Curfew seen as way to keep juveniles off streets

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer
If a curfew ordinance is adopted in Hereford, the hope is parents will exercise more authority over their children. If they don't, they may feel the curfew effects in their pocketbooks. A fine will be assessed on the first offense. The second offense will double the fine. The third will send the offender to the county juvenile court.

Objective of restriction would be to give protection to children, private property

City officials are not as interested in the fines that may be collected as they are in protecting the rights of the juveniles as well as the community. Mayor Bob Josseland has emphasized that the City Commission wants input from the community before action is taken on the proposed ordinance.

The ordinance being prepared by City Attorney Terry Langenhennig and Chief Wagner is modeled on a City of Dallas ordinance that has stood the test in courts.

"The officers told them to get off the street and went on," he said. A little later, they were spotted on another street and told to go home. Still later, the same group was found. "With the ordinance, the officer could have issued citations the first two times and taken them to the station on the third," Wagner said. State law forbids housing juveniles in jail or other lockups with adults. When youths are taken into custody, they must be taken to a juvenile detention facility. Until last winter, Hereford and Deaf Smith County had no such facility, but a youth home was completed and now houses young offenders prior to and after action in (See CURFEW, Page 2A)

Juvenile Suspects, 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. (Sept. 1993 through August 1994)

To that purpose, the commission has set a meeting for 7 p.m. Monday in the Hereford Community Center. Citizens are urged to take part in the session. Hours of the proposed curfew are from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Sunday through Thursday. The Friday night curfew extends from 12:01 a.m. to 6 a.m. Saturday. And, the Saturday night curfew will begin at 12:01 a.m. Sunday and end at 6 a.m. Sunday. The curfew would apply to youth age 16 and under. Some exceptions are allowed and are set out in an outline, in question and answer form, of what citizens may expect in a curfew. Prepared by the Hereford Police Department, copies may be obtained at the police station or at the Monday night meeting. Some members of the commission privately have expressed concern that they may be put in the position of legislating what parents do. Hereford Police Chief David Wagner presented some statistics to the City Commission last Monday

Some observers believe it still may go all the way to the Supreme Court because of what some perceive to be a threat to Constitutional rights. Chief Wagner and his department are in favor of the ordinance because, primarily, it gives officers a framework in which they may work when juveniles are found on the streets during late-night and early-morning hours. "Our hands are tied now," said Wagner. "If we find kids on the streets, we can't do anything but tell them to go home." The chief noted that officers have no recourse if juveniles refuse to heed the police. "With the ordinance, we can give a citation and if they refuse to go home, we can give them another," explained Wagner. If found a third time, officers may detain the youths and call the juvenile probation officers, he added. Wagner offered an example, telling about a report on juveniles gathered on a city street.

Local man gets taste of military life during cruise on Navy vessel

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor
Life aboard a U.S. Navy ship traveling across the Pacific Ocean is something most people only experience in World War II movies, or live through as a real-life seaman. But a program offered by the Navy gives a select few civilians the opportunity to serve aboard a real fighting ship -- at least for a few days as part of Operation Tiger Cruise. For Hereford resident Vernon Tohm, it was an opportunity to share a little bit of what his son, Marine Cpl. John A. Tohm, lives every day. And, with his son's discharge planned for Thursday, Aug. 25, it was the last opportunity Tohm had to experience Marine life. The saga began, Tohm said, when he received a letter from C.M.

Belluto, HMCM, U.S. Navy Command Master Chief; and R.B. Ormsbee, captain of the U.S.S. Duluth (LPD 6). The letter was an invitation join the Tiger Cruise program at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The Tiger Cruise is designed for male relatives and friends of sailors and Marines to spend a brief tour on board the ship, participating in special activities and learning about military life. Tohm was one of nearly 90 men taking part in this year's program on board the U.S.S. Duluth. He joined the ship on July 12 at Pearl Harbor, where the Duluth had stopped off on its way home from a tour of duty that included stops in Somalia, Singapore and Australia. From that day until they docked at Camp Delmar, Calif., on July 18, Tohm roamed the ship, took part in training activities and spent time with his son, who served as his guide on the ship. For most Marines on a Navy ship, Tohm said, the voyage is simply a means to get from one destination to another and they have few duties on board. The younger Tohm, his father said, is in charge of the armory both on board the ship and at Camp Pendleton, where he is stationed until his discharge. Having never served in the military himself, Tohm said he did not know what to expect when the cruise embarked. "I had seen ships before at the shipyard in San Diego and just looking at them scared me," he said. But he boarded anyway and the voyage got under way. "When it first started moving I had a hard time moving," he admitted, "(but) then I learned not to keep looking at my feet. "Every day they had different things for us to do," he said, including tours of different parts of ship.

Navy statistics show the U.S.S. Duluth (LPD-6) is an amphibious transport dock ship. It was commissioned on Dec. 18, 1965, and named for the city of Duluth, Minn. It is more than 569 feet long, has a displacement of about 16,710 tons and a sustained speed capability of 20 knots. It has a normal ship's company of 30 officers, 20 chief petty officers and 350 lower-ranked personnel. In addition, it has a Marine berthing capacity of 73 officers, 21 staff NCO's and 828 enlisted men. With a full complement of Marines on board, the Duluth serves 3,500 meals a day, performs 1,500 shipboard dental procedures and 3,000 medical procedures annually. Tohm said the medical facilities came into play one time, when the son of a man stationed on the ship came down with appendicitis. The boy was treated initially on the Duluth, then flown by helicopter to another ship in the group, where his appendix was removed. A few days later the boy and his

Chamber plans mixer to recognize industry

Rep. Combest sets visit to Hereford on Monday

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, R-Texas, will be in Hereford on Monday, Aug. 22, to visit with residents in a "Town Hall Meeting." The session will be at 9 a.m. in the east ballroom of the Hereford Community Center. Combest has said he will not be here to give speeches, but to listen to concerns of local residents. Staffers of the congressman said Friday that there had been concerns earlier in the week that he might have to cancel the visit because of required votes in the House on the crime bill, but that they were confident he would be able to make the trip to Hereford on Monday. After leaving here, Combest is planning to travel to Muleshoe for a 3 p.m. session there.

Summer vacation over with start of school Monday

The summer vacation that began at the end of May is finally at an end for thousands of Hereford school children. Beginning with breakfast as early as 7:30 a.m. Monday, children throughout the city will return to the nine public schools and two of the three private schools, ready for a brand new year of education. For the teachers, preparations in earnest began last week with inservice, work days and staff meetings. But for the children, the first bell of the year rings on Monday. Because of site-based management -- where decisions are made primarily at the campus level by the principal and staff members -- the start of school varies among the public schools. School buses are assigned based on school and where a student lives and those students will have received schedules at registration. Affected students are urged to be up and at their bus stop in plenty of time to catch their ride Monday. One new bus change, said assistant superintendent Nena Veazey, is a special shuttle bus for some kindergarten students at Tierra Blanca Primary School. A shuttle will pick up Tierra Blanca kindergarten students at Bluebonnet Intermediate School at 7:45 a.m. and at Aikman Primary School at 7:50 a.m. Hereford Police Chief David Wagner said crossing guards will be on duty and flashing school zone signs will be turned on at 7:30 a.m. "We will be enforcing these areas, patrolling and enforcing the laws," Wagner said, noting that people who exceed the speed limit in school zones are subject to being stopped by officers. Students who attend Community Christian School are the only local children who have a reprieve from the start of school. They do not begin classes until Aug. 29, giving them an extra week of vacation. The following is a schedule of starting times for local schools, including, where applicable, the time that breakfast begins at those schools: Hereford High School: Breakfast, 7:55 a.m., first period begins at 8:30 a.m. Students are reminded that they must bring their class schedules with them for the first day of school. Hereford Junior High: Breakfast, 7:55 a.m., tardy bell for first period rings at 8:20 a.m. Bluebonnet Intermediate School: Breakfast, 7:40 a.m., classes start, 8:10 a.m. Aikman Primary School: Breakfast, 7:30 a.m., classes start, 8:05 a.m. Shirley Intermediate School: Breakfast, 7:30 a.m., classes start, 8:15 a.m. Tierra Blanca Primary School: Breakfast, 7:30 a.m., classes start, 8:15 a.m. West Central Intermediate School: Breakfast, 7:30 a.m., classes start 8:10 a.m. Northwest Primary School: Breakfast, 7:40 a.m., classes start 8:10 a.m. SOAR High: Breakfast, 7:55 a.m., first period begins, 8:30 a.m. Pre-Kindergarten: Monday and Tuesday, classes start at 8 a.m. for the morning session and noon for the afternoon session. There will be no breakfast served these two days. Beginning Wednesday, classes will revert to their regular starting times of 7:55 a.m. for the morning session and 11:55 a.m. for the afternoon session. Meal schedules will be announced by teachers. Nazarene Christian Academy: Classes begin at 8:10 a.m. St. Anthony's Catholic School: Classes begin at 8:10 a.m. Community Christian School: Classes begin at 8 a.m. on Aug. 29.

The overnight low Saturday morning was 63 degrees.

Demos hope for vote on modified crime bill

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats hope they are a whisker away from a deal with moderate Republicans to shrink President Clinton's crime-fighting bill by one-tenth and finally move the stalled package through the House.

Meeting behind closed doors throughout the Capitol, bargainers from the two sides labored past midnight Friday over details of a compromise that would trim the measure's funds for crime prevention, police and prisons to $30 billion from $33.5 billion.

Democrats were resisting GOP efforts to target the bulk of the cuts at prevention programs such as midnight basketball and job training. The two sides also were trying to reach final handshakes on provisions dealing with an automatic weapons ban, trials of repeat rape offenders and the tracking of sexual offenders.

Lawmakers hoped for a quick agreement that would let the House approve the election-year legislation as early as Saturday. The Senate would debate it next week. At a news conference Friday, Clinton supported the budding compromise and prodded Congress to pass it "without delay."

"We owe it to the American people that do the work and pay the bills in this country to make sure that people who commit crime get caught, that those who are guilty get convicted, and those who are convicted serve their time," he said. "We also owe it to them to do whatever we can to prevent crime in the first place."

The White House and its Democratic allies were thirsting for a victory to produce something tangible to show the voters before Election Day, and to ignite a winning streak for the next big fight, Clinton's health-care plan. They were humiliated last week when the Democratic-run House turned aside a $33.5 billion version of the bill by a 225-210 vote.

With the public identifying crime as its biggest concern in a poll after poll, about 40 moderate Republicans led by freshman Rep. Michael Castle of Delaware also hoped the bargaining would produce a package they could support.

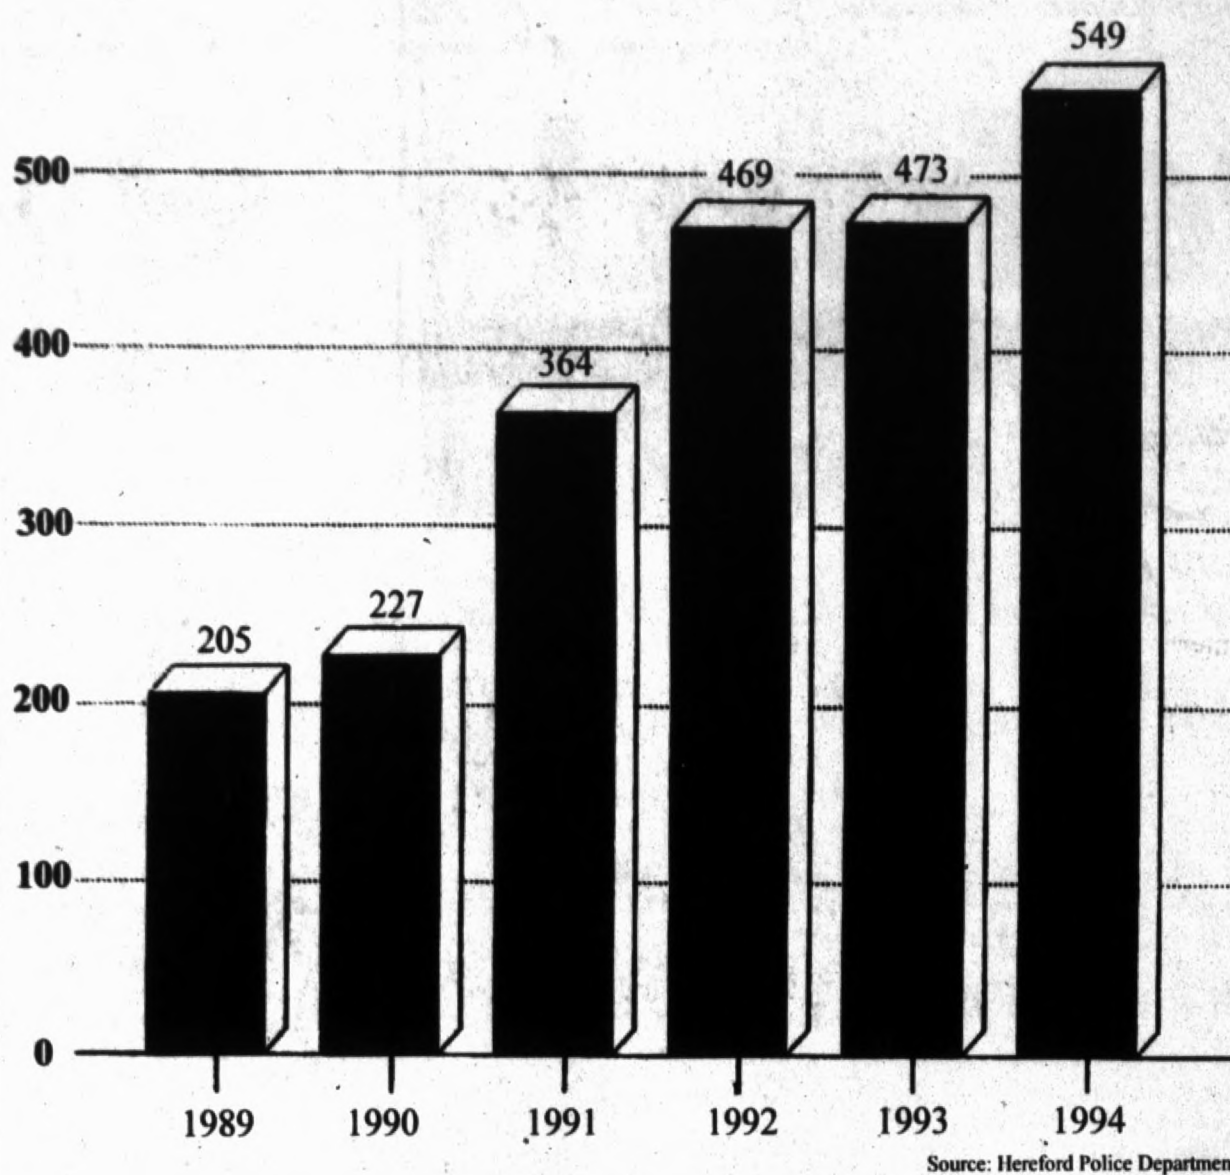

"It's key for all of us here to see a crime bill passed this year," said Rep. Peter Torkildsen, R-Mass. "We agree on that."

Conservative Republicans, led by Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., said they would probably oppose the final product, even though Gingrich said he supported the moderates' effort to revamp the legislation.

"It will be a better bill than it was when the Democrats wrote the bill," he said.

Besides the spending, the legislation would ban 19 kinds of assault-style weapons; allow capital punishment for more than 60 additional federal crimes including murder for hire; require lifetime imprisonment for many three-time violent offenders; allow 13-year-olds to be tried as adults for many violent federal crimes; and make it a federal offense to cross state lines to injure a spouse or domestic partner.

Senate receives new health plan from bipartisan group

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate appears to be getting serious about health reform that is more incremental than fundamental, setting off storms of denunciations among liberal groups and displeasing some conservatives as well.

The trigger was the long-awaited release Friday of a bipartisan "mainstream" plan that focuses on market-based insurance reforms and does not require that employers pay for their workers' insurance.

It promises subsidies for low-income families to buy insurance, and $100 billion in deficit reduction over 10 years. Members of the Senate group - which numbered 20 at points this week - said they would aim to cover 95 percent of Americans soon after the turn of the century.

"This is not a Neiman-Marcus plan," said Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn. "It is a Price Club plan. You get what you need, at a price you can afford."

The bipartisan blueprint is expected to be highly influential as the stalled Senate health-reform debate enters its final days. Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, whose own health reform bill is pending on the floor, said he planned to discuss it with senators throughout the weekend.

Advocates of President Clinton's original plans for universal insurance coverage, generous benefits and stringent government cost control said they would fight the moderate alternative.

"For mainstream Americans who want good benefits and coverage like Congress has, this proposal prescribes little more than a dose of cold water," said the Health Care Reform

Project, a coalition of organizations with a combined 65 million members. Liberals cited several serious problems - among them "failsafe" deficit reduction triggering subsidy cuts if overall costs got out of hand. Subsidies would be financed through $400 billion in Medicaid and Medicare savings and a 45-cent-a-pack increase in cigarette taxes.

To contain costs, the group proposed a new limit on employer deductibility of health insurance premiums. In addition, employers would lose tax breaks if they offered free medical benefits, and workers would have to pay income taxes on the value of such benefits.

The reliance on market mechanisms drew scorn from liberals. Jerry Shea, an AFL-CIO health official, called the cap on employer deductibility "fool's gold. It's a cruel hoax."

"The known effective methods for controlling costs - premium caps, budgets and set rates - are nowhere in sight," said Sen. Paul Wellstone, D-Minn. "This proposal is likely to make health care less affordable and less accessible for the majority of people."

Reaction was equally sharp among a group of conservative Republican senators who are not anxious to pass health reform anytime soon.

"I intend to fight them just as hard as I fought Bill Clinton," Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said of the moderates.

"They've worked hard and certainly produced what I think is a good effort," said Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

Mitchell called the proposal "a step toward getting final action on a bill."

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
As a proud parent of Boy Scout Pack 50, I would personally like to thank Jeff and Brenda Milam, Ara White and Kevin Harbison—they all made our Jubilee booth a hit, and I appreciate them very much.

A special thanks to Mr. & Mrs. Allen Parsons for donating the use of carriers for our goodies. Without caring people's support, we wouldn't get anywhere.

Do we as Scout parents not realize how much time our leaders give so willingly and freely to help better our boys and make them into successful young men?

Parents, we need to wake up and help when called upon to volunteer. Think about it—these fundraisers help pay for trophies, camps, badges, pins, etc. Without projects, these kind of things can't happen.

I hope the next time we have an over-abundance of parents to volunteer to help. What a nice feeling that would be.

Sincerely,
Tina Brethour

juvenile court.
In a presentation to the City Commission last Monday, Chief Wagner reported a steady rise in offenses by juveniles in Hereford.

Highlights of the report are:
— Total crimes committed by juveniles and investigated by Hereford police have climbed from 181 in 1991 to 369 in the first seven months of 1994. There were 284 in 1992 and 262 in 1993.

— Juvenile suspects handled by the police department this year are outdistancing all previous years with 549 listed through July. In 1993, there were 473 while 469 were handled in 1992. The 1991 number was 364. Low points were '90, with 227, and 1989, with 205.

— Critical hours for juvenile activities are from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. Police department statistics indicate that from September 1993 to August 1994, the greatest number of juvenile suspects handled came between 11 p.m. and 12 midnight, when 47 were recorded. From 10 p.m. to 11 p.m., the number was 28. During the hour ending at 1 p.m., there were 17 and in the next two hours, there were 16 and 19 respectively. From 3 a.m. to 6 a.m., there were seven, three and eight.

— The number of felony crimes by juveniles in the first seven months this year is 66, compared with 103 total in 1993, 73 in 1992 and 23 in 1991.

— Misdemeanors this year, through July, stand at 153. In 1993, there were 168 and the 1992 total was 211. The '91 total was 159.

— Acts of vandalism (criminal mischief) by juvenile suspects, age 16 and under, climbed from 19 in 1989 to 30 in 1990, 32 in 1991 and 64 in 1992, then dropped to 41 last year. But, the total so far in 1994 is 59, with five months still to go.

— Thefts by juvenile suspects, age 16 and under, this year appear slightly below the pace of 1993. Thirty-seven have been investigated through July, compared with 73 in 1993, a peak year in a six-year span. Forty were recorded in 1989, 18 in 1990, 41 in 1991 and 60 in 1992.

father returned to the Duluth. Another moment of excitement came on the fourth day out, when underwater welders on the Duluth were summoned by helicopter to the U.S.S. Frederick, which had sprung an 8-inch hole in its bottom that needed repairs.

"They had an air show for us. They had Hammer jets flying. Tohm said, and Apache jets firing rounds into the ocean about a quarter-mile in front of the Duluth.

The "Tigers," as tour participants were called, also saw the two large Gatling guns on the front of the vessel, which Tohm said, "could shoot 150 rounds in three seconds."

On the sixth day out, a fuel tanker from San Diego intercepted the Duluth and the other ships with which it traveled. The fuel tanker pulled up next to the Duluth for refueling, while another ship narrowed the standard 100-foot gap between ships and refueled on the other side.

At another time, Tohm said, he was given the chance to steer the ship, taking the controls for a few minutes from the captain.

In addition to its calls to duty to fly sick boys and welders, the ship's flight deck was pressed into service for a more social reason during the trip.

A barbecue was held for the Tigers on the flight deck, which Tohm described as large enough that "you could land two of the big double-bladed helicopters on it" and have room left over.

No area of the ship was off limits to the Tigers, Tohm said.

"I got to go every where in the ship," he said, recalling the computer room, where "they had a screen that showed every ship in the ocean -- even the Russian ones."

All to soon the trip ended and Tohm, the other Tigers and the Marines disembarked at Camp Delmar.

Tohm said the voyage taught him quite a bit about the shipboard duties of his son.

"I'd definitely do it again," he said.

Toastmaster Week is proclaimed

Hereford Mayor Bob Josslerand Friday signed a proclamation declaring Aug. 21-27 as Toastmasters Week in Hereford. Toastmasters International is observing its 70th birthday, and the Hereford club Friday was recognized at an international convention in Louisville, KY., as the fourth-ranked club in the world in its size category. Toastmasters at the signing included, left to right: Dan Hall, Dave Kimmel, Dee Hamilton, Gayla Sanders, Mike Harris, Joe Weaver, Joe Don Cummings and Rick Jackson.

Club ranked 4th in world, to observe special week

Hereford Toastmasters, Club No. 275, joins Toastmasters International Aug. 21-27 in observing the 70th anniversary of the organization, and Mayor Bob Josslerand has proclaimed Aug. 21-27 as Toastmasters Week.

Friday night, District Gov. Jigger Rowland of Hereford was in Louisville, KY., to pick up the President's Distinguished Club award, ranking it as the fourth best in the world in its size category.

Only one other club in this district has won the president's award, according to Robert Barnhill, international vice president. Recognition is based on points earned by increasing membership and reaching educational and leadership goals.

Hereford is in District 44 of Toastmasters, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary. Rowland currently serves as district governor, while other Hereford members serving as district officers include Dee Hamilton, secretary; Linda Minchew, treasurer; and Joe Weaver, bulletin editor. Rick Jackson, immediate past president of the local club, is also governor of Area III, a subdivision of the district. He was recently named outstanding club president in the district.

Dr. Milton Adams, 76, of Hereford was the first district governor, and he is a charter member and longest-standing member of the Hereford club. He is also a past international director. Organized here in 1950, the club ceased functioning in the 1970s. The club reorganized in 1977 and now boasts 38 members.

Current officers include Joe Don Cummings, president; Dee Hamilton, Mike Harris and Gayla Sanders, vice presidents; Dan Hall, secretary; and Ralph Barndt, sergeant-at-arms.

Toastmasters was first organized by Dr. Ralph C. Smedley at Santa Ana, CA., on Oct. 22, 1924. There are now more than 190,000 members in 8,000 clubs in 52 countries.

Mayor Bob Josslerand this week proclaimed the week of Aug. 21-27 as Toastmasters Week in Hereford, encouraging citizens "to recognize the many accomplishments and opportunities in communications and public speaking available through the local outstanding organization."

Toastmasters welcomes people at all stages of speaking ability and from all walks of life. The local club membership features farmers, mechanics, supervisors, sales personnel, politicians, teachers, bookkeepers, office managers, an optometrist, a CPA, and even a tax collector.

Typical meetings begin with an invocation or inspirational reading, and the pledge of allegiance. A brief business period follows, then a "word of the day" is introduced, succeeded by a "Table Topics" session in which various members are called upon to speak extemporaneously for two minutes or less on a given topic.

Prepared speeches follow and each presentation is evaluated by another member who highlights merits and offers suggestions for improvement. Table topics, speeches and evaluations are timed. A reading and usually a joke round out the meeting, which lasts about an hour.

Local club members also have the opportunity to compete in district, division and international speech contests.

The mission statement of the club is to "provide a mutually supportive and positive learning environment in which every member has the opportunity to develop communication and leadership skills, which in turn foster self-confidence and personal growth."

The local club meets for early risers at 6:30 a.m. on Thursdays at the Ranch House, and at 7 p.m. at the Sirloin Stockade for those who prefer a later time. Visitors are welcome at either meeting. Toastmaster dues are $56 a year, with a $16 initiation fee for new-member material.

THE NEGOTIATIONS ARE IMPORTANT

When buyers are asked to list the factors of negotiation when purchasing a home, most buyers list price as the top factor. However, money is not always the most important. A buyer also should be concerned with financing, the possession date, and the inclusion of extras such as appliances or furnishings included in the sale. The seller also should think about what they are willing to leave in the home as sales incentives. After these things are listed, offers and counter offers are made on what stays and what goes. This way both parties can introduce ideas into the negotiations and enhance the outcome for both parties. The most important part of house hunting is the negotiation process! And with the variety of financing available today, the assistance of a professional real estate agency and agent is very beneficial to both the buyer and seller. We are here to help!

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a bad habit is an undo-it-yourself project.

If someone offers you the world on a silver platter...just take the platter!

"If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man."--Mark Twain

Hereford voters gave approval in last Saturday's election to a 1/2-cent dedicated sales tax for economic development, and we believe it's a decision that could make a big difference in the community's future.

As we've written before, there are no guarantees with this action, but it sure gives us a better opportunity to land new industry and expand existing businesses.

The five people appointed to an economic development commission have a tough job ahead of them. It will be thankless task and probably one that will draw criticism. Some folks will expect overnight success and it just doesn't happen that way.

No free lunch?

There's no such thing as a free lunch. I've heard that all my life. In today's society, however, many folks think the old adage is not necessarily true.

Easy money appeals to growing circles of people and millions are getting as much as they can from the source of least resistance--government payments. But it's still not free. In an opinion written by James Cook, a Minnesota market analyst, the cost of the free lunch is the erosion of both the work ethic and good character.

Government subsidies encourage the worse aspects of human nature. Once people become dependent on the money, the end justifies the means. It's difficult for people to distinguish between the rights and wrongs of something that benefits them.

Money dispersed without any requirement to earn it seems to set off a defensive reaction. Many recipients claim a right to the money almost like it's a pension, or a person who has purchased an annuity, writes Cook.

A Boston newspaper reported earlier this year that a woman and her extended family receive government assistance totaling almost $1 million a year. The mother, who has been on public assistance for 26 years, has 14 children on welfare, 74 grandchildren, and 15 great-grandchildren on relief.

The newspaper says she lives in a six-bedroom, three-story apartment in a gated Boston community called Harbor Point. The welfare mother is defensive. "I'm sick of people acting like I'm some crook. We've got a lot of kids to feed."

Granted, many of the welfare claims and government subsidies are for legitimate reasons. But government giveaway programs encourage every imaginable sort of cheating and dishonesty among the recipients. The point is that generous payments will always create abuses.

America made it through the Great Depression of the 1930s and emerged stronger. Now, each recession finds millions more hooked on welfare. Instead of meeting financial problems with hard work and adaptability, many welfare recipients tend to give up the struggle. For them, weakness replaces strength; fear overcomes faith, Cook states.

Social benefits carry benefits that spread the problem. Payments to those who can't find work will snare many who could find work. Payments to alleviate poverty have a way of spreading poverty.

Something for nothing is contrary to nature. There is a price to pay for government giveaways. We can see some of the results in the explosion of crime and our shrinking national wealth. These are early warning signs for a nation that has set itself on a course of self-destruction.

William Bennett tells us in the "Devaluing of America," that "those whose beliefs govern our institutions will in large measure win the battle for the culture." He adds that liberals understood far better than did their conservative opponents that a culture war is a war to the death. And, "it's not so much a battle over policy but rather a battle about matters of the spirit."

Bennett continues, "Reclaiming our institutions is less a political opportunity than a civic obligation. It involves hard work, but it is work of immense importance. At the end of the day, somebody's values will prevail."

Smoking: involuntary disability?

BY JAMES ROBERTS

Andrews County News
If you don't smoke, you may want to start.

We've got it figured out that smoking can mean cash money in your pocket--money from the federal treasury.

A federal advisory panel has ruled that nicotine is an addictive drug and if the Food and Drug Administration adopts the panel's recommendation, could declare that nicotine poses the same sort of danger to health as heroin or cocaine.

And that's where the money is. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the federal courts have defined drug addiction and alcoholism, as well as AIDS and mental illness, as "federally protected involuntary disabilities."

And that makes drunks and addicts eligible for SSI.

Only time will tell how effective the program will be, but we are confident that voters made the right choice!

With school about to start again, it us with some interest and curiosity that we read the announcement by Crayola that a contest was being held to name its 16 new colors. The company admits that many of their new colors "have a social conscience."

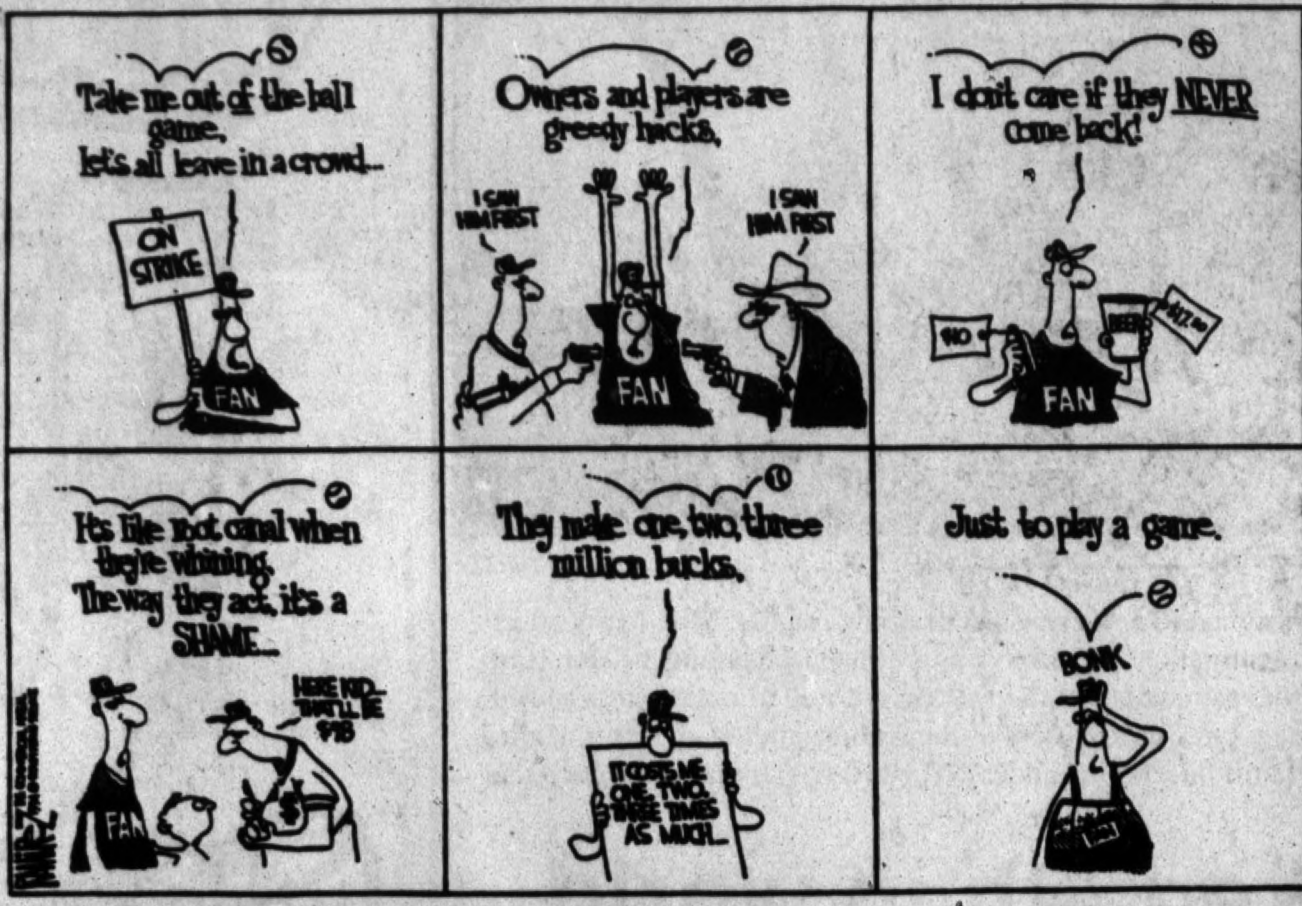

Over the years--even while helping our granddaughter use a color book--we've managed to learn the eight basic colors--black, red, blue, green, yellow, orange, brown and purple. But, for Pete's sake, what color is razzmatazz red and tickle me pink?

Among the other new colors are timberwolf gray, tumbleweed tan, tropical rain forest blue-green, Pacific blue, purple mountain's majesty, robin's egg blue and wisteria.

Also on the list are shamrock green, denim blue, cerise, mauve, asparagus green, granny smith apple green, and macaroni-and-cheese orange. I hope Crayola doesn't influence all the car manufacturers to add even more colors.

I can hear it now as a patrolman radios a buddy down the highway to stop that "speeding Ford."

"What color is it?"
"It's uh-uh, I believe it's purple mountain's majesty, or would you believe mauveous mauve?"

OUT OF THE BLUE

By Garry Wesner

Here are a few thoughts from some news items of the past week:

Finally, an elected body has taken the high road and publicly stood for what is right.

The Plano Independent School District board of trustees voted unanimously to approve a one-page resolution calling for the teaching of "traditional moral values" in their schools.

In a day when schools are teaching sexual promiscuity, homosexuality, rebellion against religion and parental authority and the such like, it's nice to see a district say "enough is enough."

The resolution was written by a Christian member of the board and calls for the schools to emphasize such principles as "determining right from wrong, honesty, sexual abstinence prior to marriage, love of country and respect for and value of human life."

It takes a great deal of courage for a school district to stand up and say that they want their students to learn the difference between right and wrong and other moral values.

What's more, the Plano schools also agreed to do away with the practice of condom demonstrations in the classroom.

Of course, it begs the question, why in heavens' name were they showing high school kids how to use condoms in the first place?

My gosh, it just seems like those demonstrations are designed to give the students the message that anything goes and the school district approves of unrestrained sex.

I'm glad both changes were made and hope other districts do the same.

In case you forgot, Tuesday marked the 17th anniversary of the death of Elvis Presley.

To mark the occasion, some 8,000 held a candlelight vigil by his grave in Memphis.

I guess these are the people for whom the admonition "Get a Life!!" was invented.

I mean, haven't these people got it through their thick skulls that the guy was an overweight, middle-aged drug freak who died of an overdose while sitting on the potty?

He ain't coming back and I don't see any reason to elevate him to a position of sainthood.

No matter where he is now, he's got more on his mind than a bunch of people standing around wishing he would come back.

You know, when voters in Texas approved horse racing as a legal form of gambling in the state, it was seen as a financial boom that would bring the state out of all its money woes and give everyone two chickens in every pot and two horses in every driveway.

Well this past week, financial backers for Sam House Race Park--the only Class I facility that has been able to get open in the first place--has had to go a 'beggin' for more money, because they are going broke.

Seems the lofty projections of 10,000 fans per day and $1 million a day betting were off. Actually, it's been 7,500 attendance for thoroughbred racing and 4,700 for quarterhorse racing.

Betting is--at best--$615,000 a day. I guess racing backers got stars in their eyes and legislators got dollar signs in their, but reality is that state residents just don't care a thing about going to the track.

Finally, a California group is mad at the owners of a convenience store chain, because they claim employees sell cigarettes to minors.

Now I don't know what the situation here is with local vendors, but it seems to me that laws restricting the sale of cigarettes to kids fail because kids lie and parents don't do their part.

For example, I wonder how many parents send Junior into the store to buy a pack of Winstons because they are too lazy to do it themselves?

At the same time, how many of those store clerks simply accept the explanation and hand over the cancer sticks?

Seems to me that stores ought to have one simple policy--no matter how much money a juvenile has, he cannot buy cigarettes, even if they are allegedly for mom or dad.

I know that won't stop teen smoking entirely, but it may make it a little harder to get cigarettes.

(Of course, enacting a law calling for the arrest of parents who allow their children to buy cigarettes and the filing of charges against clerks who sell them to minors wouldn't hurt!)

Well, that's it for this week.

Have a good week and, remember, school starts on Monday, so be sure and drive carefully through school zones. Kids are unpredictable, so you may be a minute late to work, but driving slow might save a life.

Remember the hippies of the late '60s and early '70s? A generation that appeared unwashed, unbarbered and, sometimes, unclothed?

Recently, I came to the conclusion that the hippies of yesteryear have been reincarnated as, or grew up to be, motorcycle riders.

On vacation in the Black Hills of South Dakota, it came to my attention that bikers bear some resemblance to the hippies. They are bearded, long-haired, and may even appear dirty.

The difference in hippies and bikers, though, may be that the latter would seem to be more affluent than the former.

The town of Sturgis, S. Dak., apparently hosts a motorcycle rally every year. With a population of something like 5,500, the town could hardly expect to bed and feed the 200,000, or more, bikers who show up.

Every little and big town in the area put out the welcome mat. Bikers spend money and businesses like that.

"Welcome Bikers" banners appeared everywhere. It would have no surprise to see a banner across the faces of the Presidents at Mount Rushmore, so pervasive was the biker influence.

Restaurants were packed and smelled of the leather chaps, jackets and vests the male and female bikers wore.

A naive country girl could not believe the tattoos both men and women showed off. (I came to hope that lots of those designs were created with body paint, not tattooing, but deep down I knew better.)

In a youth sometimes marred by timidity and rarely danger, I remember a high school friend who was the envy of his peers. He owned a Harley-Davidson.

During lunch breaks at school, we'd pile three or four, plus the driver, on the cycle and hit the dips on the city streets. It was a heady adventure for a coward.

The miracle is no one was killed, or even hurt, during these noontime excursions. My hometown didn't have a real police force in those days. The county sheriff enforced the laws in town as well as outside the city limits. He and his one deputy hadn't the time to chase down errant high school students tearing around on a motorcycle.

Once, when I was the mother of a teenager, she asked what I'd say if she wanted to go motorcycle riding. "I'd say it's a dangerous thing to do," said I. "How do you know?" was the next question. "Because I've done it." My daughter wandered off, unbelieving that her stick-in-the-mud mother ever could have climbed aboard a Harley.

Anyhow, there were two cycles of choice in my day--the Harley and one that I remember only as Indian. The Harley was the top-drawer item and owners of one of these two-wheeled wonders scorned the Indian model.

Then, something happened to motorcycles. Not being an historian of vehicles, I'm not certain of the full story. But first, cycles kind of fell into disrepute. Then, the Japanese took over the market.

Hell's Angels may have put a pall on motorcycling because of the reputation the gang earned.

As for the Japanese, they came along with smaller and cheaper models that captured the attention of riders who spurned the Hell's Angels persona.

Let me tell you, though, after economic disaster, etc., the Harley-Davidson has made a comeback and dominated the highways in South Dakota.

Just like the Phoenix, the "Hawg" has risen from the ashes of recession and near-bankruptcy.

Age has a telling effect on one's perceptions. In my mind, the moon rides on the motorcycle were an exciting experience. We were being as dangerous as our parents and times would allow.

What I learned in South Dakota, though, is that motorcycles are, above all else, noisy.

The men and women riding them probably were, for the most part, professional people, enjoying a lifestyle entirely different from their day-to-day existence.

Somewhat, though, I didn't envy them. Besides the deafening roar of the engine, a motorcycle has other faults.

The one that bugs me the most is the windscreen which doesn't offer much protection from the elements or pestilence.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I wanted to drop a line to all the fine people from Hereford who helped make my family feel so welcomed during this past weekend's Jubilee.

It was the first Jubilee I have had the opportunity to attend, and it was especially enjoyable because of the Class of 1974's twenty-year reunion. It is hard to believe that it has been 20 years since I graduated from Hereford High. I was proud of our class back then, but I am even more proud of all my classmates now.

We were overachievers even back then. You can look it up...we went to the regional playoffs in football when we were picked next to last; of course, the band won sweepstakes and there were many other awards for our classmates, both individually and collectively.

Those who have stayed in Hereford are leaders in both the civic and church communities. Hereford now has school board members and city commissioners who graduated in the class of '74. They were leaders 20 years ago, and they still carry on that tradition.

Individually and physically, we have all grown. But Saturday morning we turned back the clock and we were all kids on a parade float.

It may sound trite in this day and age to say that a group of people can love each other. But I must tell you that it was difficult leaving Hereford Sunday morning. For a while on Saturday night, we were all 18 again. In the dimmed lights at the reunion dance, there were no lines on our faces, no middle-age spread over our belts, no worries about work or about kids. We were all together again, and all was right in the world.

Thank you all for having us. Thank you for your wonderful hospitality. My senior year at Hereford High will always be one of my favorites. I could not think of a better place to be than in Hereford, Texas, in 1974. Thank you for sharing another glimpse of it with all of us.

disability, the same people can also qualify for Medicaid and food stamps and other federal benefits.

"Taxpayer dollars are used directly to subsidize and perpetuate drug and alcohol abuse," according to a minority staff report earlier this year by the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging.

Well, if the FDA adopts the ruling that nicotine is addictive and a drug, that means that the 47 million smokers in the U.S. can qualify for SSI checks because of their "federally protected involuntary disability."

Wouldn't it be ironic if one agency of the federal government tries to stop smoking by declaring it an addictive drug, and another agency of the same government passes out taxpayer money because the smoker is involuntary disabled.

And this is the government we want to put in charge of health care?

CODY, Wyo. (AP) - When Charlton Heston comes to town to campaign for a U.S. Senate candidate, he won't have a platform to stand on.

The City Council refused to let Heston use of the city band shell to stump for Republican Congressman Craig Thomas. Under city policy, the band shell can only be used for city-sponsored programs.

Steve Cranfill, who is organizing the event, argued that Heston should be able to use the platform Sept. 8 because his appearance would be good public relations for Cody.

The People Promoting Progress Committee extends its great appreciation to the many Hereford residents who volunteered their time and effort toward the passage of Hereford's recent 1/2% economic development sales tax proposal.

We also commend those residents who took enough interest in this election to express their opinions and perspectives, pro or con, for further public discussion.

We believe this was an important victory for us all - an important corner to turn for future prosperity. It will allow our community the opportunity to secure a fair foothold in the competitive search for new industry, but more importantly, it should remove any doubt that Hereford's spirit for making things happen is still alive and well.

The seeds of new growth have been planted, and the torch of leadership has once more been rekindled by each of us in this community. Expanding our tax base, bringing in new jobs, and renewing industrial growth are our objectives.

Herd looks to keep 1993 momentum going

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Since Oct. 15, 1993, the Hereford High School football program has been on a roll, and head coach Danny Hanev would like to keep rolling through the 1994 schedule.

Last year's Hereford football team finished with a 4-6 record; it was the first losing record for a Herd team since 1978. The season started with six straight losses, but three of those were by a field goal or less. (Tascosa later had to forfeit its season-opening victory over the Herd.)

On Oct. 15, though, Hereford broke the slide with a win over rival Randall. Hereford finished the season by winning three out of four and was even in the playoff hunt until the end.

That finish was what this year's players remembered during spring workouts, Hanev said, and the good attitude has carried over into the first practices of this season.

"Every year is a separate year, but you carry tradition over," he said. "Last year's team left a mark for this team, finishing the way it did.

"Our emphasis every year is to get in the playoffs and to do everything we can do to win the state championship. As a continuation of the offseason--a great offseason--two-a-days were upbeat. The athletes were really focused on the things we're trying to do."

Some of that showed in the scrimmage with Plainview Friday night in Whiteface Stadium. Hereford got the ball in the end zone two times during the 3 1/2 hour, rainsoaked scrimmage. Plainview scored seven times, though most of those came late in the session.

When Hereford's more-or-less first team offense went against Plainview's first team defense, Hereford scored once. When Plainview's first offense went against Hereford's top defenders, Plainview scored once, capping off a sustained drive with a one-yard TD run.

Hereford's score was set up when fullback Armando Zambrano caught a short pass from Michael Brown and turned it into a 45-yard gain. Later, on fourth-and-three, Brown found tight end Scott Parker for a first down at the five-yard line. Brown then hit Ronald Torres with a touchdown pass.

"We were able to run a balanced attack with running and passing," Hanev said. "We got it down the field and got it in the end zone with a nice play from Michael to Ronald. The execution level was very good in the first series."

Earlier, on the fifth play of the night, Michael Brown scrambled and sidestepped several would-be tacklers for an apparent 70-yard scoring run, but it was called back because of a clipping penalty.

Much later in the scrimmage, Hereford got its second score when Brown found Jeb Skiles for a three-yard touchdown pass.

Several of Plainview's scores were on big plays, and two of them came

Spikers go on to winners' bracket

The Hereford volleyball team advanced to the championship bracket of the Lubbock Invitational Tournament with pool play wins over Canyon and Perryton and a split with Lubbock Coronado.

In the Friday's first pool match,

Hereford won the first game 16-14 over Coronado but lost the second 15-11. Hereford went on to defeat Perryton 15-4, 15-5 Friday afternoon and Canyon 15-11, 15-6 Friday evening.

The tournament, held at Lubbock's

Monterey High School, was to conclude Saturday. Hereford was to start with a quarterfinal match against El Paso Irvin. Other teams in the championship bracket were Dumas, Pampa, Lamesa, Brownfield, Coronado and Monterey.

Local youngsters excel at rodeo

Several young cowboys and cowgirls from Hereford, Dimmitt and Vega competed in the High Plains Junior Rodeo Finals held July 27-30 in Lovington, N.M.

Rodey Wilson was the Reserve All-Around Cowboy in the 9-12 age group, and he received a saddle for the honor. He won year-end belt buckles for calf touching and steer roping, and he won another buckle for taking first in calf touching at the finals. He was third in breakaway roping.

Several other area youth placed in events or qualified for the finals:

8-under girls: Amy Northcutt finished eighth in pole bending and ninth in barrel racing for the year. Kayli Wilson qualified in pole bending.

9-12 boys: Monty Lewis was fourth in calf touching and fifth in breakaway roping. Kip Kendrick was fifth in steer stopping and qualified in breakaway roping. Marty Wilson qualified in steer riding.

13-15 girls: Johna Beth Wilson was 11th in barrel racing and qualified in pole bending and goat tying. Tiffany Blasingame was 12th in both barrels and poles.

13-15 boys: In team roping, Pecos Alford was 10th for the year and second in average at the finals, Ty Boggeman was eighth for the year, and Ike Blasingame also competed.

16-19 girls: Michelle Meyer finished ninth in goat tying and tenth in breakaway roping.

16-19 boys: Jimmy Henderson was sixth in bareback bronc riding. Ross Montgomery was seventh in calf roping, seventh in ribbon roping and eighth in chute dogging. Woody Rickerd was fifth in bull riding.

The rodeo association included 390 youngsters, each of which received a jacket made by H&R Manufacturing of Hereford. There were 15-20 participants in each event in each age group.

Packers defeat Saints

Chris Jacke's 36-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter gave the Green Bay Packers a 13-10 victory over the New Orleans Saints on Friday night.

Green Bay (2-1) spoiled New Orleans' first home game of the preseason with Jacke's second field goal of the night after a 34-yard punt by Tommy Barnhardt set the Packers up on the Saints' 46.

Jim Everett, making his first start in the Superdome as a member of the Saints, completed 10 of 16 for 102 yards, threw one interception and was in the last four or five plays of the night. "Everybody in there tonight did some great things, but they made some mistakes too—fundamental things we've got to take care of," Haney said.

Haney has been with working with the offense especially to improve the passing game, and it showed Friday.

"We spent the spring and two-a-days trying to polish the throwing game," Haney said. "Both quarterbacks—Todd (Dudley) and Michael—have done a good job, and the receivers have come on and caught the ball.

"Of course our foundation is the pitch sweep, the fullback dive and isolation with the tailback."

No matter how well the passing game works, Haney won't toss the toss out of the playbook. Marquise Brown started at tailback last year as a sophomore and gained 1,119 yards and scored 10 touchdowns. Haney plans to plug Brown's sizzling speed into the passing game.

sacked once in the first half. New Orleans dropped to 0-3.

Brett Favre completed 8 of 12 attempts for 124 yards and a touchdown in the first half for the Packers.

Lions 24, Cardinals 16

Scott Mitchell completed 12 of 22 passes for 200 yards and two touchdowns, both to Herman Moore, as Detroit topped Arizona in Pontiac, Mich.

Derrick Moore scored Detroit's other touchdown on a 1-yard run and Jason Hanson kicked a 42-yard field goal.

Steve Beuerlein played the first three quarters for Arizona, going 11-for-20 for 147 yards and one touchdown with three interceptions. Browns 28, Falcons 7

Cleveland capitalized on visiting Atlanta's five turnovers and 16 penalties to improve to 3-0, the best preseason mark in coach Bill Belichick's four years.

Vinny Testaverde was 11-for-23 for 121 yards and a touchdown for the Browns. Atlanta (2-2) got strong performances from quarterback Jeff George (114 yards, one touchdown) and running back Eric Pegram (20 carries, 84 yards), and outgained Cleveland 271-269 yards.

On Saturday, Minnesota plays Seattle at the University of Washington's Husky Stadium, Buffalo faces Houston at San Antonio, the New York Giants play the New York Jets, Tampa Bay is at Miami, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, Indianapolis at Pittsburgh, and the Los Angeles Raiders at the Los Angeles Rams.

Giants at Jets

It's just preseason, but when New York's football teams get together, even in an exhibition, it gets fans a little riled.

"It means a little more for the fans and the media and the people around here," Jets coach Pete Carroll said. "As far as the preseason goes, there's a little more to it, a little more pizzazz."

YMCA still taking raquetball entries

The Hereford YMCA has extended the deadline for entry in its raquetball league to Monday.

The league is for singles players, men or women. Matches are handicapped. Two divisions help ensure players are matched against players at similar skill levels.

Matches are played on Thursdays starting Aug. 25.

The entry fee is $10 for YMCA members and $20 for non-members.

"We also spent a lot of time working on what we call our backs package, getting the backs out of the backfield to catch the ball," Haney said. That worked well Friday when Zambrano, the fullback, had the 45-yard reception to set up the score.

"What we're trying to do is carry over what we did last year and improve and expand on that just a little," Haney said.

The key to all of this is the offensive line, and Haney likes his.

"The offensive line has worked extremely hard developing their strength and quickness," Haney said. "We're as big and strong as we've ever been."

Haney offered as examples Michael Medina and Josh Gamboa, both of which are about 6 feet, 2 inches tall and weigh 260 pounds. Two other top candidates are 200-pounders Joe De La Cruz, a starter last year, and Terance High, the Herd's placekicker last year.

At center, there's a good battle among Gabriel Guerrero, Keith Flood and Samuel Berryman, Haney said.

Candidates for fullback are Zambrano, Josh Urbanczyk and John Emerson.

Rounding out the offense, Hereford has some experienced receivers coming back. Tight end Scott Parker and receivers Marc Haney and Homer Hamilton represent one-fourth of the Herd's total of 12 returning lettermen. Haney was one of the Herd's leading receivers with 15 catches for 230 yards and three touchdowns.

Other tight ends are Raymond Gonzales and J.P. Villarreal. Other receivers include Wade Backus, Johnny Garza and Ronald Torres.

The Herd defense returns four players who earned starting jobs by the end of the year: tackle Shawn Malone, end Richard Hicks, linebacker Jacob Lopez and cornerback Michael Marquez. End David Hicks also earned a letter.

Michael Brown was the starting safety last year, but probably will stay at quarterback this year.

"We're looking to our defense, particularly the forcing unit, to be a strong point," Haney said. "Our secondary has to develop. They've got to come on."

The top candidates at the defensive positions, besides the returning lettermen, include:

Tackle: Michael Kriegshauser, Dion Reyna and Mark Blea.

End: Michael Hund, Hector Rodriguez and Ralph Morales.

Linebacker: Armando Zambrano, Martin Martinez, George Cox and Moses Ruiz.

Cornerback: Tanner Murphey, Jeb Skiles, Steven Wright, Josh Bullard and Jacob Moreno.

Safeties: David Vermillion, Hugo Reyes, T.J. Robbins and Homer Hamilton. Marquise Brown also is a possibility.

District 1-4A should see another tight race for the two playoff positions available, and Haney sees his team in the thick of it.

"I don't see any favorites," he said.

Minor league umpires don't have easy life

By TIM GRIFFIN

San Antonio Express-News
MIDLAND, Texas - A wizened fan is perched six rows behind home plate at Christensen Stadium, spitting tobacco juice into a plastic cup.

In between spits, the elderly fan carries on an animated conversation about baseball history with a young boy, who seems more interested in his new pack of trading cards than his grandfather's recollections about Ted Williams and Joe Dimaggio.

The arrival of two men in pressed shirts, slacks, turf shoes and battered protective gear ends the family's discussions and rivets their attention toward home plate.

"Kill the umpire," the older fan yells, repeating a line heard across baseball fields everywhere. "Let's get a few right tonight for a change."

Insults like those are echoed all over baseball parks. Umpires say they get used to it on a nightly basis, and in fact, almost would be surprised if they didn't hear such greetings.

"Sure, we can hear them," Texas League umpire Doug Eddings said. "But it doesn't bother us. If it does, you'll be in for a long career."

"If they say anything differently, I might stop and laugh," said Kraig Sanders, Eddings' umpiring partner. "You basically hear the same thing over and over."

A recent road trip with Eddings and Sanders provided a glimpse of the nomadic lifestyle of minor-league umpires. While calling balls and strikes, safes and outs 136 games a season, the umps endure abusive fans and managers, long drives, low pay and a lot of greasy fast-food meals along the way.

"There are days when this job is tough, but the thing I like about it is that it changes from day to day," Sanders said. "I love the opportunity to meet people and go to the different cities and work the games."

Even if it means putting up with overbearing managers, nasty foul tips and a few thousand deep knee bends during the course of the season.

Umpires like Eddings and Sanders look at the game differently than baseball fans. They scan box scores from bottom to the top, pausing to check the umpires first, rather than pitching matchups or final scores. They can identify home-plate umpires by sight on television games, merely by checking an umpire's style.

"I personally think that umpires are born and not raised," Eddings said. "You have to have the instincts. But I love what I'm doing, even with everything that goes with it."

The ultimate step in the development of the umpire is a chance to work the major leagues. But making "the show" often takes more than just hanging around the minor leagues for a few years for that opportunity.

With just 60 umpires and little turnover in the big leagues--most umpires remain at their jobs 20 years--luck plays a part in getting to the majors.

Competition is fierce for the chance to move up. The odds on making the jump for an umpire are much less than that for players, managers or coaches.

"It's almost like winning the lottery," said Ed Lawrence, executive director of Major League Development in St. Petersburg, Fla. "When you're ready, there has to be an opening. Realistically, we have a lot of people capable of working the big leagues, but there's no spots available."

Industry officials have estimated that a rookie umpire has approximately a 2 percent chance of making the big leagues. There are about 200 minor-league umpires and hundreds more training at umpiring schools.

Each move in the majors triggers another move that reaches throughout the minor leagues. There are several callups a year because of promotions, injuries, retirements or firings.

"There might be four or five movements in a year," Eddings said. "You see somebody else was picked and you wonder why that is. But you just have to keep going out and doing your job."

"All I want to do is move to Triple-A. I figure if I get a look at that level, I might get a chance in the big leagues."

Eddings, 25, has been umpiring since 1989. He worked two years in the Eastern League before moving to the Texas League this season.

Sanders, 28, took a different route to umpiring. He graduated from college and started a sales job with a trucking company in Memphis, Tenn., for two years before he decided to go to umpire school.

Texas League umpires make about $2,500 a month, along with $16 a day meal money and 25 cents per mile travel money. Most of their mileage pays for rented cars.

The seasonal work forces most umpires to work a second job during the off-season. Sanders, who will be married later this year, is employed as a temporary worker at his home in Little Rock, Ark.

The starting annual salary for major league umpires is $60,000 and after 20 years they will make $175,000. They also get the meal money and first-class hotels that umpires like Eddings and Sanders dream about.

Trips from El Paso and eastward to Jackson, Miss., and the north-to-south run from Wichita to San Antonio make the Texas League the most nomadic of any of the minor leagues where umpires travel by car.

One of the shortest jaunts is the Midland-San Antonio route, which Eddings and Sanders made last weekend. Getting to their hotel before 4:30 a.m. was almost a luxury, considering most of their other trips.

The Texas League maintains four two-man umpiring crews, which travel more than 11,000 miles during the season dispensing baseball justice on a nightly basis.

This year is the first for two-man umpiring crews after many years with three-man teams.

The commissioner's office opted to trim a man from Double-A crews as a cost-cutting measure. They also eliminated vans for umpires, who now must provide their own transportation between stops.

The budgetary move trimmed about $500,000 per year for baseball, a sum of about $18,000 per major league team.

"It has made it tougher for us, no doubt," Eddings said. "One of the guys on the crew used to be able to sleep in the back while the others drove. It's a lot more difficult with just two of us."

The elimination of the extra umpire didn't cause any job cutbacks, but has affected how the two-man crews work their games.

"It's a lot more difficult working with two umpires because we have more area to cover, but we have to do the best we can," Sanders said. "What's particularly tough for us are the balls out of the infield down the lines and the balls hit deep because of the double-decked outfield fences."

The 320-mile trip from San Antonio to Midland is relatively minor in a league where journeys of more than 12 hours are endured.

Within 30 minutes of the end of the Missions' game, the crew was packed and ready to leave Municipal Stadium. After saying brief goodbyes to several local fans, Sanders and Eddings were on the road to Midland for the next night's game.

An unexpected stop along the way came near Comfort, where a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper pulled over Sanders for going 77 mph in a 65-mph zone. It was his second speeding ticket in less than three weeks, despite an impassioned plea that brought up Sanders' future work and the long trip ahead.

"He didn't seem to have any concern about what my future occupational plans were," Sanders said glumly. The ticket will be shared by both members of the crew.

The group finally arrived in Midland about 4 a.m., just in time for a heavy rainstorm that made loading their luggage into the motel a damp experience. Neither Sanders nor Eddings could fall asleep once they arrived, and both stayed awake until well after 6 a.m. while watching reruns of "The Andy Griffith Show."

After sleeping well into the afternoon and a short workout at a nearby health club, the duo was ready to start the first of a five-game series between Midland and Wichita.

"The down time during the day before the game is the hardest thing," Sanders said. "You see the same motel rooms and try to keep from going crazy. I like to get up early in the day and do something away from the hotel, but the travel days make it hard. It takes a couple of days to bounce back from that."

A variety of electronic gadgets makes their shared motel room feel more like home. A portable phone, answering machine, universal remote control switch and Sega Genesis game system bring all of the comforts on the road with them. When they remain in a city for an extended time, the umps often rent a video cassette recorder and bring compact discs for entertainment.

"The tough thing for us is that all of our games are on the road," Eddings said. "The players will have the chance to spend about half their time at home, where they have friends and things to do. That's not the case for us."

The Texas League strives to keep its umpires apart from the players, putting them in separate hotels and steering them to different hotels and restaurants on the road. But in smaller towns like Midland, some confrontations are unavoidable.

After one of the games in Midland, the crew unexpectedly ran into an entourage led by Wichita manager Keith Champion and his coaching staff. Brief pleasantries were exchanged, but the umpires made sure they kept their distance from the team.

"You find out where the players go to in town and you try and avoid those places," Eddings said. "But if you run into them, you've got to be civil. But it's not a good idea to be out with them."

Whether they are friendly with the players or not, umpires are required to make snap judgments as a matter of instinct.

During a three-game swing last week, Eddings and Sanders had no controversial calls to make. Other than some harping over balls and strikes, nothing eventful happened during the games.

"Typically, most of our games are pretty quiet," Sanders said. "There really isn't much going on during about 75 percent of the games. But when things happen, they always seem to come at the same time."

Both remember an El Paso-San Antonio series in late June, when El Paso manager Tim Ireland was ejected two consecutive games when Eddings was working behind the plate.

"Tim is just a fiery guy who sticks up for his team and wants to win very bad," Eddings said. "It was nothing personal between him and me."

"I don't mind the controversy, because those are situations I can handle. I would rather have a game like that any day than one where I get hit by a foul ball."

After one game in Midland, Eddings was hit on the right arm by a foul tip and a picked up a nasty bruise. Similar bumps are part of the price of working behind the plate.

Sanders remembers an incident earlier this season when his parents watched one of his games in Little Rock.

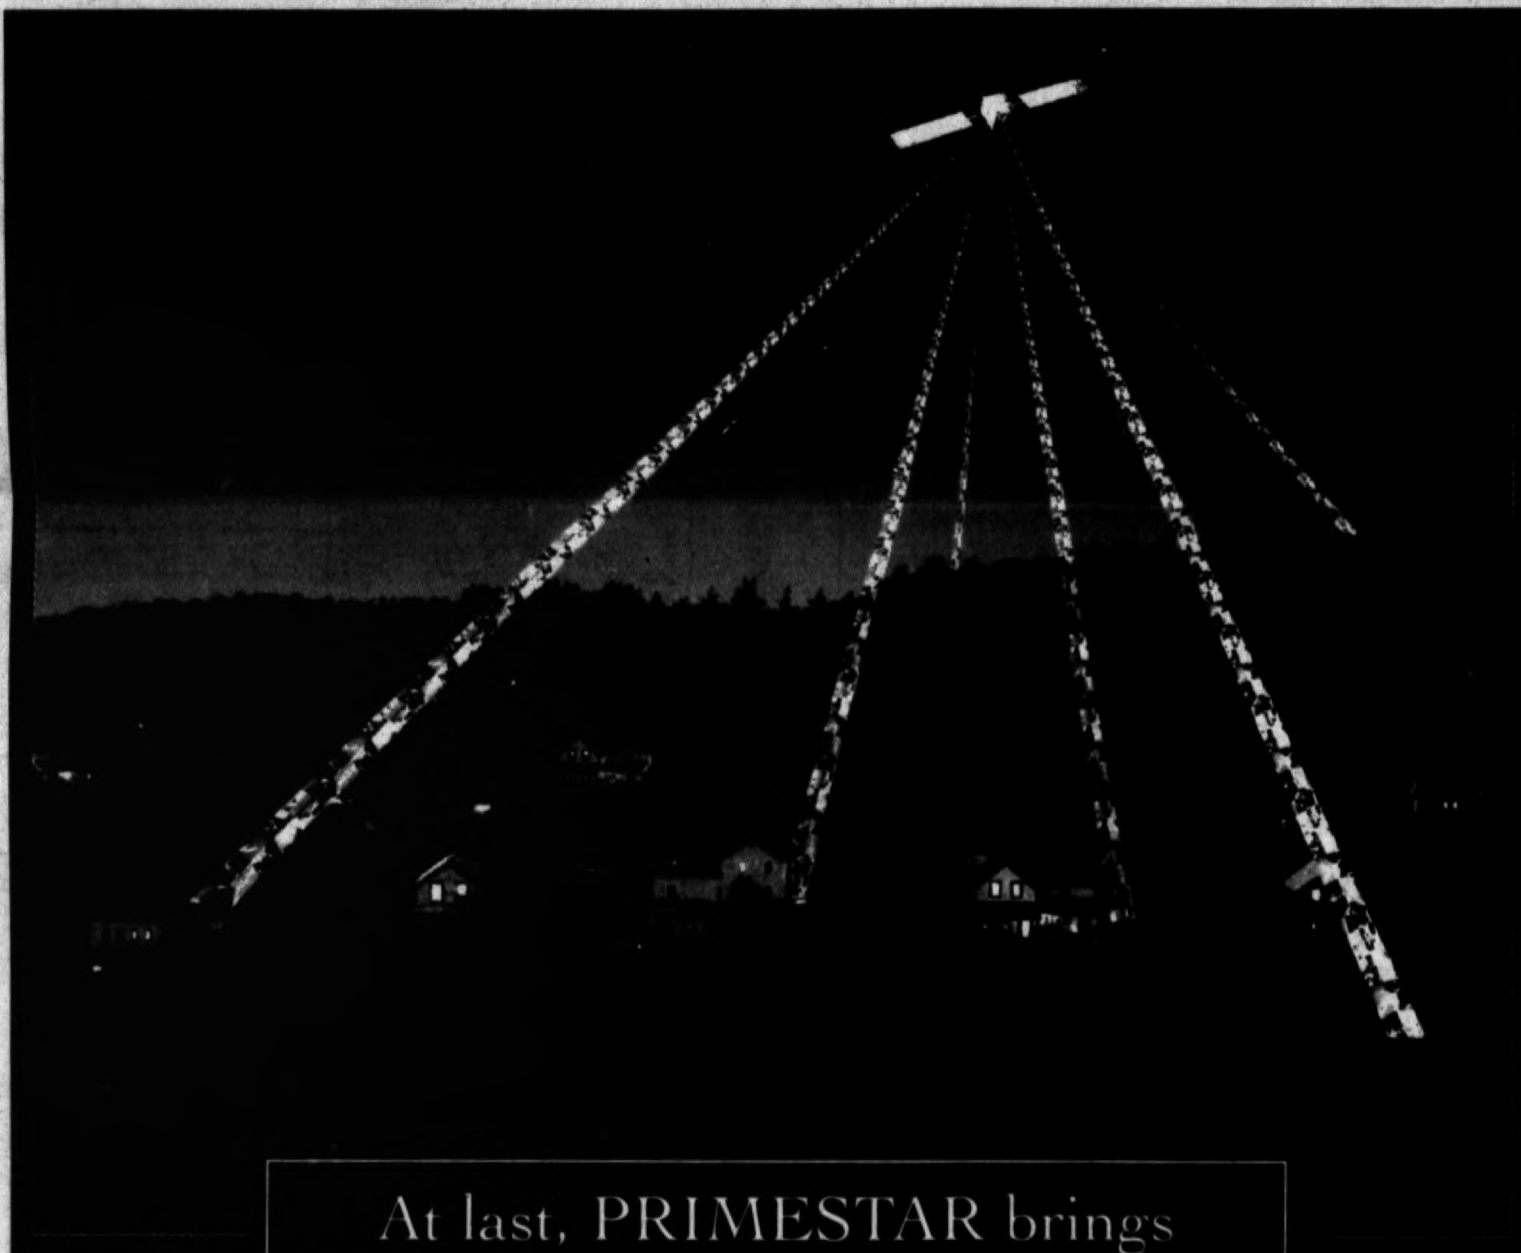

"That was the first time they had ever watched me call a game," Sanders said. "I told them to watch the game and not say anything about me working to anybody around them."

"As invariably happens with my mom, she started talking with another lady, whose son was playing in the game. By the time the game was over they got to be pretty good friends. But the other lady told my mom she didn't realize umpires had families, too."

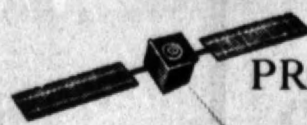

The closest person to an umpire during the season is their partner. Umpires joke that their relationship with their partners makes them "brothers for a summer."

"People just think we just pop up from the ground," Sanders said. "They don't realize all that goes into getting us into this situation."

Mystery surrounds unusual Texas Centennial china set

By DENISE GAMINO
Austin American-Statesman
AUSTIN - A set of unusual Texas Centennial china has become the centerpiece of a historical mystery. The dishes, on display at a Round Rock antique mall, are drawing attention for their intricate hand-painted bluebonnets and wildflowers. But no one seems to know exactly where the historic Lone Star dishes came from - or where they might end up. State officials hope somebody will buy them and donate them to the state so they can be showcased in the Capitol.

On the back of the Wedgwood plates, the inscription reads: "Texas Centennial 1936. This design was inspired by the wild flowers of Texas." Constance Crow of Crow's Nest Antiques said she acquired the dishes from an older Texas couple who had little information about them. "The persons who had them had purchased them at a Texas Centennial function back in 1936," Crow said. "We haven't found anybody who can say they've ever seen them before," she said. "We've even contacted the Wedgwood (Collectors) Society back East and they can't give us any information on it. They don't know anything."

"They said that Wedgwood was notorious for doing special things for department stores and everything, but they wouldn't put them in their books, about how much they made or where it went," she said. "We don't even know who they were specially consigned for." Dealey Herndon, executive director of the State Preservation Board, said the board's collection review committee is studying the china to determine its historical value. If the five-member committee approves, the preservation board plans to try to find a donor to pay the $8,500 price for the 53 pieces.

"We have to have private funds," Herndon said. "It's obviously not a state purchase. We would have to identify a donor." "They're gorgeous, and very unique. We would hate to lose them to some collector." If the state acquired the dishes, they would be displayed in the public reception room of the lieutenant governor's office, Herndon said. Bill Bain of Houston, a long-time collector of Texas Centennial memorabilia, said he was surprised to learn of the dishes. "I would certainly think they are a scarcity, a hard-to-find item," he said. "I've been collecting Texas Centennial items since 1970, and I've never seen that particular design and have never heard of it." "Somebody, probably a jewelry store or a department store or it could have been a fund-raising group, probably got a commission from the Texas Centennial to have these plates made."

The 12 place settings include a dinner plate, bread plate, cup and saucer. There also is a serving platter, a cream and sugar set and two additional plates.

Each dinner plate has three bluebonnets painted in its center and a thick border of other wildflowers. At first glance, each plate looks identical, but closer inspection reveals subtle differences.

"Everyone who sees it goes crazy," Crow said.

Crow said she received the dishes a few months ago and thought she was acquiring a different line of Centennial china that is not rare.

"When I got it, I was in complete shock," she said. "It was like a Christmas present you get. I opened up the box and said, 'Oh my God. What have I got?'"

The china is on display at Crow's booth at the Antique Mall of Texas on Interstate 35 in Round Rock.

"We would like to see it sold to someone who would put it on display for the public," Crow said.

New Parenting Bible helps with advice on raising kids

By DAVID BRIGGS
AP Religion Writer
Sick of your kids fighting over who got more when you handed out the snacks?

Take a tip from the Book of Acts and let the injured parties do it themselves next time.

At a loss for what to say when your son or daughter encounters prejudice?

The answer for Christian families might lie in re-reading the Gospel of Mark with eyes on the loving attitude Jesus showed to tax collectors and sinners.

Even with the bookstores' sagging shelves of parenting tomes, the ultimate self-help book for mothers and fathers might be the Bible, according to "The Parenting Bible." The new book, published by Zondervan, of Grand Rapids, Mich., integrates parenting advice, timeless words of wisdom from other sources and family fun activities with the New International Version of the Bible to show how biblical teachings can be applied to contemporary parenting issues.

"One of the things you find about parents these days is that parents are scared about the task of parenting," Larry Richards, author of the notes and articles in "The Parenting Bible," said in an interview. "We try to take some of the scariness out of it."

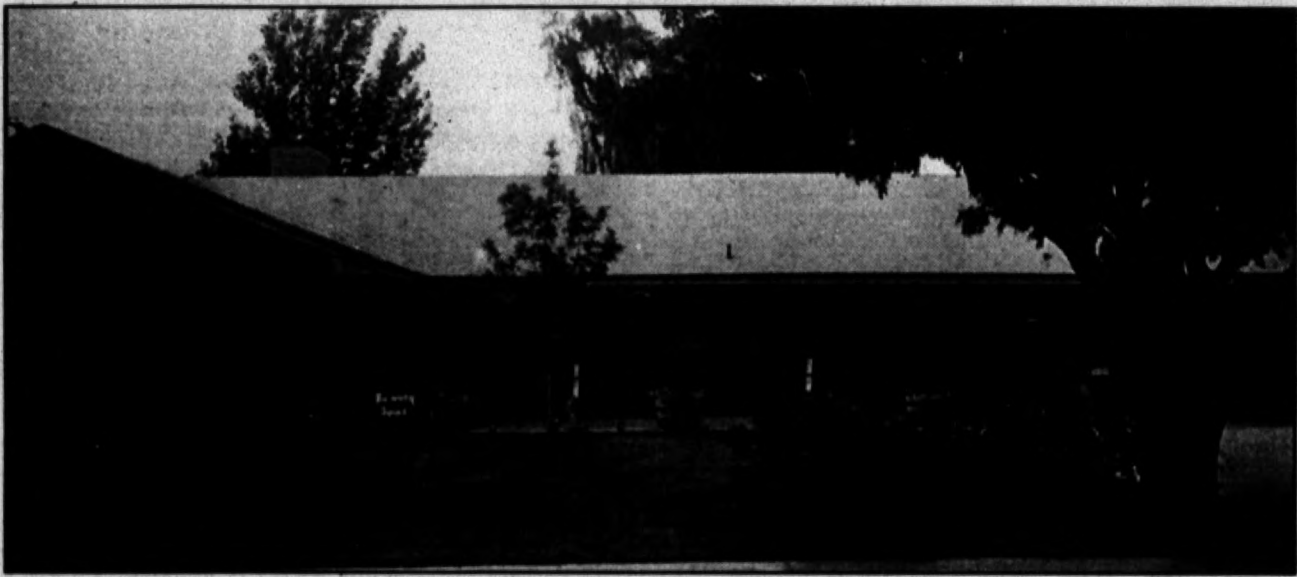

Richards says it is unrealistic today, when two parents work in many families and kids tend to have full schedules of activities, to expect the average family to read the Bible together daily.

His more modest goal in the new Bible is to have families do one activity a week that makes a biblical point about family life in a manner everyone can appreciate.

"A lot of that depends not on the traditional devotional-type activities, but on family fun that builds relationships," said Richards, himself a grandparent who also worked on "The Adventure Bible" for children.

For example, in an exercise that develops self-esteem and helps children understand the passages in Genesis that explain human beings were created in the image and likeness of God, the new Bible suggests parents spend a week keeping a diary recording the "special" things their children do. At supper one evening, parents are encouraged to share their diary entries and give their kids aluminum-foil crowns.

Fifty districts file suit over state funding

HOUSTON (AP) - More than 50 Texas school districts have sued the state, saying inflated property tax estimates since 1985 improperly stripped them of entitled shares of education money.

The 54 districts, who filed suit this month, say if they prevail and recalculations are done, millions will be rerouted their way. The Houston Post reported Friday.

"They raise some legitimate points," said Greg Hartman, executive assistant to State Comptroller John Sharp. "If they're right, it's something we have to take a look at. We just need to fix it if it's wrong. We're glad somebody pointed it out."

At issue is anywhere from $40 million to $80 million in back aid.

Under state law, a poorer district is entitled to more state aid, while wealthier districts receive less money.

On Aug. 4, Bridge City Independent School District and 46 others, including Dallas and Austin ISD, filed suit in Travis County. Houston, Lubbock and five other districts filed a separate suit in Travis County last Friday.

Every year, the comptroller's office calculates the value of property on school district tax rolls. Those calculations are used to determine a district's taxable wealth.

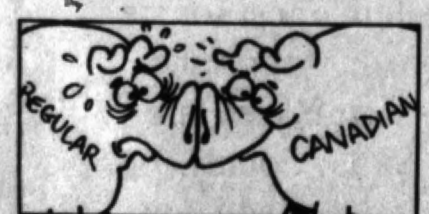

Both suits say state officials never enforced a 1985 amendment to the state law effectively requiring the state to take into account homestead property tax exemptions granted by district to homeowners over 65.

The state does not consider the exemptions in determining districts' taxable property wealth, which would increase the state aid they receive. The plaintiffs say they should.

Both lawsuits seek a change in interpretation of the law by next year.

In addition, the Aug. 4 lawsuit filed by Austin lawyer Buck Wood, seeks "relief for all prior years where the erroneous calculation was utilized."

"We feel we have a very good case," said Wood, declining further comment.

"Every man should have an ideal or a hero. If there is one who has none and desires none, do not trust him too far. One who has no ideals does not wish to be greater than he is and will, in time, prove a detriment to others."...Raymond Holliwel in Working With the Law

The week of preparation for the '94-'95 year at HJH has been one of work and anticipation. Faculty members met with other HISD personnel for a general assembly and lunch on Monday. We were privileged to have the keynote speaker, Colonel Howard Daniel, U.S. Army, Retired, and his wife, Marie, for a very inspirational in-service Monday afternoon.

Tuesday was a work day and after a wonderful reception at Hereford State Bank, we returned to school for orientation and enrollment of at least 465 students. These students were accompanied by one or both parents and some by other family members, so the attendance topped the 1000 mark!

On Wednesday, the faculty boarded two "yellow dogs," (as the kids would say), and toured Hereford and the surrounding area. This was an "eye opener", especially for those who have never been in any area of Hereford other than school campuses and perhaps downtown.

Thursday and Friday were spent in team meetings, department meetings with high school and working in classrooms.

Students should bring schedules Monday as teachers throughout the day will ask for them as rolls are checked...and remember...be there at 8:15 to avoid being tardy.

Pride Certified T-Shirts will be available later this week and will be given to students who have met the qualifications for them.

Binders, folders, pens and pencils will be on sale each morning at the Junior Historians "Little Store." The HJH logo binder is $5.00. We might remind you once more—only regular rule paper is acceptable at HJH.

We, at HJH, have great expectations for the students this school year, as we do each year. You, as parents, are sending us your "best" and we plan to help them to further their education and enhance their search for ideals and heroes.

Clinton drops 30-year-old policy on refugees leaving Cuba for US

WASHINGTON (AP) - Alarmed by a surging tide of Cuban refugees in South Florida, President Clinton said Friday that "illegal refugees from Cuba will not be allowed to enter the United States."

Clinton said those picked up at sea will be taken to the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo, Cuba. He also said his administration is exploring other safe havens for the Cuban refugees in the region.

He called the sudden surge in the flow of refugees from Cuba to Florida "a cold-blooded attempt to maintain the Castro grip on Cuba."

The president said Cubans who reached the United States "will be apprehended and treated like others." It was a dramatic shift from U.S. policy of the past 30 years under which Cubans have had special status.

The president remained firm in his support of the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba. Cuban President Fidel Castro has blamed the embargo for the economic problems of his nation.

Authorities sent to an immigration detention center near Miami some 350 Cuban refugees who reached Florida in the latest wave.

Common sense is not so common.

Fish, Beard wed Saturday evening

Sarah Ruth Fish of Hereford became the bride of David DeWitt Beard of Canyon during a wedding ceremony conducted Saturday evening at the Church of the Nazarene. Vows were exchanged on the groom's parents' wedding anniversary.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beryl G. Fish of 103 Centre and the bridegroom is the son of Retired Lt. Col. and Mrs. Laurence D. Beard of Wichita Falls.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Richard L. Russell of McKinney, retired Disciples of Christ minister and father of Mrs. Robbie Fish.

The church was decorated by two large arched candelabra adorned with English ivy and burgundy poppies with white tulle. The background was enhanced with silk ficus trees trimmed with tiny white lights, and the grand piano was decorated with multi-level white tapers and ivy. Pew bows were of ivory satin accented with hunter green tulle and white rosebuds. White unity candles were also placed on the altar and heirloom Bibles from the bridal couple's families were placed on the communion table.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father.

Sharon Scott of Austin served as maid of honor and best man was Russ Nettles of Maxwell.

Bridesmaids were Laura Garrard of Knoxville, Tenn., Julia Taylor of Round Rock, Myra Bickel of Lubbock, the groom's sister Corrie Beard of Wichita Falls, Tracy Townsend of Lubbock and Amy Albright of Atlanta, Ga.

Groomsmen were Brandon Pereira of Overland Park, Kan., Travis Moss of Amarillo, the bride's brother Jim Fish of Crane, Andrew Ehlert of Lubbock, David Terry of Austin and the groom's brother Dennis Beard of Lubbock.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brothers, David Fish of Hereford and Robbie Fish of Amarillo, and the groomsmen.

Flower girls were Erin Fish, daughter of Jim and Meredith Fish of Crane, and Lauren Thurman, daughter of David and Susan Fish of Hereford.

The groom's cousin, Robbie Rhoades, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rhoades of Wichita Falls, was ring bearer.

Candles were lit by Robbie Rhoades and Kara Thurman, daughter of David and Susan Fish.

Musical selections included: the prelude, "The Summer Song," "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "El Shaddai," "Beauty and the Beast" by Miss Whitney King of Lubbock on the harp and Mrs. Meredith Hadley Fish of Crane on the flute. Suzanne Moreland of Lubbock sang "Ave Maria" accompanied by Evelyn Hacker of Hereford on the piano.

Seating of the parents and the processional were accompanied by Miss King on the harp playing Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and Pachelbel's "Canon in D." Miss King played "Bridal Chorus" by Wagner on the harp.

The bride and groom partook of Communion following the wedding vows and the exchanging of rings. Miss Moreland sang "The Lord's Prayer." After the pronouncing of the couple as husband and wife and the benediction, Mrs. Hacker played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The bride wore a white Italian satin long sheath gown with rich beading of pearls and crystals in a diamond-shaped design. It was also fashioned with an open V-shaped neckline and long slightly puffed sleeves with lace and applied cutouts. The detachable cathedral-length train had matching lace and applied cutouts with the sweeping width edged with pearls.

The fingertip-length veil of double layers of white illusion was attached to a tiara of pearls and crystals.

The bride carried a bouquet of ivory and burgundy roses with ivory, burgundy, and hunter green satin ribbons, arranged on a white bride's Bible which was given to her by the groom's mother.

The bride's jewelry consisted of a matching necklace, bracelet and earrings of pearls arranged in a diamond-shaped design given to her by her parents. She also wore the engraved 1902 gold wedding band which belonged to her great-grandmother.

Bridesmaids were attired in long sheath-style dresses of hunter green shantung with open V-shaped necklines and short, capped sleeves with ivory satin wrist-length gloves. They carried arm bouquets of burgundy roses and English ivy.

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Serving were Mrs. David Fish and Mrs. Robbie Fish, the bride's sisters-in-law. Mrs. King played the harp during the reception.

Guests were registered by Lisa Evers and Shannon Evers of Plainview, the bride's cousins and daughters of Don and Eugenia Evers. The cherrywood antique round pedestal table was decorated with roses and held a statuette of Romeo and Juliet, a wedding gift to the bride's great-grandparents.

The ivory colored, four-tiered Italian creme bride's cake was decorated with ivory and hunter green blossoms and ribbons. The table was covered with a white imported appliqued cloth and accented with an arrangement of roses and multi-level brass candelabra.

The groom's table was decorated with English ivy on an ivory linen cloth which was used at his parents' wedding. His cake was chocolate with "Double T" of Texas Tech created in fresh and chocolate covered strawberries.

Also served at the reception were an assortment of hot hors d'oeuvres and fresh vegetable and fruit platters as well as mints especially made by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. C.R. Thompson. Round dining tables were covered with white cloths and decorated with white tapers amidst greenery and curled ribbons.

The bride wore a two-piece ivory brocade suit with matching shoes as her traveling costume to Cancun, Mexico. The couple will make their home in Canyon.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Hereford High School. She received her B.S. degree from TCU in 1990 in speech pathology and her M.S. degree from Texas Tech University in 1994 in communications disorders. She is employed as a speech pathologist by Rehab Choice, Inc., in Amarillo.

The groom graduated from A.T. Mahan High School in Keflavik, Iceland. He received his B.S. degree in civil engineering from Texas Tech University in 1993. He is employed by Brandt Engineering, Inc. in Amarillo.

Several pre-nuptial showers were held. A miscellaneous shower was hosted by her co-workers at Harwell Elementary School in Lubbock; a lingerie shower was held in the home of Mrs. Arthur Bickel of Lubbock; a bride and groom shower was given at the Priddy House, First Baptist Church, Wichita Falls; a shower was held in the home of Mrs. Bruce Coleman of Hereford; and a "rice bag" party was held in the home of Mrs. David Fish of Hereford.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents Aug. 19 in the Nazarene Church fellowship hall. It was catered by K-Bob's Restaurant.

Napoleon's army of 363,000 men began its advance on Moscow in June of 1812. Men and horses were sickened by sunstroke and bad fodder, making Napoleon's plan for an early success impossible. By the end of the year when the French forces retreated from Moscow, the casualties from fighting, cold and starvation had reduced France's army to a third of its original size.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER
Deaf Smith County
Extension Agent-H.E.
The First Day of School

Starting school is difficult for many children and even harder for some parents.

Parents worry about the safety and reaction of children. They wonder how their child will feel. They feel sad, anxious, lonely and--maybe--just a little bit old.

Feelings of sadness and worry during your child's first days of school are common, but these suggestions can help you get through those first days of separation.

*Talk to a friend. It may help to discuss your feelings with friends or other parents who have a child in school. Talk about how they felt when their children went to school for the first time. Ask how they have adjusted to the school routine.

*Plan busy days. Time drags if it is not filled up. Plan chores to occupy your time while your child is at school the first few days. Think about all the tasks you have been wanting to do but haven't had the time. Make a list. If you are at work, try to plan a day that will keep your mind occupied and away from reminders of your child. If you keep a photograph of your child on your office desk, for example, plan meetings to keep you out of your office.

*Make sure you can be reached. Be sure you have provided phone numbers where you can be reached in an emergency in case the school needs to call you for some reason. That way you can rest assured that you will know about any problems if they arise. If you don't hear from the school, it means your child is getting along just fine.

*Plan a special treat for your child's return. When your child returns at the end of the day, you will want to spend time with him or her. Plan a special treat based on your child's interest. It might be a cookies-and-milk break, a walk outside or a time to sing and read together. Just remember that your child will be tired and excited after the first days of school, so don't plan anything too demanding.

*Give yourself permission to care. Don't tell yourself you "shouldn't" feel the way you do. Let yourself worry a little and feel sad. Missing your child and worrying about him or her shows you care.

Keep fit while you travel

Whether traveling for business purposes or vacation pleasures, keeping in shape is easier than you might think.

Just remember that your workout each day should include three basic types of exercise:

1. Flexibility exercises that you perform before and after each workout.
2. Endurance exercises that may include cycling, running and swimming.
3. Strength exercises such as pullups, pushups and exercises with weights.

Remember, too, that just because you're away from home doesn't mean you'll be on vacation from minor injuries. However, the usual sprains and strains that often result from overexertion need not prevent exercise.

If disaster strikes, without a household inventory, it may be difficult to remember everything you've lost.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You printed a bit of comic material called "A Dog Named Sex" and said, "The author is unknown." I am the person who wrote it. Will you kindly acknowledge this in your column? Sincerely--Morty Storm, Brooklyn, N.Y.

DEAR MORTY STORM: It is my pleasure to give credit where it is due. The piece was hilarious. I'm sure my readers who already have seen it will enjoy it again. Those who haven't are in for a big laugh. Here it is:

A Dog Named Sex
Everybody who has a dog calls him Rover or Boy. I call mine Sex. He's a great pal, but he has caused me a great deal of embarrassment.

When I went to City Hall to renew his dog license, I told the clerk I would like a license for Sex. He said, "I'd like one, too!" Then I said, "But this is a dog." He said he didn't care what she looked like. Then I said, "You don't understand. I've had Sex since I was 9 years old." He winked and said, "You must have been quite a kid."

When I got married and went on my honeymoon, I took the dog with me. I told the motel clerk that I wanted a room for my wife and me and a special room for Sex.

He said, "You don't need a special room. As long as you pay your bill we don't care what you do." I said, "Look, you don't seem to understand. Sex keeps me awake at night." The clerk said, "Funny--I have the same problem."

One day, I entered Sex in a contest, but before the competition began, the dog ran away. Another contestant asked me why I was just standing there, looking disappointed. I told him I had planned to have Sex in the contest. He told me I should have sold my own tickets. "But you don't understand," I said, "I had hoped to have Sex on TV." He said, "Now that cable is all over the place, it's no big deal anymore."

When my wife and I separated, we went to court to fight for custody of the dog. I said, "Your Honor, I had Sex before I was married." The judge said, "This courtroom isn't a confessional. Stick to the case, please."

Then I told him that after I was married, Sex left me. He said that's not unusual. It happens to a lot of people.

Last night, Sex ran off again. I spent hours looking around town for him. A cop came over to me and asked, "What are you doing in this alley at 4 o'clock in the morning?" I told him that I was looking for Sex. My case comes up Friday.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband has been pulling a stunt that embarrasses me to tears. When we have company, he puts on a Tarzan outfit (leopard skin over one shoulder and leopard shorts), paints claw marks on himself with lipstick, tucks oak leaves in his hair, grabs a banana and goes up in the tree and waits. When the guests arrive, he starts making chimpanzee noises and swings down on them.

Everyone laughs hysterically, but I am secretly humiliated. Why would a guy in his 30s behave like this? I suspect he is very immature--Jane

DEAR JANE: Not necessarily. Your husband's exhibitionism has more to do with the satisfaction he gets from the uproarious laughter. I suspect he hungers for an appreciative audience and this act is a sure-fire hit.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-5062.

Hereford Pilot of the Year

Anna Solomon has been named as the Pilot of the Year for 1994. She was selected by the Hereford Pilot Club membership for her outstanding contributions to the organization. The honoree has been a member of the local club for eight years where she has served as president, treasurer and director. She has also served on numerous committees and has attended many district conventions and an international convention. Solomon, who is currently a club director, instigated the first Bicycle Safety Awareness Day held in May.

Rebekah members plan supper

The Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 met Tuesday evening with 13 members present.

Vice Grand Ocie Bolton presided as reports were made and sick members were remembered. Nineteen visits to the sick, 42 cheer cards, six dishes of food and one flower were recorded.

Two applications for membership were read.

It was announced that plans are progressing for the taco supper scheduled from 5-8 p.m. Aug. 27 at the Odd Fellow Hall, 205 E. Sixth St. Tickets will be available from members or at the door for $3.50, adults, and $1.50 for children 10 years of age and under. Everyone is invited to feast on the menu of tacos, beans, rice, fruit cobbler, tea and coffee.

Faye Brownlow was hostess to Bolton, Frankie Ruland, Irene Merritt, Anna Conklin, Ben Conklin, Nelma Sowell, Rosalie Northcutt, Susie Curtsinger, Ursalee Jacobsen, Mary Lou Weatherford and Nan Rogers.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Brian "Kato" Kaelin has snagged another TV gig - and he won't be under oath this time.

Kaelin, O.J. Simpson's famous house guest, will be guest host for the Labor Day edition of "Talk Soup" on the E! cable network.

He'll fill in for regular host Greg Kinnear, who also hosts the late-night show "Later" on NBC.

Kaelin auditioned in April 1993 - more than a year before his televised testimony at Simpson's preliminary hearing, E! spokeswoman Valerie Garrett said Tuesday.

"Apparently they thought he was really witty," she said.

Harris named best speaker

Mike Harris was named the best Hereford Toastmasters Club speaker when the group met Thursday morning at the Ranch House.

Joe Weaver was selected as the best evaluator and Ed Gilbert was named best topic speaker.

Harris spoke on "Rocky Mountain High," evaluated by Weaver, and Clarke Andrews spoke on "Darned If I Know," evaluated by Charles Minchew.

Dave Kimmel led the pledge and Charles Minchew gave the invocation. Joe Don Cummings served as presiding officer.

Wayne Winget was Toastmaster; Ralph Barndt, timer; Dee Hamilton, "ah" counter; Dave Kimmel, grammarian; Gayla Sanders, wordmaster; and "riant," the chosen word.

Topicmaster was Joe Don

Cummings and topic speakers were Ed Gilbert, Linda Minchew, Gayla Sanders and Don Hall.

Ed Gilbert gave the reading; Clarke Andrews told the joke; and Margaret Del Toro was general evaluator.

Colleen Seright was welcomed as a guest.

Helpful tips when moving

- Moving doesn't have to be an overwhelming experience—if you plan ahead.
- Here are some tips that will help to make your self-move successful and hassle-free:
 - Size up your moving needs and select the right truck. You will need packing materials and moving accessories including mattress bags and furniture pads.
 - You'll be pleasantly surprised at how much you will save by moving yourself, but it is nevertheless, a good idea to compare rates.
 - Make sure the rental company you choose has 24-hour emergency road service long your route.
 - Reserve your truck and moving supplies as soon as possible to assure availability.
 - Lighten the load prior to moving day by getting rid of items and furnishings you no longer want or need.
 - Speed up the packing process and eliminate guesswork by marking the contents and the room where the box belongs on the outside of each carton.
 - Be sure you don't overload yourself when you load your truck. Bend your knees and lift with your legs—not your back.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

A LOT OF WHAT I KNOW...

(First of two parts)

A few years ago, I read a book in which the author claimed that he had learned everything he needed to know in kindergarten. Since I missed out on kindergarten, I started to wonder just how I learned the things I know. As I pondered the question, I realized that a lot of what I know I learned from somebody else.

My formal education started with the first-grade. However, by the time I entered school, I'd already learned a few of the basics. I had help with how to tie my shoes, the A,B,Cs and counting to 100.

I also learned some things on my own. For example:

The flame on a match is hot, don't touch an electric fence and running barefoot has some disadvantages.

The Roots of Education

The experts tell us that education begins early and at home. Psychologists inform us that we learn most of what we'll ever know by age 6. If that is true, I received much of my early education on the farm four miles southwest of Galt, Mo.

My father died when I was three years old. There I was, a fat, poor, white, farm boy with only my widowed mother to raise and teach me. Today of course, I'd be known as a horizontally challenged, financially disadvantaged, non-color, agri-American from a dysfunctional single-parent family. You never stop learning.

Early Lessons

• From my mother I learned the importance of love and honesty. The love she showed by example was unselfish and sacrificial. From her personal integrity I learned there is no right way to do a wrong thing.

• From my first dog, Buster, I learned about loyalty. For 18 years Buster was faithful, willing-to-do-anything, willing-to-go-anywhere friend. I never heard him growl a harsh bark. He appreciated any small service rendered and was always grateful for any food item I shared with him.

• From my older brother, Jerrold, (notice that he ranks right after my dog) I learned that might is not always right. However, that knowledge won't keep your nose from bleeding. I also learned that hard work, practiced diligently, will carry you above the circumstances of poverty.

• From Arnold Rosenboom, my junior boys Sunday School teacher and later business partner, I learned that when God is first priority in your life everything else works out fine. He also taught me that we are in control of our own attitudes. When the going got pretty tough in his personal life, he never lost his good attitude and sunny disposition.

• From Sue, my bride of 24 years, I'm learning about abiding love and trust. I'm also learning that for any partnership to work each partner must build the other up. In marriage it simply means staying focused on the positive. There is enough good in the worst of us to keep love in full bloom if we focus on it.

• From my uncle, Robert Wetter, I've learned the value of consistent living. Uncle "Ribs," as we've always called him, was the first to take me on a roller coaster and to a professional baseball game. Those are memorable thrills, but what I remember most is his example of solid, dependable, Christian living. He has always been a man you can count on.

• From my daughter, Christi, I'm learning the joy and pride of fatherhood and I'm learning the art of parenting. I've still got a lot to learn.

Next week I'll show some lessons learned in school and in business. Don't miss "A lot of what I know..." Part two.

Question/Answer

Q: I am looking at an older house, and I'd like to get some tips on what to check for when inspecting the domestic water plumbing system.
A: Most likely you'll be looking at iron pipes which were commonly used in older homes. They have a projected life of about 45 years and are generally replaced on an as-needed basis using copper pipes. Unless a special electrolytic coupling is used at the joint between the iron and copper sections, galvanic action can cause deterioration of the iron pipe. This is indicated by a buildup of rust and mineral deposits at the joints.
 A problem to look for with brass pipes is that the zinc in the brass gradually dissolves into the water, leaving holes in the pipe. Water oozing out at these pinholes evaporates. The minerals contained in the water are then deposited on the surface of the pipe and eventually seal the leak. A pipe in this condition should be replaced.
 Another common plumbing problem concerns sink drains that have S-type drain traps. These traps are no longer allowed in many communities because they don't always vent properly. If the trap loses its water seal, you have an open pipe between the sewer and the sink. Noxious sewer gases can then seep into the room. S-traps are found in older homes and in some newer renovations that were not approved by the municipal building inspector.

Question/Answer

Q: Several years ago, I paneled three rooms with a dark shade, low-priced paneling. Now, I would like to paint the paneling a lighter color to brighten the rooms. Will this require a special paint? What treatment, if any, should I give the paneling prior to painting? Should I use a brush or a roller?

A: Prior to painting, the walls should be cleaned thoroughly. If these are kitchen or bathroom walls they may have become greasy or scum coated. Wash them down with a detergent solution on a nearly dry cloth to remove the coating without delaminating the paneling. If the walls are dry, make sure they are dust-free to avoid lumps in the paint job. They should then be covered with an oil-base primer - one that will not allow the stain on the panels to bleed through. Some stains contain a dye that can be dissolved by paint or primer and dark stains like yours can show through the primer coat. Before priming, try out a small, obscure area to see if the stain bleeds through. If it doesn't, then prime all the walls using either brush or roller. Let the primer coat dry completely before applying the finish coat because even slightly damp primer cannot seal properly. Once the walls are sealed with primer, put on the finish coat of your choice.

If the stain does bleed through the primer, you will have to use a stain-suppressing primer. There are several brands of these. One such primer is called Under Cover, manufactured by Parks Corp. (1-800-225-8543). It costs about $17 per gallon.

Options for CRP land use to be explored at meetings

Landowners whose Conservation Reserve Program contracts will expire next year are being encouraged by the Soil Conservation Service to start making plans for use of those acres.

To assist in planning wildlife and other options will be discussed at meetings in Amarillo on Tuesday and in Lubbock on Thursday.

Congress established CRP in the 1985 Farm Bill to take marginal cropland out of production and, most often, plant it to grass.

Texas landowners traded four million acres of cropland production for 10 years of annual rental payments. Eighty percent lies in a 55-county area of the Panhandle and Southern High Plains area.

Charles Coffman, Soil Conservation Service resource conservationist in Lubbock said landowners shouldn't overlook the wildlife options available to them on CRP acres.

"We have developed a management note that outlines options to consider when planning the future of CRP acres," said Coffman. "Wildlife habitat options are important whether you plan to leave the acres in grass or return them to crop production."

The management note is targeted for the High Plains and Panhandle, offering four basic options:

-- Managing the total grass acreage for wildlife habitat.

-- Managing the grass acreage for grazing livestock and wildlife habitat.

-- Returning part of the acreage to crop production and managing the remaining grass for wildlife habitat.

-- Returning the total acreage to crop production and managing for wildlife habitat.

The management note is another in a series developed by Texas Tech University, Texas Parks and Wildlife, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and SCS assisted in the development. Additional financial support was provided by the High Plains Chapter of Quail Unlimited and Pheasants Forever.

CRP contract holders may obtain a management note from any of the participating agencies or at the meetings in Amarillo and Lubbock.

"Income from wildlife is untapped in this area," said Coffman. "Many landholders don't charge a lease fee for hunting on their property. There is a potential for this because of the increased number of wildlife on CRP acres."

The meeting in Amarillo Tuesday will be held in the Sunset Convention Center, beginning at 9 a.m. The Lubbock meeting also will begin at 9 a.m., in the Civic Center Auditorium.

Perry asks U.S. agency change in plans for swift fox protection

AUSTIN -- The Texas land commissioner has called on the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to consider options instead of listing the swift fox as an endangered species in the Panhandle and West Texas.

Rick Perry, in a letter to the federal agency, suggested that options, such as developing habitat enhancement guidelines for voluntary use by landowners, should be explored.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife is considering a petition to place the swift fox on the endangered species list, which could restrict farming, ranching and oil field activities in its habitat.

Swift fox habitat in Texas is roughly the western portion of the Panhandle, from the Oklahoma state line south to Upton County.

Perry argues that the species is not facing extinction in Texas, and the population appears to be healthy in Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

"Substantial numbers of this small fox occur on private lands in these states," Perry said in a letter to Elizabeth McPhillips, supervisor of ecological services with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"In fact, this species is numerous enough in Kansas that... the Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks indicated a desire to provide surplus animals for restocking in South Dakota," the letter continued.

Swift fox populations appear to be low in the northern Great Plains portion of the habitat, and the petitioner has requested that the swift fox be listed as an endangered species in South and North Dakota, Nebraska and Montana.

However, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stated in initial findings that "substantial information exists to support a decision that listing of the fox may be warranted throughout its entire range."

Along with the Texas Department of Agriculture, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department does not agree with this federal opinion.

"As they typically tend to do, U.S. Fish and Wildlife is taking a broad-brush approach and considering impacting at the swift fox's entire Great Plains habitat whether populations are threatened or not," said Perry.

Vehicle traffic kills of the fox may be having a much greater impact on the animal's population than farming and ranching activities because the fox frequents highway rights-of-way, said the agriculture commissioner.

Perry offered four proposals for the federal agency to consider to protect the fox, instead of a restricted endanger species listing. The proposals are:

-- Develop swift fox management plans for all suitable U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service-managed property in the swift fox range, which includes the Buffalo Lake and Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuges in Texas.

-- Provide swift fox habitat enhancement guidelines for voluntary use by landowners and land managers (including federal agencies.)

-- Support funding of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's animal damage control service's activities to benefit the swift fox.

-- Study the effect of diseases such as canine distemper on the swift fox.

USDA report shows fewer cattle on feed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cattle on feed destined for slaughter dropped 5 percent from the previous year to 9.02 million head for the April-June quarter, the Agriculture Department says. But the total was a 2 percent rise from 1992.

Placements of cattle - animals put into feedlots - fell 12 percent in the April-June quarter from a year earlier. The 4.67 million animals placed also represented an 11 percent decline from 1992.

Cattle shipped from feedlots to slaughterhouses, or marketings, during the quarter rose 2 percent from 1993 to 5.95 million head. This was 5 percent over two years ago.

The inventory estimates are based on quarterly reports done by 13 states.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farm workers numbered 3.50 million during the week of July 10-16, down from 3.58 million in the corresponding week a year earlier, the Agriculture Department says.

Of this total, 557,000 workers were unpaid, down slightly from the previous year. The number of self-employed farmers dropped to 1.56 million, while 1.05 million workers were hired by farm operators. The remaining 341,000 people were agricultural service employees.

Wages averaged $6.21 per hour during the week, up 14 cents from the previous year. Hourly workers earned $5.91 an hour, an increase of 7 cents from 1993. Field workers averaged $5.85 and livestock workers $5.67 per hour, marking 8- and 25-cent increases, respectively.

Unpaid workers logged fewer hours during the week, averaging 32 hours against 33.2 hours the previous year. Self-employed farmers also saw their work time fall slightly from 37.6 hours in 1993 to 37.4 hours this year. Work hours for hired hands remained steady at 39.9 for the week.

Fewer than half the workers hired by farm operators received benefits from their employers. Of the 433,000 with benefits, 203,000 were given housing and 84,000 received food. Only 191,000 had health insurance. Other benefits included transportation, for 72,000 workers, and bonuses, to 93,000.

GLASSES FOR THE CONTACT LENS CROWD

Just because you've started wearing contact lenses, it doesn't mean you won't need glasses, too. Smart contact-lens wearers keep a pair on hand—with an up-to-date prescription—just in case.

- Smog, pollution, or a high pollen count may irritate the eyes and make it uncomfortable to wear the lenses.
- Sunglasses are vital any time you're at the beach, or on a boat even driving a car. Choose a quality pair that reduces glare and brightness and protects against ultraviolet rays.
- Reading glasses are used by many contact lens wearers who have only a distance vision correction in their contacts.
- Wear safety glasses or goggles over contacts, or instead of them, if you work with machinery that throws off dust or debris or if you participate in sports like swimming or racquetball.

And oops! Contact lenses do sometimes tear, or get lost. That's the day you'll be glad you still have a pair of glasses.

'My So-Called Life' captures pain, joy, uncertainty of youth

Claire Danes (left) and A.J. Langer star in "My So-Called Life," a one-hour drama about teen life in the 1990s premiering Thursday on ABC. Danes fills the key role of Angela Case, providing a 15-year-old's perspective on the joy and pain of adolescence.

BY SUZANNE GILL

"Your hearts must be clearly labeled," says the high-school biology teacher at the end of a dissection exercise, "before returning them to the cart. Don't drip," she adds.

At the moment, 15-year-old Angela Chase's heart reads "Jordan Catalano," and staring at the valves and ventricles of a pig's vital organs doesn't seem to make anything clearer. Dark-eyed and dangerous, Jordan is the most mysterious and fascinating form of life Angela knows.

These familiar ironies of adolescence are the currency of "My So-Called Life," a dramatic series premiering Thursday, Aug. 25, on ABC. Marshall Herskovitz and Edward Zwick ("thirtysomething") are its executive producers.

Fifteen-year-old Claire Danes stars as Angela. Bess Armstrong and Tom Irwin play her parents, with Lisa Wilhoit as her 10-year-old sister Danielle. Armstrong's character, worried and overburdened, sets the moral standard for her family. "She's the one who has to fight the big fights," says Armstrong. Irwin's laissez-faire dad, meanwhile, tries to keep out of the fray.

Also starring are Devon Gummersall as Brian Krakow, Angela's childhood friend, who seems like so much wallpaper next to Jordan (Jared Leto). Ditto her former best friend, Sharon Cherski (Devon Odessa), whom Angela has thrown over for daring and worldly-wise Rayanne Graff (A.J. Langer). Rayanne's friend Rickie Vasquez, rather coyly identified as "somewhat androgynous" in press materials, is compellingly played by Wilson Cruz. Rickie comes into his own in episode three, "Guns and Gossip."

The fall series is getting an early launch "to get it some exposure while there aren't a lot of originals" crowding the airwaves, according to ABC entertainment chief Ted Harbert.

"I love this show," says Harbert. "It is one of my personal favorite shows that we've had on the network in a long time. That, of course, means nothing as to how the audience will respond."

Audience response to "My So-Called Life" is a key question. Previews drew love-it-or-hate-it reactions from critics, who responded to the series' visceral approach to teen angst. For some, the subject matter seemed too raw for polite company.

But "it would be disingenuous to talk about adolescence and not allow for that color," Zwick insists.

Danes confirms, for those who have forgotten, that adolescence is "not a fun time." The show, she says, "mirrors what I'm going through. I think it's very real."

Reality begins with the scripts, by series creator Winnie Holzman, who seems to excel at everything — dialogue, plot, issues and character.

"My So-Called Life" should appeal both to teens and their parents, since all of the characters are fully developed and sympathetic.

To achieve that balance, the producers hoped to have the show air in the middle hour of prime time. The first hour, where it is currently scheduled, is often reserved for lighter and more juvenile fare. Too late an hour, on the other hand, might cost the show its teen audience.

"I think we will know once it's on the air whether it's going to have an audience," says Herskovitz, but he remains philosophical.

"This is a show that will either find its audience or it won't, no matter what time it goes on the air."

HOME BIJOU

Rediscovering 'Midnight Cowboy'; Seagal digs a hole 'On Deadly Ground'

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

One of the best new releases on home video may be the winner of the best picture Oscar of 1969. Released in a deluxe 25th anniversary edition, "Midnight Cowboy" remains one of the most engaging and moving films ever made.

Jon Voight plays handsome, dim-witted Joe Buck, a randy Texas boy who moves to New York City, convinced he can find the high life as a high-priced stud. Soon, he's penniless and living in an abandoned building with the only friend he's made in the Rotten Apple, one "Ratso" Rizzo, a surly, self-pitying chain-smoker played to perfection by Dustin Hoffman. What develops between these two outcasts is surely one of the most genuine friendships ever depicted in the movies.

Other Oscars went to Waldo Salt for his biting yet sweet screenplay and John Schlesinger for his matchless, fluid direction. The film is also graced with a fine supporting cast including Sylvia Miles, John McGiver, Brenda Vaccaro, Barnard Hughes and Bob Balaban.

This new edition includes a behind-the-scenes documentary, interviews with the cast and the original trailer for the film. The soundtrack, featuring Harry Nilsson's fine "Everybody's Talkin,'" sounds terrific in newly processed Dolby stereo.

One of the most tedious new releases on video vendor shelves has to be "On Deadly Ground," starring Steven Seagal. Supposedly, the film's strident environmental message is close to the actor's heart, and that's commendable. What is not commendable, however, is the length and self-importance of this tiresome movie, culminating in Seagal's nearly 10-minute speechifying over footage of oil spills, dead sea birds, etc. Despoiling the environment is terrible, a thing to be discouraged. No one disputes that. But so are movies like this one.

And as for "Car 54, Where Are You?" ...well, no one cares to know.

LET'S TALK

'Highlander' theme song highly available; Bernard's 'Happy Days'

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I'm trying to find out where I can get a copy of the theme song from the TV series "Highlander."

A: I know the group that sings it is Queen, but what I don't know is if it would be sold in stores or would I have to write somewhere else to obtain a copy? -Tina Pierce, Vallejo, Calif.

A: "Princes of the Universe" is contained on the Queen album "A Kind of Magic," available in most record stores.

The album contains several songs from the "Highlander" movie, as well as "One Vision," the theme song from "Iron Eagles."

Q: I am a big fan of the TV show "Wings" and one of its stars, Crystal Bernard. Did she ever co-star on "Happy Days"? -Liz Watkins, Great Bend, Kan.

A: Good call. Liz Bernard did indeed spend a season (1982-83) on "Happy Days" as Howard Cunningham's teen-age niece, K.C. Cunningham.

Q: Is the actor who played Walter Powell on "Charles in Charge" the same actor who plays Frasier's dad on "Frasier"? -C.M., Beaumont, Texas.

A: James Callahan played grumpy grandpa Powell. John Mahoney plays the senior Crane.

Q: I don't know what year it was, but at the end of one season both Peg Bundy and Marcy D'Arcy on "Married ... With Children" were pregnant.

What happened to the babies? -Pam Jacobs, McCook, Neb.

A: In the fall of 1991, Katey Sagal (Peg) was expecting a child, so the producers of "Married" decided to have both Peg and Marcy pregnant.

Sagal miscarried in October of that year, and to minimize the awkwardness of the situation, the whole pregnancy story line was revealed to have been a dream Al was having, a la "Dallas."

Q: We are big fans of Chuck Norris. We would like to know his address. -Wyatt and Patrick, Hutchinson, Kan.

A: You can write to him C/O "Walker, Texas Ranger" at CBS, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Crystal Bernard

Q: I am looking for some information on an old TV show from the 1960s, starring David Niven, Gig Young and some other actors.

A: They played a group of con artists who out-conned people who had done something mean and nasty. It was a fascinating show, but I can't remember seeing more than three or four episodes. -G.K., Rome, N.Y.

A: "The Rogues" aired on NBC from September 1964 to September 1965.

It starred Niven, Young, Charles Boyer, Robert Coote and Gladys Cooper as modern descendants of 18th Century jewel thieves, whose primary objective seemed to be relieving the rich of their wealth.

Q: My family and I are all huge fans of "A Christmas Story." We were wondering what films Peter Billingsley has done since then? Also, how old was he when he appeared in "A Christmas Story"? -R.Z., Tinley Park, Ill.

A: As a child actor, Billingsley starred in two feature films ("Death Valley" and "A Christmas Story"), two TV movies, three TV series and more than 120 commercials (most memorably as "Messy Marvin" of the Hershey's syrup ads) by age 11.

Since "A Christmas Story" in 1983 (he was 11), Billingsley has appeared in the feature films "The Dirt Bike Kid," "Russkies" and "Beverly Hills Brats."

MOVIES ON TV

Julie Brown double-bill on Showtime; Suzanne Somers vs. sorcerer on USA

BY JOHN CROOK

The mischievous comic who took Madonna down a peg or two is back, this time with two targets in her sights. Julie Brown, creator of the award-winning documentary spoof "Medusa: Dare to Be Truthful," returns to TV in "National Lampoon's Attack of the 5'2" Women," premiering Sunday, Aug. 21, on Showtime.

Brown's new special, the first in a series of National Lampoon movies for Showtime, is a self-contained double-bill satirizing two tabloid favorites of recent months: skater Tonya Harding and knife-wielding Lorena Bobbitt.

"Tonya: The Battle of Wounded Knee" casts Brown as Tonya Hardly, an ambitious skater who finds herself pitted against media darling Nancy Cardigan (Khrystyne Haje of "Head of the Class"). Other characters include her unsupportive mother, Lawanda (Stella Stevens); her ex-husband Jeff Googooly (John Robert Hoffman of "Adventures in Wonderland"); and bodyguard Sean Heckardt (Eric Roberts).

"He Never Give Me Orgasm: The Lenora Babbitt Story" features Brown with Adam Storke ("Steven King's The Stand") as Lenora and Juan Wayne Babbitt.

Meanwhile, on USA Network, a magazine writer (thighmistress Suzanne Somers) finds herself under the thrall of a small-town sorcerer (John Vargas) in "Seduced by Evil," a thriller premiering Thursday, Aug. 25.

Elsewhere in the movie week, Anjelica Huston romps through her role as one of "The Witches," Sunday on Cinemax. "Brides of Christ," one of A&E's highest-rated programs ever, gets a repeat airing Sunday through Tuesday, Aug. 23.

The Movie Channel offers a Miranda Richardson double bill of "Enchanted April" and "Damage" on Thursday. An all-star cast headed by Henry Fonda and Rita Hayworth is caught up in a series of New York stories in the film "Tales of Manhattan," Friday, Aug. 26, on American Movie Classics.

SOAP WORLD

Alice Barrett's other world

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I am a big fan of "Another World." My favorite actress on the show is Alice Barrett, who plays Frankie. The magazines I read never have much about her or her family. So could you please tell me a little about her? -Amberly Mouser, Rector, Ark.

Dear Reader: For the most part, Barrett likes to keep her family separate from her career, but she has done a few layouts for magazines with her children. The actress is married to musician Stanley John Mitchell. They have two daughters, Anna, 7, and Julia, 2.

Barrett was born and raised in New York City, and decided to become an actress at age 10 when she saw a production of "Man of La Mancha." Throughout her school years, she participated in several productions. She received a bachelor's degree in theater from Hunter College. Her first big break came during her first year at Hunter, when she was cast as the maid in "The Miser," an off-off-Broadway play in a church basement.

After college, and while supporting herself as a bartender, Barrett starred in several more off-off-Broadway plays. She says her favorite play to perform is "Godspell." While starring in "Lautrec," a play written by fellow "AW" cast mate the late Brent Collins, she was cast on the Turner Broadcasting serial "The Catlins."

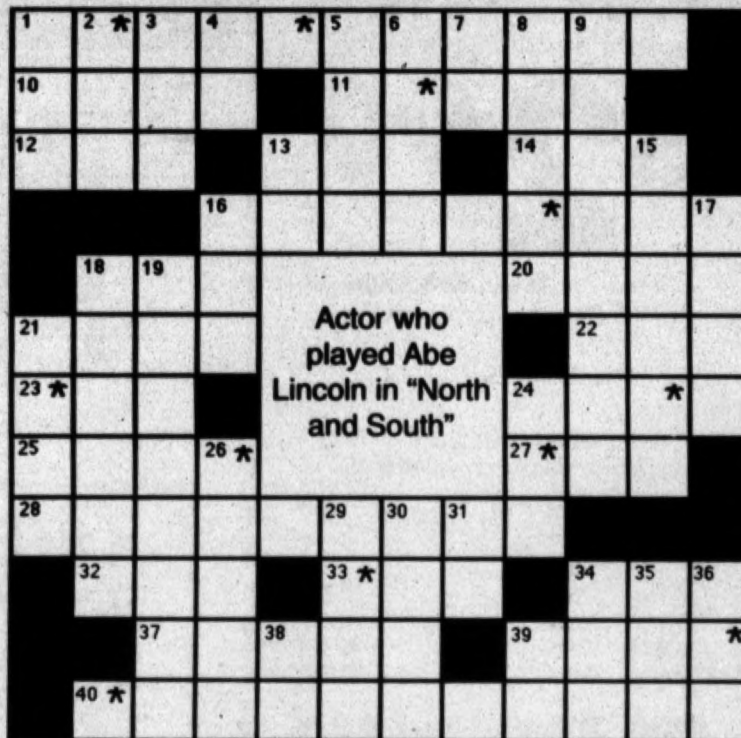

Barrett appeared on the serial from 1984 to 1985 as the tempestuous Jacqui McCormick. She then went on to work on several other New York-based daytime programs, including "As the World Turns" and "Ryan's Hope." She made her film debut in 1981 in the critically acclaimed "Mission Hill."

The actress joined "AW" in April 1989, creating the role of an off-beat private investigator, Frankie Frame. The character is the niece of Sharlene Frame (Anna Holbrook). As you know, Sharlene recently returned to Bay City and has been creating trouble.

In her spare time, Barrett enjoys decorating her home and gardening. She and her family live in New York City.
