About the finest stand of timber in our county is on Asa Fullmore's farm. Asa says it's due to "regulation"-checking on trees that don't come up to standard, and trimming them off to give the other trees a chance for healthy livelihood.

He was explaining it to us in Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, and Andy nodded approvingly.

"The same goes for any industry," says Andy. "Like the brewers who give us tavern keepers beer to sell. If they find the place isn't up to standard-clean and courteous and wholesome they start giving warning. Then, if the warning isn't heeded, they start trimming!"

From where I sit, self-regulation within the brewing industry has done as much to give us pleasant, wholesome places to enjoy a moderate glass of beer, as Asa Fullmore's forestry has done to keep his white pines tall and healthy. It's nature's own protection and the best there is!

Public Health-

Consideration Of Neighbors Asked For Health's Sake

This is the first of a series of articles by the city health of-ficer, Dr. J. E. Hogan, on public health problems.-Ed.

We are now faced directly with problems in general health and welfare of the community. In spring and summer, we have our greatest health problems that should not exist because they can be so easily remedied. During winter months we have communi able diseases that are not so easily controlled, but the summer discuses all reflect that we as a whole are negligent somewhere in what we know should be done. Most of our summer diseases are attributable to filth and incleanliness. We all know that lilthy conditions can easily be prohibited if we would only apply a little time and effort to keep our premises clean. The disturbing situation that we as a city health department have is that the majority of people do keep Treir places clean. Thus, those who put forth effort to keep sanitary have to breath the foul air coming from a neighbor's insanitation or live in fear of the phantom killers that their careless neighbors send out-namely dysentery, infantile paralysis, typhoid fever.

I think personally that enry one interested in good health, and we all should be, should firs; be sure that we are clean around our premises; that we do not harbor fly breeding places; and that we do not have filth and spoiled food to contaminate flies if they should come along-and then do all you can to get your neighbor to clean

How's Your Civic Pride?

If you haven't been in on one of the "thought survey" meetings held this week and next week at the Settles hotel (meetings daily except Saturday and Sunday at 9 a. m., 10:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m.) then we urge you to do so.

Worlds of good, sound ideas and constructive criticism are being expressed. One furnishes the basis for this editorial. Said a man who recently opened a business here and has lived in 47 states: "Let's develop more civic pride."

Amen and amen! One of our weak points is a too widespread lack of civic pride. The term is broad and perhaps vague, but it's not mysterious. It's simply personal pride unselfishly expressed. It's pride in little things multiplied thousands of times.

It's wanting a clean house and yard, clean lots next to you, clean streets, sidewalks, a more beautiful city.

It's consideration for others in such minor things as obeying parking regulations, not parking across a sidewalk, speaking out at people who are thoughtless of others.

It's loyalty to the community, though not blind, in boosting and working in a good "home town" spirit. It's participation in worthwhile projects, individually or in conjunction with whatever organization, club or institution with which you happen to be associated. It's cooperation with others, with competitors, with movements for the general It's giving of time to youths, providi g playgrounds and parks, helping youngste s catch the same spirit you have. It's righteous ambition to make the most of existing circumstances but not be satisfled with them: to agitate and labor for improvements.

It's planting a tree or a flower; maintaining sanitary conditions for the sake of your neighbors as well as yourself; it's talking with officials about suggestions.

It's all these and many, many more little things, but most of all it's the positive reaction to the personal question: "What would this town be like if everyone were like me?"

Bike Riders And Sidewalks

This isn't much, and yet it could be. We happened along just as the exact moment that a youngster, looking somewhere else, pumped his bicycle along a sidewalk and into a colored man as he emerged with a good bump-that was all. But suppose it had been a mother with a load of sacks in one arm and a baby in another? Suppose it had been some elderly person unable to recover balance instantly? Suppose it had been you, intent on some other matters and totally off guard? The point is simply this: Bicycles are not supposed to be ridden on sidewalks. Seems like there's a law against it; seems like, too. that parents could talk to children about it.
