• Soggy weekend likely •

Another rainy weekend was shaping up for large sections of Texas, with a stationary frontal boundary and abundant moisture from the Gulf of Mexico combining to produce showers and thunderstorms.

Numerous showers and widely scattered thunderstorms stretched across North Texas this morning, with heavier rainfall generally south of a line from Comanche to Palestine.

Storms were moving to the northeast around 30 to 35 mph.

The rain-producing low pressure system stretched along a line from near Paris to just northwest of Waco, curving westward to the Big Bend.

The National Weather Service posted a river flood watch for parts of South Central Texas, with street flooding in some southeastern cities due to heavy rains Thursday night. A flash flood watch was extended into Southeast Texas through early Saturday.

More storms developed northwest of Laredo into the South Plains. Thunderstorms also roamed the Concho Valley around San Angelo, fed by high-level moisture moving in from Mexico.

It was 38 degrees at Dalhart and 77 at Naval Air Station Corpus Christi. Other readings included 57 at Wichita Falls; 64 at Brenham, College Station, Georgetown and Junction; and 66 at Longview.

Surface winds were generally light and easterly over the eastern two-thirds of the state, northeasterly around 10 mph over the Panhandle, southerly and easterly at 10 mph in the south, northeasterly at 25 to 35 mph in the Guadalupe Pass area and variable and gusty near thunderstorms.

Rain and thunderstorms were likely through Sunday, with some precipitation heavy at times.

A trip to the principals office is not always a pleasant experience, but Sharon Hodges, principal of Tierra Blanca deals with the students on a variety of levels in the effort to keep learning for all students at its highest level. Chance Laroe (front) and Rene Lopez visited Hodges in her office on an unofficial visit.

Principals: Economic status doesn't have to be a barrier

By Dianna F. Dandridge

"It's my parents' fault."

Trite and cliché, perhaps, but as far as academic achievement goes, research indicates it is also true. Local administrators disagree.

Research, data and test scores show parents' economic standing and their attitude to academic achievement are the two biggest factors affecting children's academic success.

"Socio-economics of the parents are never a factor in teaching the children," said Sharon Hodges, principal at Tierra Blanca Elementary School.

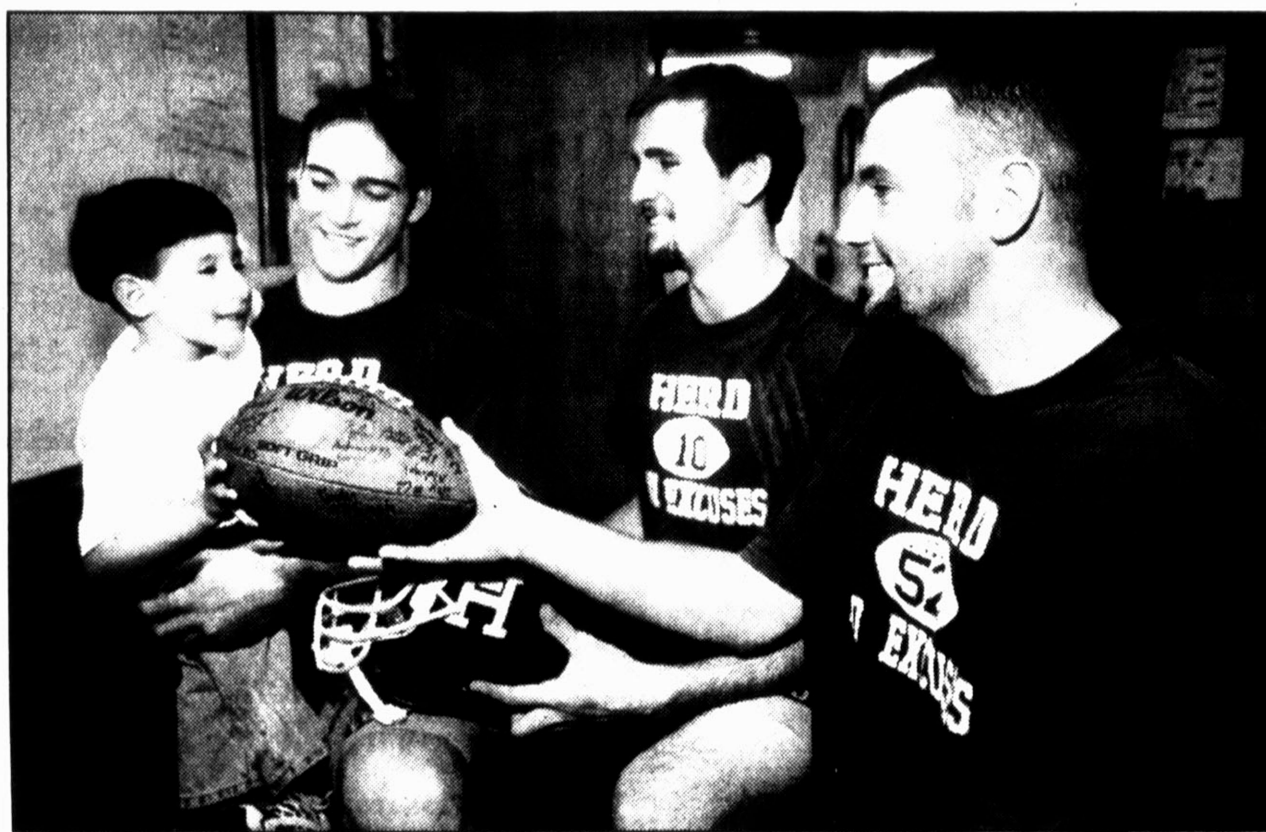

"We have a high percentage of children classed as economically disadvantaged, but that does not mean they deserve less than the very best education we can give them. Sometimes that means we have to reach out to the parents and draw them into their children's education," Hodges said.

Hodges has led Tierra Blanca into exemplary status, with the help of teachers and parents who feel children should succeed, regardless of economic standing. Tierra Blanca, along with Shirley, Bluebonnet and Aikman, have all received exemplary status from the Texas Education Agency.

Champions of courage — Though athletics and football pose many challenges, Hereford Whiteface football players (from left) Slade Hodges, Cody Hodges and Hagen Henderson honored a much greater personal struggle Thursday when they presented six-year-old Northwest Elementary school student Brandon Puente with a team ball inscribed with the signatures of this year's Herd, and an official HHS football helmet. Puente, the son of Adriana and Anthony Puente of Hereford, was born with spina bifida, a debilitating spinal cord deformity that has no known cure.

Jobless rate holds steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate held steady at a three-decade low of 3.9 percent in October, pushing unemployment among Hispanics to the lowest level on record, the government said Friday.

The Labor Department said the jobless rate was unchanged from September, surprising analysts who had been predicting a slight uptick in the unemployment rate to reflect a slowing economy.

But instead, unemployment remained at the three-decade low first reached last April and matched in September, even though the number of new payroll jobs created last month slowed to 137,000, compared to a gain of 195,000 in September.

The unemployment report was the last major economic indicator to be released before Tuesday's elections.

Vice President Al Gore has consistently argued that he, not Republican opponent Gov. George W. Bush, can protect the prosperity generated by the nearly 10-year-long economic expansion, the longest period without a recession in history.

Bush has countered that Gore would promote big-government initiatives that would jeopardize business prospects.

An Associated Press poll earlier this week showed that over half of American voters give the Clinton-Gore administration credit for the strong economy. Four in 10 think that the economy's future won't be affected by the outcome of the presidential election.

In its report Friday, the Commerce Department said new orders to the nation's factories rose 1.6 percent in September, a stronger-than-expected increase that was led by demand for electronics and communications equipment.

On Wall Street, stocks were trading lower as investors continued to worry about earnings prospects. The Dow Jones industrial average was down 25 points after the first hour.

Over the past year, the jobless rate has stayed within a narrow range of 3.9 percent to 4.1 percent. The low rate was helped through June by sizzling economic growth rates, including a 5.6 percent pace in the April-June quarter.

Growth slowed sharply in the summer with the gross domestic product rising at just a 2.7 percent rate in the July-September quarter, less than half the spring pace.

Economists had expected this sharp slowdown would translate into a slight uptick in the jobless rate, but so far this has not turned out to be the case as employers have worried more about holding on to workers in a tight labor market.

DEAF SMITH COUNTY

Early voting in person will continue until 5 p.m. today in the County Clerk's Office in the courthouse, 235 E. 3rd.

Bush, Gore now focus on turnout

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — George W. Bush and Al Gore sought the momentum heading into the campaign's final weekend, arguing over health care and turning their attention to getting out voters next week as they vied for even the slightest edge.

Gore was dashing Friday through Missouri, Iowa and his home state of Tennessee, where some polls show Republican Bush with a lead. Bush was hunting votes in Michigan and West Virginia, usually a safe state for Democrats but one of several in the mix this time around.

Bush said he regretted a 1976 arrest and guilty plea for driving under the influence of alcohol, an incident first reported Thursday. But he insisted the revelation, just days before Tuesday's presidential election, will do little to change voters' minds about him.

"I have been very candid about my past. I've said I've made mistakes in the past. People know that. They've thought about that. They're making their minds up now," he added.

He questioned the timing of the revelation. "I do find it interesting that it's come out four or five days before the election," Bush said during a hastily arranged news conference, his first in months of campaigning.

Tom Connolly, a Portland lawyer and Democratic activist, confirmed today to The Associated Press that he was the source of the report.

Connolly, who ran unsuccessfully for governor two years ago, said he had been talking about the case at a Maine courthouse Thursday. He said he had confirmed Bush's arrest by obtaining a copy of the court docket which he gave to a local television reporter.

"It's not a dirty trick to tell the truth," Connolly said, maintaining that Bush should have made the case known a long time ago.

KOREA:
The Forgotten War

The weekend edition of the Hereford Brand will feature the third in a series of articles commemorating the major events of the Korean War on its 50th anniversary.

The series began on June 25 with a commemoration of the beginning of the conflict which occurred on June 25, 1950. The second article in the series centered around Sept. 16, 1950, when United Nation forces broke out of the Inch'on Perimeter and began the march to the north. The third article begins with Oct. 25, 1950, when the first Chinese soldier was captured and continues with the Chinese intervention.

Brief biographies of some of the service people involved in the Korean conflict — who live or have lived in Hereford and the surrounding areas or have relatives here — will again be included. With the printing of this issue, 47 biographies of area Korean veterans will have been published.

This is a project of Los Ciboleros Chapter NSDAR of Hereford, in connection with the Department of Defense of the United States.

Capital voters consider rail system

■ Proponents say 52-mile commuter train would reduce Austin's bus traffic

AUSTIN (AP) — Backers of a proposed 52-mile light rail system through Austin admit the system won't reduce traffic congestion and that some businesses along the route would be inconvenienced during its construction.

Still, they say, there are good reasons for approving a Tuesday referendum to give the city a light rail system.

"It takes 200 buses off the road in the north and south corridor," said Brian Roe, a spokesman for Capital Metro, the transit authority that wants to build the light rail. "We'll have a reliable form of transportation."

As for whether light rail will reduce traffic congestion, Roe said Capital Metro hopes that as the city's population grows, the light rail system would keep traffic problems from worsening.

Opponents say rail does too little and costs too much.

"It's our contention if you look at any city and look at how many cars are taken off the road, it is so small it does not impact congestion or air quality," said Jim Skaggs, chairman of Reclaim Our Road Dollars in Austin.

Early estimates from Capital Metro show the light rail system would cost about $1.9 billion, which would come from an existing 1-cent sales tax and federal grants.

The referendum must be held, however, because in 1997 the state gave Capital Metro the authority to hold a referendum on whether it would install light rail, and Capital Metro took the state up on the offer.

If light rail is not approved this year, Roe says, it could come up for vote again next year.

Many details of the plan are still unresolved, as developers are in the seventh month of an 18-month planning session.

What is known is that the first segment of the track would be about 20 miles long and could open by 2007, with the entire line finished by 2025. Rates would be $1.

The first segment of the track would cost about $919 million.

The route would run north and south through the city, hitting high employment areas, such as downtown, the State Capitol complex and the University of Texas, and dipping just barely into east Austin. The entire 52-mile system is expected to expand to the airport.

Some businesses would be inconvenienced during the construction, but Capital Metro says it would maintain access to the businesses during those periods.

Skaggs fears that if the light rail system does not meet passenger expectations in its first few years, parts of the proposed route will not get finished because of lack of funds. Capital Metro is predicting 43,000 passengers in the first year.

The route was chosen based on the number of people who live in the area where the rail passes through; the cost effectiveness of the route; input from the community; and the ability of the route to connect to main attractions in the region.

"It doesn't work for the soccer moms who want to pick up their kids from school and go to the store," Roe said. "It works for the soccer mom when she wants to go downtown to go to a UT game or go shopping."

Skaggs says a more effective bus system would cost less and do the same job.

"There is nothing that rail can do that bus can't do better," Skaggs said. "It's cheaper. It's just as fast. It's comfortable."

Tribal farmers rally against USDA policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unfair Agriculture Department discrimination on farm loans and other aid is causing American Indian farmers to lose their land, farmers from about a dozen tribes alleged at a rally Monday.

About 50 Indian farmers and ranchers gathered across the street from USDA headquarters to protest what they contend are unfair practices by department agencies such as the former Farmers Home Administration, now part of the Farm Service Agency.

"First they tried to annihilate us. Then they put us on reservations. Then they gave us the Farmers Home Administration," said Gene Caddotte, a member of the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe, who ranches near McLaughlin, S.D. "We lost our land to Farmers Home."

Caddotte and more than 700 other Indian farmers are suing the USDA, saying white farmers have been treated much better by the agency. A federal judge is to hear arguments Tuesday on whether the group's lawyers can sue on behalf of all Indian farmers who may have suffered discrimination, estimated by the Indians at about 19,000.

The Indian farmers say they were denied loans or given unfavorable terms, were not helped in navigating the federal farm bureaucracy and were ignored when they complained.

"We came together, and we all have the same stories," said James Campbell, a Choctaw farmer from Hugo, Okla. "This (discrimination) has been an unspoken policy of USDA."

USDA spokeswoman Mary Beth Schultheis declined to comment on the Indians' lawsuit but said the department is working to improve its civil rights record.

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman "has made improving USDA's record on civil rights our number one priority," Schultheis said.

The Indian farmers' claims are similar to those made by black farmers in a lawsuit USDA settled last year. Since then, the department has sent $50,000 payments to more than 8,300 black farmers — so far more than $417 million. Another 3,163 black farmers have had their claims for the $50,000 payments approved but not paid.

BOOSTER BUCKS To Go

Nearly a record crowd — An annual fund-raising campaign begun several years ago between McDonald's restaurant and the Whiteface Booster Club was played out again recently when McDonald's offered its annual "Beat the Record" contest — a contest where McDonald's donates $1 for every car visiting the restaurant's drive-thru in a designated one-hour period. The standing record of 371, which was set in 1997, will stand in the books for another year after this year's contest drew 337 customers. In the above picture, McDonald's store manager Joe Wooten, right, presented Whiteface Booster Club representative Michael Power with a donation of $337 to benefit the booster club's ongoing projects. The local McDonald's restaurant is owned and operated by Rick and Maria Robillard.

CREATORS SYNDICATE

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope my letter will help some of the caregivers of children who are frequently hospitalized. I have a child with long-term medical problems, and I spend three or four weeks in the hospital with him each year. My husband and I have worked out a system where at least one of us is at his side all day. I have met several other parents whose children are in the hospital for long stays, and we have a "wish list" for those who might want to give us a hand.

1. If the hospital allows it, please visit us. Our days start at 6 a.m., and we cannot leave our young children alone while they are awake. We would love having a visitor to help break up the tedium and stress.

2. If our child knows you, can you stay with him or her for a few minutes while we grab a cup of coffee or a quick bite? I sometimes go for days without talking to my husband alone. Even a few minutes would be appreciated.

3. If you cannot visit us, ask if it is OK to call our child's hospital room to chat. It could be the highlight of our day. People often forget that parents of sick children need a break now and then. Helping us will also help our child, because it allows us to be calm and rested. — Any Parent, Any Town

Dear Any Parent: Thank you for a letter that could be a godsend for parents of sick children. I hope those who are blessed with healthy little ones will follow through with some of these suggestions.

Dear Ann Landers: On Flag Day, you printed the words to the Pledge of Allegiance. I wonder if I might clarify a few points.

Francis Bellamy wrote the Pledge in 1892. It was fairly simple and said, "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands — one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

In 1923, the pledge was changed so that "my flag" became "the flag of the United States of America," although Bellamy objected. In 1954, during the McCarthy era, the words, "under God," were added by an act of Congress after much political lobbying. The assumption was that all nonbelievers were Communists. I suspect Bellamy would not have liked this. It discriminates against atheists.

Ironically, the pledge has been championed by various conservative groups, despite the fact that its author was a Socialist. — Internet Buddy in New York

Dear Buddy: I found your information quite illuminating. While I am as far from atheism as a person could possibly be, I respect the rights of those who hold a different view.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this to help families that have lost a loved one. My father, who was a greatly admired man, died recently. Because so many people loved him, we received an enormous number of cards and floral arrangements. We want to thank all these people, but we don't know who they are. Some did not sign their last names, and few gave us an address.

We were especially grateful for those cards which had addresses printed on the envelopes or labels included. We also appreciated florists who put the sender's name and address on the cards.

At a time when the family is overwhelmed by grief, these little things can be enormously helpful. Please pass the word, Ann. — New Brunswick, N.J.

Dear N.J.: Consider the word passed. People who send cards and flowers deserve to be thanked. Including an address makes it easier for the family to do so, and it is always appreciated.

Third round war

■ Dumas and Hereford meet for the fourth time this season

By Jeff Blackmon
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

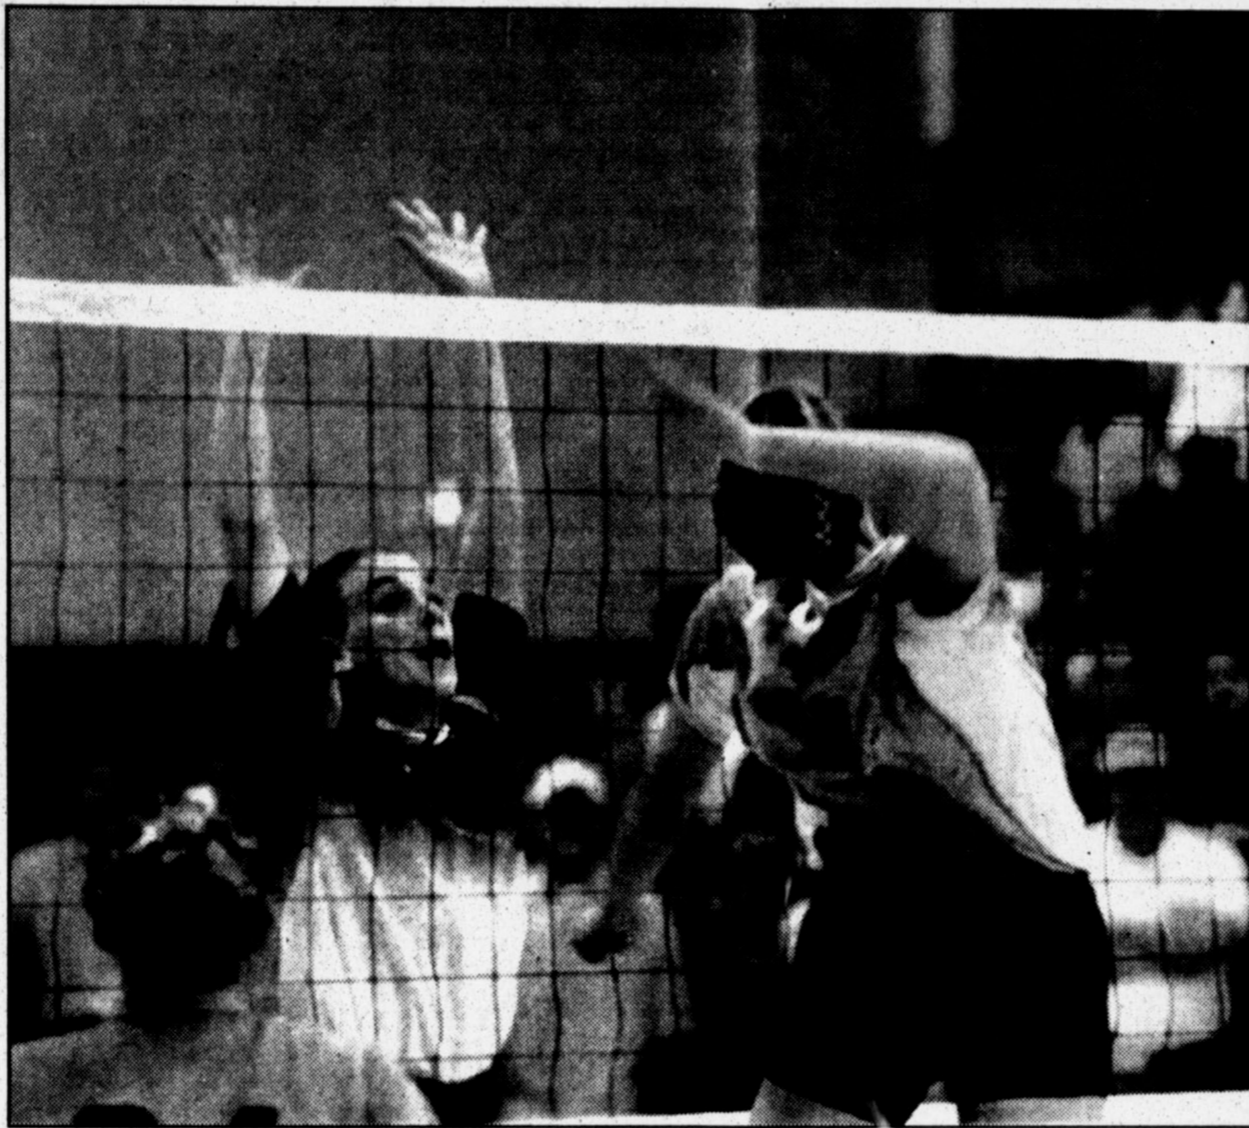

It has become a familiar sight for Hereford and Dumas volleyball fans.

The two Pan-handle teams have met seven times in the playoffs since 1988 with Dumas leading the all-time playoff series record 4-3.

The Hereford Lady White-faces and Dumas Demonettes collide Saturday at Caprock Activities Center at 2 p.m. in the Regional Quarterfinals of the state volleyball playoffs to decide which of the two arch District 3-4A rivals will move on to the semi-finals. The game is also the fourth time the two teams have met this year with Hereford sweeping both district games.

"I suspect it will be a barnburner," girls athletic director and head volleyball coach Brenda Kitten said. "It will be filled with emotion."

The Lady Herd (29-5) and Dumas (26-9) took care of their opponents from the west Tuesday evening knocking both Clint and El Paso High out of the playoffs. Kitten said she expects Saturday's match to be tough even though they have won two of three matches against Ready for the Demonettes— Junior middle blocker Kali Hall player fights for the block in the Herd's three game victory at home against Dumas on Oct. 17.

Dumas this year. The coach suspects it may even be tougher for her team because the Demonettes feel like they are the underdogs.

"The fact that we have won the last two against Dumas will have absolutely no bearing on what goes on Saturday," Kitten said. "In fact, Dumas may be able to come out looser thinking that they are the underdogs."

Clark retires a Cardinal

■ First baseman ends 15 year career

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Cardinals first baseman Will Clark, known for his intense stare and sweet left-handed swing, retired Thursday, ending a 15-year career that began in San Francisco and included stops in Texas and Baltimore.

The announcement was a surprise, considering the way Clark played during the final two months of the season while subbing for Mark McGwire.

"In every player's career, sooner or later, you're going to have to make a decision to move on," Clark said. "The first part of my life was based on being a baseball player. The second part of my life is going to be based on being a daddy and a husband."

Clark, 36, hit .345 with 12 home runs and 42 RBIs for the Cardinals, who acquired him July 31 from Baltimore.

"We were looking forward to having Will come back," Cardinals general manager Walt Jocketty said. "Everyone knows, what he added to our club the second half really put us over the top."

Clark lived up to his nickname, The Thrill, in his first at-bat with the club, hitting a pinch-homer. He then homered in each of his first four starts.

He also hit .345 in the postseason, and his three-run, first-inning homer off Atlanta's Tom Glavine in Game 2 of the NL division series helped send St. Louis into its first NL championship series since 1996. "I just want to say thank you to the Cardinals organization, which allowed me to have a lot, a lot of fun the

ROCKETS BEAT BUCKS

Anderson scores 25 points while holding off Milwaukee

HOUSTON (AP) — Walt Williams scored 23 of his 28 points in the first half and the Houston Rockets survived a third-quarter challenge to defeat the Milwaukee Bucks 115-93 Thursday night.

Shandon Anderson added 25 points for Houston, while Glenn Robinson led Milwaukee with 24 points. Sam Cassell had 22 and Ray Allen 19.

With Williams leading the way, the Rockets took a 70-49 halftime lead. But Milwaukee outscored the Rockets 20-8 to cut Houston's lead to 85-74 at the end of the third period.

Jason Caffey's basket with 9:32 left pulled Milwaukee to 87-79 before Houston regained the initiative, outscoring the Bucks 9-2 — Matt Bullard scoring 5 of his 14 points in the run — and coasting to the victory. A 6-0 spurt gave Houston a 17-7 lead, which the Rockets built to 31-16 before the Bucks went on an 8-0 tear. Three-pointers by Williams and Bullard boosted Houston to 37-26 going into the second period. A pair of baskets by Williams gave the Rockets a 46-28 lead with 8:30 left in the period. After four more Williams points, Houston led 58-34 with 5:16 remaining.

Williams finished the game with 7,009 career points. The Houston Rockets' average age is 26.8 years. Houston center Kevin Cato suffered a left ankle sprain in the second quarter and forward Maurice Taylor suffered a left ankle sprain in the third period. Milwaukee's loss to Dallas in its season opener Tuesday night snapped a nine-game opening-day winning streak.

last two months of the 2000 season," Clark said.

While Clark said he'd been thinking about retirement for some time, he made the decision last weekend after talking to his family, Jockey and manager Tony La Russa. The rigors of traveling and playing the game every day, combined with having 36 bone chips removed from his left elbow from 1996 to 1999, led to Clark's choice to leave the game.

"I can still hit, I can still play, still field my position," Clark said. "But also at the same time, this is the right time for me to exit."

McGwire underwent knee surgery last month, and hopes to be ready for spring training. Even if he's not, Clark said he won't be back.

"I'll come in and shake his hand, and give everybody high-fives and pump them up, but I'm not going to run out there on the field," Clark said.

Clark admitted he was tempted stay with the Cardinals, who lost to the Mets 4-1 in the NLCS. The Cardinals are expected to push for free agent pitcher Mike Hampton, should be a World Series contender in 2001.

Kitten said she wants her team to continue to handle the pressure they have felt all season long with being ranked number one and favored in district play.

"We're going to have to handle the pressure accordingly," Kitten said. "I don't want our kids to take for granted that since we have beaten them twice that we will automatically beat them again."

"We have got to plan for them just like each time we plan for them in district," Kitten said.

Sophomore middle blocker Sarah Griffin said she is excited about playing against Dumas in just the third round. The sophomore said the Lady Whitefaces usually face the Demonettes deeper into the playoffs.

"We usually see them in the last game to go to state," Griffin said. "It will be a good match."

Griffin also said it is important for the Lady Whitefaces to show teams they meet up with from their own district that the Lady Herd's undefeated district season was not just luck.

"We are going to go out there and show them that our undefeated district season wasn't a fluke," Griffin said.

Junior outside hitter Michelle Bernhardt said she was glad Hereford High beat the Demonettes both times in district play this year, but said she knows beating any team three times in one season is a challenge.

"I think it will be tough to beat them three times," Bernhardt said. "If we focus and prepare like we should we will be ready to go."

The last time the two teams met in the playoffs was in 1998 in a well remembered playoff dual when Dumas beat the Lady Herd in three sets to advance to state.

Campaign has 2 Pinocchios

There seem to be two Pinocchios in the presidential campaign.

Since the party conventions, the Republicans have harped on Vice President Al Gore's exaggerations of his public record in an effort to paint the Democratic nominee as untrustworthy.

But the Republicans, so quick to point fingers at Gore over his truthfulness have a problem with their own presidential nominee.

It's well known that Texas Gov. George W. Bush was a member of the Texas Air National Guard and flew F-102 fighter-interceptors during the Vietnam War years.

Without going into how Bush, privileged son of a Houston congressman and grandson of a U.S. senator, managed to find a slot in the Guard where there had been none.

What is a problem is the missing year in the Bush military service record.

Earlier this week, the Boston Globe followed up on its story published earlier in the summer about how Bush apparently got bored with even part-time military service and just dropped out. In other words, the future commander of the Texas National Guard was AWOL for much of his final 18 months of service.

The Boston newspaper checked Bush's military records and found that for a full year, he did not show up for the periodic drills required by the Guard.

He also had his eligibility to fly the F-102s suspended because he refused to take his mandatory annual physical. After losing his flight status, he was supposed to report to his filled his military duties during that missing year. So far, there have been no takers.

In May 1973, the lieutenant colonels in charge of Bush's Houston unit reported they couldn't rate him because he had not been with the unit during the previous 12 months.

Just looking at the record, it would appear George W. decided his four years of Guard duty was enough for anyone, especially someone as connected as a Bush. So what if the duty was for six years? He's a Bush; he's connected; he's a fortunate son.

In something that sounds eerily similar to Bill Clinton's assertion that he "didn't inhale," Bush says he can't remember what he did during that year, but he knows he met his military obligations.

As a veteran during the Vietnam years, I can remember exactly where I was and what I did for four years. Every other veteran I've ever met can tell you exactly where they were and what they were doing during their service.

But not George W. Bush. Considering how the Republicans have been hammering Al Gore over his tendency to exaggerate, one would think they will wrap the flag a bit tighter and chastise George W. Bush for his prevarications about his missing year.

Denver Air Force Reserve Obligated Reserve Unit, but there are no records that he ever did.

Between May and November 1972, Bush was able to work in a U.S. Senate campaign in Alabama. He was reassigned to an Alabama Guard unit during that time; however, the former commander said Bush just never showed up.

Now two different Vietnam veterans groups are offering reward money to anyone who can provide proof of the would-be commander in chief fly-

Writing Want Ads that really sell!
Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.
For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."
Then remember these hints:
• Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
• Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line, but ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
• Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

LEGAL NOTICES

Notice of Receipt of Application and Intent to Obtain a Water Quality Permit Permit No. 01261

APPLICATION. Caviness Packing Company, Inc., P.O. Box 790, Hereford, Texas 79045, which operates a slaughterhouse, has applied to the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) to amend wastewater disposal Permit No. 01261 to authorize the increase of the disposal of treated wastewater to a volume not to exceed a daily average flow of 160,000 gallons per day and to authorize the increase of the disposal site to 90 acres. The facility is located 2.0 miles west of the City of Hereford, on the south side of U.S. Highway 60, in Deaf Smith County, Texas. This application was submitted to the TNRCC on August 8, 2000. The permit application is available for viewing and copying at the City of Hereford, Hereford City Hall, 224 North Lee, Hereford, Texas 79045.

The TNRCC executive director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application. After completion of the technical review, the TNRCC will issue a Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision.

MAILING LISTS. You may ask to be placed on a mailing list to obtain additional information on this application by sending a request to the Office of the Chief Clerk, at the address below. You may also ask to be on a county-wide mailing list to receive public notices for TNRCC permits in the county.

PUBLIC COMMENT/PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting about this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. The TNRCC will hold a public meeting if the executive director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

Written public comments or requests for public meeting must be submitted to the Office of the Chief Clerk, MC 105, TNRCC, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, TX 78711-3087.

ADDITIONAL NOTICE. After technical review of the application is complete, the executive director may prepare a draft permit and will issue a preliminary decision on the application. Notice of the Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the county-wide mailing list or the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the final deadline for submitting public comments.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for public comments, the executive director will consider the comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. The response to comments, along with the executive director's decision on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments or who requested to be on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting reconsideration of the executive director's decision and for requesting a contested case hearing. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in a state district court.

A contested case hearing will only be granted based on disputed issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on issues that were raised during the public comment period and not withdrawn.

INFORMATION. If you need more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call the TNRCC Office of Public Assistance, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040. General information about the TNRCC can be found at our web site at www.tnrcc.state.tx.us.

Further information may also be obtained from Caviness Packing Company, Inc., at the address stated above or by calling Mr. Terry Caviness, President, at (806) 364-0900.

Plane on wrong runway

News digest

TAIPEI, Taiwan — A Singapore Airlines jumbo jet was on the wrong runway when it started to take off for Los Angeles and crashed this week, killing 81 people, the chief investigator said Friday. The pilot realized at the last moment he was on a strip closed for repairs and tried to lift off but plowed into construction equipment. The statement by Kay Yong, Taiwan's Aviation Safety Council managing director, confirmed that pilot error played a major role in the crash of the Boeing 747-400, which had 179 people aboard when it tried to take off during a storm at Taipei's airport late Tuesday night.

Jerusalem bombing endangers new truce

JERUSALEM — A new truce to end more than a month of Israeli-Palestinian bloodshed was near collapse after a car bomb went off near a busy Jerusalem market, killing two Israelis, and two Palestinians died in clashes in the West Bank and Gaza. At least 80 Palestinians were injured in confrontations with Israeli forces Thursday. Israeli soldiers in the Gaza Strip traded fire with Palestinians in dozens of shooting incidents, and Arab gunmen sprayed a southern Jerusalem neighborhood with bullets, drawing Israeli machine-gun fire.

Critics challenge federal funding to religious groups

WASHINGTON — Treating drug addicts and teaching tots to read are some of the good works that would qualify the nation's churches, synagogues and mosques for federal funds under new proposals before Congress. But as lawmakers move to give religious organizations a greater role in government-backed social missions, critics are planning a court challenge to what they consider an attack on the wall separating church and state. "It's absolutely incredible to believe you can have a religiously based program that isn't religious," said the Rev. Barry Lynn, executive director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

Peru launches probe actions of ex-spy chief

LIMA, Peru — The government has launched a probe into allegations that Peru's former spy chief laundered money through Swiss bank accounts, fueling demands for the arrest of the former power broker who is now the country's top fugitive. Justice Minister Alberto Bustamante said the government was notified by the Swiss Embassy in Lima "about the existence of three bank accounts totaling approximately $48 million, belonging to Mr. Vladimiro Montesinos."

Campaign

From Page A1 At a Friday rally at Millersville State University in Pennsylvania, Bush running mate Dick Cheney told a crowd not to be distracted by the charges. "Now we're coming down to the closing days of the campaign, and there's all kinds of stuff flying around out there," he said. "The important thing is we keep our eyes on the ball and we remember what we're going to do on Tuesday."

Both candidates are sounding their basic themes in a blinding round of campaign rallies. Gore played his top card — the economy. Bush ripped into Gore on health care. "In this fork-in-the-road election, prosperity itself is on the ballot," Gore shouted Thursday to a lunchtime rally with tens of thousands in downtown Chicago. "Vote for your prosperity, vote for your families, vote for a brighter future in the country."

Bluebonnet principal Richard Saucedo can usually be found with students. Saucedo makes sure every child on campus gets treated fairly and has the opportunity to learn. Saucedo was caught helping kids in a reading lesson earlier this week. Pictured are Kelley White, Imelda Enriquez, Saucedo (affectionately known as Barney), Miguel Lira, and Lupe Pesina.

Status

From Page A1 for or against a child's academic success more than race, locality, number in family and parental marital status, combined, according to test data. Bluebonnet principal Richard Saucedo knows first hand being poor has nothing to do with the success of a student. "We were never given a choice. Even though my father was a farm hand from Mexico, we were told we were going to college," Saucedo said. "A lot of kids lack experiences and exposure to what an education can offer them and even the poorest parent can provide kids with a chance to be exposed to college and a better life," he said. "Too often, people want to use economics as a crutch or an excuse, but poor does not equal stupid. All children can succeed, they just have to have the drive that makes success happen for them," Hodges said. Saucedo said there is only one key to seeing children succeed. "You have to set high expectations. Parents and teachers both have to set high expectations for the kids. They will perform at the level you set for them." Based on research data, economically disadvantaged students, defined as students eligible to receive free and reduced lunches, go into a learning atmosphere lagging behind more affluent students and have a hard time catching up because their parents often do not understand the correlation between their academic level and their economic situation. Saucedo disagrees. "If the kids get the support of their parents and the teachers they can succeed. Life experiences can help kids get caught up," he said. The schools at all levels immerse students into worlds that may be new to them, in an effort to provide them with the best learning experiences possible. "From the time kids come through the doors we surround them with books and literature, tapes and other learning experiences which they may have never been exposed to," Hodges said. "We expose them and their parents, so the parents also get fired up about learning possibilities." Administrators at Hereford schools combat the academic/economic issues by urging parents to get involved with their child's school through numerous programs which go beyond simple economics. Each campus provides opportunities for parents to learn how to encourage their children to become avid learners and in effect show parents and children how education impacts the family economy. Since at least the 1990s, research data consistently point to a student's economic factor as a primary reason for that child's level of success. Pat Diggs, director of the Career and Technology programs, has used this data to promote the adult education programs at Hereford High School. "The more parents learn, the more they will expect their children to learn. The more the parents learn, the more they will earn and so help their children become lifetime learners," Diggs said. Studies conducted by the California Community Colleges' chancellor's office indicates a student taking the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) can expect to score about 30 test points higher for every $10,000 in his parents' yearly income. The same study also reported parental education alone could explain more than 50 percent of the variations. "Sometimes society stereotypes just because of their background, which is unfair and inaccurate. Parents can direct their children's desire to learn. Their finances do not have to stop their kids from learning," Hodges said. "Lack of money should never be the factor that determines a child's success. Parents and students both have to work at overcoming problems due to lack of money, but it should never hinder a child's learning initiative."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

PONTIUS PILATE, THE MAN WHO COULD HAVE SAVED JESUS' LIFE!

PILATE, ROMAN PROCURATOR OF JUDEA FOR TEN YEARS (A.D. 26-36), WAS AN UNFIT RULER, NEVER ABLE TO UNDERSTAND THE RELIGIOUS PRINCIPLES OR THE NATIONAL PRIDE OF THE JEWS OVER WHOM HE HELD SUPREME POWER. FROM THE VERY INCEPTION OF HIS GOVERNORSHIP, HE MADE MISTAKE AFTER MISTAKE, ROUSING THE IRE OF THE PEOPLE EACH TIME / WHEN HE WAS ASKED TO CONDEMN JESUS, HE WAS ALSO WARNED THAT, IF HE DIDN'T, COMPLAINTS WOULD BE SENT TO ROME! AFRAID FOR HIS OWN POLITICAL SAFETY, PILATE WEAKLY COMPLIED, ALTHOUGH HE STATED PUBLICLY HE THOUGHT JESUS WAS A MAN UNJUSTLY ACCUSED!

AS A YOUNG MAN, PONTIUS PILATE, OF HIGH EQUESTRIAN BIRTH, SERVED HIS TIME, AS ALL YOUNG NOBLES, IN THE ROMAN CAVALRY UNTIL HE WAS IN LINE FOR A LUCRATIVE POSITION. ON RECEIVING HIS GOVERNORSHIP, HE COULD HARDLY HAVE REALIZED HE WAS EMBARKED UPON A ROAD OF MISMANAGED AFFAIRS, A RECALL TO ROME IN GREAT DISGRACE, AND EXILE TO GAUL WHERE HE WOULD FINALLY COMMIT SUICIDE!

NEXT WEEK: IF YOU WANT TO EAT BREAD, FIRST YOU MUST MAKE IT!
