Board allows work on nursing station

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Deaf Smith Hospital District directors, in a regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, approved the release of board-restricted capital improvement funds for refurbishing a nurse's station at the hospital.

Jim Robinson, Hereford Regional Medical Center administrator, cited the need for making more space available at the nurse's station and requested that approximately $14,000 in the budget be used for the project.

In other action, the board approved a resolution expressing the board's appreciation to the Hereford Regional Medical Center staff for "their dedication and efforts" in earning full accreditation for the hospital; approved a resolution to use the State of Texas bid list for some hospital district purchases; approved a bylaws committee recommendation for several changes in the bylaws; and approved routine monthly reports.

The financial statement for September, which ended the fiscal year, reflected a gain in operating income of $73,077—due mainly to a cost report settlement of $96,927 from Medicare-Medicaid. The year-end income gain was $284,257—which also reflected cost report settlements in the amount of $532,798. Last year's statement showed a operating loss of $137,995.

Net patient services revenue for the year totalled $9,476,404. Non-operating revenue totalled $1,445,970, which included $1,040,983 in ad valorem taxes and $348,997 in state disproportionate share funds. This reflected a net revenue for the year of $1,730,227—compared to a loss last year of $95,739.

In his operations report, Robinson pointed to an increase in inpatient days, average daily census, surgical procedures and several other professional performance categories. The addition of physicians in the community was a factor, he added.

The hospital's average daily census was 14.6 for the year, compared to 13.9 the year previous. Inpatient days increased by 222 to 5,313. Outpatient visits increased by 2,150 to 9,091. Respiratory therapy treatments also showed a big increase, rising by 5,886 to 25,198.

Directors agreed with changes proposed in the board bylaws, and the changes will probably be adopted at next month's meeting.

Robinson also reported that the Hospital Auxiliary was sponsoring a jewelry sale Friday; that he was studying a lease purchase plan for a new Cat Scan; that a Community Needs Assessment, required by the state, is underway; that HRMC will participate in the Adopt-A-School Program with Stanton Learning Center as its school; and that the hospital has provided an around-the-clock coffee pot in the emergency room for law enforcement officers.

Nancy Griego, performance improvement director, reported on the hospital's accreditation and a staff development and continuing education program being initiated.

Directors present for the meeting were Mal Manchee, Jo Beth Shackleford, Dean Croftord, Scott Keeling, Steve Cortez and Boyd Foster. Absent was Larry Watts.

USDA drops rules for chicken, turkey

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has dropped proposed new rules for reducing bacterial contamination in chickens and turkeys, officials confirmed Tuesday.

Instead, the department will fold some elements of the proposal into a separate one that would change the way all kinds of meat are inspected for safety.

The move is politically sensitive because Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy has been accused of favoring poultry over beef when cracking down on bacterial contamination. He has submitted his resignation.

The poultry proposal was criticized harshly by the broiler industry and consumer groups when it was outlined in July. Some said the proposal kept the worst elements of an antiquated inspection system and should be scrapped.

"You don't want more of the same to get in the way of something better," said Carol Tucker Foreman, spokeswoman for the Safe Food Coalition, an umbrella organization for labor and consumer groups. Foreman said she would reserve further comment until the new proposal comes out.

No agency official was available Tuesday to comment on the details of the action, except to say that food safety would not be compromised.

Guilty pleas entered here

Defendants in 22nd District Court Tuesday entered guilty pleas to charges against them and were sentenced by Judge David Wesley Guley.

Nancy Molinar Luna, 30, charged with theft over $750 and under $20,000, received a probated eight-year sentence. She also was ordered to make restitution of $6,819.51.

Charged with aggravated assault, Rudy Martinez, 28, was sentenced to seven years' probation. He must pay restitution of $7,813.59.

The department's decision to drop the poultry proposal was first disclosed last week by Jill Hollingsworth, assistant administrator of the Food Safety and Inspection Service, in a speech to the poultry industry in Ocean City, Md.

The department initially had proposed a separate set of poultry regulations on July 13.

That was four months after the department announced a planned overhaul of poultry regulations in the wake of reports by The Associated Press and other news organizations that Espy aides had delayed work on the standards.

Espy is being investigated by Independent Counsel Donald C. Smaltz for favors Espy allegedly received from Tyson Foods Inc., the Arkansas-based poultry giant with close ties to President Clinton. Investigators will also look at whether the poultry industry received special consideration in return.

When Espy announced his resignation because of the investigation earlier this month, he also said he would no longer involve himself in decisions affecting poultry. Michael R. Taylor, head of the Food Safety and Inspection Service, is directing that policy.

A key goal of the new poultry proposal was to apply to poultry the same rigid standard that since March 1993 has allowed no hint of fecal contamination on beef carcasses. Feces can carry dangerous bacteria such as E. coli O157:H7 in beef, and salmonella in chicken.

Fecal contamination can occur at several points during slaughter, including when an animal's entrails are accidentally ruptured.

The opportunity for public comment on the poultry proposal ended Oct. 11, setting the stage for final regulations to be written. By including the rules in a new, proposed "mega-regulation" to modernize food safety, the department will have to wait for comments on the broader proposal.

Alisa Harrison, spokeswoman for the National Cattlemen's Association, said the group was unaware of the decision.

Confidence of shoppers down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The economic news was mostly grim this week: Consumer confidence fell for the fourth straight month, the dollar hit an all-time low, worker wages are creeping up only slightly and interest rates are rising.

Taken together, the news suggested that the economy, which had been thought to be growing at the healthiest clip since the 1990-91 recession, isn't necessarily as robust as forecasters reckoned.

The freshest signals on the economy's direction came from the Conference Board, a New York-based research group. It found that consumer confidence dropped in October for the fourth straight month.

That's important because consumers who lack confidence in the economy spend less and borrow less. That means merchants sell less, factories cut back on output and employers eliminate jobs. Consumers account for two-thirds of the nation's economic activity.

The Conference Board attributed the drop largely to rising fear that there will be fewer jobs in the months ahead. Consumers also scaled back plans to buy cars, appliances and homes.

The results came against not only a backdrop of anxiety over jobs but a steady rise in interest rates that began early this year when the Federal Reserve reversed a five-year era of lower rates.

Talking with Combest

Rev. J.L. Bozeman of Hereford, right, visits with U.S. Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, following an appearance here Tuesday by Combest. The congressman met with local residents for more than an hour, talking about a variety of issues facing Congress and the Clinton Administration. The meeting was rescheduled from one originally set in August that was postponed due to action in Congress.

Combest: Americans are fed up with bureaucracy

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

Like the character in the movie "Network," Americans are in the mood to say, "I'm fed up with government bureaucracy and I'm not going to take it anymore," Congressman Larry Combest told local residents who attended a "Town Hall" meeting here Tuesday morning.

He pointed to the action in Haiti and the recent outcry on private property rights as signs that the silent majority may finally take a stand.

"It is very difficult to tell government agencies how to implement legislation. What we need to do is to stop some of the laws from being passed in the first place," commented the Lubbock Republican.

Combest, U.S. Representative for the 19th Congressional District, answered questions and gave his position on several issues to about 60 people attending the meeting at 9 a.m. yesterday in Hereford Community Center.

"I think we will have, without doubt, a more conservative House next year," said the congressman. "There will be more conservatives elected, including Democrats, and there is the possibility of having a Republican majority."

Combest said he could not support some of the compromise bills passed in Congress. "Too many times, you have a bad bill and the proponents will take out some of the worst measures in hopes of getting the bill passed."

As an example, Combest explained his vote against the Crime Bill. "The measure that passed wasn't as bad as the original, but I still couldn't vote for it because it fell short of curbing crime."

Combest said everyone wants clean water and air, but legislation has put environmental controls beyond reasonable actions in some cases. "We must seek a happy medium on these controls."

The congressman said too many groups still look to government to solve their problems and, in too many cases, it turns out to be costly and ineffective.

"The average American family spends about $1,800 a year on health insurance," pointed out Combest, "but they spend $4,200 a year for government services."

In response to some of the questions posed at the meeting, Combest reiterated that he supports the line-item veto, the right-to-work law, the death penalty for certain crimes, and English as the legal language.

At this point in time, Combest said he was leaning in favor of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT). He added that he was still studying the issue. Several citizens at the meeting expressed concern about the U.S. being involved in a world organization.

Group calls on Senate to reduce number of filibusters

By DIANE DUSTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group led by retired senators and other senior politicians is asking Senate candidates to commit themselves to fighting government gridlock by changing filibuster rules.

"Senators are elected to make decisions, not to block decision-making," says a letter being mailed today by Action, Not Gridlock, a bipartisan group that includes former Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

"Americans are entitled to know whether Senate candidates and senators will support fixing the filibuster gridlock rule," says the letter.

It's not about partisan politics, but whether the democratic principle of majority rule is going to survive, the privately funded group says.

The organization listed each senator and the number of times he or she voted to break a filibuster during the last two years.

Voting 100 percent to do so were Sens. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Tom Daschle of South Dakota, Herb Kohl of Wisconsin, John Glenn of Ohio, Charles Robb of Virginia, Barbara Mikulski of Maryland and Christopher Dodd of Connecticut.

all Democrats.

Those voting least often to allow legislation to proceed just 5 percent of the time were Sens. Alan Simpson and Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming and Jesse Helms of North Carolina — all three Republicans.

Not far behind was Texas GOP Sen. Phil Gramm, who voted to allow legislation to proceed 7 percent of the time. Fellow Texas Republican Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison posted 15 percent under the group's rating system.

With Democrats in the White House and holding a majority in both houses of Congress, Republicans had either to compromise with the Democrats or block legislation with the filibuster to get their way. They increasingly chose the filibuster as the session drew to a close.

"There were more filibusters last year alone than in the first 108 years of the Senate combined," said the Action, Not Gridlock letter. "As recently as the 1960s, the Senate averaged only two filibusters a year — a sharp contrast to the 15 a year in the 1990s, and the filibuster frenzy this year."

In the usual course of events, there are few limitations on Senate debate, and a handful of senators can delay legislation or a nomination indefinitely, especially when the Senate is rushing to adjourn for the year.

The Action, Not Gridlock group makes no specific recommendation, but changing the rules to reduce the 60 votes needed to end a filibuster would require 67 votes.

Former Attorney General Elliot Richardson, a Republican and member of Action, Not Gridlock, says senators don't need a rules change to "regain their self-restraint and respect for the democratic process."

"Americans can't make sense of what's happening in Congress and what's causing the gridlock without knowing that filibusters have destroyed the principle of majority rule in the U.S. Senate," Richardson said.

Turnout vs. Burnout

Texas voter turnout on election day is usually nothing to brag about. In the 1992 general election, Texas ranked 47th among the states in the portion of registered voters who went to the polls, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Almost 6.2 million Texans voted in November 1992, representing about seven out of 10 of the state's registered voters and only a little more than half of the state's residents who are 18 or older.

Among the state's 254 counties, balloting enthusiasm varies substantially. In the 1992 general election, according to the Secretary of State, Fort Bend County near Houston won the blue ribbon for voter turnout. No other county did as well as the 87 percent of Fort Bend registered voters who cast ballots. On the other hand, Webb County in South Texas had the lowest turnout: 48 percent. Statewide, about 73 percent of registered voters participated in the general election. That was better than 1990 when just half of registered voters pulled a lever in the general election.

This spring, 9 million Texans were registered to vote in the 1994 primary elections. The general election will be held November 8.

Richards continued her criticisms of what she called Bush's "record of non-accomplishments." The governor has accused Bush of exaggerating business accomplishments and says five different companies on the boards of which Bush served have lost $371 million.

Bush has said the Texas-based companies with which he has been associated have a current market value of more than $400 million.

"For the past 18 years, George Bush has been meeting a payroll, creating jobs and working in the real world, while Ann Richards has been on the taxpayers' payroll," Bush spokeswoman Karen Hughes said Tuesday. "He's proud of the fact he hasn't held public office but clearly has diverse real-world experience that will help him in the governor's office."

Bush campaigned in Victoria, Bryan-College Station and other areas of south central Texas Tuesday, hammering away on the new penal code.

Bush said Richards has defied 1990 campaign promises on crime, including one to withhold parole for violent criminals.

He said that more than 1,200 murderers and 1,100 violent sex offenders have been paroled in the past three years.

Richards spokesman Rafe Greene said the governor is working to build enough prison cells "so that we can eventually end parole for violent criminals."

Richards, Bush lash each other on issues

By PAULINE ARRILLAGA

HURST, Texas (AP) - Democratic Gov. Ann Richards said Tuesday she has the know-how to move Texas' economy into the 21st century, while repeating her criticisms of George W. Bush's business record and political inexperience.

Meanwhile, her Republican challenger campaigned through south central Texas and continued to condemn penal code revisions passed under Richards' leadership.

"I am here to tell you this is a young and inexperienced man who needed a little break-in before he tried to hit the big time," Richards told about 300 employees at a rally at Bell Helicopter Textron Inc.

"Inexperience is expensive to the taxpayers of Texas," she said.

Richards promised the Bell employees that she would keep on track manufacture of the V-22 Osprey tilt-rotor aircraft, which is being produced by Bell and Boeing's helicopter division in Pennsylvania.

She reminded them that Deputy Secretary of Defense John Deutch, who had targeted the embattled project for possible termination, changed his mind following a tour of the plant with Richards last month.

About 1,000 Bell employees in the Dallas-Fort Worth area work directly on the V-22, while about 2,000 workers spend at least some time on the aircraft.

Richards said the project is just one that has boosted job growth in Texas. Texas Employment Commission figures released Tuesday show the unemployment rate is the lowest in nearly four years.

Richards also noted statistics released by the state comptroller this month showing the state has a $2.2 billion surplus for the first time since 1992, and announced the state was granted $71.4 million in federal funds for three new business projects.

"I am ready to fight anyone, including my opponent, who doesn't understand that in the last four years Texas is doing better economically," she said.

Richards continued her criticisms of what she called Bush's "record of non-accomplishments."

The governor has accused Bush of exaggerating business accomplishments and says five different companies on the boards of which Bush served have lost $371 million.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Linda McCartney never leaves home without her camera - even on the way to her own photography exhibits.

Before attending a gallery opening of her work, she and her hubby Paul took a stroll through the French Quarter where she photographed street musicians, doorways and other subjects. Somehow, the camera helped them escape notice.

"The camera is my secret," she explained Friday. "I don't hide behind it. It's not a security blanket, but when I have it with me, I'm thrilled walking down the street. I can see better through the camera - and I'm looking all the time."

The crowds finally approached when they arrived at the gallery by limo.

"Showing up in a limo is not who I am. If you walk, no one notices me," Mrs. McCartney said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few months ago, I agreed to "house-and-dog-sit" for a family I had worked for previously and considered good friends.

Four days into their six-day vacation, their dog, "Blaze," became violently ill. I phoned them to get their veterinarian's name and asked permission to have Blaze examined and treated. The wife accused me of kicking or mistreating the dog because "He was all right when we left." I was truly offended.

Her husband asked me to take Blaze to their veterinarian and said he would reimburse me. When the vet saw the animal, he diagnosed a serious liver disorder, which he assured me could not have been caused by an injury of any kind. Blaze died in the hospital the morning the family returned.

When I went over to the house to see them, they were not only ungrateful but insulting. I had missed two days of work because of their pet, and they didn't even thank me for my concern.

I was shocked when the wife said several items were missing from their house and the TV was broken. She also claimed the veterinarian told her it was MY fault that the dog died, so they didn't feel obligated to reimburse me for the vet's bill. Only when I threatened to take them to small claims court did they pay up.

I urge all house and pet sitters to insist on explicit written instructions regarding the care of the pet, as well as a statement outlining the sitter's responsibility in case of damage to the house or its contents. Take nothing for granted. I learned the hard way. -- St. Pete, Fla.

DEAR ST. PETE: Your experience gives credence to that cynical truism "No good deed will go unpunished."

Thanks for your story. You have educated a great many people today about the wisdom of getting things in writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The garage sales of today are a true display of what is going on with our kids. The piles of expensive toys (broken of course) and thousands of dollars' worth of designer clothes are enough to make you sick. The kids in the United States should be the best-dressed and most over indulged kids in the world. Yet they look like ragamuffins. Torn jeans are high style, and the more faded, the better. In addition to the way they look, young people today have no appreciation for all these luxuries. Also, they have no manners.

What is happening out there? Must every kid wear $150 running shoes? Are there no limits to what is being spent to satisfy our youngsters? Are today's parents buying love instead of giving it? This is a very serious question, Ann? I am surprised it has never been raised in your column.

I am deeply concerned about the ME, ME, ME, ME generation. Please comment. -- Brookfield, Ill.

DEAR BROOKFIELD: Come out of your gold-plated cave, and look at the total picture before you blow your top.

True, the spoiled, rich kids are appalling, but they comprise a very small percentage of the entire population. Actually, the largest segment of the poor in our country are children. Talk to the social workers in any large city, and they will tell you that if we took away the federally funded school lunch program, some children would not have one decent meal a day.

That is the real picture, not the designer jeans and broken toys.

MIAMI (AP) - Madonna is reinventing herself again, this time as a lovelorn balladeer, and - surprise - the master of the makeover says she's been misunderstood all along.

"I tried to make a statement about feeling good about yourself and exploring your sexuality, but people took it to mean that everyone should go out ... and have sex with everyone, and that I was going to be the leader of that," she told the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale.

Madonna's newest album, "Bedtime Stories," is a bittersweet, reserved departure from last year's "Girly Show" tour of groping dancers and sexual bravado.

In the Sunday story, Madonna took shots at a whole generation of women, including her old gal-pal Sandra Bernhard, "who cannot bring themselves to say anything positive about me."

In a true-and-false quiz, Madonna denied rumors that she had sex with Sylvester Stallone, she's HIV positive and she's buying a professional basketball team. But she said it's true that she's had several abortions.

As for a tabloid story that she hadn't had sex with a man in three years, Madonna laughed and said "false."

Smith claims she agreed to be photographed in an evening gown, and posed for dressed-down shots "in the pretext of informal, good humor."

Too Many People Suffer Back Problems

Back problems are the most commonly suffered maladies in our society and there is a reason! Modern society has become highly complex, not only in the workplace, but in every area of the human environment. Technological changes and their effects on the human being have created new stresses, many of them related to body and structure. At its best, this results in discomfort, dissatisfaction and limited performance; at its worst, it results in serious health problems. You can do something about that back problem. The doctor of chiropractic is a physician who considers the human as an integrated being, but gives special attention to spinal mechanics and neurological, muscular and vascular relationships.

October is Spinal Health Month. Take care of your Back!

Hereford's Clarissa Ramirez serves for an ace in the second game of Tuesday's Dumas-Herford match in Whiteface Gym.

Hostetler denies Shell made racial remark

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — For the second time in as many weeks, the Los Angeles Raiders are trying to put controversy behind them.

Quarterback Jeff Hostetler denied Tuesday that coach Art Shell directed a racial comment at him during an argument on the sidelines, and strongly defended his coach.

"I feel extremely angered that Art found to go through this and that I'm any part of this," Hostetler said. "We're not just talking about the little game of football. This is his whole life, his whole reputation.

"We're talking about a guy's livelihood here, a guy's life. I really feel for him right now. He's the head coach, he takes the majority of the blame. We've had a rough beginning this year and I think he's handled it well."

The coach and quarterback got into a shouting match at Miami on Oct. 16, during the Raiders' 20-17 overtime loss to the Dolphins. The argument concerned decisions by Hostetler changing running plays to passes.

Shell downplayed the incident last week and the matter seemed closed until shortly before the Raiders' 30-17 victory over Atlanta on Sunday.

Allegedly, Shell called Hostetler, "another white quarterback, just like Schroeder." Reportedly, the statement was filled with expletives.

On Monday, Shell denied making the racial remark.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers, who recently hired a new manager and general manager, will not renew the contracts of pitching coach Claude Osteen, first base coach Mickey Hatcher, dugout coach Jackie Moore and third base coach Dave Oliver.

The Rangers also announced Tuesday that batting coach Willie Upshaw and defensive coach Perry Hill have been offered other positions to be determined in the team's organization.

Hatcher, Moore, Osteen and Upshaw spent two seasons with Texas.

before two kills by Kelley and one by Brooke Bryant made it 14-7. Holmes stuffed a Dumas hit to end the first game.

Looking back after the match, Reeh compared the first games to the other two.

"I think the passing was better, and our serving was better," Reeh said. "I felt like our blocking was little bit better, and I don't think Jenny hit as well as she did in the third or second game."

The teams traded points early in the second game, and Hereford led 4-2 at one point. Bad passing by Hereford contributed to a 9-0 run for Dumas over two rotations. Kelli Sheets was credited with three aces and Robinson got five kills during the stretch, and Dumas led 11-5.

"That was the turning point for us in that game, possibly even the match," Reeh said. "There really was no reason for that to change our play the rest of way through. I felt we didn't stay mean enough long enough."

Hereford never quite recovered. A three-point run got the Herd back to 12-8, but a Robinson stuff, a Herd lift, and another bad pass near the net by Hereford ended the game.

The third game was the longest of the three. While Dumas won 15-7, it wasn't a blowout; Hereford got plenty of sideouts but just couldn't score with the serve.

"We went so many rotations without scoring," Reeh lamented. "I don't know how many times we had the server back there and we didn't score. One of our goals tonight was to score at least one point on every service turn. You can't rotate that many times against a team like Dumas without scoring."

Hereford led early in the third game, 4-3, but Dumas got a stuff and a kill by Mindy Ratliff to pull ahead 6-5. From there Dumas added points very slowly and built a 12-4 lead. Consecutive aces by Brooke Bryant gave Hereford a little life, making the score 12-7. Robinson quickly ended the life with two kills, then Holmes hit a free ball long on Dumas' side to end the match.

The loss broke a 12-match winning streak for the Herd. It was the first loss for the Lady Whitefaces since Sept. 6, when they lost to Amarillo High, which completed the regular season Tuesday with a 31-0 record.

HERD VOLLEYBALL STATS

Kills: Crystal Kelley, 11; Danielle Cornelius, 11; Heather Hodges, 7; Tarabeth Holmes, 6; Brittney Binder, 4; Jessica Evers, 1; Brooke Bryant, 1.

Aces: Deanna McCracken, 4; Bryant, 2; Clarissa Ramirez, 1.

Stuffs: Cornelius, 4; Holmes, 3; Kelley, 2; Bryant, 1.

Digs: Aimee Alley, 9; Hodges, 7; Evers, 6; McCracken, 5; Binder, 4; Ramirez, 4; Cornelius, 3; Holmes, 2; Bryant, 1.

Hereford's junior varsity won in the first match Tuesday, dispatching Dumas 15-6, 15-10. The win pushed the Herd JV's record to 11-0 in district and 23-3 overall.

Julie Rampley served for 11 points for Hereford, and Kari Barrett added eight.

Rangers let four coaches go

coach Dave Oliver.

The Rangers also announced Tuesday that batting coach Willie Upshaw and defensive coach Perry Hill have been offered other positions to be determined in the team's organization.

Player returns, scores first four tries

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — For five weeks, Austin Westlake's Ryan Nunez reluctantly became one of the team's most-vocal cheerleaders as a result of a broken bone in his foot.

Since returning to action, Nunez has become one of the state's most talented players on one of the state's best teams.

He strutted his stuff in grand style last weekend, scoring the first four times he touched the ball in Westlake's 84-0 rout over Austin John.

"After my last touchdown, I started thinking I should change my goals in football to try scoring on every play," said Nunez, the top player on this week's Associated Press high school football honor roll.

Nunez had 241 yards in the season opener against New Braunfels Canyon, but on one of his last carries he cracked a bone in his right foot.

There went the hopes of besting the 1,600 yards he ran for a sophomore. Instead, the only choice for the 5-foot-10, 165-pound speedster was to stand on the sidelines and root for his teammates.

"It was really tough on him being out," Westlake coach Ron Schroeder said. "He was great cheerleader, always on the sidelines encouraging the guys. But you knew he wanted to be in there real bad."

Nunez returned two weeks ago with 123 yards receiving and 35 more receiving as Class 5A's second-ranked Westlake beat Austin Crockett 37-14.

Then, on homecoming night for the Chaparrals this past weekend, he really welcomed himself back by taking the opening kickoff 85 yards for a score.

An interception put the Westlake offense back on the field, but not for long as Nunez sprinted 16 yards

The Chaps got the ball back with a fumble recovery and this time Nunez went 7 yards for a TD.

On the next possession, Nunez pulled off his most impressive run: a 49-yard sweep down the left sideline. But it was called back because of an illegal procedure penalty.

No problem: Nunez got the ball back later on the drive and went 12 yards for his fourth and final score. He wasn't needed the rest of the night as the first stringers were pulled by the middle of the second quarter.

"The kid has lots of speed," Westlake coach Ron Schroeder said.

"As a sophomore, he went to state in the 110 hurdles. He's a fast track guy, but he's a football player first. He just loves football so much."

His absence forced Westlake to give other players more experience. They struggled to a 14-13 victory over Round Rock in their first game without Nunez, but everything has gone smoothly since.

And now that Nunez is back, who knows how good they can be. The Chaps already have a school record for points in a season with 275 and there are still two games left.

"When he went out, we kind of changed our approach offensively," Schroeder said. "Now with him back, you put his speed and pass-catching ability back in our offense, it gives A.J. sealed the lead with a two-point conversion reception following Freddie's score.

The do-everything player of the week is San Antonio Jay quarterback Samuel Morris. He accounted for 394 yards and four touchdowns in a 26-20 upset of San Antonio Taft by running 30 times for 263 yards, completing 6-of-18 passes for 131 yards; and on defense he knocked down a sure TD pass, caused a fumble that led to a Jay

TD, and made a score-saving tackle on the game's final play.

Elton Perry of Golliad surpassed the 300-yard mark for the second time in three weeks, gaining 343 yards and scoring four times on 33 carries in a 42-24 victory over Sinton. He has 1,709 yards on the season.

Burkeville's Jeff Spiers yet again is honored as he ran 22 times for 305 yards and TDs of 55, 55 and 48 yards.

Sterling City quarterback Phillip Thomas helped knock Roscoe out of the Class 1A poll with a 33-27 upset victory. Thomas completed 8-of-12 passes for 246 yards with 71 yards rushing, including the game-winning 8-yard TD run with 44 seconds to play.

Tim McFadden led San Antonio Cole to its first victory of the season, 41-6 over Brackettville, by returning a punt 48 yards for a touchdown, an interception 19 yards for another score and he ran 19 times for 133 yards and two touchdowns.

El Paso Parkland's Tony Dequir tied a state record that can't be broken with a 99-yard touchdown run in the first quarter of a 35-13 victory over El Paso.

Odem's pass-catching Martinez brothers keyed a 22-15 victory over Ingleside as A.J., a junior, caught six passes for 172 yards and two touchdowns, swatted three passes on defense and kicked two PATs; then Freddie, a senior, caught a 47-yard touchdown in the game's final minutes.

A.J. sealed the lead with a two-point conversion reception following Freddie's score.

The Moore brothers — Levi, a senior, and Logan, a sophomore — combined for 428 of Deweyville's 454 yards in a 41-38 victory over East Chambers. Levi had 286 yards rushing and touchdowns of 17, 30 and 60 yards on 25 carries; then Logan capped his 142-yard night with a 20-yard run for his second touchdown, which wound up being the game's deciding points.

Rodrick Mosley had two interceptions and returned them for touchdowns of 48 and 35 yards in Sulphur Springs' 48-0 victory over Texarkana Liberty-Eylau. He has six pickoffs this season and a school-best 14 in his career.

Mike Gingrich caught eight passes for 210 yards and three TDs as Spring surprisingly gave former No. 1 Aldine MacArthur its second tie of the year, 28-28, and dropping the Generals to No. 10 in 5A.

David Sanchez had only 48 yards on 17 carries, but he scored five of Laredo Martin's touchdowns in a 54-19 victory over Laredo Alexander. He had three 1-yard TD runs, a 5-yarder and a 6-yarder.

Lumberton quarterback Chad Luttrull ran for 195 yards, including a 50-yard TD, and completed 11-of-24 passes for 187 yards and two TDs in a 35-28 victory over Bridge City that he sealed with a late interception.

Flower Mound Marcus quarterback Chris Sanders was 26-of-38 passing for 390 yards and three TDs, including one with 35 seconds left to lock a 28-28 tie with Grapevine. Sanders also caught a two-point conversion pass.

Austin Lanier's Ralph Horton caught five passes for four touchdowns and 124 yards and two interceptions in a 34-14 victory over Del Valle.

Canyon's Joe De Dawson threw two TD passes and intercepted a pass with 58 seconds left in a 14-7 victory over Dumas.

Killeen's Cedric Bennett intercepted two passes and blocked a field goal to preserve a 24-17 victory over Waco.

Joint meeting conducted for two local FCE clubs

The Wyche Family Community Education Club welcomed members of the North Hereford FCE Club for a joint meeting held recently at the Hereford Community Center.

Dorma Kirby and Estelle Ware were welcomed as guests.

Jo Lee conducted the pledge to the flags and led the FCE Prayer. Mary Lou Aven read a poem entitled "When I'm a Little Old Lady" for the opening exercise.

Coreen Odom served as hostess for the meeting and roll call was answered by giving the name of a favorite holiday food which began with the first letters of the names of those present.

Argen Draper gave a review from the yearbook and Courtney Brooke was graciously acknowledged for having a quilt frame built for displaying quilts for the club.

President Coreen Odom reviewed upcoming events and volunteer hours were turned in by members.

County Extension Agent Beverly Harder gave a program on "The ABCs of Christmas." She presented ideas for holiday recipes, decorations and gifts. Handmade items were exhibited among the group. Concluding the program, Harder commented to "keep Christmas enjoyable as child's play and economical and share with another as children do."

Members present were Naomi Brisdine, Evelyn Croftord, Edith Higgins, Marcella Hoffman and Martha Lueb from North Hereford Club. Those attending from the Wyche Club were Thelma Auten, Mary Lou Aven, Louise Axe, Vada Batterman, Shirley Brown, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Marie Maxwell, Camelia Jones, Jo Lee, Dorothy Lundry, Carol Sartain, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Barbara Sterne and Clara Trowbridge.

Families are doubling up on their kitchen appliances

By BARBARA MAYER
For AP Special Features

"It is not that Americans are too lazy to walk to the refrigerator or stove," Jim Krengel says. "It is that we have become something of a nation of impatient people."

Make these hotspots cool their heels in the kitchen, and the idea of doubling up on major appliances begins to make sense.

Kitchens with two wall ovens and a second sink have been fairly common for years, but now there is the two-dishwasher or two-refrigerator kitchen. In a recent survey by Maytag, about 20 percent of the respondents said they had put in two dishwashers or refrigerators. About 15 percent have two microwave ovens. The survey by the appliance manufacturer questioned 470 households with recently remodeled kitchens.

Family living arrangements are fueling the trend, says Krengel, design director of the Maytag Kitchen Center in Newton, Iowa. Use of space in the home is changing, with a large open area that functions for cooking, dining and entertaining increasingly replacing the traditional separate kitchen, dining room and living room.

In such open spaces, there is room for an auxiliary cooking area. Good news since the survey shows that in nearly 25 percent of households, two or more people regularly cook together and find a second cooktop and sink convenient.

Typical is a kitchen created recently by kitchen designer Nancy Mullan of New York.

"For a family in which the husband and wife cook together, we installed a cooktop and a second sink in an island," she says. "The controls for the burners are at one end of the island so they are accessible to both cooks."

Mullan often gets requests for a microwave and an under-cabinet refrigerator for snacks and ice in the entertaining area. But, she says, the dishwasher is the most frequently requested double. This second dishwasher most generally is installed near the cooking area or near where table settings are stored.

In addition to families with multiple cooks or those who entertain a lot, families with special needs double up on some appliances: the sportsman who wants a freezer for the bounty of hunting and fishing trips or the Orthodox Jewish family whose dietary laws require separating milk and meat.

"I have done kosher kitchens with two of every appliance that touches food or dishes, and some families even put in a tiny pullman kitchen for Passover. These people are an appliance maker's dream," Mullan says.

Location is key to a second appliance's usefulness. Krengel says to save steps in cleaning up if it's generally best if the second dishwasher is near the table or the cabinets where dishes and flatware are stored.

Who needs two cooktops? A family who can make good use of specialized burners, such as a wok, barbecue unit, deep fat fryer (also used as a steamer), a grill or a griddle. Two cooktops also are in order if one cook strongly favors electric burners and another likes to cook with gas.

A small refrigerator near the table where meals are taken can save schlepping salad dressings, butter, cold drinks and condiments. For efficiency alone, a second refrigerator should rank higher than it does.

"Most refrigerators are too crammed already. And because the refrigerator is so large, it is often located somewhat out of the way," Krengel says, noting that minifridges range from about 15 inches to 48 inches high.

While double appliances are costly, Krengel says you don't have to order top-of-the-line.

Besides, he says, "by adding a second appliance, you may be eliminating a storage cabinet and lowering cabinet costs."

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My sister was in the hospital in Arizona recently, very sick with something none of us had ever heard of — hantavirus. She was very near death. What can you tell me about this — the cause, cure, anything? — L.R.

ANSWER: We've known about hantaviruses for a long time. They have not been really troublesome in our part of the world, so have gone unnoticed — until recently, when they stepped out of line and began causing big trouble.

In all such cases, the medical spotlight quickly swerved to highlight the troublemaker. It happened with an outbreak of hantavirus infections in the Southwest in the spring of 1993.

Hantaviruses are spread by rats. The rats are not themselves affected, but they shed the virus in their saliva, urine and feces. As in many similar illnesses, humans become infected by breathing in the organisms aboard airborne droplets.

The resulting infection causes a rapid rise in temperature, a headache, muscle pain and coughing.

Often, the patient's lungs will fill with fluid, making breathing difficult indeed.

I am glad your sister got away without serious consequences, for we have no established treatment for a hantavirus infection. The anti-viral drug ribavirin has been tried, however.

Incidentally, the last figures I have show that at least 34 deaths were attributed to that particular hantavirus epidemic, a relatively high number as such infections go.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is syndrome X? — M.M.

ANSWER: That straightforward question generates a complex answer.

One Syndrome X has to do with angina. It is an uncommon kind of angina, because with it the heart arteries show no blockage. We believe the pain reported may, in fact, be due to blockages in many arteries too small to show up on X-rays. It's a case of little bits adding up to great amounts.

The second Syndrome X is unrelated to angina. It is an illness with four components. One is overproduction of a kind of insulin that doesn't work well in keeping blood sugar in control. The second component is an increase in blood triglycerides along with a decrease in high-density lipoproteins, the good kind of cholesterol. The third piece in the puzzle is loss of proper blood sugar metabolism, and the fourth is high blood pressure.

This second Syndrome X, especially if seen in children and young adults, can be an augury of heart trouble.

It's hard to explain why illnesses of such differing characteristics get the same name. And there is a third illness that might easily be confused for the other two. It is called "fragile X" syndrome. In it, there is derangement in part of the person's X chromosome, the one for maleness in genetics. It is somewhat rare and can lead to impaired mental development.

Now I am left wondering: Just which Syndrome X illness prompts your letter?

For a detailed discussion of angina, see my report on the subject. Readers can order one by writing:

Dr. Donohue — No. 1, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will you please print the address for Mrs. V.L.? I want to get in touch with her, for her problem (sweating excess) is what has bothered me for years. — Mrs. L.M.

ANSWER: I wish it were otherwise, but my firm rule is never to divulge such details in this column. It is a way of preserving to the greatest extent possible a sort of doctor-patient privacy — a worthy endeavor.

I think, especially in a setting as public as a newspaper column, I hope you understand.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 80, weigh 150 pounds and stand 5 feet 11. I recently started working with weights every other day. I developed discernible definition in my biceps, deltoids and abdominals. I feel good. Am I defying geriatric stats? Can I use the diet supplements, the ones those mega-lifters you talk about use? Any harm? — M.R.

ANSWER: I know that people in their 90s can increase muscle strength and size with weights. Just a sound diet does it.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.
