ten-event world decathlon record four years earlier. He placed second at the 1956 Melbourne Olympics, then took the 1960 decathlon gold medal. In 1962, Rafer Johnson became West Coast Director of People to People, and has since appeared in movies and been a network sportscaster.

NEWSPAPERBOYS GET AHEAD

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America — and Americans — great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

The Treasury Department's U.S. Savings Bonds Division proudly joins in this traditional salute to the nation's newspaperboys. They've helped promote Savings Bonds and Stamps, and are buying Bonds themselves out of earnings — in many cases, to help pay for college some day. Newspaperboys know what's happening. And they'll help to make the future better for all of us.

Chamber Is Taking Survey On Bills Before Congress

Bills before the Congress of the United States pertaining to the Electoral College Reform have been brought to the attention of Deaf Smith County citizens by the Government Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Before the committee will take a stand on either bill — pertaining to the Proportional Method or District Method of electing a President or Vice President — they have decided to poll the public here for its choice.

The methods have been described in the Sunday Brand and by Chamber Manager Bill Thompson in a series of programs broadcast over KPAN during the past week.

Those who wish to "be heard" in this selection may mark the ballot appearing on this page of the Hereford Brand. The ballot is to be clipped from this issue and mailed to the Chamber offices. Their address is included on the ballot.

Thompson has reported from his findings that the Electoral College system through which our Presidents and Vice Presidents have been elected since 1787, is to undergo reform in our time because of the nationwide opinion that it is outmoded.

While reforms have been hanging fire since 1948, it has come to the front now primarily through the three candidates for the presidency in 1968 and the belief that none of them can obtain the majority of electoral votes. Therefore, the election would become the responsibility of the U. S. House of Representatives.

Here's The Issue, published by the Legislative Department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, have described the methods under consideration in this fashion:

DISTRICT METHOD
Some variations exist in the District Method proposals. Most frequently, they would retain the Electoral College, but divide each State into equally populated districts. The winner of the statewide plurality would receive two additional electoral votes.

PROPORTIONAL METHOD
Although these proposals also vary in detail, their essential and common feature is that they would divide each State's electoral votes in proportion to the direct popular vote received in the State.

(Direct Popular Elections, where the President and Vice President are elected by popular vote of the people, are not under the consideration of the Congress at this time.)

Here's The Issue reports that though the years successive amendments have reflected the almost universal dissatisfaction with the present "unit system" — under which the entire electoral college vote is given to the candidate whose electors win a plurality of the popular vote in a State.

Critics have pointed out, among other things, that the unit system permits the election of a "minority President" who receives less than a majority of the votes, gives big States a decided advantage over small states, inflates the bargaining power of splinter parties and pressure groups, can put a premium on fraud in key states, and raises the possibility of throwing an election into the House of Representatives.

Highways Are Safer Today Because Of Much Research

AUSTIN — Safety is built into Texas highways just as surely and deliberately as are bridges and drainage culverts.

That this policy pays off is proved by the decreasing fatality rate on the highways. In 1925, there were 17.5 fatalities for every 100 million vehicle miles driven. By 1967, this rate had been lowered 5.8 per 100 million miles driven.

One of the prime reasons highways are safer is because of the more than $1 million invested annually on research by the Texas Highway Department. The reduced highway fatality rate can be traced directly to the application of research results to the design of new highways and the modification of older ones built in an age of fewer, less powerful vehicles.

A dramatic illustration of the direct benefit of research is the breakaway sign. More than 700 thousand signs and markers along the Texas highway system inform, warn and direct drivers. Yet in the past these very signs have been instruments of death when struck by speeding vehicles.

A rash of vehicle and sign collisions, some fatal, led to development in Texas of a sign structure that would yield on impact yet would withstand heavy winds and support large signs. Two years of research by Texas Highway Department engineers and the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University were required to devise the support based on a concept originated by Highway Department engineer Leon Hawkins.

The breakaway sign support is now being installed on all Texas highways. In almost 150 collisions of vehicles with the supports, no injuries and only one fatality have been recorded — a fatality that occurred under circumstances not yet understood.

Confirmation of the value of the sign structures was the 1967 Bureau of Public Roads directive that specified breakaway sign supports for all federal-aid highway construction in the United States.

But the breakaway support is not the answer to all highway hazards; thus, highway safety research takes many forms.

With the close cooperation of researchers at Texas Transportation Institute and at the University of Texas Center for Highway Research, many other aspects of highway safety and design are being analyzed.

At TTI, studies continue in the fields of highway lighting, freeway traffic control, rail-highway grade crossings, and vehicle impact attenuation.

The last mouthful refers to attempts to find ways to cushion the blow when a vehicle hits a roadside obstacle that cannot yield — a bridge support, for example. One possible solution is now being field-tested at a location in Houston where several fatal accidents recently occurred. It involves cushioning a concrete retaining wall between structures on the Interstate Highway Loop 610 at the IH 10-US Highway 59 interchange. A group of interlocked steel barrels have been placed in the gore in front of the wall to attenuate — or decrease — the energy of a colliding vehicle by successive crushing of the barrels. Highway Department and TTI engineers will study the success of this device under day-to-day traffic before further installations are made.

Research in other aspects of highway design closely related to safety goes forward at the Center for Highway Research. Sponsored by the Texas Highway Department, this research is in such fields as soil testing, water flow through culverts on steep grades, and fatigue characteristics of bridge plate girders.

The tremendous strides that have been made over the years in providing better highway transportation for less cost and increased safety are, in great measure, the result of painstaking research. Controlled access highways, prestressed concrete, computerized traffic control devices, highway signs and markings are but a few examples of features we take for granted that came about through research.

The Texas Highway Department is proud of the role it has played in fostering and participating in these important research activities. In doing so, the Department has helped meet the continuing challenge of a state and nation on wheels.

The theme of National Highway Week this year is "Highways are for people." Research is the key to making America's highways the best — and therefore the safest — in the world, for people.

Enrollment Begins In Adult Education

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer

Tentative enrollment figures for the Adult Education classes were released Wednesday afternoon by assistant Hereford school superintendent Robert Holman, along with information on one of the courses and a method of tuition payment.

Leading the list of enrollment figures is 38 in Su Futuro Con El Ingles (for non-English speaking people and/or non-readers.) Other leaders include Typing I with 21 enrollees and Beginning Spanish 17.

Classes which have as yet no enrollees are Beginning Sewing, Irrigation Motors, pumps and equipment; and Small Electric and Gasoline Engine repair.

Other courses now list Accounting, 1; Intermediate Spanish, 3; New Math for Adults, 1; Arts and Crafts, 1; Typing 2, 2; Bookkeeping, 10; English (composition, literature, new linguistic grammar), 2; Upholstering and Furniture repair, 3; Short-hand, 12; Vocational Office Education, 8; Welding, 5; Auto Mechanics, 4; and Clerical Practices and Record Keeping, 9.

Now in the Speed Reading for Adults course are 3 enrollees.

Holman pointed out, "Among the many Adult Education courses that were offered to the adults of Hereford, a course in Speed Reading was listed. Since only a few individuals enrolled in the course Monday night, it was felt that a more thorough description of the course should be given.

"This is one of the most beneficial courses to high school students who are on their way to college and for businessmen who are involved in the act of having to read great volumes of material each day.

"The process of teaching this course in speed reading will involve work with a tachistoscope. The tachistoscopic training on verbal and non-verbal materials alerts the mental aspects of recognition through the visual training. Another aspect of the program is work on the controlled reader, another tachistropic device which helps the individual who is slowed down in reading by regressions in eye movement, who has difficulty with return eye sweep, and erratic eye movements while in the process of reading.

"Another important aspect of reading as far as comprehension is concerned is listening. Instructions in listening in a sequential program will be a part of this reading course. Most people are not aware of the fact that there are over 65 different phases of comprehension. It is not just a matter of not understanding what is read often times as it is a matter of one particular comprehension skill.

"For instance, some individuals are very adept at read-prove his overall reading ability." Holman continued, "On this date of Oct. 7, we plan to have Eugene F. Matthews, one of the outstanding persons in reading in Texas. Mr. Matthews would not only administer the eye-movement tests, but would lecture to the class at this particular meeting and would aid us in setting up our reading program.

"Mr. Matthews is presently a member of the Board of Governors of Indiana University, president and general manager of Sound Photo Equipment Co., a member of RCA Advisory Council, was formerly on the faculty of the U. S. Air Force Academy as director of reading services, author of many articles in reading on a national level, a guest consultant at reading institutes at the University of Texas, El Paso, and West Texas State University in the area of reading.

"We are most fortunate in securing Mr. Matthews' services. "But in order to offer this course, we need people who will take advantage of this excellent course and enroll as soon as possible. If any individual is reading on the 7th grade level and above, and has a vocabulary equal to a 7th-grader or above, he can benefit from this class. Lawyers, executives, doctors, housewives, secretaries, teachers and high school students could all benefit immensely from this program. But unless we have as many as 30 enrollees this course will of necessity fail.

"If you are interested, please call my office at 364-0606. If I am not available, please speak to my secretary, Betty Priest. You may enroll over the telephone. Enrollment fee may be paid on registration, at the first class meeting, or any time before the end of the course."

Holman said that he also had a special interest in the Furniture Upholstery, Welding, Auto Mechanics and Irrigation classes. He said enrollment would remain open through the second class meeting. Tuition can be paid at any time during the courses.

CYO Has Contest To Choose Banner

A contest for designing a C-YO banner, with a cash prize offered, was announced at a recent meeting of the Catholic Youth Organization of St. Anthony's Parish, in the school auditorium.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff Ed Roberson and Assistant County Attorney Tom Burdett attended the Attorney General's Conference on Law Enforcement held in Austin over the past weekend.

Speakers for the conference included the new head of the Texas Department of Public Safety Wilson Speir and House Speaker Ben Barnes.

"There is now... today... a great amount of confusion about law enforcement," Barnes stated. "Court decisions have struck down many traditional law enforcement practices. New crime detection techniques and methods are changing concepts of investigation and evidence. It has become fashionable among some factions of our society to openly defy the law."

Continuing, Barnes told the group "We have sought justice for all. Perhaps we have failed to apply it equally for all at times and in some places, but we have still reached a greater degree of equal justice under that law than any other society anywhere at any time. And certainly deliberately defying our laws will make them no better."

"A major problem in law enforcement today is how to handle those demented few who would inflict terror on the rest of their communities. These few would seek to make their own law."

"No man can be his own law. If one man has that right, then all must have it... the philosopher and the fool alike, because in our society all must be the same under the law of the land."

"Our laws must have the teeth in them to deal with mobs, whether on the street or on the university campus. I believe you will see the Legislature next spring take action to strengthen our laws and close loopholes in them... to see that police have adequate authority to deal with such situations."

Full activities were discussed, including a census of the parish to bring records up to date. Twenty members volunteered for this service. Two members, Jane Witkowski and Diana Fangman, are volunteers for another project, assisting in religious instruction for elementary pupils in the parish school.

The banner design is to be submitted by Oct. 12 to be eligible for a $5 prize. Ideas were suggested for the banner, to be used for CYO communion Sunday. It was agreed that the design should be typical of modern times, and represent Christian youth of this generation.

A mass with folk hymns is to be presented this fall for the CYO, the exact date to be decided at the next meeting. Also at that meeting, a committee is to be appointed to work with officers and the moderator, the Rev. John Van der Kulk, on revising the CYO constitution and preparing a copy for each member.

Washington Report

From Congressman
BOB PRICE 15TH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1123 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. 20540

Appropriations for the Foreign Assistance Act of 1969 were substantially reduced in the bill passed by the House of Representatives last Thursday. In my opinion, however, the entire $1.6 billion approved for Foreign Aid could have been eliminated from appropriations for fiscal 1969 without seriously affecting the program.

Because of the continuing seriousness of the U. S. balance of payments problem abroad and the inflationary spiral at home, I voted against the bill along with 138 other Members. The President had requested $2.9 billion in his budget. The Foreign Affairs Committees of the House and Senate had reduced the authorization for Foreign Aid to $1.98 billion and then the Appropriations Committee had cut that figure to $1.6 billion. But, as Rep. Otto Passman, the Chairman of the subcommittee that handled the appropriations said, the bill has become so fragmented that it is necessary to go through the entire budget to pick-up all the pieces that are not included in the bill.

The Committee report on the bill itemized $10,847,940,000 for selected programs involving international activities that the President has requested in the 1969 budget. In addition to the $2.9 billion for foreign assistance, other programs and requests included both military and economic assistance in the Defense budget, Export-Import Bank, PL 480 (Food for Peace), Inter-American Development Bank, International Development Association, Asian Development Bank, Peace Corps, foreign educational assistance, contribution to international organizations and others that add up to almost $11 billion. This compares with the 1968 request of $9.2 billion and 1967 of $8.2 billion. Those who decry the cuts and the left-wing Washington Post that ranted editorially of "reckless abandon" and "hatch-et-work" on what they termed a "bare bones" request ignored the fact that unexpended balances for these programs now total $20,762,926,000. And, unless there is a substantial increase in U. S. commercial exports, we can look forward to another substantial deficit in our international balance of payments account in calendar year 1968. The 1967 deficit was $3,650,000,000 and resulted in this year's gold crisis.

A list of countries that have purchased gold from us during the period 1957 through 1967 shows that each one of the countries was or is now a recipient of U. S. assistance during that period. Their actions have reduced our gold stockpile from $22,837,000,000 on December 31, 1957 to $11,981,594,750 on December 31, 1967. In addition, many of the countries were also purchasing newly-mined gold to add to their gold reserves. The 72 countries that purchased this more than $20 billion in U. S. gold, during that 10 year period, received $22,949,000,000 in U. S. economic and military assistance.

There is no question of U. S. concern and compassion for the hunger, poverty, and distress in many parts of the world. And our help could have been continued with the huge amounts already funded in previous years. But, in the face of a $25.4 billion deficit this year, a $30 billion annual cost of the war in Vietnam, continuing inflation, cost of living increases, gold outflow, skyrocketing costs for medical care, education and everything else, I consider it unfair to ask the U. S. taxpayer to assume the burden of taking care of all of the so-called under-developed countries of the world.

Mexico expects two million visitors for the Olympic Games in October. Tonga's 235-pound monarch, Taufa'ahau, is an enthusiastic surfer, fisherman, and scuba diver.

Jim Black, son of one of Hereford's prominent pioneers, has taken issue with the Brand concerning an ad in last Sunday's edition (Sept. 22) which displayed a photo of the Sherk & Stanek livery stable in front of which was a team of horses hitched to a large water wagon. The caption under the picture indicated that this was one of Hereford's early fire wagons.

Not so, says Jim. "That's a street sprinkler". Jim says the water wagon was used to water down the dusty city streets around the turn of the century and that it was never used as a fire wagon. "Hereford had no fire protection in those days", Mr. Black says.

The picture came from "A HISTORY OF DEAF SMITH COUNTY", written by Bessie Patterson, who gathered her information from old-timers in the area. Lone Star Insurance Agency has been running a series of ads using early day pictures, most of which were also in the county history and this is the first time that we've been called on the carpet over the deal.

Jim tells us that the wagon carried the advertisement "E. B. Black Co. — Furniture — Undertaking." We can read the last two words from the photo and since Mr. Black's father was the only furniture dealer and undertaker in Hereford at that time, we sure can't dispute his word.

Actually, we're curious. Was this wagon ever used to carry water to fires? Or is Jim right about the whole deal and it was used for nothing more than sprinkling down the streets? What about it, pioneers. Let's hear from some of the others. Do you agree with Jim, or disagree?

We noticed in a national publication recently that it cost the U. S. taxpayers $1,376,508 to finance use of troops in Chicago for the protection of the delegates at the Democratic National Convention. This does not include their regular military pay, nor does it include the cost of the Secret Service, FBI, and Department of Justice personnel. And of course, the people of Chicago, picked up the tab for the use of the city police.

Frank Ford Has Plan For Total Development Of Water Resources

Campaigning in the Rhea Community this week, Frank Ford proposed an "Action plan for total development of water resources in this area."

"Beginning at the local level," said Ford, "Continuing efforts must be made to capture and utilize the rainfall we receive. This means maximum use of lake pumps to use the water in playa lakes when available, and more conservation dams to prevent runoff from this area in our creeks."

"Every farmer knows that the value of anything he needs in his production is determined by its replacement costs," Ford stated. "And the replacement cost of our water is going to be determined by the cost of about a thousand miles of canals and aqueducts, dozens of huge pumping stations, lock systems, and storage reservoirs."

"When we add to this the cost of a dispersal system at the end of the main importation canal, with the cost of crossing roads, ravines, and acquiring rights of way, then we can fully appreciate the value of conserving the water which we now have. I believe that it is very important that the leadership in water planning should come from men who have a proven record of effectiveness in water conservation."

Ford's brother, Dr. David L. Ford of Austin, is Assistant Director of the Texas Center for Research in Water Resources.

Ford also warned of the danger of injecting partisan politics into water importation efforts. "I have said often during this campaign," he concluded, "That this great need for the future of our area is too important for it to be involved in jockeying for political advantage."

Action On Oil Import Law Is Sought By Price

Panhandle Congressman Bob Price urged enactment of oil import legislation in the House of Representatives this week.

In a special order on Trade Policy, Price told House members that there was a day-to-day assault on the Mandatory Oil Import Program in an effort to dismantle it entirely.

Price had reference to an application by Occidental Petroleum Company for a Foreign Trade Zone in Maine where the company would process some 300,000 barrels a day of foreign oil. Two-hundred thousand barrels of finished product would be sold in the United States.

"Should this project be approved, such approval would involve a clear misuse of the Foreign Trade Zones Act," Price charged. "It would be a mockery because this proposal has one single purpose; to permit its sponsor to supply a U. S. refinery entirely on foreign oil import program," he added.

Price testified before the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and the House Committee on Ways and Means that the Mandatory Oil Import Program should be written in law with specific guidelines to assure compliance with the national security provisions of the program.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

Next to finding oil on the old homestead, getting an oil lease bonus is about the nicest thing that could happen to you. IRS points out that an oil lease bonus payment will qualify for the 27 1/2 percent depletion allowance. The annual rental does not. (The annual rental is usually $1.00 per acre.) Most folks who have had a lease look forward to it running out without the oil company drilling a dry hole, so they can get another oil lease bonus. However, two lease bonuses are not quite twice as nice as one. You have to restore the depletion allowance that you claimed back several years ago when you got your first lease bonus as income, and pay taxes. Your oil was not depleted during the lease, and the law requires you to give the tax deduction back. This is true regardless of whether you have a dry hole, get a new lease, or the oil people just go away. It hurts, but that's the way the law reads.

Foreign Conservationist Is Making Method Study Here

Muzaffer Kaya, 31, head of conservation work in Tunceli, Turkey, is presently in Hereford for a two-week stay to study the various irrigation methods used in this area, and to take some of these ideas back to his homeland.

His trip being sponsored by the Agency for International Development (AID), Kaya arrived in the United States in March of this year. He spent three weeks in Washington, D. C., then traveled to California where he stayed three-and-one-half months studying conservation methods. After leaving California, Kaya went to Utah where he stayed for about the same period of time studying their conservation and irrigation methods.

Kaya, who arrived here in Hereford Sept. 16, will leave around the first of October and then travel to the Rio Grande Valley for three weeks. After leaving the Valley, he will then go to Beaumont for two weeks and on to Fort Worth for two more weeks. In each of his stops, he is obtaining information of conservation methods. He will remain in Texas until the latter part of November then go to Delroy, Ohio, for a communications seminar before returning to Turkey sometime around the 13th of December.

A 1961 graduate of the University of Andara, Turkey, where he received his degree in engineering, Kaya is the head of the Toprak ("Toprak" meaning soil, and "su" meaning water) Conservation office in Tunceli. He has a staff of around 18 persons working with him there.

His trip to the United States was for the purpose of gaining technical information of the development of irrigation practices and to take what he has learned here, back to Turkey to attempt to put these practices to work for his country.

With a great deal of Turkey dry, government officials are seeking to develop irrigation programs throughout the country through information gained from persons sent to various countries by the AID program.

While in Hereford, Kaya also visited feed lots and various other operations in the local area, attempting to gain an overall knowledge of the programs for development in other areas as well as that of irrigation. Kaya also saw his first football game while visiting Hereford and termed it as a "real fine game."

Kaya has a younger brother he is planning to send to one of the universities in Turkey, and two married sisters who live in their homeland also.

TURKISH CONSERVATIONIST — Muzaffer Kaya, seated, conservationist from Turkey, and Wilton Green, manager of the local Soil Conservation Service office, look over books pertaining to conservation methods in this area. Kaya is touring the United States studying various conservation methods throughout numerous states.

New Farming Calls For Change In Old 160 Acre Limitation

Several columns have been written on the 160 acre limitation contained in the Basic Reclamation Law passed in 1902. It is expected that increased emphasis will be placed on trying to modify this limitation as it is considered by many to not be in the public interest in light of today's farm practices and economic facts of life.

Clayton Named Committee Head

Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake has been named chairman of the Texas Water Conservation Association (TWCA) Committee on the 160-Acre Limitation Feature of the Reclamation Law, John W. Simmons of Orange, president of TWCA, announced today.

The 11-man committee, Simmons said, will work with other similar groups in the Western states in seeking modification of the acreage limitation provisions of the federal reclamation law. The Act, passed by the Congress in 1902, limits the number of acres to 160 for which a landowner can receive irrigation water from a project without paying interest on the cost of the project.

Other members of the committee are Robert D. Lemon of Perryton, Russell Bean of Lubbock, J. W. Buchanan of DuMas, E. W. Easterling of Beaumont, David H. Brune of Arlington, W. D. Parish of Mercedes, C. W. Weber of Houston, Walter J. Wells of Waco, Judge Guy C. Jackson of Kerrville, who will serve as advisor to the committee, and Simmons.

Clayton, who has headed the House Interim Water Study Committee for several years, is considered one of the most knowledgeable members of the Texas House of Representatives in the field of water resources development. He and his committee are presently holding hearings in various parts of Texas on proposed water legislation.

Clayton said the TWCA committee would meet in the near future to plan its work and make plans for establishing contacts with similar groups in the other western and southwestern states.

A task force established by the Governor of California has been studying the limitation. Several farm organizations have established committees to study the basic law. The Texas Water Conservation Association is considering what action to take. This law and future modifications and interpretations become increasingly more important to us on the plains who will be using imported surface water for irrigation.

Getting Federal Contracts To Be Topic Of Meet

A Business Opportunity Procurement Conference, which will give instruction on how West Texas businessmen and manufacturers may win federal government contracts, will be held Oct. 3 at the KoKo Palace in Lubbock.

Sponsoring the conference, which will be held from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., will be Congressman George Mahon and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

Those attending the conference will hear from federal agencies, federal prime contractors and other business concerns invited by the sponsors. Featured will be "person-to-person" counseling between buyers and sellers with emphasis on opportunities which exist for businessmen. The sellers are visitors to the conference who come in response to invitations issued by the sponsoring organizations, persons and agencies, and also are people seeking to do business with the government purchasing agencies.

Advance registration, which includes $2.50 per plate for a noon luncheon, may be made with Ray Brock, Conference Chairman, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, P. O. Box 561, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

Eggs and rabbits heralded the spring season centuries before the first Easter basket was filled, the National Geographic Society says. Persians, Phoenicians, Greeks and Romans all associated eggs with the waking earth. The Chaldeans of ancient Babylonia chose the rabbit as a spring fertility symbol.

Open Federation Meeting Slated

Next Monday's luncheon of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs, to which all women of the county are invited, is one of three scheduled for the 1968-69 season. Quarterly luncheons are held in September, January and April each year. After the covered dish meal beginning at 12:30 p. m. in Community Center, a program is presented. Planned for Monday is a panel discussion on possibilities for the future in joint efforts of women's organizations in the county. Representatives of several types of clubs will take part.

Mrs. W. T. Carmichael is new president of the Federation, which was organized in 1929 to bring women of the county together to work in community service. One of the first projects was establishment of a county library.

That accomplished, the clubs worked in unison for other needs of the county. In recent years they had a leading part in building and furnishing Community Center.

Last year, for the first time, two members were honored with life membership in the Federation and cited for outstanding service. Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. and Mrs. A. O. Thompson were the two chosen upon recommendation of their own clubs.

Mrs. Thompson is a charter member of both Music Study Club and Hereford Garden Club, two of the clubs that founded the Federation. She has served as president, treasurer and chairman of many committees in the Federation under five presidents.

She is also a member of the Order of Eastern Star, one of the early worthy matrons of the Hereford Chapter. She has been active in First Baptist Church throughout her residence in Hereford, a member of the choir for many years and a holder of practically all offices in the Women's Missionary Union.

Mrs. Thompson arranges flowers for the church pulpit each week and has contributed and arranged flowers for countless weddings.

Mrs. Hill, also a charter member of the Federation, has filled almost all its offices including a term as president. She has served the past two years as corresponding secretary.

As the 20th anniversary celebration in 1949, the Federation honored Mrs. Hill as the Outstanding Clubwoman of Deaf Smith County. She has won district awards for the Federation for her work in an "each one teach one" program.

Past president of both Pioneer Study Club and Hereford Garden Club, Mrs. Hill recently completed a term as governor of District I, Texas Garden Clubs Inc.

Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau was born at St.-Andre-de-Culzac, France, in 1910. He entered the Brest Naval Academy in 1930. Sent to the seaport of Toulon as a gunnery officer, he began goggle-diving and experimenting with undersea breathing apparatus and marine photography.

In spring, youngsters knockle down to a game of marbles — just as Stone Age kids did thousands of years ago.

CIRCLE OFFICERS — Installed last week, new officers are leading the Antonion Circle of St. Anthony's Catholic Church as it begins a year of work. Mrs. Larry Waterscheid, president, shakes hands with the Rev. Simeon Heine, S.A., who lately became pastor of the church, as Mrs. Duane Albracht, vice president, smiles a welcome to the priest in the top photo. Other officers, lower photo, are from left, Mrs. Marcel Fischbracher, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid, parliamentarian-reporter; Mrs. Ronny Pagett, treasurer; Mrs. Gilbert Yosten, correspondent.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Free to anyone who will give them a good home, Mrs. A. R. Rogers has — no, not kittens, the usual subject of this approach — a fine collection of geranium plants growing in her yard at 411 S. 25 Mile Ave.

THEY ARE BLOOMING beautifully now, and she feels badly about the fall freeze she knows is coming, which would kill the plants. There are so many of them she can't take them indoors, since they would fill a greenhouse, and she would like some help in getting them in before frost.

Besides red ones, the only color some people believe a geranium can have, some are in coral and pink shades. Mrs. Rogers will give cuttings from the plants to those who want to root them, and if someone wants the big plants they may be taken up roots and all.

ON THAT SUBJECT, there are so many daylilies in a bed at my house that some have got to go! Anyone who wants them is welcome; I hate to dig them and throw them away. Some are the big double orange-pink lilies and others smaller, with the kind of brownish-red blooms that daylily catalogues describe as rose colored.

Someone who is just getting a new yard started might like them because daylilies grow fast, bloom showily the first year, don't suffer from bugs or blights and need practically no attention except a good soaking about once a week. They are easy to transplant, and now is the time for it.

IT WASN'T FIRST graders, it was girls in a Horizon Club led by Mrs. O. Z. Golden and Mrs. John Gooch who arranged a display at Bluebonnet Elementary School inviting the girls there to join the Camp-Fire program of which the Horizon Club is the senior branch.

Mrs. Golden is a teacher of first grade at Bluebonnet, but it was members of her extracurricular activity who made the display to coincide with the weekend dedication of the new Camp Fire Lodge. Hers is the Wah-Cun-Ya Horizon Club.

About 85 per cent of the corn produced in the United States becomes livestock feed, while the remainder is processed for food and hundreds of by-products. Even the cob is used for livestock feed, garden mulch, polishing powder and furfural, a chemical used in nylon, drugs and solvents.

The man who has no Faith in God nor in his fellowman is dead as a cinder. He has spiritual leukemia. He is without confidence in the future. Faith is the root of blessing. Without it life is worthless. It has no meaning. A little Faith can be a big light on a dark night.

Hope is certainly man's highest expectation of good. Hope holds together all that is good. It maintains all mankind. Many times in life, Hope just has to be the tie that keeps the heart from breaking. Hope is a carpet of promise along the road man must walk to the promised land.

Love must be the greatest of the three. Love is gentle and it suffers long. Love is kind, tender and devoted. Love never fails. Surely love must be the crowning grace. You can find these spiritual vitamins on the menu at your favorite church every week. You can't afford to miss a service.

New Books Cover War, Decorating

Two new books in the Deaf Smith County Library are on far different subjects — war and home decorating.

Librarians remind residents that these are only two of the many new books received in the past few days, and urge everyone to come in and find a book of their choice.

An exciting novel of love and courage emerging from the bitterness caused by the most tragic war in American history is found in the pages of Harky Duncan's new novel, West of Appomattox.

After Appomattox, San Antonio was the gathering place for Southerners who refused to believe that the Confederacy was defeated. General Joe Shelby's Iron Brigade, an army that had lost its war but refused to relinquish its cause, was marching south to fight with either Juarez or Maximilian. They cared not what army they joined as long as they could establish a base for the South in Mexico.

Some were men who simply liked to fight. There were adventurers, opportunists, and outlaws who sought to find advantage in disaster. A few were frightened Confederate politicians who were trying to escape the seemingly sure war trials of the Federals.

Dan Kilbourne was there because this venture, uncertain as it was meant a chance to recapture his self-respect and to join again that mystic union of the Southern spirit which he felt would put him once more in the company of men. Jane Morgan was going to Mexico because she could not bear to see her wanderlust-driven father set off alone. Marvis Todd wanted to recover the power and the luxury she had known in the South before the war.

Mexico proved to be a crucible for them all. In the confusion of guerrilla warfare, of banditry and betrayals, surrounded by hardship and death, their bitterness was burned away. And in defeat they found peace.

A new book is now in the Library for home decorator that will be enjoyed in a variety of ways. It is Painting Patterns, by Ruth Wyeth Spears.

Whether you want to decorate a handsome tray or a cigarette box, gold-stencil chairs or tinware, make and decorate lamp bases, rejuvenate old furniture, or handpaint sheets and pillowcases, this book tells you now — right from start to finish. And every step is clearly illustrated.

Here are literally hundreds of tracing patterns that may be transferred directly to any object you wish to decorate. Each design is broken up into color areas, and a simple formula is given for mixing the color variations indicated. These easy-to-follow formulas are a boon to the novice and a revelation to the seasoned painter. With them, anyone can mix the most subtle color variations. Even a beginner is able to produce beautiful designs with shaded effects.

The designs for many of these patterns are traditional, and the original colors are accurately followed. You can mix all 60 of them from five basic tubes of paint. Pennsylvania Dutch birds and tulips, heart and hex designs may be produced in all their glowing brilliance. Here also are lovely fruit and ivy designs from Early American trays, Hitchcock chairs, and Boston Rockers. There are provincial flower motifs and Scandinavian designs, amusing figures from Mexico, cowboy and circus animals for children's rooms and rumpus rooms, original ideas for kitchen walls and cupboards. There are even designs for painting greeting cards and Christmas decorations.

Insects swarming to a tulip tree's flower may find as much as a teaspoon of nectar in the blossom.

We know from long experience that conservation measures such as contour strip cropping, terracing, cover crops do markedly reduce sediment loads. We know these same principles of land use can be adapted to urban fringe lands as well. — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

DESIGN

There are two universal languages; they are music and flowers. They speak for themselves, and people have an all seeing eye and a responsive feeling toward them.

For instance, when you enter a house and are greeted by the sight of fresh flowers attractively arranged, and there is soft beautiful music to greet you, you know at once that you're in a home where beauty and hospitality are very important.

Flowers do say special things often difficult, perhaps impossible, to find just the right words. Therefore, we want them to speak in their very best manner, and therefore we should know how to arrange them so that they will be special and convey the message we seek to convey.

In the preceding issues we have written about flower arranging, and some of the general principles which are involved. Now let us think on the Principles of Design. In flower arranging the proper use of the principles of design are most important. In practically all scoring, design usually receives the most points in merit scoring. There are some exceptions, but we will not go into that. As in painting, so in flower arrangements there are two general types of design. In one the object is to create something that is pleasing to the eye, that satisfies the sense of beauty; in the other, the artist endeavors to express (either directly or indirectly through the more subtle emotion or idea), a theme, or the interpretation of a certain emotion or idea. The former type may be said to be "decorative" and the latter "expressive."

Much emphasis is not being placed on EXPRESSIVENESS, in flower arranging. It gives to the arranger a medium of "letting off tension or other inner feelings." It is conclusive that all should have beauty, and this should be uppermost in the mind of the arranger.

The principles of design which all arrangers should know and practice, are BALANCE, DOMINANCE, CONTRAST, THYTHM, PROPORTION, AND SCALE.

BALANCE is visual stability. Balance is attained by proper placement of weight and attraction to achieve a feeling of good equilibrium. Some of the fundamentals used to attain proper balance are size, color, line and texture, which are given by the plant materials, and other materials used in the design.

Two important kinds of balance are Symmetrical, and Asymmetrical.

Symmetrical balance is attained by placement in equal balance of weight, actual or visual.

Asymmetrical balance is visual but it is unequal or off center balance of weight by placement of material. It is generally agreed that usually asymmetrical balance has greater aesthetic appeal. To achieve either of these, use the theory of counterbalance, and through the study of nature or other things which have appeal.

Balance in an arrangement should be evident from side to side, from top to bottom and from the front to the back.

DOMINANCE means "more of one material, dominance may be achieved by more of one line, or of form, (rounds of spikes) line direction also through use of color, more of one hue and or value, unequal amounts unequal length, unequal sizes, more of one than another.

CONTRAST — is achieved by placing elements (plant materials etc.) in such a way as to emphasize differences. A design should have variety, not just all rounds, lines or sprays, but introduce contrast by difference in lines, with flowers of various sizes (life span of a flower is usually the bud, half blown, and full blown) in the placement of materials care should be used so that voids will not be exactly alike in shape or size. Contrast can also be accentuated by contrast of textural qualities of materials, (coarse, fine, shiny, dull).

RHYTHM — To me this is one of the most beautiful parts of design. It has been my favorite principle used in design. When taking my examination to become a National Flower Show Instructor, I was requested to write a discussion on 'My Favorite Design Principle,' and I wrote about rhythm. My instructor, wrote me a note and said, that I had almost convinced her that rhythm was the Greatest. Rhythm, as in music, catches the eye of the beholder, and when properly achieved in the arrangement the smooth flow of material and color carries the eye easily through the design. Rhythm can be attained by the use of repetition, gradation or line direction.

Repetition, is the repeating of a shape, hue, value, direction, and color. Care should be exercised by the arranger, in that repetition as used will not become monotonous, so modify parts used.

Gradation is a sequence in which the adjoining parts are similar or harmonious. It implies a change evenly. For example gradual change, in size, from large to small; in weight, from heavy to light; in texture, from coarse to fine; in color from dark to light; dull to bright, hue to hue, and value to value. For example dark red is heavier than light pink, dull plant material is usually heavier than shiny, and sprays light plants are lighter than rounds or full blown flowers.

A dynamic note can be introduced into an arrangement by creating rhythm, by use of line design, the eye will follow directly through. . . like the flow of beautiful music. Rhythm is the most intangible and illusive of all the principles in design.

PROPORTION, is the size relationship of one part of an arrangement to another and to the space it occupies. (This was discussed in placement.) Proportion deals with amounts of relative areas, and amount of materials used. Ratio and accord of use of materials harmoniously placed to create unity and correct relationship so that it will have the appearance of the whole, making a pleasing picture.

SCALE, is the size relationship of the various component parts which, properly combined, make up the design. In a flower arrangement these include the flowers themselves, the foliage, the container, the accessories, (if used) and the size of the arrangement in relation to its surroundings (The latter is extremely important in a placement show). Even those who have never arranged flowers to place show-size dahlias in a dainty frail bud vase, nor place a well made miniature arrangement (not exceeding 5 inches) in a niche measuring 18 by 30 inches. All of us possess an intuitive sense of the fitness concerning scale. We have practiced this in our dress, and selection of accessories used also color.

Again let me repeat, nature is one of our best teachers, in flower arranging. Look about you and seek out each of the named principles of design. GIVE YOUR CHRYSANTHEMUMS extra attention, Water when needed, but do NOT overwater. Disbud if you are growing for flower shows. Stake types, and do not try to grow too many flowers to the stem. Size is what you want to produce. In the garden grown varieties, disbud the terminal bud, and also other buds so that flowers when in bloom will not have a crowded appearance, form and size will be much better. Feed for show material.

Was a real thrill to see the beautiful growing chrysanthemums in the Irwin Green Houses. They have thousands and thousands of potted plants, of every variety and color. A number of women were disbudding this was their chief job. The workmen were working with the poinsettias. Three green houses have been set aside for their growth, and Mrs. Irwin told me that they would be at their peak on or near the 10th of December. Am marking this on my calendar, so that I can see them in bloom. While visiting at West Point several years ago, I visited green houses in which they had their Christmas plants, and it was a NEVER forgotten sight of beauty.

A lovely lady had a beautiful plant. Mrs. Francis Hennen has been enjoying a potted orchid, (had eight blossoms) which her daughter, Jane, had sent her. One of the problems was humidity, as orchids thrive on humidity. . . so Francis said it was rather like Mary and the little lamb, everywhere she went the orchid went along, if water or steam was a part of the setting . . . the bath, the utility room, and the kitchen. The plant responded nicely and was indeed beautiful.

Gorgeous, yellow marigolds are growing at 130 Aspen. They are one of the newest introductions, and have responded exceedingly well. Are used to good advantage in the landscape design. Form, color, foliage, and general growth all good. . . and they do NOT have a strong aroma. Are good material for arranging.

Must quit and pack. am off for Abilene to attend a Symposium on Flower Arranging and Horticulture. Mrs. O. G. Hill (Bessie), Mrs. R. L. Ethridge (Lois) and I are going to attend. Lois will be taking examination for her Life Certificate. . . Bessie and I will look on as we have completed our requirements in previous symposiums. We will have to study and think though.

Notables Lunch With Music Club

District officers were guests of the Music Study Club at its first meeting of a new season, a luncheon in the Caison House Monday. Mrs. M. G. Mathis, president of First District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, and Mrs. Harry Morning, corresponding secretary, both of Amarillo, were the visitors.

Mrs. Thompson, state chairman of the department of Music Service in the Community, was in charge of workshops at Killeen on the divisions in that department, including choral music, crusade for strings, sacred music, National Music Week observance and music therapy.

Mrs. Wes Fisher, program chairman for the year, announced that the study theme will be Nationalism In Music and the initial program will be given at a meeting Oct. 14 in Mrs. Ellis Coombes' home.

Members were also invited to a morning meeting that day of the Harmony Club of Amarillo in the home of Mrs. D. W. Palmer. Mrs. Palmer is a member of both the Hereford and Amarillo clubs. She will serve as choral director of Music Study Club this year.

To climax a busy day for club members, the opening program of the current season for Hereford Community Concerts is scheduled the evening of Oct. 14, when the Romeros, classical guitarists, will appear at the high school auditorium.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

Each Party Stresses Unity; Water Meet Here Discussed

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — "Unity" was the unofficial theme of both Democratic and Republican state conventions, and each party expects to carry that concept on to a victory on election day, Nov. 5.

Democrats at Austin passed the torch to Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, their nominee for governor, and heard ringing cries to support the party's ticket from courthouse to White House. Ben Barnes, the youthful lieutenant governor nominee, and Smith literally joined hands to dispel all rumors that they would not work together.

State Democrats also adopted a 16-point platform, emphasizing need for law and order and improvements to education at all levels. They elected both liberals and conservatives to the new State Democratic Executive Committee (with only 13 holdover members) headed by Dr. Elmer C. Baum of Austin as chairman, Mrs. Ralph O'Connor of Houston as vice-chairman and H. H. Coffield of Rockdale as secretary.

Gov. John Connally broke the ice on the national ticket front by endorsing Hubert H. Humphrey and urging Democrats to band together in his behalf. And the convention was read a telegram from Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson saying Humphrey is his man.

In Fort Worth, Republicans, full of optimism over Richard Nixon's chances to sweep the state and nation and hopeful of statehouse gains as well, heard go-go speeches.

GOP leader Jack Cox of Austin told fellow Republicans, "If you are more liberal than I am, or if one of us is more conservative than the other, it does not mean one of us should be read out of the Republican Party." Shouts of affirmation went up through the hall, and every shade of Republicanism — ultra-conservative through progressive — decided to devote every effort to a Nixon-Agnew campaign.

Gov. Spiro Agnew was the hit of the convention, there, telling the 2,500 what they wanted to hear, and telling it well. It was a warm first meeting between the vice-presidential nominee and his fellow party members of this state.

Republicans adopted a platform of their own and Peter O'Donnell Jr. of Dallas remains at the helm of the GOP executive committee.

George Wallace supporters turned out for the Dallas convention of the American Party, and in short order endorsed Wallace and former Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin for places on the November 5 general election ballot as candidates for president and vice-president. No motions were accepted to nominate new state party officers, although there is some discontent in the ranks.

A relative handful of delegates walked out in protest to what they termed John Birch Society control of the party's state committee. But they were solid in their backing of George Wallace for President. Wallace himself was at the convention, exhorting his followers to work hard on his behalf.

NEW COLLEGE APPROVED — Creation of new state senior colleges in San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Houston, (two) and the Midland-Odessa area has approval of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System. Board also recommended an "upper division" — junior and senior years — higher education center at Laredo.

Master plan being compiled by the Board apparently will contain a proposal to limit enrollments at state institutions beginning in 1972.

Board recommended creation of a new dental school although it declined to make recommendation as to site.

OIL ALLOWABLE HELD FIRM — Railroad Commission fixed statewide oil allowable at 41.3 per cent of production potential.

Figure is unchanged from September. Percentage factor permits maximum production of 3,246,026 barrels a day. Nine of 14 major crude oil buyers sought to keep the allowable intact. Four wanted a decrease and only one sought an increase.

TAVERN-VENDING MACHINE PROBE OPENS — First witnesses before a House committee's probe of connections between vending machine operators and taverns said their testimony endangers their safety.

Rep. James Clark Jr. of Dallas offered evidence of alleged financial control of taverns by vending machine firms.

Committee Chairman R. H.

Cory of Victoria said information has been gathered on the subject in Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Midland-Odessa and Amarillo. He emphasized there is as yet no evidence of unlawful activities by the merchandise vendors. Hearings apparently will continue through most of the year.

APPOINTMENTS — Wilson E. (Pat) Speir now is full-fledged director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Colonel Speir has been acting director since May 14 following the death of Col. Homer Garrison Jr. whom he had served as assistant director for six years.

Lt. Col. Leo E. Gossett was designated DPS assistant director and Joseph E. Milner, chief of traffic law enforcement. Texas Ranger Sergeant James M. Ray of Midland was promoted to captain and stationed at Lubbock. Ranger Edwin G. Albers Jr. of Canyon was promoted to sergeant and transferred to Midland.

Governor Connally named Joe Benjamin Roberts chairman of the Texas Industrial Accident Board.

Frank J. Womack is new assistant director of regional programs for the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Connally re-appointed State Sen. William T. Moore of Bryan as legislative member of the board of control for Southern Regional Education.

per-cent sales taxes collected by 155 Texas cities from Comptroller Robert S. Calvert totaled $20.7 million.

Money represents local collections from April 1 to June 30. In most cases, collections are substantially ahead of estimates.

WATER RIGHTS ADJUDICATION — Texas' first administrative adjudication of water rights was begun by the Texas Water Rights Commission under the 1967 law giving that body the job of straightening out tangled water rights in the state.

First action was on the middle section of the Rio Grande, from Falcon Dam to Amistad Dam. The Commission's staff already has completed an investigation of that area. Next step will be the filing of a list of water users.

Then a public hearing will be held in each of the counties involved: Zapata, Jim Hogg, Webb, Maverick, Dimmit, Kinney, Edwards and Val Verde. All claimants to water in the area will have a chance to press their claims if they feel they should be listed in the Commission's list of water users.

Water authorities said this procedure will save millions of dollars and years of time over the ponderous court process followed in the 12-year-old lower Rio Grande rights case.

HIGHWAY CUTBACK — Congress' spending reductions have resulted in a sharp cutback in highway building in Texas for the rest of 1968. October lettings, as a result, will be cut from the planned $32.210-

000 to $19,500,000.

State Highway Engineer J. C. Dingwall said, however, that construction will proceed as planned on a farm-to-market roads and other work which does not involve federal aid. A special bid-opening has been set for December 31, after the trimming has been done.

SECRET MEETING — Closer cooperation between state government and the state's leading university was the topic of an intense, high-level, secret meeting in Kerrville called by Governor Connally.

Meeting was between about 50 University of Texas at Austin administrators, deans and department chairmen and the same number of executive-directors or board members from major state agencies, along with Connally, Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, Speaker Ben Barnes and Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham.

WATER MEETING, House Interim Water Committee, chaired by Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, will hold a hearing on October 5 in Hereford.

Among the topics discussed will be (1) whether the economic benefits of the water to be imported into West Texas from East Texas and the Mississippi River will be worth the cost to West Texas; (2) whether they will be willing to pay the cost of the water; and (3) whether the present law giving private ownership to the state's ground-water resources should be changed to establish state control of ground water.

Fast Promotion In Infantry Is Possible By Attending Classes

If you think being an Infantryman in the Army means just carrying a rifle and marching, you are wrong according to SFC Bert Pinales, local Army recruiter.

Among the many job categories in the Infantry are company scout, automatic rifleman, ammuniton specialist, gunner, pathfinder, and radio-telephone operator. In all, there are 48 different jobs including Squad Leader and Platoon Sergeant.

And if you have heard that promotions are slow in the Infantry, SGT. Pinales has the answer to this, too.

It is now possible for a young man to be promoted to the grade of Sergeant or even Staff Sergeant in less than one year. In fact, it can be done in as little as 10 months. The path to this rapid promotion schedule is to volunteer for one of the Non-commissioned Officer Candidate Courses.

Candidates are chosen from among volunteers who have completed Basic and Advanced Individual Training and have shown leadership potential or ability during this initial 16-week period. Candidates then attend a 12-week formal training course and are promoted to Corporal upon entry. Promotion to Sergeant comes upon graduation and up to five percent are promoted to Sergeant comes upon graduation and up to five percent are promoted to Staff Sergeant. Then comes an eight week on-the-job-training phase from which another six percent can be promoted to Staff Sergeant.

Additional and specific information about this and other job training opportunities is available from SGT Pinales at Post Office Bldg, Rm 322 in Amarillo. SGT. Bert Pinales can be contacted at the Local Board in Hereford every Tuesday.

City Residents Recently Visit Famous Gardens

Mrs. J. J. Buckner, 224 Ave. D and Mr. & Mrs. Ray Ford, all of Hereford, visited Hodges Gardens, Louisiana's fabulous "Garden in the Forest," in Western Louisiana midway between Shreveport and Lake Charles Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Featuring a year-around uninterrupted succession of bloom, Hodges Gardens is a collection of formal gardens, natural scenic areas, picnic grounds, wildlife refuge, bird sanctuary, gift shop, and outdoor theater, all surrounding a 225-acre lake. Encompassing 4,700 acres, the forest gardens stem from a vast reforestation program and early genetics research in the early 1940's, and is owned and operated by the non-profit A. Unwanted Rider Is Rattlesnake

AUSTIN — Rattlesnakes make poor travel companions, says Don Miller of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Wildlife Exhibit.

Miller was transporting two "good sized" rattlesnakes and several small ones in the exhibit's fish tank in the back of a pickup. The circulatory device had been removed from the tank, leaving a hole in the top. "I figured the sides were too slick for them to crawl up, and that they couldn't stand up high enough to reach the hole."

Miller admits that he must have figured wrong.

"I was cruising down the highway at about 65 miles per hour when for some reason I glanced over my shoulder in time to see one of the big rattlers come through the open side window and crawl down the seat to the floor board on the passenger side. Then it started to come over the hump toward me."

Miller says he lifted his legs very slowly to put them in the seat, switched off the ignition key and let the truck roll.

"That darn truck rolled and rolled and rolled. I thought it would never stop," Miller said.

When it finally halted Miller carefully climbed out of the truck and breathed again. He then subdued the snake and put him back in the tank. That's when he realized that the second big rattlesnake was missing.

"I almost disassembled that truck looking for that other snake. I guess he fell off in the road somewhere," Miller said.

Today Is Last Chance To Mail Requests For Tickets To Movie

"The Green Berets" begins Friday night for three nights only at the Tower Drive-In Theatre in Hereford. Today is the last opportunity for families of Deaf Smith County servicemen and women to mail in their requests for free invitations to see the first large-scale motion picture with a Vietnam war background.

Parents of service personnel who are being shipped to Vietnam (with definite orders now), those who are now serving in Vietnam war zones, and those who have had previous experience there — but did not receive an invitation previously to see the movie at the Star Theatre downtown in July — are asked to mail their name and address (along with the name of the service kin) to: "The Green Berets," P. O. Box 673, Hereford, Texas 79045.

This free offer also includes the mates of the servicemen, in the cases where they are married, and all children of the parents under the age of 18. However, the invitation requests must be mailed to the above address in order to have them returned. There are no passes available at the theatres or newspaper, who are co-sponsoring the guests. Therefore, it must be done through the mail.

John Wayne, known as a man of iron back when he was doing his own stunts in small-budget Westerns, is still stalwart as the star and co-director, with Ray Kellogg, of "The Green Berets."

After 163 motion pictures, Wayne still exudes boundless energy and great enthusiasm for film-making. In "The Green Berets," for example, portraying a U. S. Army Special Forces colonel in South Vietnam, Wayne leaps into bunkers, dodging bullets, with the trained agility of a stuntman.

Even behind the camera, everything is done "on the double," as he personally demonstrates the action for stars David Janssen and Jim Hutton, and a platoon of sturdy stuntmen — mainly young men.

Indeed, Wayne was completely involved in this Technicolor and Panavision film, based on Robin Moore's best-selling novel (with a screenplay by James Lee Barrett), who traveled to Vietnam to secure first-hand background material.

Duke Wayne has gone to much extra trouble (and took a long chance that the film would be a commercial success in face of all the Yippie controversy in this country) to make the picture as authentic as possible. Theatremen Francis Hardwick and the Hereford Brand have co-sponsored these free invitations in an effort to stir up interest in the service personnel who is fighting there, without political undertones of any kind, over and above all other factions.

The marshmallow plant, a popular medicine in ancient Rome, is still used by Chinese gourmets in special dishes. No part of the plant, however, appears in the sticky confections that Americans call marshmallows.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

DON'T FENCE ME IN — Texas has always turned out tough football players. In 1941, "Jarring John" Kimbrough of Texas A&M proved how important a hard head really is to the game.

A Dallas photographer wanted to shoot a picture that would prove Kimbrough's ability to carry the ball through the strongest defensive line. With the great back's approval, they planned to photograph him crashing through a high board fence. However, it was arranged for a workman to weaken the fence first by sawing through the boards at the spot of Kimbrough's attack.

Between the time the prop fence was prepared and the picture was made, something went wrong. It seems that a Kyle Field groundskeeper spotted the cut boards and properly decided to replace them.

When Kimbrough hit the solid fence for the cameras, he almost suffered a fractured skull. But he shattered every board!

AUTO BAND — One of the unique attractions at San Antonio's HemisFair is a 13-piece orchestra made entirely from automobile parts.

Leaves from an auto spring are the "xylophone." The "harp" is a set of brake cables stretched between a drive shaft and a transmission housing and the "trumpet" is a section of axle. Various other parts are used to form other instruments.

The one sound that the orchestra doesn't produce, however, is the squeak that all cars seem to develop after the first 2,000 miles of driving.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — In the 1890's there was a spot in Williamson County where a pair of young lovers used to stop and kiss while on Sunday evening strolls.

Later a little settlement sprung up on the site. When the post office decided to assign it a name, the residents asked that it be called "Beaukiss" after the young couple. And Beaukiss it was until the post office closed in 1935.

REBELS IN HOOPSKIRTS — The high cost of long dresses started a minor revolution in Texas 75 years ago, but the dictates of fashion won out over the desires of women for more comfortable clothes.

Tired of paper sleeves, tight waists and hoop skirts, a dozen women got together in Brenham in March, 1893 and, pledged to do something about women's clothes. Hoping to bring women around the world to shed their corsets, they organized the Anti-Crinoline League. They held meetings, wrote letters to the newspapers and tried to recruit others in the battle against maxiskirts.

Their efforts lasted only a few months and picked up little support outside of Brenham. By the following fall, the Anti-Crinoline League had all but disbanded and its members were wearing the latest fashions in hoop skirts — over crinoline petticoats, of course.

RAILROAD MAN — Houston's Roy Hofheinz, who owns an interest in everything from the Astrodome to Ringling Brothers Circus, also has enough railroad cars for a dozen private trains.

At last count, Hofheinz had bought 90 old Pullmans, baggage and parlor cars which he has stored in Houston rail yards.

WRINKLES

by Marie Davant

New York:—Chemical scientists have found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry-skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms—brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Sur-

LET'S COOK SOMETHING!

Grandma's Bread Best

By SUE COLEMAN Women's Editor

Whether Grandma's bread was really better than the loaf made by today's cook with a short-cut recipe, or whether it is only remembered by an adult whose appetite was better in Grandma's day, is a subject for debate.

WHEN MRS. JIM McCabe, a young housewife at Dawn, won second place on white bread recent Tri-State Fair competition, the argument for the modern cook is supported — but she was using a recipe she got from her husband's grandmother who is almost 99 years old.

"His grandmother had Jim spoiled to good bread," June McCabe says, "and he wouldn't eat ready-baked bread so I had to learn to make the kink he liked when we were first married."

She had made rolls, and was "a pretty good cook" from high school homemaking lessons which reinforced the home lessons in cooking she had from her mother as she grew up. But she had never baked loaf bread, and since her husband liked his grandmother's bread she went directly to that lady for baking lore.

THE GRANDMOTHER is Mrs. Mary Byrd, mother of Mrs. H. V. McClure and noted for years in her home community as a baker of especially fine bread. It is only in the last few years that Mrs. Byrd's health has failed so she no longer cooks or does other household tasks.

For a number of years she was the bread-maker in the H. V. McCabe family, where she made her home after her husband's death "and helped me raise my children," and Mrs. McCabe, Mrs. Byrd's only child. Born in Fayetteville, Ark., in 1870, Mrs. Byrd came with her parents to Texas in a covered wagon and grew up in Bell County. Visiting a friend at LeFors in 1888, when that Panhandle town was a pioneer settlement in ranch country, she met a young cowboy, Robert Byrd, and they were soon married.

THE BYRDS RANCHED near LeFors and then around Miami, Texas, moving into the town of Miami when their daughter was old enough to go to school. Mrs. McCabe liked to hear her mother tell of the Plains in her early years in Gray and Roberts County, when antelope and numerous game birds were seen as the Byrds rode across the pastures in their buggy.

Mrs. H. V. McCabe was a teacher before her marriage. The McCabes have lived in this county a quarter of a century; their home and that of the Jim McCabes nearby are just off Highway 60 east of Dawn, at the top of a slope which leads down to Buffalo Lake.

We want to thank everyone for the flowers, food and calls that came in during the loss of our loved one. Also for all the concern that was given during her short stay in the hospital. All of this was deeply appreciated as it was a relief of some of the burden. Ted Bush O. C. Buckmaster Mrs. H. E. Lindley Mrs. Elza Warrick and families.

Mrs. Jim McCabe, the former June Shulk of Friona, was graduated from high school there and then was employed by the telephone company in Hereford until she was married.

SHE HAD NEVER entered bread in any competition until this fall, encouraged by her husband's remark at the Amarillo fair last year. "You bake better looking bread than that." With the next-to-top rating this year, she plans to try again next fall.

"The loaf I entered wasn't as good as I can bake," she insists. "Next time I'll practice beforehand; this time I hadn't been making bread regularly, and it isn't as good when you don't make it often enough to know by the feel that you have just the right amount of flour." flour."

In addition to loaves of bread, Mrs. McCabe makes rolls especially cinnamon rolls which are favorites in her family, also yeast biscuits and ordinary hot biscuits.

She likes to sew as well as cook, making her own clothes and those of her daughter, six-year-old Gail. The other McCabe children are Tommy, 11, Stan 9, and Joe, almost 3.

CANNING AND FREEZING vegetables and fruit has been a summer task for a winter food supply. Mrs. McCabe is a member of Dawn Home Demonstration Club, and attends Central Church of Christ in Hereford, where she has been a primary class teacher.

When she learned from Mrs. Byrd to make bread, she got a recipe which Mrs. Byrd found in a farmers bulletin and had used for years. She not only received instructions, but worked with the older woman to learn the fine points of mixing the bread.

In the following recipe she explains the method, which is different in several ways from the conventional bread recipe. These ingredients will make four large loaves, and Mrs. McCabe often makes just half as much.

LIGHTBREAD

5 1/2 cups milk
6 tb. sugar
2 yeast cakes (Mrs. McCabe uses dry yeast)
4 tb. shortening (Heaping spoonsful)
4 tsp. salt.
Put milk in pan and warm to a simmering temperature. Put yeast, 1 tsp. sugar and about 1/2 cup water in a bowl, set it -un aapz puz aapz uazaz e u til it "works" (rises or bubbles), about 10 minutes.
Put sugar, shortening and salt in a large bowl, pour in the warmed milk. When this mixture cools add the yeast, then enough flour to make a mixture that is not sticky, kneading the flour in to make a smooth dough. Do not knead too much.
PUT THE DOUGH in a greased bowl, turning it over so it is greased on top, set in a warm place, not in a draft, and let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down, let rise again until doubled. Do not add any flour after the first mixing.

Punch down again, let rest 10 minutes, and then shape dough into loaves. Before dough is put on board to make loaves, put just a little flour on the board and wipe most of it off with the handle. This is the only time the dough is put on a board.

Divide to make the required number of loaves; place in well-greased pans, again turning over to grease the top. Mrs. Byrd used lard for the shortening, and so does Mrs. McCabe; the flavor is not as good with vegetable shortenings, they say.

WHEN THE DOUGH is rising the first time, wring a white cloth out of hot water and cover the bowl, then cover with a lid. When loaves are put in the pans to rise, cover again with a damp cloth.

When they have risen to doubled bulk, bake 20-25 minutes at 400 degrees, until the loaf is browned; then reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 20-25 minutes longer.

Turn out on cake coolers and while the loaf is not, butter the crust. Let it cool thoroughly before putting it away. If the bread browns too fast, put a tin pie pan over the loaf.

To make potato bread, which has a slightly different flavor preferred by many people, substitute for the milk water in which potatoes have been boiled. Peel three medium potatoes and boil until they are soft; use the liquid instead of milk in this recipe, adding more water if needed.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir,
I am writing this in regard to the meeting which was held by South Hereford Residents on Sept. 18th. I attended this meeting and voiced my opinion in opposition to a proposed school in South Hereford. I feel I was misinterpreted in this and would like to publicly clarify my opinion. I have no objection to a school in South Hereford, in fact it would be nice. But for several reasons I will not insist on a school being built in any given part of town.
Number 1 and foremost on my list is education. I want our schools (all of them) to be able to give the best possible education to our children. When I say our children I mean all the residents of Hereford. This includes Latin, Negro and Anglo.

Reason No. 2 is my lack of knowledge concerning local and state regulations of our school system. I think it would be foolish of me to insist on a school being built anywhere in Hereford without knowing the results of a school in that area.
Reason No. 3 is that a school is not built for convenience. I have lived in Hereford since 1945. My husband was born and raised here. Clark attended school at Frio, Central and high school here. I attended Central, went to school at the First Baptist Church, attended Jr. High in the barracks behind our old high school, and attended high school here also. Our children have attended Central, Buebonnet and La Plata. My husband has been associated with schools here for 30 years and I have been for 23 years. For this number of years it has never been thought of as an inconvenience as to where we would go to school. We both feel that the education we have received, the fellowship with friends and the many wonderful memories far overshadow any inconvenience we unknowingly suffered.

Reason No. 4 is our school board. We elect our school board for decisions such as this and we have the confidence in them that they are concerned with the betterment of Hereford as a whole. Our school board may be influenced by our school officials but who is better qualified than they are to do this?
Teaching, being principal, Supt. coordinator or whatever the position, may be just a job for some people but I think they are very much in minority. As a whole these people are more interested in our children than anyone when you get outside the home. Until I feel called, qualified, etc. I am more than willing to give them my wholehearted support.

In conclusion let me say this.
It is people who constitute a church, not a building!
It is the proprietor, salesman, etc. who make a business a success!
It is people who make schools, not a building!
And last, it is people who make a town not a well balanced location of schools, churches, etc.
We love Hereford. What would Hereford be without the love we have for one another? Let's leave the location of this school in the well qualified hands of

Satellite Day Care Aides To Meet Today

Volunteer teacher-aids for the Satellite Day Care Program are set to meet this morning at 9 at the First Christian Church.
Burtis Hollis, director of education for the Amarillo State Center for Human Development, said that all interested people are invited to the meeting and that "one does not commit himself by attending" for our school board. Why do we have to be for or against this school? Couldn't we be adults and just be for the continuing success of our schools, wherever they may be?
Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Clark Andrews

unteer service.
However, Mrs. Nedra Higginbotham, volunteer coordinator for the Hereford project, stressed that volunteers are needed here very badly and that the program cannot succeed without them.
The volunteers are needed to aid the teacher, Mrs. Maxine Thompson of Hereford, either three hours in the morning or afternoon hopefully for a period of three months. The classes last the year around for five days each week. It is for pre-school or post-school aged mentally retarded children of Deaf Smith County.
Parents of the pupils who will enter the class are also requested to attend the meeting. They will be interviewed separately by a social worker.
First Christian Church is located at 401 W. Park.

Lesly Recognized For Achievement

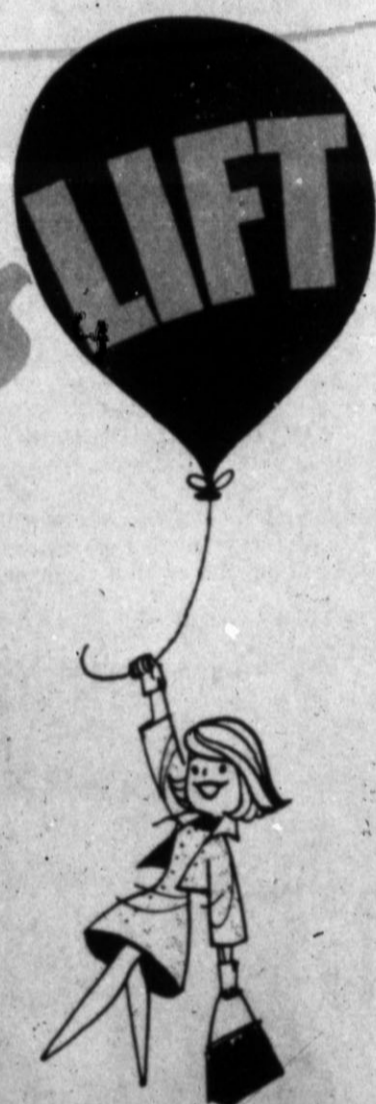

LEXINGTON, MO. — Cadet Thomas L. Lesly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lesly, Route 4, Hereford, a member of Wentworth Military Academy's Brigade this year, has earned the right to wear the Army's ROTC achievement gold wreath on his uniform by virtue of placing in the top ten percent of his military classes here last year, according to Col. Robert C. Ingalls, professor of military science.
Since Wentworth has again been designated an Army Honor School following a Department of the Army inspection, all cadets are authorized to wear a five-pointed star on the right sleeve of their uniforms.

However, only cadets placing in the upper ten percent of their military classes may wear the distinctive gold wreath with the white star enclosed.

The $156 million fair seeks to combine the gaiety of a festival, the vigor and spontaneity of the frontier and the sophisticated adventure of Space Age technology.
