Old is made new

Students in the Nazarene Christian Academy seventh grade life science class sit at their new science tables while listening to teacher Lynn Carlile, left, explain their assignment. The tables were installed in the private school this week after NCA purchased them from Saturday's county-city-school district auction. They came out of Hereford High School and were auctioned by the district as surplus property. Also, Mrs. Carlile's husband, Jeff, purchased several science tables from the old-high school, now Stanton Educational Support Center, which he is planning to repair, repaint and make available to the school science department. Before this week, the school did science work from folding tables.

Auction provides boost to government entities

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Proving the adage that "One man's trash is another man's treasure," three local taxing entities reduced their surplus property and increased their bank accounts by several thousand dollars last weekend.

Figures from the joint county-city-school district auction held Saturday have been tabulated, and the three entities netted about $66,845.03 from a conglomeration of property that was sold to the highest bidder.

All three taxing entities will put their auction proceeds into their general operating funds.

Even though County Judge Tom Simons said the county had little to offer this year, the host agency was the big winner in the auction, bringing in $41,000 overall and netting about $37,000 after payment of the auctioneers.

This year's was the third auction for the county, which also held them in 1992 and 1990.

In 1992, the county netted more than $100,000 from its auction sales.

Simons said one reason the county's sales were down was because there were not many big ticket items sold. The highest price overall was for a tractor the county sold that fetched $6,900.

Two of the most talked-about items before the sale were the county's bomb loaders.

"(The) bomb loaders went good," Simons said, adding that the county got about $1,600 for the two surplus military items. "We had purchased them from surplus for considerably less."

Two mechanized Army mules went for $800 each, Simons said.

"It was a fun deal. ... It was a little bit better" than anticipated, he added.

Assistant City Manager Mike Hatley said the city's net sales from the auction was $20,296.58.

"I don't think anybody had any idea" how much money would be made from the surplus property, he said.

"I don't think we'll think of sneezing at the $20,000," he added.

Some of the city's money, Hatley said, came from a load of bicycles that had been gathering dust in the police property department.

Those, he said, sold for anywhere between $2.50 and $40.

Much of the city's property that went into the auction, Hatley said, was at the end of its usefulness.

"The city wears things out to the bone before we even think of getting rid of it," he said.

This was the first year for the Hereford Independent School District to join in the auction, and assistant superintendent for support services Don Cumpston emptied out unneeded surplus property from the old Central School, the old bus barn and the old Hereford Brand building to sell.

"After everything was totaled for HISD," he said, the district had made $9,548.45.

"That's more than I expected," he said.

Cafeteria fixtures that were replaced last summer "were probably a high dollar item for us," Cumpston said, as were two sets of science tables taken from the high school and Stanton Educational Support Center.

Jeff Carlile purchased the five tables from Stanton, said his wife, Lynn, science teacher at Nazarene Christian Academy.

Carlile will renovate and repaint the tables and let NCA use them for the science program.

NCA also walked away with the newer science tables.

Principal Patty Hill said the new work benches are being cleaned up and have already been installed in the science room, replacing the folding tables that had been used before.

The school's seventh grade life sciences class used the new benches on Wednesday as they started a new unit on reproduction.

Simons said several boxes of kitchen utensils provided by the school district were popular among bidders as well.

"We were real pleased with our auction stuff," Cumpston said, adding that maintenance workers "made a big dent in some places for us" by removing auction goods.

All three men said they sold out of auction goods.

"I sure didn't go back and get anything!" Cumpston said. "As far as I know they sold everything."

All three also said they would definitely be interested in doing another auction in a couple of years.

"We just need to do this on a regular basis," Simons said, adding that "having the city and the school and us do it was good" and that the hospital or other taxing entities would be welcome to participate in the future.

TSBGA annual meet Friday

The election of new officers, the future of sugar production and processing in the Hereford area, prospects for new seed lines and new developments in disease control will be key topics at the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association annual meeting here Friday.

Registration for the business meeting will start at 9:30 a.m. Friday in Hereford Community Center. Coffee and donuts will be provided.

Guest speakers at the meeting will include Roger Hill, president of Holly Sugar; Bill Cleavinger, TSBGA president; and Dennis Printz, Holly's Hereford ag manager. Various Texas A&M University research projects will also be discussed.

The business meeting is held in conjunction with the annual Sugar Beet Banquet, which is scheduled Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Bull Barn. Keynote speaker will be James "Doc" Blakely, award-winning humorist and motivational speaker. The banquet is open to the public and tickets are $7.50 each. The "Ag Man of the Year" award will also be presented.

Two directors--Ed Ramaekers of Nazareth and Richard Friemel of Umbarger--are retiring from the board. Nominated to fill the posts are Floyd Schulte and J.C. Pohlman for the Nazareth area, and Randy Wieck and Joe Grotegut for the Umbarger-Dawn area. Kenneth Frye of the Easter area is up for re-election and Russell Harkins is nominated for the same position.

For more information on the business meeting or banquet, call the TSBGA office at 364-6402.

IRS sets dates to submit forms

DALLAS -- Wage earners should receive their 1992 W-2 forms from their employers by Jan. 31, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

That is the same date by which employers must submit two forms, Form 941 for reporting federal income tax withheld from employees' wages or other income, and Form 942, "Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees," which reports wages or other income.

Employees who have not received their W-2s by Jan. 31 should contact the employer to see if it is available.

Fiske will likely be special prosecutor

WASHINGTON (AP) - A former Republican U.S. attorney is likely to be named special counsel to probe President Clinton's ties to a failed Arkansas savings and loan when he was governor, an administration official says.

The official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday an announcement could come today.

Attorney General Janet Reno's selection of Wall Street attorney Robert B. Fiske Jr., 63, would answer suggestions that the special counsel be a veteran attorney and, to demonstrate independence, a Republican.

But some conservatives are likely to oppose Fiske, who ran the U.S. attorney's office for the Southern District of New York in Manhattan during the Carter administration, from 1976 to 1980.

Conservatives scuttled Fiske's chance to become deputy attorney general during the Bush administration because of his involvement in the American Bar Association's screening of potential judges.

Former Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., accused Fiske of sharing the names of prospective nominees with liberal groups, "thus enabling those groups to target conservative candidates even before their nominations were made public."

Fiske, with the Wall Street law firm of Davis Polk & Wardwell, recently has represented key defendants in the Bank of Credit and Commerce International fraud case.

He previously helped his former law partner, Independent Counsel Lawrence Walsh, pick a staff to investigate the Iran-Contra arms and money scandal.

The choice was finalized a week after Clinton asked for an outside investigation of his investment in the 1980s in Whitewater Development Corp. and its links to Madison Guaranty Savings & Loan.

Justice Department investigators have been trying to determine whether depositors' money was diverted illegally from Madison, which failed in 1989, to Whitewater, a planned vacation-home project in Arkansas.

Madison was owned by longtime Clinton supporter James McDougal. He and his former wife, Susan, co-owned Whitewater with the president and Hillary Rodham Clinton. The Clintons have said they lost $68,900 on their investment.

Also being investigated is whether Madison funds were diverted to help retire Clinton's 1984 gubernatorial campaign debt.

Increase noted over last year

City gets $64,000 check from state for tax rebate

The Hereford city coffers got a new year's boost this month from State Comptroller John Sharp, who recently sent out January sales tax rebate checks to cities around Texas.

The checks -- which total more than $123 million to 985 Texas cities and 111 counties -- were from sales in November.

The check for Hereford totalled $64,012.95, which is 54.98 percent more than the amount received in tax rebates during January 1993.

Last year, the city received $41,303.68.

The check is the first for the city this year, which assesses a 1 percent city sales tax.

"We did have a very strong retail sales during that month," said Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. "Bigger than previous years, which accounted for a portion of it."

Carr also noted that a portion of the increase is due to report time periods for some businesses in which sales taxes collected during the previous month's sales were not reported to the state until November.

Still, he said, "One thing good -- it is up" and the city "definitely had a strong November."

Around the area, neighboring cities and towns got their rebate checks as well.

In Castro County, Dimmitt received a check for $30,168.68, or 21.4 percent above last year's $24,850.36. Hart received $927.88, down 5.67 percent from the $983.69 last year. Nazareth even got into the tax rebate game, netting a check for $527.91. That town did not get any money last year.

Randall County's entire tax rebate jackpot went to Canyon. That check was for $31,136.20, which was 5.59 percent above the $29,486.45 last year.

Parmer County's three towns totalled $13,112.08 in rebates -- Bovina got 1,769.42, a 75.88 percent jump from last year; Farwell's $2,725.24 was 24.08 percent below the January 1993 figure; and Friona's $8,617.42 was 29.55 percent above last year's check.

Amarillo got the biggest payback in the Panhandle, receiving a check for $2,456,349.87, which was a whopping 30.68 percent above the $1,879,601.66 received last year.

In Oldham County, Vega's check dipped slightly from last year. The town received $1,891.01 this year, which was a 0.14 percent decline from last year's $1,893.72.

Autopsy shows child died of suffocation

An autopsy performed on the body of 6-month-old Keith Allen Berumen showed that the child died of suffocation, but Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine is delaying a ruling in the case pending further investigation.

Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul said his office is helping Judge Turrentine with the investigation, because she is required to hold an inquest to determine cause of death any time a person dies outside a hospital.

The child died Jan. 12 in his home.

"We're not trying to give people the impression at this time that there was anything illegal," Saul said, adding that the investigation is to determine what occurred when the child died.

The autopsy finding, he said, tells the mechanism of the death, but not how that suffocation occurred.

Judge Turrentine said she will wait until the DA's office investigation is complete before issuing a formal ruling.

Annual study shows youth killed by gunfire every two hours in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A child or teen-ager is killed by gunfire every two hours in the United States - the equivalent of a classroomful every two days - the Children's Defense Fund said today in its annual look at the state of America's children.

The influential children's advocacy group headed by Marian Wright Edelman used the release of its report to call for stronger regulation of the sale, manufacture and possession of non-sporting firearms, especially assault weapons and handguns.

"Our worst nightmares are coming true," Edelman said. "After years of epidemic poverty, joblessness, racial intolerance, family disintegration, domestic violence and drug and alcohol abuse, the crisis of children having children has been eclipsed by the greater crisis of children killing children."

According to the group, 5,356 children and teen-agers were killed by gunfire in the United States in 1991, the latest year for which statistics were available.

It said nearly 50,000 children and teen-agers were killed by firearms between 1979 and 1991 - a number nearly equal to the American casualties in the Vietnam War.

That total includes 24,552 homicides, 16,614 suicides with a firearm, and 7,257 gun accidents. The figures come from unpublished data from the National Center for Health Statistics.

According to its calculations, a child dies from gunshot wounds every two hours, while a police officer is killed by gunfire every five days and nine hours.

Freeze forces utilities to be shut off in East

By The Associated Press

Utilities serving 21 million people from Washington, D.C., to New Jersey said energy conservation helped them avoid "rolling blackouts" today as the mercury plunged below zero again across the eastern half of the nation.

"It was like a refrigerator in our house," said Milton Lee Banks, one of 900 residents of Surry County, Va., who sought overnight shelter after the power was turned off Wednesday. It was 10 degrees in southeastern Virginia.

Utilities cut power to an estimated 50,000 customers at a time, for up to 30 minutes at a stretch, for fear an unprecedented demand for electricity for heating would overload the system and cause far more crippling outages.

Customers were urged to think twice before reaching for the thermostat.

It worked, according to Bruce Balmat, spokesman for the mid-Atlantic power grid representing five states and the nation's capital.

"We don't expect to have rolling blackouts today," he said this morning.

From the Dakotas to the Atlantic, temperatures plummeted below zero - down to 14 below in Minneapolis-St. Paul and minus 16 in Albany, N.Y.

John Day of Baltimore said he didn't know what effect the outages would have on his apartment, which was cold even with heat. "I had to put more clothes on after midnight," he said Wednesday, when the mercury reached a record minus 4.

The cold spell has been blamed for at least 92 deaths since Friday.

Jobless claims jump, highest since July

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of Americans filing initial jobless claims surged 23,000 to the highest level in six months, the government reported today, demonstrating that the nation's job market remains as volatile as ever.

The Labor Department said a seasonally adjusted 380,000 people filed claims for the first time during the week ended Jan. 15, up from a revised 357,000 the previous week. It was the steepest increase reported since July 24, 1992.

Relief efforts slowly gather steam in L.A.; quake death toll now at 44

By JOHN ANTCAK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Brick by brick and block by block, Southern Californians salvaged what they could Wednesday from the deadly earthquake that could end up matching Hurricane Andrew's $30 billion cost.

As the death toll from Monday's magnitude-6.6 quake rose to 44, relief efforts slowly gathered steam.

Throughout the city, residents rushed into and out of quake-damaged apartments and homes, tossing clothing and furniture into pickups and rental vans before building inspectors could condemn their homes.

Near the quake's epicenter in Northridge, work crews unrolled chain-link fence around a condemned apartment building as a procession of rental trucks pulled away.

President Clinton surveyed the damage Wednesday and ordered $45 million in initial quake relief. Gov. Pete Wilson said total damage could reach $30 billion, making it as costly as Hurricane Andrew, the nation's most expensive natural disaster.

Thousands of commuters spent hours negotiating canyon roads and city streets to get to work.

To the north, cars jammed the Sierra Highway to bypass the damaged intersection of state Highway 14 and Interstate 5. A dawn aftershock caused a rockslide that narrowed the four-lane route through Newhall Pass to two lanes. Last week's 45-minute commute took as long as four hours.

"When you have to get up at 3 to get to work by 9, yes, it's a nightmare," said Mario Beltran, 31, a barber commuting from his Palmdale home 35 miles to the northeast to work in San Fernando.

Repairs to the area's freeways will take a year and cost $100 million, the state transportation department said.

"Right now most of them don't know where they're going," California Highway Patrol Officer Jim Mair said. "But I imagine they'll be picking it up pretty quick. They'll have a lot of time to practice."

Motorists ran into roadblocks and detours around street fissures in the San Fernando Valley, worst hit by the quake. Torrents of water from burst water mains, still unrepaired, flooded streets hubcap-deep and traffic lights remained lifeless.

West of downtown, motorists negotiated around a collapsed section of Interstate 10, the nation's busiest highway.

Clinton came to Los Angeles to survey the damage and ordered $45 million for immediate freeway repairs and debris removal, and additional Small Business Administration money that would make available $239 million in loans. Two magnitude-5.1 aftershocks rattled windows within two minutes of each other during his tour.

"It's amazing," Clinton said, shaking his head as he surveyed a collapsed section of the Simi Valley Freeway.

Quake refugees in a makeshift camp at a city park said they were encouraged by the president's visit.

"It gives me hope that he will do something for us, for what's going on here," said Anastacio De La Rosa, 18. The Reseda resident was camping on a mattress at a city park.

Work crews raced to fix the San Fernando Valley's two water aqueducts before a vital reservoir ran dry. They also replaced a broken pipeline feeding a water treatment plant that serves 2.5 million Los Angeles residents. Residents were urged to continue boiling their drinking water.

A snapshot of the damage:
-The death toll rose to 44 as hospital officials announced two more quake-related heart attack victims. More than 4,200 people were injured.

-Some 15,000 people lost their homes, and 4,700 of them were staying at 24 city shelters. An estimated 4,000 dwellings were heavily damaged or destroyed, the American Red Cross said.

-About 35,000 customers lacked natural gas; 40,000 households and businesses were without water; and 52,000 lacked electrical power.

-The Small Business Administration said it expected to lend more than $500 million to residents and merchants who suffered earthquake damage.

-The Federal Emergency Management Agency said it was ready to ship tents, kitchens and bottled water to refugees camped out in city parks, lawns and shelters.

-Mudslides were feared in neighborhoods already shaken by the quake and stripped of ground cover by the autumn firestorms; the National Weather Service was predicting a series of rainstorms will sweep the region starting Saturday.

-Former President Reagan taped public service announcements for earthquake victims on behalf of the Red Cross. Reagan's Bel-Air home, 12 miles from the quake epicenter, wasn't damaged, said Reagan spokeswoman Cathy Busch.

ATF agent says Davidians 'knew we were coming'

By CHIP BROWN
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms special agent Dan Curtis quickly realized his disguise as a cattle rancher didn't matter.

Several days preceding last Feb. 28, Curtis had rehearsed driving one of two unmarked cattle trailers filled with heavily armed agents up to the religious compound of David Koresh. After arriving, he was to quickly help subdue several men expected to be doing construction chores outside. But that cold, misty Sunday morning, the men weren't outside. No one was.

Curtis spotted only one person peeping out from behind curtains in a second-story window.

"I became leery. It was so quiet and no one was outside. And then I saw the person dart back from the window," Curtis told jurors Wednesday in the federal murder trial of 11 Branch Davidians.

His story was among the first public accounts of the no-turning-back fear that spread among agents as they ambled down the gravel road in anticipation of confronting Koresh.

injured agents during the 45-minute gunfight. He said he helped haul off Willis' bloodied body after a cease fire was called.

Curtis said a medic among the agents was unable to help treat some of the injured because he left his supplies in the cattle trailer and the "gunfire was too heavy" to retrieve them.

Willis and agents Robert Williams, Conway C. LeBleu and Todd W. McKeegan were killed in the gun battle while 16 others were injured. Six Branch Davidians also are believed to have died in the exchange.

The failed attempt by the ATF to arrest Koresh and search his compound for weapons touched off a 51-day standoff that culminated in an inferno April 19. Koresh and 85 followers, including at least 17 children, died in the blaze.

The 11 defendants, who face up to life in prison if convicted of murdering and conspiring to murder federal agents, contend they were forced to defend themselves against an ill-conceived raid by a government agency seeking to prove itself before federal budget review.

The Davidians claim they retaliated only after being fired upon by dark-clad agents who fanned out from the two cattle trailers with their weapons drawn.

Earlier Wednesday, ATF special agent Eric Evers identified defendant Livingston Fagan as the man who shot him during the raid.

"There's no doubt in my mind that man shot me," Evers said, glaring at Fagan, a 34-year-old former social worker in Britain who joined Koresh's followers outside Waco in 1992.

But under cross-examination by Fagan's attorney, Rocket Rosen, Evers said he did not identify Fagan until after he had been shot and fell to the ground.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband took a position with a small, family-run business. "Harold" was given a desk in the main office with the owner, who is a middle-aged woman.

During his first month on the job, the owner's 25-year-old daughter started to work there. She brings her 6-month-old baby with her every morning and proceeds to breast-feed the child several times a day in Harold's presence. I'd like to point out that there is an employees' lounge and several other private places she could use. It seems she lifts up her blouse and bares her breasts whenever my husband enters the room.

Harold is not a prude, but he is a sensitive and polite man and has no desire to see this girl's breasts or watch her nurse her baby. He turns away and attends to his job.

In my opinion, the woman's behavior is obscene, inappropriate and disrespectful. Harold doesn't want to make an issue of it, but I am disgusted and angry. I will, however, keep quiet for my husband's sake. I'd like your opinion, please. No city, just -- California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: There is nothing obscene about nursing a baby, but a business office is no place for it - especially when there is a lounge and other private places where the young mother could go.

Harold is wise, however, to keep his lip zipped, especially since Granny is the boss. He has nothing to gain and a lot to lose.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel compelled to respond to "Smart For My Age in Seattle." That 12-year-old who wrote to you claims she knows all there is about love and relationships. How did she get so smart?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a smoker. I understand the hazards of cigarettes, but I choose to continue because it helps me get through the days and nights.

My question: Recently, I was invited to a party at a friend's apartment. Her roommate, whom I do not know well, was the hostess. After dinner, when I prepared to light a cigarette, I was instructed to go outside on the balcony.

Since I always respect people's wishes when I'm a guest, I complied. It was a cold night, with the temperature hovering around zero. I said nothing because I didn't want to cause a scene or be rude.

Was the hostess out of line to make me stand outside in the cold? Since I was an invited guest, I felt this was an affront to good manners. If the weather had been pleasant, I would have had no objections. Did she show poor taste, or was I justifiably exiled to the hinterlands?--Ostracized in Quebec

DEAR QUEBEC: Obviously, the hostess does not permit smoking in her apartment. She had every right to ask you to step out on the balcony. Sorry pal. I'm with her.

Pep homecoming set

The Pep Ex-students Association's 34th Annual Homecoming is planned Saturday, Jan. 29, at Pep Parish Hall in Pep.

The association extends a cordial invitation to all former students, teachers, patrons and friends to come to the homecoming.

Class reunions for the graduating classes of 1934, 1944, 1954, 1964, 1974 and 1984 will meet at that time as will the classes of 1939, 1949, 1959, 1969, 1979 and 1989.

Registration is set for 4:30 p.m. with a banquet starting at 6 p.m. Price for registration and the banquet will be $5.

The ex-student business meeting will be held after the meal with President Maloy Sinnacher presiding.

Two $400 scholarships, to the college of their choice, will be awarded to a 1994 boy and girl. To be eligible for the scholarships at least one of the parents must be an ex-student of Pep School and attend homecoming to register for the scholarship.

A country and western dance will conclude the evening from 9 p.m. until 1 p.m. Tickets will be $5 and the public is invited.

Tour of England topic of La Madre Mia program

"Hereford to Hereford" was the program presented by Georgia Tyler when members of the La Madre Mia Study Club met Jan. 13 in the home of Mysedia Smith with Linda Cumpton serving as co-hostess.

Tyler related her experiences of a driving tour made to England in the summer of 1992. She displayed pictures of Buckingham Palace, Ann Hathaway's home, the Big Ben clock, the War Museum and Shakespeare's home as well as numerous country scenes. She concluded her program by showing a video, "Edinburg Tatoo."

During the business meeting with Francyne Bromlow presiding, it was announced that club members will provide transportation to the residents of King's Manor throughout February. The residents are taken on shopping excursions and provided transportation for other needs.

Members present included Carolyn Baxter, Ruth Black, Francyne Bromlow, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpton, Kay Hall, Mary Herring, Betty Lady, Barbara Manning, Glenda Marcum, Lavon Nieman, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen, Lucy Rogers, Tricia Sims, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Nicky Walsler and Mary Beth White.

The next regularly scheduled meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 27 in the home of Marline Watson. Tricia Sims and Betty Lady will instruct members how to make painted shirts.

New club yearbooks examined

New club yearbooks were filled out when members of the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met recently in the Blue Room at Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

President Nell Pope presided over the business session and Perry Keyes opened the meeting with a prayer. Pope led the opening exercise and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Fannie Townsend.

Roll call was answered by "my goals for the new year."

The next meeting is planned Feb. 11 at the Senior Citizens Center.

Members attending were Byrdie Fellers, Wilma Goettsch, Naomi Hare, Perry Keyes, Edna Marnell, Vernis Parsons, Nell Pope and Fannie Townsend.

Hints from Heloise

STORAGE JARS
Dear Heloise: I use a collection of coffee jars for storage.

Nail or screw the lids to a 4 x 4 of suitable length. Suspend the piece of wood horizontally from either a rafter, shelf, under the sink, or hang vertically with a ring-eye from one end. (Fill the jars with whatever and twist them into the lids. -- Heloise)

This will give you a place to store lots of small things and it's always expandable. -- Richard E. Morse, Jacksonville, Fla.

POT SCRAPER
Dear Heloise: Two little nylon-net onion bags rolled into a tight ball and tied make a perfect pot scraper in an emergency. -- Mildred Kuusisto, Greenville, N.H.

Wrestling team

Members of the Hereford wrestling team show off the medals and trophies they've won in recent tournaments. A teen dance will be held Friday at the YMCA, with the band Animacion, to help raise funds to send the team to a regional tournament Jan. 29 in Wichita Falls, which could lead to the state tourney. The team is coached by former pro wrestler Rip Evers (far left); former University of Arizona wrestler Ronald Duryee (middle back); and Byron Franklin Shows Jr., a former high school wrestler from California. The team members are (kneeling left to right) Ronnie Duryee, Brandi Duryee, Vincent Burrows, Randall Burrows, Bryon Anthony Shows, (standing) coach Evers, Jeremiah Beltran, Gilbert Hernandez, coach Duryee, Angela Evers, Tony Hubner and coach Shows.

49ers' Young wants to win big one

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Troy Aikman joined a loser when he came to Dallas. Steve Young went to a winner in San Francisco.

It turns out to be Aikman's blessing and Young's curse, one that Young hopes to take a step toward erasing when the 49ers play the Cowboys in Sunday's NFC title game.

"I think I've won some big games," Young said Wednesday. "I've won both in the regular season and in the playoffs."

Still, it's Young's misfortune to be the man who followed "JOE" in San Francisco, "JOE" being Joe Montana, who won four Super Bowls for the 49ers. Young has won none since becoming the starter in 1991, thus earning the rap, fair or not, that he "can't win the big one."

Aikman, on the other hand, was the first block around which Jimmy Johnson built the Cowboys. He went 1-15 in 1989, 7-9 in 1990, 11-5 in 1991 and last year won the Super Bowl, in which he was MVP.

Thus a $55 million, 10-year contract, passing Young as the NFL's highest paid quarterback (they both have the same agent, Leigh Steinberg). More important, a Super Bowl title early in his career established him as someone who CAN win the big one.

The talk about big-game quarterback hovers in the air around this title game. Most of it centers around Young, because despite a regular-season MVP trophy last year and two straight All-Pro seasons, the only Super Bowl rings he has were earned sitting on the bench.

In the Bay area, it was "JOE" who won them. He's now in the AFC title game for Kansas City, while Young goes into Dallas with that tag.

More over, he's not being allowed to forget it.

Johnson, that master psychologist, brought it up earlier this week.

"With what Troy has accomplished, there's no lingering doubt in his mind of what he's capable of," Johnson said. "Troy is confident he can do everything there is to accomplish as a quarterback. He doesn't have any doubts hanging over his head."

Johnson was asked if that means that Young does.

"I don't think Steve Young has won a Super Bowl, has he?" Johnson replied.

No, not even an NFC championship game - he and the 49ers lost to Aikman and the Cowboys 30-20 last year in San Francisco. The 49ers and Young also lost 26-17 at Texas Stadium on Oct. 17.

San Francisco coach George Seifert doesn't see that as a factor.

"This isn't an issue," he said Wednesday. "The issue is that Troy Aikman is a great quarterback on a great football team. But that won't have anything to do with what he accomplished last year or what Steve may accomplish when he walks to the line of scrimmage on Sunday."

And Young? The rap may have started last season in his first championship game, when he was intercepted twice and fumbled once.

But he also completed 25 of 35 passes for 313 yards and one touchdown and had a 63-yard touchdown pass to Jerry Rice on the second play of the game called back by a holding penalty on Guy McIntyre. Aikman's totals were almost identical - 24 of 34 for 322 yards - but he didn't turn over the ball.

So who choked?

"Last year I felt good about the championship game going in," Young said. "I feel equally good this year."

Harding's ex arrested

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Tonya Harding's ex-husband surrendered Wednesday after being charged with conspiring to attack rival figure skater Nancy Kerrigan. Harding remained under investigation, with her bodyguard tying her to the alleged conspiracy.

Jeff Gillooly was arraigned along with the alleged hit man, Shane Minoaka Stant. Harding said she and Gillooly had nothing to do with the attack.

Harding's bodyguard, Shawn Eckardt, told a sheriff's deputy that Harding made two telephone calls to find out Kerrigan's practice schedule at a skating rink near Boston and later devised an alibi to explain the calls.

The deputy's affidavit said the attack was supposed to take place in Massachusetts but could not be carried out until Jan. 6 at the U.S. Figure Skating Championships in Detroit.

"Tonya categorically denies those allegations," said Harding's attorney, Dennis Rawlinson.

According to the affidavit, Eckardt said Gillooly told him Harding "was concerned about having made these phone calls and had stated that in the event she was ever questioned about them, she would say she had made those calls in an effort to get Kerrigan to sign a poster for a fan of Harding's."

A fourth man, Derrick Smith, was charged with conspiracy for allegedly driving the get-away car.

Gillooly and Harding, 23, divorced last August but lived together since September until Harding announced Tuesday that she was separating from him again. The announcement came during Harding's 10-hour interview with authorities and shortly after a Multnomah County Circuit Court judge signed the warrant for Gillooly's arrest.

U.S. Olympic officials said Harding could be dropped from the team going to the Winter Games in Norway next month if she is involved in the Kerrigan attack.

"We are still in a wait-and-see position," USOC spokesman Mike Moran said after Gillooly's arrest.

Harding, the U.S. figure skating champion, remains under investigation, assistant district attorney John Bradley said.

Gillooly, who has denied involvement, was released after posting 10 percent of his $20,000 bail. Stant remained in custody in lieu of $20,000 bail.

Kerrigan, 24, was smashed on the right leg because it is her landing leg for jumps, Eckardt told authorities, according to the affidavit from Multnomah County deputy sheriff James McNelly.

Practicing at an ice arena in Stoneham, Mass., on Wednesday, Kerrigan jumped for the first time since the attack. Her coaches had not expected her to jump until the end of the week at the earliest.

Eckardt said Gillooly, 26, told him Harding called the Tony Kent Arena on Cape Cod to determine Kerrigan's practice schedule. Eckardt's affidavit said Stant stalked Kerrigan in Boston before carrying out the attack in Detroit.

Two phone calls from Gillooly and Harding's home were made to the arena on Dec. 28, and one on Jan. 3, the affidavit said, citing phone company records.

After Harding returned from Detroit, Eckardt and Gillooly spent several hours making up an alibi, the affidavit said.

Swoopes is AP Female Athlete of '93

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Sheryl Swoopes has been called the Michael Jordan of women's basketball. It figures.

One day after Jordan was named the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1993, Swoopes edged veteran tennis star Steffi Graf to grab Female Athlete honors.

Swoopes' finesse and agility carried Texas Tech to its first NCAA title and dazzled even her opponents. In a matter of weeks last spring, new fans around the nation caught the "Swoopes, Rhymes-With-Hoops" fever.

She is the first female honoree from a team sport in the 63-year history of the Associated Press award.

"Well deserved," Lady Raiders coach Marsha Sharp said. "She's that rare individual with a combination of awesome athletic ability, but I also think great demeanor - confident without being arrogant."

"Everyone that I talked to, people after the Final Four, said they had really never seen a female athlete play the way I did," Swoopes said.

AP voters deciding the top honor cast 26 first-place ballots for Swoopes, who totaled 180 total points. Graf received 177 points, including 20 first-place votes.

Monica Seles won the award in 1991 and 1992, but was knocked out of 1993's competition when she was stabbed in the back by a spectator at a Hamburg, Germany, tournament on April 30.

Owners, players agree on expanded playoffs

By RONALD BLUM AP Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - Expanded playoffs and three-division play finally won agreement Wednesday from baseball players and owners, while teams decided against hiring a commissioner during the 1994 season.

Owners capitulated to financial demands by the Major League

Baseball Players Association, enabling teams to implement a three-tier playoff structure they approved last September. The American and National leagues will divide into three apiece this season, with the division winners and a wild-card team advancing to the playoffs in each league.

Warriors, Bulls win with buzzer-beating treys

By The Associated Press

Going for the tie is the safest move when you're behind by two points in the final seconds.

Golden State and Chicago extended winning streaks Wednesday night by going for the victory with 3-pointers.

Latrell Sprewell's buzzer-beating 3-point shot from the corner gave the Warriors their season-high fifth victory in a row, 120-119 over Atlanta, which lost for only the second time in 19 home games.

Steve Kerr's 3-point shot with 23 seconds left lifted the Bulls to their 15th straight homecourt victory, 84-83 over Washington.

"I had a good look at the basket," Kerr said. "I knew it was going in. As a shooter you know when it feels good. And this was just one that I knew felt good."

Kerr was fouled on his 3-point shot, but missed the free throw, leaving the Bulls ahead by one.

Scottie Pippen's 3-point and jumper closed Chicago to 82-81 with 1:20 left before Tom Gugliotta missed one of two free throws with 58 seconds remaining, making it 83-81.

B.J. Armstrong scored 17 points for the Bulls. Gugliotta scored 20 points and Calbert Cheaney 19 for Washington.

Warriors 120, Hawks 119

Atlanta, which had its eight-game home winning streak snapped, led Golden State 119-116 with 9.8 seconds remaining on two free throws by Dominique Wilkins, who scored a season-high 39 points.

Avery Johnson's free throw with three seconds left made it 119-117, and the Warriors regained possession when Wilkins bounced the ball out of bounds with 1.7 seconds remaining.

Sprewell, who finished with 25 points, then gave Golden State its first victory in 11 tries at Atlanta since 1983.

Chris Mullin led the Warriors with 28 points.

Jazz 104, Cavaliers 92

Karl Malone scored 11 of his 28 points in the final 6:38 as Utah won at home against Cleveland.

Mark Price scored 24 points and Brad Daugherty 22 for the Cavaliers.

Price's free throw tied the game at 89 with 5:03 to play, but the Cavs were called for an illegal defense on the next Jazz possession, and John Stockton's free throw gave them the lead for good.

Stockton had 18 points and 16 assists for Utah.

Knicks 120, Spurs 108

Patrick Ewing had 35 points and 16 rebounds.

Dale Ellis scored 24 points, Vinny Del Negro had 22 and Dennis Rodman grabbed 20 rebounds for the visiting Spurs. John Starks had 26 points and Rolando Blackman a season-high 19 for the Knicks.

Celtics 89, Mavericks 84

Boston extended Dallas' league-record home losing streak to 18 games as Robert Parish had 17 points and 10 rebounds.

The game was tied 57-57 before Sherman Douglas gave Boston the lead for good. The guard later hit consecutive layups to help the Celtics take a 70-64 advantage into the final quarter.

SuperSonics 114, Kings 95

Seattle won at Sacramento as Gary Payton scored 24 points and backcourt teammate Kendall Gill had 22.

Gill had 18 points in the second half and Sam Perkins scored 16 of his 19 in the first half for the Sonics, who shot 75 percent in the third quarter and held a 90-69 margin entering the fourth period.

Trevor Wilson scored 18 points for the Kings.

Hornets 115, 76ers 103

Alonzo Mourning scored 16 of his 27 points in the third quarter as Charlotte won at home against Philadelphia.

Dell Curry added 22 points for the Hornets. Clarence Weatherspoon paced the Sixers with 25.

Nets 112, Timberwolves 91

New Jersey posted its first three-game winning streak of the season behind Derrick Coleman's 24 points against visiting Minnesota.

The Nets used a 31-7 spurt bridging the second and third quarters to take

Magic 108, Clippers 96

Shaquille O'Neal had 40 points and 19 rebounds, and Anfernee Hardaway added 21 points, eight rebounds and eight assists for Orlando against visiting Los Angeles.

Ron Harper's 21 points led the Clippers, who rallied from a 17-point deficit to trail 73-70 late in the third quarter, but could get no closer.

a 24-point lead the Timberwolves never threatened.

Kevin Edwards and Kenny Anderson each scored eight of their 16 points during the run.

Pacers 109, Heat 92

Byron Scott and Reggie Miller each scored 21 points as Indiana handed Miami its sixth straight loss.

The Pacers played without two injured starters in Pooh Richardson and Dale Davis, and a top reserve, Vern Fleming.

Matt Geiger led Miami with 14 points.

Tyler leads Longhorns past Baylor

By The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns used a good game plan and a career-high scoring performance by B.J. Tyler against the Baylor Bears.

The combination worked for the Longhorns in a 110-85 victory over the Bears.

In other Southwest Conference games Wednesday night, Rice whipped Texas Christian 102-76 and Texas A&M defeated Houston 67-60.

Tyler scored a career-high 38 points, 29 in the first half, to lead the Longhorns, who improved to 9-6 overall and 2-1 in the SWC. Baylor fell to 10-4 and 2-1, respectively.

Tyler, who came into the game averaging 26.4 points, shot six of eight points against the Bears from the 3-point line.

The lead changed hands three times through the first half before Tyler stole the ball, then scored on a fast break dunk to put the Longhorns on top for good, 30-28.

Texas players tried to take advantage of the Bears' lack of depth, said Longhorn coach Tom Penders.

"Our game plan tonight was to sub a lot," Penders said. "We tried to wear them down. Eventually, it worked and we got the turnovers."

Jerode Banks led Baylor with 20 points, and Jerome Lambert pulled down a career high 20 rebounds to go with 14 points.

Torrey Andrews scored 22 points to lead the Rice Owls to a 102-76 victory over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

The Owls also got a 6-6 night from 3-point range by Adam Peaks, who wound up with 20 points.

Peakes' performance pleased Rice head coach Willis Wilson.

"When Adam is hitting his shots, it seems to pick up the whole team," Wilson said. "The team realized one of its priorities in this game was rebounding and we did an excellent job of attacking the boards from the outset."

Rice (9-5, 2-1 Southwest Conference) remained in control throughout the game. The Horned Frogs (4-10, 1-2) did not come within 15 points of the Owls in the second half.

TCU's Kurt Thomas scored 21 points for the Frogs.

Joe Wilbert and Chuck Henderson scored 14 points each to lead Texas A&M to a 67-60 victory over Houston.

Lance Broderson scored 12 and Tony McGinnis added 10 for the Aggies (9-4, 3-0 Southwest Conference). A&M broke a 13-game regular season losing streak at Houston's Hofheinz Pavilion.

Anthony Goldwire led the Cougars (2-11, 0-3) with 19 points, Jessie Drain had 13 and Tim Moore added 10.

"I don't think we played with great poise in the second half," A&M coach Tony Barone said. "But we played with great intensity the whole game. We just kind of find a way to win. I don't know that we're that much better than anybody."

Coaches shout during, after game

By The Associated Press

Usually, the trash talk doesn't extend to the benches.

In the 82-76 overtime victory Wednesday night by No. 22 Xavier over crosstown rival No. 19 Cincinnati, even the coaches were getting on each other during - and after - the bitterly contested game.

Two Jeff Massey 3-pointers in overtime gave the Musketeers' their first victory over the Bearcats in four years, and tempers were on edge all night.

When Xavier coach Pete Gillen walked to the Cincinnati bench to shake hands with Cincinnati counterpart Bob Huggins, the Bearcats' coach pulled away and yelled something, Gillen, upset, appeared to answer in kind as he turned and walked away.

"This is a big rivalry for the city," said Massey, who led Xavier with 20 points.

"Everybody gets caught up in the hype," said Xavier's Brian Grant, who had 16 points and 17 rebounds despite a tender ankle.

Huggins said people on the Xavier bench were yelling at him during the game. He didn't name Gillen or single anyone out.

"I'm not phony," Huggins said. "If their bench is going to yell things at me during the game, that's their business. I'm not going to shake hands and pretend it's all right."

"I just came out to shake hands and he chose not to," said Gillen, who said no other coach has ever refused to shake his hand. "That's all I've got to say. I'm not going to get into a spitting contest. There were some verses back and forth during the game. In the heat of the game, that's going to happen."

In other games involving ranked teams on a night filled with upsets, Mississippi State upended No. 3 Arkansas 72-71, Virginia shocked No. 4 North Carolina 81-77, No. 10 Connecticut nipped Providence 79-78, Michigan State stopped No. 14 Wisconsin 70-60, Wake Forest beat No. 17 Georgia Tech 67-63, Marquette tipped No. 18 Alabama-Birmingham and No. 24 West Virginia topped Marshall 79-67.

At Cincinnati Gardens, the Bearcats (12-4) overcame a 10-point deficit to force the overtime. Xavier (12-1) opened the extra period with 3-pointers from Massey and Steve Gentry to go ahead 77-71. But Darnell Burton, who led Cincinnati with 20 points, sank two free throws and LaZelle Durden hit a 3-pointer to cut it to one point.

Massey hit another 3-pointer and Tyrice Walker added two free throws.

Mississippi St. 72, No. 3 Arkansas 71

At Starkville, Miss., T.J. Honore hit two free throws in the final 33 seconds as the surprising Bulldogs (11-2, 5-0 Southeastern Conference) overcame a 10-point first-half deficit in taking a two-game lead over Arkansas (12-2, 3-2) in the SEC's Western Division.

Brian Price had 15 points and 15 rebounds and freshman Erick Dampier added 15 points and 13 rebounds.

Corliss Williamson scored 26 points for Arkansas.

Virginia 81, No. 4 N. Carolina 77

At Charlottesville, Va., Junior Burrough scored 10 of Virginia's last 14 points and the Cavaliers held

North Carolina to four field goals in the final six minutes.

Burrough wound up with 22 points as Virginia (10-4, 4-1 Atlantic Coast Conference) took sole possession of first place in the league.

No. 10 Connecticut 79, Providence 78

At Providence, R.I., Kevin Ollie dribbled the length of the court and hit his only field goal of the game, a layup with 2.2 seconds remaining, as Connecticut remained unbeaten in the Big East.

Donyell Marshall led the Huskies (16-1, 6-0) with 28 points.

Eric Williams scored 22 points for Providence.

Michigan St. 70, No. 14 Wisconsin 60

At East Lansing, Mich., Michigan State dealt Wisconsin its second straight road loss as Shawn Respert scored 16 of his 20 points in the second half.

The Badgers missed 15 of their first 20 shots, fell behind 23-11, and really never recovered.

Wake Forest 67, No. 17 Georgia Tech 63

At Winston-Salem, N.C., Wake

Forest's Trelonnie Owens scored 23 points, including the go-ahead three-point play with 1:42 left.

Marquette 60, No. 18 Ala.-Birmingham 58

At Birmingham, Ala., Jim McIlvaine scored 24 points, including two free throws with seven seconds remaining, to seal Marquette's victory and end the Blazers' 11-game winning streak.

Seeing Double

NEW YORK (AP) - From time to time baseball fans have seen double but there was nothing wrong with their eyesight.

There have been seven sets of twin brothers in the history of the major leagues.

They were John and Eddie O'Brien, Joe and Maurice Shannon, Jose and Ozzie Canseco, Oscar and Roy Grimes, George and William Hunter, Clarence and Claude Jonnard and John and Phil Reccius.

It's time to remember basics of investing

Is the following statement true or false?

With the stock market booming and bond interest rates at their lowest levels in decades, it's a good time to trade in some or all of your bond and money market holdings for equities.

The correct answer is, "It depends." It depends on a lot of things--like your tolerance for risk, your investment objectives, and the amount of time before you'll need access to your invested money.

Because the stock market's performance has been so good for so long, it's easy to forget the risk involved in stock investing. Some historical perspective may be helpful.

Downturns in the market are both unavoidable and unpredictable. From 1926 to 1992, the stock market experienced 20 down years--nearly one out of every three. Implication: There will be more downturns ahead.

Stock investors who buy today when prices are at such high levels may be in for a rude shock if they should need access to their money in a year--or period of years--when the stock market is experiencing negative returns. They could suffer substantial losses.

Since stocks are producing such attractive returns and the temptation to "load up" or "cash in" with stocks is so great, now is an ideal time to remember some of the most basic principles of investing.

1. Set objectives before choosing your investments. Do you want long-term growth...or a steady stream of income...or complete safety...or quick access to your money?

2. Weight the risks and rewards of each type of investment--and determine how much risk you are willing to take in order to achieve a certain return.

3. Consider how much time you have. The amount of time you have before you will need your money is critically important. Older investors who will need access to their accumulated funds relatively soon will not have the luxury of time--as younger or longer-term investors do--to catch up following stock market downturns.

4. Diversify--keep a blend of investments to help minimize your risk. Different investments--stocks, bonds, money market instruments and real estate--may react differently to the same economic stimulus. By putting some of your money into each of those various investments, you reduce the chance you'll be hurt badly by a downturn in any one.

5. Contribute consistently--through good times and bad. Attempts to "time" the markets usually don't work. Rather than jumping in and out of markets when they appear to be "hot," most long-term investors will do better by developing a plan of regular periodic investments--and sticking with that plan.

6. Review your objectives periodically. If your circumstances have changed--due to changes in family or marital status, employment status, or unforeseen expenses--you can make adjustments to your blend of investments.

Future projects discussed

BONN, Germany (AP) - Former President Bush will receive Germany's highest civilian medal of honor for his role in helping reunite the country.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl intends to fly to Washington Jan. 30 to present Bush with the Special Class of the Great Service Cross of the Federal Republic of Germany.

Kohl is traveling to the United States at the invitation of President Clinton, with whom he will discuss Russian politics and NATO's new security plan for Eastern Europe.

The medal is in recognition of Bush's key role in reunifying Germany, Kohl spokesman Dieter Vogel said Wednesday. The honor is usually reserved for current foreign heads of state.

James Baker, Bush's secretary of state, will receive a similar medal for aiding in the reunion that followed East Germany's 1989 democratic revolution.

Members of Bippus Family and Community Education Club met recently in the home of Mariellen Homfeld to discuss the new club year's projects.

Members decided to keep up the community building and will continue their "adopted neighbors" program for an additional year.

Roll call was answered by "setting new goals for 1994" and new club yearbooks were filled in by those present.

During the brief business meeting, it was announced that the next meeting will be held in the home of Zodie Bettis with Alta Mae Higgins serving as co-hostess.

Also, plans were made for hosting the monthly birthday party at Golden Plains Nursing home.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been walking five and a half miles every morning for the past month to lose some fat around my waist. I'm a 64-year-old male, 5 feet 10 inches and weigh 180 pounds.

The length of time I walk varies from one hour and 10 minutes to one hour and 30 minutes, depending on how I feel. Because the distance is constant, is there any advantage in total calorie burn by walking the faster pace? Also, it has been suggested that I should walk every other day to allow the muscles to mend, as in weight lifting. Is that true?

DEAR READER: Men are particularly prone to developing a spare tire and an enlarged abdomen, while women are more prone to developing fatty thighs and buttocks. When the waistline is longer than the circumference of the hips in either males or females, there is a significant increased risk of heart attacks.

The two most important things you can do to eliminate the excess fat, both inside and outside the abdomen, is to limit your calorie intake and pursue a proper exercise program. Walking will help you eliminate calories and that is important, but it will not use your abdominal muscles that need to be strengthened as you lose weight.

You need to do strength exercises, sit-ups and isometric exercises of the abdominal muscles for that effect. I have described these in Special Report 104, How to Battle the Bulge, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/104, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

Regarding the speed for walking, on level ground, in terms of eliminating calories, there is no difference between walking between two and four miles an hour. The distance, not the time, is important at that speed. In other words, if you walk four miles at a speed of either two or four miles, an hour the number of calories used will be the same for the four-mile distance. If you walk faster than four miles an hour, then your body is less efficient and you use more calories per mile.

For endurance exercises such as the amount of walking you are doing, it is not at all necessary to skip every other day. You want to walk as many miles as you can to use as many calories as possible. It is usually more effective to walk four miles than jog a couple of miles. Again, distance outweighs speed when you want to lose calories.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been diagnosed as having attacks of ventricular tachycardia. I had six attacks in the last year and had an electrophysiological test. After an adrenaline injection they were able to induce an attack. I would like to know if adrenaline causes my attacks. Are these panic attacks? I would like to know where to go from here.

Is this the same as the tachycardia you wrote about in your column recently? Can gagging or breath-holding stop the attack?

DEAR READER: Ventricular tachycardia means the heart is stimulated to beat rapidly from an irritable focus in the lower, thick muscular, ventricular portion of the heart. It is far less common than paroxysmal atrial tachycardia.

Ventricular tachycardia is a more serious heart irregularity and needs to be treated at once. Unfortunately, the patient cannot tell whether it is supraventricular (above the ventricles) or ventricular tachycardia. Usually it takes an electrocardiogram to tell the difference. It can also occur without any underlying heart disease and may be related to having a scar or extra electrical tissue in the ventricle.

Not all rapid heart rates are either supraventricular or ventricular paroxysmal tachycardias. The heart can beat quite fast simply from anxiety or during exercise. In these cases, the heart starts to increase in rate gradually, and it slows down gradually. The rate is slower than the rapid heartbeat attacks originating from the heart itself. These sinus tachycardias are stimulated by nerves to the heart and are also unrelated to heart disease.

To help you understand the heart irregularities, I am sending you a free copy of Special Report 102, Heartbeat: Too Fast, Too Slow, Irregular. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to

The Newspaper BIBLE
YOU CAN BE PERPETUALLY 'NOT GUILTY'

Yes, all have sinned; all fall short of God's glorious ideal; yet now God declares us "not guilty" of offending Him if we trust in Jesus Christ, who in His kindness freely takes away our sins.

For God sent Christ Jesus to take the punishment for our sins and to end all God's anger against us. He used Christ's blood and our faith as the means of saving us from His wrath. In this way He was being entirely fair, even though He did not punish those who sinned in former times. For He was looking forward to the time when Christ would come and take away those sins.

And now in these days also He can receive sinners in the same way, because Jesus took away their sins. But isn't this unfair for God to let criminals go free, and say that they are innocent? No, for He does it on the basis of their trust in Jesus who took away their sins. Then what can we boast about doing, to earn our salvation? Nothing at all. Why? Because our acquittal is not based on our good deeds; it is based on what Christ has done and our faith in Him.

So it is that we are saved by faith in Christ and not by the good things we do. And does God save only the Jews in this way? No, the Gentiles, too, may come to Him in this same manner. God treats us all the same; all, whether Jews or Gentiles, are acquitted if they have faith.

Well then, if we are saved by faith, does this mean that we no longer need obey God's laws? Just the opposite! In fact, only when we trust Jesus can we truly obey Him.

DOE will cap interim storage at Pantex

WASHINGTON (AP) - Interim plutonium storage at Pantex will be capped, say Energy Department officials who will also finish an environmental review of their plan for a permanent national nuclear storage site before the end of 1996.

"We listened carefully to the concerns of the public about our plans at Pantex and through a dialogue, the department has arrived at a more informed decision allowing critical nuclear weapons dismantlement activities to continue and, at the same time, responding to important health, safety and environmental concerns," Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary said Wednesday.

The department said no more than 12,000 plutonium "pits" from disassembled nuclear warheads will be allowed at the 16,000-acre facility located near Amarillo, Texas.

The amount is up from the 6,800 pits currently permitted, but less than the 20,000 initially considered under the plan.

"It's what we expected. We really believed the situation warranted a full environmental impact statement, but the commitment from DOE will go a long way toward filling that need," said Mavis Belisle, director of the Peace Farm, a grassroots group against the nuclear arms race.

"The problem is that the commitments are voluntary and totally unenforceable," she said Wednesday night. "We are dependent on the good will of the Clinton administration and leadership of the agency. If that changes, we would be vulnerable."

Another Panhandle environmental group said state agencies will be allowed some oversight over

The Pilgrim fathers - 102 Puritans - sailed in the Mayflower Sept. 6, 1620, from Plymouth, England, to seek freedom of worship for their faith. The 74 men and 28 women were members of John Robinson's church at Leyden. They landed at Plymouth Rock in December 1620, and their settlement later formed part of Massachusetts.

President William McKinley was shot by an assassin Sept. 6, 1901. He died eight days later.

plutonium storage under the DOE move.

"We worked really hard on getting these commitments," said Beverly Gattis with Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping of Amarillo, Inc. "We are pleased the DOE has done what it did. Is it everything we asked for? No. It really is a gentlemen's agreement. We acknowledge it for what it is."

The department will also be permitted to continue its warhead dismantling at Pantex at the rate of 2,000 weapons a year for three years until the 12,000-pit limit is reached. An environmental impact statement examining DOE's proposal for a long-term storage site for tons of plutonium from dismantled nuclear weapons must be finished by Nov. 15, 1996.

The U.S. nuclear weapons stockpile, with the Cold War's end, is being reduced dramatically. As a result, DOE must determine what to do with an estimated 100 tons of plutonium from dismantled warheads kept at several weapons plants around the country.

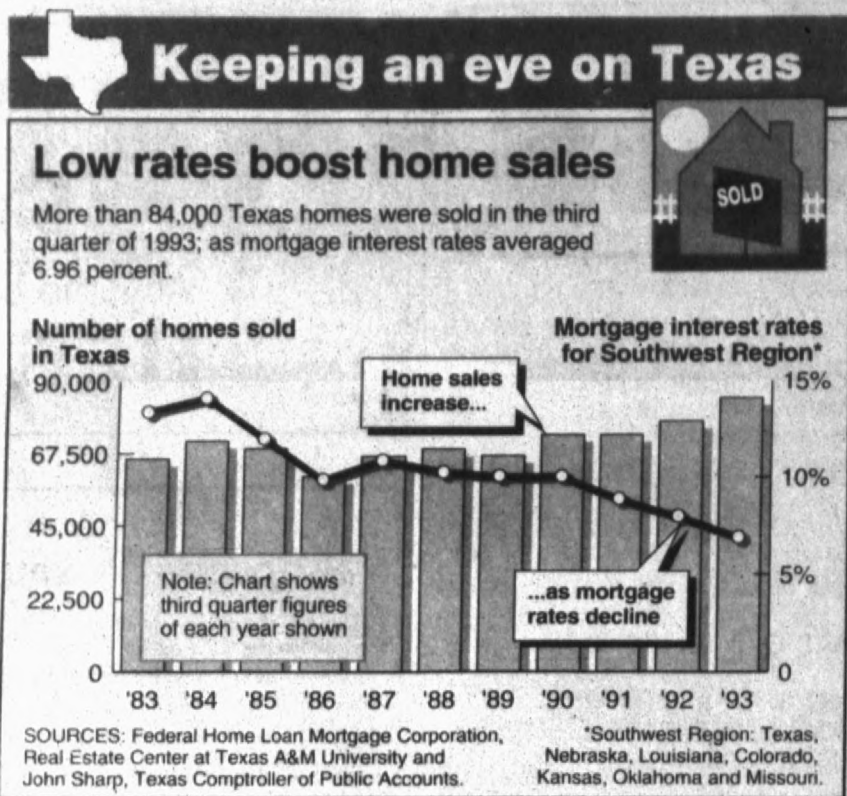

The federal government wants to consolidate the highly-radioactive stockpile at one of five facilities.

In addition to Pantex, which employs some 3,000 people, the other candidates are Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Savannah River, S.C.; the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory and the Nevada Test Site north of Las Vegas.

Rep. Bill Sarpalius of Amarillo was pleased by Wednesday's announcement. Others on Capitol Hill were expecting announcement of the permanent storage facility site by this spring.

"The congressman believes this is a good thing," said Phil Duncan, chief of staff for Sarpalius. "This is basically an agreement reached with several of the advocacy groups that there will be a date certain for completion of the programmatic environmental impact statement that will site the nuclear weapons complex."

The advocacy groups apparently agreed not to challenge the interim storage environmental review, thereby setting aside the potential for a lawsuit that could have disrupted Pantex' disassembly operations, Duncan said.

Walsh 'content' with probe result

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prosecutor Lawrence Walsh says he's content with the outcome of his seven-year investigation into the Iran-Contra scandal - even though two ex-presidents have nothing good to say about him and much of official Washington thinks he should have left town long ago.

The criticism hurts, Walsh acknowledged Wednesday as he defended his final report's conclusions that top Reagan aides engaged in a cover-up to protect the president from impeachment.

"We thought we'd be able to wrap up a year or so" after the 1990 trial of ex-national security adviser John Poindexter, Walsh said in an interview.

That was before Walsh's investigators uncovered Caspar Weinberger's notes chronicling the behind-the-scenes maneuvering inside the administration as the Iran-Contra scandal unfolded in November 1986.

"We've followed the evidence as far as it will take us - it's time to conclude," said Walsh.

His final report was called "a vehicle for baseless accusations" by former President Reagan. And Senate

Republican Leader Bob Dole described his seven-year stint as "a case study in prosecutorial abuse and excess."

The prosecutor is highly critical of George Bush - both as vice president and president - and top Reagan Cabinet members - less-so of the man at the top, Reagan, who "set the stage" - in the Walsh report's words - for the illegal activities which ensued.

Walsh is even kinder to Reagan during interviews than in the prosecutor's final report.

"Yes, the president did set in motion activities which circumvented the Arms Export Control Act on the Iran arms shipments and the Boland Amendment" barring U.S. military assistance to the Nicaraguan Contras, said Walsh.

"But both are civil statutes (and) the president honestly believed that what he was doing was right for the country," said Walsh. "I hate to treat the president of the United States like someone who walks on the grass where there's a sign saying keep off the grass. I think the president should be treated differently."

Walsh is less kind to those under Reagan.

Couple convicted of starving child

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Sentencing awaits a couple found guilty of withholding food in the slow starvation death of their 7-year-old daughter.

Jurors sifted through a tedious bulk of medical testimony for about three hours Wednesday before convicting Steven and Patricia Carman in the death of Stephanie Carman.

The punishment phase was scheduled to begin this morning. Prosecutors say the Carmans locked their daughter in her barren bedroom and used food to control her behavior as she became emaciated and her hair fell out.

But defense attorneys argued that the couple loved their daughter and tried to do what was best for her. They contended Stephanie had emotional problems, and presented witnesses who speculated Stephanie could have died of infection or choking.

"Pat and Steve Carman are not the monsters they tried to paint," said Daniel Hurley, who represents Mrs. Carman.

The Carmans appeared shaken by Wednesday's verdict, which left other family members in tears and disbelief.

Mrs. Carman, 35, was found guilty of intentionally causing serious bodily harm to her stepdaughter. She faces life imprisonment and a fine up to $10,000 for the first-degree felony.

Carman, 37, was found guilty of a third-degree felony: recklessly causing serious bodily harm to his daughter. He faces a similar fine and two to 10 years in prison.

Prosecutors stuck to their contention that chronic malnutrition caused Stephanie's death on June 8, 1992. She weighed just 43 pounds, 11 pounds less than the amount listed on a doctor's record 18 months earlier.

During three hours of closing arguments, attorneys on both sides reviewed a baffling array of medical terms - hemoglobins, fatty metamorphosis, blood gas values - to explain what caused Stephanie to collapse on her bedroom floor the day she died.

Stephanie grew lethargic after the Carmans pulled her out of school and kept her locked up, prosecutor Rebecca Atchley told the jury.

"Eventually, Stephanie lost interest because the only thing that mattered to her was food," Ms. Atchley said.

But the defense accused prosecutors of not proving sensational accusations made when the trial started Dec. 15.

Hurley and fellow defense attorney Sam Ogan also questioned findings by the state's pathologists.

Pantex tour now available after backlog cleared up

AMARILLO -- When the U.S. Department of Energy's Pantex Plant began offering public tours last year, the overwhelming response caused such a backlog of participants that some people had to wait months before they could be accommodated.

However, according to the department, that is no longer true.

To help eliminate the problem, Mason & Hanger-Silas Mason Co., which operates and manages the plant for DOE, began running two tours each Wednesday instead of one. Now, a year later, more than 3,000 area residents have visited the plant and the backlog is clearing up.

Tour participants can now be scheduled in a reasonable amount of time and, unless there is a major influx of visitors, the second tour each week is not necessary.

There is no cost for the tour, but reservations must be made in advance to secure available openings. Tours are limited to 40 people and seats are filled and confirmed on a first come, first served basis.

Participants must be U.S. citizens, must be at least 16 years old and must have a valid photo identification in their possession during the tour.

For more information or to make a tour reservation, call Chris Harkins at (806) 477-5777.
