Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's business retention committee held its first "Salute to Industry" Luncheon here Wednesday, honoring management and representatives from Panhandle Milling and Panhandle Corn Products.
The luncheon, held at K-Bob's Restaurant, was the first event in a series planned by the committee. Jeff Brown, chairman, said the purpose of the committee is to "create a network of support for local firms and develop a team to assist and work with local existing industries in expanding or strengthening their businesses."

County Judge Tom Simons praised the efforts of Panhandle Milling and Panhandle Corn Products, thanking them for their contributions to the county's economy. He urged the firms to "call upon the county or chamber if there is any way we can help make your business even better."
Harold Dillehay, Panhandle Milling manager, accepted a "Salute to Industry" plaque from Mike Carr, executive vice president of the chamber. He expressed appreciation for local support of the company, and introduced seven of his employees and directors.

Lewis McDaniel, C of C president, also spoke briefly about the chamber's goal of recognizing the contributions of existing industries and being ready to help solve problems whenever possible.
Seventeen chamber members attended the luncheon in support of the "salute to industry" event. Herschel Black worded the invocation.

Krueger, Hutchison duel in final days of Senate campaign

AUSTIN (AP) - Republican U.S. Senate candidate Kay Bailey Hutchison's campaign says Democratic interim Sen. Bob Krueger's camp is practicing "old-style, dirty Texas politics."
David Beckwith, spokesman for Mrs. Hutchison, blasted the opposing camp after a state Democratic Party employee brought to the Travis County district attorney's office Wednesday an allegation that Mrs. Hutchison committed a felony.
Beckwith called "preposterous" the allegation that Mrs. Hutchison, the state treasurer, promised an unsuccessful 1990 treasurer candidate a job in exchange for his endorsement.

He accused Krueger's campaign of spreading the report, but the Democratic candidate's camp denied involvement.
Claire Dawson-Brown, chief of the district attorney's public integrity unit, said: "We routinely review allegations of misconduct to determine whether to initiate an investigation. We listen to everybody, because that is our duty, and we are doing the same with these allegations."

The allegation comes just days before Saturday's runoff election between Mrs. Hutchison and Krueger. He was appointed interim senator by Gov. Ann Richards after Lloyd Bentsen vacated the seat to become U.S. Treasury secretary.
Mrs. Hutchison also said she was invited to a news conference today in Dallas with Ross Perot, who was expected to announce whether his United We Stand America group should endorse either candidate.
Mrs. Hutchison said she would welcome the organization's backing in Saturday's runoff, saying its members "speak for a lot of people who are disenchanted with business as usual in Washington."

Support of the allegations against Mrs. Hutchison were given to the district attorney's office in the form of lie-detector tests and sworn affidavits from Democratic Party computer programmer Stephen McDonald, Frank Ortega and Harley Spoon, McDonald said.

They trio had worked on the campaign of defeated state treasurer candidate Tom Bowden, McDonald said.
After meeting with the district attorney's staff, McDonald said he hadn't talked with Krueger's campaign.

"I've talked with my boss, Bob (Slagle, state Democratic chairman), and that's the only person I've talked to," he said.

The lie-detector tests, which cost $500 each, were paid for by Democratic Party funds, Slagle said.

McDonald said they supported campaign workers' contentions that Bowden told them he supported Mrs. Hutchison's candidacy in return for a job.
In a letter asking for an investigation by the district attorney's office, McDonald and the other former Bowden campaign workers said they believed such an arrangement would be an "illegal deal" and a felony offense.

Bowden, a former San Saba County judge, lost his bid for the Democratic nomination for treasurer, then endorsed Mrs. Hutchison in the 1990 general election. He was hired at the state treasury after she took office.

Bowden didn't immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press, but previously has denied there was a deal for his endorsement.

McDonald said he was called to the district attorney's office by an investigator with the public integrity unit, noting that there have been newspaper reports about his allegation. Ms. Dawson-Brown wouldn't comment on that.

Beckwith said the district attorney's office "did not initiate this publicity stunt. This little scene was initiated by nobody except the Krueger campaign."

A Dallas Morning News poll published last week showed Krueger trailing Mrs. Hutchison by 19 percentage points, 54 percent to 35 percent.

Krueger, at a campaign appearance in Lubbock, said Mrs. Hutchison "must have been desperate and out of control, if the sworn affidavits made by people that indicate that she offered a job in exchange for endorsements are true.... I'm not the one who's desperate, she must be desperate."

Guynes dies of injuries

A Dawn man, Eugene Guynes, injured Tuesday when a vehicle fell on him, died late Wednesday at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Guynes, 66, apparently was working on a vehicle in his barn when the jack slipped, causing the vehicle to fall.

He was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for emergency treatment, then transferred to St. Anthony's.

Survivors include a son and two daughters.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Rix Funeral Directors.

Bill signed to require giving charity care

AUSTIN (AP) - Measures requiring tax-exempt hospitals to provide charity care, and expanding food programs for the needy, have been signed into law by Gov. Ann Richards.

The charity care bill will require non-profit, tax exempt hospitals by 1996 to provide indigent patient care, education or research equal to at least 4 percent of net patient revenue.

Under the food program expansion, summer food programs for 1.5 million children and adults will be developed.

Both measures were sponsored by Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, and Reps. Glen Maxey, D-Austin, and Jack Towell, R-El Paso.

"I am so proud of the Texas Legislature for sending to my desk the kind of legislation that provides for the most needy - our children and our uninsured citizens," Richards said.

The hospital bill was in response to a lawsuit by the state against Houston's Methodist Hospital. The state claimed the hospital was not providing enough charity care to justify its exemption from local and state taxes.

A judge ruled that state law did not require non-profit hospitals to provide any charity care for indigent patients in order to qualify for its tax exemption.

The food bill will enable the state to draw $6 million in federal funds by spending $128,000.

The expansion will start in the summer of 1994. Women Infants and Children (WIC) clinics will stay open in the evenings and weekends to provide additional times that pregnant women and infants can get nutrition services.

She said the charity care bill required a "Herculean effort" on the part of the legislative sponsors.

Ellis said there was a lot of resistance from hospitals at first, but then the Catholic Church, which runs many of the facilities, agreed to it.

One hospital, High Plains Baptist in Amarillo, was exempted from the bill. Ellis has criticized the hospital, but High Plains Baptist officials say they opposed the measure because it dictates what services constitute charity care.

Navajos wrestle with taboos, tradition in struggle with illness

FORT DEFIANCE, Ariz. (AP) - Beulah Allen is at a crossroads of two cultures. A Navajo raised in tribal traditions, she is also a doctor trained in modern medicine, treating a baffling illness that is killing her people.

Allen, 56, said she welcomes both tribal and Western medical traditions in dealing with the frighteningly rapid disease that has killed 13 people.

"We in medicine tend to look at patients like pieces or parts.... We neglect their souls and their minds," she said at the Fort Defiance Indian Health Service Hospital, where she is a specialist in internal medicine. "The advantage of Navajo medicine is that it views a patient as a complete human being."

But Navajo taboos and traditions have also complicated the work of the medical investigators.

Navajo President Peterson Zah pleaded with his people this week to cooperate with the investigators and said Navajo victims' families will break the taboo against speaking of the dead. Allen said doctors also have encountered resistance when asking families for permission to do autopsies.

"They do not understand why a body needs to be cut up and explored after a person has died," she said. "It's dishonoring to the person who has died."

Scientists have been trying for weeks to find out what is causing the flu-like respiratory illness whose 20 confirmed victims have mainly been people with ties to the Navajo reservation in New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

Now, the tribe has asked its three to four dozen medicine men to join the search.

"Western medicine has its limitations," Zah said Wednesday.

Zah gave no specifics on what the medicine men will do. It is taboo in Navajo culture to discuss their work. Traditionally, medicine men are tribal elders who perform ceremonies, such as making sand paintings, to cleanse and heal the spirit.

It's not summer yet, but temperatures feel like it

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Summer-like weather this week may benefit slow cotton fields and promote the growth of pastures and row crops, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Even though summer doesn't officially begin until June 21, it sure will feel like it this week," said Jon Zeitler, meteorologist at the Southwest Agricultural Weather Service in College Station. "It will be 90 to 100 degrees statewide."

Zeitler said temperatures in East Texas, along the coast, and in the northern half of Texas will stay in the low to mid-90s, but the Trans-Pecos, Rio Grande Valley, and parts of West Texas will get temperatures in the mid-90s to 100.

This week's hot weather is just what cotton fields in Southwest Texas need. Jose Pena, Extension economist in Uvalde, said cool weather has been slowing cotton growth since it was planted in mid-April. Nighttime temperatures were dipping into the upper-50s and 60s, but warmer daytime temperatures recently have helped.

With the exception of some isolated thunderstorms in West Texas and along the coast, no rain is forecast through Friday, he said. Texas' next chances for rain will come Saturday as a cold front moves into North Texas and a low pressure system from northern Mexico moves into Del Rio.

The systems' movements will increase rain chances for next week, but temperatures will be near-normal in the upper-80s and 90s, Zeitler said.

Next week's rain will be badly needed by dryland cotton producers in the South Plains. Bob Robinson, district Extension director in Lubbock, said many producers there are planting dryland cotton acreage without the benefit of soil moisture. Since this acreage is not irrigated, producers depend on rain to provide moisture needed for seed germination.

Some cotton producers in West Central Texas got more than enough rain last week. Bryan Limmer, Extension agricultural agent in Colorado City, said up to 9 inches of rain fell within 2 hours in Mitchell County, leveling cotton rows and washing out terraces and planted fields. Half the county received at least 3 inches.

One of the main problems, Limmer said, is what producers call "sand bars." Since the land in West Central Texas is sandy, the water washed away the dirt and left the sand.

Limmer said 4,000 to 5,000 thousand acres sustained some type of damage.

The following specific livestock, crop and weather conditions were reported by district Extension directors:

PANHANDLE: Soil moisture short to adequate. Cattle good. Ranges green, providing adequate grazing. Hay baling active. Wheat headed, making good progress. Corn crop up, off to good start. Good sugar beet, vegetable growth.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture short to adequate. Cattle moved off wheat; harvest not yet begun. Pastures need rain. Cotton 85 percent planted; many producers dry-planting dryland acres. Sorghum 40 to 45 percent planted. Irrigating onions.

Tilton seeks injunction against ABC, Primetime Live

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - The Rev. Robert Tilton is asking a federal judge to prevent ABC from re-broadcasting a "PrimeTime Live" expose on his Word of Faith Ministries during summer reruns.

The request for the preliminary injunction is related to a libel lawsuit Tilton has filed against ABC News Inc., anchor Diane Sawyer, producer Robbie Gordon and Capital Cities-ABC Inc.

A spokeswoman for "PrimeTime Live," reached late Wednesday, said she would have no comment on the hearing until later today.

Tilton was to continue testifying today in U.S. District Court in Tulsa.

The "PrimeTime Live" show, first broadcast in November 1991, alleged Tilton failed to pray personally over follower's prayer requests, bought holy water from Taiwan and falsely claimed to run an orphanage in Haiti.

Tilton said promotional spots on ABC warned him the network planned to rebroadcast the segment during the summer. The show was broadcast a second time, mostly unchanged, in July 1992.

"They picked on the wrong preacher, picked on the wrong church, the wrong attorney, the wrong God," Tilton said during a break in testimony. "It just about destroyed me. It's like being raped. Then, they showed the rebroadcast, and it was like being castrated."

"It just about ruined me from speaking on the same level as before. I now have to overcome being called a crook, a fraud and a liar."

ABC News has hired renowned attorney Floyd Abrams for its defense.

Tilton and his wife, Martha, testified Wednesday that the ministry had an elaborate, three-tiered marketing operation in which only the first of each follower's prayer requests actually was sent to Tilton to pray over personally.

Others, including unsolicited prayer requests mailed on non-church stationery, were sent to Tilton's marketing company in Tulsa, Internal Data Management Inc., where donations were removed and prayer requests placed on computer printouts.

The printouts were then sent to Tilton in Texas to pray over.

In the "PrimeTime Live" broadcast, prayer requests were pulled from trash dumpsters behind the marketing company. Tilton's attorney, J.C. Joyce, alleges ABC News stole the requests and planted them in the dumpster.

For example, Mrs. Tilton said, one 89-year-old woman asked Tilton to pray for her husband, who suffered a heart attack, and her sister, who was going blind.

Mrs. Tilton testified under cross examination by Abrams that such a request would have appeared on the computer printouts as "loved ones, healing and probably strength."

But Tilton and his wife, who is vice president of Word of Faith Ministries, contend the requests - not the actual letters - were what followers expected Tilton to pray over.

Mrs. Tilton testified that Tilton did not explain about the printouts to followers, but that he does now.

"I don't think that's relevant," she said. "I don't think they need to be told that."

"My husband received their prayer requests, and that is what is important."

Tilton only began to testify when U.S. District Judge Thomas Brett adjourned for the day. Before the break, he testified it was impossible to read each follower's requests and that he had no ethical problems using computer lists.

Tilton said the idea for the marketing operation came in a vision. He said he prays a generic "Prayer of Agreement" over followers' specific requests.

"All of a sudden, I found myself in the presence of God. I couldn't see him; he was behind me. He said, 'Many of my ministers pray for other people, but I want you to pray my Prayer of Agreement.'"

"I call it divine inspiration," he said.

Mrs. Tilton testified that the ministry does not own nor operate any orphanage in Haiti but sent $1,200 a month to the World Harvest Mission in Port-au-Prince.

But Abrams referred to a Tilton magazine that referred to the Robert Tilton Ministry Children's Home, which supported 50 children. Abrams asked Mrs. Tilton if a reader would assume Tilton operated the orphanage.

"I'm sure that's the way you read it," she said. "Sure, to an outsider."

Tilton testified that all the documentation he had seen showed the holy water he sent to followers came from Israel, not Taiwan, but that he was not personally involved in the shipments.

Earlier Wednesday, Tilton's attorney presented prayer requests ABC said it pulled from trash dumpsters. Some requests were dated after ABC said it found them in the garbage, Joyce said.

Death row inmate gets reprieve

By MICHAEL GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Texas death row inmate Gary Graham won his second reprieve from execution only 12 hours before he was to be put to death.

Graham was issued a reprieve Wednesday by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. He was scheduled for lethal injection before dawn today for killing an Arizona man during a robbery 12 years ago in Houston. It marked the second time in five weeks Graham received a reprieve only hours before his planned execution.

The Texas appeals court blocked today's punishment until the U.S. Supreme Court rules later this month in a similar Texas capital murder case.

"This petition represents the worst-case scenario - the possibility that a person might be unconstitutionally punished by the legal system," the court wrote. "With this much at stake, the state will wait 30 days."

Graham and his supporters, who have included a number of Hollywood celebrities, have insisted he is innocent and have produced what they say are witnesses who can back up the claims.

"This is great news, wonderful news," Anthony Haughton, one of Graham's attorneys, said Wednesday. "Obviously, we're pleased."

In the other case being considered by the Supreme Court, inmate Dorsey Johnson is challenging a now-defunct Texas death penalty law that he contends unfairly limited a jury's consideration of his young age - 19 at the time of his crime.

Graham was convicted under the same law and was 17 at the time of his arrest for the May 13, 1981, robbery and killing of Bobby Lambert of Tucson, Ariz., outside a Houston supermarket. Less than $100 was taken in the holdup.

"If the Supreme Court finds we have erred in our constitutional analysis, and Johnson was unconstitutionally sentenced due to the Texas system's failure to allow juries to consider youth as a mitigating factor, then not only will Johnson be entitled to relief but, possibly, so too will Graham," the Texas appeals court wrote.

Graham also pleaded guilty to 10 similar robberies where a victim was approached in the parking lot of a supermarket. In two of the robberies, the victims were shot. In a third, a woman was raped.

Graham was in the midst of a 90-minute meeting with his family Wednesday when a prison sergeant told him of the reprieve.

Graham insisted he was with friends miles away at the time of the Lambert shooting and complained he is black and Lambert white. His attorneys also produced witnesses who said Graham was not the gunman.

Texas law, however, bars presentation of new evidence longer than 30 days after a conviction.

A group of British soldiers in India was imprisoned in 1756 in a suffocating dungeon that became known as the Black Hole of Calcutta. Originally, 123 out of 146 men were said to have died there, but in recent years historians have charged that both figures were exaggerated.

Roberson family reunion held

Descendants of the pioneer Roberson families gathered for a family reunion Sunday, May 30, at the American Legion Hall. The day was spent visiting and reviewing family genealogy books and charts following a covered dish luncheon.

L.J. and Wilma Clark told about some of the cemeteries they had visited last year where family members are buried. They visited with descendants of two families in Pontotoc and Ripley, Miss. who helped with their family genealogy.

Attending were Diane Roberson, Austin; Beverly and Clarence Roberson, Enid, Okla.; Deward and Ruth Roberson, Truth or Consequences, N.M.; Opal and Bernard Roberson and Gayle Hinds, Amarillo; Mark, Carol, Benjamin, Rebeca, Jonathan and Timothy Roberson, Miami; Louise Roberson, Vikki, Donnie Lee, Art and Curtis Sears, Mitzi McQueary, Marie Rogers and Joe Pachak, all of Summerfield; and Madge Roberson, Weldon and Bobbie Roberson, Mike, Amy, Cory and Christy Schumacher, James and Donna Smith and L.J. and Wilma Clark, all of Hereford.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) - Gov. Mario Cuomo is an avid fan of basketball's roughhousing New York Knicks. But is he adopting their style of play?

Cuomo accompanied his 22-year-old son Christopher to a hospital on Memorial Day when Christopher needed stitches to close a gash over his eye.

Cuomo said he took a knock of his own, chipping a tooth during the two-on-two game between Cuomo, his son, his future son-in-law and a fourth person the governor wouldn't identify. Cuomo also wouldn't say who injured Christopher.

Fivesome takes scramble

A team composed of Joe Leal, David Bone, Sinky Scott, Gary Whitfill and Lillie Shipman carded a 29 on the back nine at Pitman Municipal Golf Course to win first place in the Wednesday Scramble.

Two teams tied with a score of 30. Taking second place on a scorecard playoff was the group of Blair Rogers, Charlotte Clark, Doug Setliff, Robbie Christie and Lois Jones. Third place went to the team of Craig Nieman, Cliff Jones, Speedy Nieman, Paul Hamilton and Martha Jones.

Sign-up for Low-Ball tourney will continue through Friday

Registration for the annual Hereford Low-Ball Partnership Tournament, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, will continue through 6 p.m. Friday.

"We've still got a few slots left," said Dave Kaesheimer. "We've got room for another 10 teams tops."

The tournament will have more "extras" and the opportunity for more prizes this year as the United Way of Deaf Smith County becomes a sponsor for the event.

The entry fee of $80 per player, plus green fees, includes a hamburger cookout and "family night" Saturday. The swimming pool will be open and musical entertainment will be provided. Tickets for non-golfers are only $5. A Sunday steak dinner will be provided for tourney players and an awards presentation will be held. Both meals will be served at Hereford Country Club.

The tourney will have shotgun starts at 1 p.m. on Saturday and 9 a.m. on Sunday.

Players will also get three shots Saturday on hole No. 10 at qualifying for the Rotary Club's Hole-In-One Contest. There will also be prizes for aces on Pitman's other par-three holes during the tournament.

The big prize will be in the Rotary Club contest, where an ace on No. 10 in Sunday's finals will be rewarded with $25,000 cash or the choice of a new vehicle from Hereford Auto Center or Stevens Chevrolet.

This contest is open to all interested golfers, whether playing in the partnership or not. Golfers can try to qualify from 5:30-8 p.m. today and Friday, and all day Saturday. They get three shots for $5, and can take as many shots as they pay for.

The top 25 qualifiers--the golfers who get closest to the pin during qualifying--will advance to the finals at 6 p.m. Sunday, after the conclusion of the tournament. Each qualifier gets one shot at winning the $25,000 or a new vehicle.

Prizes offered tournament players for aces on other holes either Saturday or Sunday include: No. 3--two Continental Airline tickets anywhere in the U.S. mainland; No. 6--A set of Mizuno MSX irons; No. 9--A 4-day golf vacation for two at the Sandestin Beach Hilton Resort in Destin, Fla.; No. 14--Portable cellular Oki Phones.

Medvedev outsmarts Edberg, reaches French Open semis

PARIS (AP) - Top-seeded Steffi Graf cruised into the French Open final with a rout of Anke Huber today after Stefan Edberg was outthit and outsmarted by 18-year-old Andrei Medvedev.

Playing in only his third Grand Slam, the 11th-seeded Medvedev fended off an Edberg comeback attempt with bullet-like service returns and deadly lobs to win the last men's quarterfinal 6-0, 6-7 (7-3), 7-5, 6-4. He earned a semifinal match Friday with No. 10 seed Sergi Bruguera of Spain.

In the other semifinal, No. 2 seed Jim Courier, the two-time defending champion, plays 12th-seeded Richard Krajicek of the Netherlands.

In the first women's semifinal, Graf won 6-1, 6-1 in 50 minutes over error-plagued Huber, the No. 8 seed. In the second match, No. 2 seed Arantxa Sanchez Vicario played fifth-seeded Mary Joe Fernandez.

"I don't think she played up to her best," Graf said of Huber. "It was her first Grand Slam semifinal and she was probably nervous."

Graf's victory in the all-German match enabled her to reclaim the world No. 1 ranking for the first time since September 1991, when Monica Seles surpassed her.

Seles won the French Open the past three years, but is out of action indefinitely after being stabbed April 30 in Hamburg, Germany, by a factory worker who said he wanted to help Graf become No. 1 again.

Graf is now 6-0 against Huber, losing only 20 games in 12 sets.

Graf won the title here in 1987 and 1988, and Sanchez Vicario won in 1989 before Seles began her streak.

Medvedev displayed all-round virtuosity, slamming eight service returns for winners, hitting 14 passing shots to only one for the third-seeded Edberg, and neutralizing the Swede's serve-and-volley game with eight offensive lobs that went for winners.

The match started Wednesday evening, and Medvedev won the first set in an astounding 16 minutes, yielding only seven points to Edberg. Rain forced suspension of the match with the second set tied 5-5.

Edberg double-faulted once in each of his first four service games, and at one point drew a cheer just for breaking a string of Medve' sv points.

Raymond Berry, the great pass receiver of the Baltimore Colts, fumbled only once in 13 seasons.

Jim Brown played nine seasons for the Cleveland Browns without missing a game.

Quarterback Dutch Clark was a player-coach for the Detroit Lions in 1937 and 1938.

Bulls nip Knicks, take 3-2 series lead

NEW YORK (AP) - Day 6 of Michael Jordan's media boycott: A good one for Chicago, an up-and-down one for the superstar.

Jordan had a triple-double - 29 points, 14 assists and 10 rebounds - as the Bulls took away the New York Knicks' homecourt advantage Wednesday with a 97-94 victory in Game 5 of the Eastern Conference final.

And as has become his custom since it was reported he spent a late night before Game 2 at an Atlantic City casino, Jordan had nothing to say after the game.

Outside Madison Square Garden, however, plenty was being said about him.

A book by a San Diego entertainment executive alleged that Jordan lost $1.25 million while betting on golf, making this the third gambling-related controversy to tarnish the image of the NBA's best player.

In another episode, Jordan paid off $165,000 in golf and poker debts, including a $57,000 check to a convicted cocaine dealer, prompting an NBA investigation.

The gambling angle is controversial, but it wasn't relevant on the court. Jordan played well in all facets of his game and the Bulls stepped up their defensive intensity, bringing New York's 27-game homecourt winning streak to an end and take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series.

The Knicks hurt themselves by missing 15 of 35 attempts from the foul line and getting outrebounded 48-37. They had a chance to take the lead at the end, but Charles Smith had three layup attempts rejected in the final 12 seconds.

Chicago also got an outstanding game from Scottie Pippen (28 pts, 11 rebounds) and a key 3-pointer from B.J. Armstrong - the Bulls' only 3-pointer of the game - that put them ahead 95-93 with 1:17 left.

"I thought the biggest play of the game was B.J.'s 3 from the corner," Knicks coach Pat Riley said.

The Knicks trailed 95-94 when they got control of the ball with 28 seconds left. Patrick Ewing passed to Smith, and his first layup attempt was blocked by Horace Grant. He regained possession and went up twice more, but both times the shot was blocked from behind by Pippen.

The crowd yelled for a foul, but the referees let play continue. Grant saved the ball and Armstrong made a layup as time expired. "We're not going to cry over spilled milk. We thought that he was fouled, but it wasn't called. That's it," Ewing said.

Smith agreed. "We won't cry and beg for help. If the same play happened all over again, I'd do it the same way."

Armstrong finished with 11 points, five in the final 1:17. Ewing led the Knicks with 33 points.

"It was a dogfight," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "We knew it would be one of those kinds of games. It was a battle from beginning to end, defensively and offensively. Every shot was contested."

Game 6 will be Friday night in Chicago, and Game 7, if necessary, would be Sunday in New York.

If the Knicks are to have a chance at dethroning the two-time defending champions, they'll have to once again find the formula that led to convincing victories in the first two games.

"We're going to have to do it the hard way," Riley said. "This is the most defining moment in this team's life."

Sonics still thinking about winning series

SEATTLE (AP) - Even on the verge of playoff elimination, the Seattle SuperSonics are still thinking big.

They're thinking of the NBA finals.

"History says the team that wins the fifth game wins 90 percent of the series," Sonics coach George Karl said Wednesday. "But if we play two good basketball games, I think we can win."

The Sonics can keep their playoff hopes alive tonight with a victory over the Suns in Game 6 of the Western Conference finals. That would tie the series at three victories apiece.

Game 7, if necessary, will be Saturday in Phoenix.

A Phoenix victory would put the Suns in the finals against the winner of the Eastern Conference final series between Chicago and New York.

"You don't get no asterisks for losing," Charles Barkley of the Suns said.

The Suns got 43 points from Barkley, the league's MVP, and a playoff-record eight 3-pointers from Dan Majerle in Game 5's 120-114 victory Tuesday night in Phoenix.

After working hard all last summer on his game, even Shawn Kemp of Seattle is running out of energy. And he's only 23.

The possibility of a championship is driving the Sonics.

"I want to get to the championship series so bad that I try not to think about not having enough rest," Kemp said. "When you have an opportunity like this, you've got to take advantage of it because you're not going to be there too often."

"It would be a great accomplishment, something I watched Dr. J (Julius Erving) and them do when I was coming up as a youngster," Ricky Pierce of the Sonics said. "Now, here I am. You can really top off your career if you can win a ring."

But tonight could be the Sonics' season finale.

"We don't have the luxury to make a mistake and have a down game," Karl said.

Despite the Sonics' loss in Game 5, "I think we gained the confidence that we're a damn good basketball team," he said.

They were in Game 5 until the finish despite sensational performances by Barkley and Majerle. Majerle made 8 of 10 3-point attempts while Barkley scored his playoff career high on 16-of-22 shooting.

The Sonics are betting that Barkley and Majerle, particularly Majerle, can't repeat that effort.

"If they're going to beat us with Majerle shooting 12 3s and making 9 of 'em or 8 of 'em, is that their way to win?" Karl asked. "Hey, I like our chances."

The Suns say the Sonics are showing false bravado.

"At this stage, a win is a win, and we won," Majerle said.

"Close doesn't count," Barkley said. "We're not playing horse-shoes."

Barkley and Majerle are dominating the Sonics. In five playoff games, Barkley is averaging 24.4 points and 12.5 rebounds, while Majerle is averaging 19.6 points. Majerle is shooting 52 percent, including 18 of 34 in 3-point attempts for 67 percent, and Barkley is shooting 51 percent.

Bench-clearing brawl mars Jays-Angels game

By RICK WARNER
AP Sports Writer

First, there was the 10-cent beer fiasco in Cleveland. Then came the "Disco Demolition Night" riot in Chicago.

On Wednesday night, another baseball promotion turned into disaster.

Fans at Anaheim Stadium showered the field with souvenir baseballs during a wild game between California and Toronto that featured a bench-clearing brawl and the ejection of six players.

The Blue Jays won 7-6 behind a two-homer, five-RBI performance by Roberto Alomar. But Alomar's great game was overshadowed by an 18-minute melee resulting from a beanball exchange and the spectacle of fans throwing baseballs on the field in the sixth inning following a two-run homer by the Angels' Tim Salmon.

"I'm just glad nobody got hurt," said California outfielder Stan Javier, one of the ejected players. "It was hard to see who you hit when you have so many guys throwing punches."

After Salmon's homer cut Toronto's lead to 5-3, fans showered the field with red and blue baseballs that were given to everyone entering the ballpark.

About the same time, Chad Curtis - hit by a pitch earlier in the inning in apparent retaliation for brushbacks of Alomar and Joe Carter - came out of California's dugout to argue with Toronto third baseman Ed Sprague. That triggered a brawl in front of the stands near third base.

"I got the ball back from the umpire, I looked over and I thought, 'Holy cow, we're going at it,'" said Toronto pitcher Pat Hentgen. "It's funny because I thought, if we were going to go at it, he'd (Curtis) come out and get me right there."

As police tried to restore order, fans continued to pelt the field with baseballs. The situation got so bad that the stadium's public address announcer warned the crowd that the behavior could result in an Angels' forfeit.

"We didn't try to hit anybody," Angels manager Buck Rodgers said. "Alomar ran into an inside pitch on a bunt and we knocked Carter back. The intent wasn't there to hit anyone, but they thought it was and they retaliated."

Sprague was ejected along with two of his Toronto teammates, outfielder Darnell Coles and pitcher Mark Eichhorn. Three California players also were thrown out: Javier, Curtis and second baseman Damion Easley.

In 1974, Cleveland had to forfeit a game to Texas when fans drinking 10-cent beer at Municipal Stadium got out of control.

Five years later, fans overran the field at Comiskey Park during an anti-disco demonstration between games of a Chicago-Detroit doubleheader. The White Sox had to forfeit the second game because the field was damaged.

Twins 6, Rangers 3
At Minneapolis, Minnesota hit three homers, including a three-run blast by Mike Pagliarulo. Brian Harper and David McCarty homered for the Twins in the sixth inning. Willie Banks (5-2) left the game with tightness in his right shoulder after escaping a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the fifth inning.

Roger Pavlik (1-2) took the loss for the Rangers.

Orioles 5, Athletics 2

At Oakland, Fernando Valenzuela allowed one earned run in 6 1-3 innings to pick up his second victory of the season. Valenzuela (2-5) checked the A's on five hits. He walked four and struck out five.

The Orioles benefited from a two-run throwing error by Oakland catcher Terry Steinbach during a four-run outburst in the fifth. Bobby Witt (5-3) was the loser.

Mariners 6, Brewers 3

At Seattle, Dave Valle hit a game-tying homer in the seventh inning and added a two-run single in the eighth. The Brewers took a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh when Valle's throw to third base hit runner Bill Spiers on the helmet and bounced into left field, allowing two runs to score. But Valle came back to tie it in the seventh with a solo homer off Cal Eldred (6-6). Jeff Nelson (2-1) was the winner in relief.

Royals 7, Red Sox 2

At Boston, Brian McRae went 4 for 5 with four RBIs and led an 11-hit assault on Roger Clemens, (6-5).

Kevin Appier (6-4) won, allowing six hits in eight innings. Clemens lasted only six innings.

White Sox 10, Tigers 1

At Detroit, Ron Karkovice hit two homers, including a grand slam. Joey Cora hit his first major league homer and Jason Bere won his first game.

Bere (1-1) held the Tigers to four hits and one run in five innings. Mike Moore (3-2) is 0-7 in his last eight starts against the White Sox.

Yankees 8, Indians 5

At New York, Mike Humphreys' first major league home run capped a seven-run fifth inning for New York and Matt Young lost his 14th straight decision.

Jimmy Key (6-2) gave up eight hits and five runs before departing in the Indians' four-run eighth, which included Albert Belle's 18th homer. Young (0-4) allowed four runs in 4 1-3 innings.

Bench comes through for Phillies

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies are getting big hits from just about everyone this season.

Kim Batiste and Todd Pratt, who entered Wednesday night's game with one homer between them this year, each hit solo homers to help Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 5-2 at Riverfront Stadium.

"That was a big game for the young shortstop, an outstanding game," Phillies manager Jim Fregosi said of Batiste, the Phillies' regular shortstop for now.

"Yeah, that makes me feel more like a part of the club," said Batiste, who has two homers this season. "I always tried to get in the mix of things, to stay active. But it was more of a sit back, wait and be patient kind of thing."

The first-place Phillies took two of three in the series and have won five of their last six games.

"They do everything right," Reds loser John Smiley (2-7) said. "You throw them one bad fastball, one bad curveball, and they're sitting on it."

Ben Rivera (4-2) scattered eight hits, walked two and struck out a career-high nine in eight-plus innings. Mitch Williams got the final three outs for his 16th save.

Batiste homered on the first pitch from Smiley in the third inning to give Philadelphia the lead.

Astros 5, Expos 4

Eric Anthony's slowbases-loaded grounder was bobbed for an error by first baseman John Vander Wal, allowing the winning run to score in the ninth inning and lifting Houston over visiting Montreal.

Montreal tied the score in the top of the inning on Frank Bolick's RBI single off Doug Jones (3-4), who blew a save for the third time in 14 chances.

Reliever Mel Rojas fell to 1-4.

Giants 3, Marlins 2

Will Clark hit a two-run homer and John Burkett became the major league's first eight-game winner this season as San Francisco beat Florida at Joe Robbie Stadium.

Clark's third homer of the season barely cleared the right-field fence in the opening inning against Jack Armstrong (4-5).

Burkett (8-1) gave up nine hits, walked one and hit a batter in six innings.

Mets 11, Cubs 3

Dwight Gooden (6-4) improved to 25-4 lifetime against Chicago and New York hit three homers in a seven-run fourth inning as the Mets beat the Cubs at Wrigley Field. Todd Hundley, Bobby Bonilla and Chico Walker each hit homers in the fourth.

Frank Castillo (1-3) gave up seven runs on 10 hits in 3 2-3 innings.

Pirates 5, Rockies 3

Orlando Merced doubled home the go-ahead run in the ninth inning as Pittsburgh beat Colorado before a crowd of 50,122 at Mile High Stadium.

Merced made a pinch hit appearance in the seventh inning and stayed in the game. With runners on first and third and one out in the ninth, he drove a pitch from Jeff Parrett (0-2) into the gap for the go-ahead run. Kevin Young added a sacrifice fly.

Aggies glad to finally be in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - That big wind that hit Omaha Sunday may have started in College Station, Texas, where a collective sigh of relief followed Texas A&M's efforts to return to the College World Series.

The second-ranked Aggies, considered among the nation's best Division I baseball teams in recent seasons, made it back to the national tournament in Omaha for the first time since 1964.

The Aggies (52-9) also drew the No. 1 seed in the tournament and open the 1993 championship Friday against eighth-seeded and first-time qualifier Kansas (45-16) at 3:06 p.m. No. 4-seed Long Beach State (43-17) faces No. 5-seed LSU (49-16-1) at 6:36 p.m.

Saturday's Bracket Two pairings match No. 2-seed Arizona State (46-18) and No. 7-seed Wichita State (55-16) at 12:06 p.m., and No. 3-seed Texas (50-14) with No. 6-seed Oklahoma State (43-15) at 6:36 p.m.

A&M had fallen short of qualifying for the NCAA championship by the closest of margins in four of the last six years.

"We've been in situations where we've been in regional finals four of the last six years," said coach Mark Johnson. "We have played well in the final ball game but just haven't been able to get it punched out, so this is real exciting. It kind of gets us over a hump, at least for one year, and let's us experience something that we've gotten very close to getting to without being able to make it."

There have been several seasons when Johnson's club was considered a cinch heading into regional play. The 1989 team was one of them.

"We were ranked No. 1 the entire year and we won the NCAA winning percentage deal," Johnson recalled. "And we did everything but make it."

A&M was beaten in the district finals by an LSU team headed by soon-to-be No. 1 major league draft pick Ben McDonald. It took the Tigers extra innings to sideline the Aggies.

"That was a real heartbreaker for our people," Johnson said. "Last year we were at Florida and took a 2-2 game into the final inning against Berkley and lost to them. There's been quite a few little stories along the way."

Johnson said now that the qualifying has been accomplished, his Aggies won't be happy just to come to Omaha.

"We don't get a chance to come to Omaha very often and we've been invited to a party where we are going to dance," Johnson said. "We're going to be pretty good participants." Johnson said A&M played well in the regionals and has momentum coming to Omaha.

"We have some tangible evidence," he said of measuring the quality of his team. "We have our won-loss record. We won the Southwest Conference title, and we're very proud of this conference. We kind of believe this conference is one of the top ones or maybe the top one."

"And we did well in our regional tournament here. So I think there's some feeling that we might belong on that (CWS) court."

Texas coach Cliff Gustafson would go along with that. Gustafson, whose Longhorns qualified for a record 27th time for the CWS, said he believes A&M is the team to beat with its pitching and hitting.

Johnson said he has a trio of left-handed starters - Jeff Granger, Trey Moore and Kelly Wunsch - who he calls "a pretty good dynamic trio."

"Jeff Granger is going to be a high-round draft choice. He's a winner," Johnson said. "And we have three other guys who throw from the right side who have done a pretty good job for us. They have high-velocity stuff."

After scoring in double figures in every regional game, the Aggies coach said the offense is rolling, too.

"We really felt good about our attack this weekend," Johnson said. "We hit over .315 all year and we feel pretty good about that. But I'd have to say pitching has been our strength all year. They've kept us in every game and given us a chance to win. That's what's made the difference."

Oilers won't trade for Marshall

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers say they have decided not to pursue a much-discussed trade for Washington Redskins linebacker Wilber Marshall, while the player's agent says Marshall has already signed.

Oilers spokesman Chip Namias said the team notified the Redskins and Marshall's agent, Richard Bennett, of their decision Wednesday night.

"This particular deal is dead," Namias said. "We've decided that we don't want to pursue the trade because we don't want to give the Redskins a first- and fifth-round draft choice for him."

However, he said Oilers president and owner Bud Adams left the door open to resuming negotiations.

Bennett said Adams cannot withdraw his contract offer because Marshall has accepted in writing the Oilers' offer of a one-year, $2.75 million contract.

"I'm pleased we've come to an agreement with the Oilers on the contract," Bennett said early today. "We accepted their offer, and it's a contract. The offer was not withdrawn prior to acceptance. He can't withdraw it. He can repudiate it, but we have a contract."

New UH coach reminds some of Bum Phillips

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Witnessing Kim Helton take over the football program at the University of Houston is like a repeat viewing of True Grit. He says he's Kim Helton and once coached the offensive line for the Houston Oilers, Tampa Bay and Miami and now he's ready to test his head coaching bloodline by shaping up the forelorn little Cougar doggies. But there seems to be some kind of reincarnation going on here. Helton's manner is more like John Wayne, clenching his horse's reins between his teeth so as to hold a weapon in each hand, charging across an open field with guns blazing at the bad guys, in this case the Aggies and Longhorns. And he's Bum Phillips all over again.

Soon, we'll be repeating Kimisms just as we did Bumisms. Will it be "The road to the Cotton Bowl runs through College Station?" Or, "Last year, we knocked on The Tower, this year we'll kick the Longhorns out of Austin." Helton won't have to steal Bum's material. He has that same square-jawed, look-you-in-the-eye appeal doused with tobacco-juiced humor. But he's an original. "We want a defensive football team that will be so aggressive, so tough and so ugly that only a few parents and myself are going to love them," Helton said. "You're going to be ugly if you play defense on THIS football team." Yep, he's going to be inspiring. Just listening made you want to spike your tape recorder and charge a photographer.

Helton doesn't talk with a suave business approach about computer searches to find the state's top talent. He wants to "throw a rope around a 150-mile radius of Houston" and lasso all the top players. The man wore a suit to his inauguration last week, but don't expect to see him on the cover of GQ any time soon. He looked like so many rough-cut oak logs bound together with a tie and stuffed into a suit. He came from humble beginnings and admits to being a bit abrasive on occasion. Yeah, like Patton. "I grew up in a poor family and, thank God, in an all-black neighborhood," Helton said. "For me, it was the biggest advantage that ever happened to me because I found out there wasn't any difference between us and it took a lot of other people 50 years to figure that out." Helton strode proudly out of that neighborhood onto the playing fields around his native Pensacola, Fla. "My floors were always clean and the Bible was in our house," he said. "We were dirt poor, but I tell you we were as honorable, hard-nosed people as you'd ever want to be associated with." The hard edge of his childhood gave Helton a blunt philosophy. "I'm dirt-road smart and abrasive at times, but my heart is genuine and my word is good and I love big, tough, ugly men," he said. Helton and his wife Pam have two sons, both quarterbacks, Clay, 20, and Tyson, 15. "My hard times were in my young life," Helton said. "My good times got started when I got an opportunity to marry a lady that put my life in order." "She's been able to redirect some of the country boy attitude and improper speech and some of my inability to communicate as calmly and nicely as I should at times," he said. "Once I got married, my life got easy." Life is about to get harder as Helton takes on the task of trying to rekindle interest in the floundering Houston football program, hit by months of criticism over alleged NCAA violations by former coach John Jenkins. Helton helped build Miami into a college power as the Hurricane offensive coordinator and line coach from 1979-82. Now he's ready to rebuild again as head coach. Nasty charges of naked women cavorting on training film, illegal summer practices and suggestions of illegal payments won't be easy to erase. Does that make Helton flinch? Would the Duke retreat from the fast charge at the Alamo? "I helped build a football program at the University of Miami that they said was dead, 7,000 people in the stands," Helton said. "No way, they said, will this football program ever rebound." "It was in far worse shape than this one. This football team is alive and absolutely ready to burst at the seams." "I have the knowledge to do it and the want to so bad that even if I'm dumb about it, it will still work out. That's what we're talking about." The original urge here was to offer Helton condolences for falling into the swamp. He doesn't seem to want pity so, heck, let's give him a chance.

Cowboys to get dazzling rings

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - "Cram it with diamonds," Jimmy Johnson ordered. It was. The Dallas Cowboys unique Super Bowl XXVII championship ring is a gaudy thing with a dazzling five-point star shaped diamond measuring six millimeters in the middle and 54 other diamonds jammed around it. It's made with almost three ounces of gold with the score of the Super Bowl victory over Buffalo, the season record, the NFL and Rose Bowl logos, and the name of the player. "This ring is priceless," said owner Jerry Jones. "There is no way you can put value on this ring." The ring designed and created by Balfour cost about $7,500. Jones said the NFL chips in some $400,000 for rings to the Super Bowl champions but the Cowboys far exceeded that budget. "We bought about 112 rings and every player, including the practice squad players got one, along with the coaching staff and the front office staff," Jones said. Jones now has an Arkansas national college football championship ring and a Super Bowl ring. Johnson has a national college football championship ring from Arkansas, a national college football title ring as a coach at the University of Miami, and a Super Bowl ring. Johnson is the only person to be the winning coach in a national championship college game and a Super Bowl. "The only time I'm going to take my Cowboys ring off is when I'm sleeping or swimming," Johnson said. "I'll wear my Miami ring on occasion. I'll keep my Arkansas ring in a safety deposit box." Johnson and Jones decided on the design of the ring on the way back from Pasadena and the 52-17 victory over the Bills. "I didn't want any metal showing," Johnson said. "If you see this thing in the sunlight it will knock your eyes out. Michael Irvin is going to love it. He likes a lot of diamonds."

It's time for fun!

Members of the Hereford Kiwanis Club hosted their annual picnic recently at Dameron Park for the Stanton pre-kindergarten classes. Kiwanis members have adopted the school as part of their Major Emphasis Program. Members read to the students and held several special events throughout the school year.

White elephant sale held by Bud to Blossom members

A white elephant sale was conducted by members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club when the group met recently for their final meeting of the club year at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Also, after the luncheon, members exchanged plants and seeds.

Roll call was answered by members naming a garden problem they had and Patricia Robinson reported that the club's recent annual plant sale held at Sugarland Mall was successful.

Members discussed a centerpiece which they furnished for the Pioneer Day celebration.

Club President Phyllis Brown reminded the group that June 6-12 has been designated as National Garden Week.

The program was brought by Van Earl Hughes, master gardener from Dimmitt. He discussed the members' individual garden problems and how to solve them.

Those present were Lou Hall, Natha Carroll, Wilma Bryan, Mildred Fuhrmann, Patricia Robinson, Brown and Hughes.

Aprons for junior chefs

Our kitchen, though the smallest room in our old house, is the epicenter of family activity. There you'll find us sculpting a relief map made with flour, salt and water for a fourth-grade geography project, or doing a science experiment, or preparing super delicious French toast from a new cookbook. My kids love to hang out in the kitchen.

Of course, when it comes to doing the dishes, wiping out the microwave or sweeping the floor, they are nowhere to be found. It's just me and the dog staring at each other amidst the post-project chaos.

When your kitchen is whirling and buzzing with activity, here's a quick and easy idea for making no-sew aprons junior chefs will enjoy. Not only will the aprons protect clothing, but your kids will feel important in their official kitchen attire. Who knows, they may even join the cleanup crew!

Here's how to make aprons in a flash:

-Purchase an inexpensive, colorful kitchen hand towel approximately 15x24 inches. You'll find a variety of designs and fabrics at variety and discount stores.

-Lay the towel flat on a counter wrong side up. Attach one-inch squares of adhesive-backed Velcro at the top two corners of the towel. Affix the Velcro matching squares to a 20-inch length of grosgrain ribbon. For extra strength, stitch the Velcro in place.

-Attach the ribbon to the towel where the Velcro pieces meet and the apron is complete. Place the apron over the child's head.

Hang a special hook at your child's height on your kitchen door or wall to store the apron when not in use.

Former resident graduates

Former Hereford resident, Dana Jean Zimmerman, graduated May 22 from the Mercer School of Law in Macon, Ga.

She was admitted into membership of the Georgia Bar in February. She received a B.A. degree in economics from the University of North Carolina in Asheville, N.C. in 1988.

Miss Zimmerman is the daughter of former residents, Dr. and Mrs. Ron Zimmerman of Amarillo, and is the granddaughter of Hazel Ford of Hereford and Mr. and Mrs. Don Zimmerman of Kerrville.

Professional basketball was launched in 1898 by two leagues, the National and the New England. Players in the latter were paid $150 to $225 a month. Both leagues disappeared after two seasons.

"Cleopatra's Needles" are two Egyptian obelisks, originally set up at Heliopolis about 1500 B.C. One now stands on the Thames Embankment in London, the other is behind the south wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

by purchasing accessories. They reported what is fashionable this year and the newest colors for spring and summer. They also suggested giving unwanted clothing to organizations such as the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross and Family Services.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a child molester. You would never pick me out in a crowd. I look just like everyone else. I could be your next door neighbor, your best friend, even your sister or brother. I do everything in my power to disguise my identity. There is no way you would know I take advantage of children unless I told you.

I am currently undergoing treatment. Until I went to get professional help, I had no idea how much pain and suffering I had caused. I was totally ignorant of the damage I had done. The pain I was responsible for does not go away quickly. It can last throughout the victim's lifetime.

I am a sex offender and I will be a sex offender for the rest of my life. I cannot control my impulses. When you leave a child alone with me, you are leaving the door open for me to molest again. I do not need a motive. I HAVE a motive. It is simply to satisfy my warped sexual urges. What I need is an opportunity. When you leave a child alone with me you are giving me that opportunity.

To keep your children at minimal risk with a person like me, first and foremost, NEVER leave your children alone with a sex offender no matter how hard he tries to convince you that he is "cured." There is no such thing as a "cured" child molester. Keep your eyes open for anyone who seems to be overly attentive to your child or is treating him or her to special favors. Do not allow your child to go for a ride or anywhere else with that person. We are a very smooth bunch and are masters of concealing our identity. Beware.—Mr. Anonymous From Anywhere

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Thank you for one of the most important letters that has ever appeared in this space. I am enormously grateful to you for your honesty. You've done a very generous deed today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While waiting in the car for my husband who had gone into the pharmacy to pick up a prescription, I noticed a man lying flat on his back on the pavement. A small group of people formed to look at this poor guy, but no one did anything to help him.

I got out of the car and asked if anyone knew who the man was. A woman spoke up, saying, "He's my boyfriend." When I offered to call an ambulance, she became annoyed and said, "No ambulance is necessary. This is no big deal. He goes through this sort of thing about six times a day. It's an epileptic seizure. Nothing serious."

I was absolutely shocked by the woman's indifference and replied, "Since you aren't concerned, I guess no one else should be." As I walked back to the car, she ran after me and shouted, "Buttinskies like you make me sick. There is nothing wrong with this man. He snaps out of these seizures in a few minutes. His mind is a lot better than yours."

I walked away wondering what kind of "friend" would let this man have six epileptic seizures a day without taking him to a hospital to get checked out. With a jackass like her for a friend, he could die on the street. Will you please comment?—Concerned and Baffled in Orlando

DEAR ORLANDO: Unfortunately, that "jackass" has a lot of company. Too many people fail to understand that ignoring seizures can be extremely dangerous.

Anyone interested in more information should contact the Epilepsy Foundation of America, 4351 Garden City Dr., Landover, Md., 20785, or call 1-800-EFA-1000.

104 spellers exit in early rounds of 66th National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) - Maneuvering through such words as "carphogous," "imparisyllabic" and "slobberhannes," 131 youngsters have advanced through the early rounds of the 66th National Spelling Bee.

However, the words "trypanosome," "marotte," "lamentable" and "arrears" spelled doom for four Texas youths who were among 104 to fall by the wayside after Wednesday's first day of competition.

During the first two rounds, spellers from across the country were tested from a list of more than 1,200 words they had been given to study. Succeeding rounds were of words not provided in advance.

Sixty-three were eliminated in the first round, including Vanessa Valero, 12, of Laredo, Texas, who stumbled on "trypanosome" and Brian Franklin, 10, of Odessa, Texas, who failed to spell "marotte."

No Texans were among the 11 second-round casualties.

As the third round began in late afternoon, 161 youngsters remained in competition. The words seemed to become easier with the final round of the day, but 30 more spellers fell.

Samantha Levine, 12, of Brooklyn, N.Y., had no trouble with "vegetarian," but Nathan Netravali, 10, of Ithaca, N.Y., slipped on "anchovy."

Jeffrey Brown, 12, of Port Lavaca, Texas, was winnowed out on "lamentable" and Huntley Mary Tarrant, 13, of Kerrville, Texas, exited on "arrears."

The remaining field was to be narrowed further today with a champion expected to emerge by late afternoon.

Among the early-round survivors was Jennifer Cheng, 9, of Easton, Pa., one of the two youngest competitors. She handled the word "entomogeous" easily in the first round and then tackled "alluviation" without a pause.

Also an accomplished pianist, Jennifer admitted to being nervous and said she would much rather be making music. But she added, "I'm having fun."

The contestants ranged in age from 9 to 15 and included 43 youngsters who had been to the national competition before.

Among the veterans was Taylor West, 14, of Altavista, Va., who was making her fourth appearance. She handled "imparisyllabic" with ease and then barely paused by spelling "pleonasm."

Robin Hart Smith, 11, who said he studied more than an hour a night to prepare for the competition, spelled "pultaceous" in the first round and then told reporters during intermission it was "as simple as pie."

Each of the 131 girls and 104 boys who began the competition, which is sponsored by Scripps Howard Newspapers in conjunction with 225 individual newspapers, reached the national competition after winning local spelling contests.

The contestants came from 49 states with sponsoring newspapers, as well from Guam, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the District of Columbia and Mexico. One contestant, the daughter of a U.S. serviceman, came from Germany.

Tears flowed freely in the hotel hallway as the children walked off stage, having misspelled words many in the audience couldn't pronounce.

FDA banning pills, gums, other potions used to quit smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government is banning over-the-counter pills, gums and other potions intended to help people quit smoking.

None is effective in helping smokers quit or even reduce their smoking, the Food and Drug Administration said Wednesday.

The products include pills, tablets, lozenges and chewing gums sold under such brand names as Cigarrest, Bantron, Tabmint and Nikoban in what one industry executive estimated as a $60 million market.

The FDA said it will ban new shipments of the non-prescription products Dec. 1, but allow sales to continue until the supplies are exhausted.

The ban does not affect smoking-cessation products sold by prescription only, including Nicorette gum and nicotine patches.

Scott Ballin, American Heart Association vice president for public affairs, welcomed the government move, saying, "Gimmicky products that have not been proven safe and effective should not be allowed on the market."

But Ballin said, "They need to go after the product that's causing all the disease and death - tobacco. ... The tobacco industry continues to get away with marketing and promotion of products that cause 430,000 deaths a year."

The FDA, by law, has no jurisdiction over cigarettes and other tobacco products.

FDA Commissioner David A. Kessler said, "Smoking is one of the nation's leading public health risks, and we favor any safe and effective method for helping people kick the habit. However, to reduce smoking-related illnesses and deaths, smoking deterrents have to work."

The FDA ban has been 11 years in the making. The agency said studies had failed to demonstrate that two of the main ingredients in the over-the-counter products - lobeline sulfate and silver acetate - actually worked.

The industry reaction was mixed. Jim Stapleton, executive vice president of Advantage Life Products, the maker of Cigarrest, the leading seller, said Cigarrest was "a self-help, stop-smoking product of which lobeline sulfate is a small component. ... We agree with the FDA that lobeline sulfate itself will not make anyone stop smoking."

The Laguna Hills, Calif., company packages Cigarrest tablets with a behavioral modification audio cassette, manual and vitamins that retail for $19.95. It also sells Cigarrest gum in separate packages.

Stapleton said his company actually sold the license to Cigarrest to Regal Communications of Fort Washington, Pa., four months ago, but was working on alternative ingredients.

Rules given on new family-leave bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department today announced regulations, effective Aug. 5, implementing a new law that provides about 40 percent of American workers with unpaid leave for family emergencies.

President Clinton signed the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 on Feb. 5, 16 days after taking office. Former President Bush twice vetoed similar measures.

The law provides for up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave for workers to care for newborn or adopted children within 12 months of the birth or adoption, to cope with serious illness of family members or for those employees whose health condition prevents them from performing their jobs.

The Labor Department issued the 94 pages of regulations after seeking public comment on March 10 on how to implement the new law, the first major social legislation of the Clinton administration.

The regulations require companies that employ at least 50 workers within a 75-mile radius to provide unpaid leave if the employees have worked for at least 12 months and for at least 1,250 hours during the year preceding the start of the leave, or about 25 hours a week.

The regulations also say that under certain conditions and at either the employee or employer option, accrued paid leave such as vacations can be substituted for unpaid leave.

At the end of the leave, the law guarantees employees their old jobs, or "an equivalent position."

The regulations also require the employee to be restored to the same work site and the same shift or schedule.

Although the law provides for no compensation for the leave, including unemployment benefits, it does require employers to continue paying health care premiums.

But if an employee does not return to work after the leave period, the employer has the right in most cases to recover the cost of providing medical benefits during the absence.

Employers also can exempt key salaried employees who are among the highest paid 10 percent if needed to prevent "substantial and grievous" economic harm.

The regulations also spell out conditions for taking intermittent leave or working a reduced leave schedule to reduce the usual number of hours per day or work week. Such schedules would be subject to employer approval unless medically necessary.

When the leave is "foreseeable," such as for childbirth, the employee must give 30 days' advance notice, the regulations say. They also permit companies to require medical certification to support leave requests.
