Downtown Stroller

After listening to the Music Study club's piano ensemble yesterday afternoon, it is our opinion that the ladies ought to really charge for such a program. It would be well worth it.

Out early Monday morning was FORTILLA JENSON, the new home demonstration agent, who was enroute to a postoffice for the mail. She had on a blue skirt with a red jacket and looked awfully pretty.

Imagine being able to wind you relook just once a year! WILLIAM CUSHING has a clock he has had for about 45 years, one of those under a glass bell, and he winds it once a year, on his birthday anniversary. It will run for about 480 days but to keep it going good, he winds it every 365 days. He won the clock on a lucky ticket long ago and the clock keeps perfect time still.

Girl Scout troop leaders, assistants and committee members have quite a schedule ahead of them this week. Beginning this morning a five-day school conducted by LUCILLE SKEWES, field representative, will teach them the vital points in scouting.

Note to everybody — don't forget to register today or tomorrow for sugar. That ration card looks like it might come in pretty handy for a bunch of reasons later on.

Girl Scout Leaders Begin School Today For Instruction

Classes for girl scout troop leaders, assistants and committees, taught by Lucille Skewes, field representative, were scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock this morning to last through Friday.

Classes will also be held from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock each evening during Miss Skewes' stay here in order to acquaint leaders and others with their duties as scout leaders.

A. & M. Mother's Club To Be Organized Here

All members of Texas A & M students and of ex-Aggies are invited to meet at the high school at 4 o'clock Tuesday, May 12th, in order to form a Texas A&M Mother's club, it was announced today.

National Congress Of P-T Hears Talk On Child Labor And The War

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
SAN ANTONIO, May 4 (AP) —

The urgency of the war effort must not be used as an excuse to lower existing standards for child labor, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers was warned today by its president.

Mrs. William Kietzer of Portland, Ore., in her convention report declared "the large increase in the number of labor permits that have been issued to minors should give us pause."

"In many states this increase has been over 300 per cent. Great pressure for the use of child labor is coming from industrial agriculture. This is not to be confused with work on family farms."

"We must be certain that the adult labor pool has been exhausted and that racial discrimination is not holding out of the market a large force of available adult labor."

Demanding that there be no acceleration of elementary education, such as has been done in many colleges and universities, Mrs. Kietzer said:

"We may be much too optimistic about the time schedule of this war. The boys and girls in school today may be the doctors, nurses, engineers, chemists and physicists whose skill will take us through to final victory. If this is so, then the schoolroom is the most important workshop in our production effort."

Citing the fact that England's juvenile delinquency rate rose under war conditions, she said there were evidences that the same situation was obtaining in this country, and urged the delegates to keep youth employed in wholesome occupations and diversions.

Howard county farmers are reading the USDA "War Board News," appearing in the Daily and Weekly Herald and the Weekly News, a survey shows.

County agent O. P. Griffin questioned 57 farmers on the subject and found the following results: 29 read it all the time, 16 sometimes, and 13 have read none.

Floral Designing A Specialty Of Leon's

Growing up in a florist shop can be paid to be literally true about Leon Lederman, owner and manager of Leon's Flowers, 316 Runnels, who some six months ago opened his shop here.

Since his father was in the landscaping business in Dallas, Lederman helped before and after school and during summers. He learned about flowers right along with growing up.

Then 18 years ago, he went into the cut-flower end of the business.

His experience includes being a designer for Burton Orchids and Flowers in Dallas where he spent four years, and being manager of the Texas Seed and Plant company in Dallas for 3 1/2 years where he also had charge of the green house.

From Dallas he went to Commerce where he owned the Commerce Floral company for a year and a half and then to Greenville where he took charge of the E. D. Barlow green house for eight

B'Spring Auto Parts-Glass In New Home

With services to match his confidence in the future of Big Spring, W. L. Meier has opened his new Big Spring Auto Parts and Glass Co., at 608 E. 3rd street.

Though the building which houses his stock and much of the fixtures are new, Meier is no newcomer to Big Spring for he came here in 1935 from Lubbock to open the Big Spring Wrecking Company. However, he has replaced this service with a more complete parts line and accessories together with glass cutting for almost any purpose.

In addition, the company now is soon to feature a modern mirror plant which will enable Meier to silver mirrors to meet any specification.

The parts line includes those of almost all standard makes of automobiles along with a complete line of used parts. When he converted his wrecking concern, Meier saved his best used parts and converted the others into scrap metal for national defense.

Also handled by the company are a line of accessories. Generator work is performed and general repairs and mechanical work are effected.

A specialty is the glass department, where equipment is combined with proven skill in cutting the material to any size or design. This frequently means he furnishes glass tops for oddly shaped tables.

Auto glass is furnished in either the safety or the regular glass. However, more and more glass requirements are tending to the safety type, which once was a

AT END OF HIS ROPE?—A certain A. Hitler is at the end of rope the cowboy holds, in this wood carving that has place of honor on the desk of Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones.

THERE'LL BE RESIDENTS BY AND BY—A soldier stands guard at the enemy alien concentration camp at Fort Devens, Massachusetts, where adult males considered dangerous to nation's security are to be "guests" of Uncle Sam—for the duration. Camp, a quarter mile long and eighth of a mile wide, has about 270 tents, each with accommodations for six men. Long cement buildings are for cooking and hospital use. Lookout towers and floodlighting are planned. Two rows of barbed wire enclose camp.

SUIT-SHAPE—Inventor, Thomas Metcalfe, a Briton, wears a bright yellow shipwreck suit which, he claims, might save lives. It's of rubberized material conspicuous to rescuing craft.

QUEEN—Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, a war exile in London, recently broadcast to her people, whether exiled or Axis-dominated, saying that thousands of Dutch sailors who escaped from Dutch East Indies would re-form a Netherlands fleet.

SOLDIER SLUGGER—Some of his buddies hang over the fence to talk with Hank Greenberg, former Detroit Tiger's slugger who's now a sergeant in the air corps at Tampa, Fla., during a game between Camp MacDill Fliers vs. Tampa U.

IN-LAW—David Bowes-Lyon, 31, brother of Queen Elizabeth of England, has arrived in Washington, D. C., where he'll serve as a representative of the British ministry of economic warfare. He's a Scot with wide experience in field of economics.

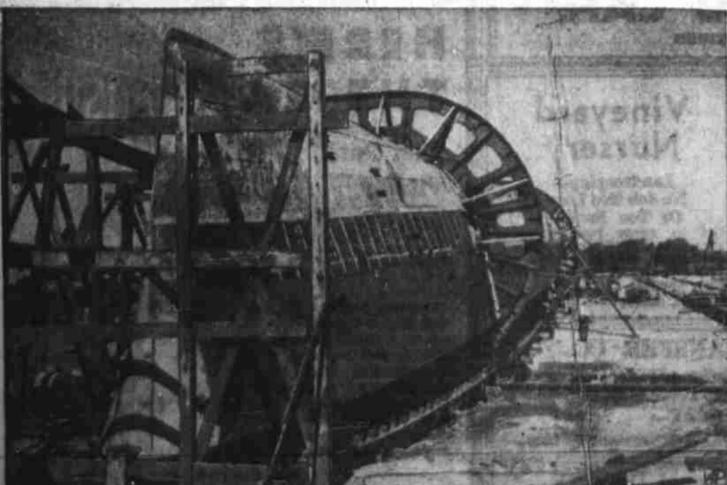

JUST IMAGINE—How the attention of Johnny Puleo can wander down the fairway when shapely Audrey Korn is at the left is just one of those mysteries of Hollywood, where they both appeared for a golf match—Audrey as a caddy, oh yeah? The match, between 4'5" Puleo and 7'4" Lockhard Martin, was staged over the Rancho Country club course.

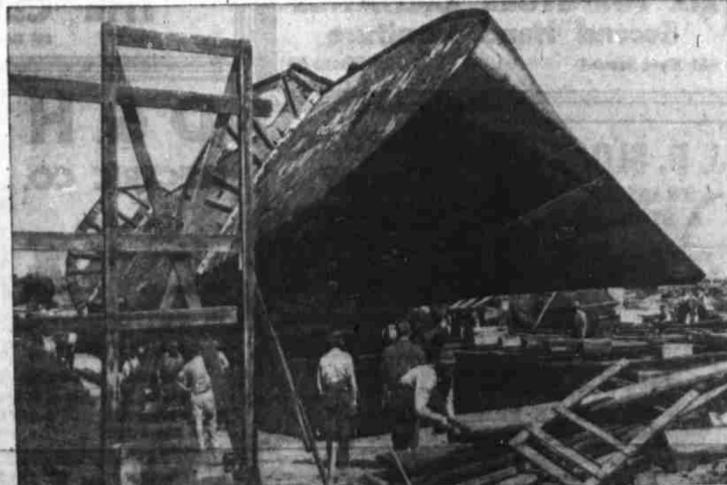

THOSE OPEN SPACES—Pulling strings is a matter of life or death now, for E. D. Griffin, seaman first class, U.S. navy, must release the parachute that will drop him to earth gradually. He has just jumped from a training plane at the Corpus Christi, Tex., naval air station, as part of his final examination. His home is in Oakland Park, Fla.

STINGERS OF UNCLE SAM'S NAVY—Long rakish lines of the navy's patrol torpedo (PT) boats appear in view taken while these units of fierce-stinging "mosquito fleet" were maneuvering off Panama, where they're helping guard the Canal.

BOTTOMS UP FOR A SUB CHASER—Those 173-foot subchasers being turned out at the rate of one a week by Defoe Shipbuilding Co. in Bay City, Mich., start life with their hulls being built upside down—a reversal of shipyard procedure. Note the wheels.

NOW FOR THE ROLL-OVER—To right the upside-down hull, it is rolled over on slightly eccentric wheels with one flat side, the wheels moving on a heavy steel track. Defoe engineers say they've cut construction time from six weeks to one week.

BOTTOMS DOWN—Upright, the subchaser being built by Defoe at Bay City, Mich., is ready for its prefabricated superstructure. These boats are for navy's inshore patrol. A launching table lowers the boat finally into the water.

Seven Champions To Defend Titles In S'west Tourney

DALLAS, May 4 (AP)—At least seven champions will defend their laurels here this weekend in the annual Southwest Conference meet with three new records likely to be posted in track and field.

The program opens Thursday with the golf and tennis tournaments, while track begins Friday. Only one defending champion returns in tennis, Jack Rodgers of Rice, who holds the singles crown and who is an overwhelming favorite to repeat.

Rodger's mate, Dick Harris, who worked with him to capture the doubles title last season, is gone. In golf the individual champion, Len Spitzer of Texas, also has finished his eligibility.

Returning in track are: Mac Umstadtt, Texas, half-mile; Harry Hafnerick, Texas, mile; David Small, Texas, pole vault; Roy Bueck, Texas A. and M., 120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles; Jim Deal, Rice, shot put; Stanley Spencer, Arkansas, two-mile. Umstadtt is holder of the conference 880-yard record at 1:53.8.

Harold Hall of Rice, who set a new record in the 440-yard dash last season with a time of 47.18, is back but probably won't run the quarter-mile, confining his work to 100 and 220-yard dashes and the relay.

The 220-YARD LOW HURDLES HIGH JUMP AND SHOT PUT ARE EVENTS IN WHICH RECORDS APPEAR IN CHIEF DANGER.

Sophomore Bill Cummins of Rice ran the low hurdles in 22.5 Saturday in a triangular meet with Texas A. and M. at Houston. That's a tenth of a second under Fred Wolcott's record at Rice.

Pete Watkins of A. and M. has done 6 feet 8 inches in the high jump this year, a quarter of an inch better than the conference mark of 6 feet 7 3/4 inches set by Henry Coffman of Rice last year.

Jack Wilson of Baylor has pushed the shot 50 feet, just 2 1/4 inches under the record made by Ronk Irwin of Texas A. and M. in 1934.

The meet really started off Saturday with the fencing tournament, Texas winning two out of four titles. Texas took the foil team championship and Mike Connally of Texas won the individual epee crown. Walter Washburn of Southern Methodist captured the singles foil title.

Faculty representatives of the conference will meet Friday night and Saturday morning, while coaches, athletic directors and business managers hold their spring session Saturday morning. Up for discussion are:

1. Designation of the football champion for the Cotton Bowl.
2. Extension of football schedules to permit games with service teams.
3. Participation of freshmen in varsity athletics.

Local Riders Beat Lamesa

The Big Spring polo team, taking up another win Sunday, chalked the long end of a free scoring play with a group of Lamesa riders.

The score was 12 to 8, with the locals being aided in their tallies by Gus White, Sr., who replaced little Gus in the lineup, and Eric Barron, who played part time. M. H. Bennett, Rip Smith, Lloyd Wasson and Lewis Rex all saw action.

Riding for Lamesa were Walter Lawrence, Bryan Fulkerson, Elmo Smith, and John Dublin of Midland.

Bennett and his crew have been invited to Lubbock next Sunday, to play in a contest dedicating a new Lubbock field. They have not yet definitely accepted.

Hornsby Has Stuff For Cats' Win

HOUSTON, May 4 (AP)—Middle-aged Rogers Hornsby, who was a terror in the National league as a player a generation ago, proved that there was life in the old body yet by smashing out a ninth-inning single to lead his Port-Worth Cats to a 3-1 victory over Houston in the second game of a Texas league doubleheader yesterday.

The Rajah, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals until his penchant for betting on the horses got him in trouble with the Cardinal management a few years back, was struck out twice and lined once to left field.

Finding runners on second and third in the second extra inning of the abbreviated afterpiece, he rifled a single to left field off Eldred Byerly, young right hander, and brought in two runs to clinch the game as he celebrates his return to active duty.

When Hornsby was made manager of the Cats it wasn't expected that he would be anything but a bench manager. The Rajah, however, couldn't resist the temptation to get in the thick of the fray once more. He assigned himself to the second base position.

In the first game, with Hornsby out of the lineup, the Cats lost 16 to 2.

There were violent arguments at almost every turn, with the result that no less than five men, including both managers, were chased from the field.

Extra base hits marked the wild program, which was stopped early by darkness with the second game going only five and a half innings.

Meanwhile, over the junior circuit, Sunday brought a halt to the Cleveland Indians' winning streak, the Boston Red Sox cashing in on breaks to register an 8 to 4 victory. The Cleveland had taken 13 in a row before taking the licking.

Rudy York's sixth and seventh home runs of the season carried the Detroit Tigers to an 8-7 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, but Phil Marchildon pitched a sparkling two-hitter in the nightcap to give the A's an even break, 1-0.

The New York Yankees snapped a deadlock with the Red Sox and moved to within a half game of the second-place Yankees by sweeping a bargain bill from the Chicago White Sox, 6-1 and 3-1.

The St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators divided their double bill, Washington taking the opener 9-8 on Stan Spence's two-run triple in the ninth and St. Louis coming back for a 5-1 decision in the second with the help of effective pitching by Al Hollingsworth.

Pittsburgh ran its winning streak to three by downing Boston 6-3 in the first game behind the seven-hit pitching of Max Butcher, but the Braves came back with a 14-hit attack to square accounts, 12-3.

The New York Giants knocked Bucky Walters out of the box in the second inning and went on to trip the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4, as Bob Carpenter went all the way.

At Chicago, the Cubs downed the Philadelphia Phils, 9-1, but the Phils took the second game, 8-1.

Third Round Is Completed In Club Tourney

Third round of play in the city service club golf tournament was scheduled for completion Sunday, but not all scores have been reported yet.

Muny Course Manager Harold Akey urged all golfers to turn in their third round scores to their team captains so that a final accounting of the scores might be made.

He indicated that a new series of matches between service club duffers might begin soon.

Traps Are Mental Hazards, So Golf Duffer Must Beat Fear

By GENE SARAZEN
Former National Open Champion (Wide World Features)

The average golf duffer is scared to death of sand. Put him in a trap and you can generally bet he'll use up two or three shots getting out.

Furthermore, his only thought is concerned with getting out. He isn't thinking about landing close to the pin and getting down in one putt.

So, my suggestion to the great army of 100-plus golfers is to get acquainted with the sand traps—in practice sessions.

Even the pros were afraid of sand a few years ago but now, with a sand wedge in their bag, traps hold no fear for them. And it should be the same with duffers. It's simple to play a ball out of a trap with a wedge. . . . Take a full swing, hit an inch or so behind the ball and follow through. After you've practiced awhile you will learn just how much sand to take for the distance you have to cover.

Pros have such confidence in traps now that they are disappointed if they don't knock the ball out within six feet of the hole. Practice will enable the duffer to put the ball on the green, too, near the hole more often than he imagines.

So get yourself a wedge and find a trap. You'll soon be coming out consistently with your first shot. And I'll guarantee you'll shave strokes off your score.

Gene Sarazen . . . set plenty of practice in traps.

Preakness Gets Added Interest By Derby Upsets

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Because several unexpected things happened in the Kentucky Derby, the 32nd running of the Preakness at ancient Pimlico Saturday shapes up as a pretty fair race.

First of the unexpected in the Churchill Downs classic was the victory of Shut Out. The last son of the great Equilope from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable was just going out for the exercise, leaving the task of winning the $64,225 purse to his more famous stablemate, Devil Diver.

At least, that was the way most of the experts and laymen figured it.

The second unexpected was Al-sab.

He had not shown enough to indicate he even would be in the money. Al Sabath's bargain colt was hit as he came out of the gate, ran into a couple of blind switches going around the first turn and then Basil James piloting him in and out of the pack, he really turned on the steam from the half-mile post on to and up second.

Then there was Requested, Ben Whitaker's Texas-owned, chestnut, the biggest disappointment of the Derby after being back into second choice.

Requested outran only one horse in the field of 15 but Blackie McCool, his trainer, said he had a rough trip and refused to extend himself.

The Greentree pair, Al-sab and Requested, along with Mrs. Barclay Douglas' Fair Call, William Woodard's Apache, Valinda Orphan and Hollywood and possibly William DuPonts Jr.'s Fairy Manah are headed for Pimlico.

The mile and three sixteenths of the Preakness should be right down Valinda Orphan's alley but it also suits Warren Wright's Sun Again.

Brother Murrill, C. U., won the event from Brother Harold, Denver, in 4:44. They were the only starters.

Aggies Out To Grab S'west Baseball Title

By the Associated Press

Those run-happy Texas Aggies, the end of their Southwest conference baseball campaign just one week away, are cocked and primed to knock Texas' Longhorns from the pedestal.

Six years ago A. and M. won the diamond crown, halting only temporarily the monopoly Texas has held in conference history. Now the Aggies are in a fine position to again stop the Texas march.

The teams clash at Austin Friday and Saturday and A. and M. can clinch a tie for the championship by splitting the series, and win it by taking both games.

Four other games are on the conference schedule this week. The championship rests between A. and M. and Texas but Baylor might figure in the final outcome because the Bears play Texas at Austin tomorrow and by winning could just about hand the title to A. and M.

Rice meets Southern Methodist at Dallas Thursday and clashes with Texas Christian at Fort Worth Friday and Saturday.

The standing:

Texas A. & M.	11	2	.846
Texas	8	2	.800
So. Methodist	6	7	.462

Southwest Conference May Force Champion To Play In Cotton Bowl

DALLAS, May 4 (AP)—The war may be a major reason for the Cotton Bowl becoming a "closed shop."

Southwest conference fathers meet here this weekend and one of the topics high on the agenda is the question of whether the football champion is to be handed to the Dallas Jan. 1 gridiron classic without further ado.

Five conference members have favored putting the champion in the Cotton Bowl as the best team each year. Texas and Texas A. and M. however, never would commit themselves to such a plan.

But now a multiplicity of reasons, not the least important being the war, are expected to bring these two schools into line.

The Rose Bowl has been the chief lure but the Aggies have been passed up several times and Texas

Local Bowlers Share In State Tourney Prizes

Big Spring bowlers shared nicely in awards at the Texas State Tenpin bowling tournament which closed at San Antonio Sunday, running up enough standings to take about $200 in the cash distribution.

The Coaden begiers copped second place in Class B team events, Douglass and Brimberry took third in Class B doubles, and Richards and Howze took seventh place.

H. L. Buckner, with Vic Biggers of San Antonio, annexed third in Class A doubles, with a score of 1227, while Buckner ranked third in Class A all-events, with an 1801.

Wheeler won a tenth place ranking in A singles, while Jake Douglass copped second in Class B all-events.

The Douglass hotel team did not compete in the state tourney as a unit but took two match games in San Antonio Sunday.

SAN ANTONIO, May 4 (AP)—The Class A doubles event in the Texas State Tenpin bowling tournament was won by Charley Treuter and E. J. Kychorn, both of San Antonio, at the concluding session last night when they turned in a score of 1258.

Second place went to Malsbury and Blackberry of Wichita Falls with 1333, and Vic Biggers of San Antonio and H. L. Buckner of Big Spring were third with 1227.

First honors in the Class A all-events were taken by Dick Bryant of Houston with 1833; R. Gartner of Houston was second with 1824 and H. L. Buckner of Big Spring third with 1801.

E. Bagnaud and R. Funderbuck, of Fort Arthur, were first in the Class C doubles with 1131. Class C all-events went to F. Henderson of Austin 1650.

Improving Security Program First Task

President Roosevelt is working on a huge anti-inflationary program which will include more taxes. Some of his advisers would like him to recommend payroll taxes for compulsory disability and hospital insurance. But this would be much more than emergency taxes; it would launch a vast social experiment. Both of these social insurances are health insurance. Congress has shown an unmistakable lack of interest in compulsory health insurance. Congress should not be asked to adopt pieces of the system in the guise of war finance.

Once adopted, health insurance would become permanent. That is its history in European countries. Most of the new emergency taxes, it is to be hoped, will eventually be dropped, when the emergency is over. The country ought not to be rushed into taking on a new type of social insurance which will not be dropped.

Health insurance taxes could probably provide little, if anything at all, toward financing the war. Hospitalization has proved costly in the health insurance countries. Disability insurance means a partial payment of wages to workers rendered incapable by illness. The bill would be big—much bigger, say some eminent medical authorities, than the official estimates.

These figure the ultimate cost of total disability insurance alone at from $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 a year. Temporary disability payments would call for several more hundreds of millions.

Good guidance on social security taxes was recently voiced by the American Federation of Labor. In a war tax program it drew up, the A. F. of L. declared that payroll taxes—the standard way of collecting for social insurance—should be confined to social security purposes. If social security taxes were increased, the A. F. of L. held that payments should be raised and widened accordingly.

The first need of social insurance in the United States is to improve what is already in effect. This is no time to gloss over deficiencies in existing insurance by taking on more for which there is no general public demand.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds— Six Gals On One Set Doesn't Mean Bloodshed

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — "You must come over," said Lynn Bari, "the day all of us girls are on the set together. It will be sweet."

Miss Bari was in her dressing room on the set of "Orchestra Wives," doing nothing at the moment but on call, as she said, to "jeer at Linda Darnell—poor Linda. I'm always leering at her."

Miss Bari is one of six girls in the cast. Besides Linda, there are also Carole Landis, Virginia Gilmore, Mary Beth Hughes and Marjorie Hutton, the blonde vocalist from Glenn Miller's band—the outfit in which George Montgomery, the handsome horn-tooter, and Cesar Romero, the piano-playing fool, pursue their fictional musical careers.

"It will be very sweet," said Miss Bari, "when we girls get together." Miss Bari, in high good humor, smiled sweetly and gently all her throat with a gesture.

"But you all have too much respect for each other's art." It was suggested, "to start anything."

"Of course," said Miss Bari. "Of course!"

So it should be sweet, just as she said, but it probably won't. These mixings of feminine talent and temperament, in promise so rich in the titillating tales on which Hollywood thrives, seldom produce anything more exciting than occasional arched brows, bristlings, excessive politeness and more or less good-humored gags.

After "The Women" brought Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell and Joan Fontaine together with no serious casualties (barring figurative frostbite) the good old claw-and-tooth days of hair-pulling seemed definite.

Fight fans were hopeful when Alice Faye, Constance Bennett, Jape Wyman and Nancy Kelly were embroiled in "Tallspin," but the only real damage done was to those unfortunates who saw the picture.

"Ladies in Love," with C. Bennett, Janet Gaynor, Loretta Young and the redoubtable Simone Simon (promised even better, but added little to feminine fight history. Simone, in those days before her reformation, was pestiferous, and there were a few sparks but not enough to set the stage on fire.

The sad fact, for fight lovers, is that production schedules don't allow much time for temperament, and even the best established star had better think twice before tossing a right hook or a monkey-wrench into the works.

While we talked with Miss Bari, Glenn Miller and band, with Montgomery and Romero, went through rehearsals on their "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" number. Mr. Miller, a studious and hard-working young man, is the idol of millions of swinging fanatics, and there can be no doubt that he has something—something more than those frightful, horrendous combinations of weird noises his merry men call music.

I shall be in hiding when you read this. I leave behind a signed confession that I am out of step, that I belong to the great unwashed, that my appreciation of "modern music" is nil. But you know what it sounded like to me? It sounded like sour-note Montgomery playing ALL the instruments.

No Use For Bed 'Til Japs Licked

EVANSTON, Ill., May 4 (AP) — Stacked on the lawn of a large house for the salvage campaign was a pile of odds and ends, and beside it an iron cot, complete with mattress and pillows. Tied to the headboard of the cot was this placard:

"No more naps till we beat the Japs."

Bronc Rider Gets Thrown, Kicked

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 4 (AP) — Jack Cooper national champion bronco-buster from Newhall, Calif., was thrown from a horse and kicked in the face during a rodeo at Lakeside yesterday.

He suffered a fractured jaw, head injuries and possible internal injuries.

to naturalness.

"The cause of the Fatherland," he explained coolly. "We need your help."

"What are you trying to tell me?" she demanded.

"That while I dislike immensely having to inconvenience you like this—" he shrugged, glanced around the dismal room. "Still—war is war and duty is duty."

"I still do not understand."

Now his smile bared his even white teeth. "Your father is the controlling figure in an industry which interests us very much—the making of gun-powder—dynamite. At the moment we are most interested in the shipment of explosives he is loading. A shipment destined, we understand, for China, and leaving the harbor sometime before midnight tonight."

Like pieces from a jig-saw puzzle, remembered incidents began fitting together, to make a picture in Stephanie's mind. Henri's great interest in her father, in the powder plant at Titan, his increased "devotion" to Vicky involving his constant visits to the big old Merrill home. Liu's sudden appearance out of the parlor only last evening.

"We are concerned about that ship, Stephanie," he went on smoothly. "We are determined it shall not leave this harbor."

"And what's to stop it?" she demanded, coolly, while inside her calm smashed all to pieces.

He looked at her a moment, that shaky smile still curving his thin lips. "You are."

Stephanie stared at him, incredulous. "I am!"

Man About Manhattan— Energy Has Limits Even For Cantor And Jolson

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK — Idea Dept: you can't use it all up, and have any left . . . Energy, I mean . . . Take Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor . . . He worked night and day . . . His show became the hit of Broadway . . . Yet, when it was at its peak, Jolson had to quit . . . Same with Cantor, a whirling dervish type of guy who can't sit still . . . A tremendous worker . . . His "Banjo Eyes" was a great hit . . . But the other night Eddie had to quit, and go to the hospital for a rest . . . Somebody ought to show those guys how to ration their energy.

Success Dept.: For years Paul Mason was a vocalist with Tommy Dorsey's band . . . His only hobby was playing with watches . . . The insides of watches fascinated him . . . If one of the boys in the band broke his watch, Paul fixed it . . . He got pretty good at fixing watches . . . One day Paul quit . . . And went down to a town in West Virginia. TWISTER HITS
SAN ANTONIO, May 4 (AP)—A small twister swooped down on a farm eight miles south of San Antonio, hurled a barn a quarter of a mile and did other damage estimated at $2,500 yesterday afternoon. No loss of life nor injuries were reported.

SHIP LAUNCHED
BEAUMONT, May 4 (AP)—The CIA all-welded cargo ship—the sixth of its kind to be launched here—slid down the ways yesterday. The motor vessel was christened Cape Porpoise. Mrs. A. T. Stevens, wife of a yard worker and mother of a youth killed at Pearl Harbor, was sponsor.

Washington Daybook— People Send Strange Things To President

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—People send all kinds of things to President Roosevelt—jars of peaches, stamps or ship models for his collections, gadgets for his desk—but one of the most unusual was a 15 by 10 1/2 foot rug.

Woven into it in bright red letters were the words "Remember Pearl Harbor."

It was no ordinary rug—no rag or string mat. It was a Persian rug. The president turned it over to an auction house to be sold and the money to be donated to the Treasury for the war effort. A rug expert said it probably cost $1,000.

What was significant about the gift was that the sender didn't sign his name to the accompanying letter. He identified himself only as an Armenian who landed in America some years ago with only $25. This is what his letter said:

"I have prospered here, although in a modest way. Above all I have enjoyed a way of life which I had never known before. I found tolerance and freedom.

"It is my gratitude for these blessings which makes me want to do something toward the winning of our war. I have only a limited amount of cash, but I hope that the rug which I am donating can be offered for sale and the proceeds turned over to the nation's war chest."

The secretary of one of our mid-western senators is quite a fellow to be tinkering around the house, putting up shelves and what-not. The other day he needed a steel bit.

The hardware clerk explained that tools were not too plentiful, that whether he could have the bit depended on what he wanted it for.

To this day, the senatorial secretary couldn't tell you what prompted him to say it, but he blurted out: "I want to bore a hole in the fence at Griffith Stadium" (home field of the Washington Senators ball club).

The clerk, apparently dazed at this stroke of wit, wrapped it up. The secretary, equally dazed at his own genius, walked out with it.

The Indian Bureau has an odd rule. Employees must take 15 minutes leave (without pay) when they want to get a drink of water . . . Employees of no other agency are so penalized . . . Most fashionable job in Washington these days is "liaison man." War agencies, and old-line offices as well, have taken to detaching employees to other offices just to find out what they are doing . . .

The government is taking the initiative in the salary-allotment plan for selling war bonds . . . The President has appointed Rear Admiral Charles Conrad to promote the plan among government employees . . .

Secret Orders BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Henri's True Colors

For a long time Stephanie pushed vainly against the heavy sleep that weighted her eyelids. As in a nightmare, she seemed to be plowing through sucking quicksands threatening to drag her back into unconsciousness. And the pain in her head was like a tight steel band.

When finally she forced her eyes open, she lay staring at the four grey walls of a tiny room and trying to force her trudging mind to tell her where she was. When her wits finally fell into rank, she sat up with a jerk. And then moaned aloud as a sharp pain stabbed behind her eyes.

Fingers pressed against her throbbing temples, she looked around her. A narrow iron cot covered with a thin, grimy blanket. One shallow window high in the narrow end of the room. A feeble shaft of light showing cement walls and floor. A trickle of water standing around the rusty mouth of a drain in the center of the floor.

Stephanie shuddered. Slowly, memory caught up with her. It was daylight now. She crossed to the window that was shoulder high. She'd been in this grisly place since about midnight! Who? Why?

The window showed her nothing but an alley, deserted except for a row of garbage cans. Her panic mounting with her returning wits, she raced to the door. Locked. Then, even as a scream trembled on her lips, she caught the sound of voices in the next room. Ear pressed to the narrow crack, she tried to hear what they said.

For a moment, only unintelligible sounds. Then gradually words stood out from the murmur. Gut-tural, thick speech that sounded like German.

She listened, straining every nerve, and some of her college German stood her in good stead now. Four different voices she distinguished and now and then she caught a word. They were discussing going somewhere in a beat. Arguing about it hotly.

Quick, angry retorts came so fast that, although the voices were raised now, the words came too quickly for Stephanie's faltering knowledge of the language. "Frau!" she heard them say often. That probably referred to herself, she realized apprehensively.

Henri

The voices subsided after awhile and she caught the sound of corks popping, the clink of glasses, then "Hell Miller!"

Prisoner of enemy aliens, Stephanie realized with cold horror, and as sound of raucous laughter burst in the next room, probably drunken captors at that! There must be a way out of here. There had to be!

She tried the window again. Bolted and barred by the intricate old-fashioned iron work on the outside, it offered no chance whatever. And the single door opening directly into the room where her four jailers quarreled noisily now. Terrified, she went back to the door. But, although she could still hear them talking, she could translate none of it. For what seemed hours, she paced the narrow prison fighting panic with every shred of courage she could muster. She mustn't let hysteria get the upper hand now.

She tried to rest once, forced herself to stretch out on the grimy cot. But her tortured nerves rebelled. It was easier when she stood peering out the window, or face pressed against the door jam.

And finally her vigilance was rewarded. The sound of a door opening in the next room. The harsh grating of chairs pushed back, the shuffle of feet. Then a new voice speaking—smooth, rapid German.

Stephanie's heart leapt to her throat. That new voice—so very familiar. She was sure of it even before she murmured, soundlessly, "That's Henri de la Pagerie!"

After the first moment, she wondered why she was not thrilled. Because of course this meant that Henri had located her kidnappers, come to rescue her. Or didn't? Liu's frightened warning of last evening came blazing back into her mind. Could this be the same hotel where Liu had said she saw Henri?

She hadn't long to entertain this ragged army of new fears before she heard steps crossing the room, coming closer to the door where she stood. She stepped back as a key grated in the lock, the door was jerked open.

It was Henri all right. Even in the half light she recognized him instantly. Even though, she saw instantly, this was a Henri—she had never seen before.

"Stephanie, my dear, are you all right?"

His voice sounded the same as always. Still, Stephanie sensed a strange difference in him. "Yes, I'm not hurt, at least."

He closed the door behind him, carefully. "And you will be in no serious danger," he hesitated, smiled, "if you do as you are told."

Instantly Stephanie's suspicions sounded an alert. "What do you mean?"

"It is rather a long story, my dear. Suppose we sit down?"

"Thank you, I'll stand if you don't mind."

The "New Order"

Deliberately, he laid his pearl grey hat, gloves on the cot, took out his cigarette case. "Smoke?"

"No thanks," and watched him with mounting terror. A new cruelty was in his face—or perhaps she was only now seeing something that had been there all the time.

"I suppose you are wondering why you are here?"

"Naturally," He bowed slightly. "We decided that you could contribute something to the cause."

"Cause?" forcing her voice down

Army Opposes Limiting Of Commissions

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Faced with a growing shortage of officers for the burgeoning army, the war department was reported today to be bringing heavy pressure to bear against legislation that would halt the issuance of "quickie" commissions to civilians.

The proposal was slated to go before the house on Wednesday in the form of an amendment by Rep. Faddis (D-Pa.) to a senate-approved bill doubling the $21 monthly pay of army "buck" privates and granting increases to other ratings up to and including second lieutenants.

One member of the senate military committee who asked not to be quoted by name said war department officials had expressed the opinion that adoption of the Faddis amendment would hamper rapid expansion of the army by making it impossible to release trained officers for field duty and replace them in administrative posts with qualified civilians.

Faddis charged that favoritism had been shown in some instances and that high ranking commissions had been given to men who lacked the necessary qualifications and experience.

This senator said, however, that he was convinced that such instances were exceptional, adding there was no doubt that the army needed all of the officers it could get as quickly as it could get them.

Aside from the Faddis proposal, little controversy was expected in the house over the pay increase bill. Trouble was predicted, however, for two other important military measures, one to establish women's branches of the army, navy and marines and the other to provide family allowance payments for dependents of drafted men.

War Spending Already Equals Total For The Last Conflict

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Fiscal officials disclosed today that the United States already has paid out in cash for this war as much as it spent during World War I.

The cost of the first World War to the United States from 1917 until the peace treaty was ratified in 1921 was $28,720,000,000, including loans to the allies.

Since July 1, 1940, when this country started preparing for the present conflict, the government has paid out approximately $26,000,000,000 for war purposes. The treasury paid out $24,500,000,000 and the RFC and other corporations doing defense work spent about $1,500,000,000 cash.

With spending running over $5,000,000,000 a month, moreover, it won't be long before costs of World War II exceed the aggregate cost of the last war, including expenditures not only up the peace treaty but also for pensions, compensation, bonuses and other purposes since. Counting these extras, the first World War cost about $45,000,000,000.

The programmed expenditures for this war now exceed $160,000,000,000, but it may take a couple of years to pay that much out. The budget bureau figures war costs in the coming fiscal year (starting July 1) at $70,000,000,000. The current year's war bill will be $28,000,000,000, while the first year of preparedness, from July 1, 1940 through June 30, 1941, cost $6,407,929,282.

By this time next year, World War II costs will be greater than all American wars put together. Counting pensions and similar after payments, the previous wars cost something over $62,000,000,000.

The Swan magazine advertising will appear in publications with circulation of over 74 million, covering every single family in the country twice over. At home with his parents for a 10-day furlough is First Lieut. Clifford J. Clyburn of Knott, who is with the 142nd infantry at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Twenty-three years old, Lieutenant Clyburn was born and reared in Jones county, was graduated from Hawley high school and Draughon's Business college in Abilene and from John Tarleton.

He joined the National Guard in Abilene in 1937 and came up through the ranks. He was commissioned in October, 1940, and promoted to a first lieutenant in May of last year.

Shortly before the mobilization of guardsmen in 1940, he was transferred to Company E at Sweetwater and went with that unit to Camp Bowie. Lieutenant Clyburn was graduated from the infantry service school at Fort Benning, Ga., on Feb. 12.

Lamesa Awaits Final Word On Glider School

LAMESA, May 4 (Sp)—Status of a projected glider school for this city is relatively unchanged, it was reported here today.

John Wilson, LaPorte, Ill., CPT contractor and who operates a glider or soaring school near that point, is due back here the latter part of the week after a trip to Washington.

Lamesa has been given tentative approval as location of the glider school, which requires three tracts of land—one section layout and two half-section parcels. Cost of the project would be about $200,000 at the outset and would accommodate around 120 students and 80 other personnel. Wilson thought it would be constantly expanded.

Brown County Reunion Held

LAMESA, May 4 (Sp)—Former residents of Brown county staged their second annual reunion at the city park here Sunday with festivities that attracted more than three score persons.

Next year's convales will be staged in the city park at Big Spring, it was voted.

Elected president of the reunion group was C. D. Applegate, Lamesa. George Small, Tahoka, was chosen as vice-president, and Mrs. J. E. Smith, Knott, as secretary.

The reunion's second convention showed a healthy increase in attendance despite the transportation pinch occasioned by rubber rationing.

Air War

The alarms might have been caused by British planes scouting for information on the location of French fleet units which, if they fell into German hands, might upset the whole lineup of naval power in the Mediterranean or even the Atlantic.

German planes also were in operation over the Strait of Dover by daylight. Six fighter planes bombed and machine-gunned a town on the southeast coast of England after noon, causing casualties and hitting a number of buildings.

From the Russian front the Germans, still unable or unable to get their offensive into motion, reported that Russian attacks in Lapland, on the Murmansk front, and near Lake Ilmen south of Leningrad were repulsed and mentioned only local German offensive operations on the central front before Moscow.

A Berlin broadcast quoted a German military spokesman as saying that, although fighting was lively on the northern front, swampy terrain made operations difficult. "German soldiers who forced their way through this country often sank into the mud right up to their shoulders," he said.

Governor Urges Conservation Of Waste Materials

AUSTIN, May 4 (AP)—Conservation of waste materials, especially iron, steel, rubber, rags and paper, is essential to an early triumph over the axis powers, Governor Coke Stevenson declared today.

The governor, in his regular radio broadcast, asserted: "Most of us would like to return to our normal peace-time pursuits. In order to do this, it is incumbent on every citizen to assist the government in its war program.

"We may not like all the details of that program, but it is better to support it vigorously and get it over with. Let us buy all the war bonds and stamps we can possibly afford, and let us save waste materials for the government."

Garden City School System Rates High

Garden City schools came through with flying colors last week on the evaluative criteria required periodically by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

On the whole the schools were given an extraordinarily high ratings on most points, and in several instances the ratings of outside schoolmen serving on the evaluative committee considerably exceeded the rating made by Garden City school.

Dr. Doyle Jackson, professor of education at Texas Tech, served as head of the committee at request of J. W. O'Banion, representative of the SACS, and members of the faculties or heads of other schools in this area completed the committee.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Attempts to stretch the stock market rally to a 5-day affair were successful in part today but many leaders lost rising power after early firmness.

American Telephone bounced up briskly at the start, then reacted. Senior stocks in the utility section jumped 1 to 4 points or so on margin dealings but advances generally were in negligible fractions. Trends were irregularly higher in the final hour.

Among power and light company preferreds given a broad push in the forenoon were those of W T Penn Electric, North American, Columbia Gas and Public Service of N. J.

Axis Loses Million Tons Of Shipping

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 4 (AP)—The British officially announced today that 1,287,000 tons of axis merchant shipping had been sunk in the Mediterranean since Italy entered the war.

The latest foray against shipping in what Mussolini once called "mare nostrum" was made by RAF planes Saturday night. A RAF communiqué issued at Cairo said a direct hit had been scored.

Axis planes were over Alexandria at night, but night fighters guided by "electric eyes" shot down one Heinkel bomber and damaged others.

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—A dog-feeding dog will simply have to learn to use lemon instead of sugar.

"The dog is accustomed to sugar, the woman icily replied when asked if it couldn't get along without it.

Just as icily, the board said "No!"
