

4-H Awards Banquet Slated Tomorrow

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Outstanding accomplishment by members of Deaf Smith County's wide array of 4-H clubs will be cited tomorrow night at the annual 4-H Awards Banquet.

The event is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center banquet room.

The banquet will help kick off the observance of National 4-H Week here. Theme for National 4-H Week this year is "Expanding Horizons."

Highlighting the local awards program will be the naming of winners of the coveted Gold Star award, highest honor which can be presented on the local level to a 4-H member.

Gold Star winners are cited for leadership, scholarship and participation in the overall 4-H program.

In addition, outstanding 4-H achievers here will be presented with the "Foley Award" and the "I Dare You Award."

County Extension Agents Justin McBride and Louise Walker and Assistant Extension Agents Robby Vann and Agnes Taylor will be making award presentations.

Achievement by a first year participant in the local 4-H program will also be recognized with a "Rookie Recordbook" award.

Individual achievements in various recordbook enterprises will also be cited, and tenure awards for members of the various 4-H clubs will be presented.

Other highlights of the banquet will include recognition of top adult supporters of the 4-H program in Deaf Smith County.

An Outstanding Adult Leader award will be presented to an individual who helps sponsor one of the local 4-H clubs.

In addition, a "Friend of 4-H" award will be presented to an individual who has consistently displayed outstanding support for local 4-H clubs and their projects.

Highlighting the evening program will be commentary from 4-H members on various 4-H functions they have attended in recent months.

Melissa Brumley will speak on 4-H Rifle Camp, Jenness Self will speak on 4-H Range Camp, Kathy Morrison will speak on 4-H Congress and Glenna West will comment on electric-leadership camp.

In addition, Tonya Savage will speak on state roundup contests, Shelley Gerck will comment on citizenship shortcourse and heritage work, and Randy Vogel will present a summary of 4-H programs in the community.

Serving as Mistress of Ceremonies will be Becky Hughes, and among 4-H members handling award presentations will be Casey Cobb, Shawn Wylie, Kent Hicks, Gay Myers, Anna Beth Friemel and Tori Self.

Thieves Go Whole Hog At School Cafeteria

Thieves apparently went whole hog at the high school cafeteria yesterday as they made off with 70 pounds of pork cuts and six pounds of sausage after obtaining entry through a window on the south side of the building.

That theft was one of the lighter notes of the day as police investigated reports of theft, vandalism and two traffic accidents.

Break-ins were also reported at Hereford High School and Shirley School yesterday.

At HHS, thieves gained entry through an open window and took digital radio valued at $40. They also broke into a copying machine and took small change from it.

Thieves gained entry at Shirley School by prying a screen off a window. They apparently went through several drawers in the building but nothing appeared to be missing, according to police.

A police spokesman reported that simple assault charges are pending following an argument last night between a man and wife at a local laundromat.

Officers arrested a suspect on charges of public intoxication at the corner of Ave. H and Grand last night.

Police received a report from two juvenile females yesterday concerning harassment by older juveniles while they were on their way home from school at Plains and Northwest Drive.

Taco Tienda at 307 East 7th reported that a night light behind that business was apparently shot out with a BB gun.

Two accidents here yesterday resulted in damage but no injuries, according to the police spokesman.

One accident occurred about 1 p.m. at the intersection of Highway 385 and Grand.

According to a police spokesman, a 1978 model Dodge pickup driven by Kenneth Walterscheid, 44, of Hereford collided with a 1965 Ford driven by Ruth Rogers, 79, of Hereford.

Police reported the pickup was northbound on Highway

385 when the car pulled out from the Sonic Drive-In to cross the highway to Grand.

Ms. Rogers was issued a citation for failure to yield the right of way.

A second accident was investigated by police shortly after 5 p.m.

That mishap involved a three vehicle pileup at the intersection of Ave. F and Grand.

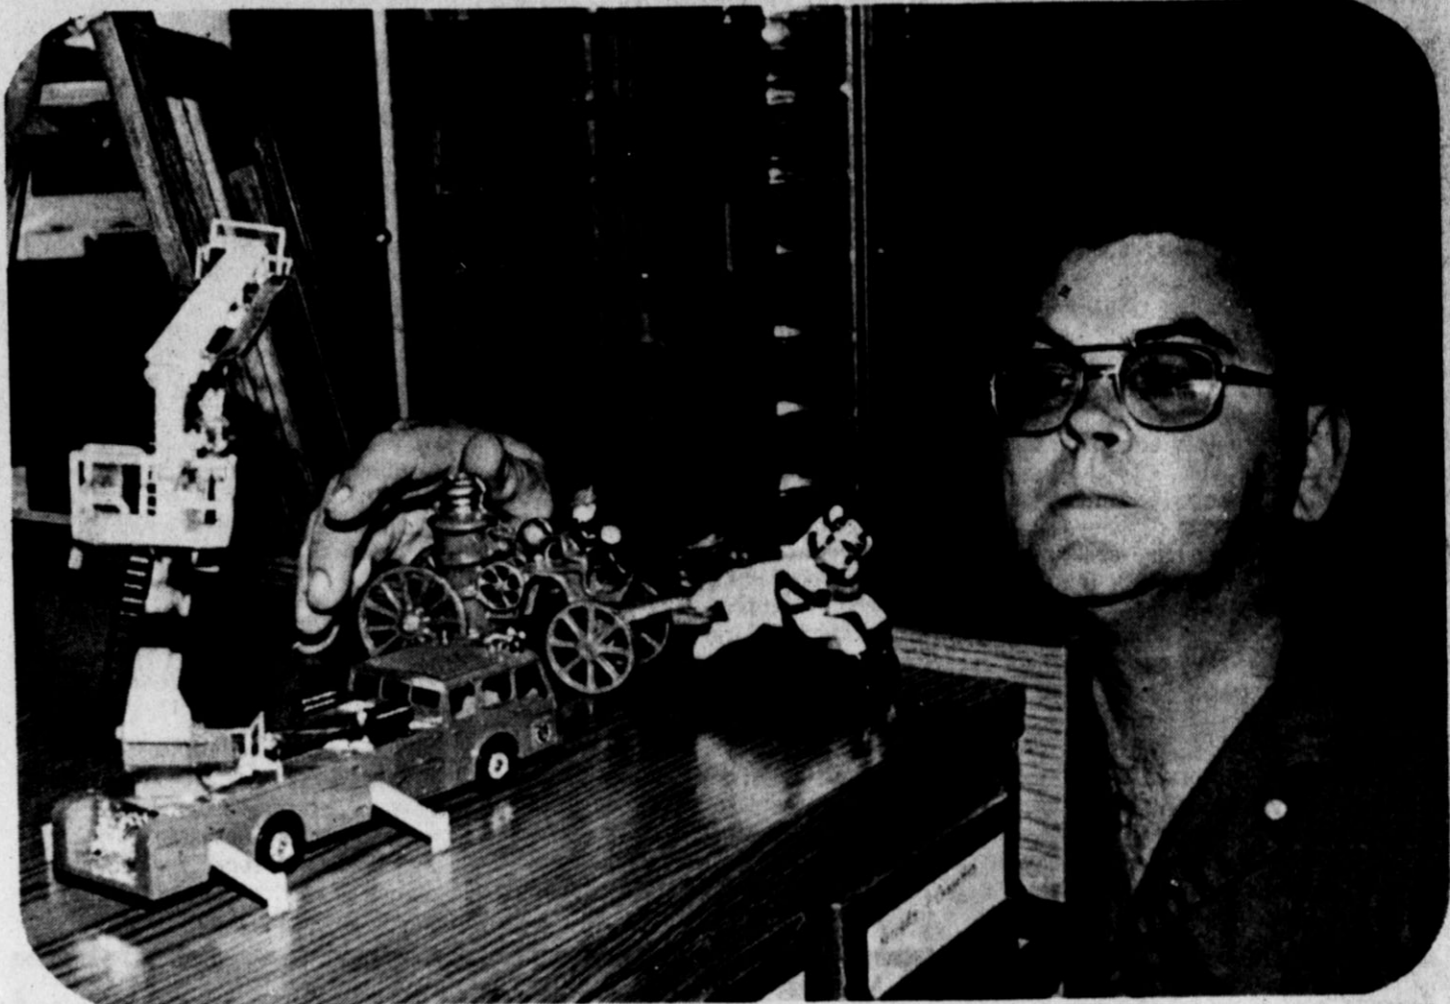

According to police, a 1974 Ford driven by Gregorio Mondragon, 68, was at a stop sign on Ave. F and was involved in a collision with a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Jerry Carr, 39. The Carr vehicle was eastbound on Grand.

Police reported that Mondragon apparently failed to yield the right of way at the stop sign and ran into the Carr vehicle.

A third vehicle, a 1977 Chevrolet pickup driven by Jimmy Victor, 53, also traveling on Grand, then ran into the other two vehicles, according to police.

A traffic citation was issued to Mondragon for failure to yield the right of way.

Police issued a total of six traffic citations Thursday.

Display for Fire Week

City Fire Marshal Jay Spain looks over some of the items in his collection of miniature fire engines. A number of miniatures from Spain's collection which includes some 40 trucks ranging from the early 1900's, are on display at the Deaf Smith County Library in conjunction with the upcoming Fire Prevention Week, to be observed Oct. 5-11. The Brand will join in the observation of Fire Prevention Week by publishing a special tabloid saluting Hereford's volunteer firemen as an insert to the regular Sunday Brand. The tabloid will feature in-depth articles on local volunteer firemen and the equipment they use, plus comments from the women behind the men. In addition, local merchants will present special messages in the Sunday tabloid. (Brand photo by Denise Smith)

Clayton Assistant Says Boss 'Would Never Accept a Bribe'

HOUSTON (AP) - Russell "Rusty" Kelley, the executive assistant to Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton, says his boss is an "honest man, a fair man, and one who would never take a bribe."

A witness for the prosecution, Kelley, also said the speaker received a $5,000 contribution from labor leader L.G. Moore of Houston and "I was told to take the money, put it in a safe place and don't say anything about it."

Most of Thursday's testimony in the Texas Brilab trial centered on Kelley, a soft-spoken man who has spent all of his years since graduation from the University of Texas in political work. On June 12, he was named an indicted co-conspirator in the FBI undercover operation by the same federal grand jury that indicted his boss and three other men on charges of bribery, conspiracy, extortion and racketeering.

Under cross-examination by state Rep. Craig Washington, a Democrat from Houston and a member of the defense team, Kelley said, "It never has entered my mind that the speaker would take a bribe."

Kelley also testified he told Clayton on at least two occasions he should report to the Texas secretary of state the $5,000 contribution, as required by law, but "the speaker always said he didn't want to get L.G. in trouble or messed up with the income tax thing."

Secret Brilab tapes played earlier in the trial revealed that Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, took $5,000 from Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant, and handed it to Clayton.

Kelley attended that Nov. 8, 1979, meeting and said he followed directions and put the money in a locked desk drawer. There it stayed, he said, until the Brilab investigation became public knowledge and the stack of $100 bills was turned over to federal officials.

Asked if it was the same money given to Clayton more than a year earlier, Kelley said, "It was. I know it was."

Clayton, Moore and Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall Wood now are on trial on the federal charges in U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor's court. Moore, who also was indicted June 12, will be tried at a later date.

Kelley said many times in the past Speaker Clayton returned campaign contributions made to him with a letter explaining why he couldn't accept the donation.

The government claims

Clayton, Wood and Ray accepted bribes in an effort to reopen the rich state employees health insurance contract, that could mean hundreds of thousands of dollars to the agent that got the business.

Hauser, now serving a 30-month sentence for insurance bribery convictions, posed as a representative of Prudential Insurance Co., as did two undercover FBI agents.

The government claims Clayton took a $5,000 cash bribe with a promise of $500,000 a year if Prudential got the state employee contract.

The speaker, who at first denied he received any money from Moore, later acknowledged he did get a donation but considered it a campaign contribution and planned on returning it later to the labor official.

Both Kelley and Clayton were interviewed by FBI agents Feb. 8 and both said the speaker had received no contributions.

Kelley testified he lied "because I was nervous and scared about the money not being reported."

After the agents left, Kelley said he talked with the speaker and told him, "I lied to them (the FBI agents) about the contribution."

"He said to me, 'That's all right.'"

"I said, I can't lie to the grand jury and the speaker said, 'I'm not going to lie, I'm just going to tell them what I told the FBI.'"

OPEC Reconsidering Cutback in Production

HOUSTON (AP) - Fighting between Iran and Iraq has prompted the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reconsider its planned cutback in crude oil production, the powerful consortium's president said.

Humberto Calderon Berti of Venezuela said at a news conference Thursday that OPEC ministers would meet Oct. 14 in London to discuss whether production should be increased to offset losses from the war.

OPEC ministers agreed last month in Vienna to cut production by 10 percent to reduce the current glut of oil they contend has undermined world crude oil prices.

"That agreement was made before the conflict occurred and conditions have changed," said Calderon, who stopped in Houston on his way to Tulsa, Okla.

"That decision must now be reviewed," he said.

On Wednesday, Venezuela, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, who together produce 4.7 million barrels of oil a day, told the International Energy Agency they would not abide by the Vienna agreement.

"I can't speak for the other nations, but Venezuela is not planning to reduce its oil production. We have a responsibility and a commitment to our clients," said Calderon, who also is Venezuela's minister of energy and mines.

"Venezuela does not want to take advantage of the current situation. We have never used oil as a weapon and we are not looking to taking advantage of the situation," he said.

"...We are conscious of our international responsibilities and we are going to continue producing at the same level," he said, adding that Venezuela currently produces about 2.2 billion barrels of oil a year.

However, when asked if Venezuela would step up production to make up for war losses, he replied that the Council of Ministers would decide that issue in its London meeting.

Calderon said a final decision on how much to produce could not be made until after the war between Iran and Iraq is resolved.

"As a result of the Iran-Iraq problem, I have been in touch with my colleagues and we all agreed we would like to see an end to the problems that would be in the best interest of the two countries, of the OPEC countries and for world peace," said Calderon.

A few months back, this column had some "indicators" that helped tell a person when he's getting old. We've run across a few more indicators since that time, so we respectfully submit another list:

You know when you're getting old...

-When women in their mid-twenties start calling you "sir."

-If you think Barbara Walters is sexy.

-If you can remember when Walter Cronkite didn't have gray hair.

-If you can remember when you could fill your car with gas and get change from a $5 bill.

-If you can remember when sex education wasn't taught in the classroom, but in the pool hall where it was intended.

-If, all of a sudden, Lawrence Welk music has started to sound good to you.

-If you can't remember your first sexual encounter.

-If you can't remember your last sexual encounter.

-When your wife asks you to suck in your stomach and your stomach is already sucked in.

-When people ask if you "remember when...?" and you ALWAYS remember.

-When you stop going to high school reunions for fear someone will look younger than you.

If you have answered "yes" to five or more of the above indicators, sit back and accept the inevitable. You're not as young as you once were but take consolation in one important fact—you're not getting older, you're getting better!

Probably one of the best-read departments of any newspaper is its "Letters to the Editor", and we wish more readers would send us letters that could be published in The Brand.

One of our functions is to provide a public forum for people with something they wish to get off their chests. Some folks may think our rules regarding publication of letters are too strict, but we don't really think so. We require only that letters be signed and that they be free from personal attack or libelous material, and we reserve the right to be the judge on that.

Other than those simple requirements, we also like for letters to be of reasonable length and prefer them to be typed. Not everyone reads handwriting as well as they should and we might translate something wrong.

Iran Claiming Gains in War

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Iran said its paratroopers and jet fighters were crushing the Iraqi invaders in the key oil port of Khorramshahr and that other Iranian troops retook Susangerd to the north. Iraq said its navy and air force kept up attacks along the 300-mile invasion front and that its ground forces were "consolidating their achievements" on the 12th day of the war.

Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said Iranian paratroopers were dropped into Khorramshahr Thursday. He said that Iranian warplanes launched attacks in support of them and that "enemy-crushing" operations were under way in the port, not far from the refinery city of Abadan at the head of the Persian Gulf in oil-rich Khuzestan province.

Bani-Sadr said Iranian troops also routed Iraqi forces from Susangerd, 100 miles to the north, that the Iraqis were in retreat toward the border and that Iranian forces captured 150 Iraqi tanks and armored personnel carriers and "large numbers of Iraqi soldiers."

This indicated Iranian forces drove a wedge into the middle of the Iraqi advance that penetrated up to 50 miles along the front in a lightning strike on Sept. 22. However, there has been no independent confirmation of any of the claims, and no reliable information on the size or disposition of the opposing forces along the battlefronts.

Nonetheless, the radio station in Ahwaz, capital of Khuzestan province 30 miles southeast of Susangerd, said "the enemy has been defeated and is making dastardly efforts in only a few places." But the broadcast conceded "a number of feudalists are giving shelter to atheist forces," meaning some ethnic Arabs in Khuzestan were aiding Iraq's Arab soldiers. Another broadcast warned Iranian Arab tribesmen they would be "condemned to death" if they helped Iraqi soldiers.

Although Iraq and Iran are Moslem nations, the Iraqis are Arabs and the Iranians are predominantly non-Arab Persians. However, Arabs form the main ethnic group in Khuzestan and they have been battling for more autonomy from the central government in Tehran ever since Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution ousted the shah 20 months ago. Iraq has seized on this restiveness and repeatedly called on its "Arab brothers" in the province to aid invading Iraqi forces.

But the call apparently hasn't been too successful, and Tehran Radio on Thursday repeated Khomeini's rejection of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's call for a four-day cease-fire beginning Sunday. "The war continues," the broadcast said. "Its objectives have been defined by Imam Khomeini. Does Saddam mean to

Schools May Need More Than Raises

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says improving the quality of public education in Texas involves a lot more than pay raises for teachers.

"There are a lot of things the people of Texas are terribly concerned about in our secondary and elementary schools that go far beyond the right of collective bargaining and 30 and 40 percent salary increases," said Clements, an outspoken opponent of collective bargaining for teachers.

At his Thursday news conference, Clements said Texans "are up in arms over the public schools." The governor charged that some teachers are more interested in pay hikes than quality education.

"The people of Texas are crying for someone to come forward and have a real sense of dedication and commitment to better quality education for our children," he said.

Clements, acknowledging that teachers do need more money, supports a pay hike package of 22 percent. However, the governor made it clear he would like to hear teacher organizations — specifically the Texas State Teachers Association — talk about other facets of education.

Clements favors competency tests for teachers and a certification process similar to the one lawyers and doctors face. He also strongly opposes "social promotions" of students.

"The people of Texas are demanding these kinds of things and I support them," he said.

Mennonites Elated Over Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mennonites who have fought for years to stay in their new homes near Seminole, Texas, reacted with tears and cries of "Praise the Lord!" after Congress finally approved a bill resolving their immigration status.

"Praise the Lord!" Mennonite leader Andrew Platt said in a telephone interview from the West Texas town. "We are grateful. It's wonderful."

Bob Clark, a former mayor of Seminole, said when he learned that the House approved the bill Thursday, he went to a Mennonite business in town to spread the news, and a woman started to cry.

"It's been a long time coming, and I feel there's a great deal of stress off these people," Clark said. "Now they can go on about their lives."

The bill was approved by the Senate last year and grants 653 Mennonites permanent resident status. President Carter now must attach his signature to the bill.

The immigrants from Mexico ran into trouble in 1977 after paying $2.6 million for 6,400 acres in arid Gaines County, not learning until later that their purchase did not make them eligible for permanent resident status.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service later suspended deportation proceedings against the Mennonites, who have been on a special temporary status pending the outcome of the legislation, introduced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

"The individuals covered by this legislation have made extraordinarily good faith efforts to comply with American law. They have in many cases invested their life savings in their journey to America and have the strong support of their neighbors in the Seminole area," Bentsen said in a statement.

The bill was introduced in the last session of Congress but bogged down in a House subcommittee before adjournment in 1978. It was reintroduced for the 96th Congress two years ago.

Disgusted Western Fan Wants Change

SIMONTON, Texas (AP) — Disgusted with quality of Hollywood's "unrealistic and bloody" Western films, Jerry Nalls is crusading to change the distorted view of the Wild West and its gun-slinging heroes.

"I don't think Westerns that Hollywood comes out with now are worth a tinker's damn," said Nalls, 44, a local pipeline equipment salesman.

To prove his point, Nalls wrote his own movie script.

To his astonishment, a Dallas film company recently purchased the option on the script and hopes to begin production in January.

"The main reason I wrote the script is because I want the public to see the West the way it really was. I'm tired of blood and guts Western films have nowadays," he said.

Nalls doesn't deny the West was violent, but believes "that violence was necessary."

"In the old movies, John Wayne played a man with limited gun-fighting abilities who often got wounded," he said. "That was a more realistic notion that stacking up the corpses like cordwood, the way they are in the new brand of Westerns where cowboys, in the likes of Clint Eastwood, are no more than killing machines."

Iran

say that he can declare war and then end it whenever he thinks fit?"

The Iranian news agency also reported that Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai met with Cuban Foreign Minister Isidoro Malmierca to discuss an attempt by President Fidel Castro to mediate the conflict. The agency reported that Rajai expressed surprise at Castro "advising us, in the face of the enemy's tanks and guns, to sit with the aggressor Saddam around the negotiating table."

Associated Press correspondent Jeffrey Ulrich reported from the Iraqi oil port of Basra, across the disputed Shatt al-Arab estuary from Abadan, that although Iraq seized hundreds of square miles of Iranian territory in the first few days of its advance, Iraqi forces had failed to capture any major city or achieve a decisive victory.

The Iraqi command said Thursday its naval units "inflicted serious damage" on Iranian military positions at Abadan, several miles from Khorramshahr, and that Iraqi MiGs attacked the Dezful area, 150 miles north of Abadan. However, it also said Iranian jets hit five Iraqi provinces, that five Iraqi civilians were wounded in air strikes on the southern Iraqi city of Amara and that two Iranian jets were shot down over Amara and Basra.

Apparently conceding its forces were suffering reverses, the Baghdad command said "unless the scale of fighting warranted, there will be only one military communique daily since Iraqi forces have achieved their main objectives and will concentrate on consolidation of their achievements." Before Thursday, the Iraqis issued a flood of communiques, including one last week claiming Iraqi forces entered Khorramshahr and were about to take the city.

The fighting thus far has centered on the two countries' oil ports and refineries on the Shatt al-Arab dividing the two Persian Gulf enemies. Heavy damage has been reported and oil exports of both countries have been cut off, reducing by about 4 million barrels a day the oil available to Western importers.

There has been concern that the war might spread and provoke a superpower confrontation in the Persian Gulf. But Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie told a news conference at the United Nations on Thursday that chances of the Iran-Iraq conflict spreading seem to have "diminished somewhat," which makes it less likely Western navies will intervene to assure oil shipments from the Persian Gulf.

Muskie also said formation by the Iranian Parliament of a seven-man commission to take up the case of the 52 U.S. hostages seized in Iran 335 days ago was "potentially a constructive step forward in that it appears to put in place an institution with authority to recommend and maybe to decide the Iranian position on return of the hostages."

Iran's Parliament approved the commission Thursday, and sources in Beirut, Lebanon, said four of the committee members were hardliners likely to oppose release of the hostages without a trial. In any event, Khomeini has said the ultimate decision on the hostages rests with the full Parliament, not the commission.

Carter Attacks Reagan's Plan

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer

President Carter says Ronald Reagan's plan to scrap the strategic arms treaty with the Soviet Union "would spell the end of any possibility" of harnessing the nuclear race between the superpowers.

Time and again, Carter attacked the Republican nominee's position on the pending SALT II treaty Thursday as yet another example of what he repeatedly has characterized as his opponent's simplistic and trigger-happy approach to global turmoil.

Reagan, meanwhile, stuck to his assault upon Carter's economic record, declaring in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin that the plight of the steel and housing industries can be resolved only by lower taxes and less government.

In Green Bay, Wis., Reagan declared that the "dream of home ownership has been shattered for millions of Americans, shattered by soaring costs, high interest rates, and gross mismanagement of the economy by the present administration."

But the president, while acknowledging in Philadelphia that "It would be obviously much better for me as a candidate...if the interest rates were going down," laid the fault elsewhere.

Carter lashed out at the Federal Reserve Board as ill-advised for paying too much attention to the money supply as the basis for regulating interest rates. "It's something I deplore very seriously," he declared.

The Fed, an independent agency, hiked one key rate a full percentage point last week. That prompted one major bank to boost its prime interest rate to 14 percent on Thursday.

Instead of a "strictly monetary approach," said Carter, the Fed ought "to look at the adverse consequences of increased rates on the general economy."

Independent challenger John B. Anderson, after a day off, resumed his campaigning in California today. Meanwhile, the Federal Election Commission gave him tentative clearance to borrow privately anywhere between $3 million and $10 million against the prospect of retroactive public funding after election day.

But Anderson got bad news, too. Two top aides quit his campaign in Florida, prompting further questions as to whether his bandwagon has run out of steam. Anderson's manager, David Garth, insisted in Washington Thursday night that he still can win. But "Do I think it is a longshot? Yes," conceded Garth.

Reagan headed for Virginia today after an overnight stop in Chicago, where he told a group of senior citizens that Carter's attempts to portray him as a threat to Social Security represent "a smokescreen to hide the fact that this president, with his high inflation and low growth policies, has done more to damage the integrity of Social Security than any president in recent history."

Carter, meanwhile, tore after Reagan in Dayton, Ohio, and well as later stops in Pennsylvania, over the SALT II issue. Reagan told The Associated Press in a recent interview that he would withdraw the treaty from Senate consideration, then build up U.S. military strength in an attempt to win more favorable concessions from the Soviets in a future arms treaty.

In Dayton, Carter said that Reagan's plan "is very serious in its consequences. If the American people get the idea, which is mistaken, that a nuclear arms race on our side is going to cause the Soviets to quit building nuclear weapons on their side, they are silly."

"There's no way we or the Soviet Union would negotiate for future arms control if both sides were madly building nuclear weapons," he declared.

In Philadelphia, Carter asserted the Reagan stand reflects a "quite profound" lack of understanding. There is "on way for our nation to embark on a nuclear arms race to try to force the Soviet Union into abandoning their commitments to escalated nuclear armament," he said. "It would spell the end of any possibility of this sustained effort that all presidents have maintained" by way of seeking mutual arms controls.

Carter said every president since Harry S. Truman supported talks with the Russians to limit nuclear arms.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale, campaigning in Texas, said SALT II "reduces the likelihood of madness in which mankind can be destroyed."

And "Every one of our Joint Chiefs of Staff supports SALT II," Mondale said. "Every one of our NATO allies supports SALT II because we are stronger with it than without it."

But Richard V. Allen, Reagan's top foreign policy adviser, said the Carter camp "deliberately distorts" Reagan's position. "Gov. Reagan will be a president of peace who believes in a principled, non-sensational approach in dealing with the Russians," he said. "President Carter's soft sell, backpedaling approach only serves to embolden Russia and her allies."

Mileage Ratio

The younger or more affluent a family is, the more it can lower its driving mileage without hardship, according to a Conference Board survey of 5,000 families. Households earning over $20,000 a year and families under 35 say they can cut back their driving by an average of 12 percent, compared with less than 10 percent for those making under $10,000 and those 55 and over.

'Texas Triangle' Expensive

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study shows the Texas Triangle, the longest of the new corridors proposed for improved passenger rail service, also would be the most expensive to implement.

The Department of Transportation's preliminary study released Thursday said capital costs for the 772.2 mile-long rail triangle between Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio would total $242.3 million.

The figure included stations, track, signals and grade crossings. The next most expensive for those capital costs would be the Chicago-Twin Cities corridor of 418 miles at $161.5 million.

The study said an additional $33 million would be needed for new equipment to operate three trains a day on the Texas Triangle, $8 million more than the second-most expensive route between New York and Buffalo, N.Y.

The Texas Triangle fell into the middle ground in a viability study on the proposed new intercity corridors, ranking eighth among the 20 corridors studied.

The rating placed the triangle well behind the four clear front-runners expected to receive most or all of the first $6 billion available for Amtrak marketing studies.

Those four are, in order, Los Angeles to San Diego, Calif., Philadelphia to Atlantic City, N.J., New York to Buffalo and Los Angeles to Las Vegas, Nev.

The final ratings of the proposed rail corridors are due by Feb. 15, but DOT spokesman William Johnston said he did not expect substantial changes between the preliminary and final lists.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, said a meeting is planned at the Texas Transportation Institute in College Station, Texas, later this month to discuss rail passenger service in the state.

"The idea is to show local support for the emerging triangle in Texas and to give Amtrak an opportunity to talk about the feasibility of it and the whole setting of priorities and how we might move up — basically to generate interest on both ends," the congressman from College Station said.

State commitment was one factor used to determine the ratings. The Texas Triangle would move to sixth place, ahead of Chicago to Detroit and San Jose, Calif., to Reno, Nev., if that factor had been excluded.

Tom Gillespie of Amtrak said the $6 million available would be used for the corridors ranked highest on the preliminary list.

He said it was hoped there would be enough available to get as far down the list as the Texas Triangle.

Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., whose House subcommittee received the report, said he expected there would be a continuing scramble for funds to develop the new rail routes.

"Obviously, the politics of the thing is that everyone thinks his corridor is the best," he said. "But what we want to know is which ones give us the most for the bucks, and then we'll fight for the money to develop them."

Congress earlier this year authorized funds to study the proposed new corridors, but a separate action would be required to proceed with their actual development.

Ray: Garwood's Vote Conflict of Interest

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Supreme Court candidate C.L. Ray says there is no doubt in his mind that Justice Will Garwood's deciding vote in a recent Houston bank case was a conflict of interest.

Ray, a Democrat on the Texarkana Court of Civil Appeals, opposes the Republican Garwood in the Nov. 4 general election.

The former House member asserts Garwood should sell his corporate stocks — worth more than $100 million, according to Ray — or get out of the race.

Garwood calls Ray's allegations "phony accusations."

He says he has stock investments going back a number of years and has reported them on his financial disclosure statement.

He says he excuses himself "in any case in which there might be the remotest possibility of a conflict of interest."

"In at least one important case he did not do that," Ray told a news conference Thursday.

Ray said in Riverside National Bank vs. James Lewis, the Supreme Court ruled, 5-4, that banks were not covered by the state Deceptive Trade Practices Act, and Garwood was the "swing vote."

"In the case, he ruled in favor of every bank in the state while holding more than 1,000 shares of bank stock," said Ray. "There is no question that he had a conflict of interest in this case."

The Supreme Court heard the case in March 1979. Ray said with one vacancy on the court, justices were split, 4-4, which would have allowed the civil appeals court ruling to stand.

The 1st Court of Civil Appeals in Houston had agreed with the trial court that the bank was covered by the Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

After Gov. Bill Clements appointed Garwood to the court in November 1979, the court again heard arguments in the case in May and issued its 5-4 decision June 18.

"I'm not criticizing the ruling because I have not studied the case," said Ray. "I am criticizing Garwood's decision to take part in this case since it clearly affected the banks in which he owned stocks."

"If Garwood will rule in favor of banks in which he has only a few thousand shares of stock, what should we expect from him when he decides on cases involving oil companies, since he owns over 14,000 shares of oil company stock," said Ray.

Ray said he had sold all his stocks and bonds at a loss of $25,000 before he became an appeals judge in 1971 "so I wouldn't have exactly the same kind of problem my opponent has."

Investigator Shot in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Eyewitnesses to the fatal shooting of a Houston robbery investigator got the license number of a taxi cab and followed it as it sped from the scene of the slaying, authorities said.

The investigator, 33-year-old Victor Ray Wells, was shot once as he talked to a cab driver on this city's east side about 10 p.m. Thursday. He died shortly before midnight at Ben Taub Hospital, police said.

Homicide Lt. Larry Earls said a man was taken into custody shortly after the shooting, but he declined to release specific information about the suspect. He said eyewitnesses would view a lineup today.

Witnesses told police Wells' unmarked police car was parked behind a cab and the detective was standing by the driver's door talking to the driver when the shooting occurred.

A young girl told police she heard the cab driver as he "yelled something at the police officer, but we didn't know what it was. Then we heard the shot and the policeman went down."

Witnesses said the cab sped from the scene after the shooting and one witness followed until the taxi was intercepted by a patrol car, Earls said.

"I got the license number and that's what I was looking for," said the girl, who asked to remain anonymous.

The number and a description of the cab were given to patrol officers, who later took the man into custody, Earls said.

Wells was shot in the same neighborhood where three of the last four officers killed in the line of duty were slain.

Fellow robbery detectives said Wells was shot in his district and was investigating several cases Thursday night. He had been in the robbery division for six months, Earls said.

"I'm not criticizing the ruling because I have not studied the case," said Ray. "I am criticizing Garwood's decision to take part in this case since it clearly affected the banks in which he owned stocks."

"If Garwood will rule in favor of banks in which he has only a few thousand shares of stock, what should we expect from him when he decides on cases involving oil companies, since he owns over 14,000 shares of oil company stock," said Ray.

Ray said he had sold all his stocks and bonds at a loss of $25,000 before he became an appeals judge in 1971 "so I wouldn't have exactly the same kind of problem my opponent has."

Gas Discoveries In Texas Increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas operators reported 56 gas discoveries and 32 oil discoveries during the last half of September, the Railroad Commission reported Thursday.

Through the first nine months of 1980, the commission said, operators have reported 1,097 gas discoveries and 548 oil discoveries. This is an increase of 202 gas discoveries and 186 oil discoveries from the first nine months of last year.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Friend:
If the Swiss can, we can, too!

The people of Switzerland claim that they are the best in the world in recycling bottles, paper, aluminum, and clothing! Their electric companies, bottle and can factories say that up to half the cost of making the bottles and cans is saved by people recycling them. They even have separate containers in their alleys to put "throwaway" clear, green, and brown bottles! Their highway authorities say that thousands of dollars in taxes are saved by the people who use the streets and highways keeping them clean. There are less flies and other insects.

Sure, it's an effort to wait to put drink cups in the trash at home or at school. For the moment, it's "easier" to throw the bottle, can, or wrapper, or cup out the window, or drop it on the ground. The trouble is, it doesn't go away...except to your yard, or street. How good if the litter would be blown to those who throw it! Isn't there a lack of teaching neatness, starting in the home?

The Southland Company, owner of 7-11 stores, has written that in the future they will have their cup and other paper suppliers print an encouragement to put their paper bags, cups, etc., in the trash...in the car, or at home, rather than in the streets and parking lots.

Other fast food stores and convenience stores can help. Doesn't it finally take each of us to be an example: at home, school, football games, parks, church, etc.

Let's make the places we use cleaner than we found them. In some cities, people are almost smothering in their own trash. THEY COULD GATHER AND HAUL IT OFF.

LET'S MAKE HEREFORD'S STREETS, YARDS, AND PARKING LOTS THE CLEANEST IN THE PANHANDLE. TEXAS, US...AND AS CLEAN AS SWITZERLAND!
ED BROWN, CITIZEN

Texas Sales Reported At $60.9 Billion

Gross sales in Texas during the first quarter of the year totaled $60.9 billion, it was reported this week by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

He said first quarter sales this year passed 1979 by $12.4 billion. The tax analysis for January, February and March showed that 250,681 outlets reported gross sales.

Deaf Smith County gross sales were reported at $57,756,397. The total was from 370 reporting outlets.

Ann Landers

Straight Off the Streets

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just came back from my brother's funeral. He was 15.

Maybe I should tell you about myself. I was a pre-med student who started running with the wrong crowd. I foolishly began to experiment with drugs. Within two months I had to drop out of school. I couldn't get out of bed in the morning and I was unable to concentrate on my studies.

I have shot everything shootable, smoked everything I could get my hands on and have done about everything imaginable to get high. But there is one thing I know enough about to stay away from. It's PCP, or "angel dust." This is no lab report, Ann, you are getting it straight off the street. I am begging you to tell every kid who values his life to steer clear of the stuff. It's a killer. It makes you do dumb things that you might not be alive the next day to regret.--Call Me Experienced

DEAR EXPERIENCED: I'm sorry about your brother. But he's gone. Now--what about you? When are you going to kick the drug scene and get back in school? I want to hear from you right away--telling me you got the message and are getting your head together. I mean business. A mind is a terrible thing to waste.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that school has started again I have something to say that is worthy of being posted on the nation's most effective bulletin board. I am referring to your column. In all the years I have been reading you, I do not recall anything on this subject.

Please, parents, do not allow your child to hand out party invitations in the classroom unless there is an invitation for each child!

As a former teacher, I will never forget the sad little face of a third-grader as she waited expectantly for her invitation, only to discover there wasn't one. Believe me, it was devastating.

And now, from a mother's point of view: The only time my child ever came home from school in tears was the day she was excluded in this manner.

Take my word for it, mothers, it is well worth the price of the postage to mail those invitations in order to spare the feelings of those children who are left out.--Seen It All In Sharon, Pa.

DEAR SHARON: I saw it in Sioux City, Iowa. Thank you for writing a letter that could save a lot of needless heartache.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Mom is 87 and had a heart attack two weeks ago. Her chances for surviving this one (her third) are slim. Now the question:

Dad died in 1945. He was buried in the family plot. Mom selected a double headstone and said she wanted to be buried next to him when her time came. The family name is Smith (made up, of course). The headstone says Smith--with Dad's name (John) on one side and a place for Mom's name on the other.

In 1950 Mom married Mr. Jones. He passed away five years later and was laid to rest in the family mausoleum.

In 1968, Mom married Mr. J. Doe. He died in 1976 and was buried next to his wife, with whom he had nine children.

We want to know what name should appear on Mom's headstone? Wouldn't it look odd to have them together with different last names?--Pittsburgh Clan

DEAR CLAN: I agree. Under your mother's name, put Mary Smith Doe.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (28 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11996, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Aggie Mothers' Club Prepare for Bonfire

During a regular meeting of the Hereford Aggie Mothers Club, members discussed homemade cookies for the workers preparing the famed Aggie Bonfire. Members meet in the home of the club's President, Char-mayne Klett.

Students will commence collecting wood for the bonfire later this month and continue working on it till Nov. 25, the date set for the burning of "the world's largest bonfire."

Vondell Plummer, one of the club's newest members will serve as chairman of the Moms participation in this project.

A salad luncheon preceded the meeting and renewing acquaintances and welcoming the new members concluded the luncheon.

Members present were Betty Jean Gallagher, Nancy Skaggs, Margie Ford, Linda Hicks, Opal Walterscheid, Joan Ellis, Patty Atchley, and Margaret Ann Durham. Hostesses were executive members Helen Eades, Opal Blakely, Merle Clark, Mary Lyles, Pat Clark, Katie Wright, Teresa Artho, Barbara Hardin and Betty Koelzer.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

BY SUE COLEMAN

October has always been my favorite month. Most West Texas people agree that it is usually our finest month of the year, after the wilting heat of summer, before the nip of winter and minus the dusty winds that often spoil our springtime.

That word "usually" must be inserted because all West Texans know there is nothing certain about our weather and I know better than to brag on a month yet to come. It's possible for it to be too hot, too cold and too dusty before November gets here.

After the summer just past, with the heat that kept hanging on into fall and gave us a 90-degree day for the end of September, I'm more than usually ready to celebrate October. Maybe with waving of banners, dancing in the streets, speech making and band music.

It might be better to settle for observing Cleanup Week, now that it is cool enough to get out and do that work that has been put off all summer because it was too hot.

Our nice rains last week added to the reasons for a cleanup, as they gave the weeds another lease on life. A look at vacant lots, curb and alleys in most any part of town will convince anyone that we need a cleanup of junk and trash as well as weeds.

The special week beginning Monday calls our attention to the problem, and if we solve it our city could have a fresh, beautiful appearance to go with our fresh, beautiful taste of fall.

Getting ready to move is no easy task at any time, and Louella Cowsert says it is certainly a chore after living in the same place 31 years. She and Ray will move after Oct. 20 into the house on Westhaven which has been the Tom Hamletts' home.

They have been in the residence at 1101 Grand so long that they have accumulated a lot of things that need to be thrown away, but deciding what to discard is difficult, Louella says.

She has picked out the room at the new place where she will pursue her painting hobby. The moving process has interrupted that temporarily, but she already has some paintings that she will enter in the Art Guild's show and sale Oct. 25.

An automobile collision that threw her into the windshield caused painful, though not serious, head injuries for Mary Williamson just after she had attended interment services for her mother, Marla Ruffe, last weekend.

She was a passenger in the front seat of a rental car driven by her brother when it was involved in the collision that sent them both to the hospital. Both were treated and discharged. They had gone to Grand Rapids, Mich. where Mrs. Ruffe, a resident of Sun City, Ariz., was buried.

The accident convinced Mary that she should fasten seat belts, she said. Her brother was using one, and his head didn't strike the windshield.

Nutrition in a Bag

Dairy Council, Inc. home economists have some great lunch bag tips to share with you. For those of us who find it hard to find time each day to get lunches made for the family, most sandwich fillings can be frozen. The making and freezing of quantities of sandwiches in advance will not only save time but provide a variety from which to choose.

Frozen sandwiches will stay cool for an hour or two depending on the temperature and container. Freezing raw vegetables and some spreads, such as mayonnaise and salad dressing, will affect both taste and texture; omit these from your sandwiches until lunches are being packed in the morning. Be sure to wrap sandwiches tightly when storing, as the refrigerator and freezer sections tend to cause bread to dry out.

If lunches are packed in metal or plastic lunch boxes, frozen "Blue Ice" can be used to keep foods cooler 2-3 times longer than ice. This product can be re-frozen and re-used daily. When used properly, it will keep the container cool enough to send milk in half pints rather than in a thermos, which saves dishwashing.

-Use butter in place of mayonnaise or salad dressing. It's a safer spread in warm weather and can be frozen for sandwiches that are assembled in advance.

-An occasional hot item can offer a pleasant change of routine. Foods such as beef stew, spaghetti with meatballs, or chili can be sent in a thermos with a wide mouth. Pouring hot water in the thermos before adding hot foods will help maintain the desired temperature.

-Remember that fresh fruit is usually as convenient and definitely more nutritious than chips and prepackaged pies for lunch. Think about occasionally using dried fruits, too, such as raisins, apricots, dates.

-Be creative with leftovers. Cold items such as fried chicken, hamburger on a bun, cooked pork chop, or meatloaf on a french bun can be a nice change from luncheon meats.

-Grated cheese, chopped cucumber or creamed cheese and fresh sprouts, or olives can be just the imaginative touch to an otherwise dull sandwich.

-Instead of milk, you might send juice, but be sure to include a milk food such as cheese, cottage cheese or flavored yogurt along with the lunch.

-If chips are a must, pack your own in sandwich bags. It is cheaper than purchasing the prepackaged ones.

-Try to feature one special item in each lunch, such as a flavored milk, peanut butter stuffed celery sticks, a taco, or a really unique Pocket Pita sandwich.

Retired Driller Recalls Oil Boom

KILGORE, Texas (AP) — In 1930, Blackie Harris was single, broke and out of a job. Mired in the Depression, Harris heard wondrous stories about the booming oil fields in East Texas.

Setting his cap on the coal-black hair that earned him his nick-name, Blackie packed up and left Smackover, Ark., to seek his fortune here in "Dad" Joiner's booming new oil field.

"The Depression was hitting pretty hard about then, so Magnolia (Petroleum) laid off its single boys so the men with families could keep their jobs," Harris recalled recently. "The reason we came down here was because we heard about that good money. Four dollars a day don't sound like much now, but back then it was pretty good."

"Me and another fellow slept in the (Rusk County) courthouse for three nights," Harris said. "Then we found a lady who let us sleep in her barn till we found a place to stay."

"My first paycheck was $80. I salted it down and kept it, and I hadn't been broke since. That taught me a lesson."

Harris, now 77, retired years ago from the back-breaking oil field drilling that lured him here. But he came out of retirement recently to help ready the East Texas Oil Museum on the Kilgore Junior College campus here.

The museum opens today, on the 50th anniversary of "Dad" Joiner's gusher — the well that ignited a frenzy of drilling and eased the Depression for thousands in this area.

Joiner, a 70-year-old wildcatter, and Doc Lloyd founded the field Oct. 4, 1930. In the years that followed, hundreds of farmers made it rich when oil was discovered on their lands.

Joiner's well was discovered between Turnerton and Joinerville on land previously condemned by geologists from the major oil companies. The discovery sparked one of the biggest leasing campaigns in Texas' history and the field soon spread north past Longview and Kilgore.

Scores of elaborate county courthouses and school buildings erected during the era still stand in many small towns across East Texas — a testament to the frantic, exciting era.

But the abundance of oil soon glutted an infant market, and the price of oil dropped drastically. Private companies attempted to pro-rate prices, but without success.

On Aug. 17, 1931, less than a year after Joiner's discovery, Gov. Ross S. Sterling ordered the National Guard onto the field and placed it under martial law.

The entire field shut down until the Texas Legislature enacted legal proration, a system that continues today under the Texas Railroad Commission.

For a time, the field was the largest in the world, carrying the Allied Forces through World War II. A major salt water injection program started in 1942, extending the life of the field, which has produced more than 4.5 billion barrels of oil in half a century.

The museum re-creates East Texas during the field's hey day using thousands of artifacts from more than 700 donors across the state.

Inside the structure, muddy street scenes are recreated, complete with mules, wagons, trucks, people and a gasoline pump marked 18 cents per gallon.

The facade of the museum includes a looming 77-foot wooden derrick, part of an authentic steam-driven drilling rig.

Harris' job lately has been supervising the set-up, making sure "these young fellas" reconstruct the old days just right.

"One of 'em came up to me the other day and asked me what kind of pump this is," he said, pointing his cane toward a large black piece of machinery. "I just looked at him for a few minutes, tryin' not to laugh and said, 'Son, that's not a pump. It's an engine.'"

"I didn't want to laugh because he just plain didn't know any better," Harris said. "There's a lot of things I done forgot because I don't think like I used to. But the museum has kinda peped me up and sharpened me up a little bit. It really brings back memories."

For Harris, those memories start in Smackover, Ark., in 1925, when he hired on with Magnolia Petroleum (now Mobil Oil Co.).

"My first job was firing boilers back when they used mules and wagons to haul stuff. But after a while, I got to be a driller. He was the guy who turned the rotary and drilled," he recalled with a burst of laughter.

"That's why the roughnecks called us swivel necks."

The oil field gang was a rough, crusty group, Harris said, always decked in Witch Elk boots, Stetsons and Tough Nut gloves.

"They was all the time fightin' and gettin' drunk at the local barrel houses (taverns)."

But decades of that hard life took its toll on Harris and the others.

"My hair used to be real black, but look at it now," he said, removing his cap to reveal a shock of snow-white hair. "I don't want to get back to the old days. That would be too much hard work."

"I'm ready to take it easy for a while."

The Newspaper Bible

LIVING RIGHT AND LOVING IT

Don't you understand yet, dear Jewish brothers in Christ, that when a person dies the law no longer holds him in its power?

Let me illustrate: when a woman marries, the law binds her to her husband as long as he is alive. But if he dies, she is no longer bound to him; the laws of marriage no longer apply to her.

Then she can marry someone else if she wants to. That would be wrong while he was alive, but it is perfectly all right after he dies.

Your "husband," your master, used to be the Jewish law; but you "died," as it were, with Christ on the cross; and since you are "dead," you are no longer "married to the law," and it has no more control over you. Then you came back to life again when Christ died, and are a new person. And now you are "married," so to speak, to the one who rose from the dead, so that you can produce good fruit, that is, good deeds for God.

When your old nature was still active, sinful desires were at work within you, making you want to do whatever God said not to, and producing sinful deeds, the rotting fruit of death.

But now you need no longer worry about the Jewish laws and customs because you "died" while in their captivity, and now you can really serve God; not in the old way, mechanically obeying a set of rules, but in the new way, (with all of your hearts and minds).

Reeve in Another Supernatural

Associated Press HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Between "Superman" and "Superman II," Christopher Reeve has sandwiched another film of the supernatural, but it's nothing similar. No oversized adventure is "Somewhere in Time." The new Universal Pictures release is a gentle fantasy about a young 1980 playwright (Reeve) who transports himself back to 1912 for a star-crossed romance with a stage actress, gorgeously played by London-born Jane Seymour.

"It's a fragile kind of subject for 1980," Reeve admits. "But it attracted the interest of Richard Dreyfuss and Dustin Hoffman. Fortunately for me, they thought about it too long. I swooped right in there and claimed it."

"Somewhere in Time" also is a departure for Jeannot Szwarc, a veteran TV director whose feature debut was "Jaws II." He also had a need for something different and found it in Richard Matheson's novel, "Bid Time Return." Matheson, who also wrote the script, originated the tale while musing over what happened to Maude Adams ("Peter Pan") in 1896 to change her entire life and career.

Reeve, 27, commented that "cinics will have a hard time with 'Somewhere in Time.' I think it may have appeal to the thinking audience, those who are not going to the movies because of the kind of material they're getting. It's not like 'The Blues Brothers' with all those car wrecks for so-called mass appeal."

"It's a longshot. The movie itself is 'out of time.' I could see it more as a movie of the 1930s or 1940s, like 'Portrait of Jenny' or 'It's a Wonderful Life' or 'Berkeley Square.'"

An actor who takes his profession seriously — he spent his summer in "The Cherry Orchard" and "The Front Page" at the Williamstown, Mass., theater — he makes no excuses for playing Superman. He liked the original, and he believes "Superman II," scheduled for release next June, will be better.

"I've been raised with the basic teaching that you should marry someone who honors you and respects you and believes in you," Miss Tucker said. "A lot of people in this business haven't got their feet on the ground, but Glen has the same ideas about life that I do."

"At first I didn't want to get involved with anyone in this business because we'd be too much alike. But for outside interests I have my horses and he has his golf."

The age difference means little to either one.

"If she dies, she dies," Campbell said, laughing. Turning serious, he said, "In my prayer, I said I don't care if she is 15, 40 or 60."

Said Miss Tucker, "I don't think about it, but I guess others do. I've never been attracted to men my own age."

The two plan to record an album together. They already sing together on two songs on her current album, "Dream Lovers."

Glen Campbell, Tanya Plan Future Together

By JOE EDWARDS Associated Press NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — As Glen Campbell recalls it, he said a little prayer that he'd be happy again. Soon thereafter, Tanya Tucker and her mother showed up with potato soup for him. That's the way the romance began for country boy Campbell, 44, who has been married three times, and the fetching Miss Tucker, 21. The two singers plan to marry next year, probably in Los Angeles, to climax one of the most highly publicized romances in the entertainment business.

"I said a prayer because things in my life were tearin' me up," the bearded Campbell said in an interview with Miss Tucker beside him. "I wanted to go with someone in this business so she'd understand where I'm at. Pretty soon, Tanya called, and she and her mother brought me some potato soup. That lifted my spirits."

They began dating seriously in March, and it didn't take a Wichita lineman to send the message through. He proposed Aug. 14.

Miss Tucker, who first met Campbell 1972 when she was 13, said she never expected romance to blossom so suddenly.

"I figured I'd get married at about age 26, then wait a few years to have kids," said Miss Tucker, whose records have returned to the country music mold recently after a brief fling with rock 'n' roll and a sextup image. "But this worked out differently. I always figured I'd find someone to marry, but not this quickly."

"I've been raised with the basic teaching that you should marry someone who honors you and respects you and believes in you," Miss Tucker said. "A lot of people in this business haven't got their feet on the ground, but Glen has the same ideas about life that I do."

"At first I didn't want to get involved with anyone in this business because we'd be too much alike. But for outside interests I have my horses and he has his golf."

New Book Out Shows Backstage 'Tonight'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is the greatest job in the world — if your liver can take it, says Craig Tennes of his eight years with the "Tonight" show.

Tennis, who was responsible for selecting and booking the show's guests, provides the first insider's look at Johnny Carson and the "Tonight" show.

It's an amusing and revealing book, although it offers no new insights on Carson, who carefully guards his private life.

Carson celebrated his 18th year as host of the late-night NBC show this past week. The show has been trimmed from 90 minutes to an hour under his new contract with NBC.

Tennis' paperback book, "Johnny Tonight," appears at the same time as another look at the show, "The Tonight Show," by Robert Metz.

Tennis quit the "Tonight" show in 1977 to try his hand at writing and producing. "I worked on a lot of shows that should send me back to local television in Iowa," he said.

"I worked on the Emmys a year ago, I produced the pilot for 'The Dave Letterman Show,' I produced a couple of 'Battle of the Network Stars,' and I wrote for quite a few bad shows, like 'The Susan Anton Show.'"

He described his tenure at the "Tonight" show as the "kind of job where I never missed a day of work. Even if I knew the day was going to be hell something would happen to justify all that heat."

Three days after joining the show, he was taken backstage to meet Carson. Carson told him, "Welcome to Murder Inc., kid." He didn't see him again for a month.

"The job was a lovely trap," Tennis said. "One of those jobs you could stay with all your life. You're constantly dealing with newsmakers and celebrities. It's a terrific lifestyle — as long as you have a liver the size of Maine."

He decided to leave after asking the producer for a raise. "He said the only way he could give me a raise was if he gave me a promotion," Tennis said. "He said, 'The only way I can give you a promotion is if I fire myself and I'm not in the mood today.' It got to be one of those things where you wonder if you're going to die at 90 interviewing Tony Randall."

"I know I will miss the show until Johnny finally leaves. I'm suffering from some kind of video withdrawal. It was a hectic pace. You finally realized you're jaded when you start saying, 'Tell Bob Hope I'll get back to him,' and, 'Put Barbara Streisand on hold.'"

Wrong Number Alarms Fireman

MCPHERSON, Kan. (AP) — Fire Chief Larry Bruzda is alarmed that one of the department's new telephone listings will, in a manner of speaking, produce more smoke than fire.

The new phone book has not been distributed yet, but Bruzda says one of the listings gives the department's emergency number as a regular administrative number.

A ring on the emergency phone triggers buzzers in the department and starts firefighters scrambling for their equipment. If firefighters become accustomed to false alarms on the emergency line, Bruzda said, their reaction time on real emergencies could suffer.

Alabama County Ready For Nuclear Attack

WETUMPKA, Ala. (AP) — The Elmore County Commission isn't taking any chances. If the Soviets decide to launch a nuclear attack, officials here are ready.

The commission adopted a resolution this week creating a line of succession for county government officials in the event the probate judge — the county's chief executive officer — is killed during a Soviet attack.

Probate Judge Ed Enslin told the commission that county Civil Defense Director Billy Moore asked for a resolution to spell out who would be in charge of the county "in case the Russians drop a bomb" and the probate judge was killed.

Under the resolution, District Judge Edward Sanford would take over if Enslin dies in a nuclear strike or any other national disaster.

Courtroom Visit Ends In Jail

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Tucson man named in an outstanding warrant on charges of failing to appear in court has been arrested, police say — in a courtroom. Officer Robert Lehner was in City Court waiting to testify in a case when he saw a spectator he recognized. He said the man was Michael Parr, 20, whom Lehner remembered arresting once previously.

Drummer Leaves 'Kiss' To Start His Own Band

By YARDENA ARAR Associated Press Writer BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — It's actually a rather ordinary 33-year-old face, with friendly eyes and a few wrinkles. But the infectious, almost incessant grin is proof positive that Peter Criss couldn't be happier to display it.

For most of the last decade, as drummer for that heavy-metal rock phenomenon Kiss, Criss has been incognito without the black-and-white paint that made him look more like a child masquerading as a cat on Halloween night than a flesh-and-blood musician.

Now Criss has left the band to start his own group, and the masquerade is about to end.

People magazine has dubs on the first full-face photos of Criss without Kiss's signature makeup — not to mention the elaborate feather, leather and glitter costumes — and audiences nationwide will get to see him on stage in a concert tour later this fall.

His debut solo album, "Out of Control," has just been released. As if to emphasize his new-found freedom, he wears a Frank Sinatra T-shirt to an interview in a Beverly Hills hotel. And his mood — even after a long day of many interviews — can only be described as euphoric.

"Everything's happening to me all at once, and it's all so exciting," he bubbles. "I don't believe my luck, because I've had such rough luck in my time."

Rough luck? The words seem incongruous coming from a member of a band that has sold some 40 million albums, made fortunes on sales of T-shirts and an assortment of Kiss hardware, and at one point was named the nation's top rock band in Gallup polls for three consecutive years.

But somewhere along the line, wrecking cars and hotel rooms stopped being fun for the Brooklyn drummer who was recruited to the band after he placed an ad in Rolling Stone magazine.

"I was thinking about it for three years, about splitting," says Criss.

The reason was, quite simply, that he felt the band didn't play enough of his songs. And in view of the fact that one of his tunes Kiss did play, "Beth," was a No. 1 record that won a People's Choice award, Criss's complaint sounds reasonable.

Criss doesn't dwell on it, but he admits he enjoys getting a taste of the attention that — when he was in Kiss — seemed to be focused on other band members.

Criss says his good luck has extended to his personal life. His wife is pregnant with their first child, and he's moving from New York's East Side to a 200-year-old, 22-room home in Connecticut.

NL Crowns On Line at Los Angeles, Montreal

Astros Close to Division Title

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The National League playoffs are supposed to start next Tuesday, but essentially they begin tonight in Montreal and Los Angeles.

The schedule often has top contenders for division titles meeting for the last time long before the end of the season — witness Baltimore and the New York Yankees this year. However, the luck of the draw for the last three days of the NL season has the only division hopefuls playing each other.

Montreal and Philadelphia, which beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 Thursday night, are in a tie for first in the East, and the Expos play host to the Phillies for a three-game series starting tonight. It's strictly best-of-three, winner-take-all.

It's not so close in the West Division, where the Dodgers' only advantage in their season-ending three-game series with Houston is the home field, since the Astros lead by three games in the standings. If the Dodgers can capture all three games, they also would have to win for a fourth time in a one-game playoff on Monday afternoon, also at Dodger Stadium.

The Astros, who have no division or league titles in their 19-year history, beat the Atlanta Braves 3-2 and the Dodgers lost by the same score to the San Francisco Giants Thursday night. There were no other NL games.

Phillies Manager Dallas Green admitted his team has a tough task to win two-of-three from the Expos in Montreal, but felt confident they could do it.

Some dissension has surfaced among the Phillies this week after Green benched veterans like Garry Maddox, Greg Luzinski and Bob Boone.

The rookie replacement for Boone, catcher Keith Moreland, had a key run-scoring single in the seventh inning to give the Phillies a 2-1 lead over Chicago. Mike Schmidt had his 46th homer for their first run and they got two more in the eighth on a hit by Pete Rose, a three-base error and a single by Greg Gross.

Bob Walk, 11-7, was replaced in the eighth by Tug McGraw, who earned his 19th save although he gave up a run in the ninth.

Giants 3, Dodgers 2

"We have to win four in a row now," said Dodgers Manager Tom Lasorda after Darrell Evans' two-run single in the bottom of the eighth inning gave San Francisco a victory over Los Angeles.

"But if we win the first one, we have a chance to win the second," added the Dodgers skipper.

Evans' hit, a blooper to short right field off reliever Steve Howe, made a loser of Dave Goltz, 7-10, who started the eighth inning with a five-hitter, gave up two more hits and left with two outs when he developed leg cramps.

Astros 3, Braves 2
Gary Woods hit a solo homer and Joe Morgan a two-run single in Houston's three-run fourth inning that was enough to beat Atlanta.

Joe Niekro, who pitched a six-hitter for 82-3 innings before getting last-out relief help from Frank LaCorte, won his 19th game in 31 decisions.

Shorthorns Riddle Friona, 29-6

The Hereford Shorthorns, coming off their first loss of the season last week to the Levelland Lobos, returned to the winning ranks here Thursday after delivering a 29-6 spanking to the Friona Chieftans. The win boosted the squad's mark on the year to 4-1.

And it was a victory that was never in question as the squad took a sizeable 16-0 advantage into the lockerroom at intermission.

Runningback Issac Gamboa scored his first of two touchdowns in the affair early in first quarter play from two yards out, following an HHS drive that began on the Friona 35-yard line (the Friona team had fumbled). Quarterback Glenn Phibbs kicked the extra point to give the Whitefaces a 7-0 lead.

A pass interception by Brian Taylor set up the next Hereford score in the second period. Danny Villovoos capped a 40 yard scoring drive late in the quarter as he took the ball in for six points from three yards out. Phibbs made his second PAT shot good and the Whitefaces extended their lead to 14-0.

The Herd then capitalized on a safety before the end of first half play for a 16-0 advantage. In the third quarter, Gamboa drove in for another HHS score from the 1-yard line to complete a 70 yard scoring thrust. Phibbs missed the PAT opportunity and the Herd led 22-0.

The HHS team, like their efforts throughout the first three quarters of play, had little trouble pushing the Friona team around in the final period as Robert Abalos scored from one yard out to give the Herd a 28 point lead. Phibbs kicked the PAT through the uprights to cap a 35-yard drive and a massacre.

The Whitefaces missed their fourth shutout of the year by meek seconds after Friona, looking the get on the board by any means, dropped a 70-yard pass play behind the HHS secondary for its only score of the evening and a 29-6 drilling.

Rizzo Wants Medalist Spot

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — There are no individual titles awarded in the Women's World Amateur Team Golf Championship.

Some women, however, would like to be the medalist among the 83 competitors here.

In fact, Patti Rizzo, a mainstay of the United States team, says there should be a trophy for the individual low scorer in the event which has brought together teams from 28 nations.

"I think the single competition is significant, even though we want the team to win. And I believe we will win," said Rizzo who has shot 73-70 going into today's third round for low score honors with a 143.

"If you can be the medalist in this competition, you are the best player in the world."

HHS Girls Lose Loop Opener

Hereford's volleyball team opened District 4-5A play here Thursday night against defending champion Lubbock Coronado and came out on the short end of 15-4, 15-10 scores.

It was the first district match for both teams. Hereford's spikers are now 1-16 on the season. Hereford travels to Lubbock High for another district contest Monday night.

Lubbock High opened district action last night with a close win over Plainview-15-10, 10-15, 11-9.

In junior varsity action last night, Hereford lost a close struggle with the visitors-16-14, 16-18, 13-10.

Following a late fourth quarter Caprock scoring spree which left Hereford trailing by a one point margin with less than two minutes remaining in the clash, the HHS team drove the ball down to CHS's 40 yard line where Rudy Hernandez pulled down a Shannon Richey pass for a last minute winning score.

That TD drive mounted by the Hereford team was only one of several ground out through the affair however, as the squad vaulted its way into the topsy-turvy game in the first quarter on runningback Alfred Ball's 60-yard TD run to put Hereford out front by a slim one-point 7-6 advantage. Caprock had edged its way onto the scoreboard first on a 50-yard pass play, but had missed the PAT attempt.

Caprock took the lead again in the second quarter after scoring on an 8-yard run in the waning segments of play in that period.

But much like the whole one-up conflict, the Herd bounced back to regain its second lead of the affair in the third quarter.

HHS runningback Arnold Villegas slipped past Caprock defenders for a 60-yard scoring frolic, but Hereford place kicker Rod Simon failed in his PAT to even the battle at 13-13.

The Amarillo team, not to be outdone, scored its final tally in the fourth stanza before Hereford stole the victory in the waning seconds of play.

The unbeaten squad is scheduled to pair off against Amarillo High here next Thursday.

Junior Varsity Beats Caprock for 5th Victory

The West Texas State Buffaloes, having faced four non conference opponents, will open defense of its Missouri Valley Conference title Saturday as they play host to New Mexico State University at 2 p.m. in Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

The NMSU Aggies and Buffaloes will enter the contest with identical 2-2 overall records. However, NMSU has one conference game under its belt, and 18-17 come-from-behind victory over Southern Illinois. The New Mexico squad's other victory was over archrival Texas-El Paso while they have suffered defeats at the hands of Southwest Louisiana and the University of New Mexico.

West Texas has sandwiched two defeats with a pair of victories after losing a heartbreaker in their opener with McNeese State, then rose to the occasion to upset Oklahoma State, fell to Baylor, and in their most recent contest — derailed Southwest Texas State 21-13.

The Buffs, playing on a rain-soaked field that had been played on the night before with Hereford meeting Canyon, totaled 426 offensive yards, 258 yards on the ground and 168 in the air. Jackie Compton, for the third time this season, rushed for over 100 yards. He totaled 101 yards on 14 carries including a 35-yard TD scamper in the first quarter. Danny Clark, the Buff's leading ground gainer in '79 (681 yards), turned in his best performance of the 1980 campaign with 89 yards on 20 carries. He also caught a 6-yard touchdown pass.

Quarterback Matt Patterson was on target again completing 12 of 24 passes for 168 yards and two touchdowns. Defensively, Southwest Texas State was held to only 230 yards offensively while the WT secondary picked off three passes. The Buffs also held firm on a crucial 2-point conversion attempt by the Bobcats which would have given them a one point lead in the affair.

La Plata's gridders couldn't get their offenses cranked up and lost two games here Thursday to the Clovis Marshall.

The 9th grade Mavericks rallied from a 16-0 deficit on two touchdown runs by Robbie Snyder but still came up short, 16-14.

The 9th grader's defense was tough, but Clovis scored on a 74-yard opening-kickoff return and a safety. Snyder scored on an 18-yard run in the final quarter, then scrambled 55 yards for the other touchdown.

Snyder chalked up 99 yards rushing for La Plata, while Augustine Castillo and Mark Soliz contributed 26 and 25 yards rushing offense. The Mavs now have a 1-1-1 record. They play at Plainview next Thursday.

The La Plata 8th grade team was shutout by Clovis, 18-0. The Marshall team scored on a blocked punt and also had a safety in this contest.

Larry Jimenez led the Mavs offense with 66 yards on 12 trips with the ball. Randy Stribling was next with 33 yards on 9 carries. Jimenez, Robert Martinez and Bradley Cloud were offensive and defensive standouts.

The 8th grade, with a 1-2 record, also travels to Plainview next Thursday, while the 7th grade has an open date.

Young, Whitworth Favored In Tourney

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Donna Caponi Young and Kathy Whitworth are among the favorites in the Ladies Professional Golfers Association PING team championships beginning today, and with good reason.

This is the fourth year of the tournament. In the first tournament, Young and Whitworth placed third. Two years ago, they won it. Last year, they were fifth.

Why are they so successful?

"We're pretty good golfers," Young said in an obvious understatement.

Combined, Young and Whitworth have won 99 LPGA tournaments in 36 years on the LPGA tour. Their career earnings exceed $1.6 million and they certainly aren't in dire need of the $10,500 each would earn by winning this title.

So why are they here?

"Are you kidding?" said Young. "This is the best tournament on the tour. The pressure is off. It's a break from the normal tour."

The break is especially welcome this year, after the LPGA golfers slogged through a rain-ravaged tournament in Dallas last weekend. In Oregon, Indian summer sunshine is predicted throughout the three-day tournament with temperatures expected to reach the 90s.

Young said Whitworth's good putting combines with her accurate iron shots to make the team successful.

"Our games compliment each other very well," Young said.

The three-day tournament is an unofficial stop on the LPGA tour and the $115,000 in prize money doesn't count on the tour's earnings list.

Still, seven of the top 10 money winners on the LPGA tour are among the 98 professionals in the field. There also are four amateurs in the tournament.

So you tried a few different ways to spend your advertising money and now your sales curve has dropped completely off the chart.

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME YOU STARTED USING THE EFFECTIVE ONE... YOUR LOCAL NEWSPAPER?

There are a lot of ways you can spend your hard-earned advertising dollars and some of them can be very glamorous and quite exotic. But that's not what your business needs! You need results... and your local newspaper can still deliver the customers and lots of them for a lot less than most of the others. Newspaper advertising still provides the kind of good, basic selling that really gets the job done. Go with the winner... newspaper advertising!

Champ Pounds Ali for 10 Rounds

Holmes Retains Crown With TKO

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Fireworks lit up the sky over the towering mountain range that surrounds this gaming capital of the country. But somehow, they seemed terribly out of place.

Instead of rockets and flares, it was a time for sadness. Boxing had reached the end of an era — in the parking lot outside a gambling casino where a 38-year-old boxer took what should be his last desperate shot at sports' biggest prize.

There, in a temporary ring, surrounded by hosts of high rollers and fistfuls of celebrities, Muhammad Ali sat in his corner, beaten once and for all by Larry Holmes, a former $500 a week sparring partner who graduated to the heavyweight championship of the world.

It is the most glamorous title in sports — a crown Ali wore for an unprecedented three times, a crown he wanted once more. So he thrust aside two years of retirement, punished his body down from a blubbery 254 pounds to a svelte 217½ and returned at age 38 to make his bid.

But it was not to be. When Ali reached into the well for one more miracle, he found it empty. In the autumn of his boxing life, there just were no more springtimes left.

It all ended in his corner when longtime trainer Angelo Dundee refused to let him answer the bell for the 11th round. It was a decision constructed of compassion by a man who has been at Ali's side from the beginning.

The irony of the ending was that 16 years ago, Dundee pushed his fighter out of a corner to a seventh round knockout of Sonny Liston that made him champion. It marked the beginning of an amazing odyssey that weaved its way around the world, from Manila to Munich, from Zaire to Kuala Lumpur. And it ended as it began, with a boxing legend in his corner and Dundee working over him feverishly.

"We all come and we all go," said Holmes. "When you fight a friend, to me a brother, you can't get happiness. I fought a no win situation. I did what I had to do."

What Holmes did was pitch a shutout. He hit Ali almost at will from the beginning of the bout. Sometimes Ali would hang back on the ropes — recalling the rope-a-dope style that captured the championship from George Foreman in 1974. But Holmes found huge holes in the peek-a-boo style, tattooing Ali with a stinging left jab and scoring repeatedly.

There were moments when Ali moved as though in slow motion, almost a ghostly image of the man who once ruled the world of boxing.

Sometimes it seemed as if Ali was walking through a dream, fighting from memory, asking his body to do things it could no longer do.

"There were times when I was hitting him at will," said Holmes, a compassionate man who had a sense of what was happening before him and knew he was watching the disintegration of a once-great champion.

"I pulled back in one round. I didn't want to hit him a few times and I held back, but I did what I had to do."

In the ninth round, Holmes jolted Ali with seven straight punches to the head as the champion, clearly in trouble, reeled along the ropes and covered up. Holmes battered Ali completely around the ropes in that round. Only the ring saavy and experience gathered over two decades of boxing warfare allowed Ali to escape the round on his feet.

The crowd of 25,000 who paid a record $6 million for this Don King-Caesars Palace promotion, tried to help their man, starting a chant of "Ali, Ali, Ali," the cry he has heard all over the world. Before the bout began, Ali had led the cheer, much the way he has so many times before. This time, however, the chant could not help.

"I wanted to stop the fight after the ninth round," said Dundee. "But he wanted to keep going."

So Ali came out for the 10th, still fighting from memory, laying on the ropes and taking tons of leather from Holmes. Somehow, he stayed on his feet, refusing to fall as the champion pounded away at him. Mercifully, the bell rang and Ali sank to his stool.

This time, however, he stayed there.

Dr. Donald Romeo of the Nevada Athletic Commission, came into the ring to examine the fighter. Referee Richard Green moved to the corner as well.

"Ali said he wanted to go on but Angelo asked me to stop it," said Green. "He looked bad. I could tell by his eyes. They were glassy. He had nothing left. He wasn't defending himself properly. I really was afraid he'd get hurt."

For a brief moment, there was a lively argument between Dundee and Bundini Brown, a longtime member of the Ali entourage. Bundini was urging Dundee to let the fight continue but the trainer was having none of that. He knew Ali had absorbed enough punishment. He knew there was no hope left. He knew the era was over.

When it ended, Holmes did not celebrate. He simply turned back to his corner, his night's work done. It was not a moment to celebrate. It was a moment to reflect.

Holmes walked across the ring to pay his respects to Ali.

"I told him, 'I love you and I really respect you. You are a great athlete and one of the greatest fighters of all time.'"

Later, Holmes expanded on that. "I fought the best heavyweight in the world," the champion said. "He's one hell of an athlete and man. I respect the guy. Most of the guys I've fought, if I hit them as hard as I hit Ali, they couldn't stand up."

That respect was almost evident in the ring where Holmes fought a skillful fight, but was obviously not bent on destruction. He never moved in for the kill as Ali stood against the ropes, arms lowered and apparently unable to defend himself. In the end, the years took their toll on Ali. His age and two years away from the ring were too much of an obstacle to overcome.

But right up until the bell for the first round, Ali had some people convinced he could perform this miracle. They had flocked around his training sessions, paying far more attention and homage to him than they did to Holmes. And the magic of his name made it an $8 million payday for him, about twice as much as the champion received.

"Ali fooled you again," laughed Holmes. "He'll do it to you as long as you let him." But Holmes was not fooled and neither was Father Time.

The champion came into the ring knowing he was fighting a living legend but an aging one. "He's an old man," Holmes said over and over. "But people wouldn't listen. They preferred to believe in the miracle that Ali promised he would deliver. He had woven so many of them before, it seemed entirely possible that he might do it again."

In the end, of course, it was not to be. In many ways, Holmes fought the ghost of Ali past. And when it was over, the crowd lingered, almost as if by staying they could prevent the end from being written to this remarkable tale.

The victory was the 36th in a row for Holmes and his eighth straight knockout defense of the WBC heavyweight title, tying

American League Roundup

Yanks Clinch Tie for AL East

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Rich Gossage is up to his old tricks: Now you see his pitch, now you don't.

This dazzling sleight of hand came back into play when the ace reliever of the New York Yankees returned to form Thursday night to seal a 3-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory assured the Yankees of at least a tie for the American League East title. They can clinch it with one victory in their final three regular-season games with the Tigers or a loss by second-place Baltimore against Cleveland in their three-game series.

Ron Guidry, 17-10, scattered six hits in 71-3 innings. Gossage came on after Steve Kemp doubled with one out in the eighth and recorded his 32nd save although Tom Brookens' two-out triple delivered Kemp with Detroit's second run. The fireballing Gossage then caught Al Cowens looking at a slider for strike three.

In other AL action, Kansas City beat Seattle 6-2; Chicago drubbed Oakland 9-4; Boston bested Toronto 4-1 and Minnesota took a doubleheader from Texas, 6-3 and 4-1.

Oscar Gamble and Reggie Jackson blasted consecutive fourth-inning home runs to trigger the Yankees' triumph. Jackson's homer was his 40th, tying him for the AL lead Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie. The Yankees scored their winning run off Jack Morris, 16-15, on Bob Watson's sacrifice fly.

Royals 6, Mariners 2

Hal McRae drove in three runs with a third-inning double and Willie Wilson scored twice to lead Kansas City over Seattle.

Royals third baseman George Brett walked and drove in a run with a sacrifice fly but was hitless in two official at-bats as his American League-leading average dipped to .389.

Kansas City starter Renie Martin, 10-10, allowed five hits and two unearned runs in 62-3 innings before needing relief help. The loss went to Seattle starter Floyd Banister, 9-13.

The Royals, who open the American League playoffs next week in Kansas City, had lost eight straight games before sweeping the three-game series with the Mariners.

White Sox 9, A's 4

Guy Hoffman won his first major league game, benefiting from a 15-hit attack that paced Chicago over Oakland. Hoffman, 1-0, came on in relief of starter Rich Dotson with one on and none out in the fifth and yielded no runs and just two hits the rest of the way.

Oakland's Rick Langford, 19-12, went the route for the 28th time this season, high in the majors.

Red Sox 4, Blue Jays 1

Boston snapped a four-game losing streak by beating Toronto on the seventh pitching of rookie southpaw John Tudor and a four-run second inning helped by three errors.

Tudor, 8-5, retired the first nine batters, striking out five before the Blue Jays scored a run with two outs in the fourth on doubles by Barry Bonnell and Roy Howell.

Glenn Hoffman's RBI single triggered Boston's game-breaking fourth.

Twins 6-4, Rangers 3-1

John Castino, Roy Smalley, Bombo Rivera and Ron Jackson each got two hits as Minnesota beat Texas in the first game of their doubleheader.

Mike Cabbage drove in two runs with a home run and a sacrifice fly to lead the Twins to their second-game triumph and a club record 11th straight victory.

By The Associated Press
Kentucky, a team that provided 60 of his victories when he coached there, is favored to become Bear Bryant's 300th victim Saturday when top-ranked Alabama meets the Wildcats in Birmingham, Ala.

Bryant headed Kentucky's college football program from 1946-53 before moving to Texas A&M, where his first season, 1-9 in 1954, was his only losing year. He returned to his Alma Mater in 1958, and he and the Crimson Tide have been making football history together.

In 23 seasons at Alabama, Bryant has built a record of 208-38-8, including national championships in 1961, 1964, 1965, 1978 and 1979 and 13 other finishes in the top 10. He's also taken the Crimson Tide to bowl games the last 21 seasons.

His real target is to reach 315 victories, which will make him the winnigest coach of alltime, surpassing the legendary Amos Alonzo Stagg at 314 and Glen "Pop" Warner at 313. That goal could be reached by late next season, with milestone No.300 expected to come this Saturday. Alabama is favored by 21 points.

"We know of course that Coach Bryant has that goal, and we have a goal, too, of winning every game," said Bart Krout, Alabama's tight end.

But the 67-year-old Bryant, whose career record is 299-77-16 over 35-plus seasons, dismisses talk that overemphasizes his coaching. "I haven't won a game," he said. "The players have won. I don't want players to think they're winning for me. They are not. They're playing for themselves, for their family, for their school."

Right now Alabama is 3-0 and atop The AP's Top Twenty, which is where the Crimson Tide has ended up the last two seasons. No team has ever been national champion three years in a row.

No.2 Ohio State, ranked No.1 in the preseason and trailing Alabama by just nine points in the current poll tabulation, faces stiff competition this week against 11th-ranked UCLA. Both teams are 3-0.

Ohio State, which has yet to lose during the regular season under second-year Coach Earle Bruce, features star quarterback Art Schlichter, just a junior but already the Buckeyes' all-time leading passer with 3,524 yards and leading touchdown passer with 22.

While the emphasis at Ohio State has been offense with 116 points in its first three games, UCLA has allowed only 28 points in its three outings. The Bruins are led by defensive back Ken Easley, who has contributed 26 tackles, two fumble recoveries and one caused fumble.

Elsewhere in games involving top ten teams Saturday, it's: No.16 Florida State, which lost to Miami last week, at No.3 Nebraska, impressive in a road win over Penn State last Saturday; Arizona State at No.4 Southern California; fifth-ranked Texas at Rice; Maryland at No.6 Pittsburgh; seventh-ranked Notre Dame at Michigan State; No.17 Penn State at No.9 Missouri, and Georgia Tech at 10th-ranked North Carolina. No.8 Georgia is idle.

Chargers Picked Over Bills; Detroit Favored Over Falcons

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Unbeaten, untied and, for some people, unbelievable. That's what the Buffalo Bills and Detroit Lions have been so far in this young National Football League season.

After a perfect first month, the Bills and Lions are out to continue their winning streaks this week. Detroit gets an easier task against in-and-out Atlanta and should prevail. Buffalo runs into another unbeaten, San Diego, and the Chargers may be a bit too much to handle.

Last week's 11-3 (8-6 against the points) was the best so far this season and left the year's record at 34-21 (20-35 vs. the points).

The picks: Lions 21, Falcons 14
Atlanta is unpredictable. But Billy Sims and Gary Danielson are pretty consistent. Detroit is favored in the spread by 2½ points.

Chargers 24, Bills 17
All that offense and now Chuck Muncie, too. Look out for Dan Fouts and friends. San Diego is favored by 7.

Bucs 14, Bears 10
Tampa Bay won't excite the Monday night TV crowd. But excitement doesn't count. Winning does. Chicago is favored by 1.

Raiders 21, Chiefs 10
Oakland must win to stay in the AFC West chase. KC seems out of it already. Oakland is favored by 7.

Rams 28, 49ers 20
Anaheim (err, Los Angeles) has started the season now with its holdouts back and playing well. LA is favored by 9½.

Bengals 19, Packers 10
At last Cincinnati can play a team its own size. But then, Green Bay may not be that big. Cincinnati is favored by 7.

Steelers 31, Vikings 7
Last in defense is not a good recommendation for a team about to tackle the world champions. Pittsburgh is favored by 7½.

Browns 20, Broncos 14
Even Cleveland's lightweight defense ought to handle the invisible Denver attack. Cleveland favored by 2½.

Eagles 31, Redskins 14
Philadelphia comes home off a loss to St. Louis. Washington will pay for those boos. Philadelphia favored by 7.

Saints 17, Cardinals 7
Two struggling teams. Take the Dome as the difference for a mini-upset for the home team. St. Louis favored by 1½.

Dolphins 23, Colts 21
How many cardiac comebacks can Miami manufacture? One more, at least, it says here. Miami favored by 1.

Oilers 17, Seahawks 13
Defense is the key. Speaking of defense, Seattle's shut out Washington last week. Houston favored by 7½.

Patriots 27, Jets 13
Wait till Steve Grogan and Stanley Morgan see that New York secondary. New England favored by 3½.
Cowboys 35, Giants 7
Was it J.R. or the Giants who got shot? It's hard to tell. Dallas favored by 13.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISCHARGE PERMIT RENEWAL

Patrick Power, Betty Jo Power and Trust of T.J. Power dba T.J. Power & Company, P.O. Box 1311, Hereford, Texas 79045 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for a renewal of Permit No. 01299 to continue to discharge wastewater from a vegetable washing and packing facility. The permit currently authorizes a discharge of 24,000 gallons per day. The wastewater is diverted to two settling ponds and recycled or discharged. The plant is located southeast of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, on the west corner of the intersection of New York Avenue and Roosevelt Avenue in the City of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas.

The effluent is discharged to a ditch that flows into Tierra Blanca Creek; thence to Palo Duro Creek; thence into Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River in the Red River Basin.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and Chapter 25 of the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address, and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the waste discharge permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 45 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Requests for a public hearing and/or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing to Larry R. Soward, Assistant Chief Hearings Examiner, Texas Water Commission, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711, Telephone (512) 475-1311.

Issued this 30th day of July, 1980. Mary Ann Hefner, Chief Clerk Texas Water Commission

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Sensible weight loss

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 17-year-old high school senior and I want to lose about 10 or 15 pounds. I weigh 150 and I'm 5 feet 10. My measurements are 38-31-36. I can't find an exercise program that I will stick to, I have no will power. My main areas of concern are my waist and thighs. If you could possibly give me a good program to follow and tell me what foods to stay away from, I know it will help me.

DEAR READER - Much of what patients are able to do about their health depends on the patient, not the doctor. No matter how good the advice you receive is, if you don't follow it it won't help very much. I wish I could give you a transfusion of will power but that's something you'll have to achieve in your own development.

For exercise, you might find a sport that you enjoy and do it every day. Tennis isn't a bad example. Why not take tennis lessons if you don't know how to play already? Swimming is an excellent exercise. If you'll just add walking two miles a day to your present program and are careful not to increase your calorie intake, you'll lose over 10 pounds in a year.

There is no such thing as spot reducing. You have to change your calorie balance so that your body uses a few more calories than you take in every day through your diet. The overall effect when you get rid of all the excess fat will be to decrease the fat in the stomach and hip areas that you're concerned about.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you a well-balanced diet that you can follow to help you lose the excess fat that you have.

The reason some people are particularly prone to have fat over the thighs and buttocks is it's an inherited characteristic. These people are born with that tendency. They can minimize the fat deposits through exercise and diet combined but such people often have to fight against their inherited tendency for the distribution of fat.

Some unfortunate people may be thin in the upper part of the body to the point of looking skinny and still have too much fat around the thighs and hips. About the best that can be accomplished under these circumstances is to develop some type of exercise program to maintain the musculature and strength of the upper part of the body and get thin enough that those excess fat deposits are finally used for energy.

For individuals who need to lose a small amount of weight, as in your case, a good plan is to study your daily dietary habit. Record what you eat every day. Look through it and see what you can eliminate that you don't need, such as a habit of eating a piece of pie regularly or other rich desserts. Sometimes just eliminating one or two such items through the day and not adding anything to replace them, combined with a regular exercise program, will induce a sensible gradual weight loss that will not be harmful.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Two-and-a-half years ago I was operated on for cancer of the colon. I take all my follow-up tests and everything is going fine. Only one thing bothers me. Can I pick up live cancer cells from the proctoscope or the barium enema nozzle? Maybe you can put my mind at ease.

DEAR READER - Consider yourself put at ease. Even if you had a cancer cell that survived cleaning of the instruments before you had a proctoscope or barium enema, such cells would not be able to attach themselves to your colon or cause you a

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer
Spotty glasses

DEAR POLLY - Since retiring from the air force and returning to Texas to live, I have been the housekeeper, as my wife decided to return to work. I love it and am not ready to reverse roles back to a more traditional way of life. However, there are some problems, so I am writing for a bit of assistance.

In the two years we have been here, our every day glasses have collected what I call an unremovable white film or coating. We use that dishwasher product that is not supposed to leave any spots, as well as a water softener and even vinegar and lemon juice concentrate, but to no avail. Can you help? - Lt. Col. L.M.

DEAR COLONEL - Congratulations on your new job! Milk can cause a white coating on glasses, so after use, glasses should be thoroughly rinsed before going in the dishwasher. You might also fill a couple of glasses with hot vinegar and add some tea leaves and then leave them for a few hours. If the film scrubs away after a good washing in soapy water and a rinsing with hot water, the vinegar can be reheated and put in a couple more glasses, and so on until all are clear. Ammonia water might also be tried to remove this coating. Good luck! - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My windows had become so dingy with age and water spots, nothing seemed to make them clean. While cleaning my bathroom fixtures with tub and tile cleaner I decided to try it on my windows, and it worked wonders. - ETHEL

DEAR POLLY - A reader wanted to know how to remove perspiration odor from clothes. I spray the underarm area of either washable or dry cleanable clothes with a disinfectant deodorizer and then proceed to wash or dry clean as usual. This will not remove stains but I have found it effectively removes odor. - BEV

DEAR POLLY - After washing a shower curtain I have often had it wrinkle before I would get it upstairs, so now I use my hair blowler to remove those wrinkles. - SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY - When I need an emery board or fingernail file for a rough nail but can't find one, I use the back of a match book cover (the part one strikes the match on). - BESSIE

DEAR POLLY - Rather than having to buy two or more collars during a puppy's growing period, try using up discarded leather belts by cutting them to the desired size. Thin one-inch belts work best and holes can be easily punched when needed. This is a good way to put old belts to use and an economical way to collar those fast growing puppies, too. - JEANNINE

DEAR POLLY - When cooking apples for sauce I do not add the sugar until they are cooked and they do not boil over on the stove.

When cooking hot cereal for breakfast I stir from left to right and the splatters and bubbles will pop away from your hands and not on them. - ROSE

DEAR POLLY - When I have a lot of rhubarb or celery to cut up I use the scissors rather than a knife and find I save a lot of time. - IRENE

LET FAITH INSURE THE WISE SELECTION OF OUR LEADERS

One of the most precious rights inherent in our God-given heritage of freedom is the election of our officers whose job it will be to guide our destinies for another prescribed period of our history; taking into account our social and economic problems within as well as the turbulent world developments without. We must decide the entire direction in which we will move, and this requires a great deal of study, reflection and the willingness to listen impartially to both sides, to inform ourselves of the issues involved & to divest ourselves of all prejudice and preconceived ideas. Your attendance at the Church of your choice can be of great help at this crucial moment of decision; giving you the wisdom, patience and impartiality that are so essential for the task.

"When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked bear rule, the people mourn."
— Proverbs 29:2

If liberty and equality... are chiefly to be found in democracy, they will be best attained when all persons alike share in the government to the utmost.
— Aristotle
