Sparks fly at hospital public budget hearing

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Complaints about management, public image and lack of doctors highlighted a public hearing Tuesday night on the 1991-92 budget for Deaf Smith County Hospital District.

Approximately 16 people, including about six hospital staff members, attended the hearing on the budget, which proposes a tax rate increase from 13.2 to 22 cents. The rate will be set by the board next Tuesday night.

Those who signed up to make comments at the hearing included Dr. Tim Revell, Pete Morrison, Geneva Summers and Debbie Foerster. Dr. Revell, who closed his practice here and is a doctor for the Amarillo prison, was most vocal about the big tax increase.

Revell told the board that, under a private business situation, they wouldn't keep a manager "who shows a loss of $700,000 to a million dollars in a year, and runs off many of the staff and employees." He added that it was "the business of the hospital to take care of the community and I don't think it's doing that. We need a major shakeup and the board has not been willing to address these problems."

Dr. Revell said he could not vote for a 67 percent tax increase without some changes. He said a hospital must have family practice doctors to operate, but just recruiting new doctors wouldn't help if other changes were not made. Revell mentioned the doctors who had left Hereford the past two years, saying the "adversarial atmosphere" was part of the problem. He also said the hospital had a bad image problem.

Debbie Foerster, a hospital staff member, challenged a statement Dr. Revell made about the average daily census at the hospital. She also said that everyone at the meeting seem to agree there was an image problem. "You are part of that problem because of things you are saying about the hospital," she told Dr. Revell. She added that some of the doctors who left had a history of moving around.

Board president Raymond Schroeder and several trustees said the image problem and other factors were being addressed in their discussions of possible affiliation with Methodist Hospital or St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock.

Morrison, husband of former hospital controller Phillis Morrison, told the board that the community had to have more doctors to make the hospital go. He asked how much was being spent on recruiting doctors and why none were being secured. Schroeder responded that the recruitment was an "ongoing program" and that the hospital had been close to signing several doctors, then they decided not to come.

Morrison said he was also concerned about citizens calling for a rollback election if the tax increase was approved. "I think either of the Lubbock hospitals would get uninterested in an affiliation right quick if there was a rollback."

Mrs. Summers asked the board how either of the Lubbock hospitals would be paid for their services if a management affiliation is made.

Schroeder and several trustees said it was not a money-making situation for the hospitals, that they were non-profit and seeking to help rural hospitals and possibly get some referrals.

Trustee Boyd Foster pointed out, that with the proposed increase, the hospital tax compared favorably with other rural hospitals in the area. Dr. Revell said that was "immaterial if we don't get some major changes for our money."

Revell also took the board to task for not pursuing some type of affiliation with an Amarillo hospital. Schroeder and trustees Stan Fry Jr. and Dr. Randal Vinther discounted the suggestion, saying that had found Amarillo uninterested in working with the Hereford hospital. Schroeder said the Amarillo hospitals had no outreach programs to compare to Lubbock.

Revell said High Plains had offered to help two years ago when he was chief of staff at the hospital. "The response they got was not just no, but hell no," said Revell. He added that he tried to help recruit new doctors but got no cooperation from the hospital administrator.

Schroeder thanked those who attended the meeting for their comments and interest in the hospital.

The board will meet next Tuesday night to formally set the tax rate, and trustees will also hear a presentation from St. Mary's Hospital on a possible affiliation.

Trustees at the meeting were Schroeder, Dr. Vinther, Dr. Fry, Boyd Foster and Mal Manchec.

Discussing waste management

Frank Ford, chairman of the Hereford Area Food Council, chats with Lee E. Ramirez, superintendent of waste management for the City of Lubbock, after Ramirez spoke at a council meeting here Tuesday at Hereford Country Club. Ramirez is widely recognized as an innovative leader in the waste management field.

Waste, recycling are topics at local food council meet

Lee Ramirez, superintendent of sold waste management for the City of Lubbock, was guest speaker for the Hereford Area Food Council meeting here Tuesday at noon at Hereford Country Club.

Frank Ford, chairman of the council, introduced Ramirez as one of the top experts in the country on waste management. "He is applying a common-sense approach to waste management problems instead of a bureaucratic approach, and he has Lubbock far ahead of anyone in the state in this field," said Ford.

Ramirez outlined some of Lubbock's work on its landfill, waste management and recycling efforts. The city has approximately 320 acres for its landfill and Ramirez said the city expects approval of another 200 acres-plus in the near future.

With tough regulations coming from the Texas Department of Health and from the Environmental Protection Agency, Ramirez said recycling is vital in reducing the waste problem.

He currently has a pilot program going to determine how much recycled material can be gathered from two neighborhoods in Lubbock.

The city uses a "blue bag" program in this project, asking all residents of the neighborhood to put recyclable materials in the blue bags and place them beside their dumpster in the alley. The items include newspapers, aluminum, tin food and beverage containers, plastic containers and glass food and beverage containers.

The City of Lubbock has also initiated plans to recycle the city's waste paper. No one had any idea how much paper that would be, he said, but it is averaging about 2,000 pounds a month. Ramirez said contests were planned between different departments, and this added enthusiasm to the project.

The city is also recycling oil, asking residents to pour waste oil into barrels at specific sites. A sandbox and plastic covering is placed around the barrels, but he said there have been no spills as yet. The city sells the oil to recover revenue for its recycling program.

NASA starts countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - NASA headed into the final hours of the countdown for Thursday's launch of Atlantis with a shuttle communications satellite.

The countdown, begun Monday, is NASA's second attempt to get Atlantis off the ground. The first was halted hours before liftoff a week ago because of a bad engine computer. The unit was replaced.

Forecasters put the chances of favorable weather at 80 percent.

"We're not tracking any problems," test director Mike Leinbach said. "The ship is clean. The crew is ready, and we're anxious to get on with this launch."

A major hurdle was cleared Tuesday when NASA gave the final go-ahead for an 11:01 a.m. Thursday liftoff.

They cleared Atlantis for flight after reviewing data from a test shuttle engine that was damaged during ground testing in Mississippi last week.

The damaged engine had been run more than the three main engines on Atlantis and is designed differently, said shuttle director Robert Crippen.

Atlantis' five astronauts will release a $120 million satellite that will join three others that enable Mission Control to communicate with astronauts in space.

Hereford school board eyes preliminary budget figures

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Trustees of Hereford Independent School District held a preliminary budget study Tuesday night, but they'll have to wait to see if the Texas Senate provides full funding before they know for sure about the totals.

The new budget proposes expenditures of $17,299,895 or an increase of $1.2 million over last year. Revenue is projected at $15,990,896 in the new budget, or $1.3 million short of expenses.

Supt. Charles Greenawalt said the preliminary budget was based on revenues "being at the best possible situation." The budget provides $13,200,725 for payroll, leaving $4.1 million where the board can start looking to make cuts, said Greenawalt. The budget also provides a $2.5 million fund balance, and trustees could opt to cut that margin.

The local tax levy is expected to generate about $4.1 million to the total revenues. This is up $164,051 from last year. The state program would provide $10.4 million and the federal program would generate $828,395.

No pay raises are figured into the budget, except the pay-grade steps provided by law. Teachers receive an increase of $1,140 each year for their first 10 years.

The tax rate for the school district was 91.43 cents per $100 valuation last year. The board could raise the rate to almost 98 cents without a rollback election threatening the tax rate. Greenawalt had warned patrons last year that the tax rate would be increasing each year under the state's school financing plan.

The school board will also await the outcome of an election on the new county education district (CED) set up under the Legislature's financing plan. The base rate for the CED is a minimum of 72 cents, but it will be set at a rate which brings in the necessary revenue outlined by a state formula.

A budget hearing will be set later when the board has more information on the funding and the CED election.

In other business Tuesday night, the board approved some early school dismissal days for teacher in-service and approved teacher resignations and the employment of new teachers.

School will dismiss at noon on Sept. 18, 25, Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23. Teacher in-service will be from 1 to 4 p.m. on those dates, and two more hours of staff development meetings will be held to comply with state law requiring 20 hours of in-service during the regular work day.

Resignations were accepted from: Amy Cook, junior high; Sharon Cummings, Shirley; Margo Knox, Shirley; Terry Kosub, junior high; Rene May, high school; Ann McClarty, West Central; Florentino Morales, Shirley; Frances Morales, Northwest; Tamara Price, Bluebonnet; Brenda Trudeau, high school; Sherry Briggs, Bluebonnet.

Summit talks in final round

MOSCOW (AP) - President Bush and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev held a final round of summit talks today in the privacy of a country dacha before signing a landmark treaty to slash nuclear arsenals. The search for peace in the Middle East was high on their agenda.

In the pre-dawn hours, there was a bloody reminder of the tensions between Moscow and the independence-minded Baltic republics. Officials said armed attackers killed six Lithuanian guards and wounded two others at a border post run by the secessionist Lithuanian government.

On Tuesday, Bush had urged Soviet leaders to "find a way to extend freedom to the Baltic peoples" of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Lithuanian officials have blamed Soviet "black beret" Interior Ministry troops for earlier attacks.

Gorbachev publicly raised some complaints Tuesday, prodding the West to ease restrictions on Soviet purchases of high technology goods.

Bush began his last full day in Moscow by paying respects to servicemen slain in World War II, which claimed the lives of 27 million Soviets. Under a bright morning sun, he placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Moscow newlyweds traditionally leave flowers at the stark memorial under a Kremlin wall.

The president on Tuesday announced he would push in the United States to award the Soviet Union most-favored-nation trade status, giving preferential trade benefits for its exports.

Police investigate incidents

Hereford police investigated several incidents Tuesday. No arrests were made although nine citations were issued. No accidents were reported.

A report from a resident in the 500 block of McKinley notified the Police Department that someone called the home, advising the resident that he was a police officer and asking if money or jewelry were in the house.

Other incidents reported include a Class A assault in the 800 block of S. Texas, where a boyfriend was accused of the assault; unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, a three-wheeler, in the 400 block of W. Gracey; harassment by phone in the 500 block of Avenue G; theft of a bicycle valued at $80 in the 300 block of W. Seventh; criminal attempt in the 700 block of E. Park; dog bite in the 200 block of Avenue D, and theft of a license plate in the 400 block of W. First.

Hereford Fire Department responded to an emergency call east of Hereford. A 36-year-old Clovis, N.M., man, Timothy Talley, fell off the back of a truck, about 10 feet to the ground. He was transported to Deaf Smith General Hospital where he was treated and released.

Clear and hot weather forecast

Clear, sunny and warm weather are on tap tonight and Thursday. A low in the middle 60s is expected overnight and the temperature should climb into the middle 90s Thursday. South winds 5 to 10 mph are in the forecast tonight, rising to 10 to 20 mph Thursday.

High Tuesday was 91 and the low Wednesday morning was 62 degrees.

World/National

MOSCOW - Presidents Bush and Mikhail S. Gorbachev are wrapping up a final round of summit talks today by signing a landmark treaty to slash nuclear arsenals and searching anew for a route to peace in the Middle East.

WASHINGTON - The House approved a list of 34 military bases recommended for closure, effectively ending debate over an issue that forced lawmakers to throw thousands of people out of work in exchange for billions of dollars in cost savings.

WASHINGTON - Shortly before NASA launches its 42nd space shuttle flight in Florida on Thursday, a congressional panel will be asking witnesses in Washington why the agency has had so many failures. The timing is coincidental and ironic, brought about by the fact that the shuttle Atlantis couldn't be launched last week because an engine computer did not work.

UNITED NATIONS - U.N. weapons experts say they've found 46,000 chemical weapons in Iraq - about four times what Baghdad has declared - and almost five times as much chemical supplies as Iraq had admitted.

MILWAUKEE - Milwaukee homosexuals trembled with each grisly confession of murder by Jeffrey Dahmer. "People who hate the gay community now know where we're located," said a bartender at a gay club.

WASHINGTON - After a decade of heightened temperance, more Americans are again ordering drinks with dinner. But they're choosing beer and wine and shunning the hard stuff. And they're not drinking nearly as much as they used to, according to a recent survey by the National Restaurant Association.

NEW YORK - TWA will take a detour into bankruptcy court - where four other big airlines have landed since December - under an agreement that will strip chairman Carl C. Icahn of majority ownership.

Senate keeps no-pass, no-play rule Pre-k funding restored by upper house

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Senate voted against weakening the state's no-pass, no-play rule, and for restoring funds for a pre-kindergarten program that was cut by the House.

On no-pass, no-play, senators Tuesday opted in favor of having Texas Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno recommend by 1993 whether changes should be made to the rule.

Under the current no-pass no-play provision, a student cannot participate in extracurricular activities for six weeks if they do not pass all their courses.

A proposal by Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater, would have reduced that to three weeks, if the student improved the failing grade to a passing grade and passed standards set by the commissioner.

Dickson said the no-pass no-play rule hurts the poor and minorities.

But Sen. Bill Haley, D-Center, urged his colleagues to let Commissioner Meno make recommendations to the Legislature. Dickson failed by one vote to kill Haley's motion, which was later adopted.

On pre-kindergarten funding, the House last week voted to cut the program to schools that wanted to offer it to 3-year-olds.

The Senate did not even debate that proposed cut, having reinstated the funds in committee.

"I will gladly let the education bill die before I even thought about wrecking" the pre-kindergarten program, Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, the Senate bill's author, said.

The Senate bill also would reduce funding for ninth-grade vocational education and retain the number of school days per year at 180. The House voted to restore ninth-grade vocational education funding and reduce the number of school days to 175.

Senators also voted to give students who complete high school in three years a $1,000 credit to go to a public college or university. The Senate rejected an amendment, which is in the House bill, that would have also paid those students $1,000 if they wanted to go to a private college.

Senators tangled on funding ninth grade vocational education programs.

Parker's bill would have reduced funding by $54 million, but that provision was dealt a momentary setback when the Senate voted against killing a motion to restore the funding.

Many of those supporting the funding were rural Democrats. Sen.

John Montford, D-Lubbock, chastised them saying, the ones "hollering the loudest" about government spending were the senators voting for the spending. "You can't have it both ways," he said.

Another vote was taken, and the proposal to increase vocational education funding failed.

The Senate also adopted an amendment that would allow a student to participate as a non-voting member of university boards of regents, and a measure to protect freedom of speech on college campuses.

The author of that amendment, Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, said it was aimed at "liberal thought police who - in the name of progressive enlightenment - would stamp out conservative ideas, actions, and speech on our college campuses."

Obituaries

SALLIE DAVIS BENSON July 29, 1991

Former Hereford resident, Sallie Davis Benson, 91, of Clarendon died Monday, July 29, 1991.

Graveside services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Citizens Cemetery with the Rev. Truman Ledbetter, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Arrangements are by Robertson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Benson was born in Donley County and with the exception of several years in Hereford, had lived in Donley County most of her life. She married George Earl Benson in 1926 at Amarillo. He died in 1977. She attended Blue Mountain Baptist College in Mississippi for four years. She was a longtime member of the Pathfinders Club and had served as a board member for the Patching Club House in Clarendon. She was a homemaker and a member of First Baptist Church.

Inflation gets to tooth fairy, too

By CLIFF EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Brace yourself: Rosemary Wells has spent 20 years researching the tooth fairy, and among her findings - the going rate for a tooth under the pillow is one inflation-eroded dollar.

Wells, who runs a desktop publishing business at home, has assembled surveys, articles and some 500 tooth-fairy items - including dolls, pillows, paintings, cartoons and stories - to understand the myth of the dental sprite who dispenses money for molars.

"It's a rite of passage, a very important time in a child's life," she said.

Wells found out through a survey of 2,324 dental patients across the nation that 88 percent of parents use or plan to use the tooth fairy concept with their children. She also found that the going rate is about $1.

Of course, inflation gums things up. A buck in 1991 is worth only 9 cents in 1930 dollars, when a kid got an average of 21 cents, Wells said.

No one knows what the tooth fairy looks like, but almost everyone has ideas.

"You've got your basic Tinkerbell-type tooth fairy with the wings, wand, a little older and whatnot," Wells said recently. "Then you have some people who think of the tooth fairy as a man, or a bunny rabbit or a mouse."

The Chicago-based American

Dental Association, after several hours of brushing up on the subject Monday, issued a no-comment.

The tooth fairy's origins are obscure, Wells said. As far as she can tell, tooth fairy lore really took flight around the turn of the century.

"It's tied to the right of passage, a stage in growth of the individual. The time when we mark off the child's first tooth. It's remembered in every culture and predates Christianity," Wells said.

"Our cultures remembers it with the tooth fairy. Some cultures have a rat or mouse, or they throw it to the sun or they might bury it or a mother keeps it in her apron. The Japanese throw it in the air, hoping the new tooth comes in straight and good."

U.S. House approves extension of highway

A U.S. House committee has given a favorable recommendation for extension of Interstate 27 to the south, tying into I-20.

U.S. Representative Larry Combest of the 19th Congressional District reports that the highway extension has been approved tentatively by the U.S. House Committee on Public Works and Transportation.

"I have worked for this extension as the logical next step to enhance the value of I-27's northern route with its connection to I-20," said the Lubbock Republican.

Exact route of the highway would be chosen by the Texas Department of Highways. The extension could be as long as 110 miles, depending on route.

The House committee's bill recommends expenditure of $4.8 million for preliminary engineering and designs plans.

Combest noted the proposal presents an important opportunity because this is the first time in many years that Congress has reviewed the Federal Interstate System.

"My concern, however, is that the highway bill currently contains a proposed nickel-a-gallon gasoline tax increase," Combest said.

"The 19th Congressional District's own contribution of a nickel-a-gallon extra for this interstate linkup would not bring a return on our investment because Texas pays in more to the Federal Highway Trust Fund than it receives in projects."

Combest said he "strongly disagreed with last year's budget deal that spent increased gas taxes on deficit reduction."

WASTE MANAGEMENT

Ramirez said he has also Saturday drop-off recycling centers to collect materials such as newspapers, glass, plastic, etc. In addition, the city has initiated a program to collect vehicle tires, using a splitter to make them acceptable for the landfill. It is too expensive to recycle them, he added.

The city has also initiated the "Don't Bag It" lawn-care plan, with residents required to leave the clippings or take them in plastic bags to drop-off points. The city uses these clippings for compost on city parks.

A season recycling plan is one that disposes of Christmas trees. Citizens are asked to take their trees to specific sites and throw them on a flatbed trailer. About 6,000 trees were collected last year. The trees are ground up and used to make mulch for use in flower beds at city parks. Ramirez explained that this saves money and helps the plants prosper and also saves the cost of disposing of the trees at the landfill.

About a dozen men attended the food council meeting here Tuesday. The council was formed to promote value-added ag products and additional jobs through expansion of local industry.

The grandchildren and great-grandchildren attending came from Boston, Los Angeles, Phoenix, Dallas, Liberty, Canyon, Bushland, Texline, and other cities. A total of 116 attended the reunion.

Orientation begins for fall at AC

Amarillo College will conduct four New Student Orientation sessions July 29 through Aug. 1 in the College Union Building.

New Student Orientation is open to all interested students, but is required for all new-to-college students who are enrolled in eight or more credit hours.

Sessions are available from 3:30-5:30 p.m. Monday, from 12:30-2:30 p.m. Tuesday, from 3:30-5:30 p.m. Wednesday, all in Badger Den, from 6-8 p.m. Thursday in the Oak/Acorn room.

Sessions with fewer than 15 people making reservations will be canceled, and students will be required to sign up for an alternate time. Students taking eight or more hours in the fall who do not fulfill this requirement will not be permitted to re-enroll.

To make reservations, visit the Student Services Office in the CUB or call 371-5300.

9-year-old cowboy goes to XIT

For most nine-year-old boys going to the XIT Rodeo, excitement is watching the bull-riding and sliding down the grass hills around the concession stand on a cardboard box. Not for Rodey Wilson, though. He'll be one of the 1,000 contestants at the giant rodeo to be held Aug. 1-3 at Dalhart.

According to Rodey's mother, Vicki Wilson, when Rodey went to Dalhart Saturday with his aunt and uncle, Millie and Early, it wasn't to do any roping. When he got there, Vicki said, Early and Johnnie Alford, Rodey's grandmother, convinced him to try to qualify for the team roping event.

Out of 792 total teams trying to qualify in team roping, only 30 made it. Rodey and Early qualified 26th.

Rodey, the heeler, got both legs on both steers (a penalty is assessed if only one leg is roped), and the pair received a total time of 26.10 seconds.

(A team consists of two mounted ropers: the header and the heeler. The header ropes the steer by the neck, then positions the steer so the heeler can rope it around the hind hooves.)

The best time of the roping was 19.61, brought in by a team which included Rodey's cousin, Marty Nicholson, as the heeler.

In fact, Rodey's whole family is involved in rodeos. His father, John, won the calf roping event at the XIT

Young rider

Nine-year-old Rodey Wilson, left, here team-roping with his father John Wilson, will be among the youngest competitors at the XIT Rodeo Aug. 1-3 at Dalhart. He will team with Early Alford in the team-roping event.

Rodeo in 1981, but is down this year with a broken leg. John and Vicki are charter members of the Tri-State High School Rodeo Association.

Rodey's and Marty's uncle is Jim Nicholson, who has a place north of Hereford where Rodey keeps his practice steers and calves. He ropes there nearly every day with cousins Kip Kendrick and Pecos Alford.

Rodey's grandparents, Johnnie and Carl Alford produce team ropings all over Texas and New Mexico, and they own the Circle A Arena at Westway where Vicki said Rodey got his start.

Rodey got hooked on roping at age 2, Vicki said, when he went with his father to the National Feedyard Finals in Elko, Nev.

"He roped the dummy there all week, and has wanted to rope ever since," Vicki said. "He started out riding a horse and entering the barrel race, flag race and pole bending at the age of three. By seven he was breakaway calf-roping, and at eight he won the calf touching at the Earth Junior Rodeo in the 13-15 age group."

This year, Rodey was first and second at Earth's rodeos in May and June, and teamed with Dakota Lewis of Earth to win the team roping at the May Earth Junior Rodeo. At the Hereford Junior Rodeo July 13, Rodey placed in all the roping events.

According to Vicki, "people in Dalhart" said Rodey will be the youngest cowboy competing in the XIT Rodeo. Other Hereford cowboys who will compete at the XIT include Wade Lewis, Lloyd Lujan, Johnny Trotter, Mickey Gomez, Vince Guerra, Bobby Jones and Chris Northcutt.

Olympic medalist gets Tech track job

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Louise Ritter has tasted success as an athlete, winning the gold medal in the high jump at the Summer Olympics in 1988.

Now she says she is ready to taste success as a coach.

Ritter was named head coach of the Texas Tech women's track team Tuesday.

"The gold medal was by far the ultimate highlight in terms of that was what I always wanted," Ritter said during a news conference Tuesday. "But for the first time since the Olympics, I have a new direction and that's what I have been lacking for the past few years."

"After winning the gold there was kind of a letdown and now I am extremely excited about a new beginning in this sport as a head coach."

Ritter, who holds the Olympic and American record in the high jump at 6 feet, 8 inches, will be making her head coaching debut with a program that has never been a contender in the Southwest Conference.

The Lady Red Raiders track team has not finished higher than sixth at a conference meet since 1985.

"Some people may say I'm crazy for taking over a program like this," Ritter said. "But their record in the past is the most exciting part about the job. We will be able to mark our progress, and taking over a program like this can make a young coach look really good if she does her job."

Texas Tech athletic director T. Jones and assistant athletic director Jeannine McHaney announced Ritter's appointment during a news conference Tuesday afternoon.

"(Louise) is an outstanding individual with a myriad of track contacts both nationally and internationally. She is an effective coach and recruiter and will be an excellent role model for Texas Tech athletes," McHaney said.

McHaney said Ritter was one of four finalists among 40 applicants for the job.

Ritter said her experience in competition and having spent most of her life in Texas will help in recruiting.

"Since I was raised and spent my career in Texas, I think recruiting in the state will be a little easier, although all the national and international competition I've had has got to help," she said.

Ritter, a native of Red Oak just south of Dallas, attended Texas Woman's University and made her first Olympic team in 1980, the year the United States boycotted the summer games because of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

But Ritter made the 1984 team and was considered a favorite to finish in the medals before a hip injury ruined her chances.

She entered the 1988 summer games in Seoul, South Korea, at the age of 30, and was considered an underdog to favored Stefka Kostadinova of Bulgaria. But Ritter avoided injury and soared 6-8 to win the gold.

After enduring six surgeries on her left foot and finishing eighth with a leap of 5-11 at the USA Mobil Track and Field Championships June 14, Ritter decided to forgo future competition.

Ritter replaces Jarvis Scott, who resigned in June after 13 years at the Red Raider helm.

Judo was first seen in the United States in 1902 when some Japanese experts gave an exhibition before President Teddy Roosevelt at the White House.

Career back-up Laufenberg released

AUSTIN (AP) - Babe Laufenberg always knew he wouldn't be the Dallas Cowboys' starting quarterback. After all, Troy Aikman has that spot nailed down for years to come.

But it's ironic that the time Laufenberg did spend as the Cowboys' top signal-caller probably got him fired for the eighth time in his NFL career.

Coach Jimmy Johnson said he released Laufenberg, whose only start was a 26-7 thrashing by the Atlanta Falcons in Dallas' final game of the 1990 regular season, because Laufenberg had no chance of making the team.

"It's disappointing from a standpoint that you didn't accomplish what you set out to accomplish," Laufenberg said Tuesday. "But by the same token, everything's fine in my life."

"I want to play quarterback," he said. "But I don't want anybody feeling sorry for me."

The seven-year veteran from Indiana, who was signed by Dallas in 1989, came into camp wondering if he'd get a fair shake after his dismal performance at the end of last season.

"We felt it would be in Babe's best interest, because he wasn't getting a lot of work," Johnson said. "This gives him an opportunity to catch on with another club if there's an opening around the league. I didn't think it was fair to Babe to have him here in camp not working, just for insurance purposes."

The man who helped send Laufenberg packing, Cliff Stoudt, agreed.

"I can sympathize with how Babe's feeling the last few weeks not getting any reps," Stoudt said. "If they are going to do this it's better to go ahead and do it now."

Stoudt was signed by Dallas at the close of the 1990 season as an emergency quarterback after Aikman went down with a separated shoulder.

He dressed as Laufenberg's backup in the finale against Atlanta as Laufenberg struggled through a 10-of-24 afternoon. The defeat was a crippling blow to Dallas' hopes for a wild card playoff spot.

"I think the coaches lost confidence in me after that," Laufenberg said. "I just wish I'd had more of a chance."

Laufenberg hadn't taken a snap in two scrimmages against the Houston Oilers in training camp. He said last week "you'd have to be a blind man not seeing the handwriting on the wall."

Johnson said the backup job is Stoudt's to lose. Rookie Bill Musgrave is fighting for a job as the Cowboys' third quarterback.

"It wasn't anything that Babe didn't do," Johnson said. "In the final analysis, it was the performance of Cliff Stoudt."

Stoudt completed 11 of 16 passes for 134 yards and two touchdowns in last Thursday's 30-30 scrimmage tie against the Houston Oilers.

Laufenberg's NFL passing totals are 93 of 211 for 1,057 yards and five touchdowns. He has 11 career interceptions.

"This is just a formality," Laufenberg said as he prepared to leave the Cowboys' camp at St. Edward's University. "I wasn't getting time in practices or the scrimmages. I wasn't competing for a job so maybe it's just as well."

Team roping, barrel racing set for Jubilee

Jackpot team roping and barrel races will be held Aug. 6 at the Hereford Riders Arena as part of the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee.

The barrel racing jackpot will be determined by the number of entries. Books open at 5:30 p.m., and the races start at 6 p.m.

The roping jackpot is $150 added money, with books opening at 6:30 p.m. and roping starting at 7 p.m.

Fite leads North to 24-7 win in Whataburger all-star game

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Louis Fite of Waco scored two touchdowns, including an 87-yard punt return, leading the North to a 24-7 victory over the South in the 57th annual Whataburger All-Star game Tuesday.

Fite, last year's Class 5A rushing champion, also was named the game's most valuable offensive player. He rushed 10 times for 20 yards.

Fite received a football scholarship to Baylor, but failed to qualify academically and plans to attend Navarro College.

The North's Sam Adams of Cypress Creek, who will attend Texas A&M, made six tackles and was named the defensive player of the game in a vote by sportswriters.

Fite's first score, a 7-yard run, came early in the third quarter after Marshall's Willis Hudson recovered a fumble by quarterback Tommy Preston of A&M Consolidated at the South's 7.

Jason Fernandez' extra-point try was blocked by Patrice Alexander of Galveston Ball, but Neal Mayfield of Big Spring recovered the ball in the end zone to give the North an 11-3 lead.

The South was stopped on its next drive, and Fite carried the ensuing punt 87 yards for the longest punt return in the game's history. Johnny Humdon of Daingerfield scored on an 81-yard return in the 1986 game.

The North led 17-7 with 11:02 left in the third period after Fernandez' extra-point kick was blocked by Steve Strahan of Aldine.

Terry Collier of Munday added a 13-yard touchdown run with 1:34 to go in the third quarter, putting the North ahead 24-7.

For the South, Rodney Thomas of Groveton carried 10 times for 50 yards, including a 19-yarder. North quarterback Ken Collums of Vernon carried 4 times for 46 yards.

The North opened the game with a drive that sputtered at its own 21, but the South's Darnell Stephens of Converse Judson dropped the ensuing 34-yard punt. Corby Walker of Llano recovered the ball at the South's 41 with 10:41 remaining in the opening quarter.

The North, powered by a 17-yard run by Ken Neill of Reagan County, drove to the 19, where Fernandez of Southlake Carroll booted a 36-yard field goal.

Canseco ignores fan abuse, blasts Yanks

By The Associated Press
When Jose Canseco comes to New York, baseball seems to become secondary at Yankee Stadium. The Oakland Athletics right fielder becomes the center of attention. Especially since his late-night visit to Madonna's building earlier this season. He was the focus again Tuesday night, this time for his two-run homer in the seventh inning, which gave Oakland a 6-5 victory over New York and a five-game winning streak. "The crowd here is the worst," Canseco said. He should know. Fans threw trash and an inflatable doll at him in right field Monday night and continued to taunt him Tuesday, when he was Oakland's designated hitter. "I didn't miss it," Canseco said after someone asked if he would rather have been in the outfield. He may have had the night off on defense, but he made the difference on offense. With Oakland trailing 5-4, Dave Henderson singled off Wade Taylor (5-6) and Canseco followed with his major league-leading 28th home run. He also leads the big leagues with 81 RBIs. Curt Young (3-2), the second of five Oakland pitchers, was the winner and Dennis Eckersley pitched a hitless ninth for his 27th save in 32 chances.

Red Sox 11, Rangers 6
Carlos Quintana tied a major league record by driving in six runs in one inning. Quintana hit his first career grand slam off Oil Can Boyd (0-2) and a two-run double off Wayne Rosenthal as the Red Sox scored 10 runs in the third. Quintana became the 11th player in major league history to drive in six runs in one inning, the first since Atlanta's Dale Murphy in 1989. He is the first American Leaguer to do it since Washington's Jim Lemon in 1959. Rookie Kevin Morton (2-2) allowed four runs and eight hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Mariners 8, Orioles 2
Ken Griffey Jr. hit his second grand slam in eight games. Griffey, who hit his first career grand slam in a 6-1 victory at Yankee Stadium on July 24, hit his 12th home run this year in a six-run second against Roy Smith (5-3). Bill Krueger (9-3) won his fifth consecutive decision, allowing both runs and eight hits in 6 1-3 innings.

and Ron Karkovice. Toronto came back to tie with a run in the fourth and four in the fifth. Scott Radinsky (3-3) pitched two scoreless innings and Bobby Thigpen pitched a perfect ninth for his 24th save in 30 chances. Brewers 9, Royals 3 Paul Mollitor, who came up to the majors in 1978, got his 2,000th career hit and Darryl Hamilton drove in four runs. Don August (8-5) allowed three runs and seven hits in six innings and Dan Plesac finished with one-hit relief for his eighth save.

Bret Saberhagen (7-5) gave up seven runs and eight hits in five innings. Twins 9, Tigers 7 Shane Mack had the first four-hit game of his career and Carl Willis (6-2) pitched 4 1-3 innings of shutout, three-hit relief. Minnesota, 13-5 since the All-Star break, got 17 hits off five pitchers, but starter Scott Erickson gave up five runs and seven hits in three innings. John Cerutti (1-3) allowed four runs and six hits in two innings. Angels 4, Indians 2 Kirk McCaskill won for the first time since June 25, and Wally Joyner and Dave Parker drove in runs as California broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth. McCaskill (8-13) ended his five-game losing streak, allowing two runs and six hits in seven innings. Bryan Harvey struck out all four batters he faced for his 25th save in 28 chances. Dave Otto (0-1) got his first major league decision in his 16th career appearance.

Braves own Pirates; 10-3 win 3rd in row

By The Associated Press
There's something about the Atlanta Braves that is bringing out the worst in the Pittsburgh Pirates this season. Terry Pendleton and Lonnie Smith keyed a 13-hit attack as the Braves rallied for four runs in the sixth inning and six in the seventh to pound Pittsburgh 10-3 Tuesday night. The Braves hold an 8-3 series edge on the first-place Pirates. "We've played pretty good against them," manager Bobby Cox said.

"We've gotten decent pitching and hit a little bit. There's no magic." The Pirates were coasting 3-0 behind Paul Miller, making his major league debut, when the right-hander lost his control in the sixth inning, loading the bases with none out on two walks and a single to bring on reliever Bill Landrum. Landrum (1-2) walked Ron Gant to force in a run and Lonnie Smith followed with an RBI single. Jeff Blauser then hit a sacrifice fly before

Brian Hunter singled for the fourth run of the inning. "I was going alright until the last inning," Miller said. "I just choked in the sixth and it hurt us." The Braves blew it open in the seventh off Landrum, getting six hits and scoring six runs, including a bunt single by Otis Nixon, who extended his hitting streak to 19 games. Smith and Hunter each had RBI hits in the two big innings, while Pendleton had a walk and RBI single and scored twice. Nixon stole his league-leading 58th base of the season in the seventh. Jeff Parrett (1-2) got the victory with one scoreless inning of relief. Ken Merker picked up his sixth save with three scoreless innings.

Giants 10, Expos 3
Will Clark and Matt Williams each homered twice off Ron Darling (5-8). There were six homers among the 19 hits in the game, including two by the Expos' Ivan Calderon. Trevor Wilson (7-9) survived the two homers by Calderon to get the victory. He allowed five hits and three runs in seven innings. Francisco Oliveras and Bryan Hickerson finished.

of the 10th, but Chuck McElroy (5-1) gave up a leadoff homer to O'Neill, his 17th, and a one-out homer to Doran. Rob Dibble (1-1) got the win despite giving up a go-ahead sacrifice fly in the top of the inning to George Bell. The Cubs hit four solo homers off Tom Browning, two by Bell, to rally for a 4-all tie after seven innings.

Phillies 2, Padres 1
Jose DeJesus overcame wildness to pitch eight strong innings. DeJesus (7-4) got the victory despite walking seven. He scattered seven hits and struck out two. Mitch Williams pitched a scoreless ninth for his 19th save. The Phillies took a 2-1 lead in the seventh on John Kruk's RBI double off Dennis Rasmussen (3-8).

Ryan might go on injured list

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The pitching news for the Texas Rangers isn't all bad. The Rangers say they will decide today whether to place Nolan Ryan on the disabled list for the second time this season because of a shoulder injury. An injured Ryan is bad news. But the Rangers are trying to generate some good news by juggling their rotation. Lefthander Brian Bohanon is back only seven months after shoulder surgery. Bohanon was scratched from a start with Class AAA Oklahoma City Tuesday so he can start for the Rangers Friday at Milwaukee. He'll join Texas tonight in Chicago. A roster move to activate Bohanon will be made before that game. The 23-year-old will become the 12th starter and 22nd pitcher used by the Rangers this season. Bohanon, who had torn cartilage removed from his left shoulder in January, was 0-4 with a 2.91 ERA in seven starts with Oklahoma City. He gave up three or fewer runs in six of his seven minor league starts. Ryan will miss at least one start and may throw only twice in the first two weeks of August because of muscle spasms in his right shoulder, the Rangers said Tuesday. "He has not been placed on the disabled list. He will be re-evaluated when he gets to Chicago," said Rangers spokesman Larry Kelly. "At that time, if there's no improvement in his status, it's unlikely that he will pitch on the current road trip." The Rangers closed out a two-game series Tuesday with an 11-6 loss to Boston and will play at Chicago tonight. Manager Bobby Valentine has decided not to use Ryan in the pitcher's next scheduled start Friday at Milwaukee. Valentine said he wants Ryan to pitch next Monday and again Aug. 12, the first and last days of the upcoming homestand. "He will sit down and talk with the trainers, and be examined," Kelly said. "He will talk with Valentine about it." Ryan has been bothered by the injury most of the season. Ryan walked away from Sunday's start against Detroit after 5 1-3 innings because of stiffness in his shoulder. The pitcher's condition showed little improvement during his weight-lifting session Monday in Arlington. "It could've been better," Ryan said. The Rangers also reported that reliever Jeff Russell has tendinitis in his right elbow, but will try to pitch through the condition. They said Bobby Witt will return to the rotation Thursday for a start against Chicago. In another change, John Barfield will drop out of the rotation and possibly go on the disabled list because of a neck condition. Ryan's missed start will be his fourth because of shoulder problems. The pitcher has also taken himself out of three games because of the problem. "With Nolan, if you weren't prepared for this to happen, you haven't been around," Valentine said.

Astros 7, Cardinals 5
Mark Davidson hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Casey Candaele walked and scored on Davidson's second homer of the season on a 2-1 pitch from Kris Carpenter (7-3). Al Osuna (6-3) got the victory with two innings of relief. Felix Jose's two-run homer in the eighth inning, St. Louis' third of the game, tied the score 5-5 with two out.

Dodgers 3, Mets 1
Ramon Martinez pitched a six-hitter for his 14th victory, retiring 20 of the final 21 batters. Martinez (14-6) walked one and struck out six. Kal Daniels homered on a 3-2 pitch from Pete Schourek (2-1) with two on and two out in the first. Schourek pitched six innings, giving up four hits while walking two and striking out eight. All three runs were unearned.

Reds 6, Cubs 5
Paul O'Neill and Bill Doran hit solo homers in the 10th inning. The Cubs took a 5-4 lead in the top

Coke cans Jordan

By DAVID DISHNEAU
AP Business Writer
CHICAGO (AP) - Coca-Cola Co. says Michael Jordan will no longer pitch its products, but that doesn't mean the basketball star is being benched from the product-endorsement game. In fact, Jordan remains the most visible celebrity spokesman in the United States. He plugs products for 13 companies in addition to Coke, which has made "a strategic and financial decision" not to renew a two-year contract with the athlete, said company spokesman Bob Bertini. That contract expires today. Jordan reportedly will jump from Coke to Gatorade, but some marketing experts wonder whether his heavy roster of endorsements is crippling his effectiveness as a pitchman. "It's the law of diminishing returns," said Al Ries of the marketing consulting firm Trout & Ries in Greenwich, Conn. "The more products a celebrity endorses, the less valuable that celebrity becomes to any one of those products." Jordan, a guard for the NBA champion Chicago Bulls, should be familiar to anyone who watches television or reads magazines. In addition to the Coke ads, he munches McDonald's hamburgers, wears Nike shoes, dribbles Wilson basketballs and fills his bowl with Wheaties.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: With your willingness and capacity to tap the best information sources, I hope you can find an answer to a question I believe is, or should be, of general interest to women.

Let's say an unescorted female is walking alone on a street. She sees an unsavory-looking man walking toward her. Should she avoid eye contact if he appears to be sizing her up, or should she meet his gaze assertively? And what if a similar scene should occur in a parking lot?

I seem to recall having read conflicting advice on this subject. Two local policemen said they "hadn't thought about it" and gave no answer. I can't believe that there isn't a right and wrong way to behave in such a situation. Please, Ann, which is safer -- to look tough and aggressive, or to look away?

Thanks for a definitive answer on behalf of all potentially vulnerable females from a -- Regular Reader in Houston

DEAR REGULAR READER: According to Commander Jose Velez at the Chicago Police Department and Cheryl Pearson of YWCA-Metro Chicago Women's Services, it is best to establish eye contact assertively and let the man know you are aware of his presence. It will also help identify him later.

If a woman does not feel comfortable making eye contact she should do something else to acknowledge his presence, such as walk to the other side of the street or move her handbag in a way that lets him know she suspects he might be after it.

No matter what she does it will not provoke an attack if the man has no such intentions, nor will it prevent an attack if he is out to get her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I will soon be sending out wedding invitations to our daughter's wedding. We are having a difference in opinion and decided to let you settle it.

I have always believed that only a physician or a dentist should be addressed as "Dr." in a social setting. My husband disagrees. He feels that anyone who has worked hard enough to earn a Ph.D. should be recognized and called "Dr."

I have a Ph.D. in economics but I would feel very uncomfortable if anyone called me "Dr. Thompson." While I am proud of what I have accomplished, I don't feel the need to call attention to it.

What do you say, Ann? -- J.K.T., Chicago

DEAR CHICAGO: Most Ph.D.s do not use "Dr." socially. Those who are in the field of education, however, often use the Ph.D. professionally.

In the case of wedding invitations, I think it would look odd to use "Dr." Understatement is a lot classier than overstatement.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father-in-law died last fall. He weighed 300 pounds. The dear man had several double-breasted suits. If I took the jacket of one, rolled up the sleeves and put on skin tight pants, three sizes too small, got into my 3-inch heels (with anklets) and combed my hair with an egg beater, would I be in style? -- R.B. from Springfield, Ill.

DEAR R.B.: Probably. And if you felt that your "fashion statement" wasn't going over, you could take off everything and go out in your underwear.

1940 era remembered with hat display

The Deaf Smith County Museum remembers the 1940 hat era with a display in their hat shop. Most of the hats were donated to the museum by Una Norton Hutchson, a pioneer woman. Her family settled in Deaf Smith County in 1898. She had a millinery shop on Main. She then moved to Amarillo and had millinery in Blackburn Brothers and White and Kirk.

TB cases increase in Texas 19 percent

A 19 percent increase in new cases of tuberculosis this year has the Texas Department of Health officials concerned that the disease has achieved epidemic status.

Some 1,079 new cases of tuberculosis were reported during the same time period in 1990.

Dr. Michael Kelley, chief of TDH's Bureau of Disease Control and Epidemiology, said, "If this increase holds for the rest of the year, we'll have at least 2,500 new TB cases in the state this year. That's 258 more than in 1990."

According to Kelley, U.S. health officials in the '60s and '70s predicted the eradication of tuberculosis from this country by the early part of the next century. "That's still our goal. But we've obviously got to reverse the current trend," Kelley said. The annual number of new TB cases has risen steadily in Texas since 1987. Today, more than 15,000 persons in Texas are being treated for tuberculosis disease or infection.

"I'm especially concerned with the increase in cases among children. Last year, the total number of new cases among all age groups was 17 percent higher than in 1989. But the number of new cases among children under 14 years old was 72 percent higher," Kelley said.

Kelley attributes the reemergence of tuberculosis to several factors including: increase drug and alcohol abuse, homelessness, prison overcrowding, HIV infection, the influx of the disease from other countries and especially to poverty and poor access to medical care in most high risk groups. Some of these factors lead to a weakened immune system, resulting in the inability of the body's natural defenses to fight off the TB germ. Other factors facilitate the spread of TB.

"TB is caused by a bacteria present in sputum from an infected person. The TB germs are typically expelled into the air during coughing, laughing, sneezing or singing and transmitted when another person inhales the germs. TB is detected through skin tests, X-rays, and sputum sample analysis. TB is usually curable if the patient complies with physician-prescribed treatment.

While most cases of TB attacks the lungs, it can also affect the brain, kidneys, spine and other organs. Symptoms of TB can include: weakness, nausea, weight loss, fever, night sweats, cough, chest pain and coughing up blood.

Of the 2,242 new cases of TB reported in Texas in 1990, 40 percent were among Hispanics, 28 percent Anglos and 26 percent among Blacks. Though Texas counties along the U.S.-Mexico border account for about nine percent of the state's population, they accounted for 18 percent of the new TB cases reported in 1990.

As part of a nationwide U.S. Center of Disease Control program to eradicate TB by 2010, TDH and the American Lung Association are co-sponsoring a conference on TB diagnosis and treatment for physicians July 24-25 in Austin. According to Kelley, the conference will offer the latest methods of patient diagnosis and management, an appreciation of the magnitude of the TB problems in Texas and will emphasize the difficulties of detecting and treating TB in high-risk population groups.

More information about the conference is available from TDH's Tuberculosis Control Division, 512-458-7447.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Maria Shriver and Arnold Schwarzenegger are the proud parents of a second daughter.
Shriver, 35-year-old niece of President Kennedy, gave birth Tuesday at an undisclosed Los Angeles hospital, publicist Charlotte Parker said.

The couple's first child, Katherine Eunice, was born in 1989. The new baby has yet to be named and her vital statistics were not immediately available.

"Katherine is just thrilled about her new baby sister," said Schwarzenegger, 43. "We feel so privileged to have another child. We're so happy."

Schwarzenegger's latest film, "Terminator 2: Judgment Day," is the summer's blockbuster hit. Shriver is host of NBC's "First Person with Maria Shriver."

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to. Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing. So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent. Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examines the latest market trends an housing opportunities. With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Is it possible to freeze cherries? If so, how long will they keep? — A. Richter, San Francisco, Calif.

Yes, it is, and our friends at the Cherry Marketing Institute, Inc. shared the following tips on freezing.

- Cherries with stems can be stored longer than those without stems.
- Cherries can easily be frozen for year-round enjoyment.
- Simply select the quantity of cherries desired; pits and stems may be left intact or removed.
- Wash the fruit and drain on paper towels.
- Place in heavy-duty, airtight freezer-safe plastic bags and freeze.
- It's best to freeze cherries in amounts that can be used at one time.
- Remove them from the freezer just prior to usage. Never allow frozen cherries to thaw completely if you are going to eat them because they become soft and mushy, but if you are cooking with them, they can be thawed completely.
- Frozen cherries will last about six to 12 months. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: I use a rolling pin to crush crackers for a favorite recipe. It takes little time and isn't messy at all. I place the crackers in a resealable plastic bag, leave a little space open for air to escape and roll away. Works perfectly every time! — Lorraine Anderson, Salt Lake City, Utah

This is a favorite of our readers. Thanks for writing. — Heloise

BUTTER COOKIES

Dear Heloise: When preparing butter cookies, instead of chilling the dough in a ball (as many recipes suggest, making it difficult to roll out later), I roll the soft dough between two sheets of plastic wrap to the desired thickness, then chill for the required hour.

The dough is then ready to be cut, needs no handling and doesn't stick to the cookie cutters.

The remaining dough will have to be rerolled between the plastic sheets, but it is still easy to handle. — Janet Faithful, Summit, N.J.

EMPTY SQUEEZE BOTTLES

Dear Heloise: I have found a great use for empty squeeze bottles from condiments. After I wash and dry one, I can use it as a dispenser to hold frosting to decorate cakes or even pastries. — Logan Rozelle, Philadelphia, Pa.

Recycling hints are my favorites, and yours is a definite winner! Cake decorators everywhere will appreciate this handy idea. — Heloise

Q. Can you tell me how to remove chewing gum from the bottom of my shoes? It seems you can't go for a short walk without stepping in at least one piece. — T.C., Elizabethtown, Ky.

A. You are right! Gum is a nuisance. Try spraying it with pre-wash spray or a spray lubricating oil. Let it set for a few minutes before wiping it off with a paper towel or a piece of nylon net. It should be easy to remove. — Heloise

Other uses for flannel-backed plastic tablecloths:

- Cut and make into place mats.
- Use to cover items left out in the rain.
- Use as a ground cover at the beach or on a picnic.
- Cover the plastic pad on a baby-changing table.
- Use on bed (flannel side up) under the bottom sheet when young children visit.

TONGUE DEPRESSORS

Dear Heloise: I could never find a stick to stir small cans of paint or varnish, so I'd end up using a ruler or something else I'd need later. I finally purchased a box of wooden tongue depressors. They work great! — Mary Ann Carter, Mandeville, La.

KEY RINGS

Dear Heloise: I've found a good alternative for a key ring: a metal shower-curtain hook.

It's easy to slip the key on and off without pinching fingers or breaking nails and I can have fun decorating it my way. — Jean Ortiz, Roswell, N.M.

Trunks, trunks, trunks

Approximately 50 cars will be parked at Sugarland Mall Saturday, Aug. 3, from 8-11 a.m. with their trunks filled with "white elephant" treasures. From left, Little Sister Nora Mata and Big Sister Lori Parker are preparing for the big event. Profits from the sale will benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Tri State Fair parade postponed until end

The big parade that normally marks the opening of the Amarillo Tri State Fair will be held on Sept. 21, the last day of the fair this year. The change was necessary because of a changed public school schedule whereby Amarillo public schools will be in session on the first day of the fair.

Marching bands, floats, military units, clowns and horses will march down Polk Street in downtown Amarillo beginning at 10 a.m. The theme of the parade is "God Bless America."

Cash awards of $400 will be given to the top three floats that best follow the theme of the parade. In addition, some fourteen trophies will be awarded for the best entries in the categories of military, equestrian, band (5 trophies), junior ROTC, youth units and other adult entries. Winners are determined by a panel of judges selected by John Kuhn, parade chairman. Winners will be presented awards at 5:30 p.m. on Sept. 21 on the outdoor stage at the fair.

Leading this year's parade and serving as honorary parade marshal will be Amarillo attorney and Lt. General Selden Simpson, U.S. Army (retired).

There is no charge for entering the parade, but an entry must be submitted or mailed to the fair office by Sept. 10. For entry forms or additional information, contact the fair office at 806-376-7767 or write Tri State Fair, P.O. Box 31087, Amarillo Tx, 79120.

AC sponsors class

Amarillo College will be sponsoring a Medication Aide class starting Aug. 20 at Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt.

This class will permit nurse aides to administer medications in a nursing home or long term care facility. The class is scheduled from Aug. 20 to Oct. 30 and will be taught by Mitzie Brockman, RN. It will meet on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Requirements for the class include a high school diploma or GED and one must have worked in a long term care facility or nursing home for at least 90 days prior to registration. The cost of the class is $138 for tuition, $25 state testing fee and approximately $60 for books.

If interested, please contact Linda Rasor at Canterbury Villa at 647-3117.

Put all your business risks in one package.

A single package of business insurance gives you more than convenience. It also assures you that your buildings, contents and liability exposures are fully covered and that you're not paying extra for duplicate coverage from separate sources.

Our independent agency often recommends the Business Account Program from the CNA Insurance Companies, one of several we represent. One reason is the broad coverage which is provided automatically by this program. And there's never a doubt about who's responsible for your coverage when a claim occurs.

Let us help provide you with a package policy specially designed for your business.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I got my cholesterol report today and it was 212. My HDL-cholesterol was only 25. I have been taking two Lorelco, 600 mg, each day. The doctor wants me to start on Mevacor 20 mg. I was on it for a while and it messed up my right eye. The eye doctor took me off it. I do not want to start it again. I was told it affects your liver and eyes. Some times I think a heart attack is no worse than liver trouble and going blind.

If I could get my HDL up I don't think they would say much. When I was on Mevacor before, it just got up to 35. I don't know what to do. Would certain foods help? I ride a bike every day and walk two miles about three days a week. I'm 69 years old.

DEAR READER: I would agree that your main problem is your rather low HDL level. Lorelco has probably lowered your total cholesterol but it can lower the HDL-cholesterol, and the higher it is, in general, the less your risk of having a heart attack.

Mevacor is a popular medicine and it lowers total cholesterol and may raise your HDL-cholesterol, which is a desirable effect. It is not clear what its effects on the eyes really are. There has been some concern that it may increase the risk of cataracts. However, because the data is not strong and you are 69, if you do have cataracts it may be totally unrelated to Mevacor.

Lopid (gemfibrozil) usually lowers the LDL-cholesterol (bad cholesterol) and raises the HDL-cholesterol. It should not be used with Mevacor.

Niacin (nicotinic acid) usually lowers total cholesterol and raises the HDL-cholesterol level. You might want to try it, but use it properly to avoid complications and have your doctor monitor it for you.

Look through the various medicines used to control cholesterol in my discussion, Which Cholesterol Medication?, which I am sending you. Others who want this information can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/35-10, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

Not enough attention is given to decreasing blood clotting with a small dose of aspirin to decrease the risk of heart attacks. Aspirin also helps avoid certain unpleasant side effects of niacin. It is possible that the combination would go a long way toward decreasing your risk. And you might do well to increase your walking to a daily program.
