Heavy rains sweep over Panhandle area

Hereford gets gentle rain; streets flooded at Lubbock

By The Associated Press
Heavy rain swept over parts of the Texas Panhandle and South Plains on Thursday, causing street flooding in Lubbock during the rush hour.

Numerous cars and trucks were reported stalled by flood waters on Lubbock roads. No injuries were reported.

A nearly stationary cold front combined moisture from the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific to drench parts of West Texas and coastal areas.

Dime-to golfball-size hail was reported in numerous places around the Panhandle Thursday.

Hereford recorded .60 of an inch of moisture Thursday as a gently rain covered a wide area of the county. KPAN Weather Station reported 1.08 inches of rain this week. Strong winds are in the forecast tonight and Saturday.

Parts of the Panhandle and the Coastal Bend of Texas were under flood watches Thursday evening.

However, the one to 10 inches of rain around the Panhandle has dampened down what had been an extreme wildfire danger, the Texas Forest Service said Thursday. Officials warn the benefits may be only temporary.

Along the coast, more than five inches of rainfall pooled water on Victoria streets Thursday but no major flooding problems were expected from the rising Guadalupe River.

The river was expected to crest late Thursday at 27 feet, four feet above flood level at Victoria. It will cause some flooding in low-lying areas between Victoria south to San Antonio Bay.

Some streets have flooded but remain passable. No one has reported that water has gotten into homes, said B.J. Berger, coordinator of the city and Victoria County emergency management office.

On Wednesday, 5.3 inches of rainfall fell in Victoria, breaking the previous record of 1.27 inches.

Skies were cloudy throughout the state, except for sunny skies west of the mountains. Afternoon temperatures ranged from the 60s and 70s ahead of the front to the 40s and 50s in its wake.

The West Texas outlook called for partly to mostly cloudy skies with showers and thunderstorms decreasing Friday and Friday night. Highs in the 70s, except for 50s and 60s west of the mountains. Lows will be in the 30s and 40s.

Spring has sprung

Daffodil blooms in the E.B. Black House gardens signal the arrival of spring. The high temperature was 53 degrees in Hereford on Thursday. The weather forecast calls for mostly clear skies and gusty winds. The high will be near 55.

Wall Street wonders if bear market on way

NEW YORK (AP) - Hugh Johnson, a market pro since Lyndon Johnson was president, decided on Thursday to pull some of the $260 million his firm manages for investors out of the stock market.

That decision was not taken lightly. But the market has been so weak recently that even the most seasoned Wall Street investors are beginning to whisper the unthinkable.

"It's a correction," Johnson says. "Now the question is, is it going to deteriorate into a bear market?"

Important government figures on employment in March, due out Friday, are more critical now than ever. A stronger-than-expected job picture might prompt the Federal Reserve to raise interest rates again, dampening the economy.

If that's so, the 6 1/2-year bull market may be in jeopardy. The trouble, of course, is that no one really knows.

Like many others, Johnson, First Albany Corp.'s chief investment officer, doesn't think a bear has yet come knocking. But bear markets are like quicksand, often hard to recognize until it's too late.

Stocks tend to ebb and flow, but since the fall of 1990 a rising Dow Jones industrial average has been pretty much a constant. Despite two presidential elections, an uncertain economy, military operations from Haiti to Bosnia and political scandal, investors have been consistently rewarded.

Hospital board race has five as Fox files

The filing deadline for the Deaf Smith County Hospital Board election was Thursday, and Peggie Fox formally filed an application, making her the fifth candidate in that race.

The hospital election, set for May 3, will have three at-large positions on the ballot. The three candidates receiving the most votes will be seated as directors on the board.

The other candidates are Mal Manchec (incumbent), Chris Leonard, Chip Guseman and Bryan Hedrick.

Elections for the City of Hereford and for Hereford Independent School District are also scheduled May 3. The city commission ballot will have only one contested race, while all three seats on the school board will be contested. Filing deadline for those elections was March 19.

The HISD board election ballot will have Karen Sherrod (incumbent) and Angie Alonzo in District I; Randy Tooley (incumbent) and Mark Landrum in District III; and Norman Smith, Linda Minchew, R.L. Johnson, Lloyd Ames and Dorie Wimberly in the vacated District VI position.

Three places are to be filled on the city commission, but only one race will be contested. Mayor Bob Josserrand is unopposed for reelection, while Tom Coneway was the only candidate to file for Place 3, where Scott Hall is not seeking reelection. Commissioner Sylvana Juarez, Place 1, will be challenged by Maria Carrillo.

The election calendar shows April 3 was the due date for filing first report of campaign contributions and expenditures by opposed candidates not following modified reporting procedures. Early voting starts April 14 and ends April 29.

April 25 is the due date for a report of campaign contributions and expenditures of candidates not following modified reporting procedures.

Nursing home reform bill approved by state senate

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas senators, some of whom say pictures of abused and neglected nursing home residents moved them to tears, approved a sweeping nursing home reform bill that would increase penalties for violations of residents' rights.

"There are excellent nursing homes in Texas, but we have also been told of awful situations in specific homes," said Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, sponsor of the bill.

"Awful situations, such as residents who have truly suffered. We saw open wounds on residents of nursing homes that make you cry when you see them. Because of that, we are calling for strict sanctions of violators of our Texas law."

Under Zaffirini's bill, penalties would be increased for each violation that threatens the health or safety from a nursing home resident from a maximum of $10,000 to $25,000.

The bill, approved on a 31-0 vote on Thursday, also cracks down on tipoffs to nursing homes about upcoming inspections.

"We heard testimony that nursing homes were getting tipoffs before investigators would come out," said Sen. Mike Moncrief, D-Fort Worth. "Then they would hire temporary staff who would work all night to clean the place up and, low and behold, the next morning everything is in ship shape when the investigator arrives."

Moncrief amended the bill to increase the penalty for such a tipoff from a Class B misdemeanor, punishable by up to 180 days in jail and a $2,000 fine, to a third degree felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"I think it's a serious message that the state of Texas does mean business and the department that oversees the responsibility of those who provide this service should take that seriously," Moncrief said.

The Texas Department of Human Services is in charge of enforcing nursing home regulations.

Currently, there are about 90,000 residents in Texas nursing homes. Roughly 23 percent of the state's annual $5.6 billion in Medicaid is spent on nursing home facility care.

Katherine Hinson, spokeswoman for the Texas Health Care Association, which represents nursing homes, said the group supports legislation to tighten nursing home requirements.

But Ms. Hinson said penalties in the bill are too severe. She said more focus should be placed on preventing abuse.

"We are glad to have these types of issues in the public forum," Ms.

Hinson said. "We think the penalties, however, should just stay as is."

The Senate's action drew praise from the American Association of Retired Persons.

The bill now goes to the House for consideration.

AUSTIN (AP) - Here are highlights of a nursing home regulations bill approved by the Senate. The bill by Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, would:

- Establish new licensing requirements designed to weed out operators who don't deliver quality care.
- Provide creative enforcement tools, including new protections of residents' rights.
- Require employees of facilities to report bad conditions before they become life threatening.
- Protect employees of facilities against retaliation by homes for reporting bad conditions.
- Require facilities to post notice of serious violations on all doors in and out of the home.
- Require prompt and effective penalties for noncompliance with licensing standards.
- Provide the state with greater authority to revoke the license of facilities that don't deliver quality care.
- Provide mandatory timelines for the investigation of complaints.

Danger of wildfires is 'moderate'

LUFKIN--A general rain across the Texas Panhandle that brought from 1 to 10 inches of moisture has brought the fire danger down from "extreme" to "moderate," Lou Sloat, Texas Forest Service (TFS) information officer, said Thursday.

Forest service officials, who set the "extreme" fire danger two weeks ago, indicated the "moderate" danger is only temporary. In the areas where rain was not high, two to three days of warm, dry winds and low humidities can bring the fire danger right back up to extreme.

"I have seen it rain in the morning and have fires in the afternoon," said Bobby Young of the TFS. "We don't want to be lulled into a false sense of security with this rain."

Since March 11, 90 wildfires have burned 30,724 acres of grass and brush land. The fires also destroyed one home, three barns and one outbuilding.

Last year was one of the worst fire seasons on record in Texas. More than 29,000 wildfires burned some 1,670,167 acres across the state. The TFS is asking all landowners who must burn to utilize this opportunity after the rain before it dries out again.

Many of the fires over the past several weeks were caused by disposing of smoking materials improperly, doing controlled burning when the winds were too high and vegetation too dry, and burning trash when conditions were not right.

Arson is the suspected cause for some wildfires in Deaf Smith and Randall counties. A 100-acre fire this past weekend destroyed a house and barn. A TFS investigation team is assisting Randall and Deaf Smith county law enforcement officers in investigating the fires.

Spring forward to Daylight ST

WASHINGTON (AP) - Effective Sunday, nighttime will be postponed one hour.

That's right, it's time to "spring forward" to daylight-saving time, shifting an hour of light from those dreary mornings to summer evenings. The actual moment of change occurs at 2 a.m. Sunday for most of the nation, when clocks should be shifted forward an hour. Most people, though, make the change before retiring Saturday - especially those who want to avoid being late for church on Sunday.

Standard time returns Oct. 26.

Safety officials are reminding Americans that the time of changing the clocks is also a good time to replace the batteries in smoke detectors.

NATION/WORLD

WASHINGTON - You don't have to be a Democratic donor to become one of President Clinton's trade advisers, but it helps. Tech opens research center

New building features literature, art, historical materials

By MARK BABINECK
Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Last week, Texas Tech was playing catch-up to other schools when it broke ground on a new basketball arena. Tech will take a leadership position Friday with the formal opening of its Southwest Collection research center.

The building will feature literature, art and historical materials on topics ranging from the defunct Southwest Conference to the Vietnam War.

"By June, we would say without fear of contradiction that we've got the best research collection on the Vietnam War in the country," said James R. Reckner, director of Tech's Center for the Study of the Vietnam Conflict. "Especially considering that in 1989 we started with nothing, that's quite an achievement."

In June, Douglas Pike will haul his extensive Indochina Archive from the University of California-Berkeley to the Southwest Collection-Special Collections Library.

The 78,000-square-foot building has 50,000 books on the American West and Southwest, 35,000 photographs, 4,500 oral history tapes, 1,500 newspaper and magazine titles, and 9,300 reels of film.

The collection previously resided in a building with one-fifth the space.

Half of the photos include scenes from almost every major Texas ranch, captured through the lens of former Fort Worth Star-Telegram livestock reporter Frank Reeves.

"Selected prints will form the basis of two exhibits, which will focus on the depth and breadth of Reeves' work," said Southwest Collection director David Murrain.

A who's who of former SWC names was on hand Thursday to honor the presence of documents and materials from the league, which disbanded last summer. Among the guests were former Baylor football coach Grant Teaff and Fred Jacoby, SWC commissioner from 1982 to 1993, who helped forge the relationship that resulted in the Big 12.

Of the vast array of research materials, the Vietnam War collection might be the crown jewel.

"People will still seek answers to our involvement in Vietnam," said Reckner, a 20-year Navy veteran who served on South Vietnamese riverboats. "Just as we still seek answers to the Civil War, 130 years later, they'll have to come to places like Texas Tech to study Vietnam. The wall (monument in Washington) won't provide answers; the documents will."

The collection will be especially important for the growing generation of researchers who didn't experience the war, he said.

"Just now, the first books are appearing that were written by people to participate in the war," Reckner said. "They will present a different story of our war than we can."

"It doesn't matter how hard we try to be balanced. The fact is, every one in our generation was influenced one way or another by the war."

Toys on sale

Toys are only some of the items on sale at the Shirley Intermediate School garage sale, which will be from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday in the school gym. The proceeds will help send the Enrichment students and their sponsors on a class trip to San Antonio. Here, Johnathan Lopez, Justin Johnson, Nasario Garcia, Edward Villarreal and Jesse Rangel put up a Little Tike playground set, which will be sold in the garage sale. Students also will be selling snacks.

Senate approves first-ever water conservation, management plan

AUSTIN (AP) - As the rainless days wore on last year, rivers dried up, farmers' fields cracked and nearly all the ground water districts across the state had no plan to deal with the situation.

City councils quickly enacted water use provisions, such as odd-numbered houses sprinkling their lawns on one day and even-numbered houses sprinkling on another.

But those were Band-Aid solutions, temporary fixes for a problem that stood to jeopardize the state's economic viability.

On Thursday, the state Senate took a major step toward correcting the problem by unanimously approving what could become the state's first-ever statewide water conservation and drought management plan.

The bill will now head to the House for consideration. Texas is one of only three of the 12 Western states without a state drought plan. New Mexico and Wyoming are the others.

The Texas Water Development Board estimates that without planning, shortages could arise that would leave 15 percent of the state's urban water demands unmet by the year 2010. Such a shortage would result in a loss to the Texas economy of up to $40 billion, the board reported.

Ironically, the bill was approved on a day when rains covered the Capitol and flash flood warnings were in effect.

"Disregard the weather outside and the bountiful rainfall and think back to last summer, when there was no rainfall," said Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, the bill sponsor.

"Clean, abundant water in Texas must be a guarantee. There are not any radical provisions in this bill, but it contains several pieces that fit together like a puzzle."

Li. Gov. Bob Bullock has called the bill the most important facing lawmakers this session.

"We have laid the foundation and the framework for a plan that will make sure Texas has enough water to meet both the current needs of our homes and businesses and the demands our growing population will put on the state's water resources in the next century," Bullock said.

Last year's drought, which resulted in federal disaster relief for 95 percent of the state's 254 counties, cost the Texas economy more than $5 billion.

For decades, lawmakers have been unable to agree on a bill creating a statewide water plan because the regions of the state are so diverse, and drought hadn't directly affected all parts of the state at once - until last year. That disaster has mobilized lawmakers into action.

"For those of us in urban areas, water has always seemed plentiful," said Sen. Mike Moncrief, D-Fort Worth. "Whenever you turn on the spigot, the water flowed. It took a disaster to hit us right between the eyes to wake us up."

Under the bill, local water districts and irrigation districts would submit to a regional planning group designated by the Texas Water Development Board. A committee representing the regional planning group would then come up with a water conservation plan for the region.

The combination of the regional plans would form a statewide plan. The Water Development Board would be required to designate the regions by Sept. 1, 1998. The regional plans would have to be submitted by Sept. 1, 2000.

If a region failed to meet the deadline, no water district in the region could qualify for state grants or loans.

A constitutional amendment sponsored by Brown would consolidate $1.2 billion in bonding authority for the Water Development Board to assist local water districts with new projects or improvements.

The bill doesn't alter the state's "right of capture" policy, which allows property owners to pump as much water as they please from their property.

Current law, however, already allows individual ground water districts to limit pumping and well spacing through local votes.

Interbasin transfers - the pumping of water from one area of the state to another - would be more closely scrutinized by the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission under the bill.

Before approving a transfer, the commission would conduct a thorough analysis to ensure the benefits of the receiving basin don't outweigh the detriments to the basin of origin.

"Anyone seeking a permit for water use or a transfer must first demonstrate that they are doing everything in their power to conduct proper water use," Brown said.

The basin transfers have been a contentious issue. Cities such as Corpus Christi and San Antonio have sought to receive water from Austin. San Antonio has been criticized for wanting to take other cities' water while voting down referendums to build its own reservoir.

Jury selection underway

DENVER (AP) - Timothy McVeigh, who prosecutors say had excerpts from an anti-Semitic tome with him at his arrest, listened as a potential juror described the painful memories of the Holocaust.

The woman, one of seven candidates in the Oklahoma City bombing case questioned on Thursday, said her mother-in-law lost a husband, mother and father in Nazi concentration camps.

Twenty-six potential jurors have been questioned during this first week of jury selection for McVeigh's trial. It could take weeks to whittle the pool of 350 prospects down to 12 jurors and six alternates.

It remains unknown which jurors, if any, have been kept because Matsch has kept the selection process secret. Potential jurors are identified only by a number.

from about 2,360 to a high of 7,085.16 on March 11. It has since lost 8.6 percent - almost completely erasing its gains for the year. On Thursday, the index closed at 6,477.35, down 39.66 points.

Last March was the last time the market had a case of the jitters, shortly after a February 1996 jobs report was released that showed real strength. The Dow tumbled 171 points.

The problem then was a concern that the Fed would stop cutting interest rates to stimulate the economy. The concern now is that it will raise them again, after doing so last week for the first time in more than two years.

"This one, I think, is more severe than last March," says Steve Burr, an accountant tending to his portfolio during lunchtime at a Fidelity Investments office in New York.

Burr was buying on the 171-point decline last March, viewing the market as still healthy and the selloff as an opportunity.

This time is different. Burr says he has increased the cash portion of his portfolio and gotten rid of some of the more speculative shares he held in favor of larger, more stable companies.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I want to share a recent discovery that has made me a better person. Maybe some of your readers will see themselves.

I used to assume that a wealthy woman I knew slightly was an arrogant snob because she rarely spoke and never smiled. I also had the notion that the woman in the supermarket with the whining children was a lousy mother.

Then one day, as I stood in line at the grocery store, I noticed that the clerk never smiled at the customers and ignored polite conversation. I was tempted to tell her what I thought of her sour attitude when the elderly woman in front of me took a different approach. She said, "Honey, you look like you're having a bad day." The clerk looked up with the saddest eyes I've ever seen and said, "My husband lost his job yesterday, and I just found out I'm pregnant!" The lady patted her hand and said, "Dear, things will work out." When it was my turn, the clerk had tears in her eyes, but she smiled, and I felt ashamed of myself for being so intolerant.

That incident made me realize that people usually aren't rude because they are mean and want to make my life miserable. They are unpleasant because they have problems on their mind and a heavy heart. My entire outlook on life changed that day, and I am now much more compassionate.

I now assume the frowning woman might be worried about the results of a biopsy, the rude young driver could be on his way to the emergency room to meet an injured relative, and the distracted mother with the screaming child in the supermarket may need my smile and a kind word -- perhaps the only ones she will get all day.

This change in attitude has made those around me happier, but the greatest benefit is mine. I am less angry and more serene, and I like myself better than I used to. -- Older and Wiser in W.Va.

Dear W.Va.: You have written a letter that can lower blood pressure, alter behavioral patterns and make millions of people behave more civilly toward one another.

The next time I feel myself becoming impatient, judgmental or upset with someone, I'll remember what you said.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in my early 30s and married. I have two children and a good job. My problem is, I have no friends and lack the self-esteem and confidence to do anything about it.

During high school, I was painfully shy and too scared to start a conversation with anyone. The few friends I had sought me out to be their friend but I never attempted to make any new ones.

When I'm around others, it's almost as if I'm invisible because I am too nervous to talk to anybody and can never think of anything intelligent to say. People seem to pick up on this and simply ignore me.

I am terribly lonely and too insecure to reach out to anyone. I wait for them to call me and because I seem cold, they don't bother. Can you give me some advice on how to make friends? -- Lonely in Canada

Dear Lonely: The best way to have a friend is to BE one. Look for ways to be of help to others. Offer to take Mrs. X's child or children off her hands for an entire Saturday. Bake a cake, or make a pot of spaghetti for a woman who is overworked or has a sick husband or child. Get your mind off yourself and look for ways to make someone else's life easier. You'll be amazed at how this could change your life.

What double team?

Hereford High School senior Isaac Walker drives past Clayton's Kelby Crist (35) and Tascosa's Paul Lewis for two of his 18 points during the first half of Thursday night's opener of the 27th Annual Golden Spread Basketball Tournament in Amarillo. Walker keyed a 59-point second half outburst and led the West to a 123-104 win.

Walker's 18 helps West to 123-104 romp in '97 Golden Spread opener

By TOMMY WELLS

AMARILLO - Isaac Walker may not have finished the night as the leading scorer for the West All-Stars, but his presence definitely was felt.

Mostly by the opposing North team, as he keyed a 123-104 victory in the opening round of the 27th Annual Golden Spread All-Star Basketball Tournament.

The Hereford standout scored 18 points and helped ignite a 59-point West second half run that broke open a tight game at the half and moved the team into Saturday night's tournament championship game against the winner of tonight's East-South matchup. The finals are set to begin at 8 p.m. in the Cal Farley Coliseum in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Amarillo High's Josh Clayton finished the affair as the game's top scorer, throwing in 22 points — 12 via four 3-point bombs — for the victorious West squad.

The North, behind University of Michigan signee Brandon Smith, managed to stay close in the first

Rangers place Will Clark on disabled list

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Will "The Thrill" has become Will "The Ill".

As if being without Juan Gonzalez wasn't a bad enough way to start this season, the Texas Rangers placed Will Clark on the disabled list Thursday with a sprained left wrist.

Clark was injured when he tripped over a bullpen mound while chasing a foul ball last Friday during an exhibition game against Texas' Triple-A affiliate at Oklahoma City. He also fractured his left middle finger on the play.

Clark nursed the injuries all weekend, then struggled through batting practice Monday. On Tuesday, he said the pain was so intense that for the first time in his life he had to let go of the bat while swinging.

After an off-day Wednesday, Clark wasn't feeling any better Thursday so he was placed on the 15-day disabled list, retroactive to March 29. Mike Simms was called up from Oklahoma City to take his place.

Gonzalez, last year's AL MVP, is out until May with a torn ligament in his left thumb. He and Clark are not only the heart of Texas' lineup, but also the team's two highest-paid players at a combined $13.75 million.

On Thursday, Gonzalez shed a brace and swung a bat for the first time since being injured playing winter ball. He was given the go-ahead after an examination by Dr. Bobby Wroten, a hand specialist.

Wroten said if Gonzalez felt OK Friday he could hit off a tee. If that doesn't hurt, he can begin soft-toss hitting in a few days. He's scheduled to be re-evaluated in about a week.

For now, Texas has some other aches and pains to worry about. Leadoff hitter Mark McLemore wasn't in Thursday's starting lineup because of swelling and a bruise in his right hand.

He didn't miss much as rain delayed the start of the game by 1 hour, 36 minutes then another shower forced the game to be postponed after just one inning. It will be made up during Milwaukee's next visit, Aug. 18-20.

The time off also will help Warren Newson recover from a strained calf muscle. He's starting in right field in place of Gonzalez.

His injury is another reason the Rangers may be glad to have Simms, the final position player cut during spring training. The right-handed hitter is primarily an outfielder but he also can back up at first and third bases.

Simms, 30, hit .271 with three home runs and seven RBIs in 24 spring games as a non-roster invitee. He's played 181 big-league games with Houston between 1990-96, hitting .219 with 15 homers and 53 RBIs.

Lee Stevens, who beat out Simms for the last roster spot, will continue to start in Clark's place. Stevens went 2-for-4 with a three-run home run on opening day while batting in Clark's No. 5 spot. Dean Palmer is batting cleanup in Gonzalez's absence.

Orioles' bid to play in Cuba denied

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Treasury Department denied the Baltimore Orioles request to play an exhibition game in Cuba, saying Thursday that the request was out of line with U.S. policy regarding the Communist nation.

A license request to travel to Cuba by the St. Paul Saints, a Triple AAA baseball team, had previously been denied by the Treasury Department. The department also refused a similar request by the Orioles last year.

The request by Orioles majority owner Peter Angelos angered Florida Rep. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen, who called the proposal a "publicity stunt" that would be "a propaganda coup" for Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

The Orioles had proposed to play a few exhibition games in Cuba this fall.

Fernandez wins debut with Marlins, Kile loses no-hit bid against Braves

By TOM WITHERS
AP Sports Writer

Alex Fernandez was pitching for his family, friends, the Florida Marlins, his hometown and himself.

Now that's a little pressure. But Fernandez came through in his much-anticipated hometown debut Thursday night, leading Florida to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Jeff Conine hit a first-inning grand slam and Moises Alou drove in two runs to give Florida a three-game series sweep and Fernandez a night he'll never forget.

"I've pitched in the playoffs, and I've pitched well in the playoffs," Fernandez said. "But this was something different. There were a lot of people who know me in the crowd. I could tell when they called my name out. It was a wonderful night, and the best thing is that we won."

The Miami native signed a $35 million, five-year contract in December after seven seasons with the Chicago White Sox, and his arrival in South Florida helped spur excitement in the area's Latin community.

Fernandez allowed one run in 6 2-3 innings before leaving to a standing ovation from the crowd of 32,592, which included dozens of friends and relatives.

With Fernandez pitching, Marlins officials hoped for a sellout, but the crowd fell nearly 10,000 below capacity.

The three-game sweep was Florida's first against the Cubs, who managed just 15 hits in the series and were outscored 16-7.

The Marlins are off to the fastest start in their five-year history and are three games above .500 for the first time since May 20, 1994.

"They've brought in some quality guys," Cubs manager Jim Riggleman said. "They've put together one heck of a ballclub."

Alou, who went 3-for-4, singled home Florida's first run in the first inning following a pair of walks. Devon White reached on an infield single, and Conine followed with his third career grand slam to make it 5-0.

Expos 9, Cardinals 4

At Montreal, Shane Andrews, Rondell White and David Segui homered as the Expos completed their first three-game sweep to open a season.

St. Louis, the defending NL Central champion, dropped to 0-3 for the first time since 1988. The Expos have won 11 of their last 15 games against the Cardinals.

Carlos Perez won his first start since Sept. 22, 1995, allowing four runs and seven hits in seven innings. He missed all of last season following shoulder surgery.

Rookie Dimitri Young hit his first major league homer, a two-run drive in the third, and drove in three runs for the Cardinals.

Braves 3, Astros 2

At Houston, Fred McGriff ended Darryl Kile's no-hit bid with a home run in the seventh, and the Braves rallied for their first win of '97.

McGriff's shot to left made the score 2-1, and Jeff Blauser and Keith Lockhart hit sacrifice flies in the eighth to put Atlanta ahead.

Tom Glavine allowed six hits in seven innings for the win, and Mark Wohlers struck out three in the final 1 1-3 innings for the save.

Rockies 7, Reds 1

At Cincinnati, Larry Walker keyed Colorado's first win this season by going 3-for-5 with two run-scoring hits in a six-run fourth inning and a solo homer in the seventh.

Mark Thompson, one of the Rockies' numerous pitching concerns in spring training, scattered five hits in seven innings for the win.

The Rockies sent 12 batters to the plate in the fourth.

Mets 4, Padres 1

At San Diego, Bobby Jones pitched eight strong innings and John Franco worked the ninth as New York avoided a season-opening sweep.

Bernard Gilkey hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning on a 3-0 pitch from loser Fernando Valenzuela.

Dodgers 2, Phillies 1

At Los Angeles, Mike Piazza homered and Todd Hollandsworth hit an RBI double in the sixth inning to back Ismael Valdes.

Piazza opened the sixth with his first homer and Hollandsworth doubled in the go-ahead run off loser Mark Leiter.

Giants 7, Pirates 5

Jeff Kent matched a career-high with five RBIs as San Francisco withstood Mark Johnson's first career grand slam.

Kent hit a two-run homer, a two-run double and added a sacrifice fly to help the Giants snap an eight-game home losing streak against Pittsburgh.

Oswaldo Fernandez went five innings, allowing six hits, including Johnson's slam, to pick up the victory. Giants manager Dusty Baker used three relievers in the ninth, with Rod Beck getting the final out for his first save.

San Antonio evolves into one-lizard town

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The Iguanas of the Central Hockey League have reached an agreement with Freeman Coliseum, allowing the facility to scrap its contract with the league and send the Iguanas packing.

The out-of-court settlement reached Wednesday leaves San Antonio with the Dragons of the International Hockey League as the city's sole professional hockey team. The Dragons also play in Freeman Coliseum.

It is likely the Iguanas will fold, and the team's players will be drafted by the CHL's nine other hockey clubs.

"This is probably one of the saddest days of my life," CHL president Ray Miron was quoted as saying in Thursday's San Antonio Express-News. "I really feel bad for our fans. They will really take this hard."

The agreement was approved by state District Judge Janet Littlejohn just as jurors deliberating the legal dispute announced they were deadlocked.

Freeman Coliseum officials said they were relieved but said they regretted having to end their relationship with the Iguanas.

The Iguanas have played in Freeman Coliseum since coming to San Antonio three years ago.

The coliseum board filed a lawsuit last year against the Iguanas and the CHL, claiming the team and league misrepresented how much profit the coliseum would make in the contract.

An accountant testified at trial that the coliseum lost more than $1.3 million over the Iguanas' three seasons.

In a countersuit, the Iguanas claimed the CHL incurred more than $150,000 in losses when the coliseum tried to sever its contract with the league.

CHL attorneys have maintained the coliseum advisory board lured the IHL team to San Antonio in an attempt to renegotiate a more lucrative contract with the Iguanas.

In the Iguanas' final season at the coliseum, the team paid $1,200 per game to rent the facility, while the Dragons paid $10,000 per game.

fourth. He spearheaded a crucial 7-0 run in the opening minutes of the final period by pushing home two quick layups. Behind Walker's lead, the West went on a 7-0 run and upped their cushion to 11 with less than five minutes to play.

In the girl's game, River Road's Becky Gregory and New Mexico standout Latisha Irwin each scored 19 points to lead the North past the West, 80-73. Danielle Johnson, of Amarillo High, led all scorers with 24.

Hereford's Johnathan Keenan is slated to lead the South all-stars against the East tonight beginning at 8 p.m.

Bullets end Bulls' quest at 73-win season, 110-102

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
AP Basketball Writer

The number 73 was sitting out there all season, sometimes unmentionable, but never deemed impossible.

Could the Chicago Bulls actually go one better than last season? Could they finish 73-9 and break the record they set last April when they finished 72-10?

The answer finally came Thursday night. And the answer is no.

The Washington Bullets removed the possibility of a 73 by handing the Bulls their 10th loss of the season, 110-102.

With nine games left, Chicago would have to run the table to match what it did a year ago. And with games upcoming against New York (twice), Miami, Detroit, Indiana and Orlando, it seems a long-shot that the Bulls will reach 72 again.

"We came into the game looking for a win, not trying to make a statement," Washington coach Bernie Bickerstaff said. "You don't make statements with Chicago. They are the best team in basketball and there is no doubt about it. We were just fortunate tonight."

Washington's victory stretched its winning streak to a season-high six games and moved the Bullets into a tie with Cleveland for the eighth and final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference.

If Chicago wins the East and the Bullets finish eighth, the teams will meet in the first round of the playoffs. Washington lost its previous eight games against Chicago, but this victory could give the Bullets the confidence boost they need to at least make such a matchup competitive.

Washington outrebounded Chicago 46-29 and pulled away down the stretch, overcoming 34 points by Michael Jordan and 26 from Scottie Pippen.

Clippers 113, Magic 94

At Orlando, Darrick Martin scored 31 points, 23 of them after halftime, and the Clippers came from behind to snap a four-game losing streak.

The loss was the fourth straight for Orlando, which faltered in the second half against a sub-.500 team for the second straight game and saw its lead in the race for the seventh playoff position in the East shrink to two games over Cleveland.

Coach Richie Adubato said Horace Grant (back spasms), Dennis Scott (sore knee) and Rony Seikaly (sore ankle) won't play tonight against the Knicks.

SuperSonics 103, Bucks 80

At Seattle, the Sonics opened a 20-point lead in the first quarter and weren't seriously threatened the rest of the way.

Gary Payton scored 22 points, Sam Perkins 17 and Detlef Schrempf 13 in his first start in more than a month.

Shawn Kemp came off the bench for the third straight game and had just 10 points and six rebounds in 24 minutes. Kemp's benching was supposed to last two games, but it was extended after he was late for a team meeting Wednesday.

Heat 92, Pacers 78

At Indianapolis, Jamal Mashburn scored 23 points, including 10 straight in the fourth quarter, as Miami opened a three-game lead in the Atlantic Division race.

Alonzo Mourning scored 17 points and Voshon Lenard 15 as Miami swept the season series for the first time ever.

Indiana took another step toward missing the playoffs for the first time since 1989 by falling three games behind Cleveland and Washington in the battle for the East's eighth playoff spot.

Hornets 93, Nets 87

At East Rutherford, N.J., Matt Geiger had 11 of his 18 points in the third quarter when Charlotte outscored New Jersey by 26, and Glen Rice scored 17 of his 24 points in the second half as the undermanned Hornets rallied from a 12-point deficit to win for the 12th time in 16 games.

Warriors 106, Mavericks 90

At San Jose, Calif., commissioner David Stern somehow felt this game was worth his while, and he sat in the stands and watched Latrell Sprewell score 25 points as Golden State sent Dallas to its season-high ninth straight loss.

Bulls dressed to the nines for No. 1 fan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Michael Jordan quite often gets the last word on the basketball court. In the race for White House influence on the Chicago Bulls, he got in the last word against teammate Scottie Pippen.

When the Bulls met with President Clinton on the White House lawn Thursday, much of the focus at the long-delayed ceremony to celebrate the 1996 NBA championship Chicago won last June was on fashion, especially with Dennis Rodman in attendance.

But Pippen and Jordan had some non-sartorial competition.

Pippen, an Arkansas native, said he reminded his fellow players to behave themselves at the White House.

"I always tease my teammates that me and the president are homeboys," he said.

Jordan, however, claimed home rights on first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, a Chicago native.

Rodman stayed true to character - outfitted in black leather pants, sunglasses and a black-and-gold lame shirt.

The president, playing the role of fashion critic, checked out Jordan from head to toe. The black-and-white shoes of the basketball great caught Clinton's eye.

The Bulls squeezed in the trip before Thursday night's game against the Washington Bullets, which the Bulls lost 110-102. Also attending were coach Phil Jackson, team owner Jerry Reinsdorf and players Ron Harper, Steve Kerr, Luc Longley and Robert Parish.

Reinsdorf gave Clinton a black-and-red Bulls jacket and a team watch commemorating Chicago's four championships.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) - Leeza Gibbons is putting on some weight and she's positively glowing about it.

Gibbons, 40, and her husband, Stephen Meadows, announced Thursday that the talk-show host expects to give birth in October.

"My hormones are raging, my waistline is expanding and I couldn't be happier," she said. "This is truly the best time of our lives."

The couple already has a 7-year-old daughter, Alexandra, and a 5-year-old son, Troy.

Gibbons received seven Daytime Emmy Award nominations for her NBC talk show "Leeza," including outstanding talk show and outstanding host.

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) - Someday everyone could enjoy scenery that is now Paul Newman's own.

Newman, 72, and his wife, Joanne Woodward, 67, have offered to donate riverfront land worth more than $1 million for their town - with some strings attached.

Newman wants the town to preserve the 7.6 acres as open space and buy 30 acres that his neighbors have for sale. Town officials set aside $3.75 million for that land Tuesday.

Town planner Katherine Barnard said the Westport can't take actual possession of the donated land until the couple dies or after 25 years.

Newman, star of such films as "Cool Hand Luke" and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," donates profits from his "Newman's Own" popcorn, salad dressing and other foods to charity.

364 Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

This is a dramatized version of facts taken from the book of II Kings intending to show some of the customs of these ancient and traditional times

The Shunammite's Son
 THE SHUNAMMITE WOMAN HAS REACHED ELISHA TO TELL OF HER SON'S DEATH AS SHE CLUTCHES AT THE PROPHECY IN GREAT TURMOIL, GEHAZI TRIES TO THRUST HER AWAY, BUT ELISHA ALLOWS HER TO CONTINUE....

OH, SIR, DID I ENTREAT YOU FOR A SON? DID I ASK IT OF THESE?

TAKE MY STAFF AND RUN! AND LAY MY STAFF UPON THE FACE OF THE CHILD!

WITH THE ADMONITION NOT TO TARRY ON THE WAY, NOR TO STOP AND SPEAK WITH ANY MAN UNTIL HE REACHES THE SHUNAMMITE'S HOUSE, GEHAZI RUSHES OFF!

SAVE THIS FOR YOUR SUNDAY SCHOOL SCRAPBOOK.

THIS DEVOTIONAL & DIRECTORY IS MADE POSSIBLE BY THESE BUSINESSES WHO ENCOURAGE ALL OF US TO ATTEND WORSHIP SERVICES.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:

--Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.

--Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

--Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.

-- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

New digital television sets to be in stores in late 1998

WASHINGTON (AP) - A movie buff, William Brown can see himself plunking down several thousand dollars to buy a wide-screen digital TV set with cinema-quality pictures. But Kai Butler is not as enthusiastic about getting rid of her existing TV set.

Brown and Butler reflect both the opportunities and the challenges broadcasters and TV set makers face as they begin to implement the next generation of television in the United States: digital, which promises superior picture and sound quality to current analog TV sets.

New digital TV sets, now estimated to cost $5,000 initially, should be in stores by Christmas 1998, says Gary Shapiro, president of the Consumer Electronics Manufacturers Association. At least 23 stations have promised to begin providing some digital programs by then.

But after nine years the current system of analog broadcasting dies, meaning that Brown and Butler will either have to buy new TV sets and new digital VCRs for well above $500 or spend $100 for converters to use their existing TV sets.

All the changes are coming about under a plan adopted by the Federal Communications Commission on Thursday that sets the ground rules for broadcasters' switch to digital technology.

"I don't think the government should decide that I have to spend money on something else just to entertain myself," says Butler, a 44-year-old executive assistant from Washington.

While the new sets will have better picture and sound, a "converted" digital signal fed to today's analog set will produce no better picture and audio than the analog set already provides.

If the new digital sets sell as briskly as VCRs did when they debuted, prices should come down quickly.

Brown, a 53-year-old Amtrak engineer from Richmond, Va., cannot wait for them to be available. Brown predicts he will "probably be one of the first ... I believe in good quality and I don't mind spending extra money to get good and reliable quality."

Manufacturers predict the new sets will sell like hot cakes. They are estimating up to 20 percent of all TV households will have them in six years. VCRs, one of the best-selling consumer electronic products ever, took nine years to get 20 percent penetration.

But Marie Farmer of Temple Hills, Md., thinks $2,000 - let alone $5,000 - is too much, and sees no reason for the switch. "I'm enjoying TV the way it is," said the 41-year-old postal worker.

Even if they buy new sets, most of the nation's nearly 68 million cable TV subscribers will have to use their TV's rabbit ears or rooftop antenna to receive digital signals, cable officials say.

Tele-Communications Inc.'s system in Hartford, Conn., is now the only cable operator in the country that has gone digital. More cable systems are getting ready but until they do, viewers will have to rely on antennas.

The FCC will let stations decide whether to move to an even better form of digital, called high-definition television. Many will, predicts Eddie Fritts, president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"The dazzlement is real. It's genuine," Fritts said.

With the digital technology, TV stations could cram more services into their airwaves space. For example, they could offer sports scores to laptop computer users or establish separate pay-for-view sports channels. But the FCC will require them to continue free TV service.

Planning is hungry work

Members of Hereford American Legion Post 192 worked up an appetite as they made plans for the upcoming 18th District Spring Convention to be held Saturday and Sunday at the Hereford post home. Events will include a Health Fair, business meetings, banquet with Joe D. Rogers as featured speaker, and memorial service. All veterans are encouraged to attend.
