Twisters, storms hit southern parts of U.S.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) - Tornadoes knocked out power lines and damaged buildings early this morning, a few hours after severe storms hit Indiana and Kentucky, destroying homes, overturning cars and killing one man.

The Tennessee tornadoes skipped through Chattanooga, striking an apartment complex and injuring at least two dozen people. No deaths were reported and most injuries were minor.

Power to about 20,000 residents was knocked out.

Tornadoes touched down near Tennessee's largest mall, Hamilton Place, but did not cause damage. The worst hit was the Hickory Villa Apartments, where lumber, roofing and trees were strewn everywhere. Farm buildings were also damaged.

"That's an absolute miracle in this case. The damage is extensive," said Jeff Gunn of Bradley County Emergency Services.

Heavier damage was reported in Kentucky and Indiana, where tornadoes, hail and driving rain struck Friday night.

In Kentucky, six twisters were reported in three rural counties, although only three could be confirmed.

Winds shut down Interstate 65 at Bonnieville, about 60 miles south of Louisville. Just south, in Mumfordsville, at least six cars were tossed over, according to fire officials.

Five people were injured there, one in a car crash and the others by winds as they fled their vehicles.

In Hart County, several people were temporarily trapped when their homes were damaged by tornadoes. Car windshields were smashed by hail. Power lines were downed, trees sheared and numerous buildings knocked over, police said.

In Radcliff, some 20 miles south of Louisville, golf ball-size hail fell and torrential rains caused some flooding.

"We know that there are several injuries and additional injuries in homes," said Terry Shelton, Hart County judge-executive. "We have been told that several of the injuries are critical."

Storms that hit Indiana ripped rooftops off two apartment complexes, causing heavy damage, and knocked out power lines. No serious injuries were reported.

"Our glass sliding door was shaking, and I noticed sparks flying out of the power line (outside)," resident Melanie Klevickas said. "Then I heard people screaming. They ran out screaming from the apartments where the roofs had blown off."

Easter 'season of renewal' urged by President Clinton

WASHINGTON (AP) - Lamenting the brutal attack on a black Chicago boy, President Clinton is asking Americans this Easter weekend to reject the "constant curse" of racial hatred.

"In this season of renewal, I ask all Americans to reaffirm their commitment to this central ideal - that we are many people, but one nation, bound together by shared values," the president said today in his weekly radio address.

Looking ahead to both Easter and next month's Passover holiday, he used the morning broadcast to ask the nation's prayers for 13-year-old Lenard Clark, the Chicago boy kicked unconscious last week in what Clinton called a "savage, senseless assault driven by nothing but hate."

He also worried that black

Americans would see in Clark's alleged attackers - three white teen-agers - the faces of all white Americans. "The acts of a few people must never become an excuse for blanket condemnation," Clinton said.

"The divide of race has been America's constant curse in pursuit of our ideals."

The president, recovering from knee surgery, planned a work-free weekend at the White House, capped by the Sunday morning homecoming of his wife and daughter from their tour of Africa and a traditional Easter dinner with visiting relatives, spokesman Mike McCurry said.

Healing racial wounds is one issue on which Clinton speaks most passionately. He traces his concern for black-white relations back to his childhood days in Arkansas.

Easter: A very special observance

Today is Easter Sunday and many Hereford and area residents will join Christians around the world in religious observance of the resurrection of Christ. Whether it's praying in the chapel, as pictured above, attending the church of your choice, or celebrating the meaning in your own heart, the message will be proclaimed.

Hereford youth shooting for a spot on the All-American team

S AVANNAH, GA. - Some youngsters love to play with clay, molding the substance into silly shapes and creating fantastic worlds to venture through.

Eddie Trotter is no different: He loves clay, and he loves traveling to far off places.

What sets Trotter apart from other youngsters, however, is the fact that he would rather blow up his clay and make others look silly as he boldly attempts to go where few other Hereford shooters have gone - Vandalia, Ohio, for the Great American Tournament - a 15-day clay target-shooting tournament that will determine the best marksman in the United States.

The 13-year-old eighth grade student at Hereford Junior High took another huge step toward realizing that goal this past weekend when he won the Sub-Junior Dixie Grand Doubles and finished second overall in the Singles competition.

"I'm really proud of it," said Trotter, who has won in all four meets he has participated in this season. "This is something I wanted to do. I just want to get better."

It would be hard to improve on his first four efforts. The son of DeeAnne and Johnny Trotter, he won the Southern Grand American Tournament sub-junior Singles title in Tampa, Florida, earlier this month by blasting 194 of 200 moving targets. Prior to that he established a new record in the Hereford Junior High School eighth grader Eddie Trotter displays some of the hardware he has won over the past few months competing on the target-shooting circuit. Trotter, 13, is trying to qualify for the Grand American Sub-Junior Team.

Spring Grand American Tournament, which was held in Phoenix, by hitting on 99 of 100 attempts in Doubles competition.

Trotter was second in sub-junior Singles competition in his first meet of the year - the Western Grand American which was held in Salt Lake City. At the same meet, however, he walked away with the WGA sub-junior Handicap championship with a 95-of-100 performance.

"Right now, he's doing really well," said DeeAnne Trotter, noting that the clay shooting sport is still a mystery and misunderstood

Health care company being probed for Medicare fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's largest health care company, Columbia-HCA Healthcare Corp., is being investigated for possible Medicare fraud, officials said Friday.

Columbia, which treats 125,000 people a year at its 350 hospitals, faces questions about whether it padded bills to the government.

And federal regulators also may be looking into whether the company broke the law by getting doctors to indirectly invest in, and then refer patients to, its outpatient care facilities, a newspaper reported.

A spokesman for the inspector general's office at the Health and Human Services Department, who asked not to be identified, said the FBI was helping to look into possible violations of federal law by Columbia after the office that runs Medicare had raised concerns.

President Clinton announced a new government crackdown on Medicare fraud at a White House ceremony this week.

In the criminal investigation of Columbia, the FBI on March 19 searched El Paso, Texas, medical facilities "linked to the Columbia health care system," said special agent Al Cruz. Documents were seized and are being reviewed, but Cruz would not say exactly what agents are looking for.

Because the Columbia probe has been turned over to law enforcement, Medicare officials can't comment, said spokesman Rick Wair.

The company has not been informed about the scope or nature of the investigation, said Columbia spokeswoman Eve Hutcherson. But she denied the company has either overcharged the government or skirted laws preventing doctors from investing in businesses to which they refer patients.

"I think that it has been and will be our intention to comply with the law, and we have certain policies and procedures in place to attempt to ensure compliance," she said.

Regulators' suspicions about Columbia were aroused last year when a government review of records found the company's Spring View Medical Center in Kentucky had diagnosed and billed for the most severe form of one respiratory ailment much more often than had other area hospitals.

Medicare sets standard payments to doctors and hospitals for treatment of each illness. The more serious the patient's condition, the higher the payment. At Spring View, each time Columbia reported the most serious diagnosis rather than a lesser one, the company got as much as $4,000 more from Medicare, the Times said.

The newspaper also conducted its own survey and found similar irregularities at Columbia's Texas and Florida hospitals. After Columbia took over Cedar Medical Center in Miami, for example, the percentage of respiratory ailments reported as severe increased from 31 percent to 90 percent.

It is normal for companies to try to get the highest Medicare payment a patient's symptoms warrant, and often if regulators think the truth has been stretched they just seek reimbursement, according to health policy experts.

But if a pattern of such abuse is found, the government can prosecute for fraud.

Columbia's Hutcherson said company officials are still reviewing the studies made public by the Times and would not comment on their accuracy.

Arson wildfire team probes area blazes

Due to continued arson wildfires in northwest Randall and northeast Deaf Smith counties, the Texas Forest Service has offered assistance in the form of an arson investigation team.

Randall County has experienced numerous arson wildfires over the last several weeks, causing concern to fire fighters and residents.

"We think we have a lead on some suspects," said Joe Rice, Canyon fire chief. "We are checking out all leads with the aid of the Texas Forest Service's investigation team."

The TFS sent its team to Randall County last Wednesday. The team will be working with the fire marshal, fire chief, and the sheriff's departments in Randall and Deaf Smith County.

Residents of the two counties are requested to report any suspicious vehicles or activities that might indicate an arson-related problem to the Randall or Deaf Smith sheriff's departments.

Law enforcement officials and arson investigators will be working hard over the next several weeks to check out and narrow their list of suspects.

Weather conditions throughout the 20 northern counties of the Panhandle are not expected to change. The fire danger will remain extreme until adequate rainfall is received.

Since March 11, a total of 84 wildfires have burned 25,800 acres of grass and pasture land. The majority of the fires have occurred in Randall, Potter and Deaf Smith counties.

Persons throughout the Panhandle are asked not to do any type of outdoor burning, to extinguish their smoking materials properly, and to refrain from driving vehicles in tall, dry grass.

A Texas Forest Service Wildfire Task Force, comprised of three engines, an all-terrain tracked vehicle and 22 wildland fire fighters will arrive in Canyon Sunday.

Local Roundup

Special county meeting set

A special meeting of the Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court will be held Monday at 8 a.m. in the courthouse. The only item on the agenda is to consider a countywide fire ban. Due to weather conditions and the large number of grass fires in the area, some counties have already banned fires.

HISD holds special meeting

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees will hold a special meeting at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the board room. Trustees will review applications for superintendent with the Texas Association of School Board consultants.

HEDC meeting scheduled

The Hereford Economic Development Corporation board will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the city commission chamber. Primary business will be to ratify a contract and documentation for a theater project with Premiere Cinema Corporation.

Satellite Center hosts open house

The Hereford Satellite Center will host an open house from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on April 5 at the center, 218 North 25 Mile Avenue. The Satellite Center trains mentally-challenged individuals for employment in the community. Local businesses and restaurants will be distributing goods to the guests. There will also be giveaways. The public is encouraged to attend.

Health Fair is planned

Hereford Regional Medical Center will sponsor its third annual Health Fair on Tuesday, April 8, from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The Health Fair will be held at Hereford Community Center. More than 30 exhibitors will be participating this year with plenty of free healthcare information and variety of free health screening. Representatives from many of the organizations will be available to answer specific questions about their product or services.

Many school districts snag used computers from state

AUSTIN (AP) - A school superintendent who got up early to go fishing has ended up snagging some computers for his students instead. Chapel Hill Independent School District, headed by Superintendent Thomas Rector, was among several school districts and groups to receive used computers from the state comptroller's office Thursday. Rector heard about the giveaway on the radio during a fishing trip one morning and decided to ask for some computers for his Northeast Texas district, which is near Mount Pleasant.

"I thought, 'I'm fishing in the wrong pool,'" Rector said. "We're a rural school with a great deal of growth. With the explosion of technology, we knew we needed more computers."

The school district, which got 50 of the 281 computers distributed Thursday, will put them in its new high school. They will be used in two computer labs primarily for the school's dyslexic students program. With the donation, the school district's ratio of students to computers will rise from the state average of each computer being shared by 10 students to one computer for every two students.

The donations, which came about after the state agency upgraded its computers, are the latest in a comptroller's office program that has given away 833 computers since September 1995.

"One of the reasons Comptroller (John) Sharp began this was that computers could be better used in schools than collecting dust in our warehouses," said Leo Aguirre, the comptroller's director of central services.

The first donations were made in 1995, when Sharp offered equipment to Hutto ISD to replace computers destroyed by a fire in the high school computer lab.

to a lot of people. "It's not a well-known sport," she said. "But there are a lot of kids doing it now. And I don't think a lot of people realize how hard it is to do this. To take up a 12-pound shotgun and have it kick you 200 times is hard. It takes a lot of stamina." Trotter didn't have any stamina trouble at the Dixie Grand American. He claimed the sub-junior Doubles title (when two clay targets are launched into the air at once) by hitting 96 of 100 opportunities. He tied for the top spot in sub-junior Singles by hitting 195 of 200, but lost out on the title in a shoot-off, 24-23.

Trotter, who is slated to compete in tournaments in Oklahoma, Nevada and Michigan before the end of the school year, indicated concentration was the main ingredient to his success.

"I put my shells into my vest and get my gun," he said. "Then I look at the background and mount my gun a few times. Usually I try not to talk to anyone so I can get my concentration. You have to be serious when you shoot," he added.

Trotter first got started in the shooting sport through the local 4-H program. He and a couple of friends went to a meet once and had fun.

"He and some kids went to the State 4-H Meet, and he just wanted to take it to a higher level after that," said DeAnne.

In order to qualify for the Great American Tournament, Trotter will have to compete in the three upcoming shoots, as well as shoot in four State Shoots (Ohio, Kansas, Colorado and Texas) before making a trip to a zone tournament, where he will have to qualify by finishing as one of the top sub-junior shooters in the Southwestern United States.

"I'd like to make it there, but I'd be happy if I only had one trophy as long as I could keep improving," he said.

Happy Easter, Happy Spring

The first hint of spring can be seen in Hereford. The Rich and Janet Kendrick home, located at 108 Texas, is decorated for the spring season. As two stuffed bunnies swing from the egg-decorated tree, Brady, 4; Robbyn, six months; and Landry, 3; enjoy being outdoors in the spring weather.

Suicide cult members had Texas connections

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Friends had wondered what became of Jeffrey Howard Lewis. Now they know.

Jeffrey Howard Lewis, 41, a former San Antonio massage therapist, was one of 39 members of the Heaven's Gate suicide cult whose bodies were found in a San Diego-area mansion on Wednesday.

Texas-born cult leader Marshall Herff Applewhite, 65, also was among the dead.

Nine of his followers listed Texas addresses on their driver's licenses. But a check of those addresses found most of them to be post office boxes at mail-service stores scattered around North Dallas and its suburbs.

Four years ago, Lewis sold his possessions and left San Antonio to join the Heaven's Gate, a friend, David Tayloe, told the San Antonio Express-News.

Tayloe said Lewis considered cult members as family.

"He told us that he wouldn't be communicating with any of his friends and to be happy for him, because this is what he felt was right for him," Tayloe said. "He gave us all big hugs and we all said goodbye."

Lewis, who worked as a masseur out of his house, informed these same friends nearly four years ago that he was joining a cult for the second time.

"He called us to his house and told us he was getting rid of all his possessions, like his clothes and microwave, and joining a cult which had been really strong during the seventies," he said.

Tayloe described Lewis as "free spirited."

"We hanged around in a close-knit group who listened to music and went camping together on a regular basis," he said.

Another of the dead, 59-year-old Norma Jean Nelson, lived at a North Dallas apartment complex where she was remembered by a former neighbor.

"She told me that she was from Star Trek," said Cynthia McGowan. "We just looked at her in surprise. ... It just didn't dawn on us that she was in a type of cult. We thought that maybe she was crazy."

Denise June Thurman, 44, used to live at the Austin address on her license, said a man who answered the telephone there. However, he hung up without identifying himself to The Associated Press.

Robert John Arancio, 46; Betty Eldrie Deal, 64; and Cheryl Elaine Butcher, 43, all shared the same address - a Mail Boxes Etc. store in Far North Dallas. A telephone call to the store Friday night was not answered.

Michael Howard Carrier, 48, listed as his address a Pack 'N Mail store in the suburb of Richardson.

Susan Frances Strom, 44, listed a Postage Plus store in McKinney as her address.

Judith Ann Rowland, 50, of Dallas, also was among those who died. A woman who answered her phone

Friday night declined comment before hanging up.

Cheryl Butcher's mother, Virginia Norton of Springfield, Mo., hadn't seen her daughter in three years when she learned Thursday of her daughter's death, a friend said.

"She's heartbroken about it, but there's some closure to this because for the last three years she has not known if (Ms. Butcher was) dead or alive," said Mrs. Norton's friend and former neighbor, Betty Chatman.

Ms. Butcher never mentioned suicide pacts or such beliefs to her mother, Mrs. Chatman told The Associated Press on Friday. "She knew what Cheryl believed. They discussed it a good many times," she said.

Mrs. Norton tried to contact her daughter several times in the past three years, Mrs. Chatman said. "Christmas cards came back unopened," Mrs. Chatman said.

Mrs. Norton told The Springfield News-Leader on Friday that her daughter hadn't lived in Missouri for several years. She last saw Ms. Butcher in 1993 while visiting her in Dallas. Ms. Butcher had been a member of the cult for more than two decades, and seemed content, the mother recalled.

"She was with me for 21 years, and with the group for 21 years," Mrs. Norton said. "She didn't call it a cult. She didn't consider it as a cult. She was happy."

The family requests memorials be to the Cornerstone Church Building Fund.

Misprinted bills found

WASHINGTON (AP) - It's funny money, but the Treasury Department sure isn't laughing.

At least $4.6 million worth of new $100 bills were printed with mistakes involving two of the sophisticated security features intended to make them harder to counterfeit.

The misprinted bills remain legal tender, however, and Treasury officials say they do not plan to recall them.

"The currency is still good, but if people are uncomfortable, they can bring the bill to their local bank for exchange," said Howard Schloss, a Treasury Department spokesman.

On each of the misprinted bills, a watermark appears on the left side of Benjamin Franklin's portrait and a polymer security thread on the right side of it. The two features should be swapped.

At least 46,000 misprinted bills have been discovered. Government officials do not know how many more are in circulation, although they insist it is a small fraction of the $890 million in new bills. One problem in detecting the misprints, officials say, is that roughly two-thirds of all U.S. currency circulates overseas.

While the misprinted $100 bills are worth no more than their face value right now, they could become collectors' items.

Joe Gallo, a coin dealer in Alexandria, Va., who has been in the business for 33 years, said a misprint could be worth as much as $250 - or much less if it turns out many of them got into circulation.

Several dealers said they doubt the bills will be worth more than face value because, unlike more apparent mistakes - such as mismatched serial numbers - security features are numerous and less obvious.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Treasury agency that prints currency, first discovered the error in November. At that time, it alerted the Secret Service, the government agency that catches counterfeiters, and the Federal Reserve, whose 12 regional banks actually put the money in circulation.

Officials said they delayed notifying the public because they believed they would be able to catch the misprints before any of them got into circulation.

The Treasury Department said the error occurred when the paper company Crane Paper of Massachusetts put a guide notch on the wrong side of some shipments of the paper.

When the government printers inserted the blank paper into printing presses, they put it in the wrong way and the bills were printed incorrectly.

Crane has been the sole supplier of the paper used to print U.S. currency for the past 100 years.

Shore fund established

A "T.J. Shore Scholarship Fund" has been established at FirstBank Southwest by friends of the Bill Shore family.

T.J. Shore, 17, is the granddaughter of Bill and Mary Lou Shore of Hereford, and the surviving daughter of Keith Shore, who died the past week in an accident near Canyon.

Anyone who would like to contribute to the fund may make a deposit to the T.J. Shore Scholarship Fund at the bank.

'Friday Night Thing' in Angelo targets kids at risk to crime

By MOLLY CRINER

San Angelo Standard-Times
SAN ANGELO, Texas - They may live in different corners of the city, but on the last Friday of every month, more than 200 kids gather for an exciting evening together.

It's called the Friday Night Thing. "It's kind of a cross between American Gladiators and Billy Graham," said Kevin Reynolds, president of House of Faith, a street ministry that targets kids at risk to enter gangs and crime.

The month-end rally is a culmination of lessons presented to the children in Bible clubs that take place in their own neighborhoods each week, Reynolds said. House of Faith averages 350 to 400 youngsters attending the clubs, with the total number of kids reached estimated at 650, Reynolds said.

Bringing them together one Friday night a month serves several purposes, he said. Besides tying together all that month's Biblical concepts, the kids have a chance to recite Scripture they have learned, profess saving faith in Jesus Christ and develop a sense of community and belonging. Toward that end, the kids all received matching House of Faith T-shirts in December.

"It gives the kids a picture of the fact that their little groups (in their neighborhoods) aren't the only ones. There's a lot of other kids around town who want to learn about Jesus," Reynolds said.

Ask the kids why they come to House of Faith events, and their answers are a lot simpler.

"It's FUN!" said 12-year-old Luciano Chavez.

"He's fun," 13-year-old Mark Carrasco said of Reynolds. "He likes us. He wouldn't keep coming if he didn't like us."

For Friday Night Thing, the children are picked up in their own neighborhoods on borrowed church buses driven by volunteers, and brought to the gym of the Christian Church of San Angelo. There, they are treated to a medley of songs, games, contests, skits and stories. Anywhere from 30 to 40 adult and college student volunteers are on hand to help.

While the name of the game is fun for the children, for Reynolds and Rachel Beaver, vice president of House of Faith, the final intent is nothing but serious.

"It starts out wild, but we gradually bring it down" to a serious focus, Beaver said. She and Reynolds

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Until he turned 80, Leo Fulton gave rides nearly every day to neighbors who felt they could no longer drive.

These days, the 82-year-old retired farmer doesn't use his 1991 Ford Tempo for much more than a weekly trip for groceries, his regular Sunday church visit and a few short trips around town.

He isn't ready to hang up his car keys just yet.

Like many older residents who live in small towns and suburbs, Fulton and his wife, Ruth, depend on their car for the basics and for visiting their son 100 miles away and getting to church in nearby Dimondale, a Lansing suburb.

Fulton's driving record is clean, as are those of a majority of older drivers. As Michigan's population ages, research and incidents where older drivers have struck and killed others have some people insisting that the state needs stricter tests or restrictions for them.

"It's going to be more of problem because we are going to have more older drivers, and they're driving a whole lot more miles than they used to," said Patricia Waller, director of the University of Michigan Transportation Research Institute.

The state already has taken steps to curb young drivers. However, like most states, Michigan has no restrictions on anyone else with characteristics that could put them at risk for dangerous driving.

The dilemma is how to devise a system that lets skilled older drivers stay on the road while weeding out people who should not be driving.

"The thing we struggle with as licensing agents is the difference between functional age and chronological age," said Liz Boyd, spokeswoman for the Michigan Department of State. "It's a very complicated issue. To just slap on an age restriction without any data would be irresponsible."

Older drivers tend to drive less, so their accident rate is relatively low. Their per-mile accident percentage is as high as that of drivers in their teens and early 20s, especially once they reach age 75, research shows.

"Older drivers' (accident statistics) don't look very dangerous," said Rick Lyles, Michigan State University professor of transportation engineering and planning. "But on a rate basis, the oldest drivers and the youngest drivers are the two most dangerous groups."

Older drivers tend to be struck more times by other drivers, federal studies show. They also have the highest fatality rate, based on miles driven. In 1995, while drivers 70 and older made up only 9 percent of all licensed drivers nationwide, they accounted for 13 percent of all traffic fatalities.

Older drivers may struggle with a variety of problems. They may be slower to react, less able to handle distractions or see well in low-light conditions, less able to hear well or to quickly interpret signs or changing situations.

They're also more likely to be taking medications that can affect their ability to drive.

Like everyone else in Michigan, they can renew their licenses by mail, meaning that a licensing branch worker has no chance to spot potential problems. And vision tests are required only every eight years if drivers renew by mail.

When Michigan first offered license renewal by mail in 1982, it did not offer it to those over age 70. But the restriction was dropped a year later when seniors argued it was discriminatory. Two-thirds of Michigan's older drivers renew by mail, state figures show.

Although many states say they're struggling with growing numbers of older drivers, only 17 require extra tests or documentation based on a driver's age.

To all our many wonderful customers

We would like to take this opportunity to announce the sale of our company to Jim and Betty Rich, who have recently relocated to Hereford from Plainview.

We realize how important it is to shop Hereford first, and we express our gratitude to the many friends and customers who have supported us in the retail carpet business here for the past 12 years. We have been very successful, and you made it so.

Hereford has been our home since 1964 and we can proudly say it will continue to be.

We also feel very confident that you will still continue to find the same quality, selection and great service you've come to expect from this company in the future.

Sincerely, Delores & Loyd

It seems as though my prayer list got longer the past few weeks. We join many others in the community in praying for a speedy recovery to Charlie Bell, Earl Stagner, Bobby Boyd, Ed Line, Chuck Cosper and many others. Our prayers are with fellow Lion Bill Shore and family in the loss of their son. A special get-well wish also goes to Sandy Stagner, former Brand lifestyle editor.

Today is Easter and, according to the calendar, the first day of Spring came March 20. Now is the time to ready the garden for flowers and vegetables. While planting, here's some good advice to live by:

First, plant five rows of peas...Prayer, Promptness, Perseverance, Preparedness, Politeness.

Next to them, plant three rows of squash...Squash gossip, Squash criticism, Squash indifference.

Then plant five rows of lettuce...Let us be faithful, Let us be loyal, Let us be useful, Let us be truthful, Let us be loving toward one another.

Finally, no garden is complete without turnips...Turn up for volunteering, Turn up with a smile, Turn up with a new idea, Turn up with determination.

Cultivate and see how well your garden grows!

With some folks claiming that Texas doesn't legally exist as a state - that it is an independent republic, we ran across an interesting article which recorded the ending of the Republic of Texas.

William Henry Stewart, a Gonzales mayor, state legislator and federal judge, was present at a ceremony marking the end of the republic. He left a record of the event with these notes:

"In December, 1845, Texas was annexed to the United States by act of Congress and the following spring (Feb. 19, 1846) the formal ceremonies took place at Austin whereby the government of the Texas Republic lapsed and ended..."

"After prayer, the president of Texas, Anson Jones, delivered a speech. It was a strong, vivid review of the triumphs of the early settlers of Texas, of the making of the republic, of the war with Mexico, of the tragedies of that war and so through the 10 years of the life of the republic.

"Then he told of the movement to annex Texas to the U.S., of the ratification of the treaty of annexation and of the purpose for which the people were congregated at Austin. And he closed with a solemnity that was profound..."

"Although we all knew why we had gathered...the people acted as if they were stunned. The silence was broken only by the rattling of ropes as the Lone Star of Texas, which had been floating from the flagstaff, came down. Then those 2,000 or 3,000 persons attending looked as if they were about to cry. There was a look of suffering in every face..."

"They were still in that unsettled, tremulous, deeply sentimental state when the man at the halliards (sic) began pulling at the ropes and slowly but surely another flag was hoisted on high.

"When it reached the top of the flagpole, the wind whipped it out to its full length and the Stars and Stripes of the United States burst into view.

"In a moment the crowd that had been still as death changed. A mighty cheer went up, hats were thrown high, cannon boomed and there was a tremendous tumult. Never before and never since have I seen such a sudden change from grief to rejoicing. It was marvelous."

Dear Editor:

I would like to say "Thank you" to the Bootleg, Hereford and Friona fire departments. Their quick arrival and professional attention given to our grass fire will be forever appreciated. With the wind at 40 mph, it takes skilled professionals and first-rate equipment to get the job done.

If there are better fire departments in the State of Texas, I don't know where they would be. Thanks again.

Dear Editor:

We as taxpayers need to take charge of our future. Do we want a new facility built as an add-on to our existing hospital? Do we want a new hospital built after Hereford has built an addition to our old hospital? Do we want to build a new hospital which is more efficient and will accommodate the needs of a new addition to an old hospital?

All options need to be weighed. We as taxpayers have the right to decide what is best for the growth of our city. I for one will not go for paying for an addition to our existing hospital and then turn around and build a brand new hospital soon after that.

There is talk of putting a portable office facility at our hospital location now and then if, and when, a new hospital is built, move this facility to the new location. Would this not be what Hereford has now? Add-on after add-on. How would it look to have a new hospital and then have a portable building next to it? If a new hospital is built, why not design the complex to accommodate the extra offices needed.

Maintenance and up-keep on our hospital should be compared to a long-time commitment of paying for a new hospital. Modernizing our existing hospital would only add more problems and expense. I feel that a committee should be formed with Hereford citizens to study the facts.

We would need an impact study of what a new hospital would do for the community and the understanding of what to do with the old building. There is enough talent in Hereford to have a top-notch committee to let the public know all of their choices.

The public has right to be informed of plans, cost, how much tax increase, area to build, size that can be affordable and the labor down-sizing to operate a more efficient complex. Let's do some homework. Planning this operation could save tax dollars. Do we even know what we want it to look like? How many beds or rooms will be needed with the out-patient totals increasing?

So many questions need to be answered first, but they must be answered before any more money is spent remodeling jobs or buildings being added on. The hospital board put a figure on what a new hospital would cost, but how can they do this without every option studied.

I am all for having a new, modern efficient hospital in Hereford. The community has the capability of caring for anyone who is in need of a doctor. Hereford has the talent in the medical field, they just need the tools to do better as the technology changes daily.

There are numerous buildings in Hereford that could be used for the office space that is needed. Until a definite decision is made in regards to building a new hospital, a new addition does not have to be built. I am sure I do not have all the facts on this, but I will be at the next hospital board meeting, and I encourage each and every resident of Deaf Smith County to attend this meeting. Citizens of Hereford, we need to

Dear Editor:

As I read the front page of the March 19 edition of The Hereford Brand, one thing seems certain: the issue of a new hospital will be very controversial.

This letter is not intended to throw support one way or the other on any issue, but rather to offer an idea to our hospital and school boards when it comes to those infrequent, but very controversial issues that come along every now and then.

When the Amarillo hospital district was wrestling with the issue of selling Northwest Texas Hospital last year - a very controversial issue - the hospital board made their decision only after putting the issue out to public vote to where concerned citizens themselves could voice their opinion with their ballots. Even though it was non-binding referendum, where the board could still vote as they felt best moved, they at least had a good basis to gauge the public's pulse on the issue and they in turn could make a better decision.

Maybe it would be worth the time and expense to have the same type of vote here, whether it be on the issue of building a new hospital or purchasing a different school administration building.

Dear Editor:

As the Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation prepares for its second "Celebrity Auction" to be held May 10, I am extending an invitation to everyone in the community to participate in this event by donating funds or an item to the auction, or by attending.

Proceeds from the auction are earmarked to purchase a state-of-the-art respirator for our ambulance. Foundation directors feel this will be an excellent investment in something that has the potential to save the lives of many of our citizens.

The respirator is very versatile - it can be used to save patients of all ages; it is portable and can be carried into the hospital with the patient; and can be used as a backup for the hospital respirator.

The foundation will also be awarding four scholarships for students who are heading towards careers in, or already in ancillary medical fields...respiratory and physical therapy, X-ray, lab technology, nursing, etc.

This community has been known to take care of its own needs...let's continue the tradition! I hope we can set an example for the other rural communities in the area.

For questions regarding donations to the auction or concerning the scholarships, please write to: Deaf Smith Healthcare Foundation, P.O. Box 1858, Hereford 79045, or call me at 364-2141. I would appreciate hearing from you.

Editorials from around the State

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal on safety in numbers:

When telephone numbers first were assigned in the late 1800s, consumers probably complained about having to remember them. Little did they realize what was to come.

Social Security numbers first were issued in 1936, the ZIP code came along in 1963 and the first automatic teller machine was introduced in 1971. We have driver's license numbers, credit card numbers, PIN numbers and computer passwords - and there are undoubtedly more to come.

The Federal Trade Commission reminds us that various numbers and passwords should be protected diligently by security-minded consumers.

For example, a Social Security number that falls into the wrong hands could be used in conjunction with other information to apply for credit or deduct money from a bank account. So avoid giving them out unnecessarily. Another good suggestion from the FTC is to avoid using a Social Security number, driver's license number or other personal identification as a computer password. Using them - or a birthday or wedding anniversary or middle name - could make it easy for someone to figure it out.

Use different passwords for different computer functions, and don't give them out to anyone.

Commit personal identification numbers for ATMs to memory. Do not write them on the cards or make them easy to find if a billfold is lost or stolen.

Simple precautions, even if they seem unnecessary, are worth the trouble. They can save a lot of money and hassle later.

Amarillo Globe-News on accountability of judges:

"... The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior..."

- Article III, Section 1, U.S. Constitution

The key words here are "good behavior," which some members of Congress have taken to mean far more than what many others have interpreted. Some lawmakers believe "good behavior" means rendering judgments with which they agree.

Judges who don't, therefore, should be removed from office. We disagree with that interpretation, preferring instead to rely on what other scholars say constitutional framers meant with the words "good behavior." Our own interpretation is that the framers meant that judges should not be lawbreakers. The Constitution already provides for impeachment of judges in the event of bribery, treason or "high crimes and misdemeanors."

U.S. Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, says Congress should have greater latitude in impeaching federal judges. Why? Well, according to DeLay, some judges have become too "activist" in their decision-making.

He's angry at some judges' liberal court rulings, citing U.S. District Judge Thelton Henderson's ruling, for example, overturning a voter-approved initiative to end affirmative action programs in California.

DeLay's pique is understandable. We don't like some judges' rulings, either. But the U.S. Constitution gives federal judges lifetime tenure for a reason. It is to shield them from political pressure.

Yet we've seen in the past year increasing political pressure on judges. That pressure has come not only from conservatives in Congress, but from the president of the United States himself. U.S. District Judge Fred Baer, for instance, ruled against the New York City police department's arrest of a known drug dealer, offering a specious argument that the alleged pusher ran from police because of the low regard that residents of that crime-ridden neighborhood have for the department.

The outrage against the judge was loud and well-founded.

The Constitution invests appointment power in the president. The Senate can confirm or reject the appointment. The judge then serves essentially for the rest of his or her life.

Presidents and senators know - or at least they should know - the political character of the judges they appoint and confirm. Those are the people who should face the political pressure, not the judges who take their seats.

If we don't like judges' judicial philosophy, then we need to change the people who appoint and confirm them.

An AP news analysis

Interest rates could rise again, but worst is over

By JOYCE M. ROSENBERG

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - One way or another, interest rates are going up, and stock prices are likely to fall. This shouldn't come as a shock to anyone who follows Wall Street, but for some reason, a lot of people seem surprised.

No one was taken aback this past week when the Federal Reserve pushed short-term interest rates a quarter of a percentage point higher - actually, a lot of people were probably relieved, knowing an increase was inevitable.

But Thursday, a lot of jaws fell open and "sell" buttons were pushed, because it looked like interest rates would go up again.

What's really interesting is that many economists have believed for some time that Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan, if he follows his past practice, can be expected to nudge rates higher several times over the course of the year.

In 1994, the Fed under Greenspan's leadership doubled the federal funds rate, the interest banks charge one another on overnight loans, from 3 percent to 6 percent in seven increments.

Even before the Fed's move this past week, Salomon Brothers Inc. economists predicted that after an initial 25 basis point increase (economists' way of saying .25 percentage point), "An additional 25-50 basis points may be tacked on over the next few months."

And as the market fell Thursday, Anthony O'Bryan, a market analyst at A.G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis, said, "I think the consensus is it will get one or two more rate increases before the year is over."

So why did the Dow Jones industrial average fall 140 points, and the Standard & Poor's 500 index drop 16?

"Some folks were living in Never-Never Land," said David Shulman, chief market strategist at Salomon Brothers Inc.

William M. Lefevre, senior market analyst at Ehrenkrantz King Nussbaum, said the market was overreacting.

A big sell signal Thursday came when the yield on the Treasury's 30-year bond crossed the dreaded 7 percent threshold. But panicky stock traders might actually see - if they look closer - something positive in that apparent calamity.

Rising market interest rates have the same effect as a Fed increase - they filter through the rest of the economy and can have a chilling effect on business activity.

So if rising market rates do the trick, the Fed doesn't need to restrict credit further. The bond market, in a self-fulfilling prophecy of sorts, will have brought about the outcome it feared. And stock traders, who fear rising interest rates will depress earnings and make bonds more attractive than equities, will have already sent prices down.

So, maybe the worst that could happen is already happening?

But it's important to remember that however preoccupied investors seem with interest rates, other factors, including some that have little to do with the economy, also drive the market.

Edward Nicoski, a market analyst with Piper, Jaffray Inc., attributed some of Thursday's big losses to "window dressing," the portfolio adjustments made at the end of each quarter.

And Lefevre noted that in a week or so, the flood of first-quarter earnings reports will begin. They most certainly will have an impact on Wall Street.

"They ought to be pretty good," Lefevre said, and predicted that the results wouldn't show a surge in inflation, the biggest source of interest rate jitters. So the results may help move stocks higher again.

Despite falling 140.11 Thursday, the Dow average ended the week down only 64.20, at 6,740.59. Thursday's fall was the blue chips' eighth-largest.

The S&P 500 index fell 16.62 Thursday to 773.88, and had a drop of 10.22 for the week.

The New York Stock Exchange's composite index was off 7.94 Thursday to 407.43, a decline of 5.37 for the week. The American Stock Exchange's composite fell 5.17 Thursday and 13.32 for the week, ending at 577.90.

And the Nasdaq composite was down 19.57 Thursday and 4.56 for the week, closing at 1,249.51.

The markets were closed for Good Friday.

The Wilshire Associates Equity Index - which represents the combined market value of all NYSE, American and Nasdaq issues - ended the week at $7.38 trillion, off $91.24 billion from a week earlier.

Writer reports: Prison in Amarillo is no country club

By JOHN KANELIS

Amarillo Globe-News

AMARILLO, Texas - You hear the view expressed from time to time that Texas prisons are little more than austere country clubs. We coddle prisoners.

One recent letter writer to this newspaper complained that capital punishment is "virtually non-existent" and that the bad guys serve practically no hard time.

Really? Amarillo's William P. Clements Unit is a relatively new lockup in the state's giant correctional system. It was built in 1990 to house about 3,200 inmates. It has a staff of 911 corrections officers, office staff and administrators.

It is no country club!

Does the state do an adequate job of executing bad guys? Since 1976, when the U.S. Supreme Court said that capital punishment, indeed, is a constitutional act, Texas has led the parade of states in executing criminals. We've put 109 convicts to death in the ensuing 23 years. The next busiest death chamber is in Florida, where 38 inmates have gone to their Great Reward.

Rick Hudson is the former assistant warden of the Clements Unit who's gone on to work for a private corrections firm.

He had some interesting things to say one day about life for the men behind bars at the Clements Unit.

Hudson pointed out that the men do not live in air-conditioned comfort. Indeed, none of the state's prisons are air conditioned. Instead, inmates are "cooled" by compressors that blow ambient air through vents. During the heat of the day in July or August, when the average daily high temperature is in the low to mid-90s, that forced-air system provides little comfort.

I was living in Beaumont three years ago when the Mark W. Stiles Unit opened for business. A prison official reminded me then about the lack of air conditioning in the state prison system. If you've ever been to the Texas Gulf Coast during the steamy, sweltering dog days of August, then you know the real meaning of the term "hot as Hades."

Hudson also pointed out that every one of the several thousand men who live behind the Clements walls would "rather be somewhere else." Of course, he noted, virtually all of them proclaim their innocence. During the summer, he said, corrections officers have to contend almost daily with a disturbance of one kind or another. Tempers - along with the temperature - run hot behind those walls.

Recreation? Oh, the men can enjoy the great outdoors. Just one thing: Uniformed officers - with guns - are watching their every move.

During an impromptu tour of the Clements Unit, Hudson allowed a visitor - yours truly - to step inside an "administrative segregation" cell. This is what the prison system used to refer to as "solitary confinement." The bad guys receive their meals through a small opening in the door. They must stay in that cell, a roughly eight-foot-square cubicle, all the time.

Is prison life as tough as it could be? Of course not. Some folks, such as our angry correspondent, want a return to the old days of frontier justice.

They're frustrated with a system that puts bad guys on the street to commit more crimes. Indeed, we read too many stories of crimes being committed by felons on parole.

Lawrence Singleton, for instance, received parole from a California prison after raping and mutilating a young woman; then he went to Florida, where the other day he stabbed and beat another woman to death. How can an animal like that ever breathe free?

The belief that a prison is a "country club" depends on one's perspective. It also depends on one's values and on whether you believe convicted felons should lose all their rights as citizens.

They lose plenty already. Starting with a free society's most basic right: liberty.

And in Texas, they lose the use of what most of us take for granted: an air conditioner.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - The decision to trim staff at the National Hurricane Center is bringing a new wave of protests from emergency management officials in Texas and seven other hurricane-prone states.

The National Hurricane Task Force met here Thursday to plan for an increase in hurricane preparedness aid from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

But they complained loudly about the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's cutbacks in the National Weather Service.

"FEMA is ramping up in hurricane preparedness... and NOAA, the Weather Service, is ramping down," said Texas emergency management coordinator Tom Millwee. "We're very concerned that it is going to result in the loss of lives."

The cuts already have brought protests from the forecasters at the center in Miami. Gov. Lawton Chiles has asked the federal government to reconsider the decision before hurricane season begins June 1.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - The Corpus Christi Carroll High School newspaper was distributed with a glaring blank space on the front page to protest censorship by the school's principal.

The staff of The Carroller had planned to write about disciplinary action taken against several divers and swimmers from Carroll, King and Ray high schools. The swimmers were accused of unspecified misbehavior while at the state meet at Austin in February.

Editor Luvh Rakhe said Thursday that Carroll principal Diana Jernigan vetoed the story before it was written. He said that when he and two student reporters told the principal of their story plans and requested interviews, she told them not to write the story.

Ms. Jernigan could not be reached for comment Thursday, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times reported today.

The student editor said most of the newspaper's staff agreed that the paper should speak out. The front page carried enough blank space for the story and a photo they planned to run with it.

PLANO, Texas (AP) - An investigation has found that Collin County youths visiting an East Texas prison in a "scared straight" field trip were touched by inmates but not sexually abused as they claimed, officials say.

The youths from the Country Place Adolescent Residential Treatment Center visited the Eastham Unit near Lovelady on Feb. 14.

Five boys later said they had been fondled by inmates, and authorities at the 2,300-inmate prison responded by suspending several corrections officers who might have witnessed the alleged incidents.

But prison spokesman Larry Fitzgerald said an investigation determined that, while the boys might have been touched, they were not fondled.

"We found that nothing else happened," Fitzgerald told The Dallas Morning News.

Elkington holds one-shot lead in rich PGA tourney

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Tom Lehman stood in the sixth fairway and looked toward the treetops, the first sign that the shootout at The Players Championship was coming to an end.

The greens on the TPC at Sawgrass Stadium Course were still relatively soft, just like they were for Steve Elkington earlier Friday when he shot a 69 to take the lead at 9-under-par 135. But getting there became the burden. "There are so many cross winds out here and with the trees, the wind just swirls around you," Lehman said. "You can never really tell what it is doing."

Halfway through the richest event on the PGA Tour, Elkington had a 1-stroke lead over Larry Mize. David Edwards and Tommy Tolles were another stroke back at 137.

Robbins takes one-stroke lead in major LPGA event

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) - Kelly Robbins isn't really complaining that her shots aren't going exactly where she wants.

Robbins shot a 5-under-par 67 Friday to take a 1-stroke lead over two-time champion Betsy King midway through the Nabisco Dinah Shore, annually the LPGA's first major championship. "Believe it or not, I'm not hitting the ball all that well," said Robbins, at 7-under 137 through 36 holes at Mission Hills Country Club. "I've been fortunate not to make too many big mistakes. I'm hitting it solid, but don't have the flight I'd like."

Robbins' second round could have been even lower, but gusting winds in the early afternoon made club selection tricky. She birdied four holes on the front nine, then had two bogeys and three birdies on the back.

King, who went into a tailspin in 1996 after making the LPGA Hall of Fame by winning her 30th title the previous year, also had a 67. King won the Dinah Shore in 1987 and 1990.

First-round co-leader Kathryn Marshall shot 70 and was two shots off the lead, along with Dottie Pepper and Amy Fruhwirth, who also had 70s.

Laura Davies, looking for her second victory in as many weeks, pulled into a tie with Robbins at one point. But Davies slipped back with three bogeys in the last five holes and finished with a 70 that left her 4-under.

Dale Eggeling, with a 72, also was three shots behind Robbins.

Annika Sorenstam, one of the pre-tournament favorites, shot 72 and was 2-under through 36 holes. The 1996 rookie of the year, Karrie Webb, struggled to a 74 that left her 1-under.

Red Raider Day set April 16

A Hereford/Dimmitt Red Raider Day has been scheduled here for April 16, it was announced this week by Dave Hopper, Hereford's Red Rider Club chapter chairman.

Dimmitt was merged into the local event due to the large number of Red Raider Days being held across the state, according to Hopper.

The day will include a golf scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course beginning at 1 p.m. Texas Tech coaches, officials and RRC members will be teamed with local players.

A social hour begins at 5:30 p.m. and a dinner follows at 6:30 at Hereford Country Club. The fee of $45 will cover the green fee, cart rental, social hour and dinner. Non-golfers are welcome. Cost of dinner and social hour is $15. Women are invited.

Deadline for golf entries is April 14. Interested persons should telephone entries to the golf shop, 363-7139, or send to Dave Hopper, Box 150, Hereford 79045.

Softball league taking entries

Entries are being accepted until April 17 for the YMCA Men's Church League Softball, according to Weldon Knabe.

The league is open to the first 12 teams with paid entry fees. A and B divisions will be offered if there is enough interest. It will be an eight-game season with a tournament following to determine league champs.

The entry fee is $200 per team, due by the sign-up deadline on April 17 at 6 p.m. Games will start on April 21 with playing times at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Game days will be Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Some weekends may be scheduled depending on the number of teams entered.

A team representative meeting will be held April 17, and all teams must be represented. The meeting will be at the YMCA at 7:30 p.m.

Marsh's hole-in-one gains lead

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Graham Marsh had as much difficulty as everyone else with the greens at Dominion Country Club.

Then, on the 17th hole, he found a way around that problem.

Marsh hit an 8-iron for a hole-in-one on the 17th Friday - his first ace in four years - for a 5-under 67 and a first-round tie with John Jacobs in the Southwestern Bell Dominion Seniors tournament.

"I made my share (of putts) today," Marsh said. "I rattled a few in. I didn't make any long ones other than the 150-yarder."

Early in the day things didn't look so cheery. But by the time he got to 17, he had picked up his game and was 3-under.

Then, as he walked to the 17th tee, he had his rhythm disrupted.

"I was standing at 17 over the ball," Marsh said. "All of a sudden a cell phone goes off five feet from me. I just sort of casually walked away."

Marsh backed off and let someone else tee off. When he went back, Marsh struck the most memorable shot of the day.

Marsh could see the course marshal, who raised his hands when the ball went in. That put Marsh ahead of Larry Gilbert, Rocky Thompson and David Graham, who were already in the clubhouse at 4-under 68.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, a former champion here, was one of eight players who were two strokes out of the lead at 69. Robert Landers, the Azle, Texas, farmer who grabbed the attention of fans last year, turned in a 1-over 73. Defending champion Tom Weiskopf came in at 4-over 76.

Jacobs started off with birdies on the second and third holes, sinking putts from 12 and 10 feet. He cruised through the back nine with a birdie on No. 17 and pars on the other eight holes.

"It's nice to be in the hunt,"

Jacobs said. "This course isn't easy for me to play. I have to concentrate more. The back nine I just played along and had pars."

Kentucky defends title against Minnesota

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - While Kentucky was winning it all last year, Minnesota was home sitting and stewing.

They meet tonight in one of the national semifinals, with the Wildcats (34-4) trying to get one step closer to repeating and the Golden Gophers (31-3) trying to move one step closer to winning it all in their first Final Four appearance.

"This is my 17th year of coaching and I finally got here, but I've been preparing for this since day one," said Minnesota coach Clem Haskins, named coach of the year by The Associated Press on Friday. "We are not through yet. We have two more chapters to go."

The book started last season with a snub from the NCAA Selection Committee. Minnesota played in the NIT, losing in the second round to Tulane.

"We started right after that game," Minnesota forward Courtney James said. "Since then, all we did was work in the weight room, go through conditioning, shooting, drilling. When the season started I felt we were ready to take on anybody in the world. We're not satisfied yet."

Kentucky's season started as defending champions and reached this stage despite the loss of leading scorer Derek Anderson to a knee injury midway through the season.

Anderson's importance to the offense is evident in a key statistic:

His 93 free throws attempted are just six off the team lead even though he missed the last 20 games. He averaged 18.6 points, slightly better than sophomore All-American Ron Mercer's 18.2, the only players averaging in double figures.

"With Ron and Derek together it was two 20-point scorers and the other guys didn't pay too much attention in the box score," Kentucky coach Rick Pitino said. "Since Derek has gone down, we've had four and five players in double figures so we have much more balance probably because we ran 80 percent of our offense through Derek and Ron."

Minnesota has seven players averaging between 15.0 and 7.1 points.

"We've got a great team and they've got a great team," Jackson said. "I think it boils down to who is going to play the hardest. I know everybody's favoring Kentucky because they've been here and won last year. We're going to come in here and play our style and not let everybody get to us."

Mercer, who will enter the upcoming NBA draft, scored 20 points in the championship game last season, the only one of the four returning Wildcats to score in the win over Syracuse.

"You want to play your normal game but it's not a normal game," he said. "The intensity is so much higher. That's what I learned from last year."

Kentucky and Minnesota are similar in many ways - pressure defense, star scorers and physical front lines. "Their defense is sort of like ours," Minnesota guard Bobby Jackson said. "We have to come out and handle the ball and push it down court. If we do that, we'll be successful."

Jackson has averaged 19 points in four NCAA tournament games, a number more impressive when you consider his backcourt mate, Eric Harris, has been slowed by a shoulder injury he got against Clemson in the regional semifinal.

"I held him out again today,"

Haskins said Friday. "The trainer said he needs more treatment. If he can go, he will start. It's a day-to-day thing, and we won't know until game time."

Harris will be needed for his ballhandling - he had 131 assists this season, four behind Jackson - and his defense.

"For us to win, we need Eric Harris for 25, 30 minutes," Haskins said. "If he can't go, Charles Thomas will be in the starting lineup and Quincy Lewis will see some more minutes."

Arizona takes on Tar Heels

By MIKE NADEL
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - When the game is on the line for Arizona, the basketball will be in Mike Bibby's hands.

"Mike really plays well under pressure," Wildcats coach Lute Olson says.

But it's easy to forget that Bibby is an 18-year-old freshman.

"If you've noticed his composure on the court, you never see him get very excited about anything, you never see him down about a mistake he may make," said Olson, whose team meets North Carolina tonight in the Final Four.

"If somebody makes a really good play on his team, you'll see him break out in a smile. But otherwise, he's not a first-pumper. He just has great emotional control, and I think that's why he's been so successful."

A good example of that came when Arizona met top-ranked Kansas in the Southeast Regional semifinals.

The Wildcats took an early lead, but Kansas came charging back to make it a two-point game with plenty of time to play. "It was slipping away from us," Bibby said.

And so he took charge. "I know who needs to handle the ball at the end of the game," he said.

He scored 10 points in the closing minutes, including a 3-pointer to cap an 11-0 run that gave the Wildcats a 75-62 lead with 3:29 remaining. But Kansas rallied again and trailed by just one with a half-minute to go.

"Coach Olson pulled me aside and told me he wanted the ball in my hands," Bibby said.

And so he had the ball. And he was fouled. And he made both free throws with 18 seconds left. And Arizona won 85-82.

Bibby finished with 21 points, 13 more than Jacque Vaughn, Kansas'

All-Everything point guard.

"He's not really a freshman, not to us," Arizona center A.J. Bramlett said of Bibby. "He's way beyond his years. He goes up against Jacque Vaughn and gets 21 and then downplays it. Mike is incredible."

The fact that a freshman point guard has led Arizona (23-9) into the Final Four would be really incredible - if North Carolina (28-6) didn't also have a rookie point guard in Ed Cota. Two teams with more experienced floor leaders, Minnesota and Kentucky, meet in tonight's other semifinal for a spot in Monday's title game.

Cota isn't much of a scorer, averaging 8.1 points to Bibby's 13.1, but he leads all freshmen in assists at seven a game. Bibby averages 5.3 assists.

"Ed has done a great job, being able to take the system and execute it perfectly," Tar Heels guard Shammond Williams said. "He understands the game. He gets guys in position where they're able to score when they receive the basketball. A lot of our success is due to Ed."

Bibby and Cota made their collegiate debuts Nov. 22, when Arizona defeated North Carolina 83-72 in the Tipoff Classic. Bibby had 22 points, five assists and two turnovers, while Cota had 14 points, seven assists and four turnovers.

"If you happened to see the game, you'd have to say Bibby was a senior, but no one asked him if he was going to turn pro," Tar Heels coach Dean Smith said. "He did everything well."

And Bibby is still doing everything well. In four tournament games, he's averaging 17.3 points on 50 percent shooting. He outplayed Providence's God Shammgod after vanquishing Vaughn to get Arizona into the Final Four.

have any talent in those years. This year, we have talent."

He received 37 votes from the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Eddie Fogler of South Carolina was second with 22 and Roy Williams of Kansas was third with 10.

Duncan was a runaway winner in the player balloting, receiving 72 votes. The only other player in double digits was Raef LaFrentz of Kansas, who had 11.

Duncan, a unanimous All-American and college basketball's most prolific rebounder in 25 years, averaged 20.8 points and 14.7 rebounds, finishing his career with 2,117 points and 1,570 rebounds. He was the 10th player in major collegiate history with more than 2,000 points and 1,500 rebounds, and his 481 blocked shots were second on the career list.

He passed up lucrative offers to leave school early for the NBA, but stayed and now will almost certainly be the No. 1 draft choice in June. The last three Player of the Year winners - Marcus Camby of Massachusetts, Joe Smith of Maryland and Glenn Robinson of Purdue - all left for the NBA as undergraduates.

Duncan, Haskins named top player, coach by AP

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - When Wake Forest's Tim Duncan arrived to claim The Associated Press Player of the Year award, he had his cap on backward.

Coach of the Year Clem Haskins of Minnesota doesn't approve of that style or the earrings and tattoos that so many college players favor these days.

For Duncan, though, he'd probably make an exception.

"Caps backwards," Haskins said, thinking out loud. "I think it's OK to wear them backwards from time to time. But my guys walk in and they wear them backwards and I think they need to look like a gentleman."

So the caps point forward and the earrings stay out of sight at Minnesota. And the Golden Gophers win.

They captured their first Big Ten title since 1982 and made it to the Final Four for the first time, earning Haskins the Adolph Rupp Trophy presented by the Commonwealth Club of Kentucky.

He knows his throwback style about how players should dress and look will carry a price.

"I have strong belief and it gets me in trouble," Haskins said. "I love what I do and I know it's coming to an end because sooner or later I will lose some players that want to come to Minnesota."

Right now, Minnesota's 31-3 record has Haskins sitting pretty. He took a 19-13 team that was left out of the NCAA tournament a year ago and transformed it into the No. 3 team in the nation. Haskins thought it might not have been his best coaching job, though. That, he said, may have been in his first two years at Minnesota, 1986-87 and 1987-88, when his teams struggled through a 21-game Big Ten losing streak.

"I deserved Coach of the Year those years," he said. "We didn't

Pacers, Bullets, Suns extend win streaks

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Sports Writer

Some of the hottest teams in the NBA are the ones fighting to make it to the postseason.

The Indiana Pacers, Washington Bullets and Phoenix Suns all extended their winning streaks Friday night as 10 games, including nine with postseason ramifications, were played around the league.

Reggie Miller led a huge fourth-quarter comeback and Fred Hoiberg made a 3-pointer with 1.6 seconds left as Indiana won its third in a row with a 116-115 victory over Charlotte.

Chris Webber led an early surge by making his first seven shots as Washington also won its third straight with a 113-86 drubbing of Toronto.

Phoenix, the hottest of the three, made it five straight victories with a 122-115 overtime victory over Golden State. The Suns, who started the season 0-13, moved up to the seventh spot in the Western Conference standings.

In other games, New Jersey surprised New York 92-86, Seattle downed Minnesota 92-81, Miami edged Cleveland 83-79, Detroit pounded the Los Angeles Clippers 113-85, Utah defeated Milwaukee 101-96, Portland beat Vancouver 115-81 and Philadelphia topped Boston 113-105.

Miller was the star of the night for his performance at Charlotte

Coliseum, where the Pacers rallied from a 10-point deficit in the final 9:44. Miller shot 8-of-10 on 3-pointers and scored 39 points.

Charlotte's Glen Rice, who had 20 points, hit a 3-pointer with 6.6 seconds left to give the Hornets a 115-113 lead.

Indiana called a timeout, got the ball at midcourt and worked it to Hoiberg at the top of the key, where he put up a 23-footer that swished through.

"I guess I made a lucky shot," Hoiberg said. "We came in and stole the game."

Bullets 113, Raptors 86
At Landover, Webber had 24 points and 10 rebounds as the Bullets earned their most lopsided victory of the season.

"For the first time since I've been here, I feel like... we have a winning attitude," Webber said after the Bullets moved within a game of Cleveland - and a game ahead of Indiana - and the final Eastern playoff berth. "Hopefully that leads to something."

Juwan Howard added 22 points and Rod Strickland 17 for the Bullets, who opened the game with a 17-2 run and won for the seventh time in eight games.

Suns 122, Warriors 115
At Phoenix, Rex Chapman scored seven of his 18 points in overtime, Kevin Johnson had a season-high 38 points and nine rebounds, but scored only two points in the second half. Heat 83, Cavaliers 79

At Miami, P.J. Brown had 12 first-quarter points to help the Heat build a 29-point lead, and his free throw with 1.7 seconds left clinched his team's eighth straight victory.

The Heat shot just 3-for-18 in the final period as Cleveland outscored them 19-9. It was the first time in nine games that Miami was outscored in the fourth quarter.

Pistons 113, Clippers 85
Detroit moved within a half-game of New York and a half-game ahead of Atlanta for the Eastern Conference's third playoff position. The Clippers lost for the second night in a row and the fourth straight time on the road.

Joe Dumars had 26 points, Lindsey Hunter 25 and Grant Hill 21 for the Pistons, who lost four of their previous five games.

Jazz 101, Bucks 96
At Salt Lake City, Karl Malone scored 31 points, Jeff Hornacek had 25 and Utah scored its final 11 points from the foul line in winning its eighth straight game.

The Jazz, 13-1 in March, maintained a 31-game lead on Seattle for the best record in the West.

Trail Blazers 115, Grizzlies 81
At Portland, Clifford Robinson made six straight 3-point shots in the second quarter and finished with 26 points as the Blazers notched their 14th win in 16 games.

Robinson also helped hold only two points in the second half.

At East Rutherford, Jim Jackson scored 20 of his season-high 29 points after Patrick Ewing left with a triceps injury in the third quarter. New Jersey rallied from 11-point deficit to beat the Knicks for the second time in 12 days.

"It's a pull, maybe a tear, who knows?" Ewing said. "I don't even know how it happened. I hope not to miss Sunday's game (at Orlando). Right now when I try to move it, it's sore. I have trouble raising my arm."

SuperSonics 92, Timberwolves 81
At Seattle, Gary Payton and Hersey Hawkins scored 20 points apiece as the Sonics beat Minnesota for the 25th straight time

Payton, who also had 10 assists, drilled a jumper as the shot clock expired with 1:37 left to give the Sonics an 89-79 lead. Hawkins followed with a layup after a Wolves' turnover for a 91-79 advantage.

Dean Garrett led Minnesota with 18 points. Kevin Garnett had 17

Vancouver rookie Shareef Abdur-

Rahim to three points on 1-of-11 shooting.

At Philadelphia, Jerry Stackhouse scored 25 points as Philadelphia improved to 3-0 against Boston this season. The Celtics fell to 0-21 against Atlantic foes, with three games remaining in their division. No team has gone an entire season without beating a division opponent.

Baseball spring training roundup

By The Associated Press

Kevin Tapani will have to wait a while longer before he can start earning that $11 million the Chicago Cubs gave him.

Tapani, a free agent who signed a three-year contract with the Cubs, may miss the first two months of the season because of a finger problem.

Tapani will have surgery next week to repair a sprained ligament in his right index finger, the Cubs said Friday.

The surgery is set next Friday at St. Luke's Roosevelt Hospital in New York. The Cubs say he'll be able to begin a light throwing program in four-to-five weeks, but weren't specific on when he'd be back.

"I've never been hurt before," said Tapani, 33, for the Chicago White Sox last season and one of only four major leaguers to post double-digit victories in each year during the '90s. "This makes for a lot of frustrating days."

Orioles
Brady Anderson wants to play despite a cracked rib, but Baltimore seems to be leaning toward putting him on the disabled list.

"I'm concerned with the long haul," Orioles manager Davey Johnson said. "If he doesn't rest, as active as he is, the danger I see is that the crack could widen rather than narrow. I'd rather have a complete recovery than have it nagging him all year."

Anderson has a crack in the fifth rib on his left side, an injury that occurred Sunday when he dived back to first base on a pickoff throw in an exhibition game against the Atlanta Braves.

Anderson hit 50 home runs last season and played for a stretch despite experiencing abdominal pain that was diagnosed as appendicitis.

Athletics
Mark McGwire, who has missed seven games this spring because of a sore back, hopes to rejoin Oakland for Sunday's exhibition game against San Diego at Las Vegas.

McGwire, sent to the Bay area Wednesday to receive a cortisone shot, was doubtful for today's exhibition game against San Francisco at the Oakland Coliseum.

"He's optimistic about his chances of playing this weekend," Oakland manager Art Howe said Friday. "I doubt tomorrow, but we'll see. If everything is 100 percent and he feels great, we just might (play him in Las Vegas)."

Mets
Reliever Barry Manuel was traded from the Montreal Expos to the New York Mets for cash. Manuel was 1-0 with a 3.97 ERA in nine spring training games. He was 4-1 last year with a 3.24 ERA in 53 appearances. The Expos traded him a day after getting reliever Dustin Hermanson in a deal with Florida.

Braves 9, Reds 7
At Lake Buena Vista, Fla., Atlanta won the first exhibition game at its new spring training home at Disney World. The Braves, who move into the site full-time next year, got home runs from Andrew Jones, Chipper Jones, Fred McGriff and Keith Lockhart.

Indians 2, White Sox 0
At Nashville, Tenn., Orel Hershiser pitched five strong innings and Cleveland held Chicago hitless until Wil Polidor's single with one out in the eighth.

Marlins 15, Astros 1
At Melbourne, Fla., Jeff Conine hit a three-run homer and Gary Sheffield hit a two-run triple as Florida routed Houston.

Yankees 14, Cardinals 5
At Tampa, Fla., Darryl Strawberry and Derek Jeter both drove in three runs. New York starter Andy Pettitte held St. Louis to one run and three hits in five innings.

Orioles 12, Expos 3
At West Palm Beach, Fla., Jeffrey

Hammonds homered, doubled and drove in four runs for Baltimore. Montreal reliever Dustin Hermanson, acquired a day earlier from Florida, gave up five runs and five hits in 1 2-3 innings.

Twins 4, Pirates 3
At Fort Myers, Fla., Ron Coomer hit a tying two-run homer and Matt Lawton singled home the winning run in the ninth for Minnesota.

Tigers 8, Royals 6
At Haines City, Fla., Damion Easley hit a three-run homer as Detroit won for just the fourth time in 16 games.

Brewers 5, Athletics 3
At Phoenix, pinch-hitter Gerald Williams had a two-run homer for Milwaukee.

Cubs 7, Rockies 6
At Mesa, Ariz., Doug Glanville hit a two-run homer and Jose Hernandez had an RBI single during Chicago's three-run rally in the ninth inning.

Phillies 3, Blue Jays 2
At Clearwater, Fla., Calvin Maduro struck out eight in six innings. Maduro, 22, was put into Philadelphia's rotation after an arm injury to Mike Grace on Thursday.

Padres 16, San Diego State 0
At San Diego, seven-time NL batting champion Tony Gwynn went 3-for-3 and hit his third homer as Padres beat his alma mater.

Oklahoma City 6, Rangers 5
At Oklahoma City, Okla., Eric Anthony hit a sacrifice fly that capped a three-run rally in the ninth for Texas' Triple-A affiliate.

Dodgers 3, Angels 2
At Los Angeles, rookie Wilton Guerrero led off the 11th inning with his first home run of spring and Mike Piazza hit consecutive solo homers.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 3
At Las Vegas, Reggie Jefferson's two-run, eighth-inning double lifted Boston Red Sox over Seattle. Tom Gordon tuned up for his first opening-day assignment by holding the Mariners to one run and two hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Herrion turns down Rutgers' coaching job

By The Associated Press

Bill Herrion of Drexel turned down the job as basketball coach at Rutgers on Friday, less than 24 hours after being offered the position.

The withdrawal came as a major surprise since Herrion seemed to be a lock for the job after Tom Penders decided to remain as head coach at Texas earlier this week.

Rutgers athletic director Fred Gruninger said Herrion was formally offered the Scarlet Knights' job on Thursday.

However, the 38-year-old coach, who led Drexel to three NCAA tournament appearances in the last four years, decided on Friday that he was comfortable at the Philadelphia school and didn't wish to leave, Gruninger said in a telephone interview from Indianapolis. "It was very brief," Gruninger said of his meeting with Herrion on Friday. "He just walked in and gave me his decision. His comfort at Drexel is such that that's where he wants to be the coach. You'll have to ask him for the rest of it."

Herrion was also at Indianapolis for the Final Four. He did not immediately return a telephone call for comment.

"We were disappointed in his decision not to think about a great opportunity at Rutgers," the longtime athletic director said. "I respect his decision in relation to his commitment at Drexel."

Gruninger also had a word for Rutgers supporters, who he understood might be upset by this latest rejection.

"Tell them that Rutgers' commitment to a strong and successful leader for men's basketball remains as strong as ever and it is important for us to find the right person."

Conservation group warns loss of farmland may cause U.S. to become net food importer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Urban sprawl is engulfing prime farmland so fast that the United States may be forced by the middle of the next century to import more food than it exports, a conservation group contends.

American Farmland Trust projected in a "worst-case scenario" today that with the U.S. population expected to jump 50 percent by 2050 and high-quality farmland projected to shrink 13 percent, the nation could become a net food importer within 60 years.

That probably would lead to difficulty in dealing with a host of social, economic, food security and environmental issues, said the report, "Farming on the Edge."

"The destruction of our best farmland by sprawl development reduces our agricultural efficiency, increases tensions between farmers and suburban neighbors, leads to higher tax burdens and puts greater pressure on less productive, more environmentally fragile lands here and around the world," said AFT President Ralph Grossi.

U.S. agricultural exports totaled a record $59.8 billion in the fiscal year that ended in September, and the Agriculture Department is forecasting total farm exports of $56.5 billion in the current fiscal year.

Regardless of whether the worst-case scenario actually occurs, the AFT report said, "the loss of open space, wildlife habitat, groundwater recharge areas and other benefits attributable to farmland are reason enough for our country to develop its land in a more efficient manner, directing development onto land less suitable for growing food and fiber."

The Agriculture Department's natural resources conservation chief, Paul Johnson, would not say how accurate the report's projection was, but welcomed it as raising an important topic.

"It's something we should be very concerned about," Johnson said. "In my lifetime, the world population has doubled twice, and the next 25 years, there should be up to 8 billion people."

USDA already is examining the threats to farmland, but Johnson said he did not disagree with the conservation group's request that it better quantify them.

The study found that between 1982 and 1992, 4.3 million acres of prime farmland were overrun - nearly 50 acres every hour of every day. Every state shared in the loss, it said, most frequently to scattered and fragmented urban development near major metropolitan areas.

Texas lost the most farmland, 489,000 acres or 11.5 percent of the U.S. total. Other states with big losses were North Carolina, Ohio, Georgia and Louisiana.

The study placed the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valley in central California at the top of its endangered list, followed by the Northern Piedmont areas of Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Also threatened were the Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois Drift Plain, the Texas Blackland Prairie and the Willamette and Puget Sound Valleys of Oregon and Washington. The Lower Rio Grande Plain ranked as the 8th most threatened region.

Texas' Blackland Prairie is most threatened by population growth in Collin County north of Dallas and Williamson County north of Austin, which ranked 15th and 16th respectively in fastest U.S. population growth between 1980 and 1992.

The Lower Rio Grande Plain's threat comes from population growth in McAllen, Edinburg, Mission, Brownsville, Harlingen and San Benito, coupled with the popularity of the region for "snowbirds."

The 20 most threatened regions produce 51 percent of the fruit and 39 percent of the vegetables grown in the United States.

AFT said the federal government should strengthen, expand and enforce its farmland protection programs and change federal estate tax laws to encourage farm families to keep their property in agriculture. It also urged the government to quantify farmland by its agricultural importance and vulnerability to rapid urban development.

AFT urged local communities to analyze land development trends, agree on which farmland to save and adopt the necessary policy reforms.

AFT is a private, nonprofit conservation organization. Its study was funded in part by the Philip Morris Cos.

Extension Agent's Notes

By DENNIS NEWTON
County Extension Agent-AG

It looks like spring may have arrived after all, especially since we missed the usual "Easter Spell" without Old Man Winter reminding us that nature is still in control.

Of course, we are not out of the woods yet with an average frost date of April 20.

I had the opportunity to get out Monday on my way to the doctor. It is amazing how much difference a week can make in the condition of irrigated wheat.

The crop looked really good. I did notice, however, that there were a few yellowing areas in the fields which usually means the presence of greenbugs or Russian wheat aphids.

It does not surprise me that infestations are building considering the warm weather that we have been having.

Dr. Carl Patrick, area extension entomologist, told me this week that aphids are on the increase throughout the area.

He urged producers to be on the lookout for these pests as they are active now, and will continue to reproduce and spread until mid-May.

When checking fields, look for obvious yellow spots in the fields. This is the starting point for checking fields.

Just because you see these spots, don't immediately begin treatment until a further check of the wheat has been made.

Many times these spots are isolated and are present due to aphids moving from another location, especially volunteer wheat or winter grasses.

If aphids are present, farmers will see tillers with obvious purpling and white lines. This is also known as chlorotic streaking.

This can be accompanied by the leaf rolling up like a soda straw. The wheat aphids are 1/16 of an inch long, lime green in color and spindle shaped. When the leaves are unrolled, the colonies can be easily seen.

Aphids prefer feeding on the younger plant leaves. Damage occurs when the insects inject a toxin in to the plant as they feed. Wheat that is stressed is most susceptible, thus dryland wheat may be the hardest hit when infestations occur.

Beneficial insects will eventually begin feeding on the aphid population. However, in the case of the Russian wheat aphid, it is difficult for these predator insects to get them in the rolled up leaf, therefore beneficial predators are less effective in controlling the pest.

If infestations levels are high enough, pesticide applications may be required to control the pest.

Dr. Patrick explained that decisions to use a pesticide are based on the cost of the chemical application versus the value of the wheat in the field.

He cites an example, if insecticide control will cost $8 per acre and a value of the wheat is estimated at $100 an acre, then the producer may want to consider treatment when 16 percent of the plant tillers show damage and feeding aphids are present.

Several insecticides are effective in controlling aphids in wheat, Lorsban 4E-SG, dimethoate and Di-Syston. These chemicals have restrictions and producers should check the label before any applications are made.

I would encourage producers to check their fields or have them checked frequently. Aphids and greenbugs can multiply rapidly and damage can occur in a short period of time.

For more information on insect control guideline, please contact the Deaf Smith County office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at (806) 364-3573 or come by Room 402 in the county courthouse.

Think rain! See you next week.

Agriculture Briefs

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Spots of bluish tint are beginning to show on some of the green fields of winter wheat in western Kansas - a sign of moisture stress.

Nineteen percent of the state's wheat was rated excellent, 68 percent good, 11 percent fair and 2 percent poor in a Kansas Agricultural Statistics report this week.

Despite dry conditions in western Kansas, the state's overall crop is in good shape after a mild winter, said Michael Doane, interim executive vice president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers. But a lot can happen before combines begin harvesting the crop in two months.

"Now the trend is dry, and that's not a good feeling," Doane said. "But that's not the end of the world either, unless it just stays that way."

The mild, dry March has not caused major damage yet to the 2,600 acres of winter wheat planted by Vance Ehmke near Healy, Kan. But another few weeks without significant rain could be a problem.

Ehmke acknowledges that so far the crop has been good: no widespread weed problems, none of the drought or wind that destroyed entire fields last year. Yet, it is not the best crop he has ever seen.

"I've heard a lot of reports about how wonderful this crop is, but when I get out there I see an average crop," he said.

This year's wheat crop may seem wonderful compared to last year's, when many farmers gave up after a hard winter and plowed under their wheat fields, Ehmke said. The 1995 crop also was a disappointment.

"What we need now is modestly warm, sunny days with consistent, timely rains," Doane said.

GARLIC ON WHEAT

The Garlic Sprayed Wheat was Bigger, Greener, Without Green Bugs, and had a Higher Yield!!!

Cecil Richardson from Hale Center, Texas, sprayed his wheat with Garlic Barrier, using fish oil as a sticker-spreader, to chase away "green bugs". Five months after planting, his sprayed wheat was 5" taller, the plants were fuller and much healthier and the green bugs were gone! At harvest the sprayed wheat showed higher yield. Spraying cost was much less than with chemicals. Can be sprayed while grazing cattle.

Termites invade New Orleans, spread across South

By JANET McCONAUGHEY
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - From a few blocks away, it looks like fog hovering in a French Quarter street. Up close, it turns out to be a swarm of insects, Formosan termites flying away from home to start a new colony.

"The cloud just appears. When you go to the source, you find there's one building and they're just streaming out of that building - hundreds of thousands from one door frame," says Ed Bordes, head of mosquito and termite control in New Orleans.

The voracious, rapidly multiplying termites, which reached New Orleans from Hawaii, are now spreading across the South and parts of the West.

They are eating the heartwood out of the ancient live oaks that shade New Orleans' parks and avenues. They endanger historic French Quarter town houses and Garden District mansions.

They hollowed out the 2-by-4s in a public library, then started in on the books.

In Hawaii, they even ate the gaskets on high-pressure water lines.

And exterminators won't guarantee they can get rid of them. "I call it the second Battle of New Orleans," Bordes says. "We have to fight these guys here, have this as a center to study the methodology, and export it to states that don't have near the numbers we do."

Formosan termites are thought to have come to Hawaii in the 1860s, but it apparently took them an additional 80 years more to get to the mainland.

Since then, the invaders have far outstripped their native cousins. New Orleans loses about $300 million a year to termites, and Formosans are responsible for at least 75 percent to 80 percent of that damage.

Hawaii suffers about $100 million a year in damage from them, says Julian Yates, an extension specialist in urban entomology at the University of Hawaii.

Formosan termites are a problem in 11 states: Hawaii, all five Gulf Coast states, up the East Coast into Virginia, and inland into Tennessee. California has one infestation, but it is in a generally desert area, and authorities think it may now be contained.

*But unless fought hard and fast, Formosan termites are likely to spread farther.

Oklahoma, Kentucky, Arizona, Arkansas, Missouri and New Mexico probably have Formosan termites or will have them in the near future, according to Bordes' office. Eventually, the experts predict the pests are likely to spread from Tacoma, Wash., to Boston, Mass.

Last year, six new infestations were found in Atlanta, Ga. All were traced to railroad ties brought there from a warehouse in South Carolina, says Gregg Henderson, an entomologist with the LSU Agricultural Center in Baton Rouge.

They probably stowed away to New Orleans in crates carrying PT boat engines back from the Pacific to the factories where Andrew Jackson Higgins built 20,094 landing craft and PT boats during World War II.

Bordes estimates it will cost $10 million a year for the next 10 years to get them under control in New Orleans alone.

The newest weapon in the exterminator's arsenal was developed at the University of Florida. It uses traps baited with wood and set into the ground. When termites are found in a trap, the wood bait is replaced with poisoned wood.

The worker termites - the ones that eat the wood - feed the queen, the soldiers and the winged adults which fly out to start new colonies. So the poison is carried back to the colony and spread there.

A building can be "tented" and fumigated to kill all the above-ground insects. More commonly, above-ground nests are sprayed with termiticide foam. But unless there's a "breakout" spot where swarms have left the building, there's no way to find the nests without tearing out walls or ceilings.

A test site for the traps was a library in the Algiers neighborhood, where exterminators had been summoned 79 times.

"There was no swarm this past season, and hasn't been a live termite in there since the end of 1995," Bordes says.

However, Henderson says, the frustrating thing is the traps don't always work and the scientists don't know why.

"We don't really know termites that well - how they're locating food sources, why they choose one and not another," he says.

Formosan termites were first identified on the mainland in the 1960s, but old-timers who worked in Higgins' boat yards have told Bordes that the PT engine crates were infested with termites.

Camp Leroy Johnson, where the University of New Orleans now stands, also was a shipping depot, he says.

Now, every block in the French Quarter is infested.

"They don't pay any attention to addresses. As far as they're concerned a whole block may be one building, for feeding purposes," says Ed Martin, an entomologist for Terminix.

A quick check of 4,000 trees throughout the city found termites in the soil around one-tenth of them, Bordes says. In some areas, including St. Charles Avenue, where the branches shade two lanes of traffic and the streetcar line in the median, nearly one-in-three oaks is infested.

The termites like lots of different plants. In Hawaiian neighborhoods built on former pineapple and sugar plantations, Formosans have done significant damage in less than a year. Since it takes four or five years for a colony to grow large enough to do that sort of damage, the termites were already under the fields, Yates says.

Other cities also report horror stories.

In Charlotte, S.C., Formosan termites ate a bank wall into a shell that crumbled when a guard leaned against it, dumping him onto the sidewalk, says Clemson University entomologist Mac Horton.

Horton, who teaches exterminators in a master termite program, says a few years ago an estimated one in 10 of Charlotte's utility poles was infested. Many became so weak that what once had been a foot-wide log broke at the bump of a car being parked, and so light that they then just dangled from the power lines instead of falling.

There are a number of reasons Formosan termites are so formidable.

Rabbits are nothing compared to Formosan termites when it comes to multiplication. Every colony starts out with a pair of termites. When the colony at the Algiers library branch was found, it numbered 60 million to 70 million. They seem to have more egg-layers than native subterranean termites, according to scientists at the University of Florida.

Formosans also are hungrier than native termites. A colony can hollow out a wall in three months. They chow down on living wood as well as dead wood. Their galleries, tunnels chewed out and then lined, can cover 6.5 acres, according to entomologists at the University of Florida's cooperative extension service. They don't need to get down to earth to drink.

And they fly. They're not alone in that - native subterranean termites swarm in March, just as the Formosans will swarm in May through June in Louisiana. In Hawaii they swarm year-round, with the biggest swarms in spring and fall.

But, while other species can be stopped by spreading poison around a building, these can fly into the attic, set up house, and get their water from the condensation around a pipe.

Formosan termites have devastated sugar cane fields in Asia and Pakistan, and on the U.S. mainland have been found in sugar cane set out as ornamental plants around houses, Henderson says.

Termites also have infested the swamps. "I've watched a tree disappear," Henderson says. "It was a tupelo gum. One year it was green and leafy, the next year all that was left of that tree was termites."

The University of Florida treatment, licensed to Dow-Elanco as Sentricon, is a powerful tool, "but it's not the silver bullet," Yates says. "We're not to the point where we can rid an entire area of the pests."

Scientists say more research is needed on other ways to minimize the amount of poison put out, and on ways to find termites early, before they do their damage - possibly by finding the tiny amounts of chemicals they produce.

"Now detection is, what? An icepick or a screwdriver handle tapping on wood to see if it's hollow," Yates says.

"If you can detect that it's hollow, it's too late."

Great Texas Trash-Off sets out to collect litter

Spring cleaning takes on a whole new meaning April 5 when more than 112,000 Texans scour state highways, county roads and city streets and parks in the 12th annual Great Texas Trash-Off.

One of the nation's largest single-day litter pickup events, the Trash-Off is organized by the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) and Keep Texas Beautiful (KTB).

Litter will be picked up statewide by 1,700 Adopt-a-Highway groups. KTB volunteers in 100 communities will concentrate on city streets and parks. Altogether, the volunteers expect to collect more than 8 million gallons of litter.

The one-day event is designed to alert Texans to the state's litter problems and to encourage people not to toss their trash. The Trash-Off coincides with the wildflower viewing season, and it also kicks off Keep Texas Beautiful Month in the state.

The Trash-Off is part of the TxDOT's "Don't Mess With Texas" public awareness campaign. By reducing the amount of trash on state highways, these programs are saving taxpayers $2 to $4 million in litter pickup expenses.

Keep Texas Beautiful is a not-for-profit environmental group consisting of a network of private citizens, communities, industries, civic groups, schools and government agencies.

Hereford Community Concert to sponsor musical on April 11

Musical show coming

The Hereford Community Concert Association will sponsor The Amarillo Little Theatre's (ALT) traveling show "Always...Patsy Cline" at 7:30 p.m. on April 11 in the Hereford High School auditorium. The musical show features Tammy Hysmith, left, and Cindy Bulla as Louise Seger.

Country music fans, young and old, will not want to miss a night of music, nostalgia and laughter.

The Hereford Community Concert Association will sponsor The Amarillo Little Theatre's (ALT) traveling show "Always...Patsy Cline" at 7:30 p.m. April 11 in the Hereford High School auditorium.

Advance tickets are $5 for Community Concert members and $7 for non-members.

Individual student tickets are $5. Also, group rates are available.

The musical is based on the true story of country and western singer Patsy Cline.

Cline was only 30 on March 5, 1963, when she lost her life in a plane accident near Camden, Tenn.

She had been a star for only five years -- a short time in which to become a legend.

But, at the time of her death, she was one of the nation's leading recording artists, a headliner on the country music circuit and a regular at the Grand Ole Opry.

She had numerous hit singles and a national concert tour. Her career was in full swing.

Above all, Cline was the first female country singer to cross over into pop music. Many of her top country songs were pop chart hits as well.

Fans flocked to see her perform at the Opry, at Carnegie Hall, at the Hollywood Bowl, at fairs and in school houses.

In the 34 years since that fatal plane crash, Cline's popularity has remained burnished and undimmed.

In 1973, she was posthumously elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Her expressive voice has left a legacy that is now a permanent and treasured part of America's musical landscape.

Tammy Hysmith of Fritch made her debut with ALT when it was presented on stage in Amarillo recently.

Hysmith wowed the audiences with her replication of the Cline's singing.

Those who were fans of this country music legend will reminisce and enjoy the renditions of Cline favorites such as "Crazy" and "Walkin' After Midnight" among more than 20 other songs.

"Always...Patsy Cline" centers around the relationship of Louise Seger (Cindy Bulla) and Cline from 1957, when she was just simply beginning her rise to fame, until her death in 1963.

It is a simple, heartfelt tribute that centers not so much on Cline's biography, but rather on how her music affected the lives of people who still find her classics fresh and vital today.

An ensemble of western musicians led by ALT Music Director Loren J. Strickland along with a technical support team headed by ALT's Gregg Dunlap will accompany the cast.

Sell-out crowds have seen this show in Clarendon, Claude and Vega. Hereford should be no exception.

To purchase tickets, contact 364-0294, 364-3486, 364-3717 or any Community Concert board member.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to answer the lady in Florida who asked if there were other women who had ever slept with their ex-husbands. Well, I did -- for three years after we divorced. I never felt guilty, nor did I ever regret it.

The first year after our divorce, we had better (and more frequent) sex than the last few years of our marriage. The second year, it tapered off, and by the third year, it was maybe once every two or three months. It was our way of saying goodbye gradually.

We didn't fight like we did when we were married. It wasn't necessary to make the loving (often phony) gestures some couples feel they need to maintain the relationship. We never said, "I love you," and he never stayed overnight.

I don't miss him and don't wonder what would have happened if we had tried harder to save the marriage. Had we stayed together, we probably would have killed each other. Having someone to turn to while we were searching for a better life made it easier for both of us. This is really a great way to split. I recommend it. -- Happy in Illinois

Dear Illinois: Your candor is refreshing. Keep reading for more:

From the East Coast: My wife and I went to a bar after our divorce to celebrate. We both got schnookered and ended up in bed. I couldn't function. We laughed about it, which was a good way to part. Please don't print my city or state.

California: You wanted to hear from women who have slept with their ex-husbands. Well, I qualify. I was married to "Ed" for 10 years when I caught him in a motel with his secretary. I threw him out and married a widower I had known for ages. Unfortunately, my widower died a year later. John's secretary turned out to be a tramp, and he divorced her. He asked me to remarry him. I said no. He then suggested we just sleep together because there are too many new diseases out there to take chances and the physical release would be good for both of us. I agreed, and we've been doing it ever since.

Scarsdale, N.Y.: I'm another married woman who is sleeping with her ex. He phoned four months after our divorce and said, "My new wife is nice, but she's an icicle. Let's get together and call it 'Mental Health Night.'" I agreed because my new husband was also "nice" but a premature ejaculator. What with AIDS out there, we both felt this was a good decision. No commitments, no regrets.

New York: Count me among those women who did indeed sleep with their ex-husbands after the divorce. It was three years to the day after we split. He had a very brief and unsuccessful marriage (with the woman who caused "the problem"), while I moved 300 miles away and cried a lot.

My ex and I saw each other for the first time after our divorce at the rehearsal dinner for our son's wedding. When our eyes met, I knew I was still crazy about him. We sat together at the wedding. When our son and his bride exchanged vows, my ex reached for my hand. My heart pounded so hard, I was afraid he would hear. We danced at the reception, and I knew then that we would spend the night together.

The next morning at breakfast in his hotel suite, he said he had been miserable without me and asked if I would consider taking him back. I said yes. We were married three months later. Whoever wrote that song proclaiming love is better the second time around must have remarried his ex. I have never been happier.

Dear N.Y.: What a beautiful love story. Thank you for sharing it with my readers. I wish you and your husband a lifetime of happiness.

HJH Roundup

By CAROLYN WATERS

"Just remember the world is not a playground but a schoolroom. Life is not a holiday but an education. One eternal lesson for us all: to teach us how better we should love." Barbara Jordan.

Kali Hall, Jessica Weishaar, Trey Lusk, Wesley Reinart, Ryan McCabe and Zac Davis spent six hours in research at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum Archives and the West Texas Library on Tuesday. It was interesting to observe them listening to taped interviews, using the microfilm machines, copiers, computers and card files and then record their findings. This is not only valuable for their projects but also for their future research. By the way, believe it or not, we'll have pictures to prove this activity!

Our Junior Historians Chapter has been asked to present the flags at the Annual Meeting on Saturday, April 5, in Arlington. We feel honored to have been selected for this part in the program and will use our school flags. Thanks to the American Legion for the use of their belt holders which will make it easier for the students to handle the flags.

Our Jostens' Computer Lab, which is directed by Mrs. Taylor, serves many of the junior high students and we appreciate the administration and the school board for choosing this particular program as it fits the needs of our students so well. Some of those served are Stebbins' TAAS Math; Saul's HOSTS Math; Perrin's eighth TAAS Reading; Smith's seventh and eighth TAAS reading; Ory's seventh TAAS Reading; Mason and Lucio's ESL students who have made "great strides;" Wilhelm and Cicero's Special Education classes and Monolingual Keyboarding class on Friday. We believe we're getting our money's worth with this program!

Perrin's reading classes have had a Hereford graduate as student teacher for the past five and one-half weeks. Chasaidy Weddel, who will graduate from WTAMU in May, has been an asset in that program and we've enjoyed her being here.

Eighth grade Parent's Night will be April 1, at 7:00. This meeting, which will be in the cafeteria, will give the parents and students an opportunity to visit with high school counselors about freshman schedules and programs. We invite each parent of an eighth grader to be in attendance.

Career Day for seventh and eighth graders is scheduled for Wednesday, April 2. There will be presentations of careers in many areas.

Junior Historians delegates and our Geography Bee state representative, Dusty Clark, will leave at 7:00 a.m. Thursday for Fort Worth/Arlington. We have several stops and tours planned before we return home on Sunday.

"An education is not a thing one gets, but a lifelong process." Gloria Steinem.

Hints from Heloise

WALK WITH DOG

Dear Heloise: My friend and I got in the habit of walking each evening. In the summer months, we feel a little safer since it gets dark late and we're usually home by then, but it's different in the winter with the time change.

I adopted a great little watchdog (a miniature schnauzer) and now when we take our daily walks, Barkley goes with us. Even though we live in a nice, quiet community, I feel a lot safer with her walking with us. I know she would alert us by barking if there was anyone lurking around.

Also, Barkley makes me walk even when I don't feel like it. (She'll pick up her leash and give it to me.) Who can resist those beautiful brown eyes? So off we go, rain or shine. — Jody Bearden, San Antonio

— YOUR EYES —

Eye Exam Guidelines

When was the last time you had your eyes examined?

- Eye examinations should start at about the age of three, while it is relatively easy to correct conditions like strabismus, or crossed eyes, and amblyopia, or "lazy eye."
- Because visual acuity changes rapidly during the growing years, children and teenagers should be examined once a year.

• People between 25 to 40, in good overall health and with no history of vision problems, usually find examinations every two years enough — until they have difficulty reading small print.

• After 40, eyes should be checked every year, because visual changes start to accelerate. It's important that the eye doctor check for glaucoma and other diseases at this stage to make possible the prompt treatment that protects vision.

At any age, eye strain or any change in vision should trigger a prompt visit to the optometrist.

The Successful Family

Jobs, money, work, the family. Stress and anger can build up. A child's behavior may seem like the last straw. Parents lose control and strike out at their kids.

PHYSICAL ABUSE can happen when parents are punishing a child. Parents say, "I didn't mean to hurt him. I only wanted to teach him a lesson."

But small children are easily injured by large adults. Children and babies can suffer broken bones, brain damage or even death when parents use force to hit or shake them.

Kids are injured by angry parents. Don't let rage control your actions. If your anger makes you afraid you are going to hurt your children, get help NOW. You can learn better ways than hitting to discipline your children.

HELP IS AVAILABLE every Tuesday evening from 5:30-8 at the HISD Administration Building, 601 N. 25 Mile Avenue. We all need help to be THE SUCCESSFUL FAMILY we want to be.

The meal for this week's session will be turkey and dressing.

On April 29, representatives from the Hereford Police Department and the Probation Office will present a special program on gang violence and how it affects the family.

During the final session May 6, the drawing will be held for the TV and VCR. You must be present to win. There will also be a special drawing for those who have had 100 percent attendance.

For more information contact Tilli Boozer, counselor/facilitator at 806-363-7668.

Flame Fellowship to meet Thursday

Vonna Ossenbeck of Amarillo will be the guest speaker at the Hereford Flame Fellowship meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Ossenbeck is an ordained minister. She and her husband, Bill, attend God's Covenant Family Church in Amarillo, where they serve in many leadership roles.

She was founder of the Amarillo Flame Fellowship and served as president for 3-1/2 years.

Ossenbeck ministers on a weekly basis in a two-hour Bible study at the Nat Neal Unit Women's Prison in Amarillo.

They are witnessing an awesome move of God in the broken lives of those in prison, she said.

The meeting is open to the public.

Allens celebrate 40th anniversary

Bill and Barbara Allen of Hereford will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary with a trip to St. Simon Island.

The Allens met at an Air Force party in California, where Mr. Allen was stationed.

Allen married the former Barbara Santiago on March 31, 1956, in California. A wedding reception was later held in Hereford.

The Allens have two sons, Blake Allen of Atlanta, Ga., and Brent Allen of Houston; and a daughter, Brenda Hager of Dallas.

The couple previously lived in El Paso and Lubbock.

Allen is a certified public accountant and comptroller of Hereford Credit Union.

Mrs. Allen is a homemaker and a member of Hereford Study Club. The Allens are members of Central Church of Christ.

The couple enjoys traveling on golf vacations and visiting their children.

Extension News

Lean beef can fit into many low-calorie diets

By BEVERLY K. HARDER
County Extension Agent-FCS

Many people whose doctors prescribe a low-calorie, low-fat or low cholesterol diet think they have to give up eating beef. But that isn't the case.

Lean beef can fit into special diets. The only restrictions are that the meat should be lean cut, the visible fat should be trimmed from around the edges, and it should be cooked by broiling or grilling, rather than frying.

When it comes to calories, lean beef compares favorably to the broiled chicken that is often recommended on special diets.

For example, a three ounce serving of lean roast beef contains 169 calories and a similar serving of top loin (strip) steak contains 195 calories.

By comparison, three ounces of baked chicken without skin contains 174 calories and the same serving of fried chicken with skin contains 209 calories.

Beef also contains less fat than most people assume. Three ounces of cooked lean beef contains about nine grams of fat and less than half of that is saturated.

It's true that fat consumption has been increasing, but that has been caused primarily by an increase in the use of vegetable fats and oils.

Vegetable fats and oils now account for 43 percent of the fat in the food supply.

And food consumption surveys show that much of our excess fat intake is from hidden sources in convenience foods.

How about cholesterol? Even here, beef compares favorably to other meats.

Three ounces of cooked lean beef contains 73 milligrams of cholesterol.

The same amount of roast chicken contains 76 mg; pork, 77 mg; shrimp, 130 mg; cheddar cheese, 90 mg.

Don't forget that the body needs cholesterol daily and will manufacture the difference between the amount consumed and the amount it requires.

A standard three ounce serving of beef provides about 8 percent of the cholesterol the body needs.

Whether you are on a special diet or not, you can enjoy lean beef and know that you're getting a protein-rich food that provides the essential vitamins and minerals for good nutrition.

Dried beans, peas, lentils, etc. are cheap and make a "complete protein" when served with a little meat, cheese or milk.

Rowland selected as top speaker at Toastmasters

Jigger Rowland was selected as the best speaker at the Thursday morning meeting of the Hereford Toastmasters at the Ranch House Restaurant.

Rowland's speech was "A Living or A Life."

Linda Minchew's speech "Legacy" was selected as second place.

Also speaking at the meeting was Margaret Del Toro with her speech "Gifts."

Chief judge was Rick Jackson.

Evaluators were Rick Jackson, Brek Hunsaker, Charles Minchew and Dan Hall.

Mike Morrison was presiding officer at the meeting. Clark Andrews led the pledge and Hall lead the invocation.

Toastmaster was Wayne Winget and timer was Minchew. Adolfo Del Toro was a guest at the meeting.

The Hereford Toastmasters announced the winners of the International Speech Contest. Jigger Rowland, right, won first place and Linda Minchew won second place.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Easter Sunday, March 30, the 89th day of 1997. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On March 30, 1981, President Reagan was shot and seriously injured outside a Washington, D.C., hotel by John W. Hinckley Jr. Also wounded were White House news secretary James Brady, a Secret Service agent and a District of Columbia police officer.

On this date:
In 1822, Florida became a United States territory.

In 1842, Dr. Crawford W. Long of Jefferson, Ga., first used ether as an anesthetic during a minor operation.
In 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million, a deal roundly ridiculed as "Seward's Folly."

In 1870, the 15th Amendment to the Constitution, giving black men the right to vote, was declared in effect.

In 1870, Texas was readmitted to the Union.

In 1909, the Queensboro Bridge, linking the New York boroughs of Manhattan and Queens, opened.

In 1945, the Soviet Union invaded Austria during World War II.

In 1964, John Glenn withdrew from the Ohio race for U.S. Senate because of injuries suffered in a fall.

In 1970, the musical "Applause" opened on Broadway.

In 1973, Ellsworth Bunker resigned as U.S. ambassador to South

Vietnam, and was succeeded by Graham A. Martin.

In 1986, actor James Cagney died at his farm in Stanfordville, N.Y., at age 86.

Ten years ago: The movie "Platoon" won four Academy Awards, including best picture; Paul Newman was named best actor for "The Color of Money," Marlee Matlin won best actress for "Children of a Lesser God."

Five years ago: "The Silence of the Lambs" won five Oscars at the 64th annual Academy Awards, including best picture, best actress for Jodie Foster and best actor for Anthony Hopkins.

One year ago: The space shuttle Atlantis narrowly avoided having to make an emergency landing when its cargo-bay doors wouldn't open at first to release built-up heat. Funeral services were held in Bethesda, Md., for former senator and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie.

Today's Birthdays: Singer Frankie Laine is 84. Former CIA Director Richard Helms is 84. Actor Richard Dvart is 68. Actor John Astin is 67.

Words of Wisdom XVII

I was four years old when I learned my ABC's. Later, I learned that the alphabet is a wonderful organizational tool. It would be hard to find words in the dictionary or names in the phone book without it.

I believe it will work for organizing words of wisdom, as well. Here are some wise words in alphabetical order.

Wisdom from A to Z

- Achievement - I feel the greatest reward for doing is the opportunity to do more. - Jonas Salk
- Brevity - The fewer the words, the better the prayer. - Martin Luther

- Common sense - Common sense is very uncommon. - Horace Greeley
- Difficulty - No man who is occupied in doing a very difficult thing, and doing it very well, ever loses his self-respect. - George Bernard Shaw
- Education - Education is a progressive discovery of our ignorance. - Will Durant

Between the Covers

By MARTHA RUSSELL
They are coming from near and far now to use the Deaf Smith County Library.

It seems that several of the libraries in the Panhandle came into being about the same time in the middle and late 70's and are now facing new carpet, remodeling and redecorating challenges.

When we go the Texas Panhandle Library System meetings, we are asked numerous questions about how we accomplished our "big move." Darla Bracken and her assistant, Brenda Patterson, from the Friona Public Library came to tour our library to get ideas for their new expansion and remodeling work on their facility.

Before my family and I moved to Hereford, we lived in Friona for six months, and the library there is one of the happiest memories I have of our stay there.

This was where my family was first introduced to the Texas Summer Reading Club. There were zoo animals caged in shelves and a tornado tube that fascinated my little boys.

Darla and her crew are very creative and put a lot of effort into making the library a fun and interesting place.

We hope they have an easy and safe move into their new quarters and have the wonderful community support and assistance which the Deaf Smith County Library received.

Then a family from Germany came in to get travel guides to the surrounding area, so that they could decide what they wanted to be sure to see.

As I showed them where these books are kept, they told me about their library at home. The population of their hometown in Germany is about the same as Deaf Smith County, but our library is much bigger and better equipped than what they have available to them. They seem to be very impressed.

As I heard Darla and Brenda exclaim over the space and equipment we have, and listened to the awe in the voices of the family from Germany, I began to be really thankful for what we have.

It's easy to fall into the trap of focusing on what we don't have rather than appreciating what we do have. Sometimes we need to back off and look at the things though a stranger's eyes to really see things as they are.

New fiction this week includes

Infamous by Joan Collins, Vampyril by Brian Lumley, Murder of a Dead Man by Katherine John and Carolina Moon by Jill McCorkle.

The Saskiad by Brian Hill is a epic tale about the search for home and family in the life of a precious young girl. Twelve years old and a voracious reader, Saskia injects fantasy into real life with transforming energy. When Saskia's long lost father invites her to join him on a holiday expedition, the destination and ultimate purpose turn out to be as mysterious as he is.

In Preternatural by Margaret Walter Bonanno, the science fiction novel Karen Guerrieri is writing begins to come to life when the telepathic alien jellyfish in her story tries to communicate with her. Has she invented the alien, or have they invented her? Or is she just losing her mind? And if she is going crazy, can she still sell the movie rights?

The Sunday Spy by William Hood presents a new twist on the familiar theme of spy and counterspy with the dissolution of the Soviet block. Agent Alan Trosper now must confront an intelligence world fragmented beyond recognition, where agents scramble to attach themselves to new masters, and old allegiances cannot be trusted.

Paulina Simons has written Red

Leaves, which takes place on a New England campus where the frozen body of Kristina, a beautiful co-ed, has been found buried in a snow bank. Why has she not been reported missing?

It turns out that her life is as big a mystery as her death. Kristina and her close friends were children of privilege who played, studied, and occasionally slept together.

Despite their intimacies, they kept secrets to be learned by a young police detective assigned to the case.

On the nonfiction shelf, in The Jewel of Liberty, Dr. David E. Long investigates the events of 1864 that eventually produced the November electoral result that re-elected Lincoln and cemented emancipation.

George and Barbara Bush state that Finish Strong by Richard G. Capen Jr. is "an honest discussion of the importance of character and morality and what it means to the future of America."

The Thyroid Source Book by M. Sara Rosenthal includes everything you need to know about hyperthyroid and hypothyroid conditions, Grave's disease, thyroid eye disease, Hashimoto's disease and thyroiditis. Also included is information about treatments, medications and nutrition.

Built to Last: Successful Habits of Visionary Companies by James C. Collins and Jerry I. Porras explores the reasons behind American long-term corporate success stories. The authors provide new insights into the workings of eighteen visionary corporations, including 3M, Wal-Mart, Walt Disney, Boeing, Sony and Hewlett-Packard.

Other non-fiction books available are: The Quilter's Ultimate Visual Guide by Ellen Pahl, Creative Watercolor Painting Techniques, The Financial Aid Book and Cake Decorating with Sugarpaste by Sylvia Coward.

Military Muster

Army Staff Sgt. Jose L. Cadena has been deployed on a temporary duty assignment to Soto Cano Air Base, Honduras, as a member of Joint Task Force-Bravo.

JTF-Bravo is the command and control headquarters for most U.S. military forces deployed to participate in exercises and training activities in the Republic of Honduras.

The service member is one of 750 soldiers, airmen and 1,100 civilians of JTF-Bravo whose primary mission is to provide command and control, administrative and logistical support to exercises, deployments and humanitarian and civic assistance operations conducted in the Republic of Honduras.

Cadena, a fighting vehicle infantryman, is the son of Janie Cadena of Hereford.

His wife, Yvonne, is the daughter of Wally and Mary Gamboa of Hereford.

The sergeant is a 1987 graduate of Hereford High School.

Loud snoring becomes big problem

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) - For months, newlywed Lauren Collins tried dealing diplomatically with her new husband's problem in bed. She would go to sleep before he did, or trundle off to another bedroom to spend the night.

Nothing worked. Finally, she told him he had to do something about his incredibly loud snoring.

Dr. Lewis Newberg, an ear, nose and throat specialist, was shocked. Like most people who suffer from sleep disorders, he didn't know he had a problem.

After surgery, Newberg says he has been cured of sleep apnea, the severest kind of snoring in which narrowed airways cause people to stop breathing briefly as they sleep.

It's a problem that Newberg took seriously enough to write a book about it urging people not to treat the condition lightly.

Newberg is among more than 300 ear, nose and throat specialists who attended a three-day conference on sleep disorders ranging from simple snoring to sleep apnea and how to treat them. The conference ended

Sunday.

While many people ridicule snoring and view it not as a problem but as an oddity, doctors at the meeting stressed that snoring is a serious condition that affects 9 percent of adult men and 4 percent of adult women in the United States.

Both snoring and sleep apnea have been associated with development of hypertension, high blood pressure, increased risk of heart attack, stroke-even traffic accidents. They have ended marriages.

Dr. Samuel Mickelson, of Atlanta, Ga., said snoring and sleep apnea are the same disease, differing only in severity.

On the lower end of the spectrum are those who snore without experiencing other problems. At the other end are people who stop breathing and wake up gasping and choking several hundred times a night.

Besides the medical problems, snorers suffer socially. Doctors said some people worry so much about the problem they skip vacations with friends, fear new relationships or avoid business trips that require sharing a room.

While there is no magic pill to cure snoring, doctors at the Arlington conference suggested experimenting with treatments that include using devices to reposition the lower jaw forward, open nasal air passages or retrain snorers by producing unpleasant sensations when they snore.

The problem can also be treated by regular or laser surgery.

Reflecting a growing market for snoring aids, several entrepreneurs displayed high-tech machines and devices at the conference that promised to help treat or diagnose snoring and sleep apnea.

A few, like Andy Owens, had toll-free numbers displayed that automatically hook up snorers with doctors in their areas.

Owens, who began that service in Dallas, said his service could not handle the flood of calls that came from all over the country.

Easter tea party

It's tea time. A 1930's Easter tea party is on display at the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum. The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Saturday and by appointment on Sunday.

BOSTON (AP) - The latest impromptu role for Robin Williams? Bartender.

The actor/comedian with a flair for silliness visited Woods' L Street Tavern on Friday, checking out the bar as a possible site for his latest movie, "Goodwill Hunting."

Williams, accompanied by other cast members and crew, signed autographs and posed for pictures as word spread that he was holding court.

"It was a great night," said Jackie Woods, the owner of the tavern. "What a guy, what a guy. He went behind the bar, he put on a little show and served a few drinks and brought everyone in the place a drink."

In the movie, Williams will play a professor who encounters a Boston teen-age genius. Production is scheduled to begin in May.

LONDON (AP) - The Royal Academy of Music gave former student Elton John a 50th birthday present - an honorary membership.

The flamboyant rocker, whose birthday is today, studied piano at the academy in the 1960s. For a while, a classical career beckoned.

"Elton was a prodigiously gifted child. Had he chosen to, he would certainly have progressed to our senior academy," Principal Dr. Curtis Price said Monday.

Instead, John and lyricist Bernie Taupin wrote a string of pop hits, including "Your Song," "Candle In The Wind" and "Don't Go Breaking My Heart."

Honorary membership is the Royal Academy's top accolade. Other recipients include composers Richard Strauss, Felix Mendelssohn and Franz Liszt. Current members include tenor Jose Carreras.

Binghamton projects warmth, elegance

By Associated Designs

Squared columns, each supported by a stone pedestal, give a distinctive look to the wrap-around front porch that welcomes visitors to the Binghamton. Arched windows and a small gable add to the charm of this mid-sized family home. Inside, a coffered ceiling and bay windows give a touch of elegance to the living room.

Light from the gable spills down to brighten the vaulted entry and family room. Family members will enjoy spending most of their time together in this pleasant space. Standing at the kitchen sink, you face into the family room or nook, and can also gaze out into the back yard. This angled island could also be outfitted as an eating bar. A step-in pantry that nestles into the corner provides ample storage space for canned goods and staple items.

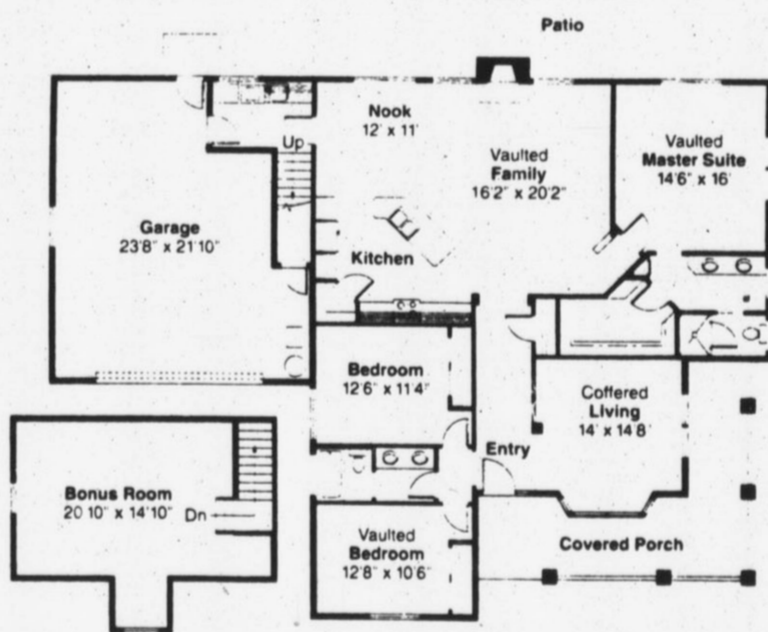

Windows fill most of the rear wall. One set flanks the fireplace and another set slides open to provide easy access to a patio that spans the home's entire back side. A small utility room is on the left. Directly connected to the garage, this space is also handy for shucking off messy footgear after gardening or tramping through rain or snow.

The master suite is vaulted and has sliding glass doors. This comes in particularly handy if the family ever wants to install a hot tub on the deck or patio. Other amenities include a walk-in closet and private bathroom with double vanity. Shower and toilet are separately enclosed, for privacy and steam containment.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Binghamton 10-259 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12. For more information, call (800)634-0123.

Secondary bedrooms are separated from the Binghamton's master suite and share a two-section bathroom with tub. The front bedroom is vaulted.

Sabrina casts a spell on young audiences

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Sabrina, the Teenage Witch has worked magic on ABC's Friday line-up.

The network's two-hour "TGIF" block of family-oriented comedies was ailing so much a couple of years back that its future was questionable. Now half a dozen series have claims to the four early-evening slots, giving ABC the ability to rotate in an alternate whenever one of the existing players looks tired.

Rookie Sabrina, starring Melissa Joan Hart, is outperforming all the rest. Though still a long way from being a top-10 show, Sabrina is rated No. 1 on ABC's prime-time schedule with viewers 2 to 17 years old.

Conventional TV wisdom says that's not possible, because boys traditionally tune out any show with a female lead character, while girls don't base their decisions on gender. (This is the reason Saturday morning cartoon shows are so male-dominated.)

Hart's first series, Clarissa Explains It All, bucked that trend. Clarissa became Nickelodeon's first live-action hit, attracting both boys and girls to the TV set.

Sabrina had its naysayers too, Hart recalls.

"They said the same thing about Sabrina (as about Clarissa), because it's such a strong female show. There are only one or two male cast members.

"And if you come on the set, all the people standing around making decisions are women. But it can also appeal to men because it's something fun and it's magic. How can you go wrong with that?"

How indeed. Sabrina (Hart) and her two witch aunts (Beth Broderick, Caroline Rhea) regularly bewitch viewers of both genders with only a pinch of help from Salem, the family cat (voice of Nick Bakay), and Harvey (Nate Richert), Sabrina's classmate and friend.

While Sabrina is based on the character from Archie Comics, "this show has actually become more about magic than witchcraft," Hart says. "But we do have our little rules, and we have the magic book her father lives in."

Incorporating magic effects into the show adds time — and an element of surprise — to the weekly production schedule.

"There's a levitating thing I have to sit on that lifts me up," Hart explains. "That's a little scary. And we have flash pots that have to go off sometimes."

"I had to wear a harness in the Valentine's episode and jump across a broken bridge. You don't know if when you jump they're actually going to catch you on the rope."

"The worst is when we have a clothes change — when you see me change my clothes (by magic) — which happens in almost every episode. It means everyone sits exactly where they are until I'm done getting dressed and come back and get in place."

Another source of magic for Sabrina is its guest stars, who have included Penn & Teller, Coolio and Brian Austin Green. Hart's dream guests are Shirley Temple and Smashing Pumpkins, but not on the same show.

"(Smashing Pumpkins) almost were on at one point, but they were too busy, and they had to cancel. So we're going to try again."

As for Temple, who is among Hart's childhood idols, "We did ask her. We wanted her to play my grandmother. But she doesn't do TV. Too bad."

The disappointment is momentary. Just shy of her 21st birthday, Hart is riding a magic carpet to TV stardom.

"It's a lot of fun," she admits. "Everything about it."

Teen sensation Melissa Joan Hart bewitches viewers every Friday on ABC's Sabrina, the Teenage Witch. Hart stars as Sabrina, a 16-year-old who discovers she has supernatural powers. Nick Bakay provides the voice of her cat, Salem.

★ ★ March 30-April 5 ★ ★

ARIES - March 21/April 20

Spring has given you the urge to clean house when it comes to work. However, don't let your temper get the best of you this week. Remain calm, and think about what's best for your future before making any rash decisions. Seek advice from a close friend or relative if you're not sure of what to do.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21

Don't go against your nature this week. A loved one helps you realize what you want when it comes to your personal life. So, go out and get it. Don't let others stand in your way. However, when it comes to work, it's best to hold back your opinions until you know the whole story.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21

Your ability to think fast on your feet will come in handy during a social outing this week. Don't let a surprise throw you off guard. Work will keep you busy during the beginning of the week, so you must focus on the task at hand. Your efforts won't go unnoticed. A bonus is on the way.

CANCER - June 22/July 22

A family situation will put you to the test this week. Don't let your emotions get the best of you. Stay strong, and use your sense of humor to keep loved ones calm. You'll be riding high when it comes to romance. An evening with a good friend will turn out to be much more.

LEO - July 23/August 23

Your pride may get you into trouble with a co-worker this week. Don't make the situation worse by trying to take control. In your personal life, romantic efforts finally will pay off. That special someone will show you that he or she really cares. Don't rush in too fast. Take your time.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22

You'll have to fight your fear of crowds this week as a meeting at work puts you in the spotlight. Your organization and perfectionism will pull you through with flying colors - and a lot of praise. Don't be too hard on yourself after a fight with a loved one.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23

Your ability to be a good listener will be needed this week as a close friend goes through a rough time. Your pleasant nature will help get him or her back on track. Don't let a quarrel with your special someone get you down. Your good nature will bring him or her around and make everything OK.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22

Your determination puts you in line for top honors in the workplace. The higher-ups finally recognize all the time and effort you put in. Don't be shy when it comes to romance this week. Even though it's against your nature, let your feelings be known. They'll be reciprocated.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21

Your happy, gregarious nature will be challenged this week as loved ones share a family secret. The news may come as a surprise, but don't let your temper flare. Take it in stride. Your optimism pays off when it comes to romance. That special someone finally will make a move.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20

Now is your chance to get ahead at work. Your boss offers you the opportunity to take a commanding role in the company, and you're up to the challenge. Don't let your stubborn side take control when it comes to friends. You're sure to have a good time, even though you didn't make the plans.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18

Your sense of realism does well for you in all areas of your life this week. You won't overreact to a surprise at work, making you a pillar of strength for your co-workers. As for your love life, it's time to take the next step in a relationship. Think about it.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20

Your wisdom will draw your supervisor to you for advice during the beginning of the week. Even though he or she respects your opinion, you must remember that you still are the employee. Your satiric nature wins praise from your loved ones and attracts new friends.

Ben Savage and Danielle Fishel hop over to the happiest place on Earth to celebrate the Easter season with Mickey and Minnie Mouse in Walt Disney World Happy Easter Parade Sunday on ABC.

IN FOCUS

Richard Thomas heads back to the mountains to reprise his role as John Boy Walton in A Walton Easter, premiering Sunday, March 30, on CBS.

With the Easter season approaching, John Boy and his pregnant wife, Janet (Kate McNeil), travel to his childhood home in Virginia's Blue Ridge Mountains to help celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of his parents (Ralph Waite, Michael Learned).

Jon Walmsley, Mary McDonough and Ellen Corby also reprise their roles.

Lifetime's Intimate Portrait chronicles the Divine Miss M's many roles as singer, mother, actress and environmentalist. Bette Midler debuts Sunday, March 30.

In an exclusive interview, Midler discusses her youth and the struggles she has faced throughout her career. The show also includes interviews with her husband, friends and colleagues, and features film clips and personal photographs.

Barbara Hershey, Midler's co-star in Beaches, narrates the show.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: I have been watching and enjoying reruns of the old Sonny and Cher show. Could you tell me what they and daughter Chastity are doing now? -B.J.A., Sheboygan, Wis.

A: It's not exactly a secret. Sonny Bono is currently a Republican congressman from California.

Cher appeared in the smash HBO movie If These Walls Could Talk last fall. The film served as her directorial debut and reportedly she is interested in finding more work in that field.

Chastity came out as a lesbian several months ago and at present is working as a writer and gay rights activist.

Q: Has Matthew Porretta, star of TNT's The New Adventures of Robin Hood, ever been in anything besides Beverly Hills, 90210? -Jenny in Hayward, Calif.

A: I'll say. By coincidence, before picking up Robin's bow and quiver for TNT, Porretta starred as Will Scarlet in Robin Hood: Men in Tights, as well as another Brooks film, Dracula: Dead and Loving It.

On TV, in addition to his recurring role on 90210, Porretta has made guest appearances on Class of '96, South Beach and Wings, among others. A terrific singer, he has co-starred on Broadway in Stephen Sondheim's controversial musical Panama as well as the long-running Les Miserables.

Q: What was the name of the '70s TV show in which Bill Cosby played a high-school phys-ed teacher named Kincaid? -R.B. and P.H. in Michigan.

A: Cosby played coach Chet Kincaid in The Bill Cosby Show, which ran on NBC from Sept. 14, 1969, to Aug. 31, 1971.

Q: Many years ago I saw a movie containing a scene about a pair of young lovers in heaven before they were born. They were greatly distressed that birth would separate them. Can you tell me the name of the movie? -Margaret E. Sutter, Warren, Pa.

A: It's the Shirley Temple movie The Blue Bird.

Q: The recent Ransom reminded me of a '50s black-and-white movie with a similar plot. Can you identify it? -R.D., Madison, Tenn.

A: Mel Gibson's hit thriller was a partial remake of Ransom, a 1956 drama starring Glenn Ford, Donna Reed and Leslie Nielsen.

Q: What happened to Entertainment Tonight? What are Mary Hart and the other regulars doing since the cancellation? -Connie Covert, Idaho Falls, Idaho.

A: Connie, the show still airs in most of the country. If you don't get it, it was a decision made by the manager at your local station.

HIGHLIGHTS

Robert Picardo stars as the Doctor, a holographic crew member, in Star Trek: Voyager. The science-fiction series airs Wednesdays on UPN.

Picardo's holographic healer brings humanity to Voyager

By Kelly Barclay

©TVData Features Syndicate

Call it cosmic coincidence. By removing one vowel from Robert Picardo's name, the actor who plays the holographic doctor on United Paramount Network's Wednesday series Star Trek: Voyager might be confused with a certain Star Trek captain. Then take Picardo's medical aspirations into consideration. As a premed student at Yale, it wasn't until he performed in an amateur production of Leonard Bernstein's that he even considered becoming an actor. "Mr. Bernstein told me I should act professionally," Picardo says. "I asked him to tell that to my mother." Bernstein obliged, and Mrs. Picardo now has a son who isn't a doctor, but plays one on TV, first as Dr. Dick Richard on China Beach and now as the cranky holograph on Voyager. "At first I was concerned that the character of the Doctor would be too much like Data from The Next Generation," he says. "But as I got more into his character, I realized he was really a grump." The Doctor also has primitive emotions, unlike Data, Picardo explains. As Voyager continues, the Doctor will explore these humanlike qualities. "(In an upcoming episode), the Doctor decides to program a family for himself so to better understand his patients' emotional lives," Picardo says. The family he programs, however, is really just "fawning sycophants who just pat him on the back and tell him how great he is all the time. Lt. Torres is about to barf ... and offers to program him a more true-to-life family." Picardo said the episode is interesting because it starts as a satire of '50s sitcoms, changes into a '90s sitcom and finally becomes a drama. The season holds other surprises. The crew discovers an alien race more powerful than the Borg, he says. "They even toy with the idea of forming an alliance with the Borg against this new enemy." Picardo takes the inevitable comparisons with Next Generation in stride. "Really each show is just part of one great Star Trek show," he says. "I just like to remind people it took three or four years for TNG to become popular, and if they give us the same chance we'll hopefully be able to hit our stride."

SOAP WORLD

Hamilton is washed up on Sunset Beach

Dear Candace: Can you please tell me why there is a new actor playing Cole on Sunset Beach?

The other actor wasn't on long. I think the new one is actually cuter, and a much better actor. He reminds me of someone: has he been on other shows? —M.D. in Florida.

Dear Reader: Ashley Hamilton originally played Cole. He left Sunset Beach after he and the producers came to a mutual decision.

Eddie Cibrian has taken over the role of Cole. You may remember him as Matt on The Young and the Restless. He will be doing double duty while he continues to star with David Hasselhoff on Baywatch Nights.

Dear Candace: Is there anything wrong with Frances Reid (Alice Horton, Days of Our Lives)? She doesn't move around much. She's either always sitting or standing. —G.S. of North Huntingdon, Pa.

Dear Reader: Reid is doing fine. She is a little less mobile these days because of some serious illnesses in the past.

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me why Mary Ficket (Ruth, All My Children) was replaced by Lee Meriwether? —L.P. Muskogee, Okla.

Dear Reader: After more than 20 years on AMC, Ficket decided to retire.

Dear Candace: What happened to the actress who played Connor on As the World Turns? One day Connor was being played by my favorite actress and the next the role was being played by someone new. What gives? —Sarah on the Internet.

Dear Reader: Allyson Rice-Taylor, who played Connor since 1990, was let go when the producers at ATWT decided to take the character in a different direction. The change shocked Rice-Taylor and many of her fans.

Susan Batten (formerly Luna, One Life to Live) has taken over the role. Batten is a wonderful actress, but it didn't hurt that she also is a longtime friend of the show's executive producer, Felicia Minei Behr.
