Gore says political calls not wrong, but he won't do it again

Death toll rises to 25 in Arkansas tornadoes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Clint Butler cleared debris from his stricken mini-storage business and waited for the insurance adjuster to show up and go over the $35,000 loss.

Most of the 50 units he rents are gone, their bright blue sheet metal walls shredded by Saturday's tornadoes. "Right here, you can say that half of my business is gone," Butler said.

While businesses began the grim task of tallying up their losses Monday, the death toll rose to 25 when an injured man died in a hospital. The same violent storm system left widespread flooding, destruction and death from Texas to West Virginia over the weekend.

An elderly man was still missing near Arkadelphia, southwest of Little Rock. In that city alone, 373 homes, 45 business and 16 public buildings were damaged or destroyed in a tornado.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., described what he saw there: "It's a scene of total and utter destruction. It's very similar to scenes reminiscent of World War II."

People trying to rebuild their lives received words of encouragement as federal officials toured the shaken state Monday. James Lee Witt, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, got a close look at hard-hit areas in advance of today's visit by President Clinton.

"We'll be doing everything we can to make it easier for these Arkansas Attorney General Winston people," Witt said.

National Weather Service meteorologists measuring the tornado's track and force found it grew to eight-tenths of a mile wide with sustained winds of up to 260 mph in a swath of Saline County, southwest of Little Rock.

In that area Monday, residents burned piles of branches or searched for anything of value in acres of tangled wreckage. Children's pajamas and other clothing dangled from broken treetops. Everywhere, crews repaired power lines and roofs. A spray-painted plywood sign warned looters to stay away.

Those rebuilding should also be on the lookout for scam contractors who "flock to a disaster area like vultures to a dead animal," cautioned Bryant.

Kentucky flood waters recede; 48 deaths blamed on storms

Two more bodies were found Monday as floodwaters receded, southeast of Cincinnati, remained raising the death toll to 11 in Kentucky. In all, 48 deaths were blamed on weekend storms, flooding feet Sunday night, nearly 24 feet and tornadoes in the region, including 25 killed by twisters in Arkansas.

conference Monday there were "a few occasions" when he called contributors from his office, which is a practice specifically banned under a White House memo.

But Gore said, "I do not feel like I did anything wrong, much less illegal." While insisting he was exempt from restrictions that covered others, Gore nevertheless said he had decided not to make such calls "ever again."

Unlike his occasional low-key appearances on behalf of administration initiatives, Gore's 24-minute news conference in a packed White House briefing room was intended to dampen questions that might cloud his hopes for the presidential race in 2000. Despite the pressure, he seemed cool, although he lapsed at times into a lawyerly defense.

While President Clinton has been accused of trading White House sleep-overs for campaign cash, Gore largely had escaped criticism, except for questions about a Democratic fund-raiser he attended last April at a Buddhist temple in California.

But on Sunday The Washington Post published a story about his aggressive fund-raising role during the 1996 campaign. Even some Democrats said it was inappropriate.

After wrestling most of Monday over how to defuse the controversy, Gore decided the best way was to bolster his case. The White House endorsed Gore's view. "The president and the vice president speak as one," presidential spokesman Mike McCurry said, "and the White House agrees there is no controlling legal authority."

It is illegal for federal employees to solicit money in federal buildings, but Gore maintained he was not subject to that restriction.

His explanation came even as the White House released a 1995 memo from then-presidential counsel Abner Mikva instructing employees to avoid doing the very thing that Gore did. "No fund-raising phone calls or mail may emanate from the White House or any other federal building," Mikva wrote.

On that very point, Gore said "that particular memo was not designed to address either the president or the vice president" because they are covered by a different section of law.

The vice president's fund-raising network raised $40 million of the $180 million collected by the Democratic National Committee for the 1996 campaign, according to the Post.

Gore said, "I am proud of what I stand before reporters and cameras did. I do not feel like I did anything get needed support, some lawmakers say

AUSTIN (AP) - The state would pay 80 percent of the cost of educating Texas school children under a goal set by a House committee.

Some lawmakers on the panel, which is considering Gov. George W. Bush's plan to lower local property taxes by raising some state taxes, said they don't think the governor's plan has the support needed to pass. They added though that they are committed to providing a better source of school funding and enacting some tax cut.

Bush's plan would lower the $10 billion raised by local school taxes each year by $3 billion. To do so, Bush has proposed a new, 1.25 percent business activity tax, a one-half cent increase to the state sales tax and motor vehicle tax and the use of $1 billion in extra state revenue.

Reps. Rob Junell, D-San Angelo, and Tom Craddick, R-Midland, have introduced a bill and a proposed constitutional amendment to enact Bush's idea.

Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, said too many people are being nice about Bush's plan because they don't want to upset the governor. He said Bush's plan doesn't have the needed votes.

Stiles, a member of a special House committee studying the issue, urged fellow lawmakers on the panel to thank Bush for starting the conversation and "then stab (this plan) in the heart."

"I'll make a motion that we vote this thing out," Stiles said. "It will be like a rose picked last winter - it will be DOA.

Sadler said cutting taxes alone is not enough.

'You cannot give a short-term tax break and not impact school funding," he said.

Bush said he's focused on both priorities.

"The two go hand in hand," Bush said. "I'm interested if anybody's got an idea that can substantially cut our school taxes and cut the budget and fund our schools.

Members of the special House committee have studied Bush's proposal for weeks. They began on Monday the process of discussing alternatives, including a state tax on business properties or a gross receipts

Residents of the Lake Dreamland neighborhood in Jefferson County were moving out Monday night in anticipation of flooding. Family and friends helped residents load furniture and personal belongings into pickup trucks.

"If folks come a knocking on your door saying it's time to go, it's time to go," said local Disaster Emergency Services director Chuck Bartlett.

Five deaths in Ohio were blamed on the weather, five people were killed in Tennessee by floods and tornadoes, and one flood death was reported in West Virginia. Mississippi had one tornado death.

More evacuations were possible in Indiana today.

School lunches to have yogurt instead of meat

WASHINGTON (AP) - Children will soon be getting yogurt instead of meat in school lunches under a change approved by the Agriculture Department over the strong objections of cattle producers. School food service officials were told of the decision over the weekend by Mary Ann Keeffe, USDA's acting undersecretary for food, nutrition and consumer services. The revised rule will be published in written form later this week, a USDA spokesman said. School officials had predicted yogurt would be a hit with kids. Child-care providers and the food industry have been pressing for the change for at least 15 years, but the Agriculture Department balked out of concerns about the lack of iron and other nutrients in yogurt.

The department already allows some meat substitutes, including cheese, beans, eggs and peanut butter. Yogurt would add variety to lunches, it's easy for children to digest and it requires no preparation, proponents said. Under the new USDA rule, four ounces of yogurt may substitute for an ounce of meat.

School lunch programs, which feed 25 million children nationwide, are a huge market for the food industry. FordFCECL

Nouvelle Ami members are guests for meeting of La Madre Mia Club

He emphasized using items already owned and collected over the years rather than buying new accessories for the home. Use of scarves, dollies, jewelry, fabrics and collectibles was demonstrated along with the use of artificial plants and greenery.

Mr. Rives indicated designers are

Hereford fourth at Concho Belle Relays

SAN ANGELO - If the rest of the state hadn't heard about the Hereford Lady Whitefaces' talents on the cinder, they probably stood up and took notice Saturday afternoon at the Concho Belle Relays.

To be more a little more accurate, the rest of the state didn't merely hear of the Lady Whitefaces' presence in the San Angelo Stadium - they felt it.

efforts, battled defending Region I-4A champion tooth-and-nail throughout the meet before finally settling for fourth in the overall point standings. Big Spring, which returns almost their whole squad intact from last year's state qualifier, won the Division II team crown with 201.5 points. San Angelo Lake view and Lubbock Estacado finished second and third, respectively.

Perhaps no one put on as dazzling a display for Hereford as distance runners Jamie Hereford, behind 10 medal winning Harrison and Bethany Townsend. The HHS duo placed 1-2, respectively, in both the 1.600- and 3,200-meter runs. Harrison, who had garnered a silver medal in Hereford's season-opening meet the previous weekend at Randall, breezed through the 3,200-meter event, winning in a time of 12 minutes and 14 seconds. Townsend, who was third at the Randall Relays, finished 23 seconds later to take second.

Harrison and Townsend picked up their second medal of the meet later in the 1,600.

Harrison claimed the gold with a time of 5:44.94, while Townsend finished second at 5:49.96. Townsend's run was nearly seven seconds faster than her silver medal run at the Randall Relays.

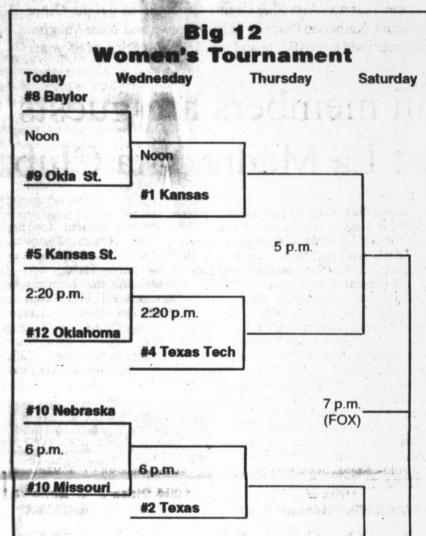

Kristin Fangman was another reason the Lady Whiteface thinclads couldn't be overlooked. Fangman legged out a blistering mark of 15.84 seconds in the 100-meter hurdles and won the event for a second straight week. She had won the Randall title the previous week with a run of 16.90.

That was far from her only moment in the limelight, however. Fangman had began the meet by taking second in the high jump competition. She cleared 5-foot-1 - one inch lower than Big Spring's Krissi. McWherter. HHS teammate Tori Walker was fifth in the event at 4-8.

Emilee Hafliger and Michelle Brown also earned medals in the meet, walking away with bronze honors in the discus and shot

Big 12 women open conference tournament action this afternoon

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - For at something is a special accomplishment.

So it's with a certain fondness that the Kansas coach looks at the inaugural Big 12 women's basketball tournament starting Tuesday. After winning the league's regular-season championship, the 11th-ranked Jayhawks go into the tournament as the No. 1 seed and as the favorite.

'To have the opportunity to win the very first Big 12, I've always felt there can't be another first," Washington said. "I just think it would be a wonderful honor and tremendous achievement by the team I've got this season.

'If we are fortunate enough to win it, I would cherish it very much."

That's the hangup for Kansas (23-4) - winning it. Although the Jayhawks won the season title by two games over Texas and Colorado, it proved to be in an intensely competitive league and rare was the night when the winner had an easy game.

Kansas was a case in point. The Jayhawks won four of their games by four points or less and one of their losses was to Missouri, the league's 10th-place team.

"I really think it's going to be a war on all fronts," Texas Tech coach guards I've ever seen." Marsha Sharp said. "A lot of teams

"It's not an easy situation in Big Marian Washington, being the first 12 basketball, so anytime you can avoid playing someone you're better off," Sharp said. "It's very difficult to win a Big 12 game period. The more times you're exposed to one, the more chance you've got of losing one."

A lower seeded team would catch a break if it got to the finals, though, because there's a day off between the semifinals and championship game. Plus, the teams that win on Tuesday will have had a chance to work out the kinks while the four others are sitting and watching.

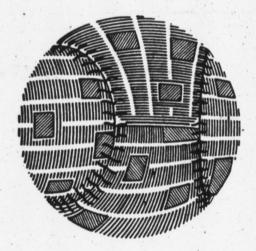

"It's like the old NCAA men's days when you saw a lot of teams that got byes in the first round lose in the next round," Iowa State coach Bill Fennelly said. "The other teams got the jitters out by playing in the first round."

Kansas won the regular-season title behind senior guard Tamecka Dixon, who's as hard to guard in the open court as anyone in the country. Dixon finished second in the league in scoring with a 21-point average and leads the Jayhawks in assists.

"Dixon can create offense in a lot of different ways for her team." Texas A&M coach Candi Harvey said. "She's one of the best point

Celtics end 13-game losing streak against Toronto

TORONTO (AP) - Now, if the Boston Celtics could just play a few more games outside the United States ...

The Celtics, led by Todd Day's 27 points, ended a club record-tying 13-game losing streak Monday with a 107-103 win over the Toronto Raptors. It was Boston's first win since Feb. 3, the last time the Celtics visited Toronto.

"I made a conscious effort not to let a loss happen to our ballclub," said Day, who had 16 points in the fourth quarter. "We get so much negative press, we want to start some kind of other streak. Now it's behind us. We can look forward."

The win gave Boston a 12-46 record, one win better than the Vancouver Grizzlies, who have the NBA's worst record at 11-50.

Antoine Walker chipped in with 21 points and 10 rebounds for the Celtics, while Rick Fox had 13 points and 10 assists. Eric Williams added 20 points.

In other NBA games, it was Chicago 108, Milwaukee 90; Utah 111, Golden State 104; and Sacramento 108 New Jersey 95.

Day helped put the Celtics ahead 92-82 when he followed up a missed shot and made a reverse layup with 5:10 remaining.

Carlos Rogers had 17 points, Walt Williams 16 and Damon Stoudamire 11 points and 17 assists for Toronto.

If the Celtics finish with more than 53 losses, they would have the worst season in franchise history. In 1978-79, the Celtics were 29-53.

"Looking at the rest if the season, you can obviously say one win does not cure all that's happened so far," Fox said. "Hopefully, it will put us on a winning streak. We've had our opportunities to win. We've just fallen short."

Boston built a 14-point lead in the first half, but its advantage nearly got away in the fourth quarter. Toronto scored 10 straight points and closed to 96-94 when Rogers made a pair of layups inside.

Day hit a 10-foot jumper and made a free throw with 39 seconds remaining to give Boston a 99-95 lead. Then Doug Christie's pass was intercepted by Walker, who hit two free throws with 32 seconds left and gave Boston the victory.

Key, Maddux meet again in spring training

By The Associated Press

Sure, it was only spring training. Still, it was worth noting the matchup _ Jimmy Key vs. Greg Maddux.

Key, who beat Maddux in the clinching Game 6 of the World Series last season, again was on the winning team when the Baltimore Orioles beat the Atlanta Braves 16-2 Monday in an exhibition at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"I thought about it yesterday when I heard Maddux was pitching," Key said. "It's ironic, but, of course, this is not the same."

Marquis Grissom homered on Key's second pitch. The left-han-" der, who signed with the Orioles as a free agent in the offseason, gave up two hits in two innings in his second appearance of the spring.

Key threw 29 pitches - 20 for strikes - then threw in the bullpen mound after his scheduled stint.

"I just wanted to throw some fastballs for location and to build up some arm strength," he said. "My fastball will be there at the end provided my arm stays healthy, and it feels great right now."

Maddux, making his spring training debut, retired the Orioles in order in the first inning, but allowed three runs and five hits - including a solo homer by Eric Davis - in the second.

Pete Incaviglia hit a grand slam for the Orioles, who have scored in double figures in three of their five exhibition games. Danny Clyburn and Wady Almonte also homered for Baltimore.

Marlins 8, Mets 0

Florida won its fourth straight game under new manager Jim Leyland as Jeff Conine hit a two-run double and Bob Natal had a two-sun homer against New York at Melbourne, Fla.

Twins (ss) 9, Blue Jays (ss) 0

Rich Becker homered and drove in three runs in a game between split squads from Minnesota and Toronto at Dunedin, Fla.

Scott Stahoviak homered and singled for Minnesota's split squad in a win over Texas at Port Charlotte, Fla.

Whose scared?

The smiles on the faces of Barrett Weishaar, left, and Kristen O'Rear indicate these decorative handmade scarecrows are too appealing to be scary. So maybe they will bring top dollar at the St. Anthony's School Auction at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Knights of Columbus Hall located on Country Club Drive.

Red Cross Update

In Mississippi, two emergency response vehicles are on site and have served 150 meals to victims there.

A total of 35 Red Cross shelters Tennessee. are also open in Kentucky, Ohio and Virginia housing several hundred flood victims.

March is Nutrition Month Technologic advances have made impact on food production, preparation methods

By CHARLOTTE R. CLARK MS RD/LD

Technology, with all its innova-tions, has been one of the hallmarks of the 20th century. Each technologic advance has resulted in more rapid discovery of new, improved technologies. As we enter a new year on the verge of the 21st century, we look forward to the technologic challenges that await us and the solutions that lie ahead.

In the January 1997 Journal of THE AMERICAN DIETETIC ASSOCIATION, Ronni Chernoff, current president of the association, authored a paper entitled "Technolo-gy - The bridge to the 21st century." March is Nutrition Month and celebrated around the world by dictitians who strive to educate and provide services to individuals who need their professional service to gain or maintain a healthy lifestyle. This dictitian has reviewed Ms. Chernoff's article and added some comments to emphasize our role in the health care field.

Computer technology is a prime example of how rapidly technologic advances have affected how we live. The first computer, ENIAC, which was created at the University of Pennsylvania in the mid 20th century, filled an entire room and required temperature and humidity controls to

In a mere 50 years, computers have been miniaturized and can be carried everywhere. Computers, which were once used primarily in scientific and academic settings, are now used in virtually all aspects of our personal and professional lives. Almost any information management task can now be done using a personal computer that fits on one's lap.

In the years since Alexander Graham Bell invented the first crude telephone, telecommunications technology has skyrocketed-literally! Telephones have become totally portable; people can place telephone calls from anywhere, including airplanes or cars, all thanks to satellite technology, which allows signals to be bounced around the world.

Information transfer methods such as the fax machine have only been widely available during the past decade. The growth of the information superhighway has enabled any computer user to surf the Net, develop a home page on the World Wide Web, and have instantaneous access to data that, until recently, took weeks to uncover.

Instantaneous access to information has revolutionized the way business is conducted, health care is delivered and information is transferred. Because information and data are available in a matter of minutes, and from a wide variety of sources, decisions can be made more quickly and consumers are better informed.

Technologic advances have not maintain its delicate instruments. ' been limited to the communication and computer fields, however. Advances in agriculture sciences have had a significant impact on the quality and quantity of food supply. Plant genetic engineering has given us heartier crops and food products that stay fresher longer. Scientific advances have enabled researchers to develop improved animal feed, which helps farmers raise lower-fat animals and poultry that produce lowercholesterol eggs.

Along with the changes in food production technology have come great changes in the way food is processed. Foods with an extended shelf-life, dehydrated or reconstituted products, nutrient-altered food, fat replacement, and new ingredient formulations, all of which owe their existence to technology, have contributed to more choice in the marketplace.

New food preparation techniques have given us the ability to prepare meals in advance of their being eaten. preserve them, and later reconstitute a meal that is pathogen free, maintains the original product texture and tastes good. Technology enables us to cook or reheat foods in very brief periods without sacrificing quality.

Technologic advances in medical practice have happened with lightening speed. New drugs are being developed and tested continuously and new therapies for all diseases are under constant experimentation. Significant advances in lifesaving techniques have been made possible because of miniaturization of instruments. Laser and fiber optic equipment have made surgical procedures safer, have resulted in less blood loss during surgery, and have contributed to faster healing.

The Hereford Brand, Tuesday, March 4, 1997 -- Page 7

Cures for genetically related discases may be around the corner. Through the human genome projects, scientists have identified genes associated with diseases. New multitechnology diagnostic-treatment equipment has made inroads into the rapid diagnosis and early treatment of common and rare illnesses. The relationship of specific nutrients to disease manage ment or improvement has also been investigated using new diagnostic technology. Technology has had a huge impact in every aspect of our lives; technology will be part of all we do and will alter the way in which we do it. The bridge to the future is marked by the development of new technologies.

Our challenge for the future is to make technology work for us. In the final analysis we must always remember the individual and his oneness. Each person must be treated as a special individual and shown dignity in receiving our professional services. With the use of modern technology, continuing research and education, and the acceptance of challenges in the future, Dietitians shall be efficient and effective in their health care endeavors.

After the business meeting, Louise Streun, program chairman, introduced Jo Beth Shackelford, who has served on the Hereford Regional Medical Center board for two terms.

Shackelford presented a program on preventive care. In preventive care, HRMC currently has a heart rehab center, respiratory therapy and physical therapy.

Military prep schools march back

By MICHAEL HILL Associated Press Writer CORNWALL-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) - Sgt. James Healey gives a tour of his spartan barracks room at "Little West Point."

A shampoo bottle, hair brush and toothpaste tube are arranged perfectly parallel on his dresser. Shoes toe an invisible line beneath the bunk, and the sheets are tucked tightly under the

It bounces - barely. Not bad for a high-school

For a while in the war-weary 1970s, it appeared such spit-and-polish schools were marching toward oblivion. But in recent years - as school uniforms and student discipline have become front-burner education issues - NYMA and other prep schools like it are reporting modest enrollment gains.

"Part of it is - How can I explain? because of the mess in the public school system," says Commander Laurence Upham of the Admiral Farragut Academy in St. Petersburg.

The backbone of academies such as NYMA remains military discipline, from 6 a.m. formations in uniform, to taps at 10 p.m. Just a five-mile hike from the U.S.

Military Academy, the school is sometimes referred to as "Little West Point," since it takes students from Point," since it takes students from the fifth to 12th grades. "People are seeing a need for the structure and discipline," says Superintendent Philip D. Riley, a retired U.S. Army colonel who took over the school three years ago. "There seems to be considerable confusion, I think, outside in our society about just which way to turn particular kids that seemingly aren't being successful." No such confusion here.

New cadets must tame teen-age mouthiness and pare responses down to "Yes sir!" "No sir!" "No excuse, sir!" "Sir, may I ask a question?" and "Sir, I do not understand." ("Ma'am" is used when addressing female superiors.) The academy's Cadet Manual is 62 pages and details prohibitions anging from theft and cheating to hewing gum in ranks. The structure is enforced to breed military schools discipline - a selling point to parents looking to get their child's grades up for colle

"You get more calls now with parents saying, 'He's a fine lad, but he's running with a crowd we're concerned with," says retired Gen. Willard Scott, executive director of the Alexandria, Va.-based Associa-tion of Military Colleges and Schools of the United States.

Scott's group counts 34 member schools teaching pre-college students today, down from the century-high mark of about 54 during the Korean War. For the past 100 years, the schools have enjoyed periods of popularity during wars and tougher times during recessions.

The big exception was the unpopular war in Vietnam, a time when many schools closed their doors for good.

But in the wake of the war in the Persian Gulf, Scott notes that surviving schools have had increases in enrollment over the past three years - "not dramatic, but steady" He adds. however, that these are still perilous times for any sort of

In keeping with the times, many military schools stress academics over martial concerns. At NYMA, for instance, the curriculum touches on such as the arts and Kw things such as the arts and K wantan. "There is a perception of military schools as being similar to a reformatory," Scott says. "They want the perception that this is a college preparatory school." Many students view the academy like medicine: maybe a tad unpleasant, but good for you. NYMA Cadet Jennifer Meurer, private in the 11th grade, rolls her eyes when asked if she likes it here. But she also notes that back home in Toronto her grades at a local art school were dismal. She hopes the change of atmosphere will help. "Everything in my old school was artsy, and now I'm marching," she says.

Another cadet, Capt. Shamica Nurse, recites a litany of hardships: pre-dawn formations, push-ups for infractions such as tardiness, room inspections. But in the next breath, the high-school senior says: "I like it here. It's gotten etter every year." Tuition costs can run high - $15,500

AUSTIN - Insurance Commisioner Elton Bomer said last week Texas' compulsory insurance law is not working because about oncfourth of all drivers are uninsured. Speaking to a Senate committee, Bomer suggested that the state could pass a law that would require insurance companies to communicate with the Department of Public Safety "and let them know when an insurance policy is written and when it is canceled."

Then, he said, computers could be used to make sure drivers have valid policies.

Many drivers buy fake insurance cards to get their automobile license tags and inspections, while others buy policies and cancel them as soon as they get their license tags or driver's licenses, Bomer said.

While Bomer was voicing his concerns about uninsured motorists before the Senate Nominations Committee, the House Insurance Committee heard testimony on bills that would:

· Automatically jail drivers who are caught without insurance for six days and subject them to stiffer court penalties;

 Increase the fine for uninsured motorists; and a Limit the right of uninsured motorists to sue.

Another bill favored by much of the insurance industry would eliminate the requirement that all drivers carry insurance. The industry has iced support for a no-fault insurance system where drivers involved in accidents are compensated by their own companies. Bomer, who favors a no-fault system, said the compulsory insur-ance law has been troubled because it is not liked by insurance com-panies and drivers who opt to go without insurance.

Judicial Elections Criticized

Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Tom Phillips criticized the way judges are elected in Texas, because, he said, it erodes confidence in the justice system. Phillips, a Republican, also said he is concerned that so few minorities are elected to the bench. Last week, in his State of the Judiciary Address to the Senate and House members representing three judicial committees, Phillips said, 'Sadly, the results of these races are determined far more by party strength than by the individual merit of the candidates."

Phillips urged the lawmakers to draft legislation that would allow the governor to appoint judges, and then let voters decide whether a judge should retain office.

Furthermore, Phillips said, the perception outside of Texas is that justice is for sale, because of money that gushes into election campaigns. Citing campaign reports, Phillips said $50 million was spent on Texas appellate court races from 1988 to 1994.

Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, said he would push for judicial election reform.

"Black and brown people in Texas go into a courtroom looking for justice and the only black thing they see is the color of the robe and the only brown thing they see is the wood paneling," Ellis was quoted by The Dallas Morning News.

Loan Program Introduced

A home improvement loan program for low-income families was introduced last week by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs.

The program combines private and public money to provide $13.3 million for loans to low-income families who live in cities under 50,000 population. Half of the money is carmarked for colonias — the subdivisions near the border with Mexico that don't have water and sewer services.

The 20-year loans, at 6.99 percent interest, are capped at $25,000.

Bivins' Tenure Bill Passes

The Texas Senate passed a bill filed by Education Committee Chairman Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, that would require state colleges and universities to evaluate tenured faculty and administrators at least every six years.

Tenure is a status that is awarded to those who show excellence in teaching and research. A tenured professor cannot be fired without due cause.

Opponents say tenured professors already face annual reviews.

Bivins' bill tightens those reviews, which have been regarded as "slack" by some university officials. The legislation addresses complaints Bivins has received from parents, students and faculty about professors who coast after carning tenure.

Other Capital Highlights

 State Sen. Drew Nixon, R-Carthage, publicly apologized three days after being charged Feb. 18 with soliciting prostitution on Austin's South Congress Avenue. Nixon offered no excuses for his behavior, but said he had no plans to resign from public office. He returned to work Feb. 24.

. The state Senate voted 31-0 to exempt the University of Texas' plan to expand its football stadium from a law protecting the state Capitol. A deck under construction on the stadium's east side would block views of the Capitol from the plaza of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library on the UT campus. Other Capitolview-obstructing expansions are planned.

Restaurant-rich New Orleans claims highest rate of obesity

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some cities have more fat folk than others but it still all comes down to what and how much people eat, a new study suggests.

The 33-city study issued today by the Coalition for Excess Weight Risk Education found overall that cities with high unemployment rates and low per capita income tend to have higher rates of obesity.

Among other factors: high annual precipitation rates and a high number of food stores.

Called The National Weight Report, the study found that restaurant-rich New Orleans has the nation's highest obesity rate at 37.5 percent of adult residents while outdoor-living Denver has the lowest at 22.1 percent.

Besides New Orleans, the high-weight metropolises include Norfolk, Va., 33.9 percent; San Antonio, 32.9 percent; Kansas City, Mo., 31.6 percent; Cleveland, 31.5 percent; Detroit, 31 percent; and

Cincinnati; 30.7 percent. Easiest on the scales after Denver are Minneapolis, 22.6 percent; San Diego, 22.9 percent; Washington, D.C., 23.8 percent; Phoenix, 24.3 percent; St. Louis, 24.8 percent; and Tampa, Fla., 24.9 percent. Why the differences?

The study said its research produced some ideas.

Many people in Atlanta, it said. reported eating fried foods, eating many of their meals away from home and having a deep loyalty to "Southern style comfort food," high in fat and calories but reflecting a major diseases such as hypertension, sense of family and regional heritage and tradition.

Ethnic food may be a fat builder in Cleveland, the survey said. And it said many people blamed the harsh winters for prompting them to eat meat and buttermilk and biscuits and french fries to help them fuel up.

when it is too hot to exercise. But ers.

they said that may be counterbalanced by the desire to look good in tight-fitting summer clothing.

The National Weight Report is based on a list created by the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which gathered the date from the National Health Interview Survey for the years 1990 and 1993. About 20,000 people, ages 20 to 74, reported their height and weight.

"As the second leading preventable cause of death in the United States, it results in some 300,000 deaths annually and contributes to diabetes, cancer and stroke," the weight coalition said.

The Washington-based organization is composed of the American Diabetes Association, the American Association of Diabetes Educators, the American Society for Clinical Nutrition, the North American People in Phoenix said they tended Association for the Study of Obesity to gain weight during the summers and four pharmaceutical manufactur-
