

Ag project, new coach approved by board

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

The Hereford School Board met in regular session Tuesday night and worked through a 25-item agenda highlighted by the approval of a $85,000 ag building project, the hiring of a new girls basketball coach, discussion of the number of Hispanic counselors as requested by a citizen's group, and discussion of the school dress code—which a Hispanic mother claimed was discriminatory.

The board also approved the employment next term of a math teacher, started study on a schedule for the school calendar for 1987-88, approved bilingual guidelines to be sent to the state for confirmation, heard a first reading of additions to the policy and personnel book, approved an abbreviated high school calendar to include programs for a Drug Abuse Awareness Week, the Cheerleader-Student Council election assembly, the H Awards Assembly and the Senior Awards Assembly, as well as hearing regular and general reports.

Trustees approved the hiring of Frank Belcher, 34, of Groom as the new girls' basketball coach. Belcher is head girls' basketball and track coach at Groom, where he has a 68-32 won-lost record and four playoff appearances in four years with the basketball teams. (See story, sports page.)

Tommy Haney, vocational director, and Bill Binder, ag teacher, presented a proposal for a new building and barns to be constructed for the ag program on land leased by the school near the Bull Barn. At a previous board meeting, the department had requested about $60,000 for updating facilities at the current site north of town.

The new proposal totalled $134,872. After a lengthy discussion concerning finances and the commitment on other construction projects, the board approved spending up to $85,000 the first year, with the intent to complete the project in the future. The initial project would include a large building, two barns, and a fence around the land.

Delia Griego, spokesperson for the Concerned Citizens group, appeared before the board to ask if anything had been done about a previous request to plan for more Hispanic counselors in the school system. Trustee Bud Patterson replied that a committee meeting was set up to visit about the complaint, but no one attended the meeting.

Patterson added that the meeting had been posted and that trustee Jo Garcia was chairman of the committee. Mrs. Griego said her group didn't get the word about the meeting. Mrs. Garcia was not present for the board meeting Tuesday night.

Supt. Harrell Holder reported that two of the last three counselors employed by HISD were Hispanic. John Fuston, school board president, assured the group that the board was concerned about the dropout problem and that it would consider Hispanic counselors when openings occurred.

Dr. Holder also suggested that a task force be formed on the dropout problem. He suggested that school and lay people be on the task force and work on solving the dropout situation. He recommended that the group concentrate on grades four through six where, he believes, the potential dropout can be spotted.

A complaint on the dress code was aired by Maria Zuniga, who claimed that her daughter was sent home from school at La Plata last week because her "jams" were too short. She complained that some Anglo students with the same kind of dress were not sent home that day, but some were sent home the next day or put on in-school suspension.

Dr. Holder reported that school principals had decided at the first of the school year that jams which were more than two inches above the knee were not acceptable. The dress code states that "shorts less than knee-length are unacceptable attire to be worn during regular academic classes."

Mrs. Zuniga complained that some girls wear mini-skirts, which she thought violated modesty more than jams. "We want the rules to be applied the same to all; we don't want our children singled out," said Mrs. Zuniga.

Fuston appointed the three women on the school board—Kathy Moore, Jo Garcia and Shirley Wilson—to a dress code committee to study the problem and come up with recommendations. He added that the board was "committed to a sincere policy of fair treatment for all students."

Marc Williamson told the board of plans for a Drug Abuse Awareness Week, a project sponsored by the school with help from a number of groups and individuals in the community. The program is scheduled the week of May 4-8 and some prominent speakers will appear on campus.

Williamson also asked the board to approve guidelines for K5 and first grade retention and promotion. Teachers are already following the guidelines generally, but he said the adoption would provide more consistency. The board tabled the matter for more study.

On the recommendation of Dr. Holder, the board approved the employment next term of Manual Rendon as a math teacher. The employment will be subject to placement as there is not an opening at present. Rendon is a new teacher and a graduate of West Texas State. There were no resignations submitted.

Nevada site may become focus

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Nevada may become the focus in the search for the nation's first nuclear waste dump, according to U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

Escalating costs of testing to determine the best location to put nuclear dumps, now estimated at more than $2.5 billion, have led many in Congress to increasingly question that large an expenditure when Nevada looks like it would be the most acceptable site for the first dump anyway, said Bentsen, who was in Amarillo Tuesday to speak at a chamber of commerce function.

A subcommittee of the House Science and Technology Committee has recommended barring the Department of Energy from spending any money on site characterization in Texas or Washington State, said the Texas Democrat.

The Energy Research Subcommittee, chaired by U.S. Rep. Marilyn Lloyd, D-Tenn., voted Mar. 25, to cut the DOE's request from $500 million to $288 million, a spokesman for Bentsen's office said.

The subcommittee decided to bar spending in the two states after hearing testimony from a geologist who said ground water problems could make the Texas and Washington sites impractical.

The full committee is expected to act on the legislation within the next few weeks.

Bentsen said site-testing in Deaf Smith County and on the Hanford Reservation in Washington would be an expensive process. Cutting the testing would reduce spending by about two-thirds, he said.

He said it appears that Nevada's Yucca Mountain, the third first-round site, is increasing as the most acceptable site.

However, Bentsen advised Amarillo entrepreneurs against trying to develop the area around the Deaf Smith County site.

"People who are trying to do that are foolhardy to bet that far in advance," he said.

City sales tax return lower

The City of Hereford's sales tax check for April was $29,948.88, down about $6,400 over the same time a year ago.

The check from the comptroller's office was the city's share of the one-percent sales tax collected in February. The total payments for 1987 are $174,713, a decrease of 11.6 percent over the same time a year ago.

The comptroller's office Friday sent checks totaling $47.9 million in local sales tax to 1,038 cities that levy the one-percent city tax. Statewide the 1987 payments were down 6 percent compared to last year.

All cities in the area showed a decrease for the year. Amarillo's check was $639,460 and totalled $3.6 million for the year—down 5.3 percent. Pampa received $3,643 and had a 1987 total of $401,865—down 18.2 percent. Plainview's total for the year is $365,950, a decrease of 3.1 percent.

Canyon's April payment was $27,878 and the year's total was $126,150—a decrease of 12.1 percent. Dumas had totals of $35,115 and $184,128 for a year-to-date decrease of 15.5 percent.

Dimmitt's total was $9,290 for a total of $47,599 and a 21.6 percent decrease over a year ago. Friona's total was down 10.4 percent after getting a $5,181 check and running the '87 total to $30,975.

By midnight: file or flee country

WASHINGTON (AP) — Midnight is the deadline for most Americans to file their federal income-tax returns, but if you haven't done it by now you might consider asking for an extension — or fleeing the country for a day.

The Internal Revenue Service is eager to get the returns, and the Postal Service is ready to help.

"All over the country we have people who will bend over backward to be at the curbside, to cancel mail until the deadline," Jeanne O'Neill, a spokesman at Postal Service headquarters in Washington, said Tuesday.

If there is no way to complete your Form 1040 or 1040A tonight, you could be better off filing a Form 4868 rather than risk making a big mistake. That will win you a reprieve until Aug. 15, but you still will have to estimate how much tax you owe and submit a check with the form.

The Internal Revenue Service expects about 6.5 million couples and individuals to request the automatic extension.

An unknown number are likely to choose another option. Any taxpayer who is out of the United States or Puerto Rico on April 15 — even if for only a day — automatically has until June 15 to file and to pay any taxes owed.

And according to the Tax Foundation, it won't be all over for the average taxpayer this year until May 4 — "Tax Freedom Day." That means a worker will have to toil until May 3 — two days later than in 1986 and six days later than in 1984 — just to pay his or her federal, state and local taxes.

We hadn't attended a school board meeting for some time, so we found it a pleasant surprise Tuesday night when the meeting got underway with several of the trustees giving special recognition to teams and organizations in the school system. For instance, Kathy Moore saluted the state-ranked baseball team, and John Fuston voiced appreciation for the Easter musical which involved a number of teachers and students. A number of teams and organizations were recognized. We think it's a good, positive way to launch a school board session!

During the school board meeting, we also got a chuckle from Marc Williamson, curriculum director. He was reporting on the special Drug Abuse Awareness Week program scheduled here April 4-8. He commended The Brand for publicity on the program and said that KPAN Radio would also be helping promote the program. Then came the kicker: "I'm confident, since this is such a positive program that hordes of Amarillo media will be here to report on the activities!" I feel sure that it was a reference to the negative reporting our community usually receives from the Amarillo media.

"Helping people help themselves" is a slogan of the Panhandle Community Services, and the agency is planning to do just that by raising funds in a community service project. The PCS office is conducting a "yard sale" on its parking lot, 603 E. Park Ave., on May 16-17. Any donations for the sale would be appreciated, and you can help by taking items to the PCS office, or by calling and having them pick up the items. Proceeds will be used to help people with dire needs who are not eligible for food stamps or other programs. Call today and help with this project!

Did you hear about the mother who went to see a psychiatrist about a problem with her son?

"My problem is my son," the mother explained. "He spends the entire day making mud pies, then eating them."

"That's not too serious a problem," the psychiatrist assured her. "The same preoccupation pops up repeatedly in child behavior."

"Well, I don't like it," snapped the lady, "and neither does his wife."

Two arrested for possession

A 26-year-old woman and a 28-year-old man have been arraigned on charges of possession of marijuana under 4 oz. following a warrant search of a residence in the 300 block of Miller by county deputies and city police.

Bond for both was set at $1,000 by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine.

Lawmen also confiscated several items of drug paraphernalia.

Cable Construction

David Drenenstall foreman for Bigham Cable Construction Company of Gulf Breeze, Florida, checks a cable connection. The company has been contracted by Hereford Cablevision to construct all new cable television lines in town. Cablevision Manager Lloyd Ames estimates the job will take two to three months to complete. The project will expand cable channel capacity for subscribers and improve the quality of reception.

Tax deadline midnight at P.O.

Procrastinating income tax filers have until midnight to put their returns in the slot at the Hereford Post Office.

Local P.O. officials say they will postmark "April 15" on any mail deposited before midnight — but this is the only day of the year that is done.

Commissioners court continues

After a recess called on Monday, county commissioners Tuesday approved the inclusion of the High Plains Underground Water District to place a voting member on the inter-governmental Waste Deposit Impact Committee.

Commissioners accepted a bid from R.L. Blakely of Exxon to provide fuel for county vehicles and discussed the paving of Messer Road in Precinct 1.

Commissioner Johnny Latham reported on preliminary studies regarding potential savings on office expenditures by using a central purchasing office for business supplies. More information is sought on the matter.

Commissioners also toured the courthouse to determine priorities in setting up offices and determined to incorporate the Social Services office with the County Judge's office on a trial basis.

Bill to help get atom-smasher

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers are being urged to act quickly on a bill that backers say would increase Texas' chances of landing the superconducting supercollider project.

The bill was quickly cleared for Senate floor debate with Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville telling members of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee the bill was "critically needed."

A giant atom-smasher, the supercollider is described as the world's costliest scientific instrument. It's to be a racetrack-shaped tube about 52 miles around and buried 20 to 30 feet underground.

Nearly every state wants the project, which would mean thousands of construction jobs, long-term work for 2,500 scientists and technicians, and an annual budget of about $200 million a year.

The legislation endorsed Tuesday would allow the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission to hire a private consultant without going through the usual bureaucratic process, Edwards said.

Clements asked to clarify position

AUSTIN (AP) — A state senator says he is going to withhold a favorable vote on an abortion bill before his committee until Gov. Bill Clements publicly clarifies his position on the legislation.

Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, said comments the governor made Tuesday "raised the question of what his real intent is."

During his campaign last year, Clements made an issue of getting anti-abortion legislation passed. But at a news conference Tuesday, the governor said he considered it vital that the abortion bill include a provision that unmarried teen-agers obtain at least one parent's consent for the operation.

The author of the bill, Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, dropped that provision from his bill on Monday, saying he was a political realist and knew the Health and Human Services Committee wouldn't approve the bill with the provision.

"I am sure that when the bill is reported out of committee and goes to the (Senate) floor, there will be an amendment that will be voted on" to again require parental consent, Clements said.

That comment set off a protest in the Health and Human Services Committee, which took up the bill later Tuesday. Edwards and Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston, promised to vote against the bill if an attempt to amend it on the floor was planned.

Lyon needs five votes in favor of the bill to pass it out of the nine-member committee. He said Whitmire and Edwards were key votes.

Judge favors home schooling

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — In a major victory for home-schooling advocates, a judge has ruled that Texans can legally pull their children out of public schools and teach them at home as long as they use an organized curriculum.

State District Judge Charles Murray ruled Tuesday that Texas' compulsory school attendance law requires only that children attend a school with such a curriculum, and that home classes are equivalent to private schooling.

Murray also said the state Board of Education and the Texas Education Agency do not have the authority to define "private school" because they have jurisdiction only in public schools.

The ruling came in a class-action lawsuit filed against the state in 1985 by a group of parents who teach their children at home. Four home-school curricula companies joined the suit.

Court records show that between 10,000 and 15,000 school-age children in Texas attend home schools.

"It's incredible," said Fort Worth attorney Shelby Sharpe, who represented the parents. "It's a 100 percent victory for home education."

"Needless to say, we're very, very happy," Gary Leeper, whose wife Cheryl teaches their 10- and 12-year-old children at home, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "We won everything we wanted, and didn't sacrifice anything."

The Leepers filed the initial lawsuit against the Arlington school district.

Judge wants to review Hinckley letters

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge, told that John W. Hinckley Jr. corresponded with Florida death-row inmate Theodore Bundy, wants to review the presidential assailant's letters and papers to help evaluate his mental condition.

Hinckley, who is seeking a 12-hour Easter pass from the mental hospital where he was sent for shooting President Reagan in 1981, was ordered to produce all his letters, notes, postcards, poems and other writings.

U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker issued the order Tuesday after learning Hinckley corresponded several times last year with Bundy, who is awaiting execution for the 1978 killings of two women Florida State University students and a 12-year-old girl. He also is suspected in three dozen other murders in several states.

The judge told Hinckley's lawyers: "If he wants to leave, he is going to have to cooperate."

Parker said he would review the material before today's hearing on Hinckley's request for the Easter pass.

Hinckley was acquitted by reason of insanity of attempted murder charges stemming from the March 30, 1981 shooting of Reagan, presidential press secretary James S. Brady, a Secret Service agent and a city policeman.

Briefcase bomb explodes in courtroom

KOKOMO, Ind. (AP) — A man who set off a bomb in a briefcase, apparently killing himself and injuring 15 people during a break in his drug trial, told his mother he dreaded the four 100-year prison terms he could have faced.

Robert Gray, 42, charged with two counts of dealing a controlled substance, LSD, was "believed to be dead" in the blast Tuesday in the sheriff's office at the Howard County courthouse, said county prosecutor James Andrews.

The prosecutor, however, refused further comment on Gray's fate, as did other law enforcement officers.

Among the injured were Gray's lawyer, Charles Scruggs, who was hospitalized in fair condition, and Sheriff John Beatty, who was in serious but stable condition with burns over 40 percent of his body and other injuries.

The others injured, including two police officers, were listed in good or fair condition, or were treated and released.

Scruggs said he saw Gray reach down to flip a switch on the briefcase at the time of the explosion, a friend of the lawyer said.

Gray's mother, Betty McKinley of Marion, said he told her he could not bear to think of spending a long time in jail. But she was mystified as to why he might have detonated the bomb.

"I don't have an idea about what went through my son's head," she said.

Soviet defector speaks out about KGB

By BRYAN BRUMLEY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a young translator for the Soviet government travel agency Intourist, Alexandra Costa was encouraged to flirt with foreign visitors, and "if a relationship developed, the KGB wanted to guide it."

"One of the conditions of the job was that I was to report to the KGB," Ms. Costa said.

"I was seeing one of the British guys, but nothing really developed," she said in an interview this week. However, "one of the other girls fell in love with a British man," and the KGB wanted to run her as a "swallow," or seductress.

"My KGB handler complained that, 'the wrong girl fell in love. She won't talk to us.'"

The woman ended up marrying the man and moving to England, said Ms. Costa, who defected from the Soviet Embassy in Washington in 1978 and now works as a computer consultant in the Washington area.

The woman who refused to cooperate was an exception in what Ms. Costa calls a "totalitarian state" where "most people don't refuse to cooperate with the KGB. The state owns everything, and if you want a job or an apartment, you play the game."

The game is often the "honey trap," the oldest trick in the book of espionage, one that diplomats, businessmen and journalists are warned to avoid in the Soviet Union, but one into which many tumble nonetheless.

Official Washington reacted with outrage to revelations that at least three Marines may have traded sex for secrets at U.S. diplomatic missions in Moscow and Leningrad.

But over the past few decades, a British, a French and a Canadian ambassador, and a U.S. and a French military attaché, are among those known to have fallen into variations of the same snare.

Cases that receive publicity are often intelligence failures, security officials say, because the seduction comes to light before the victim can be blackmailed into betrayal.

Far more cases do not come to public attention, according to U.S. security officials, and many probably are never reported. Among the best known instances:

—In 1956, the KGB laid an elaborate plot to entrap French Ambassador Maurice Dejean, author John Barron wrote in his book, "KGB."

Josserand attends NCA meeting

Bob Josserand of Hereford recently attended the board of directors meeting of the National Cattlemen's Association in Washington, D.C. At the meeting the NCA board of directors approved 10 priority issues for 1987.

The 10 issues (not necessarily in order of importance to members and the industry) are: Ensure passage of the referendum on the $1 per head beef check-off; ensure that federal dairy policy does not adversely affect cattlemen; ensure that beef is portrayed as healthful; continue development of a beef safety assurance program; keep individual income tax rates on schedule—otherwise request a capital gains rate; work for improvements in and keep the executive committee posted on the GAO investigation of cattle futures; seek uncoupling of yield and quality grading of cattle; gain greater access to foreign markets; seek legislation and regulatory changes to lower interest rates and increase capital availability; protect private water rights and grazing rights on public lands.

While in Washington the directors called on their own members of Congress and top agency officials. The cattlemen explained their positions on current issues such as farm policy, including opposition to dairy buyouts; the GAO investigation of cattle futures; elimination of unfair trade barriers against U.S. beef; support of the current grazing fee formula; support of certain tax law corrections; and agricultural credit legislation.

The board also approved an outline of proposed agricultural credit legislation, which among other things, would restructure the Farm Credit System.

The National Cattlemen's Association is national spokesman for all segments of the nation's beef industry, including cattle breeders, producers and feeders. Membership includes individual members, 48 affiliated state cattle associations and 23 affiliated national breed organizations.

Store chain successful in fund raiser for MDA

In celebration of St. Patrick's Day, Town & Country customers had a chance to help the Muscular Dystrophy Association. From the first of March until March 17, customers could purchase a shamrock mobile with their name on it for $1, to be placed on display in the store.

A string of shamrocks hanging from the ceiling in 112 Town & Country stores throughout West Texas and New Mexico netted $13,935.56 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. This is an average of $124.42 per store.

This program was one of several that Town & Country uses throughout the year to raise funds for the MDA and Jerry's Telethon on Labor Day each year. Over the past six years, Town & Country Food stores has contributed over a quarter of a million dollars to the Muscular Dystrophy Association's search for a cure to neuromuscular diseases.

Ann Landers

'You can't win!'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After spending two years in Arkansas attending law school, I moved back to Minnesota. I called the phone company in December to have my phone service terminated.

On Jan. 8 they sent me a check for $1.26 for stating it was a refund for my final statement. On Jan. 14 they sent me another check for 9 cents. Can you imagine spending 18 cents to mail a check for 9 cents?

Why didn't they wait a few days and send me a check for $1.35? How can a company as big as AT&T be so dumb?—Rochester, Minn.

DEAR ROCH: Don't blame AT&T. You are experiencing the wonders of a new era, and this is only the beginning. It's going to get worse. Humans don't count anymore. Electronic equipment is in control.

My advice is to forget it. If you want to drive yourself bananas just get into a fight with a computer. Garbage in, garbage out. You can't win.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just saw a TV commercial that disturbed me no end. It was for women who are having trouble getting pregnant.

There's this kit with instructions to help women know exactly when they ovulate. The TV ad says a woman can get pregnant only one day a month.

I have taken a survey among my friends and not one of them believes this is true. At a time when teenage pregnancy is rampant we don't need this kind of misinformation on TV. If sexually active young people believe they are perfectly safe 29 or 30 days a month we will surely have a big increase in unplanned pregnancies. Please check this out and let the public know the truth.—Concerned In Dixie

DEAR DIX: I called one of the finest gynecologists in the country and he said, "The statement that pregnancy can occur only one day in the month is not true."

Doctors do not know exactly how long the egg lives after ovulation. Some believe it is up to 24 hours. Others say 48 hours. Also, the life of th sperm must be taken into consideration, and the experts don't know for sure how long that lives. So, lest anyone be lulled into a sense of false security, take it from the authorities: 'Tain't so.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What does it mean when a person has vivid, true-to-life, exciting and beautiful dreams that go on for hours?

When I awaken I remember entire scenarios, the complete cast of characters, who said what, the clothes that were worn, every detail of the homes—all in vivid color. Some of the plots are so wonderful, Cecil B. De Mille would be envious.

My dreams are always enjoyable. I never have nightmares. Is this normal? I don't know of anyone else who has such an active dream life. One friend told me it might be the beginning of a neurological problem, maybe a brain tumor. Is this possible?—Double Life In Clearwater

DEAR CLEARWATER: Ignore that old killjoy. It sounds great to me. Pleasant dreams are life-enhancing. Enjoy them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A recent column of yours about a minister who mispronounced the name of the deceased three times during the service brought back some memories.

Our preacher got this one off a few weeks ago while extolling the virtues of a leading citizen during the eulogy: "We have heretofore the shell—the nut is gone."—D. in Del.

DEAR D: Thanks for my laugh for the day. Beautiful!

CREATIVE PARTNERS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — How does a creativity expert look at the brain?

"When I think about the left side and the right side of the brain and how they might interact, I think about Laurel and Hardy," Jack Keil told a recent University of Rochester conference on "Creation."

"Ollie of course, is the left side, the practical side, at least in his own mind... while Stanley is the imaginative undisciplined, questioning side — a dreamer and believer in black magic."

Easter eggs require special attention

It's Easter Egg time. During the month of April, more than 190 million eggs will be sold in the U.S.—about 20 percent more than at any other time of year. The Texas Medical Association says it is important to know the best way to store eggs before and after they are cooked, and to know if an egg is safe to eat.

Here are answers to some common questions about eggs:

—How many minutes does it take to be certain an egg is hard-cooked? Fifteen minutes is the recommended time to make sure that the egg is cooked but not overcooked.

—Is dyeing Easter eggs a hazardous tradition? There is no reason to worry about the safety of packaged dyes used to color eggs.

—How long do eggs remain safe to eat after they have been hard-cooked and decorated? When you put eggs in the refrigerator after hard-cooking, they remain safe to eat for a week to 10 days. It is important, however, that the eggs be promptly refrigerated. Once an egg is cooked, its natural defense against bacterial contamination break down. If left at room temperature, these bacteria can multiply and cause food poisoning.

—Are brown eggs more nutritious than white eggs? It's a common belief that brown-shelled eggs are more nutritious than white-shelled, but the only difference is that they are reproduced by different breeds of hens.

—How should raw eggs be stored? It is best to store eggs in the covered containers in which they are bought because they readily lose moisture and absorb odors from other foods. For best taste and freshness, they should be used within five weeks after you bring them home.

—How many eggs would you have to eat to reach the American Heart Association's recommended daily limit for cholesterol? One large egg has about 275 milligrams of cholesterol, which is just 25 milligrams shy of the 300-milligram daily limit. All the cholesterol is in the yolk, however, so people watching cholesterol intake can safely substitute two egg whites for a whole egg in casseroles and meat loaves.

Choose snacks wisely for health

Snacking between meals can be healthy if you're careful not to overeat and you choose your snacks wisely.

"There's a good case for snacking," advises Addison A. Taylor, M.D., president of the Texas Affiliate of the American Heart Association. "It can be especially important for growing youngsters, active teens, pregnant women and nursing mothers."

In order for a snack to provide value to the diet, it should be loaded with nutrients and low in fat, cholesterol, sodium and calories.

If you have a snacking urge, select snacks made of familiar, wholesome foods, with minimal processing. Look for labels that describe the product's protein, fat, carbohydrate, cholesterol, sodium and calorie count. If the protein and carbohydrate numbers are higher than the fat count, it's a better bet than a high-fat snack. Of course, fruit or vegetables from the produce section of your grocery store don't contain ingredient labels. Most tree- or vine-ripened fruits and vegetables are fine for snacking.

Avoid the popular fried snacks such as most chips. They're high in fat, calories and usually sodium.

You'll save calories (and your teeth) by munching on apples, carrots and air-popped corn instead of candies, pastries and cookies. Try low-sugar frozen juice bars purchased at a store or made at home by pureeing fruit, pouring it into paper cups, inserting a spoon or tongue depressor and freezing. Instead of sugary soft drinks refresh your thirst by mixing one part fruit juice to four parts sparkling water.

Many people have a difficult time escaping the vending machine snacking cycle while at work. To decrease the temptation and save money they should bring low-calorie, healthy snacks to work. Some concerned companies are also offering healthier options in their vending machines.

"A small snack during the day is fine as long as the snack and the meals are balanced, healthy and moderate. Overeating can add to a person's chances of gaining unnecessary weight. Excess weight may lead to high blood pressure, a controllable risk factor of heart and blood vessel disease," states Taylor.

Abundant Life

IDEALS TO LIVE BY
By Bob Wear

Ideals are good to grow up by, and are just as good to live by. Some folk, good people, seem to object to the idea that there are 'ideals', and that we should endeavor to live by them. In some areas of living, the old and well-established standards and principles are being discarded. Some people even say that there are no acceptable fixed standards for our conduct. They say that everything is relative. Of course, they are mistaken. In fact, they have made their view of no standard their standard.

Everybody lives by some set of standards, or ideas; good or bad; with most of us, probably a mixture of the two. If we are wise, we choose the good, well-established and time-proven ideals. The value of ideals, high ideals, is well established, and their importance to one's life has been proven again and again. Of course, none of us will reach these ideals to perfection, but they are still essential to our well-being. "We never reach our ideals, whether of mental or moral improvement, but the thought of them shows us our deficiencies, and spurs us on to higher and better things." T. Edwards. The mariner can never reach the stars, but by them he can chart his course across the seas. In much the same way, it is by the ideals, which may be beyond our reach, that we can chart our course through life.

If we lose, or give up the well-established ideals concerning human thought and action, we are adrift. Once the spirit that wholesome, well-conceived ideals create in the life of a person is lost, life becomes a dreary, confusing, and oftentimes hopeless experience. If we turn from sensible, properly-related ideals, we open the way for cynicism, skepticism and many other undesirable elements of human thought and action.

Someone has said that "our ideals are our possibilities." We understand that 'ideals' must be appreciated and used in the proper relationship with realities; but we also understand that, our 'ideals' wisely held will provide the uplift and the forward movement for the best of living in the 'real' world.

Winter weary cars need spring checkup

Winter puts any car to its most severe test. Snow, sleet, road salt and potholes, all work together to damage a car's undersides. If left unchecked, this damage may eventually result in costly repair work.

"Spring is the perfect time to have your car's exhaust, brake and suspension systems thoroughly inspected by a professional technician," says Walt "Doc" Alley, director of training at the Midas Institute of Technology in Palatine, Ill.

"Taking an untuned, undermaintained car across town or across the country is not only hazardous, but may leave the family stranded on a roadside or require motorists to pay unexpected repair bills while away from home," he warns.

Alley describes the effects of winter weather on a car's exhaust, brake and suspension systems, as well as the typical problem areas motorists should be alert to:

Exhaust System: "Rusted baffles and corrosion will plus a muffler, restricting exhaust flow and increasing back-pressure," says Alley. "If your engine acts sluggish, seems to overheat and consumes more gas than normal, it could well be suffering from a damaged muffler."

Corrosion may also eat away at the exhaust pipes, leaving pinholes for carbon monoxide to seep back into the car. Since the escape of exhaust gases is not always signaled by the loud roar of an engine, typically associated with a faulty exhaust system, a spring check-up is a wise safety procedure.

Brakes: Winter road conditions can cause your car's disc brake calipers to stick or the rotors to pit with rust. Some obvious symptoms include: An unusually hard or soft brake pedal, a scrunch or squeaking sound or a pulling to one side when stopping. Any faults in the brake system are unsafe, and may cause the brakes to drag and heat up, resulting in increased gas consumption or rapid wear out of the pads.

Alley advises that brakes be checked ever 10,000 miles for optimum safety and efficiency.

Suspension: Barrelling through potholes may damage your car's suspension system and rapidly wear your tires. If your car is equipped with MacPherson Struts, rather than a traditional suspension system, increased tire wear may result when the struts are worn.

Alley advises motorists to maintain their cars regularly to avoid deterioration in automotive performance.

Safety-minded motorists can receive a free under-the-car inspection at any of the more than 2,000 Midas Muffler and Brake Shops nationwide. For a free brochure entitled "Getting To Know Your Car," write Midas International Corporation, P.O. Box 11172, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Helmets decrease motorcycle deaths

Repeal of the Texas motorcycle helmet law in 1977 has resulted in more than 1,000 motorcycle deaths that could have been prevented if helmets had been used, according to the April issue of Texas Medicine. Since August 29, 1977, Texas motorcyclists 18 years and older have not had to wear protective headgear.

The authors write that between 1972 and 1977, when the motorcycle helmet law was in effect, there were approximately seven deaths per 10,000 registered motorcycles. Each year since 1979, when the law was repealed, there have been 12 deaths for every 10,000 registered motorcycles. "There are now approximately 340 reported injuries per 10,000 registered motorcycles," said authors Linda E. Lloyd, Bureau of Epidemiology, Dr. Thomas G. Betz, Bureau of Communicable Diseases, Texas Department of Health, and Mary Lauderdale, Statistical Services, Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Motorcycle crashes are a serious public health problem," write the authors in the official journal of the Texas Medical Association. They cite that in 1985, motorcycles were involved in less than 3 percent of all motor vehicle accidents, but their riders represented 11 percent of the fatalities.

"Helmets are effective in preventing or reducing head injuries. Data from several states show that the head injury rate of motorcyclists without helmets is between two and three times greater than the head injury rates of helmeted riders," the authors write. "Well designed helmets not only absorb energy upon impact but they also distribute the impact over the skull. Nationwide the repeal of the helmet laws has resulted in an increase in motorcyclist deaths resulting from head injuries," write Lloyd, Betz, and Lauderdale.

Based on a study of trauma patients at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin, Tex., unhelmeted cyclists have more severe injuries, have higher hospital charges, and potentially cost the taxpayers more money than helmeted motorcyclists, according to the article.

Every nurse trained to detect cancer

"Our goal is to train every single registered nurse in the state of Texas to be a cancer prevention and detection nurse," the director of a new state wide education project for nurses said in Austin recently.

Barbara Holmes, MSH, RN, an oncology certified nurse with over 12 years cancer nursing experience is the first director of the recently organized Nurse Oncology Education Program. NOEP, a five-year $500,000 project, is funded by the Texas Cancer Council which was established by the 69th Texas Legislature to initiate a statewide cancer prevention program.

"More than 49,000 Texans were diagnosed with cancer in 1986," Holmes said. By the year 2000, the number of new cancer cases in Texas is expected to increase by over 85 percent.

"Improvements in cancer therapy during the last decade mean that half of all patients with cancer are now curable," Holmes said. "Also, the number of people dying from cancer can be greatly decreased when more health care workers are better skilled at cancer prevention and detection."

"Nursing is an integral part of the Texas Cancer Plan," James Dannenbaum, chair of the Texas Cancer Council, said. "Nurses play a big role in the prevention, detection and control of cancer and the education of patients and their families."

NOEP's goals throughout the state are to:

-increase the quality as well as the quantity of academic education in oncology nursing;

-provide increased continuing education (CE) for nurses serving individuals with cancer and their families

-provide nursing CE for comprehensive cancer prevention and detection activities

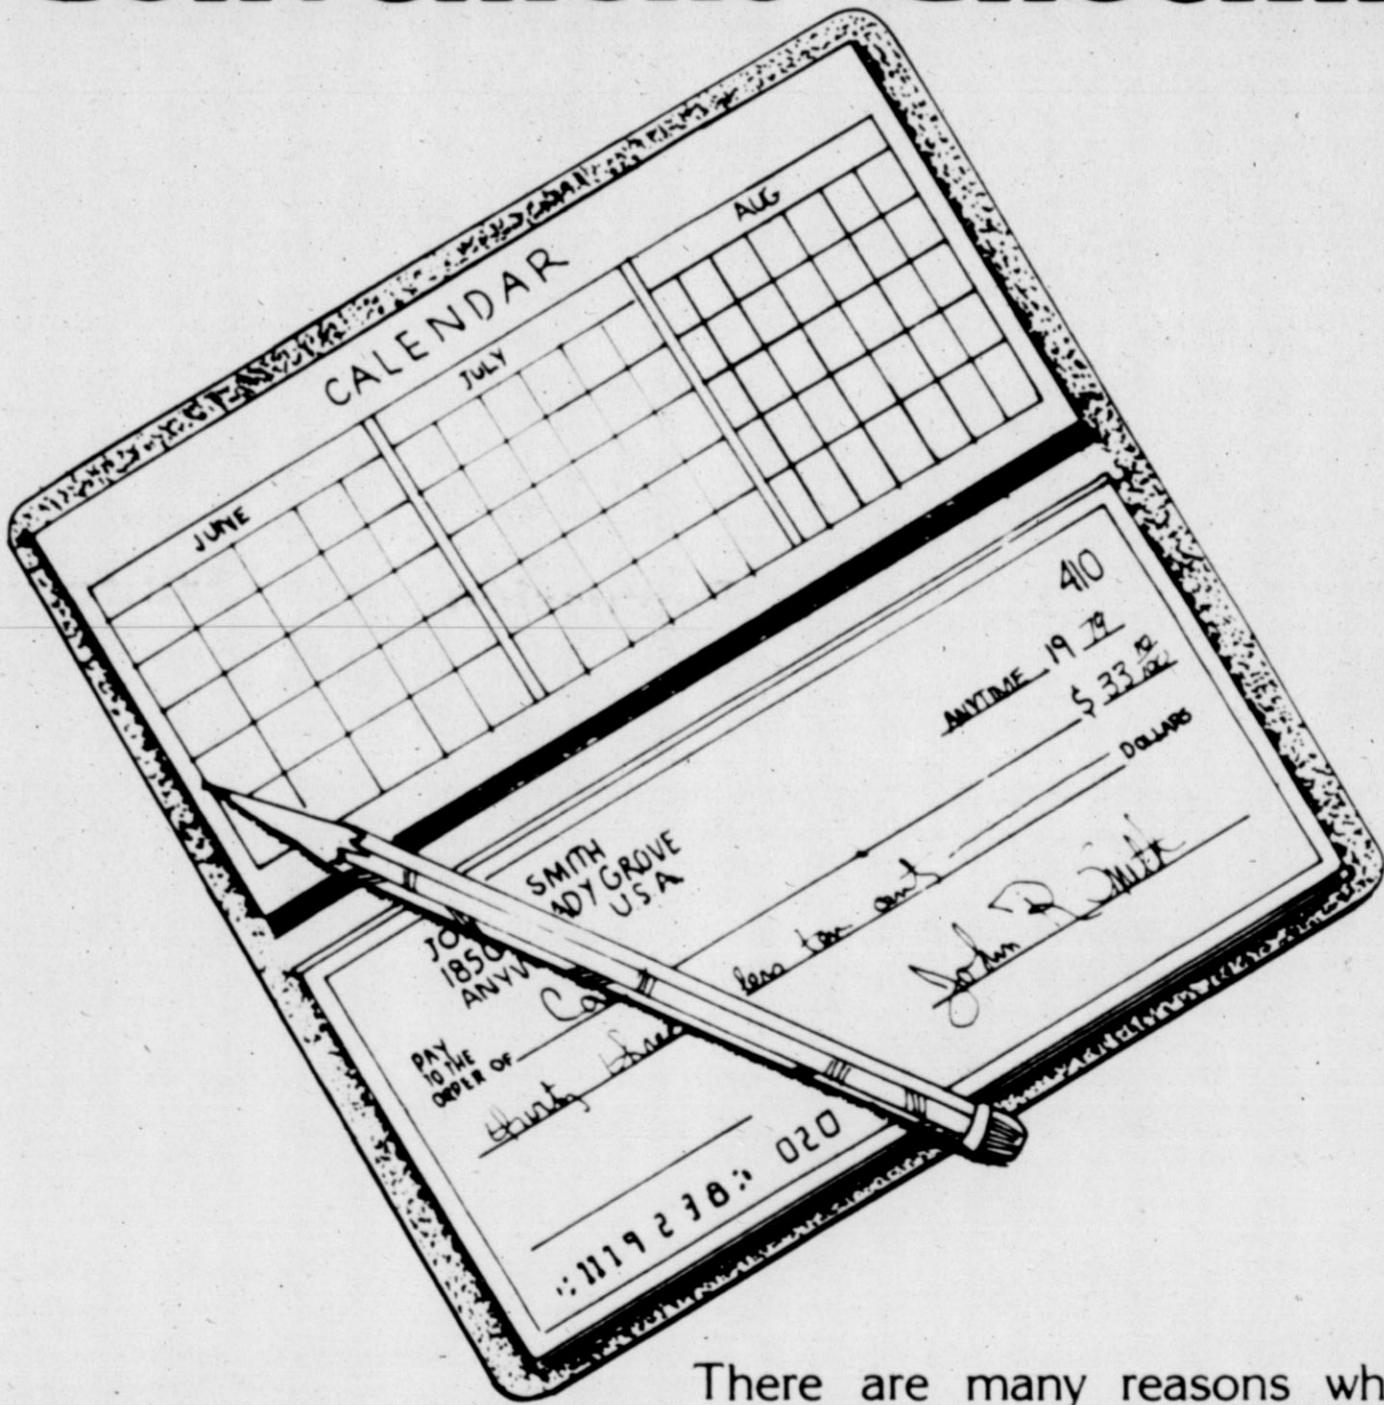

-encourage cancer nursing research projects, specifically those concerned with patient education

-establish a network of cancer nursing resources.

A 15-member advisory steering committee of nurse educators and practitioners guide the project. Karen Heusinkveld, PhD, RN, a University of Texas at Arlington faculty member, is chair.

"The members of the steering committee are excited with NOEP's potential," Heusinkveld said. "We believe nursing can make a difference in the quality of cancer care in Texas."

A coach who directed Groom High School's girls' basketball to four consecutive playoffs has been named the new head girls' basketball coach at Hereford High School.

Frank Belcher, whose won-loss record as a four-year head coach at Groom was 68-32, was hired as the new HHS coach Tuesday night at the school board meeting. Groom advanced to the area playoffs twice under Belcher.

Belcher replaces Larry Sowers, whose contract was not renewed by the school board. Serving on the selection committee were Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent; Don Cumpton, athletic director; and Terry Russell, high school principal.

Cumpton said that 18 individuals were contacted for the coaching position. A report on the final interviews included this paragraph about Belcher:

"Frank Belcher comes highly recommended by his coaching counterparts as a very sound fundamental coach as well as an outstanding motivator. His cooperative while working with all sports is excellent. His philosophy toward athletics seems to correspond to the philosophy we have in Hereford."

Belcher, 34, has 10 years of coaching experience, including two years at Bay City Junior High School, one year at Canyon Junior High School, two years at Pampa High School, and the last five years at Groom.

A 1975 graduate of West Texas State University, Belcher has a bachelor of science degree in physical education and health and a minor in speech. He is also certified in history and driver education.

Belcher was the head track coach all five years he coached at Groom. He was the junior varsity girls' basketball coach his first year there.

Other positions he held at Groom High School included head football coach in the 1982, 1983 and 1984 seasons, athletic director in the 1983-84 and 1984-85 school years, and assistant football coach in the 1985 and 1986 seasons.

Groom's season records in girls' basketball the last four years were: 15-11 in 1983-84, 15-6 in 1984-85, 18-6 in 1985-86, and 20-9 last season. Groom was the runnerup in District 2-1A last season, scored a bi-district win over Vega, and lost to Kelton in the area playoffs.

These were his positions at the other schools he coached:
Pampa High School, 1980-82: head girls' track coach and varsity football assistant coach.

Canyon Junior High School, 1977-78: eighth grade football, basketball, and track coach.
Bay City Junior High School, 1975-77: eighth grade girls' basketball and track coach, and junior high athletic coordinator.

In 1978-80, Belcher directed a two-year pilot project with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Dallas, in conjunction with Guideposts magazine. The project was giving direction to, and establishing a junior high school program for the FCA.

His work included development of program materials, directing national conferences and coaching clinics, training field staff members, and laying a foundation for future FCA programs.

Belcher and his wife, Donna Jean, are the parents of two children: Angela, 12, and Jay, 9.

Astros fall again to Los Angeles, 3-2

By The Associated Press

Being a member of the Los Angeles Dodger bullpen has not been something to brag about this season.

Tuesday night, however, relievers Matt Young, Ken Howell and Tom Niedenfuer teamed up to regain a little respect.

They strung together 4 1-3 shutout innings as the Dodgers rallied to defeat the Houston Astros 3-2 in 12 innings for their fourth consecutive victory.

"Write something nice about the relief pitchers," Dodger Manager

Tom Lasorda said. "That's a pretty good game for them to win."

Lasorda said he was pleased "not only that we won the game, but that everyone contributed. Everyone gave of themselves. Those guys in the bullpen battled back. They're beginning to believe in themselves."

"Niedenfuer pitched with his heart and his arm. He got out of several jams."

After Young retired the final batter of the eighth inning, Howell pitched two solid innings, striking out four without allowing a hit.

Niedenfuer, 1-0, struggled somewhat, allowing five men to reach base during his two innings but did not allow the Astros to score to earn the victory.

"I think they're coming back," said Dodger slugger Pedro Guerrero, who drove in the tying and winning runs with singles.

"Tommy (Niedenfuer) got himself out of trouble. That made everybody feel good. They feel like they have a lot of pressure on them. It's not nice having people booing you. I hope this is the start of a good season for them." Guerrero's two-out single in the 12th off loser Charlie Kerfeld, 0-1, drove in Mariano Duncan with the winning run.

Duncan opened the 12th with a walk off Kerfeld and was sacrificed before Duncan advanced to third on a fly ball by Alex Trevino.

Guerrero, who had singled in the tying run in the eighth inning, then laced Kerfeld's first pitch into center field for the game-winning hit.

Astro Manager Hal Lanier said things would have been settled much earlier Tuesday night had Houston come up with some timely hitting.

"We probably set the record: We must've left 20 people on base," Lanier said. "If we had gotten one key hit we would be in bed right now."

Guerrero said the victory was an important one for the Dodgers.

"We needed this game. It was important for us to win, especially with (Mike) Scott pitching tomorrow night," he said. "It's nice to win two out of three. If we can take the one tomorrow that's even better."

In other NL games, it was New York 7, Philadelphia 5; Cincinnati 6, Atlanta 3; Montreal 9, St. Louis 4, and San Francisco 3, San Diego 2. Giants 3, Padres 2

San Francisco boosted its record to 7-2, equalling its best start since 1979, while San Diego fell to 1-7, its worst beginning since 1974.

Bob Melvin hit his fourth homer of the year — all against the Padres — to give the Giants a 2-0 lead in the second.

San Francisco extended the margin to 3-0 in the third after starting pitcher Mark Davis missed his first major-league home run by inches. He settled for a triple off the left-center field wall and scored on Chili Davis' groundout.

Expos 9, Cardinals 4

Montreal became the last major-league team to win its first game of the season as Jeff Reed drove in four runs and Jay Tibbs pitched eight shutout innings against St. Louis.

Reed had a three-run double in the first inning and an RBI single in the fifth, and Tim Wallach added three RBI with a sacrifice fly and a two-run single for the Expos, now 1-5.

Tibbs, 1-1, took a three-hit shutout into the ninth inning, but Tommy Herr had a two-run double and Jack Clark an RBI single for the Cardinals before Bob McClure got the last three outs.

Mets 7, Phillies 5 New York, expected to get a strong challenge from Philadelphia in the East, handed the Phillies their sixth loss in seven games.

Mookie Wilson singled in the tiebreaking run in the ninth inning and went to third on right fielder Ron Roenicke's error. Wilson then scored when Juan Samuel threw wildly to home on Wally Backman's ground ball.

Ron Darling, 1-0, who escaped from a two-on, no-out situation in the bottom of the eighth, got the victory despite allowing 11 hits in eight innings.

Mike Schmidt hit his third homer of the season and 498th of his career in the fifth inning. Reds 6, Braves 3

Eric Davis and Kal Daniels both homered as Cincinnati improved its record to 6-1 by beating Atlanta.

Daniels had a leadoff homer in the sixth inning that broke a 3-3 tie, and three Cincinnati pitchers held the Braves to five hits. Ted Power, 1-0, allowed five hits in six innings, Ron Robinson pitched two hitless innings and John Franco got the last three outs for the Reds.

Davis, hitting nearly 500, hit a three-run homer after David Palmer issued consecutive walks to Daniels and Terry Francona to open the game.

Baylor hits three-run homer for Red Sox

By The Associated Press

Al Nipper of the Boston Red Sox still is looking for his first major league shutout.

The Texas Rangers are just looking for a winning formula in the second week of the 1987 American League season.

Nipper came within five outs of the elusive shutout Tuesday before settling for the victory in the Red Sox' 4-1 decision over the Rangers.

Nipper's flirtation with his first shutout in 79 starts with the Red Sox ended with Pete Inaviglia's home run with one out in the eighth inning.

"I was thinking shutout all the way when I went out there for the eighth inning, but it wasn't to be — again," Nipper said. "I can't worry about shutouts, though. Winning the game is most important. It's the only thing that matters."

The Rangers know only too well what Nipper means. They managed nine hits, including the homer and three doubles, and collected four walks, two from reliever Calvin Schiraldi in the ninth. However, they left 11 runners on base in dropping to 1-6 with their fifth loss in a row.

Designated hitter Don Baylor gave Nipper all the offensive support needed with a three-run homer, his third, with two out in the first inning.

Baylor also had a single, moving him to within 13 hits of his goal of 2,000 for his career.

Royals 10, Tigers 1
Seven. A football number. Bo Jackson made it a baseball number.

The 1985 Heisman Trophy winner had a three-run homer and a grand slam Tuesday night as the Kansas City Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 10-1. The former Auburn running back took over the American League lead with 13 runs batted in and improved his batting average to .500 with his second four-hit performance in a week.

Touchdowns now seem a distant memory, replaced by long home runs.

"Everybody doubted Bo but Bo," said Jackson, who has 14 hits in seven games. "When I set my mind to do something, 99 and three-quarters percent of the time, I get it done."

He got it done, just ask Detroit starter Dan Petry, who struck out Jackson three times in a spring training game.

Said Jackson: "I knew he was going to come with his breaking pitches because that's what he struck me out on three times in spring training."

Yankees 10, Indians 6

Joel Skinner's grand slam off Steve Carlton broke a 3-3 tie in the fifth inning and the Yankees held on as Cleveland lost its fifth straight.

With two outs in the fifth, Carlton walked Dave Winfield and Mike Pagliarulo doubled. Carlton, 0-1, then intentionally walked Willie Randolph, bringing up Skinner, who was 2-for-16 before the homer.

Cecilio Guante, who relieved Bob Tewksbury in the fourth inning, won his first decision, allowing one run in 3 1-3 innings.

Brewers 7, Orioles 4
The Brewers improved to 8-0 as five players hit solo home runs.

Mark Ciardi allowed five hits and three runs while walking four and striking out two in five innings for his first major league victory.

Paul Molitor, Robin Yount, Jim Gantner, Rob Deer and Greg Brock

each homered as the Brewers continued the best start in the franchise's history. All but Brock's came off Baltimore starter Ken Dixon, 1-1.

Blue Jays 4, White Sox 3

Rick Leach's single through the infield in the 13th inning gave the Blue Jays the come-from-behind victory.

Leach, who had entered the game in the eighth inning as a pinch-hitter, followed walks to Willie Upshaw and Ernie Whitt with a single off the glove of reliever Joel McKeon, 0-1.

Mark Eichhorn, the fourth Toronto pitcher, threw one perfect inning for his first decision of the year.

Twins 9, Athletics 8

Minnesota failed to hit a home run in a game for the first time this season but the Twins managed 13 hits and held on after taking a 7-0 lead.

Kent Hrbek, Gary Gaetti and Tom Nieto each drove in two runs for the Twins, who sit atop the AL West with a 6-2 record.

Oakland did hit the long ball, however, as Carney Lansford, Terry Steinbach and Jose Canseco each hit their first homer of the year and Mike Davis slugged his third.

Mariners 6, Angels 4

Phil Bradley ended a 1-for-22 slump with a two-run homer in the first inning and Rey Quinones hit his first homer as a Mariner to give Seattle the victory.

California's Brian Downing led off the game with a homer off Scott Bankhead, 2-0, but Bradley quickly erased that deficit in the bottom of the inning with the homer off Don Sutton, 0-2.

Bob Hope does Easter show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope, rubbing his right arm, complained that pain was keeping him away from his game of golf.

"I can't play. I can putt a little," said Hope, 83, his back to the one-hole golf green in the backyard of his Toluca Lake home.

His usual cure for pain, hanging from rings on an open-air porch outside his second-story bedroom, had not worked. "It straightens out the spine and cures back pain," he said.

"But it didn't work this time. I'll hang for about 30 seconds, then do it again. I've helped a lot of golfers cure their back pains, telling them to go hang," he said.

The pain hasn't kept Hope from taping a new special for NBC, which will be telecast Easter Sunday. Hope goes through a number of songs and dances and sketches with guests Vanna White, Stefanie Kramer, Lynda Carter, Gloria Loring and Jack Carter.

"I did four intimate spots, one with each of the girls, which cut down my monologue," he said. "This is going to be the fastest monologue they've ever seen."

The monologue, which Hope uses to open all his specials, won't be taped until the last minute. "That gives us a chance to be as current as possible with our jokes," he said. "I don't know what we'll do yet. It depends on what's happening then. Maybe something on Peter Holm wanting $80,000 a month allowance from Joan Collins — and an introduction to Linda Evans. He also wants $20,000 a month for clothes. I'd hate to stand behind him in line at Sears."

"Maybe we'll have something on the TV evangelists, if it's still prominent in the papers. I'll call up my writers and give them some ideas for subjects. And they give me their ideas. I'm always looking for ideas in the newspapers. You do everything that happens."

Hope, referring to evangelist Oral Roberts, said, "I called the movie academy and said if I didn't get an Oscar, God was calling me home. They said, 'Have a nice trip.'"

Although he wasn't hitting golf balls, Hope was nattily attired in a light blue golfing outfit with a club name stitched onto the shirt and pants. He will be 84 on May 29.

He will celebrate his birthday with his last special of the year, to be taped at Pope Air Force Base, near Fort Bragg, N.C. His guests for that show so far are Emmanuel Lewis, Phyllis Diller, Lucille Ball, Phyllia Rashad, Barbara Mandrell and Brooke Shields.

Honor society banquet set

The National Honor Society Banquet is scheduled for Thursday night at 5:30 p.m. in the Bull Barn.

Initiation ceremonies will follow the banquet at 7 p.m. Everyone is cordially invited to view these ceremonies.

Former Hereford resident Bruce Barrett, now living in Muleshoe, recently attended a National Potato Promotion Board convention in Denver. Barrett is serving his first year on the Potato Board.

RDI proposal requests rural economic boost

WASHINGTON — Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas) has cosponsored legislation to help rebuild rural America and restructure the U.S. Department of Agriculture to ensure more efficient management of rural programs.

"The Rural Development Initiative (RDI) we are introducing today would for the first time address the human side of the farm equation through immediate counseling, informational and job training services. It is an innovative approach to job creation and economic expansion in rural communities," Congressman Combest said.

"The first step under RDI is to reorganize the Department of Agriculture to streamline existing rural assistance and development programs that are now scattered throughout some 20 agencies of the federal government," the Lubbock Congressman said.

RDI also requires that priority be given to rural areas on government contracts, procurement, and the location of new federal facilities. Seed capital for rural economic development and private sector investment expansion is included, as is educational and training assistance programs for rural youth and displaced workers.

The proposal has received favorable response from several organizational and government officials including White House representatives, the National Governor's Association, the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The Rural Development Reorganization Act of 1987: -Creates a Rural Development Administration within USDA to manage rural development and assistance programs.

-Establishes Rural Investment and Incentive Block Grants to provide the seed capital for rural economic development and to encourage private sector investment and business enterprises.

-Establishes a Rural Infrastructure Block Grants and to provide funding for rural infrastructure needs, such as road construction, utility extensions, and the development of necessary waste disposal and water supply facilities.

-Refocuses attention on current law requirements regarding the location of federal facilities in rural areas.

-Creates Agriculture Action Centers to provide one-stop counseling, informational and job training services for farm families and displaced rural workers.

-Provides for a National Assistance Information Clearinghouse for emergency assistance, counseling, and other services available to rural families through government, charitable and volunteer organizations.

-Sets up Rural Technology and Training Centers, which through the cooperation of non-profit institutions will develop new products, processes and marketing techniques for utilization in rural areas.

-Establishes a Special Assistant to the President to assist, advise, and make recommendations in order to improve and enhance rural development programs.

-Mandates a study by the General Accounting Office of rural programs currently outside the jurisdiction of USDA and to advise Congress on the efficacy of transferring those activities to the Rural Development Administration.

It establishes a rural scholarship program based on successful urban scholarship programs. It would include systematic guidance and counseling from private sector professionals in career choices, academic preparation, technical training, and entrepreneurship. The scholarships would be privately funded.

Rural Federal Procurement: -Amends the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act to make rural businesses and procurement sources priorities for federal agency contracts.

-Amends the Small Business Act and focuses on the federal commitment to rural business development and ensures oversight and guidance for rural business development programs.

"In the 1960's and 1970's, the federal government enacted similar programs to revive our nation's inner cities," Combest noted. "Congress must now act to rebuild rural communities. If not, the problems of rural America and rural families will become the problems of our urban counterparts."

TCFA adds 2 to staff

In an effort to increase its service to members, the Texas Cattle Feeders Association has added two positions to its staff, announces Charles E. Ball, TCFA executive vice president.

Derrell Havins has joined TCFA as safety manager and Bill Carrothers has been hired as computer information specialist.

Havins, a 16-year safety veteran, will help develop safety management and loss control programs for TCFA Member Feedyards. Havins is active in the American Society of Safety Engineers, the Texas Safety Council, the National Safety Council and is a certified Red Cross instructor for first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR).

Carrothers grew up in cattle feeding and has extensive experience in feedyard management and computer application and operation. His principal duties will be to help develop a computer market information system for TCFA members and to coordinate INDEXX, a feedyard comparison program.

Eat it like an apple

Growers hope unique onion brings sweet profit

MCALLEN, Texas (AP) — Rio Grande Valley farmers are harvesting an onion this month they say is so sweet it can be eaten like an apple, and they're hoping for profits that are even sweeter.

"Demand is excellent and the price is good. Last year prices were very, very cheap," said Mike Kirby, vice president and general manager of Valley Onions Inc.

Prices were running 2.5 to three times higher than last year when the season's first onions were pulled from the ground in late March, Kirby said.

"The only onion really available in the country is what's coming from here," he said this week.

He says farmers hope to average $9 for a 50-pound bag of onions, compared with less than $4 a bag they received last year.

"There's a good chance of $9 a bag or maybe higher, as long as we don't get an oversupply and saturate the market," he said.

Jumbo yellow onions were bringing about $12 a bag around the first of April, $11 for large-medium onions and $10 for small onions.

Last year, Valley onions competed with storage onions, and that helped keep prices low. But this year the supply of storage onions is almost exhausted, he said.

"The quality is going to be excellent. We're very optimistic. After several losing years, we're due for one when we can make a profit," Kirby said.

Approximately 275 million pounds of onions, grown on 11,000 acres in the area, will be harvested, he said. An average price of $9 a bag would make this year's crop worth about $50 million.

The harvest will move into full gear around April 15, he said. Although onions are also grown in West Texas, on the High Plains and around Uvalde, the bulk of the state's crop comes from the Valley.

Valley onions, compared with those grown in northern climes, have a short shelf life and are the only fresh onions available at this time of year, he said.

Texas produces 53 percent of the U.S. spring onion crop, said Darlene Butler, general manager of the South Texas Onion Committee, a federal marketing group representing growers and shippers in the onion industry.

The pride of the Valley crop this year, says Ms. Butler, is the Texas 1015, developed at Texas A&M University to be grown in the area.

The 1015 Super Sweet won the raw sweet onion competition against onions from Maui, Hawaii; Vidalia, Ga.; California's Imperial Sweet and Texas' Noonday in a contest sponsored by U.S. onion growers in May 1985 and again the following year, Ms. Butler said.
