Christians walk footsteps of Jesus in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Christian pilgrims singing hymns, reading from prayer books and carrying wooden crosses crowded the Via Dolorosa, walking in the footsteps of Jesus in Good Friday devotions marking the day of Christ's crucifixion.

Israeli soldiers carrying automatic rifles patrolled the winding, cobblestone streets as thousands of visitors crowded Jerusalem's Old City.

The Christian Easter celebrations of both the Eastern Orthodox and Western churches coincided this year with the week-long Jewish Passover observances which brought thousands of Orthodox Jews dressed in black cloaks and fur-trimmed hats to the Wailing Wall.

A long procession made up of groups of pilgrims singing and praying in different languages wound past the 14 stations of the Cross on the Via Dolorosa, marking the route Jesus took to his crucifixion.

The groups included pilgrims from Denmark, West Germany, France, the United States, Italy, Ethiopia, Sweden, South Africa, Ireland and Palestinian boy and girl scouts in uniform.

"It puts flesh on the story we have read so many times," said the Rev. Joe Condren of Gormanston College near Dublin, Ireland.

"This devotion is one of retracing the steps that Jesus made and the images we see here are helpful to a better understanding," said Condren, dressed in a brown robe as he led a group of 15 Irish pilgrims to the fifth station of the cross.

A woman and two men hefted a six-foot long cross made of thick pine as another priest read from the scriptures about Jesus' walk carrying the cross on which he was crucified.

"This is such a contrast to what we are used to back home," said Sheila Miller who together with her sister Fay runs a fabric shop in Gayndah, Australia.

The groups also included about 15 blind people from Sweden who were led by a priest.

The Via Dolorosa, or "road of suffering" in Latin, ends at the candlelit Church of the Holy Sepulcher, which marks the site of the crucifixion and resurrection.

Daniel Rossing, head of the Christian section of the Ministry of Religion, estimated the number of visitors this year exceeded the 50,000 who came last year when tourism was down because of a wave of terrorism in the Middle East.

This year's unofficial estimate of 70,000 was still below the 80,000 who came to Israel during Holy Week in 1985.

Stiff tariffs slapped to Japan

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan is slapping stiff tariffs on a wide range of Japanese electronic products, but the U.S. trade representative said today that the dispute over Japan's alleged violation of a trade pact on computer chips could be resolved in a few weeks.

Reagan, who is vacationing in California, was scheduled today to issue a presidential proclamation imposing $300 million in duties on specific Japanese goods. Sanctions on some items were expected to range up to 100 percent, potentially doubling the price of the products.

An initial list of targeted products — since narrowed — included Japanese-made television sets, pocket calculators and computer disks. But the administration predicts little impact for the American consumer.

The duties are in retaliation for alleged Japanese violation of a 1986 agreement to open its home market to American-made semiconductors, or computer chips, and to avoid "dumping" chips at unfairly low costs in other countries.

The United States contends that Japanese semiconductors, or computer chips, have been sold in foreign markets at prices far below their true value in violation of the 1986 pact. The Americans argue the chips then can be resold in the United States at unfairly cheap rates.

Reagan administration officials previously have said that even if the Japanese acted quickly, it would take three months at least for the issue to be resolved and the sanctions lifted, but U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter said this morning that the dispute could be settled relatively quickly.

The Japanese "can correct it very quickly, almost overnight, if they'll just do so," Yeutter said on NBC-TV's "Today" show. "They've been arguing this week that they have already corrected it, and I hope that's the case."

"But for us to verify, that's going to take a little time, because we have to gather data that will demonstrate the verification," he said. "We can't back off on this action on the basis of one or two days of compliance. We want to see a pattern of compliance. So, at a minimum, I would say that will take a few weeks."

However, Yeutter said it was unlikely the sanctions would be lifted by the time Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone arrives in Washington to meet with Reagan at the end of this month.

"I don't see any practical way to resolve this particular dispute before or during his visit," Yeutter said in an interview from Washington.

Makoto Kuroda, Japan's deputy minister of international trade and industry, prepared to leave Washington today after failing in his attempts to head off the sanctions.

The presidential action highlights the most serious trade conflict between the two allies since World War II.

Reagan upbeat, will consult allies on plans

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan is talking hopefully of a U.S.-Soviet arms control accord by year's end, while pledging no hasty decisions on a Kremlin proposal to eliminate all short- and medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe.

Reagan, after getting a 75-minute briefing from Secretary of State George P. Shultz at his mountaintop ranch near here, said "We've narrowed the gaps a little more" on medium-range weapons.

"I remain optimistic about an agreement this year," said Reagan, standing outside his adobe-style "Rancho del Cielo" with Shultz, who had just returned from a meeting with Soviet leaders in Moscow. The president said he's optimistic that he and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev "can complete an historic agreement on East-West relations at a summit meeting."

Neither Reagan nor Shultz would respond in detail to reporters' questions about whether America's NATO allies would be upset over an accord that essentially rids Europe of missiles.

Shultz, however, did say, "I don't think that at all... The opportunities before us... are all very positive."

And Reagan promised to "consult personally with our NATO allies on further negotiations and plans."

The Soviet proposal made to Shultz in Moscow would mean the elimination of about 130 short-range Soviet missiles in East Germany and Czechoslovakia, in addition to getting rid of all U.S. and Soviet medium-range missiles in Europe.

Gorbachev offered to include those weapons, which have a firing range of 350 to 600 miles, in a treaty to scrap medium-range missiles except for 100 warheads that would be left in Soviet Asia and in the United States.

The allies fear that elimination of these weapons would leave them vulnerable to the Soviet Union's superior conventional fighting capability.

Feds charge cocaine became currency

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Wall Street brokers arrested in an undercover investigation used cocaine "as a regular method of exchange," dispensing it to employees and customers and trading it for stock tips, authorities said.

"Cocaine became an integral part of the personal and professional lives of these people," Robert Stutman, special agent in charge of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration in New York City, said after the arrests Thursday of 19 people, including at least 16 financial workers and two alleged drug suppliers.

"We don't believe this case is an aberration," he said.

Federal authorities described a cocaine subculture in which the drug was snorted in bathrooms, stairways and boardrooms on Wall Street and purchases were made in neighborhood bars.

Those arrested included Wayne D. Robbins, a senior partner in the firm of Brooks, Weinger, Robbins & Leeds Inc.

Authorities also filed suit to seize assets of the firm, which has offices in nine cities. U.S. Attorney Rudolph W. Giuliani told a news conference he believed it was the first time the government tried to seize part of a brokerage's assets because of a narcotics violation.

"Cocaine was used as a regular method of exchange, allegedly in the business of this firm," Giuliani said.

But its lawyer, Bert Gusrae, said the principals of the firm have "no knowledge of any widespread drug distribution or drug network inside the firm."

According to Giuliani, a Brooks broker once sent a free sample of heroin via the firm's messenger service, information on stocks was traded for cocaine, a person was hired because he was a trusted source of the drug, and accounts were steered to brokers who returned the favors with cocaine.

He said that on one occasion, "a principal of a company whose stock Brooks was about to offer to the public was given cocaine in exchange for $10,000 worth of the stock."

The prosecutor said Brooks has been involved for some time in manipulating the issues of "penny stocks" — shares in new companies that trade at a very low price.

Further charges and arrests are expected, he said.

Ten of those arrested were brokers and five were professionals in the field, said Robert Strang, a DEA spokesman. One other person may have been a broker, he said.

In addition to the Brooks firm, Stutman said, those arrested worked for Prudential-Bache, The New York Depository Trust, Advest Corp. and Allied Capital.

Clements favors parental consent for abortions

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill banning late-term abortions has won the support of Gov. Bill Clements, who had been holding out for a provision that would require minors to obtain parental consent before having pregnancies terminated.

"I want the Texas Legislature to pass the strongest pro-life legislation possible," Clements said Thursday. "It is Sen. (Ted) Lyon's position that his proposal banning post-viable abortions is that bill. I am committed to supporting his bill."

Clements said he would encourage senators to leave the provision out when the bill reaches the Senate floor.

"I am also committed to encouraging senators with whom I have influence not to offer amendments that could jeopardize that passage in the Senate," the governor said.

Clements' comments came in response to a request from Sen. Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville. Edwards pledged to vote against a bill sponsored by Lyon, D-Rockwall, that would ban late-term abortions following comments by Clements that the bill might be amended on the House floor.

"I appreciate Clements' statement. It makes clear his position on Sen. Lyon's bill and should help accelerate what I've wanted to do, which is prevent this bill from being written on the floor of the House and Senate," Edwards said.

The bill stalled in committee when the governor said during his Tuesday news conference he considered the parental consent provision a vital part of abortion legislation.

He added he wouldn't be surprised if it was tacked on when the bill reached the Senate floor. Lyon dropped the provision Monday in hopes of getting the bill passed out of committee.

Clements' support helps the bill, but doesn't guarantee it will be passed out of committee, Lyon said.

Clams invade Snyder's water

SNYDER, Texas (AP) — Asian clams have invaded Snyder's water treatment plant, fouling the water and treatment plant machinery, officials say.

The clams, sucked into the plant through a pipeline from Lake J.B. Thomas, excrete waste products that combine with chemicals used in water treatment to produce a chemical that causes cancer, City Engineer Don Osborne says.

"There's no silver lining to this cloud," Osborne said. "It'd be a nice trick if we did find some pearls."

The pearl-less clams first showed up in the lake about seven years ago, he said, but the problem "has built up steadily and reached a plateau. When we have a buildup of clam shells (in the plant's water tanks), we just have to shovel them out."

In one 10-day period, he said, workers shoveled three five-gallon tanks full of clam shells from the treatment plant's water tank.

The clams excrete waste products that, when chlorine is added, produces trihalomethane, Osborn said. Federal officials have said that trihalomethane can cause cancer, he said.

Snyder's water should have a trihalomethane concentration of no more than 100 parts per billion, he said. In part because of the clams, he said, Snyder's water has had concentrations ranging up to 120 parts per billion.

The mouth of the city's pipeline is at the floor of the lake, abutting clam colonies, Osborn said. Snyder officials have suggested that the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which manages the lake, push the pipeline farther up from the lake floor.

Borger college eyes drug testing

BORGER, Texas (AP) — The board of regents of Frank Phillips Community College will meet next week to consider a proposal to test all scholarship students for drug use.

"I hope they make some kind of hard decision on the policy to say to the world that Frank Phillips College takes (drug abuse) seriously and does not approve of drug abuse," school President Andy Hicks told the Borger News-Herald.

Hicks said the policy would show that use of drugs was not acceptable at the college, which has more than 900 students, nor in the community.

At this point, Hicks said no students are currently tested for drugs. There is no policy concerning drug testing.

Hicks said he did not know why scholarship students were targeted in the drug screening plan.

Regents vice chairman Gerald Sikes said the proposal was discussed during a work session held at FPC between regents and college officials Monday.

"It was the first time that we had heard about the idea," he said. "I don't know why the proposal targets on scholarship students unless it is a place by which to start. But we are going to have to decide just who will be involved in the testing or screening."

Hicks said various meetings have been held in the dorms with coaches and various student leaders over the past few months to discuss the proposals.

FCC wants to clean up airwaves

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than a decade after George Carlin's "seven dirty words" shook the airwaves, federal regulators are issuing their own words to clean up obscene and indecent broadcasts.

In actions Thursday against three radio stations, including one with controversial morning-show personality Howard Stern, regulators sent word that they will be holding the nation's broadcasters to higher standards.

The Federal Communications Commission is hoping its crackdown on broadcast obscenity will tame the airwaves, but until the agency details its new guidelines, Stern is planning no changes in his New York-based radio program.

The FCC plans to publish its new guidelines soon in the Federal Register to put all broadcasters on notice that it will no longer limit its definition of indecency to the "seven dirty words" broadcast in 1975 in his monologue by comedian George Carlin. The broadcast led to a 1978 Supreme Court decision, which set an indecency standard for the airwaves.

The FCC has interpreted the standard narrowly, and since the Carlin case arose in 1976, the agency has taken no action against a station for indecency or obscenity.

FCC General Counsel Diane Killory said the FCC had to advise stations about the new standards before it takes action, which could include fines and the revocation of licenses.

Poindexter may get immunity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate committees investigating the Iran-Contra affair are expected to vote next week to grant limited immunity to former National Security Adviser John M. Poindexter, committee sources say.

Immunity from prosecution, expected Wednesday, would be granted under an agreement with special prosecutor Lawrence E. Walsh that would keep Poindexter's congressional testimony secret until June 15.

Poindexter, a Navy rear admiral who resigned his White House post Nov. 25 after Attorney General Edwin Meese III said profits from secret arms sales to Iran had been diverted clandestinely to aid Nicaragua's Contra rebels, is regarded as the key witness on the question of President Reagan's knowledge of the funds diversion.

Reagan has denied knowing about the diversion of money, and Poindexter will be asked whether he briefed the president orally, possibly on May 15, 1986, about the contents of a memorandum from his aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North, that discussed diverting $12 million in arms payments to the CONTRAS.

Associates say Poindexter, 50, is determined to clear himself when he finally talks.

"He thinks what he did was OK and he's going to be exonerated," one associate said, insisting on anonymity.

FBI to probe rocket firm

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal investigation of the company that builds the Challenger booster rockets began after company employees approached the FBI with "substantial allegations" of fraud, a newly released document says.

The employees at Morton Thiokol Inc. are not identified in the paper, which is a transcript of a conversation between a Justice Department lawyer and a federal judge.

But the Justice Department attorney, David W. Long, said the FBI was conducting "an extremely sensitive investigation."

The disclosure about company informants added a new element to an already complicated case that involves two lawsuits filed by engineer Roger Boisjoly against Morton Thiokol, his former employer. One lawsuit alleges that Morton Thiokol defamed Boisjoly; the other charges the company defrauded the government. Each lawsuit asks billions of dollars in damages.

Among three documents released Thursday by U.S. District Judge Harold Greene is one in which Boisjoly claims the company received money from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to hire 18 quality control and safety people but used it instead "as a slush fund for Thiokol."

Capitol Report

By REP. JOHN SMITHEE

The Texas Legislature took action on several important issues this week before adjourning for its Easter Break. Legislation which was debated included an anti-crime package, a budget execution authority bill, and an abortion bill.

The House passed an extensive anti-crime package which should give prosecutors more ammunition and flexibility to fight crime. The package includes provisions which tighten procedures for awarding good time to inmates; a bill allowing juvenile courts to transfer felony cases to state district courts where the defendant would be tried as an adult; a proposal allowing courts to consider past felony offenses of a juvenile if they occurred within the last five years; and a bill allowing one trial for multiple offenses committed in a single event.

House members also approved a compromise bill that would give the Governor and key legislators increased budget making authority in emergencies. Under this proposal, the Governor could declare a state of emergency and call a meeting of a ten member Legislative Budget Board. The Board would decide how to deal with the crisis and send its proposal to the Governor, who can then either accept or reject it. Under current law the Governor must call the entire Legislature into session to act on the budget. The bill was amended by placing a limit of 5% on any increase the Board can make, and 10% on any decrease of the budget. The bill is likely to face stiff opposition in the Senate.

House Bill 410, concerning abortion, was heard in public hearing this week. This bill makes it illegal to perform an abortion on a woman who is carrying a viable unborn child. Viable refers to the stage of fetal development where there is reasonable likelihood of the fetus surviving outside the womb. In addition, the bill also requires parental consent for all abortions performed on unmarried teenagers. The parental consent provision is likely to be strongly challenged, especially in the Senate.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I am leaving town tomorrow, and will be unable to attend the special called meeting of the School Board. It is my understanding that the purpose of this meeting is "to consider terminating the contract of Dr. Harrell Holder by mutual agreement."

Perhaps I am wrong, but their sounds to me like there is going to be a buy-out of the remaining time on Dr. Holder's contract, at some agreed-on figure.

If I am correct, what is the dollar figure, and where is the money to come from?

If this is a buy-out, and the money is coming from school funds, then there is at least one citizen (me) that the Board of Trustees is not acting in the best interest of. I am opposed to the use of school funds to buy the remaining time on their contract.

It seems to me that the deed is done. Dr. Holder's contract has not been extended, and indications are that it would not be re-newed. When the time comes for that. This if course is speculation on my part.

I am but one voice, and perhaps in the minority on this issue. I do ask the board members to consider my opposition to buying the remaining time of Dr. Holder's contract if school funds are to be used.

Respectfully,
James Self

Peanut butter ranks on carcinogen scale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A peanut butter sandwich has 10 times the cancer-causing potential of a serving of bacon, but is 20 times safer than breathing the air in a normal home for 14 hours, according to researchers who developed a scale for measuring the dangers of cancerous substances.

California scientists said Thursday they developed a system for ranking the potential hazard to humans of natural and man-made chemicals that cause cancer in animals.

The scale is designed to help assess the hazards of numerous carcinogens people hear about but don't know how to relate to, they said.

Scientists at the University of California, Berkeley, said their system — which, for example, rates a daily glass of beer as a greater cancer hazard than some pesticide pollution — takes into account real-life exposures to the many cancer-causing substances.

"Our purpose is not to scare people about an occasional raw mushroom or beer, but to help them make sense of the many reports they see about this or that causing cancer in animals," Dr. Bruce N. Ames, the principal researcher, said in a telephone interview.

Ames said the scale, expressed as a percentage of risk over a lifetime of exposure, rates possible cancer hazards to people based upon the known potency of a substance in animals and the likely human exposure.

Under this system, a daily ration of the peanut butter used in one sandwich has a rating of 0.03 percent because of a carcinogen from mold that forms on peanuts.

Bacon, which develops carcinogens called nitrosamines when cooked, has a 0.003 percent rating if eaten each day. And the normal air pollution in a conventional house, breathed 14 hours a day, is rated 0.6 percent.

The researchers, including Renae McGaw and Lois Swirsky Gold, describe their HEP scale, or "Human Exposure dose-Rodent Potency," in the April 17 issue of the journal Science, a special issue focusing on assessing risks.

The scale is an extension of a much-discussed report Ames published in 1983. That study concluded that the most-common carcinogens to which people are exposed are natural substances, such as by-products of mold and fungus contamination of grains and other foods, and not man-made compounds such as pesticides and industrial chemicals.

Merely identifying a substance as a potential cancer agent is not very useful for making health decisions without considering amount and likelihood of exposure, as well as other hazards with which people come in contact, the researchers said.

Ames bases his HEP rating on a ratio between the dose rate that induces cancer in half of the animals tested, called TD-50, and lifetime human daily exposure to the chemical per unit of body weight.

Using this scale, chlorinated tap water had a low HEP rating that still was several times higher than the potential hazard of pesticide residues, the researchers said.

Because chlorine in water kills many disease-causing bacteria and viruses, they noted, its potential cancer hazard is insignificant compared with the sickness and death it prevents.

By contrast, the potential hazard from breathing formaldehyde from building materials in the air of a mobile home is 1,000 times greater than the risk of chlorinated tap water, according to the scale.

The alcohol in a glass of beer poses a possible cancer hazard 3,000 times that of tap water, said the report, and dried herbs, raw mushrooms, peanuts and other natural foods can have higher scores in the amounts generally consumed than trace pollutants.

Getting A New Home

This big, loveable Teddy Bear will be making his new home at the Ellen and Boyd Collins' residence. The couple won the bear at the recent bean supper sponsored

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for Heartache in Florida, whose mother took her own life. It may not ease the pain but I hope it will rid her of guilt and give her a better understanding of how a person can be so desperate, tired and unable to cope, no matter how much there is to live for. I KNOW!!

Suicidal thoughts have tormented me for years. I told myself I could never hurt my family by taking the easy way out. It is such a selfish thing to do. However, almost daily the thought persisted.

I love children and was about to become a grandmother for the first time. My daughter even invited me to go with her to the doctor when she had her ultrasound. (What a thrilling experience!!)

One week before the baby was due I calmly fixed myself a gin and tonic and poured into the palm of my hand 120 phenobarbital tablets—30 mg. each. This was about 2 p.m.

About 6:30 p.m., a neighbor who had never been to my door before stopped by. Somehow I heard the knock (I have no memory of these events) and after falling many times I managed to get to the door. Having heard the noise, he kept talking me to the door and I let him in. He immediately called 911. I had ingested all but about 30 of the pills. The rest were found on the floor. This far exceeded the lethal dose.

It is now four months later. I go to a therapist three times a week and I am still suicidal. I am sorry for hurting those who love me but strangely, I have not been able to say I am sorry for what I did. Stranger still, I have not been able to say thank you to the neighbor who saved my life. The best I could do was apologize for putting him through the ordeal of finding me.

My children are very loving and supportive, helping in every way, but the happiness is temporary. When I hold my grandson in my arms the love for him flows through me and I feel I must live to watch him flourish and grow. A few days later thoughts of self-destruction overtake me. I shall keep fighting, but deep down I believe I will do it eventually and no one can save me.—Oakland, Calif.

DEAR OAKLAND: Thank you for a letter that makes it crystal clear how strong and mysterious the suicidal urge can be.

I beg you to keep seeing the therapist and hold the thought of seeing your grandson grow up. And, when you feel an overwhelming urge to end it all, remember how many times before you felt that urge—and that tomorrow was always better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I realize you don't write an etiquette column but I'm dying to know how you would deal with this one.

You go into a fancy restaurant where the prices are already higher than they should be, and the waiter brings you a menu. Before you start to order he (or she) begins to rattle off the "specials." They all sound simply wonderful, but nothing is said about the price. You don't want to look like you just fell off a turnip truck so you don't ask how much anything costs. When the bill comes it's a lot higher than if you had ordered from the menu. What's the solution to this one?—Under Water in Kenilworth, Ill.

DEAR KEN: Permit the waiter to go through his song and dance and then order from the menu.

All entries require a $5 entry fee paid in advance. Entries utilizing denim will be judged twice. Levi Strauss & Co. representatives will judge any entry, either craft or traditional art, that has been created with denim.

Cash prizes will be awarded for Best of Show and People's Choice awards. Levi outfits will be given to Denim Art winners in the traditional arts and crafts divisions as determined by the judges.

The Denim Art Festival provides area performing and visual artists the opportunity to showcase their work. For more information contact Jennifer Rike at 1218 W. 14th, Littlefield Texas 79339; or phone (806)385-4328.

DR. GOTT Condition causes pain and spasms

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I had a test that showed a spot on my esophagus. I have a hard time swallowing and have pain in my stomach and under my left shoulder. I was told not to eat cheese or cabbage and to take Riopan. What do you think my condition is?

DEAR READER - It sounds as though you might have peptic esophagitis, in which unneutralized stomach acid enters the lower portion of your esophagus, causing spasm, pain and gas. Pain in the left shoulder can be "referred" from the upper digestive tract because the brain misinterprets nerve signals. Cheese and cabbage, when poorly digested, can cause excessive gas. Riopan is a compound used to neutralize stomach acid.

Ask your doctor to explain your condition to you. Peptic esophagitis is often seen with hiatal hernia, so I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on HIATAL HERNIA. Others who are interested should send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Hiatal Hernia.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Is tryptophan useful for insomnia?

DEAR READER - Tryptophan, an amino acid, is said to help some people with insomnia. So does a glass of milk taken at bedtime; milk is rich in tryptophan. Milk is also much cheaper than tryptophan supplements. Some patients with insomnia are helped by taking antihistamines before going to bed, because these compounds exert a slight sedative effect. I've found that 50 to 100 milligrams of Benadryl is a safe and often effective remedy for sleeplessness.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Please explain jet lag. I've always felt that the same problem can be caused by losing sleep and becoming exhausted from excessive activity.

DEAR READER - Jet lag is a recognized medical entity consisting of fatigue, sleeplessness and a general slowing-down of body function. It appears to be a common ailment among people who travel rapidly from one part of the world to another across different time zones.

Experts believe that jet lag is caused by a disruption of the circadian rhythm - the natural time clock that all people have. We become accustomed to waking, sleeping and eating at specific times. The time changes involved in long-distance travel force our bodies to adapt to new rhythms. Until our bodies adjust to time changes, our innate rhythms are thrown off and symptoms appear.

Sleep deprivation and exhaustion from strenuous activity seem to produce somewhat different alterations in the way we feel, such as more profound fatigue and occasional hallucinations.

There are several recommended ways to cope with jet lag. The most successful in my experience is to sleep on arrival at your destination, thereby attempting to "re-synchronize" your biological clock with the new time zone.

Defeat Phillies 9-3

Mets continue home run streak

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets and Darryl Strawberry are keeping the home runs coming.

The Mets continued their streak of at least one home run in each game this season as Strawberry's fifth of the season led a 9-3 assault of the Philadelphia Phillies on Thursday night.

"I'm not overswinging or overstriding and I'm waiting for my pitch," said Strawberry, who took over the league with four runs batted in for a total of 15. "I'm just swinging well. I've developed good work habits and good things are happening."

What happened to the Phillies was another poor start that has meant a 1-8 record to open the season.

The Mets took a 4-0 lead with the help of two bases-loaded walks by Joe Cowley, 0-2, who has an earned run average of 48.60 in his two starts. Strawberry's two-run homer came in the second inning off reliever Tom Hume, and it made the score 7-0.

Rick Aguilera went eight innings for the victory, his first of the season, allowing nine hits with eight strikeouts. Terry Leach pitched the ninth.

The Mets team record for consecutive games with a home run at the start of the season is 10, set in 1970 and matched in 1975. The major-league record is 13 by the 1954 Chicago Cubs.

The victory enabled the Mets to sweep a three-game series from the Phillies for the first time since 1972, when they took four-and-three-game sets.

In other NL games Thursday, Montreal beat St. Louis 4-3; Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 6-0, and San Diego needed 10 innings to down Los Angeles 3-2.

Expos 4, Cardinals 3

Randy St. Claire struck out pinch-hitter Jack Clark with two runners on to end the game and earn the save.

St. Louis led 2-0 before the Expos rallied for four runs, three a sixth-inning rally that was capped by Tom Foley's two-run double. Ozzie Smith's eighth-inning single brought the Cardinals within one and brought on St. Claire, who got the final two outs in the inning.

The 26-year-old right-hander gave up consecutive one-out singles to Willie McGee and pinch-hitter Curt Ford before getting Mike Laga to pop out and striking out Clark on five pitches.

"He got it by me before I knew what happened," Clark said of the final pitch, which was clocked at 91 mph.

Neal Heaton, 1-1, was the winner, while Bob Forsch, 1-1, was charged with the loss.

Pirates 6, Cubs 0

Bob Kipper threw a four-hitter for his first complete game and shutout in the major leagues. The 22-year-old left-hander had a career-high eight strikeouts and walked one.

"I got ahead of the hitters and I got my offspeed stuff over," Kipper said. "He (Mike Lavalliere) called a great game and that always helps when you're in cahoots with the catcher."

Andy Van Slyke had three hits and two runs batted.

Van Slyke doubled home one run in the first off Ed Lynch, 1-1, and tripled in the sixth to touch off a four-run rally, which featured Lavalliere's two-run double.

Padres 3, Dodgers 2

Tony Gwynn had the first five-hit game of his career and scored the winning run in the 10th inning as the Padres won for just the second time in 10 games.

Gwynn led off the 10th with his fifth hit — a single off Matt Young, 0-3.

"When I got to the bench everybody was congratulating each other," Gwynn said. "Then Carmelo came up to me and said I had missed the hit-and-run (sign). I said, 'You're kidding me. That's going to cost me $100.' But we won. It was worth it."

Martinez had tied the score 2-2 in the fifth with an RBI double off Los Angeles starter Orel Hershiser.

Lance McCullers, 1-0, the fourth Padres pitcher, pitched a scoreless 10th inning for the victory.

BIRD'S 3-POINTERS

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird of the Celtics is one of the better three-point shooters in the NBA, and Boston coach K.C. Jones thinks it helps the team in two ways — in points and psychologically.

"It's a great lift for us when Larry hits a long one, and it can really hurt the other side. Once, against New Jersey, Larry fired a three-pointer and before the ball even went through the basket Dave Wohl, the coach of the Nets, was signalling for a time out."

Southpaw Cliff Melton won 20 games as a rookie for the New York Giants in 1937 but in the next seven seasons he never won more than 14.

Round 2 tonight between Dallas, Houston

Lone Star NBA War resumes

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Round 2 of the "Lone Star NBA War" between the Dallas Mavericks and the Houston Rockets will be played in The Summit Arna in Houston tonight.

The Mavericks won the first round on a 113-107 decision Wednesday night in a game that featured Derek Harper's career-high 31 points, flying fists and hot words.

Al Wood of Dallas and Steve Harris of Houston were ejected for fighting before a noisy sellout crowd of 17,007 fans in Reunion Arena.

Dallas has already clinched a playoff berth and the Midwest Division title. Houston is in the playoffs but the Rockets' position hasn't been determined.

Toronto wins over Boston 4-2

Key beats Clemens again

TORONTO (AP) — Jimmy Key is having the kind of start to 1987 that Roger Clemens enjoyed a year ago. Conversely, Clemens is struggling the way Key did at the beginning of 1986.

"All I know is that it feels a lot better to be 3-0 instead of 0-3," Key said Thursday night after tossing a two-hitter over six innings in the Toronto Blue Jays' 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Key started the 1986 campaign with three straight setbacks, but rebounded to finish as 14-11. Boston's Cy Young Award winner Clemens, who won his first 14 decisions last year before losing to Key, is winless this season in two starts, both against Key.

"I had fairly decent control, a lot better than last time," said Clemens, who gave up four runs on five hits and lasted only four innings in an 11-1 loss to Toronto last Saturday.

Solo homers by Dave Henderson in the third inning and Jim Rice in the fourth had staked the Red Sox to a two-run lead and Clemens seemed in control.

"Things never look too good when you're down to Roger, but I managed to keep the club close and we were fortunate enough to come back," said Key, who is 3-1 in his last five starts against Clemens.

Key struck out three and allowed only three walks, all in the sixth. Don Baylor fled out to end the threat.

Rance Mulliniks went 3-for-4 with a home run and two runs batted in. The veteran third baseman boosted his average to .428 from .353.

Clemens struck out nine and walked two over 7 1/3 innings. George Bell doubled to start the Toronto sixth and Jesse Barfield followed with a line-drive single to center that put the Jays ahead 3-2.

Mariners 6, Athletics 5
An errant throw by Oakland second baseman Tony Phillips allowed the winning run to cross the plate.

Harold Reynolds started the Mariners' decisive rally in the fourth inning with a one-out double off Jose why we were so emotional." Harper said he was proud of Wood for standing his ground in an exchange of punches with Harris in the second period that cleared both benches.

"I told Al Wood he did a good job," Harper said. "I like to see that kind of stuff. I wished I had been in it."

Wood and Harris were ejected from the game at 5:22 in the second period for exchanging punches. Both benches emptied but none of the blows landed. The players will get automatic fines from the NBA office.

Motta downplayed the incident. "I thought it was a very dull game," Motta said. "I expected some real excitement."

Fitch said little about the flying punches.

"There were a few short tempers out there but it wasn't much," Fitch said. "It's an intense series. I thought Dallas' bench played great and Harper really hurt us. We'll try to get them back when they come to our place Friday night."

Houston's Jim Petersen also missed most of the first half when he suffered a cut over his left eyebrow from a flying elbow.

"The crowd was in the game from the beginning," Dallas' James Donaldson said. "They were booing the Rockets during the introductions and that started the tempo our way."

Houston's Robert Reid said the Mavs "are more physical now than they used to be because of Donaldson. He's a force to be reckoned with in the middle."

It was Dallas' 14th victory in its last 17 games. Dallas is 28 games over .500 for the first time in its history.

"We're shooting for 56 wins," Motta said. "And I don't plan to change our playing routine when we get to Houston."

Household size at record low

WASHINGTON (AP) — The typical American household is less crowded than ever before, with the number of people in each home less than half what it was in the mid-19th century.

The average household as of July 1, 1986, included 2.67 people, an all-time low, the U.S. Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

That was down from an average of 2.76 people in 1980, and fewer than half the 5.55 people in the average 1850 household.

Shrinking household size has attracted considerable attention in recent years, and the shift reflects changes both in the age pattern and social activities of the American people, said Census Bureau population expert Campbell Gibson.

This average has fallen because the number of households in the nation is growing faster than the population in general, he explained.

For example, between 1980 and 1986, the number of households increased 10.5 percent to 88.8 million, while the number of people grew 6.4 percent to 241 million. The average household size is calculated using a somewhat smaller total, since several million people live in places other than households, such as college dormitories, hospitals and prisons.

A major reason for the recent household growth, explained Gibson, is that the nation is growing older, or at least more mature.

The presence of children in a population tends to increase household size, Gibson observed, while a larger share of adults generally results in people going off on their own and setting up smaller, independent households.

That has been an important factor in the last decade or two, Gibson explained.

For example, in 1964 the typical household included 3.33 people of whom 1.23 were under age 18 and 2.10 were adults, he said. By last year, the average of 2.67 people included 0.71 under 18 and 1.96 adults.

About three-fourths of the decline in household size is in the under-18 age group, Gibson pointed out, to illustrate how changes in fertility and population makeup are affecting household size.

Another factor, though less important, concerns changes in adults' living arrangements, Gibson commented. For example, the increasing divorce rate in the 1960s and 1970s led to a shrinking household size because more adults found themselves living alone.

A household is an occupied living unit, and can include one or more people. Households are, on average, smaller than families because the definition of a family requires a minimum of two people. The new report looked only at households, not family size.

While the decline in household size has been noticed widely in recent years, it has been under way since the last century. The average American household contained 5.04 people in 1880, slipping to 4.93 in the 1890 Census and to 4.76 with the dawn of this century.

The averages were 4.54 in 1910, 4.34 in 1920, 4.11 in 1930, 3.67 in 1940, 3.37 in 1950, 3.33 in 1960 and 3.14 in 1970, Census records show.

Community hard hit fasts for 24 hours

ELECTRA, Texas (AP) — Members of 10 churches in this hard-hit oil and agricultural community participated in a 24-hour prayer and fast as a way to get themselves "right with God."

"We are not trying to twist God's arm, but merely getting ourselves right with God," the Rev. Mike Gresham, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said Thursday.

Residents have many material needs because of the depressed oil and agricultural industries, he said. But the 24-hour period of fasting and prayer isn't aimed only at getting God's help with more jobs and better wages and prices.

"We have vast spiritual needs that all the money in the world wouldn't overcome," he stressed.

Periods of fasting and care are uncommon in today's times, Gresham said. The 24-hour fast began at a Wednesday night service.

The Rev. Richard Safford, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, said the community has a strong Ministerial Alliance of 10 churches, and that when Gresham recently proposed the fast, ministers of all 10 churches accepted it as an excellent proposal.

"This brief period of fasting and prayer is for the people in this community whose lives have been disrupted by the economic conditions of North Texas," Safford said.

Children and those with medical problems were told not to fast. Instead, they were urged to give up smoking or sweets for the 24-hour period.

"This is a great town, and this period gives us a brief time when we can be in solidarity with the families who have had to give up so much because of a loss of income," Safford said.

Unemployment in Electra has risen, but on the upside, Safford said, "we are a small town and the people pull together. The Association of Women for Commerce and Industry was formed and they are actively seeking new business and jobs for residents."

The Ministerial Alliance began a form of food bank back in January with boxes for donations in churches and grocery stores, Safford noted.

The Newspaper BIBLE

A VOICE SAID, "DON'T BE AFRAID!"
One night the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision and told him, "Don't be afraid! Speak out! Don't quit! For I am with you and no one can harm you. Many people here in this city belong to me." So Paul stayed there the next year and a half, teaching the truths of God.
But when Gallio became governor of Achaia, the Jews rose in concerted action against Paul and brought him before the governor for judgment. They accused Paul of "persuading men to worship God in ways that are contrary to Roman law."
But just as Paul started to make his defense, Gallio turned to his accusers and said, "Listen, you Jews, if this were a case involving some crime, I would be obliged to listen to you, but since it is merely a bunch of questions of semantics and personalities and your silly Jewish laws, you take care of it. I'm not interested and I'm not touching it." And he drove them out of the courtroom.
Then the mob grabbed Sosthenes, the new leader of the synagogue, and beat him outside the courtroom! But Gallio couldn't have cared less.
Paul stayed in the city several days after that and then said good-bye to the Christians and sailed for the coast of Syria, taking Priscilla and Aquila with him. At Cenchreae, Paul had his head shaved according to Jewish custom, for he had taken a vow. Acts 18:9-18
