HTFCU gets a healthy report

A healthy financial report was given, three directors were elected and door prizes were presented when the Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union held its 53rd annual meeting last night in the Community Center.

Approximately 250 members attended the meeting, according to Robert L. Baker, manager. He reported that a new building is being planned in Dimmitt. The member-owned, cooperative credit union was chartered to serve citizens in Deaf Smith and Castro counties.

Members re-elected Joe Kerr, Charles Hoover and Dr. W.J. Hill of Dimmitt as directors. Hoover had been appointed to fill out the term of the late Robert Thompson.

Kerr, board president, pointed to some special areas of interest in the financial statement. These included: total assets increased by 9 percent to $22,654,312; total loans increased by 21 percent to $14,083,542; and the loans to deposits ratio was 65 percent.

Kerr also reported that Wayne Amstutz was appointed by the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Don Tardy. The board now includes Kerr as president, Dr. Milton Adams, vice president; Dr. W.J. Hill, secretary-treasurer; and directors Nick Yosten, Ralph Smith, Amstutz and Hoover.

Members of the supervisory committee also submitted a report at the meeting. The committee is composed of Richard Stahl, Jerry Baker and Jimmy Bell.

Stadium project gets good beginning

A volunteer contribution project to expand Whiteface Stadium seating is off to a good start, according to John Fuston, HISD board president.

Football fans have been asked to make a one-time contribution of $25 or more and pay a $1 handling fee for each pre-season ticket sold for the next few years. These funds could be designated for the stadium expansion and provide an alternative to using tax funds.

Fuston said the school has experienced a unique problem the past few years in not always having enough seats in the student sections. He said the donations "would show support toward the outstanding football program and would be greatly appreciated by the student body."

"If we are successful in raising $25,000 by May 1, 1990, and with the additional one-dollar handling fee, we will pay for the expansion without use of tax dollars," said Fuston. He added that checks will be returned if the necessary funds are not raised by May 1.

Fans interested in donating can make their checks payable to Hereford Independent School District and mail the check to Hereford ISD, 136 Ave. F, Hereford, 79045. Fans can also give their checks to a school board member or the Whiteface Booster Club.

Students experiment with space tomatoes

Students experiment with out-of-this-world tomatoes

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Tonya Horrell's fifth grade students at Bluebonnet Intermediate School in Hereford will spend the rest of the school year waiting for tomatoes to grow.

They're not just any old tomatoes. The seeds for the tomatoes spent almost six years in outer space on the Long Duration Exposure Facility (LDEF) that was retrieved by the space shuttle Columbia last Jan. 20.

Mrs. Horrell's husband, Steve, had seen news reports about the LDEF. It had a variety of experiments on board that were exposed to the weightlessness and radiation of space since April 6, 1984, when it was released from the space shuttle Challenger. Most of the students were about four years old when the tomato seeds were launched into space.

James Cano, one of the students, wrote a letter to NASA. He asked if the students could have some of the tomato seeds to grow to see what would happen to the seeds.

In early March, NASA replied to the letter and sent a packet of "space" tomato seeds and similar seeds that have never left earth.

The students will have to monitor the growth of the different seeds for the next two months.

"The shape might be different," said Gabriel Ortiz, another student. "They might take longer to grow, and they might taste different from earth tomatoes. They might not grow at all."

Mrs. Horrell said they would also try to grow a space tomato without watering the plant at all.

Other students were concerned that radiation could have an effect on the space plants, and that lack of gravity and long exposure to weightlessness could force the plants to grow in a different direction, or produce bigger or smaller fruit.

Student April Villarreal said the tomatoes need direct sunlight. Since the classroom's windows are on the north side, the students will use a "grow light" to give the plants more artificial light to aid germination and growth. When the weather warms, the tomatoes will be placed outside.

Student Jason Ford said the class will have to measure the earth tomatoes and space tomatoes about once a week. The students will learn about the metric system because NASA wants all measurements in centimeters. The students will also get a lesson in percentages and averaging. They will have to determine the differences between all of the earth plants and the space plants.

The students hope to have the project finished by the end of school in May. A final report is to be given to NASA before June 15.

Other students participating in the experiment are Christopher Cabezuola, Jonathan Cantu, Margarito Castillo, Trampis Fowler, Rickey Guzman, Christi Haney, Jamie Harrison, Adan Jimenez, Rachel Mejia, Taysha Mitchell, Britny Padilla, Maria Ramirez, Susanne Saucedo, Maria Tena, Retha Treadway and Aaron Warden.

SPS to lower electric rates

Southwestern Public Service company's Texas retail customers will receive lower rates beginning in April due to a temporary reduction in the "fuel-cost recovery factor" on electric bills, the company announced today.

The decrease will lower overall electric rates by 9.6 percent, or a total of $43.8 million, for residential, commercial, industrial and other retail customers.

The reduction, requested by SPS last November, was approved on an interim basis by a hearing examiner for the Public Utility Commission. The fuel cost collected by the interim factor will be subject to final review by the commission.

The actual decrease will vary according to usage and rates applicable to different types of customers. If you use 1,000 kilowatt hours a month in your house, your monthly electric bill will drop about $5.

The reduction is the result of lower fuel and purchased-power costs. The cost of fuel to operate SPS power plants and the cost of power purchased from other companies makes up about half of SPS's overall costs to serve customers.

Sarpalius in dog house, not in White House

WASHINGTON (AP) - The second-ranking House Republican said Rep. Bill Sarpalius made irresponsible comments about the U.S. stance toward Lithuania after meeting President Bush.

House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia said he became upset with the Amarillo Democrat after Bush's chief of staff, John Sununu, complained about Sarpalius' comments in the Washington Times Thursday.

"When I saw the headline, I was as mad as Sununu," Gingrich said, referring to a front-page story in The Washington Times with the headline: "Bush would sacrifice Lithuania."

The story quoted Sarpalius as saying Bush had decided to "stick with" Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

A Sarpalius aide said the congressman did not use the term "sacrifice Lithuania over Gorbachev."

Sarpalius and Reps. Richard Durbin, D-Ill., Christopher Cox, R-Calif., and John Miller, R-Washington, who traveled to Lithuania Feb. 24-25, met privately with the president to discuss the situation there.

A press release issued by Sarpalius' office said the president told the group "there was nothing more he could do publicly for Lithuania," which declared itself independent from the Soviet Union earlier this month.

Reached in Dallas Thursday night, Sarpalius said, "For the past 50 years, U.S. policy has never recognized the presence of Soviet Union in Lithuania. By not recognizing Lithuania's independence, in a sense it recognizes the Soviet occupation of Lithuania."

Hispanics call for I-9 repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hispanic lawmakers and advocacy groups called for Congress to repeal sanctions against employers who hire undocumented workers, saying the law has resulted in some businesses declaring "open season" on Hispanic and foreign-looking job seekers.

Congress' investigative arm, the General Accounting Office, said in a report Thursday that an estimated 461,000 employers, or 10 percent of all those surveyed, reported discriminating against job seekers on the basis of national origin.

Another 9 percent of employers violated the law by hiring only job seekers who had been born in the United States, or by not hiring people who had temporary work eligibility documents, the GAO said.

GAO said it believed the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, which made employers subject to civil and criminal sanctions for knowingly hiring undocumented workers, had caused a "substantial amount of the discrimination."

"Due to overzealousness or confusion, employers attempting to avoid sanctions have declared 'open season' on Hispanics and others perceived to be 'foreign.' This is an intolerable situation," said Raul Yzaguirre, president of the National Council of La Raza, which called for repeal of the sanctions.

Others calling for repeal included the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund, the American Bar Association, the American Civil Liberties Union, the Organization of Chinese Americans Inc., and the Japanese American Citizens League.

"Congress must not continue to condone a program that encourages employers to discriminate against citizens and lawful residents based on the color of their skin or the tenor of their speech," said Mario Moreno of MALDEF.

Congress now has three options - keep the law as is, repeal the sanctions and its anti-discrimination provisions, or move to reduce the law's discriminatory effects, GAO said.

Democratic Reps. Albert Bustamante of San Antonio and Bill Richardson of Santa Fe, N.M., were among several lawmakers who said they want the sanctions repealed.

"Those of us who grew up in South Texas, though I'm a third generation American, can understand what discrimination really is," said Bustamante, a former migrant worker.

"It is really, truly degrading, to be denied because of your accent, your color, because of your gender. And whether it's 20 percent or whether it is 1 percent, it is wrong," Bustamante said.

Richardson said he would introduce a joint resolution to repeal the sanctions, giving Congress until mid-May to act.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, March 30, the 89th day of 1990. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On March 30, 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million. The deal was roundly ridiculed in the United States as "Seward's Folly."

On this date:

In 1822, Florida became a United States territory.

In 1842, Dr. Crawford W. Long of Jefferson, Ga., first used ether as an anesthetic during a minor operation.

In 1858, Hyman L. Lipman of Philadelphia patented a pencil with an attached eraser.

In 1870, the 15th amendment to the Constitution, giving black men the right to vote, was declared in effect.

In 1870, Texas was readmitted to the Union.

In 1981, President Reagan and three other men were shot and wounded by John W. Hinckley Jr. outside a Washington hotel.

Ten years ago: An outdoor funeral service marred by violence was held in El Salvador for Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, who had been assassinated while celebrating Mass six days earlier.

Five years ago: Police in South Africa used tear gas and rubber bullets against black protesters in the 10th straight day of unrest around southeastern industrial cities.

One year ago: "The Heidi Chronicles" by Wendy Wasserstein won the Pulitzer Prize for drama while in the journalism category, the Anchorage Daily News won the public service award for its reports on alcoholism and suicide among native Alaskans.

Cattle loose after accident

Bush threatens to veto House child care bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - House Democrats are tempting a presidential veto by rejecting the White House version of a child-care bill in favor of their own more costly and ambitious plan.

The House approved the measure, estimated to cost at least $27 billion over its first five years, just hours after a spokesman for President Bush issued a fresh veto threat Thursday.

"Rather than waving his veto pen, our president should match his warm words with good deeds and agree to sign our child-care bill," House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., said after the vote.

The bill still must go to a House-Senate conference to resolve differences with the Senate. But Democrats hoped the ultimate version would mirror the House bill and that election-year pressures would make Bush back down from his threat.

The House plan would expand tax credits for poor families to offset the cost of child care and would provide federal money for local governments to set up new day-care programs in public schools.

It would create a system of state-issued subsidy vouchers for parents who want to use religious day-care centers, expand the Head Start program for poor children, and establish minimum standards for day-care centers.

Both parties embraced the cause of day-care assistance during the last presidential campaign, and Democrats were trying to seize the political advantage on the popular issue. Less than a week ago, Democrats reported being close to a bipartisan agreement on the issue in White House negotiations that ultimately collapsed.

To offset part of the new child-care costs, the House plan would take away the income tax credit that more affluent families now receive for child care. That credit would be reduced for families earning $70,000 a year and eliminated for those earning more than $90,000.

It also would make permanent the 3 percent telephone excise tax due to expire this year. But both revenue sources would not cover the full cost.

The House approved the bill 265-145, after voting more narrowly to reject the less costly alternative that Bush had endorsed. That version's five-year cost was put at nearly $20 billion.

The White House's budget office issued a statement calling the Democratic version "an exercise in fiscal irresponsibility."

Just hours before the vote, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater warned that Bush would veto the Democratic version if it reached his desk.

The White House alternative was sponsored by Reps. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, and Clay Shaw, R-Fla. It was defeated on a 225-195 vote that largely followed party lines.

Republicans attacked the Democratic version because it instructs states to set minimum standards for day-care centers, including a requirement that day-care workers receive 15 hours of training a year.

The Senate's version, passed last year, would cost about the same as the version backed by Bush, though it would provide smaller tax credits. Like the House version, the Senate plan would provide vouchers for church-run centers, but it would place less emphasis on school-based programs.

Hereford students compete at UIL meet

Hereford High School students are busy today and Saturday at the annual District 1-4A University Interscholastic League academic spring meet at West Texas State University.

Students are participating in contests in several subject areas, including math, science, business, language arts, journalism, speech and theatre. Other events include accounting and literary criticism, with contests in current events and computer skills to be added to the program in 1990-91.

"Although the UIL is more often associated with athletic competition, more students compete in the academic contests," said UIL Director Dr. Bailey Marshall. Marshall pointed out that the UIL began as a debating league in 1910 and later merged with a track and field association to form the current UIL. Each year, more than a third of the total participation in UIL activities involve academic contests.

Students who place first, second or third at the district meet will advance to regionals. Winners there will compete at the state meet for a chance at more than medals, they qualify for Texas Interscholastic League Foundation scholarships. In 1988-89, the TILF awarded almost a half-million in scholarship grants to 360 college students. About 380 students are expected to benefit from the TILF this year.

Also, Benny Dominguez, Jerry Dutton, Daniel Esquivel, Jill Gallegos, Jason Gear, Cameron Gulley, Jonathan Haney, Becky Haschke, Delinda Hernandez, Leroy

Jackson, Corey James, Karmen Kirkpatrick, Orlando Lopez, Tino Malouf, Alan Martinez, Jeri McConnell, Jessica McDonald and Paul McMillan;

Also, Dulari Parikh, Jeri Ann Parker, Matthew Parker, Richard Perez, Poppy Richardson, Scott Robinson, Daphne Roddy, Vaavia Rudd, Melissa Russell, Todd Selmon, Carrie Skelton, Greg Sorenson, Tim Stagner, Adelina Tapia, Zack Walker, Chassidy Weddel, Jill West and Steven Wheat.

American lifespan is increasing

ATLANTA (AP) - Life expectancy in the United States has never been higher, but disparities remain between whites and blacks, federal researchers say.

Overall U.S. life expectancy rose to 75 years, according to 1987 data, the Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday.

That was up 0.2 years - about 73 days - from 1986, said Ken Kochanek, a statistician with the CDC's National Center for Health Statistics in Hyattsville, Md.

The life-expectancy concept means that someone born in 1987 would live, on the average, 75 years. Women, on average, outlive men by 6.9 years.

Overall, Americans can now expect to live about 12 years longer than they could expect 50 years ago; the life expectancy rate in 1940 was 62.9.

But while average life expectancy for whites was 75.6 years - up slightly from 1986 - life expectancy for blacks was 69.4 years, same as the year before.

And though the nation's mortality rate was down, annual black death rates were 50 percent higher than for whites - 778.6 per 100,000 blacks, compared with 511.1 for whites.

The greatest single disparity in death rates was for death by homicide. The black homicide rate in 1987 was six times higher than that for whites, the CDC reported.

Meanwhile, the nation's overall mortality rate in 1987 - the latest year for which analysis is available - fell to a record low of 535.5 deaths for every 100,000 Americans. That's down 1 percent from a year earlier and down 7 percent from 1979.

A total of 2,123,323 U.S. deaths were reported in 1987 - the highest number ever, as the nation's population has grown.

The decline in the overall death rate came as fatality rates dropped for 13 of the previous year's 15 leading causes of death, including the big four: heart disease, cancer, stroke and accidental injuries.

The death rate from heart disease, the nation's leading killer, dropped 3.1 percent. The rate for cancer declined 0.2 percent, the rate for stroke and cerebrovascular disease fell 2.3 percent, and the rate for accidents dropped 1.7 percent.

Among the 15 leading causes of death, the only increases were among diabetes, up 2.1 percent, and septicemia, or blood infections, up 4.7 percent.

Year-by-year comparisons were unavailable for AIDS deaths because of 1987 changes in categorization in the mortality study, the CDC said.

But CDC data on AIDS found a 32 percent increase in deaths between 1986 and 1987, and "mortality from AIDS appears to be increasing more rapidly than mortality from other conditions," the Atlanta-based agency said.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome replaced birth defects as the 15th leading cause of death.

She married Winfrey Bell in May 1974, in Levelland. She was a member of Fairview Baptist Church and a homemaker.

Survivors include her husband; two sons, J.W. Youngblood of Jal, N.M., and Oley W. Jr. of Hobbs, N.M.; a daughter, Mildred Greer of Ruston, La.; a stepson, Stacy Bell of Lubbock, a stepdaughter, Lavonia Cantoras of Hahn, Germany; six brothers, John Shannon, Everett Shannon and Floyd Shannon, all of Amarillo, Bly Shannon of Quitaque, Fate Shannon of Hereford and Henry Shannon of Phelan, Calif.; two sisters, Fay Murphy of Plainview and Lena Nichols of Portland, Ore.; five grandchildren; two stepgrandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The birth of a baby is a time for joy. It can also be a time of anxiety, loneliness and depression.

If you have had a baby recently or know someone who has just given birth, you or they may be experiencing some of the following: crying for no apparent reason, feelings of helplessness or hopelessness, excessive concern or no concern for the baby, anger, anxiety or panic attacks, feelings of inadequacy and inability to cope, exaggerated highs or lows, dramatic changes in your sleep and/or eating patterns, and depression that may range from sadness to thoughts of suicide. If so, you or they may be experiencing postpartum depression (PPD).

PPD is different from the "baby blues" that most people hear about. The baby blues occur three to five days after the birth and normally last a few days or weeks. The baby blues occur in about 80 percent of women. If symptoms persist beyond two or three weeks, or if they become severe, the "blues" may have developed into postpartum depression.

PPD can occur anytime within the first year after delivering a child, but it is more typical within the first six months. Although there are several theories regarding the cause of PPD, there is no conclusive evidence. The important issue is that there are women who have PPD, and they can be helped. If you are one of these women or if you know someone who may be suffering from PPD, write to:

Depression After Delivery, P.O. Box 1282, Morrisville, Pa. 19067. They will send you information, if requested, and will give you the phone number for a contact person in your state.

Sometimes just knowing that you are not alone and that you will get better is a tremendous relief. -- L.B., Seattle

DEAR SEATTLE: How right you are. Thanks for the information. You have helped educate a great many women today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a public school music teacher. Last week, I traveled 150 miles and spent an entire day to perform at the wedding of a former student. The bride's parents thanked me profusely and said they were thrilled at my selections, but not one word was said about paying me. It was a touchy situation, because I am a friend of the family.

This is not the first time I have been burned like this. Some people assumed that inviting me to the wedding meant they didn't have to pay me. Others gave me a bottle of wine or a beer mug. (Try that with the plumber if he happens to be a friend or acquaintance.)

Don't get me wrong, Ann, I have played for free many times, and I have always told them that my performance was a wedding gift. Ann, I know this happens to professionals all over the country. Maybe if you print my letter, some of those folks out there will learn from it and be more generous when their sons and daughters marry. Thank you. --Skunked in Wis.

DEAR SKUNKED: I hate to sound unsympathetic but it appears to me you make your own trouble. When you accept an engagement for which you wish to be paid, you should tell the folks up front exactly what your fee is, so there will be no misunderstanding. One simple sentence could eliminate the sour notes in your life.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada send $5.05.)

Skin cancer occurs most often in light-skinned people, and on the exposed surfaces of the body. The American Cancer Society says: watch for any unusual lump, bump, pimple, ulcer or hard spot of skin that doesn't go away in two weeks. After that, see your doctor.

Grijalva takes first-round lead; A in third, B sixth Hereford's Naomi Grijalva holds a one-stroke lead after the first round of District 1-4A play Thursday at Elm Grove Country Club in Lubbock.

Grijalva, the defending district medalist, carded a 90 to lead the Lady Whiteface A team to third place at 419, just three strokes behind Pampa B for second place and 13 back of Pampa A for the lead.

Other Hereford scores were Krystal Sims and Paula Britten both at 104, Cecelia Albracht at 121 and JoJo Lytal at 138.

The Lady Whitefaces' B squad, led by Jennifer Prater's 114, shot 476 to finish the day in sixth. Dusty Saul carded a 118 for the B team with Brook Weatherly shooting 121 and Stephanie Walls 123.

Lady Whiteface coach Donnie O'Rand said the A unit was well within striking distance of the lead with three rounds remaining.

"I think we played pretty well and we're in good shape," she said. "We'll have the last round on our home course and Pampa doesn't host a round this year, so that will make a big difference. Last year they beat us in the last round up there, and if we can stay close I think we can do that this year."

Brandy Chase of Pampa B was second in the medalist standings behind Grijalva with Leslie Mathis of Levelland A in third two strokes back. O'Rand said having chase, normally an A player, on the B team made a big difference in the team standings.

"She just failed to qualify for the A team up there this week," she said. "If she had been on the A team, that would have been about a 20-25 stroke difference in both Pampa teams' scores. It would have put us in second place, but we would have been a lot farther behind first place."

The Lady Whitefaces will return to district play Saturday with the second round at Dumas Country Club.

Heiman stepping down as Naz girls' hoop coach

NAZARETH (AP) - Sandy Heiman, who coached the Nazareth Swifties girls' basketball team to three consecutive Class A state championships, has resigned her coaching and teaching duties in order to spend more time with her family, school officials say.

Mrs. Heiman's resignation will be effective at the end of the school year. She joined the coaching staff in 1981 and was an assistant under Joe Lombard for four years and then coached the team for five seasons.

Nazareth advanced to the state tournament four times in Heiman's five seasons as head coach, and won three Class 1A state titles in the process. Her teams compiled an overall won-loss record of 152-19.

Mrs. Heiman, 32, lives in Canyon and makes the 80-mile round trip almost daily to Nazareth. She and her husband, Wayne, also have a 2-year-old daughter, Kelsea.

Mrs. Heiman said with her daughter getting older and more active, she felt the need to spend more time at home. But that didn't make the decision any easier.

She said she will search for a teaching job in the Canyon area.

"I still want to teach," Mrs. Heiman said. "I enjoy teaching so much. And I may go back to coaching someday. This is sort of like a hiatus."

Levelland tops Herd, 8-3

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces were the victims of mistakes at the worst possible time once again Thursday, dropping an 8-3 decision to the Levelland Lobos after coming back from three runs down to tie the game.

The Lobos used four unearned runs and a pair of homers to take the win in a game that had trouble getting played. Originally scheduled for Saturday at Whiteface Field, the contest was tentatively shifted to Levelland in an effort to escape the freezing rain plaguing Hereford. But wet field conditions in Levelland forced the game to be rescheduled for Thursday back at Hereford. Thursday's rain left standing puddles on the infield of the local ballpark, so the match was once again shifted to the Lobos' home field.

Hereford will now host the April 28 game between the two teams.

The Herd picked up its second straight complete game as Max Mungia (0-1) was tagged with the loss. Mungia allowed eight runs, four unearned, in six innings while striking out eight and walking four.

"He pitched one heck of a ball game," Herd coach T.R. Sartor said. "I was real proud of him. He had real good control and got himself out of a couple of jams with strikeouts. He just made two mistakes and then we had those errors that hurt us."

The two mistakes resulted in home runs by the Lobos' Steven Ochoa in the first and Derek Palmer in the fourth. The round trips accounted for five Levelland runs.

Ochoa's blast put the Lobos up 3-0 after the first inning, but the Herd came up with three runs of their own in the third. Mungia led off with a walk with third baseman Jim Andrews, center fielder Matt Bromlow and designated hitter Chad Brummett following with singles.

Mungia crossed the plate on Bromlow's hit and Brummett picked up an RBI when Andrews scored. Bromlow came home when Levelland starter Dennis Mancias, who went the distance for the win, threw the ball away on a pickoff attempt of Brummett at first base.

Brummett reached third on the play, but Mancias got catcher George Jowell to pop out and first baseman Brett Confer to ground into a force play to end the inning.

Levelland finished the scoring with a five-run burst in the fourth that was sparked by Palmer's two-run homer to dead center. Mancias walked ahead of Palmer, who got hold of a Mungia changeup to put the Lobos in the lead for good.

Levelland followed with a walk and a pair of singles to load the bases when, with one out, Andrews threw the ball away trying for the force at home on Ochoa's grounder. Left fielder Cody Page then dropped Israel Diaz' fly ball to allow to more runs in.

Mancias took over form that point, allowing only Brummett to reach base on an error over the final three innings. The loss drops the Herd to 1-3 in District 1-4A and 2-9 overall. The Lobos moved to 2-1-1 in league play and 5-5-2 on the year.

The Herd was scheduled to host the Dumas Demons at 4:30 p.m. today at Whiteface Field, but the game has been postponed until Monday at the same time because of wet grounds. The fate of Herd's 1 p.m. Saturday game with Randall will be decided later today.

Athletic Director Don Cumpton said the move of the Dumas game to Monday will force the rescheduling of the junior varsity contest with Randall, but no arrangements have been made yet.

Akeem has dream night

By The Associated Press
Akeem Olajuwon, who leads the NBA in rebounds, made the most of his biggest second chance.
It wasn't a rebound, but rather another shot at that elusive quadruple-double - and this time he made it.
Olajuwon became the third player in NBA history to reach double figures in four offensive categories, with 18 points, 16 rebounds, 10 assists, 11 blocked shots in Houston's 120-94 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks on Thursday night.
"I believe I am a complete player," Olajuwon said. "I play to win. I would still like to win a championship, but this is a nice individual and team accomplishment."
Elsewhere, it was Portland 112, Atlanta 106; Phoenix 105, Charlotte 92; Dallas 109, San Antonio 105; Golden State 128, Utah 123 and Indiana 111, Sacramento 101.
Olajuwon's performance came less than four weeks after he was credited with a quadruple-double in a game against Golden State on March 3, only to have it nullified a day later by the NBA. The league said that Olajuwon was given a 10th assist when the Rockets' staff looked at the game film. He wound up with 29 points, 18 rebounds and 11 blocked shots but only nine assists.

This time, he got his career-high 10th assist with 2:50 left when Lewis Lloyd hit a jump shot.
Trail Blazers 112, Hawks 106
Buck Williams' 18 points led eight Portland players in double figures. Terry Porter and Clyde Drexler each had 17, followed by Drazen Petrovic with 13, Cliff Robinson and Kevin Duckworth with 12 each and Wayne Cooper and Jerome Kersey with 10 apiece.
Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins had 27 points and Moses Malone added 23.

Suns 105, Hornets 92
Tom Chambers scored 29 points, Kevin Johnson added 25 and Phoenix took advantage of cold second-half shooting by Charlotte.
The Suns broke open a tight game midway through the third quarter and Johnson gave them a 79-69 lead with a 3-point shot from half-court at the buzzer.
Mavericks 109, Spurs 105
Rolando Blackman scored 28 points, including 13 of Dallas' final 15, as the Mavericks won their sixth straight. San Antonio led most of the way and had a 16-point bulge in the first quarter.
David Robinson scored 33 points to lead the Spurs.
Warriors 128, Jazz 123
Chris Mullin scored 29 points and Golden State made 55 of 65 free throws to break a 38-year-old club record and spoil a 49-point performance by Utah's Karl Malone.

The teams took 111 free throws but the Warriors shot 84.6 percent at the line compared to Utah's 71.7 (33 of 46). Malone was 17 of 22 from the field and 15 of 21 at the line. He scored 38 points in the second half, 21 in the third quarter.
Pacers 111, Kings 101
Detlef Schrempf powered a fourth-period surge with 14 of his 25 points. Sacramento trailed 83-80 with just under 10 minutes to play but managed only a 15-footer by Vinny Del Negro over the next 6 1/2 minutes while the Pacers outscored them 16-2.
Chuck Person also scored 25 points for Indiana. Sacramento's Antoine Carr had 26 points.

in two runs to lead the Dodgers.
Giants 4, Athletics 0
At Scottsdale, four San Francisco pitchers combined on a four-hitter as the Giants shut out Oakland in a World Series rematch. Kelly Downs pitched two scoreless innings for the victory and Eric Gunderson and Jeff Brantley each pitched three shutout innings. Newcomer Kevin Bass had three hits for the Giants.
Indians 6, Brewers (ss) 4
At Chandler, Cory Snyder's two-run double capped a three-run fifth inning as Cleveland beat a split Milwaukee squad.
Brewers (ss) 6, Cubs (ss) 4
At Mesa, B.J. Surhoff went 5-for-5 and drove in two runs as Milwaukee beat the Chicago Cubs in a split-squad game.
Mariners 5, Cubs 4 (11)
At Tempe, Mickey Brantley singled home Edgar Martinez with the winning run to lift Seattle over the Cubs.
Angels 13, Padres 8
At Yuma, Lee Stevens hit a grand slam and John Orton added a solo homer in the seventh inning.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) - Ted Turner credits his Cable News Network with awakening him to world problems.

"Until then, I was more interested in myself and my family," Turner told students at the McCallie School, which he attended from 1951 to 1956.

After starting his 24-hour TV news station about 10 years ago, Turner told the students, he figured he'd better keep up more with the world's activities.

"And I came to the conclusion after studying it on my own that we had made a terrible mistake getting involved in the arms race."

Pennington speaks to study club

Sharon Pennington, a representative of Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence Center, recently spoke to members of the Valeda Study Club.

Pennington presented a list of preventive measures to prevent being vulnerable to a rapist. Over 50 percent of all rapes occur in the victim's home with 75 percent of all rapists known by the victim. A video was presented to help understand the victim's trauma. Ways to help individual victims as they cope were suggested.

Norma Walden, president, led the group in reading the club collect and roll was answered with "How do you protect yourself?"

A luncheon will be served by the Deaf Smith County Historical Society at the E.B. Black House for the next meeting.

Refreshments of pound cake, sausage rolls and fresh fruit were served by hostess Norma Walden to Marcella Bradley, Francis Crume, Betty Dickson, Ruth Fish, Betty Gilbert, Joyce Ritter and De Ann Sisson.

Around the country, natural gas is selling for the equivalent of about 40 to 80 cents a gallon, compared with gasoline prices of 95 cents to $1.15 per gallon. A natural gas car can be refueled in five minutes. A natural gas vehicle's top speed is the same as that of a gasoline-powered vehicle.

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR

Envy Erodes Happiness
Envy erodes happiness, and everything else worthwhile. Envy is the painful and resentful awareness of an advantage enjoyed by another person, and is accompanied by some degree of ill-will. It is destructive of one's peace of mind and personal happiness, and often becomes the motivation for some kind of ugly talk and action.

Envy distorts one's outlook. This is one of the features about it that makes it have such a tragically erosive effect upon all who may be touched by it. It, more than other evil attitudes, makes good appear evil, and evil good; it sees right as wrong, and wrong as right; it finds fault and condemns, when there should be approval and praise.

In the permissive social climate that has become so much a part of present-day living, envy has found it easy to flourish. It is no longer only a personal matter, but has become, not the only force, but one of the most destructive forces in the general behavior of people. The modern permissiveness has become an open door for unrestricted human behavior, and envy, one of the most cruel of all the undesirable human passions, is finding it easier to reduce everything and everybody to the lowest common denominator.

"Envy is but the smoke of low estate, ascending still against the fortunate." -Brooke. The erosive force of envy is one of the principal causes of social disorder and confusion. Life would be better for all of us, personally and collectively, if we would accept the fact that it is impossible for all of us to look the same; be the same; do the same things; or have the same things.

Envy is divisive, destructive, distressful, discouraging; and a cruel and merciless enemy of all human good. We can choose not to be envious.

Nellie T. Ross of Wyoming held two important firsts for women. She was the first woman governor in the U.S. from 1925 to 1927 and later was the first woman to serve as director of the U.S. Mint.

LEGAL NOTICES

The Commissioners' Court of Deaf Smith County will open bids at 9 AM on April 9th, 1990 in the Commissioners' Courtroom of the Courthouse for a motor grader maintainer for Precinct 2. Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My problem is a continuous low-grade dull headache. It is always with me. Once every couple of months I get a low-grade migraine headache. I take between 1,300 and 1,500 mg of aspirin or Tylenol a day. My self-prescribed therapy really helps eliminate my headaches and clears my head to allow me to both speak and think more clearly. I'm concerned that I am taking too much aspirin and how it may affect my long-term health. I am 38 years old, 6 feet 1 inch and weigh 185 pounds. I'm very fit from regular workouts and eat responsibly. DEAR READER: The most common problem from the long-term use of aspirin is irritation of the stomach, causing erosion and in some cases actual bleeding. The more aspirin or other salicylates you take, the more likely this will occur. There are also some studies that implicate aspirin and other aspirin-related medicines with damage to the kidneys. Aspirin may also cause ringing of the ears and actual loss of hearing. These effects are temporary and disappear after stopping the aspirin. That is why acetaminophen — marketed as Tylenol, Tempra, Phenaphen, Liquiprin and Datril — is often preferred for the simple relief of pain. I have discussed aspirin and acetaminophen medicines in Special Report 41, Aspirin and Other Analgesics, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/41, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. It isn't possible to know from your description just what is causing your headaches. But if you have to take medicine every day to control them, you certainly need a good evaluation as to the cause. They may be stress headaches; you can have stress headaches as well as intermittent migraine headaches. I would rather you see your doctor to evaluate your status than to continue taking medicines on a daily basis on your own. DEAR DR. LAMB: My boyfriend is bothered with painful bumps from ingrown beard hairs. He has slightly oily skin and shaves about every two or three days, using shaving soap and a twin-blade razor. He has tried an electric razor as well as foam and gel shave creams but still has ingrown hairs. Is there anything he can do to stop this? What is the best thing to do when one has formed? DEAR READER: This is the result of shaving too close when he does shave, even though he only shaves every two or three days. When the hair is too close to the surface it may turn back on itself and penetrate the skin. This is particularly apt to occur in men with curly beards and that is why it is so common in blacks. It is called pseudofolliculitis barbae. Sometimes it is necessary to stop shaving to resolve the condition. Some dermatologists like to apply retinoic acid (tretinoin, Retin-A), also used to treat acne and recently made famous as the anti-wrinkle cream. When one occurs, if it can be lifted out enough to be pulled out that is the best treatment. Obviously that is impossible when many hairs are involved. DEAR DR. LAMB: Four months ago I went to bed at 1 a.m. perfectly normal and woke up at 3 a.m. completely deaf in my left ear. Vertigo began sometime the next day and continued for over a week, gradually leaving during the second week — also a constant high-pitched noise (tinnitus) that has never left. A subsequent CAT scan and hearing test at an ear clinic revealed no bone chips, growths or interruption of the blood supply to the nerve in that ear. Everything was normal. I was told that I would never hear again in that ear, but no cause was given and a hearing aid or surgery was not suggested. I am a 54-year-old woman, weigh 90 pounds and am 4 feet 11 inches. I had a heart attack 10 years ago and have taken Tenormin to control my blood pressure since that time. I have had no angina or problems with my heart before or since. Two years ago I had a Doppler on my neck and I had 60 percent blockage of the arteries in the neck. The doctor had me take two Ecotrin a day to thin my blood. The warning on the Ecotrin box says, "If hearing impairment occurs, discontinue use." Aspirin is known to cause tinnitus and possible hearing impairment. I refuse to take any more of them. The doctors claim aspirin could not and never has caused deafness. What am I to believe? DEAR READER: First, your sudden loss of hearing was not caused by Ecotrin, although you are correct in saying that aspirin can cause tinnitus and a hearing loss. When you stop the aspirin, the hearing is restored and the tinnitus stops. Since you have a permanent loss of hearing and tinnitus, that is not the cause. You may need some additional testing to determine what caused such a sudden loss of hearing. I would suspect that the small artery to the snail-shaped cochlea that enables hearing was suddenly plugged. And that could also involve the circulation to the tiny balance canals. Depending on what kind of tests you had, that might not be evident. Or it could have been caused by an acute viral infection of the inner ear that affected the cochlea and the balance canal. You need at least two tests to locate the area of involvement. One measures the electrical response of the cochlea itself. There are not too many places that can do this test. This is a very advanced test and is called electrocochleography. Another is the brain stem evoked response (BSER) test to measure the possibility of damage in the lower part (stem) of the brain. Baylor College of Medicine in Houston can do these tests. Read Special Report 87, About Your Hearing, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/87, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. I would think that the tests you have had would rule out a tumor or major artery changes, but the tiny arteries and the small area that can be involved make it difficult to pinpoint the problem with the more ordinary tests. A hearing aid is of no value if there is no hearing at all in an ear. And an absence of hearing can contribute to tinnitus. That is probably why no one at the ear clinic suggested a hearing aid to you. If you were in an environment that required your picking up sound or conversation from the left side, you could try a microphone in the hair on the left side that would route the sound to your good right ear.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.
