of everything goes as Galen and Cathy Friemel hope, produce departments in Panhandle supermarkets will be selling fresh, homegrown tomatoes, not importing green ones from Mexico and Canada.

About a week ago, the Friemels began delivering fresh tomatoes from their 1,444-plant hydroponics operation to some medium-size grocery stores in the area. They also are selling the tomatoes to individuals who make the drive to their operation, which is about 31/2 miles north of Dawn.

"I started looking at hydroponics about three years ago. I read an article about it and started looking at it on the Internet. Then, kinda as a hobby one year, I had a spare room and set up a little hydroponics system in there. That's when I became really amazed at how well things would grow," Galen said. During their research into hydroponics, the Friemels learned about an Ohio company, Crop King, which specialized in the manufacture of hydroponic production units. In addition to the manufacture of the units, Galen said the company provides training in their operation.

After deciding they wanted to make the plunge, the Friemels traveled around the country and checked out other hydroponic operations.

Friemel, who is a third-generation farmer, said the hydroponics operation is a family project. He has been raising milo, wheat and cattle, but said farmers need to adapt to changing times if they want to survive.

The Friemels are investing about $88,000 to start up the hydroponics operation, but they are optimistic that when the word gets out about the quality of their tomatoes, the investment will pay off for them.

One of the things the Friemels like about the hydroponic operation is the "control" over the weather.

"You don't have to worry about the hail, the heat, the drought," Galen said.

"The wind was a problem when we were trying to get this thing up," Cathy said. "We really had some strong wind since we got it up, but now it just ripples off (the building)."

Now that the tomato plants are producing, the Friemels are facing another challenge.

"Everybody loves these tomatoes and want to buy them, but the bigger stores, like Homeland, they want a bigger volume," Galen sald. "So right now, we were are just trying to get them in the smaler stores and restaurants."

One of the first grocery stores to start stocking the Friemels' fomatoes in its produce department was Taylor & Sons and Hereford Meat Market. Also, K-Bob's Steakhuse in Hereford is a customer.

CSF shines its brightest as assistance delivered ereford's holiday charity, the Christmas Stocking Fund, never shines more brightly than in the final hours of its annual efforts, when assistance packages are delivered.

An initial round of assistance via voucher forms for help with clothing, utilities and medical bills was mailed by the CSF committee earlier this week and should soon be in the hands of recipients. The vouchers are good only to-ward the merchandise specified on them, and are redeemable with participating local merchants and pharmacies. Merchants are instructed not to issue cash for the vouchers.

CSF has received $21,022.50 this year, about $133 dollars off last year's pace. The closing balance in 1999 was $22,620, which was a record for the charity.

The heavy-lifting part of the CSF campaign that involves lots of human effort took place Friday morning as food assistance was delivered by volunteers.

Volunteers representing a broad cross-section of the community help to pack the food boxes and prepare assistance. Depending on the amount them for delivery. It's not unusual to find teen-aged 4-H members, senior citizens, representatives from local businesses including communication and utility services, and even lawenforcement personnel working shoulder-to-shoulder to get the work done. Each food assistance package contains a variety of staple foods, paper goods and toiletries, plus a turkey, and this year, a voucher good for redemption for 5 pounds of ground beef, courtesy of the Hereford Cattle Women. The food assistance packages are sufficient to feed a family for several days.

While carrying and delivering lood assistance boxes can be one of the more physically-demanding tasks associated with CSF, it is often also the most rewarding.

Burly men who have hauled groceries to homes in need have come back with touching stories of how they were received.

One of the more poignant in recent years involved a man who carried several boxes of food items into a home filled with children. After the man made his delivery he wished those present a Merry Christmas. As he turned to leave, a small child scurried up to him, hugged his leg, and shouted," Thank you, Santa Claus."

The anonymous committee of volunteers administering CSF give the needs of the young and the elderly a high priority in their decisions on of donations to CSF, more help could come on the heels of this first round of assistance. With the caring and sharing help of the local community, CSF will address as many needs as possible during the 2000 campaign.

You can help CSF to extend maximum help to as many of the less fortunate members of the community as possible this holiday through your generous gift.

Donations to CSF may be made in person at the Hereford Brand, 313 N. Lee, or mailed to CSF in care of the Brand at P.O. Box 673, Hereford 79045. Those contributors who wish to remain anonymous should so designate their gifts.

The Brand, official collection point for CSF, publishes a listing of contributors and keeps a running tally of the sum collected by CSF.

How do people in other countries celebrate holiday?

hristmas may be a world-wide celebration, but it's not celebrated the same worldwide.

How do people in other countries celebrate Christmas?

A Belgian Christmas traditionally features a special meal. The meal starts with a drink and snacks, followed by a "starter" course, such as seafood, then the main course, usually a stuffed turkey. For dessert, Belgians like a "Christmas log," which is a cake made of cream.
On Christmas Day, Belgian

families exchange small gifts, usually under a tree or in stockings. Breakfast is usually a special sweet bread baked in the shape of the baby Jesus.

In Brazil, the customs are similar to those in the United States and Great Britain. The well-to-do Brazilians may have a Christmas dinner featuring turkey, ham, chicken and pork, rice, salad, and fresh and dried fruits, often with beer. The less-affluent usually have chicken and

In Finland, the Christmas celebration has three holy days -Christmas Eve, Christmas Day and Boxing Day.

On Christmas Eve, families eat rice porridge and plum fruit rice in the morning. They decorate a spruce tree in the home

Homegrown tomatoes What is hydroponics?

Hydroponics is the cultivation of plants in nutrient-enriched water, with or without soil. Hydroponics also is know as aquaculture, nitriculture, soilless culture or tank

Plants have long been grown with their roots immersed in solutions of water and fertilizer for scientific research. Early commercial hydroponics (from Greek hydro, "water," and ponos, "labor") adopted this method of culture. Because of the difficulties in supporting the plants in a normal upright growing position and aerating the solution, this method was replaced by gravel culture, in which gravel supports the plants in a watertight bed. A variety of gravel and other materials have been used successfully, including fused shale and clay and granite chips. A fertilizer solution is pumped through at regular intervals. The solution drains into a tank and pumping is usually automatic.

The solution is composed of dif-ferent compounds containing varying amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, as well as a variety of trace elements, such as sulfur, magnesium and calcium. The solution can be used indefinitely. The chemical ingredients usually can be mixed dry and stored. As the plants grow, concentration of the solution and frequency of pumping are in-

"I'm working on Wal-Mart, United, Albertson's and Homeland," Cathy said. Unlike the smaller stores, she said she has to deal with the main offices of those large chain opera-

"You have to get vendor's numbers and there's a lot of paperwork that you don't have to do with the little stores. I'm working on all that," she said. "If we get a big contract, we'll put in two or three more of these (greenhouses).'

Although the Friemels aren't sure how many pounds of tomatoes they would have to produce for the large chain stores, Galen said the Taylor & Son's store in Hereford sells about 1,000 pounds per week.

With their newly launched operation, the Friemels are producing about 2,000 pounds of tomatoes per week - and without having to use herbicides or pesticides.

"We went from zero to 2,000 pounds in nine days," she said. "When we started in this, I didn't want to go around and try to get markets without something to show them." Now, they are, as she said, "scrambling" to find markets. Galen said the Affiliated Food stores are good prospects because "they will pretty take them any time." With the quality of the tomatoes, the Friemels are confident that world will get out and their product will be finding spots in more produce departments. In contacting restaurants, Cathy said an Amarillo restaurant owner put her in contact with a broker on the Internet, which opens up the possibility of shipping fresh tomatoes around the country.

"We can box them and ship them overnight," Galen said.

Looking into the future, Galen said he would like for others who are interested in raising produce hydroponically to contact him because a cooperative could give more leverage in the marketplace.

"But we've just go to get the word out that we have a quality product," Cathy said.

Finnish children receive presents on Christmas Eve and a family member, usually a bigger brother or sister, dresses as Father Christmas.

In France, Christmas is celebrated with trees, sometimes decorated with red ribbons and white wax candles. Fir trees in the gardens also are decorated with lights. The Christmas meal features the choicest cuts of meat and the best wine. In Germany, people go all out for decorating their homes. German decorations often feature an "Adventskranz," a wreath of leaves with four candles. One each Sunday during the four-week advent period, one candle is lit. Nativity scenes also are popular in German decorations.

Latvians believe Father Christmas brings presents on each of the 12 days of Christmas, starting on Christmas Eve. The special Latvian Christmas meal is brown peas with bacon sauce, cabbage and sausage.

Father Christmas also brings presents to Portuguese children on Christmas Eve. The presents are left under a tree or in shoes by the fireplace. At midnight on Christmas Eve, a traditional Christmas meal of salted dry codfish with boiled potatoes is eaten.

During the era of the Soviet Union, there were few public celebrations of Christmas in Russia, where the focus was on the New Year and Jack Frost brought presents to children.

Since the collapse of communism, Christmas has regained its popularity in Russia and is celebrated on either Dec. 25 or, most frequently, on Jan. 7., which is when Christmas falls on the Russian Orthodox Church's Gregorian calendar.

Papers threatening legal action over closed-door vote in Senate

DALLAS (AP) - Editors of some of Texas' largest newspapers on Friday urged state senators to reconsider plans to cast secret ballots for the new presiding officer of the Senate, saying Texans have a right to know how their representatives vote. Letters were faxed to the 31 senators' offices by an Austin law firm on behalf of the Bryan-College Station Eagle, San Antonio Express-News, Houston Chronicle, Waco Tribune-Herald and Austin-American Statesman as well as Texas Monthly magazine.

We are concerned about the precedent that secrecy sets," American-Statesman Editor Rich Oppel said. "While an individual citizen has the right to a secret ballot, when the Senate of Texas pulls a curtain around its chamber, it conceals a public official's vote and eliminates accountability

Rick Perry left his post as lieutenant governor to become governor this week, replacing President-elect Bush. The Senate plans to convene Thursday and choose a new presiding officer from within its ranks. That person will have the duties but not the title of lieutenant governor, and will continue to be a senator.

In a private caucus Tuesday, the senators agreed informally that a non-record, or secret, vote would be used to elect Perry's replacement. When the senators meet Thursday, they must approve the rule formally before casting ballots.

Senators who favor a secret ballot say that if their own members do not know who voted for whom, it lessens the ill will and wards off possible retaliation.

Avoid quick fixes for voting glitches

From coast to coast, the way America votes is plagued by technical glitches, human error, muddled rules for counting and recounting and, in a few cases, outright fraud. Florida is not unique, but it became the pivot of the presidential election through extraordinary circumstances no one had envisioned. ..

The hodgepodge that exists is a national scandal that allowed too many Americans' votes to be stripped away.

The greatest hazard may be the temptation to demand a quick national fix. Yes, this is a nationwide problem, but also one of 50 separate states, one that varies widely in degree and character.

At the state level, modernization of voting machinery is the paramount issue sing from Florida C rily responsible for buying and maintaining this equipment but are the least able to afford it. Both state and federal governments need to help the counties.

Replacement of the punch-card machines used by nearly a third of all voters nationally should be the top priority. The ancient lever-style voting machines used in some other states should also be phased out.

LOS ANGELES TIMES

Clinton's Irish success

If President Clinton really has the itch for a further career in electoral politics, he might want to take up residence in Ireland once he leaves office on Jan. 20. They love him over there, and for good reason.

Mr. Clinton, who secured the 1998 Good Friday accord that substantially reduced bloodshed between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland, has done more to advance the cause of peace in that troubled part of the world than any U.S. president before him.

Given the seemingly intractable nature of this ancient and bitter dispute, no one is certain why Mr. Clinton chose Northern Ireland as one of his major foreign policy initiatives. But the success he has fashioned at this thankless task has earned him the admiration of a large segment of the Irish people.

Bush, global warming

In Brussel, the environment ministers from the 15 nations of the EU (European Union) are meeting to try to salvage the Kyoto protocol on climate change ...

The impetus behind this accelerated schedule comes from the fear that under George W. Bush, the U.S. will be even less likely to agree to substantial cuts in its emissions of greenhouse gases than it was at The Hague. After all, Al Gore was widely credited with selling the deal at Kyoto to a skeptical American public; Mr. Bush, by contrast, has called the concerns "junk science."

Nonetheless, global warming is too serious a concern to take a chance on the science being "junk," and the U.S. must give a lead.

The future President Bush might well bear in mind one further consideration. President Clinton said at Warwick University last week, Florida "could be viped out" by rising tides due to climate change. Mr. Bush owes his election to the citizens of that state; the least he could do in return is preserve them from

Finding the perfect tree

oon the alleys around town will be filled with forlorn Christmas trees, which just days before had been ablaze with lights and other decorations.

When I was growing up in southwest Arkansas, I lived on a farm about 4 miles from town, so every Christmas Eve morning my mother and I would tramp over the farm in search of the perfect tree. My father never took part on any of these tree-hunting expeditions because he drove a truck and usually didn't get home until late in the day.

I used to wonder why we never got a tree until Christmas Eve, especially since most of my friends' trees were put up more than a week before Christmas. Even my cousins' trees were put up several days before Christmas.

There were two reasons why Mom was so adamant about Christmas Eve for the tree. One reason was practical. The longer the tree was up, the drier it would get and that increased the risk of fire. Since the tree was going to stay up until New Year's Day, she wanted to wait until closer to Christmas to get

The other reason was traditional. When she was a little girl, her family always cut and decorated the tree on Christmas Eve. My mother was a stickler for family traditions (especially when they served her purposes), so it had to be done the way the family had

I used to think that when Moses came down from Mount Sinai, he brought along an 11th Commandment: "Thou shalt not put up a tree before Christmas Eve.' It was always chilly, although never white, on Christmas Eve morning when Mom said it was time to go find our tree.

She would bundle up, all the while checking to make sure that I was properly outfitted for an Arctic expedition. Then she would grab the hatchet that was just inside the door of the storage building behind the house and we would set off up the hill toward where there was a large grove of cedar trees.

Mom also was firmly convinced the only proper tree was a cedar tree. My Aunt Missie made the mistake of buying a pine tree one Christmas and she had to endure my mother's scorn for several weeks, which is probably why Missie was the first in the family to buy an artificial tree. I guess she decided if it couldn't be cedar, at least it could look like one.

I wasn't very choosy. I usually liked the first cedar that I saw that was likely to touch the ceiling. But Mom had her exacting standards.

"No," she would say, her lips pursed tightly. She would shake her head from side to side when I would point out what I thought was a good tree. "Look at that side. Why it's not full enough. It just wouldn't look right," she would

She would inspect four or five trees before spotted the one that she thought would do, and a few chops with the hatchet and we'd carry the tree back to the house.

Mom wasn't one of those people who liked conformity in her decorations. She didn't like to have just blue balls or just red balls - she liked the tree to be an explosion of color, red. blue, green, yellow, orange. There would be little Santas, birds, animals, snowflakes and even Christmas cards hanging on our tree.

At the top was a battered star that was never straight, but it had been a gift from her grandmother years before, so it had its place on the tree.

The last thing we did was to put the presents under the tree. After that was done, Mom had me turn out all the lights except those on the tree. Then we'd go outside to see how it looked from the gravel road that ran in front of our house.

It always looked good to me, but Mom always shook her head. "Well, it's nice, but it's not quite as good as last year," she would say.

bad holiday tradition Mauri Montgomery

Run for your life: another

Hello, Hereford.

hristmas is all about traditions, the things that bind our hearts to the season and our time spent with family.

Don't worry if you haven't had time to form any of your very own Christmas traditions. The TV, your children's classrooms, and even the front page of this weekend's edition will give you some hints for developing some. It's our gift. Ah, tradition! This is the stuff of Christmas. No one wants to see you suffer for your lack of creativity.

And lest you're now fraught with concern, you're not alone. Our son and his classmates were in the same boat.

A recent homework assignment called for him to research Christmas traditions observed in the Netherlands, Mexico, Greece and other points of interest across the globe.

Most of the children's families probably had a few traditions to lean on, but there's no way to gauge whether those traditions were going to be of any use to the rest of the planet. It's a new millennium, you see.

From a 6th grader's perspective, however, the assignment was going to eat into the time he needed to again rifle through the tattered pages of the Christmas catalogs — if only to confirm someone had not accidentally erased the circles indicating his favorite wishes. His mother assured him the research had merit: explaining that Greek custom would be welcome knowledge when his father took the family to Mt. Olympus for Christmas vacation next year. Besides, she further counseled, his greatest difficulty would not be in learning Greek holiday tradition, but in developing a taste for squid.

But he had heard none of it. He was in a hurry to get at those Christmas catalogs and he had already found one loophole in the

There must have been some mistake, he told his mother. The United States was one of the countries he could select in his study of Christmas tradition.

It was a gimme. This kid knew a thing or two about a U.S.

His prose for this country's celebration came easily and without the stuttering uncertainty met in foreign lands. No longer was he counting the numeric rule of words and lines that would fill the prerequisite space. His passions for an American Christmas flowed from his gel-filled quill with speed and purpose.

His brow knitted. He was almost home free. He had completed the foreign exchange. Only Christmas in the U.S. remained. Why, if he wasn't careful, he might even have to erase some of his carefully chosen words to accommodate the narrowing vise of this last manuscript. He noted America's penchant for decorating with lights, ornaments, ribbon and tinsel; decorating everything we can get our hands on. He described our zeal for giving gifts, a tradition that first found tooth when three traveled wise men gave homage to the birth of a child - born, they knew, to be the king

And as tradition so often holds around our house, I caught the last stanza of my harried son's absorbed struggle. Perhaps, it was the best stanza of all for a weary newspaper man.

I think I drew in my first big breath of Christmas that night while my son worried over Yuletide traditions, trying to vanquish the object of his torment.

His homework re-tooled my Christmas memories and for family traditions still being

I use the term "we" inclusively because apparently my family is not the only ones who suffer from this holiday insanity.

This temporary mind loss pertains to more than just forgotten gift extras. It seems to affect every arm of the yuletide season.

One year, in an effort to curb pre-holiday curiosity, my mother decided she would simply remember what each gift was and who it would go to. That worked really well. My oldest brother received a silky, bright green nightgown. I received a fully outfitted tool set. We later had a gift ex-course of shopping, but ap- ing, I probably pulled the alltime winner of holiday flubs.

I did what I said I would do and made a list everything I needed to transport to my mother's house for the feast of feast days. I put everything in appropriate carriers and lined it all up along the dining room wall.

Since the bird was still solidly frozen, I just placed it in my roaster and put the roaster on my counter. I very promptly checked the list to make sure I had everything. Told the kids to start carrying stuff to the car, forgetting the bird. I remembered it as we were unloading the stuff at my mom's. We ate roasted chicken instead.

This holiday I promised myself I would keep a written account of the gifts I had purchased so the number of gifts would be equally distrib-Everything is now wrapped and the packages do have names written somewhere on them. Now ask me if I can really remember what is in that oddly wrapped package with "Mama" written under the ribbon?

For the life of me, I can't remember if that is something one of the kids wrapped for me or is it something I wrapped for my mother.

Adding to the circus air is the fact we've been known to reuse gift boxes from year to year. Unfortunately, these boxes may have other people's names scrawled on them. Now I get to remember if the gift inside was actually meant for the person whose name is scrawled on the box or do I waste time opening it to

In view of past goofs, I opt for the extra time it takes for a quick peek. I quickly wrap the gift and tag it so there are no more goofs.

Finally it is all done right down to the list of what we need for Christmas dinner.

Then the big day actually arrives. The presents are unwrapped, mistakenly labeled items are exchanged with the rightful receiver and the leftovers of the holiday meal make us wonder why went to all this trouble.

Next week we'll all know. We'll all plead holiday insanity and say "never again."

For Bush, good will toward man not an option is the season to be cordial - Republicans to Democrats, President-elect Bush to all parties in the name of healing the divisions of a presidential election almost as evenly divided as the 50-50 Senate it also produced.

It is time for political good will, for bipartisanship, for a holiday from gridlock. In most transitions to a new presidency that mood lasts at least through inauguration day, sometimes longer.

In 2001, the Senate split may fracture it sooner. Democrats are demanding a share of power to go with their half of the seats. In an unprecedented situation, Vice President Al Gore can break ties in favor of the Democrats from Jan. 3 until Jan. 20, Vice President Dick Cheney will have the decisive vote for the Republicans after that.

For Bush, with no visible mandate from the voters after the closest presidential election in 124 years, won with one electoral vote to spare while Gore led him in the popular vote, appealing to Democrats in Congress is not an option, it is essential. He can't get major legislation passed without them; bare GOP majorities won't do, even when party lines hold solidly, as seldom happens. It takes 60 votes to force action in the Senate.

Even without an evenly split Senate — the first since 1881, the second ever — and a House in which Republicans hold only a five-vote edge, the promises of harmony and cooperation in Congress are no easier to keep than any ambitious New Year's resolution. The pledges are always made, and almost always forgotten when it is time to do busi-build. "I hope they realize that this isn't a single photo opportunity," he said. Bush said he wants to have a say but he listens and respects other opinions.

Democratic leaders responded in kind, saying they want to work with Bush and with congressional Republicans. "It's an opportunity for us to wipe the slate clean, to begin anew," said Sen. Tom Daschle.

Naming the high command of a GOP administration he has promised will include Democrats, Bush said Wednesday that he will concentrate

ting anything en-acted beyond the bare essentials to keep the government functioning is going to require compromise. But Bush is not talking that way; to do so now it would tip his hand when it is time to negotiate. It also would erode his support among conservative Republicans in Congress

An early example: Bush is promoting his across-the-board tax cut, which Democrats generally oppose, as a step against the signs he sees of a possible economic slump.

Any new president, whatever his mandate, gets a political honeymoon at the start, but it can be brief, and the mood doesn't mean he can get bills passed, or even get his Cabinet fully and quickly confirmed.

For President Clinton, the opening chapter was marred by the feud over gays in the military, and when his first two nominees for attorney general had to withdraw for failure to pay taxes on household help. When President Ford succeeded to office in Watergate's wake, the honeymoon was over when he pardoned the resigned Richard M. Nixon. George Bush, father of the presidentelect, saw his first choice for secretary of defense rejected by the Senate; that led to his choice of then-Rep. Cheney for the Pentagon.

That President Bush made his inaugural address in 1989 a summons to cooperation, saying "A new breeze is blowing and the old bipartisanship must be made new again."

"This is the age of the of-fered hand," he said, and turned to reach out to the leaders of the Democratic Congress to dramatize his words. They said they would reciprocate. But soon there was stalemate, then gridlock.

This President-elect Bush has a narrowly Republican Congress but a task no less challenging as he seeks to deliver on his trademark pledge to get things done as a uniter, not a divider.

Clinton's sponsorship this week of Middle East negotiations might color how Bush responds to continuing Palestinian-Israeli violence. A Clinton trip to North Korea, still a possibility, could lead to talks to end that country's missile program just as Bush is entering the White House.

Clinton's two-term investment in trying to broker peace in the Middle East, even through the waning days of his administration, will be a tough act to follow. That long box under the tree is a life-changer ne of the most electrifying moments in a boy's life comes in that instant when out-from-under the tree comes the longed-for, elongated box in the bright wrapping. Suddenly, those much-pined-over pictures in the mail-order catalogs and sporting magazines have been transformed to reality. Frantic, fumble-fingered tearing reveals that suddenly you are deemed responsible, and old-enough, and your world has forever changed, because in that box is your first rifle or shotgun, and you have gone a bit beyond being just a boy.

The prized gift is hefty to hold. You pick it up with trembling hands, already careful where you point the barrel. It is heady and heart-thumping to realize that even with adult supervision, you are to be trusted with so much, for the fine wood and steel in your hands is either a key to learning and adventure in the outdoors, or in a thoughtless or careless or undisciplined instant, an instrument of terror and destruction.

I sometimes think that youngsters are trusted with too much, too soon these days. I cringe when I see an inexperienced eight or nine or ten-year-old toting a shotgun. We had to wait more years for sufficient seasoning before we were allowed to handle a gun when I was growing up. We got to share in the stories and the excitement when I was a boy, but were virtually teens before there

Times have changed. Kids are often given guns at an earlier age today. Many are out after birds or big game while relatively young .-- I prefer to see that adult right there alongside the boy or girl as they are learning. I like to see youngsters comprehend what it is they are doing, and the value of the experience.

I've been in the field bird hunting with a good many folks in recent years. Do this enough and you find that there are hunters, and there are shooters, there are folks who are down-to-earth and appreciate what they get, and there are those of privilege who are careless, sloppy, and spoiled rotten. Some of these types travel internationally, to shoot incessantly and obscenely in Mexico and Argentina, killing hundreds of dove a day. For them, there is no appreciation of what they have--and never enough birds in the bag.

Then, there are the youngsters, new to this all, filled with excitement and wonder about the things about them, thrilled to bag a single bird, needing only proper mentoring to forever appreciate what is around them, and to understand that the quality of the hunting experience doesn't depend on the fullness of the game bag. Frankly, I'd just as soon hunt with them.

As George Bird Evans wrote: "Nowhere more than in the shooting field can a man show himself so much an ass, or prove himself so much a gentleman."

Hopefully, the kids who get those special elongated boxes under the Christmas tree this year will prove themselves gentlemen and ladies afield.

Duncan leads San Antonio in route of Warriors

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - For San Antonio Spurs, it's always nice when the Golden State Warriors come around. This time was no different.

Tim Duncan registered his NBA-leading 21st doubledouble of the season Friday night with 18 points and 13 rebounds as the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Warriors 105-87 for their 10th straight victory over Golden State.

San Antonio, which won its fourth straight game, placed four players in double figures as David Robinson added 15 points, Antonio Daniels 13 and Derek Anderson 12.

"Winning four straight is great for us, especially since we're going out on the road where we really haven't played all that well," said Duncan, who shot 8-of-13 from the floor. "We feel real confident right now that we are playing good." Golden State, which has lost six of its last seven, was paced by Antawn Jamison with 23 points. Rookie Marc Jackson added 14.

After leading 54-42 at halftime, San Antonio opened tle third quarter with an 8-2 run and led 62-46 on a dunk by Duncan with 5:40 to play in the period.

The Warriors trailed 71-59 at the end of the third quarter as Jamison kept Golden State in the game with eight of his team's 17 points in the period, but San Antonio opened the fourth quarter with a 15-6 run and upped the lead to 86-65 on Anderson's 3-point field goal with 7:22 to play.

Lakers hold on, Mavs fall 108-103

■ Bryant scores35 in LA win

DALLAS (AP) - Kobe Bryant scored 35 points and Shaquille O'Neal withstood being defended by six Dallas big men and a shirt-grabbing guard to score 28 Friday night as the Los Angeles Lakers held off a late run to beat the Mavericks 108-103.

After the Lakers' 20-point halftime lead was cut to 100-98 with two minutes left, Bryant drilled a long jumper while off balance and facing tight coverage. He bumped into Dallas coach Don Nelson on his follow-through and couldn't help but smile.

The Mavericks got back within three, 106-103 with 26.7 seconds left, but the Lakers iced their fifth straight win when Robert Horry rebounded a missed free throw by Ron Harper, was fouled, and made a foul shot for the game's final points with 18.8 seconds to play.

Los Angeles, which also had to hold off a Dallas comeback in a 99-97 victory earlier this month, improved to 4-0 on a five-game road trip that ends Monday at Portland.

The Mavericks, playing before their first home sellout of the season, ended a four-game winning streak and a five-game streak at home, their longest in 12 years.

Dirk Nowitzki remained hot, scoring 29 points for the second straight game, with 14 coming in the fourth-quarter comeback. Michael Finley had 22 points, eight assists and eight rebounds and Steve Nash scored 18 - 16 in the second Bryant, coming off a 45point performance against Houston in which he shot 20of-26, made 12 of 20 shots and hit all 10 of his free throws. He, O'Neal and Rick Fox scored Los Angeles' first 42 points.

their dual 41-39 later on in the evening.

NEW YORK (AP) - After having a career year for Colorado, Jeffrey Hammonds became the latest free agent to get a big deal, agreeing Friday on a $21.75 million, threeyear contract with the Milwaukee Brewers.

As most teams shut down for a 10-day holiday break, the Seattle Mariners brought back former second baseman Bret Boone, agreeing to a $3.25 million, one-year deal. Seattle also re-signed catcher Tom Lampkin, agreeing to a $1.2 million, one-year contract.

Eric Davis decided against retiring, the 38-year-old outfielder agreeing to a $1.5 million, one-year contract with the San Francisco Giants.

St. Louis, Davis' team last year, agreed to a one-year deal with outfielder Quinton McCracken.

There also was one trade. Ryan Minor, once considered to be the heir apparent to Cal Ripken in Baltimore, was traded by the Orioles to Montreal for minor league pitcher Jorge Julio.

Outfielder Karim Garcia, a former minor league player of the year, agreed to a minor league contract with the Cleveland Indians.

Hammonds, 29, hit .335 last season, the fourth-highest average in the National League last season. Playing half the time at Coors Field, he hit 20 homers, with a career-high 106

"Jeffrey had a breakthrough season in 2000, but I think that's because he had an opportunity to play," Brewers general manager Dean Taylor said. "His numbers were good because he was a solid player, not just from playing in Coors Field. He will become a key part of our offense as well as improve our defense.'

Milwaukee already had three outfielders who would be starters on most teams.

"At this point, Marquis Grissom would become the fourth outfielder on the ballclub," Taylor said.

Seattle was looking for some pop following the departure of Alex Rodriguez.

Boone, 29, was chosen by the Mariners in the fifth round of the 1990 amateur draft, then went on to play for Cincinnati, Atlanta and San Di-

He hit .251 with 18 doubles, two triples and 74 RBIs in 127 games for the Padres last season before a badly bruised right knee ended his season on Aug.

"We think Bret is a nice fit for our ballclub," Seattle general manager Pat Gillick said. "He's a proven run-producer who will add a little pop to our lineup while providing solid defense for our pitching staff."

Injuries limited Lampkin to 36 games last season. He hit .252 with six doubles, seven home runs and 23 RBIs.

"I feel great and I'm looking forward to getting back out there," said Lampkin, who has played for the Indians, Padres, Brewers, Giants and Cardinals in an eight-year ma-

McCracken, 30, had spent the last three years with the Tampa Bay Devil Rays. He appeared in only 15 games last season, continuing a comeback from a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee sustained in May 1999.

The team gave him an extensive physical exam earlier this week and he's expected to fill the gap created when Shawon Dunston signed a $1 million, one-year contract with the Giants.

"We feel McCracken will be an important part of our team for next season," general man-ager Walt Jocketty said. "He's the type of player who provides his team with many options because of his strong versatility. Not only can he play all three outfield positions, but he plays them well."

Minor originally was drafted by the Orioles in the 15th round of the 1992 amateur draft and made it to the majors in 1998. On Sept. 20 of that season, he gained notoriety by starting at third base after Ripken voluntarily removed his name from the lineup, ending a run of 2,632 successive games. That turned out to be the highlight of Minor's career with Baltimore. He hit .194 in 46 games in 1999 and batted only .131 in 32 games this year. He has a .185 career batting average with three homers and 14 RBIs in 87 games.

Julio, 21, spent last season at Class A Jupiter of the Florida State League, going 2-10 with 5.90 in 21 games, including 15 starts.

Garcia, 25, started last season with Detroit but was traded June 12 to Baltimore. He has a six-year major league career average of .217 with 24 homers and 83 RBIs in 254 games with the Los Angeles Dodgers, Arizona Diamondbacks, Tigers and Orioles.

Chesting and Eye on Taxas. There's a new economic reality

Christmas came early for investors in 2000. It came in March, as a matter of fact. Stocks were rising, confidence was soaring, homebuilders and carmakers couldn't keep up with the demand.

People exuded the spirit of the season. No gift for the family was too expensive — a cruise, a vacation house, trip to a theme park, a week of skiing - and you could always borrow the money and pay back later.

What a wonderful discovery the wealth effect was. You didn't have to worry about your future because your stocks and your home equity were making you richer every day in spite of your efforts to spend more.

You could feel the vibrations of exuberance, of confidence in the future. Confidence breeds confidence, it was explained, just as a rapidly rising stock generates even more momentum. The evidence

FIRST LADY MEMOIRS

Observers wonder which path Hillary Clinton will follow when she begins — confessional, vengeful or instructional

NEW YORK (AP) - Once Hillary Rodham Clinton begins her $8 million memoirs, she might follow any number of paths.

She could write a confessional book, like Betty Ford's "The Times of My Life." She could settle scores, like Nancy Reagan or Edith Bolt Wilson. She could tell a comprehensive story, like Rosalynn Carter's "First Lady From Plains," or attempt a serious, instructive memoir, like "The Autobiography of Eleanor Roosevelt."

Whatever she does, Mrs. Clinton will continue a genre few could have imagined a century ago. First ladies were once expected to keep their stories to themselves. Now, their memoirs are so popular they often outsell their husbands'.

"Until the 20th century, there was a certain degree of ambivalence about whether first ladies should reveal their roles in the administration and the degree they exercised power," said Carl Sferrazza Anthony, whose books include "America's First Families" and a two-volume history on first ladies.

"But now their memoirs are greatly valued for at least two reasons. They're probably the most revealing published documents on the personalities and characters of the presidents. Secondly, they give you the fullest perspective on the president in the context of a family."

Since Betty Ford, every first lady has told her story. Mrs. Clinton's immediate predecessors, Barbara Bush and Nancy Reagan, each reportedly got $2 million advances and their memoirs sold better than any book by their husbands.

Julia Dent Grant, widow of the 18th president, is believed to be the first presidential spouse to attempt a memoir. But her price proved far too high. Inspired by the great commercial success of Ulysses Grant's autobiography, she wanted $125,000, a figure too rich even for her friend Andrew Carnegie. Mrs. Grant's book did not come out until the 1970s.

and a possible presidential can-didate, hardly someone who would want to remind the pubters of discomfort are often ignored or briefly referred to.

CANYON - Two area residents were among 28 West Texas A&M University students llisted in the 2001 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities & Colleges."

Nominees were required to be full-time students with at least 60 hours of college credit and a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.75 on a 4.0 scale.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY:

THE SHEPHERDS

(Margaret Schultz) One night some shepherds watched the lambs and sheep And suddenly stared with wide eyes. They just stood Frozen on the field. Their lips had formed an "O". They trembled and stammered for they saw An angel that turned up out of the blue.

The angel said not to be alarmed Because he had great details to report to all people of the world. The Prince of Peace

Had just been born in Bethlehem in a stall. A star was above the barn behind an inn. The shepherds saw some more angels appear In a big choir singing and praising God, "Glory to God in Heavenly heights, "Peace on earth to one and all of goodwill!" Then the choir returned to the City of Light. Since they were nearby, three shepherds left the fields And trekked to Bethehem to see this thing. They followed the star.

They heard lows of a cow And a donkey's bray. They smelled the bread Baking in the inn. They reached the barn. In the stall, the Holy Family welcomed

The people were amazed. The shepherds reached the fold and scanned the sheep That showed that they were in good hands.

Splitting bread And butter, the men talked about that day And praised God because they had seen the Child, The Prince of Peace.

Then they turned in near the sheep.

Christmas is when a wish comes true

By Becky Thorn Hereford Brand Lifestyles

Christmas doesn't always come in December. For Isaiah Martinez and his family, it came in September Isaiah's wish for a trip to Disney World came true.

Isaiah, age 4; his parents, Reggie and Geneva; and his sister, Symaron, age 2, were the recipi-ents of a wish granted by Make-A-Wish.

"It all started on Thursday, Feb. 3," Reggie said. "From that day until now has been a real learning experience for my family that has made it even stronger."

Isaiah and Symaron were both feeling sick. Their parents took them to the local hospital then they were transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amatal, Reggie had no-ticed that Isaiah wasn't himself.

He was always lying down and had a real pale face. I felt his pain," Isaiah's dad said.

After Isaiah had spent a full day in the hospital, his parents still had no idea what to expect. Then the doctors told them it could be a blood virus or leukemia.

"We soon found out that it was leukemia," Reggie said. "I had been to run some errands and was on my way back to the room when my wife told me the news.

heart My started crying. I felt alone and afraid. When I got upstairs, I held my son's hand and looked him in the eyes and said, 'I love you, son."

Isaiah began taking chemotherapy and stayed in the hospital for a month.

"After he was released, Isaiah was back to his old self in two or three days,"

Reggie said. "It was a great feeling having the family back together again and being able to eat home children to the hospi- cooking. Fast food and pizza are good, but not for a whole month."

Since his release, Isaiah has been through a lot, his dad said. He has had to visit the doctor's office once a week for treatments and every other month he has been in the hospital for a spinal

"My wife has been the greatest," Reggie said. She is always pro-active, and I thank the Lord for her every day. Isaiah has been a great gift to me; I cherish every moment we spend

Some of the most memorable moments were the week that the Martinez family spent at Disney World.

The opportunity for Isaiah's wish to be granted came about mostly by accident. His mother had visited a local bank to open a checking account and mentioned about Isaiah while talking with an officer at the bank.

This officer just happened to be involved with the local Make-A-Wish group and she put the for Isaiah - which came true in September.

Our whole family flew to Orlando and we stayed at a place called "Give Kids the World." It is a special part of Disney World, like a little village built just for the 'Wish kids.' We had our own little house," Reggie said. The whole family would get up early each day and ride the shuttle from their house in "Give Kids the World" to Disney World where they would stay for the entire day.

Make-A-Wish provided spend-wheels in motion to grant a wish ing money for the trip so they could just go and enjoy their time together. Isaiah had a break from his chemotherapy that week, felt good and got to enjoy all of Disney World, according to his dad.

"Isaiah's favorite ride was the "Tea Cups" from Alice in Wonderland," Reggie said.

"I hope Isaiah's story will give hope to others," Reggie said. "Sometimes things change in life. It isn't always easy to accept a change, but sometimes we have no choice. We can't change the past but we can learn from it and build on the future.'

Dear Ann anders: I am a longtime friend of a wonderful couple who has two young daughters under the age of

3. When they entertain in their home, they allow their girls to undress and run around completely naked. The girls often sit open-legged, and sometimes they do somer-saults and handstands to entertain guests. This makes my husband and me very uncomfortable. It's worse for our 12year-old son, who is often invited. There are several families with preteen boys in our social group, and they, too, are embarrassed. I have spoken to my friend about this, but she says she wants to keep her children innocent and pure for as long as possible. I do not believe this behavior is appropriate, nor is it right to subject other adults and their children to this display of nudity. Am I overreacting? How should I handle this? - Modest in Modesto, Calif.

Dear Modesto: I wonder where your friends got the idea that allowing their children to run around naked in front of company is keeping them "pure." Modesto, Calif., isn't exactly Samoa.

Tell your friends you cannot visit in their home unless they assure you that their daughters will be fully clothed and remain so during your visit. If they undress while you are there, say, "Sorry, but we have to leave now." Then do it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a happily married mother of two. My husband is a great guy who comes from a large family - and that, dear Ann, is the problem. Ann, I like his family a lot and enjoy their company, but we simply cannot afford all the "celebrating." When I de-cline some of their invitations, I sense a real chill. My inlaws seem to think I am antifamily because I don't show up for each and every celebration.

Am I being unreasonable to take a pass on the overflow of family "togetherness"? Frankly, I resent the gift-giving frenzy, and feel totally overwhelmed by it. Is there a solution for me? — Smothered in Dallas

Dear Dallas: Try to attend the festivities for the sake of family harmony. The "solution" to the gift-giving dilemma is to suggest a new rule for every member of the family: Nobody is allowed to spend more than $5 on a gift. I'll bet everyone will be relieved. End of dilemma.

Dear Ann Landers: I came across a story in the Prairie Rambler that you might like to print for the holiday season. It originally appeared in The New York Times on Christmas Day, 1995. I thought your readers would enjoy it:
"Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have calculated that Santa Claus needs more than eight of 321,000 tons (including the tiny reindeer. The students based their calculations on the premise that Santa had 31 hours to deliver toys and goodies to 91.8 million Christian households - 15 percent of all the homes in the world spread across 24 time zones. That works out to 822.8 households per second. To do this, Santa would need the combined efforts of 214,200 reindeer to pull him and his load Ho Ho to them.

Red Cross Update

With the holidays fast approaching, residents in the southeastern part of the United States were busily preparing for seasonal festivities. But on Dec. 15, severe winter weather struck the region with brutal force.

Freezing rain, snow and tornadoes ripped through the area leaving a path of destruction. When the storm lifted, 12 people were confirmed dead and hundreds were injured. Dozens of individuals are still missing and hundreds of homes and businesses were destroyed in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Arkansas and Texas.

The worst damage was in the town of Tuscaloosa, Ala., where a tornado swept a path that was 18 miles long and more than a third of a mile wide. Winds ranged from 206 to 207 miles per hour. The twister was the nation's worst this year.

The lingering effects of the storm included blocked roads and power outages. The day after the storm, 50,000 residents of Arkansas were still without electricity. Officials are scrambling trying to restore power to residents as the temperature continues to record

The American Red Cross responded immediately by opening six shelters and providing mobile and fixed feeding in the affected areas. In Alabama, Red Cross workers opened four shelters, three of them in hard hit Tuscaloosa County.

Shelters are providing food, health and mental health services. The Red Cross will continue to keep shelters open to assist residents who are still

Red Cross workers are still completing damage assessments, many on foot, with roads still blocked by debris and fallen trees.

The residents of these southern states will feel the affects of the devastating tornadoes long after the holidays are over. In this season of giving, the American Red Cross is prepared to meet the challenge, but we need the continued support of the American people to ensure assistance is there as long as the need exists.

Contact wearers have a wide range of choices.

•Daily wear soft lenses are thin polymer-plastic lenses that conform to shape of the eye. They allow oxygen (important to the health of the cornea) to pass through to the cornea. They are softer than hard contacts, more comfortable and a better choice for active lifestyles.

•Rigid gas-permeable (RGP) lenses are made of hard plastic with pores that allow even more oxygen to pass through than daily wear soft lenses. They are comfortable for most people after a period of

RGP lenses are easy to care for, less likely to cause infection, and more durable than soft lense •Disposables are soft lenses available in both daily and extended-wear versions. Advantages are the same as with other soft lenses.

•Extended-wear lenses are soft lenses worn continuously for up to six days and nights. Extended wear lenses are made of materials that allow more oxygen to get to your comea. Not all soft lenses are made for extended wear. Check with your eye care specialist to ensure that you are using safe lenses.

A soldier's night before Christmas

It's too bad a guy in the service has to write a poem to make people think about the military.

Twas the night before Christmas, He lived all alone, In a one bedroom house made of Plaster and stone.

I had come down the chimney with presents to give, And to see just who In this home did live.

I looked all about, A strange sight I did see, No tinsel, no presents, Not even a tree.

No stocking by mantle, Just boots filled with sand, On the wall hung pictures Offar distant lands.

With medals and badges,

Awards of all kinds, A sober thought Came through my mind. For this house was different,

It was dark and dreary, I found the home of a soldier. Once I could see clearly.

The soldier lay sleeping, Silent, alone, Curled up on the floor, In this one bedroom home.

The face was so gentle, The room in such disorder, Not how I pictured A United States soldier.

Was this the hero Of whom I'd just read? Curled upon a poncho, The floor for a bed?

I realized the families That I saw this night, Owed their lives to these soldiers Who were willing to fight.

Soon round the world, The children would play, And grownups would celebrate A bright Christmas day.

They all enjoyed freedom Each month of the year Because of the soldiers, Like the one lying here.

I couldn't help wonder How many lay alone, On a cold Christmas eve In a land far from home.

The very thought Brought a tear to my eye, I dropped to my knees And started to cry.

The soldier awakened And I heard a rough voice, "Santa don't cry, This life is my choice;

I fight for freedom, I don't ask for more, My life is my god, My country, my corps."

The soldier rolled over And drifted to sleep, I couldn't control it, I continued to weep.

I kept watch for hours, So silent and still And we both shivered From the cold night's chill. I didn't want to leave On that cold, dark night, This guardian of honor So willing to fight.

Then the soldier rolled over, With a voice soft and pure, Whispered, "Carry on Santa, It's Christmas day. All is secure."

One look at my watch, And I knew he was right. "Merry Christmas my friend,

And to all a good night." This poem was written by a HSCA Executive Director How can it be 2001 already? Remember all the confusion this time last year? Things have really gone along as usual. The same political fights and rising living expenses. I love our good ole USA and I'm glad to get to see the beginning of a new year.

We will have our New Year's Eve party on Saturday, Dec. 30 at 8 p.m. instead of Sunday evening. I don't think it makes any difference if we start a day early. We will have good music, games and good food for the evening. Please come out and help us celebrate the new year.

The Braschler Music Show will be March 2 and 3. You need to get your tickets soon. They are going fast.

Also we have a tour, Alpine Explorer with the Glacier Express, scheduled for Sept. 14, 2001. This tour books fast so you need to get your deposit, $250, in as soon as possible. This does not include cancellation insurance.

I hope all of you have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We are having most of our family, but one will be missing this year. My Mom, my best friend and the one who really loves me. We really need to appreciate and cherish every moment with our families and friends for this time next year some of us will be missing.

I want all of you, our volunteers, seniors and our whole community, to know how much I love and appreciate each of you.

See you at the Center! Scripture: "Don't be afraid!" he said. "I bring you the most joyful news ever announced, and it is for everyone! The Savior - yes, the Messiah, the Lord - has been born tonight in Bethlehem!

I see countless Christmas trees around the world below, with tiny lights, like heaven's stars, reflecting on the snow.

The sight is so spectacular, please wipe away that tear, For I am spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year. I hear the many Christmas songs that people hold so

dear, But the sound of music can't compare with the Christmas choir up here. I have no words to tell you, the joy their voices bring, for it is beyond description, to hear the angels sing. I know how much you miss me. I see the pain inside your heart, but I am not so far away.

We really aren't apart, so be happy for me dear ones. You know I hold you dear, and be glad I'm spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year. I send you each a memory of my undying love.

After all "Love" is the gift, more precious than pure gold.

It was always most important in the stories Jesus told. Please love and keep each other, as my Father said to

For I can't count the blessings or

Love He has for each of you. So, have a Merry Christmas and wipe away that tear. Remember, I'm spending Christmas, with Jesus Christ

FLAVOR ENHANCEMENT For taste and Health in the Later Years

Age-related losses of taste and smell occur in a large number of people over the age of 65. Not being able to taste or smell your food not only jeopardizes nutri-tional health, but can impair overall health and quality of life.

The sense of taste and smell are important to health. These sensations perform a variety of functions in the body, including preparing the body for the task of digesting food and giving us information about whether a food is fresh. The ability to taste and smell food also brings enjoyment, making eating a pleasure instead of just a necessity for life.

Unfortunately, with age, many people experience decreases in taste and smell. Although taste and smell losses are usually first noticeable around age 60, they can occur earlier or later. These sensory losses can not only alter food choices, but may lead to unintentional weight loss, impaired nutritional status, diminished immunity and other health problems.

What causes taste and smell losses? Taste losses in older people are the result of normal aging, and may not be reversible. Medical conditions and illnesses are also a major cause of taste losses and distortions in people of all ages. Sometimes the sensory problems associated with medical conditions can be corrected, but not always.

Select medical conditions that may affect taste and smell. allergic rhinitis and sinusitis

- epilepsyAlzheimer's disease
- head trauma
- bronchial asthma
- hypothyroidism
- cancer and/or tumors liver disease and cirrhosis
- certain vitamin/mineral defi-multiple sclerosis
- chronic pulmonary disease Parkinson's disease
- chronic renal failure diabetic mellitus

 viral hepatitis Certain medical treatment

(such as chemotherapy and radiation to the head), as well as a wide variety of medications, can compound the problem. It's best to consult your physician regarding the likelihood of your medications causing taste or smell disorders.

Compensate with flavor enhancement

When the causes of sensory losses cannot be corrected, enhancing food may help counteract the effects of these losses. One research program indicates that eating flavor-enhanced foods can increase food acceptance and intake of nutritious foods. What's more, making food more flavorful could significantly enhance the quality of life for people with sensory losses by improving food palatability, which may increase mealtime enjoyment.

Flavorful ways with food

Certain food ingredients, such as flavoring ingredients and monosodium glutamate, may be useful when trying to boost flavor in meals for people with sensory

Flavoring ingredients

Concentrated flavoring substances can increase the acceptability of certain foods-especially vegetables and other foods that may have undesirable bitter tastes, or which some people may perceive to have unpleasant aromas. Flavoring ingredients also provide odor, which is important to perception of food flavor.

Check the supermarket spice aisle for these ingredients:

- Butter-flavored seasonings
- Bacon "bits"
- Garlic-flavored seasonings Maple extract, vanilla extract,
- fruit extracts, etc.
- Cheese-flavored seasonings

Bouillon cubes Be sure to also check the Nutrition Facts panel for sodium content. Here are some hints for using flavoring ingredients Choose flavors that complement the base food. Maple extract is good for glazed vegetables, yogurt smoothies, and syrup;

butter-flavored seasoning works well with potato dishes, pasta, and green vegetables; cheeseflavored seasoning pairs well with cauliflower, broccoli, and potatoes; fruit extracts enhance gelatins and fruit-flavored des-

 In some cases, flavoring ingredients are best incorporated into foods by mixing the powders with a small amount of water, then stirring this mixture into the Bouillon cubes can be used to make sauces and gravies "meatier," and also add extra flavor to soups and mixed meat dishes.

Monosodium glutamate Research has shown that adding the common flavor enhancers, monosodium glutamate (MSG) and flavoring ingredients to certain foods, such as vegetables and protein-containing foods like meat, fish, and poultry dishes, can stimulate appetite and increase total foods intake in some older people who are ill. Monosodium glutamate can reduce the perceived bitterness or acidity of foods, and allows for the use of less table salt (therefore helping to decrease sodium intake) while maintaining the foods palatability. Monosodium glutamate is easy to find in the supermarket spice aisle. Here are some hints for using monosodium glutamate.

 MSG works best in proteinbased dishes such as casseroles, meatloaf and other ground meat dishes, soups, stews and chowders, savory sauces and gravies. It's also effective in salad dressings and in mixed vegetables dishes.

■ The "rule-of-thumb" for using MSG is: 1/2 teaspoon per pound of meat, or per 4 servings of vegetables, casseroles, or soup.

 Add MSG to foods before or during cooking for best flavor results.

Unlucky Jim: A Christmas Story of Unselfish Love

he story of Unlucky Jim is a Christmas tradition in this column and definitely worth sharing again. For the past 10 years, I've used it to share what I believe is the true meaning of Christmas.

Unlucky Jim is a sad little story my mother read to me when I was small. It is sad, but has a strong message and a happy ending. The story came from a book by Arthur S. Maxwell titled, "Uncle Arthur's Bedtime Stories."

It's about a little boy named Jim whose family was very poor. His little sister was an invalid and spent most of her days in bed. Christmas held no hope or joy for either of the children.

As he trudged home from school each day, Jim would stop to look at the toys in the bright store windows. More than anything, he wanted a little red fire engine. Jim knew he would never be lucky enough to get one. In fact, his only marble had rolled down a storm drain the previous week. He felt that he was the unluckiest

Then, one night just before Christmas, Jim received an invitation to a Christmas party for the poor children in the neighborhood. A nice lady from a nearby church mission promised Jim a special gift. Jim grew excited as he drew near the mission. He couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the Christmas tree. It was covered with lights and surrounded by toys. Jim saw a bright red fire engine just like the one in the store window.

When it came time for each child to pick out a gift, Jim's heart nearly stopped. He was afraid that someone else would pick the fire engine. Fortunately, when his turn came, the little red truck was still under the tree. As Jim reached for the engine, he thought of his frail little sister at home in bed. He stopped and turned to the mission lady. He asked softly if he might pick two gifts, one for himself and one for his sister at home. The lady shook her head sadly and told Jim there were only enough presents for one for each

Jim's Christmas Spirit

Jim looked longingly at the little fire engine. Then he picked out the prettiest doll under the tree. It had blue eyes and curly blond hair just like his little sister. As he returned to his seat with the doll, the other children began to laugh and make fun of him. Unlucky Jim clutched the little doll and ran from the mission. He stopped crying by the time he reached home.

Jim began to feel better when he saw the look of surprise and delight on his sister's face. As she hugged the doll and cried with joy, Jim didn't feel so unlucky after all.

Later, as Jim sat by his little sister's bed watching her play with her doll, someone knocked on the door. When he opened it, the mission lady was there. She gave Jim a neatly wrapped package and explained to him that the children were sorry they had laughed at him. They had not known about his sick little sister. After she told them why Jim had chosen the doll, the children asked her to bring him a present. To Jim's delight, the package contained the most beautiful red fire engine he'd ever seen.

Jim's unselfishness should be our model all year long. Christians celebrate Christmas to remember the birth of Jesus Christ. Whether or not you're a Christian by faith, Christ's life of giving, sharing and caring is a good example for all men.

A friend sent this to me in e-mail. I thought it quite appropriate to share.

INTRODUCING the new Bio-Optic Organized Knowledge device, trade-named BOOK BOOK is a revolutionary breakthrough in technology: no wire, no electric circuits, no batteries, nothing to be connected or switched on. It's so easy to use, even a child can operate it.

Compact and portable, it can be used anywhere – even sitting in an armchair by the fire - yet it is powerful enough to hold as much information as a CD-Rom disc.

Here's how it works: BOOK is constructed of sequentially numbered sheets of paper (recyclable), each capable of holding thousands of bits of information. The pages are locked together with a custom-fit device called a binder which keeps the sheets in their correct sequence.

Opaque Paper Technology (OPT) allows manufacturers to use both sides of the sheet, doubling the information density and cutting costs. Each sheet is scanned optically, registering information directly into your brain. A flick of the finger takes you to the next sheet.

BOOK never crashes or requires rebooting, though, like other devices, it can become damaged if coffee is spilled on it. The "browse" feature allows you to move instantly to any sheet, and move forward or backward as you wish. Many come with an "index" feature, which pin-points the exact location of any selected information for instant retrieval.

An optional "BOOKmark" accessory allows you to open BOOK to the exact place you left it in a previous session – even if the BOOK has been closed. BOOKmarks fit universal design standards; thus, a single BOOKmark can be used in BOOKs by various manufacturers.

Portable, durable and affordable, BOOK is being hailed as a precursor of a new entertainment wave. Its promise as an educational tool is guaranteed. BOOK's appeal seems so certain that thouof content creators have committed to the platform and investors are reportedly flocking to invest. Look for a flood of new titles soon.

Some of these new titles at the Deaf Smith County Library this week include Open House by Elizabeth Berg. Samantha's husband has left her, and after a spree of overcharging at Tiffany's, she settles down to reconstruct a life for herself and her 11-yearold son. Her eccentric mother tries to help by fixing her up with dates, but a more pressing problem is money. To meet her mortgage payments, Sam decides to take in boarders. The first is an older woman who offers sage advice and sorely needed comfort; the second, a maladjusted student, is not quite so helpful.

A new friend, King, an untraditional man, suggests that Samantha get out, get going, get work. But her real work is this: In order to emerge from grief and the past, she has to learn how to make her own happiness. In order to really see people, she has to look within her heart. And in order to know who she is, she has to remember and reclaim - the person she used to be, long before she became someone else in an effort to save her marriage.

Boone's Lick by Larry McMurtry follows the Cecil family's arduous journey by riverboat and wagon from Boone's Lick, Mo., to Fort Phil Kearny in Wyoming. Fifteenyear-old Shay narrates, describing the journey that begins when his Ma, Mary Margaret, decides to hunt down her elusive husband, Dick, to tell him she's leaving him. Without knowing precisely where he is, they set out across the plains in search of him, encountering grizzly bears, stormy weather, and hostile Indians as they go. With them are Shay's siblings, Shay's Uncle Grandpa his Seth, Crackenthorpe, and Mary Margaret's beautiful half-sister, Rose. During their journey, they pick up a barefooted priest named Father Villy, and a Snake Indian named Charlie Seven Days, and persuade them to join in their travels.

We first meet Mary Margaret as she shoots a sheriff's horse out from underneath him in order to feed her family. We also meet such historical figures as Wild Bill Hickok and the unfortunate Colonel Fetterman (whose arrogance and ineptitude led to one of the U.S. Army's worst and bloodiest defeats at the hands of the Cheyenne and Sioux) as well as the Cecil family itself as they discover Dick's second and third families.

In Third Option by Vince Flynn, Mitch Rapp, the CIA's top counterterrorism operative, is fresh from retaking a battle-scarred White House after a vicious terrorist attack on the President. He is now being sent on his final mission. His target: a well-known German industrialist who has been selling highly sensitive equipment to one of the world's most notorious sponsors of terrorism. As Rapp meticulously prepares to take the man out, he has no idea that there are forces within his own government that are plotting to

Thomas Stansfield, the aged director of the CIA, is dying of cancer, and he and the President have chosen as his successor Dr. Irene Kennedy, the director of the CIA's Counterterrorism Center. There are others in Washington, however, who could not imagine a more unwelcome choice, and they are willing to resort to extreme measures to prevent Kennedy from taking the reins of the world's most powerful intelligence agency.

The conspirators have devised a bold plan that will damage the President and ruin Kennedy's career, allowing them to put someone they can control at the helm of the CIA. Unfortunately for them, they have made one horrible miscalculation. They have chosen Mitch Rapp as their pawn. Their worst nightmare is about to be realized. They have enraged one of the most lethal and efficient killers the CIA has ever produced, and he will stop at nothing until he finds out who set him up.

EU's ban boosts U.S. soy exports

By Dianna F. Dandridge

Hereford Brand Staff Writer

Decisions made by the European Union earlier this month to ban the use of meat and bone meal as an animal food additive will mean extra income for some farmers -just not many local producers.

The farmers most likely to benefit from the EU's decision will be the producers in areas where large numbers of soybeans are grown. In 1999 most Texas soybeans were grown in Victoria and Ochiltree coun-

Department of Agriculture information indicates EU countries will need an additional meal. Greater demand will ultimately result in more soybeans exported to the EU and higher prices for American soybean producers.

USDA officials have estimated that soybean prices will average $4.80 per bushel, up 10 cents from earlier estimates and more than 17 cents higher than the 1999 crop.

According to the United Soybean Board, U.S. farmers planted 73.8 million acres of soybeans in 1999 and exported more than half of the harvest. Total soybean product exports were valued at $4.52 million.

USB data indicates most soy-

1.3 million tons; of soybean bean meal used in the United tates is fed to poultry and swine, while only 13 percent of the US livestock consumption goes to beef cattle.

Burt Rutherford, information director of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association said he's not sure why area cattle feeders have not utilized soybeans more unless it's that they are used to using corn and corn is available at a low price. Soybeans would have to be transported in as well as having a higher price tag.

Various state soybean boards indicate that their stockmen include soy products in their corn or other grains.

Soy hulls, soy hay, soy beans and soybean stubble provide quality nutrients and roughage, but because soy products are more susceptible to weather vagaries can be difficult to store or order in a timely fashion, reports the Georgia Agriculture Extension Service.

USDA statisticians reported record crops for corn and soybeans for this year. Soybean producers may see better profits than other grain producers due to the foreign corn competition and problems with the contamination of corn by the gene-altered variety StarLink.

INDIANA, Pa. (AP) — Picking just the right tree for the holiday season may be a picturesque national ritual, but Christmas tree farming is not all tinsel and lights.

Pennsylvania, which ranks second in the nation behind Oregon for the number of tree farms, is producing one of its best crops in years thanks to new technologies and cooperative weather.

Yet in an industry blemished by labor shortages and thefts, growers say higher overhead costs have led to lower profits. Consumers demand a fragrant, full, perfectly shaped tree — and that costs money to produce.
"The price of trees has steadily gone up with inflation, but it's gotten more expensive to raise trees," said Ed Chapman, president of the Indiana County Christmas Tree Growers' Association

"People want the perfect tree, but unfortunately this is not a manufactured product. But we can get them near perfect."

Indiana County, which proclaims itself the Christmas tree capital of the world, is home to 75 Christmas tree farms. It produced about 1 million of Pennsylvania's 5 mil-

NASS begins floriculture chemical use survey

Statistics Service chemical use program will begin covering chemical use withing the nursery and floriculture industry, beginning in January 2001.

The new survey and the resulting estimates will become a biennial data series in the NASS estimating program. Data on chemical use and pest management practices will be collected from a sample of nursery and floriculture operations.

Nationwide, the nursery and floriculture industry more than doubled from 1988 to 1998, with sales totaling $10.6 billion in 1998. This is the third largest sector of production in Texas agriculture in terms of gross value of sales, behind only cattle and cotton.

Leaders in the American Nursey and Landscape Association and the Society of American Florists encourage grower participation. Accurate measures of America's nursery and floriculture chemical

The National Agricultural use and pest management practices are extremely important to the industry.

Key data items in the survey include applied products, location, amount, method and manufacturer.

Complete, accurate and timely responses by growers will show responsible use of agrcultural chemicals and the results will ensure that risk assessors will employ actual chemical use data rather than hypothetical worst-case scenarios.

Writing Want Ads that really sell!

Unsure how to write a Classified Ad that will get results? Follow these pointers and you'll soon have an empty space in your storage room and cash in your pocket.

For starters, look at ads which offer the same item/products. Get a sense of going rates and ideas for how to make your ad stand out. Once you're ready to write, begin with exactly what you're selling: "Dining room set, maple, six chairs."

Then rememeber these hints: Give the price. A newpaper consultant says 70 percent of classified eaders won't respond to an add with no price.

key words to describe what you're selling. The key words for a car are make, model, year, body style, color, mileage and price. If it's a house, key words are location, type of construction, number of bedrooms and baths, and condition.

Don't use abbreviations. It's tempting to abbreviate and save money if ads are billed by the line. Brand ads are billed by the words, so spell them out so readers won't be confused trying to figure out abbreviations.
Don't be misleading. Think accurate and factual when you write. Be sure to include a phone number and the best times to reach you.

The House of the Week-

A Quaint Cape Cod Variation

TWIN DORMERS and a wraparound porch provide an inviting facade.

By BRUCE A. NATHAN AP Newsfeatures

A variation of a Cape Cod, Plan G-51 by HomeStyles Designers Network, displays a handsome wraparound porch and stylish dormers. This home has nice lines and 1,581 square feet of living space laid-out for convenience.

Inside, a balcony creates a dramatic effect as it overlooks the living room and entry from high above. Complementing the lofty 16 1/2-foot vaulted ceiling is a quaint boxed-out window in the living room.

The kitchen and the dining area share space at the back of the home, and include a pantry, an island and access to the backyard. The private master suite on the main floor features a lush bath with a whirlpool tub, separate shower and a dual-sink vanity.

Across the home, a laundry room and a half bath lead to a two-car garage.

0 GARAGE G-51 00 000 %00 **%

THE ENTRY, which opens directly into the living room, also offers immediate access to the upper floor. The nearby dining room is open to the island kitchen, which, in turn, leads to a laundry room, a half bath and a two-car garage. Across the home, the master suite overlooks the side porch and has its own bath. Upstairs, two more bedrooms are linked by a balcony hall and share a full bath. Attic storage space is accessible from the hall.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Fashion For The Fireplace: Hearth Accessories Make The Design

can help liven up an outfit, they antique 'weather-worn' look, or the can do just the same for the hearth. Whether it be a set of fireplace tools in a lustrous chrome finish, or a delicate hand-finished fireplace frame, accessories turn an otherwise ordinary-looking fireplace into one full of character. Firetools, andirons, firescreens, and wood carriers today come in new and exciting finishes and styles which can help 'dress' up the hearth area.

"As we begin this next century, we're looking forward to offering a complete package for fabulous fireplaces," said Carter Keithley, Hearth Products Association (HPA), President and CEO. "With the wealth of items available in the hearth accessories market today, consumers can find a neverending assortment of items that reflect both their decorating style and personality. Just like accessories can makeover an otherwise plain-looking outfit, style-conscious hearth accessories can totally transform and give added flair to the fireplace. Accessories make the design difference and are as essential to the hearth today as the fire itself."

Accessories are available in a formidable assortment ranging from the basic and traditional to the cutting-edge. Many items even reflect the up-to-the-minute styles seen on fashion's runways such as chrome, pewter, silver-polished accessories, and leather.

The most popular accessoriesandirons, firesets, screens, mantels/surrounds, and woodcarrierscome in a plethora of finishes, styles, colors, shapes and textures. Some examples include:

· Andirons-Fires can be built on shapes ranging from the traditional clawfoot style to the more contemporary geometrical figures available in finishes such as brass, · Firesets or tools—Fireplace tools today serve not only a functional, but a decorative purpose. Styles run the gamut from Arts and Crafts influence to Southwestern style which reflects the warmth and beauty of the desert. Tools also come in such exciting finishes as natural iron, black or brushed steel, and beautiful white bronze and platinum finishes.

· Firescreens-There is an enormous amount of choice when it comes to firescreens-from colorful hand-painted screens portraying a garden full of flowers, gothic-looking arches, traditional mesh, to playful scrollwork design. Finishes include delicate pewter to burnished copper to innovative cast aluminum.

 Glass Fireplace Doors—In addition to all-around safety and value, glass fireplace doors are now making a design statement for the

Kennedy Center Gala

Lauds Great Entertainers By Jacqueline Cutler

Angela Lanebury (center) is one of the artists spotlighted in The Kennedy Center Honors: A Celebration Performing Arts, airing Wednesday on CBS. Lanebury's fellow honorees are dancer Mikhail Ballyehnikov, Clint Eastwood, tenor Placido Domingo and rock music pioneer Chuck Berry (clockwise from bottom left).

Some awards shows we watch strictly for the fashion. Others pull us in because we want to see what's so hot about a new music group, or how old favorites are faring. But we view The Kennedy Center Honors: A Celebration of the Performing Arts out of respect for true greatness.

The 23rd annual gala airs Wednesday, Dec. 27, on CBS. Walter Cronkite hosts the event, which honors actress Angela Lansbury, tenor Placido Domingo, musician Chuck Berry, dancer Mikhail Baryshnikov and actor Clint Eastwood.

Baryshnikov, who defected from the Soviet Union in 1974, once said, "Every ballet, whether or not successful artistically or with the public, has given me something important. Everything that I've done has given me more freedom.

Berry's fast guitar and soulful rock prompted John Lennon to say, "If you tried to give rock 'n' roll another name, you might call it Chuck Berry."

Domingo, though better known to television audiences for his participation in the Three Tenors specials, is also a conductor and opera director.

The gala was taped at the Kennedy Center Opera House on Dec. 3. Lansbury, who returned to her hotel around 2 a.m., was exhausted but delighted the next morning. After more than 60 years as an entertainer, four Tony Awards, three Academy Award nominations and 16 Emmys, she still was awestruck by this honor and its cere-

"It was a lovely mood," Lansbury says. "It was extraordinary. There was absolute mute acceptance. You don't say or do anything. You simply allow this glorious applause to wash over you like a wave. It's a very emotional thing, and I felt it was for all of my cononorees who were overwhelmed by the tremendous response from the audience. That in itself, that kind of applause, standing in the box with the president and his wife and daughter, was an extraordinary feeling far greater than any of us had experienced.

To have that absolute wall of exuberant enthusiasm and approbation is really a very singular sensation."

Each year, the board of trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts selects the honorees based on their contributions to American culture. The weekend-long gala included a State Department dinner hosted by Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, a White House reception hosted by President Clinton and the first lady, and a supper dance. While all of this was wonderful, according to Lansbury, the TV show also is terrific.

During the show, each honoree is cheered by his peers. For Lansbury's portion, Broadway stars Marin Mazzie (Kiss Me, Kate), Donna Murphy (The King and I) and Karen Ziemba (Contact) sing her hit numbers from Mame, Anyone Can Whistle and Dear World. Glenn Close, who makes a speech about Lansbury, tells the audience that a friend of hers is a stage manager on Broadway and that Lansbury's graciousness is well-known. When she begins a play, she makes it a point to meet each crew member.

Despite the many accolades she and her fellow honorees have earned over the years, Lansbury says this particular honor is so deeply meaningful because of its patriotic importance. "Being in our nation's capital is awe-inspiring in the first place, and one is inundated with the reminders of what the city and the White House represent. You just feel like American royalty out there.

SOAP TALK

Soap stars share holiday memories

It's a special time of year, and most of the soap opera sets are dark for at least two weeks during the holiday season. That gives daytime stars the chance to travel across the country, and sometimes around the world, to spend time with

Here, some favorite daytime stars share their special holiday gifts and "My funniest holiday memory took place on New Year's Eve," says Frances Reid (Alice Horton, Days of Our Lives). "I made pork loin and dropped it on the floor. I told no one, cleaned it up, and everyone said it was unusually good." "I love the holidays because it brings the family together," says Amber Tamblyn (Emily Quartermaine, General Hospital). "My favorite Christmas was when the whole family met at my grandfather's in Colorado years ago. Everyone from both sides of the family was

"The best gift I ever received was a big red bicycle when I was about 5 years old," says Kyle Lowder (Brady Black, Days). "I learned to ride that bike with-"One of our funniest holiday memories could have been tragic, but it turned out OK," says Patrika Darbo (Nancy Wesley, Days). "Our little dog Rocky got into a box of chocolate-covered cherries. It was 12 pieces, and he ate everything but the cherries. I guess he didn't like fruit, and luckily the choco-

Erin Hershey (Alison Barrington, Port Charles) says, "It's a family tradition on Christmas Eve for my grandma, mom, sister and I to make a Scandinavian food called lefsa. It takes hours to prepare, and then we sit down at night as a family to enjoy our hard work. My grandma reads the Christmas story from the Bible. She knows it by heart but leaves
