in brief

ANTI-LAND MINE GROUP, FOUNDER RECEIVE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

OSLO, Norway (AP) - The U.S.-based International Campaign to Ban Land Mines and its coordinator Jody Williams were awarded the Nobel Peace Prize today.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee cited them for starting a "process which in the space of a few years changed a ban on anti-personnel mines from a vision to a feasible reality." The prize, worth $1 million, is to be divided equally between Williams and the organization.

After six years of quietly working toward a ban on anti-personnel mines, the group burst into the public's consciousness with the Aug. 31 death of Princess Diana, the cause's most visible supporter.

And last month in Oslo, more than 90 countries drafted a treaty that would totally ban anti-personnel mines, which kill or maim 26,000 people a year, about 80 percent of them civilians.

HURRICANE PAULINE POUNDS WESTERN MEXICO COAST

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) - Tropical Storm Pauline dumped torrents of rain on western Mexico today and was breaking up over the inland mountains after spawning deadly flooding and mudslides that killed at least 118 people.

Twice as many people were reported injured and dozens were missing after the storm's four-day rampage through the states of Oaxaca and Guerrero, home to Acapulco. There were no reports of deaths or injuries among tourists.

Heavy rains turned streets into roaring rivers of debris. Water swept boulders the size of cars down the hills and flipped vehicles like toys, catching some with lights still on, their doors underwater. Wind-battered palm trees bowed over along the avenues lined by hotels.

Authorities appealed for help for Acapulco, which the federal government declared a disaster area. The beach resort had run out of gasoline, drinking water, food, clothing, medicines and many more essentials.

Pauline was downgraded from hurricane status on Thursday and was "weakening rapidly" today, the U.S. Hurricane Center in Miami said. It warned though that heavy rains and flooding were still likely.

ADMINISTRATION OFFERS PLAN TO REIN IN THE IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Chastened by congressional hearings on Internal Revenue Service abuses, the Clinton administration has assembled a broad plan to protect taxpayers. But the package falls short of Republican demands that the tax agency bear more responsibility for its mistakes.

The proposal would dramatically expand customer services by the IRS, recommend the creation of 33 local "citizen advocacy boards" for greater citizen involvement in fielding complaints, and give greater powers to the agency's taxpayer advocate's office.

The office last year helped 300,000 Americans resolve tax problems in an average of 38 days.

Clinton also will seek to prevent such practices as audit quotas by prohibiting the IRS from ranking its district offices on the basis of how many enforcement activities their agents undertake.

CLINTON PLANS VISITS TO OVERLOOKED AREAS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Presidential travel abroad usually is fairly predictable. Visits to close allies and strategically important countries are the norm; the rest often are ignored.

But with fewer enemies to keep at bay these days and having dispensed with what officials call the "premier" issues during almost five years in office, President Clinton is preparing to branch out on distant roads his predecessors generally bypassed.

After a three-nation visit to South America next week, Clinton plans a trip to India, Pakistan and perhaps Bangladesh in early 1998 and to explore sub-Saharan Africa later on.

Such off-the-beaten-path travel is easier in a second term when, among other considerations, the growing pains are over and re-election is no longer a focus, officials say.

CHRYSLER NOT LIKELY TO PAY $262.5 MILLION JUDGMENT

DETROIT (AP) - Headline-grabbing, multimillion-dollar verdicts such as this week's wrongful death judgment against Chrysler are rare. Even rarer is one that is collected in full.

The $262.5 million award against Chrysler probably will be added to the list of verdicts against large companies that have been reduced - either by the trial judge, an appeals court or through a settlement, legal experts said Thursday.

"When you see a verdict for $100, $150 million, it's a rarity to collect the verdict amount," said Richard S. Seidel, a Philadelphia lawyer who has handled similar cases. "It's the rare defendant that says, 'OK, we were wrong, the jury said we were wrong, here's the money.'"

On Wednesday, a jury in Charleston, S.C., ordered Chrysler to pay $250 million in punitive damages and $12.5 million in actual damages to the family of a 6-year-old boy killed in a 1994 accident. The family of Sergio Jimenez II claimed a defective rear latch caused the boy to be thrown from their Chrysler minivan.

SHOWERS, THUNDERSTORMS EXPECTED

By The Associated Press
Showers and thunderstorms continued to cover the state and flood warnings were still in effect this morning for much of South Texas.

West Texans can expect showers and thunderstorms over most of the region through Saturday. Highs will reach the 70s and 80s. Lows will dip into 50s and 60s.

It's time to get ready for winter

By DIANNA F. DANDRIDGE
Staff Writer

Fall is here. Leaves have begun to change color and cover yards and driveways.

With the coming of fall, homeowners need to take advantage of the remaining warm days and prepare their homes for the coming winter.

Many maintenance tasks which can be completed by homeowners add comfort, beauty and value to the home, as well as making the home safer and more cost efficient.

Jeff Nielsen, a heating and cooling technician with Comfort Air Commercial Services, said one of the most important things anyone can do is to purchase and use a carbon monoxide detector.

"Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless gas that kills," he said. "The only way to detect its presence is with the use of a detector."

Faulty venting, vent obstruction or poorly adjusted gas or propane burners are often the cause of carbon monoxide forming and being released into a home.

"Flames should burn a bright blue and not lift off the burner," said Nielsen. "That goes for any gas or propane appliance."

Nielsen said this is a good time to check the water heaters and make sure they are working properly.

"When replacing a hot water heater, remember to check the copper tubing and connections," he said. "Natural gas eats up copper tubing and it is no longer up to code."

Nielsen also noted a frequently forgotten source of drafts is the uncovered roof-top evaporative cooler.

Cars, tobacco spur rise in wholesale prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inflation at the wholesale level, led by big gains in the cost of energy, new cars and tobacco, climbed an unexpectedly high 0.5 percent last month.

The Labor Department said today that the September gain in its Producer Price Index, which measures cost pressures before they reach the consumer, was the biggest increase this year and followed a 0.3 percent rise in August.

The gain was more than double what investors had been expected and the initial reaction was negative on Wall Street. The yield on Treasury's benchmark 30-year bond jumped to 6.43 percent while stocks were down 15 points in early trading.

Economists cautioned against an overreaction to the wholesale price report, arguing that energy prices have already begun to moderate and the spike in auto and tobacco costs reflected temporary factors.

"This is not the leading edge of a new inflation problem," said Cynthia Latta, economist at Standard & Poor's DRI in Lexington, Mass. "It was mainly tobacco and cars."

Financial markets had been put on a renewed inflation alert on Wednesday when Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan shook up investors by saying that economic good times behind the current bull market could falter.

On Thursday, Germany's central bank raised German interest rates for the first time in five years, triggering similar rate increases across Europe.

In a separate report today showing plentiful food supplies, the Agriculture Department raised its estimate of the nation's corn harvest to 9.31 billion bushels, the third-largest crop in history.

The September increase in wholesale prices reflected a big 1.5 percent jump in energy prices, the biggest monthly gain since December, while food prices were up a modest 0.1 percent.

Even excluding the volatile food and energy sectors, the so-called core rate of inflation was up 0.4 percent, the worst showing since November 1995. Most of the price pressures last month came in higher costs for new cars and tobacco.

Greenspan's comments this week represented a change from his generally optimistic summertime assessment of the current economic expansion, now in its seventh year with inflation at the lowest levels in three decades.

Greenspan warned that the economy's rapid growth and heavy demand for workers were unsustainable and inflation continued to be the greatest threat to ending the current recovery.

While the Fed has left interest rates unchanged since a small upward nudge in March, many economists believe the central bank is poised to start tightening credit further at the first whiff of inflation.

Attendants, tobacco industry settle

MIAMI (AP) - An out-of-court settlement was reached today in flight attendants' landmark lawsuit against the tobacco industry over illnesses linked to secondhand smoke.

The plaintiffs and the defense have settled this case," Circuit Judge Robert Kaye told jurors today.

He said he couldn't give them details, and praised lawyers and jurors alike for their handling of the "extremely difficult" case.

"You've paid attention, you've been interested, you've taken notes ... You did it without complaint," he told jurors. "Without you, none of this would have been accomplished."

The agreement came a day after the 4-month-old trial had an unscheduled day off. Lawyers for both sides and the judge held a closed-door meeting this morning.

An estimated 60,000 nonsmoking flight attendants sued the tobacco industry for $5 billion, claiming they got sick breathing secondhand smoke on airlines. The case went to trial June 2 and the defense began presenting its side last month.

Earlier, sources told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity that the settlement was expected

Morales pleased by tobacco ruling

AUSTIN (AP) - Attorney General Dan Morales says a federal appeals court ruling will help Texas press its multibillion-dollar lawsuit against the tobacco industry.

Tobacco's top lawyer said he was disappointed - but not worried - by the decision.

A three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans on Thursday rejected the industry's bid to overturn U.S. District Judge David Folsom's earlier ruling that divided the state's lawsuit into three parts.

The state's lawyers have called that ruling a key victory for presenting their case, and Morales reiterated that after the appeals court ruling.

"Texas is ready to go to trial, and the people of Texas deserve to be presented the facts of this case in an orderly and uncomplicated fashion," Morales said.

The industry is ready, too, said Dan Webb, tobacco's chief attorney in the case.

"We're disappointed, because we had felt there are some significant legal defects in the state's case that should have made a trial unnecessary," Webb said.

"We're ready to go to trial, we're going to go to trial, and we're going to go to trial because we are convinced we will be able to show the jury that the state's case is without any merit whatsoever," he said.

Texas is suing the tobacco industry for some $14 billion in an attempt to recover money the state says has been spent on Medicaid for treating tobacco-related illnesses.

On Sept. 29, Judge Folsom, who is presiding over the upcoming trial in Texarkana, ruled that the case would be split into three separate parts.

The first section to be tried will be charges of racketeering, followed by liability issues. The third part will be over the possibility of damages.

Morales' office has called that a "tremendous decision" since it would keep the issues separate and allow them to be presented to jurors in an orderly fashion.

TRAVIS COUNTY SHERIFF WANTS NIXON

HOUSTON - If it's up to Travis County Sheriff Margo Frasier, state Sen. Drew Nixon would do his time where he did the crime. Thursday, she vehemently rejected the 33-year-old Republican's plea to be jailed near his hometown of Carthage while serving his six-month sentence for soliciting a prostitute and illegally carrying a weapon. Nixon has been ordered to report to the Travis County Jail by 6 p.m. next Friday, but got Nacogdoches County Sheriff Joe Evans' OK to serve his sentence in Nacogdoches instead, if Travis County Judge-at-Law David Puryear acquiesces.

Frasier says once Nixon gets in her jail, she'll release him only if ordered to. "Senator Nixon chose Austin, Texas, to commit his crime and he is trying to get himself some preferential treatment by going back someplace where, frankly, he has clout," the sheriff said Thursday.

FRIO PRESCRIPTION CONVICTIONS REVERSED

SAN ANTONIO - Two felony convictions of a woman in Frio County for possessing Mexican prescription drugs have been reversed by Texas' 4th Court of Appeals. The appellate court accused Frio County officials of allowing a desire for revenue to taint their interpretation of the state law they use to prosecute people for possessing drugs prescribed by Mexican doctors. District Attorney Lynn Ellison said he will stop prosecuting Mexican prescription drug cases because of the appellate court's ruling but defended his earlier prosecution of the cases. "The laws are on the books, and law enforcement officers are required to enforce them," Ellison said. "If there is a conflict, it's up to the appellate courts to interpret them and say it's not enforceable." He said he will not appeal the 4th Court's ruling.

HEAVY RAINS FLOOD COASTAL BEND

CORPUS CHRISTI - The Coastal Bend was expected to be under a flash flood watch for most of the morning after heavy rains caused street flooding that paralyzed parts of Nueces and San Patricio counties Thursday. Residents were asked to stay inside as the two south-central Texas counties remained under a flash flood warning for much of Thursday afternoon. "Most of the main thoroughfares are flooded," said Corpus Christi police Sgt. Judy Patton. "The freeways are open, but you can't get off of them to go anywhere." "The water is up to the windows of vehicles in some areas." Scores of stalled vehicles were abandoned on flooded streets as their drivers waded toward higher ground with their pants rolled up.

RESTRICTIONS EASED ON LOVE FIELD

WASHINGTON - Congress has given final approval to legislation that eases federal flight restrictions at Dallas Love Field by permitting some direct flights beyond Texas and its four neighboring states. Nonstop commercial travel to Alabama, Kansas and Mississippi would be allowed under a compromise painstakingly hammered out by House and Senate negotiators. That compromise was included in a $42 billion transportation spending bill adopted overwhelmingly Thursday by the House. The Senate passed it later on a voice vote and sent the legislation to President Clinton. The nagging Texas airport feud delayed completion of the transportation bill for weeks, as Sen. Richard Shelby, R-Ala., squared off against several Texas lawmakers.

STATE SENATOR CHASTISES TOP JUDGE

AUSTIN - State Sen. John Whitmire has criticized Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Tom Phillips for the court's decision to withhold judicial telephone records from the public. "Good government, good openness and common sense would say you just make the documents available," Whitmire, D-Houston, told Phillips during a Senate committee hearing on public information. "It just seems you've come up with every reason possible to state why you shouldn't have to operate like every other elected official." The supreme court last month overruled an opinion from the attorney general's office requiring courts to make public documents and records that do not relate to their decision-making in court cases. Attorney General Dan Morales said while the Texas Public Information Act exempts the state judiciary from its requirements, it is not a blanket exemption. The law generally requires records created or held by public officials to be made available to the public for a reasonable cost. "The dispute at issue is whether records of the judiciary of some kinds should be subject" to the law, Morales said. "No one should be granted blanket exclusion."

Global warming or industrial expense

Will Clinton provide industry an escape?

WASHINGTON (AP) - Torn between a desire to address global warming and industry's concerns about high costs, the Clinton administration is considering a plan that would cap greenhouse pollution yet allow businesses an "escape hatch" if it becomes too expensive.

The proposal has gained increasing prominence within the White House, especially among the president's economic advisers. It would allow the United States to agree to significant reductions in carbon emissions at an upcoming climate conference.

Administration officials emphasized Thursday that a U.S. proposal for the December climate negotiations were still being crafted.

"We've been looking at a lot of ideas and we haven't ruled anything in or out," said Todd Stern, the point man at the White House for global warming issues.

But sources familiar with the discussions acknowledged that a so-called "hybrid" proposal for dealing with heat-trapping emissions into the atmosphere is getting growing attention.

President Clinton repeatedly has said he wants to conclude binding commitments among industrial nations to reduce carbon and other heat trapping pollution as part of a climate treaty to be negotiated in Kyoto, Japan, in December. But he has said he also wants to give U.S. industry flexibility to keep costs low.

Part of that flexibility long has been a proposed pollution-trading arrangement among industrial countries, and perhaps even developing countries like China. The latest wrinkle would be to add a "trigger" mechanism that would allow countries to avoid compliance with agreed upon emission caps if cutting pollution exceeds a certain cost.

This "hybrid" approach was raised at the recent White House conference on global warming where Vice President Al Gore expressed some interest. It has been under discussion within the administration for some time and was the subject of a briefing to the president's economic advisers several weeks ago. It may again be raised at a Cabinet meeting today.

But as word of the administration's interest surfaced, major environmental groups launched what they hoped would be a pre-emptive strike.

In a letter to Clinton sent late

Wednesday night, environmental groups said an "escape clause" based on costs to industry "would allow nations to abandon the emissions reduction commitments" they make in Kyoto.

"Such a mechanism would undermine the credibility of the entire (global warming) treaty process," said the letter signed by the heads of 17 major environmental organizations.

Industry has been silent on the issue.

The "hybrid" approach is fashioned after a proposal from a group of economists at Resources for the Future, a Washington think-tank that specializes in environmental issues.

It would work this way: Industrial countries would agree to binding caps for carbon emissions by a certain year, including a pollution-trading arrangement where governments, or perhaps industries, could purchase pollution credits from those exceeding the cap. If the value of those credits reached a certain level, the government would step in and sell credits at an agreed to price, driving down the cost.

Raymond Kopp of Resources of the Future said the effect would be to cap emission reduction costs at the "trigger" level for pollution credits.

"It would provide the business side with some certainty. On the environmental side, they get a cap as long as the costs stay below this trigger," Kopp said in an interview.

Kopp had expected the compromise would be one "that could make everyone at least somewhat satisfied."

Not so.

If the trigger were low - say $10 a ton of pollution, as suggested by one economist recently - "it makes it almost certain that countries would not have to keep their commitments because industries would be able to buy phantom pollution credits" cheaper than it would cost to cut pollution, says Alden Meyer of the Union of Concerned Scientists. "It would basically allow countries to bust the targets."

Gore was said to be interested in the program only if the trigger is set high enough that it will produce actual emission reductions.

One administration official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said environmentalists have argued that greenhouse gases can be curtailed without major economic costs.

EPA targets interstate pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Environmental Protection Agency is targeting nearly two dozen states for tougher air pollution controls as part of an effort to reduce smog-causing chemicals that travel across state boundaries.

The EPA, after months of discussions with states, was expected to impose the tighter requirements on states across the eastern half of the country to reduce smog-causing pollution, especially from coal-burning power plants.

The steepest reductions were expected to be faced by states in the Midwest and the Ohio Valley, from Illinois to West Virginia. In all, 22 states will have to meet tighter requirements for smog-causing nitrogen oxide emissions.

The agency was to release details of the new requirements at news briefings today, including how much of an emissions reduction each state was expected to achieve.

In many cases, states will have up to seven years to achieve the pollution reductions.

The new requirements have been expected as part of the EPA's efforts to curtail the flow of pollution across long distances and to help states and local communities meet controversial new air quality health standards announced last summer.

Northeastern states have complained that pollution from Ohio Valley coal-burning power plants has made it impossible for states from Maryland to Maine to clean up their air.

Ned Helme, executive director of the Washington-based Center for Clean Air Policy, said the tougher requirements will cut nitrogen oxide emissions by 1.2 million tons, or nearly 80 percent from 1995 summer ozone levels in the states involved.

Although electric utilities are required to make some cuts in nitrogen oxide under an acid-rain control program, the new EPA requirements will force them to make even deeper reductions.

No monitoring, no food, say officials

North Korea must allow distribution monitors

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States will stop providing food to famine-afflicted North Korea unless the Asian country permits broader monitoring of aid distribution to nursery schools, kindergartens and hospitals, a U.S. government official warns.

Even with shipments from the United States, Europe, China, South Korea and other donors, North Korea's food supply amounts to less than half of what its population requires. Especially severe shortages are expected in the winter.

The United States, as part of an international program, helps some 2.6 million children under the age of 6, a million patients with severe nutrition, and workers in special programs to counter disasters. The United States this year contributed 177,000 metric tons of grain.

While there is no evidence American corn, rice and other food aid is being diverted to North Korea's military or stolen, international relief monitors do not have access to areas in the north and the center of the country, officials said.

The World Food Program, which is providing 330,000 metric tons overall, has asked North Korea to permit 17 monitors to oversee distribution, but only seven have been approved.

REAGAN

who sometimes noted the exact amount of money to be raised at the event

Reagan was assured by lawyers the calls were legal.

The documents do not indicate Reagan ever made a call directly to individual donors from the White House to solicit a specific amount of money - like Vice President Al Gore has admitted. President Clinton has said it is possible he, too, may have made direct telephone solicitations.

Those admissions have embroiled the current White House in questions of whether the president or vice president violated a federal law prohibiting solicitations on federal property.

While China, which is providing 150,000 tons of food, does not insist on monitoring, the United States does in Bosnia, Somalia, North Korea and other assisted countries. But the communist government in Pyongyang has not permitted monitors in the northern and central region, and no U.S. food goes there.

"We still feel our food is adequately being overseen," Leonard Rogers, an administrator with the Agency for International Development, said Thursday.

But, he said, "we will not provide assistance unless there is effective monitoring."

In fact, he said, "we will decline to participate" and "we will be firm on the monitoring issue this next go-round because we have this experience which is unsatisfactory from our point of view."

North Korea, in the best of times, is unable to feed itself adequately. It has suffered major floods in 1995 and 1996, a serious drought this year, which destroyed much of the corn crop, and then a typhoon that devastated the rice yield.

The communist country also has been in serious economy decline for several years, compounded by the loss of trade after the collapse of the Soviet Union and the transition to democracy in eastern and central Europe.

A U.S. official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said: "We don't have a full picture of the food problem in North Korea yet."

He said there were alarming but uncorroborated reports of cannibalism and starved bodies strewn alongside roads.

After the briefing, the State Department press office distributed a news release saying there had been no change in U.S. policy on food aid to North Korea, which is provided on a humanitarian basis.

Meanwhile, Rep. Tony Hall, D-Ohio, said he would go to North Korea next Tuesday to examine conditions.

Hall's visit in April provided the West with some of its first glimpses of the extent of the famine. He reported watching starving people peel the bark from trees for nourishment.

Hall said he also intended to make inquiries about American servicemen missing since the Korea War.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting married for the first time at age 37. Family is important to me, so I asked my "Aunt Clara" to be my maid of honor. When I went shopping for my wedding gown, I invited Aunt Clara to come along and help me select one. She agreed and brought her 16-year-old daughter, "Dotty." The girl is dating a 19-year-old boy who has proposed. At the very first bridal store, the two of them took off and started to look at wedding dresses for Dotty. They completely ignored me. The same thing happened at the next store.

Later that week, I called my grandmother and told her what happened. Grandma called Aunt Clara, who wrote me a letter saying she could no longer be my maid of honor because of our lack of communication. I called Aunt Clara to thank her for her letter and agreed that she should step down. She then told me I was self-centered and immature and needed to grow up.

My mother and other family members see nothing wrong with Aunt Clara's behavior. My friends and my fiance, however, think she was shockingly rude. Am I immature, like she said? Please settle this. -- San Mateo, Calif.

Dear San Mateo: The trouble started when you phoned your grandmother and told her what happened. This was not your grandmother's business. Unfortunately, your grandmother's loose lip alerted Aunt Clara, who must be a case of arrested development. (Sounds like loose lips run in the family.)

Anyone who writes to me is in danger of getting advice. Here's yours: Do less talking, and stop looking for justification when things don't go your way. (Did you say you were 37 years old?)

Dear Ann Landers: Your readers should be informed about mobile phone abuse. They must be made to understand that a mobile phone is not a toy. Just because it can be carried everywhere, does not mean it should be in constant use.

I have many clients, and often, I must give them directions to my home. People with cellular phones are a new breed of idiot. They never write down the information. They just drive a few blocks, call me again and say, "Was I supposed to turn right or left at this intersection?" Then, the phone rings again, and I'll hear, "I just turned onto your street. What's the number?" Another ring and "Where am I supposed to park?"

All these interruptions are unfair to the client I am working with. I am sick to death of these cellular phone morons. Any ideas on how to eliminate them? -- Helen in Houston

Dear Helen: "They" cannot be "eliminated," but you can circumvent them by turning your phone off or letting your answering machine pick up. If you miss a few calls, so what? It's better than ulcers or high blood pressure. P.S. The client you are with is entitled to your full attention. Keep reading for more on this subject.

Dear Ann Landers: I just attended a three-day seminar for teachers. I was amazed at the number of cellular phones that rang during the presentation. The presenter was patient and polite and ignored the persistent ringing, but many of us found it distracting and rude.

What is the etiquette about the presence of cellular phones? Please give us some guidelines. -- Oxnard, Calif.

Dear Oxnard: Unless you are a physician or expecting an emergency call, cellular phones should be turned off during meetings or in any setting where they might be disruptive.

'Students at Risk' topic of October program for Delta Kappa Gamma Society meeting

Janie Rendon introduced the program, "Learning: Students at Risk", at the October meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma Society. She related that students are at risk for varied reasons: emotional, physical, and sexual abuse; academic failure; lack of parental guidance and concern; lack of self-confidence and self-esteem; and other reasons depending on each student.

Rendon stated that after testing and evaluation the students are channeled into the classes that will fulfill their needs. Rendon then introduced Rick Jackson, the director of the Deaf Smith County Youth Home.

Jackson explained that these youths were placed there by the court for a period of three to six months, but may remain there for a year or more. His job is to instruct the students in their basic subjects, so that when they return to school they will not lose high school credits.

But if they remain for six months they will lose credit for electives. Many do not believe that they will graduate or that they are able to succeed, Jackson said.

"My job is motivation, to create a desire to learn," he explained. He does this by incorporating the use of life skills that relate to the boys' experience in his teaching.

Jackson reiterated that even though the range of ability ranges from third grade to 12th and their average age is 14, he believes that every child is capable of learning.

President Nina Brown conducted the business meeting and asked for committee reports.

Achievement Awards were given to Karen Solomon and Carolyn Waters for their Society and civic contributions.

Brown thanked the hostesses Solomon, Carole McGilvary, Lois Miller, Louise Witkowski, Betty Sue Robinson and Marge Bell and the meeting was adjourned.

Ministry in drama planned

Covenant Players, a ministry of faith, will perform at First United Methodist Church in Hereford during the 10:45 a.m. worship hour Sunday.

The ministry in drama also includes live music, sound recording, video-cassettes and workshops in drama and communications.

Covenant Players is a non-endowed, non-profit corporation. It is not affiliated with any church or other organization. Its financial support is derived from the performing engagements and other donations.

The goal is to serve the Lord

Christ by serving His church and the world.

Having something to say and getting people to listen and respond to it are two different things. Covenant Players was created by Charles M. Tanner in 1963 with just this in mind -- the need for a medium that can communicate the vibrant challenges of Christian commitment -- in a way too engrossing to ignore, too much fun to get uptight about and too potent and personal to be rationalized away.

Initial meeting set for support group of Alzheimer's caregivers

An initial meeting for a support group for family caregivers of persons with Alzheimer's Disease and related dementias has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Nov. 13 at the Fellowship of Believers Church, 245 North Kingwood (at Moreman).

A support group is a gathering of people with common problems, needs and interests to share their feelings, thoughts, questions and experience in a combined effort to better cope with and survive the challenge presented by person with Alzheimer's Disease and related dementias.

In affiliation with the Alzheimer's Association, Panhandle Chapter, group facilitator will be Nathan L. Stone, Ph.D., pastoral counselor and former senior chaplain with Family Hospice of Temple and pastor of Fellowship of Believers Church.

Rebekah's bake sale Saturday

A "Bake Sale" sponsored by Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 will be held beginning at 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Homeland Supermarket.

The lodge will host an open house during its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 205

E. 6th in observance of its 95th anniversary.

No longer does a member of the Rebekah Lodge have to be related to an Odd Fellow. Any qualified female 18 years of age or older, any race, color or nationality is eligible to become a member of Rebekah Lodge.

WESTWAY BAPTIST CHURCH

Revival time is here. Services begin tonight (Friday) at 7 p.m. Services will be held again on Saturday evening and then on Sunday at 11 a.m. Guest speaker for this time of revival is Leon Armstrong of McAllen.

Come and hear this young man and meet his family. You will be inspired and blessed. There will also be old time gospel singing.

Sunday after the morning worship service there will be a special time of fellowship, friendship and food at our potluck, get-acquainted time. Join us as we rejoice in what the Lord has and is doing.

Our regular worship schedule is Sunday School at 9:45 a.m., Sunday worship at 11 a.m. and Wednesday services at 7 p.m.

We invite everyone to share with us the goodness of our God.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Morning worship at 10:45 will feature the Covenant Players, an international repertory theatre, who will make a presentation using light comedy and serious drama. A non-endowed, non-profit corporation, the players are dedicated to a ministry which communicates a wide variety of themes, issues and subject matter. They will be introduced by Dr. Tom Fuller, pastor.

The offertory will be presented by the Carol Choir singing "Questions and the Sanctuary Choir will sing "This Is the Day That the Lord Has Made" as the morning anthem.

The junior high youth and their parents will share in a pizza party in Fellowship Hall immediately following the morning worship service.

The United Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday for their regular snack supper and study session. Dr. Fuller is leading the senior high study and Mike McPherson, youth director, the junior high study.

The junior high class, with Margaret Williams as their teacher, is the winner for the first week of the Sunday School Scramble, and they challenge the other classes of all age groups to do as well. The event, designed to encourage increased attendance, will continue for the months of October and November.

The evening vesper service begins at 6 with Margaret Williams as the devotional leader.

The Pastor-Parish Relations Committee meets in the Koimonia

CLASSROOM at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday to discuss staff evaluations and budget needs.

NEW BEGINNINGS ASSEMBLY OF GOD BILINGUAL CHURCH

The congregation of New Beginnings along with Pastors Rafael and Linda Rosado would cordially like to invite you to join us this Sunday morning at 9:45 for an incredible study in prophecy. There are classes for all ages, so bring your kids.

Sunday evening praise and worship is at 6 p.m.

Wednesday night Bible study is on the book of Genesis at 7 p.m.

Youth night service is at 7 p.m. Friday.

The ladies meet for prayer and Bible study on Thursdays at 9:30 a.m. If you need prayer call 363-9007 or 364-0210.

God bless you. See you in church. We are located at the corner of Bradley and Ironwood, across from West Park Cemetery.

FIRST UNITED PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

Pastor Warren McKibben is pleased to announce the opening of an Acts 2:38 Bible believing church. We welcome all for a truly down to earth praise and worship experience with our Lord.

If you are seeking answers, come and let's worship together in the name of Jesus. If you are looking for a blessing and still believe in miracles, then this is the place to come. We are one big happy family of God.

We invite all to attend our services at 2 p.m. Sunday.

For further information, call 1-800-454-6051.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

We at Calvary Baptist Church extend a hearty welcome for you to attend our Sunday school and church services.

When you come, we believe you will especially enjoy the wholesome Christian fellowship and spiritual service. There will be a Sunday school class for every member of your family.

Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. and worship is at 11 a.m.

Ray Sanders is the pastor.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Members of Immanuel Lutheran at 100 Avenue B invite you to participate in our Sunday and Wednesday worship celebration and Bible-prayer activities.

Sunday School and Bible classes for all ages begin at 10 a.m. The Adult Bible class continue their discussion on the topic: "God's Comfort for Troubled Christians."

We meet for Christian fellowship briefly with refreshments before the 11 a.m. worship celebration. The message this Sunday will be focused on "Questions Asked of Jesus" series taken from the 10th chapter of Mark. The topic from the sermon series for Oct. 12 is "What Must I Do?"

On Wednesday we continue our Bible survey course, GOD FOR US, a discussion series based on Bible teaching as taught by the Lutheran Church. The topic this week is "Looking into the Future" which deal with Bible reference to Resurrection/Judgment; Heaven/Hell, and the Certainty of Eternal Salvation through Jesus Christ based on Romans 8:31-39.

Sunday School and Youth classes are making plans for the Fall Festival on Oct. 31. The community is cordially invited.

Sunday School classes recently sponsored a mission project for the residents of King's Manor and Westgate Care Center.

Immanuel wants to serve you and your spiritual needs. For further information, please call Rev. Robert Kuhlmann, Amarillo at 806-383-7700, Interim Pastor, or the church office at Immanuel, Hereford, 364-1668.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

On Sunday, the people of Fellowship of Believers will wonder about several contemporary insights into money. George Burns' famous line: "I've been rich and I've been poor. Rich is better." And this: "Money can't buy everything but it can buy a close facsimile of almost anything." And this: "Money isn't everything but it's way ahead of whatever is in second place."

These insights will be measured against Mark's words of Jesus in chapter 10, verses 17-31 of that gospel. Pastor Nathan L. Stone, PhD, will weave all of this into a sermon entitled, "What Is This Thing Called 'Rich'?"

As always, the people of FOB welcome any and all -- but especially those who have a lot of doubt. Those who have questions about matters of life, faith, justice and evil and suffering. Questions that would cause one to be included in a group of, admittedly, fellow-strugglers. Questions that include anger, frustration, disappointment and even despair. Questions that might possibly include a place for laughter.

Sunday at FOB begins with recorded music as background to conversation and morning-food: coffee, homemade pastries and sometimes fresh fruit, at about 9:13 a.m. Following that, "Forum" is an open-discussion-style session for young people and older people interested in honest dialogue about current events using a biblical and theological grid. Sometimes a group will sing around the piano at about 10:20 as a prelude to worship. Those who choose not to sing will enjoy casual conversation. Worship begins at 10:32 a.m. and concludes no later than 11:23 a.m., even though the Cowboys don't play the Redskins until Monday night.

A supervised nursery is available for all services.

FOB is located at 245 North Kingwood (at Moreman). For transportation to the services phone 364-0359.

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH

"As He Raised the Knife..." is the title of Pastor Gaston's morning message at 10:45 a.m. Come hear this great message. Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. At 10:45 a.m., while the adult service is in progress in the sanctuary, your kids will enjoy our Children's Church service in the fellowship hall.

At 6 p.m. there will be special music, preaching, prayer, testimonies, and a water baptism service. If you have been saved but not baptized, this is your opportunity to follow the Lord in water baptism.

On Tuesday at 7 p.m., the Missionettes and Royal Rangers (scouting programs for girls and boys) will meet for instruction, recreation, and fun. Many boys and girls are involved and yours would enjoy being a part, too.

On Wednesday, our youth will meet for Bible study, worship, games, and refreshments at 7 p.m. Many vital areas are addressed in these meetings; your youth would be benefited if they came. Concurrent with the youth service, is our mid-week prayer and Bible service in the sanctuary for all adults and children.

The Women's Ministries will meet Thursday night in the fellowship hall for a covered dish dinner, fellowship and teaching. All ladies are invited to attend. They meet at 7 p.m.

Your youth will enjoy our Hayride at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 17. Weather permitting, there will be an hour-long hayride followed by snacks and refreshments. If you would like your youth involved, please call for details at 364-0305 or 364-4848. Youth ages 12-19 are invited.

ST. THOMAS' EPISCOPAL CHURCH

"What Have I Got to Lose" is the title of the sermon by Rev. Charles A. Wilson on the Twenty-first Sunday after Pentecost. It is based on Mark 10:17-27. The Holy Eucharist, Rite II, is celebrated at 11 a.m. and there is a coffee hour after the service. A supervised nursery is provided during the Christian education and worship hours. The Fall Ingathering of the United Thank Offering will be received at the offertory of the Eucharist.

Christian Education for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m. Children and Youth gather in the Education Wing for "Living the Good News," our curriculum based on the Sunday readings in the Eucharist. The Adult Class meets in the Ruth Warner Room to continue a series on C.S. Lewis' THE SCREWTAPE LETTERS, advice from a senior devil to his younger associate.

The regular Wednesday Public Service of Healing is at 7 p.m. and includes the Litany of Healing, the Laying-on-of-Hands with Holy Unction and Holy Communion. The proper collect and readings are those for the major feast of St. Luke the Evangelist.

IN BRIEF

Stars sign Hatcher

DALLAS (AP) -- The Dallas Stars have signed All-Star defenseman Derian Hatcher to a two-year contract, general manager Bob Gainey said Thursday. Contract terms were not disclosed.

Hatcher, 25, is in his fourth season as the Stars' team captain. He played in 63 games last season, scoring three goals and 19 assists with 97 penalty minutes.

He also made his first appearance in the NHL All-Star game.

JV Maroon wins

From staff reports
AMARILLO -- Matt Lusk threw a pair of touchdown passes to George Castillo and Hereford's defense got in on the scoring, too, as the junior varsity Maroon beat Amarillo Caprock's JV 33-7 Thursday night.

Morris Penaber scored a pair of touchdowns, scoring in the first quarter on a 25-yard run. Penaber scored the Whitefaces' final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 35-yard interception return.

Hereford's defense also scored in the first quarter. David Casarez recovered a fumble in the end zone after Austin Aycock jarred the ball loose.

Lusk and Castillo connected from 55 yards for their first score. Their second combination was from 60 yards.

Governers set bet

AUSTIN (AP) -- Gov. George W. Bush is wagering a side of Texas beef that the University of Texas Longhorns can beat the University of Oklahoma Sooners on Saturday.

Bush and Oklahoma Gov. Frank Keating each are wagering a side of home-grown beef -- to be donated to the losing governor's favorite charity -- in what's become a tradition from the annual matchup in Dallas.

Lady Eagles win

From staff reports
The Nazarene Christian Academy Lady Eagles downed Plainview Christian Academy 15-8, 15-8 Thursday at NCA Gymnasium in their final home volleyball match of the season.

Alyssa Hill led NCA at the service line with 13 points. Amanda Smith recorded nine service points and Whitnee Goforth added four.

UNC's Smith calls it quits after 36 years

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) -- He said he lost his enthusiasm for a game he has loved a lifetime, and loves still.

And in explaining it all, he lost his composure.

Dean Smith retired as basketball coach at North Carolina on Thursday, a job that lasted 36 years, produced two national titles and raised him to the pinnacle of his profession.

His longtime assistant Bill Guthridge takes over with little time to waste: Practice for the upcoming season starts in nine days.

The winningest college basketball coach of all time said he was 80 percent sure last week he wanted to step down; after the weekend, it was 100 percent.

"This timing is something I believed in all along," said Smith, who broke Adolph Rupp's career victory mark of 876 last season during the NCAA tournament. "I certainly wouldn't want to say I'll coach this year and resign after the season. Can you imagine how many rocking chairs at different places I would get and them all acting like they like you? I've seen that all too often."

With students gathered outside, pressing against windows, his North Carolina team entered a packed room of about 300 reporters, former players, faculty, staff and friends inside the Smith Center (Dean Dome) just moments before the coach. His players were somber, shocked that Smith had chosen to retire so suddenly.

Smith appeared at ease as he began to address the crowd, but began to cry when he talked about his players -- all of them.

"What loyalty I've had, from my players..." Smith said, wiping away tears, then dropping his head for several moments while he tried to regain his composure.

"I knew some day this would be my last team. Yes, there is guilt," Smith said. "I look at their faces and I just couldn't handle that. I couldn't if I turned right now. But I still believe it's best for them unless I could give them what I want."

"I enjoy basketball. I enjoy coaching basketball," Smith said.

"It's the out-of-season stuff I didn't handle well."

He couldn't really pin down major factors in his decision, though he mentioned his 66-year-old body was out of shape and overweight.

"I am going to try to exercise, and the doctor didn't tell me to do that," Smith said. "But when you're nearing 200 pounds at 5-10, it's time to do something."

Mostly he talked about knowing when to go.

Lady Whitefaces to host Borger

Hereford's Catie Betzen gets ready to return a shot during a recent match at Whiteface Gymnasium. Hereford, 18-5 overall and 7-1 in District 1-4A will host Borger in a district matchup 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon at Whiteface Gymnasium.

Wins not easy to come by for Texas college teams

LUBBOCK (AP) -- Sunday after Sunday this season, sports pages recounting the exploits of Texas' college football teams have read more like obituaries.

Defending Big 12 champion Texas has suffered two stunning blowouts. Southwest Conference castaway Texas Christian can't bear anyone.

Texas Tech's victory over Baylor prompted Bears coach Dave Roberts to proclaim his team among the nation's worst. At least Division I-A neophyte North Texas can hang the Red Raiders' hide on its wall.

Houston has cratered after a championship splash in the football-weak Conference USA.

Rice is a Western Athletic Conference contender, yet the porous Owls defense couldn't halt a winning Texas drive in the waning moments of their game in Houston.

Southern Methodist has just one victory, but at least it came against an Arkansas team that went on to beat Alabama.

Texas El-Paso remains a basketball school.

Thank goodness for No. 15 Texas A&M's 4-0 record and

PCA blanks Nazarene, 31-0

By BOB VARMETTE

Staff writer

It wasn't that the Nazarene Christian Academy Eagles couldn't make good plays.

They just couldn't put enough of them together to avoid a 31-0 defeat at the hands of the Plainview Christian Academy Eagles Thursday afternoon at NCA Field in six-man football action.

"We did everything well, at times," said NCA head coach Larry Perkins. "That's youth and inexperience... We're still looking for consistency."

Consistency was also something PCA head coach Jeremy Perkins wanted to see. He didn't see enough to suit him.

"We were really flat. I thought we did OK in the first half for the most part, but really we just didn't have the intensity to execute like we should have. We expect them to play better, to execute better and play with more intensity," Sims said.

PCA improves to 4-5 on the year. NCA is now 1-9. Thursday's game was the final home game for NCA.

It didn't look like PCA had any trouble executing in the early going. They wasted no time getting their first touchdown.

After NCA turned the ball over on downs, PCA went 33 yards in three plays. Ryan Mason capped off the drive with a seven-yard touchdown pass to Dusty Street.

It was the first of four touchdown passes on the day for Mason, who was 16-for-34 for 172 yards.

Midway through the first quarter,

Mason and Street teamed up again, this time from 29 yards out for a 12-0 PCA advantage.

Plainview tallied their third touchdown on a nine-yard scoring toss from Mason to Erik Spain late in the second quarter to take an 18-0 lead at halftime.

NCA was unable to get anything going offensively in the first half. Quarterback Teel Merrick was under constant pressure and to add to his problems, several potential catches were dropped.

At the end of the third quarter, NCA was finally able to put a drive together. Merrick connected on four of six passes, including a 10-yarder to Josh Manchee.

BATTLE OF THE BOVINES

Hereford, Caprock face off tonight

By BOB VARMETTE

Staff writer

When you think of Amarillo Caprock, you think of Michael Soria.

Soria, District 1-4A's leading passer, and the sixth-leading passer in the state in Class 4A. He is averaging 183.0 yards per game through the air. That alone is a reason for worry to Hereford head football coach Craig Yenzen.

"Their passing game is obviously a big area of concern," Yenzen said. "...He's a good athlete. He's always a threat to run."

Caprock (3-2 overall, 0-2 District

1-4A) will meet Hereford (1-5, 0-2) 7:30 p.m. Friday night in Hereford's homecoming game at Whiteface Stadium.

Dumas handed the Longhorns a 36-14 defeat Friday. Hereford's coming off a 27-20 overtime loss to Pampa Saturday.

Longhorns' head coach Preston Smith will be counting on Soria to help Caprock stop their two-game district slide.

"He's a real intelligent quarterback," Smith said. "He's very competitive... He's going to be a big part of our trying to run the ball and throw it to move the ball against them."

Soria has some weapons to help him. Senior wide receiver Trent Teague (6-1, 185) is second in District 1-4A in receiving with 15 catches for 225 yards, a 15.0 average.

Senior tight end Bennie Mitchell (5-10, 180) isn't far behind Teague. Mitchell is fifth in the district in receiving with 12 receptions for 216 yards and a touchdown.

"Teague's not their only threat," Yenzen said. "They really have Hereford's Zack Wall (70) closes in on Pampa's Justin Roark as Martin Garcia (40) already has a hold of the Harvesters' quarterback Saturday afternoon at Harvester Field. Hereford and Amarillo Caprock will square off 7:30 p.m. tonight at Whiteface Stadium in a District 1-4A game.

Bovines

(Mitchell) involved in their offense. He worries me. You can lose sight of him, then he's catching the ball." Mitchell has rebounded well from an injury last season. He was injured in the Longhorns' second game in 1996.

"He's been a pleasant surprise. He's really produced for us. ... He's not as good a blocking tight end as we'd like, but he's a threat catching the ball," Smith said.

The Longhorns are the only team in the district who have gained more yards through the air than on the ground, averaging 129.8 yards per game rushing and 172.8 passing. But Yenzler has concerns about Caprock's ability to balance their attack.

Caprock runs a base I-formation, although they often go to a one-back with three wide receivers. Yenzler said they have even used four receivers.

"They have a good scheme. Ernest Brown, number 22 (6-2, 190), I've been impressed with him. And their offensive line has good size. They probably average 210 to 215 pounds ... good size, good mobility," Yenzler said.

Hereford plans on attacking Caprock's passing game to see how Soria handles pressure.

"We want to see if we can get some heat on the quarterback," Yenzler said. "But that's kind of dangerous. Soria has a knack of finding open receivers. We have to do a good job of covering their receivers."

Soria running around and gunning the ball to open receivers is what concerns Yenzler the most. The Whitefaces have had trouble recently in that area.

"He's going to sprout out," Yenzler said. "(And) we've struggled covering that, the fullback in the flat, the crossing routes."

Offensively, Hereford will continue to do what they have done, Yenzler said. He said he feels the Whitefaces can use their strong side running game with effect, as well as the option.

Yenzler also said Hereford will continue to explore their shotgun formation.

Hereford enters the game ranked last in District 1-4A in offense, averaging 181.5 yards per game. But in recent games they have shown improvement. That concerns Smith.

"Their offense has been struggling most of the year. But I think they're starting to come around," he said.

Hereford's senior tailback Jeremy Miller is most worrisome to Smith. Smith is coming of a 140-yard effort against Pampa Saturday.

"He really had a good game against Pampa. He plays real hard, and he's getting better every week. I don't think we can shut him down. We need to contain him," Smith said.

The Whitefaces' freshman quarterback Cody Hodges presents more of a dilemma for Caprock. Hodges, in his first varsity start for the injured Jeremy Urbanczyk, went 6-for-14 for 172 yards and two touchdowns in the loss to Pampa.

"He had a real good game last week," Smith said. "But with a freshman, you never know how they're going to respond. They're pretty inconsistent." Urbanczyk is out for the season with a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee, according to Yenzler. He said the senior sustained the injury in practice the Thursday before the Pampa game.

"Cody's prepared himself well for this opportunity," Yenzler said. "I expect him to have continued success."

One area Smith stressed the Whitefaces have an advantage in is experience. The Whitefaces have 32 seniors this season.

"You need that maturity," Smith said. "Even if they don't play, those seniors contribute a lot of leadership. We've only got 12 to 14 seniors. I think that's a big plus for them. Because talent-wise, we're pretty evenly matched, although I think they're stronger in the offensive and defensive lines."

Looking at the injury situation for Hereford, Yenzler said sophomore tight end James Miller is out (shoulder), as is Jay Wilson (knee) and Cory Marsh (leg). Hereford received some good news with the return of senior Roger Gaitan this week.

Smith said the Longhorns have some minor injuries, but nothing major to key personnel.

outs in the eighth and Jose Mesa pitched the ninth for the save.

Following a travel day Friday, the series will resume at Jacobs Field on Saturday. The Orioles will send ace Mike Mussina to the mound against Orel Hersher.

Mike Bordick snapped a sixth-inning tie with a two-run single, and Cal Ripken hit a two-run homer ... his first career postseason shot ... as the Orioles took a 4-2 lead into the eighth and turned it over to their brilliant bullpen, which was 83-4 when protecting leads after the seventh inning this year.

Manny Ramirez hit a two-run homer in the first inning for Cleveland, which stranded seven runners through the first four innings and was 0-for-7 in the series with runners in scoring position before Grissom's homer.

With the score tied 2-2 in the sixth, the Orioles loaded the bases against starter Charles Nagy on two fielder's choices and a walk. Bordick, whose offseason acquisition as a free agent finally moved Ripken from shortstop to third base, battled Nagy to a full count before lining an opposite-field single to right, scoring both runners.

Smith

"I've been saying for the last eight years or so maybe it's time to go do something else."

Smith said he knew it was time to give it up when he saw former Tar Heel Larry Brown coaching the Philadelphia 76ers at training camp in Chapel Hill.

"Larry Brown always fires me up, watching him out on the court, the enthusiasm," Smith said. "I said, 'I used to be like that and if I can't give this team that enthusiasm I said I would give it up.' That's honestly how I feel."

Guthridge said it was "the little things that wore Dean out." He meant the many public appearances, autograph signings and speeches.

Chancellor Michael Hooker said he tried to talk Smith out of his decision, but didn't press the coach.

"I didn't try as hard as I might have because I respect Dean too much," he said. "He knows what he wants better than I do, and it would have been selfish for the institution to impose on him an obligation that is not appropriate for the circumstances."

The 60-year-old Guthridge will receive a long term contract if approved by the UNC Board of Trustees.

"This isn't quite the way I had envisioned this whole scenario over the years," Guthridge said. "I had hoped Dean and I could go out together and ride off into the sunset in five years."

"I didn't stay around here for 30 years hoping Dean would leave. My goal was to not go out when he did, but I'm not ready to go," he said.

Besides Smith's current players, among those attending the news conference was Brown and Georgetown coach John Thompson, who coached the U.S. Olympic team with Smith in 1976.

Antawn Jamison said he and his teammates had conflicting emotions about their coach's departure.

"It's strange because everybody has the same expression on their face. It's kind of like, it's sad, but you are rejoicing at the same time because you know deep down inside he really needed this," he said.

With a career record of 879-254, Smith won national titles in 1982 and 1993. His teams have finished in the top three of the ACC for a record 33 straight seasons, including last season's second-place mark.

He led the Tar Heels to an NCAA-record 27 straight, 20-win seasons. Smith's only losing season came in his first, when the team was 8-9 in 1961-62.

Texas

fumble-filled victory at No. 24 Colorado last weekend. Minus the Aggies, the state's nine other Division I-A teams have limped to a 13-29 start.

"There's more parity in college football than ever before," said Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes, whose players got a dose of that reality when unheralded North Texas won here 30-27. "Every Saturday, there's a team that can beat you. You've got to make some plays and pull the trigger."

"The days of showing up and winning are over."

Dykes, the state's major college coaching elder at 11 seasons, points to reduced NCAA scholarship allotments that allow one-time paties a greater selection of talent. Both the steamrollers and doormats are dwindling in number, Dykes said.

More of the latter have made their homes in Texas, where the big-time schools have been outscored 1,428-1,063 this season. Of course, UCLA's 66-3 shellacking of Texas followed by a 66-10 encore against Houston didn't help.

After the Texas debacle, some Longhorns fans immediately filled the airwaves with calls for coach John Mackovic's head, a refrain that continued with Texas' 42-16 loss to then-unranked Oklahoma State.

Mission High School football coach Sonny Detmer believes fan impatience and high turnover are poisonous to a program. A struggling program needs outside help to thrive and survive.

"It's got to come from the college presidents and the fans," said Detmer, who said two coaching changes at Texas probably prevented his sons, current Philadelphia Eagles quarterbacks Ty and Koy, from becoming Longhorns. "You've got to have steady guys in there."

John David Crow, a 1957 Heisman Trophy winner for Texas A&M and the school's director of athletic development, said programs in a new league need time to meld.

"A lot of times, there were teams in the Southwest Conference that didn't think they could beat Texas or Texas A&M," Crow said. "Now they're in a conference where nobody knows them or cares who they are."

The SWC died because the intrastate league had zero fan appeal outside of Texas, forcing players looking for national exposure to pursue greener pastures, like Miami and Notre Dame.

Crow and Detmer agreed that less attention would be paid to the state's major programs if the Longhorns and Aggies were clicking at the same time. A&M struggled to 6-6 while its arch rival won the league last year; the tide appears to have turned now.

"We're the lead dogs, and we should be," Crow said, referring to the status of Texas and Texas A&M among the nation's largest universities. "All those kids want Manchee led NCA with five catches on the day, totalling 31 yards. Merrick was 13-for-27 for 85 yards and two interceptions.

The drive failed, however, when NCA was unable to convert on fourth and five from their own 35-yard-line.

PCA closed out the scoring with a pair of touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Perkins said with the young players he has this year, his goal is to get them experience. He's hoping the lumps taken this year will translate into wins next season.

"It's a rebuilding year," Perkins said. "We're pulling up a lot of younger players. ... Our problem is we're young; we're sporadic. ... (But) They've gained a lot of experience this year."

DAYTIME METEORITE STARTLES WEST TEXAS

EL PASO - It wasn't the end of the world, but the cosmic fireworks show over Southwest skies seemed close enough to those who saw it. A meteor streaking above El Paso County and New Mexico on Thursday sent residents scurrying to their phones to report a midair blast that many feared was an airplane exploding or some kind of aerial collision. Robert Simpson saw it from his home near Fort Davis and was delighted. "It always kind of floors you," said Simpson, a spokesman for McDonald Observatory, 175 miles southeast of El Paso. The meteor appeared at 12:47 p.m. as a flash about as bright as the surface of a setting sun, he said.

DEATH PENALTY FOE TURNS TEXAS PRISON

HUNTSVILLE - The head of Amnesty International, one of the world's most vocal anti-death penalty groups, got his first look at a prison full of condemned inmates in the nation's busiest death penalty state. "It's overwhelming," Pierre Sane, secretary general of the human rights organization said Thursday after emerging from the Ellis Unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, home to 437 condemned men. "It makes me very angry." "I've never met with people who know they are going to die on a specific date and who know that death will be not because of natural causes but because the state is exercising its mighty authority and the state is going to put them to death through cruel and inhuman and degrading means." Sane, from Senegal and starting his second five-year term with London-based Amnesty International, spent about two hours touring death row wings and chatting with a few inmates at the prison about 90 miles north of Houston. "I found the prisoners calm," he said. "I don't know how they are coping. I don't know what they do in order to cope, to keep themselves spiritually and mentally healthy."

NYC MAYORAL DEBATE IS ROUGH

NEW YORK (AP) - Mayor Rudolph Giuliani credited himself for the drop in crime in the nation's largest city, and warned that the Democrat who wants to replace him would reverse that trend. In the first debate of the mayoral election Thursday, Ruth Messinger attacked the Republican incumbent's record on education, the poor and the unemployed. She criticizing Giuliani as a cutthroat autocrat. "I listen, he bullies," Messinger said. "I care about people, he cares a lot more about himself."

The mayor agreed that schools and other services could be improved, but offered a mostly flattering portrait of the city during his first term. He singled out initiatives to crack down on drug use. "We're doing better now, we're making progress," Giuliani said. "The one real fear that I have is that this city could slip back." The televised debate brought edgy exchanges on issues from school overcrowding to the economy.

JUDGE ACCUSED OF BITING DEFENDANT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) - A judge could go to prison if convicted on a federal civil rights charge for biting the nose of a defendant who cursed him. Judge Joseph Troisi, 47, said he did not intend to bite 29-year-old Bill Witten, 29. If convicted on the single count of violating Witten's civil rights, Troisi would face up to 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine. "The bottom line is he made a mistake. If he could turn back the hands of time, it wouldn't have happened," said the judge's lawyer, Harry Deitzler. "I hope that this doesn't ruin his career." Witten swore at Troisi as he was being led from the courtroom June 26 after losing a request to have his $40,000 bond reduced while he appealed his sentence for grand larceny and illegal entry. Troisi stepped down from the bench, removed his robe and confronted Witten as a half-dozen witnesses looked on in the courtroom 90 miles southwest of Morgantown in Pleasants County. The bite took a chunk off the end of Witten's nose and he still bears a mark there, said his parents, Jane and Ray Witten.

JORDAN EXPELS ISRAELI SPY MISSION

JERUSALEM (AP) - Jordan has expelled the entire intelligence mission from the Israeli Embassy in Amman following Israel's attempt to assassinate a leading Islamic militant in the Jordanian capital, Israeli media reported today. The head of the Mossad mission and his agents have returned home "on the express orders of King Hussein" even though Israel says they were not involved in the Sept. 25 attempt to kill Khalid Mashaal, Israeli army radio said. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's adviser dismissed the report as baseless.

U.S., Japan end review of trade pact

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and Japan ended their annual review of a 1995 auto trade agreement with the U.S. side expressing frustration over the lack of progress in boosting sales of American-made cars and parts.

In three days of talks, the United States had presented a series of proposals on ways that Japan could speed efforts to remove barriers to sales of both cars and auto parts, said Wendy Cutler, assistant U.S. Trade Representative who led the U.S. team. But the Japanese made no commitments, she said late Thursday.

"We strongly urged Japan to accelerate its deregulation efforts," she told reporters in Washington participating in a telephone conference call. "Japan, however, was only prepared to discuss the past and now what actions are needed in the future."

The U.S. proposals included recommendations for expanded deregulation of the auto repair market as a way of boosting sales of U.S.-made brakes and other replacement parts.

"We are disappointed that Japan could not commit to significant concrete steps that could benefit all parties," Cutler said.

American auto companies have urged the administration to launch a process that could lead to U.S. trade sanctions if Japan does not speed up its deregulation process.

SETTLE

to include a medical fund that would cover early detection of diseases for attendants.

Outside court this morning, Norma Broin, 42, a 21-year American Airlines attendant with lung cancer, the lead plaintiff in the case, was smiling before court, but declined to comment.

"Radiant? I'm happy today," said Broin, who was being hugged and congratulated by members of her attorneys' staff. She has said her cancer is in remission.

Settlement discussion started even during jury selection, and they heated up in the last week, sources said. Final approval of the deal isn't expected until January to give the court time to notify all attendants who would be eligible to file claims.

On Thursday, Kaye canceled court, saying there was a mixup in witness scheduling.

The case was the tobacco industry's first trial claiming injury to nonsmokers and the first tobacco class-action case to reach trial.

When the trial began, the industry had never paid a penny in a product-liability case.

Since then, an upheaval in tobacco litigation has produced a proposed $368 billion national settlement and $920 million in partial payments on individual pacts with the states of Florida and Mississippi.

"Basically, the tobacco companies have settled every major trial this year, so it's not surprising if this one settles because they have an enormous risk it they lose any one," said Wall Street lawyer Gregory Joseph.

WINTERIZE

"Window units, of course, should just be removed, but roof-top coolers really need a cover or cold drafts just blow straight through," he said.

Experts say that simple tasks, such as removing dust accumulated in window crevices, allows the windows to close more snugly and decreases drafts.

Other inexpensive tips include:
- Insulating exposed pipes and water heaters, making sure insulation is kept well away from heating elements. Electric pipe wraps should be free of breaks and properly maintained to prevent possible fire hazards;

- Sealing cracks in window frames and around electric outlets;
- Replacing worn door stripping; and
- Cleaning or replacing heater filters.

Covers for the crawl spaces under houses should be snug to keep the cold from getting in under the house.

Skirting and baseboards should be in good condition and fastened securely, Nielsen said.

"A lot of what can be done to make a house safer and more weathertight is plain old common sense - seal the cracks, clean the filters, keep appliances in good working order," he said.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
 For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
 --Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
 --Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 --Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 --Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

SOGGY FIELDS SLOW POTATO HARVEST

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) - Eastern Idaho potato farmers say wet fields and cold temperatures are a sign the clock is ticking and they must get the crop into the cellars.

"There's always worries about frost at this time of year," said Bert Moulton of the Potato Growers of Idaho in Blackfoot.

Digging has been going on since late September. For a while, the weather was perfect: Cool nights brought soil temperatures down to the magic figure of 45 degrees. Days were sunny and temperate.

But precipitation this week - snow in some places - has dampened that optimism.

"This wet weather we've been having is certainly going to restrict the number of hours we can dig," Moulton said.

Potatoes are susceptible to bruising if they are dug up at a temperature colder than 45 degrees. The soil temperature Wednesday morning at Idaho Falls was 40 degrees. Readings at Rexburg, Parker and Blackfoot were all in the mid-40s, the University of Idaho Extension Service reported.

"The worst possible situation would be really cold weather," Moulton said.

Farmers remember 1985 when the mercury dropped to 18 degrees and took its time rising again. Frozen potatoes rot in storage, and spread their rot to the healthy potatoes in the cellar.

The harvest in the Upper Snake River Valley is close to an end. Growers will then watch to see whether late blight got into their crop.

The fungus that kills potato plants and causes tuber meltdown in storage was a concern this summer because of wet, cooler conditions.

Some experts have estimated that it may cut production this fall by as much as 10 percent or more.

But the stored potatoes must go through their "sweat" before farmers know whether all the fungicides and vine-killing precautions have kept the blight out.

It is not as important for farmers and shippers to sell their potatoes as quickly as they can. Prices have failed to get above $5 per 100-pound sack. There is room for improvement, Moulton said.

"We should have a real good price for this crop if we can get our heads screwed on right," he said.

PECAN CROP LIKELY TO BE REDUCED

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) - Pecan farmers in Mississippi are expecting a reduced harvest because of bad weather and disease.

Breast cancer deaths decline

ATLANTA (AP) - More women are getting regular mammograms, the federal government said, and that trend was linked to the decline in death rates from breast cancer.

In a 1995 survey of women age 40 and older, nearly 70 percent reported getting a mammogram in the previous two years, up from 53 percent in 1989, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said Thursday.

"We'd like to believe we have been successful delivering the public health message: Early detection can save lives and regular screening is just as important as the first one," said Donald Blackman of the CDC's division of adult and community health.

The American Cancer Society credits the increased screening for declining U.S. death rates from breast cancer. In 1994, there were 25.5 deaths from breast cancer per 100,000 women, down from a peak of 27.5 in 1988.

"There's been a lot of publicity about this issue," said Dr. Harmon Eyre, chief medical doctor of the American Cancer Society.

The 39-state CDC survey questioned 20,511 women in 1989 and 31,394 in 1995.

West Virginia and New York showed the most progress. In West Virginia, 65 percent said in 1995 that they had had mammograms, up from 45 percent. New York went from 51 percent to 74 percent.

The National Cancer Institute recommends that women in their 40s get mammograms to check for breast cancer every year or two. The cancer society recommends it be done every year after age 40.

An estimated 180,200 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year, and 43,900 will die, the CDC said.

U.S. life expectancy at new high

ATLANTA (AP) - Among the young, murders and suicides took fewer lives last year, while deadly heart disease fell among older people. Together, the changes helped boost the average life expectancy of Americans to a new high of 76.

"It's very good news for Americans," Kimberley Peters of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said Thursday.

Homicide caused 8.4 deaths per 100,000 people in 1996, down 10.6 percent from a rate of 9.4 deaths the year before, the CDC said.

Suicides also dropped. Among 15- to 24-year-olds, the rate fell 9 percent last year to 12.1 deaths per 100,000, from 13.3 deaths per 100,000 in 1995.

Among older people, heart disease deaths fell 2.7 percent from 138.3 deaths per 100,000 in 1995 to 134.6 per 100,000 last year.

These rates, combined with the declining death rate from AIDS among 25- to 44-year-olds announced earlier this year, helped to boost the average life expectancy from the previous high of 75.8 years to 76.1.

Agriculture Briefs

"We haven't had a great year in a long time," said Clayton Rouse, Lamar County extension service agent. "The supplies are probably going to run short, and the price is going to be better than average this year. The price will be above $1 a pound."

"It's pretty poor right around here," said Buck Landrum, a Lumberton pecan dealer. "We got a pretty fair seedling crop but not much on the pecans."

Dry weather is preventing the nuts from filling out, meaning 1997 pecans will not be top quality.

"If we could get some rain, it would look better," said Stanley Kemp, owner of Bass Pecan in Lumberton.

Kemp predicts his orchard will ship about 50,000 pounds of Mississippi pecans grown in his orchards or by other area growers, and prices are expected to be steady. "Catalog prices will go up some but that's because of the UPS strike," he said.

High humidity and heavy rains led to scab disease that cut the harvest.

CORN DROP IS THIRD LARGEST IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON (AP) - As the fall harvest gets into full swing, estimates for this year's corn crop rose slightly to 9.31 billion bushels - the third-largest crop in history, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The October corn projection is 44 million bushels higher than last month's forecast and 18 million bushels more than the 1996 crop. This year's crop, if realized, will trail only the 1992 and 1994 corn harvests in size.

Farmers in much of the Corn Belt enjoyed warm, above-normal temperatures favorable for the corn plants to mature. In fact, as of last week 82 percent of the 74 million acres of corn for harvest was mature, which is above the five-year average for the nation's biggest crop.

The corn harvest was just beginning, with 15 percent of the crop in as of Oct. 5. Per-acre yields were expected to average about 125.8 bushels per acre, down 1.3 bushels from 1996.

Corn prices paid to farmers were up compared to last month at between $2.55 and $2.95 per bushel.

The soybean crop was estimated at 2.72 billion bushels, down slightly from last month's forecast but still 14 percent higher than the 1996 crop and still an all-time record.
