

GEO says Fed needs tighter purse strings

By KAREN GULLO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Reserve, whose policies determine whether Americans spend more or save more, should be keeping a tighter rein on its own purse strings, according to a General Accounting Office draft report.

Expenses at the nation's central bank have surged twice as fast as the rate of inflation that the Fed tries so hard to contain, rising 50 percent to $2 billion in 1994 from $1.36 billion in 1988. With other government agencies and corporate America slashing costs, the Fed needs to put on the brakes, the GAO said.

It recommended merging or closing offices, streamlining management, turning over some functions to private companies and instituting better controls over spending.

"The cost to operate the Federal Reserve System has increased steadily and substantially," said the 200-page draft obtained Monday by The Associated Press. The GAO released the report after Democratic Senators Byron Dorgan of North Dakota and Harry Reid of Nevada, who requested the study, publicized its contents.

The senators said the Fed could start becoming more accountable to taxpayers by turning over to the Treasury some $3.7 billion it sets aside to cover losses that it has virtually no chance of incurring.

The Fed's so-called "surplus account" is supposed to provide a cushion in case the central bank loses money trading foreign currencies or on loans to commercial banks.

The Fed, established in 1913, hasn't booked a loss in 79 years.

Even if it did ever lose money, it's unlikely there would ever be a loss so big as to justify socking away nearly $4 billion, Dorgan told reporters.

"The money should be returned to taxpayers," he told reporters. He plans to introduce legislation to eliminate the fund and make the Fed get Congressional approval for most of its budget. Currently, the Fed is not subject to the appropriations process.

The criticisms come on the eve of Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan's confirmation hearings before the Senate Banking Committee.

Greenspan, who has urged Congress to eliminate the budget deficit, was nominated by President Clinton for a third four-year term as head of the U.S. central bank. The Fed sets interest rates, prints money, clears checks, regulates commercial banks and oversees a vast portfolio of government securities.

Nieman honored

O.G. "Speedy" Nieman, center, publisher of The Hereford Brand is inducted into the Panhandle Press Association Hall of Fame by PPA president and Plainview Daily Herald publisher Rollie Hyde, left, during ceremonies Saturday at the association's convention in Amarillo. Nieman was among four area newsmen named to the Hall of Fame. Also inducted were Dick Reavis, former publisher of the Moore County News, the late Wes Izzard and the late Olin Hinkle.

Hereford firefighters aid Wellington department

When a fire destroyed the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department's building and equipment, firefighters from throughout the region stepped up to lend a helping hand.

The fire broke out Sunday night, gutting the building and destroying all the trucks owned by the 80-year-old department. It was suspected that the fire started in a malfunctioning heater.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department -- which two years ago lost a truck in a fire -- is among the many departments to step forward with assistance.

Fire Marshal Jay Spain said the department loaned Wellington a "roll-out" unit that includes a 300-gallon tank and pump unit to be mounted in a pickup truck to make a temporary grass truck.

The setup was used here two years ago when Booster 3 was destroyed while fighting a grass fire.

In addition, Spain said, because the Hereford department has recently purchased new bunker gear, the old uniforms have been loaned to Wellington until they can buy new gear.

Panel OKs insurance for county

Liability insurance for public officials and law enforcement personnel of Deaf Smith County will cost $37,294 for the next year, a reduction of approximately $4,159 from the last year's premium.

Commissioners' Court accepted the bid from the Texas Association of Counties insurance department.

A bid from Plains Insurance Company of Hereford amounted to $33,496 but did not provide coverage with comparable deductibles or claimant provisions.

The bid from TAC allows a four percent discount to be applied to the workers' compensation insurance carried by the county, reported Chris Fought, representing TAC at the commission meeting. TAC has provided coverage in the last few years.

The TAC coverage deductible for both public officials and law enforcement is $5,000. Coverage limit is $2 million.

The Plains bid offered deductibles of $5,000 for public officials and $10,000 for law enforcement. The limit also is $2 million.

On motion of Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4 and second by Commissioner Tony Castillo of Precinct 1, the TAC bid was accepted. Commissioners Lupe Chavez of Precinct 2 and Troy Don Moore of Precinct 3 also voted for the motion.

In other business of the county, commissioners approved the request of Castillo to advertise for a precinct road and bridge worker and granted permission, asked by Latham to advertise for bids to sell a forklift.

Crofford files for re-election

Dean Crofford, who is completing his first two-year term on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board, has filed for reelection.

Crofford, owner of Crofford Automotive, becomes the third candidate for the at-large election set for May 4. Incumbent Steve Cortez and challenger Mark Collier had previously filed as candidates.

Four seats will be up for election. Terms expiring are those held by Crofford, Cortez, Boyd Foster and Larry Watts. Foster and Watts are expected to file before the April 4 deadline.

Hospital board candidates must submit a petition with the names of at least 25 qualified voters. Petition forms can be obtained in the administrative office at Hereford Regional Medical Center.

Gramm to come here

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas will visit Hereford this weekend, The Hereford Brand has learned.

An aide in Gramm's Washington D.C. office confirmed the senator and former presidential candidate is planning a visit here on Sunday.

However, details of the trip have not been finalized.

The stop is tentatively set for 4:45 p.m. Sunday at the Hereford airport. Additional details will be made public after travel plans are finalized.

Edmund Muskie dead at 81 after heart attack

Ex-Secretary of State, senator succumbs one week after successful artery surgery

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie, a longtime senator whose emotional defense of his wife may have cost him the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, died early today after suffering a heart attack. He would have been 82 on Thursday.

He underwent successful surgery last week to clear a blocked artery in his leg but suffered a heart attack a few days later while still at Georgetown University Hospital, said his assistant, Carole Parmelee of the law firm Chadbourne and Parke. Muskie died at 4:06 a.m. EST, the hospital said.

The former Maine governor and senator joined the law firm in 1981 after serving as secretary of state under President Carter.

President Clinton praised Muskie as "a dedicated legislator and caring public servant" and said he was "a leader in the best sense. He spoke from his heart and acted with conviction. Generations to come will benefit from his steadfast commitment to protecting the land."

As Secretary of State, Muskie guided the successful negotiations to free 52 American hostages held in Iran. He was awarded the presidential Medal of Freedom later that year, in 1981.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, Jane Muskie, five children and seven grandchildren. Arrangements were being made for burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Carter said, "I have never known any American leader who was more highly qualified to be president of the United States. His coolness under pressure and his sound judgment helped him play a crucial role in bringing all the American hostages home from Iran to safety and freedom, and he was always careful to give credit to others for this achievement." was inaugurated as president.

In 1972, Muskie was an early favorite to win the Democratic presidential nomination but lost to then-Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota.

Campaigning in the New Hampshire primary, Muskie was speaking from a flatbed trailer outside the Manchester Union Leader newspaper, denouncing a story critical of his wife, when he broke down in angry emotion.

The episode came to symbolize the collapse of his quest for the White House. "It changed people's minds about me, of what kind of guy I was," he later told author Theodore H. White. "They were looking for a strong, steady man, and here I was weak."

Muskie won the primary but without the clear majority his managers had forecast over McGovern, who went on to win the nomination.

Recalling the incident, McGovern told The Associated Press today, "I never believed that...diminished him in the least. Indeed, it was an indication of his humanity and his essential decency. Ed Muskie gave us a rare combination of a tough mind, a caring heart, an unquestioned character, a unique humor and a steady commitment to the public interest."

"We have been cordial friends and mutual admirers over the last quarter of a century. I'm going to miss him keenly," said McGovern, who now heads the Middle East Policy Council in Washington.

McGovern ultimately won the 1972 nomination - losing in a landslide to President Richard Nixon in the general election - and Muskie quickly resumed his duties in the

Mrs. Bush hails book festival that will promote Texas writers

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas first lady Laura Bush, a former librarian, is sharing her love of books with the rest of the state.

On Monday, she announced creation of the Texas Book Festival, which she said will be an annual event to promote Texas writers. The festival is Nov. 15-16; Mrs. Bush's announcement was part of a series of events to promote March as Texas Writers Month.

The festival's timing will give people the chance to "do a lot of holiday shopping," Mrs. Bush said. "They'll be able to buy books and the authors will be there to inscribe the books."

She said her background as a librarian in Austin is "really why I'm so interested" in using her public role to promote libraries and reading. Part of the proceeds from November's festival will go to libraries around the state to add to their collections and literacy programs.

"I love to read. I've always loved to read. I've been aware for years of Texas writers. What has been very fun for me about George being governor is that I've gotten to meet all these people whose books I've read and admired for years," said Mrs. Bush.

She said she just finished reading "Alamo House," a book by Sarah Bird, which she called "very funny and fun to read."

"I laughed out loud the whole time I read it," Mrs. Bush said.

She has just started in on another book by El Paso writer Ben Saenz.

"I think the fierce independence of Texans and our long, interesting history has led to the development of very good writers," she said.

More than 50 writers are slated to be at the Nov. 16 book festival, which will be open to the public on a tented two-block area on Congress Avenue. The event will kick off with a Nov. 15 dinner at the Austin Marriott at the Capitol.

Court action yields prison terms

Three defendants in 222nd District Court Monday were sentenced to terms in prison, two on revocation of probation and a third on a guilty plea.

Judge David Wesley Gulley also assessed probated sentences to defendants who entered pleas to charges against them.

On a plea of guilty to delivery of a controlled substance, cocaine, Inez Galen, 36, also known as Vincente Inez Galan, was sentenced to 15 years in Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division.

A term of nine years in prison was given Enrique Trevino, convicted earlier of sexual assault of a child and given a probated sentence of 10 years. He also must pay a $1,500 fine.

Bernabe Billy Ortiz was ordered to serve six years in prison on revocation of deferred adjudication probation for indecency with a child.

On the state's motion to revoke probation, Quen Ester Walker, earlier given deferred adjudication on her plea to forgery by making, Judge Gulley ordered the defendant to serve a five-year probated sentence and pay a $1,500 fine.

Israel Lopez, 18, entered pleas to a pair of charges. A state jail sentence of two years, probated five years, was assessed for burglary of a building. Judge Gulley granted deferred adjudication probation of eight years on a plea to aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

A two-year state jail sentence and $1,000 fine were given Alfred Vallejo Tijerina, 21, on his plea of guilty to theft over $1,500 but under $20,000. The jail sentence was probated for five years.

On a plea of guilty to felony driving while intoxicated, Brian Keith Moshier was sentenced to a five-year probated prison term. He also was fined $1,500.

Watering in the long-term

OK, so this homeowner in the 200 block of North Douglas didn't really want to water Monday, so he instead coated his tree, border and grass with ice that would melt today, providing long-term watering. Actually, the ice formed when a winter-like blast of cold air hit an unsuspecting lawn sprinkler.

Local Roundup

Weather roller-coaster continues

Hereford's high temperature on Monday was a low 37 degrees, with a wintery low this morning of 24 degrees, according to KPAN Radio. Now the roller-coaster is swinging back up, as the forecast for tonight calls for cloudy skies and a low around 30 degrees, with south winds at 5-15 mph. For Wednesday, the mercury will soar to around 60 degrees, with cloudy skies and south to southwest winds at 10-20 mph.

MUSKIE

Senate.

Muskie, who led a Democratic resurgence in Maine during the 1950s, gained national prominence in 1968 when Democratic presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey chose him as running mate. They lost to Nixon and Spiro Agnew but Muskie emerged a national figure, called Lincolnesque by political analysts.

His rugged craggy look matching the coast of Maine, his lanky 6-foot-4 frame and his modest manner caught the imagination, and he impressed onlookers by inviting hecklers to share the speaking platform with him. He was blessed with personal magnetism, a dry sense of humor and a fine speaking voice.

Following his retirement from politics, Muskie became a partner in the Washington law firm where he worked until he was hospitalized. He divided his time between the nation's capital and his vacation home in Kennebunk.

A Democratic elder statesman, he took on such tasks as coauthoring the Tower commission report on President Reagan and the Iran-Contra affair.

Muskie was born in Rumford, a western Maine paper mill town, on March 28, 1914, the son of Stephen and Josephine Muskies. His father was a Polish-born tailor whose name had been shortened from Marciszewski by immigration officials.

Muskie worked his way through Bates College and went on to Cornell Law School before setting up a law practice in Waterville, Me. After interrupting his career to serve aboard destroyer escorts during World War II, he returned to Waterville and was elected to the state legislature in 1946.

He married Jane Gray of Waterville in 1948, and they had two sons and three daughters.

Muskie spent six years in the Maine House, becoming minority leader of the small group of Democrats in the Republican-dominated Legislature, and was chosen as his party's gubernatorial candidate in 1954.

Restless from long years of GOP rule, Maine voters turned to Muskie and he became the state's first Democratic governor in 20 years. He followed a non-partisan course, pushing economic and educational programs and steering most of his programs through the Republican legislature.

At election time, his ability to draw support from members of the opposing party gave rise to a class of voters known as "Muskie Republicans."

After a second two-year term, he went on in 1958 to become the first popularly elected Democratic senator in Maine's history.

Muskie served as senator from Maine from 1959 to 1980 and helped lead the push for laws to control water and air pollution.

His efforts to curb air and water pollution won him the nickname "Mr. Clean" and he was a leading voice on domestic issues during his 22 years in the Senate.

Muskie's Senate prominence was due in part to an early run-in with then Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson. In 1959, after the freshman from Maine refused to side with Johnson in defeating the perennial move by liberal senators to limit the power of filibuster, Johnson retaliated by assigning Muskie his fourth, fifth and sixth committee choices: Banking and Currency, Public Works and Government Operations.

Muskie, who had coveted a spot on the Foreign Relations Committee, later called his assignments "the best ones I could have gotten."

Whitewater whistle-blower sentenced

By JAMES JEFFERSON
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - A former municipal judge whose allegations triggered the Whitewater investigation has been sentenced to two years and four months in prison and must repay the government $2.04 million.

David Hale also was given three years of probation Monday and fined $10,000.

Hale claims President Clinton pressured him to make an illegal $300,000 loan from his small-business investment firm. The president denies the claim.

Hale pleaded guilty two years ago to conspiracy and mail fraud. He admitted lying to the Small Business Administration to gain matching funds that he used to make loans from his Capital Management Services lending company to benefit himself and his friends.

Hale had faced up to 10 years in prison and $250,000 in fines. He left the courthouse smiling and promising to continue cooperating with Whitewater investigators.

After he was charged in late 1993, Hale claimed Clinton pressured him to lend the $300,000 to Whitewater partner Susan McDougal.

Mrs. McDougal and her ex-husband, James, are accused along with Gov. Jim Guy Tucker of fraud and conspiracy involving $3 million in federally backed loans from the McDougals' Madison Guaranty Savings and Loan, and Hale's firm.

During sentencing, U.S. District Judge Stephen M. Reasoner scoffed at assertions by Hale's lawyer, Randy Coleman, that Hale's business associates took advantage of him and his company.

"The facts show overwhelmingly that you willingly operated this service for these people," Reasoner said. "You're not a victim. You're anything but a victim."

At the Whitewater trial Monday, jurors heard testimony from Dean Paul, a business associate of Hale.

McDougal is accused of lending $825,000 of Madison money to Paul so he could buy real estate Hale owned that was actually worth less. Prosecutors contend McDougal sought to generate a $500,000 profit for Hale to use to obtain matching funds from the Small Business Administration.

Paul testified that he signed documents for the loan but didn't pay attention to the details.

He said Hale told him that the loan would help Tucker with his financial troubles. Hale - with the profits from the real estate deal - could get federal money to lend to Tucker, Paul said. He said he went along with Hale because he trusted him.

"I wasn't supposed to get any of the proceeds," Paul testified. "David Hale was going to get the money and he was going to use it to build up his SBIC (small business investment company)."

Holly Sugar is honored with award

Holly Sugar, Inc. of Hereford was recently honored with "Employer of the Older Worker" of the Year award.

John Brieden, State Commander of The American Legion, and Joe Saucedo of the Hereford Texas Employment Commission office, presented the award. Several American Legion members were on hand for the presentation.

Holly Sugar, nominated by Saucedo, was recognized for its continued employment and support of older American citizens.

The company was a winner at the state level and received an honorable mention at the National competition.

Saucedo recognized the company for continually employing citizens 55 and older.

Glenn Boozer, Holly Sugar agriculturalist, said that the company has been pleased with its older workers and finds them to be an asset to the work force.

"We have found many instances where the older workers are more dependable," Boozer said. "They take pride in what they are doing. They give 100 percent."

Officers issued 10 traffic citations.

Counterfeiters beware: $100 bill redesigned to discourage copy

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The first extensively redesigned U.S. paper currency in nearly seven decades is going into circulation, possibly at a bank near you.

A new $100 bill, bearing an enlarged, off-center portrait of Benjamin Franklin and intended to stymie increasingly sophisticated counterfeiters, was in vaults and cash drawers awaiting customers today.

Although 850 million of the new bills have been produced, government officials cautioned that many banks, particularly those in smaller communities, may not yet have received them.

"They won't be everywhere right away - it will only be a trickle at first," said Bob Moore, a Federal Reserve spokesman.

"We believe we have printed an ample supply to meet initial demand," said a Treasury official who requested anonymity. "But people should recognize that local banks order $100 notes only as needed."

The official said, the bills should be available nationwide within a few weeks.

Initial public interest appeared limited.

By noon, the main office of the Riggs Bank on Pennsylvania Avenue a block from the White House had received only seven telephone calls asking about the bills, an official said, adding that the bank had not yet received its shipment.

The redesign, which involves several technical changes, was spurred by development of high-tech equipment including computers, color scanners and laser printers that counterfeiters can use to create near-perfect bogus bills.

Other denominations also will be changed over the next five years, but officials emphasize the older series will co-circulate with the new notes and will always be legal tender.

"It's essential that everyone who uses U.S. currency knows that there will be absolutely no recall or devaluation associated with the change," said U.S. Treasurer Mary Ellen Withrow. "We will honor the older notes as long as they remain in circulation."

As the older notes are deposited by financial institutions with the Federal Reserve, they will be replaced with the new bills.

The government began the currency overhaul with the $100 bill because the large denomination makes it a favorite among counterfeiters, particularly those operating abroad.

About two-thirds of the $390 billion in U.S. paper currency is in circulation overseas where, according to government reports, reproducing bogus bills is on the rise.

The new $100 bill was approved last fall after nearly 10 years of study. It reflects the largest change in U.S. greenbacks since a major design overhaul in 1929.

It includes a portrait of Franklin that is 50 percent larger than that on existing bills and extends from the upper to lower border.

The portrait has been moved left of center to protect against wear and tear when the bills are folded and to make room for a watermark likeness of Franklin that is visible only when the bills are held up to the light.

Although the watermark can be seen when held up to the light, it does not reproduce on color copiers or computer scanners.

The new bill also has color-shifting ink in the lower right-hand corner. The number 100 changes from green when viewed head-on to black when seen at an angle.

Some traditional identifying marks help retain the distinct look and feel of U.S. currency. The size is unchanged, for instance.

And the bills still say "In God We Trust," the phrase added in 1957 in the first modification of current U.S. paper currency since 1929. The only other significant change since then was the introduction in 1990 of a security thread and microprinting intended as a counterfeiting deterrent.

AUSTIN (AP) - No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Saturday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot was worth $12 million.

The numbers drawn from a field of 50 were: 4, 10, 12, 13, 21 and 30.

Lottery officials estimate the jackpot for Wednesday night's game will be $18 million.

Secretary of Labor says U.S. economy in hands of parents, business community

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have printed several letters recently about the state of the American work force. In one column, you said, "Hello, Secretary of Labor Robert Reich. Any suggestions?"

After three years as the secretary of labor, I've learned that how you see the economy depends on where you sit.

Workers tell me every day they live paycheck to paycheck. They can't save for retirement. They work two (maybe three) jobs to make ends meet. They juggle work with family. They worry about layoffs, downsizing and sending their kids to college.

Although the national economy has caught fire, the gains to many workers have gone up in smoke. This administration has provided the Family and Medical Leave Act, School-to-Work apprenticeships for young people and better safeguards for workers' pensions. But we still need a higher minimum wage, skill vouchers for people who must learn new skills, and low-interest college loans.

But we cannot do it alone. Parents must turn off the TV and make sure their kids do their homework and stay in school. All working people must seize every opportunity to upgrade their skills.

The business community also has a responsibility to treat workers as assets to be developed, rather than costs to be cut. They should -- and must -- give workers a share of the wealth their hard work has created.

My message to your readers is demand more from your elected leaders, from your kids, from yourselves and from your employers. All of us must stand on the side of Americans who want to work hard and play by the rules. Sincerely -- Robert B. Reich, secretary of labor

DEAR SECRETARY OF LABOR REICH: I was sure you would come through with a fine response, and you did not disappoint. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I sympathize with "Denver Diner" and others who frequent fine dining establishments, only to find themselves seated next to guests in tank tops and cutoffs. However, I feel compelled to explain a few things.

For the last 20 years, I have managed various dining establishments across the country. I have served presidents, actors, authors, garage machinists, retail clerks and cab drivers. I've served the beautiful, the slovenly, the homely, Republicans, Democrats, the brilliant, the ignorant, the rich, the poor, the courteous, the rude, the Armani-clad and the polyester leisure-suited. They all have one thing in common -- they enjoy dining out.

I suggest that Denver lighten up. If he is unable to rise above his judgmental attitude, he should stay home and order a pizza. -- Maitre d' in Houston

DEAR MAITRE D': Beautiful. I wish I'd said that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have seen a lot on TV and in the newspapers about a woman's right to say "no" to sex, but what about a man's right? I've never heard any mention of this.

After being married for 47 years, I'd like to know what MY sexual rights? -- Clarification wanted in Edmonton, Alberta

DEAR ED.: No one should be obligated to have sex if he doesn't feel like it. Females who aren't in the mood can fake it. A man, however, for biological reasons rarely has this option, and if he doesn't feel like it, he shouldn't have to fake it.

Herd boys' track team claims 4th in CofC meet

Hereford girls' team takes seventh place in 'cream of the crop' field

The Hereford track teams fought through tough fields to finish fourth for the boys and seventh for girls in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Track Meet, held Friday and Saturday at Whiteface Stadium.

The Herd boys accumulated 62 points, which put them behind only Pampa with 121 1/3, Canyon with 96 and Plainview with 75. The field included 11 teams.

"Coming in fourth in a field like that is real good," Herd boys' coach Ron Young said.

The Hereford girls totaled 33 points to finish seventh in the field of 11 teams. Amarillo High won the girls' title with 130 points, followed closely by Pampa with 103 and Palo Duro with 90.

"It was tough competition. That's probably the cream of the crop in this area," Hereford girls' coach Martha Emerson said. "We didn't score many points, but we did some good things, too."

Hereford didn't win a varsity event in either boy or girls competition. The boys' team got three second-place finishes: Joseph Martinez in the shot put; Marquise Brown in the 200-meter dash; and Miguel Carrillo in the 300-meter hurdles.

Herd girls took third in three events: Jessica Mejia in 300-meter hurdles; Jamie Harrison in the 1,600-meter run; and Kristin Fangman in the high jump.

Both coaches saw bright spots. "Tarabeth (Holmes) had her best throw," Emerson said of Holmes fourth-place finish in the discus. "Kristin Fangman had her personal best. That was the first time she's been 5-2 in the high jump."

Fangman matched the best height cleared at 5-2, but lost out on the tie-breaker: fewer misses.

"The mile relay (1,600 meters) had its best time of the year, and so did the 800 relay," Emerson said. "Amy (Andrews) had her best of the year in the long jump and triple jump both." (Andrews didn't place.)

Young started off talking about Carrillo.

"He got his best time of the year, competed well and got second in the race," Young said. "Marquise did well in the 200. He came back from a disappointing 100 (he finished fourth) and got second in the 200. And Michael High had his best (high) jump of the year at 6-2." (High took third.)

Spring Break, which was March 11-15, hurt the boys' team, Young said. Neither Hereford track team competed in a track meet the weekend before the Hereford meet.

"We competed well, but we were just not in good shape," Young said. "We lost some of our conditioning over Spring Break. We have to gear up, because we're going to San Angelo this week...Once again, the competition will be stiff."

In the junior varsity divisions, Hereford's girls were sixth and the boys were seventh.

Young gave special mention to Sergio Saenz, who won the junior varsity 1,600-meter run in 5:18.63 in his first time out.

"It was his first time to run the 1,600 meters, and he wins it," Young said, adding that there were 28 runners in the event.

The Hereford JV boys earned 41 points, and 35 of that came in the 800-, 1,600- and 3,200-meter races.

"All the distance runners on the JV have been doing a great job," Young said. "They've been getting lots of points at these track meets."

Since Hereford didn't win any varsity events in the meet, Saenz and the Hereford JV girls' 1,600-meter relay team of Crystal Bailey, Meredith McGowan, Rebecca Drager and Teresa Lopez were the only Hereford athletes that picked up gold.

Following are the complete results of the varsity divisions. For JV divisions, only Hereford athletes have been listed.

Mighty heave

Hereford's Joseph Martinez sends the shot put flying through the air more than 50 feet. Martinez took second place in the event Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Track Meet, held at Whiteface Stadium.

Flinging the discus

Hereford's Tarabeth Holmes whirls and hurls the discus during Saturday's track meet. Holmes came in fourth in the event.

Canyon edges Herd in wild baseball game

In a game that featured 16 runs scored in the first four innings and 16 more in the fifth inning alone, Canyon scored the only run of the last two innings and beat Hereford 17-16 Saturday at Whiteface Field.

Canyon surmounted an early 9-3 Hereford lead by scoring four runs in the fourth inning and nine in the fifth, taking a 16-9 lead.

Hereford countered with seven runs in the bottom of the fifth to tie the game at 16-16.

Canyon broke the tie in its next turn at bat, on Justin Ziegler's two-out RBI double.

Then, the scoring stopped. Hereford was shut out in the bottom of the sixth.

The seventh was the game's only inning in which neither team scored. Hereford shortstop Ronald Torres turned a double play in the top of the inning to keep Canyon's lead at one run. In the bottom of the inning, Dustin Hill singled with one out, but the Eagles returned the double play favor on Aaron Sorenson's grounder-ending the game.

Hereford fell to 0-2 in District 1-4A play and 4-11 overall, while Canyon improved to 1-1 and 5-10. The Herd travels to Dumas today for a 4:30 start against the Demons (1-0, 14-4-1).

Hereford built the early 9-3 lead on the strength of three home runs. John Marty Galan smashed a three-run homer to cap the Herd's five-run first inning. The action started with two outs, when Wade McPherson walked, Sonny Perez drove him in with a single, and Hill knocked in Perez with a double. Sorenson walked to set up Galan's shot.

Tanner Muphey started the second inning with an inside-the-park home run. McPherson singled, then Perez

A step ahead

Herd golfers stay ahead of Pampa

The Hereford golf teams took giant steps towards a regional tournament appearance by staying ahead of Pampa after Saturday's district rounds in Pampa.

The Herd girls totaled 373 at Hidden Hills Golf Course for two-round total of 740. While the Lady Whitefaces lost ground on District 1-4A leader Borger - which went 346-704 - they stayed ahead of Pampa. The Pampa girls didn't take advantage of their home-town course and shot 397 Saturday for a two round total of 769.

Dumas is a distant fourth at 405-817.

The top two boys' teams and top two girls' teams in the district advance to the regional tournament.

Pampa kept the pressure on Hereford in the boys' field. Hereford shot 339 at Pampa Country Club, for a two round total of 664. That's well behind leader Borger (329-639), but it's three strokes ahead of Pampa at 338-667. Canyon, at 680, and Caprock, 692, aren't out of the running.

Justin Griffith led the boys' team by shooting 81. His two-round total keeps him in a tie for second in the medalist race. The other boys on the Hereford A team are: David Sims, 86; Keith Riley, 86; Tom Munoz, 86; and Jeremiah Barrow, 88.

The boys' B team consists of: David Farr, 90; Greg Reinart, 94; Daniel Edwards, 95; and T.J. Danley 104.

The Herd girls were led by Jami Bell, who shot 88 for a two-round score of 176 and stayed in fourth place in the medalist race.

The other Herd girls were: Krista Beville, 89; Amy Killingsworth, 96; Stephanie Bixler, 100; and Jacque Bezner, 103.

Netters take third in Beef Capitol tourney

The Hereford tennis team took third place in the Beef Capitol of the World tennis tournament held Friday and Saturday in Hereford.

Hereford players won three of the 12 brackets. Pete Vargas won the No. 2 boys singles bracket, and he and partner Tyler Merrick won No. 1 doubles. Paige Robbins and Natalie McWhorter combined to win the No. 1 girls doubles bracket.

Those three wins gave Hereford 30 of its 88 points. Andrews won the tournament with 130 points, followed by Canyon with 97 1/2. Hereford narrowly edged Borger, which had 86, in the eight-team tournament.

"The team performed well," Herd coach Ed Coplen said. "We had some individuals that really stepped up and played well. The No. 1 boys doubles team (Vargas and Merrick) beat the team that won the regional championship last year."

In the finals, Vargas and Merrick lost the first set, 6-3, to the Andrews pair of John Armstrong and Mitch Gray but came back to win the next two sets, 6-3 and 6-3. They won their other two matches in straight sets.

Vargas went through three matches in straight sets - losing only 12 games - to win No. 2 singles. He beat Reo Pugno of Andrews, 6-0, 6-2, in the finals.

"Natalie and Paige won theirs," Coplen said of Hereford's top girls doubles team. "They won over some district teams, so that'll help in seeding at the district tournament."

McWhorter and Robbins beat Shea Fraley and Taryn Willard of District 1-4A rival Borger, 6-2, 6-1, in the finals. They also beat Dumas' Rachel Pendergrass and Chealana Pool, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2 in the semifinals.

Hereford had two players finish as runners-up in singles brackets. Rachel Bezner, in No. 2 girls, lost to Andrews' Amy Leopard, 6-1, 6-1. Merrick, in No. 3 boys, fell to Canyon's Eric Marable, 6-1, 6-3. Both Merrick and Bezner had advanced in straight sets in their first two matches.

The No. 2 doubles team of Scott Shaw and Rob Reinauer also earned praise from Coplen for taking third in their bracket shortly after starting playing together.

Dumas took fifth place in the tournament with 72 points, and Pampa was sixth with 69.

Vernon, the only Class 3A team in the tournament, was seventh with 51 1/2 points. Vernon is coached by former Herd coach Ruben "Pudgy" Vargas, the uncle of Hereford's Pete Vargas.

Plainview was last with 45 points.

BASEBALL

hit an outside-the-park home run.

Canyon scored one in the first and two in the second, but it wasn't enough to keep up with Hereford - at least until the nine-run fifth inning.

Hereford slowed down after Canyon put in relief pitcher Kris Bosley. The Herd tacked a ninth run on in the third, but after that run scored, Bosley struck out six of the next seven Whitefaces he faced.

Canyon started the fifth inning with a pair of singles and a walk. Then came a two-run single, a two-run double and a couple of errors. By the time the inning was over, Canyon was up 16-9.

"They hit the ball," Herd coach

Pete Rodriguez said simply. "That's the inning they hit the ball well."

Hereford's offense got back on track in the bottom of the fifth.

"We'd had eight strikeouts in the last 10 batters going into the fifth inning," Rodriguez said. "We talked about being more disciplined. For a while, we were striking out on bad pitches - high and wide. (Nathan) Gavina started us off with a double. From there, we just continued to get runs back."

Torres had a two-run triple in the inning, and Galan hit a two-run double. Murphey and Perez had RBI singles, as did Gavina the second time he came up.

Woman says multiple personalities helped her survive

After suffering years of physical, sexual abuse Houston woman developed alter personalities

By MICHELLE KOIDIN
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Elizabeth Julie Mikal says she's nothing like celebrated multiple personality sufferers "Sybil" or "Eve."

Ms. Mikal never tried to physically harm herself or others. She says her nine distinct personalities simply wanted to help her survive traumatic physical and sexual abuse that began when she was a small girl.

"They weren't out to kill somebody or to destroy the world or blame people for things that were happening," says Ms. Mikal, a 46-year-old technical writer. "They were strictly there as a coping mechanism."

The Houston woman describes the development of her personalities -- which were both female and male and had their own memories, levels of intelligence and moods -- in her recently published book, "Until Darkness Holds No Fear."

A town councilwoman in Oklahoma and the founder of a chapter of Business and Professional Women in New Mexico, Ms. Mikal was not aware of her personalities until she was in her 40s.

She has been diagnosed with multiple personality disorder, an illness that came to the public's attention with "The Three Faces of Eve," a book and 1957 movie about a woman with 22 personalities. Interest in the malady grew with the best-selling book and 1976 TV movie "Sybil," about a woman with 16 personalities.

The disorder was given little legitimacy before 1980, when the psychiatric establishment defined it formally.

While Ms. Mikal didn't report any violent behavior, self-mutilation or substance abuse that often go hand-in-hand with multiple personalities, her background mirrors that of most victims.

Psychiatrists say the disorder usually is the result of sexual, physical or mental abuse or other severe emotional trauma in childhood.

In her book, Ms. Mikal recalls neglect by her biological parents before she was removed from their home at age 4 and physical abuse by her adoptive father and sexual abuse by her adoptive mother through her teen-age years.

She tells of a routine in which her adoptive mother would penetrate her with broomsticks and then force her to bathe in a bleach-filled tub.

Ms. Mikal says she began to form other personalities in order to escape the horror. The divorcee believes she shaped parental figures named Beauty and Mikal during the hours she was left alone by her biological parents.

She says the personalities, which also included twins named Liz and Joe that handled Ms. Mikal's professional life, and Ruth, the nurturer, evolved without her realizing it. Even after years of therapy as an adult, she knew nothing of multiple personality disorder.

In June 1992, Ms. Mikal began having unexplained seizures and was hospitalized. She says it was then that the personalities started showing themselves, speaking to her in different voices and recounting how they were conceived.

"I saw them as separate identities," she explains. "It's like talking to you. It's like sitting here and having a conversation with you."

Ms. Mikal chronicled her discoveries in journals, and eventually the journals turned into a book. She dedicated the book to her various personalities, and she has even changed her middle and last names to honor two of them.

Psychologist Mary Miura encouraged the diaries to draw out Ms. Mikal's shy personalities, like Betty, the child. As Betty, she wrote with her left hand, while as other personalities, she used her right.

Ms. Mikal worked with the therapist in Denver, where she lived at the time, to integrate the personalities.

"I suspect they're not completely merged," Ms. Miura says. "My sense is that they are much more trusting of Elizabeth. If they need to take over, they would be ready to step in with her knowledge."

Ms. Mikal says the voices have faded, but she continues to sense the separate thought processes and feelings.

"It's like I can identify the behavior and know that it's associated with a personality," she said. "But I'm sane enough to know that that's not a personality anymore. It's not an individual personality. It's a segment of me."

Ms. Mikal says she has received positive feedback from readers, some of whom have called asking to meet her.

Today she feels whole, but she believes the personalities always will be with her.

"You don't recover from multiple personalities. You deal with it," she said. "The nice thing about it is it's almost like having a second chance at life, because you get to pick and choose some of the traits and talents and skills that they have."

A list of Elizabeth Julie Mikal's nine personalities:

- Julie. Handled social life, personal needs.
- Liz. Controlled professional life.
- Joe. Liz's twin; also maintained professional life.
- Ruth. The nurturer.
- Betty. The child.
- Jo-Bob. The clown.
- Sister Mary. The nun.
- Beth. The writer.
- Jo-Beth. The baby.

Facts about multiple personality disorder

By The Associated Press

Some facts about multiple personality disorder:

-- It is defined in "The American Medical Association Home Medical Encyclopedia" as "a rare disorder in which a person has two or more distinct personalities, each of which dominates at different times. The personalities are almost always very different from each other and are often total opposites. They may have no awareness of each other, but are aware of lost periods of time."

-- Some complications are violent behavior, substance abuse, suicide attempts and self-mutilation. The disorder typically sets in during childhood, although most cases come to clinical attention years later.

-- It is often triggered by childhood abuse that forces the victim to create separate personalities to avoid confronting reality.

-- The diagnosis of multiple personalities only has been recognized since 1980.

-- The two most famous victims were "Eve" and "Sybil." Joanne Woodward won an Oscar for her portrayal of a woman with 22 personalities in the 1957 movie "The Three Faces of Eve." Sally Field starred in the 1976 NBC television movie "Sybil," about a woman with 16 personalities.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I would like to know about hepatitis B. My grandson went to give blood recently at his high school. I got a letter saying he should not give blood. The letter said that he showed hepatitis B and that he probably was born with it. We're concerned. Can you inherit hepatitis? — Mrs. L.H.

ANSWER: The smart thing to do would be to take the letter to the family doctor, who can interpret it and evaluate things. The doctor can tell if the infection detected was evidence of an old infection or whether your grandson has live hepatitis B viruses living in his liver.

Hepatitis B can linger in liver cells. There the ongoing assault takes its toll on the liver, causing scarring and eventual shutdown of its function.

A hepatitis B finding is disconcerting, and I don't mean to add fuel to your doubts.

Tests can confirm the hepatitis and tell if it is causing damage. We are fortunate these days to have drugs that help control it.

The doctor did not mean your grandson inherited the hepatitis in the genetic sense, only that he might have acquired it from his mother, if she was infected during pregnancy.

In this day and age, the usual cause of hepatitis B is exposure through sexual activity and drug paraphernalia.

Blood transfusion once was a major cause of hepatitis before more efficient methods of screening to detect the virus.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 27-year-old woman who has problems with varicose veins in the calves of my legs. I had a bad flare-up last year, and since then I have worn support stockings. I also elevate my legs when possible. I asked about corrective surgery, but my doctor was against the idea. He said it would cause stress on other veins. You recently mentioned use of medicine to improve circulation. Would it help me? What do you think? — K.R.

ANSWER: Sorry, Trental is not for varicose veins. It is for artery blockage. Trental helps blood cells maneuver past blocked areas.

You are doing the right things. I don't know why your doctor is set against surgery. It's been done for years, and I have seen no reports of it ever making other veins varicose.

You might ask about other treatment, such as injection of a solution that causes the offending veins to wither away.

For more on varicose veins, see the Health Letter report on the subject. Readers can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — SR96, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I developed heart palpitations that just wouldn't quit. My doctor tried medicine for a while, but it just didn't seem to work. Finally, he decided I needed a shock to get my rhythm back to normal. That didn't work either, so I am taking Coumadin, which is to thin my blood. I had no blood trouble before this. Please comment. — Mrs. L.F.

ANSWER: You have atrial fibrillation. Your heart's two upper chambers — atria — are beating too fast and have lost pumping force.

The danger is of stagnation of blood in those chambers, and the threat of its clotting. Your medicine is designed to prevent that.

Left to their own fate, bits of a clot might break loose and drift up to the brain, causing a stroke.

Taking Coumadin imposes some degree of nuisance. You have to get your blood tested from time to time to see if it is staying at the right consistency.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is leukemia? What is acute leukemia? Is it cancer? Discuss treatment, please. — D.R.

ANSWER: I must of necessity be brief, and first want to refer you to a local Cancer Society unit for some excellent reading material.

Leukemia is cancer of the white blood cells. The type depends on which of the various white cells are involved.

The term "acute leukemia" implies a rapid and more ominous course, with a poorer prognosis. "Chronic leukemia" would imply a slower-growing, more indolent course and a better outlook.

But rules are not universal. Acute lymphoblastic leukemia in children has a good prognosis, and it often can be cured.

Treatments range from chemotherapy to bone-marrow transplants.

Guthrie still writing folk tunes, genre more personal

Folk singers encourage people to make their own music

EDITOR'S NOTE - His 1967 anti-war ballad "Alice's Restaurant" was a classic of the flower child era. His late father also was a folk singer with a political message. These days, Arlo Guthrie says, folk music has become more personal.

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Thirty years after he was arrested for illegally dumping garbage on Thanksgiving Day, Arlo Guthrie is back on the road again, singing songs from his first recording of new music in a decade. "My life is wonderful," says Guthrie, whose brush with the law, in November 1965, kept him out of the military and inspired the 1967 antiwar ballad "Alice's Restaurant," a classic of the Vietnam era. Now a grandfather with his own record company, Guthrie dedicated his new album, "Mystic Journey," to his Hindu guru, Ma Jaya Sati Bhagavati, whom he accompanies on visits to hospitals, hospices, back yards and streetcorners.

The most important task of a folksinger, he says, "is to encourage people to make their own music. Music is a wonderful thing to do with friends and with kids and for kids." "It doesn't have to be some polished-up thing. When you sing together you add a little piece of yourself into the world and the world gives you something to do, too."

When he's not making music, Guthrie does community service and makes records under his own Rising Son label. The son of the late Woody Guthrie, Arlo now makes music with his own children; one of the songs of "Mystic Journey" was co-written by his son, Abe, a keyboardist. And his brother and sister and their children joined him for "Woody's 20 Grow Big Songs," a re-recording of Woody Guthrie's songs for children.

Woody Guthrie died in 1967 at age 55 of Huntington's disease, a degenerative disorder that is inherited. At 48, Arlo has no symptoms, and is well past the peak age, 35, for diagnosis. If Huntington's is not in his genes, his children, Abe, Cathy, Annie and Sarah, and grandchildren, Krishna and Mo, aren't in danger.

Folk music was more political in his father's day, says Arlo, who notes that Woody Guthrie once taped a note to his guitar that read, "This machine fights Fascists." Today's folksingers are more apt to write about personal things, he says.

Few record stores have folk sections, he says, and many artists have switched to writing country music. "We have spread into the world of people making a living," he says.

Guthrie has also branched out, making an album of old cowboy songs, "Son of the Wind." He also made a record of Pete Seeger singing with his grandson.

While most of the recordings

Woody Guthrie made have been released, he left a lot of lyrics. Arlo hopes to write music for them some day.

"The world would not have been better off without Woody," he says. "For 40 years he was able to sing and write and travel and talk to people. I think he made a difference. It is nice to know a person can make a difference, even dealing with a life-threatening illness."

His buoyant assessment of the state of the world comes in sharp contrast to the cynical tone of "Alice's Restaurant." "I'm very impressed with the way the world has turned out," he says. "I see a tremendous courage and willingness on the part of young people to make this world a better place."

Like his father, Arlo spends much of his time on the road. He takes occasional weeks off and gets back to wife Jackie and home in Western Massachusetts, where his record company is housed in the former church that once was Alice's restaurant.

All in all, he says, he's content. "I've been married 26 years, have kids and grandkids, friends out here on the roads of America. I can't ask for more than this. I feel assured at this point in my life I will be happy as an old man and that's what I'm looking forward to."

Selena, Emilio big winners during 1996 Tejano Music Awards

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The songs of Selena, the slain Tejano star whose music helped define the art form, continued to win awards Saturday - almost a year after she was gunned down.

The Grammy-winning singer and another artist, Emilio, dominated the 1996 Tejano Music Awards, winning 12 of 16 categories. Each received six awards.

Selena was awarded female vocalist and entertainer of the year.

Other awards included the song for "Tu Solo Tu" and overall album for her crossover CD, "Dreaming of You," which reportedly has sold 2.5 million copies.

The singer's fatal shooting at a Corpus Christi motel on March 31, 1995 by her former fan club president horrified fans and family members. Yolanda Saldivar was convicted of her murder and sentenced to a life term after a three-week trial in Houston in October.

Selena and Emilio have, since the beginning of the decade, helped Tejano become one of American music's fastest growing genres, generating large recording sales and concert revenue.

A special six-minute video tribute to Selena was shown on two 22-by-30 screens on either side of the stage at the Alamodome.

Emilio Navaira won male vocalist and entertainer of the year, Tejano country song for "It's Not the End of the World" and album (conjunto progressive) for "Sound Life," among others.

Pete Astudillo, who sang backup for Selena y Los Dinos until he embarked on a solo career in 1994, won most promising band honors.

Astudillo's remembrance of Selena, "Come Te Extrano," which he wrote with the singer's brother,

A.B. Quintanilla III, is still high on the charts.

Singer and actress Maria Conchita Alonso was host of the awards show. Gov. George W. Bush also made an appearance on stage during Texas Talent Musicians Association events.

Nearly two dozen artists performed during Saturday's show, including Emilio, Ramiro Herrera, Jay Perez, La Tropa F, Culturas, Fama, Mazz, Ruben Ramos and Mariachi Campanas de America.

Industry Ballot award winners, recognizing individual artists as voted on by their peers, included Quintanilla for songwriter - honors he tied with Gabriel Candiani - and record producer of the year.

Four artists were inducted into the TMA Hall of Fame. They were Los Miracles, the Royal Jesters, and the late composers, Estrella P. Lane and Juan H. Barron.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS STORY

"Everybody Already Knows My Store And What I Carry."

Sound Familiar?

Advertising is news about the marketplace, if you don't advertise, you're telling consumers there's no news from your store. But your competition is fighting for the public's interest with regular ads; if you want to keep your share of the market, you need to be in the same arena, bidding for the business. You need to advertise in the newspaper. Plus, people move out of the area and new people move in. Advertise to bring new customers into the store. Sell your store and your service through newspaper advertising.

NOT CONVINCED?

Newspaper advertising is unlike any other media choice. You're reaching a friendly, receptive audience with your advertising message. So receptive that they pay to have the paper delivered to their home. No wonder consumers consider newspapers the most believable advertising medium.

Newspaper advertising can help your business. It can increase sales and in a competitive market, it can give your business and edge over the other guy.

Don't tempt fate. Join the many successful businesses who know what works for them and what doesn't. Advertise in the newspaper and get results.

'Braveheart' leads Oscar parade; actor claims best director award, actress gets screenplay honor

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Role reversal was the rule at the Academy Awards, where an actor, Mel Gibson, won for directing, an actress, Emma Thompson, triumphed for screenwriting and rookies looked like pros.

Gibson's "Braveheart" won a leading five Oscars on Monday night, including best picture and director. Gibson also starred in the epic about a 13th-century Scottish patriot.

Gibson, a plaid vest flashing from between the lapels of his tuxedo, thanked writer Randall Wallace and producer Alan Ladd Jr. for bringing the script to a "fiscal imbecile."

"Now that I'm a bona fide director with a golden boy," Gibson said during his acceptance speech, "I suppose what I really want to do is act."

"Braveheart" was only Gibson's second outing as a director, the first being "The Man Without a Face" in 1993. He follows a line of Oscar-winning actors-turned-directors: Robert Redford, Warren Beatty, Woody Allen, Kevin Costner.

Thompson, an on-screen acting force from "Howards End" and "The Remains of the Day," won for her screenplay adaptation of the Jane Austen novel "Sense and Sensibility" - her first produced movie script.

And clearly, inexperience was no hindrance.

Nicolas Cage took the best actor award for his role as a suicidal alcoholic in "Leaving Las Vegas," his first appearance in the category. Mira Sorvino ("Mighty Aphrodite") and Kevin Spacey ("The Usual Suspects") collected Oscars for supporting actress and supporting actor in their first nominations.

Sorvino thanked her father as the veteran actor openly sobbed in the audience. "When you give me this award you honor my father, Paul Sorvino, who taught me everything I know about acting," she said.

Spacey thanked his mother for driving him to acting classes when he was 16: "I told you it would pay off, and here's the pudding."

Cage breezed to the podium and marveled that "Leaving Las Vegas" could be made for $3.5 million, and on 16mm film stock when most movies are made on 35mm or 70mm film.

"I know it's not hip to say it but I just love acting and I hope that there will be more encouragement for alternative movies where we can experiment and fast-forward into the future of acting," he said.

Nomination veteran Susan Sarandon won for best actress for "Dead Man Walking," her first win in five tries.

In a three-hour, 36-minute show with Whoopi Goldberg as host, political comments and discussion of national Oscar pickets were kept to a minimum.

Goldberg quickly moved to defuse the Rev. Jesse Jackson's call to protest the show because there was only one black person out of 166 nominees.

Ridiculing Jackson's call for all Oscar participants to wear rainbow-colored ribbons to signify their concern, Goldberg quipped: "You don't ask a black woman to buy an expensive dress and then cover it with ribbons."

Several hundred of Jackson's followers marched outside ABC stations across the nation, but the issue was insignificant inside the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion.

Not that the evening was without its highly charged moments.

In a surprise appearance, paralyzed "Superman" actor Christopher Reeve came out onto the Oscar stage in his wheelchair and issued a call for more socially responsible movies.

Following a movie montage from such issue-driven films as "Norma Rae," "Philadelphia," "Coming Home," and "Thelma and Louise," Reeve urged Hollywood to continue making movies more centered in virtue than profits.

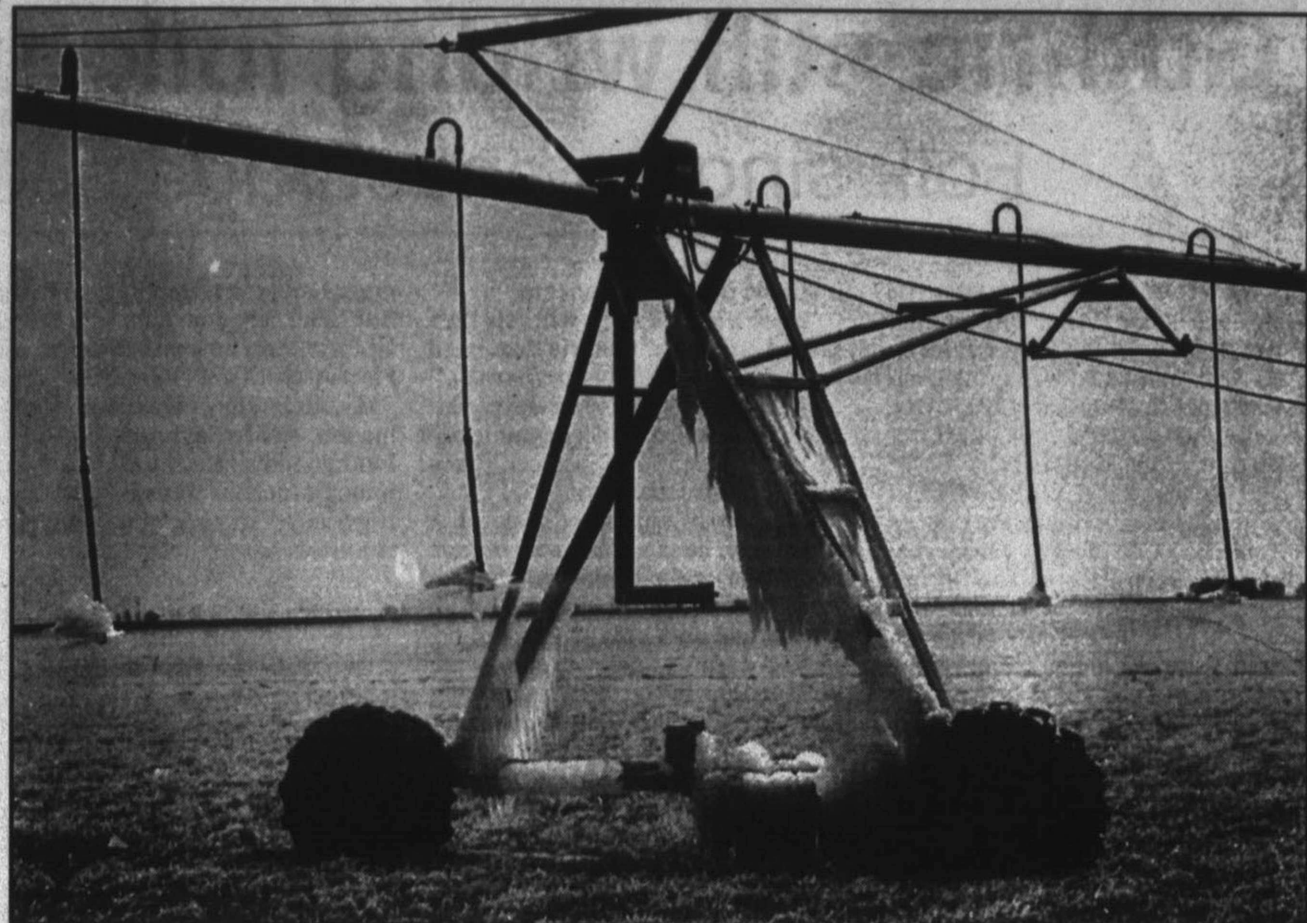

"Hollywood needs to do more," he said. "Let's continue to take risks. Let's tackle the issues. In many ways our film community can do it better than anyone else."

Kirk Douglas, his speech impaired by a recent stroke, received an honorary Oscar for "50 years as a creative and moral force in the making of motion picture community." He has never won an acting Oscar despite a remarkable film career that includes "Spartacus," "Lonely Are the Brave," "Lust for Life" and dozens of other films.

"Courage remains Kirk Douglas' personal and professional hallmark," director Steven Spielberg said in presenting Douglas his award.

Even though "Braveheart" won five trophies (it also won for makeup, sound effects editing and cinematography), the awards were spread out among many films.

"Apollo 13," "Restoration" and "The Usual Suspects" each won two awards apiece. Holland's "Antonia's Line," which follows a woman as she returns to her former hometown, was named the best foreign language picture. "Babe" took the visual effects Oscar.

Spring-like weather????

Area farmers who are irrigating wheat were surprised when old man winter showed his face Sunday night. Spring planting has been put on hold for now. However, some farmers have been seen planting sugar beets. Sugar beets will be planted now until the middle of April.

Change in cattle grading delayed

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Shoppers will have put up with some tough steaks until next year because of a change of heart by the cattle industry and the Agriculture Department.

The department's Agricultural Marketing Service said Jan. 30 that after July 1 it would no longer let beef from certain older cattle be graded as high-quality Choice or Select.

But, alarmed by a change in the cattle market, several state cattle groups, with help from members of the House, pushed to delay enforcement a full year. The department compromised and moved the deadline back until Jan. 31, 1997.

The first rule came as no surprise. Ranchers had sought the change in 1994 because they thought culling the tough old carcasses would mean better, more attractive beef at the supermarket - and better sales.

Since then, however, a cattle surplus, high grain prices and a dry spell in the Plains put the squeeze on the ranchers and the feedlots where the cattle are fattened for slaughter. Slaughterhouses pay less for carcasses that don't make the grade.

"In this difficult time, every effort must be made to prevent further financial damage to our nation's cattle producers without artificially manipulating market forces," said a Feb. 28 letter to Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman from seven House members.

Among those signing the letter were Agriculture Committee Chairman Pat Roberts, R-Kan.; Reps. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, the ranking Democrat, and Charlie Stenholm, D-Texas, a senior member.

Others who signed represent California, Oklahoma and Texas.

The rule excludes from the Choice and Select grades so-called "B" maturity carcasses with small or slight marbling in their meat. "B" maturity means cattle that are 2-1/2 to 3-1/2 years old - young by people standards, but old enough for cattle to start getting a little stiff in the joints.

Names in the News

DENVER (AP) - Woody Harrelson is offering to pick up the tab for Colorado's first test crop of hemp if state legislators allow farmers to grow it.

Harrelson of "Cheers" television fame is an investor in a hemp clothing company and import firm. He wrote a letter to state legislators urging passage of the bill.

"Industrial hemp has never and could never be used for drug trafficking," he wrote. "You could smoke a pound and not get high."

On Friday, a state Senate committee approved the bill, saying it would give Colorado "an enormous economic edge." Vermont and Missouri are considering similar legislation.

Colorado's bill would set up a pilot program to allow 40 acres of industrial hemp to be grown in 1996. In 1997 up to 120 acres could be planted.

Opponents say the hemp plants, used to make rope, cloth and other products, would not be easily distinguished from smokeable marijuana plants, which contain high levels of the drug THC. The bill defines industrial hemp as plants containing less than 0.5 percent THC.

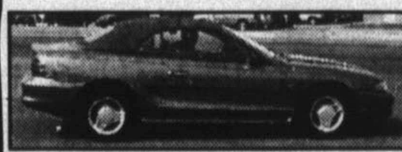

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) -- Keep a close eye on the props in John Cusack's next film. See if you can tell that the movie, set in Detroit, is really being filmed in California.

Filmmakers wanted authentic Michigan products for a shot in a convenience store, so they asked Frankenmuth Brewery for some brewski.

"We've asked for lots of products from various people so we can help create the illusion that (the scene) is in Detroit," said Tim Snowber, who is coordinating sets for the Walt Disney Co. film.
