AROUND TOWN

Sights and Faces Seen

Arthur Harris looked like a rug store cowboy sure enough when he donned overalls and easy gloves to put down tile on the floor of the table room at Rooks Drug.

F. M. Koster returns from a fishing trip in Colorado feeling gay, but not very talkative. All he says is he "caught a few trout," the smile he is wearing seems to indicate he knows more than he is telling.

George Brumley brings an interesting species of dog back from Eagle Lake, New Mexico. He calls it the exceedingly rare Mexican hairless dog. Have you seen it?

Mont Baker did not like what the Brand had to say about Ray Conaway being more adept at getting jobs than he, so he caught a four-pound bass and would like to see Ray match the feat.

Here's an outing that will turn into a dilly if the boys call each other by nicknames reported to the column: Bill (Pummy) Smith, Jr., Frank (Sonny Boy) Marrs, Jr., and Dennis (Potay) Baker left Tuesday for the hills near Huidobro, New Mexico.

Numerous Hereford people speak of Main Street as "the street." For example, we heard Hall Beavers say, "I'll be over on the street after awhile."

Mrs. A. H. Streu and daughter, Helen Frances, left today on one of the night trips to be taken by Hereford folk. They went to Amarillo, where they were joined by Mrs. Streu's sister, May Worth, for a trip to Providence, Rhode Island, and other Eastern points, planning several interesting stops.

Funeral Rites For Victim of Flagg Shooting

C. W. PRICE DIES OF WOUNDS; RANCH MAN AGEE SURRENDERS

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist church in Shamrock last Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Charles W. Price, 46-year-old Castro county farmer, who died of bullet wounds inflicted at Flagg at 5 o'clock last Thursday afternoon. The Black Funeral Home had charge of the body.

Shortly after the shooting, J. A. Johnson, manager of the Herding Ranch properties, surrendered to Castro county officers and was released on $5,000 bond after being charged with the slaying. There were no witnesses to the shooting, and Johnson made no immediate statement regarding the affair.

One shot entered Price's left arm and came out his neck. Another entered his left shoulder, coming out his back. A .45 caliber revolver was used in the shooting. The body was brought to Hereford in a Black ambulance.

A former resident of Wheeler county, Price removed to Castro county three years ago. He was born on January 24, 1890, and removed to Shamrock in 1928. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Survivors include a son, Morton Price of Flagg, two daughters, Mrs. Elmer McNabb of Hart, and Carrie Price, Welch City, Oklahoma, two brothers and four sisters.

The Kuykendalls had lived in Hereford for only a short time, coming here from San Angelo last May. Mr. Kuykendall is employed at the Furr Food Store. Mrs. Kuykendall was born at Shero on September 20, 1907.

Irrigation Veteran Surprised at Abundance of Shallow Water Here

Surprise at the abundance of water available for irrigation purposes around Hereford, at so low a lift, was expressed by C. C. Hamilton of Alta Loma, California, an irrigation authority and vice president of a mutual water company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and sons, Clayton and Rex, are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. William McGehee. Mr. Hamilton inspected a number of irrigation plants in the Hereford area. He has had 25 years of experience with irrigation, raising water from 200 to 350 feet.

Mr. Hamilton noted that most pumps in this section are operated at a speed of from 1,500 to 1,800 revolutions a minute. "When we started using turbine pumps years ago," he said, "we did just what you are doing—installed the higher speed pumps, but after years of experience, we find it is more practical and economical to use slower speed pumps. The 1 1/2 H. P. M. pump is my preference."

To Get Degree

Woman Hurt In Auto Accident

MRS. CHESTER HODGES IS INJURED WHEN CAR HITS ENGINE

Mrs. Chester Hodges suffered slight injuries about the chest and neck Saturday night when the car driven by her husband struck an automobile engine which had fallen out of a trailer about three miles north of Hereford on 25-Mile Avenue. Other occupants of the car were not injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodges were returning home when the accident occurred. In the car were Mr. and Mrs. Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. Pool of Clarendon, and one child of each couple. Mrs. Pool is Mrs. Hodges' sister. The front of the Hodges car was badly smashed and the steering gear was broken.

Hodges pulled to the side of the road to pass an oncoming automobile when his car collided head-on with the engine. It rebounded, struck the engine a second time, and careened across the road in front of three other cars. Hodges lost control after the first impact.

Mrs. Hodges was taken to the home of Mrs. L. L. Crawford where she received emergency treatment. She continued to her home early Sunday morning.

Britton Given 30-Year Term

A Farmer county district court jury sentenced J. C. Britton to 30 years in prison last Thursday morning on his plea of guilty in connection with the robbery of the Friona State Bank in June 28. The jury deliberated 41 hours.

Britton was captured with Herbert Stanley in Fort Worth after a gun fight with officers. He interrupted his trial to plead guilty. Prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Stangle Witherpoon. Stanley was convicted of a similar charge and sentenced to life imprisonment the previous week. They were accused of the daring daylight robbery which netted nearly $1,000 in cash as well as express checks.

Stangle, Witherpoon and family were in Amarillo Friday.

Land Use Survey Is Started In County

A land survey to secure data which will enable farmers and ranchers to define clearly their present problems and at the same time obtain the greatest possible benefits from their operations is being conducted in Deaf Smith county by a group of field specialists from the Use Planning Division.

Land Use Planning is a comparatively new program, but it is deemed necessary to bring about orderly arrangements of factors or forces operating in the agricultural field, therefore, in order to obtain certain information whereby policies can be formulated for the future land use program, field forces are now operating in various counties throughout Region 12 of the Resettlement Administration.

This study and the special farm management, sociological, soil and range surveys will provide the basis for the sound program of adjustment that must replace present land use practices in some sections if the lands are to return their greatest possible sums to the operators.

The fact is emphasized that in no instance will Land Use Division attempt to persuade an individual, a community or a country to change present land use practice. To the contrary, the final report will merely outline findings of the survey, pointing out various ways whereby conditions may be improved should operators desire to follow methods developed from these surveys.

The survey will include every possible factor having a bearing upon the lands in Deaf Smith county together with the citizens residing here. It will determine the acres owned and rented by each operator, how many acres of each farm have been blown in the past several years, principal crops, total acreage in pasture, number of acres idle or fallow, an inventory of facilities for the farm and home, and the operator's ideas as to what practices are best for his particular farm.

Harve Marshall Doesn't Quit When One Gets Away!

Jack Lamb may be the world's greatest bass fisherman, but with all his fancy rods and lure and scientific methods he has never had such a piece of piscatorial success as "Harve" Marshall had last week—and with one that got away, too!

Harve went fishing down in the Tierra Blanca, on the Brady place, last Thursday night. A big fellow bit his line with obvious determination and he little speed. Harve started tightening up, but the line snapped like a piece of twine. Away went bass, hook, and a part of the line. Disgusted, Harve went home.

But he went back to the same place Friday night to try again. Another big fellow bit his line. This time he did not get away. Dangling in his mouth was the hook and line lost the night before—Harve had caught the same fish!

And he was a nice one—only two ounces under four pounds—a good meal for someone, for Harve says he doesn't eat them.

Donner Is Re-Elected Republican President

E. L. Donner was re-elected president of the Deaf Smith county Republican convention Saturday afternoon. Herschel Cline was elected secretary to succeed N. C. Vogels. The convention was held at the court house and presided over by President Donner.

Both Donner and Cline were selected as delegates to the state Republican convention at San Antonio on August 15. Hugh Brum of Amarillo was named as alternate. The Republicans were present.

Robbers' Trail Lost

Harry E. Robbins, escaped Colorado convict wanted in connection with the robbery of a grain elevator and theft of automobile license plates at Dimmitt, and with the passing of a forged check here, had disappeared early this week after being spotted by Clovis, New Mexico, officers. He escaped in a sedan, bearing the plates stolen at Dimmitt. The name of Pete Whitely, Dimmitt, elevator manager, was forged to the check, which was made out to Harvey C. Stanley.

Godwin, pastor of the Vega church, and interment was in the Vega cemetery. Survivors include the parents and two brothers, Ted and Victor.

Born last Tuesday morning at the Henry home, the triplets weighing but two pounds each, were carried to a sanitarium where they waged their short battle for life in a tiny incubator. They passed away Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were held Thursday morning.

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

 "Now, we're under way," he said. "Next comes medicine. By using the ashes, you gave our wounds sterile dressings. Your father was tuned up to the pink of condition. His wound will heal as rapidly as mine. What little fever he has means nothing. To cool it, crush in his drinking water some of the cranberries from over there along the edge of the muskeg. You might boil willow bark and add a little of the bitter decoction to the cranberry juice."
 "Oh, it's good to know he's not sick. But to starve to death!"
 Garth pointed to the wild fowl out in the swamp. They were beginning to flock together with the approach of autumn. "How would you like canvasback or mallard for dinner?"
 Her eyes brightened, only to cloud again. "You have no gun." After looping some things to his belt he went to stack a hollow pile of brush on a forked stub that had been broken off from a fallen beach tree. Out in the water he bobbed under and came up with his head between the forks of the float. The leaves and twigs made a blind from which he could see out without being seen.
 He waded neck deep up the muskeg stream so slowly that the stub and branches appeared to be an ordinary branch of driftwood.
 When he stepped off, over his depth, he began to tread water. By a quiet movement of his hands under the surface, he glided the blind into the midst of a mallard flock. The trick was to grasp a duck's feet and jerk the bird under before it could squawk. He waded back to shore with five dead mallards tied to his belt.
 After the meal on roast duck, he set some rabbit snares. He then showed Lillith how to make cords by splitting off strands from peeled spruce roots. While she worked at this, he collected more ducks and hung them over a smudge for smoke curing.
 Next came the carrying of Eskimo hooks from duck bones. With bait, a catgut leader and spruce-root line, he began to catch Mackenzie whitefish. Lillith had never seen so beautiful a fresh-water fish.
 The newly caught fish proved far better eating than even the best of trout. Mr. Ramill's slight fever gave him a distaste for duck meat and the rabbits that were snared. But he ate his full share and more of the delicious fish.
 Besides the cranberries, Lillith gathered black currants and blueberries and mushrooms. More fish were caught than could be eaten fresh. A number were soon on the smoke rack along with ducks and rabbits. For the present and near future, the question of food had been met.
 A cold, sleety rainstorm drenched the camp. It brought only temporary discomfort, for Garth kept the fire alive under a slanted heap of spruce boughs. None the less, the storm spurred him to redouble activity. He knew it to be the forerunner of the autumn blizzards that might now growl down off the snow-clad Selwyns at any time.
 While Mr. Ramill's slight fever remained, he said little and seemed to take everything as a matter of course. He had fully recovered from the effects of shock even before the fifth day when the bullet wound through his upper chest began to heal. But with the passing of his feverish condition, the irritability of convalescence jabbed him out of his placid contentment.
 "Why are you loafing around here, Garth?" he rasped. "Instead of wasting all this time piling up food, you could have made a canoe and run us down across to that refueling post days ago."
 Garth swept his right hand edgewise out across his uplifted empty left palm. "No gun—no hides. Dead birch—no bark. No hides, no bark—no canoe."
 "Huh! Do you mean to say we'll have to stick here and freeze in your d—d Arctic winter?"
 "Growl away, sir," Garth approved. "Sounds good. It means you'll soon be in shape for rafting. As for your question, perhaps you imagine Miss Ramill and I have been heaving that down timber over the bank just for sport."
 The millionaire staggered to his feet unaided for the first time since Huxby had shot him down. "A raft! How the devil can you make one if you can't make a canoe? No rope or rawhide things to tie the logs together."
 Garth supported him over through the spruce thicket to the drop-off of the bank. The wobbly invalid squatted on the brink and stared in surprise. Down the beach, close beside the water, his daughter sat plaiting a great pile of willow withes into a thick line. Before her floated a partly built raft of dead birch tree trunks. The shorter, smaller crossed logs were lashed on with spruce roots in a plaited-willow tie-line.
 Mr. Ramill's gaze passed over the raft, to peer out across the immense lake-like expanse of the great river. The water was covered with whitecaps, whipped up by the chill northerly wind.
 "Raft! Ugh! It's worse out there than the white water when we shot those rapids."
 "There'll be plenty of free bathing for us, but no danger of drowning," Garth replied. "Only trouble this wind would blow us up stream. We'll have to wait for a shift. The only other chance is that one of the boats may be coming out."
 "Boats?"
 "The supply steamers of the Hudson's Bay Company and other traders, taking out the season's cargoes of furs."
 The millionaire grunted his relief: "Ugh—steamers! Almost as good as a plane."
 "If one comes along, and if we see it in time," Garth qualified. "You are rather farsighted. You might watch for smoke downriver."
 "I'll do that. D—d your diddling with any raft. Ten to one you've already let every steamer slip past. All this time with your nose rubbing those d—d logs."
 Garth went down to tell Lillith that her father was by way of being a well man. He sent her to move the camp to a small opening in the thicket, close behind the grumbler. Fuel for a bonfire had already been heaped up on the beach.
 But Garth did not count strongly on sighting any steamer. The boats might have lingered at the far-away Arctic trading posts. Delays meant danger of an early blizzard. He rushed his work on the raft. When dusk came, Lillith went on watch, in place of her father. Garth relieved her at midnight. But neither of them saw any light out on the vast expanse of ghostly gleaming whitecaps.
 By another sunset Garth had the raft completed to his satisfaction. He had built a superstructure that raised the footing well above the waterline. Rails guarded against the risk of squall waves washing the still weak millionaire overboard. For sweeps Garth lashed the paddles to poles made of spruce sapplings. He rigged other sapplings for mast and yard-arm, ready to hoist the blanket as a sail in case of a favorable change in the wind.
 "Shift or calm, we'll put off at sunrise," he announced.
 Though Mr. Ramill grumbled, he ate his fill of broiled whitefish, and rolled up for the night to fall into the healthy heavy sleep of a convalescent. Lillith again took the first watch.
 In the midst of his first sleep, Garth opened his eyes with the instant alert wakefulness of a hunter. The girl's hand was on his forehead.
 "Yes!" he asked.
 "I—I'm not sure," she murmured. "The wind has gone down. It looks like a star. But it is so low on the water, I thought I'd better call you."
 He rolled from the bed of spruce tips and dry moss. A single glance downriver was enough. He jumped to light the prepared bundle of brush at the smudge fire and leap with it down the bank.

FOR YOUR BENEFIT AND PROTECTION

Hereford Burial Association

The Hereford Burial Association has been conceived along the lines of similar associations to give you at nominal cost assurance of a final service without inflicting hardships and debts upon loved ones.

A Majestic Monument

(Statue to the Memory of Lincoln)

It is but fitting that great men achieve great monuments. But the final services for someone dear are as important as the most pretentious memorial. This should be accomplished without adding a burden to those left behind.

Not An Assessment Association

This association does not base its payments on the sliding scale of death among its members. Monthly charges are made—very nominally—according to the age of insured. These charges do not vary. They will remain the same as long as the policy is in effect. It will be well worth your time to inquire into the plan of the association. It carries an assurance that cannot be obtained otherwise.

SPECIAL DAY SET FOR TOWNS OF THIS AREA

September 17 has been designated at Dimmitt, Hereford and Farwell Day by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial. Special features of the day will be the placing of the towns names in large electric lights across the WTCO building at the Centennial, a 15-minute radio program over station WBAP given to honored towns, and majoring of panel exhibits from the towns.

S. J. R. NO. 3-A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas by striking out Section 20 thereof; providing for local option on the question of the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes; providing that spirituous liquors, or liquors composed in whole or in part of the products of distillation shall not be sold for private profit, except to the State; providing that the Legislature shall pass laws relative to the sale, possession, transportation and manufacture of such spirituous liquors; providing for the establishment of State dispensaries; providing for the manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of all liquors which are exclusively products of the fermentation process; providing that intoxicating liquors shall not be manufactured, sold, bartered, or exchanged for beverage purposes in any county or political subdivision wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas, until a majority of the qualified voters of such county or political subdivision shall determine such to be lawful at an election held for that purpose; providing for an election on the question of the adoption or rejection of such amendment and making an appropriation therefor; providing for the proclamation and publication thereof; and prescribing the form of ballot.

Be It Resolved By the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by striking out Section 20 thereof and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

"Article XVI, Section 20:

"(a) It is hereby declared to be the policy of this State that the open saloon shall not be re-established. The sale of spirituous liquors, manufactured in whole or in part by means of the process of distillation and/or liquors compounded and/or composed in part of such spirituous distilled liquors, for private profit, is prohibited within this State except when such sale is made to the State. The State of Texas shall have the exclusive right to purchase at wholesale and to sell at retail such distilled spirituous liquors. Such sale shall be made only in unbroken packages and no such liquors shall be consumed on the premises where sold. The Legislature shall pass laws to prescribe regulations relative to the manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of such spirituous liquors and relative to the establishment of State dispensaries; provided, however, the Legislature shall have the power to regulate the sale for private profit and possession of distilled liquors for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes.

"The manufacture, sale, transportation, and possession of all liquors, the alcoholic content of which is entirely and exclusively the result of the fermentation process is hereby authorized under such restrictions as may be authorized by law.

"(b) The Legislature shall enact a law or laws whereby the qualified voters of any county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, may, by a majority vote of those voting, determine from time to time whether the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be prohibited or legalized within the prescribed limits; and such laws shall contain provisions for voting on the sale of intoxicating liquors of various types and various alcoholic content.

"(c) In all counties, justice's precincts or incorporated towns or cities wherein the sale of intoxicating liquors had been prohibited by local option elections held under the laws of the State of Texas and in force at the time of the taking effect of Section 20, Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, it shall continue to be unlawful to manufacture, sell, barter or exchange in any such county, justice's precinct or incorporated town or city, any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or medicated bitters capable of producing intoxication or any other intoxicants whatsoever, for beverage purposes, unless and until a majority of the qualified voters in such county or political subdivision thereof voting in an election held for such purpose shall determine such to be lawful; provided that this subsection shall not prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages containing not more than 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight in cities, counties or political subdivisions thereof in which the qualified voters have voted to legalize such sale under the provisions of Chapter 116, Acts of the Regular Session of the 43rd Legislature."

Sec. 2. Such proposed Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas, on the third day of November, 1936, at which election all voters favoring said proposed Amendment, shall write, or have printed on their ballots the words:

OLD SWIMMING HOLE HASN'T CHANGED

The old swimming hole hasn't changed. That is the trouble. In this day of tile and concrete pools, Herford's old swimming hole is still a mud hole. It hasn't done much improving. Yet, some people must swim, and that they do in Tierra Blanca creek in Herford State Park.

The cause of these remarks? Last week's rumor that the old swimming hole had become infested with typhoid. According to the local health officer, he has never conducted an official test, and there is only one case of typhoid in the whole area that might possibly be traced to swimming in Herford State Park. He continued, however, with a warning of such possibilities wherever people swim if the pool is not continually fed by fresh water and does not also continually empty itself.

Yet, some people must swim. They take the chance. It indicates the need of a modern pool, handled properly and free of danger. We have a bath house. We thought we had a pool. But it didn't pan out. With water so plentiful and drainage made to order, such a pool should be a profitable investment.

THIS JUST ABOUT FITS HERFORD

Police say that motorists are triple parking. Well, if there's not enough room in the streets to park, let 'em use the sidewalks—pedestrians can crawl underneath or over the top.—From the Wellington Leader.

That just about fits Herford, too. On busy days one has real difficulty in getting down Main Street. Worse than that, some people double park in front of vacant spaces occasionally simply because it's more convenient than driving up to the curb and then having to back out. Still worse are the trucks which pick out corners as the spots to stop in the middle of the street, making it hard for motorists to swing around the corner and get by.

We do not blame shoppers for double parking in front of the store in which they wish to do business when there isn't a parking space within a couple of blocks. Wonder what became of the agreement among merchants to keep their cars and those of employees off Main Street on busy week ends in order to give shoppers additional parking space?

WORLD'S DEEPEST OIL WELL IS LOOMING IN LOUISIANA

Eyes of oil men and geologists are focused on Abbeville, La., as drillers prepared to push to completion what promises to be the world's deepest oil well and the maximum penetration to date of the earth's crust, reaching to a depth of almost two and one-half miles.

The well, Continental Oil Company's Alvin Hebert 1, has already been drilled to 10,956 feet, with a record string of 7-inch casing, or piping, cemented at that depth. Its objective is a virgin petroleum pool in the geologically ancient Oligocene sands, believed to be within drilling distance. Continental Oil Company's engineers on the scene believe the well is in condition for drilling to 13,000 feet at least.

A LONG TIME AGO IN HEREFORD

(From The Hereford Brand, August 4, 1905.)

"How God took care of His servants of old," was the subject discussed by John Patton at Sunday's meeting of the Junior League.

After having tried over 40 varieties, experimenters in Oklahoma declared Turkey Red the best wheat for Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

"You are hereby warned to have . . . all dead fowls and animals removed from your premises within five days after receipt of this notice . . ." read a warning sent to Herford residents by the County Board of Health.

C. H. Carl and family had been in from the ranch south of town trading with Herford merchants.

J. W. Bragg had been in this region from Hall county, and upon his return there expressed his determination to move here and establish a frog leg cannery, saying he had never seen so much rainfall nor heard as many frogs as on his visit here.

The state board of education had fixed the scholastic apportionment at $5.25, the highest in history, and 25 cents over the preceding year.

(From The Hereford Brand, August 6, 1915.)

The Hereford school board was negotiating for the purchase of the Christian College building for use by this school district.

Dimmitt had entertained the largest number of visitors in years at their picnic.

"The climate is right; the soil is right; the people are right," is the way one paper described Herford.

"The printer," said an exchange, "had opportunity to make an average of 30 mistakes in each line of type set. Setting two and a half columns a day would give him 7,500 chances to err, yet one rarely sees more than a few errors in his total week's work."

And they were advertising raincoats—special at from $4 to $15.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Vogele were in Chicago.

Wirt Phillips and Charles Donald were at Midland looking after a bunch of cattle.

Rex Tynes and family had moved to Franklin, where he had a position in the schools.

A Ford jitney had violently bumped a buggy on Third street. Both were driven by women. No damage, no names mentioned.

Ben Short had returned from a trip east beyond the cap rock, and reported that he had been fortunate enough to "be in a three-inch rain while over there".

Lawn Services Given Approval

Rev. J. C. Thorns, pastor of the Presbyterian church has initiated a new idea in conducting the Sunday evening worship service. During the past month he has delivered his evening address on the church lawn at seven o'clock. These outdoor services have met with such enthusiastic cooperation from the congregation that they have attracted widespread interest throughout the community. Rev. Thorns has chosen the men of the Bible as the general subject for a series of talks to be delivered at the outdoor hour. He is emphasizing the men of the New Testament.

This is the first time that such services have been conducted in Herford, and their popularity to date has been most encouraging to Rev. Thorns and other ministers of the city. Similar services have been satisfactory in other cities and their introduction in Herford is of more than local interest. With Sunday evening attendance steadily increasing, Rev. Thorns is justly pleased with the results of his experience.

Largest Lamb Crop.

The number of breeding ewes one year old and over was placed at 4,902,000.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING Leads the World

It Pays To Advertise—And Here's Why

According to Prof. Thomas F. Barnhart of the University of Minnesota, newspapers continued as the leading advertising media in the world during 1935 because:

- 1—Newspaper advertising is a universal habit. Newspaper advertising, therefore, reaches virtually all who read and buy.
- 2—Newspaper advertisement can always be seen by the reader.
- 3—The newspaper advertisement, as part of the complete paper, goes into the home as a welcome guest.
- 4—The newspaper advertisement can have as much reader interest and news value as the news item.
- 5—The amount of text used in newspaper advertisements is dependent only upon the size of space.
- 6—Newspaper advertising is flexible.
- 7—Newspaper advertising is quickly controlled.
- 8—Newspaper advertising may be adjusted to different conditions.
- 9—Newspaper advertising enables manufacturers and dealers to state where their products may be bought.
- 10—Newspaper advertising is inexpensive. Merchants have learned that it covers more families for less money than any other form of advertising.
- 11—Newspaper advertising results may be checked.
- 12—Newspaper circulation is known and is comparatively unaffected by daily changes.
- 13—Newspaper advertising reduces selling costs because it entails no waste of circulation. This helps reduce costs for the consumer.

"Newspaper advertising," says Professor Barnhart, "builds confidence and good will, attracts new customers, increases sales and stabilizes merchandise, methods and prices."

Attend Preview of "Show Boat" Is Organized Here

Approximately 30 people from Hereford and surrounding communities were guests of John Roberts and the Star Theater yesterday morning at a special preview of Show Boat, which comes to the Star soon.

Show Boat, in the writer's opinion, is one of the finest pictures of recent years. Miss Irene Dunt is at her best—which is paying a high compliment to the leading actress of the day. She sings and "shuffles" old songs and new with Allan Jones, a new singing star who is sure to become one of the most popular.

In addition, there is Paul Robeson, whose singing of Ol' Man River and An Still Suits Me is worth the price of admission, and Helen Morgan, who sings Bill, the song she made famous. Chas. Winalger as Capt. Henry, Queenie Smith and Sammy White add much to the entertainment. It's not all singing and comedy, however. There are some heavy dramatic scenes that will bring tears to almost anybody's eyes. The new version of Show Boat is truly one of the best pictures in recent years.

Lions Club Entertained

The Lions Club was entertained yesterday at noon by two readings, The Bath Hour and Little Brown Baby, given by Miss Katherine Kirby, and by a short talk on Lionism by Jesse Stanford. Stanford said the Lions Club is not a reform organization. "We should have some fun," he said. "We need it, but there are some things we must be serious about. We must accomplish something worthwhile if the club is to mean anything to us and to the community." He said the club could mean much to the members if "we cultivate friends in the club. Our one object should be to get better acquainted with one another."

Burial Association Is Organized Here

The Hereford Burial Association has been organized, and put into operation here, with Paul Barnett, son of the late insurance man, Ralph Barnett, at its head. Last Thursday was the association's first day of operation.

This is a new kind of burial association, Mr. Barnett pointed out, in that it is a level rate association, with fees set according to the age of the individual, and no assessments are made upon the death of a member. "Every member knows exactly how much he must pay each month," he added.

A board of directors is being secured and the association is operating under the insurance laws of the state. Mrs. Ernest Day is representing the association in Friona, and within a few weeks it is expected to broaden out to all communities and towns within the Hereford area. Under its charter, the association has authority to operate within a radius of 75 miles from Hereford.

The association is being started as a non-profit organization, Mr. Barnett stated, in order to build up its capital and increase its scope. It is for the special benefit of those who cannot pay a higher rate of insurance, he said. The association has the endorsement of local business men, Barnett asserted.
