ELECTION

It won't be over until the veep sings?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The election is over but the campaign continues in the improbable 2000 presidential race, with George W. Bush claiming victory based on an unofficial recount of Florida ballots. Vice President Al Gore's camp insisted today that "this election is not over."

"We have had an election that showed Governor Bush won the state of Florida. We have now had a recount that showed Governor Bush won the state of Florida. And I hope all parties involved would think about the good of the country," Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes told reporters.

"The only remaining questions are these overseas absentee ballots, which historically Republicans have won," she said.

In a statement, Gore campaign chairman William Daley countered the GOP stance, "Contrary to claims being made this morning by the Bush campaign, this election is not over. Again, we want the true and accurate will of the people to prevail, and that means letting the legal system run its course."

Florida officials said it could be as late as next Tuesday before the state certifies ballot results from all counties. Further, it could take until Nov. 17 to tabulate ballots cast by Floridians overseas, postmarked by Election Day but still in the mail.

Two prominent Democrats questioned whether Gore should pursue the case, saying it could damage voter confidence in the nation's electoral process.

Sen. Robert Torricelli (D-N.J.), the chief

COSTLY AUTOS

Arizona governor calling session to cut car subsidies

PHOENIX (AP) — Gov. Jane Hull is urging the state to backtrack on a deal offering subsidies to motorists who drive alternative-fuel vehicles, now that costs of the program are spiraling out of control.

"The bottom line on this whole process is we cannot let this state hemorrhage money. We cannot let this go on," Hull said as she called the Legislature into special session beginning Monday.

Hull outlined a plan to revamp the program, which had offered tax credits to residents who bought vehicles using so-called clean fuels like natural gas, propane or electricity, or who converted conventional vehicles to use such fuels.

She could not immediately say how much her proposals would save. The latest estimates show the program will cost taxpayers $483 million.

Her proposed legislation includes tax credits only for vehicles in-state as of Thursday, and reimbursements for people who cancel vehicle orders and lose deposits.

The program had been on the books but drew little attention until April, when lawmakers added incentives designed to encourage motorists to take part.

Under the sweetened deal, residents were to get lump-sum tax refunds equal to about half the price of a new vehicle. Many orders were placed for expensive sport utility vehicles and large pickups.

In September, state leaders learned the cost of the program, originally estimated as low as $3 million, was skyrocketing. The Legislature suspended it on Oct. 20, meaning vehicles bought or converted after that date were not eligible for subsidies.

Under Hull's plan, tax credits would be paid out with interest over 10 years — not as a lump sum — and credits based on a vehicle's purchase price would not include televisions or other add-ons.

State makes intersection a little safer

By Dianna F. Dandridge

Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Following a recent fatal accident and numerous serious accidents, the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) has taken action to make the intersection of Farm Roads 1259 and 2943 safer.

Four-way stop signs and four-way flashing red lights have replaced the north-south caution lights and the east-west stop sign and red light.

TxDOT traffic operations director Chris Freeman said his office reviewed three years of Department of Public Safety records and made the move when records indicated five accidents in one year.

DPS records show the fatal accident a few weeks ago made the fifth wreck in 2000; there were four in 1999; two in 1998.

Freeman said the new signs were installed the first part of this week, but drivers haven't yet gotten used to the new four-way-stops.

"I don't know what it is about the locals, but they are used to just blowing through that intersection. We've put up the biggest signs we can get — 48-inch interstate signs. We want the drivers to be aware they are there and traffic laws will be enforced," Freeman said.

Residents and travelers who frequent the roads are well aware of the hazards created by slight dips or curves in the roads approaching the intersection. Tall weeds, heavy fog and other traffic add to the problems of a bad intersection.

State transportation officials have installed four-way stop signs and other signals at the intersection of Farm Roads 1259 and 2943, which recently was the site of a fatal accident.

"We have a special herbicide program at that intersection and make sure it gets mowed frequently," Freeman said.

Because of the remote location, speed and carelessness — according to Department of Public Safety records — seems to have played a major role in the number of accidents.

North-south traffic, slowing to make left turns were constantly in danger of rear-end collisions, due to other drivers not slowing down.

"This has always been an extremely hazardous intersection, and drivers need to be aware it is now a four way stop," DPS trooper Gabe Medrano said. "The first day I worked that site, after the new signs were posted, I wrote one warning and nine citations. Drivers have to come to a complete stop and look for drivers in other lanes who may not stop. Our office will be working the site pretty frequently for the next few weeks."

"The stop signs are posted, warning signs are up and working, officers are working that location. When drivers come to a stop sign they have to stop and abide by the set laws," Freeman said.

• Texas executes number 35 •

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Protests from foreign officials and claims of unfair sentencing failed to stop Texas officials from executing a Mexican-born man condemned for abducting and fatally stabbing a 20-year-old college student more than 11 years ago.

Miguel Flores, 31, quietly went to his death Thursday night, thanking his attorneys and expressing love to his relatives before asking forgiveness from his victim's family, who watched through a window a few feet away as he received lethal injection.

The punishment was carried out about five hours after the U.S. Supreme Court voted 5-4 to deny Flores' request for a reprieve. The court also rejected an 11th-hour appeal. Earlier this week, the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles refused a clemency request from the inmate.

Flores, born in Juarez, Mexico, but raised across the border in El Paso, acknowledged killing Angela Tyson in her Texas Panhandle hometown of Borger, but said his punishment was improper because it was based on faulty psychiatric testimony at his trial.

He became at least the fifth foreign-born condemned murderer, and the third from Mexico, to be put to death in Texas. At least 21 other foreign-born men are on death row in the state, 17 from Mexico.

Flores also was the 35th convicted killer to be executed in the nation's most active death penalty state. Three more executions are set for next week as Texas closes in on the record 37 inmates executed in 1997.

So comes the season

Welcoming the holidays -- This week's snowfall was just a little early to herald the coming holidays, but bright red berries of the snow-capped bushes adorning the hospital park drew the attention of motorists along

Park Avenue. Most of the snow melted off by late afternoon, but for a brief time the startling red, white and green, so often associated with Christmas, provided a temporary bright spot in an otherwise bleak day

Human waste use causes stir

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — If it weren't for the constant shipments of human waste from Southern California's cities, Kern County farmer Shaen Magen says his farm would dry up and blow away.

Magen grows barley, wheat and milo for animal feed on 7,000 acres he describes as "highly alkaline and really very marginal." It's so marginal, in fact, that without regular truckloads of treated sewer sludge to be used as fertilizer, the land would be useless, he said.

Magen is paid roughly $25 a ton to dump the sludge on his land.

"The only reason we survive here is that we get a fee for removing the sludge and incorporating it on our farm. We also make our money out of the crop we grow because we get it subsidized by free fertilizer," Magen said.

The growing use of urban sewage as fertilizer on industrial farms, however, is unpopular in the San Joaquin Valley. Over the past two years, several county governments have waged legal and political battles against a few local farmers and Southern California sanitation districts over where and how the stuff is used.

Kern, Fresno, Tulare and Kings counties have enacted or are drafting ordinances intended to ban or tighten regulations on the practice.

The counties, which account for roughly a third of the state's $28.4 billion annual agricultural output, fear a consumer backlash.

"Folks are concerned that the perception would be that Kern County crops were poisoned with sewage sludge. We know that isn't true, but that is the concern people have," said David Price, who as chief of the Kern County Resource Management Agency helped draft the new rules.

Since 1994, federal and state regulations have allowed use of sludge, also called biosolids, to grow animal feed or fiber crops such as cotton. Regulations govern how often and how much sludge can be used, to what extent it can be contaminated with heavy metals and other industrial waste, and what levels of pathogens are acceptable.

The sludge is filtered from urban sewers and siphoned into vats where it's cooked to kill most of the viruses and bacteria. The result is a thick black muckish sludge that's loaded into trucks and driven to composting sites, landfills or Central Valley farms.

In an effort to fight the "sewage farm" perception, Kern County enacted an ordinance to ban all but the most highly treated, cleanest sludge by 2003.

To protect their sludge program, Orange and Los Angeles counties, the city of Los Angeles, the California Association of Sanitation Agencies and a handful of farmers who dump the sludge sued Kern County.

In response, Kern County and a group of farmers countersued, claiming the county should have the right to make land-use decisions without outside interference.

"There's a number of scientists who don't believe it's safe, who don't believe the current rules are adequate to protect the land, water or air," said Jeff Green, a lawyer for the organically operated Grimway Farms, one of the nation's largest carrot growers and a plaintiff in the countersuit.

San Antonio settles lawsuit against barge firm

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The city has settled its $1.5 million claim against a company that operates tourists boats on the San Antonio River for $124,546 and a larger portion of the revenues from the company, which also runs a photo outlet.

The city is expected to garner more than $1.4 million in additional revenue over the five years that remain in the Yanaguana Cruises Inc. contract to operate boat tours on the San Antonio River.

The city council approved the settlement at its meeting Thursday.

"No winners or losers here. It's a good and fair settlement," councilman Enrique Barrera was quoted by the San Antonio Express-News Friday.

Yanaguana owner Carol O'Malley told reporters she acted against the advice of her attorney, but felt it was a "good business decision" that allows her to get on with the operations of her business.

"I foresee a rosy operation in the future," O'Malley said. The settlement ends nine months of wrangling between the city, Yanaguana Cruises Inc., and the barge firm's photography contractor, Dreamland Photography.

The dispute began when the city told Yanaguana in February it owed the city $150,000 in unpaid fees from a 1997 contract that gave the city 49 percent of all gross revenues.

The tally later climbed to $1.5 million after the city decided that Yanaguana and Dreamland, which is owned by Carol O'Malley's husband Dennis O'Malley were one company. Dennis O'Malley is also Yanaguana's general manager and a company attorney, who once owned interest in the photography company.

The $126,546 portion of the settlement was for advertising revenues and other disputes between the city and Yanaguana. O'Malley said she had paid the city $80,000 months ago and wrote a check for $44,000 Thursday to settle the dispute.

The deal increases from 49 to 51 percent the city's cut of Yanaguana's revenues.

It also revised the share paid by the photography company from a share of a per passenger fee of 25 cents to a percentage of Dreamland's gross receipts. The percentage is scheduled to grow from 12.5 percent this year to 16.5 percent in 2005, the last year of the contract.

The agreement also mandates that Dreamland be replaced by another company.

Carol O'Malley said Yanaguana would create a new firm, called Yanaguana Photography Inc. and Dreamland would continue in the photography business, but not on the river.

Ann Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I recently attended the 13th reunion of the USS New Jersey. My father is a veteran, and this was his first reunion.

My mother and I went with him to make things easier. It was a wonderful experience, seeing all those smiling faces and the warm handshakes of those renewing old acquaintances.

Ann, we are losing our World War II vets at the alarming rate of more than 1,000 a day. Baby boomers who have veteran parents should offer to go with them to their military reunions. If they don't know where these reunions are, they can get information through the specific military branch or over the Internet.

My parents would not have been comfortable attending alone and navigating their way through an unfamiliar city. My presence made it easier for them, and it was a rewarding experience for me, as well. Hearing all those stories and listening to the laughter put a smile on my face that lasted a week. I hope other children will do this before it is too late. — Teri in New Springfield, Ohio

Dear Teri: Tomorrow is Veterans Day. It is the perfect opportunity to let our veterans know how much we appreciate them. If your parents have been invited to a military reunion, tell them you'd like to go along. Those years spent in the service were a special moment in time.

For the rest of you, pay a visit to a veterans hospital, plant flowers at a veterans cemetery, display the flag, send a card or make a phone call to someone you know who served. Here's more for our veterans:

Dear Ann Landers: I was pleased to see the letter from John Chestara, who said submarine veterans have been ignored. He spoke for me as well. I joined the Merchant Marines in 1943, when I was not quite 17. I shipped out in 1944 and sailed as a fireman water tender and then as an oiler in the engine room until 1946. When Germany surrendered, I was in the middle of the Atlantic aboard a liberty ship loaded with bombs and detonators. The Navy loaded them, but we had to deliver them. When Japan surrendered, I was aboard a tanker in the Philippines.

We received low pay and worked seven days a week. We carried gasoline, bombs, tanks, planes and everything else. Out of 250,000 merchant seamen, nearly 7,000 died.

No one remembers us. I didn't ask much then, and I'm not asking much now. I just think somebody could stand up and say, "You did a good job. Thanks." — Former Merchant Mariner in Lake Placid, Fla.

Dear Merchant Marine: You deserve more than that. We could not have done it without you. Thanks for re-mindings us.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the author of the poem, "I Am Your Flag," which you printed on Flag Day, June 14. I wrote it in 1968 for use in military newspapers before I went to Vietnam. I recently retired after 24 years of active service in the Navy and Air Force. The poem was published in numerous places, but I hadn't seen it for quite some time.

Today, patriotism seems to be an embarrassing topic, but I get a lump in my throat at the playing of our National Anthem and the passing of our flag during a parade. I served my country, and my two sons have served, also. Color me red, white and blue, Ann. I believe this is still the greatest nation in the world. Thank you for making an aging veteran proud of having done one small thing to promote patriotism. — James M. Fillmore, Bryans Road, Md.

Dear James Fillmore: I'm pleased to give you credit for authoring that poem. Thanks for letting me know.

Joyce Jones will be guest organist at the Rodgers Organ Dedication Concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at First United Methodist Church.

Dedication concert is Sunday at FUMC

When Joyce Jones performs the Organ Dedication Concert at First United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, she will be playing an instrument that is unique in Hereford—a digital pipe organ.

Existing pipework at the church was reworked and some new pipes were added and interfaced with a new Rodgers digital organ.

Jones, who will be guest organist for the dedication concert, is an organ virtuoso who will demonstrate the full capabilities of the digital pipe organ.

She is a musician with a wide range of accomplishments and holder of four earned degrees. She is professor of organ and organist-in-residence at Baylor University.

According to press releases, Jones' "phenomenal technique and great personal charm make her a favorite with audiences and she provides an incomparable evening of entertainment."

The fact that she will be playing such a technically advanced instrument should only add to her performance.

The dedication concert is open to the public and everyone is invited to come hear Jones' performance.

Christian cowboy event will be held Sat.

This Saturday afternoon at 3 in the Amarillo Civic Center Auditorium, the largest Christ-focused gathering of cowboys in history will take place.

The Christian Cowboy Gathering begins a massive evangelism outreach in the Christian cowboy movement. The CCG, the dream child of seven area cowboy churches, promises to attract thousands to the Saturday event. The level of excitement surrounding this venture is palpable as it will combine two passions of the cowboys: Jesus Christ and ranch life.

With the cooperation and help of the World Ranch Cowboys Association, the CCG will take place on the same weekend as the WRCA world championship rodeo in the Civic Center Coliseum.

"God has called us to reach the cowboy, and what better place to find them than a rodeo," said Randy Bird, pastor of Barn Church in Hereford. "We are trusting that God will draw well over a thousand cowboys to the Gathering and a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ."

The gathering will include praise and worship, prayer and good old fashioned preaching. Bird will share his life's story with the audience and encourage them to let God fix their lives in much the same way He put Bird's life back together.

Pastor Bird will also be the speaker at the event. Bird's past reads like a stereotypical cowboy story. The key factors of too many women, too much booze and horses made Bird's pre-Christian days seem like a country and western song, but it all caught up with him one fateful night.

Bird had a nearly fatal auto accident which cost him the use of his legs. Since then, he has devoted his life to reach America's cowboys for the God that Bird ran from for most of his life.

Bird joined the Hereford Barn Church in 1998 as pastor. Before then, he traveled throughout the country as a cowboy evangelist.

Jeff Gore, a musician from the Austin area; the Clark Brothers from Alvarado; and Candace Myer, wife of champion bull dogger Rope Myer, will all perform at the gathering.

Praise and worship will be led by the praise bands from the Vega, Plainview and Hereford cowboy churches.

Pastors of the seven area cowboy churches are Mike Kuhlman, Happy, Trey Johnson, Canyon; Ron Brunson, Plainview and Tulia; Doc Poling, Vega; Ty Jones, Amarillo and Bird.

Home sweet home

Hereford High wins playoff toss to host game at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium

By Jeff Blackmon
Hereford Brand Sports Editor

For Hereford High head coach Craig Yenser, there is no place like Poolville.

That's right. Poolville, Texas. "I picked the town, and he (Bobby Davis) chose the ZIP code," Yenser said. "He picked that it was an even code when it was odd, giving us home field."

Good news came Monday evening for the football team when the Whitefaces won the toss to decide who would have the home field advantage for their first-round game against the Tigers. The Whitefaces will play host to Frenship at 1 p.m. Nov. 18 at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium in Canyon. If Frenship had won the toss, the game would have been at Lowry Field in Lubbock.

The way opposing coaches work the toss is one coach picks a town, and the other guesses whether or not that town has an odd or even ZIP code. This process is also done entirely over the phone. Yenser said Frenship's Davis guessed that Poolville (located just north of Weatherford) had an even ZIP code. However, Poolville's ZIP code — 76487 — is odd, giving Hereford the home field advantage. Yenser said he is glad Hereford won the toss and gets to play close to home.

"We've played a lot of playoff games over there (Kimbrough)," Yenser said. "I think it helps our crowd, and it helps this area get excited about football."

The coaches chose not to hold the game at either home site (Frenship or Hereford). In their first meeting in September, the game drew at least 9,000 spectators for the game. Yenser said both teams would also like to avoid having to spend their week setting up their home field for a playoff game. The coach said the Whitefaces learned that lesson against Plainview in a home playoff game back in 1998.

"We learned the hard way in '98 that when you have a home playoff game, you have a lot of little things that can distract you," Yenser said. "The Buffalo Bowl (Kimbrough Stadium) gets all of the workers and paperwork organized for us.

"We really appreciate that," Yenser said.

Yenser said he is also excited about the prospect of football fans from the Amarillo area stopping in next Saturday and supporting Hereford. Yenser said along with extra crowd support, the game being on Saturday should create a strong playoff atmosphere.

"I feel like we will get crowd support from the Amarillo area," Yenser said. "The atmosphere on Saturday should also give the game a playoff feel."

A Saturday game should make a big difference for Hereford, giving the squad an extra workout day during the week and some extra time to rest injured players for another day.

"Playing on Saturday makes the week flow better," Yenser said. "We will be able to get everything narrowed down to just football."

"They don't have to worry

Yenser and his players play against Wolfforth Frenship (7-2, 5-1) on Nov. 18 at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium. The team is also in action this evening against Canyon High (6-3, 5-1) to finish out the District 3-4A regular season. A win would make the Herd (8-1, 6-0) District 3-4A champions.

OFF AND RUNNING

College hoopsters open season with two close games at Madison Square Gardens

NEW YORK (AP) — The opening doubleheader of the 2000-01 college basketball season provided two very different games with a one-point margin. Seventh-ranked Kansas opened the Coaches Vs. Cancer Classic on Thursday night with a 99-98 victory over No. 17 UCLA, while the nightcap saw St. John's beat No. 12 Kentucky 62-61.

The games had almost nothing else in common.

Kansas, which led by as 16 points in the first half, held off UCLA down the stretch with some impressive offensive rebounding and good free-throw shooting.

St. John's, which took its first lead in almost 26 minutes on Anthony Glover's three-point play with five seconds left, managed to come from behind despite matching Kentucky's offensive woes in the final minutes.

Kenny Gregory had 24 points and Kirk Hinrich added 21 for the Jayhawks, who were up 24-8 in the opening seven minutes and shot 65 percent in taking a 57-51 halftime lead.

UCLA, behind the freshman record 24 points of T.J. Cummings and the 3-point shooting of Jason Kapono, kept Kansas close in the second half. The Bruins trailed just 93-92 with 51 seconds left on Kapono's sixth 3-pointer.

That ended a 6-2 run in which Kansas scored all its points on offensive rebounds. The Jayhawks then went 6-for-6 from the free-throw line in the final 23 seconds for a 99-95 lead. Earl Watson's 3 at the buzzer made it a one-point game.

"We knew how good a 3-point shooting team they are, so we knew it wasn't over," said Hinrich, who had 13 points in the first half, one more than his highest scoring game as a freshman last season. "I'm surprised we didn't have a better defensive game." So was Kansas coach Roy Williams.

"We were fortunate to win this one, our defense was not good," said Williams, who spent an emotional summer deciding to return to Kansas for a 13th season rather than coach at North Carolina, his alma mater and where he was an assistant to Dean Smith for 10 years.

"It was my dream to coach at North Carolina, but now it's over with," he said. "The kids are the reason I stayed."

Drew Gooden had 18 points and 10 rebounds for Kansas.

Cummings, the son of former NBA star Terry Cummings, scored the most points ever by a UCLA freshman in his first game, getting two more than Don MacLean in 1989, "I'm still trying to find my way through our offense," Cummings said. "I expected this game to be at the highest level of all basketball, and it was."

Kapono, 6-of-9 from 3-point range, had 22 points, while Watson had 21.

Matt Barnes, a 48 percent free-throw shooter last season, missed three of four from the line in the final 30 seconds.

"We came up short by a couple of free throws, a couple of possessions, a couple of boxouts," UCLA coach Steve Lavin said. "We have to learn from this, and I'm sure we will."

St. John's freshman Omar Cook lived up to his billing as one of the best young point guards, scoring 18 points and handing out five assists as the Red Storm beat Kentucky.

The last of the assists came on the winning three-point play with five seconds left.

"Omar drew up the winning play," St. John's coach Mike Jarvis said. "He saw something in the defense used by Kentucky on our out-of-bounds plays. We ran it, he made the pass, Anthony made the play and we'll all take the victory."

Cook had to replace Erick Barkley, who left St. John's after two seasons for the NBA. They both went to New York City's Christ The King High School.

"I wouldn't say I was nervous. I waited a long time for this game," Cook said. "I guess I was just anxious."

Glover, who finished with 21 points, had made a winning free throw at Madison Square Garden before.

The junior forward made two free throws with 2.6 seconds left to give St. John's a one-point win over Miami in the Big East tournament semifinals last season.

"It's fitting that he came through again," Jarvis said of Glover.

Neither team was able to generate much offense in the final minutes. St. John's had three field goals in the final four minutes — all by Glover and two in the final 8.2 seconds — and the Red Storm were 9-for-20 from the free-throw line in the closing seven minutes.

Kentucky, meanwhile, had one field goal in the final five minutes and was 4-for-11 from the line over the last 7:13.

"We had our chances to put the game away, but we couldn't hit a free throw down the stretch," Kentucky coach Tubby Smith said. "The turnover and the defensive breakdown cost us."

St. John's, smaller across the front line, was outrebounded 42-32 by Kentucky.

"Kansas is as big as Kentucky," Jarvis said. "We got our hands full, but these little dogs have a lot of fight in them."

about school or anything but football," Yenzler said.

The winning toss also means the Whitefaces (8-1,6-0) will make a short trip up the road while the Tigers (7-2, 5-1) have to travel almost two hours. Yenzler said that is just another little thing that should help his team out.

"It is not a long trip, which makes it a neat deal for our kids," Yenzler said. "It sure beats traveling to Lubbock."

The meeting will again pit the region's top two quarterbacks, Hereford's Cody Hodges and Frenship's Kendal Briles. Yenzler said there will be a lot of talk about the two seniors, but the rest of the teams also must play well.

"The quarterbacks are an important part of the game, but how the other guys do will even be more important,"

Yenzler said.

The Whitefaces beat Frenship 48-28 in a non-district game on Sept. 22, and the Hereford coach realizes it will be tough to beat a team twice in one year.

"It will be great challenge for us," Yenzler said. "It is tough enough to beat a team once let alone twice in a season."

Arafat willing to meet Barak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat says a decision on Jerusalem's future cannot be deferred, and he would be willing to attend another Middle East summit, with President Clinton as host, provided a successful outcome is assured.

Arafat wants to take control of East Jerusalem as the capital of a Palestinian state. He turned down Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak's offer of limited control of the Old City plus most of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip at a summit Clinton arranged at the Camp David mountain retreat in July.

Arafat was to consult Friday at the United Nations with the Security Council, where support for the Palestinians is strong. He wants the Council to approve establishment of a force to protect the Palestinians from Israel. The United States opposes the proposition, which probably makes Arafat's appeal academic.

Speaking in Washington

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat (left) says he is willing to attend another Middle East summit with Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak.

Thursday night after seeing Clinton at the White House, the Palestinian leader accused Barak of reneging on a pledge to withdraw Israeli forces from Palestinian towns but said he really didn't say Barak could "go to hell" if he did not give up East Jerusalem.

"I was not referring to Barak," Arafat said. "I was referring to anyone who would suspend the peace process."

Barak, responding to a violent Palestinian uprising, has declared a time-out in peacemaking with the Palestinians.

Arafat responded testily to queries about Palestinian children being part of the confrontation with Israel. Questioned about the children by an official of the pro-Israel lobby, American-Israeli Public Affairs Committee, Arafat shouted: "Someone from AIPAC should have apologized for killing Palestinian children."

When Frank Sesno, of CNN, moderator of a question-and-answer session sponsored by the Council of Foreign Relations, whether Palestinian children should be withdrawn from confrontation, Arafat stood up and sputtered: "I can't permit you to speak to me in that language."

Arafat said he came to Washington and saw Clinton on Thursday to prepare for another summit meeting with the Israeli leader.

"This is why I am here," Arafat said after a two-hour meeting with Clinton at the White House and a news conference in which he denounced Israel as the cause of violence that has shattered already enfeebled peace talks.

"I would welcome any effort to convene another summit, provided we prepare for it and ensure its success," Arafat said.

He stressed the agenda must include Jerusalem's future and Palestinian refugees.

The Camp David summit collapsed over Arafat's demand for sovereignty over east Jerusalem. Barak offered some local control to the Palestinians in parts of the Old City, which was ruled by Jordan for 19 years until it was captured by Israel in the 1967 Six-Day War.

U.S.: Mexico violates trade pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Clinton administration said it would push forward with a case before the World Trade Organization accusing Mexico of erecting unfair barriers to keep American companies from competing in Mexico's $12 billion telecommunications market.

"We have repeatedly urged the government of Mexico to comply with its WTO commitments," U.S. Trade Representative Charlene Barshefsky said in a statement. "While some progress has been made, Mexico's failure to take additional actions has left us no choice but to request a WTO panel."

The action means that if a WTO dispute panel rules in favor of America's complaint, the United States would be able to impose trade sanctions against Mexico if the country did not remove the objectionable barriers.

American telecommunication companies on Thursday applauded the administration's decision to go ahead with a WTO case after negotiations between the two nations in October failed to resolve the dispute.

"It is high time that Mexico is held accountable for its failure to live up to its WTO commitments in the telecommunications sector," said John Haigh, president of AT&T International Ventures Organization.

Haigh said AT&T still hopes that the Mexican government, in the closing days of the term of President Ernesto Zedillo, can resolve the issue before President-elect Vicente Fox takes office Dec. 1.

President Clinton discussed such cooperation between the outgoing and incoming Mexican administrations in an interview with the Spanish-language television network Telemundo. Fox's success, he said, could depend on whether Zedillo's Institutional Revolutionary Party works with him after he takes office.

"I hope that the PRI will try to cooperate with him, will try to work with him, will give him a chance to succeed," Clinton said, using the Spanish initials of Zedillo's party. The PRI "will rise in the esteem of the public if they are seen to be a constructive force there." Clinton gave the interview last Saturday, and the White House released the transcript Thursday.

In Mexico City, Jorge Nicolin, president of Mexico's Federal Telecommunications Commission, called the U.S. case in the Geneva-based WTO "very weak" and predicted his country will prevail before the body that sets rules for global trade.

"It's an excellent opportunity to prove that Mexican regulatory policy is adequate," Nicolin said.

Barshefsky said Mexico had recently taken two positive steps to remove barriers by issuing rules to regulate anti-competitive practices of Telmex, the country's dominant phone company.

Stuffed

When it comes to turkey, Texans do the gobbling. Turkey producers saw their sales grow nearly 30 percent in the 1990s, from close to $135 million in 1990 to nearly $175 million in 1999. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service projects $189 million worth of turkeys will be sold from Texas farms this year. The wild birds are popular too. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department issued 69,073 turkey hunting permits in 1999, and 25,188 turkeys were bagged.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

IF YOU WANTED BREAD, YOU HAD TO MAKE IT—FROM START TO FINISH!

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE MISTRESS OF THE HOUSE, FIRST THING ON ARISING, WOULD ATTEND HER FAMILY'S DAILY NEED FOR BREAD. FIRST, THE GRAIN (USUALLY BARLEY OR RYE) HAD TO BE GROUND INTO MEAL, SIFTED TO FLOUR, THEN MIXED INTO A PASTE WITH WATER... NOW IT WAS KNEADED INTO DOUGH AND LEAVEN ADDED, LEFT STANDING LONG ENOUGH FOR IT TO RISE, THEN THE DOUGH WAS DIVIDED AND SHAPED INTO CAKES FOR BAKING. A FAMILY HAD ITS OWN PORTABLE OVEN OF STONE, WHICH STOOD ABOUT THREE FEET HIGH AND WAS HEATED ON THE INSIDE BY WOOD OR DRY GRASS FIRE, THE CAKES OF DOUGH BEING PLASTERED ON THE OUTSIDE TO BE BAKED....

...USUALLY, IT WAS ONE OF THE YOUNGER DAUGHTERS OF THE HOUSEHOLD WHO SUPERVISED THE BAKING OF THE CAKES, FOR THEY HAD TO BE CAREFULLY TURNED DURING THE PROCESS LEFT ONE SIDE BE BURNT.

BREAD OVER 3,500 YEARS OLD EGYPTIAN LOAVES LIKE THIS ARE ON DISPLAY AT THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART, NEW YORK CITY, HAVING BEEN FOUND IN ANCIENT TOMBS AT THEBES, EXACTLY AS THEY WERE BAKED!

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket. For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then remember these hints:

- Give the price. A newspaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an ad with no price.
- Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.
- Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
- Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE

■ Some state legislators looking at ways to change laws to better reflect popular vote during presidential elections

NEW YORK (AP) — Amid calls in Congress to scrap the Electoral College system, some state legislators are looking to see if they can change their state laws to better reflect the popular vote. The nation focused on the recount in Florida, but lawmakers on Thursday already were calling advisers and considering steps they could take to change the electoral system — now that there's a very real chance a loser of the popular vote could end up with the presidency. "The inescapable reality is that it doesn't reflect the premise upon which our country was founded — one person, one vote," said Pennsylvania Rep. T.J. Rooney, a Democrat. "It's an important conversation that we need to have in legislative chambers." Some also worried about the possibility of so-called "faithless electors" — where an elector casts a vote for a candidate that failed to win the state's popular vote. That happened in 1988 when a Michael Dukakis elector from West Virginia voted for Lloyd Bentsen, his running mate — and in 1976, when an elector for Gerald Ford in Washington state voted for Ronald Reagan. In 1968, a Richard Nixon elector chose George Wallace. But with Republican George W. Bush nominally the winner of the electoral vote (pending recounts in Florida) and Democrat Al Gore the apparent popular vote winner who could lose the White House, few Republicans liked the idea of change. "This is a system that's worked and is an integral part of our democracy for centuries," said South Carolina GOP House Speaker David Wilkins. "Just because there's a close vote now I don't think there's any reason to turn about and change the system." Abolishing the Electoral College would take a constitutional amendment, which requires approval by two-thirds of the U.S. House and Senate and ratification by 38 states. But each state could also change how they choose electors and divide their electoral votes. Though few legislative bills to do that were filed last year, phone calls on the subject were already coming into the National Conference of State Legislatures in the two days since the election. For those looking to change, a model is already running in Maine and Nebraska, where each state allocates one elector to the winner of each congressional district and two electors for the winner of the state overall. So in Maine, three of its electoral votes could theoretically go to one candidate, with one vote to another. (This year, Maine's four electoral votes go to Gore). Now, in a presidential election, voters cast ballots for 538 electors, not directly for the president and his vice presidential candidate. The electors, distributed according to each state's number of House and Senate members, meet in December officially to complete the electoral process.

Clinton creates new monuments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton on Thursday created a new national monument to protect a spectacular line of red-hued cliffs in northern Arizona and dramatically expanded an Idaho monument featuring an eerie, volcanic landscape. The 293,000-acre Vermilion Cliffs National Monument, near the Colorado River north of the Grand Canyon, is the 10th monument Clinton has created this year and the fourth in Arizona, over the objections of the state's governor and other Republican officials. Clinton also ordered 661,000 acres of federal land added to the 54,440-acre Craters of the Moon National Monument in central Idaho — expanding the monument by more than 12-fold. Clinton used his power under the 1906 Antiquities Act to add protection to areas already owned by the federal government. Creating a monument allows the president to ban logging and mining, restrict off-road vehicle use and grazing, and bring added prominence to the areas. Western Republicans have complained bitterly about nearly all of the 10 Western monuments Clinton has created. Critics say Clinton misused his authority, locking away federal land from commercial ventures that would have brought jobs and money to poor and remote areas. Clinton had not notified Arizona Gov. Jane Hull of the plans to create the monument by Thursday evening, said Hull aide Scott Celley.

Probe of early calls is sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Election-night projections that led news organizations to prematurely declare that Florida would be won by Democrat Al Gore are the subject of a congressional investigation focusing on whether the predictions discouraged voters from going to the polls elsewhere in the country. Republican Rep. Billy Tauzin of Louisiana, chairman of the House Commerce telecommunications subcommittee, sent letters to network chiefs and The Associated Press asking a series of questions about the Florida call. He said hearings also were planned, most likely next year. Tauzin said calling Florida for Gore "may have sent a signal out to Americans that this election was being decided in a way that was not accurate. When they're being told by the networks that it's already over, that's akin to disenfranchising them." Between 7:49 p.m. and 8 p.m. EST Tuesday, NBC, CBS, CNN, Fox, ABC and The Associated Press all called Florida, with its decisive 25 electoral votes, for Gore. Polls were still open in the western part of Florida, which is in the central time zone, as well as most states in the West. At about 9:55 p.m. EST, the networks and AP began taking back those projections based on the actual Florida vote count that showed a tight race between Gore and Republican George W. Bush. Early Wednesday, the TV networks called Florida for Bush and declared him winner of the presidential election, then were forced to back down on that projection as well. The AP did not declare an election winner. A recount is under way to determine the actual winner. Central to the probe, Tauzin said, is the role of the Voter News Service, a consortium of the networks and AP that uses voter exit polls and actual results to help make election projections. Other news outlets subscribe to VNS data. "I don't intend to violate the law or the spirit of the First Amendment," Tauzin told reporters. "The intent is to find out what went wrong in this system." Tauzin said a depressed voter turnout in the West may have had an impact on the House races in California that Republicans lost and on the national popular presidential vote that went for Gore.
