Crime bill would ax new cops

By MARCY GORDON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The House put final touches on the contentious centerpiece of the GOP crime package, a bill that would give $10 billion in anti-crime funds to local authorities and end the program to hire 100,000 new police.

Hanging over the bill was a veto threat by President Clinton, who warned Congress over the weekend against playing "partisan politics with police." Clinton said he would use a veto, which would be the first of his presidency, to stop "any effort to repeal or undermine the 100,000 police commitment. Period."

Attorney General Janet Reno lobbied against the bill Monday in telephone calls to Democratic and Republican members and went to Capitol Hill for the second time in less than a week.

Lawmakers were expected to vote today on the bill, which is the final and most controversial of a six-part Republican package to revamp last year's $30 billion crime law. The proposal, part of the House GOP's "Contract With America," also would eliminate funds set aside in the 1994 law for after-school, midnight basketball and other crime prevention programs.

Instead, local governments would receive block grants of $2 billion a year for five years to use as they wished to reduce crime and improve public safety. The bill also would reduce the local match of federal funds from 25 percent to 10 percent.

Democrats charged the block grants would create a political pork barrel for mayors and other local officials who would spend it on public safety items such as street lights rather than police or prevention programs.

"It's a $10 billion taxpayer giveaway that is begging to be abused," said Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. "If I've ever seen a piece of legislation that might be a candidate for a veto, I think (this bill) is it."

Majority Republicans countered that their bill gives localities the flexibility to tailor anti-crime programs to local needs.

Said Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill.: "I guess that not only do we think Washington doesn't always know best, but we have more faith and trust in local government officials than" the Democrats.

The Republicans did accept a revision, however, to curb potential abuses by local governments. The amendment by Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., would forbid the block-grant funds from being used for tanks or armored personnel carriers, fixed-wing aircraft, real estate, limousines or yachts. It was adopted by voice vote on Monday.

Schumer said his concern grew out of local authorities' abuses of federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds in the 1970s. President Reagan terminated LEAA after revelations of widespread waste by local recipients.

On another voice vote, the lawmakers adopted a Democratic provision requiring local governments, in hiring law enforcement and support personnel, to establish a preference for former members of the armed forces.

New county road

Work crews from the Precinct 2 road department have been laboring to build a new section of county road north of town. Road JJ is being extended to connect FM 1057 to FM 1412. Commissioner Lupe Chavez said the work will be done for about $6,700 using funds already budgeted. Work began last week and Chavez hopes it will be complete by the end of the month. The new section of road, seen in bottom photo, begins at Road 17 and continues for two miles north.

Ice makes driving adventure, but little moisture recorded

From staff, wire reports

Hereford drivers were slip-sliding around Monday morning as they struggled to move about the city in the wake of a storm that brought a little bit of moisture to the city, but lots of ice.

But despite the icy conditions, police and state troopers were spared a lot of traffic-related incidents.

The worst accident recorded here on Monday was a school bus that overturned south of Dawn early Monday morning.

The vehicle was traveling on County Road AA south of Road 11 before 8 a.m. when the driver lost control on the slick road.

The bus did not have any children on board. It flipped onto its side after the driver skidded on the ice-covered dirt.

The driver was taken to Hereford Regional Medical Center, where he was treated and released.

Assistant Superintendent Don Cumpton said the bus was tipped back onto its wheels and, after a check of tire and oil pressure, was driven back to town.

A replacement bus was sent to bring the children to school. Cumpton said one window broke in the accident and the worst damage was to the stairwell where children enter the bus. But he said the damage could be repaired for less than $1,000.

Another incident involved firefighters, when an 8,000-gallon fuel tanker skidded off the road at U.S. 60 and Progressive road at 9:50 a.m.

Fire marshal Jay Spain said the situation could have been very bad, but that only a small amount of fuel spilled when the tanker came to rest in the Big Daddy's Truck Stop parking lot.

Overall, the Department of Public Safety reported working two accidents in Deaf Smith County, one the bus incident near Dawn.

City police reported working one accident.

Firefighters also were called out to the old Stanton School building where a fire alarm malfunctioned.

Elsewhere, a winter weather advisory was in effect today for extreme north portions of North Texas and a freezing drizzle advisory was in effect for northern sections of the low Rolling Plains.

In North Texas, the advisory called for freezing drizzle and light freezing rain north of a line from Jacksboro to

County approves bids for insurance coverage

By GARRY WESNER

Deaf Smith County Commissioners on Monday approved the only bid they received for insurance for the county, accepting the bid from Plains Insurance Agency.

Plains bid $42,042.25 for insurance for county vehicles and property, also Roger Eades said that might go up slightly because the county added a semi-tractor rig onto the insurance package last Friday, after the bid had been put together.

Eades said the total bid was slightly less than the bid approved last year, which was about $43,000.

He said he increased county property values by 2 percent on the bid, but the county saved money on auto insurance by getting a 20 percent credit on rates.

Eades said there are a couple of insurance-related areas that need to be addressed.

He said he set the limit on electronic equipment at $148,000, but said that was probably too low because of county-owned computer equipment. County Clerk David Ruland agreed and Eades said he will meet with Ruland to refine the figure.

Also, Eades said, the $75,000 listed for antiques at the county museum is probably too low, but it would cost money for the county to have someone come in and appraise the antiques to determine a more accurate value.

Commissioner Troy Don Moore asked if the county could get insurance to protect equipment such as graders and tractors in case of theft. Commissioner Lupe Chavez agreed, noting that many times precinct employees leave their equipment at work sites, giving the example of locating equipment at the worksite where employees of his precinct are extending Road JJ from FM 1057 to FM 1412.

Eades said he would look into the cost of theft coverage.

The Plains Insurance bid was accepted unanimously following a motion by Chavez and second by Moore.

County Judge Tom Simons thanked Eades for his company's support over the years, both with bids for insurance and with actual claim work.

Also during the meeting, Juvenile Probation Officer Lou Serrano asked commissioners to consider advertising for bids on a new vehicle for his department, saying that one car recently died in Amarillo and the other vehicle is a 1986 Plymouth Reliant.

Serrano said the Pontiac that died was obtained from the Sheriff's Department four years ago.

He said the department has not had a new car since 1985 and that car was traded in 1989 for the used Pontiac.

The Pontiac had 170,000 miles on it from repeated trips to Midland, Lubbock, Dumas, Pampa, Fort Stockton, Amarillo and other places to take juveniles to detention and bring them back for court hearings.

Chavez agreed with the need for a new car, saying the Pontiac should have been replaced two years ago because of increased maintenance expenses.

Commissioner Johnny Latham said there is no money in the Juvenile budget for a new car, but said if the county would pay for it initially, then the Juvenile budget beginning in 1995-96 would be juggled to make funds available.

Commissioners passed a motion (See COUNTY, Page 2)

Critics decry proposed cuts in welfare benefits

HOUSTON (AP) - Proposed cuts in welfare benefits would push some poor families into homelessness, critics say.

"Families relying on (welfare) are already living at the edge of homelessness," lawyer Jeff Larsen of the Gulf Coast Legal Foundation told the House Health and Human Services Committee in Austin on Monday.

A bill introduced by state Rep. Harvey Hilderbran, R-Kerrville, would limit welfare payments under the state's Aid to Families with Dependent Children to $184 a month, regardless of the number of children in the family.

That would mean a 36 percent cut in benefits for a family of six, whose payments are now capped at $288 a month, Larsen said. He noted that the state's welfare benefits already are among the lowest in the nation.

The hearing was the first committee members expect to hold on a package of welfare reform bills expected to come before the Legislature during the current session.

The benefit cap would devastate the struggling poor, said Patrick Bresette, associate director of the Center for Public Policy Priorities.

Changes proposed by Hilderbran and other proponents could save the state $40 million a year.

Hilderbran's bill also would: Require welfare recipients to work or attend school, a job training program or community service.

Provide job training, Medicaid and child care while the parent gets established in a job.

Claude mourning again with deaths of five more teens

CLAUDE, Texas (AP) - Freezing drizzle accompanied the quiet mourning that fell Monday upon Claude High School, where students were coming to grips with the icy accident that killed five teen-age church friends.

Sunday's head-on collision occurred before this Panhandle town had time to heal from the deaths of two teenagers killed when a train hit their volunteer fire truck Jan. 31.

Bad weather delayed the start of classes one hour Monday. Other schools offered their counselors.

"It's not easy," said Buddy Collins, principal of the 140-student high school. "Anytime a young person loses their life, you hate to see that. It's just not easy."

The victims Sunday evening were returning from an outing to Amarillo to see a movie and visit a hospitalized Sunday school teacher. All five attended the First United Methodist Church.

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman Wayne Beighle said the Jeep driven by 16-year-old Macy Thomas hit "black ice," slid into oncoming traffic and was struck by a semitractor-trailer truck. The truck driver wasn't hurt.

"I was out there and it was really slick," Beighle said Monday. "They probably didn't realize they were on slick conditions until they lost control."

The accident occurred at about 7:15 p.m. on U.S. 287 - a two-lane, divided highway - about four miles west of town. About 1,000 people live in Claude, roughly 20 miles southeast of Amarillo.

Beighle said the Jeep was so crushed only its front grill and headlights escaped damage. All five teen-agers died at the scene.

Buddy Payne, the church's pastor, knew each victim:

-Thomas, 16, a junior, was janitor at the church.

-Cheryl Campbell, 16, a sophomore, was a dependable baby-sitter.

-Anna Doyle, 15, a sophomore, ran track and played basketball.

-Jake Jones, 15, a freshman, tried to pull for the underdog. He was the son of Armstrong County Sheriff Carmella Jones.

-Brad Stewart, 15, a freshman, loved baseball.

"They were good kids. I know that's an old-time corny saying," Payne said.

The principal said students were in shock Monday.

"They're going to class and they're very quiet," Collins said. "I think they're probably handling it now in their own way."

Hundreds of mourners turned out earlier this month for the funerals of Jared Wright, 18, and Marcus King, 15, who died from injuries when their fire truck collided with a train. A third Claude student hurt in that crash, 16-year-old Lee Oles, spent five days at Northwest Texas Hospital.

Payne said funeral arrangements were pending. He said the community was devastated but praying.

"The healing and strength is going to come from the Lord, many times in unseen ways," he said.

Winter wonderland?

Hereford city streets took on a shine on Monday and trees wore a white mantle of frost as a storm passing through the area dumped a small amount of moisture on the city -- moisture that quickly froze on streets, sidewalks, trees and anything else exposed. This winter scene was seen at Fourth and McKinley.

Retail sales show jump in January

WASHINGTON (AP) - Retail sales rose modestly in January and - due to a revision in the December data - have not fallen for nine straight months.

The Commerce Department said today that sales advanced 0.2 percent last month, less than analysts predicted, and matched the December advance.

The government previously estimated that sales fell 0.1 percent in December, prompting speculation that a long-awaited slowdown in consumer spending had begun.

Auto sales fell 0.6 percent last month, the first drop since a 1 percent decline in July. Excluding car sales, a volatile component, retail sales rose 0.4 percent in January.

The Commerce Department also revised its figures for November to show a sales gain of 0.4 percent instead of an earlier 0.2 percent estimate.

Analysts have been expecting slower economic growth as the Federal Reserve has raised interest rates seven times in the last year. The most recent boost, a half-percentage point, was on Feb. 1.

The Commerce Department said sales totaled a seasonally adjusted $193.2 billion in January, up from $192.9 billion.

Retail sales, accounting for about half of consumer spending, have risen or remain unchanged since falling 1 percent in April.

Sales of durable goods - including appliances, autos and other goods expected to last more than three years - were down 0.4 percent in January after declining nearly as much, 0.3 percent, in December.

Still, durable goods increased 10.5 percent over a year earlier, and all sales last month were 8 percent higher than January 1994.

Sales followed a mixed pattern in January, higher for building materials, hardware and garden supplies but down for home furnishings and furniture as well as autos.

Abraham Lincoln celebrates his birthday with appearances at two local schools

President Lincoln appears at school

Joe Weaver, portraying President Abraham Lincoln, made appearances at Tierra Blanca and Shirley schools on Monday in observance of the 186th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

By BECKY CAMP
Lifestyles Editor

Abraham Lincoln walked into various classrooms at Tierra Blanca Primary and Shirley Intermediate, talked briefly about himself, then asked if there were any questions. The students responded with such questions as "Are you as serious and somber as you appear? What year was your picture placed on the $5 bill? Where are you buried?"

Joe Weaver, as Lincoln, visited the schools on Monday. He was dressed in full period costume, including the stove pipe hat.

Weaver has portrayed several other characters over the past few years. He said his desire is to help people realize that the character he is portraying was an ordinary person who applied himself in extraordinary ways and so was able to accomplish more than the ordinary person.

Weaver has appeared as Johnny Applesseed; Thomas Jefferson; the captain of Columbus' ship Nina, Vicente Pinzon; a spy for General George Washington during the Revolution; and in conjunction with the museum's Indian program as a local cavalry corporal.

"I read about them until they become real to me and no longer seem like a hero or demigod," Weaver said. He has portrayed a person who was closely involved with some of the famous characters, rather than the characters themselves, because he can allow these people to praise the character without seeming like they are bragging.

The little-known facts that Weaver learns about the characters are partially what makes them become real. "Such things as the fact that Jefferson was a devoted family man and Johnny Applesseed was a good businessman are not common knowledge, but they can help us relate to these men as real people," Weaver said.

Weaver plans to add a famous person in Texas history to his cast of characters, perhaps Davy Crockett or Sam Houston.

Weaver is a Hereford native. He attended school in Walcott and Hereford, and returned here after spending ten years in Fort Worth. He and his wife Linda have two daughters, Betsy, 12 and Ann, 10. Weaver, a three-year employee of the Deaf Smith County Library, is currently the assistant director.

By the way, Lincoln was a serious person but he did appreciate a joke and used humor as a release during the Civil War years. He first appeared on paper money in 1862 on a United States Note and on the $5 bill, as we know it, in 1928. He is buried in Springfield, Illinois.

Toastmasters have special guest at evening meeting

The weekly meetings of both the morning and evening Hereford Toastmasters Clubs were held Feb. 9.

Those attending the evening meeting were treated to a special appearance by Abraham Lincoln. Joe Weaver made the presentation as this famous historical character, dressed in period costume, including the top hat.

The second speech at the meeting was an ice breaker entitled "My Life" given by L.V. Watts. An ice breaker is the first speech given by a new Toastmaster's member and is given about the speaker so his audience can get to know him.

Dianna Kimmel served as evaluator, but no vote was taken for best speaker or best evaluator. The general evaluator was Dennis Detten. After the pledge by Rick Jackson and invocation by Jigger Rowland, Dianna Kimmel presided over the business meeting.

Toastmaster was Albert Cervantez; timer, Pat Varner; "ah" counter and grammarian, Jackson.

Kimmel, as wordmaster, introduced the word awesome.

Rowland served as topicmaster and topic speakers were Dave Kimmel, Detten and Jackson. Detten was voted best topic speaker.

Guests for the meeting were Carolyn Christie, Becky McDonald and "Mr. Lincoln's" family, wife Linda Weaver, and daughters, Betsy and Ann Weaver.

The morning meeting was presided over by Nancy Griego. Pat Varner gave the pledge and Griego, the invocation.

Joe Don Cummings served as toastmaster; Charles Minchew, timer; Wayne Winget, "ah" counter; and Joe Weaver; grammarian.

Wordmaster duties were shared by David Jury who presented lethargic and Coleen Seright who presented paradigm.

Topicmaster was Margaret Del Toro and topic speakers were Dave Kimmel, Art Gonzales and Ed Gilbert, who was voted best topic speaker.

The speakers for the meeting were Ralph Bamdt who spoke on "My First Fifty Years" and was evaluated by Griego; Linda Minchew who spoke on "What Shall I Put in the Hole that I Dig" and was evaluated by Jigger Rowland; and Dr. Milton Adams who spoke on "More about Inspiring in Toastmaster" and was evaluated by Clark Andrews.

Linda Minchew was voted best speaker and Rowland was voted best evaluator.

The reading was by Gonzales and the joke by Andrews. Dee Hamilton was general evaluator.

Other members attending were Bud Jowell and Rick Jackson. One guest, Adolfo Del Toro, was also present.

Boyd presents recent program

A program on Kairos prison ministry was presented to the Bayview Study Club by Bobby Boyd. He told of the talents and abilities of many of the inmates and the rewards of kindness and love.

The meeting was held Feb. 2 in the home of Mrs. Wes Fisher.

A nominating committee was chosen to select candidates for a new slate of officers.

One guest, Mrs. Robert Wagner, attended along with members Mesdames J.A. Burran, R.H. Caviness, W.L. Davis, Fisher, D.N. Garner, Don Graham, N.C. Hays, Charlie Holt, Bob Josseland, Earnest Langley, C.F. Newsom, Austin Rose, Paul Scott, J.R. Allison, Howard Gault, W.J. Gililand and G.D. Caison.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: For 14 years, I was accompanied in public by my beloved hearing dog, Maggie, who alerted me to environmental sounds around me.

There is a different way to approach Seeing Eye dogs and service dogs who work with the deaf or those in wheelchairs.

The schools that train these animals also have methods of teaching us how to handle our dogs safely in public. The first thing to remember is the particular role of the service dog, the second thing is to ask, and a very important third thing is to respect the wishes of the dog's owner.

I do not know the exact way of approaching a Seeing Eye dog myself, but I've been told that such a dog is trained to be in a working mode when it is wearing the harness. If you wish to pet the dog, the owner must remove that harness to let the dog know it is all right. The question is: Would you expect the blind person to remove the harness in public?

As for hearing dogs and service dogs, NEADS (National Education for Assistance Dogs, located in West Boylston, Mass.) teaches all graduates that it is good public awareness for our dogs to be touched by strangers, if we are asked first. I have had individuals ask me if they can pet my dog when I am not looking at them, and they don't wait for an answer. Their hands are on my dog before I even know they are there. Naturally, my dog is used to lots of attention. It's also very possible for the dog to be the perfect icebreaker between me and someone who's not sure how to approach a person with a disability. A conversation about dogs opens the door every time!

These are the good reasons why a service-dog can be approached and petted, if everyone will remember the important step of asking first, and then respecting the wishes of the owner. I have told some people no if I feel their manner will alarm my dog or if I am in a hurry.

The most important thing to stress is to NEVER feed these dogs anything, no matter how well-intentioned. Offering water is OK, but never food.

After so many years in public, where the dog was fed, I regretted that I did not enforce this rule strictly because Maggie became accustomed to looking for tidbits when she should have been paying attention to me. It was not a big problem, but a lesson learned. My second hearing dog, Clancy, has never been allowed to accept food in public. — Ann M. McCluskey, Rochester, N.H.

Your letter is exactly the input this column is all about. Thank you for taking the time to write, and a big hug from Heloise to all service animals who help. — Heloise

Herd to host Pampa

The Hereford boys basketball team will try to hang on to a playoff spot when it takes on the Pampa Harvesters at 7:30 tonight in Whiteface Gym.

The girls' season is over, but there will still be a triple-header tonight. The Hereford sophomore boys play Caprock at 4:30, then the Hereford and Pampa junior varsity teams meet at 6.

The players of the week for the Herd are Michael Power on offense and Ronald Torres on defense. Jason Eades took academic honors.

Freshmen HJH games canceled

The final games of the ninth grade and junior high basketball seasons were canceled because of Monday's bad weather.

The HJH boys were to host Valleyview and the freshmen were to go to Pampa, but all games were called off.

Both seventh grade teams finished with stellar records. The A team was 14-2 overall and 7-2 in district play while the B team was 13-3 and 8-1. Both teams won both their district tournaments and their regular season championships.

The eighth grade teams played their district tournaments Thursday and Saturday in Dumas. The B team finished third and the A team was fourth in their respective divisions.

The B team, playing a round-robin format, lost to Valleyview 42-25 but beat Pampa 46-45 and beat Canyon 37-31. The B team finished with records of 4-11 and 2-7.

Eric Cortez led the team with 14 against Pampa and 10 against Canyon. Corey Ortiz scored eight points in each of the three games, and Jose Martinez scored eight against Canyon.

The A team, playing in a regular tournament bracket, beat Dumas 46-38, but then lost to Canyon 53-49 in an overtime thriller that saw four of the nine Hereford players foul out. Hereford lost the fourth place game, 39-36, to Borger.

Chris Torres scored 20 points against Canyon and 12 against Borger, leading the team in both, while Cory Marsh led with 17 against Dumas. Brian Matthews added 11 against Dumas and 10 against Borger, and Mitch Wagner scored 10 against Canyon.

The A team's district record was 5-4, but its overall record was unavailble.

Hereford's freshman boys teams also played their district tournaments over the weekend, but coaches did not report the results.

Ex-Herd coach Dippel gets Dee Henry award

Larry Dippel, a former football coach in Hereford and now the coach at Amarillo High, was honored with the Dee Henry Memorial Award Sunday in Amarillo.

The award was presented in conjunction with the 37th Annual Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame induction Sunday.

The Dee Henry award is given to an Amarillo-area coach or athlete who has overcome physical hardship and continued to participate in sports. Henry was a former high school coach who died of cancer.

In 1986, Dippel was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, an often debilitating disease of the central nervous system, but he has continued to coach the Sandies with great success. AHS won the District 3-5A title last season with a 9-0-1 record.

Dippel had not made an issue of the disease, preferring to leave the spotlight to his players. None of the coaches on his own staff even knew about the disease until three years after the diagnosis.

"I've never tried to feel sorry for myself," Dippel told the Amarillo Globe-News last fall. "I can still make a living doing what I enjoy. Coaching still gives me a sense of purpose that everybody needs."

Dippel coached Hereford for four seasons, 1971-74, compiling a record of 29-15-1. His 1971 team advanced to the state quarterfinals before losing to Wichita Falls, and his 1973 team tied El Paso Coronado in a regional playoff, but lost on penetrations.

He became Amarillo High's coach for the 1975 season. Last season was his 20th guiding the Sandies. He has 143 career wins.

The four men inducted into the PSHOF Sunday included the late Dimmitt basketball coach Kenneth Cleveland, who died after being struck by lightning in May, 1993. He coached Dimmitt for 32 years, compiling a record of 887-277--the ninth most wins in the national record book. Under Cleveland, the Bobcats advanced to 10 state tournaments, winning in 1975, 1982 and 1983.

Hereford tennis team is 4th in Wichita Falls

Hereford took fourth place in Division B of the Wichita Falls Team Tournament held Friday and Saturday in Wichita Falls.

Hereford did well in doubles, especially Paige Robbins and Natalie McWhorter won the girls' bracket, while Tom Jarecki and Tyler Merrick were runners-up in the boys' bracket.

The Hereford team left Wichita Falls before all the matches were complete and before the scores were added up, coach Ed Coplen said.

Hereford finished with either 63 or 60 points. The team finished fourth in a field of eight.

The three teams ahead of Hereford were Borger, Lubbock High and Ardmore, Okla. Lubbock High had 87 points, Ardmore had anywhere from 92-81 points and Borger had 87-78 points.

With Borger and Lubbock High, the field was a pretty good one despite the fact it was the B division, Coplen said.

Midland Lee, Weatherford and two junior varsity teams from Wichita Falls schools--Rider and Wichita Falls High--finished behind Hereford. The Rider JV was definitely last, while the other three each had about 50 points.

McWhorter and Robbins were seeded second and beat the top seeds, Bryant and Justice of Weatherford, in the finals. (Coplen didn't have scores for any of the matches or first names for any of the doubles players.) They beat Borger's Mebane and White in the semis and beat pairs from Rider and Midland Lee earlier.

Merrick and Jarecki, the second seeds, lost in the finals to Cumpton and Hanson of Ardmore. Cumpton was a last-minute replacement for Wong; Hanson and Wong were seeded third.

Merrick and Jarecki beat Borger's Clark and Goldston in the semis after getting by teams from Weatherford and Rider.

Hereford got good points in the boys' singles bracket, too. B.J. Lockmiller took consolation, winning three matches after losing in the first round. Andrew Carr made it to the seventh place game--out of 16--but the result wasn't available.

The girls duo of Taylor Sublett and Annie Hoffman lost in the consolation match. They lost in the first round, but came back to win two matches.

Alumni Game postponed

The Alumni baseball game scheduled for Saturday was postponed until this Saturday because of cold weather in the 20s.

The baseball scrimmage between the current Hereford players and former players will be played at 2 p.m. Saturday at Whiteface Field.

To accommodate the change, Hereford's scrimmage at Dimmitt, originally set for Saturday, will now be played at 4 p.m. Thursday in Dimmitt.

Dykstra's words make Clemens, Maddux mad

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Roger Clemens and Greg Maddux took a break from golf Monday to throw some high, hard ones at Lenny Dykstra.

The two three-time Cy Young award winners, both staunch union backers, expressed dismay with Dykstra for even suggesting players should alter their contract demands and go back to work.

"He's going to have to play with the team," Maddux said. "We all feel like we're on the same team and in this together. When someone has a different opinion, it's a little upsetting."

Dykstra said last week he was considering playing despite the strike and wanted the union's negotiating committee to consider accepting a proposal offered by mediator W.J. Usery.

His comments, though, were dismissed by both Maddux and Clemens, who said they were misinformed and didn't reflect the thinking of almost all the other striking players.

"Lenny speaks up without really knowing the issues," Clemens said. "Lenny spent 20 minutes in a couple of meetings and then left. He should go to these meetings and spend the four to six hours that everyone else spends."

Still, Clemens said he didn't think the Philadelphia Phillies outfielder would actually cross the line and play without a settlement.

"Everybody knows Lenny is a little unusual," the Boston Red Sox pitcher said. "But I very much doubt he would cross the line."

On a week when pitchers would be reporting to camp to open spring training, Maddux and Clemens found themselves instead swatting golf balls at a charity tournament organized by PGA golfer Robert Gamez.

They were joined by Houston Astros slugger Phil Plantier, who said union unity was not a problem despite a strike now stretching into its seventh month.

"I believe there's no splintering," Plantier said. "Everyone I've talked to is real united. The more you know about what's going on, the more united you are."

Plantier said Dykstra has the right to his opinion, but should study the issues before voicing it.

"There's only a problem when someone doesn't know the facts," he said. "I think when he hears the facts he'll change his mind."

The long strike didn't seem to dash the enthusiasm of the handful of fans attending the tournament, who had their pictures taken with players and brought baseballs and trading cards to sign.

One determined autograph hunter carried two bats around the course, trying to get players and former players to sign them.

"We just have to stick together and hope the fans will forgive us once it's all over," Maddux said. "I hope they do. It will take a lot of PR on the part of both the players and the owners when this ends."

All three players expressed optimism the strike would be settled by the time the regular season is scheduled to begin, and scoffed at any threat posed by replacement players.

"They're not major league players and once we get back they won't be around," Clemens said. "If it's glorification to get double A and single A players out there and journeymen who couldn't get anybody out in their prime, let them go out there and have their fun."

"I'm not intimidated or scared by it," Maddux said. "I hope those guys have fun. Because those are guys who would be getting opportunities they wouldn't get if it weren't for the strike."

Maddux, who won an unprecedented third straight Cy Young award for last year's abbreviated season, said he and most other players are determined to stay out as long as necessary to get a settlement.

Nelson steps down as Warriors' coach

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - For Don Nelson; his leadership of the Golden State Warriors lacked an essential component: passion.

Nelson stepped down as coach and general manager of the Warriors Monday following a season of dissension, losses, injuries, sickness and the trading of Chris Webber, last year's NBA rookie of the year.

"I think I lost a little passion this year," Nelson said. "When I tried to get it back, I was physically ill and I couldn't."

Bob Lanier, an assistant coach and Hall of Fame center, will replace Nelson as interim coach for the rest of the season.

The Warriors started the season under Nelson with high hopes, spurred by last season's 50 victories. But the trade of Webber was the first of several apparently unsurmountable problems for Nelson.

On top of on-the-court woes, Nelson battled his own physical ones. He missed seven games in December because of viral pneumonia, returned in January but missed two more games with the flu this month.

The Warriors were 14-31 at the All-Star break.

"I basically have done a lousy job this year and I definitely deserve to be replaced," he said at a news conference formally announcing his resignation.

Nelson, who began his head coaching career with the Milwaukee Bucks in the 1976-1977 season, has a regular season career record of 817-604 and a postseason record of 51-61.

As general manager of the Warriors for 7-1/2 years and coach for 6-1/2 years, he never reached the conference finals with the team, despite four playoff appearances.

This season was supposed to be different, with a usually cautious Nelson optimistic for a possible title. Injured guard Tim Hardaway was returning to join Webber and All-Star guard Latrell Sprewell. The Warriors acquired Rony Seikaly, their first established center in the Nelson years, in a preseason trade with Miami for forward Billy Owens.

But things were not well with Webber. The former Michigan star had a publicized blowup with Nelson in Charlotte last season and was quoted in an off-season interview as saying it was the worst year of his life. He eventually forced a Nov. 17 trade to Washington.

On Monday, Nelson defended the Webber trade, but admitted their relationship was strained.

"There were problems between the two of us, in terms of philosophy," Nelson said. "He was a hard guy for me to coach."

Webber's departure sent the Warriors into an almost immediate tailspin. The team has lost 30 of its last 37 after a 7-1 start.

All-Star Chris Mullin has missed virtually the whole season with injuries and has been joined on the sidelines by Seikaly.

Hardaway hasn't fully recovered from last year's knee injury. Sprewell has had an erratic season, marked by injuries and resentment of the trades of friends Owens and Webber. He missed two practices and was suspended for a game. Rookie Cliff Rozier also served a one-game suspension for missing practice.

Nelson said persistent talk that he had lost touch with the young players of today's NBA was blown out of proportion.

"I get along great with young players. I am a good coach," he said.

Nonetheless, the pressure was great for the Warriors to take action in hopes of salvaging the second half of the season. Nelson and team owner Chris Cohan met over the weekend in Phoenix, where the All-Star Game was played.

Cohan said Monday that Nelson's resignation was a mutual decision between the two and confirmed Nelson would receive a $1 million buyout.

Nelson's son, Donn Nelson, an assistant to his father, will remain with the team to assist with the 1995 draft.

NBA heads into second half

By WENDY E. LANE

AP Basketball Writer

PHOENIX (AP) - Phoenix Suns coach Paul Westphal was only joking when he tried to coax Houston's Hakeem Olajuwon into doing something dangerous during the NBA All-Star Game.

After all, with Olajuwon out of the way, the path to the NBA Finals would be a lot less daunting for the Suns, who have the league's best record going into the second half of the season.

Olajuwon resisted Westphal's attempts to drag him toward an electric catapult that was sending the Suns' Gorilla mascot hurtling through the air during a timeout in Sunday's All-Star Game. Charles Barkley wanted to try the contraption, but his fast-thinking coach went after him and stopped him.

"The plan was to get Hakeem out there," Westphal said, laughing. "We were trying to reel him in there and get him injured, but he is too smart for that."

Now that the All-Star frolicking is over, the serious part of the season resumes.

In fact, no sooner was the game over - a 139-112 romp by the Western Conference - than players' thoughts turned toward the business of jockeying for playoff positions.

The Rockets, the defending champions, have some serious catching up to do. They are third in the Midwest Division with only the sixth-best record in the conference.

"The West is so competitive," Olajuwon said. "You can't say it's just those two teams (Houston and Phoenix). We have Seattle, San Antonio, Utah, Phoenix."

Houston's task is tough, and it starts with an Eastern road trip that includes stops at Central Division leader Charlotte and New York.

The best-shooting team in the league and the surprise Midwest leader, the Utah Jazz, figure to keep rolling now that the distraction of John Stockton's NBA assists record is safely out of the way.

"I think it was good for us to take a break and get away from each other for a while, because we had a lot of things going on before the break, with Stockton's assist record and the road streak (15 straight wins)," Karl Malone said.

Then there are the Spurs, who have won 22 of 28 after corraling unruly Dennis Rodman. With Rodman's league-high average of 16.3 rebounds per game, David Robinson hasn't had to attack the boards as much and is putting up MVP-type numbers for the second straight season.

After their first-round playoff flameout last season, the Seattle SuperSonics have buckled down and piled up wins, compiling a 33-12 record, No. 2 in the conference.

"I think we are in good shape, as good as anybody else," Sonics forward Detlef Schrempf said. "We have matured. We have a young, emotional team, but overall we have matured a lot, and we are still maturing."

Despite losing leading scorer Cedric Ceballos for at least six weeks with a thumb injury, the Los Angeles Lakers appear virtually certain to make the playoffs after missing out last year. Portland and Sacramento should get the remaining two spots, because Denver has lost 10 of 12 since Dan Issel quit as coach.

Meanwhile, the Eastern Conference isn't nearly as tight. With a 37-10 record, Orlando has taken the suspense out of the chase for top seeding in the playoffs.

But Shaquille O'Neal, who's having an MVP season, was eager for the Magic to start playing again.

"Now it's time to get back to my real job," said O'Neal, who had 22 points in Sunday's game.

And now that O'Neal has had a strong All-Star showing for the first time in three appearances, is it time for his young Magic team to win its first playoff game?

"If we want to be best in the East, we have to go through New York," said O'Neal, although Orlando leads the Knicks by 6 1/2 games in the Atlantic Division. "They are a great team. I know they've had some injury problems, but they are still a great team. When we play the Knicks, we have to do everything right."

But the Knicks, who have shaken off the absence of Charles Oakley and climbed from .500 to 30-16, aren't the only team to be reckoned with in the conference.

Charlotte's Larry Johnson and Alonzo Mourning are showing how formidable they can be when healthy. Mourning is averaging 20.2 points and 10.8 rebounds and Johnson is averaging 18.9 points per game.

"We have stepped up our offense, and we are turning some heads," Johnson said. "People are seeing what's going on in Charlotte."

What's going on in Cleveland has been just as remarkable, with the Cavaliers using a slowdown style to win. With a rash of injuries, including Mark Price's broken wrist, they've had no choice.

After reaching the conference finals last season before losing to New York, Indiana has been erratic. But the Pacers - third behind Charlotte and Cleveland in the Central - are counting on their defense to carry them in the second half.

Because the conference is so weak, a sub-.500 Chicago team probably will reach the playoffs, even if the Bulls make the trade Scottie Pippen is demanding.

Bagwell, Messier each take two ESPY awards

NEW YORK (AP) - Jeff Bagwell of the Houston Astros, Mark Messier of the New York Rangers and Charlotte Smith of the North Carolina women's basketball team each won two ESPY Awards Monday night on ESPN.

The two top ESPY Awards went to San Francisco 49ers quarterback Steve Young as male athlete of the year and Olympic gold-medalist winning speed skater Bonnie Blair as female athlete of the year.

Televised live from Radio City Music Hall, the ESPY's were given out for the third year. Part of the proceeds goes to The V Foundation for cancer research, established in memory of the late Jim Valvano.

Thirty-three awards were given, including 17 performer of the year awards, seven so-called cross-cutter awards, and nine video awards decided by ESPN viewers.

Bagwell was honored as baseball player of the year and breakthrough athlete of the year. He broke his hand shortly before the baseball strike began Aug. 12.

"I might be the only one who benefited by the strike," Bagwell said in accepting his award.

Messier won NHL player of the year and best performance under pressure. Smith was named women's college basketball player of the year and was awarded the play of the year as well for her buzzer beater against Louisiana Tech in the women's final.

In addition to his two awards, Messier also was on the outstanding team of the year. George Seifert of the 49ers, meanwhile, was named coach of the year.

Repeat winners from 1994 were Nick Price, golfer of the year, and Pete Sampras, tennis player of the year.

Most outrageous play of the year went to the half-court shot by Corie Clouse of Cincinnati for a one-year scholarship at Midnight Madness,

Sale of Miami Heat approved

MIAMI (AP) - Just hours after the NBA approved the sale of the Miami Heat, the new owners began making plans for "a new tone, new philosophy" for the club.

"Hopefully, we'll see those changes as quickly as Tuesday night in the Arena," said an upbeat Micky Arison after the purchase was approved Monday by the NBA Board of Governors meeting in Phoenix. He would not elaborate.

The approval marked the end to a 14-month, often acrimonious battle to gain control of the Heat. The family of Carnival Cruise Lines founder Ted Arison bought out partners Billy Cunningham and Lewis Schaffel to gain 100 percent of the Florida Basketball Associates Inc.

The FBA is the general partner of the Heat, and 88 percent of the Heat partnership. Ted Arison's wife, Marilyn, is the official owner.

"This has not been an easy exercise, but we are happy that many of the problems, frustrations and roadblocks that we've encountered over the course of the past 14 months are now behind us," said Micky Arison, Ted Arison's son.

The terms of the sale were not disclosed.

Micky Arison said his top priority is finding a general manager for the 17-29 club, a manager who's competitive and "hates to lose." "We're going to have a different philosophy," he said.

Taylor is new executive officer for Cal Farley's Boys Ranch

Concluding 30 years of military service to his country, Wesley "Wes" B. Taylor, Jr. is starting a new career as Chief Executive Officer and Executive Director of Cal Farley's

Wesley B. Taylor, Jr.

Boys Ranch, and Girlstown, U.S.A. Taylor accepts the responsibilities held by Roy E. Turner who officially retired on Feb. 11.

Taylor recently retired from the United States Army as a Brigadier General and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Special Operations/Low Intensity Conflict with duties in the Pentagon.

Cal Farley's Boys Ranch and its affiliate campuses presently provide homes and educations for more than 500 boys and girls. Along with the main Boys Ranch campus northwest of Amarillo, other facilities include Girlstown, U.S.A. near Whiteface and Cal Farley's Family Program, near Borger. Young people admitted to these facilities typically suffer from a lack of parental guidance or have experienced various social problems in their homes, schools or communities. While working toward high school graduation, these youth receive academic, vocational and non-denominational religious training.

General Taylor received his MA Degree from the University of California at Santa Barbara, and BS Degree from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He earned a post-graduate fellowship in national and international security affairs from Harvard University, is a graduate of the U.S. Army War college and was a trained facilitator with the Atlanta Justice Center.

General Taylor and his wife, Linda, are the parents of two grown children, Kathleen and Clint. The Taylors' involvements include the American Red Cross, Army Community Services, Boy Scouts of America and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, among others. They are members of the Methodist church.

Heart disease is focus of HRMC 'Lifestyle Health Issues' forum

Hereford Regional Medical Center has set February 27 and March 6 for this year's annual Women's Lifestyle Advantage Health Issues Forum, according to Jim Robinson, hospital administrator. The meetings, held in cooperation with the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, will be in the Hereford Community Center, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. This is the third annual LifeStyle Advantage seminar, an educational series designed to focus on a woman's special health care concern.

This year's program focuses on heart disease, with three health care experts talking about exercise, depression, and risk factors: Kathryn Corder, an exercise physiologist, will speak on "Women and Heart Disease." Darra Bullard, also an exercise physiologist, will speak on "Finding Time to Be Fit." Ron Rains, a trained psychotherapist, will discuss "The Pursuit of Happiness: How to Overcome Depression."

"Women of all ages need to learn about the risks of developing heart disease," Robinson said. "These sessions are designed for women who are healthy now and want to stay that way, and for women who have already begun to develop some symptoms for heart disease. The speakers will help both groups learn information that will be important for a healthy life."

Ms. Corder, who works at Methodist Workplace Services (part of the Methodist Hospital system), has a Bachelor of Science degree in exercise science from Texas Tech University. Corder will give information about heart disease, the number one killer of women, and discuss controllable risk factors, symptoms, diagnosis, and prevention. "Heart disease is definitely a lifestyle related disease," Corder said. "There are some people who inherit risk factors, but for the great majority, lifestyle choices are the determining factor."

Ms. Bullard, with the Methodist Lifestyle Center, has a Bachelor of Science degree in exercise science and a Masters in Health Promotion from Texas Tech University. She will help those attending learn how to manage time to create a physically active lifestyle. "Most of us know we need to exercise regularly," Bullard said. "And many enjoy exercise, but everyone has the same complaint - there's just no time. This presentation is designed to help women find the vital time necessary to maintain a regular exercise program."

Rains is the Community Resources Director for charter Plains Behavioral Health System. He has a Master of Education in Counseling degree from Texas Tech University. He will tell the audience what depression and stress really are, and give some guidelines to better understand human behavior and change feelings. "Depression and stress are the two major emotional problems in our fast-paced society," Rains said. "I hope to help women learn some of the warning signs, and give them some coping mechanisms."

The cost for both program is $10 per person. The programs are being partially sponsored by the First National Bank of Hereford. Seating is limited and advanced reservations are recommended. To make reservations or to obtain more information, call Peggie Fox at Hereford Regional Medical Center, 364-2141, Ext. 317.

Two local students place in forensics tournaments

Two local West Texas A&M students won honors in persuasive speaking and dramatic duo competition.

The WTA&M University forensics team captured fifth place in two separate tournaments at Southwest Baptist University (SBU) in Bolivar, Mo., and Pittsburg State University (PSU) in Pittsburg, Kan., Jan. 27-29.

Sara Zinck, a sophomore theatre major from Hereford, won in persuasive speaking and placed sixth in prose interpretation.

Lance Ortiz, a freshman history major from Hereford, and Melissa Hulein, a junior speech major from Andrews, placed third in dramatic duo.

As a result of the member's efforts, they placed fifth overall in team sweepstakes.

The winning ways continued at PSU for Zinck and Burley. The pair finished fourth in dramatic duo.

In the first contest of the spring semester, the team advanced all of its members to the final rounds.

"Our performance is an encouraging way to start the semester, and our powerful young forensics team continues to show its great potential and strength," Richard Knight, forensics coach and WTA&M instructor of speech said of the team's success.

At SBU, Kerry Burley, a freshman theatre major from Andrews, had the best showing in the tournament by placing third as the overall speaker of the tournament. She won in program oral interpretation, placed third in prose interpretation and fifth in communication analysis. Zinck also finished fourth in after-dinner speaking, which is a humorous speech about a serious topic.

Burley was again the top winner by placing in three individual events. She finished second in program oral interpretation, fourth in single dramatic interpretation and sixth in communication analysis.

Once again, for the team's efforts, it placed fifth in team sweepstakes.

"We are now focusing on the upcoming state and national tournaments," Knight said.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a female sophomore at a small college in New Jersey. Recently, I woke up in the middle of the night to discover a male friend in my fourth floor dorm room. I said, "What in the world are you doing in here?" He did not reply and ran off immediately.

I chased him all the way to his room and pounded on his door. When he opened it, I demanded to know what he had been doing in my room. He acted as if he had just gotten up and said, "Are you OK?" He seemed totally bewildered. I walked away confused and scared.

I couldn't get this incident out of my mind, so a few days later, I decided to write him a letter. I told him to explain himself or I would report him to security. He wrote back within hours, apologizing profusely and saying that he had been so drunk that night he could not remember anything. When we talked face-to-face later, he seemed sincerely ashamed. He vowed to do something about his drinking problem.

I see no reason to pursue the matter further, but it still bothers me. For one thing, he did not seem drunk at the time. Ann, does alcohol really cause people to do things that are so wildly out of character? What am I to make of all this?--Still Uneasy in N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Alcohol can indeed cause people to do things that are "wildly out of character." It is also entirely possible that your friend did not remember coming into your room.

My question to you is this: Why do you leave your door unlocked at night? The next unwelcome guest could be far more dangerous.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read your column in the Houston Chronicle. Some time ago, you printed several letters about emergency service. That column reminded me of my own experience with 911.

Imagine a 78-year-old woman (me) working on her plants in the patio. The glass sliding door accidentally locked behind me. The carport door and the 7-foot iron picket fence gate also were locked. I had no keys with me.

I tried to get over the dividing fence and caught my pants. Fortunately, my 93-year-old gardener was working on the front lawn. I yelled, "Help! Help! Help!" at the top of my lungs for 30 minutes. He could not hear me.

Within minutes, the fire department and ambulance came to rescue me. When they saw the way I was hooked, they started to laugh. One rescuer said, "Too bad we don't have a camera. No one will believe us

One of my legs was on the patio side of the fence and the other on the outside of the picket fence. My slacks were caught you-know-where on those darned pickets, and I couldn't move. The gardener finally looked up and saw me. He couldn't get through the locked fence, so I told him to call 911 at once.

When we tell them about this 911 call."

They wanted to take me to the hospital to be checked over, but I assured them that I just wanted to go in the house and STAY there.--I.D., Houston

DEAR HOUSTON: Your letter is sure to remind some readers of their funny experiences resulting from being locked out. Send 'em on, folks. I'll print the best ones.

Gem of the Day: Too often, no one needs a vacation as much as the person who just had one.

Forget to save some of your favorite Ann Landers columns? "Nuggets and Doozies" is the answer.
