Tobacco tiff costs taxpayers

AUSTIN (AP) - Democratic challenger Garry Mauro is blaming GOP Gov. George W. Bush for $824,000 the state paid in federal taxes because its $15.3 billion settlement with the tobacco industry has not been completed.

Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes said the governor is not to blame for the delay.

The tax bill, paid Wednesday, accrued in February and March because tobacco companies have paid an initial settlement payment even though the deal is not final.

Legal challenges, including one Bush filed, have delayed the agreement from being finalized.

Until the settlement is completed, money tobacco companies pay must sit in an account to which taxes apply. Once resolved, the money would move to a state account that isn't subject to federal taxes.

Ms. Hughes said at least half the $824,000 would have accrued even without Bush's challenge because the money was paid in early February and the settlement could not have been sealed until March.

She also noted that others, including a group of hospital districts, have filed challenges also delaying the settlement.

Bush is challenging $2.3 billion the deal contains for five private attorneys who handled the case for the state.

Before suing the tobacco industry in 1996, Attorney General Dan Morales signed a deal with the private attorneys. They agreed to provide money needed for the case in exchange for 15 percent of anything the state won. That amounted to $2.3 billion.

Mauro said Bush knew about the contract but waited until recently to challenge it.

"Governor Bush had an opportunity to change anything he thought was wrong with the contract during the 1997 legislative session, but he chose to stay mute," Mauro said Thursday.

"Now, his sudden political awakening has cost Texas real money that could deal with real problems that affect our families," Mauro said.

Ms. Hughes countered: "Garry Mauro may think its reasonable for Texas taxpayers to pay five private law firms $2.3 billion for a case that lasted less than two years but never went to court. But Governor Bush does not."

"(The $2.3 billion) is money that could go to meet the needs of Texas children and Texas families," she said.

Ms. Hughes said Bush wants Morales to agree to separate the attorneys fees from the rest of the settlement. That would allow the settlement to become final and stop federal taxes from accruing.

Morales spokesman Ron Dusek said the state will owe $1.2 million in taxes if the settlement isn't completed by the end of June.

Morales said the settlement must be left alone. He said tobacco industry attorneys have said they will walk away from the deal if the attorneys fees are separated.

"The only way... the industry can renege on this agreement is if it is changed," Morales said. "If it stays as it is - it is solid, it's a lock, it's

Filling orders

Kiwanian Jay Spain separates mops to fill commercial orders placed prior to the arrival of the Caravan Sales for the Blind truck. The annual rop and broom sale, which was conducted Monday and Tuesday, by the Kiwanis Club of Hereford is one of the club's longest running and most successful fund-raisers. Proceeds from the sale, shared by the Sales for the Blind and the Kiwanis Club, help fund Kiwanis Club community projects.

$12.1 billion: Trade deficit climbs to an all-time high

WASHINGTON (AP) - America's trade deficit climbed to an all-time high of $12.1 billion in February as the imbalance with Japan surged by 21 percent and U.S. merchandise exports fell to their lowest level in a year.

The new report today dramatically underscored the biggest problem facing an otherwise stellar U.S. economy, a widening trade deficit that is likely to grow much worse as the year progresses, given the economic problems in many Asian countries.

In a second report, the Federal Reserve said that output at the nation's factories, mines and utilities rose 0.2 percent in March after two consecutive monthly declines.

However, all the strength came from a bounceback in utility production reflecting a return to more normal weather patterns. Output at U.S. factories fell for a second month as manufacturers continued to cut back production in part because of the weakness in export demand.

The Commerce Department said that the February deficit in goods and services was 4.2 percent higher than a revised $11.6 billion imbalance in January.

For the first two months of this year, the deficit is running at an annual rate of $142 billion, far surpassing last year's nine-year high of $113.7 billion.

It is these figures that has stirred alarm in the Clinton administration, where there is a concern that huge trade deficits will provide ammunition to opponents of the president's free trade policies.

President Clinton was forced to go to Santiago, Chile this week without congressional authorization for new free trade agreements. His request for so-called fast-track authority is stalled in Congress by determined opposition from labor groups.

In an effort to at least trim the size of the deficit rise this year, Clinton and others in his administration have been stepping up pressure on Japan to do its part as the world's second largest economy. They want Japan to serve as an engine of growth of troubled Asian nations hard-hit by last year's currency crisis and to provide a bigger market for U.S. exports.

Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin won endorsement of this view at a meeting this week with America's

DEJA VU: Texas cattlemen sue Oprah

DUMAS (AP) - Texas cattlemen aren't finished with Oprah Winfrey.

A federal jury in Amarillo in February rejected an $11 million lawsuit filed against Ms. Winfrey by cattlemen. Some of the same people filed a lawsuit Thursday in a state court in Dumas, 45 miles north of Amarillo.

It was the second anniversary of the show that cattlemen claim cost them millions of dollars.

On that episode, vegetarian activist Howard Lyman said that including processed cattle in cattle feed - a practice banned last summer - could spread mad cow disease to people in the United States. The brain-destroying disease has never been found in cattle in the United States, but is suspected of killing 23 people in Britain.

Ms. Winfrey at one point said the information "just stopped me cold from eating another burger!"

When cattle prices fell to 10-year lows in the days after the show aired, the plaintiffs termed it the "Oprah crash." They sued under the state's "veggie libel" law, which protects agricultural products from false and disparaging remarks.

The case was expected to be the nation's biggest test of such laws, which exist in 12 other states.

However, U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson ruled that the case could not proceed under that law but would instead be tried as a simple business disparagement case. That meant the cattlemen had to prove that Ms. Winfrey deliberately sought to harm the beef industry.

The federal court jury said they failed to prove Winfrey knowingly gave misleading information. The verdict is being appealed.

Like the earlier suit, the new case says Lyman, Ms. Winfrey and her production company knowingly disseminated false and disparaging remarks about beef and violated the "veggie libel" law.

The plaintiffs in the first case were three cattle-feeding operations and four ranches. This lawsuit involves 130 cattle owners, many of whom were customers at the Cactus Feeding Club Inc. when the show aired.

Cactus Feeding is owned by Paul Engler, a plaintiff in the first suit.

The latest filing surprised Ms. Winfrey's attorney, Charles Babcock.

"I am stunned that they're continuing to pursue this after they've lost," he said.

Hereford planning big centennial celebration

By DIANNA F. DANDRIDGE

Celebrations on a grand scale are on the horizon, but the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce needs some help.

"Our goal for this event is to get as many people as possible involved and for just as many people to have a good time and show their pride in the town of Hereford," chamber executive vice president Don Cumpton said.

"This is not going to be a money-making deal for the chamber or for the city. The businesses and organizations which sponsor the events will set the cost of entry fee and what the prizes will be," Cumpton said.

Plans already are in the making for the 1998 Town and Country Centennial Jubilee to celebrate the first 100 years of Hereford.

The weeklong event is scheduled for Aug. 1-8 with the Spicer Gripp Memorial Roping to kick off the event.

Chamber officials have planned a theme for each day and hope to get businesses, organizations and clubs to sponsor special events which reflect the theme.

"Right now, we're somewhat concerned with the lack of response from the different clubs and organizations," Cumpton said.

Day One, Saturday, will commemorate the cowboys who rode herd and made the great ranches great.

Organizers want to schedule a possible international heritage day, religious heritage day, and possibly a kids day.

"The focus of the whole week is fun. Fun for everyone," Cumpton said. "The more individuals and groups put into the jubilee, the more they will get out of it."

A high point of the week of festivities will be the opening of the 50-year-old time capsule, which was buried during the Diamond Jubilee in 1948.

"We would really like to locate anyone who has knowledge of what was buried or someone who might have put something in the capsule," Amy Gilliland said.

Gilliland said that a new capsule will be lowered to be opened at the city's sesquicentennial celebration.

Other events which are already planned include a logo contest, sponsored by the Junior Historians. The logo will be put on T-Shirts, plates and other commemorative

Survey: Many lawmakers, bureaucrats don't trust people

WASHINGTON (AP) - In answer to Americans who don't trust government insiders in Washington, a new survey released Thursday found the feeling tends to be mutual.

Interviews with elected officials, political appointees and high-level bureaucrats found a majority do not think Americans know enough about issues to form wise opinions about what should be done.

"They believe that the public doesn't pay attention to policy issues these days," said Andrew Kobut, director of the Pew Research Center

For the People and the Press, which conducted interviews with 81 members of Congress, 98 presidentially appointed officials and 151 top-level civil servants. The National Journal paid for the study.

"They see the complexity of the problems they deal with and wonder, if not doubt, if the public is up to making these decisions," Kobut said.

Only 13 percent of presidential appointees and 14 percent of the executive civil servants interviewed said they think Americans know enough to make wise policy decisions, while more than three quarters of the two groups answered negatively.

Most members of Congress interviewed also were not ready to trust their constituents' knowledge of issues. Thirty-one percent said they did, 47 percent said they did not.

But the elected politicians were much more likely to "trust in American people on Election Day," with 64 percent saying they trusted Americans at the ballot boxes "a great deal" and 31 percent "a fair amount."

Only 34 percent of the political appointees and civil servants trusted voters "a great deal" on election day, with 51 percent of political appointees and 44 percent of civil servants trusting them "a fair amount."

In all three groups, some said their trust in the public's knowledge depends on the issue.

As one might expect, all those interviewed blamed the media.

"The media portrays government as a bunch of bumbling bureaucrats," a presidential appointee at the Energy Department told a Pew interviewer.

Barney Schaffer, 76, a retired Quaker minister who lives in Fresno, Calif., said he thinks the Washington doubters are right.

"We are really confused," he said in a telephone interview. "We are not certain whether we're getting correct information from the media or anyone today. Everyone's putting their spin on it. We just don't know who's speaking the truth."

Still, Frank Deininger, a 70-year-old retired engineer, said he keeps up with what's happening in Washington "pretty well" by reading daily newspapers and listening to Rush Limbaugh on the radio.

Rep. Scott Klug, R-Wis., said he did not remember being asked during the survey about trusting Americans, but said that most Americans "are smart enough to make up their minds."

"Does the average American understand the devaluation of the peso in Mexico? Maybe not, but neither does the average congressman," Klug said.

Supreme Court to convene outside Austin for first time
FORT WORTH (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court will convene outside Austin for the first time in its 157 years.

On Sept. 20, the court will hear two cases at the Baylor University School of Law in Waco.

A constitutional amendment passed last year allows the justices to convene anywhere in Texas, a move intended to give the public more access to the court of last resort for civil cases.

"They legally haven't been allowed to leave Austin until now," Supreme Court clerk John Adams said Thursday. "So this is new to us. At this point, we're still trying to make all the final arrangements to do this at Baylor."

Officials at Baylor Law School are excited about the prospect of being the first stop outside Austin for the state's highest court.

Naturalists try to count thousand species in one day

SANTA ANA NATIONAL WILDLIFE REFUGE (AP) - For New England naturalist Peter Alden, bird watching is like a drug addiction.

"It's a rush," he said. "It's a fix." That fix, which spurs nature lovers to travel all over the country just to catch a glimpse of a new or rare bird, fueled "Peter Alden's Nature Classic" Thursday - an effort by a dozen naturalists to log one thousand different species of animals, insects and plants in Hidalgo County by the end of the day as part of the Texas Tropics Nature Festival.

The nature count was touted as the first of its kind in the United States. Although birding competitions where bird watchers try to log as many species as possible in one day are fairly common, an effort to include insects, fish, reptiles, and plants is unique, Alden said.

"We're not even sure of the rules," said the Concord, Mass.-based author/principal writer of a National Audubon Regional Field Guide Series. "We're making it up as we go along."

Official: Military can do better in promoting minorities

AUSTIN (AP) - Fifty years after President Harry Truman ordered the U.S. armed forces integrated, the military is doing a good job of recruiting minorities but not promoting them, according to Deputy Secretary of Defense William Hamre.

Hamre spoke Thursday at a symposium hosted by the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas titled "The Military, Social Opportunity, and America's Promise."

In talking to reporters before speaking to the symposium, Hamre said the vast majority of every five people being recruited into the U.S. armed forces are minority.

But he said only one in 10 are officers.

"Clearly, we are not doing as well in recruiting minority officers," Hamre said.

22 OSPREY: Officials of eight Texas cities are trying to persuade the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to create more than 1,000 new jobs in their waters. The companies are expected to narrow the field to three by the first week of May. Then they have a final decision soon after.

ORGAN DONOR: The organs of a 17-year-old San Antonio boy who died in a traffic accident have been given to several people. Gary Brigman told his grandm other recently that when he died he wanted to donate his heart and other organs to save lives.

FATAL FIRE: A construction worker has been indicted and arrested in Midland in connection with a blaze that killed his daughter, stepson and grandmother last week.

LOOKED REAL: A driving instructor in Abilene had an out-of-control student on his hands -- or so he thought. The "student" was actually a Hollywood stunt driver whose minutes behind the wheel were being captured by TV cameras for an upcoming TV show.

Analysts predict grim quarterly earnings

HOUSTON (AP) - The earnings outlook for major oil companies appears to be a grim one, with first-quarter profits for most of these companies expected to be down by 30 to 40 percent from the same period last year, analysts say.

"It's not going to be pretty - we're looking for earnings to be down 34 percent from a year ago," Holly Gustafson, oil analyst with BT Alex. Brown in Baltimore, told the Houston Chronicle in Friday editions. A 30 percent decline in oil prices and falling profits in refining and marketing are the prime culprits.

"On average, earnings are expected to be down 40 percent year over year with the exception of possibly Exxon and Mobil, which could show slightly better results," said Bruce Lanni, oil analyst at CIBC Oppenheimer in New York.

Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp. are expected to see profits drop less because they have strong operations in relatively healthy markets for oil, Lanni said.

Both companies have refining operations in Europe, where profit margins are strong, and in Singapore, where margins are weaker than they were a year ago but still better than in the United States.

Ms. Gustafson noted that those companies whose emphasis on oil exploration and production makes them more sensitive to crude oil price moves will fare the worst. That would include Unocal Corp., Atlantic Richfield Corp. and, to a lesser extent, Chevron Corp., she said.

She noted that some stocks will continue to fare well as they benefit from upward momentum of the stock market, which is pushing up the value of all blue chips. While oil earnings suffer when the price of crude drops, that drop aids the economy as a whole, which helps stocks.

Major oil company share prices increased by about 4 percent in the first quarter of 1998 based on the average share prices of the eight major oil companies Ms. Gustafson follows. Most of the gains came in February, when the major oil companies' stocks increased 6.8 percent, matching a 7 percent rise in the Standard & Poor's 500.

The positive for investors? Stock prices already are based on fairly low expectations, so the shares shouldn't get hit hard when the numbers come out.

Oil company stocks all got a boost Thursday when crude oil prices rose 2.8 percent on reports of tension with Iraq regarding weapons inspections and continued economic sanctions.

Light, sweet crude oil for May delivery rose 44 cents to $15.90 a barrel; May heating oil rose 0.98 cent to 44.60 cents a gallon; May unleaded gasoline rose 1.3 cents to 52.75 cents a gallon. May natural gas fell 4.2 cents to $2.479 per thousand cubic feet.

Native American history, not well known

DENVER (AP) - This spring, Colleen Chock asked a group of college students to name the tribe that dined with the Pilgrims during the Thanksgiving feast of 1620.

Chock, the coordinator of the American Indian Education Advisory Council for Denver Public Schools, was shocked at the response: No one knew.

For many American Indians, such information gaps are a small but revealing symptom of how little Americans are taught about the hemisphere's earliest settlers. That may begin to change as Gov.

Roy Romer was expected today to sign a measure into law that supporters hope will increase students' awareness of American Indians.

The bill recommends that schools expand the teaching of American Indian history. Supporters of the measure say students should learn more about America's frontier past than just the corn-and-turkey stories, the tales of Lewis and Clark, or the love story between Capt. John Smith and Pocahontas.

With the bill, Colorado joins 35 other states recommending or mandating that American Indian history be taught in schools, said Melody McCoy, staff attorney for the Boulder-based Native American Rights Fund.

Since the 1960s, Colorado law has recommended only that students be taught the history and civil government of the state and "Spanish-American and American-Negro history."

No mention, however, was made of American Indian history.

"If they're going to mention other minority groups, they should at least mention the people who were here first," said Karen Rogers of the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs.

The new law, Aurora Democratic Rep. Suzanne Williams said, "will give the American Indians of Colorado a place in our state law. It will give them recognition that they played an important part in the past and (will) in the future as well."

Chock hopes the bill will finally bring a greater awareness of the richness of American Indian culture.

And perhaps the correct answer to her Thanksgiving question: It was the Wampanoags, a major Northeast tribe, who shared dinner with North America's first Protestant settlers.

THE HEREFORD BRAND Emergency services

Activities reported by emergency services personnel for April 16, include the following:

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Arrests

- A 31-year-old man was arrested on charges of possession of a controlled substance.

- A 36-year-old man was arrested on charges of driving a motor vehicle with defective equipment.

- Charges of aggravated assault and false report to a peace officer have been filed against a 41-year-old woman.

Incidents

- Theft of $200 cash was reported by a resident at a local nursing home.

COUNTY SHERIFF

Arrests

- A 40-year-old man was arrested on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Incidents

- A vandalism was reported.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

- 10:12 p.m. firefighters responded to a one pickup rollover, 14 miles north of U.S. 60 on Farm and Market road 809. Rescue teams used the jaws of life to remove the driver from the vehicle. He was life flighted to North West Texas Hospital.

GRAND JURY INDICTMENTS
The grand jury returned five indictments Thursday. Those indicted include:

- Lucky Dominguez, 25, Amarillo, felony driving while intoxicated. He is out on a $3,000 bond.

- Juan Martin Pedraza, 28, Hereford, felony driving while intoxicated. He is out on $7,500 bond.

- Joseph Graves, 18, Hereford, burglary of a habitation. He is out on a $3,000 bond.

- Pablo I. Guerrero, 19, Hereford, robbery. He is out on $7,500 bond.

- Marcos Marquez, 26, Hereford, possession of a controlled substance, namely methamphetamine. He is out on a $5,000 bond.

Three suspects remain at large.

Ft. Hood troops going to Bosnia

WASHINGTON (AP) - As many as 6,000 troops from Fort Hood, Texas will head to Bosnia this fall when the 1st Cavalry Division begins a yearlong deployment as part of the NATO peacekeeping force.

Some 4,000 to 6,000 1st Cavalry soldiers will be sent to Bosnia to relieve troops from the 1st Armored Division and the 2nd Armored Cavalry Regiment, Fort Hood officials announced Thursday.

The deployment will include the 1st Cavalry Division headquarters and a brigade-size element, leaving more than 12,000 other 1st Cavalry troops in Texas.

While the 1st Cavalry itself will be in Bosnia for a year, the Pentagon has yet to determine the length of deployment for individual soldiers.

"Once again, we are reminded of the sacrifices that our Army families make in service to our country - for that, I am deeply grateful," said Rep. Chet Edwards, D-Waco, whose district includes Fort Hood.

President Clinton committed U.S. troops to Bosnia in 1995 to help enforce peace accords. About 8,500 U.S. soldiers are in the former Yugoslav republic, down from a top strength of about 20,000.

The Texas troops' mission while in Bosnia will be to deter hostilities and provide stability in the region.

Fort Hood officials noted that when the 1st Cavalry takes over task force headquarters duties from the 1st Armored Division, which is based in Germany, it will mark the first time that a U.S.-based division has led the task force.

The 1st Cavalry Division saw extensive action during the Persian Gulf War in 1991 and has deployed to Kuwait many times since then.

The division, which is a heavy contingency force using Abrams tanks and Bradley Fighting Vehicles, will rely on equipment being used by Army units already in Bosnia.

HOUSTON (AP) - City officials have warned Houston area residents who are not protected against rubella or German measles to get immunized immediately following the report of three new cases in the area.

The three rubella cases were confirmed earlier this week, spokeswoman Kathy Barton said Thursday.

One earlier case was confirmed in March, she said. Two people have suspected cases of the disease, but it has not been confirmed by blood tests, Barton said.

All those who had the disease were foreign born but had not traveled out of the country recently, she said.

Members of the city's Communicable Disease Alert System met Thursday and decided to upgrade an advisory about the disease to alert status. They want people to know there is the potential for the disease causing an outbreak in the Houston area.

Health officials assume the people who have had rubella contracted the disease from others who had traveled to Mexico, where more than 5,000 cases have been identified this year.

More than 600 cases have been diagnosed in the state of Tamaulipas, across the border from South Texas.

So far this year, 27 cases have been diagnosed in Texas. Barton said most of them were linked to South Texas or northern Mexico.

The Texas Department of Health issued an alert last week, warning people traveling to Mexico that they could be at risk of contracting the disease.

Rubella is frequently a mild disease and can often go unnoticed in those who contract it. However, the virus can pose real risks to pregnant women in the first trimester.

Slain trooper honored

RANKIN, Texas (AP) - A Texas Department of Public Safety officer who was shot to death by a California teenager during a routine traffic stop in 1976 has been honored with a monument on a deserted stretch of U.S. 67.

The widow and grandchildren of Sammy Long, who was 39 when he was slain, attended a brief ceremony Thursday marking the dedication of the marker erected on the spot where he was slain.

The tombstone-like monument is the 57th built since 1995 by Rick Metcalf, a retired master technician who has spent much of the last two years commemorating what he calls "Texas heroes," state troopers who have died in the line of duty.

The project is "the most worthwhile thing I have been a part of in my life," Metcalf said.

He started erecting the monuments after being stopped for speeding by a trooper who impressed him with his professionalism. The trooper was shot and killed days later after inadvertently interrupting a botched kidnapping.

Another monument was to be dedicated Friday to a trooper killed in 1935 near Pecos.

"Every contact (troopers) make each day is a potential booby trap," said Metcalf. "As people of Texas, we must never forget the great gift they have given us."

Long stopped a speeding truck on Nov. 21, 1976 about five miles east of Rankin. As he approached the driver, he was shot and wounded.

The driver, later identified as Larry Davis, 18, followed Long behind his cruiser and continued firing.

Davis, who had stolen the truck and robbed a gasoline station in Tucson, Ariz., then took Long's .357 magnum and shot him in the back six more times.

A deer hunter, whose name has never been released, watched from a rest stop about 100 yards away.

The hunter shot Davis five times with a deer rifle from 100 yards away.

"He had to be a hell of a shot," said Wayne Greer, editor and publisher of the McCamey News. Greer drove the ambulance from McCamey to the scene following the shooting.

Rankin is located in Upton County, about 55 miles south of Midland.

Barrera, Hunsaker are awarded most votes

Oscar Barrera was voted best evaluator and best topic speaker, and Breck Hunsaker was voted best speaker at Thursday morning's meeting of Hereford Toastmasters. Pat Varner presided at the meeting with Barrera leading the pledge and Clark Andrews giving the invocation. Wayne Winget was toastmaster. Andrews was timer and Dan Hall was AH counter, grammarian and wordmaster. He introduced the word "expiate."

Varner served as topic master. Topic speakers and their topics were Andrews-Is the president traveling to avoid personal issues?; Dr. Milton Adams-Who is your favorite president?; Barrera-The condition of our country; and Hall-Is our country due for a major depression?

Varner spoke on "All In the Family" and was evaluated by Barrera.

Hunsaker spoke on "The Stuff Life is Made Of" with Hall and Winget as evaluators.

Toastmasters is an organization designed to help people improve their communication and speaking skills. Hereford Toastmasters meet each Thursday at 6:30 a.m. at the Ranch House Restaurant.

Groundbreaking

HHS musicians will perform with symphony

The Amarillo Symphony Youth Orchestra will be featured in a concert by The Randel Chamber Orchestra at the First Baptist Church of Amarillo at 8 p.m. today, Friday. This will be the third and final concert of the season for the Chamber Orchestra, and will be conducted by James Setapen, conductor and music director of the Amarillo Symphony. Two members of the Hereford High School Orchestra are a part of the Youth Orchestra. Javier Alonzo and Kris Hammarbeck are both String Assistants in the group.

Raymond Jenkins, director of the HHS Orchestra, said the boys are to be congratulated. Jenkins expressed the hope that local residents would be interested in attending the concert which is free of charge. Several members of the HHS Orchestra are making plans to attend.

The Youth Orchestra has presented two prior concerts this school year, and will present its final concert at 4 p.m. April 26 at Tascosa High School.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am enclosing one of the best columns you have ever written. It helped my wife make the decision to marry me. The happiness this woman has brought to my life is beyond belief. I want to say thank you, Ann, for this precious gift. I hope you will print that column again. -- Forever Grateful in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dear St. Petersburg: I'm so happy to have played Cupid. Thank you for letting me know. Here's the column you asked for. It would be wonderful if it performed the same magic for others. Is It Love or Infatuation?

Infatuation is fleeting desire -- one set of glands calling to another. It is marked by a feeling of insecurity. You are excited and eager but not genuinely happy. There are nagging doubts, unanswered questions, little bits and pieces about the relationship that you would just as soon not examine too closely. It might spoil the dream.

Love is friendship that has caught fire. It takes root and grows, one day at a time. Love is quiet understanding and mature acceptance of imperfection. It is real. It gives you strength and grows beyond you -- to bolster your beloved. You are warmed by his presence, even when he is away. Miles do not separate you, You have so many wonderful films in your head that you keep replaying. But near or far, you know he is yours, and you can wait.

Infatuation says, "We must get married right away. I can't risk losing him." Love says, "Be patient. Don't panic. Plan your future with confidence."

Infatuation has an element of sexual excitement. Whenever you are together, you hope it will end in intimacy.

Love is not based on sex. It is the maturation of friendship that makes sex so much sweeter. You must be friends before you can be lovers.

Infatuation lacks confidence. When he's away, you wonder if he's being unfaithful. Sometimes, you check.

Love means trust. You are calm, secure and unthreatened. He feels your trust, and it makes him even more trustworthy.

Infatuation might lead you to do things you will regret, but love never steers you in the wrong direction.

Love is elevating. It lifts you up. It makes you look up. It makes you better than you were before.

Dear Ann Landers: After 30 years of reading your column, I decided that I, also, have a unique "how we met" love story to share.

My first encounter with my husband, Bill, was in a church wedding in 1954. I was the 5-year-old flower girl, and he was the 7-year-old train bearer. At age 11, I took piano lessons from Mrs. Allen. When her 13-year-old son walked into the room, I practically fell off the piano bench. It was Bill.

Mrs. Allen knew it was difficult for me to play on her old-fashioned pump organ, so she invested $100 in a piano for me. Eight years later, that investment paid off -- not just musically but romantically. Bill and I were once again in a wedding -- in the very same church where we first met -- but this time, the wedding was ours.

I've been Mrs. Allen myself for almost 30 years now, and I enjoy having both wedding pictures to prove the story. -- Dianne Allen, Mount Shasta, Calif.

Dear Dianne Allen: Your how-we-met story warmed my heart. Thank you for sending it my way.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.75 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill.

Church News

ST. ANTHONY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH

This weekend is the Second Sunday of Easter and our worship celebrates The Paschal Octave Day in the Easter Season. Liturgies are 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday. The Readings are from Acts 5:12-16, Revelation 1:9-19, and the Gospel of John 20:19-31.

Everyone is invited to enjoy "famous" homemade cinnamon rolls and coffee and juice at the Krazy Kountry Store after 9 a.m. liturgy. Carnival Krazy will be in full swing from 12 noon until 5 p.m. Sunday.

This week began the final stage of the RCIA process: The Period of Mystagogy. Until Pentecost Sunday on May 31, we will continue to meet each week with a new direction and focus, from learning to living.

CYO is selling chances on a 50-inch RCA Big Screen TV Home Theatre System. Tickets are $5 and can be purchased at the rectory through Rance, director of youth, or Sunday at the bell tower entrance after the 11 a.m. Mass.

In observance of the Feast of Saints Isidore and Maria, the Promised Land Network will sponsor nine liturgies. St. Anthony's is set for May 12. We are asking farm families to consider the privilege of the use of their facilities for this day. Call the rectory if you are interested.

Wednesday CF classes will be at 7 p.m. with Junior High in the Antonian Room and Senior High in the Gym/Auditorium.

SAN JOSE CATHOLIC CHURCH

San Jose Church will have a Day of Renewal Sunday beginning at 2 p.m.

We invite you to gather with us. There will be healing prayer, songs, teaching and praising. Dinner will follow.

San Jose Church is located at 709 Brevard.

WESTWAY BAPTIST CHURCH

The Easter season has come and gone. What a great time we had worshipping during this special time.

The same joy is available to us always if we will be faithful and serve our God.

Service continues on our regular schedule of Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and worship services at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Wednesday evening service is at 7 p.m.

Come and worship with us. God will bless you.

DAWN BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor Charles Ellingburg and congregation invite you to worship with them.

Sunday School is at 10 a.m. and morning worship is at 11. Nursery is provided for all services.

Team Kids meet each Sunday evening at 5:30 p.m. at the Dawn Community Center. Evening worship services are at 6. Pastor Ellingburg is speaking on the Ten Commandments.

For more information or prayer needs, contact Pastor Ellingburg at 258-7330.

Please join us this Sunday and every Sunday and worship with the Dawn Baptist Church.

ST. THOMAS' EPISCOPAL CHURCH

"Our Man Thomas" is the title of the sermon by The Rev. Charles A. Wilson on The Second Sunday Easter. It is based on John 20:19-31, the Gospel reading for the day. The Holy Eucharist, Rite II, is celebrated at 11 a.m. and there is a coffee hour after the service. Supervised nursery care is provided during the education and worship hours.

Christian Education for all ages is at 9:30 a.m. Children and Youth meet in the Sunday School room in the Education Wing for "Living the Good News," our curriculum based on the readings in the Sunday Eucharist.

Adults meet in the Ruth Warner Room for "Spring Potpourri," a miscellany of topics for the next six Sundays in the Easter Term. The subject this coming Sunday is the last in a series of six sessions on WISDOM DISTILLED FROM THE DAILY: Living the Benedictine Rule Today by Sister Joan Chittister, O.S.B. This session is on "Interdependence and Stability."

The regular Wednesday Public Service of Healing is at 7 p.m. and includes The Litany of Healing, the Laying-on-of-Hands with Holy Unction, and Holy Communion. The proper collect and readings are those for the major feast of St. Mark the Evangelist, transferred from April 25.

Intercessory prayer requests from the community are most welcome. To have them included in the Prayers of the People at all services, please call 364-0146 and leave a message.

Heavenly Treasures Day Care meets at St. Thomas' on Thursdays and Fridays. For information on enrollment, please call Sylvia Martinis at 363-6468.

In case of emergency, or to make appointments for personal conferences, please call Father Wilson in Amarillo at 353-1734.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor Terry Cosby and the congregation of First Baptist Church invite you to come worship with them each Sunday. Sunday services are Sunday school-9:45 a.m.; morning worship-10:50 a.m.; evening worship-6:30 p.m.

Wednesday activities include fellowship dinner-5:30 p.m.; children's choir-6:50 p.m.; prayer meeting-6:15-7 p.m.; Hang (time for youth-7 p.m.); choir practice-7:10 p.m.-8 p.m.

Paul Humphries has been called to serve as interim music minister. Paul is currently serving as assistant choir director at Tascosa High School in Amarillo. He grew up in Dumas where his mother still resides. Paul has a degree in church music. Come worship with us and welcome Paul to Hereford.

If you are seeking a strong Bible based education program for your child ages 3 through sixth grade, we invite you to consider AWANA's which meets at 6:50 p.m. Wednesdays. Please call the church office for further information.

Volunteers are always welcome in the AWANA program and the Bluewater Gardens ministry which meets on Thursday evenings. For more information about this ministry contact Kayle Dean at 364-2229.

First Baptist church offers a warm Christ-centered atmosphere for worship and Christian fellowship. We urge you to come join us in praise and honor of Jesus Christ.

AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Bill Austin and the congregation of Avenue Baptist Church, 130 North 25 Mile Avenue, invite you to worship with them.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. and morning worship follows at 11. Sunday evening worship begins at 6.

Michael Kelly will be guest speaker for the morning and evening services this Sunday. Brian O'Donnell and his sister Stephanie will bring the special music. These dedicated Christian young people will bless your life.

The Ladies Prayer Service and Book Study, led by Thelma Cherry, meets Monday evenings at 6:30. Come and bring a friend.

Brian O'Donnell, music director, reminds all choir members that choir practice is Monday nights from 8-9. He invites anyone who likes to sing to become a member of the choir.

Wednesday night prayer service is at 6:30. Call the church office, 364-1564, if you have a prayer request.

Some positive and exciting events are happening at Avenue Baptist Church. We invite you to join us if you are looking for a church where the Bible is taught and preached.

FAITH MISSION CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Come and worship with us at Faith Mission Church of God in Christ, 307-309 Brevard.

Sunday School is at 10 a.m. We teach it like it is.

Morning worship is at 11 a.m. We preach it like it is.

Richard Collins, pastor, said, "We neither take from, nor add to, what's written in The Book."

WESLEY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Pastor Tammy Passmore and members of Wesley invite you to visit our services each Sunday.

Sunday School is at 10 a.m. and the worship service is at 11 a.m. The first Sunday of each month is Communion Sunday.

Also on the first Sunday of each month the Methodist Men meet at 9 a.m. for food, fun and fellowship.

The youth meet at 5 p.m. each Sunday. Wednesday evenings are for committee meetings, women's U.M.W. or choir practice at 7 p.m. Come and enjoy any of these happenings with us.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

Wait! Don't put your Easter bonnet, your springtime florals or your resurrection whites just yet. According to the liturgical calendar, Easter is not just a day. Easter is a season. Fifty days to be exact. Seven Sunday. The eighth Sunday or 50th day will be The Day of Pentecost (pentecost).

The Second Sunday of Easter gives the preacher John 20:19-31 to play with and explore. The sermon du jour is entitled "Doubting Faith." People and pastor will play with and explore a number of questions. "Is it fair deal to call Thomas, 'Doubting Thomas,' or is this just one more pejorative label the Church has conveniently placed on an individual deemed too candid in his struggle with faith?" "Is Frederick Buechner correct in saying that, 'Doubt is the ants in the pants of faith?'" "Is doubt the enemy of faith or is it an integral part of the ongoing faith process?"

In terms of an awakening faith, which is more hopeful: an atheist/agnostic or an apathetic, complacent, so-called 'Christian'?"

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

We at Calvary Baptist Church extend a hearty welcome for you to attend our Sunday school and church services.

When you come, we believe you will especially enjoy the wholesome Christian fellowship and spiritual service. There will be a Sunday school class for every member of your family.

New Hope Church of the Nazarene was founded by Pastor Olivarez in June 1992, right in the center of the barrio. We are reaching out to single mothers, teenagers, the elderly and lots of children.

We would like to thank all who were involved in our Vision of "expanding out to reach out." Our new addition will include four Sunday school rooms, a cry room, fellowship hall and restrooms.

We are still praying and raising funds to complete our Vision.

BARN CHURCH

Changes are happening at Barn Church. God has provided a full-time pastor, Randy Bird. This caring, spirit-filled servant of God will minister to the cowboy, western culture in our area and across the U.S.

We feel privileged to have Randy and Linda Bird come be part of our lives. Barn Church is a non-denominational Christian ministry. Our goal is to worship God and fellowship with each other. Barn Church is for everyone that likes things a little on the country side.

Barn Church meets the second Thursday of each month. It's come as you are, so dust off your jeans and come on out. Bring the family and tell your friends.

Golf course schedules scramble

From staff reports
Golfers can tee off in the Wednesday Scramble at John Pitman Municipal Golf Course again next week, according to course professional Cal Garrett.

The nine-hole scramble will begin at 6 p.m. each Wednesday, with the pro shop using handicaps to draw up the teams each week. Due to scheduling problems in the past, there will be a new deadline imposed this season.

Golfers who want to participate in the scramble must be signed up and paid by 5:30 p.m. on Wednesdays, so players may be assigned to teams and play can begin at 6 p.m.

Registration is now under way for the first week's scramble. The scramble will not take place April 29 because of the Red Raider Day golf tourney. It will resume the following week for the rest of the summer.

Houston gets by Reds, 7-4

CINCINNATI (AP) -- Bill Spiers doubled with the bases loaded to start a five-run third inning that sent the Houston Astros to a 7-4 victory Thursday night over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Astros stopped their three-game losing streak by sending 10 batters to the plate in the third. The top five hitters in the lineup scored, and Moises Alou and Carl Everett hit consecutive triples to complete the rally off David Weathers (1-1).

Alou also had a pair of singles and threw out Bret Boone at the plate as he tried to score from second on a single to left in the fifth inning.

Mike Hampton (3-0) gave up 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings as he won his third consecutive start. The left-hander has rebounded from a ragged first outing -- six runs in six innings against San Francisco -- by giving up only six runs in his last three games.

Doug Henry struck out Eduardo Perez with the bases loaded in the seventh, then gave up a two-run homer to Boone in the eighth that cut it to 7-4.

Hereford girls split with CHS

From staff reports

CANYON -- The Hereford Lady Whitefaces and the Canyon Lady Eagles split a doubleheader Thursday in the teams' final regular season girls softball games.

In the first game, juniors Amanda Vallejo and Janae Schlabs led the Lady Whitefaces at the plate as Hereford 10-run ruled the Lady Eagles, 20-6.

Vallejo went 1-for-2 with a home run and 6 RBI, and walked twice. Schlabs went 3-for-4, including a homer, a double and 4 RBI.

Freshman pitcher Vicki Perez (2-2) went the distance for Hereford (4-9) to earn the win.

The Lady Whitefaces jumped out with three runs in the top of the first inning.

In the top of the second, Hereford exploded for seven runs, extending their lead to 10-1, but the Lady Eagles came back with a pair of runs in the home half of the second inning to close the gap to 10-3.

The Lady Whitefaces then added a pair of additional runs in the top of the third inning before pushing across seven runs in their half of the fourth. Hereford ended its scoring with a solo run in the top of the fifth inning.

The Lady Whiteface picked up their 20 runs on only seven hits and four Canyon errors. The Lady Eagles scored their six runs on seven hits and five Hereford errors.

In the second half of the doubleheader, three Hereford

Wizards stars' case goes to grand jury

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) -- "Parental discretion advised" was the best way to describe the evidence given by witnesses Thursday as the investigation of a sexual assault complaint naming Juwan Howard and Chris Webber went before a grand jury.

One witness, an exotic dancer from Atlanta, told prosecutors the alleged victim spoke of receiving $1,000 after having sex with Webber during a party at Howard's house.

"She came in the kitchen, I saw her in the kitchen" Natasha Shallow told WUSA-TV. "She told me she had just slept with Chris Webber. She said she got paid for it, a thousand dollars. I don't know if that was true or not. She was intoxicated and kept on talking."

Webber and Howard have been under investigation since a Trumbull, Conn., woman filed a complaint after a party April 6 at Howard's house in suburban Maryland. Neither player has been charged, and both have denied the allegations.

A Montgomery County grand jury spent about four hours Thursday interviewing several people who were among the 40 guests at the party. About 10 people appeared for an early debriefing with prosecutors, but all did not testify before the grand jury, officials said.

State's Attorney Robert Dean said it may be another two weeks before the grand jury completes its investigation.

"We will take the time to get as clear a picture as possible," Dean said.

Thursday's grand jury witnesses mostly disputed the accuser's statements.

"It's a lie," said Donnie Kirksey, Howard's high school coach, who flew in from Chicago to testify. "It's not true about what happened. We know it didn't happen."

Ferguson Evans, a lawyer who represents four women who attended the party, said his clients told authorities the woman was "trying to interact with (Webber)."

"He didn't respond," Evans said. "She was, according to them, kneeling down beside him ... basically trying to get his attention."

Shallow, the dancer, said Webber left the party before the woman. She said she later heard Howard yelling at his friends to get the woman out of his house.

"Juwan Howard was upstairs and he was telling friends 'Get her out of my house, get her out of my house.' And all I saw was all of these guys picking her up, taking her outside," Shallow said. "(Howard) pulled me to the side and said 'What's wrong with your girl? She came up in my room trying to get in my bed and disrespected me.' ... He said 'I didn't touch her, I didn't touch her. I did nothing to her.'"

Mitchell Rubenstein, a lawyer who represents Howard and Howard's roommate, Lamont "Juice" Carter, said Carter and other witnesses have said the woman was "banging" on Howard's bedroom door.

"When he finally responds, he tells her he has no interest. She became irate," Rubenstein said. He said the witnesses also said the woman began throwing insults at Howard.

Neither Webber nor Howard been interviewed by police. Both were with the Wizards preparing for Friday's game at Miami.

Jones, Lajoie continue racing feud

By JENNA HALVA GIS
Associated Press Writer
MONTGOMERY, Ala. -- Roy "Buckshot" Jones is trying to shed his reputation as a menace on the track.

Randy LaJoie will be no help in that quest.

Jones is trying to put behind him the 1997 season -- one marred by accidents, fines and a running feud with the reigning two-time Busch series champion.

"If people want to think I'm a hothead that's fine, but they need to know where I'm coming from," Jones said during a promotional stop.

"If people want to think I'm a hothead that's fine, but they need to know where I'm coming from."

-- 'Buckshot' Jones

The feud began last year in Talladega. Jones says LaJoie hit him from behind eight laps into the Birmingham Auto Dealers Easy-care 500k, causing him to spin out and take seven other cars with him.

LaJoie denies that. Jones calls him liar, one of many complaints he has about LaJoie. There's one thing Jones finds particularly galling.

"He insists on calling me 'Roy,' and I don't know why he does that," he said.

Jones wants everyone to call him Buckshot, the name he uses to promote his career. He drives a car numbered 00, a size of buckshot pellets in a shotgun shell.

LaJoie doesn't buy it. "Some people come into this sport with talent, others come in with money or a gimmick," he said. "He's got both of the latter."

Their feud festered all of last season, coming to an ugly head at a race in Bristol, Tenn.

Jones said LaJoie "dumped us and wrecked us." But it was Jones who left Bristol with his reputation even more tarnished.

After LaJoie knocked Jones into the wall, Jones tried to hit LaJoie's car as it went by under caution. He missed, and hit the wall again. NASCAR ordered him off the track.

The confrontation cost Jones

Herd JV 'A' gets past Nazareth varsity, 9-5

From staff reports
The Hereford junior varsity baseball team defeated the Nazareth varsity 9-5 Thursday afternoon at Whiteface Field.

Eddie Lacey (5-2) pitched a complete game for the Whitefaces as they upped their season record to 8-5. The Hereford junior varsity "B" team was scheduled to play in Levelland at 4:30 p.m. today. The junior varsity "A" squad will play Saturday in Borger following the varsity game, which is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m..

pitchers combined to issue 16 base on balls to Canyon batters as the Lady Eagles walked past Hereford White 21-12 in a game that ended after five innings by mutual agreement.

The Lady Whitefaces' starter Monica Dominguez (2-6) took the loss. Hereford White ended its season at 2-7.

The Lady Whitefaces held the lead after two complete innings, 6-5, but despite adding six more runs in the final three innings, Hereford White couldn't keep up with Canyon.

The Lady Eagles pushed across nine runs in the bottom of the third inning and seven more in the bottom of the fourth inning for the win.

The Lady Whitefaces picked up 12 runs on three hits and seven Canyon errors. The inability of Hereford's pitchers to find the strike zone showed in the Lady Eagles' line score -- Canyon got its 21 runs on just two hits and four Hereford errors.

Hereford Gray will play in the league tournament Saturday at the Amarillo River Road Softball Complex. The Lady Whitefaces will face a rematch with the Lady Eagles at 9 a.m.

At 11 a.m., Hereford will play Dumas. The Lady Whitefaces will play their third game of the day in the single-elimination portion of the tournament at 1 p.m. The league tournament championship game is scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday.

Alief Elsik standout declares for NBA draft

HOUSTON (AP) -- Rashard Lewis, a 6-foot-10 high school standout, declared his eligibility for the NBA draft Thursday, becoming the latest prep school star to bypass college for the lure of the pros.

"This has been a very hard decision for me to make -- the hardest decision of my life," the 18-year-old Elsik High School center said at a news conference. "I had a dream to go the NBA ever since I was a little kid, and it was very hard for me to step away from that."

Brushing off criticism that he may not be ready for the NBA, Lewis pointed to the successful transitions of former prep stars Kobe Bryant and Kevin Garnett.

"I'm sure people told Kobe that and people told Garnett that, so it doesn't bother me," he said. "If the whole world says that about me, then I'll shock the world."

Elsik coach Jerrel Hartfiel also discounted the critics.

"He's very advanced at this age," Hartfiel said. "He has great focus on team instead of individual stats. He's a complete player."

"You surround him with a bunch of good players, and he's going to just fit right in."

This past season, Lewis hit 73 percent of his field goals and 40 percent of his 3-point shots, averaging 28.2 points, 12.4 rebounds, five blocks and 4.3 steals per game.

After leading his team to a 32-5 record and reaching the regional finals, Lewis played in three high-profile all-star games, including the Magic Johnson Roundball Classic, where he was named MVP.

Lewis is the latest young talent to attempt to make the leap to the pros.

Last week Korleone Young, a 6-8 power forward at Hargrave Military Academy (Va.), declared himself eligible for the draft.

'Yotes rally past Dallas, 3-2

PHOENIX (AP) -- Gerald Diduck scored a pair of third-period goals, including the game-winner with 6:30 remaining, as the Phoenix Coyotes beat the Dallas Stars 3-2 Thursday night to secure sixth place in the Western Conference.

Nikolai Khabibulin made 23 saves and Oleg Tverdokvsky also scored for the Coyotes (35-34-12), who won their fourth straight. Phoenix, which had won only one game it trailed after two periods in its first 79 games, has used two-goal third-period rallies to win consecutive games.

The Coyotes will open the playoffs against the Detroit Red Wings, whom they rallied to beat Tuesday night.

$5,000 in fines, 50 championship points, and set him up for a stint on the sanctioning body's probation list.

"I think 90 percent of the drivers have a problem with another driver, so my situation isn't that unusual," Jones said. "But a lot of people understand my side and don't blame me."

"It's like when you have a fight with someone, and you get really mad and say some things. It's the same way with racing."

Jones and LaJoie have had at least one run-in this season. Jones caused a 12-car pileup with 31 laps to go when his car slid into LaJoie's last month in Bristol, Tenn.

Jones said the wreck was the result of a blown right front tire. LaJoie is unconvinced.

"He wrecked me," LaJoie said. "He says he blew a tire, but every person I've ever seen blow a tire hits the wall. He hit the wall after he hit me."

Jones' reputation took another hit last November in Atlanta, where he competed for the first time in a Winston Cup race. He tangled with Brett Bodine in the NAPA 500.

Bodine jumped out of his car and lectured Jones, who was still sitting in his mangled vehicle.

"That guy's ridiculous," Bodine said after the race. "In every division he's in, he wrecks people. I have never seen nothing like it."

Jones insists he was "a scapegoat," claiming Bodine was looking for a sponsor at that time and in no position to accept responsibility for the crash. He also says Bodine dislikes him because of past problems Jones had with Bodine's brother, Todd.

Still, all the fighting made 1997 a season of lessons learned for Jones. He said he avoids LaJoie at all costs.

"We still don't like each other. When we pass we just give that look," Jones said.

That's fine with LaJoie. "I ain't got nothing to say to him," LaJoie explained. "If he's still hung up on it, he needs to get a life."

Jones says staying away from LaJoie makes him feel better and allows him to remain calm on the track.

"I think if people want to classify me, that's fine," Jones said. "But if they look at my driving this year, they'll see we're a lot more patient."

Last year, we were very impatient, it cost us some races and caused accidents. But after you wreck your car a few times, you start to learn."

Now Jones, who has only one career victory in three Busch seasons, is eager to prove himself next week at Talladega Super-speedway, where he thinks he can win.

"I'm looking forward to Talladega because it will help close the book on last year," he said.

It will be Jones' last run in Talladega in the Busch series. He plans to move to Winston Cup full time in 1999.

But he'll run five Winston Cup races this year, including the Winston 500 in Talladega in October.

Perhaps he'll run into LaJoie -- who also is doing some Winston Cup racing -- either literally or figuratively, and they can take their highly rated feud to the top level of the sport.

Priest's resignation sign of struggle

Vandals target crucifixes

HAYS, Kan. (AP) - Holy Week vandals wreaked havoc at cemeteries in three small western Kansas communities near Hays.

The worst damage was in Catherine, where two figures of Christ, at the St. Catherine Catholic Church and at an altar in the local cemetery, were pulled from crucifixes and broken.

"It's gone! It's gone!" a girl cried out Thursday as she and friends ran in the cemetery. "They took the Jesus off."

"It was smashed into a million pieces," said John Schmeidler, president of St. Catherine parish. The Italian marble statuary, he said, had been at the cemetery for 35 or 40 years.

At the church, two angels and a crucifix were vandalized.

At Munjor, 17 headstones in the St. Francis of Assisi Cemetery were knocked over and several crosses broken off. At the St. Fidelis Cemetery in Victoria, an arm was broken from a Christ on a cross, and the memorial to unborn children was vandalized.

Schmeidler called the vandalism beyond a prank. "an attack on the whole concept of Christianity... They were specifically targeting crucifixes."

Women of the cloth "bullied" in England

LONDON (AP) - A survey of six of 44 dioceses in the state Church of England found most women priests have suffered some form of harassment, according to The Observer newspaper.

William Beaver, the church's communications chief, said the church is studying the survey that has yet to be released to the public.

Because of the small sampling, he said, "we do not think that such conclusions that most women priests are bullied can be drawn." He added, "Every woman cleric knows where to take any allegations for redress."

The Manufacturing Science and Finance Union, which represents some clergy, conducted the survey. Studying nearly 400 women priests, it is the first detailed examination of the working conditions of female clergy in Britain.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) - When the invitations to say Mass and hear confessions stopped coming, the Rev. David Garrick didn't think anything was amiss. He was on sabbatical, after all, and figured it was simply an oversight.

But his reminders that he was still at the University of Notre Dame went unanswered. Then, in the fall of 1996, he discovered his nameplate had been removed from the confessional at the Basilica of the Sacred Heart on campus. He was being shut out, and Garrick says there could be only one reason:

He is an openly gay priest. At a university that has come to symbolize the Roman Catholic Church in the United States.

"I was devastated. The word devastated would not be too strong," Garrick said. "I could not continue here under those circumstances."

In protest, he resigned his position as an assistant professor of communication and theater, effective at the end of the school year. The move renewed the controversy at the university over the rights and place of homosexuals.

"I felt that I had a strong moral reason for resigning in protest, and that more good would come out of that than my just trundling along pretending this hadn't happened or saying, 'I'm pretty upset about this,'" said Garrick, a Notre Dame graduate who has been a full-time professor since 1992. "I wanted to make a public statement and get people's attention."

The Rev. John Jenkins, religious superior for the Holy Cross order at Notre Dame, denies Garrick's duties were limited. Garrick was never an official part of the Campus Ministry staff. Like other Holy Cross priests on campus who aren't part of Campus Ministry, Garrick could volunteer for Mass at Sacred Heart or hear confessions.

And Jenkins insists Garrick was never discriminated against because of his sexual orientation, which Garrick announced in an April 1996 letter in the school newspaper.

In fact, Jenkins said he and others strongly urged Garrick not to resign.

"Father Garrick has always had and continues to have full faculties to preside at the Eucharist and hear confessions, wherever he is invited," Jenkins said in a written statement.

But Garrick said the Rev. Richard Warner, director of Campus Ministry, advised him in January of complaints about Garrick's preaching. Warner has declined to comment.

No matter what the truth, Garrick's resignation is a sign that the university's very public debate over homosexuality is far from resolved.

The turmoil began in 1995, when Gays and Lesbians at Notre Dame and St. Mary's College, a student group formed nine years earlier, was banned from meeting on campus as an unsanctioned organization. When the group asked for official recognition, administrators refused, saying its philosophy conflicted with church teachings about homosexuality.

In the wake of Garrick's resignation, the Faculty Senate voted April 8 to again ask administrators to modify the university's nondiscrimination clause to include sexual orientation. A similar vote in May 1996 prompted the university to publish a statement of inclusion, yet stopped short of amending the nondiscrimination clause.

"I had no way of knowing whether this would be a stone dropped into an empty well or what. It turns out the well is full, and it's made a splash," Garrick said. "That gives hope. People are paying attention. Students are concerned. Faculty are concerned."

As a private university, Notre Dame has no obligation to include homosexuals in its nondiscrimination policy or do anything that would conflict with church teaching. The Catholic church has stood firm to its teaching that homosexual activity is morally wrong even though sexual orientation is not freely chosen.

That is why the university should have embraced Garrick, rather than shut him out, said John Blandford, a doctoral student and former co-chair of the student group.

"David, in a sense, should be the poster child for the university because he embodies church teaching, which is acknowledging orientation but living a chaste life," Blandford said. "That's basically the sum and substance of church teaching. What's interesting is the university couldn't even handle his orientation."

That's not true, said Dennis Moore, spokesman for the university. Garrick, he pointed out, preached at the Basilica several times after he came out and said Mass at some residence halls in the past few weeks.

Garrick isn't sure where he will go when he leaves Notre Dame, but said he holds no bitterness toward the university. In fact, he is encouraged by the support he has received from students and faculty.

'BRAVE NEW WORLD'

NBC airs Huxley's masterpiece; it's a warning, widow says

By LYNN ELBER
AP Television Writer

The path leads out from the 1930s, Spanish-style home and winds through an invitingly green canyon. It is the same path that writer and social critic Aldous Huxley took for his daily walk, and the one his widow follows today.

At age 86, the energetic Laura Archera Huxley isn't content to sit and admire her view at the edge of the Hollywood Hills, which includes the startlingly close "Hollywood" landmark sign.

She also refuses merely to tend proud memories of her husband, who died at age 69 in 1963 and whose works include the provocative novel "Brave New World."

Instead, Mrs. Huxley is an active champion of the goals the couple sought to advance, including children's rights, environmental protection and the bold exploration of human potential.

The English-born Aldous Huxley's influence was far-reaching. He coined the term "ecology," inspired the name for The Doors rock band (taken from his novel "The Doors of Perception") and was an early LSD experimenter along with the controversial Timothy Leary.

"Brave New World," published in 1932, is Huxley's most durable legacy. It paints a bleak view of a futuristic society in which efficiency has replaced love and freedom. Babies are born solely via test tube and feel-good drugs control the population.

Its title has become an alarmist catchword, summoned by critics of genetic engineering, mood-numbing drugs (such as the novel's Soma) and artificially aided conception.

"Brave New World" was the basis of a 1980 TV movie (with Bud Cort and Keir Dullea) and now returns to television in a sleek, compelling new version starring Peter Gallagher, Leonard Nimoy and Rya Kihlstedt.

NBC TV presents the movie at 9 p.m. EDT Sunday. The Huxley estate has no involvement with the project. Huxley sold the movie rights to his book in the 1930s for $2,000, a sum that his widow wryly recalls was pocketed by an agent to finance his vacation.

The novel's dark theme reveals only one side of the author, Mrs. Huxley said.

"Sometimes he was a pessimist, but he also thought that man, given a chance, had such extraordinary charity, such extraordinary genius," she said.

"If there is a book of his I would like to be read more, it is 'Island' (1962). It is really a masterpiece. It's the other side of 'Brave New World.'

"In 'Brave New World' he was warning us; in 'Island' he says what could happen if we were just a little more loving. Any parent should have this book," Mrs. Huxley remarks.

Families and children are the focus of Mrs. Huxley's foundation, Our Ultimate Investment.

Its goal is "bringing children up loving the world, rather than fearing it as many children do," she says in softly accented tones of her native northern Italy.

Laura Archera, a violinist who made her Carnegie Hall debut as a teen-ager and went on to become a writer, film producer and therapist, met Huxley in 1948. Both had settled in the Los Angeles area.

A novice moviemaker at the time, she sought advice from writer-director John Huston on a film she wanted to make about the palio, the horse race of Siena, Italy.

"He said, 'You have to have a package,'" Mrs. Huxley recalled. "I said, 'What's a package?'" A writer, a star and a director. There's a writer, name of Aldous Huxley, he's well-known. You should go and see him."

The film never was made, but the visit began a friendship with Huxley and his wife of 35 years, Maria, that continued until Maria's death from cancer in 1955. A year later, Laura and Aldous Huxley were married.

"He was very, very easy to live with. You always think a writer or artist has to be neurotic; it's not true," Mrs. Huxley said.

On the day of President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas, Huxley died of cancer in the couple's home. In her 1968 book "This Timeless Moment: A Personal View of Aldous Huxley," Mrs. Huxley recounts his final days.

Although bedridden, he insisted on finishing a promised magazine article on Shakespeare and religion. When illness sapped his ability to hold a pen, he began dictating into a tape recorder.

"He was doing what he loved to do," Mrs. Huxley wrote in her memoir. "He was still learning, while summing up, in those last 600 words, his views on life and death."

Thirty-five years later, in a living room brightened by spring sunshine, Mrs. Huxley sums up her husband: "He was a wonderful man. He was dedicated to humanity."

Writing Want Ads that really sell!
 Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
 For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then, remember these hints:
 --Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
 --Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
 --Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
 --Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Hold the pickets: McDonald's five-day strike settled

MACEDONIA, Ohio (AP) - Twenty McDonald's workers who went on strike claiming mistreatment by their bosses are getting a break from the picket line after reaching a settlement.

"I think this was just something that had to be done, but I can't let it go to my head," said Jamal Nickens, 20, who took part in the five-day strike that is believed to be the first against the restaurant chain in the United States.

As part of the agreement reached Thursday, the bosses at the restaurant about 20 miles south of Cleveland will attend human-relations classes.

The mostly teen-age strikers walked off the job complaining that their managers yelled at them for making mistakes and that new employees were offered higher pay.

Jury awards $250,000 to 'smeared' student politico

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - A student politico who was falsely branded a child molester during a bitter campaign won a $250,000 jury award in his defamation lawsuit against a powerful University of Florida organization that backed another contender.

"I hope machine politics is put to an end," a tearful Charles Grapski said Thursday after he hugged his lawyers. "This is a verdict for the concept of democratic government."

His attorneys had urged jurors to make Florida Blue Key - the state's oldest leadership honorary that has helped launch the careers of government and business leaders - and one of its members pay $150,000 for smearing the graduate student's name in a 1995 race for student body president.

But the panel decided Blue Key and its member John McGovern had defamed Grapski and awarded $250,000. The group and McGovern were accused of tacking up fliers depicting Grapski as a child molester.

Chain pulls Cookie Monster T-shirts following complaint

DENVER (AP) - William Medina and Claudia Luevano thought they were buying a cute outfit for their young son, Willie. Instead, they say, the talking shirt blurted an obscenity.

Their complaint has led Kmart Corp. to pull thousands of talking children's Cookie Monster T-shirts from 2,100 stores nationwide.

The shirt has the Sesame Street character at the wheel of a dump truck filled with cookies, with a button children can push to hear the message, "Stand back. Here comes cookies. Mmm, delicious."

Medina and Luevano said Thursday they heard an obscene phrase instead of "Stand back" on the $12.99 shirt and shorts set they bought Saturday for their 19-month-old son at a Denver store.

Study: Lizard blood may kill Lyme disease bacteria

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) - Scientists think they've discovered why Lyme disease that menaces the eastern United States is so much less common in California: lizards.

Robert Lane, a University of California, Berkeley, insect biologist, said ticks with the disease can be cleansed of the infection when they feed on the blood of the common western fence lizard.

The lizard's blood apparently contains an unidentified heat-sensitive protein that kills the Lyme disease bacteria.

The newly published findings may explain why there is less tick-borne Lyme disease in California than in northeastern states, where the debilitating illness was discovered and given its name.

"Lizards are doing humanity a great service," Lane said Thursday.

Fugitive father found after 18 years

BOSTON (AP) - A Massachusetts man who allegedly kidnapped his two daughters 18 years ago and built a new secret life in Florida has been arrested outside his $1 million mansion.

Steven Fagan, who used the name William Martin, is charged with parental kidnapping after his arrest Thursday in West Palm Beach, Fla. He is being held without bail in a Palm Beach County Jail.

The girls, now 23 and 21 years old, had been told by their father that their mother was dead, authorities said.

"This was part of an elaborate scheme planned out in advance," Middlesex County District Attorney Thomas Reilly said. He would not identify the mother or the girls.

Fagan, a lawyer who had been a supervisor at the Harvard Law School legal aid bureau, allegedly abducted the children after they made a weekend visit to his home in Framingham, Mass., in October 1979. The girls were 2 and 4 years old at the time.

Fired historian considers challenge to Gingrich

ATLANTA (AP) - The college professor Speaker Newt Gingrich hired and then fired as House historian is planning a lawsuit that could clear the way for her to challenge Gingrich for re-election.

A lawyer for Christina Jeffrey, a Kennesaw State University history professor, notified the state Board of Regents this week that she intends to file suit in federal court challenging the board rule that prohibits university system employees from seeking or holding public office.

If her lawyer can obtain an injunction against the rule, Ms. Jeffrey said Thursday, she plans to register by the May 1 deadline as a candidate for Gingrich's 6th District seat.

"I want the way cleared for me to be able to do it and I'm serious about wanting to run," she said.

Ms. Jeffrey, a lifelong Republican, said she hasn't decided whether she would register as a Democrat or Republican. Gingrich has no announced opposition from either party in the July 21 primary.

Dad: Lewinsky works to defray legal costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Monica Lewinsky is paying off some legal bills by working at the office of her attorney, William Ginsburg, her father says.

"She tries to defray the cost by working, and doing work there, filing and getting things together," her father, Bernard Lewinsky, said Thursday on CNN's "Larry King Live."

He said the former White House intern's future in public relations or the law has been jeopardized by a former friend who taped their conversations, a zealous prosecutor and a press corps that has made normal family life a memory.

Independent counsel Kenneth Starr is investigating the nature of Lewinsky's relationship with President Clinton, whether she lied about it and whether she asked her former friend, Linda Tripp, to lie. Tripp turned her secret tapes of their conversations over to Starr as evidence.

Loews-Cineplex Odeon forced to sell theaters

WASHINGTON (AP) - The merger of Loews Theatres and Cineplex Odeon won Justice Department approval after the companies agreed to sell 25 movie theaters in metropolitan Chicago and New York's borough of Manhattan.

"This is a big win for moviegoing consumers," Assistant Attorney General Joel I. Klein, head of the department's antitrust division, said Thursday.

The government said the original deal would have driven up movie-ticket prices and reduced the quality of first-run theaters in both cities, where the two companies run the first and second largest chains.

Joined by the attorneys general of New York and Illinois, Klein's division filed a lawsuit Thursday in U.S. District Court in New York to block the merger. At the same time, the prosecutors filed the divestiture agreement, which would settle that lawsuit if the court approves it as expected.

Russian parliament says no to Yeltsin's choice

MOSCOW (AP) - Turning him down a second time, Russia's parliament rejected Boris Yeltsin's candidate for premier by an overwhelming 271-115 vote today.

The vote was another setback for the president, and sets the stage for a showdown next week, when a third and final vote is expected.

If parliament rejects the president's nominee just one more time, Yeltsin is empowered to dismiss the State Duma, parliament's lower house, and call new elections.

Yeltsin's office said the president would immediately re-nominate Sergei Kiriyenko once again. Parliament has one additional week to consider the nomination and another vote is likely April 24.

Guinness' entrant for oldest person dies at 117

CORBELL, Ontario (AP) - Marie-Louise Febronie Meilleur, who was deemed the world's oldest person and believed that hard work was the secret to a long life, has died. She was 117.

Meilleur died Thursday at a nursing home in Corbell, 250 miles north of Toronto, daughter Olive Therrien said.

Security team finds out military's computer security is inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hiding behind anonymous keyboard clicks, a group of hackers struggled for two weeks to breach U.S. military and civilian computer networks. They succeeded beyond their wildest dreams, the Pentagon said Thursday.

The culprits: a special U.S. national security team that was secretly testing the vulnerability of the nation's computer system using software found on the Internet.

Code-named "Eligible Receiver," the cyberwar game proved what the Defense Department said it has long known - that its computers are susceptible targets, which became clear earlier this year when real hackers made a "systematic attack."

"It found that we have a lot of work to do to provide better security," Pentagon spokesman Ken Bacon said of the cyberwar game last June, which went after unclassified computer systems. "We're not alone in this regard."

The Pentagon plans to spend nearly $1 billion a year for the next several years to improve its classified and unclassified computer security, Bacon said, noting the department has 2.1 million computers. Deputy Defense Secretary John Hamre is shepherding a stepped-up anti-hacker program that includes a counterintelligence effort to stop intruders before they get through the electronic door, the Pentagon said.

In the cyberwar game, more than 50 National Security Agency hackers gained access to computer systems across the country, according to the Pentagon, including the U.S. Pacific Command in Hawaii, which oversees 100,000 troops in Asia.

The hackers gained access to a U.S. electric power grid system they could have sabotaged to plunge the nation into darkness as well - something Pentagon officials say would likely be a tactic of any real cyberwar aimed at shutting down the nation's public works.

Some hackers posed as operatives for North Korea and only one unit was tracked by the FBI, which works with the Pentagon to catch computer criminals.

"Eligible Receiver, I think, has succeeded beyond its planners' wildest dreams in elevating the awareness of threats to our computer systems," Bacon said.

Classified computers weren't part of the cyberwar game.

In the most recent case of real Pentagon hacking, a teen-ager in Israel, nicknamed "The Analyzer" on the Internet, is being investigated by the Israeli police for his assault on Defense Department and other computer systems earlier this year.

In February, Hamre said the Pentagon's unclassified computers were hit by the "most organized and systematic attack" to date, targeting mostly personnel records.

Texas jobless rate declines again

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas unemployment rate dipped two-tenths of a percentage point in March, dropping from February's rate of 4.8 percent to 4.6 percent, the Texas Workforce Commission reported today.

"Job growth in Texas remains very strong in the goods-producing and service-producing sectors," Labor Commissioner T. P. O'Mahoney said. "Texas employers added 30,000 jobs to their payrolls in March."

The unemployment rate last March was 5.5 percent.

McAllen-Edinburg-Mission continued to have the state's highest unemployment rate at 17.2 percent.

That was down from 19.3 percent unemployment posted in February. The 2.1 percent drop in that area, though, was the largest drop among the state's 27 metropolitan statistical areas.

Bryan-College Station posted the lowest rate at 1.6 percent - down from February's 1.7 percent.

Rates of unemployment in the urban areas of Texas as announced by the TWC for March, compared with revised February figures (in parentheses) were:

HUNTER TYLO

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Hunter Tylo's 4-month-old daughter, Katya, has a rare form of eye cancer called retinoblastoma, which was diagnosed after the actress noticed the girl's eye wasn't dilating as it should.

"We learned that there are many treatments to cure retinoblastoma and thankfully the cure rate is extremely high," said Ms. Tylo, who won a $4.9 million judgment in December after being fired from "Melrose Place" for becoming pregnant.

Retinoblastoma strikes about one in 15,000, the actress said Thursday. The disease typically appears in children under age 5.

Ms. Tylo said she first noticed a problem when Katya's right eye failed to dilate the way she expected it to during a church service. Doctors confirmed the problem was cancer. Treatments could include removal of the eye and chemotherapy.

Katya was born Jan. 15. Ms. Tylo was fired from the TV show in March 1996 after she became pregnant with her third child, Izabella. A judge upheld that award April 2.

The actress and her husband, Michael, have four children.

TIM ALLEN
LOS ANGELES (AP) - Tim Allen

checked into a rehabilitation clinic as part of a court-ordered alcohol counseling sentence for drunken driving.

The "Home Improvement" star voluntarily entered a clinic Thursday, said his spokeswoman, Marleah Leslie. The location and name of the clinic wasn't disclosed.

Allen, 44, pleaded guilty last year to drunken driving. The actor, who has a home in a Detroit suburb, was arrested in May 1997 in Bloomfield Township, Mich., after his Ferrari was clocked at 70 mph in a 40-mph zone. Police said his blood-alcohol level was 0.15 percent, above the legal limit.

"I had two Miller Lites on the golf course. And while my wife was having her head attended to - somebody hit her with a golf ball or a golf club and she was bleeding - I went to the Men's Grille and I had a vodka and orange juice," the Detroit Free Press quoted Allen as telling a judge.

"Then we went up to dinner and I had two more, and that did it," Allen said.
