Old plow is part of tree

When some old equipment was moved recently on the LaVerne McMinn farm home, this old plow (patent date 1905) was discovered attached to the tree. Cynthia Streun, daughter of Mrs. McMinn, said the plow was put there in 1948. Her grandfather, W.P. McMinn, bought the plow from his father, William Polk McMinn, and was the first farmer in the county to pull a plow with a steam-powered engine. The farm, located 12 miles west on US-60 between Summerfield and Black, will have been in the McMinn family a century in four more years.

Sears Methodist officials to be here for barbecue

The annual King's Manor Founder's Day Barbecue Saturday will be highlighted by the introduction of officials of the home's new operating boards and a discussion of future plans.

The barbecue starts at 5 p.m. after a full day of activities, including a 5-K Run, 5-K Walk, Senior Mile, Golf Scramble, Craft and Bake Sale, and Quilt Auction. The barbecue program starts at 6:30 p.m., and the quilt auction will follow.

L. Reeder Huddleston, interim administrator of the facility, said board members from Sears Methodist Retirement System, Inc., will be introduced at the barbecue. In addition, directors of the Panhandle Corporation--the body that directly oversees King's Manor--will attend.

Admission to the barbecue is $10 a person or $30 for a family of four. Tickets are available at King's Manor or from any Founder's Board member. The menu includes barbecue (cooked over mesquite coals by Methodist men), beans, cole slaw, pickles and onions, Texas toast and fruit.

A hospitality reception will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday at King's Manor for registration in events and pick up of packets.

The schedule of events calls for check in and registration for the races at 7:30 a.m. Saturday at King's Manor. The races begin at 8:30 a.m. and awards will be presented immediately following the finish of the races.

The 18-hole Golf Scramble, with four-person teams, also begins at 7:30 a.m. with coffee and donuts served at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Tee time is 8 a.m. Lunch will be served after the tournament, from noon to 1 p.m.

The Craft and Bake Sale will be conducted all day at King's Manor.

All race participants will receive T-shirts, and all golf entrants will get a cap. Medals will go to the top three winners in each age division, male and female, in the 5-K Run. Medals go to the overall male and female for first, second and third in the 5-K Walk and Senior Mile.

Cash winnings of $500 will be awarded the winners of the Golf Scramble, and a $5,000 cash prize is offered for a hole-in-one on No. 6 during the tourney. Gift certificates will also be awarded for second and third places.

Entry fees for the races are $12, and the golf entry is $50. These entry fees include tickets to the barbecue. All proceeds will benefit King's Manor.

Registration forms for all events have been mailed out by King's Manor. For more information and/or registration, call Sherrie at King's Manor, 364-0661.

Temperature drop coming to area

By The Associated Press
There's a word mentioned in the forecast for West Texas for tonight and Friday that Texans haven't heard for a while.

Cooler.
That's what it's going to be in West Texas. Cooler. Readings will dip into the 50s before dawn Friday in the Panhandle.

There's no such luck for the rest of the state. Forecasts are calling for clear to partly cloudy skies, continued hot temperatures and widely scattered to scattered thunderstorms through Friday.

In West Texas, there is a chance of scattered thunderstorms from the eastern Panhandle through the Concho Valley tonight. Forecasters warned that some of the storms in the low rolling plains may reach severe levels.

In North Texas, there is a chance of showers and thunderstorms in west and central portions tonight and in western and northern sections on Friday.

In South Texas, there is a chance of some showers and thunderstorms, mainly along the coast.

Lows tonight will be in the 50s in the Panhandle and in the 60s and 70s elsewhere in West Texas, the 70s across North Texas and in the 70s and 80s in South Texas.

Highs Friday will be in the 80s in West Texas, ranging upward to near 105 in the Big Bend and in the 90s elsewhere.

State to shuffle funds to buy new textbooks

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas leaders plan to shift millions of dollars from other areas of the state budget to provide books for a new seventh grade science course and to provide some other updated textbooks.

The state fell about $100 million short of the money needed to buy updated textbooks in several planned subjects during this two-year budget period. Leaders intend to make up nearly $29 million of that.

The shortfall came because books purchased for the 1993-94 school year - including a big investment in new reading textbooks - ate up almost the entire two-year, $270 million appropriation from the Legislature.

The budget board said $28.8 million is needed to buy new textbooks in several other subjects designated as a priority by the State Board of Education. Those purchases would otherwise be delayed after the coming school year, including high school math and some seventh-grade science books.

The Legislative Budget Board - which includes Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, House Speaker Pete Laney, and other key lawmakers - was scheduled to meet Thursday to consider an $11.8 million transfer from the state Treasury's unclaimed money fund.

The unclaimed money comes from such sources as dormant bank accounts that have been turned over to the state. That money is due to revert to the state general revenue fund at the end of the year, said John O'Brien, assistant director of the budget board.

In addition, Gov. Ann Richards will approve a $17 million transfer in greater-than-expected Available School Fund money that is not earmarked for another purpose, said her spokesman, Bill Cryer.

Without state-paid updated books, students would continue to use their old books for another year unless school districts used local funds to buy new texts.

Part of the $28.8 million would provide seventh-grade students with individual science books for a new course.

Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno had said the state planned to buy just enough of the new science books to provide every classroom with a set, due to the money shortage. That means the students would not be able to take the books home every day, worrying some officials.

"It is of the utmost importance for schoolchildren to be able to take their textbooks home at night to study," Speaker Laney said.

Lt. Gov. Bullock said, "The budget board's action will reinforce the Legislature's commitment to public education."

The textbook funding shortfall came after a 1993 legislative session in which money was tight.

The cost of buying all the planned updated textbooks in this two-year budget period was about $370 million. But education officials scaled back their request for legislative funding because, Meno said, lawmakers couldn't afford that much.

Some books apparently would still be delayed under the budget board plan, such as health textbooks that drew controversy over sex education. The state has ordered publishers to make changes in those books.

The budget board said the $28.8 million would cover books from the State Board of Education's top priority list that can be delivered to students by this fall.

The State Board of Education is scheduled to take final action this week on new rules for adopting textbooks that are meant to prevent the state from falling short of money for planned purchases in the future.

Among other items, the rules would require education officials to determine how much they have to spend on textbooks before soliciting bids from publishers. In the past, the state has asked for bids without making budget projections, then asked the Legislature for funding after the bids came in.

12 firefighters perish when trapped by blaze

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - A swift wildfire whipped by high winds roared over a steep mountainside, trapping 50 firefighters. Twelve were killed and two were missing today in one of the country's deadliest such disasters.

The firefighters were trapped Wednesday about 7,000 feet up the rugged slope of Storm King Mountain, where the rough terrain left them no place to flee, said Garfield County Undersheriff Levy Burris.

The survivors escaped to burned-over ground where the fire could not take hold, then straggled out when the danger passed, Gov.

Roy Romer said at a news conference Wednesday night.

This morning, he said the initial count of 11 dead had risen to 12, and two firefighters were still missing. "The search will begin just as soon as daylight arrives," Romer said.

"It just reminds us all of the great tragedy that can occur when you're dealing with fire," he said.

He said the families of the firefighters had not been notified because the victims had not been positively identified.

Romer called for an investigation to determine why so many lives were lost. Weather forecasters had predicted high winds, but firefighters were left in the field.

Haitians have places to go despite U.S. policy change

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although the Clinton administration's latest Haiti policy blocks Haitian boat people from entering the United States, it will be relatively easy for them to gain entry to safe havens in Panama and other countries, U.S. officials say.

Haitians intercepted at sea will still be screened before being sent to safe haven camps, but they will not have to meet the "same sort of rigorous" standard - a well-founded fear of persecution - required for U.S. asylum, said one official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The Pentagon, meanwhile, is proceeding with contingency plans for an invasion of Haiti should economic sanctions fail to drive its military rulers from power. A four-ship amphibious group - with 2,000 Marines on board - sailed for Haiti on Wednesday to stand by for the possible evacuation of some 3,000 to 4,000 Americans living there.

Tuesday that safe haven would be granted only to those who could meet the "well-founded fear" standard required for U.S. asylum.

The administration's position as of early Wednesday was that boat people would be granted safe haven with "no questions asked" beyond stating a wish for protection, according to one State Department official.

But later in the day, two other officials said it had been decided some processing would be used - a liberalized version of the asylum screening, without the lengthy interviews that asylum applicants undergo.

The modification apparently was intended to partially answer critics who complained that a different standard was being used for Haitians, when refugees from other countries such as Rwanda and Bosnia can enter safe havens with no questions asked.

Randall Robinson, head of the lobbying group TransAfrica, said Wednesday that all Haitians picked up at sea should be granted passage to the safe haven in Panama. He said the administration was clouding the question of whether refugees would have to meet the same standard as for U.S. asylum.

The administration's explanation - on the one hand indicating use of the asylum standard and on the other suggesting a more liberal processing - amounted to "a nonsensical policy," Robinson said.

Pepper given prison term in plea bargain

A plea bargain agreement, the second between the Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney and a defendant, Donald Pepper, will send the 35-year-old, to state prison before he serves a sentence from a federal court conviction.

Pepper was indicted in Deaf Smith County for theft over $20,000 and two counts of theft over $750 but under $20,000. He was convicted in the U.S. District Court in Amarillo last December on several charges.

When he entered pleas of guilty on April 29 in 222nd District Court, the plea bargain specified that he serve state and federal sentences concurrently in a federal penal institution. Later, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul learned that the U.S. Marshals Service would not accept Pepper until he had served his state sentence.

In the court session Wednesday, Judge David Wesley Gulley granted a motion for new trial and accepted the new plea bargain.

Pepper was sentenced to three 10-year terms, to be served concurrently, in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division.

He faces federal sentences, ranging from 60 months to 78 months, on conviction on several charges.

The defendant was accused of taking money in an investment scheme in the state indictments. The federal charges stemmed from the same scam.

Another defendant in 222nd District Court was ordered to the court restitution center in Brownfield after Judge Gulley heard a motion for revocation of probation. The five-year probated sentence given Gilbert Murillo on a conviction for delivery of marijuana was extended a year.

Probation of a defendant, Joe Benavidez Jr., was revoked during a court session Friday. Originally sentenced to 10 years' probation for burglary of a building, he was ordered to the Special Alternative Incarceration Program of TDCJ.

Solar-powered phones to provide help for stranded Texas motorists

AUSTIN (AP) - For motorists in trouble along stretches of some Texas highways, help is just a phone call away.

Solar-powered, roadside cellular telephones are available to motorists in four areas of Texas as the state experiments with a free emergency calling service.

Two agencies are testing 100 motorist aid call boxes in two metropolitan areas and two rural counties to see what effect they have on emergency response.

Calls from the phones in Fort Worth, Austin, Hale County and Cameron County are handled by 911 dispatchers.

In Austin, for example, drivers can punch one button in the call boxes to reach 911 for police, fire or medical help, or press a second button to reach a motorist aid service that can send a tow truck or relay a help-needed message to family and friends.

"Not everyone is fortunate enough to have a mobile telephone. We're concerned about Texans and drivers passing through our state who need a way to call for help when they get into an emergency situation on the highway," said Mary Boyd, executive director of the Advisory Commission on State Emergency Communications.

The commission and the State Department of Transportation are testing the phones.

"This test program is giving us data to make an informed recommendation about how to deal with roadside emergencies," Ms. Boyd said.

Researchers have logged more than 3,500 calls in the first 11 months of the test, officials reported Wednesday.

They said 12 percent of motorists, accounting for 423 calls, have taken advantage of the call boxes to request emergency police, fire or medical assistance.

As many as 49 percent of calls have involved car trouble.

Sgt. Dorma Neel of the Hale County sheriff's department has handled a variety of calls from the phones located along Interstate 27 near Hale Center.

"Our recent 114-degree weather has caused a lot of cars to break down on the highway, we've helped several women traveling alone with small children who've gotten stranded."

Texas officials used California's roadside assistance network of more than 10,400 call boxes as a model for the test program.

TEXAS LOTTERY

By The Associated Press

One ticket bought in Houston correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The jackpot is worth an estimated $25 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 5, 11, 22, 37, 42, and 48.

The jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $3 million.

Carl Wimberly, left, presents a check for $14,000 to Fire Marshal Jay Spain toward purchase of a new fire truck to replace one that was destroyed while firefighters were extinguishing a fire on CRP land owned by Wimberly. A new truck, costing $56,400, has been ordered as a replacement. Wimberly designated $14,000 of a $15,000 insurance settlement for the fire on his property to the Hereford fire department and $1,000 to be divided between Dawn and Canyon for help by those firefighters.

Trucker's fatigue may be factor in accident fatal to 14 persons

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Fatigue on the part of the trucker may have been a factor in traffic accident in which 14 Los Angeles residents were killed in Texas, according to a published report.

The Los Angeles Times today quoted Mike Cox, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety as saying that fatigue may have been a factor as well as the overloaded condition of the van.

The van was apparently limping along, emergency lights flashing, in the right-hand lane of a Texas interstate when the tractor-trailer slammed into it from the rear, authorities said Wednesday.

Earlier speculation had been that the van either swerved onto the highway or that the truck blew a tire and the driver lost control of his rig.

But Cox said there was evidence to suggest that Claudia Funches of Los Angeles, the driver of the van, was moving slowly but legally when hit from behind by the truck about 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

"There were no skid marks at all, no evidence that the truck driver braked," Cox said. "Investigators do believe fatigue may have played a part in the accident on the part of the trucker."

No charges have been filed. A grand jury is expected to hear evidence in the case after the team reconstructing what happened completes its work. That could take at least a month, Cox said.

But Cox added that based on preliminary interviews, the van developed mechanical troubles, apparently because it was overloaded with 18 people traveling to Vicksburg, Miss., for a family reunion.

Cox said the shocks on the 1977 Dodge van were so shot because of the weight of so many passengers that the tires were hitting the inside of the wheel wells at every bump.

Cox added that because there were speed bumps on the side of the highway, Mrs. Funches apparently decided she would be better off driving slowly on the highway, with warning lights flashing.

The Texas official said Mrs. Funches had been driving on the roadway for at least a minute when hit from behind by the truck, driven by Richie Ware of Arlington, Tex.

The force of the impact was so great that the van was crumpled and a fire started as it was being pushed down the road by the truck.

California Department of Motor Vehicles records revealed that Mrs. Funches had been driving without a license for the last 10 years. The records show that her license was suspended in February, 1984, for failure to appear on traffic tickets.

Records also showed that she was stopped once in 1990 and cited for driving on a suspended license, not having proof of insurance and not having a child in a safety seat.

The van, a converted cargo van, had two rows of seats at most and probably most of the passengers were crammed in the rear section of the vehicle when it was struck by the truck, Cox said.

Fire damage made it impossible to determine whether anyone was wearing seat belts, but there were not enough for the number of the people in the van, Cox said.

Texas law requires safety restraints only for those in the front seat and for children under 4.

Edison Project offers help to Texas schools

DALLAS (AP) - Texas schools seeking to improve academic results are turning to the Edison Project, a company owned by media magnate Chris Whittle.

In the last two weeks, North Texas school districts Sherman and Wylie have signed letters of intent with Edison in hopes of having the company operate an elementary school beginning next year.

Edison also is targeting Austin, where negotiations are slow but the company still is trying to win enough public support to run two elementary schools.

Other Texas districts are expected to sign on before summer's end, Edison said.

"In Texas, with money as tight as it has been, and as tight as it appears it will be in the future, it's really appropriate for us to find ways to do more with the money we have," said William Kirby, a former Texas education commissioner who is an Edison consultant.

One-third to one-half of the first Edison "partnership schools" will be in Texas, Kirby said.

In Sherman and Wylie, the campuses will be known as the Sherman Edison School and the Wylie Edison School, according to the agreements signed by the school districts.

The decision to turn over a school to Edison is a significant one in smaller districts such as Sherman, which has six elementary schools, and Wylie, which has three.

Wylie Superintendent H. John Fuller says most of the risk falls on Edison, which agrees to bring in computers and other resources with no additional financial obligation to the district.

Although its contract will be for five years, the company can be fired at any time.

Sherman Superintendent Robert Denton agreed. "As long as the district can terminate the relationship at will, I don't think there is a financial risk," he said.

In the last few years, the idea has gained momentum nationally of turning over school management to groups other than school districts, particularly for-profit companies such as Edison.

In Texas, Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, Senate Education Committee chairman Bill Ratliff and Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush all support "charter schools," campuses run under a contract between school boards and other qualified groups.

New Lions Club Sweetheart

Taylor Sublett was introduced Wednesday by Carey Black, president, as the new Hereford Lions Club Sweetheart for 1994-95. Taylor, 17, is the daughter of Lion and Mrs. Troy Sublett. She will be a senior at Hereford High School this fall. The sweetheart attends all meetings, participates in club activities and is a candidate in the annual district sweetheart contest.

REMEMBER...

9-1-1 IS FOR EMERGENCIES ONLY!

Entrance to estate may haunt after ruling

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The decision by police to scale a wall and enter O.J. Simpson's estate raised a thorny legal issue that could haunt his murder case long after a judge decides if the search was legal.

Simpson's lawyers say police entered the estate without a warrant, then misrepresented the circumstances to get one. Prosecutors say police had to enter because they thought there might be an emergency.

The evidence the defense wants to exclude from the preliminary hearing - which will determine if Simpson will stand trial - includes blood found on Simpson's car, a bloody glove resembling one found at the crime scene and blood spots on the driveway. Municipal Judge Kathleen Kennedy-Powell said she would rule on the issue today.

Her decision cannot be immediately appealed, legal experts said. But it can be appealed during a trial, or on appeal if Simpson is convicted of murdering his ex-wife and her friend, said University of Southern California law professor Erwin Chemerinsky.

Legal experts say motions to exclude evidence are rarely granted. Chemerinsky and Paul Bergman, an evidence and trial advocacy professor at the University of California, Los Angeles, predicted the judge would rule against the defense.

"The prosecution made a strong showing that there were emergency circumstances that supported scaling the wall," Bergman said.

Detectives testified that they rushed from the crime scene to Simpson's mansion to tell him about the killings.

After spying a spot of blood on Simpson's Ford Bronco parked in the street, detectives testified, they feared someone else might be in danger. When they received no answer over the intercom and telephone, they entered the estate without a search warrant.

Police can enter a home or property without a warrant if they are pursuing a suspect, think evidence will be destroyed or believe that someone is in jeopardy.

"What if someone had been injured and lay bleeding while the officers went to get a search warrant?" Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark asked the judge. "What would we have said? We would have said they were derelict in fulfilling their duties."

But Simpson lawyer Gerald Uelmen warned against letting the government break the law, saying it would encourage citizens to do the same.

"Again and again, we hear the detectives say, 'Well, we didn't know what we have, we didn't know what happened on these premises,'" Uelmen said. "I don't know what they had. I do know what they didn't have. They didn't have a search warrant."

Earlier Wednesday, defense lawyer Robert Shapiro challenged virtually every move of Detective Philip Vannatter.

Vannatter said he was convinced a search was necessary to save a life and that he was thinking of Simpson as a potential victim, not a suspect.

But when cross-examined by Shapiro, he admitted that he needed a flashlight and his reading glasses to see the speck of blood, measuring between one-eighth and one-quarter of an inch, on the Bronco.

"Right at the time the blood is spotted, you determined this to be an emergency situation? Yes or no?" Shapiro asked.

"I think seeing the blood was the trigger that caused me to make a decision to go over the fence," the 25-year veteran replied.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your help. I just found out that my 29-year-old daughter was molested by my father when she was very young. In my wildest dreams, I could not imagine this happening.

I confronted my father, who is now 74. He did not try to lie his way out of it or make excuses. He admitted the abuse and begged me to forgive him. But, Ann, I just can't. I am simply crushed.

My daughter says she has forgiven Grandpa as part of her healing process and she doesn't want me to tell her grandmother. My mother is not well, and I'm afraid this news would just about kill her. I have talked to my brothers about it, and we all agree that Mom should not be told.

The problem is I can't let go of this hideous nightmare. When I'm around my parents, I try my best to pretend that everything is the same as it always was, but it's impossible. I find myself pulling away from my father's touch, and I turn my head away when he speaks to me. Meanwhile, I am scared to death that Mom will sense something is wrong.

I'm building up a lot of hostility toward my father and am tempted to turn him in to the police but if I did this, my mother would find out, and it would tear our family apart. I cannot believe that this terrible thing happened to my baby girl and that I was so naive I didn't see what was going on. I hate how I feel, but I would feel a whole lot worse if the news got out and my mother heard about it. She is a wonderful woman, and I don't want to hurt her. Please tell me what to do.--Desperate in N.C.

DEAR N.C.: You say your daughter is 29 and just learned that she was sexually molested by her grandfather when she was very young. It is imperative that you get some counseling at once. I sense your high state of anxiety and am worried that you will make yourself sick if you don't unload your anger. Meanwhile, if there are any great-grandchildren around, do not leave them alone with Grandpa. Pedophilia is not something that is outgrown. Please make an appointment immediately.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You probably think you have heard every problem in the world by now. Well, I have a new one for you.

I live in Schenectady, N.Y., and I buy The Daily Gazette strictly for your column. Almost every day, my boss comes by my desk and picks up my paper. He says, "Well, what did Annie have to say today? Anything juicy?" Then he starts to read your column out loud, which I hate because I want to enjoy it with my lunch.

This morning was the last straw. After he finished reading your column, he said, "This one if I have to show my brother-in-law." He then tore your column right out of the paper. I had to go across the street to buy another one.

I'm really ticked off with that guy, and I'd like to tell him off, but I don't dare. Any suggestions?--Still Burning

DEAR S.B.: Prevention is far better than trying to find a cure. Keep your paper well ditched and out of sight.

Hints from Heloise

POSTCARD NOTECARDS

Dear Heloise: I have been given a good many picture postcards as gifts -- so many, in fact, that I couldn't possibly use them all in my lifetime! Since I send mostly letters and greeting cards, I came up with the following "compromise."

I purchased a package of blank greeting cards with matching envelopes at a stationery shop. (The cards should be at least 5 inches by 6 1/2 inches.) Then I bought a roll of clear, self-adhesive photo corners and attached the picture postcards to the front of the blank cards. Voila! Instant notecards.

A nice side benefit of this treatment is that the recipient of the notecard may use the postcard as it was intended. -- Peg Boettcher, Seattle, Wash.

A note and a little gift to boot! I love it. -- Heloise

What's bugging you?

Everyone knows cockroaches are ugly and dirty. But did you also know they can be unhealthy?

Here are some of the most common questions consumers ask.

Q. Is it true cockroaches carry bacteria?

A. Yes. Cockroaches can carry up to 70 bacteria such as Salmonella and E. Coli. If cockroaches come into contact with your food and kitchen utensils, they can pass these germs onto you. These bacteria can cause intestinal illnesses that often result in flu-like symptoms.

Q. What can I do to keep roaches from spreading germs?

A. First, you need to control roaches. Professionals recommend using a long-term method like baits and placing them in key roach areas--under sinks and inside cabinets--throughout the year. Second, sanitizing surfaces in your kitchen also can help reduce germs and chances of food contamination.

Regularly disinfect counters and cutting boards with a diluted bleach solution. Wipe surfaces clean of crumbs and dirt before you apply bleach solution. Leave on for five minutes and then rinse.

Store silverware in chests or airtight bags.

Keep foods like sugar, flour, cookies, cereal and opened bags of snack foods in air-tight containers.

Q. With small children at home, what is the best way to treat roaches?

A. Baits are best for a number of reasons. They don't leave chemical residues and can be used in places where you wouldn't want to spray. Baits come in child resistant packaging. The plastic casing of the bait station contains openings large enough for roaches but too small for children's fingers.

Q. A friend told me I could be allergic to cockroaches. Is this possible?

A. Yes. Experts estimate that more than 20 million asthmatics suffer from roach-related allergies.

While it's more likely you are suffering from a combination of allergy-causing particles, like pollen and dust, roaches could be making your problem worse. To get rid of roaches, try using a non-aerosol insecticide, like baits, so you don't further aggravate your allergies.

Babe Ruth 13-year-old All Stars

A team of the best 13-year-old baseball players in Hereford will take on Canyon's best at 7 tonight at the Kids Inc. Complex, as Hereford hosts the Babe Ruth district tournament this weekend. Plainview is the only other team playing in the double-elimination tournament. Hereford's 13-year-old Babe Ruth All-Stars are

Sign up for volleyball camp

The Whiteface Volleyball Camp will be next week at Hereford Junior High, and there's still time to register.

The camp is for girls entering the fourth-ninth grades. The camp will be Monday-Friday from 1-8 p.m., with a one-hour break at 4. The camp ends at 4 Friday. Coaches will be on duty the whole time, including the breaks.

The cost of the camp will be $30. Pre-registration can be done with forms available at HJH, or registration can be done at the beginning of camp at 1 p.m. Monday.

Also next week will be the first of two weeks of golf camps. Registration forms are available at the Pitman Municipal Golf Course pro shop. For more information, call there at 364-2782 or call coach Stacey Bixler at 364-1747.

Rockies capture postseason title

The Rockies won the post-season tournament of the Kids Inc. Minor softball league, beating the Blue Jays 11-5 in the final Thursday.

The team also won the regular-season championship with a 14-1 record. The team had a 17-1 mark overall.

Members of the team are Abby Horrell, Kristin Klos, Ashley Reeve, Jami Riley, April Martinez, Tiffany Koenig, Elizabeth Bastardo, Jordan Davison, Xana Davis, Amanda Casey, Shayla Lindsey, Brittany Reeve and Clarissa Juarez. Coaches are Sammy Davison and Jerry Koenig.

The team is sponsored by High Plains Feed.

Hereford girls 19th at tourney

A trio of Hereford girls helped a team finish 19th out of more than 60 teams at the Junior Olympic Volleyball Association (JOVA) national tournament last week in Austin.

Danielle Cornelius, Heather Hodges and Britney Binder, all of Hereford, joined with players from Amarillo High and Tascosa to form a team that played in many tournaments this year and finished as high as third.

Brazil alone represents Latin America

By The Associated Press

And then there was Brazil, the last of the Latin American teams left in the World Cup.

The remaining seven teams heading into this weekend's quarterfinals are European. Not only is that unprecedented for a continent, but it gives Europe a pretty decent chance of winning the title for the first time in a World Cup staged in the Western Hemisphere.

Still around are defending champion Germany, three-time winner Italy, Spain, Sweden, the Netherlands, and the Balkan surprises, Romania and Bulgaria.

What happened, Latin America? Carlos Bilardo, the former Argentine coach who also coached Sevilla in the Spanish first division, said teams across Europe are using a style of play the Latins have yet to figure out.

"We are, and I mean all South Americans, we are falling way behind in the world of soccer," he said. "In tactics, we're 10 years behind. I said it long ago and nobody wants to recognize it."

Brazil tries to keep the Latin American chances alive against the Dutch on Saturday in Dallas. Italy plays Spain at Foxboro, Mass., that day, while on Sunday, it's Germany against Bulgaria at East Rutherford, N.J., and Romania meeting Sweden at Stanford, Calif.

On Wednesday, the first of three successive off days in the tournament, Brazil lost defender Leonardo for four games - the rest of the World Cup and beyond. Leonardo was suspended for throwing an elbow into the face of Tab Ramos of the United States that slightly fractured Ramos' skull.

"The only thing I could think of when I fell down, I thought I was going to die, because I couldn't feel my legs or my arms or anything," Ramos said. "I just wanted to keep my eyes open, because I thought I had to fight it to come back. I mean that's how bad it was."

FIFA suspended two players expelled from second-round matches

Tuesday - Italy's Gianfranco Zola for two games and Bulgaria's Emil Kremenliev for one.

Also suspended for one match in the next CONCACAF tournament were Fernando Clavijo of the United States and Luis Garcia of Mexico, for accumulated yellow cards. Both Mexico and the United States have been eliminated from the World Cup.

But seven of the 13 European teams have survived.

Heading into the month-long tournament, all the talk was about darkhorse Colombia's chances. Colombia had been sensational in qualifying and international matches leading up to the Cup. One of its biggest boosters was no neophyte: soccer legend Pele called them the best in the 24-team field.

But Colombia failed quickly, the first team eliminated after losing to Romania and the United States.

Then Colombia was hit by tragedy when defender Andres Escobar was killed back home in Medellin, shot apparently because he scored an own-goal.

Hernan Lopez of the Colombian Football Federation said his nation has a different makeup than Argentina or Mexico, so it would be a mistake to draw blanket conclusions

Watts signs with Phillips

Watts to play baseball at Phillips

Russ Watts received a scholarship to play baseball next year at Frank Phillips Junior College in Borger. He signed a letter of intent Wednesday at the field house in Hereford.

The scholarship will cover room and books, Watts said. In addition, he received a $250 scholarship from the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department.

He chose Phillips because he liked the coaches, he said.

"It's been a dream of mine (to play college baseball) ever since I could hold a bat," he said. "My day played college ball, so he's been an influence on me." His father, Bill, played at Eastern New Mexico State, the younger Watts said.

Watts, a 1994 graduate of Hereford High School, was a starting outfielder for most of three seasons for the Herd baseball team.

As a senior, he earned first-team all-district honors and helped lead the Herd to a playoff berth as District 1-4A runners-up.

Thomas gains on Griffey

By The Associated Press

Ken Griffey Jr. may soon be chasing more than Roger Maris. He could be pursuing Frank Thomas.

Griffey, whose early season homer hitting prowess has been baseball's marquee story this season, failed to homer for the 11th straight game Wednesday night as the Seattle Mariners lost 5-4 in Baltimore.

Just two weeks ago, Griffey was not only on pace to threaten Maris' record of 61 homers in a season, but there was speculation that he could hit 70 homers. Well, that talk has quieted considerably since Griffey has been at 32 homers and holding since June 24.

Thomas, meanwhile, has closed in on Griffey.

He hit his 31st homer Wednesday night, a two-run shot in the ninth inning, that helped the Chicago White Sox rally for a 6-2 victory in Detroit.

Thomas, second in the league in batting, first in runs scored and now second in homers, has hit four homers while Griffey has stagnated.

The White Sox were limited to one run and five hits in eight innings before scoring five runs in the ninth off Mike Henneman (1-3).

Inheriting a 2-1 lead, Henneman struck out Darren Jackson to open the ninth, but walked pinch-hitter Warren Newson. Mike LaValliere singled Newson to third, and Ozzie Guillen tied at 2 with a sacrifice fly.

After an infield single by Lance Johnson, Tim Raines hit a ball just over right fielder Junior Felix's glove, scoring pinch runner Norberto Martin and Johnson.

Thomas, who went 2-for-4, followed by lining a 2-2 pitch into the lower deck in left field.

"We knew we had to do it against their bullpen, because Gullickson was outstanding," Thomas said. "He kept us off-balance all night. The last three times he has faced us, he has been dominant."

Dane Johnson (2-1) pitched to two batters in the eighth for the win.

In Baltimore, Brady Anderson hit a three-run homer and substitute starter Mike Oquist pitched six strong innings as the Orioles completed a three-game sweep of Seattle.

Brewers 4, Royals 3

At Kansas City, Dave Nilsson's tiebreaking homer in the eighth inning helped Bob Scanlan get his first win as a starter since 1991.

Scanlan (1-5) allowed four hits in eight innings - the longest outing of his career - for his first victory since Sept. 10, 1993 with the Cubs. It was his first win as a starter since a 6-2 victory over the New York Mets on Aug. 10, 1991.

Angels 10, Red Sox 6

At Boston, the Angels hit four homers to score 10 runs for the second straight game against the Red Sox.

Greg Myers' two-run shot in the seventh gave the Angels a 6-5 lead and Rex Hudler added a three-run homer against Cory Bailey (0-1). Chili Davis and Chad Curtis hit solo homers earlier.

Tom Brunansky hit a two-run homer and Andre Dawson hit a solo shot for Boston.

Athletics 4, Yankees 2

At New York, Scott Brosius hit a two-run homer and Troy Neel added a solo shot.

Brosius hit his seventh homer in the second inning off Jim Abbott (7-6) and Neel hit his 10th in the third.

Ron Darling (7-9) allowed two runs and nine hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Twins 5, Blue Jays 4

At Minneapolis, Scott Erickson (8-6) allowed seven hits in 7 2-3 innings and Kirby Puckett hit a two-run homer.

Puckett followed Chuck Knoblauch's single by hitting his 13th homer, off Todd Stottlemyre (5-6), in the first inning.

Indians 13, Rangers 4

At Arlington, Texas, Paul Sorrento's three-run homer highlighted a six-run first inning and Jack Morris registered his 252nd career victory.

Morris (8-5) moved past Bob Gibson into 36th place on the career wins list, allowing three runs and five hits in six innings.

The Indians, who led 10-1 after two innings, got at least one hit from every starter and put 14 of their first 20 hitters on base.

Cleveland jumped on rookie starter John Dettmer (0-3) and got help from first baseman Will Clark's error, leading to the six-run first.

Giants call up Strawberry

By The Associated Press

Welcome back to the majors, Darryl.

All you have to do now is rescue a team that's tied for the worst record in baseball.

Darryl Strawberry, ex-Met, ex-Dodger, ex-sluggo, was called up from Triple-A Phoenix today and was scheduled to start in right field for the San Francisco Giants, who just got finished getting swept by the New York Mets in a three-game series in which they scored only four runs.

Their 4-1 loss Wednesday night gave them a record of 35-50, tied with the San Diego Padres for worst in the American and National Leagues.

"I'm looking at a ballclub that's struggling right now, and it's a great, talented ballclub," Strawberry said Wednesday night after going 0-for-3 for the minor-league Firebirds.

"A situation like this is good for me, and hopefully it's good for the club. Hopefully, I can step in there and bring some new life and some energy to the ballclub. I know that's the type of player I am."

Strawberry played three games at Phoenix, going 3-for-10 with two homers.

Earlier, Giants officials said Strawberry wouldn't join the team until after the All-Star break. But their dire situation - 9 1/2 games behind the Dodgers with the season more than halfway over - apparently necessitated the move.

Bobby Jones (9-7) pitched shutout ball for 7 1-3 innings, Ryan Thompson homered and Jose Vizcaino had four hits for New York.

The Mets got two runs in the first against Bryan Hickerson (2-8). Thompson hit his 15th homer in the seventh and Vizcaino scored from second in the ninth when shortstop Royce Clayton botched a double play by throwing wildly past first base.

In other games, Houston beat St. Louis 7-6; Florida rallied past Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings; Montreal defeated Los Angeles 4-2; Atlanta split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, losing 3-1 then winning 4-2; San Diego topped Philadelphia 5-2; and Colorado beat Chicago 7-1.

Watson's club record of 110 RBIs set in 1977.

Todd Jones (3-2) got the victory, pitching 1 1-3 innings, and John Hudek pitched the ninth for his 14th save. Rich Rodriguez (2-4) took the loss for St. Louis.

Pirates 3, Braves 1

Braves 4, Pirates 2

At Atlanta, the Pirates won the opener with two runs in the bottom of the eighth off Mark Wohlers (5-1), breaking a 1-1 tie. Zane Smith (9-6) got the victory and is 2-0 against Atlanta this year. He has allowed the Braves only three runs in the last 26 innings.

In the nightcap, Steve Avery (6-2) got his first victory in almost seven weeks and Ryan Klesko drove in two runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly. Paul Wagner (5-7) was the losing pitcher for the Pirates.

Rockies 7, Cubs 1

At Wrigley Field, the wind was blowing out. That was enough to convince Andres Galarraga not to take a day off as previously planned.

Galarraga hit a three-run homer in a five-run ninth off All-Star reliever Randy Myers. Curtis Leskanic (1-0) gave up six hits over 5 1-3 innings for the win, and Steve Trachsel (7-6) took the loss.

Puffy Taco spices up Missions' baseball games

By CHRIS ANDERSON
SAN ANTONIO - Dressing a man as a Mexican food entree and letting kids tackle him may be a zany idea, but San Antonio Missions fans find the Puffy Taco as addictive as nachos.

The Puffy Taco - with a tomato-chunk head, jalapeno feet and a furry tortilla body topped with lettuce and cheese - has become one of minor league baseball's spiciest attractions.

Cooked up five years ago by Missions' assistant general manager David Oldham as a promotion for Henry's Puffy Taco, the taco's nightly sprint around the bases is a fan favorite.

Oldham admitted that having a child tackle the taco before he reaches home plate is a bit cheesy, but said fans were hungry for more.

"When you talk about Missions baseball, you talk about a lot of great players - but the most visible person in the ballpark is the Puffy Taco," Oldham said.

The unique mascot has been dubbed the "game's goofiest mascot" by USA Today's Baseball Weekly.

The man inside the taco shell is native San Antonian Jimmy Gonzales, 33, who, in his non-edible persona, serves as a lumber salesman for Builders Square.

"I love seeing the expression on the kid's face when he tackles me," Gonzales said. "It's exciting to me."

Gonzales - who weighs 185 pounds and is slightly more than 5 feet tall - looks somewhat like a puffy taco even when he's not in costume.

"The only training he does is at the dinner table," Oldham joked.

"His idea of becoming a better mascot is to eat more puffy tacos." Gonzales said his girth has helped him survive swarms of Puffy Taco fans.

"The kids come on and hit me and punch me," he said. "I don't mind a kid pulling on me or whatever. I like the abuse."

On one occasion, however, the adulation got out of hand.

"One kid jumped on me and he gave me a bloody nose and a busted lip. I was walking off the field and some kids said, 'Puffy Taco, you're bleeding.'"

Suiting up as the Puffy Taco isn't Gonzales' first foray into show business. He previously portrayed costumed characters at a Chuck E. Cheese restaurant.

After his gig as Chuck E. ended,

Gonzales asked a seamstress to make a costume modeled after his childhood teddy bear.

He soon was masquerading as Oliver the Bear at V.J. Keefe Field.

When the Puffy Taco was served up to fans, Gonzales naturally filled the shell.

The Puffy Taco has attracted the attention of several Mexican food restaurants - including Taco Bell - which have detected the simmering aroma of success.

The Missions, however, are standing by the taco's original sponsor, although the price of the stadium promotion has doubled to more than $100 a night.

Jaime Lopez, co-manager of Henry's Puffy Taco at 3202 W. Woodlawn Ave., said the taco's antics had boosted business by about 40 percent.

The additional customers have forced expansion of the 110-seat restaurant to accommodate another 50 taco fans.

Surprisingly, the taco did not become a star overnight.

During his first appearance, the Puffy Taco committed the heinous crime of beating his young opponent in the race around the bases in which the taco starts out at second base and his pursuer takes off from home plate.

The taco does handstands and cartwheels - without losing his stuffings - to give his competition time to catch up.

"The Puffy Taco accidentally stepped on home plate before the kid tackled him and everybody started booing," Oldham said.

The shelling from angry fans forced the Missions to decree that the taco must graciously lose each footrace, or - in this case - foot-jalapeno race.

Cowboys may honor Dorsett, White

DALLAS (AP) - As Tony Dorsett and Randy White prepare for their induction into the Pro Football Hall of Fame later this month, the former Dallas Cowboys are wondering when they'll make the team's Ring of Honor.

The addition of the two members of the Cowboys' glory years of the 1970s is "logical," according to team owner Jerry Jones, who makes the Ring of Honor selections.

"That's a decision I normally make around the start of training camp (July 15)," Jones said. "At this time, there is nothing to announce."

Tom Landry was the last inductee into the team's ring, which adorns the facing of the upper deck of seats at Texas Stadium.

Landry, a Hall of Famer who was inducted into the Ring of Honor last season, will present Dorsett for his induction into the Hall in Canton, Ohio.

"There are probably a lot of people who are surprised Tom Landry is my presenter for the Hall of Fame," said Dorsett. "But that really surprises me. Who else do they think I'd have? Tom and I have always been fine. I don't have any reason to dislike Tom Landry, and I don't think Tom Landry has any reason to dislike me."

Soccer

about problems facing Latin American soccer.

While he thinks Argentina lacks up-and-coming players, Colombia is brimming with talent, but needs more discipline.

"It's about behavior," Lopez said. "The Colombian players were convinced they would be champions, but when they confronted reality, they had a problem."

The Bogota newspaper El Tiempo offered this analysis of the differing European and South American styles:

"We've seen that South American football depends too much on one or two players, while in Europe they play offensively one day and defensively the next with the same punch."

Because Landry already will present Dorsett, White will be introduced by former Cowboys defensive coordinator Ernie Stautner.

"I wish I could have coach Landry and Ernie both up there," White said. "Ernie wasn't just my coach, he was my friend. He helped me not just with football but with things that happened in my daily life."

Shoes are cause of most foot problems

With downward pressure from high heels, women cram their rectangular feet into triangular shoes. Talk about putting square pegs into round holes.

Talk about neuromas and bunions while you're at it.

Dr. Michael J. Coughlin, an orthopedist who analyzed 2,100 foot surgeries over a 15-year period in a study for the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons, found that over 80 percent of the patients were women and that the primary causes of their foot problems were the shoes they wore.

In the group he studied, 769 women but only 46 men needed operations to relieve or correct a bunion or a deformity of the big toe joint.

Women wear their shoes too tight and in the wrong shape, he says.

"I have observed that many women unknowingly wear shoes that are two sizes too narrow, such as wearing an AAA instead of an A," he says. Then, to make matters worse, they choose high-fashion, high-heeled pointed shoes that force their feet into unnatural shapes. Eventually the big toe becomes deformed and a bunion forms.

Other problems often requiring surgery are bunions, which develop on the side of the foot near the small toe as a result of misalignment of bones in the small toe joints; neuromas, injuries to nerves between the toes due to pressure; and hammertoes, in which pressure causes middle toe joints to protrude and enlarge.

"Forefoot problems can be modified or eliminated by the use of roomy footwear, as is witnessed by the low occurrence rate of foot problems in the male population," Coughlin says.

Consumers, shoe designers, manufacturers and salespeople should become more aware of these problems, he says. The shoe should be comfortable and fit properly in the store, before the sale is made, he adds.

Breathe easier this summer

If you are among the 21 million allergy sufferers with asthma-like symptoms.

Did you know?

The problem of asthma-like allergy symptoms is common among allergy sufferers. According to a national Gallup study of allergy sufferers who were asked to list their allergy symptoms:

-40 percent reported difficulty breathing

-30 percent reported wheezing

-27 percent reported tightness in the chest

Have you been told?

If you didn't know that asthma-like symptoms are common among allergy sufferers, then you are not alone. Eighty-seven percent of the allergy sufferers in the study have not been told that their symptoms may be related to asthma.

"Asthma-like allergy symptoms should be treated separately from the other common allergy symptoms—itchy/watery eyes, sneezing, and runny nose," said Dr. M. Eric Gershwin, Chief of Allergy-Clinical Immunology, University of California Davis School of Medicine.

"If an individual has asthma-like allergy symptoms, they should talk to their doctor for a proper diagnosis and treatment plan. In some cases, a prescription medicine is needed. In other cases, over-the-counter asthma medication, such as Primatene Mist, may be used to provide fast, temporary relief," said Dr. Gershwin.

Triggers: Seasonal and Nonseasonal

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Percy Sledge will be singing for the IRS.

The singer known for the hit "When a Man Loves a Woman" was given five years' probation and ordered to pay more than $95,000 in back taxes Friday. He also received six months in a halfway house but can continue performing.

Sledge pleaded guilty in April to tax evasion for failing to report more than $260,000 in income.

"I am giving you the most lenient sentence I can impose under the law," U.S. District Judge John Parker said. "But I have confidence in you and I want you to perform and earn a living. I want you to be able to support your family and pay your taxes."

Sledge could have been sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined $750,000.

Allergic reactions to insect stings are preventable with a new treatment "immunotherapy-sting allergy vaccine."

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: At my workout club, we use weight machines a lot more than we do barbells, dumbbells and the rest. I am not complaining. I like the idea, because it permits you to change weights more easily. I notice that some members let the weights drop with a clang after a lift. Shouldn't they try to lower the weight slowly? Isn't the lowering an important part of the weight? — N.B.

ANSWER: Yes, the lowering phase is an important part of the lift. It's the negative phase.

The negative phase demands muscle fiber lengthening. The lifting phase calls for its shortening.

You might see this negative muscle use referred to as negative contraction, and some say it is the most important part of the exercise. They say it produces more muscle gains than does the lift phase. For one thing, you can manage more weight in the negative contraction phase, as much as 40 percent more. That's a plus for the machines.

Those using free weights — the dumbbells and barbells — need a partner to get the most out of a lift. The partner can help get the weight up, after which the lifter takes over for the lowering phase. He controls the lowering speed, permitting the weight to return to the starting position. The slower that is done, the more effective the exercise.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have always been bothered by flabby upper arms. I read that curls would help me firm up. I used three-pound weights for three weeks, 20 lifts a day. You would not believe the size of my upper arms now. My biceps are like a weightlifter's. Alas, the backs of my arms are still flapping in the breeze. Is there a way to correct this situation? My sleeves are tight and uncomfortable. — M.M.

ANSWER: Curls are biceps builders. For other readers, I should explain that a curl begins with the dumbbell held hands down at the sides. From there, you bend the elbows, bringing weight up to shoulder level.

You want triceps building. For that, raise the weight up over your head, then lower it to rest behind the neck, across the shoulders. From that point, raise the weight over the head, then lower it back to the shoulder position.

I don't want to leave the impression that any exercise can remove fat from a desired area. It can't. However, the triceps extension exercise can firm the muscles at the back of the upper arms.

I am surprised you got such biceps growth from such small weights. It usually requires heavier ones.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had total knee joint replacement. X-rays have shown my knee now in excellent shape. I want to keep it that way with an exercise program. Jogging, of course, is out. Do you have a suggestion? — F.W.

ANSWER: You need guidance from the surgeon, based on the specific kind of surgery you had and the type of replacement used. Swimming is an all but universally approved exercise for most people with artificial joints, and most patients can tolerate walking and biking.

Check with your surgeon.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please tell me about tinnitus, the buzzing in my head that is driving me crazy. Is there no hope for relief? — H.D.

ANSWER: Untold wealth and honors await the person who devises a cure for tinnitus. It is a maddening distraction.

Moreover, tinnitus can be a symptom of various hidden problems, and it is the doctor's lot to try to find out just which. You won't get very far toward a treatment goal without that search.

In my experience, wax buildup in the ear canal is an often unsuspected cause of the various ringings, buzzings, clangings and gurglings of tinnitus. It is the simplest, most easily corrected cause, yet it is largely ignored. If there were any prime rule of thumb physicians employ in examining hearing-impaired older patients, it is to check for cerumen buildup in the ears.

Age intrudes into the tinnitus picture in a big way. Many elderly people suffer age-related damage to the delicate inner-ear cells. That is not so readily treatable as is the wax problem, but it can be eased by protecting ears from our noisy civilization. Soft earplugs help.

You can try tinnitus maskers, special ear devices that reproduce noise at frequencies that can cancel out that of the clatter within. Similarly, a bedside radio tuned to a between-station frequency may emit an unobtrusive hum to divert attention from the internal din.

The tinnitus sufferer is well-served by two lifestyle changes: Quit smoking and quit drinking.

Tinnitus noises worsen when the ability to hear the real outside sound weakens. A good hearing aid can help lessen such annoyance.

Many drugs, such as aspirin, can induce or exaggerate tinnitus.

I'd like to stress again the importance of a thorough ear examination.

For more information, see the ear-noise booklet I'm sending you. Others can order it by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 9, Box 539, River-ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What are the effects, if any, of a person removing his own gallstones? Until just recently, I had never heard of such a thing, but now I find that many people have done it, not once, but three or four times. The treatment, I understand, can be obtained through a health-care store. Any comment? — M.B.

ANSWER: I read your letter with growing apprehension. You seem to be describing some kind of home auto-surgery. That image left me gasping.

But it's clear that you are actually referring to some new medicine, perhaps some oral medicine for getting rid of gallstones. I am not familiar with any such home remedy for doing that.

We're all waiting for more details.

The Newspaper BIBLE

Now at last I am through with my work here, and I am ready to come after all these long years of waiting. For I am planning on taking a trip to Spain, and when I do, I will stop off there in Rome; and after we have had a good time together for a little while, you can send me on my way again.

But before I come, I must go down to Jerusalem to take a gift to the Jewish Christians there. For you see, the Christians in Macedonia and Achaia have taken up an offering for those in Jerusalem who are going through such hard times. They were very glad to do this, for they feel that they owe a real debt to the Jerusalem Christians. Why? Because the news about Christ came to them from the church in Jerusalem. And since they received this wonderful spiritual gift of the Gospel from them, they feel that the least they can do in return is to give them some material aid.

As soon as I have delivered this money and completed this good deed of theirs, I will come to see you on my way to Spain.

Will you be my prayer partners? For the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and because of your love for me—given to you by the Holy Spirit—pray much with me for my work. Pray that I will be protected in Jerusalem from those who are not Christians. Pray also that the Christians there will be willing to accept the money I am bringing them. Then I will be able to come to you with a happy heart by the will of God, and we can refresh each other.

And now may our God, who gives peace, be with you all. Amen.

Computer-television hybrid designed

HOUSTON (AP) - Compaq Computer Corp. is working on a television-computer hybrid designed to put couch potatoes on the so-called information superhighway.

Robert W. Stearns, senior vice president of corporate development at the Houston-based computer giant, said the devices will be tested soon in partnership with major cable television companies and programming producers.

"These are not technically difficult things to do," Stearns told the Houston Chronicle. "But they have to be done in partnership. If there is nothing to connect to, no one is going to buy it."

Compaq has been largely mum about how it will participate in the new age of information delivery, when computers, cable television and telephones converge to bring everything from interactive entertainment to video teleconferences into living rooms.

Stearns said he sees three industry components to the information superhighway.

First are programming providers, who will provide on-line services and entertainment, Stearns said. Conduit providers such as cable television and telephone companies are the second component, providing the infrastructure for transmitting signals to homes and businesses.

The third component are hardware manufacturers, such as Compaq, that will provide signal-deciphering machines.

The device being developed by Compaq looks like television, but would have far greater capabilities, Stearns said.

Anti-abortion group combine for protests

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The combined forces of Operation Rescue-National, Rescue America and the Pro-Life Action Network have marshalled in the state's largest city for what they say will be three days of anti-abortion protests.

On Wednesday, they weren't revealing any specifics about their plans. But they did say that their aim in Little Rock wasn't to challenge FACE - the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act - but to restore Christian values to America.

"We have come here to take back the land from the godless Clinton

NCA seeks drawings of cattle

DENVER--Birthday cards containing photos or drawings of cattle are being sought by the National Cattlemen's Association (NCA) and Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Co. for a 500th bovine birthday celebration.

The celebration will take place during the NCA's midyear meeting July 20-23 in Denver. It will commemorate the fact that cattle have been in the New World for 500 years.

NCA is seeking 500 cow birthday cards (store-bought or home-made) from each of the 50 states. Cards should be sent before July 15 to Cattle 500, P.O. Box 3469, Englewood, CO. 80155. Participants should clearly indentify their home state on the card.

"In 1494 Christopher Columbus brought cattle to America on his second voyage to the New World. Those cattle were the beginning of the cattle industry in the U.S.," says NCA President Dan Koons of Shirley, IL.

"The cattle industry is today still dominated by families, yet operates in all 50 states, has $40 billion in direct sales, generates about a quarter of a trillion dollars of U.S. business activity annually and employs more than two million people directly," said Koons.

NCA is the national spokesman for the beef cattle industry. It represents 230,000 professional cattlemen.

administration of Hillary (Rodham Clinton) and (Health and Human Services Secretary Donna) Shalala," said the Rev. Ed Martin, Florida director of Rescue America.

Leaders of the protest said activities would begin this morning with "street evangelism" in War Memorial Park about three miles west of the downtown area.

About 275 people, some from as far away as Springfield, Mass., gathered Wednesday evening for a rally in the sanctuary of the Victory Fellowship Church in the western Little Rock. The leaders said activities would begin today.

Musicians had set up their instruments at the front, while banners made of shiny fabrics and sequins hung on the walls. The back wall bore blue signs saying "Keep Murder Legal," beneath caricatures of Mrs. Clinton, wife of the president.

"Operation Rescue is much more than saving children from the death camps of the United States of America," said Rusty Thomas, a pastor from Houston. "Operation Rescue is about rescuing the church from the fear, the apathy and the compromise that has diluted the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Operation Rescue-National director Flip Benham of Dallas said the protesters were in Little Rock for one thing.

"We are going to allow our theology to become biography in the streets of our cities," Benham said.

"We are going to show the worth of these little children and the worth of the gospels by laying our lives down for them."

On Tuesday, Benham had pledged to follow "God's law," but offered no assurances that protesters would observe limits set in FACE. Under the law, judges may impose jail time and stiff fines on protesters who physically block access to clinics, damage their property, or injure or intimidate patients or staff.

Aram Berrard, a Jesuit priest from Amarillo, Texas, said the media was a key to the protesters' battle. If the media showed "the reality of abortion," Berrard said, "there would be instant closure" of what he called "abortuaries."

"We need to advertise... business is down and we need to let people know we're here and what we're doing. We can't afford not to -"

"No, we can't possibly afford an advertising push right now. Business just isn't what it should be, and advertising costs money!"

"So we need to place our advertising dollars wisely - someplace that targets our market and gets results fast!"

Call a truce. Call...
