EASTER EXCITEMENT . . . Easter brings many different emotions each year, but little Marcia Dion Blackwell, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blackwell of Muleshoe, seems to find excitement in anticipating an Easter Egg Hunt. With her Easter basket at her side she seems ready for the annual event.

An emergency meeting for all area farmers, cattlemen, agri-businessmen, bankers and wives is scheduled for Monday, March 31, at 8 p.m. in the Bull Barn in Hereford, Texas.

The meeting will concern low agriculture prices. Suggested action includes stopping all meat imports immediately; cut back planting by at least 20 percent; and destroying percentage of wheat crop by grazing or plowing up.

A large crowd is anticipated for the meeting and it will be covered not only by local news media, but by national television.

Local farmers are urged to attend the meeting and make it the largest agriculture action meeting ever. Farmers are urged to come and voice their opinions and ideas and help solve the farmer and cattlemen's problems.

Chamber Holds First Membership Breakfast

Mrs. E.L. Merriott of Littlefield, mother of Lonnie Merriott, is in M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston undergoing treatment. It is believed that she will be able to return to Littlefield in two weeks and will continue treatment in Lubbock as an out-patient. Mrs. Merriott is the daughter of Mrs. F.L. Wenner and a sister to Mrs. Ansel Ashford of Muleshoe.

Mrs. Mae Lorraine, celebrated her birthday on Wednesday, March 26, as the luncheon guest of Wannie Lorraine and Nelda Merriott. Mrs. Ora Roberts also attended and all enjoyed the Mexican food at the San Francisco cafe.

The first Membership Breakfast for members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture was held Thursday morning, March 27, at 6:30 a.m. at the Corral Restaurant.

A total of about 55 persons were present. Each person attending paid a nominal cost of $2.00 for a breakfast including bacon, sausage, eggs, hot biscuits, juice and coffee.

The short program included a report from Chamber President Kenneth Henry regarding current Chamber activities, an enthusiastic message on "Muleshoe" by Rev. H.D. Hunter, a brief report and discussion from Doug Bales who is chairman for the Membership Committee. The opportunity for discussion and questions was given to members present.

Members registered at the door for door prizes and winners were Neal Dillman, direct color portrait (11 x 14), a $41.95 value from Pat's Photo; Pat Shafer won the $35.00 clock radio from Gordon Wilson Appliance; and Bill Millen won the $25.00 set of sheets and pillowcases from Cobb's Department Store. Also, names of all current members were in a box for a $25.00 cash drawing, courtesy of the First National Bank. The member whose name was drawn had to be present to win and the chamber was sorry to report that Bob Stovall was not present.

Those present indicated by a show of hand that they would support a regular membership breakfast and the next one will be planned for sometime in late May. At that time, the cash drawing will be $50.00, and other door prizes will be given.

The officers and directors of the Chamber Board would like for the Chamber membership to be better informed about Chamber activities and goals and would like for everyone to have an opportunity to make suggestions about its activities. It is felt that the bi-monthly meeting will make all of the members feel a closer relationship in the combined efforts toward building Muleshoe.

The Chamber urges all members to attend.

Lazbuddie Rural Meeting Scheduled

Farmers Are Cutting Acreage Of Grain

The probability of continued depressed grain prices and lack of confidence in adequate governmental protection against soaring production costs are pushing grain-sorghum producers to cut back on their plantings by as much as 25 percent.

Based on the current grain situation, officials of Grain Sorghum Producers Association believe acreage cutbacks from the March USDA intentions report are essential, if strong prices are to become a reality again.

GSPA mailed 5,200 survey cards to sorghum producers in five states of the sorghum production area. At presstime, 95 percent of farmers responding said they are ready to cut back on their plantings because of the existing price trends which have resulted in drops of as much as $2 per hundred pounds in the past three months.

WINTER RETURNS . . . Most Muleshoe and area residents were expecting a last blast from Old Man Winter, but people still were not too happy with the snow and below freezing temperatures that blew into the area Friday. Fruit trees and blooming plants were set back again this spring by the freezing temperatures. This picture shows the snow on a budding bush who thought it was spring! Spring-like temperatures over the past week or so had caused many fruit trees to bud out and begin blooming. The cold spell was expected to last through the weekend.

Wise Fertilizer Use Urged For Lawns

COLLEGE STATION -- Due to short fertilizer supplies and resulting high prices, homeowners are urged to use fertilizer wisely for lawn maintenance.

"With the world food crisis that has resulted in part from short fertilizer supplies, we can all do our part in conserving scarce plant nutrients," contends Dr. Richard Doble, turf specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Although less than three-and-a-half percent of the fertilizer consumed in the United States is used on lawns and other landscape areas, judicious use of plant nutrients is important.

What can the homeowner do to conserve fertilizer?

"First of all, a knowledge of fertilizer requirements for your lawns is important. St. Augustine, centipede and zoysia grasses all require less nitrogen fertilizer than does bermudagrass," points out Doble. "Bermudagrass requires three or four applications of fertilizer per year to maintain a complete turf cover while the other grasses only require spring and fall applications."

Spring and fall fertilizer applications should be at the rate of two pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn area. For a fertilizer containing 10 percent nitrogen, 20 pounds per 1,000 square feet would be needed to meet this requirement. Doble suggests using organic or slow-release fertilizers when available as these are formulated especially for lawn use.

For a rapid greening response during summer months, a soluble fertilizer material should be used at a rate of one pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet.

The Texas A&M University System specialist recommends fertilizing in the spring and fall to encourage root development of the grass without excessive leaf growth. "Deep root systems make better use of available soil nutrients and moisture and help grasses survive summer and winter stress periods."

"Increasing the mowing height of the lawn in early summer also helps promote deeper root development. St. Augustine grass lawns should be mowed at least one-half inch higher in the summer, or at a height of two-to-two-and-a-half inches. Higher mowing heights also reduce the frequency of mowing."

Doble advises against removing grass clippings after mowing. "Clippings contain plant nutrients that can be recycled into the lawn when they are left to decompose. Removing these clippings may double the lawn's fertilizer requirement. Clippings will not significantly contribute to thatch build-up when lawns are mowed regularly."

The specialist also has some tips on watering lawns to conserve both water and fertilizer. "Water after applying fertilizer to prevent run-off losses that may result from a heavy rain. Repeat light waterings for several days to dissolve soluble fertilizer granules and to move the insoluble granules into the turf where they can be dissolved slowly."

"Water lawns at infrequent intervals and only when the grass shows moisture stress--wilted leaves and dark discolorations. Water at rates that the soil can effectively absorb and in sufficient amounts to wet the soil to a depth of four-to-six inches. This will encourage a deep-rooted turf that can use water and plant nutrients more efficiently."

Vigorous, healthy lawns are a boon to the landscape and the environment. And they can be kept that way with proper care.

This includes the wise use of scarce fertilizer materials.

Vegetable Growers Face Higher Costs

LUBBOCK -- Vegetable growers are in the same boat with all other farmers, says a Lubbock-based farm management economist. Input costs are rising rapidly, and the break-even point is higher than ever.

Marvin Sartin, area specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says costs of growing vegetables have risen dramatically over the past couple of years. For growers to remain in business, average prices must be higher now than before.

"The High Plains vegetable industry is rather small compared to traditional crops like cotton and grain sorghum," Sartin says. On the other hand, a number of farmers growing cotton and grain sorghum also are producing vegetable crops. Only a relatively few farmers have vegetables as their primary endeavor."

On the Texas High Plains, vegetables are produced for both processing and fresh market. Processing vegetables are usually grown under contract with the processor, and the price structure is locked in. The economist says a guaranteed price removes the most variable factor in vegetable production and significantly reduces the financial risks. At the same time, this limits profit potentials and places these vegetables in an alternate crop classification.

"Fresh market vegetable production has long been conducted under free market conditions, with wide price variations. Relatively short supplies of particular vegetables command astronomical prices, while high prices for a particular vegetable almost guarantee overproduction and low prices the next season. Many growers continue to look at last year's prices in making their planting decisions," Sartin says.

There are two types of vegetable growers, he believes. The casual type views fresh market vegetables as a speculative venture. If they are financially secure they may gamble on a few acres, usually picking the wrong vegetables or running astray in production practices.

Seasons of unbelievably high returns or of loss where the price may even be below harvesting costs, causing them to plow up the crop, are a way of life for most of these vegetable growers.

"Vegetable production is a very demanding occupation," Sartin warns, "and keeping up with the markets is not for those casually interested."

Another group of vegetable growers are the dedicated individuals who successfully produce quality products and who are astute students of the markets.

"Most of these individuals usually manage to hit the high prices," the specialist says. "Even though they will also experience seasons of losses, over the long haul vegetables are quite profitable for them."

"Some of these growers market their own produce, others may be primarily shippers who must (or want to) produce a part of their product, and still others are simply growers who rely on others for the marketing of the products."

Sometimes Lasso® plus Bladex® makes as much sense as Lasso® plus atrazine.

Especially if your corn will be used for silage or you're planning to follow corn with another crop. But no matter if your corn farming operation calls for Bladex or atrazine to be tank mixed with Lasso, Lasso is the right herbicide to start with.

Corn farmers in this part of Eastern Louisiana have found that a Lasso based tank-mix controls pigweed and most annual grasses. Even reduces competition from some of the toughest weed problems your corn has to face.

Like cocklebur, seedling Johnson-grass and annual morningglory. Something else makes Lasso the corn herbicide to start with—it has absolutely no carryover. When you use it in a Lasso plus Atrazine tank-mix, you minimize the possibility of carryover damage, because you've reduced the atrazine rate. And that makes it easier for you to follow corn with other crops.

No matter what your corn herbicide needs are, get started right with Lasso. It's the best herbicide to start with.

TSTA Compiles Fact Sheets On Two Constitutional Amendments

A Constitutional Amendment Election will be held in Bailey County and Texas on Tuesday, April 22, 1975.

Two proposed constitutional amendments will be on the ballots. No. 1 will read "The constitutional amendment revising and consolidating provisions relating to state and local retirement systems and programs and providing for a maximum state contribution to state systems of 10 percent of the aggregate compensation paid to individuals."

No. 2 will read "The constitutional amendment setting the salaries of members of the legislature at $600 per month and setting a per diem of $30 per day during legislative sessions and a mileage allowance at the same rate provided by law for state employees."

Grain...

of adequate supplies on a consistent basis," he continued. A reduction of more than 40 percent in cattle feeding from a year ago and the weakening grain prices in spite of tight supplies have led farmers throughout the nation to pledge to reduce their intended plantings by levels of up to 25 percent. The sharp decline in cattle feeding indicates a large surplus will build if grain producers plant the acreage that USDA's January and March planting intentions indicate.

Harp expressed concern over expected increases in production without real indication that cattle feeding will soon return to 1973 levels.

"While we expect our exports to remain relatively high, they will not take up the slack of the reduction in domestic demand," Harp pointed out.

The GSPA official pointed out there are people who feel prices can't drop to the loan rate again, but "those people should study the cotton and cattle situation of the past two years."

The crop plantings shown in the USDA intention report would be geared to the requirement for cattle feeding at record levels. Therefore, 40 percent reduction in numbers on feed would require that much less feed. The difference would be a surplus which would depress prices even more.

GSPA points out that the success of a cutback in production depends upon the willingness of every farmer to do his part. It can't succeed if only a few participate.

A positive and aggressive program of worldwide market development for grains will continue, Harp said. The reduction in acreage will only be to hold supplies in balance with demand so farmers can receive prices that will pay their cost of production and permit a fair profit.

tirement System, the Texas County and District Retirement System, and the Employees Retirement System of Texas.

The proposed permissible increase in State contributions is from the present maximum of six percent to a new ceiling of 10 percent of the total salaries paid to members of these local and state systems. This applies only to State contributions; employee contributions are not increased.

Amendment No. 1 is the second step in a procedure to make a direct State appropriation to increase benefits to some 40,000 retired teachers who are victims of inflations. The Texas Constitution at present prohibits the State from contributing more than six percent.

Increased benefits for retired teachers were authorized by enactment of SB 62 this year, appropriating $102 million to pay the higher teacher retirement benefits effective February 1. This is a one-time cost. However, only $4 million can be used without Amendment No. 1.

If Amendment No. 1 isn't approved by voters in the April 22 special election, retired teachers will immediately lose the higher benefits which began in February.

Approval of Amendment No. 1 also would permit possible future increases in benefits of future retirees. That would require future legislation.

The 40,000 older retirees affected by Amendment No. 1 now receive checks which average less than $250 per month. The increased benefits at stake in Amendment No. 1 are: 18 percent for those who retired before March 31, 1969; 12 percent for those who retired from April 1, 1969 until May 30, 1971; and five percent for those who retired from May 31, 1971 to August 31, 1973. Current retirees fare better under later legislation and are not affected by the amendment.

In 1973 the "poverty threshold" was $4,540 for a non-farm family of four. Although this doesn't fit most retirees, it is an indication, and the amount would be higher now. The average retired teacher affected receives less than $3,000 per year.

The present dire circumstances for retired teachers arise primarily from two sources: (A) inflation, and (B) perennially low teacher salaries, the key factor in benefits, with no protection from inflation. Retirees can do nothing about either of these conditions. Amendment No. 1 is the only solution.

Amendment No. 2:

Amendment No. 2 will raise legislative pay from $4,800 to $7,200 per year, per diem during sessions from $12 to $30 and auto mileage from 10 cents to 16 cents per mile. The $4,800 salary limitation was placed in the Constitution in 1960. Since then the consumer price index has risen 76.6 percent and the purchasing power of the $4,800 salary has now fallen to $2,118 (1967 dollars). Travel costs today compared to 1960 are self-evident, and state employees now receive 16 cents.

Texas now ranks 34th among the 50 states in estimated total biennial compensation to state legislators. The range is from $100/year in New Hampshire to $26,745/year in California.

The passage of Amendment No. 2 will cost Texas approximately $800,000 more in tax dollars for salary and per diem a year. This investment in State government will cost about the same as the construction cost for an .8 mile section of four-lane divided highway and will increase the State budget .0167 percent a year. It will cost about $0.07 per person a year to implement.

State government is no longer a part-time operation. In the house last session 1749 bills were introduced for consideration. The Appropriations Committee in the House last session spent over 400 hours in committee hearings. This does not include time spent by those legislators in other committee hearings or on the House floor in debate. In addition, legislators serve on special interim and investigatory committees between sessions, and must attend to constituent requests, complaints, and mail.

Texas ranks among the top six states in the nation in population and size and complexity of state government. The other five states pay an average of $17,820/year to their legislators. Texas pays $4,800.

The Legislature has been called into special sessions every year for the past 12 years except 1970 and 1974. Texas, in effect, has annual legislative sessions and should make the annual compensation for legislators reflect this reality. Thirty-six states in the nation meet annually, including all the major urban, industrialized states.

Amendment No. 2 has received endorsement of the top four elected State officials -- Governor Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Governor William Hobby, Speaker of the House Billy Wayne Clayton, and Attorney General John Hill.

Mr., Mrs. Dalton To Be Honored At 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. B.A. Dalton will be honored at a 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday, March 30 from 1 to 4 p.m. at 1702 West Avenue C.

B.A. Dalton married Martha Clarice Harlin March 30, 1925 in Heady, Texas. They moved to Muleshoe in August of 1949 where he opened the Western Auto Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton have four children: Mrs. B.A. Dickenson of Plainview; Alvin R. Dalton of Ft. Worth, Texas; Mrs. Jim Dewayne Burkhead of Albuquerque, N.M.; and Mrs. Buddy Lane of Albuquerque, N.M. The Daltons have eleven grandchildren. Everyone is welcomed to attend this celebration.

There are those who think Oregon's Al Ullman will one day be a candidate for the Democratic nomination. But that hope probably lies in the future. And so the big scramble among Democratic candidates goes on. The primaries will again, presumably, determine the Democratic nominee.

The Children of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Dalton request the pleasure of your company at an Open House honoring their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, the thirtieth of March from one until four o'clock at their home 1702 West Avenue C Muleshoe, Texas

But don't overlook one verse in that story: "and there appeared an angel unto him from Heaven strengthening him." If we are really sincere, God sends help when we need him the most. ## LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

We have a problem. We have two teenagers in the house and they are well behaved youngsters but, as you probably know, the young people of today do many things and stay out later than we did when we were coming up. So this is the problem. My father died recently and we have asked mother to live with us but I know she will object to many things the girls do while she is here and she doesn't mind saying what she thinks.

My husband is afraid that this will upset our pleasant home life. Do you think I should have a talk with mother about this situation. It is not a question of money as she is well able to live as she chooses.

Worried--Ala.

Answer:

I think you should talk the situation over with your mother before she moves in.

She may decide to rent an apartment near by or, if it suits all of you to build a small apartment adjoining your house. In that way you can both have your privacy but be near enough to see one another often or to be close by when either of you needs help.

Louisa.

DRESSED FOR EASTER SUNDAY . . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Young are shown with their children, Tadd, 21 months old and Tisha, 3 years old. The family attends the First Baptist Church and will be spending Easter at home.

EASTER EGG HUNT PLANNED . . . . Mr. and Mrs. Max King are shown with their children, Brett, 7; Angie, 7 weeks old; Lance, 6; and Kevin 4. The family attend the First United Methodist Church. They plan to have Easter at home and an Easter egg hunt Sunday, March 30.

By Rev. C. B. Melton
First United Methodist Church

There's something about Easter that stirs the mind, cheers the heart and uplifts the spirit -- lilies everywhere, happy throngs pouring into churches, exultant music, gay colors and feasting. Celebration of the Resurrection of Christ sounds the note of victorious rejoicing.

Appropriately, Easter comes in the Spring, when there is resurrection throughout nature, after the apparent death of Winter. Even Mother Earth thus gives silent testimony to what Easter stands for -- and it stands for much in the human heart. It is here, in the human heart, that we find the inner spiritual meaning of Easter.

Easter is pre-eminently the symbol of the great hope of immortality. A universal instinct of the human heart is to live on after the physical transition we call death, holding fast to some sort of belief that life transcends the grave. "Because I live, ye shall live also," is His promise that never fails to thrill and comfort the heart.

Easter stresses not only human worth, but also human kindness. Our Lord emphasized the dignity of man in two ways: the dignity of one's own self, and the dignity of all men.

Easter brings a fresh appreciation of the fact that the greatest thing in the world is love; love in the sense of an outflowing compassion for the needy and unfortunate, the sinner, the wayward, the lost, love expressed in good will and concern.

Easter assures us that the vicarious death of Jesus on the Cross was not defeat, but a resounding expression of the power of God to resurrect not only His Son, thus making the Cross victory, but resurrect and transform any life who comes to Him by faith. When Christ was crucified it seemed that evil had triumphed. But God's answer to evil is Easter morning and a Risen Christ!

ENTERING THE CHURCH FOYER . . . . Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reed are in the foyer of the Trinity Baptist Church, where they attend. They will be spending Easter at home this year.

COUPLE ENJOYS FIRST EASTER TOGETHER . . . . Mr. and Mrs. Mack Hodges of Muleshoe are celebrating their first Easter together as husband and wife. They will have Easter dinner at their house. Mr. and Mrs. Hodges attend the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

The Muleshoe High School Choir attended contest which was held on the Plainview Wayland Baptist College Campus Wednesday, March 19, at 1:00 p.m. and listened to a choir sing before warming up, getting ready to sing before the judges. Then the big moment came when the choir sang for the judges. The songs sung were "Freat Eurch" (in German), "Sing My Tears and Lamenting," and "Never Seek to Tell Thy Love". The choir was rated a 3 on these selections, which Mr. Murphy had chosen from an appointed list. Next the Choir competed in sight reading. The judges gave the Choir a rating of 2 and commented that was the best the Muleshoe Choir had done in eight years. The choir came back with high spirits and celebrated by eating ice cream at Baskin-Robbins 31 flavors. Congratulations Mr. Murphy and choir!

Advances For Weed Control, Scientist Tells Conference

EL PASO -- New advances in techniques, equipment and herbicides are being evaluated as possible solutions to troublesome weed problems on the Texas High Plains, a Lubbock based researcher told a crowd of cotton industry representatives here Thursday (March 7).

Addressing a group of farmers, scientists, specialists and cotton industry officials convening in El Paso March 4-6, Dr. John Abernathy reviewed progress made in experimental treatments and methods of weed control.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station weed physiologist listed several promising experimental herbicide treatments for annual and perennial weeds infecting High Plains cotton fields.

He also reviewed new methods of applying the treatments, such as the development of a recirculating recovery sprayer. The machine projects a stream of spray horizontally over cotton plants, coming in contact with taller johnsongrass. Spray solution not intercepted by johnsongrass is caught and recirculated.

Ways to more effectively use spot treatments of herbicides are also being studied, Abernathy reported. Using electrically activated solenoids and spray nozzles combined with electrical switches, several cotton rows can be sprayed by one person.

In a different approach to weed control, Abernathy told the gathering that a leaf feeding nematode might be used to destroy the tough silverleaf nightshade.

Other new areas of weed control research in cotton, he said, include a uniform droplet nozzle system and spray additives for improved herbicide applications under windy conditions, determination of cotton variety response to herbicides, and combining growth regulators with existing herbicides for better perennial weed control.

Abernathy was one of numerous speakers addressing the cotton conference. Besides the address he gave for the technical session on Thursday, the scientist also presented a paper on weed control as a member of a panel during the Wednesday session.

Discussions during the three-day event, held at the Roadway Inn, Gateway West, dealt with marketing, energy, cotton breeding, research needs and priorities, weed and insect control and seed cotton handling systems.

Cattle Numbers Up, But Feeding Down

COLLEGE STATION -- Cattle feeding is down in Texas but the number of cows and calves is up. While cattle feeding has remained under pressure during the past two years, the breeding herd should be under pressure to be reduced in 1975, according to a livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"In Texas cattle feeding on February 1 was 47 percent below levels last year," points out Dr. Ed Uvacek. "At the same time feeding levels were down 37 percent in the seven major cattle feeding states."

Uvacek says that placement of cattle and calves into Texas feedlots has also dropped considerably -- being down 56 percent in January compared to the same month a year ago. Placements were down 42 percent in the seven major feeding states.

"With most feedlots facing a breakeven cost for Choice steers of about 42-45 per hundredweight -- and market prices nowhere near that level -- the feeding industry will continue at a crisis level," contends Uvacek.

On the other hand, the number of breeding cows in the United States is up four percent over last year, with cow and heifer numbers up six percent in Texas.

"This means a large calf crop in 1975 that will continue to add to the woes of the cow-calf operator," notes the specialist. "These excess supplies should stimulate a liquidation of cows during the year."

Alfalfa Weevils Problems Outlined

AMARILLO -- Spacious fields of alfalfa will soon cover portions of the High Plains signaling the full arrival of spring. For many growers, says an Amarillo-based entomologist, this means another round with the insect pest, the alfalfa weevil.

Dr. Bill Clymer, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says that like all crops, alfalfa harbors numerous harmful and beneficial insects and spiders. While different pests are common at various times during the season, one of the major insects causing worry on the part of producers is the alfalfa weevil.

In Texas, according to the area specialist, the weevil was first discovered in a northeastern county about six years ago and has rapidly spread across the state. Most of the Panhandle counties have become infested in the last three years. Other states have experienced similar developments.

The larvae of the alfalfa weevil feed within the plant tips, upper leaves and then on lower foliage, skeletonizing the leaves, Clymer says. Damaged leaves dry rapidly and the field will take on a grayish cast. In addition to damaging the first cutting, larvae may attack the regrowth and reduce the second crop. Once a field becomes infested with the weevil damage may occur yearly.

"Alfalfa weevils generally produce only one generation each year in most areas of the United States," Clymer explains. "In the southern states a partial second generation may occur."

Clymer says adult weevils are about 3/16 inch long and light to dark brown with a broad dark stripe running about halfway down the back from the head. As they age they turn a uniform dark brown. All adults have a snout. In the fall, eggs are laid within the stems or stalks of alfalfa. The adults then seek an overwintering site. With the coming of spring they may feed on new alfalfa growth, but most die before the first hay cutting. Some may survive and lay eggs in the second hay crop.

Eggs laid in the fall and spring hatch after a couple of weeks of warm weather, he adds. Larvae are about 1/20 inch long and cream colored when newly hatched. As they grow, they turn light green with faint stripes down the top and sides and are about 1/4 inch long in the mature larvae stage. They are generally most abundant from the time plants are about six inches tall until the flower bud stage. Larvae feed on alfalfa plants for three to four weeks before pupation (change period from larvae to adult) occurs.

Clymer explains that after the feeding period they spin tiny cocoons on plants or among dead leaves. Pupation takes place within the cocoons and adults emerge in one to two weeks. Most of the new adults will leave the field soon after emergence and go to nearby protected areas. They then become inactive the remainder of the summer, returning in the fall for mating and egg laying.

Clymer adds that control recommendations vary from area to area but several cultural practices may help alleviate the problem.

"Producers should follow approved farming practices and encourage a dense vigorous stand," he advises. "If damaging populations are present the first crop should be cut when most of the plants are in the bud stage. The cutting should be as clean and close as possible to deprive the larvae of food and shelter. Exposure of the larvae to the sun

if often fatal. If heavy populations are present, insecticidal applications may have to be applied to the stubble."

The need to treat will depend on a variety of factors, he says. General guidelines for chemical treatment suggest beginning applications when 25-30 percent of alfalfa terminals in the field show feeding damage or when 25 or more larvae per square foot are found. Two or more insecticide applications may be required but these should be based on continued damage and larval activity.

Producers are urged to contact their local county Extension agent for a copy of MP-1014, Texas Guide for Controlling Insects on Legumes and Grasses, for additional information on insecticide use, Clymer suggests. Label directions should be carefully studied before the application of any pesticide.

DOOR OPENERS

Keys and churches are door openers. In both cases, each require you to put forth some effort. The key you must insert in the lock and turn. Our Lord made the way to heaven even easier, for all that you have to do is present yourself and believe.

"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works lest any man should boast: For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them."

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pulling Together For The Common Need

LUBBOCK -- A love affair between the farmer and the consumer is going to have to develop if the American way of life is to remain intact, says an agricultural economist here.

"The next few months are critical in determining the type of agriculture, and the stability of agriculture, and whether or not individual farmers can remain in business in the future," says Marvin Sartin of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Financial requirements of agriculture are at all time highs, and risks from product price variations stagger the imagination. Agriculture desperately needs the understanding and support of every American."

they insted brought cries of cruel and inhumane slaughters. Cattlemen and agriculture got a black eye."

Sartin believes that instead of alienating people, agriculturists need to convince the public that problems existing in the farm industry are their problems as well. Farmers are many small individuals, and farm organizations are segmented, splintered, and competitive. Selling the public on needs of agriculture is a big task.

Sartin says that agricultural producers need the support of consumers and their elected representatives to obtain the legislative might necessary to insure adequate new farm bills. Because farm programs are short term and must be renewed periodically, the need for support from consumers will be continual.

Farmers, commodity organizations, and general farm groups should recognize that potentially the most productive achievement for agriculture is the establishment and continuation of a mutually beneficial relationship with the American public. Public relations is the key, and the public is fairly easily convinced with the right approach.

"While most Americans today are far removed from the farm, I believe that most have a soft place in their heart for the land and for those who till the soil and feed the cattle. The opportunity, the need, and the time are here for agriculture to get into the public relations business."

Says Sartin, the problem is how. The segmentation of agriculture in many small commodity organizations and several national general farm organizations does not provide a united front. However, farmers control each of these organizations, and if they would look beyond their specific personal problems and projects, they could join together to share their needs and concerns with every American.

"During the recent past, we have seen some attempts to gather public opinion on the side of agriculture," he says. "However, these were mostly tragic failures and did far more harm than good. When cattlemen were reeling from their financial plight, their frustrations gained the upper hand. In attempts to force governmental action through public outcry,

Eighth Graders Write Fiction Stories

Mrs. Siewert's eighth grade English classes have been writing fiction stories. The following is a sample of one of the stories written by Danny Kemp, "How The Grinch Stole Easter."
"I'm going to spoil this Easter if it's the last thing I do," said the Grinch.
It was Easter Eve and the Grinch was getting ready to stop Bunny Clause from coming to Tinstrike from the South Pole.
It was nearly twelve midnight when the Grinch heard hard boiled eggs jingling.
After Bunny Clause had gone, Grinch ran down the mountain and stole all of the eggs in Tinstrike.
The next morning people gathered in a circle and started singing Easter carols.
Grinch watched and found out that Easter wasn't just hunting eggs. The Grinch went down the mountain to hide the eggs so that people could hunt them.
People say that on that Easter Day the Grinch's heart grew two times its normal size.
Each day just will not go by fast enough for the students and the teachers. Although, most of the students and teachers are not going anywhere, they are just going to relax and take it easy. Everyone who thinks about Easter thinks about spring, and it will not be long until school will be out and summer will be here.

Easter Vacation

Easter is right around the corner, and the students at M. J.H.S. are very glad. Each day gets a little closer to Easter Vacation. School will dismiss on March 28 through March 31, and will resume on April 1.
Each day just will not go by fast enough for the students and the teachers. Although, most of the students and teachers are not going anywhere, they are just going to relax and take it easy. Everyone who thinks about Easter thinks about spring, and it will not be long until school will be out and summer will be here.

Ag. Loans Increase In Size, Credit Drop

COLLEGE STATION -- The average size of agricultural loans increased in Texas last year, but credit quality appears to be deteriorating.
That's the result of a recent survey of 100 Texas agricultural lenders by Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
"Sixty-nine percent of the lenders surveyed said that the average loan size increased the past year. However, that may not be all good," says Hayenga, "since loan repayment was lower at 49 percent of the responding institutions."
Credit quality is slipping, according to the Texas A&M University System economist, because thirty-six percent of the lenders reported more applicants that couldn't be served. "This may be because collateral requirements were increased at 28 percent of the financial institutions."
The survey showed the average interest rate was 9.84 percent for feeder cattle loans, 9.57 percent for farm and ranch operating loans, and 8.33 percent for real estate loans.
"Cattle feedlot loan margin requirements averaged 40 percent and compensating balance requirements averaged about 13 percent," notes Hayenga.
On crop contracting, the lenders noted that 36 percent of all farm and ranch customers contracted part of their crop in 1974. Also 15 percent of agricultural lenders surveyed required at least partial forward contracts for low equity borrowers to obtain loans.

The demand for operating loans increase in 1974 while those for feeder cattle and dairy loans decreased.
What do lenders see in store for 1975?
"About one-half of the lenders and a majority of the bankers expect lower ranch earnings during the first six months of this year, with an increase in spending by farmers as ranchers," reports the economist.
The demand for refinancing loans is expected to be higher than usual, according to about half of the lenders surveyed.
Most lenders expect short-term and long-term interest rates to stay about the same for the next six months, with a possible downward trend.
"About 40 percent of the banks in Texas are soliciting farm and ranch accounts," says Hayenga. "Loan fund availability does not seem to be a problem."

The U.S. Postal Service has been an independent government agency four years now. It has counted on a steadily increasing volume of mail together with improved management techniques and massive automation to make itself supporting by 1984.

But the growth in mail volume, currently running at about 90 billion pieces annually, is not going to grow at the two percent or three percent rate hoped for in the coming fiscal year. It may actually decline for the first time since the Great Depression of the 1930's. Rising mail rates and the current economic slump are the villains. And if that isn't enough, taxpayers now face the prospect of "work stoppages" (postal workers can't legally strike) by June 21.

To achieve an increase in the mail volume, the postal service will begin advertising even more aggressively and will go after a potentially profitable new business; delivery of un-addressed third-class advertising circulars, now distributed almost exclusively as newspaper inserts. Getting the volume up is critical to the financial success of the postal service. Without big volume the large numbers of workers and vehicles are not economical,

As for the postal rates, the 10¢ first-class stamp is going to 13¢ by early summer and other classes of mail will also increase by about 30 percent by the same time. Another jump of 2¢ to 15¢ for first-class postage is planned for 1977. That's a 50 percent hike over a 24 month period. However, the postal service argues that, historically, stamp prices have not gone up faster than the Consumer Price Index. Business will bear the bulk of the new postage increases because business accounts for 80 percent of the volume of first class mail. Increasing the government subsidy of mail operations, now $1.8 billion a year, instead of raising rates discriminates in favor of business users. Though corporations are the biggest users, they pay only 25 percent of federal taxes from which postal subsidies must come. The consumer still suffers, however. Residents of new housing developments will have to make do with cluster box delivery at corners compared with more expensive door-to-door deliveries.

GAS PRICE POLL
NEW YORK—According to a recent Gallup poll, Americans said they would rather pay 10 cents more for a gallon for gasoline than be limited to 10 gallons of gasoline a week.
