

GOP ties social funds, Clinton deal on budget

By ALAN FRAM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Previewing a new showdown over budget priorities, the White House is extra social spending to agreement on a deficit-cutting deal.

With spending authority for dozens of federal agencies due to lapse on March 15, GOP congressional leaders are crafting legislation that would finance the government through fiscal 1996, which runs through Sept. 30. The measure, which the Senate Appropriations Committee and full House plan to consider this week, would cut billions from education, environmental, housing and other

Top Republicans want to add a provision to the bill that could restore nearly $5 billion of the money - if there is agreement with President Clinton on extracting savings from Medicare, welfare and other fastgrowing benefit programs. This would mark a GOP abandonment of last year's strategy of threatening to close government agencies if Clinton Michigan, Clinton urged lawmakers

But after meeting with House Appropriations Committee Chairman Bob Livingston in the Capitol, White rebuffing a Republican plan to link House chief of staff Leon Panetta told reporters that Clinton "without question" would veto legislation that lacked the funds he believes are needed for social programs like education and the environment. He said the idea of linking the extra money to a later deal over the budget simply creates "a big question

Factory orders increase 0.5 percent in January

By JOHN D. McCLAIN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Orders to both sixth graders, represented West U.S. factories rose 0.5 percent in January, the second consecutive advance in what had been one of the weakest sectors of the economy.

The Commerce Department said today orders for both durable and non-durable goods totaled a seasonally adjusted $311.1 billion, up from a revised $309.5 billion in December. Also, December's 1.7 percent percent initial estimate. Analysts had expected an increase of about 0.3 percent in January. Orders are considered a key gauge of the nation's manufacturing health. The December advance had been the first in three months. For all of 1995, orders were up 6.7 percent, compared to a 10.3 percent gain in

The report did not say what effect the January blizzard had on orders.

Analysts have said that other data for the month may have been skewed by the storm.

And a survey of U.S. purchasing executives suggested manufacturing, including factory orders, may have weakened in February. Still, the National Association of Purchasing Management said its sampling indicated the seven-month decline had slowed.

In January, orders for durable goods advanced 0.2 percent on top of a 3.1 percent gain in December.

Orders for non-durable goods such as paper and petroleum products rose 0.8 percent after: increasing 0.2 percent a month earlier.

The backlog of unfilled orders rose 1.7 percent, the fifth straight monthly increase. It was the largest increase since a 1.7 percent gain in December

A growing backlog indicates businesses may be pressed to keep up with demand, resulting in more jobs and longer production lines.

Winter to make encore

After a partly cloudy and windy night Tuesday, the weather is expected to take a turn for the worse on Wednesday. A high in the mid-30s, wind from the north at 25-35 mph, and a 20 percent chance of light snow or rain are on the menu for Wednesday. A west wind, 20-30 mph Tuesday night, will give way to a north wind after midnight. The major change comes after a few days of springlike temperatures. Monday's high was 76 degrees and the thermometer dropped to only 50 degrees Tuesday morning.

McKinley W. Kriegh III, 39, an auto technician from College Park, Md., cast his ballot for Pat Buchanan, the fiery commentator whose insurgent campaign has kept Dole from an easy ride to the nomination.

"I'm voting for Buchanan because there's not anyone else really interesting and he has strong views," Kriegh said.

At the same polling place, Sam Wao, a 33-year-old engineer, picked Dole, saying, "I think he will beat Buchanan and I hate Buchanan."

His rivals battled on, but conceded Dole was in the driver's seat.

Former Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander, after a series of disappointing fourth-place finishes, said he would press on through today's contests but would quit the race if he can't beat Dole in next week's Florida primary.

And Buchanan conceded while campaigning in Georgia on Monday that, if Dole keeps on winning, a sense of inevitability will develop."

Wealthy publisher Steve Forbes, who continues to say he'll fight on to the GOP's August convention in San Diego, sought last-minute support in New England on Monday, but generally drew unenthusiastic crowds.

The rejuvenated Dole leads in polls in all eight primary states and he has establishment support in all five of the New England states.

Georgia was the biggest single delegate prize of the day, with 42, and Dole, Buchanan and Alexander all campaigned there Monday, Dole winning a vote from House Speaker Newt Gingrich.

Gingrich voted by absentee ballot and said that, although he had sought to maintain neutrality since he'll chair the GOP convention, he had cast that vote for Dole.

He called Dole "the next

Forbes protested that it was not up to Gingrich to decide who stays in the race. "The voters make that decision, not political leaders," he said.

Although Dole started out in Georgia saying the race was "far from over," he became far more buoyant in rallies in Albany and on Long Island.

At an airport hanger rally in Albany, Dole said that wins today followed by a victory in New York on Thursday could nail down the nomination for him. "New York could do it. New York could do it. It would demoralize every other candidate in this race. They wouldn't even be able to write checks any more, they'd be so nervous and

Sen. Dick Lugar, who has finished far back in the field in the primaries held so far, campaigned in New England Monday, telling reporters in Maine that he would reassess his candidacy after today's primaries.

Forbes, campaigning in Connecticut, said that if he is elected president, he would consider naming Alan Keyes, the radio show host also vying for the GOP nomination, as the head of the Republican Party.

"Someone like him understands the importance of ideas and does not se, and tells you he has a plan, see party position as simply a stepping stone to lucrative lobbying jobs," Forbes said. "Why not? He'd be on Dole was addressing a group of my short list."

Texas primary week off, Governor Bush holding candidate endorsement

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Super Tuesday presidential primary is just around the corner, but Texas Gov. George W. Bush has not decided on whom to bestow his prized endorsement, his spokeswoman says.

In fact, Bush has yet to decide whether to endorse anybody before the March 12 primary, gubernatorial spokeswoman Karen

That notwithstanding, Republican sources have been saying for days that Bush is poised to endorse Bob Dole, whose limping candidacy was given new life with a resounding weekend victory in South Carolina.

Ms. Hughes shrugged off the rumors of an imminent endorsement of Dole.

Hereford's Rampley, Davis selected to all-district team

Hereford's Julie Rampley was selected to the first team of the All-District 1-4A girls' basketball team, while teammate Misti Davis made the second team.

The team, selected by district coaches, was released Monday, two days after district champion Canyon won the Class 4A state championship with a 60-34 win over Cedar Hill. Canyon finished its perfect season at 32-0.

There were seven players on the first team, including Most Valuable Player Courtney Sims of Canyon, and seven on the second team. Canyon put five players on the teams, plus Lady Eagles' coach Joe Lombard was honored as Coach of the Year.

Both Hereford selections are sophomores who also played on the varsity as freshmen. Rampley was named Co-newcomer of the Year after her freshman season.

Rampley led Hereford in many statistical categories. She scored 9.6 points per game to lead a balanced scoring attack. Her 164 rebounds (6.1 per game), 87 assists and 80 steals all led the team. She blocked 15 shots tied for second on the team.

great scorer and rebounder, which gets you on the all-district team. She obviously does both really well."

Joining Rampley and Sims on the first team are Jon Alair and Valeree Valdez of Canyon, Courtney Gilmore of Randall, Jennifer Jones of Pampa and Christie Powell of Borger. Alair was the only senior on the first team -Rampley and Gilmore are sophomores, and the rest are juniors.

Davis was Héreford's third leading scorer at 7.7 points a game. She was among the leaders in several categories: fourth in assists with 43, fourth in steals with 33. She also was one of the best three-point shooters, hitting 30-of-71 or 42 percent.

"Misti is a great role player," Fortenberry said. "She was a great sixth man as well as starter. She did both. She played just as well coming off the bench as she did starting. That takes a special player.

"Misti always seemed to give us the spark we needed when we were struggling on offense," he said. "She'd come in and get us started

Call it a zone. Call it a groove.
Whatever it is, Dennis Scott is in it.

"I'm definitely feeling it," Scott said after hitting eight of 15 3-pointers Monday night in the Orlando Magic's 110-97 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Scott is zoning along at a 52.9 percent clip in his last eight games, hitting 45 of 85 shots from 3-point range. That puts him on a pace to surpass the NBA record for 3s in a season - 217 - set by New York's John Starks in 1994-95. Scott has 192 with 23 regular-season games

Hereford scored its run in the top of the second. Sonny Perez and John Marty Galan both singled, then Perez went to third on a fielder's choice grounder by Tate Head - Galan was forced at second. Arturo Nava struck out, but there was a wild pitch on the third strike and the catcher threw the ball away, letting Perez score. Hereford was shut down after that. Borger's pitcher, named Bridges, limited Hereford to four hits in six innings. The game was shortened by the tournament time limit.

"He's a good pitcher, but we won't see him in district," said Herd coach Pete Rodriguez, who didn't know Bridges' first name. "They have Matt Ormond and Russell Washer...we'll

Borger pulled away with five runs in the third inning. An error and two walks set the table, and three singles. cleared it. The Bulldogs added three more in the fourth inning on a walk, two singles, another walk and a tworun double.

Rangel pitched two innings and started the third inning, where he was responsible for four of the five runs in the inning. Joseph Artho relieved with no outs in the third and got out of that jam, but he couldn't get an out in the fourth inning and gave up those three runs.

Ronald Torres relieved Artho and kept Borger from 10-run ruling Hereford. He retired the Bulldogs in order in the fifth inning.

"Ronald came in and shut them see those in district." down," Rodriguez said. Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: Do you know that there is going to be a great phone hotline available to answer your questions about your children's education, their schools, etc.?

The National Principals Hotline promotes family involvement in schools. Parents may speak directly and confidentially with a volunteer principal about anything concerning children's education. Call toll-free 1-800-944-1601 on the days listed below. • Sunday, March 24, 2 p.m.- 8 p.m.

Monday, March 25, 8a.m.-8p.m.

• Tuesday, March 26, 8 a.m.- 2

You can also request a free copy of "Now We're Talking," a booklet in English or Spanish that helps parents know how, when and why to get — and stay — in touch with their child's school.

You only get one chance for your child's education, so take a few minutes to call and get the advice or input that may make the difference.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it when you are the only person who orders dessert, the server brings extra forks or, worse yet, places your dessert in the middle of the table?

This forces the person who ordered the dessert to allow the others to dig in, which is not only irritating but unhygienic.

My boyfriend, who is a waiter, says he brings extra forks to save a second trip. He claims it's also a good way to sell more desserts. The assumption is that when people sample YOUR dessert, they will order one of their own. I've never seen it work that way. They just eat more of

I find nothing more annoying than a server who encourages others to eat part of my dessert. I ordered it, I'm, paying for it, and I'd like to eat it myself. If I want to offer samples of my chocolate decadence, I will do so on my own.

What do you say, Ann? Is there any grass-roots support for my Dessert Revolt among your readers? -- Contemplating Dessert Forks as Lethal Weapons in Minnesota

DEAR DESSERT REVOLU-TIONARY: As a bona fide out-ofcontrol chocoholic, I can tell you that if you are the only person at the table ordering a luscious dessert, you are going to have "partners," whether or not the waiter brings extra forks. If you want the whole dessert to yourself, my advice is to order a second one for the "tasters."

Women's Health Newborn Care. You should be told

By George D. Wilbanks, MD President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

For mothers and newsborns, a reasonable hospital stay following an uncomplicated vaginal delivery is 48 hours, according to The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG) and The American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP). Yet some insurers are limiting hospital stays to as short as 24 or even 12 hours. In response, some states have passed laws requiring insurers to observe ACOG and AAP guidelines, and a similar federal bill has been proposed. Regardless of what your insurance policy covers, here's what you should know before you leave the hospital.

1. Your Baby's Condition is Stable. Your baby should have an appropriate birth weight, normal exam results, and be in a stable condition. The baby should have urinated and passed at least one stool before discharge, and should be able to maintain a normal temperature and suck and swallow normally.

2. Lab Tests Have Been Performed. All necessary lab tests should be done on your baby before discharge. If your baby is discharged during the first 48 hours of life, then the baby should be tested within 48 hours after hospital discharge. These tests include a Hepatitis B vaccine, and heel-stick tests to screen for conditions that if not detected and treated early could lead to mental retardation or other problems - conditions like phenylketonuria (PKU), hypothyroidism, and sickle cell anemia. If your baby was tested for PKU before 24 hours of life, which may be too early, get the infant retested at a follow-up visit within 48 hours after discharge.

3. You've Received Instruction on

Grand Ole Opry, Hee Haw star, Minnie Pearl, dies at age of 83

By JIM PATTERSON Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) Minnie Pearl, the country comedian known worldwide for her shrill "Howdyyyyy!" and wide-brimmed straw hat with its dangling $1.98 price tag, is dead at age 83.
Miss Pearl died Monday night at Columbia Centennial Medical Center after a week of unconsciousness following a Feb. 25 stroke. Another stroke in 1991 had ended her performing career and left her partially paralyzed. Her loud, cheerful "Howdyyyyy! I'm just so proud to be here!" and her straw hat, toothy grin and calico and gingham dresses were her trademarks on more than a half century on the Grand Ole Opry country music show and 20 years on the syndicated TV show "Hee Haw."

"There's a lot of tears in the nation tonight and certainly quite a few in Grinder's Switch," said Jerry Stroble, manager of the Grand Ole

Miss Pearl laced her jokes with references to "Grinder's Switch." a railroad switching station near her hometown of Centerville, 50 miles southwest of Nashville.

Miss Pearl also sang and played the piano but was best known for her humor, which focused on a longstanding search for a "feller." A typical quip: "Kissing a feller with a beard is like a picnic. You don't mind going through a little brush to get there."

Her jokes were self-depreciating and sometimes a bit risque for family entertainment. One of her favorites was about being accosted by a robber:

"I said, 'But I haven't got any money,' so he frisked me and said, 'Are you sure you ain't got any money?' I said, 'No sir, but if you'll do that again I'll write you a check."

"Minnie Pearl" was a happy, hopeless character created from a composite of several women she had known early in her life.

In contrast to her stage role, Miss Pearl, whose real name was Sarah Ophelia Cannon, was gracious, cultured and sensitive. She married Henry Cannon, her manager, in 1947 and the couple lived next door to the Tennessee governor's mansion in Nashville. They had no children.

"For decades, Minnie was an example to millions with her positive, self-deprecating clean humor that made us laugh and stood the test of time," Gov. Don Sundquist said. The entertainment industry has lost a great talent. The world has lost a great friend."

The youngest of five girls, Miss Pearl studied drama in college, and later became an elegant community leader and tireless worker for charity in Nashville.

She was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1975 and was voted Country Music Woman of the Year in 1966 by the Country Music

She was diagnosed with cancer in 1985 and underwent a double mastectomy. She recovered and continued to perform and do volunteer work with the American Cancer Society.

In 1987, Miss Pearl received the American Cancer Society's Courage Award; in 1992, she was among 13 recipients of a National Medal of Art.

Looking back on her long career, she said in 1989, "It's like wedding anniversaries - it seems forever and it seems like no time at all. It seems that I've always been on the Opry and that I've always been Minnie Pearl."

She was the only female member of the Grand Ole Opry when she joined in 1940. At the time, the weekly live radio show was the premier showcase for country music

"I never did care too much about comedians, but she was one of the funniest women I've ever known," said "Jumping" Bill Carlisle, a friend and fellow performer on the Opry for over four decades.

One of Miss Pearl's late career triumphs was an appearance on "Comic Relief" in 1986, where she got a standing ovation performing with Robin Williams, Billy Crystal and other comedians. A 1992 tribute show after her first stroke featured tributes from country stars Johnny Cash and Dwight Yoakam and Hollywood stars Pee-wee Herman and Burt Reynolds, among others.

Miss Pearl is survived by Cannon; a sister, Mary Colley Kershaw of Hendersonville, N.C.; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services, open to the public, were set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at Brentwood United Methodist Church in Brentwood, just outside of Nashville. State Capital

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - A state contract with the producer of a soybeanbased food product that has been used to feed Texas prisoners will be investigated by the Department of Public Safety and the Texas

Rangers. Gov. George W. Bush and Allan Polunsky, chairman of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, announced the launching of the investigation last week. Their announcement came one day after James A. "Andy" Collins, former executive director of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, resigned from his $1,000-a-day consulting job with VitaPro, the Montreal-based producer of the food product.

The Houston Chronicle quoted Bush, who said the assignment of the Texas Rangers to the probe demonstrates the state's "strong commitment to uncovering all the facts about the VitaPro contract and performing a complete review" of operations at the Department of Criminal Justice.

Earlier this month the attorney general's office asked a Huntsville judge to nullify the contract, saying the agreement was invalid because the TDCJ did not seek competitive bids for the contract, and funding state's purchasing agent.

Polunsky, who ordered an investigation of the contract more than a month ago and brought the mat-ter to the governor's attention, said all aspects of potential criminal and administrative issues would be submitted to appropriate authorities. Federal and state investigators are already researching the contract.

Ray Sullivan, spokesman for Bush, said the governor is confident that Polunsky is going to conduct a thorough review.

Federal and state enforcement officials also are checking into Collins' link with Patrick Graham, a Houston businessman who has been charged with a role in planning the escape of an inmate from a state prison. When Graham was arrested he was carrying a VitaPro business card.

Richards' Speech Causes Clashes

The Texas Education Agency canceled an invitation by Texas A&M for a speech that was to be given by the daughter of former San Antonio.

And, Cecile Richards' speech scheduled for March 5 at the University of Texas School of Social Work sparked demands for a conservative to offer an opposing viewpoint.

Why? Richards said religious and political conservatives are trying to keep her and her organization from talking about "the national far right agenda in public education." A year ago, Richards founded the Texas Freedom Alliance to challenge the religious conservative movement particularly in regard to public education.

But TEA officials told the Austin American-Statesman that Richards' speech was canceled primary opponent.

was not approved by the General because she did not have expertise Services Commission, which is the in special education for students with disabilities.

Regarding Richards' UT speech, GOP Chairman Tom Pauken said Richards "is heavily involved in left-wing Democratic political activities, and we don't believe our tax dollars and taxpayer-supported facilities should be used to promote a left-wing political agenda.

The university has moved the conference to an off-campus site.
