Shultz still to carry on Moscow talks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan, despite his own belief that Soviet intrusion at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow is "outrageous," is insisting his secretary of state go to Moscow to pursue an arms accord.

Reagan, who planned to examine the state of U.S.-Soviet relations in a speech today, also predicted the sex-and-spying scandal will not hamper attempts to reach an arms pact.

"I don't see that there is very much distance between us," Reagan said Thursday when asked about chances for a U.S.-Soviet agreement on medium-range nuclear weapons in light of the spy scandal.

Despite Senate passage Thursday of a resolution calling on Shultz to cancel his round of talks or find a secure place to hold them, Reagan's aides said the president wanted Shultz to hold talks in Moscow next week.

"While the president is sympathetic with Congress' intent, he feels that there is just too much at stake right now to cancel the trip," said a senior White House official traveling West with Reagan aboard Air Force One.

The president was queried about the allegations and counter-allegations of U.S. and Soviet espionage during a stop in Indiana at Purdue University on his way to a 12-day California visit.

The official said the president believes there are "a wide range of issues that need to be discussed," such as arms control, human rights and regional issues like Afghanistan.

Reagan does not intend to renege on his invitation to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev to come to a summit in the United States. "The invitation still stands," the official said.

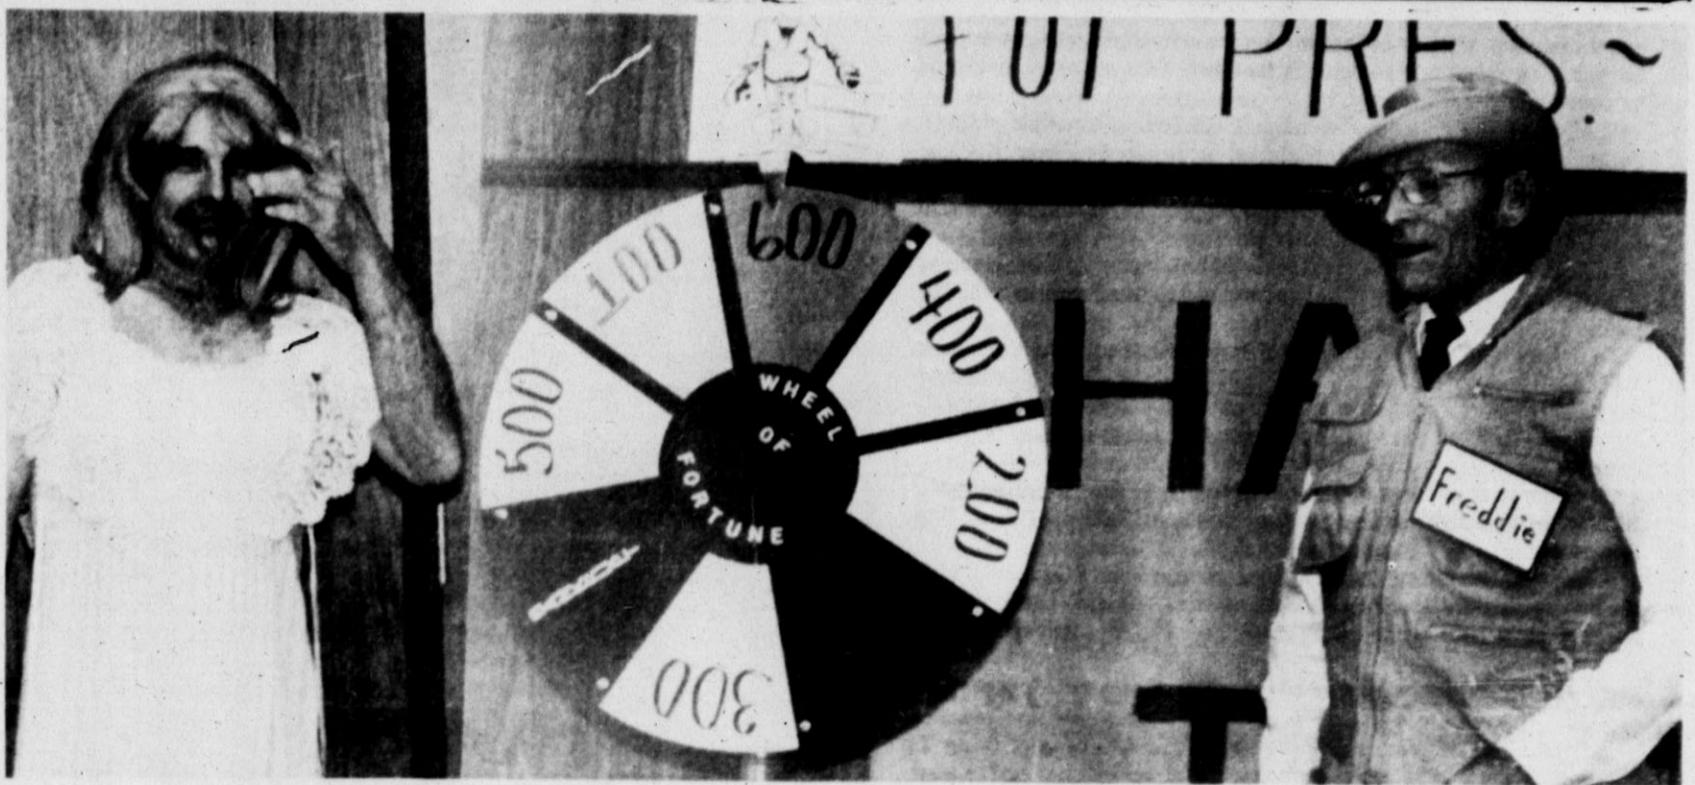

The official, who demanded anonymity, said the president has been assured "the necessary precautions" have been taken inside the embassy to ensure Shultz is protected from Soviet eavesdropping during his talks next week.

The president, speaking with reporters before boarding his plane in West Lafayette, Ind., refused to comment directly about the charges and countercharges of U.S. and Soviet bugging. Three U.S. Marine Guards have been arrested for allegedly allowing Soviet spies to enter U.S. diplomatic posts.

"Nonetheless," Reagan said, "I can say that what the Soviets did to our embassy in Moscow was outrageous and we have protested strongly. We're conducting a full investigation and will take whatever corrective action is necessary because our diplomatic establishments must be secure from Soviet spying."

Reagan, who strolled over to reporters to denounce the Democratic budget approved by the House of Representatives, was asked whether Shultz was carrying any new proposals to the Soviets.

The president said Shultz was "going there with pretty much" what has been discussed with the Soviets.

Lions' Wheel Of Fortune

The Hereford Lions Club annual election party, traditionally featuring humorous campaign skits, had a number of "weird" acts Thursday night—including a "Wheel of Fortune" skit. Vana (Harvey Milton) White, left, prepares to turn a card after contestant Freddie (Fox) Downunder picks a letter. John D. Bryant is the club's new president, and David Ruland was named president-elect.

Police file 12 reports

Hereford police filed 12 offense reports Thursday, issued 10 citations and checked two minor wrecks.

Police took a search warrant to check for marijuana and drug paraphernalia at a residence in the 800 block of Brevard. Nothing was found but a prescription drug which did not belong to a resident of the home. No charges were filed.

A burglarized pickup at Nick and Dee's Trucking had $700 in tools and a tool box missing.

In the 800 block of Blevins, an intoxicated man entered a house and had to be forced out by the owner. No suspect was found.

Charges have been filed as a result of an assault on Wednesday at the high school.

A check on a suspicious salesman in the 100 block of Douglas found that the man did not work for the company he said. The suspect has long hair and was wearing a black leather jacket.

A tire was slashed in the 200 block of Northwest Drive.

Several bags of aluminum cans were stolen from a back yard in the 300 block of Ave. H.

Four pet rattlesnakes that were sunning themselves in an aquarium were doused with gasoline and killed in the 300 block of Ave. J.

Three juveniles who skipped school were found playing on the roof of the old Central building. The youths were placed in custody of an aunt.

A bike stolen from West Central School was found with two juvenile suspects. The bike had been torn down.

Police called the animal control officer for a complaint on a cat scratching the paint off a car.

Also tended was a lost checkbook.

Baker assails scope of Russian spying, says U.S. sovereignty invaded

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's chief of staff says that while the United States may keep tabs on Soviet diplomats, the "scope and extent" of Russian spying on Americans is clearly an invasion of U.S. sovereignty.

And the Senate, in an expression of anger and frustration over alleged Soviet bugging of the American embassy in Moscow, has voted 79-20 against Secretary of State George P.

Shultz traveling to the Soviet capital next week for disarmament talks.

The vote is not binding on Shultz, and he planned to go anyway.

As the furor continued Thursday over the alleged espionage by Moscow- and Leningrad-based U.S. Marines entrapped by Soviet agents, Western reporters in Moscow were invited to view a display of photographs and bugging devices supposedly planted in Soviet diplomatic buildings in the United States by American agents.

Among the items shown at the foreign ministry's security service were hairbrushes and pencils that allegedly contained spy devices, along with other espionage items found in rooftop beams, bricks and cinderblocks of Soviet missions.

President Reagan, on a trip to Purdue University for a speech, declined to comment on what he termed

"United States intelligence activities."

"Nonetheless, I can say that what the Soviets did to our embassy in Moscow is outrageous and we have protested strongly," the president said. "We are conducting a full investigation and will take whatever corrective action is necessary. ... Diplomatic institutions ... can and must be secured from Soviet spying."

On the issue of alleged U.S. spying, White House Chief of Staff Howard H. Baker Jr. said, "I assume that we have intelligence capability related to Soviet installations, but I don't know that. I don't think the United States would do what the Soviets have done."

"The scope and extent of it really represent an invasion of our sovereign rights. And that, after all, is what an embassy compound is — a piece of sovereignty in another land. But I would certainly be disappointed if the United States didn't have counterintelligence capabilities of our own — in our country and abroad."

In its resolution, the Senate called on Shultz to either cancel his planned talks with Soviet officials next week or find another country where they can be held with a degree of security.

The State Department did not comment on the resolution, but planning forged ahead for the Shultz effort to narrow differences with the Soviets over nuclear weapons, human rights and such issues as Afghanistan.

Castration bill fails House

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Foster Whaley says, given a good knife, he would be glad to go through the state prisons and castrate repeat sex offenders.

But Whaley said he knew courts would frown on that. So, instead, he offered a proposal for "chemical castration" of some repeat offenders. The plan on Thursday drew a majority vote in the House, but failed to get the two-thirds vote it needed for approval.

Whaley offered the chemical castration proposal as an amendment to a bill establishing a counseling program for sex offenders in the Texas Department of Corrections. The bill was approved after initially being rejected by the House.

"Quite frankly, I would like to put mechanical castration in there with a darned good stock knife, but I don't think that would stand up in the courts. And if they don't have anybody down in Huntsville that knows how to do that, I'd be glad to show them," said Whaley, D-Pampa.

"Fact is, I'd volunteer as the executioner," he said in floor debate.

The House vote on Whaley's amendment, which would have made chemical castration a requirement for probation for repeat sex offenders, was 65-64. It failed because it takes a two-thirds vote to add amendments to House bills on final reading.

The bill, written by Rep. Bob Melton, would allocate $400,000 of TDC funds to set up the counseling program. Under the bill, parole officials could consider the results of the counseling and whether the sex offender refused to participate in the program.

"If they serve their time they are coming out. If they have not had that counseling we are in a world of hurt," said Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont.

Melton, D-McGregor, said sex offenders have a high rate as repeat offenders and that that could be changed through counseling.

The measure, tentatively approved Wednesday, was initially defeated 73-58 Thursday. However, it was brought back to the floor on a motion to reconsider, and was approved 80-54, sending it to the Senate.

Whaley led the opposition attack on the value of counseling.

"These people are beyond counseling," he said.

Supporters said the program is needed because sex offenders eventually leave prison.

Place 3 Result Confirmed

A recount of votes in the Place 3 city commission race confirmed the reelection of Tom LeGate this morning. Boyd Foster, who had lost by 14 votes, requested the recount. The panel conducting the recount found that Foster had one less vote in the absentee box, and the final tally was 471 for Legate and 456 for Foster.

Serving on the recount panel were Theda Seiver, chairman; Marian Kreig, Dolores Rowland, Rose Valdez and Dortha Prowell. LeGate will be serving his second term in Place 3, which is now a single-member district.

Commissioners also will have a closed session to discuss personnel and have a budget workshop.

Seven persons indicted

Two of seven persons indicted by a grand jury here Thursday had multiple counts.

Rene Ramirez, 18, was charged with two counts of burglary of a building. He is being held on $5,000 bond for each count.

James Edward Stubbs, 34, was indicted on four counts of delivery of a controlled substance, methamphetamine which is commonly known as speed. He is held on $25,000 bond on each count.

Others indicted, their age, charge and bond are:

DOE still needs lease

Although the Department of Energy has not yet advertised for office space, two companies which will work on the nuclear waste repository characterization project have leased buildings in Hereford, according to Linda McClain, DOE Texas project manager.

The Barrick Furniture main building on U.S. 60 West will be used by Battelle Institute, the main research contractor for the repository characterization project.

Parsons-Redpath, the general contractor for the project, will use the former bowling alley at 110 N. 25-Mile Avenue for its offices.

Both companies took out 9-month leases with an option for another 3 months.

McClain is stationed at temporary DOE offices currently housed at Vega in temporary trailers.

Five DOE personnel and eight Battelle workers have moved from offices in Columbus, Ohio. Other groups of workers are coming to the area for week-long stays. A major influx of workers is expected to begin in May and continue through summer.

Nuclear plant inspections sought

AUSTIN (AP) — Problems with nuclear power plant safety inspections discussed in testimony before a U.S. Senate committee have raised questions so serious that two Texas plants should be reinspected, two groups say.

That call came Thursday from the South Texas Cancellation Campaign, which seeks to halt completion of the South Texas Nuclear Project, and the Ralph Nader-affiliated group Public Citizen.

"The consideration of public health has to be paramount," said Dan Harrison of the cancellation effort.

"The public cannot have confidence in its own safety. The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is not acting in the best interests of the public," Harrison charged.

Tom Smith, Texas director for Public Citizen, said testimony before the committee headed by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, indicated that NRC inspectors sometimes were overruled by their superiors.

"The public can have no confidence in the safety of these plants," Smith said.

He referred to charges made to senators by H. Shannon Phillips, a NRC senior resident inspector at the Comanche Peak project at Glen Rose, Texas.

Phillips told senators Thursday that some of his NRC superiors for the seven-state Region IV — which includes Texas — pressured inspectors to "remove certain negative findings" after inspections.

Elective abortions may lose funding

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Republican majority on the commissioners' court appears ready to try and stop elective abortions at Tarrant County's tax-supported John Peter Smith Hospital.

Commissioner Bob Hampton said he will urge the elimination of any abortions that are not life-or-death decisions in a letter outlining budget issues for the Tarrant County Hospital District. The letter will be submitted Monday to commissioners for a vote.

Commissioner O.L. Watson, also a Republican, said he will vote for the letter. And County Judge Roy English has made it plain he opposes the hospital's abortion policy, but said he would wait to read the letter before deciding how he will vote.

"I don't believe taxpayers should be paying for abortions," English said, adding that he prefers that commissioners reshape the abortion policy with their appointments to the hospital board.

Democratic County Commissioners J.D. Johnson and Dick Anderson, however, favor the current hospital policy, which allows abortion for medical or psychological reasons. Doctors performed 232 abortions last year at JPS.

Anti-abortion groups have pushed for a policy that allows expenditure of tax money for abortions only when continued pregnancy would endanger the life of the mother or in cases of rape or incest.

Task force pushes for alcohol fuels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush, pushing for the use of alcohol in cars, trucks and buses to reduce air pollution, is asking a new "working group" to promote such conversions in heavily polluted cities.

The group formed Thursday would help more than 70 metropolitan areas nationwide which face the loss of billions of dollars in federal highway funds unless they reduce carbon monoxide and ozone, commonly known as smog, by the end of the year.

A shift to alcohol would reduce urban ozone levels by 80 percent and carbon monoxide by 10 percent to 15 percent at little cost, enabling dozens of cities to meet legal requirements, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

EPA's strategy for reducing ozone and carbon monoxide currently involves a list of regulations including limits on wine making and baking, but the agency has not yet embraced alcohol fuels as one of its remedies.

However, in a closed-door presentation Thursday to Bush and his Task Force on Regulatory Relief, EPA Administrator Lee Thomas characterized alcohol fuels or additives as extremely effective ways of reducing ozone and carbon monoxide levels.

Under the plan Thomas outlined, commercial and government fleets would be permitted to convert to alcohol use, either as gasoline additives or in the form of pure, or neat, methanol. States could compel the conversions. The Clean Air Act requires them to come up with a plan to reduce emissions.

4 of every 10 bridges need repairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — While federal officials acknowledge four of every 10 highway bridges are deficient and need repair, the Transportation Department is proposing to scale back bridge inspection requirements to save money.

The proposed change, which would require that many bridges be inspected every four years instead of every two years as now required, was quietly unveiled this week in an entry in the Federal Register.

Widespread deficiencies in the nation's highway bridges have been known for years, but the subject has gained renewed attention since the collapse Sunday of a major four-lane bridge in upstate New York. The collapse of the Interstate 90 bridge across the swollen Schoharie Creek 35 miles west of Albany is believed to have killed at least 10 motorists.

According to the latest estimates by the Federal Highway Administration, 243,646, or 42.3 percent, of the nation's 575,607 bridges of at least 20 feet in length are in need of repair.

The government last year authorized $2 billion for bridge repairs, but that amount was rolled back as part of an overall effort to reduce the deficit. The highway bill approved by Congress last week calls for $1.63 billion a year over the next five years for bridge repair, an amount many highway experts say will barely allow work crews to keep up with the current rate of bridge decay.

Peaceful solutions asked for crisis

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid said Thursday the destiny of Latin America is at stake in the Central American crisis and called for a peaceful solution to be found without outside intervention.

"In the crisis of Central America, the legitimate interest of the region's people and the destiny of Latin America are at stake," he said in a speech to the national congress.

"It is a matter of affirming and consolidating the relevance of our political culture, of the elementary rights of an international public order, and of the principles of independence and sovereignty," de la Madrid said.

De la Madrid is on the second day of a three-day official visit, the first by a Mexican leader to Guatemala in more than a decade.

He said the Central American crisis "will be resolved only with the use of peaceful methods to solve the differences, respecting scrupulously non-intervention of peoples."

Mexico is a member of the Contadora group that has been trying for four years to forge a peace treaty for the five countries of Central America.

From Nevada test site

Radiation monitors register fallout

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Significant amounts of fallout from nuclear weapons test explosions drifted into the Northwest in the early 1950s, according to newly released federal documents.

Once-secret reports made public Wednesday document patterns of fallout from Nevada tests that spread into Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana.

Fallout from each of the Nevada explosions was detected throughout the Pacific Northwest during a cooperative program between the Atomic Energy Commission and the Hanford nuclear reservation in south-central Washington.

The more than 20,000 pages of documents were made public after a Freedom of Information Act request was filed by the Hanford Education Action League, a Spokane-based activist group that studies conditions at Hanford. The papers are companion studies to 19,000 pages of environmental monitoring reports released last year.

Officials said the information on fallout and other radiation-related data contained in the reports should not alarm residents.

"As far as looking for something of a startling or new nature, there's really none of that," said Al Conklin, a radiation health physicist in the state Office of Radiation Protection in Olympia.

But Tim Connor, a researcher with the activist group, said, "Even though the Hanford safety record doesn't appear to be outrageous, there is (evidence of) steady deterioration of the environment."

The documents released Wednesday also showed that many modifications being carried out now as part of a $50 million safety upgrade of Hanford's N Reactor were recommended 20 years ago.

The N Reactor is the U.S. reactor most similar in design to the Soviet Union's graphite core reactor at Chernobyl. Both lack the concrete-and-steel containment dome found on most commercial reactors.

Nuclear industry experts studied ways to make the N Reactor safer following the Chernobyl disaster on April 26, 1986. Their recommendations last October incorporated many safety suggestions made by consulting engineer R.E. Trumble in 1966. When proposed by Trumble, the safety upgrades would have cost an estimated $1.9 million.

The N Reactor manufactures plutonium for nuclear weapons and makes steam to generate electricity. As the result of recommendations made last fall, it has been shut down since January while the safety upgrades are made.

Among the suggestions made by Trumble that are now being carried out are installation of instruments to allow the reactor to be operated by remote control in the event of an accident.

The report released Wednesday on fallout monitoring, written in 1952, documents a regional monitoring program that measured fallout after a series of airborne, surface and underground weapons tests in southern Nevada in the fall of 1951.

Monitoring stations were scattered throughout Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and South Dakota to track the course of radioactive dirt and dust particles blown into the atmosphere by the Nevada tests.

Significant increases in airborne contamination were noted after each of seven tests in October and November 1951, the report said.

Unrelated documents also released Wednesday said billions of gallons of cooling water contaminated with thousands of pounds of radioactive material were dumped into the soil in the first 25 years of Hanford's operation.

The amount of water released caused scientists to revise the estimated time it would take contaminated groundwater to reach the nearby Columbia River from 1,000 years to only one year, the documents said.

Capitol Report

By REP. JOHN SMITHEE

The Texas legislature is facing a crisis situation concerning its prison system. The first element of the crisis is that our prisons are very expensive to maintain, and have a history of being ineffective at rehabilitating inmates.

The second element is that Texas is under federal court order. If we fail to comply with the terms of the court order, we will face monstrous monetary penalties for contempt. The third element is the problem of overcrowding. Texas law restricts the number of inmates which can occupy a prison. As a result, we are being forced to grant early release to hundreds of inmates to make room for new prisoners.

The current legislature has attempted to deal with the problem by providing a more orderly and logical system for releasing prisoners. Also, the legislature had passed a bill authorizing privately owned prison facilities to be used by the state. That bill is currently on the Governor's desk awaiting signature.

Still, the problem persists. It will take between $50 million and $200 million to even partially and temporarily correct the situation. Possible solutions include a new 1/2 to 1/4 sales tax dedicated exclusively to prisons; or a voter approved statewide bond issue to build new prisons. Furthermore, many people feel that there is enough money in our present budget to properly address the problem, especially if the recently enacted "temporary" taxes are made permanent.

However, other ideas need to be discussed. The use of privately owned facilities needs to be further investigated. We should take a serious look at the use of smaller regional based prisons which have proven to be less violent and less susceptible to inmate problems. We must devise a more effective system of classifying prisoners according to degree of violent tendency, enabling us to group non-violent offenders in less expensive minimum and medium security prisons.

In addition, the use of prison jobs should be expanded to prepare inmates for the outside world work ethic.

Finally, we must look closely at alternative means of punishment which are less expensive. Punishments such as restitution and community service have worked well in other states.

We have learned that the prison problem will not just go away. It must be dealt with in a logical and cost-effective manner. And the sooner we do something, the better.

Letters to the editor

Dear editor:

St. Anthony's Women's Organization recently hosted the spring convention of the Hereford Deanery, or Diocesan Council of Catholic Women.

We would like to thank St. Joseph's Church for the use of their beautiful facility, the St. Joseph's Guadalupanas and Altar Society for all their help in providing such a warm welcome to all of us and all of those who came from out of town.

We would also like to thank all the businesses who so generously provided door prizes and goodies for the friendship bags. The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce was very helpful. Hereford still is very hospitable and because of all those in and around town willing to help, we had a very successful meeting.

General Chairman

Earth's inner core has a temperature of about 12,420 degrees Fahrenheit, compared with previous estimates of 4,900 to 6,700 degrees, scientists from the University of California at Berkeley and the California Institute of Technology reported today in the journal Science.

The surface temperature of the sun is about 10,400 degrees Fahrenheit, said Thomas J. Ahrens, a co-author of the study and geophysics professor at Caltech in Pasadena.

Earth's outermost layer, the crust, is about 4 1/2 miles thick below oceans and 25 miles thick beneath continents. Under the crust is the mantle, which is about 1,700 miles thick.

$30 million hoped to lure DOE project

Community officials from the area heard Amarillo civic leaders make a proposal Thursday to raise $30 million worth of inducements to encourage the federal government to build its $3 billion to $6 billion superconducting super collider in the Texas Panhandle.

The proposal was announced at a regional meeting at the First National Bank in Amarillo Thursday morning. About 40 officials from Hereford, Canyon, Dimmitt, Tulia, Plainview and Pampa attended the meeting. Those attending from Hereford included Mike Carr, C of C executive vice president; Mayor Wes Fisher, and James Witherspoon, County Commissioner Austin Rose, and CofC President Mike Bowles.

Richard Ware II, president of Amarillo National Bank, called the project "a once-in-a-century deal...that can make or break a region." He added that the region needed to "go all out and put together a package that knock their socks off."

He said inducements could include cash, donated land, breaks in utility rates or services in kind. Ware said the region needs to offer these inducements to attract the project, but they would not be used unless the super collider is actually built in the area.

Amarillo civic leaders have been eyeing the project as a step toward economic prosperity for almost two years, according to Larry Milner, president of the chamber. More than 40 states and hundreds of cities across the nation are seeking support for the project.

Despite the negatives, Milner said Texas is among the top contenders for the project and Amarillo has the best site. The disadvantages include the lack of a major research university, and the fact most of the state leaders who will make the decision live downstate.

The proposed site lies in an area bordered by Hereford, Dimmitt, Tulia and Canyon. "We want to start calling it the Happy site because Happy is the closest city to the proposed area," said Milner.

The Amarillo chamber has assembled a 45-member team headed by Jack Jones, a retired Southwestern Public Service engineer.

While at the University of Virginia, Ralph Sampson became the only college basketball player to win the John R. Wooden Award twice — in 1982 and 1983.

Bryant elected president

John David Bryant was elected as president of the Hereford Lions Club for 1987-88 during an annual election party Thursday night in the Hereford Community Center.

David Ruland won the election for president-elect; Lewis Block was named secretary, and Tommie Weemes was selected as treasurer in the other top election races. Bryant, unopposed, will succeed Temple

Abney as president.

The ladies-night event featured campaign skits and talks for the candidates running for the top offices in the club. Other new officers to be installed in June include K. Don Spurgin, first VP; Robert Mercer, second VP; Jeryl Baker, third VP; Ray Simpson and Joe Walters, Lion tamers; Juan Lopez and Joe Wallace, directors; and Harvey Milton and Jimmy Crosson, tail twisters. Lupe Chavez and Terry Beavers are holdover directors.

Campaign managers for the candidates included B.J. Gilliland, Sid Shaw, Mark Nicklaus, Herschel Black, Ray Simpson, Rocky Lee, Raymond White and Carey Black.

Ann Landers Marriage follows date

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's 7 a.m. Sunday and I turned to your column first. You told Any Woman, Anytown, USA, that on the first date it is always best to keep four feet on the floor and all hands on deck. That's what I would tell my 21-year-old daughter. I think.

My marriage, however, was a disaster. Aside from a few brief interludes (during which we jointly conceived four splendid children) we were totally incompatible. For 16 years, there were rages, threats with butcher knives, unforgivable betrayals, eavesdropping on telephone conversations, purloined letters, anonymous tips to the IRS—just name the ways a man and wife can wreak vengeance on one another and we did it.

After four therapists, thousands of dollars and a river of tears, I decided I had three alternatives: murder my wife, kill myself or get a divorce. If you think it's easy for a man to walk away from children ages 14, 12, 10 and 9, please think again.

Nonetheless, I did it, not only for my own survival but to preserve the mental health of my children. I decided they were better off with a living dingbat for a mother than with a father serving 10 to 20 years for justifiable homicide.

I stayed in close touch with the kids, got them all educated (the baby is graduating from an Ivy League college in May) and found myself dating women closer to my oldest daughter's age than my own. The kids never were too crazy about that, but they recognized it was my life, bless them.

A few years passed and I moved to a large Eastern city where I enjoyed the change of scenery and climate. My oldest daughter mentioned casually that the mother of a good friend back home was now widowed and living in the area. I remember her from PTA and car pool days and recalled that she was attractive, cheerful and pleasant. How would I like to take her out? I thought for a moment and decided, "Why not?"

So I invited the old friend out for dinner. We got along famously and she asked me in for a nightcap. I went home five days later. We were married within four months.

That was five years ago. While I agree with your advice when it comes to teenagers, I am glad my wife wasn't operating under your rules that night. Granted the five years have not been a perpetual honeymoon but we are closer than ever and our marriage is the envy of most of our friends. Would we have fared so well had I not spent the first night as a privileged guest? I doubt it. Do I have a spectacular memory of what our first date was like? You'd better believe it. Do I or does my wife have any regrets? No.

I wouldn't object to your using my name, but I suspect a few of the more conservative of the kids might not enjoy the sudden publicity. When they see this column (and I believe most of them read you daily), they'll know.

I'm sure you don't have room for my entire letter, and you probably wouldn't print anything that contradicts your advice, but please be aware that there are exceptions to almost every rule. Don't you agree?—"S" on the East Coast

DEAR EAST COAST: Yup, I agree. Most first dates don't even lead to a second date, let alone marriage. Congratulations for beating the odds. I'm happy for you.

Raw fish safety hazard

It's hard to go wrong with high-protein, low-calorie fish—unless you eat it raw.

"The growing popularity of undercooked fish or raw fish dishes such as sushi, sashimi, ceviche and others has resulted in an increase in cases of disease attributable to fish parasites," says food safety expert Marilyn Haggard.

"Properly canned or frozen fish pose no danger of infection," notes the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Cooking fresh fish until all parts of the fish have reached a temperature of 145 degrees Fahrenheit will also kill parasites, she adds.

Streun, Herrera lead Herd in batting

The Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team has two pitchers with earned run averages of 1.16, a hitter with a .463 batting average and a .542 on-base percentage, and another hitter with a .429 batting average and a .533 on-base percentage.

According to team statistics, noted by Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor, the District 1-4A leading Whitefaces have five batters with averages of .300 or better, for those who have batted 25 or more times so far this season.

Hereford, 6-0 in the district and 13-3 overall, plays at home Saturday at 1 p.m. against Dumas. Dumas is in third place in the district with a 4-2 record.

Kyle Streun and Keith Herrera have maintained batting averages of better than .400. Streun has 19 hits in 41 at-bats for a .463 average, and Herrera is batting .429 with 21 hits in 49 at-bats.

Both of them have on-base percentages of better than .500. Streun's on-base percentage is .542, and Herrera's is .533. Seven other Whiteface batters have on-base percentages of at least .400.

Carrying the team along with outstanding pitching this season are Bobby Medina and Keith Anderson. Both of them have earned run averages of 1.16 — each allowing just six earned runs in 36 and one-third innings.

Anderson has struck out 53 opposing batters, and Medina has struck out 25. Medina has walked only four batters this season, and Anderson has walked just eight.

Anderson has a won-loss record of 6-1, while Medina is undefeated in five decisions.

Leaders for the Herd in other batting statistics include Michael Phibbs with six doubles, Herrera, Robby Collier, and Rodney McCracken each with one triple, and McCracken with two home runs.

Herrera leads the team in stolen bases with 13, and Medina is second with six. Herrera also leads the team in getting on the basepaths via walks — 11 times. McCracken has walked nine times, and Medina has done it eight times.

Paul Maes leads the team in runs scored with 17. Herrera has scored 16 runs, Phibbs 13 runs, McCracken 11 runs, and Streun and Collier each have scored 10 runs.

The Whitefaces have 10 batters with five or more RBIs in the first 16 games, led by Collier with 14 and Herrera and Medina each with 10.

Looking at fielding statistics, for those who have seen considerable action in varsity games, James Hernandez has a perfect fielding percentage, having committed no errors, and Streun has a .986 fielding percentage.

Also above the .900 mark in fielding are Robby Collier at .975, Todd Shire at .930, and Herrera at .929.

Shire has the most putouts, 75, and Streun has 68 putouts. Maes is the assists leader with 28, and Medina has 18 assists.

Los Angeles is winless in four games

Giants trounce Dodgers 8-1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
 AP Sports Writer

Ready or not, here come the San Francisco Giants.

"I said opening day we were probably as ready as any club I've ever been with — especially mentally," Manager Roger Craig said after the unbeaten Giants trounced the winless Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1 Thursday.

The Giants are 4-0 for the first time in 13 years. The last time the Dodgers lost their first four games was 1976.

In other National League games, New York beat Pittsburgh 4-2, St. Louis defeated Chicago 4-2 and Atlanta edged Philadelphia 8-7 in 10 innings.

Chili Davis and Chris Brown hit two-run homers as San Francisco spoiled the Dodgers' home opener.

Will Clark singled on loser Bob Welch's first pitch of the game and Davis followed with his homer. Brown's second homer of the season capped a four-run fifth inning that kayoed Welch, who had a 17-3 lifetime record against the Giants.

"We knew before the season started that we were going to lose four games, but we didn't know when," Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda said. "Things will change and we'll start getting the run production that we can and the good pitching."

Mark Davis, converted from a relief pitcher to starter this year, allowed one run and five hits in seven innings. It was his first victory as a starter since June 14, 1984, the last year he started on a regular basis. He started three games while relieving in 141 over the last two seasons.

"I don't remember my last win as a starter," said Davis, who had been winless in his last 17 starts with 10 losses and seven no-decisions. "I do remember my last good game as a starter; it was last year."

"Everything I had I thought I was throwing fairly well. I was throwing the ball where I wanted."

Mets 4, Pirates 2
 Darryl Strawberry, who homered earlier, led off the seventh inning with a double off rookie Logan Easley and scored the tie-breaking run on Howard Johnson's sacrifice fly as the Mets swept the two-game, season-opening series from Pittsburgh, a team they beat 17 of 18 times last year.

Strawberry and Kevin McReynolds hit consecutive home runs leading off the second inning against Doug Drabek. The Pirates scored twice off Ron Darling in the seventh on Rafael Belliard's infield hit, R.J. Reynolds' pinch double, Barry Bonds' sacrifice fly and Andy Van Slyke's double off Gene Walter.

"It's time to show what Darryl Strawberry can do," Strawberry said after his second homer in two games. "I'm concentrating well. I'm not being fooled up there. I'm determined to perform well this year."

It was Easley's major-league debut and, he conceded, "I was nervous. My concentration wasn't there and my nervousness sort of snowballed. If you fall behind Strawberry you're going to get hurt."

Cardinals 4, Cubs 2
 Terry Pendleton hit a two-run homer and Vince Coleman stole four bases to set up two more St. Louis runs. Pendleton, who hit only one home run last year, connected off Steve Trout in the sixth inning to give the Cardinals a 3-0 lead.

"I guarantee I'll hit more than one," said Pendleton, who hit seven in his first three seasons in the majors. "That's not being cocky, that's being confident. This winter I worked a lot on getting the lower part of my body in my swing. And if you look at the lower part of my body you'll see where my power is."

Winning pitcher Danny Cox didn't allow a hit until Ryne Sandberg led off the bottom of the sixth with a home run. It was the only hit allowed by Cox, who struck out eight and walked six before leaving with two outs and two on in the seventh. Andre Dawson hit his first homer as a Cub in the eighth.

Coleman's four stolen bases tied his career high and led to the Cardinals' first and last runs. He walked to open the third, stole second and third and scored as Tommy Herr grounded out. In the seventh, he singled, stole second and third again and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ozzie Smith.

Braves 8, Phillies 7
 Dion James hit a one-out, bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 10th inning snap a tie. Philadelphia reliever Tom Hume hit Glenn Hubbard and then Rafael Ramirez with pitches after a one-out single by Ken Oberkfell off loser Dan Schatzeder.

James singled on Hume's next pitch. Pinch hitter John Russell's RBI double in the top of the eighth tied the game 7-7. James also had a run-scoring double in the Braves' fourth-run sixth that gave Atlanta a 7-6 lead.

Philadelphia scored six runs off Zane Smith in the fourth inning to take a 6-1 lead. Atlanta came back with two in the fifth and four in the sixth, including consecutive home runs by Ken Griffey and Ozzie Virgil, to knock out Phillies starter Bruce Ruffin.

Dallas (AP) — Free-agent Bob Horner has agreed to terms on a one-year contract with the Yakult Swallows of Japan, a newspaper reported today.

Horner's agent, Bucky Woy, said he would meet with Swallows president, Kazuo Souma, today in Dallas to finalize details. The Dallas Morning News said.

Horner turned down a three-year $4.5 million offer from the Atlanta Braves at the end of last season to become a free agent.

After Horner failed to receive an offer from any other major league team, Woy proposed a one-year deal with a base of $800,000 to the Texas Rangers in mid-March, but the Rangers rejected the offer.

"When the thing fell through with the Rangers, we decided to go a different direction," Woy said.

Both Horner and Woy live in Irving, a Dallas suburb.

Terms of the Japanese baseball contract were not disclosed, but it is believed that Horner will receive "well in excess of $1 million," the News said.

Horner will be in Japan within 10 days and expects to be in the starting lineup at third base about 10 days after arriving, Woy said.

Yakult's season opened today.

Horner signed with the Braves out of Arizona State University after they made him the first player selected in the 1978 free-agent draft. He never played in the minors, playing in 89 games for the 1978 Braves and hitting .266 with 23 home runs, winning the Rookie of the Year award.

His best year was 1982, when the Braves won the National League West. Horner batted only .261, but hit 32 home runs and drove in 97 runs.

Last July 6, against Montreal, he became the 11th player in major league history to hit four home runs in one game.

Teams hit combined six homers, seven doubles

Orioles beat Rangers in home run battle

By The Associated Press

There's nothing Baltimore manager Cal Ripken Sr. enjoys more than the sound of a hard-hit ball.

Ripken had plenty of opportunity to tune into his favorite sound Thursday when the Texas Rangers and Orioles combined for six home runs and seven doubles in a game won 8-6 by the Orioles.

Seven of the Orioles' 12 hits were for extra bases, with rookie Ken Gerhart, Fred Lynn and Ray Knight each connecting for a solo home run.

The Orioles had two homers and three doubles in a decisive six-run sixth.

"We certainly hit the ball well," Ripken said of his team, which had 13 extra-base hits in the season-opening series with Texas. "It's nice to hear those hard-hit balls and see those bats swung hard."

Ripken was particularly pleased with Gerhart, who had three RBI on his homer and a two-run double in the sixth. Ripken pinch-hit for Gerhart in the late innings of both of the Orioles' first two games.

"It's always good to see a young guy get some hits," Ripken said of Gerhart, who hit his second major-league homer. "I was glad to see him pop the ball out of the park."

Gerhart said it was just a matter of calming his nerves. "I just tried to stay relaxed today," said Gerhart, who was 0-for-5 in the Orioles' first two games. "The first two games I was even nervous during batting practice. A game like this takes a big load off my mind."

"Getting my confidence was real important. I just sat back and relaxed my hands."

Texas swung the bat well, with six of its eight hits going for extra bases. Don Slaught, Larry Parrish and Steve Buechele all had home runs for the Rangers.

"We were about one hit away," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine. "The guys came back. I was proud of them. They kept swinging the bats."

The Rangers rallied for three runs in the seventh and one run in the ninth, but it wasn't enough after falling behind 8-2 in the sixth.

Blue Jays 14, Indians 3

The Knucksie and Lefty Show had the Toronto Blue Jays talking to themselves — and Silent Steve Carlton talking to the media.

For the first time in baseball history, two 300-game winners pitched for the same team and the ancient arms, with lusty support from some young bats, led the Cleveland Indians to a 14-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Phil Niekro, 48, notched win No. 312, allowing three runs and seven hits in five innings. Carlton, 42, winner of 323 games, pitched four scoreless innings for his first save since 1968. The relief outing ended Carlton's record string of 544 consecutive starts.

"It felt strange, absolutely strange," said Carlton, who usually refuses to talk to the media. "I'm not accustomed to warming up like that and then coming in trying to get ground-ball outs."

Another 300-game winner didn't fare as well. Don Sutton yielded a pair of home runs to Seattle's Dave Valle as the Mariners beat the California Angels 7-2.

In other American League games, it was Milwaukee 12, Boston 11; Minnesota 5, Oakland 4; Chicago 6, Kansas City 0; and Detroit 9, New York 3.

Almost as unusual as Carlton's relief appearance was his postgame speech pattern; he talked so much it was hard for reporters to get a word in.

"I'm not chopped liver," he said with a wink after allowing four singles, walking two and striking out one. "I feel too good to retire. I'm having too much fun and I love the game too much to retire. After doing the same thing for 22 or 23 years you just don't quit because things don't go right."

Cory Snyder's grand slam, one of four Cleveland homers, highlighted a six-run Cleveland first inning against Joe Johnson. Julio Franco and Joe Carter hit two-run homers for the Indians while Tony Bernazard had a solo shot.

Mariners 7, Angels 2

Valle snapped a scoreless tie with his first homer leading off the third inning and added a two-run shot in the seventh to make it 3-0. Both homers came off the 42-year-old Sutton. Meanwhile, Scott Bankhead held California to one run over 6 2/3 innings. Steve Shields earned his first major-league save despite a home run by Jack Howell in the ninth.

Brewers 12, Red Sox 11

Rookie catcher B.J. Surhoff led off the bottom of the eighth inning with his first major league home run as Milwaukee swept the season-opening three-game series from the defending AL champs. The winning homer came off Steve Crawford after Boston's Danny Sheaffer's first major-league homer with two out in the seventh inning tied the game 11-11.

Twins 5, Athletics 4

Pinch hitter Dan Gladden's bases-loaded two-run single capped a three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth that gave Minnesota a three-game sweep. With one out, Gary Gaetti doubled and Tom Brunansky singled off Oakland relief ace Jay Howell to cut the Athletics' lead to 4-3.

Roy Smalley doubled and Howell intentionally walked pinch hitter Mark Salas before Gladden's game-winning hit. Juan Berenguer pitched one-hit ball over the final three innings to earn the victory. Mike Davis drove in three runs for Oakland with a homer and double.

White Sox 6, Royals 0

Jose DeLeon and Bobby Thigpen combined on a three-hitter and Greg Walker tripled home two runs to lead Chicago. DeLeon yielded a leadoff bunt single to Willie Wilson in the first inning but did not permit a runner to second until he issued one-out walks to George Brett and Frank White in the seventh.

Steve Balboni walked to load the bases with two out, but Thigpen came in and retired pinch hitter Thad Bosley on a fly ball. Kansas City's other hits were singles by pinch hitter Juan Beniquez in the eighth and George Brett in the ninth.

Tigers 9, Yankees 3

Chet Lemon homered to break a 1-1 tie in the second inning and doubled home another run in Detroit's six-run third as the Tigers averted a sweep of the season-opening three-game series. Walt Terrell, who upped his career record to 20-5 at Tiger Stadium, pitched eight innings, allowing 10 hits and striking out five.

New York starter Bob Tewksbury lasted two-plus innings, giving up four runs and five hits, although Bob Shirley bore the brunt of Detroit's big inning, which included Alan Trammell's two-run single.

FOUR IN A ROW

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Joe Paterno of Penn State is a household name among football fans and won his fourth Kodak Coach of the Year Award for leading the Nittany Lions to a national title in 1986.

It was a record, of course, but so was the achievement of Bob Reade of Augustana College. He won his fourth Kodak College Division II Coach of the Year Trophy and topped even Paterno in one area. Reade's were all in a row. His Vikings had 12 victories and a tie in 1986 and have put together a streak of 50 unbeaten games. His eight-year record at Augustana is 81-8-1.

Mavericks bring out worst in Warriors

By The Associated Press
 The Dallas Mavericks seem to be bringing out the worst in the Golden State Warriors.
 Thursday was no exception.
 Despite playing without injured scoring leader Mark Aguirre, the Mavericks coasted to a 125-100 NBA victory over the Warriors behind Rolando Blackman's 21 points.
 Dallas has won five straight and 14 of its last 15 meetings with the Warriors, who trailed by 33 midway through the fourth quarter.
 The Mavericks celebrated the return of Coach Dick Motta to the bench after serving a one-game league suspension for publicly accusing the Houston Rockets of going into the tank to improve their draft position. Dallas made 61.9 percent of its shots, just one night after hitting only 37.9 percent in a loss at Utah.
 "After winning the division and 50 games, we got giddy," Motta said. "Tonight we returned to reality."
 "We shot just 37 percent against Utah, which isn't even a standard for a junior high team," Motta said. "When we hit our open shots, we can play with anybody and we were hitting tonight."

 The loss put a crimp on Golden State's bid to overtake Utah for fourth place in the Western Conference and gain the homecourt advantage in the first round of the playoffs.
 "This was an important game for us," said Warriors Coach George Karl. "That's why I was so disappointed with the way we came out mentally."
 "Now we need to win the next two games (against Sacramento and Utah)," Karl said. "According to the master plan we worked out, we'd be right where we wanted to be if we win the next two."
 Aguirre sat out the game because of bruised ribs. Golden State scoring leader Joe Barry Carroll pulled himself out of the game at halftime because of a sprained ankle. Carroll is expected to play Saturday at Sacramento.
 "It helped us when J.B. had to leave the game," Motta said.
 Even with Carroll on the court in the first half, the Mavericks dominated both ends of the floor for 63-46 lead at intermission.

 "Rolando did a great job of penetrating and when J.B. came out to meet him (James) Donaldson got a lot of easy dunks," Motta said. "James was very active. He matches up with J. B. and can take him out of his shooting range."
 Carroll's injury enabled Karl to give extended playing time to rookie center Chris Washburn, the first-round draft pick who missed nearly two months while undergoing drug treatment.
 In 23 unimpressive minutes, Washburn scored four points and grabbed three rebounds.
 "We need to see if can contribute for the playoffs and the future," Karl said. "He's a big body with talent. But talent doesn't always make a position."
 Reality was harsh on the Warriors, and Coach George Karl wasn't surprised.
 "You could see it coming," Karl said. "I was disappointed in the way we came out mentally. I knew Dick would have them ready to play, because they haven't lost two in a row very often this year."
 Elsewhere, it was Phoenix 128, Portland 122; Cleveland 111, Indiana 109; Houston 112, Sacramento 102; and the Los Angeles Lakers 118, the Los Angeles Clippers 100.
Rockets 112, Kings 102
 With playoff action in mind, the defending Western Conference champion Houston Rockets began their final week of preparation for defense of their title with a workman-like victory over the improving Sacramento Kings.
 The Rockets were paced in Thursday night's 112-102 NBA victory by forward Rodney McCray, who snared a rare triple-double with 20 points, 13 rebounds and 10 assists. Robert Reid, hit for 26 points, including 14 in the last five minutes of the third quarter.
 The Kings overcame a 59-44 halftime lead by the Rockets, led by forward Otis Thorpe, who scored eight of his game-high 30 points in a Kings run of 23-8 before the heroics of Reid led the Rockets on a 20-13 streak to retake control of the game.
 "I had to hit the outside shot at that point in the game. They were giving it to me," said Reid, who hit six long jump shots and two free throws during his streak.
 "He (Reid) gave them the margin at the end of the third quarter, which they just kept," said Kings coach Jerry Reynolds. "The Rockets played well, and I would not want to face them in the playoffs. Even though it is tough to repeat, and they have had problems, a healthy Ralph Sampson and their good coaching could surprise some people."

 All Star forward Sampson, who has missed 39 games with injuries this year, scored only five points, but grabbed nine rebounds in 22 minutes of play.
 "I want to be a productive basketball player. I know how I want to play, and I need to find out what I can do," said Sampson. "I want to play strong in the playoffs."
 The other Houston twin tower, All Star center Akeem Olajuwon, played only 34 minutes, but scored 20 points and discouraged Sacramento shooters with five blocked shots.
 The Rockets improved their Midwest Division record to 40-38, and remain in almost a dead heat with the Golden State Warriors for the fifth position in the playoff structure of the Western Conference of the NBA.

Suns 128, Trail Blazers 122
 Larry Nance scored 34 points and Walter Davis had 10 of his 24 in the final 3:26 as the Suns won sixth straight game to stay alive in the playoff race. Phoenix still trails Denver by three games in the race for the final Western Conference playoff spot.
 Mike Sanders had 19 points for Phoenix, 11 in the first six minutes of the fourth period.
 Kiki Vandeweghe paced Portland with 27 points and Clyde Drexler added 24.
Cavaliers 111, Pacers 109
 Three of the NBA's top rookies were on display in Cleveland's victory. Ron Harper scored 26 points, added eight rebounds and four assists. Teammate Brad Daugherty, the league's top rookie in March, scored 18 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and dealt out six assists. Indiana's Chuck Person scored 26 points, with nine rebounds and six assists.

 Phil Hubbard added 20 to lead Cleveland Cavaliers. Indiana fell to 38-38 and trails Washington by one game in a battle for sixth overall in the Eastern Conference playoffs. Those teams meet Friday at Washington.
Rockets 112, Kings 102
 Rodney McCray's triple double — 20 points, 13 rebounds and 10 assists — paced host Houston, which also got 26 points from Robert Reid and 20 by Akeem Olajuwon.
 Otis Thorpe of the Kings led all scorers with 30 points, but a tough Houston defense held him to only two fourth-quarter points.
Lakers 118, Clippers 100
 Magic Johnson scored 28 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 17, all in the first three quarters, as the Lakers completed a six-game season sweep of the Clippers. The Lakers have beaten their crosstown rival in 16 of their 18 meetings since the Clippers moved north from San Diego.
 Quintin Dailey, who became a father for the first time Thursday, scored a team-high 16 points for the Clippers, who have lost eight straight games and 20 of their last 22.

Collective agreement asked in NFL drug testing

By TOM SEPPY
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League Players Association says random, mandatory testing for drugs should be instituted only if the program comes about as a result of arms-length collective bargaining between management and the union.
 Gene Upshaw, the former All-Pro guard with the Oakland Raiders who now is the union's executive director, told the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday that the union's goal has been to educate, test, treat and rehabilitate.
 "The fact that significant publicity surrounds professional athletics often leads management to try to impose a quick cure at the expense of individual rights or in disregard of the collective bargaining agreement," Upshaw said. "As we approach the serious problem of drug abuse and dependency in our society, we must recognize there are no overnight solutions."
 "We need programs that include education, treatment, rehabilitation and confidentiality," he said.
 In answer to questions by Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., the committee chairman, Upshaw said that the imposition of a mandatory urinalysis by management means "they are asking us to overhaul our entire work force with one test."
 "I wouldn't want a doctor to operate on me with one test," Upshaw said. "I would want a second opinion."
 If a mandatory program were instituted without the benefit of collective bargaining, he said, the union fears there may be management abuse.
 He described one incident in which a player called into the coach's office was asked to explain why he didn't join his teammates after practice for a few beers. He didn't join, the player told the coach, because he was taking piano lessons and was afraid teammates would poke fun at him.
 "A coach might think he was on drugs and that's why he didn't hang out with his teammates," Upshaw said. "That's the kind of abuses we're afraid of."

 In another example, Upshaw said a player was seen laughing in an elevator before a big game, so the coach thought he had a "bad" attitude and was on drugs. The coach wanted him tested, he said.
 Upshaw did not identify the players, coaches or teams involved in the incidents he cited.
 Under the current NFL contract with the union, management can conduct drug tests during the preseason and upon "reasonable cause" at the direction of the team physician. Attempts by management to impose drug urinalysis during the regular season have been met with opposition by the union, including lawsuits.
 "We believe that the success of any such program depends on trust and cooperation," Upshaw said. "In that regard, the collective bargaining process is a critical means of developing and securing the trust and cooperation under which such a program can be effective."

DR. J'S WIZARDRY
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving has announced he will retire after the 1986-87 NBA season but already the closing tributes are being heard.
 Indiana assistant coach Dave Twardzik remembers how it was in the old American Basketball Association, where Erving broke in.
 "I remember how I used to think it was wonderful when I played on the same team with him that I was being paid to watch Dr. J perform," Twardzik said. "On the bench we'd nudge each other and say, 'Did you see that play, did you see him do that!'"
 Mike Eischeid set a Super Bowl record with 17 punts in three renewals of the game. He played for both the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl.

DR. GOTT

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Doctors, being for the most part bright and alert, are well aware that the practice of medicine is changing. Like much of the public, we perceive that these changes are sometimes not for the good of the patients we serve.

As I have commented in previous columns, we physicians and surgeons seem increasingly hellbent to bring adversity upon ourselves. However, in all fairness, I must point out that much of what is happening may not be our fault.

We go to school, complete our training and commence to practice our trade without having learned much about how cruel, how unforgiving, how unfair the real world is. We are often prohibited from performing the good works we once thought we wanted to perform.

Were we too idealistic? Perhaps. Were we naive? Probably. Were we flawed in our perception of what a doctor should be? Unfortunately, too often.

This is not to say that we were wrong. It's just that the exigencies of modern medicine tend to warp, crack and peel our most humanistic tendencies. Doctors, especially young ones, are becoming more devastated by the realization that the goals we took for granted in medical school do not hold up in the day-to-day travail of medical practice. We were nurtured by the dream of a service profession in which we could relieve suffering, use our skills to help the needy, provide respite from illness and injury, obtain satisfaction from doing good, and enjoy recognition and prestige, because medicine has traditionally been an honorable profession.

Increasingly, these objectives are being undermined and sabotaged by endless paperwork, obsessive record keeping, unrealistic public expectations, calamitous lawsuits, declining public confidence and — now — the odious incursion of government and interference by profit-oriented health conglomerates.

I recently received a letter from a Pennsylvania doctor who was able to articulate the debacle that had struck his own practice. I was touched by the letter; the doctor has a lot to say, and I think that we need to listen carefully. Here's an excerpt:

Dear Dr. Gott:
I am an avid reader of your column, and I happen to be a bona fide Honda healer. I have been a solo family practitioner for the past seven years, and I drive a 1979 Honda with 90,000 miles on it and a bad case of body cancer. Fortunately, it is the color gray, and I have so much duct tape covering the rust spots that the car is approaching an art form. Obviously, I have not flourished financially because of my style of practice. In order to give my patients plenty of attention, I scheduled appointments one-half hour apart. I emphasized the care of young families in that I delivered babies and provided well-child care. I prided myself in being a doctor for people who don't like doctors. I protected my patients from procedure-hungry specialists and I prescribed drugs and ordered tests only when they were necessary. I looked forward to growing old with families for which I was caring.

Who can heal doctors' hopes?

Unfortunately, my ambitions were not to be realized. My office was inspected by representatives of a major HMO provider, which was soon to be marketing its product in my community. Because they were unable to find the proper pigeonhole, my unique practice was deemed not suitable for their purposes. Shortly afterward, I received a notice that my liability insurance premium was going to triple. The writing was on the wall. I was out of business.

I took a job as a doc-in-the-box in a daytime walk-in medical facility. Now I no longer have patients. I have customers.

I have survived an extended period of disillusionment with my profession, during which I seriously considered leaving it entirely. In today's technical society, one may justifiably query whether there is any need for (the art of) medicine to be preserved. It seems that (people) want an empathetic physician who will listen to their problems and treat them as individuals, but no one wants to take ultimate responsibility for (his or her) problems, and heaven forbid that they be asked to pay for services rendered. Compassion doesn't cut it when you get to the bottom line. This current corporate atmosphere will make it difficult for physicians to maintain their sensitivity toward their patients.

What a sad testimonial! Is the doctor's disillusionment representative of a national medical malaise? Is this the brand of medicine that the public wants? Can we afford to desensitize caring physicians in this way? Is it time for us to do something about it?

Thomas Jefferson was the principal author of the Declaration of Independence. In 1809, he retired to his plantation, Monticello, in Charlottesville, Virginia, where he realized his dream of establishing the University of Virginia. He died on July 4, 1826, the same day that John Adams died. The Daughters of the American Revolution honors this patriot and philosopher.
