Storms, twisters, cold front blast Texas

Winter-like conditions predicted for tonight

By The Associated Press

Strong thunderstorms and numerous tornadoes roared across a vast area of Texas during the night and early today in the wake of a southbound cold front that will bring winter-like conditions for most of the state tonight.

Snow and snow showers are possible in West Texas where temperatures will plunge into the teens in the Panhandle before dawn Saturday. A freeze warning is in effect for tonight for the northwestern third of North Texas. Temperatures will dip into the 30s as far south as the Hill Country tonight.

It will remain unseasonably cold across all of the state on Saturday except in South Texas where readings will be in the 60s and 70s.

But before that winter-like night and morning, it's going to be spring-like, at least as far as severe weather is concerned, across much of the state.

Numerous tornado warnings, severe thunderstorm warnings and weather watches were issued during the night and early today.

A series of tornadoes raked the South Plains during the night and early today, killing at least one person, destroying mobile homes and toppling trees and power lines.

Funnel clouds were reported in at least nine South Plains counties - Lubbock, Lynn, Swisher, Dawson, Hale, Lamb, Crosby, Garza and Dickens.

A man died about 9:45 p.m. Thursday, when a twister hit a double-wide mobile home near White River Lake, about 15 miles south of Crosbyton and about 40 miles east of Lubbock.

Hail as large as baseballs fell as firefighters and deputies from Dickens and Crosby counties sought to rescue the man, officials said. The continuing threat of tornadoes grounded rescue helicopters.

In South Texas, rainfall amounts ranging from 6-8 inches caused some flooding along the Lavaca River.

Strong thunderstorms, moved across most of Southeast Texas during the night.

The cold front extended early today along a line from south of Wichita Falls to south of Midland. High winds helped pumped the cold air into the state.

The wind chill at Amarillo dropped to 10 degrees below zero before dawn today.

Lows tonight will be in the teens in the Panhandle and in the 20s and 30s elsewhere in West Texas, the 30s and 40s in North Texas and in the 30s in the Hill Country and in the 40s and 50s over the rest of South Texas.

Highs Saturday will be in the 30s in the Panhandle and in the 40s, 50s and 60s across the rest of West Texas, the 40s and 50s in North Texas and in the 60s and 70s in South Texas.

Sliding off the highway

Several drivers slid off the hail-covered Highway 60 Thursday afternoon. Rescue workers responded to a car accident on Highway 60 east of Dawn at 3:57 p.m. According to the Department of Public Safety reports, the driver of the Chevrolet Lumina van lost control on the slick road and struck the Honda Accord. One person was reportedly taken to the hospital.

Mideast peacemaking at impasse despite U.S. efforts in negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department says Mideast peacemaking is at an impasse despite lengthy revolving door diplomacy here with Israeli and Palestinian officials.

But spokesman Nicholas Burns said Palestinian negotiators on Thursday gave Secretary of State Madeleine Albright "strong assurances the Palestinians will do everything they can to stop terrorism."

The negotiators were due for another round of talks today with American mediator Dennis B. Ross. "We have a certain confidence we can revive these talks," Burns said.

The postponed peace talks were designed to deal with the future of Jerusalem, refugees, Palestinian demands for statehood and other touchy issues.

Albright, in a speech Thursday, said "the starting point must be a recognition that there is no room in the process for terrorism or violence as a tool of negotiation."

She also called on Israel not to take unilateral actions on issues that are supposed to be on the negotiating table. But Albright did not specifically call for a halt in construction of new Jewish housing on land the Palestinians claim is theirs.

She and Ross then met with Palestinian negotiators Mahmoud Abbas and Saeb Erekat. Burns described the talks as serious, detailed and thorough, and told reporters, "The Palestinian-Israeli negotiations are at an impasse."

He said "there is a need to stop the suicide bombers," and Israeli and Palestinian security forces are stepping up their cooperation.

Albright, appearing before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, said she plans to conduct her diplomacy in Washington - at least for now.

"For this period, President Clinton and I believe the center of discussion has shifted here," she said.

For nearly a quarter-century, secretaries of state have engaged in extensive shuttle diplomacy in the Middle East, and Albright could adopt the same tactic if talks here narrow differences between Israel and the Palestinians.

Albright said she has "functioning telephones" and has used them to discuss the slump in peacemaking with a dozen Arab leaders.

"(Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin) Netanyahu is trying to settle the issue by settlement and bulldozers and not by negotiations," Palestinian negotiator Erekat said after the talks Thursday.

He said he brought a message from Yasser Arafat for Clinton affirming a commitment by the Palestinian leader to put the peace process back on track, but Burns said no letter was turned over.

"We agreed 100 percent peace and violence cannot go together," Erekat said. "As Palestinians, we cannot condone the killing of Israelis."

The U.S. aim is to find a way to get Israel and the Palestinians into negotiations again. And that, Albright said in her speech to the editors, will require concessions from both sides.

Booming Hispanic population examined

AP series starts Sunday in Brand

It's happening in every corner of Texas - from Brownsville and El Paso to Amarillo and Texarkana, in urban pockets of Dallas and Houston and in rural towns on the South Plains.

Nationally, it's happening in Miami and Los Angeles, but also in unlikely places like Portland, Ore., and Milwaukee.

Everywhere we look, the nation's Latino population is booming.

The Census Bureau predicts Hispanics will become the nation's largest ethnic group by 2005. Through 2025, they will account for 44 percent of all U.S. population growth.

In Texas, Hispanics accounted for half of the population growth from 1980 to 1990. By 2030, Latinos are expected to comprise the state's largest ethnic group.

But what does this racial and cultural shift mean? How will it change the way we do things - in business, politics, religion and elsewhere - as we enter the new millennium?

In a package of stories beginning in Sunday's Brand, The Associated Press examines some of the many areas affected by this change.

The stories include a look at how the Hispanic population is faring nationally, focusing on the burgeoning Hispanic community in one predominantly white city, Portland, Ore.

In Texas, the package examines where and why the number of Hispanic residents is growing.

See how the state's Latino political clout has strengthened in some areas, while one city's long-established Mexican-American majority still struggles to be heard.

Learn how the Hispanic growth has impacted the business climate in Texas, and see how Hispanics in one West Texas community advanced from working in the fields to running their own farms.

Enrichment curriculum gets tentative okay by state board

AUSTIN (AP) - While State Board of Education members wrangled over rewriting requirements for vocational courses, Deborah Gwathmey of Brownwood talked about what worked for her child.

Ms. Gwathmey testified before the board Thursday that a marketing course helped her eldest daughter, an honor student, get back on track when she fell into depression following a friend's suicide.

Involvement in a marketing-related student group and participation in leadership conferences "allowed her to put her past where it belonged and challenged her to embrace something brighter and more promising," Ms. Gwathmey said.

"Marketing did not restore Crystal. God did. However, marketing played a major part in helping her get back up with purpose, vision, self-worth and confidence," she said, testifying in support of the curriculum rewrite.

The State Board of Education gave preliminary approval Thursday to the so-called enrichment curriculum, including career and technology courses, fine arts and foreign languages. The vote was 9-5, with one member abstaining. A final vote was planned Friday.

Board members backed by religious conservatives, who didn't vote for the rewrite, contend the rewrite is tied to a federal school-to-work program and is meant to water down academics.

"If we are able to make the enrichment curriculum... academically rigorous and knowledge-based, we could derail the federally encouraged movement to make schools merely training centers for business and industry," said board member Robert Offutt of San Antonio.

After proposing changes in the document that weren't adopted, he voted against the rewrite, along with board members Donna Ballard of The Woodlands, David Bradley of Beaumont, Richard Neill of Fort Worth and Richard Watson of Gorman. Randy Stevenson of Bullard abstained.

But board member Jack Christie of Houston, a Republican, said the overall curriculum rewrite known as Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills sets rigorous standards.

"It is very academically challenging," Christie said. He said education decisions remain in the hands of state and local officials under the plan.

Thursday's action didn't include a curriculum rewrite for core academic subjects, including math and English. They will be voted on later.

The enrichment-curriculum rewrite was supported by a number of business representatives and parents at a Thursday board hearing, while other parents lined up against it.

Bob Digneo of Southwestern Bell said the enrichment curriculum "will make the (academic) courses relevant to the real world" for students.

Cinda Nichols of Colleyville, however, said that as a parent and former teacher she opposes the rewrite. She added that concern about the curriculum change comes from a broad group.

"Parents of all races, colors, creeds and national origins are demanding quality education for their children," she said. "We are on the verge of substituting vocational training for academic achievement."

The six most conservative board members have raised concerns over Texas' ties to the New Standards Project, a project of the Washington-based, non-profit National Center on Education and The Economy and the University of Pittsburgh's Learning Research and Development Center.

The state has spent $1.6 million on membership dues for the program over several years.

The conservative board members contend a leader of the program, Marc Tucker, is pushing a school-to-work program and dilution of academics. They say that push has influenced the curriculum rewrite. Tucker says he is for strengthening academic standards around the country.

Accident scene

The Hereford Police Department, Hereford EMS and Hereford Fire Department responded to an accident scene at the intersection of Centre Street and Plains Street Thursday afternoon. Police stated that the driver of the Chevrolet Tahoe, Linda Cook, was traveling west on Plains and failed to stop at a stop sign. She then struck the Buick LeSabre, which was driven by David Roman Jr. The accident occurred at 3:03 p.m.

Election forum slated Sunday

The sixth annual Candidate Forum will be held Sunday from 2:30 to 4 p.m. in the banquet room of the HSD administration building.

Co-sponsored by the Hereford Educators Association and the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, the forum is open to the public and citizens are encouraged to attend.

Candidates for positions on the school board, hospital board and the city commission have been invited to participate in the forum. The event will provide voters an excellent opportunity to meet each candidate and hear their views and concerns about the office they are seeking.

News Digest

STATE

LUBBOCK - A series of tornadoes raked the South Plains last night and early today, killing at least one person, destroying mobile homes and toppling trees and power lines.

AUSTIN - The 3rd Court of Appeals has thrown out a lower court ruling that would have required all of the state's senators to run for re-election in 1998.

WASHINGTON - A key lawmaker is threatening to start hauling immigration officials before Congress if they balk at new rules aimed at tightening a sloppy citizenship process.

DALLAS - Tired of bad-boy athletes in the news? Blame it on permissive team owners, frenzied media, misplaced community values, the NFL players' union and - oh, yeah - players who misbehave. Those targets and others took the blame for the increasingly tarnished reputations of sports figures Thursday during a forum of athletes, journalists and other experts.

AUSTIN - Fired Texas Lottery director Nora Linares has sued the agency's main contractor, alleging that misdealings by GTECH Corp. caused her termination.

WASHINGTON - Industry lobbyists have succeeded - at least temporarily - in sidetracking a bill that could save homeowners thousands of dollars in unnecessary premiums they now pay for mortgage insurance. Pressure from the mortgage insurance industry led House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, to pull the bill from the floor this week, said congressional sources in both parties.

AUSTIN - Texas banks could charge up to 18 percent interest on their credit cards under a bill pending in the House. Texas creditors currently can charge only up to 14.4 percent interest.

AUSTIN - A proposed overhaul of the state tax system won't change the fact that it depends largely on levies paid more by poor and middle-class Texans, according to the head of a House committee writing the changes.

NATION/WORLD

FARGO, N.D. - With the dreaded crest of the Red River hours away, residents of Fargo and nearby communities work through the night to fortify homes and dikes one final time before the high water comes. The head of the federal emergency management agency tours flood-damaged areas and pledges to "deploy everyone" to help get people, roads and towns moving again. Vice President Al Gore also plans a trip to survey flooded communities.

WASHINGTON - A federal judge ruled as unconstitutional a landmark law that gives the president the power to veto specific items in bills passed by Congress. The law, the judge declared, turned the principle of separation of powers "on its head."

NEW YORK - Vilified by politicians as intrusive and ineffective, the Internal Revenue Service retains considerable respect among Americans, according to an Associated Press poll.

KINSHASA, Zaire - Zaire's long-ruling dictator, ailing and having lost more than a third of his country to rebel forces, turns to the military for help "restoring order." After nearly 32 years in power, the United States and Belgium insist it's time for Mobutu Sese Seko to step down - and he's under a rebel ultimatum to do so by Monday. Rebels have warned foreigners to leave the capital, and American troops across the border in Congo are standing by should evacuations become necessary.

JERUSALEM - Benjamin Netanyahu credits the Palestinians for helping Israel crack a cell of the Islamic militant group Hamas and find the body of a missing Israeli soldier, but says full cooperation preventing violence is lacking. The prime minister's words - and visits from both sides to the State Department - raise hope for an end to a deadly stalemate in peace talks.

WASHINGTON - Both sides say it's easy to decide where to stand on the global chemical weapons treaty. Proponents say Senate ratification would ensure U.S. leadership in the fight against some of the most heinous weapons on Earth. Opponents fear foreign inspectors would trample Americans' rights and that rogue states would be freer than ever to use poison gas.

Saturday will be mostly cloudy and cold with a high in the middle 30s.

Jury candidate for Oklahoma City bombing trial begs to be excused DENVER (AP) - A jury candidate for the Oklahoma City bombing trial begged to be excused, saying she had once sentenced a man to die for a rape and murder in Oklahoma and didn't want to risk making that decision again.

"I'm of the opinion that once in a lifetime is enough to do that," she said. "I really believe that I've done my civic duty."

The woman, from the small town of Estes Park, Colo., said she didn't know whether the man was executed after his conviction in Oklahoma City 15 years ago. She faced more questions today as jury selection entered its 10th day.

U.S. District Judge Richard

Matsch, prosecutors and attorneys for Timothy McVeigh have questioned 56 potential jurors out of a pool of about 350. They need 12 jurors and six alternates.

If convicted of murder and conspiracy charges in the 1995 bombing that killed 168 people and injured hundreds of others, McVeigh could face death by injection. Co-defendant Terry Nichols will be tried after McVeigh.

Another prospective juror described herself as a witch and expressed reluctance to impose the death penalty. A follower of the Wicca faith, she said her religion centered on a love of the Earth, love for others, understanding before judgment, inner joy, happiness and strong spiritual views.

"We do consider ourselves witches - that's all - by the traditional term," she said.

She said she was reluctant to recommend the death penalty, but could set aside her personal views and follow the judge's instructions to consider execution.

A Denver-area woman said federal agents should have been charged following the FBI's 1993 raid on the Branch Davidian compound. Eighty-one people died by fire or gunshots.

"I wonder why the government or federal agents weren't put on trial for murdering the children and people inside," she said.

Prosecutors have accused McVeigh of blowing up the Oklahoma City federal building in part as revenge for the government siege at the compound near Waco, Texas.

In another development, ABC News reported Thursday that more than 60 FBI agents went to a race track south of Dallas in recent weeks looking for evidence that McVeigh bought racing fuel in 1994.

The FBI became interested last month following a Playboy magazine story referring to a large purchase of nitromethane racing fuel that may have been used to build the bomb.

Former lottery director sues GTECH

Linares alleges that misdealings caused her termination

AUSTIN (AP) - Fired Texas Lottery director Nora Linares has sued the agency's main contractor, alleging that misdealings by GTECH Corp. caused her termination.

Ms. Linares' attorneys, Buck Wood and Charles Soechting, said Rhode Island-based GTECH intentionally hired Ms. Linares' friend, Mike Moeller, as a consultant to use him as a weapon against her.

She has said she didn't know Moeller worked for GTECH until reporters asked her about it. The lottery commission subsequently ousted Ms. Linares from her $82,687-a-year job in January.

"What we're saying is, GTECH's activities, which were in violation of statute and contract with the state of Texas, caused her to be terminated,"

Wood said Thursday, moments after filing the lawsuit at the Travis County Courthouse. "And that is actionable under Texas law."

GTECH spokesman Marc Palazzo countered that the petition is "rife with false and misleading allegations."

"GTECH will vigorously defend this meritless action," he said in a statement.

The lawsuit, which doesn't specify damages, contends that GTECH hired Moeller, a former state agriculture official, in October 1992 knowing he had a "personal relationship" with Ms. Linares.

At the time, Moeller was under a federal indictment accusing him of using taxpayers' money to hire consultants whose only job was to collect political campaign contributions. He later was convicted and currently is imprisoned.

"In an effort to have some potential, future leverage over Ms. Linares, (GTECH employee J. David) Smith instructed Mr. Moeller to keep his consulting agreement secret from all others, including Ms. Linares," the lawsuit reads.

GTECH officials have repeated that Smith, who himself has been convicted of federal fraud, was a "rogue" who hired Moeller without the company's knowledge or approval.

"I don't think there's anything Smith did that top GTECH management didn't know about," Wood said.

"Legally, it wouldn't make any difference if they did. Anything he did, they did."

The suit goes on to accuse GTECH of a string of improprieties designed to maintain its hold on the state's lottery. The Lottery Commission has said it may rebid GTECH's contract and is seeking a consultant to assist in that process.

Ms. Linares initially sued lottery commissioners after she was fired, saying she was dismissed for political reasons. Her attorneys later dropped that lawsuit and focused on GTECH.

Thursday's action also names GTECH Texas site manager James Hosker.

"It appears to GTECH that Ms. Linares' attorneys, having been unsuccessful in an action against the Texas Lottery Commission, are now seeking unjustified financial damages from the company," Palazzo said.

GTECH, based in West Greenwich, R.I., runs lotteries in 29 of the 38 states that have lotteries - including Texas and New York - and in 30 nations.

Since its inception in 1992, the Texas Lottery has paid more than $500 million to GTECH.

Red River rises to high levels

FARGO, N.D. (AP) - Troy Krabbenhoft camped out early today in his own kitchen, with his girlfriend, his dog and a big red sleeping bag. Ten feet away, behind a towering wall of bagged sand, a swollen river was knocking.

They slept in shifts, a half-hour each, and kept the radio on. If it fell silent, they knew the electricity powering their three water pumps had failed and a basement flooding emergency was at hand.

"If I'm asleep for five minutes too long, it's all in here," said Krabbenhoft, a logistics officer for the North Dakota Air National Guard.

His 150-foot back yard was under 5 feet of water this morning, as was most riverfront property in Fargo and neighboring Moorhead, Minn., where the Red River rose to century-high levels today and was expected to crest sometime before nightfall.

The reality may be somewhat less dire than the prediction.

On Thursday, the predicted crest level for the Red was lowered by 2 feet; a faulty gauge several miles south on the north-flowing river was blamed for the discrepancy. That put sandbaggers slightly ahead of the game.

The Red was expected to crest here at between 37 1/2 and 38 feet and remain that high for several days, the National Weather Service said. It was at nearly 37 1/2 feet at 6 a.m. today, surpassing the previous record for the century of 37.3 feet set in 1969. Flood stage is 17 feet.

Vice President Al Gore planned to survey flooded areas today. Federal Emergency Management Agency Director James Lee Witt, touring the areas Thursday, pledged to "deploy everyone" to get help for people and their towns.

"I have never seen a blizzard that had been covered by water, and then it freezes. And the mess that it has caused - it is just unbelievable," Witt said in Fargo, standing in front of a submerged parking lot at the edge of the Red River. The region's senators and congressmen accompanied him.

"What you've got here is the most severe winter on record, followed by the most violent winter storm in 50 years," said Sen. Kent Conrad, D-N.D. "At the same time you're facing the greatest flood threat in 150 years."

Snowmelt-swollen rivers have been cresting across the prairie that forms the Minnesota-North Dakota border for nearly a week. A 2-foot blizzard last weekend, after days of 60-degree temperatures, added more snow and ice to the mix.

At least eight people have died from the flood or its effects.

Residents, many caught between the rising Red and already-cresting smaller rivers, have been feverishly bagging sand and fortifying dikes as sheets of water come across the plains. In Fargo and Moorhead, volunteers monitored dikes through the night and into today.

The gulf of water grew wider today between dike-fortified Fargo and Moorhead. Some streets are submerged by 6 feet, with only the top of a stop sign still visible by a major shopping mall. Back yards are lakes. Roads in many places taper off into the river like boat launches.

The North Dakota Highway Patrol closed 31 exits of Interstate 29 north of Fargo on Thursday because of floodwaters spilling onto the road. They rerouted traffic to less waterlogged local and state roads.

Pantex delays work on three cleanup programs

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The Pantex Plant will delay work on three cleanup programs after officials discovered environmental restoration funding was running out, officials confirmed Thursday.

The cleanup budget would have had a projected $2.5 million shortfall, plant officials said.

A corporate-level audit team from Pantex contractor Mason & Hanger Corp., Battelle and the Energy Department found cleanup program management was lacking, but no criminal wrongdoing is suspected at this point, said Mason & Hanger spokesman Bob Barton.

"We're not proud of our program management that allows you to spend this money this fast and not have enough money for the rest of the year," Barton said.

Jerry Johnson, an Energy Department official who oversees cleanups, said Pantex will be able to meet state regulatory requirements and continue cleanup work on the perched aquifer, a water-bearing layer that is contaminated with high explosives.

The perched aquifer sits above the Ogallala Aquifer, a source of water for the city of Amarillo. But the budget problems, which affect environmental restoration through September, will delay work on soil cleanup at high-explosive radiation sites. Also affected will be cleanup at a former cooling tower and a former firing site, officials said.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm pregnant (overdue, actually) and have almost given up on going outside or answering the phone in order to avoid listening to people's stupid comments. I'm writing in the hope that just one pregnant woman might be spared.

Pregnant women are anxious to have their baby, especially once it's past the due date. Phone calls from people who say, "I didn't expect you to answer the phone. I was sure you'd be in the hospital by now," are annoying. And please don't phone every day -- if the woman thinks it's important for you to know when the baby arrives, she will call you.

Comments about her size are NOT welcome. She knows how she looks and doesn't appreciate being kidded about it. Remarks such as "You really are huge. Are you sure it's not twins?" will not make her day.

Please print my letter, and tell these people to knock it off. -- A Reader in Canada

Dear Reader: Here's your letter, which will be applauded by females all over the North American continent. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: The enclosed letter to the editor is from my local newspaper, the Greensboro, N.C., News & Record. I hope you will print it and let the world know about this unsung heroine. -- Anthony in Greensboro

Dear Anthony: Thank you for a lovely story. Here it is:

"The Harris Teeter grocery store on High Point Road will be closing soon. This store serves over 400 senior citizens who live within walking distance.

"What prompted me to write is one special lady, Patsy Curl. She is a cashier at Harris Teeter and has a smile for everyone who goes through her checkout line. I visited the store this morning on the way to work. While standing in the checkout line, I was thinking about the store closing and wondering how the residents in this area were going to manage.

"After waiting about five minutes, I started focusing on an elderly gentleman who was at the checkout, putting items back. He didn't have enough money to pay for all of the items in his cart. He would give Ms. Curl an item to take off of his receipt, and she would say, 'You can't put that back, you need that,' and then she would choose another item to take off.

"I thought, 'Boy, she sure does have a lot of patience,' and kept wishing she'd hurry up because I had to get to the office. But what she did next warmed my heart. She looked at the old gentleman and said, 'I don't know what else to put back. You need all of this.'

"Just as I was going into my purse to give him some money, she opened the drawer under her register and took out money from her own wallet and put it with his so he would have enough. Now I ask you, how many times do you see that? I felt ashamed because I didn't act more quickly.

"When it got to be my turn, I commented on how wonderful I thought she was for doing that. She smiled and said she had to because he needed those groceries and she couldn't let him go home without them.

"It lifted my spirits to see someone so generous. I thought, 'Do these people know what they have here?' That woman is a gem.

"I want to say to Ms. Curl, thank you for all the years of friendly service. We are going to miss you in our community."

Toastmasters hold meeting

Hereford Toastmasters heard encore presentations of the "Tall Tales" speeches by Dan Hall and Pat Varner during the regular Thursday morning meeting.

Hall and Varner were scheduled to present their Tall Tales in competition Thursday night in Plainview.

Varner was also a speaker for the meeting. Her topic was "The Landlord's Job" and Rick Jackson served as evaluator.

Linda Minchew spoke on "My Legacy" and a general evaluation was given.

Mike Morrison presided at the meeting. Hall led the pledge and Jackson gave the invocation.

Toastmaster was Wayne Winget; timer, Jeff Dodson; AH counter, Morrison; grammarian, Margaret Del Toro; and wordmaster, Charles Minchew who introduced the word "pliant."

Sharon Cramer served as general evaluator.

Others attending were members Clark Andrews, Breck Hunsaker and Jigger Rowland, and guest Adolfo Del Toro.

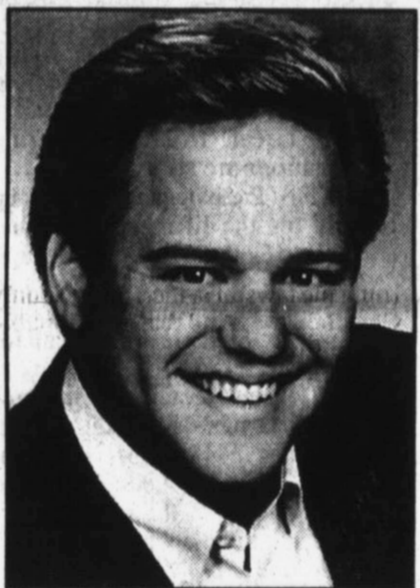

Silent auction items

Mason Pactzold snuggles between two afghans that will be up for bids during the silent auction in the Country Store at Karnival Crazy. This year's carnival will be held from 12 noon to 5 p.m. April 20 at St. Anthony's School. Proceeds from the carnival benefit Christian education. The God's eye afghan pictured was donated by Sister Val and the solid, rose colored afghan was donated by Alice Betzen. Silent auction items will be on display at Peddler's Cove through April 19.

Christian artist to perform here

Christian recording artist, Bobby Michaels, will appear in concert at Hereford Church of the Nazarene at 6 p.m. Sunday. Michaels will also perform during the Sunday morning worship service which begins at 10:30 a.m.

BOBBY MICHAELS

Michaels, who has made several appearances in Hereford, performs over 200 concerts a year around the globe. In 1986, he became the first Christian artist in over 40 years to be allowed to tour the People's Republic of China.

Formerly a "back-up singer" for notable entertainers like Freddy Fender, Linda Ronstadt and B.J. Thomas, Michaels found himself with a serious cocaine addiction. Searching for peace, he found the truth of God and His gentle voice of forgiveness through Jesus Christ.

The public is invited to experience Michaels' music ministry this Sunday at the Nazarene Church located at 1410 La Plata Drive.

Late start...

The Hereford Whiteface tennis team was scheduled to compete in the District 1-4A meet this afternoon. Bad weather forced the event to start late.

Weather forces more cancellations

By TOMMY WELLS

It, like the old margarine commercial used to say, isn't nice to fool with Mother Nature, especially when she's giving everyone the cold shoulder. The Hereford Whitefaces, along with almost every other team in the panhandle, have taken heed of that warning, and settled into a "wait and see" position.

Cold temperatures, rain and ice forced Hereford High School athletic officials to postpone a second day of scheduled events. Whiteface athletic director Craig Yenser said today's District 1-4A Track Meet had been moved back a day, that the

Hereford fems earn yet another berth in Region I-4A meet

By TOMMY WELLS
Managing Editor

AMARILLO - Al Davis would have been proud of the Hereford Lady Whitefaces Thursday afternoon. After all, all they did was just win, baby.

Hereford, despite gusty winds and frigid temperatures at Comanche Trails Municipal Golf Course, nailed down its 11th berth in the last 12 years in the Region I-4A Golf Meet yesterday by taking second in the overall District 1-4A standings. The Lady Whitefaces combined to fire a final round of 372 and finished 27 strokes better than third-place finishing Randall.

Pampa won the 1997 District 1-4A championship. The Lady Harvesters posted a four-day score of 1,427 - 88 strokes better than Hereford.

With the second-place finish, the Lady Whitefaces earn a spot in the Region I-4A meet, which is slated to be held at Riverside Country Club in San Angelo on April 21-22.

Jacque Bezner's attempt at earning one of the district's individual spots in the tournament did come to an end, however. The Hereford standout shot a final round of 92 and fell eight strokes off the No. 2 seed, which was claimed by Pampa's Christina Gage with a total of 354. Randall's Kacey Henderson, who reeled off rounds back-to-back rounds of 81 in the final two rounds of the month-long meet, won the I-4A individual medalist honors, shooting a mark of 340.

Bezner finished the tournament as the Lady Whitefaces' leading golfer. She had stood in contention for one of the medalist spots through the first three rounds, but slipped back Thursday.

The hottest HHS golfer on the course yesterday was Katie Bone, who posted her best round of the event by shooting a 90. Bone's final run left her third among Herd linksters with a total of 388.

Amy Killingsworth was second on the HHS squad, shooting a combined score of 380. She posted a final round of 95. Bixler, who also

Hereford boys take fifth in district meet

AMARILLO - The Hereford Whitefaces now know what it feels like to be a fisherman whose line snapped. All they needed a good, solid round of golf in order to nail down another trip to the Region 1-4A meet.

They didn't get it. And, as a result, they watched the big one slip away.

The Whitefaces, playing on a cold, windy Comanche Trails Municipal Golf Course, turned in a final round of 335 Thursday afternoon and slipped to fifth in the final standings of the month-long District 1-4A Golf Tournament. Hereford, which had entered the final round in a tie for third, 12 strokes off the pace set by eventual No. 2 seed Pampa, which sealed its bid to the regional meet by shooting a blazing round of 319.

Keith Riley, despite turning in a respectable final round score of 83, also saw his bid at earning one of the individual tickets to regional end. Riley finished the tournament with a score of 324 - two strokes shy of equalling the No. 2 seed marks set by Borger's Evan Hays and Pampa's Mike Smith. Caprock's Jeremy Dockery, who shot an amazing 77 in the final round, won the individual title with a total of 319.

Riley, who played four consistent rounds, finished as the Herd's top golfer. He had rounds of 79, 83, 80 and 82, respectively.

Greg Reinart and Jeremiah Baros also played well. Reinart finished strong, shooting an 83 and posting a combined total of 338 - one stroke better than Baros, who scored an 86 in the fourth stage.

Cory Schumacher and Heath Henderson rounded out the Whiteface effort with cumulative totals of 342 and 361, respectively.

The HHS junior varsity finished ninth overall with a tally of 1,421.

Cody Sargent again paced the Whiteface JV squad, shooting an 89 on the Comanche Trail course. Bryant McNutt and Kent Reinart added scores of 91, while Randy Mason and Cal Wallace posted fourth round marks of 92 and 94, respectively.

Daly's wife files for divorce

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Paulette Daly filed for divorce from John Daly less than two weeks after a drinking spree at the Players Championship that ended with the former British Open and PGA champion committing himself to an alcohol rehabilitation program.

The couple married on Jan. 28, 1995. The complaint for divorce gives lists the date of final separation as March 27.

It was that Thursday evening that Daly was seen drinking for several hours in Jacksonville, Fla., bar. Shortly after 1 a.m. on Friday morning Paulette Daly called friends to their hotel room, saying Daly was out of control.

League tells Deion fix uniform

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Reds said today they will change their away jerseys to avoid a confrontation with the National League, which has ordered Deion Sanders' to end his uniform-altering tribute to Jackie Robinson.

The Reds center fielder cut off the sleeves of his road jerseys so they barely covered his shoulders and made his pants knee-length to combine the styles worn by Robinson and other players 50 years ago, when Robinson entered the league.

Katy Feeney, NL senior vice president, told Reds general manager Jim Bowden on Thursday that Sanders' sartorial statement was forbidden and that he must wear the same uniform as other Reds - at least as far as the sleeves are concerned.

Reds spokesman Rob Butcher said today that the team is altering its away jerseys for Monday's game in Atlanta. "We're going to shorten the sleeves on our road uniforms as a special tribute to Jackie Robinson," he said. "On Monday, all of our players will look uniform."

All major league teams are wearing patches on their uniforms this season to commemorate Robinson's big-league debut in 1947.

Feeney said the league did not order Sanders to change the length of his pants.

"That hasn't been an issue," she said.

Sanders said he was surprised by the stir.

"I'm not looking for any trouble," he said through a spokesman Thursday in Denver, where the Reds were playing Colorado. "I'm just trying to honor a man who has given a lot to this game."

The Cincinnati Enquirer quoted Sanders as saying that he would not change his away jerseys and was willing to pay any fines.

"It's an outrage," Sanders said. "You can't justify the reason behind not allowing me to wear my uniform that way. What is the justification?"

The justification, apparently, is in baseball's rule book.

The book says nothing about pants length. But it has more than 300 words about the uniformity of uniforms.

"All players on a team shall wear uniforms identical in color, trim and style," the book says. "Sleeve lengths may vary for individual players, but the sleeves of each individual player shall be approximately the same length. No player whose uniform does not conform to that of his teammates shall be permitted to participate in a game."

Feeney said Sanders is free to honor Robinson in other ways.

and get it in," said Yenzler. "We'll just have to wait and see where we can go from here."

The I-4A Track Meet has tentatively been reset for tomorrow. If the district is not able to get the meet in because of more inclement weather, Yenzler indicated a lengthy waiver process with the University Interscholastic League would be the next step.

The Hereford tennis teams will get their chance to play today - just not when they expected to do so. District 1-4A tennis coaches were to have met at 10 a.m. this morning to decide on a time to start the first round of the meet.

Yenzler said the Hereford Junior High School seventh and eighth grade girl's track meet in Borger was cancelled. There were no plans to try and run the event later.

For the HHS baseball team, it was the third postponement in a week. Hereford was slated to have played Canyon today. Assuming the White-faces can get their game in tomorrow, the Herd would be forced to play nine games in 10 days to finish its season. If weather causes another postponement, Yenzler indicated the HHS baseballers would have to play every day for two weeks.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the Book of 11 Kings, intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times.

The Shunammite's Son

AT LAST, HAVING TOLD ELISHA ABOUT HER SON'S DEATH, AND PLEADED FOR HELP FROM THE PROPHET, THE SHUNAMMITE WOMAN SEES GEHAZI RUSH OFF WITH ELISHA'S STAFF TO AID HER SON, BUT....

...IN SPITE OF GEHAZI'S FAST PACE....

...THE WOMAN IS NOT ENTIRELY SATISFIED AND AS ELISHA TURNS AWAY....

...AND ELISHA'S INSTRUCTIONS TO STOP FOR NO MAN ALONG THE WAY....

...HE IS STOPPED BY THIS MOTHER'S PERSISTENCE...

...THE WOMAN OF SHUNEM NOW INFORMS THE VENERABLE MAN OF GOD THAT SHE WILL NEVER LEAVE HIS SIDE—WITH THIS DECLARATION IT BECOMES OBVIOUS TO ELISHA THAT HE ALSO WILL HAVE TO JOURNEY TO THE WOMAN'S HOME TO MAKE SURE THAT ALL GOES WELL!

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

--Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

--Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

--Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

--Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.
