New jobless claims drop

WASHINGTON (AP) - New claims for unemployment benefits fell last week but were still at a level indicating that the hot labor market is cooling a bit.

The number of Americans filing applications to receive unemployment checks declined to a seasonally adjusted 308,000 for the week ending Sept. 16, down by 18,000 from the previous week, the Labor Department said Thursday.

The decline was bigger than many analysts expected. They were forecasting claims to fall to around 315,000.

Last's week's performance marked the lowest level of claims since early August when they were at 299,000.

The more stable four-week moving average of claims, which smoothes out week-to-week volatility, also fell last week to 315,750, the lowest level since late August, when claims stood at 313,000.

Even though jobless claims have been slowly drifting upwards over the past several months, the nation's labor market still remains tight. That means employers are having trouble finding qualified workers to fill openings, economists said.

A tight labor market is good for workers. But economists are always watchful for signs that the tight labor market will trigger wage and price inflation.

They worry that wages and benefits could rise too sharply as employers struggle to recruit and retain workers - added costs that companies could pass along to consumers as higher prices. That has not happened yet.

PAY RAISE 26 GOP senators spurn leaders, join Democrats in opposition to a pay raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rebelled the House, without allowing amendments. against its Republican leaders Wednesday and rejected a bill that would give lawmakers an election-year raise while providing nearly $33 billion for the Treasury and other agencies.

The 69-28 vote set back GOP plans to begin quickly resolving lingering budget fights with President Clinton. It came amid stepped up efforts by GOP leaders to complete the 11 remaining spending bills for fiscal 2001, which begins Oct. 1, so lawmakers can return to their districts for the elections.

Only two spending bills — both covering military programs - have been signed, and most of the others are under negotiation between congressional budget writers and the White House.

All 43 voting Democrats, plus 26 Republicans, voted against the measure, which would also finance Congress' own activities and phase out the federal telephone tax. Republicans accused Democrats of trying to prevent Congress from completing its work to embarrass the GOP. with Sen. Slade Gorton, R-

Wash., telling a reporter, "Democrats wanted to slow the process down."

"That is poppycock," Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., said on the Senate floor. The administration had complained that the Treasury measure lacked enough money for the Internal Revenue Service and counterterrorism programs. After hinting for days that Clinton might sign the bill if the extra money was provided in other measures, the White House said Wednesday that the bill would be vetoed, Democrats said

Other lawmakers complained about GOP leaders' decision to speed consideration of the bill by voting on a version approved earlier by Further adding to legislators' discomfort, the bill would clear the way for members of Congress to receive a $3,800 pay raise in January, a 2.7 percent increase that would put their salaries at $145,100. And it would eliminate a scheduled increase of roughly $700 annually over the next two years that lawmakers were due to make in contributions for their own pensions.

Sen. Ben Nighthorse Campbell, R-Colo., an author of the bill, said many members facing re-election were "scared to death" to vote for the pay raise.

"That little nothing increase made them go limp in the spine," he said.

Underlining that issue's political sensitivity, of the 29 senators running for re-election. 21 voted against the bill and three did not vote. Many lawmakers who initially voted for the measure changed their votes to "no" after it became apparent that the bill would be defeated.

Senate approval would have sent the measure to the White House. The House approved it last Thursday by a narrow 212-209 margin.

The measure was actually a combination of two spending bills, combined by GOP leaders in hopes of streamlining the budget process. One contained $30.4 billion for the Treasury Department and smaller agencies, the other $2.5 billion for Congress' own operations.

The measure would also repeal the 3 percent federal tax on telephone service. Though that move is popular with lawmakers of both parties, Democrats complained that with Republicans saying they will limit the amount of money for end-of-session tax cuts and spending increases, decisions about overall tax cuts and spending should be made first dium seating and standing room only tickets would be offered for sale at the gate beginning at 5:30 p.m., but he also added there were no guarantees for admittance.

"I am concerned that many of our fans will get down there and expect to be able to buy a ticket, and I fear they will be greatly disappointed," Russell said.

Weather is likely to be 'near normal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The El Nino-La Nina aberrations in the Pacific Ocean have finally settled down, and the National Weather Service responded with a "near normal" forecast for the rest of

"For the first time in three years, global weather will not be impacted directly by either a strong El Nino or La Nina," said D. James Baker, head of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

"This means a return to more normal weather, but it also means that longterm seasonal outlooks will be more uncertain without the firm influence of these climate cycles," Baker said Wednesday. The 90-day outlook for October-December calls for warm conditions in the southern two-thirds of Florida and in the Southwest — including southern California and Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, southern Colorado and western Oklahoma.

Temperatures should be normal for the season in the rest of the nation.

Arizona, southern California and southern Nevada are expected to be drier than usual. Wet conditions are expected in Washington, northern Idaho and in a section of the nation's center including western South Dakota, western Ne-braska, most of Kansas, Oklahoma and the northern half of Texas.

Again, the remainder of the country should have near normal rain or snowfall for the time of year.

El Nino is an unusual warming of a large area of the Pacific Ocean and it's opposite, a strong cooling, is called La Nina. El Ninos occur about every four to seven years and sometimes, but not always, La Ninas occur in between.

Drifter sentenced to death

DEL RIO, Texas (AP) - The father of a 13-year-old girl whose throat was slashed by a drifter said his daughter did not die in vain.

A jury sentenced former carnival worker Tommy Lynn Sells, 36, to death row Wednesday for the death of Kaylene Harris. They had the option of sentencing him to life in prison.

"Kaylene was here for a purpose, to take a murdering bastard off the streets," Kaylene's father, Terry Harris, told the San Antonio Express-News. "Everyone has a purpose for being born. That may sound kind of nutty, but that's what sgettingusby."

Fred Hernandez, an assistant Val Verde County district attorney, called the death sentence "appropriate" punishment for Sells, who admitted to killing Kaylene on Dec. 31 after breaking into her family's mobile home near the border city of Del Rio, 160 miles west of San Antonio.

"The jury has spoken. This was really a gruesome case, and the death penalty is particularly appropriate," he said.

State board denies wrongdoing

DALLAS (AP) - Several members of the State Board of Education, under investigation by Attorney General John Cornyn's office for possible violations of the state's open meetings law, deny they did anything wrong.

At issue is whether they discussed selecting investment firms to manage the state's $22 billion education trust fund during the Aug. 30 lunch.

Hodges and Briles get ready for QB showdown

By Jeff Blackmon Hereford Brand Sports Editor

The Panhandle's game of the week is only a day away. The sixth ranked Hereford Whitefaces travel to Wolfforth-Frenship Friday night to take on the best in class 4A in the Frenship Tigers. Boys Athletic Director and head football coach Craig

Yenzer said his team was down about the loss to Tascosa, but with a big 28-7 win against Big Spring last Friday he said he believes his team got up from the Rebels' punch and is maturing. "We had a big goal line stand against Big Spring, and as the game went on you could see our confidence grow," Yenzer said. "We're still young, and we still need to improve though."

Yenzer said he is interested in seeing how his team handles last week's success in Friday's game. The coach is quick to point out though that the season is still young, and that the team doesn't want a repeat of week one.

"It'll be interesting to see how we handle a little bit of success and if we learned our lesson," Yenzer said. "We had some things going good for us at the beginning, and we didn't handle that very well."

Even with all of the hype surrounding the match up, Yenzer said the game does not matter much to his team.

"Certainly it would be nice to play well and to win, but it is not the top of line thing we need to do to have a successful season," Yenzer said. "All we want to do this week is make ourselves better." The Whitefaces face a Frenship team that has posted big numbers in its first three games. The Tigers beat Canyon High two weeks ago 47-20 and knocked off top ranked Lamesa 62-35. Yenzer said his team can not worry about what Frenship and senior star quarterback Kendal Briles will do but instead should concentrate on themselves.

The coach said last week his team had to look at themselves mentally, but this week they can just play football and get better at their techniques.

"This week is going to be more technical," Yenzer said. "This is a fun week, because we can just work on football.

"When you get the mental edge, you start really getting better," Yenzer said.

Much of the focus of the game has been on Hereford senior quarterback Cody Hodges and Briles. The two players are considered at the top of the talent pool in the Panhandle. Hodges says he is looking forward to the challenge.

braces for Frenshi

"I met him at quarterback camp and he was telling me to get ready for week three," Hodges said. "I guess it has been in my mind, but I don't want to put too much empha-sis on this game personally. "I can't control what he does, and he can't control what I do," Hodges said. The Hereford quarterback also said that the team is themselves. We can't sit around and Frenship hard Friday night but also coming back to Here-All we want to ford with a win. "We do this week is want to make ourselves win, Hodges said. "Winning is a big deal, be-HEAD FOOTBALL COACH cause a win would give us a lot of confidence going into district against Borger.

'It would be a good win and give our defense a lot of confidence, because they are num-ber one in the polls." Hodges said.

Hereford will take on a Tiger offense that is similar to the Herd's style. Yenzer said he thinks the offenses are somewhat similar and that practicing Hereford's defense against Hodges has given them a taste of what playing Frenship might be like.

"There is no doubt that having to deal with Cody (Hodges) and what we do on offense will help our kids not be so big eyed on Friday." Yenzer said

WASHINGTON - Officials from Bridgestone/Firestone Inc. and Ford Motor Co. faced questions from lawmakers over new evidence that problems were detected four years ago with tires now linked to 103 U.S. traffic deaths. Congressional investigators say they have uncovered results from tests conducted by Bridgestone/Firestone in 1996 that indicated there were problems with the tires at a plant in Decatur, Ill., long before last month's massive tire recall. Bridgestone/ Firestone officials announced at a hearing last week they had narrowed the source of a problem down to some unspecified manufacturing process at the Decatur plant. But a spokesman for the lead House investigator, Rep. Billy Tauzin, R-La., said Wednes-day there is data suggesting the company should have known four years ago. Susan McDougal, a former Clinton business part-ner who spent 18 months in jail for refusing to cooperate with Starr, lashed out at the investigatmon and criticized Ray for what she said was a lukewarm absolution of the Clintons. McDougal and her ex-husband, the now-deceased Jim McDougal, were the Clintons' partners in the failed 1978 Whitewater land deal. The McDougals and then-Gov. WASHINGTON - As he has done throughout the election season, George W. Bush spent almost twice as much as Al Gore last month. The difference this time is that both Bush and Gore have the same amount of money to spend for the fall campaign. Bush spent $21.5 million, Federal Election Commission records show, while Gore spent $11.3 million. Both candidates spent more than half of their funds on television commercials -Bush $12.1 million to Gore's $9 million. The two major party presidential candidates each received $67.6 million in taxpayer funds to take from the nominating conventions to Election Day and cannot raise any private funds except for certain legal and accounting expenses.

The decision from U.S. District Judge Walter Smith late Wednesday clears the government in a $675 mil-lion wrongful-death lawsuit filed by surviving Branch Davidians and relatives of those killed. Smith's ruling mirrors the conclusions an advisory

Both have said Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents and others were not respon-sible for the deaths on the sible for the deaths on the final day of a 51-day standoff.
