Miss Hereford to be named Saturday

From a field of 12 lovely contestants

A field of 12 candidates will take the stage here Saturday night in the annual Miss Hereford Pageant, and one will walk away with the crown and the honors which go with the Miss Hereford 1984-85 title.

The 13th annual event, sponsored by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Hereford High School Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for children 12 and under.

The current Miss Hereford, Gena Griffin, will be unable to crown her successor since she will be entered in the Miss Wheatheart contest at Perryton on Saturday.

While the coveted title will be claimed by only one beauty, cash scholarships also go to the first and second runners-up, and awards are presented to the talent winner and "Miss Congeniality". The latter honor is based on votes of the contestants.

"At the Hop" will be the pageant theme this year, and this theme will be emphasized with a musical production featuring singing and dancing by the 12 contestants.

John Dawson, KGNC radio personality from Amarillo, will serve as master of ceremonies for the third time.

The pageant serves as the opening event for Hereford's annual Town & Country Jubilee, and one of the first duties of the new Miss Hereford will be to appear on a parade float the following Saturday.

The 12 contestants vying for the crown are: Cynthia Barrera, Ronda Batenhorst, Dana Cabbinis, Stacey

High, Cruz Hill, Buffy Huckert, Michelle Hughes, Eva Medrano, Teresa Phibbs, Amy Quillen, Stacy Sanders, and Amanda Tackitt. The age range for entrants begins with high school sophomores and continues through age 20.

Keith Ann Gearm is pageant director for the fourth time. The steering committee is headed by Lanette Leasure and includes Dee Ann Trotter (a former Miss Hereford), Patti Brown, Cindy Burnam, Marilyn Culpepper, Francyne Bromlow, and Women's Division president Arvilla Lauderback.

The big day for the contestants starts with interviews with pageant judges Saturday morning in the E.B. Black House. Those judges are Mr. and Mrs. Bud Joiner of Levelland and Christie Higgs of Pampa. The interview will count one-third of the judges' points, while the talent and evening gown competition Saturday night accounting for the other two-thirds of the tally sheet.

Miss Hereford receives a $600 cash scholarship, with $300 and $200 going to the second and third-place winners.

Farmers with damages seek lawsuit

By KIM THOGMARTIN

Cotton farmers gathered in Friona Thursday to sue for damages to their crops, named a five-man committee to choose the best legal firm to file the suit.

The litigation will most likely be in the form of a class-action lawsuit composed of farmers whose cotton was damaged by 2,4-D, cotton gin owners and anyone else whose livelihood is directly affected by the damage. The decision was made following a meeting of around 75 farmers Thursday at the Friona High School, with Houston attorney Benton Musslewhite. Musslewhite, one of eight attorneys chosen to represent the plaintiffs in the highly-publicized Agent Orange suit, told the gathering that 2,4-D is one of the ingredients found in Agent Orange.

Prompted by cotton plight

"Agent Orange is 50 percent 2,4-D and 50 percent 2,4,5-T," he explained. The Agent Orange suit was settled out of court just before going to trial in May, but Musslewhite said he "did his homework" and had a lot of knowledge about the weed killer and of the responsibility of the manufacturer.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has been working in the area for about three weeks now, investigating complaints that cotton was damaged or destroyed by 2,4-D drifting from other fields.

Angela Lamb, TDA District Supervisor in Amarillo, said 102 complaints had been received by TDA as of Thursday and most of them had been investigated. She said it will be three to four weeks before the department can conclude its investigation of the damage.

The damage, primarily in the Parmer and Deaf Smith but also reaching into Oldham County and Curry County, N. M., is now approaching the 30,000 acres mark. Lamb told farmers the TDA is being very thorough in its investigation, "because the more careful we are, the better off you are."

While the TDA has had little to say about where the spraying might have taken place, Parmer County farmers think they know. They believe it came from Deaf Smith County, where the herbicide is not regulated.

Ralph Baxter, who lives in New Mexico and has 100 acres of damaged cotton in Parmer County, said something must be done to control the spraying in unregulated counties. "We've not only got to stop Deaf Smith, we've got to stop New Mexico too," he pointed out.

"I'm not mad," he claimed. "But what has happened showed no consideration for others. It's a 'me first' thing."

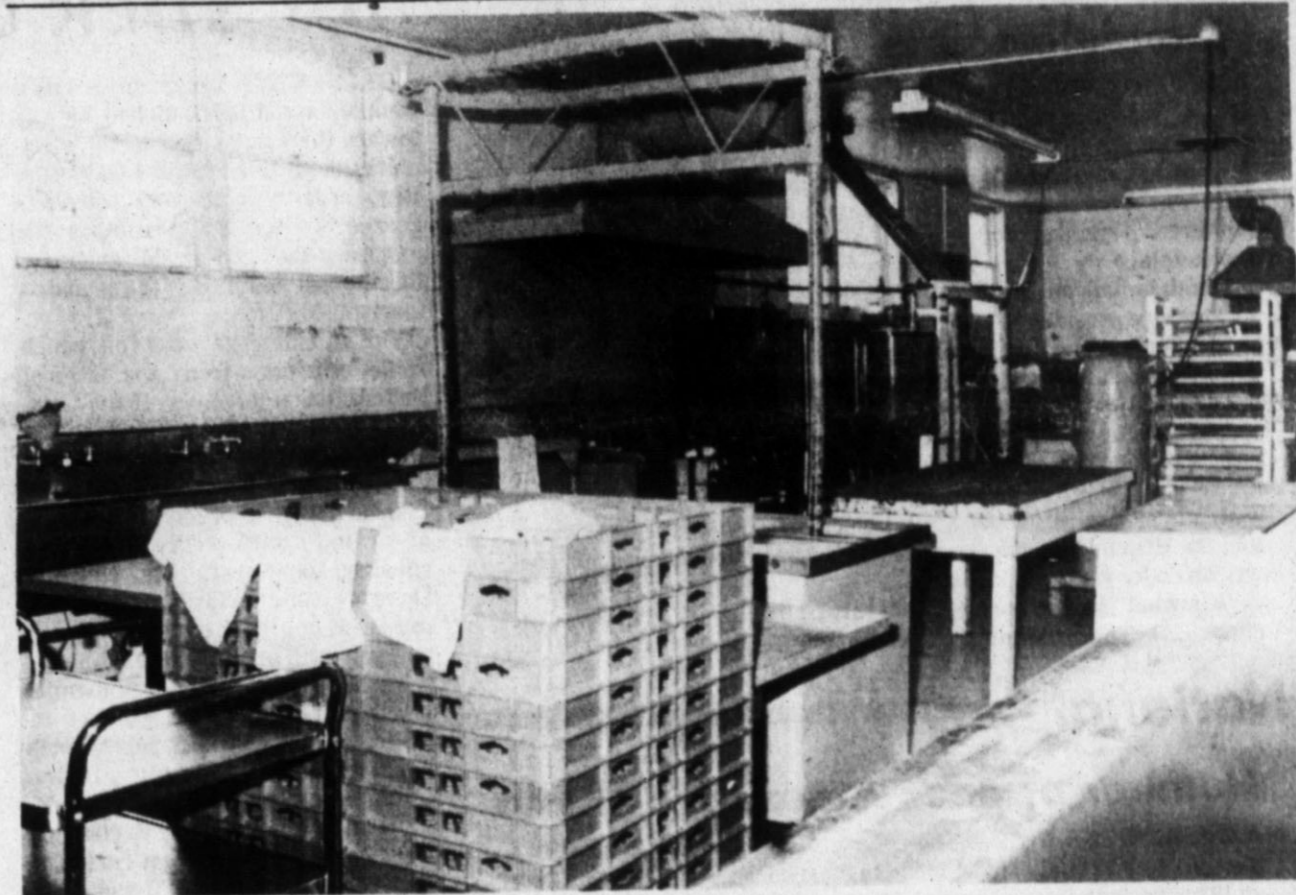

His cousin, Bill Baxter, said the 2,4-D destroyed all of his 140-acre cotton crop. That adds up to about $40,000. "The 2,4-D will drift up to 30 miles," he said. "The pilots who sprayed it had to know better. They're just as liable as the farmers who hired them."

Ralph mentioned the effect the reduced yields will have on the farmer's standings with the ASCS (Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.) "This is a double whammy," he said. "If you don't make a crop, the ASCS will cut your yield."

Martin Chandler, executive director of the ASCS based in Farwell, said the damage would most likely have an effect on deficiency payments or any farm program benefits during the next few years. "We can make allowances for chemical damages, because they were beyond the farmer's control, but any time the yields go down, benefits go down."

Chandler said it will take five years for the affected farmers to get this year's production out of their yield picture.

Two Polish sanctions dropped

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Buoyed by Poland's amnesty for political prisoners, President Reagan is dropping two of the lesser sanctions imposed on the martial law government in 1981.

Reagan, vacationing here at his mountaintop ranch, has decided to resume scientific and cultural exchanges with Poland and allow the Polish national airline, LOT, to resume scheduled flights to the United States, according to an administration official, who spoke on condition that he not be identified.

The president apparently will not restore so-called "most-favored nation" trading status to the communist government, will not disturb the refusal of new credits and, for the moment, will not support Poland's application for membership in the International Monetary Fund.

The official said, however, the United States may drop its opposition to Polish IMF membership later. "We will look at the performance and will consider IMF downstream," he said.

"I think it will be considered sympathetically — that is not a guarantee — and I think the president feels strongly that performance" will decide the issue, he said.

Membership in the International Monetary Fund, which uses the contributions of member governments to lend to members in financial straits, could help Poland handle its debt to western governments and banks. That debt is projected by Polish officials to reach $29 billion by the end of the year.

At a news conference on July 24,

Cultural, scientific exchanges okayed

Reagan said he was studying a rollback of sanctions. "We know that in some instances those sanctions are penalizing not only the government of Poland, with which we are not in very much sympathy, but the people themselves. We don't want to impose hardships on the people," he said.

The general amnesty, approved by Parliament in Poland July 21, will free 652 political prisoners and nearly 35,000 common criminals.

So far, almost 500 of the political prisoners have been released, according to government figures. Among those still in jail are five prominent figures in the outlawed Solidarity union federation and four union advisers, members of the disbanded workers' rights group known as KOR.

The United States originally conditioned any easing of the restrictions, set following the Dec. 13, 1981 imposition of martial law that suppressed Solidarity, on freedom for the union leaders and advisers.

Robinson agrees to injunction

U.S. District Court Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo has agreed to a preliminary injunction submitted by Texas Rural Legal Aid and attorneys for Deaf Smith County regarding the July 21 arrest of labor organizer Jesus Moya.

TRLA had petitioned the federal court shortly after Moya was arrested for disorderly conduct, claiming Moya's freedom of speech rights were violated by the arrest.

Moya was picked up by sheriff's deputies at the request of migrant farm workers picking onions in a field near Hereford. Laborers claimed Moya's broadcasting was interfering with their conversation as they turned in time cards.

Last week, Robinson agreed with TRLA and signed a temporary restraining order forbidding the county from arresting Moya for using his public address system. She stipulated his broadcasts should not be considered disorderly conduct if they did not hamper conversations at least 50 feet away.

Thursday, Robinson changed the distance to 100 feet. Under terms of the injunction, the county is to drop the disorderly conduct charge against Moya, who had pleaded not guilty.

Moya represents the International Union of Agricultural and Industrial Workers, based in Hidalgo.

Landowner complains to EPA

A landowner opposed to the nearby placement of a proposed manure-fueled power plant has filed a complaint with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Monty Adams, Hereford High School agriculture instructor, this morning said he sent his written gripes to the EPA on Monday. He is opposing the permit issued to Valley View Energy Corporation of Dallas to build the facility, reportedly worth $85 million.

On June 25, the EPA approved the permit based on a recommendation from the Texas Air Control Board. Adams had 30 days to make a comment after receiving a letter detailing the decision.

Adams said he could not guess when the EPA would respond to his complaints.

Fire causes heavy house damage

Four units of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to a major house fire Thursday evening in northern Castro County.

The two-story residence of Charles Springer received substantial fire and smoke damage, according to local Fire Marshal Jay Spain. Two units from Castro County also helped combat the blaze, which was reported at around 7:20 p.m. Springer's residence is located about two miles east of Frio Baptist Church.

Spain said his crew was able to return to Hereford around 10:30 p.m.

Hereford police, meanwhile, looked into $220 damage done to the side of a 1978 Pontiac Trans Am. The car's owner, Gilbert Rodriguez of 437 Ave. C, said large scratches were made on his vehicle between 9 and 11:30 p.m. Sunday at Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Also investigated were three minor thefts and two incidents of dogs running loose. There were no arrests made Thursday.

Group planning to protest

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has told the city to reduce a fenced buffer zone during the Republican National Convention, but a protest group wants removed a chain-link fence that will separate protesters from the convention site.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders Thursday told the city it must by Aug. 20 revamp plans for the 1.5-mile long, 6-foot-high fence that will encircle the Dallas Convention Center. The GOP gathering will run from Aug. 20-23.

The city had planned to set aside a 57,000 square foot area — the back third of a parking lot — for demonstrations. It was 700 feet away.

Sanders ordered the fence moved 150 feet closer to the convention center entrance, and also told the city to include a long, grassy slope in the protest area.

The ruling adds about 30,000 square feet to the protest site, city officials said.

"To simply move the fence 150 feet does not solve the problem," said Joe Murray, a spokesman for the Dallas March and Rally Committee which contended the fence violated the protesters' constitutional right to free speech.

Officials keep eye on spill

HIGH ISLAND, Texas (AP) — Wildlife refuge officials were watching a 65-mile-long oil slick that loomed off the Texas coast close to environmentally sensitive estuaries and choice fishing grounds of Galveston Bay.

"This stuff is such a thick crude that I hope the birds will avoid it," said Russ Clapper, who supervises three national wildlife refuges along the coast. "My main concern is the mess it's gonna make on the beaches."

The oil, which spilled from a British tanker grounded off the Louisiana coast, was expected to hit north Galveston jetties sometime today, away from popular beach resorts.

But red drum, spotted seatrout, white shrimp and menhaden are among the marine life which could be hurt this time of year, said Leland Roberts, resource protection branch chief for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"The possible damage which would result from the slick entering shallow bay and marsh areas would be even more destructive," Roberts said. "An oil spill could pose a considerable threat to bird life."

Mondale courts Hispanic vote

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale and running-mate Geraldine Ferraro courted the Hispanic vote in a campaign swing through Texas.

"I'm not saying let's win for myself and Geraldine. I'm saying let's win it for us," he told a heavily Mexican-American crowd gathered Thursday for a rally at El Mercado, San Antonio's marketplace.

Mondale had Mayor Henry Cisneros by his side, describing the former vice president as "our hermano" (our brother).

"Walter Mondale has been a brother to this city for a very long time," said the mayor, who interviewed with Mondale for the vice presidential spot on the ticket.

As a senator in the 1960s, Mondale worked for bilingual education and "as a vice president, did an outstanding job of representing the interests of the working people," Cisneros said.

Mondale, who threw away his speech after part of it blew away, told the Hispanics in the crowd of about 2,500, "It's never been what we can do for you."

"It's what Hispanics can do for this country if we give them the chance," he said, his voiced drowned out by applause and shouts.

Number of poor Americans climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats were quick to react to a Census Bureau study showing the highest number of American poor in 19 years, with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. calling it "the smoking gun of Reagan unfairness."

"President Reagan denies that his policies are unfair. He denies that his policies make the rich richer and the poor poorer. Today we have facts from the Census Bureau that this is exactly what is happening under Reagan," O'Neill, D-Mass., said.

"Today we have the smoking gun of Reagan unfairness," he said. The report showed 35,266,000 Americans, or 15.2 percent of the population, below the poverty line in 1983.

It is the most Americans officially listed as poor since 1964, before President Johnson launched his Great Society programs to attack the problem. The total that year was 36.1 million.

Retail sales gains moderate

Bullish investors set loose by signs that economic growth is slowing and interest rates have peaked pushed Wall Street to its busiest day in history, trading nearly 173 million shares as the Dow Jones industrial average soared 31.47 points.

After bidding up prices somewhat cautiously in the five previous sessions, traders ignited a ferocious rally Thursday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped to 1,166.08, its highest level since May 10. The advance was the largest since a 36.43-point gain on Nov. 30, 1982.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange exploded to 172.83 million shares, shattering the record of 159.99 million shares set Jan. 5.

The strong economy itself had been a major cause of investors' concern because it triggered a big increase in business borrowing, which helped drive interest rates higher.

But a series of government reports — including a dip in factory orders and a drop in the government's index of leading economic indicators — have signaled investors that the economy would stop expanding at the torrid pace of the first two quarters of this year.

Death toll rises to 25

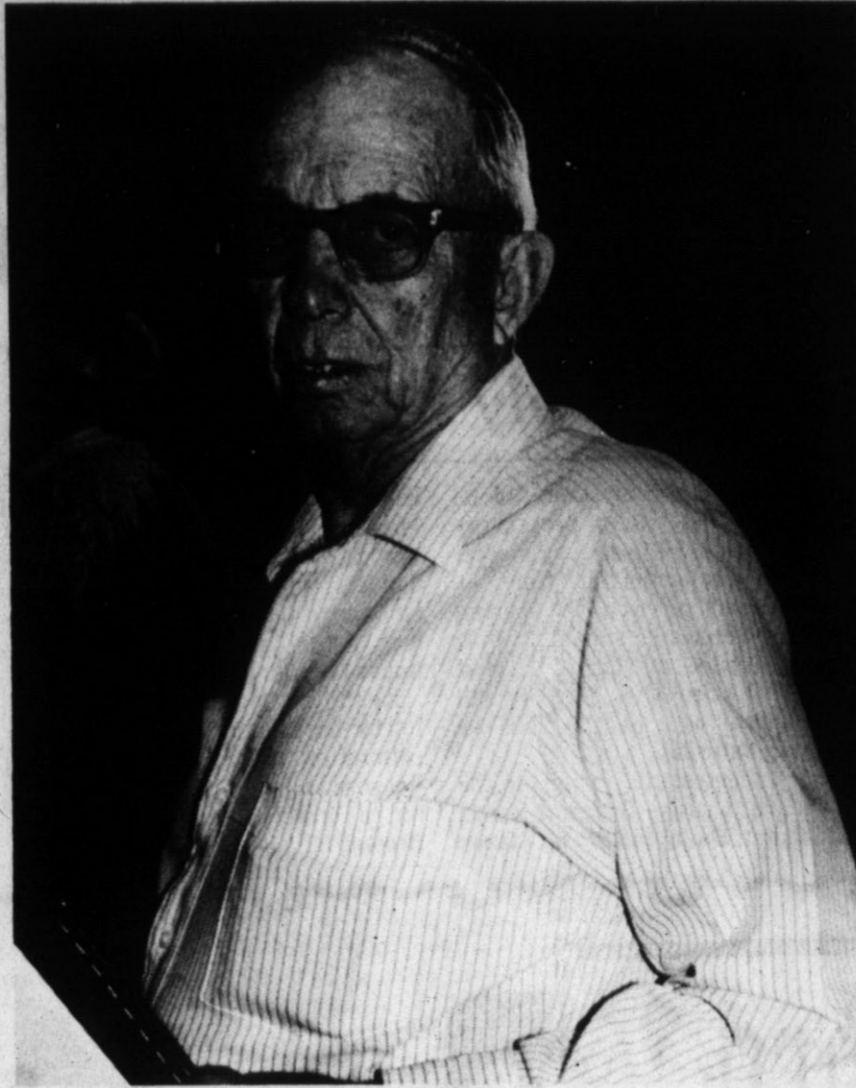

MADRAS, India (AP) — A bomb that exploded in a suitcase at the Madras international airport collapsed a section of the terminal and killed at least 25 people, officials and witnesses said today.

At least 15 people reportedly were hospitalized with injuries in the blast late Thursday, which blew out one wall of Meenambakkam Airport's customs hall and caused the ceiling of the arrival lounge to cave in.

About 30 people were waiting in the area for a flight to the Persian Gulf country of Abu Dhabi when the blast occurred, officials said.

Rescue workers had recovered 18 bodies by midday, according to United News of India, but witnesses saw at least seven more. Some of the bodies were dismembered.

Unofficial but reliable sources said airport authorities received three anonymous telephone calls warning that a bomb would blow up, but the airport was not evacuated.

Named to Committee

D.L. Carmichael, who owns Friona Farmers Coop, was one of five men named to an advisory committee Thursday during a meeting at Friona High School. The committee is to go forward with a decision made by area cotton farmers and gin operators to file suit in an attempt to recover damages from the applicators of the chemical 2,4-D.

Scientists prepare for slick approach

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — As a 65-mile-long oil slick inched its way toward the Texas coast today, stretching like a talon toward Galveston Bay, area officials and scientists geared up for the possibility the molasses-like goo could endanger marine life and hinder the islands' tourism industry.

The 1.2 million gallons of oil, which spilled Monday from the 609-foot British tanker Alvenus off the Louisiana coast, was expected to hit Galveston's north jetties sometime this afternoon.

"Our ability to predict is not very accurate," said Jerry Galt, an oceanographer with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. "If it comes ashore, it certainly will be noticeable."

The slush, extending three 10-mile-long fingers like a claw, was not expected to invade the popular beach resorts but could hit marine estuaries and choice fishing grounds.

"It is going to be nasty to clean up wherever it comes ashore," said Dr. Roy Hann, director of Texas A&M University's oil spill technical assistance team.

By late Thursday the spill, which ranged in width from 3 to 5 miles, extended from just south of Lake Charles, La., to 4½ miles south of Gilchrist, about 20 miles up Bolivar Peninsula from Galveston Island, Coast Guard officials said.

"There are a number of shellfish beds in the bay under private lease, and if they go under oil, you can't harvest them," said Dr. Edward Ibert, pollution control director at the Galveston County Health District in La Marque. "If it does (enter Galveston Bay), probably no more oyster harvesting will be allowed."

Winds early Thursday had pushed the slick within three miles of High Island, U.S. Coast Guard spokesman Keith Spangler said. But the winds suddenly shifted and pushed the oil back out to sea. By Thursday after-

DAMAGE

Musslewhite told the group there are four possible defendants: the manufacturer, the dealers and distributors, the applicators and the farmers who had the 2,4-D applied to their fields.

"If you decide that you want to go forward with a lawsuit, then you can choose from these four groups, all of them or some of them," he said.

"I know that some of you may not want to sue your neighbor," Musslewhite pointed out. "And I don't think anyone intentionally tried to harm anyone. But the applications were probably not as scientific as they should have been."

The attorney said the action would be a civil suit under the common law, based on negligence, nuisance, and perhaps certain types of intentional torts.

"I think you have a good cause of action against the applicators, and maybe the manufacturers and distributors," Musslewhite told the group. "The farmers, well that is up to you."

Chandler said most of the 100,000 acres of cotton grown in Parmer noon, the spill was back about eight miles from the coast.

Coast Guardsmen placed containment booms Thursday at Rollover Pass — a narrow canal that leads to Galveston Bay and other environmentally sensitive estuaries. But because of the currents and size of the area, the booms were expected to do little to stop the flow into the bay.

Marine specialists at Texas A&M University were attempting to minimize damage to Galveston Bay.

Lance resigns, strategy eyed

NORTH OAKS, Minn. (AP) — Walter F. Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro were reviewing strategy after the embarrassing departure of Bert Lance as general chairman of their Democratic presidential campaign 19 days after he took the job.

The resignation Thursday of Lance — whose appointment was supposed to help the ticket in the South — tarnished a successful southern swing that the presidential and vice presidential nominees had completed earlier in the day.

Mondale and Ms. Ferraro were meeting today at Mondale's suburban Minneapolis home before she returned to New York for the weekend. Neither had public appearances scheduled through the weekend.

Mondale had issued a statement Thursday night saying he regretfully was accepting the resignation of his "friend and advisor," Lance, who was forced to step down as former President Jimmy Carter's budget director amid allegations of irregularities in his private banking business in Georgia.

"I have become a major focus of the campaign, through the efforts of different people raising once again old charges which have been fully resolved through our system established by the Constitution of the United States," Lance said in his resignation letter to Mondale.

"I want to be a part of a successful effort in your election as president of the United States, not the focus to divert attention away from substantive issues which are so important to this campaign," said Lance.

"I regret Bert's decision, but I respect it," Mondale said in his statement. "In recent days he has been subjected to some very tough and adverse publicity. ... Bert and his family have been hurt by helping me."

Lance met earlier Thursday in New York with Robert Beckel, who is Mondale's campaign manager.

Back in Minnesota Thursday night, Beckel took responsibility for having "terribly underestimated" the adverse reaction to Lance's appointment.

But Beckel insisted, "I think the judgment that Bert Lance should join this campaign was the right one."

Lance's appointment on the eve of the Democratic National Convention last month in San Francisco drew sharp protests from party leaders, who pointed out that he had been a close aide to Carter.

Unemployment rate up to 7.5 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment climbed to 7.5 percent in July, the first gain in 20 months, as 413,000 Americans joined the jobless rolls, the government reported today.

The 0.4 percentage point gain in the seasonally adjusted rate, the first increase since unemployment went from 10.4 percent to 10.7 percent from October to November 1982, increased the number of the unemployed from 8,130,000 to 8,543,000, the Labor Department said.

At the same time, the total number of Americans with jobs, which hit a record 105.7 million in June, fell by 353,000 to 105.4 million.

Deborah Klein, a Bureau of Labor Statistics analyst, said:

"What it seems to be is a reversal of everything which took place the month before, and took many people by surprise, which suggests that (June's) improvement was somewhat overstated."

"What is unclear at the moment is what this is really signalling," Ms. Klein said. "What it says is, We're not exactly sure of the trend."

In advance of today's report, several private analysts said the days of plunging unemployment were numbered and forecast only minimal improvement for the rest of the year.

In February 1983, when the nation experienced its first significant drop from high unemployment, President Reagan hailed the news, saying the nation was "on the road to recovery."

But the president cautioned then that "we may see some ups and downs on the way."

An alternative rate, which combines the 113.9-million member civilian labor force with the 1.7 million members of the military stationed in the United States, rose by 0.4 percentage point last month to 7.4 percent.

In testimony before the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Commissioner of Labor Statistics Janet L. Norwood said, "The July data are difficult to interpret. ... These are clearly not a consistent set of data for an evaluation of current labor market trends."

Mrs. Norwood noted a conflict between two separate measures of labor market health in today's report — a survey of households and a companion survey of payrolls.

The household survey, used in compiling the unemployment rate, showed that total employment dropped by 353,000. But the business survey, reported by the bureau but not used in the jobless rate calculation, showed that total payroll jobs rose by 300,000 to 94.4 million.

She said that seasonal adjustment, a statistical process designed to filter out such variations as weather and school terms, which occur at the same time each year, "is especially difficult during these summer months."

Although the civilian jobless rate rose to 7.5 percent, returning to the level of last May and matching the rate when Reagan took office in January 1981, the total number of the unemployed, at 8.5 million, was far below the post-Depression peak of more than 12 million in December 1982.

The BLS said that the increase in July unemployment occurred "primarily among adult women, whose jobless rate returned to the level that had essentially prevailed between February and May" — at 6.9 percent.

The jobless rates among the various population groups rose across-the-board, with the largest increase suffered by blacks, whose unemployment rate jumped to 16.9 percent, up from 15 percent.

Some economists, saying the nation was nearing "full employment," have asserted that, with more than 6 million jobs created since the depths of the 1981-82 recession, the nation was coming close to absorbing the pool of skilled eligible workers.

These economists maintain that the unemployment rate might not improve significantly in the near future because those remaining in the jobless category consist largely of people lacking adequate education and needing job-skill training. In many urban areas, a large number of such people are under-educated, relatively unskilled blacks.

In July, for instance, the unemployment among black teenagers soared from 34.3 percent to 42.4 percent, the report said.

Ann Landers

Haunted by fantasy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Believe it or not, I have been meaning to write to you for 16 years.

I am a married woman with a fine, good-looking husband and two beautiful children. I have many friends, keep busy with my family and volunteer work and have a logical, sensible head on my shoulders. People often come to ME for advice. Now the problem—something I have never discussed with anyone.

Three years before I married "Jerry" I was going with "Brian." We were deeply in love but Brian was Catholic and I am a Protestant. My family gave me such a hard time I decided to break up with Brian, and that's when I started to date Jerry.

Two days before I became engaged to Jerry, Brian appeared after an absence of two years. He asked me to marry him. I turned him down.

I love my husband but I have never stopped loving Brian. I dream about him at least once a week. (This has been going on since I was 23. I'm now 40!)

Whenever I go shopping, or to a movie or to a sports event, I look for my lost love. I have never seen him and don't even know if he is in the city. (He is not listed in the phone directory, and I wouldn't dare ask any of our mutual friends where he is.)

I have considered hiring a private detective to find out if Brian is still around, where he works, etc. I have a terrific desire to see him again and find out (1) If the spark is still there; (2) If I should fall on my knees and thank God I married Jerry.

Please don't tell me to see a shrink or a religious person. Just give me some good advice—preferably the name of a reliable detective agency in New York City.—Waiting To Hear

DEAR WAITING: The one that got away always seems better than the one you end up with. Chances are, if you saw Brian again you wouldn't have him gift-wrapped. Dream castles can be fun to visit but they aren't fit to live in. The ceilings are too high, there are no walls and the floors keep moving.

I do not recommend commercial businesses. If you want to hire a private eye, you'll have to find one on your own. I hope you will save your money and put an end to that 17-year fantasy. Your life sounds a lot better than most. Don't louse it up.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed dozens of jewels that have been helpful to me in my career as a teacher. I have shared many of them with my students. One of the best is the enclosed. Will you print it again, please?—Knoxville Fan

For fund-raiser

Tom Graham to perform Tuesday

Veteran newspaperman Tom Graham of Luling will perform some of his "sophisticated corn" for a Kids, Incorporated fund-raiser on Aug. 7, the Tuesday of "Town & Country Jubilee" week.

Graham, who refers to himself as "Cuzzin Tom," called his act "a life-long study of the dry rural wit set to the Texas country-rock sound" which has brought so much national attention to the Austin music scene.

Graham is a regular opening act at Esther's Follies Comedy Theater on Austin's 6 Street night life area, and said he discovered quite by accident that "he could capture the dry Texas wit" in song. He has appeared in many places across Texas from the comedy clubs to dance halls.

His best-known piece is "Them Danged Old Cows," (co-written by Buck Asher;). The record received quite a bit of attention on a regional basis, particularly in the beef and dairy producing areas, as Graham draws his way through the perils of being a rancher.

Graham will be accompanied to Hereford by "Washtub Jerry." Graham claims that Jerry "plays a real mean washboard."

Tickets for the Cuzzin Tom Show will be available from members of the Kids, Incorporated Board of Directors, and will be sold at the door the night of the performance. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for those under 12. The show will begin at 8 p.m., with doors to open at 7 p.m., at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Buddy Peeler, president of Kids Incorporated, stated, "We're proud that Tom contacted us about the prospects of doing a show in Hereford; he's agreed to do it on a percentage basis with no guarantee required, and this is an opportunity for Kids Incorporated to raise some funds and provide what we think will be some unique entertainment for the family. Tom's a nice guy with a genuine infatuation for Hereford. We hope to fill the auditorium."

In an effort to promote ticket sales, the public is being invited to ask Kids, Inc. board members if they have free tickets for the Cuzzin Tom Show. One designated board member will, in fact, have two tickets to give away, in addition to a $100 gift certificate compliments of Boots & Saddle Western Wear. The prize will be randomly awarded between now and show date.

All-around title goes to Japanese

By PETE HERRERA AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four years after the United States led a boycott of the 1980 Summer Olympics, the would-be heroes of Moscow are emerging in Los Angeles.

Japanese gymnast Koji Gushiken, one of the thousands of athletes who never made it to Moscow, attained the ultimate goal of every gymnast Thursday night.

Gushiken, a 27-year-old bachelor and college professor in Tokyo, literally vaulted his way past American Peter Vidmar and Chinese star Li Ning to capture the all-around gold medal — the most prestigious prize in gymnastics competition.

"I have worked very hard and persevered a great deal for this moment," said Gushiken, who can add to his gold medal total Saturday in the apparatus finals.

Gushiken started the night in fifth place, but put on a relentless march to the top with conservative but near-flawless routines.

He beat Vidmar by the smallest of margins possible — 118.700 to 118.675. Li, who was favored to win the all-around men's title, held off teammate Tong Fei to earn the bronze with 118.575 points.

The silver medal by Vidmar and the bronze by Li were the first all-around Olympic medals ever awarded to an American and Chinese.

Finals in the all-around competition for women are scheduled tonight, with two Americans, a pair of Romanians and a Chinese veteran expected to battle for the gold medal.

In Thursday's other events: — A flotilla of American rowers reached the finals and the French team's eight-man shell, apparently sabotaged, was given a berth in Sunday's final.

— Cheryl Miller of the University of Southern California scored 16 points to lead the U.S. women's basketball team to an 84-47 thumping of South Korea.

Against Green Bay Saturday

Quarterback battle continues as Cowboys open pre-season

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Hometown fans get their first look at this year's version of the Dallas Cowboys quarterback controversy Saturday night, but Coach Tom Landry says his decision on a starter won't rest on one exhibition game.

The Cowboys open their exhibition season against the Green Bay in the debut of the Packers new head coach, Forrest Gregg.

Throughout training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., all eyes have been on the two contenders for the Cowboys starting quarterback job — incumbent Danny White and challenger Gary Hogeboom.

Last year, Landry declared White the winner of the competition, a decision some players who favored the strong-armed Hogeboom openly criticized. The starting job went to White after the second pre-season game.

"I don't know how important a game it is for them," Landry said of the Green Bay game. "If I would make a decision on a quarterback, it would come sometime down the way. It won't be a play-by-play or game-by-game description."

Landry said his decision won't be based on statistics, but on what "looks best for the team at that moment."

The Cowboys, who lost nine veterans to retirements and trades during the off-season, have been without veteran All-Pro defensive lineman Randy White, a contract holdout and training camp no-show.

White's absence, too, has brought controversy to the team. Players have staged protests on his behalf during training camp.

For Gregg, the game is a homecoming of sorts. The former Cincinnati Bengals head coach who signed on with Green Bay after Bart Starr was fired was born in Birtchright, Texas, and played football for both Southern Methodist University in Dallas and the Cowboys.

Gregg, who played most of his pro years with the Packers, said his team is still adapting to the new offensive and defensive systems he has put in place.

"As a team, I think we've made progress but we still have a long way to go," Gregg said. "We're starting to get a feel for our personnel but, in a lot of cases, we can't make decisions on backups. By no stretch of the imagination is it clear right now who will be here."

The lineup Gregg will put on the field for the start of the 8 p.m. CST game will be essentially the same as last year, with veterans Lynn Dickey at quarterback, James Lofton at split end, John Jefferson at flanker and Paul Coffman at tight end.

The defense, which finished 28th in the National Football League last year, will find rookie Tom Flynn, a fifth round pick from the University of Pittsburgh, starting at free safety.

Annual Boys Ranch Rodeo to draw huge crowds

Approximately 10,000 persons are expected to attend the two performances of the annual Boys Ranch Rodeo over the Labor Day Weekend.

Nearly 250 of the Ranch's boys will be competing for belt buckles and the titles of Senior and Junior All-Around Cowboys. They will take part in such events as riding calves, steers, bulls, and bareback broncs. Area riding clubs will participate in the Grand Entry.

Specialty acts scheduled are a wild steer race, the Future Farmers of America project parade, a calf scramble and barrel races with 5 and 6-year-old boys riding stick horses. Boys who do not compete will be selling barbecue beef plates and soft drinks or working at other jobs required for a rodeo.

Among spectators will be many of the Ranch graduates who are expected to return home for their reunion. More than 3,000 boys have called the Ranch home since 1939 and some travel long distances to attend the rodeo and for a meeting of the Boys Ranch Alumni Association.

Reserved seats are $3.50 and $4.50, general admission is $2.50. Barbecue beef plates will be sold for $3.

All-star football

South passes North

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — South quarterback Shannon Kelley and receiver Kevin Nelson will continue their pass-catch act this fall at the University of Texas.

But they gave a sneak preview in the Astrodome Thursday night of what Longhorn opponents can expect as Kelley threw two touchdown passes and Nelson caught two TD throws as the South defeated the North 27-7 in the Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star football game.

Kelley, from Spring Branch Memorial, hit touchdown shots of 27 and 14 yards to future University of Houston receiver Mike Rhodes of Aldine and Nelson hauled in scoring catches of eight and four yards from Mark Motley of Ore City.

"The way everything was clicking in practice I knew everything would be good come game-time," said Kelley, who completed 15 of 25 passes for 173 yards and earned the game's most valuable back honor.

Kelley, from Spring Branch Memorial, said he and Nelson kept in touch during recruiting season.

"We wanted to know what each one was going to do," Kelley said. "We wanted to load the bus and take it to Texas and win the national championship."

Nelson, from Stafford Dulles, caught nine passes for 67 yards.

"This offense was kind of like a run and shoot offense," Nelson said. "We did a lot of hard practicing this week. I was reading the defensive backs and going the opposite way."

The South built a 14-0 halftime lead on Kelley's 27-yarder. Motley's eight-yarder and a safety.

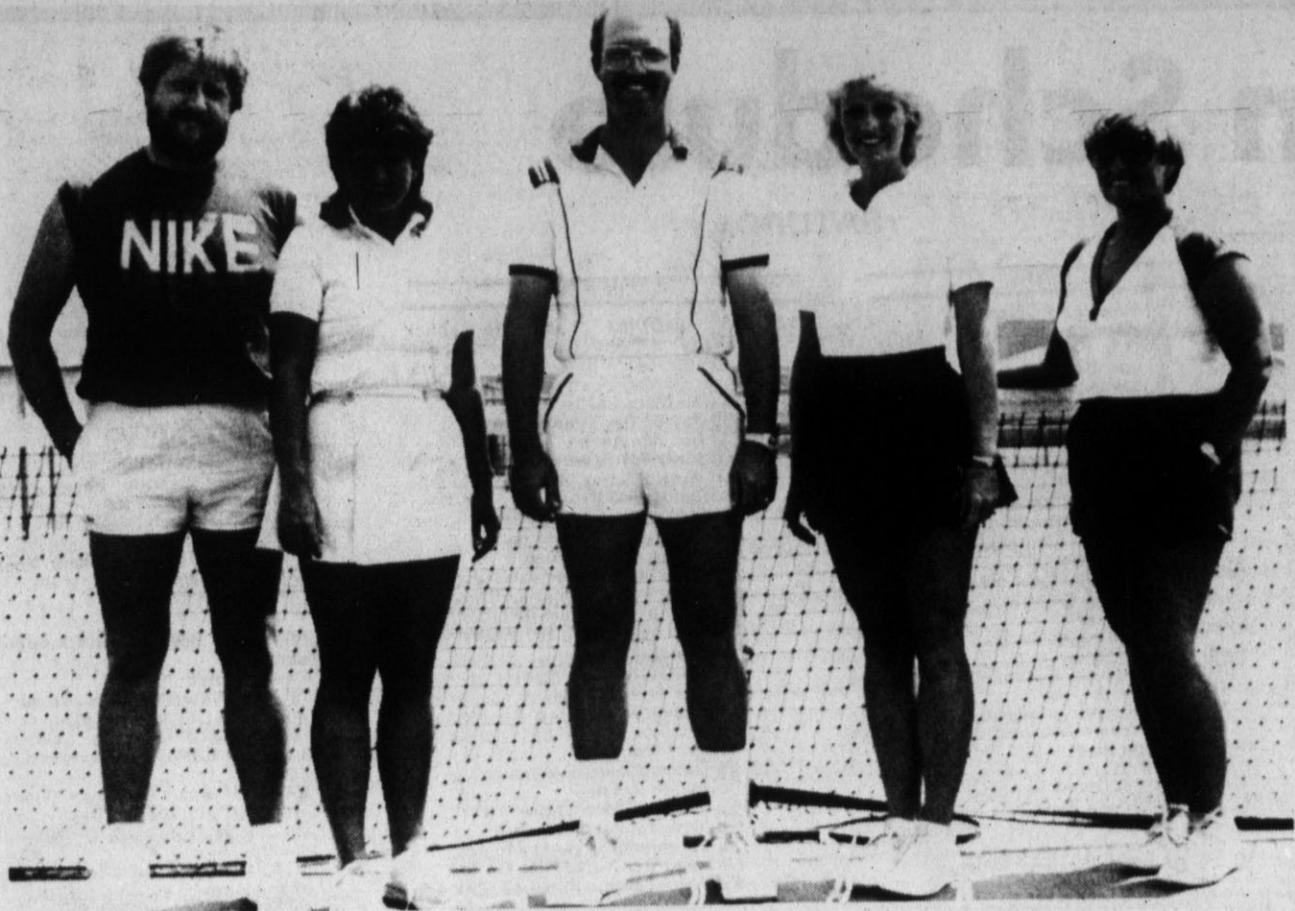

Motley, who completed seven of 11 passes for 74 yards, hit Nelson for four yards in the third quarter and Kelley added the final shot with 37 seconds left in the game.

The North averted a shutout with 4:55 left in the game when quarterback Charles Eipper of Wichita Falls Hirschi, plunged one yard for a touchdown.

"Kelley's unbelievable and the receivers were really good, not just one but all of them," North Coach Tim Edwards of L.D. Bell said. "I have to take the blame for the loss. We made some great plays but we killed them with bad ones."

Ben Hummel of Rockwall earned the game's outstanding lineman award but wasn't totally happy with his performance.

"I didn't play up to my capabilities," he said. "To have a good game, I would have had to made every tackle. It's a disappointment. We had a couple of bad breaks.

Tennis For Adults

Tennis champions in the adults division of the Hereford Ladies tournament were named last week. From left are Jim Sandoval, Lorraine Sandoval, Lynton Allred, Cindy Baker and Jenny Cassels. The Sandovals won the B-doubles championship, Allred and Baker won mixed doubles, and Baker and Cassels won A-doubles.

Bowling league wrapping up

TNT's, of Tuesday Night Hotdogs' Bowling League, crept a little closer to first place Tuesday by winning all four games while the first place Bandits went 3-1.

Heading into Tuesday's play, The Bandits were 26-10 and held a two-game advantage over TNT's. Records now stand at 29-11 for the Bandits and 28-12 for TNT's.

Total pins number 23,393 for The Bandits, and 22,743 for TNT's. In case of identical records at the end of the season, total pins determine the winner.

Linda Wilcox again paced women bowlers with a high game of 182. Nita Ralston and Carolyn Moke were close for second, with Ralston winning with 159. Moke had a 155 game-high.

Jimmie Bridges also repeated high-game men's bowler. Bridges had a strong 254. Butch Davis and Stan Wilcox were a distant second and third. They had a 182 and 169, respectively.

NAZARENE

The single parents class has scheduled a family social at 7 p.m. today at Green Acres pool. The cost is $1 per person.

"Help! I'm a Teen Parent," a Sunday school class for parents of teenagers, is slated to begin at 9:30 a.m. Sunday in the fellowship hall. The class will be open to the public and taught by Ted Taylor, youth pastor.

The first session is on the topic, "Being a Role Model."

The single parents class will meet in the choir room for the duration of this special class. For further information call the church at 364-8303.

Vacation Bible School kick-off is scheduled Sunday with a sandwich lunch in the fellowship hall and parade (children may bring their bicycles). Pre-registration will be during children's Sunday school classes. Bible School is slated from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, with the VBS program scheduled at 9:45 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 12.

The teens are invited to a watermelon fellowship with First Baptist teens from 6 to 10 p.m. Saturday at First Baptist Church.

Direction, a senior high group from Oskaloosa, Iowa, Church of the Nazarene, is to present a concert at the local church at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. These teens have been featured in churches, assemblies, camps and rallies. Due to this special Tuesday night performance, there will be no regular Wednesday evening service on Aug. 8.

Terrific Tuesday has been cancelled next week because of Vacation Bible School, but one more day of this summer ministry is scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 14. A children's olympics is planned that day at a cost of $5 per child. Hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for children through age 10. Each participant is asked to bring a sack lunch.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST

The family of Caudie Ola Brown extends an invitation to friends of their mother to help celebrate her 80th birthday at a reception from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Sunday in Ward Parlor of First United Methodist Church.

Her daughters, Mrs. Martha Jean Burrus, Childress; Mrs. Emma Jane Roberts; Lamesa; and Mrs. Colline Kinsey, Houston, and their families are hosting the affair. They request the guests' presence as the only gift she will want.

All women of the First United Methodist Church are invited to a United Methodist Women Silver Coffee from 10 a.m. until 12 noon Wednesday in Ward Parlor. This will be a come and go affair and fellowship time. Refreshments will be served by the six women's circles, and a nursery will be provided. The money donated at the tea is to be used to furnish supplies for the church kitchen.

The 38th annual laymen's retreat is scheduled Aug. 10-12 at Ceta Canyon. Men of the church are encouraged to partake of the special fellowship with Whitney Dough preaching, Ken Weatherford conducting the lay addresses, Jim Waterfield leading the morning devotionals, and Bob Wert leading the retreat singing. Those wishing to "charge their spiritual batteries" at the retreat are asked to contact the church office or Mark Landrum for transportation arrangements.

GRACE GOSPEL

Bob Dunston is to be the guest speaker at Grace Gospel Church, 804 Ave. K, during the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services this Sunday and Sunday, Aug. 12. He and his wife, Bea, are directors of Amarillo Teen Challenge.

Pastor Evelyn Tallant and the congregation of Grace Gospel invite everyone to attend these services.

TEMPLE BAPTIST

The second tape in a video series entitled "Meet Southern Baptists" is to be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday in the choir room of Temple Baptist Church. This tape reviews the basic beliefs and doctrines of Southern Baptists.

Following the video tape a concert is to be presented by the Hazel Family. The service of music and testimony is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

IF YOU ARE BETWEEN THE AGES OF 55-65 and are not in a Bible study class, we invite you to join us for Bible study at First Baptist Church each Sunday at 9:45 a.m.

For log home

Dream fulfilled

By DAVID SAELENS Beaumont Enterprise LUMBERTON, Texas (AP) — When Mike and Debbie Dunham bought 12 acres of land two years ago, the first thing Mike did was count the trees. He had plans to use some of those trees in a way that's rarely seen in today's world of pre-fab, instant homes. He wanted to build a house that would last a lifetime. He wanted to fulfill a childhood dream. He wanted a log cabin.

The Dunhams have been working two years to build that dream and now are putting the finishing touches on their two-story, pine-log cabin. In worn blue jeans and a Willie Nelson T-shirt, Dunham is lumberjack, engineer and construction foreman at his homestead in the Village Oak addition.

He is not a contractor by trade, so how does the 29-year-old Beaumont firefighter know so much about building houses out of logs? "I just read books about log cabins and how to build them," he said.

Dunham's no beginner, though, when it comes to construction. The seven-room house that looms over Village Creek is the second cabin the part-time rodeo clown has built from scratch.

He built his first cabin in Vidor but sold it for dreams of a larger home. The Dunham house does not bring to mind the Abe Lincoln-type cabin in the woods. The logs are cut flat on two sides, giving the 25-by-35 foot house a Swiss-chalet appearance. Dunham says the "half-ducktail" cuts he used to fit the ends of the logs together are of German descent, which adds to the chalet look and the beauty of the cabin.

"Every once in a while someone will ask me how much I'd charge to build them one," he says, jabbing at the punching bag hanging above the second-story deck.

It took Dunham nine months to cut down the 25 trees he needed for the house. The forest that makes up his front yard supplied more than enough. Dunham cut down all the trees himself but enlisted the service of uncles, cousins and miscellaneous relatives to put the tin roof in place. He hewed each log by hand with a broad axe formerly owned by "an old timer who used to make cross ties for the railroad."

Dunham's rodeo partner, Ringo, a 7-year-old boxer, peeked through the gap in a wall as Dunham explained how he will add a special cement between the logs to create four inches of insulation.

"I've always wanted to live in a log cabin ever since I was a kid," he said. "It's different, and it's inexpensive, since the logs were free."

Mrs. Dunham shares her husband's enthusiasm for log cabins but never knew anyone who could build one before she met her husband. Recalling their first date, when she saw her husband's Vidor cabin for the first time, she remembers thinking, "This guy built this?"

Dunham knows his investment will endure, claiming the preservative-treated logs will deteriorate only a quarter of an inch every 100 years. Because he built his cabin from the ground up, he said, he laughs every time he sees a commercial for log cabins built from a kit. "The commercials claim you can 'get back to nature,'" Dunham said, "but the logs have numbers on them."

My Secret Sins

You know my secret sins, Dear Lord'
Even those hidden from me;
Yet with love you forgive my sins,
And then I sin again.

Friends get offended at little things,
Even things done by accident
While you see sin down my heart
That I commit with intent.

I'm sorry I cannot do better
You know, Dear Lord I try
I can't understand your mercy
For sinners such as I.

Some times alone I think about it,
and seek a place of cover
To kneel and try to thank You Lord.
But words fail...My cup runneth over.
