Schools seeking alternative ways to pray without using clergy during graduation

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling last year banned clergy from leading devotions at graduations but has led to an emotional tug of war over whether student-led prayers are a

And when a class valedictorian included a prayer in his speech at a Robertson County, Tenn., high school, the crowd joined in, then gave the boy a standing ovation.

But in Wellsville, Kan., high school officials canceled plans for a graduation invocation and benediction after the American Civil Liberties Union threatened to sue. Just down the highway in Emporia, the national anthem was sung after this year's graduation procession, a time reserved for prayer in past years.

On Friday, a federal judge granted the Iowa Civil Liberties Union a temporary restraining order blocking two school districts from allowing student-led prayers, although students voted 105-10 in favor of prayers.

But Jay Sekulow, legal counsel for religious broadcaster Pat Robertson's American Center for Law and Justice. said the courts have ruled there is a difference between school-sponsored prayer and student-initiated prayer.

On May 21, U.S. District Judge Harold L. Ryan in Boise, Idaho, ruled that allowing students to decide whether to include prayer in graduation ceremonies was constitutional. Student-led prayers also were held constitutional in November by the 5th petition to include "a tasteful can't carve out part of a ceremony for U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New

"It's returning some sanity to the school prayer issue by protecting student free-speech rights," Sekulow

School districts, which are getting mailings from the ACLU and Robertson's group, have responded in a variety of ways.

In Berlin, N.H., high school Principal Bruce MacKay said an invocation was dropped from this year's graduation.

New effort planned on trade agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) - President and since that time U.S. negotiators Clinton says his administration is prepared to make extraordinary efforts to complete a long-delayed global free trade agreement that promises a badly needed boost to the world economy.

Economists forecast that a successful conclusion to talks among 112 countries could add more than $1 trillion to world output over the next five years by lowering tariffs and other barriers to trade in goods and services. Lured by that prospect, the Clinton administration is trying to reinvigorate the lagging discussions, known as the Uruguay Round for the country where they began in 1986.

Clinton told America's major trading partners in early May that the United States was "willing to go the extra mile" to complete the round,

Handbook available to golfers

An informative handbook is helping golfers lower their handicap and raise their enjoyment of the game. Here are five of the tips which can be found in the Michelob Golf Magazine handbook distributed at Michelob beer displays.

-- Hitting from an elevated tee-Just remember the higher the tee, the less club you need. A good rule to follow is to use one less club for each five yards of elevation.

-Uphill lie - Always aim your shot to the right of the target. Stand slightly forward and balance your weight on both feet. Expect the ball to go higher than normal.

-Fringe shots - when using any lofted club, from a five iron to a wedge, when you're at the fringe of the green use a putting grip. Choke down on the handle but keep the club shaft verticle, with the heel of the club slightly raised. Remember to control the swing with your arms and shoulders, not wrists. Swing to carry the ball about a third of the way to the hole.

-Shooting from the rough -Remember to use more club, not more muscle. Aim to the right of target and expect an extra roll.

-Bunker shots - Plant your feet firmly in the sand, using an open stance. Line the ball up with the left heel and swing so the clubhead hits the sand two to four inches behind the ball. On your follow through, make sure your weight shifts to your left side.

Director Nicholas Hytner on Thursday called the play by Alan Bennett "fantastically humane." The play is about England's King George III, who went insane.

Hawthorne said he welcomed the chance to star in a play that features 23 characters:

Blue Sage A's take second in Amarillo

The Hereford Blue Sage A's took second place in the Class D division in the 10th Annual USSSA Silver Bullet Memorial Day Softball Tournament in Amarillo. The tourney finals were held Sunday at Amarillo's Southwest

The Lubbock Enforcers beat the A's twice to take the title, coming back from a 6-0 deficit to win 13-6 in the final game. Earlier, the Enforcers beaten the A's 14-6 in a battle of the only two undefeated teams left in the tournament. The A's had to come back through the losers' bracket. They pounded the Lubbock Gators 17-2 to set up the championship game. Roger Gaitan, co-manager of the A's, credited a two-week layoff with the team's good showing. 'We sure weren't expecting to get this far, but we are a solid team, and we're base-hitters," Gaitan said. "We got pepped up and had a lot of practice (during the layoff). Each hitter got a couple rounds and we got our base-hitting back."

Where the A's bats succeeded, their gloves failed them. The A's had three costly errors in the final game.

"We were hurting real bad as far as defense was concerned; we had two starters who didn't show up," Gaitan said. "We had to depend on the roster we had, and we put a lot of pressure on a few players: Ray Zuniga at shortstop, and Jesse Castaneda played real good second base."

The Blue Sage A's are sponsored by Jim Yeager and his band, Blue

Jordan's 54 points help tie series

By JOE MOOSHIL AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - Michael Jordan took matters into his own hands and shifted the growing pressure in this dynamic Eastern Conference final onto the muscular shoulders of the New York Knicks.

Firing mostly from long range, Jordan scored 54 points to lead the two-time champion Chicago Bulls to a 105-95 victory Monday that evened the best-of-7 series at two games

Now the scene shifts to New York, where the Knicks are faced with a must-win situation in Wednesday's game - just as the Bulls were after losing the first two games at Madison Square Garden.

Knicks coach Pat Riley was asked if the pressure is now on his team.

"Definitely," was his answer.

a number of shots. It was a dog fight

Despite Jordan's superb effort, the game was hanging in the balance with 2:09 remaining and the Knicks trailing 94-90.

Scottie Pippen made a basket while getting hammered by Anthony Mason and completed the three-point play for 97-90 lead. Another basket by Jordan sealed the decision.

"That put us in a comfort zone," The crowd in Chicago Stadium said Jackson. "A five-point or even was roaring with every shot as Jordan a six-point lead is still the danger hit on 18-of-30 from the field - zone. Scottie was met, checked and Patrick Ewing, who scored 24 points to share team-high honors with John Starks, called Pippen's shot 'Miraculous. Michael had a great game. But even though he scored 54 points, we were still in the game."

"Michael had a hot hand and a big game for us," said Pippen, who, like Jackson, doesn't like to see Jordan take over a game. "It's not that we don't want M.J. to get his points, but it makes it tough for others to get into the game and step it up when they have to."

Jackson made a concession to Jordan, who had 11 assists when he hit only three shots from the field Saturday.

"We told Michael that 10 assists are as good as 30 points," said Jackson, "but I don't know about 50, that's a little better.'

Jackson said one of the keys came including six three-pointers - after out of rhythm but he made the big midway in the fourth quarter when Jordan left the game with five fouls.

"That was a key three minutes, we made our stand and were able to hold off their surge," said Jackson. Riley agreed. "They had a seven-point lead when Jordan went out. Phil made a good substitution at the time. I think if we had been able to cut the lead then, Michael would have been back earlier."

Starks, who had the task of guarding Jordan, said "It wasn't tough. I was playing good defense. He was just knocking down the shot. He didn't really have a lot of uncontested shots. It's not frustrating. I'm looking at the score, not his points."

Starks opened the game with a 3-pointer and the Knicks took a 7-1 lead. But the Bulls tied it at 11. It was 21-all when Horace Grant and Pippen hit successive shots and the Knicks never saw the lead again.

PHOENIX (AP) - Seattle's rout of the Suns in Game 4 evened the best-of-7 Western Conference finals at 2-2. It also demoralized the Suns, who had seemed downright carefree after earlier playoff losses.

"I thought we gave up. We played a terrible game effort-wise, and it was the worst game we've played all year, as far as I'm concerned," Dan Majerle said.

The key to Seattle's 120-101 win was the play of the front line.

Derrick McKey and Shawn Kemp scored 20 points each, and Sam Perkins added 19. By contrast, the Sonics coach George Karl was reveling in his team's height court. advantage, and said the Suns can expect his team to try to take advantage inside again. One of the biggest mismatches is at small forward, where the 6-foot-10 McKey has been playing against small forwards Richard Dumas and Cedric Ceballos.

"We've won games this year with outside shooting, with pressure defense, and with our transition game," Karl said. "Now, it looks like we'll go inside a little more."

Following a spirited practice, Barkley repeated his contention that the Suns' Game 4 loss, however ugly, doesn't alter the fact the Sonics have to beat Phoenix again on its home

Sonics are 2-1 in their last three games at Phoenix.

The Suns' reliance on Barkley, the 1993 NBA MVP, is a weakness a balanced team can exploit, Karl said.

The distribution of talent makes Seattle difficult to double-team, McKey added.

Phillies blame umpire for start of Reds' rally

By BEN WALKER AP Baseball Writer

A few years ago, a feud between the Philadelphia Phillies and the umpires became so big that commissioner Fay Vincent had to Things have been pretty quiet between the Phillies and the umps since then, but that might change after what happened Monday night.

A balk call by plate umpire Bob Davidson touched off an eighth-inning rally that sent the Cincinnati Reds over Philadelphia 6-4, setting off a war of words.

"Bob is one of those impact umpires. It was an ESPN game and he couldn't wait to suit up. He was going to make an impact on the game one way or another," Phillies catcher Darren Daulton charged.

Daulton threw his mask after the balk call and was ejected. Manager Jim Fregosi also was tossed during the dispute.

Phillies pitching Johnny Podres was ejected earlier in the game for arguing balls-and-strikes.

Phillies pitcher Curt Schilling claimed that during an at-bat in the third inning, Davidson told him balls-and-strike calls were going against him because Daulton had been complaining. Davidson denied saying such a thing.

"I would never do that," Davidson said. "I've never ever done that, and I never will. I'm disappointed he would say something like that."

In 1990, the Phillies and the umps got into a big-time dispute after umpire "Cowboy" Joe West body-slammed pitcher Dennis Cook during a fight between the Phillies and Mets. That led to problems between the Phillies and the umpires and between National League president Bill White and the umpires' union. Eventually, Vincent played the peace-maker, and all sides seemed somewhat happy.

The truce, however, may be in jeopardy after what happened in the eighth inning at Riverfront Stadium. Reliever Larry Andersen (2-1) relieved Schilling with a 4-3 lead, and it slipped away. Randy Milligan drew a leadoff walk on four pitches and Reggie Sanders got an infield single.

Then Davidson, who calls more balks than most umpires, called a balk on Andersen. It was only the second balk this season by the Phillies, the lowest total in the league.

Joe Oliver followed with an RBI single that tied it. Reliever David West gave up a run-scoring single to Jeff Branson and walked Barry Larkin with the bases loaded.

Jeff Reardon (1-0) pitched out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the eighth. Rob Dibble escaped a bases-loaded, one-out situation in the ninth for his first save since coming off the disabled list Friday.

Astros 2, Expos 1

Third baseman Ken Caminiti made a diving catch on the last play to save the game for Houston at the Astrodome.

With two outs in the Montreal ninth, Wil Cordero doubled off Doug Jones (2-4). Pinch-hitter Frank Bolick followed with a soft fly into shallow left field that Caminiti caught with a headfirst dive.

Craig Biggio doubled twice for the Astros, and scored the go-ahead run in the eighth on Steve Finley's sacrifice fly. Mel Rojas (1-3) was the loser.

Rockies 6, Pirates 2

Armando Reynoso stopped Colorado's latest losing streak at four, pitching the Rockies past Pittsburgh at Mile High Stadium.

Reynoso (3-2) gave up nine hits and no earned runs in his third complete game. He struck out five and walked two. Tim Wakefield (3-5) gave up 10 hits and five runs in five innings.

Andres Galarraga, who went 3-for-4, and Alex Cole each drove in two runs.

Braves 2, Padres 1

Greg Maddux got his 100th career Dodgers 5, Cardinals 1 victory when Damon Berryhill doubled home the winning run in the ninth inning at Atlanta.

Maddux (5-4) pitched a five-hitter, struck out seven and walked four. San Diego starter Wally Whitehurst allowed one run in six innings. In the ninth, Sid Bream led off with a double against Roger Mason (0-2) and Berryhill followed with a double to the wall in right-center.

Tom Candiotti pitched a four-hitter and Los Angeles won in St. Louis. Candiotti (3-4) struck out six and walked three. The Cardinals spoiled his shutout in the ninth on Ray Lankford's sacrifice fly.

Cory Snyder hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning off Bob Tewksbury

Mets 9, Cubs 5

Bobby Bonilla homered for the fourth time in three days to lead the Mets over the Cubs at Wrigley Field.

Howard Johnson hit a bases-loaded triple and Todd Hundley homered during a five-run fifth inning for the

But Texas coach Cliff Gustafson could barely contain the joy of a 3-2 victory Monday over Southern California, giving the Longhorns their record 27th trip to the College World

Gustafson's excitement may have been provoked by the exciting way the Longhorns won - with two runs in the top of the ninth capped by a perfect inning of relief from regional Most Valuable Player Brooks Kieschnick.

"I don't know how you can ask for more," said Gustafson, who'll be making his 17th trip to Omaha, Nebraska, in search of a title. He has won two national championships, in 1975 and 1983.

'I am as excited about this win as I have about any of them. This may be one of the sweetest. Brooks is one

The victory allowed the Longhorns to join arch-rival Texas A&M among the final eight teams vying for the national championship. It's the first time since Texas and Arkansas reached the CWS in 1989 that the Southwest Conference has had two representatives.

Southern California, which was bidding for its 18th trip to Omaha, entered the ninth inning leading 2-1 Monday.

Trojans starter Tony Nieto (8-5) hit Jerry Taylor with a pitch with one out. Taylor scored on a double by pinch-hitter Jeff Conway.

Tim Harkrider singled off Nieto to put runners at first and third. After a flyout, Mark Prather's single to right field drove in the winning run.

"I'm very, very, very disappointed," said USC coach Mike Gillespie. "You have to attribute it to bad luck for us."

But before the team spilled out of the dugout following the final out, A&M coach Mark Johnson made sure Granger got a personalized tribute from the hometown fans.

Johnson lifted Granger with two outs in the seventh and the crowd responded with a standing ovation from the sellout crowd of 5,387.

Granger entered the dugout, but came back out to face the cheers and doff his cap.

"I was holding back the tears," said Granger, the tournament's Most Valuable Player. "This isn't the final piece of the puzzle, but it's been a big piece missing in my life. I wanted to bring A&M to Omaha."

birdie putt to close to within one. Allem, needing a par-saving effort to avoid a playoff, got the 5-footer just in the right lip.

Farrell, who gave up both of Olerud's homers. "Olerud swung the bat three times today and hit the ball a total of about 1,200 feet."

The last two players to really get serious about hitting .400 were Rod Carew (.388) in 1977 and George Brett (.390) in 1980. Ted Williams did it last, hitting .406 in 1941.

Olerud has nine homers this season all on the road.

"I can't go up there and try to hit a line," Olerud said. "Today, I got good pitches to hit and the trajectory of the drives was good.'

Roberto Alomar, Pat Borders and Ed Sprague also homered for Toronto. On Sunday, the Blue Jays hit three home runs, including drives by Olerud and Sprague, in beating Oakland 13-11.

Hereford siblings are cheerleaders

Barrientez and her brother, junior Rudy, are among eight cheerleaders recently selected for the 1993-94 season at Wayland Baptist University.

Cheerleaders and the school mascot, Pioneer Pete, were selected following tryouts conducted recently. Joe Provence is cheerleader sponsor.

Jeannie and Rudy Barrientez, believed to be the first brother-sister cheerleading team at Wayland, are the children of Rudolfo "Rudy" Barrientez of Hereford and Elida Navarro of Lubbock. Rudy, in his third year as a Wayland cheerleader, is a two-time winner of the Spirit Award and has also been named cheerleader MVP. Jeannie is a former cheerleader at Hereford High School.

Joining the Hereford pair on the 1993-94 squad are senior Jenni Gast, junior Robert Snelling, freshman Andrea Landry, freshman Allison Wilson, junior William Carson, and freshman Ty Witte. sophomore Ben McClenagan was selected as Pioneer

Gast, a former High School All-American, is the daughter of Keith and Becky Gast of Cotton Center. In her fourth year as a Wayland cheerleader, gast was a four-year nominee for High School All-American and is an instructor for National Cheerleader Association. She was co-head cheerleader at WBU last year.

Snelling, son of Wayne and Sandra the son of Dean and Snelling, 7005 W. 12th, is new to McClenagan of Gruver.

Hereford freshman Jeannie cheerleading but following in the steps of his father, a cheerleader at West Texas State University, and his sister, Sydney, who cheered at Plainview High School for three years at Wayland.

Landry, daughter of Roger and Sally Landry of Greene, Maine, was a three-time High School All-American and All-Star Cheerleader in four years on the Leavitt Area High School squad.

Wilson, daughter of Floyd and Linda Wilson of Lubbock, was a cheerleader for five years at Lubbock christian HIgh School, where she was High School All-American and instructor for National Cheerleader Association.

Carson, son of Dewayne and Lila Carson of Cannon Air Force Base, was a cheerleader for two years at Clovis, New Mexico, High School before coming to Wayland, where he will begin his third year as a squad

Witte, son of Walter and Patricia Witte of Wasilla, Alaska, was a member of the Alaska high school cheerleading championship team while at Wasilla High School. Son of Walter and Patricia Witte of Wasilla, Ty also cheered one year at Tucson, Arizona, High School.

McClenagan will accompany the Wayland squad as Pioneer Pete. He is the son of Dean and Rosalynn

Lapidary club views new library video

"Morning Chores--Farm Days" was the video shown by Lurline Cawthon when members of the Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club met recently in the Deaf Smith County Library. The new video was furnished by the library.

President Dale Henson conducted the business meeting and Ruth King gave the treasurer's report. Also, plans were made for the club's annual ice cream social which will be held in the home of Jack and Helen

The group decided to take a trip to Buffalo Lake Refuge Sunday, June 6, to view the dam and spillway.

It was announced that the Rock and Gem Show in Lubbock has been scheduled June 13-14.

Ruth King won the door prize which was furnished by Bert Brown.

Hosts for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Roberson and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Henson. Present were Messrs, and Mmes. Jack Nunley, Ezell Sadler and Bud Cawthon. Also, L.D. Combs, Thama Pearson, Ruth King, Bert Brown and Joe Williams.

Tips for reducing clutter

If you're like many Americans, you're probably fighting the battle of the bulge - the bulging closet, that is! From the kitchen cabinet to the bathroom, many folks are in constant search of more storage space. Here are some tips to help reduce clutter and save space in your home:

Bathroom:

Bedroom:

-Store shampoo and conditioner on a shower head rack instead of on the sides of the bath.

-Get rid of old makeup and expired medications. These small items can take up a lot of valuable space.

-Purchase space-saving products for your storage closets. Laundry detergents and bathroom tissue now come in compact sizes.

-Make use of the space above the toilet by adding a shelf to store bath soaps, lotions or handtowels.

-If you have a pedestal sink, you can easily create some extra storage space by attaching a fabric skirt around the base of the sink.

using under-the-bed space for storing out-of-season clothes. -Take the wear-date test: If you haven't worn an article of clothing for a long time - at least two years - give it to someone who will.

kitchen: -Store appliances you don't use on a daily basis. Keep only the ones you do use on the counter. -Store cooking products you use nost often in the front of cupboards for easy access and avoid the "search" the next time you venture into the cupboard.

On June 24, 1497, the first recorded discovery of North America took place as explorer John Cabot, on a voyage for England, sighted land, probably in present-day Canada.

First impressions help job-seeking graduates

While final exams and term papers are never easy, new graduates may be facing their toughest test of all finding a job.

With today's job market tighter than ever, graduates should not overlook the elementary ABCs of searching for employment. One basic tip to remember is the importance of first impressions.

Unfortunately, most initial impressions don't occur in person during a job application process. Instead, speaking on behalf of graduates are resumes, cover letters promptly. and, these days, answering machines.

"An answering machine can be a vital tool for job seekers, since it allows them to go out and network without missing calls from potential employers," says Jim Oblak, vice president of marketing for PhoneMate. "That's why it's so important to record a professional-sounding greeting when seeking employment.

When preparing an outgoing message, Oblak advises against using music, jokes or impersonations. Friends may find such creativity amusing, but a potential employer may not appreciate the same humor.

Also, try to keep greetings short, Oblak says, since employers often call many candidates and don't have time to listen to long recordings.

Simply state your phone number and politely request a message, and keep background noise to a minimum.

With the advanced features available today, an answering machine is a wise, cost-effective investment for jobseeking graduates," Oblak adds. 'Ideal units allow remote message retrieval from touchtone phones and forward messages to other destinations."

He offers graduates the following tips for successful job hunting:

-Keep a job-search journal with contact information. Even if there are no current openings at a company,

A Chorus Line ran 6,137 performances, longer than any other Broadway show.

there may be in the near future. Keep in touch with potential employers.

generally carry the widest selection of job openings, read the classified section daily to ensure that employment opportunities aren't overlooked.

-Consider temporary jobs to learn new skills, gain confidence and build credentials for a future position.

-Check your messages frequently while away from home using your answering machine's remote operation function, and be sure to return calls

-Free up cramped closet space by

Reduce Lyme disease risk

Lyme disease has struck at least 30,000 Americans in 43 states since 1975. Achy, flu-like symptoms often mark initial infection. If undetected, Lyme disease can cause severe arthritis, nerve disorders and heart problems.

Humans contract Lyme disease after being bitten by an infected deer tick. These tiny critters are active in wooded areas, lawns, brush piles and stone walls during summer months. Because the insects are hard to see and often go undetected, and because Lyme disease itself is difficult to diagnose, the best defense against infection is a good offense.

Treating lawns and wooded borders with carbaryl insecticide is a proven way to reduce deer tick populations around your home. Tests have shown that a single application can reduce deer tick nymph populations on residential lawns by more than 95 percent.

To further protect against the deer tick, wear long pants tucked into socks when you work outside. Applying insect repellant to shoes and socks may help, too. As an added measure, examine yourself and your children and pets carefully. Shower thoroughly after working or playing outdoors.

In Sarajevo, Bosnia's Muslim-dominated army dug in above a key road it seized from Serbs over the weekend during a fierce government offensive.

The ouster of Cosic in Belgrade indicated that hardliners are gaining ground in the truncated Yugoslavia, made up only of Serbia and Montenegro following the secession of Slovenia, Macedonia, Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Cosic is considered too moderate by ultranationalist Serbs, who strongly back the Bosnian Serbs' fight to join their lands into a 'Greater Serbia."

He was ousted over a technicality. The ultranationalist Radical Party accused him of violating the constitution by dallying over the appointment of a premier and Supreme Court judges last year.

But several deputies said Cosic's ouster was the climax of a power struggle between him and Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, the most powerful leader in Yugoslavia. His Socialist Party joined with the Radical Party in parliament to vote Cosic out of office.

Cosic has angered ultranationalists by urging the Bosnian Serbs to accept an international peace plan to end the war in Bosnia, which has left more than 138,000 people dead or missing.

Under pressure from tough U.N. sanctions imposed on Yugoslavia for its support of Bosnian Serbs, Milosevic also urged Bosnian Serbs to accept the plan. But Milosevic now appears anxious to pander to hardliners who have gained ground since the West backed away from military intervention in Bosnia.

Sarajevo was mostly quiet Monday, though a mortar shell slammed into a neighborhood, killing two children and wounding 12 other people.

In the besieged town of Gorazde, intense Serb shelling killed at least 30 civilians and 11 soldiers Monday, Sarajevo radio reported. Serbs backed by armored vehicles breached defense lines in Gorazde.

Mustafa Hajrulahovic, commander of Bosnia's First Corps, told The Associated Press in Sarajevo that the area had been burned down. House protest About 70,000 residents and refugees live in Gorazde.

Muslim forces did better to the northwest in Sarajevo. The Bosnian army's weekend offensive carried government soldiers within sight of the road linking the Serb-held Sarajevo suburb of Lukavica with Pale, the Bosnian Serb political headquarters, 12 miles to the southwest.

The success was bound to hearten outgunned government troops, and apparently surprised the heavily armed Serbs, who have pounded Sarajevo with artillery and gunfire for months and have steadily advanced on the city.

Promotions slow for Asians with oil companies

HOUSTON (AP) - Asians say the reasons they are given for not receiving promotions in major oil companies focus mostly on language.

'Henry Kissinger has an accent, and it never affected his ability to do his job," an unidentified Chinese engineer for Exxon Corp. told The Houston Post. Armed with a Ph.D. in civil engineering, the man worked for Exxon for 19 years before he bumped into what is becoming known as the bamboo ceiling.

He was promoted only within his technical field.

Exxon and Shell engineers say the companies have held classes to help Asians and other non-native English speakers get rid of their accents.

"Plenty of people here have taken those classes," said the engineer at a recent Chinese American Petroleum Engineers Association meeting. "And nothing ever happened."

But the classes contribute to a vicious circle of miscommunication.

"If you're put in an intimidating environment, it will exaggerate your weaknesses," said Wei-Chang Liauh, a Houston patent attorney who filed a discrimination complaint against Exxon Corp. in Houston with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

"A person can do well for four or five years and not hear about a communication problem. Then when they want to be promoted, they're told they have a communication problem," he said. These language classes "may warrant inquiry," said Jim Sacher, an EEOC attorney in Houston. "If (employees) have an accent and they're required to take an English class, it could be a form of discrimination, suggesting they have a

By Lyndell Williams and Ed Sterling TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - The Senate, trying again to end the state's school finance crisis, last week approved compromise funding plan that would give high-wealth school districts several options to share their property taxes.

Senators approved the legislation 25-6. A House vote was expected at least two days before the session ends May 31, and Gov. Ann Richards has indicated that she will sign the measure when it reaches her desk.

The Senate action came five days before the June 1 deadline set by the Texas Supreme Court for revamping the $15 billion-a-year school finance system.

The share-the-wealth proposal would shift $400 million to $600 million a year in property tax revenues from 109 high-wealth districts.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock predicted the plan - which originated in the House — would meet with the court's approval.

'We have adopted the House plan, which I believe will meet the court order that threatened to close our schools," Bullock said.

Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, chairman of the Senate education committee, also was optimistic. "I absolutely believe this comes as close as humanly possible to meet the test (of the court),"

Bill Provides Five Choices

high-wealth districts would have under the equalization plan:

 Send property tax revenues to the state to pay for educating students in low-wealth districts.

· Contract with specific lowwealth districts to help fund their educational programs.

• Set up a new taxing district that includes the property of the highwealth and one or more low-wealth districts.

 Consolidate voluntarily with one or more districts with less property wealth.

 Transfer some business and commercial property to the tax rolls of low-wealth districts.

The first three options require approval of voters in the districts. If, by October 1993, a district did not select one of the options or voters reject one of the options, the district would be forced to take the last choice, giving up some business and commercial property.

Tough Penal Code

Anti-crime legislation designed to keep violent offenders in prison longer and curb stealing and drug use was approved last week by the Senate. The House is expected to approve the measure.

The two-bill package will streamline and toughen punishments in Texas' criminal laws. The legislation also calls for construction of 20,000 cells in a new system of state jails for nonviolent convicts.

Under the bill, the penal code will mandate that the most violent lawbreakers - people convicted of murder, aggravated robberies, rapes, kidnapping and assaults with weapons - must serve at least half of their sentence. They now must serve only a fourth of their sentence.

"Hard work and perseverance have paid off," Lt. Gov. Bullock said after the package passed. "This legislation will do more than anything that has been done at anytime in the last 20 years to make Texas a safer place to live.'

Texas Lottery Success

The Texas Lottery marked its first anniversary May 29, and state These are the five choices that officials say it's been a year in which sales topped all projections.

State Comptroller John Sharp, whose office oversees the game, initially opposed the state-sanctioned gambling. "If we're going to have one, I'm certainly proud it's been a success," Sharp said.

The games were expected to bring the state $461 million during the two-year budget cycle ending Aug. 31. State proceeds hit $580 million in mid-May, and the profit now is projected at $731 million, 58 percent higher than originally estimated, Sharp said.

'Harmless Tax' Bill Passed

The Senate has approved a bill that would end the state's practice of paying its employees' share of their Social Security taxes. The bill, by Sen. Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, would save the state $29 million over the next two years.

Bivins said employees "would be held harmless" because their pay would be increased to offset the Social Security taxes. However, new employees would not receive the same benefit.

The state began paying employees' share of the taxes in 1983 as a way of giving them a benefit that, officials assumed, would not be taxed, Bivins said. But it turned out that federal income taxes did apply, he said.

Other Highlights

■ The Senate sent a bill to Gov. Richards last week that would allow Texas, Maine and Vermont to dump radioactive waste at a site in Hudspeth County, about 90 miles east of El Paso. An aide said the governor likely would sign the bill. Maine and Vermont each would be charged $25 million.

 Attorney General Dan Morales has been appointed by President Clinton to the White House Commission on Presidential Scholars. The 27-member commission will select 141 graduating high school seniors from around the country to be Presidential Scholars.

 Only days before the June 5 special U.S. Senate election, a poll by The Dallas Morning News shows Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison leading interim Sen. Bob Krueger 54 percent to 35 percent.

Sodomy law

AUSTIN (AP) - The 1993 legislative session went out with a bang - literally.

Blaring horns interrupted business during the last day of the session Editor's Note: Texas State Trea-Monday as opponents of the state's sodomy law staged a protest in the gallery of the Texas House.

Ten members of the Austin chapter of "Lesbian Avengers," spread out throughout the third-floor public gallery overlooking the House chamber, began blowing horns and unfurling banners reading, "Legalize Lesbian Sex" and "Homophobia Stinks."

The protesters also tossed paper airplanes on to the House floor.

Lawmakers briefly halted consideration of a number of resolutions during the protest.

The protesters were escorted from the building by security guards. All 10 were arrested and charged with disrupting a public meeting, a Class B misdemeanor, said Franklin Cox of the Texas Department of Public

One protester shouted, "Repeal the sodomy law," as he was handcuffed and driven away in a squad car.

The Senate earlier this session had voted to remove from state law a statute prohibiting homosexual sex. The repeal was added to a bill to restructure the state criminal code.

But House members insisted that the statute remain to keep homosexual sodomy a crime. An appeal of the current statute is pending before the Texas Supreme Court.

Rep. Glen Maxey, the state's only openly gay legislator, said he didn't condone the protest but understood its need.

Q. My grandmother died recently and her assets were distributed among our family members according to her expressed wishes. One of the most sentimental gifts she bequeathed to me was the silver flatware that she and my grandfather received as a wedding present. She specifically stated that I was to receive this, but we cannot find it anywhere in her home. I suspect she may have had it stored safely away in a safe de-posit box, but she did not tell anyone where it is. It is devastating to think that something of irreplaceable sentimental value is just sitting in a box somewhere. What should I do?

A. The Texas State Treasury is responsible for administering the state's Unclaimed Property program, through which we receive money and valuables from various accounts that have been dormant for three years or more, including the contents of abandoned safe deposit boxes. It never ceases to amaze me when, year after year, thousands of Texans ose track of valuables either because they are forgotten or because someone dies without telling friends and family about their accounts and safe deposit boxes. While the Unclaimed Property staff makes every effort to reunite Texans with their lost property, there are some cases where we have never been able to locate the rightful owners. The property is then sold at an Unclaimed Property auction and the proceeds are used for public education and other state programs. If the owner is later found, they are entitled to claim the amount of money received for their property. While it is never too late to make a claim, it is unfortunate when property is lost that is more of sentimental value than monetary value. Too often, I have seen family heirlooms auctioned to the highest bidder. To help others avoid the heartache associated with losing a part of their family's history, I always try to remind people to keep adequate records of their bank accounts and safe deposit boxes. By keeping these records and letting friends and family know where to find them in the event of your death, you can ensure that they are passed on for generations to come.

If your grandmother did indeed store her flatware in a safe deposit box that has been dormant for three years or more, we may be holding her property. Please contact the Unclaimed Property division of the Texas State Treasury by calling our toll-free number, 1-800-654-3463.

If you have a question, write Money Talk; Texas State Treasury, Communications Division, P.O. Box 12608, Austin, Texas, 78711.

The Newspaper BIBLE

THE MESSAGE NOBODY COULD

Saul was in complete agreement with the killing of Stephen. And a great wave of persecution of the believers began that day, sweeping over the church in Jerusalem, and everyone except the apostles fled into Judea and Samaria. (But some godly Jews came and with great sorrow buried Stephen.)

Saul was like a wild man, going everywhere to devastate the believers, even entering homes and dragging out men and women alike and jailing

But the believers who had fled Jerusalem went everywhere preaching the Good News about Jesus! Philip, for instance, went to the city of Samaria and told the people there about Christ. Crowds listened intently to what he had to say because of the miracles he did. Many evil spirits were cast out. screaming as they left their victims, and many who were paralyzed or lame were healed, so there was much joy in that city!

A man named Simon had formerly been a sorcerer there for many years; he was a very influential, proud man because of the amazing things he could do--in fact, the Samaritan people often spoke of him as the Messiah. But now they believed Philip's message that Jesus was the Messiah, and his words concerning the kingdom of God; and many men and women were baptized.

Then Simon himself believed and was baptized and began following Philip wherever he went, and was amazed by the miracles he did. Acts 8:1-13
