A YEAR IN RETROSPECT

Wade Easley, president of First National Bank, says the institution's first year was better than originally expected.

FNB observes 1st anniversary

By Donald Cooper

Hereford Brand Managing Editor Ant Art Art There's one candle on his baby's birthday cake, and the papa's proud. Wade Easley, president and impetus behind the launching of a new bank with an old name, said the Hereford financial institution's first year exceeded expectations. First National Bank of Hereford opened its doors Dec. 6, 1999 in the former Energas building in the 200 block of North Lee. The bank received preliminary charter approval in October 1998, but the charter application had to be amended, forcing the bank organizers to wait several months before obtaining final federal regulatory approval. When FNB opened its doors a year ago, its initial capital reserves were roughly $4.5 million. To date, the bank has assets of between $25 million and $30 million, Easley said. "We're really excited about the year we've had. I'm really proud of the staff and the board of directors. It's been a great year; our gross has been better than we expected," Easley said. "We're just that it takes so much time in getting a group to-gether, filing all of the pa-perwork and going through all of the regulators," Easley said. "In this case, you go through three regulators. You go through the Office of the Comptroller of Currency, which is the national bank regulatory agency; the FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.) ...; and you also go through the Fed (Federal Reserve Board). ... All of them want a little different type application. You get through the major ones and then they want something else." Easley said he has been pleased with the response of the community, which has supported the new bank.

Dyslexia program a model

By Dianna F. Dandridge

Hereford Brand Staff Writer One bright kid, numerous failed exams, and frustrated parents, teachers and students all add up to one huge problem - the dyslexic student.

The state dictates that students with the disorder, which affects the brain's interpretations of messages from the eyes, receive help needed to function at a near normal level in public schools.

Some schools offer student success seminars. Some schools place dyslexic students in the same category as learning disabled students and teach at what is believed the students' learning level. Other schools offer a variety of coping skills, but few school districts offer the quality of trained, skilled and dedicated teachers available in the Hereford Independent School District.

Four certified full-time teachers -Linda Baird, Kris Dollar, Billee Landrum, and Marline Watson reach out to some 45 students and give them the tools necessary to learn.

The tools range from the simplicity of giant flash cards with a capital printed letter, a capital cursive letter, and lower case letter and a picture of a word that begins with the letter to special devices which help the students hold a pencil correctly.

For many, this technique may sound much like the old phonetic just blessed and fortunate to be here.'

In looking back at the efforts to get the bank off the drawing board, Easley said the organization ran into problems, including the death of his friend and fellow banker John Sherrod. He said Sherrod, a former president of FirstBank Southwest of Hereford, had been involved in the initial formation of the company.

He said he did learn a lot about the banking business, because he was having to look at it from the other side.

He attributed the length of time involved in getting the bank off the ground, in part, to his lack of experience in maneuvering through the regulatory mazes.

"I think another part of it was

"We've averaged about five new accounts a day since we opened," he said. "That's a credit to the staff. We've got a lot of experienced people, a lot of well-trained people. You just can't put a value on these types of people."

The annual "Christmas Greeting Edition" will be published in the Dec. 16 issue of the Hereford Brand.

To help Santa Claus, who has a busy schedule, the Brand will publish "Letters to Santa" in the special edition.

School classes may submit letters as a project, or children may send individual letters of their own. Some may want to add their own Christmas artwork.

All letters to Santa will be published, regardless if the children have been naughty or nice.

The deadline for submitting letters or artwork is Monday.

Anyone who wants to share a recollection about a special Christmas in their life should write it down and send it to the Brand. These stories will be included as space allows in the Christmas Greeting Edition.

Stories should be relatively short, about 300 words or less, and neatly printed or typed. A photo which illustrates the story may also be included.

Letters and art may be submitted to the Brand office, 313 N. Lee, or mailed to P.O. Box 673, Hereford 79045.

Food drive set

Covenant Family Healthcare Center-Hereford will conduct a community-wide food drive beginning Monday. The drive will continue through Dec. 19.

The healthcare center, located at 125 W. Park Ave., will serve as the dropoff site for the donated items. The Food Pantry will be the recipient of the food donated during the drive. The food will be presented to the Food Pantry on Dec. 20.

Physicians at the Hereford center are Drs. Bruce Clarke, Duffy McBrayer, Gerald Payne and Nema Uwaydah.

Christmas lighting set

The annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony will begin at 7 p.m. Monday in Mothers Park.

The ceremony also will feature a visit by Santa Claus, horse-and-buggy rides up and down Main Street and late shopping, with downtown merchants remaining open after the lighting ceremony.

Also, the Pilot Club will serve hot chocolate and coffee at the ceremony.

Tour of Homes slated

La Madre Mia Study Club will hold its annual Holiday Tour of Homes this weekend. The tour, which will be 1-4 p.m. Sunday, will include the homes of Bill and Kerry Glidewell, 126 Pecan; Jeff and Kim Shelton, 520 Westhaven; Stan and Jan Metcalf, 125 Nueces; and Joe and Annie Brown, 149 Liveoak.

Tickets are $5 and are available from any member of La Madre Mia Study Club or at any of the homes on the day of the tour.

"Everything we teach these students has to be reinforced up to 1.500." Dollar said.

"We start with very basics. We teach them every letter, every detail, as if they don't know anything," Baird said. "By the time our kids graduate from this program, they know more about the language than most of the rest of the student population."

'Some of our students learn by feeling how the large muscles work in writing these letters. Some learn by feeling how the letter sounds when it is spoken," Watson said. "Everything we do is repeated, repeated, repeated. These teachers stress this is not a "special education class." Most of these students have shown an aboveaverage aptitude for general learning, but for some reason the information is not correctly relayed from the eye to the brain to the hand. "The first key that a student might be dyslexic is when a bright child has a problem reading, writing or spelling," Dollar said. "We try everything else before we get a child in the dyslexic program. "The kids coming in our program are definitely challenged," Baird said. "It takes a lot of commitment from the students, their parents, and from the teachers to get a student through this program.'

The teachers try to catch students as early as possible, hopefully by the second or third grade, and will work with the students for one hour a day for three years.

"We want to get them in here before they have it their heads that they can't learn. The older a child is when we get them, the harder it is for them to accept the program and give it a chance to work for them,"

Handling of blood questioned

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS News digest

WASHINGTON — A federal agency is questioning the handling of blood supplies by the American Red Cross, saying the agency repeatedly failed inspections over 15 years and continues to have problems that could harm patients. Documents filed in U.S. District Court by the Food and Drug Administration said the Red Cross is not in compliance with the current laws and regulations.

"The problems are serious because of the potential for harm," FDA official Dr. Jay S. Epstein said Friday. The Red Cross collects about 6.5 million units of blood annually, about half of the nation's medical blood supply.

Dr. Bernadine Healy, the American Red Cross president and chief executive, said the blood supplied by the organization is "the safest in the world."

While both sides waited for the U.S. Supreme Court to decide the fate of earlier recounts, Gore's lawyers opened their case contesting the state's official election results declaring Bush the winner by 537 votes.

"We have alleged that the certified results reject a number of legal votes and include a number of illegal votes," attorney David Boies said, laying out the Democrat's arguments.

He asked the court to allow contested votes in Palm Beach and Miami-Dade counties to be counted belatedly. The votes could "place in doubt" Bush's certified victory, Boies argued.

Planning group to take up regional distribution network at public meeting

Special to The Brand

LUBBOCK — The Llano Estacado Regional Water Management Plan will discuss the regional water distribution network at 10 a.m. Dec. 7 at the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District office.

Chairman A. Wayne Wyatt of Lubbock said mayors, city managers and public utility directors within the Llano Estacado Water Planning Group will attend the session. The group recently reviewed comments from the public, as well as state and federal agencies, about the proposed plan as part of the preliminary steps toward its formal adoption.

"We contacted these entities a few months ago to see if they were interested in participating in a regional water pipeline project as outlined in the draft water management plan. Of the 46 entities contacted, 42 responded favorably," Wyatt said. The meeting, which is open to the public, will give the planning group an opportunity to discuss the issue before the start of the 77^{th} Texas Legislature in January 2001.

Hereford Mayor Bob Josserand is a member of the planning group. "The Texas Water Development (TWDB) has "The Texas Water Development (TWDB) has made their preliminary assessment of the initially-prepared regional water plan document," Wyatt said. "Their review has found some minor elements missing from the draft plan that are necessary to meet statutes, rules or contract requirements of Senate Bill 1 and the TWDB. We are expecting additional input from the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission (TNRCC) and the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) prior to Dec. 5."

The planning group also reviewed public comments received after the water plan was unveiled Sept. 26 at a public hearing in Lubbock.

"We received 19 written comments regarding the content of the regional water plan and have responded to each one," Wyatt said.

The Llano Estacado Regional Water Management Plan must be submitted to the TWDB by Jan. 5, 2001. After the TWDB signs on to the plan, the 16 regional water plans will be incorporated into a comprehensive state plan.

The planning group also is developing its agenda for the next planning cycle. The agenda also will be submitted to the TWDB.

Texas estimates surplus of $1.5B

AUSTIN (AP) — The state will end its two-year budget cycle with a $1.5 billion surplus and budget officials are predicting the state's economy will grow by more than 14 percent during the 2002-2003 budget cycle.

However, key lawmakers say chances are slim that a tax cut will be approved next year.

"I'll be hard to convince," Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bill Ratliff told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "It will be hard for me to support any more major tax cuts. The economy is just not generating that kind of revenue."

Pennsylvania-based Regional Financial Associates told the state's Legislative Budget Board that Texans' personal income will grow by 14.09 percent by September 2003.

The board, headed by Lt. Gov. Rick Perry and including House Speaker Pete Laney and four members of the House and the Senate, uses the forecast to set the spending limits for the upcoming budget.

Two years ago, it projected that the economy would grow — and allowed spending to jump — by 13.4 percent, though those predictions turned out to be conservative. State agencies have already submitted expensive budget requests for the next budget and some lawmakers are trying to establish a health insurance program for teachers. Even with the 14 percent projections, budget writers say they won't have enough money to cover all those requests. When lawmakers return to Austin for their 140-day session beginning Jan. 9, they already have to make an emergency appropriation of as much as $700 million to cover higher-than-expected costs for Medicaid and the cost of a bigger-than expected prison population.

Ratliff says that although those costs exceeded expectations, the strong economy pumped more than enough tax money into state coffers to avoid a budget shortfall.

Although the growth in personal income will funnel more money from sales taxes, licenses, permit fees and other sources into state coffers, the gains are expected to be matched by the growth in demand for services.

CANYON — For its many charitable contributions and health-related undertakings on behalf of the local population, West Texas A&M University's Nursing Students Association (WTNSA) has been named recipient of the President's Community Service Award for November.

WTNSA, which in both 1998 and 1999 was named the Nursing Student Association's Student Chapter of the Year in Texas, has sponsored flu-shot drives, taught CPR classes and even conducted a skeet shoot to promote gun safety in the Panhandle, providing ear plugs as an additional safety precaution.

The student organization also has been responsible for conducting a health fair in Dumas, supplying fruit and water to participants in a walk for diabetes, collecting donations to benefit Toys for Tots, and working to help elderly citizens better understand problems related to blood pressure.

The President's Community Service Award was established by University President Russell C. Long to recognize the good-faith community efforts of WTAMU students, faculty and staff; offices and departments/divisions; and chartered/registered student organizations.

It is easy to understand (U.S. Vice President and Democratic nominee) Al Gore's refusal to admit defeat in the U.S. presidential election. Florida's decision to proclaim a winner before all votes have been recounted does not correspond with the idea of a fair process. Gore's problem is that the Americans' patience is beginning to give out. Opinion polls show that the voters have been affected by an acute fatigue and that they are increasingly suspicious of the endless technical discussions on the election. A little bit in the background of the spectacle in Florida, there has also been an election in neighboring Canada. And unlike the United States there is a winner without a single judicial process. Prime Minister Jean Chretien, whose role as leader of the Liberals earlier had been questioned, effectively silenced all critics by being easily re-elected for a third time.

John Worley's disappearance

Throwing rocks at gravity

Hello, Hereford.

f you think you're sick of Florida, then try to imagine what Floridians are going through.

A hurricane named Democracy went to work on the Sunshine State shortly after Nov. 7, and its swell has already exceeded that of an earlier tempest, Elián.

The state's disaster insurance premiums are soaring through the roof. There's hardly any good, cheap Third World plywood left for homeowners wishing to barricade their homes against the squall lines of this or any other Florida tumult.

Beyond the constant drone of networks reporting the latest butterfly ballot mortality rates; almost-weekly certifications of George W. Bush as the 43rd president, or the usurpation of state laws by the Florida Supreme Court; Florida environmentalists are now concerned the state may capsize under the weight of civil trial lawyers and contaminate the pristine waters of the Florida Straits.

Living in the eye of the storm has naturally been especially stressful for many of the state's confused and supposedly disenfranchised Democratic voters who still insist their votes for Fidel Castro should be included in this unprecedented presidential election.

Yet, while the rest of the nation paused this Thanksgiving to consider its blessing for having but one Florida in the Republic, our family was praying for a miracle. Shortly before the turkey bones and dressing flew, we recited in unison: "Our gracious heavenly Father, please deliver us from our hour of discontent and grant us a swift finish to the science fair project that is inconveniently due first thing Monday."

God's silence resonated like a jack hammer above the din of the football game. We should have known better. God was busy trying to sort out Florida election laws. Still, it seems the science fair is a much more rigid process than a United States presidential election. Rules are rules. Deadlines are deadlines.

Notably, Chretien's Liberal Party won majority of the votes in the Frenchspeaking Quebec for the first time since 1980.

As of late, the demands for withdrawing have become somewhat weaker. In the election in Quebec two years ago, there was a clear sign of the voters preferring a status quo. Parti Quebecois, which has been pushing the question of separation, indeed became the biggest party in the province's legislative assembly, but that depended solely on the election system. The federalist Liberals gained ground.

Chretien's success in Monday's election can be seen as a support for his demands for a united Canada. He does not have to worry about a president in an independent Quebec. A president in the U.S.A. he can only wait for.

DAGENS NYHETER, Stockholm, Sweden

Whoever prevails in the U.S. presidential election will emerge debilitated from Florida's alligator and ballot manipulator infested swamps.

Disputed presidential elections have occurred before in American history, but today we're dealing not just with a more advanced society but with a superpower that watches over the world order.

How will a president of disparaged prestige, if not halved power, be able to govern?

Many political analysts argue that trong political guidance is necessary to hold multiethnic America together as a "supernation," potentially unstable in its economic and cultural disparity.

If the American superpower of the dollar, of technology, and of its military, is today without rivalry, all attention should be dedicated to evaluate those uncertain prospects.

ohn Shaddix died a few weeks ago. I hadn't thought about Mr. Shaddix, the principal of the elementary school in Nashville, Ark., that I attended, until I got an e-mail from a cousin who still lives on the family farm.

Whenever I think of Mr. Shaddix, I always remember the sunny spring day when John Worley disappeared.

As I recall, John's father was a tenant farmer near Bingen, which was a few miles from Nashville. There were several kids and the whole family crowded together in a tarpaper shack near a creek. As soon as the kids were big enough to work, they joined their father in the fields, planting and weeding cotton, while their mother tended a garden and occasionally did ironing to pick up a little extra cash, most of which their father spent on chewing tobacco, a habit he passed on to his boys.

Because the kids didn't start school until after the cotton harvest, they were always behind in their classes. His older brothers and sisters had quit school as soon as the state would let them, and John had been held back two or three times. One of his brothers had joined the Navy, and one sister had married well, but most of the Worley kids worked at whatever they could find.

I guess John was embarrassed about being two or three years older and so much bigger than than the rest of us in Mrs. Peek's fourthgrade class, so he became a bully, pushing the smaller boys off the playground slides, bumping us in the hallways and always picking fights. Now and then, he'd take away some kid's lunch. Most of us tried our best to stay away from him, which wasn't easy in a small school.

I don't know why John found such pleasure in tormenting Jimmy Gosnell, but he bullied him so much that Jimmy tried to hide out in the library during recess and lunch hour. Jimmy never told Mrs. Peek what was happening, probably because he was so afraid of the

One day in the spring, Jimmy brought a bag of marbles to school. During recess, we gathered on the playground, drew a circle in the dirt and knelt around to shoot marbles. Jimmy was lining up a shot when Frog's foot came down on his hand.

"Gimme those marbles," he said, spittle flying in all directions.

Jimmy scrambled to grab up the marbles and hand them to John, who stuffed the bag in his pocket. He began laughing uproariously when Jimmy, who was white as a sheet from fright, lost control of his bladder. Jimmy wouldn't tell Mrs. Peek why he didn't go to the bathroom during recess, but she let him sit on the sidewalk right outside the classroom so the sun would dry his pants. She stood beside the window during the class so Jimmy wouldn't miss anything.

John Worley disappeared a couple of days later.

I went to the bathroom, something we weren't supposed to do during class, but I guess Mrs. Peek still remembered what had happened to Jimmy, so she let me go. When I got to the bathroom, my heart nearly stopped because John was standing at one of the sinks, looking at the mirror and combing his greasy red hair into a towering pompadour. When he was satisfied his hair was suitably Elvis-like, John reached into the back pocket of his overalls and pulled out a pack of Red Man. "Want some?" he said, extending the pack of Parents and students - specifically like those at our house who try to compress 100 hours of scientific research into a holiday weekend — are warned early that the deci-sion of the judges is always final, and "Don't even think about whining about deadline extensions.'

Even though the prospect of complete disgrace within the scientific community was very real, these ragtag scientists nevertheless charged into a field study of rocket propulsion under the cool blue sky of a November Sunday afternoon.

The launch pad was armed with its powerful test vessel, a 3-liter pop bottle dressed in today's fashionable discount posterboard.

Adrenaline flowed through the team's veins. The prospect of discovering the mysteries of the universe was exhilarating right up to the point when the rocket fell impotently out of the launch pad, see-sawed a couple of times and then dented the family van with a No. 4 chemistry stopper that once harnessed the mighty rocket's compressed air payload.

Three more launches were made, two actually achieved altitude. No serious injuries were recorded. The rocket scientists quit while they were ahead.

Data from the experiment was quickly compiled with the equally suspect and haphazard results drawn by a cross-town member of the science team. He reported his rocket "exploded" on the first launch.

And from the experiments, the team drew the same conclusion Sir Issac Newton did about gravity and motion: rocks weigh more than pebbles and therefore fall faster. The science fair project was a boulder.

On Monday, the rocket science team packed its cumulative findings and meekly delivered them to the halls of the Nobel Prize committee at the school administration building. After the project was set in its allotted space, the pseudo brains appraised their project against many others demonstrating greater creativity, more depth and effort. Vast studies had been conducted on mummification, soil erosion, levers and pulleys, creating perfumes, seed germination, etc. Under the cold, harsh light of scientific scrutiny, where method and protocol rule the day, the rocket men realized they had as great a chance in winning the science fair as Al Gore had in winning Florida's electoral votes.

But, they learned at least one irrefutable truth in the process — a truth first described in Newton's Laws of Motion and Gravity, and now tested in the litigation of a presidential election. Rules are rules. Sooner, or later, the gravity of the situation wins the war and the rocks fall tobacco toward me.

L shook my head. He shrugged and stuffed the pack back into his hip pocket. I finished my business and quickly washed my hands, sneaking peeks at John out of the corner of my eye and trying not to do anything to set him off.

He looked intently at the mirror then seemed to take a deep breath and spit a stream of brown tobacco juice that splattered on the mirror and slid slowly down the glass toward the wash basin.

I heard him chuckle and I walked briskly toward the door and then I heard a splat as another stream of tobacco juice splattered against the wall. This time he laughed heartily, as if the brown streams splattering the walls and mirrors in the bathroom was hilarious.

I had just gotten to the classroom door when I saw the principal coming down the hallway. Mr. Shaddix, was enormous, a former college football player who might have made the pros if he hadn't torn up his knee. He kept a paddle, a board cut out of quarter-inch plywood and with holes drilled in it, in his office, and he wielded it enthusiastically, so enthusiastically that even Allen Tollett, who was the toughest guy in the sixth grade, had tears in his eyes when he came back from Mr. Shaddix's office.

When he got even with the bathroom door, Mr. Shaddix stopped and listened. I knew Mr. Shaddix could hear John Worley laughing because I could and I was down the hallway. Mr. Shaddix turned and pushed open the door.

"What's going on in here?" he said sternly and the laughing ended abruptly.

The next thing I knew Mr. Shaddix was coming out of the bathroom and he was holding John by the back straps of his faded overalls. John's feet barely touched the floor as Mr. Shaddix carried him down the hallway.

That was the last time I ever saw John Worley, something that made all of us try to make sure we stayed out of Mr. Shaddix's way. We were certain Mr. Shaddix had killed John and buried his body in the basement of the junior high school up on the hill. There was a room in the basement with a double padlock on it, and that's where Mr. Shaddix stashed the bodies of the troublemakers he'd killed - or at least that's what John David Powers said. John David was supposed to know because his dad, Fatty Powers, and Mr. Shaddix went back a long ways.

I didn't really believe Mr. Shaddix had killed John Worley, but I didn't want to find out by crossing him. Years later, I heard John had been kicked out of school, and his father though he needed a big, strong hand helping him in the fields more than the boy needed an education. As soon as he was old enough to join up, John enlisted in the Marines and never came back to Nashville.

AUSTIN - An important election challenged over a technicality of the law. The matter goes to the Supreme Court while political futures hang in the balance in the capital city of Texas. Someone from Florida is causing problems. Austin in November 2000? No, Austin in 1874.

The contested Nov. 7 presidential election, in which Democrat Al Gore garnered the most popular ballots while Republican George W. Bush apparently collected the most ballots in the Electoral College, has left Austin in political limbo.

It has been 126 years since any other election polarized and paralyzed - Austin to such an extent.

On Dec. 2, 1873, Democratic

Mike Cox joined the Texas Press Association on Nov. 2 after spending 15 years as spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety. Before joining the DPS, he had a 20-year career as an award-winning journalist.

Cox began his newspaper careeer in 1967 as a reporter for the San Angelo Standard-Times. He later worked for the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal before joining the Austin American-Statesman staff in 1970. He is an elected member of the Texas Institute of Letters and author of 10 books.

ing a 15 percent pay raise to most of the nation's federal workers would be a risky step away from budget discipline, President Clinton said in deciding that a 3.7 percent raise is sufficient.

Under the law, most federal civilian employees are to receive a 2.7 percent base salary increase in January. In addition, they would get a pay adjustment, based on where they live, under a formula set up to close the wage gap between federal and private-sec-

The Clinton administration says that formula is flawed.

Instead, Clinton has decided on a pay raise of 3.7 percent - the base salary increase plus a 1 percent adjustment in differentials that are based on where the employee lives. A 15 percent increase in federal pay would disrupt labor markets, prompt private firms to raise their wages and possibly trigger inflation, Clinton said in a letter to the House and Senate that the White House released.

days." The fight was over the meaning of the semi-colon after the word "law."

Based on this decision, which most historians believed was reached on the basis of partisan politics, not a reasoned interpretation of the law, Davis declared he would not vacate the governor's office. Coke, in turn, said he would not be denied the governorship, no matter the findings of the pro-Davis Supreme Court.

For two weeks, from Jan. 5 to Jan. 19, Austin verged on civil insurrection. The Capitol became an armed camp as two different sets of party partisans, legislators and other elected officials tried to keep or gain control of the building. A war could have started on Jan. 16, when a pro-Coke party forced open the state arsenal and removed rifles and ammunition. Fortunately, Coke ordered the men to return the weapons.

Davis, meanwhile, had appealed to Republican President U.S. Grant for help. The president recommended that Davis "yield to the verdict of the people." When the president turned down a second request for federal troops, Davis reluctantly decided to step down. Despite all the tension, the only shooting that resulted from the incident was a 102gun salute fired on the Capitol grounds after Coke's inauguration.

The lesson for Texas during the waning days of the year 2000? Painful as the presidential election process has been this year, at least the only confrontations have been between the spin meisters, the lawyers and the courts.

Kids need place to skateboard

Dear Editor:

In hope of new and good things for Hereford, I have a wonderful suggestion. It's for our young people.

It's a sport that's not recognized like football, volleyball, basketball, track or golf. Or, FFA or 4-H. It's skateboard and roller blading. It's fun, time-consuming and good for you. The kids who enjoy these activities are a great bunch of kids. This is what they enjoy. It's good for their minds and well-being, too!

You really have to think quick and fast. Believe me, I've watched my grandsons and their friends - it's exciting!

These kids need a place to call theirs. So, how about one of our "eyesores" (and we do have quite a few of those now), a big vacant lot that could be fixed up for a lot of kids to really enjoy? Not only for the sport but to make new friends, to help others learn and have fun at the same time. It wouldn't cost Hereford that much money, because look at all the parents, grandparents and the kids themselves who would be more than happy and excited to help in any way that's needed to do this for our youth.

Even now, when I'm going home from work, I see lots of boys and girls with skateboards or rollerblades in hand going to or looking for a place to enjoy their sport. So, why not fix a place for all to enjoy? Have you ever watched these kids? They are good! It's refreshing and breathtaking to watch what effort, thought and energy goes into this activity.

So, Hereford, whatever it takes to make life more enjoyable, more creative and just to have fun for our youth. Let's make an effort to do whatever it takes and get behind it 100 percent, just as we do other activities. They are, each and every one, important to the future of our children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

How much is enough, and how much is too much, when it comes to knowledge about crashes?

It depends on who uses that knowledge. And that's what's causing the flap over new data-collection devices being installed by General Motors in the cars it manufactures.

GM has installed devices in hundreds of thousands of its cars that collect data when a car crashes, much like the "black box" on an airliner that is used to look for clues after a plane. crash.

Doctors, engineers and government officials say the information collected by GM's device can help them to better understand how the human body tolerates car crashes. They also want to use the information to help build safer cars, improve the treatment of crash victims and write government auto safety standards to better protect passengers in auto accidents.

A privately owned car is not an airliner, and the black box in a car is part of the car, and thus is the property of the car owner. That raises an obvious question. Is there a privacy question concerning the contents of that black box, and could information in the device be demanded by a plaintiff's lawyer and used in a lawsuit against the car owner?

AMERICAN PRESS. Lake Charles, La.

Congress will have to govern from the center, or not at all

Limping back into session after a threeweek time out, the lame-duck Congress will have to face undone business with the political storm still raging over the presidency.

The struggle for the decisive Florida presidential electors has intensified since the House and Senate decided to put off the last of its 2000 work until December, more than two months after it was supposed to be completed.

Lawmakers still have four appropriations bills to pass in order to keep the government financed; the agencies involved are operating now on overtime extensions of their previous budgets.

By midnight Tuesday, Congress will have to pass and President Clinton sign another extension, the 17th since the old appropriations expired on Sept. 30.

Other measures wait, a tax cut bill and a minimum wage increase among them, but they are likely to be shelved until next year.

The appropriations have to be passed, although one way out would be a longer extension by resolution, putting money disputes on hold until the new president and Congress take over.

That will not make it any easier.

The divided government that led to deadlocks and delays over money and policy was at least clearly divided: Democrat Bill Clinton in the White House, Republicans narrowly in control of the House and Senate.

In 2001, the lineup will be even more closely divided. As president, either Republican George W. Bush or Democrat Al Gore will have to lead with no mandate from voters who produced the closest thing to a tied popular vote in 40 years and the closest contest for the electoral vote in 124 years. When the new Congress convenes in one month, it will be with a split Senate and a barely Republican House.

Walter R. Mears

The Associated Press

In a government so divided, the postscript session of the 106th Congress may be a pre-. view of what will happen next year: probably not much.

Bush, certified but challenged, is readying a new Republican administration with Cabinet choices that would have to be confirmed in what will be the first tied Senate since 1881, barring an improbable reversal of the one seat still involved in a recount.

From Jan. 3 until Jan. 20, Gore, as vice president, will have the tie-breaking vote in a 50-50 Senate.

But the Democrats will not try to take over control because it will not last.

After the inauguration, whether Bush is president or Gore succeeds in overturning him in court to claim Florida and the Electoral College majority, Republicans will have a one-vote edge in the Senate.

With Bush as president, the tie-breaking vote would be Vice President Dick Cheney's. Were Gore in the White House, Democratic Sen. Joe Lieberman of Connecticut would have to resign his seat to become vice president, and his successor would be a Republican appointed by a GOP governor.

That would make it Republican, 51-49.

Either way, Republicans would have the votes to organize the Senate, with Sen. Trent Lott of Mississippi still

But the power of the majority leader, who usually decides when and sometimes what the Senate does, will be crimped next year. Democrats are demanding a powersharing deal, in which their leader would have an equal hand in overseeing operations. Republicans serve as chairmen of the Senate committees again, but there, too, Democrats want equality and some form of shared power. The committees are where legislation is shaped and sometimes stopped.

In the House, Republicans have effectively a five-vote edge, enough for control but not enough to make things run their way.

So the governing is going to have to be done in the center, by compromise and negotiation. That could temper the strident, partisan edge of the the majority leader. recent past. The alternative is stalemate and gridlock. There has not been an evenly divided Senate since 1881, when it was 38-38. Amid wrangling and dealmaking, an independent switched to vote for Republican control, and deadlock ruled the 11-week session.

It almost happened again in 1953, but Oregon Sen. Wayne Morse, once a Republican, then an independent, later a Democrat, voted for the GOP control that held by one vote.

Hampton tells 'Stros no thanks

Free agent pitcher not returning to former team

HOUSTON (AP) - Worried his former team might not return to prominence soon, free agent pitching ace Mike Hampton has ruled out returning to the Houston Astros next season, the club announced Friday.

Hampton, who still lives in Houston, notified the team through a representative Friday morning he no longer is considering the Astros.

"It had nothing to do with money. In fact, money was never discussed," Astros general manager Gerry Hunsicker said. "The biggest reason they gave us was the uncertainty surrounding some of our key players that directly could affect the competitiveness of our team, which seemed to be Mike's primary focus."

Specifically, Hunsicker said Hampton was concerned whether injured second baseman Craig Biggio (left knee) and closer Mike Hamp-ton (pitching elbow) would overcome surgeries that ended their 2000 seasons early.

Hampton also fretted whether two of the team's offensive stars, Jeff Bagwell and Moises Alou, would remain beyond 2001.

While his agent, Mark Rodgers, hasn't talked money with teams yet, it's possible Hampton could get a deal rivaling Kevin Brown's $105 million, seven-year contract with Los Angeles.

A great pheasant outlook for opening day pening day of pheasant season on December 9 could bring hunting opportunity every bit as good as a couple of seasons ago, when bird numbers improved markedly in the local area. In fact, if you're tromping through the right locations, hunting could be really good during the 16-day season that runs through December 24.

That's an amazing projection, given the drought-plagued summer we endured. What rain the local area did receive came mostly in April and May, perfectly timed to enhance the early hatching of pheasant broods.

I'm amazed at how many pheasants--and quail--made it through the parched days of summer. Evidently, the strong start at hatching made all the difference.

Biologists generally project the outlook for pheasant season based on driving count transect lines over a standard area year after year. They begin to get excited when bird counts average two per mile.

Certainly, I don't drive large transects like the biologists do, but in some pockets of Deaf Smith County I've counted pheasant numbers of from 13 to 30 birds per mile--though not over an extended number of miles. Several times I've stopped in the road so as not to whack into the sheer numbers of hens and roosters running and flying across.

Virtual mass migrations of pheasants from CRP tracts to grain fields have been in evidence.

People are often amazed at what a powerful draw pheasant hunting in the Panhandle is.

Upland hunters bent on bagging pheasants have been flocking to the

The Sportsman's Den Jim Steier

Panhandle in fluctuating numbers since the 1960s. Explaining this annual ritual to those who don't participate is a challenge. Why do you need 12 or 15 guys in a group to hunt pheasants? Well, it's a social thing, maybe the Panhandle's answer to a southern dove hunt. There's also the matter of a sizable party being a practical necessity in order to do a good job of working some of the huge fields that are involved.

By the time you get a decent line of walkers going in a dense stalk field or a CRP thicket and position a sufficient number of blockers and point-men to cut off escape avenues, you may need a legion of troops.

You need disciplined sportsmen to pull-off a successful drive-and-block effort. Everybody must be constantly aware to protect one-another's safety. You hunt with your safety on. Carry your shotgun so that you can control your gun muzzle at all times, and don't point your gun at anything you don't want to shoot. When you're in a group you only shoot at high birds, well-clear of walkers, dogs, point men, and blockers. Low birds streaking toward the blockers or drivers or point men are birds you let go.

Maneuvering into position when you see scads of pheasants racing down the rows in front of you is nerve-tingling stuff. You wave blockers over to cut off the running birds. Suspense mounts as you approach the end of the field, amidst constant reminders to watch out for blockers and point men, and to let the birds get high.

You send the tail-swiping dogs thundering in. They are hell-bent to flush birds, these bundles of enthusiasm with their noses down as they bound amongst the fodder to eagerly probe the hot scent trails.

Prodded by cold canine noses, squawking roosters and whistle-winged hens explode from the stubble, the long-tail-feathered birds careening off in all directions as they climb into the wind.

The thud of rooster-tracking shotguns punctuates the staccato of whirring wings amidst shouts of warning to watch out for the hens.

Enthusiastic dogs follow the drops, rush in to make pick-ups, respond to their masters' whistles and praise and fetch winged rainbows to hand.

When it's done right, with good discipline and ultimate regard for safety, I enjoy pheasant hunting, whether the group is big or small.

Carmen Policy and Dwight Clark pay fines for cap violations

NEW YORK (AP) - Cleveland Browns president Carmen Policy and team vice president Dwight Clark agreed Friday to pay $600,000 for alleged NFL salary cap violations while with San Francisco.

The settlement calls for Policy to pay $400,000 and Clark $200,000.

The principal issues involved provisions in quarterback Jim Druckenmiller's rookie contract, deals signed by linebacker Lee Woodall and tight end Brent Jones, and an agreement with quarterback Steve Young.

"Although there are many legal and factual differences of opinion over many of the issues, everyone connected with the matter agrees that this settlement is in the best interests or ever vone volved, including the NFL,' Policy said in a statement. As part of the settlement, the 49ers agreed to pay $300,000 and surrender two draft choices - their fifth pick in the 2001 draft and third selection in 2002. In addition, the 49ers agreed to recognize a com-mitment of $483,000 that the club's prior ownership and management made to Jones. John York, a 49ers vice president, was pleased to end the case.

plex and difficult settlement that will probably always be unique due to the changes in ownership and management and the way it came about. The discussions with Paul Tagliabue, Harold Henderson and the league were very lengthy, very productive and, in the end, very fair."

The settlement, made with the agreement of the NFL Players Association, also calls for the player agents involved — Leigh Steinberg, Jeff Moorad and Gary Wichard - to contribute $350,000 to charities.

It also permits the commissioner to suspend for up to one year any club executive found to have entered into an undisclosed agreement or payment, and increases from $2 million to $3.5 million the amount clubs can be fined for entering into undisclosed payments or agreements.

Sakic leads 'Lanche over Dallas

Colorado blasts Stars, 4-2

DENVER (AP) - Joe Sakic is starting off the new month just like he dusted off the last one.

Sakic, who earlier Friday was named the NHL Player of the Month after scoring 22 points in November, had two goals and an assist as the Colorado Avalanche beat the Dallas Stars 4-2 Friday night.

Colorado prevailed despite being outshot 42-21 and playing without five key players who are injured.

Sakic scored in each of the first two periods and assisted on Milan Hejduk's goal in the third period.

Even so, he deflected praise, insisting that goalie Patrick Roy was primarily responsible for the win.

Roy, extending his NHLrecord victory total to 458, had 40 saves as the Avalanche (18-4-3) continued their fastest start in franchise history and posted their fourth straight win. Ed Belfour had 17 saves.

"Patrick got us the two points," Sakic said. "Anybody picking the stars of the game should have named him 1, 2 and 3. He was unbelievable. They were in our end the whole night and were getting a lot of scoring chances. He saved our bacon tonight."

Roy knows the pressure is greater with Belfour across the ice.

"I know I have to play a good game because I know the guy on the other side is going to make key saves," Roy said. "I try to keep the game low-scoring."

Sakic said the Avs. despite their shot deficit, "have been getting some chances, and the egg seems to be going in for us right now. We've just got to keep going."

the NHL this season, only one of which has been successful.

"We did a lot of good things," Stars coach Ken Hitchcock said. "Unfortunately, we didn't finish. If we play at this level, we'll be all right."

Sakic scored on Colorado's first shot at 5:05. Streaking down the right side, Sakic dropped the puck to Nolan Pratt in the right circle. Sakic then skated to the slot, took Pratt's pass and beat Belfour. It was Pratt's first point with the Avs, who acquired him during the offseason. Colorado was outshot 20-3 in the second period but still held a 2-1 lead. Sakic had all three of those Avalanche shots, including a goal at 4:31 challenge of his when he rebounded his own shot.

"Milan made a great play and put the puck on my stick," Sakic said. "I took a stick,' backhand, and the rebound was there."

Earlier in the period, Dallas had a twoman advantage for 47 seconds but got off only one shot — Brett Hull's rocket from the left circle which Roy stopped.

Roy turned aside two more hard shots by Hull before the Stars' sharpshooter converted at 8:58. On Dallas' 24th shot, Hull took a pass from Mike Modano in the slot and beat Roy.

Dallas had an apparent goal disallowed in the period when referee Dan O'Halloran immediately ruled that Mike Keane kicked the puck into the net.

Hejduk's power-play goal at 1:19 of the third period put Colorado ahead 3-1.

Dallas' Jere Lehtinen countered with a power-play goal at 5:41 when he deflected Sergei Zubov's shot from the point.

Five seconds after Dallas' Richard Matvichuk went off Belfour stopped Alex for high-sticking, Jon Klemm

Vargas aims for superstardom

Boxer faces career against unbeaten Trinidad

LAS VEGAS (AP) -Fernando Vargas believes he's a star in the making. A win over Felix Trinidad will make a lot of others believe, too.

At the tender age of 22, Vargas stands on the brink of displacing Oscar De La Hoya as the biggest boxing draw among Hispanics if he can do what De La Hoya couldn't beat the unbeaten Trinidad in the ring.

Vargas failed to win an Olympic gold medal in 1996 as De La Hoya had done four years earlier. But, glib and bilingual, he has put together an impressive four years as a pro and people are taking notice.

"Felix Trinidad thinks he's a showman, but he's not," Vargas said. "He thinks he's the main attraction. But I'm the attraction in this fight."

Vargas has done more than his share in promoting Saturday night's fight between two unbeaten 154-pound champions that has every chance to go down as one of the best non-heavyweight fights in recent vears.

Still, the fight won't do nearly the kind of pay-per-and only a late surge of ticket buying has kept it from being a disappointing night at the Mandalay Bay events center box office.

"He has his fans," Trinidad conceded. "But the odds show you I'm the guy who is biggest in this fight."

Trinidad (38-0, 31 knockouts) is a 7-5 favorite to add the IBF junior middleweight belt held by Vargas (20-0, 18 knockouts) to the WBA super welterweight belt he already holds. The fight, televised on pay-per-view, was expected to begin about midnight EST.

The fight is a classic matchup of styles, with the big-punching Trinidad trying fight to avoid early knockdowns that have plagued his career against an aggressive and younger champion who lacks big fight experience.

One thing is for certain, much to the delight of fight fans. Both boxers figure to go right after each other from the opening bell.

"Neither one will back away," veteran trainer Emanuel Steward said. "This is a fight that is going to help boxing." Steward, who rose to prominence training Thomas Hearns, said he sees a lot of similarities to Hearns in Trinidad. Like Hearns,

N.M. author spins an entertaining tale

By Donald Cooper Hereford Brand Managing Editor

(Curse of the Emperor's Gold, by John Truett; Authors Choice Press, Lincoln, Neb.; 2000; $13.95 softcover) In the late 1860s, with the rebellion led by Benito Juárez threatening to end his rule, Ferdinand Emperor Maximilian, sent a fortune in gold out of Mexico to be shipped back to his native Austria.

The treasure never reached its destination and has become the stuff of legend.

John Truett, a Roswell, N.M. author, uses the historic events surrounding the collapse of the French-backed Mexican empire, as the basis for his novel, which also tells the story of the settlement of southeastern New Mexico.

In his tale, the historical characters - the doomed Emperor Ferdinand Maximilian and his wife, Empress Carlota, and the Indian rebel leader Benito Juárez - are joined by the fictional characters of ranching. They settle near a small village, which later will become present-day Roswell.

Wilby and Jackson are accompanied by Garrick Parker, who loses his heart to Madrianne.

Another key figure in the story is Jamie Miller, who had been with the outlaws who attacked the treasure convoy, but who was blinded by hot grease and didn't participate in the murders. He survives the Comanche attack and changes his name to Jim Cayhill, so he can get a fresh start in life.

Unfortunately, he told the avaricious Dr. Black about the buried treasure, something that he and Madrianne will regret.

In his account, Truett captures the flavor of the times and carries the reader along for a pleasurable ride.

The Perils of Jodene (The Perils of Jodene, by John Truett; Authors Choice Press, Lincoln, Neb.; 2000; $10.95 softcover) Truett shifted gears when

WTAMU sets 'Steinbeck on Stage'

- West Texas A&M University and the Branding Iron Theatre (BIT), through the direction of graduate student Jose Ochoa, will present "Steinbeck on Stage," an arts festival through Dec. 10. The festival will celebrate the life and works of John Steinbeck by showcasing ballet, lecture, film and art.

INSIDE

All events focus on Steinbeck, the American novelist, story writer, playwright, essayist and screenplay writer, who is best known for his classic novels, "Of Mice and Men," "The Pearl" and "The Grapes of Wrath."

MUSIC, LITERATURE AND DANCE: A series of music, literature and ballet/ dance presentations, performed by faculty and students, will be at 8 nightly through Sunday in the BIT on the WTAMU campus. Some of the performances include American folk and jazz songs, a Spanish quartet and scenes and readings from Steinbeck's work. The show concludes with the premiere of a new ballet based on "The Pearl" by Steinbeck.

In the ballet, a poor family struggles to save their young son's life, which leads to revelations about human nature in "La Perla." Guest artist Leslie E. Bauer and a cast of more than 20 local dancers and character actors will bring to life this modern American classic.

Bauer, an Amarillo native, has performed in "The Nutcracker," "Coppelia," "Serenade," "Stars and Stripes," "Concerto Barocco" and numerous performances with the Lone Star Ballet. Last summer, she attended the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival in Becket, Mass., where she studied several versions of the Rite of Spring.

Ochoa, festival organizer and a graduate student in interdisciplinary studies from Corpus Christi, will perform in the BIT production. A graduate of the North Carolina School of Arts, Ochoa has worked and performed in Central America. He has choreographed performances in all genres.

ART: An art exhibit will be on display through Dec. 10 in the Weill Art Gallery of Mary Moody Northen Hall on the WTAMU campus. The exhibit will feature Texas Panhandle artists including John Romero and Pan Eimon.

Madrianne von weber, lovely daughter of one of Maximilian's Austrian soldiers.

Madrianne joins her father and loyal Mexican soldiers as they try to transport the emperor's fortune across rugged northern Mexico and into Texas, hoping to reach Galveston.

However, they are attacked by outlaws, who kill everyone but Madrianne, who manages to hide out in the rocks.

Because the outlaws are unable to transport the treasure, they bury it, while Madrianne watches from her hiding place. The knowledge of where the treasure is buried puts her life in danger.

Madrianne is rescued by Clabe Wilby and Brett Jackson, who are moving a herd of cattle into the New Mexico Territory, where they will start he wrote The Perils of Jodene. His previous books were all western historic fiction, but with "Jodene," he has moved into the contemporary action/ adventure genre, targeting the young adult market.

In the book, Jodene Bradshaw has a chance for an exciting adventure, but it turns into a fight for survival. Cast away on an island inhabited by prehistoric mon-sters, Jodene finds herself trapped inside the tomb of a 3,000-year-old Pharaoh who may or may not be dead and chosen as a sacrifice to Pele, the volcano goddess.

Does Jodene survive these perils? Of course, the plucky heroine does because Truett intends to release another book in the series next year.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

John Truett, a native of Artesia, N.M., now lives in Roswell. He is a World War II veteran, serving in the Philippines and Japan. After leaving the service, he received a bachelor's degree from Woodbury University in Los Angeles and worked in the motion picture industry as a script supervisor and film editor. He is a member of Western Writers of America and National Outlaw & Lawman Association.

PRESENTING

Period costumes will add authenticity to the production of "A Merry Olde Christmas" performed by the Hereford Chamber Singers at 7 p.m. Thursday. Director David Cox (left) examines a fur-trimmed costume to be worn by Amy Gililland.

Extension Education Council plans celebration of season

Discussion of the Christmas party and other business was conducted by the Deaf Smith County Extension Education Council at its regular monthly meeting Nov. 27 in the Deaf Smith County Library.

Chairman Mariellen Homfeld called the meeting to order and the Bippus Club led the opening exercises with Kate Bradley reading "Nutritional Tidbits."

Six clubs answered roll call with four having 100 percent attendance.

Standing committees gave their reports stating recommendations for the new year were accepted by all clubs.

The Christmas party will be a noon luncheon this Monday. Each member is asked to bring a covered dish and each club is asked to bring a dessert.

Each member is also asked to bring an unwrapped gift in a gift sack for a lady for CBA.

Resumes for each club's nominee for "Woman of the Year" will be accepted at the Christmas party.

To date there have been 382 tickets sold for the quilt drawing which will be held at the Appreciation Luncheon in Febru- Cultural Club.

A Merry Olde Christmas

Hereford Chamber Singers will present a dinner theater, "A Merry Olde Christmas,"at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church.

Admission for the evening will be $7 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under.

The evening will feature a dinner catered by Branums and family entertainment consisting of songs and carols of the Christmas season.

The audience will be transported to an old English setting as the lord of the manor hosts his annual Christmas merriment with the Chamber Singers dressed in festive clothing of the period. Serving of the food and drink will be interspersed with a variety of choral arrangements of traditional Christmas music.

The choir consists of persons from throughout the Hereford and Dimmitt communities who love to sing and share their love and expertise with others. David Cox serves as the director and Linda Gilbert is the piano accompanist. Flutist Christine Beavers, a member of the group, will be featured along with the choir on some of the arrangements. Gene Streun is the president of the group. Tickets can be purchased from any member of the group or at the Chamber of Commerce office through Dec. 4. The deadline for reservations is Tuesday. For more information, contact Bera Boyd, 364-5345, or Gene Streun, 364-0130.

Three months ago, a coworker, "Miss R," noticed the silver pentagram I wear around my neck, and commented that it was a satanic symbol. I informed her, as I do others who inquire, of my basic beliefs. Most people accept my explanation, but not Miss R. She has made it her mission to "save" me and convert me to her religion.

She tapes Bible verses to my computer screen, and puts religious tracts on my desk. I've told Miss R that I am not interested in converting, but she doesn't hear me. The woman is a religious nut, and she is driving me crazy. Yesterday, she came up behind me and "baptized" me with bottled water.

Miss R is close to retirement age, and I don't want to get her fired. I have already complained to management, and she has been warned. If I complain again, she will undoubtedly lose her job. How can I get her to lay off? -Jennifer in New York

Dear Jennifer: There is no way you can get a reli-gious fanatic to "lay off." She believes she is doing the Lord's work, and nothing will deter her. Avoid this woman like the plague. Be "busy" when she comes around. Do NOT let her waste your time. Tell her, "I have a lot of work to do, and we'll talk when I catch up." Throw out the religious material she places on your computer. Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters about rude sales clerks and rude customers. One aspect has not been discussed.

I live in the suburbs, and most of the stores in this area employ minimum-wage teenagers. That means 16year-old workers whose immediate supervisors are 18 years old. And those kids are working for 20-year-old managers. These young people are not intentionally rude. They simply have not been properly trained.

Store owners should not expect young employees to come in already trained. And it wouldn't hurt the customers to say "thank you" when they have been helped. Courtesy runs both ways. - Trish in Woodbridge, Va.

BLESSING

The onion is a rich source of nutrients, including vitamins B and C, protein, starch and a series of essential elements. The chemicals contained in onions are effective agents against fungal and bacterial growth; protect against stomach, colon and skin cancers; have antinflammatory, antiallergenic, antiasthmatic and antidiabetic actions; and treat causes of cardiovascular disorders.

The volatile oils that give onions their distinctive flavors and aroma also have a flip side. Peeling, cutting or crushing an onion's tissue releases a chemical that triggers tears. There are several ways to reduce or eliminate these tears. You can heat onions before chopping. Or you can limit contact with the vapors by chopping onions on a breezy porch or by a fan, under a steady stream of water or mechanically in a closed container. However, it may be well worth a few tears to enjoy the uniqueness of this special vegetable.

Dolores and her husband, Dennis, moved back to Hereford from Childress this summer. Dolores began working as HSB in August. She has trained in several departments within the Bank and learns quickly. Dolores has been in banking for a number of years. Previous to their move to Childress, she was an HSB employee from 1980 to 1984. And, some of the same employees are still here so she isn't a stranger to quite a few of us.

Dennis is employed with U.S.D.A. F.S.A. and manages the Hereford office. They have two children, Dana Kleman and Ryan. Dana and her husband Joe reside in Nazareth and have two children, a son Kade, age three and daughter, Caitlin, one year of age. Ryan resides in Amarillo and is engaged to be married in July, 2001.

Dolores and Dennis are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Dolores enjoys visiting with family, especially her precious grandchildren. She says she doesn't have time for hobbies what with keeping up with Dennis and her grandchildren.

HSB is privileged to have Dolores return to our bank family. We appreciate her training in different areas.

Deadline nears for annual Juarez trip

Hereford resident Raymond Cantu is, for the fourth consecutive year, seeking assistance for "God's Prison and Jail Ministry," a special ministry directed toward children of inmates in prison in Juarez, Mexico.

According to Cantu, conditions are very different in the Mexican prison from those in the United States.

"If a father is put in jail and there is no one to care for the children, then they stay in with their father." Cantu said need of toys, Bibles or monetary contributions for these children. He also needs a 16 foot trailer (any kind) that can be used to haul items to the prison.

"The deadline for collecting these things is Dec. 12 because we (a group of concerned Panhandle individuals) plan to be in Juarez on Dec. 16-17," Cantu said.

Cantu has already completed paperwork to allow him to cross the border for the explicit purpose of visiting the prison. Anyone who is interested in assisting with this ministry or who would like more information can contact Cantu by writing 306 Knight St., Hereford, or calling 364-2089 or 364-1497.

LIFESTYLES

Forget the Split, America Still Won.

uring our recent presidential election, the media focused for hours on how terribly the country was split. The popular vote was the closest in history (numerical split). Most blacks voted one way, while the majority of whites voted the other (racial split). The House and Senate are narrowly divided (political split). The rich favored one candidate, the poor the other (economic split). The Supreme Court itself is divided 5 to 4 (philosophical split).

The media made it sound as if we are in another Civil War, a country torn by divisiveness. They say we are a nation unable to continue effectively because of the rifts. Even the President whoever he will be - won't be able to govern this wreck of a nation.

Unlike most of the media, I believe America will continue to grow and prosper despite the "alleged" damage done by a close, highvoter turnout election. I still believe in the system. Freedom of choice, freedom to vote, free enterprise and free speech are still working. The fact that record numbers cared enough to vote is invigorating to me. The system still works.

Change is coming

A few months from now — or it may take a year or two our economy will slow down a little. Prudent business owners, investors, and analysts expect it to. Why? Because it always has. Business cycles are real, the stock market goes up and down, the economic mood of the people changes and the laws of supply and demand still work.

This election was important because the actions of the government do impact our lives in a great way. This is especially true in the areas of rising taxes (expect to pay even more), increasing regulations (bureaucracies breed policies, rules and regulations) and growing entitlement programs.

However, the government doesn't run the country. People still do. People decide what is acceptable. People determine what the cause of action will be. And, that is exactly how it should be. We are indeed a nation "of the people, by the people, for the people." If you learned anything from this presidential election, I hope it was just how important your vote is.

So, why the big fuss about the "split" in America? The highly biased media, the entrenched politicians and others who live off legitimate taxpayers are intimidated by a balance of power. They are afraid "their" power will go away. They may lose their livelihood.

It is said that "sex, money, and power" is the fuel that runs our government. Even in this area there is a split. You see, sex is an inherent drive, built into the human by God. The lust for money and power is learned, and originates from an altogether different source.

I See the Positive

Here is my take on the "terrible rift." I believe it is really a healthy balance of power. Let me explain. Take a United States Congressman from Michigan as an example. If he is overwhelmingly elected by "union" voters, his votes in Washington will favor "union interests" every time. But, if he squeaks out a narrow victory this time, he must balance his actions in order not to alienate anyone for fear of not being elected again in two years.

Now let's look at the House and the Senate. When these bodies are equally divided, they must focus on issues important to all the people. No longer can political muscle (party politics) and splinter group pressure drive legislation through the process.

Now let's assume that you disagree with me on this topic. That's fine, too! We can disagree agreeably, and wait for another ballot. You see your vote in the next election carries exactly the same weight as mine. Isn't the American system great?

USDA grants Texas interim split-state status

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) of milk to kill bacteria, humans also were at has published an interim rule, granting Texas split-state status for tuberculosis (TB) eradication in cattle, effective immediately, according to information from the Texas Animal Health Commission.

Of the state's 254 counties, 252are declared TB-free. The TB-free zone contains all but around 100 of the state's 153,000 cattle herds.

Due to recurring bouts of infection, nearly all of El Paso County and a small portion of Hudspeth County are not TB-free, and have been recognized as a TB modified accredited advanced zone. Some testing, identification and documentation will be required when moving livestock susceptible to tuberculosis out of this movement restric-tion zone. The USDA's final rule will be published after January 2001.

The U.S. has worked to eradicate cattle TB infection since the early 1900s, when nearly five percent of the nation's herds were affected by the Mycobacterium bovis bacteria, which can cause internal lesions on the infected animal's lungs and other organs.

Prior to pasteurization, or heat-treatment risk of contracting the disease from infected cows. Today, TB infection in humans typically is traced to the Mycobacterium avium or Mycobacterium tuberculosis bacteria, rather than Mycobacterium bovis, the cattle form of the bacteria.

The U.S. currently has only two infected cattle herds, both of which are dairies in the Texas portion of the El Paso Milkshed.

"It may take several months for producers in the 252 'free' counties to realize benefits of the new status," commented Dr. Dan Baca, TB epidemiologist for the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC).

"USDA rules allow cattle from TB-free states or zones to move without a TB test. Individual states have been notified about our new status, but since they may adopt entry requirements that are more stringent than the USDA's, producers or their veterinary practitioner should check with the state of destination prior to moving livestock."

Baca said nearly all of El Paso County and a small portion of Hudspeth County are in the movement restricted zone.

He further explained that within the movement restriction zone is an "affected area," which includes the Texas portion of the "El Paso Milkshed.

According to TAHC's memorandum of understanding with the USDA, all herds of cattle, bison, goats, cervidae (deer and elk), exotic bovidae (antelope) and camelidae (camels and llamas) in the affected area must be tested yearly. Baca said this can be accomplished at no charge to producers. State and federal personnel can do the testing, or accredited veterinarians in private practice can do the work and be compensated by the government through "fee-basis" payments. The remainder of the movement restriction zone is a "surveillance area," where infection has not been detected. Dr. Baca said this creates a buffer between the af-fected area and the "TB-free" counties. Cattle and other susceptible species herds in the surveillance area are be tested at least every two years, also at no cost to producers.

The USDA interim rule requires that cattle transported out of state from the movement restriction zone must have a certificate of veterinary inspection or other official movement document and be identified with an individually numbered eartag. Breeding animals must have had a negative TB test within the previous 60 days.

The tagging and TB testing can be handled at no cost to producers. Because a TB test takes three days, producers will need to plan ahead when moving livestock.

To arrange for testing, or livestock move-ment producers can call the TAHC's Area 6 office at 1-800-658-6642.

The TB test requirements do not apply if the animals move from an accredited TB-free herd, which undergoes annual testing.

Baca explained that producers from the "TB-free" zone can haul cattle to the El Paso auction, where their animals are to be penned separately from those originating within the movement restriction zone.

The cattle from the "TB-free" zone can be sold and moved within three days without restriction.

To keep the majority of Texas as a "free" state, Baca said the TAHC will also be required to maintain strict intra-state movement controls on other susceptible species of livestock in the zone.

Drought effects linger on

Reservoir supply remains low

AUSTIN (AP) - Recent rain in North and Central Texas has helped, but it has done little to change record-low reservoirs and probably won't help third farmers still struggling from the state's continuing drought, according to the Texas A&M University's agricultural extension service.

Some areas of the state received as much as 15 inches of precipitation at the beginning of November. However, water reservoirs in Texas dipped to 66 percent of full capacity - the lowest recorded reading in 23 years and the fifth-lowest of all time, said Travis Miller, an agronomist with the extension service. "We've had enough water now for runoff, but at this point, we are still low," Miller said. "Our supply hasn't been adequate enough to catch up with our normal reservoir levels."

Cattle operators have already missed out on grazing opportunities and many farmers are now waiting for soggy fields to dry before planting their remaining winter wheat.

Farmers aren't the only ones suffering because of the drought. The Texas economy has lost $1.1 billion, according to the latest estimate by the extension service.

Miller urged people to continue conserving water despite the wet weather, more of which was predicted through January. The wet winter will help, he said. "We do have good potential for good grain crops because of the rain," Miller said, adding that soil moisture reserves beneath the surface are recovering. "I don't think most soils across the state are at the point where they can store as much as they can. We can still use more rainfall."

One of four -- Caleb Straughan is returning again this year as an active 4-H member planning to show off the results of his hard work. Straughan is planning on showing four pigs in the coming stock show season. Part of that work means he has to go out every day to his pens at the project center to feed and handle his hopefully prize porkers.

Company restricts altered corn

Move meant to avoid further export disruptions

WASHINGTON (AP) - A major biotechnology company says it will restrict sales next year of a type of gene-altered corn and delay commercialization of another variety until 2002 to avoid further disruptions in U.S. grain exports.

The moves announced Monday by the Monsanto Co. are meant to avoid repeating the problems encountered this fall when biotech corn developed by one of its competitors, Aventis CropScience, appeared in the food supply without being approved for human consumption.

U.S. corn sales to Japan and other export markets have fallen sharply this fall since the discovery of the Aventis corn, known as StarLink, in taco shells.

"We can't stop the development of this technology, but we are going to use restraint," said Hendrik Verfaillie, Monsanto's president and chief executive officer.

The Environmental Protection Agency was holding a public meeting Tuesday on a request by Aventis to approve StarLink temporarily for food use to avoid further food re-StarLink is the only geneti- porting the commercialization' cally engineered crop not approved for human consumption. Federal regulators say there is little if any health risk from StarLink, although there are still unresolved questions about its potential to cause allergic reactions.

A variety of corn developed by Monsanto to be resistant to the company's popular Roundup weedkiller will be distributed for sale next year only to farmers in areas where grain is seldom sold for export, Verfaillie said. The corn is approved for food use in both the United States and Japan but not in Europe. Traces of the corn were found this fall in British-made tortilla chips.

The second Monsanto corn variety, which won't be put on the market until 2002, is toxic to an insect pest, the corn rootworm. It is yet to be approved in either Japan or Europe

The actions announced Monday don't affect Monsanto's most popular gene-altered crops, which include Roundupresistant soybeans and cotton and a variety of corn toxic to the European corn borer.

A representative of the National Corn Growers Association, which is especially con-cerned about losing sales to Japan, praised Monsanto's moves.

"We could not jeopardize our biggest corn market by sup-of a corn variety that was not approved by that country, said Susan Keith, senior director of public policy for the growers group.

Critics both inside and outside the biotech industry say StarLink, the only gene-altered crop not allowed in food, never should have been put on the market without being approved for human consumption.

StarLink was approved only for animal feed or industrial use because of unresolved questions about its potential to cause allergic reactions.

Aventis disclosed last week that a special protein in the StarLink corn has also been found in a variety of corn sold by Garst Seed Co.

Aventis officials, who say they don't know how the protein, known as Cry9C, got in the Garst corn, met privately Monday with representatives from the Agriculture Department and other seed companies to discuss the problem.

Monsanto's surveys of farmers indicate that sales of its biotech seeds could increase by 16 percent even as other polling by the company indicates that consumer confidence in gene-altered crops is slip-ping, Verfaillie said. "The farmers want this

Research facility boosts beef, tobacco industries

VERSAILLES, Ky. (AP) -University of Kentucky officials hope a new beef research facility will help enhance the state's growing cattle industry - and perhaps strengthen the agricultural base that has been weakened by the decline of tobacco.

The 700-acre Animal Research Center Beef Unit in Woodford County includes an intensive research center complete with surgical suite and laboratory space, a nutrition center and feed-mixing facility that can provide nearly 2,200 tons of silage capacity, and 32 pastures with high endophyte grasses, mixed grasses and clover for grazing studies. "This facility will have a tremendously positive impact on Kentucky agriculture," said M. Scott Smith, associate dean for research in the school's College of Agriculture.

Nationally, cattle-raising is the single largest source of farm cash receipts. In Kentucky, beef cattle production accounts for more than $600 million in farm income and adds about three times that amount to the state's economy each year.

Farmers whose tobacco incomes are declining may find help in beef or feed production, said David Sparrow, assistant to the agriculture school's dean. Many Kentucky tobacco farmers already are involved in beef production or forage, and likely would ben-efit by moving some time and resources away from tobacco, he said.

Farmers will never be able to totally replace their income from tobacco," Sparrow said. "But if those who are involved in both or who have extra land decided to dedicate a little more time or a little more land to forage, hay production or even pasture, it would be another avenue for increased revenue that may not otherwise be available to them."

With tobacco quotas continuing to decline and uncertainty growing about the burley industry's future, many state leaders hope animal agriculture will be a way to keep farming finances aloft.

In 1960, Kentucky had an animal industry that had a gross farm income in the neighborhood of $200 million annually, said C. Oran Little, dean of the College of Agriculture. This year, the state should reach about $2.4 billion in farm income from animal agriculture, he said.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs." Then remember these hints:

· Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of classified readers won't respond to an add with no price.

• Use key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition... Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations. • Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

Enterican Masters salutes Lucille Ball on PBS

Lucille Ball made TV history as one of the first great female comics and the first woman to head up a studio. PBS' long-running series of biography specials, American Masters, profiles the Jamestown, N.Y., native in Lucille Ball: Finding Lucy, airing Sunday (check local listings).

By Jacqueline Cutler ©TVData Features Syndicate

For many, there can never be another wacky redhead. The theme song from I Love Lucy is so ingrained in our collective memory that only those cut off from TV for the past half-century couldn't recognize it. Everyone knows Lucille Ball, or so they think. Even those who don't appreciate the show's broad humor can cite classic episodes. Then there are fans who giggle no matter how many times they've seen Lucy light her nose on fire, swill Vitameatavegamin or stuff chocolates into her hat. Naturally, a sitcom – even the most popular show of its day and most copied comedy in television history – cannot define a woman who lived 77 years. So who was she?

American Masters tries to tell us in Lucille Ball: Finding Lucy, premiering Sunday, Dec. 3, on PBS (check local listings). Susan Lacy, executive producer and creator of American Masters, which is celebrating its 15th season, says, "This series is about those people who really, really shaped their disciplines in this century."

Few fit that bill better than Ball. But this installment of the usually exemplary biography show is, at best, lackluster. It doesn't bother to dig into Ball's Jamestown, N.Y., roots, nor do more than mention her enduring marriage to comic Gary Morton. But what's most troubling about this documentary is its stilted writing, with such lines as "But Lucille Ball, now that's a redhead of a different color."

One can almost hear Ball, whose gravelly voice reflected a lifetime of heavy smoking, scream for a rewrite. But if viewers can ignore the prose and realize Lucy's not found here, then they can just relax and watch clips of what she did best. There's footage from her long career as the queen of B movies, and many I Love Lucy clips of a glamorous star who wasn't afraid to look ridiculous – whether it be as a klutz in ballet class or as a sparring buddy in a wine vat. Lifelong fans Carol Burnett and Fran Drescher are among those interviewed.

terviewed. Ball, whose grandfather was a Communist, was caught up in the Red hunt of the 1950s. The documentary explains how she adored Desi Arnaz and had to strong-arm network executives into allowing a Cuban to play her husband on TV.

The documentary's best parts are toward the end when it shows rarely seen footage of Ball at Desilu Studios. As Burnett notes, "At (age) 51, she presided over Desilu with 1,700 employees. ... Lucille Ball was the first female head of a studio." While there, she approved what were considered two risky shows: Mission: Impossible and Star Trek.

Though Lucy Ricardo was her most memorable role, she tried to revive that nutty persona in three additional shows: The Lucy Show (1962-68), in which her close friend and longtime on-screen sidekick Vivian Vance also starred; Here's Lucy (1968-74), which costarred her real-life children, Lucie and Desi Jr.; and Life With Lucy (1986), a short-lived series in which she played a zany grandmother alongside another longtime foil, Gale Gordon.

When fans rave about her glory, they're usually referring to I Love Lucy (1951-57). The show was so popular that pretty much anyone lucky enough to own a television had it turned to CBS to watch her.

As Van Johnson, who guest starred on I Love Lucy, says, "Who could escape those big baby blues, and that timing? She wrote the book."

SOAP TALK

PC role a study in resolve; writer Labine departs GL

By Candace Havens

©TVData Features Syndicate Her family may live 3.000 miles away, but Kelly Monaco knows they see her every day. They are some of the biggest fans of her character, Livvie, on ABC's Port Charles.

For Monaco, it has been an interesting experience leaving behind her reallife family in the Poconos and plopping down in the middle of one of the most dysfunctional families ever created for daytime drama.

"It's been a lot of fun and a big challenge at the same time." Monaco says of her full-throttle story line. "I look forward to going to work every day and finding out what is in store for Livvie." Since she arrived in Port Charles.

Livvie's parentage has been in question. Recently it was discovered that Dr. Kevin Collins (Jon Lindstrom) is her father, and Grace, who died several years ago, was her birth mother. But crazy Dr. Rachel Locke (Kimberlin Brown) is the one who has been taking care of Livvie all these years.

All things considered. Livvie is about as solid as any young woman with a crazy family.

"Livvie is a somewhat naive, vulnerable young woman," Monaco says. "But at the same time, she has a strength about her that keeps her searching for truth and happiness. Monaco is used to a little craziness in life; she grew up with four sisters. "Chaos is the only word to describe it." she says. "Lots of food, lots of fights, and oh, the stories I could tell."

When the show takes a break for the holidays, Monaco will head home to spend time with her family in Pennsylvania.

"Every holiday has its traditions in our family," Monaco says, "from the gifts under the tree on Christmas morning to painting eggs on Easter Sunday. I can't wait to be home this Christmas to spend some quality time with my family."

In other news: If you don't like the story lines on Guiding Light, just wait a few months. The soap is going through another change in the writing staff. Claire Labine is leaving her post as head writer.
