

Local Men Arrested on Truck Theft Charges

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Charges of theft over $10,000 have been filed against three Hereford men in connection with the recovery of a stolen 1981 Peterbilt cabover truck valued at $52,000.

The truck was reportedly stolen from Little Rock, Arkansas and was traced locally after the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office received a mysterious anonymous phone call and a follow-up anonymous letter reporting on the whereabouts of the vehicle.

Charged in the matter and arraigned before Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal Wednesday were Vernon J. Carlisle, 55, of 231 Douglas, Wilbur David Hayes, 50, of 304 Ave. B, and Juan P. Hernandez, 29, of Rt. 1.

Bond for each of the men was set at $20,000.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a fourth individual who remains at large, according to a spokesman for the county sheriff's office, and three other arrests are also expected to be made in the near future.

The sheriff's department spokesman reported that the FBI is also expected to file federal charges in the matter.

According to the sheriff's office spokesman, the truck theft matter was first brought to the attention of local authorities on Jan. 13 when Chief Deputy Dean Butcher conferred with Dale Burrows, DPS motor vehicle theft criminal investigator and was questioned about the possible presence of a stolen truck in Hereford.

The truck had reportedly been stolen from ACB Trucks Inc. of Little Rock Arkansas on Nov. 26 of 1980.

Chief Deputy Butcher subsequently received an anonymous phone call concerning a stolen truck, specifying its location and indicating that it was being disassembled for parts for use in another vehicle.

The deputy received an anonymous typewritten letter bearing a Hereford postmark on Jan. 19, again specifying the location of the truck and its processing.

The sheriff's department spokesman reported that a truck of the nature and color advised in the phone call and later was subsequently located at Carlisle Trucking west of Hereford and deputies asked for and received permission to examine the truck on Jan. 22.

According to the sheriff's office report, the public serial number on the truck motor had been destroyed, although a confidential serial number was found.

The serial number on the front axle of the vehicle had also allegedly been removed but officers found a serial number on the rear axle of the vehicle and also located a serial number on the transmission.

A sheriff's department spokesman reported that the truck examined was a 1981 Kenworth "glider kit" with the cab, frame and front axle bought in Odessa by Carlisle Trucking on Dec. 15, 1980.

The spokesman indicated that the motor, transmission and axle were removed from the 1981 Peterbilt and the frame of the Peterbilt, bearing a permanent identification number was allegedly taken from the truck and destroyed.

Sheriff's officers also allege that the cab of the Peterbilt was removed and burned at a location west of Hereford.

Law enforcement officials reportedly used the transmission number left on the truck and consulted the National Auto Theft Bureau and the Peterbilt factory, using computer checks on registration numbers on the truck to confirm that the Peterbilt had, indeed, been stolen.

A sheriff's department spokesman reported that the Peterbilt stolen in Arkansas evidently came to Hereford on Dec. 5 and a buyer was allegedly "lined up" for the vehicle at that time.

With further arrests in the matter still pending the Deaf Smith County grand jury is expected to take up the charges against the three local men at its next session.

Among officers involved in the investigation of the truck theft in addition to Butcher and Burrows were Deputy Loy Smith and Sheriff Travis McPherson.

Contacted by The Brand

this morning concerning the allegations, Carlisle commented, "I bought the truck for parts. I haven't done anything wrong and I've cooperated with them (law enforcement officials) every way in the world. They are going the wrong way with this and are jeopardizing a whole lot to have filed charges on me at this time. If they had gone to the sources we had recommended they could have gone after them and then came after me if they felt I had done something wrong. They are starting at the bottom and trying to work up."

Hereford Has Plan, Is Prepared For Instance of Civil Disaster

By CHERI WARD
Staff Writer

In case of nuclear attack or any other large-scale disaster, Hereford Civil Preparedness Coordinator Jay Spain has a plan to cope with emergency situations and operations.

Spain is the new coordinator for the agency formerly known as Civil Defense but now placing more emphasis on reaction to crisis situations.

Plans for emergencies such as tornadoes, severe storms, aircraft crashes, accidents involving explosive or radioactive materials and dust explosions in grain elevators have been developed.

Spain said implementation of any of these plans follows one basic procedure.

First, he notifies the county judge and mayor; then fire department, highway patrol, police and sheriff's offices and ambulance services are notified.

These agencies then begin their own series of emergency procedures, and Spain coordinates all activities.

Spain said the job was more involved than he first realized, but he said, "I'm educating myself right now."

He recently attended a week-long training school for Civil Preparedness coordinators in Austin at the Department of Public Safety, and said the school was beneficial in pointing out aspects of emergencies that are often forgotten.

For example, after a tornado, emergency vehicles must carry extra tires because they will have constant flat tires from debris in the roads.

Spain said fuel for vehicles and auxiliary generators is also a worry, because power will be off and pumps won't function.

"There is no disaster you can plan everything you need to do. Every one is different, and you have different problems with different people," Spain said.

In a tornado, Spain said first notification would be from the Amarillo weather bureau. After the bureau informs Spain that "you better watch out," Spain begins notifying emergency agencies.

If it looks bad, Spain said highway patrol are sent a few miles out to radio the advent of a tornado. Firemen are stationed about a mile out of town, and "everyone gets in the act," Spain said.

"We don't blow the whistle until the tornado is seen on the ground, and even if it is west of town and still on the ground we start the sirens," he said.

"It's a case of damned if you do and damned if you don't because people jump in their cars and drive like maniacs which is the worst thing you can do," Spain continued.

"A car is the worst place to be in during a tornado because it can just pick a car up and roll it over and drop it," said Spain.

Spain said fire trucks and emergency vehicles scatter in emergencies like tornadoes to prevent the whole fleet of rescue vehicles from being destroyed.

After a tornado, the first priority for emergency personnel is search and rescue; utility companies are responsible for cutting off power to live wires and closing gas meters (a big problem in the 1971 tornado) and getting the power back on, Spain said.

Three to five hours after the tornado, Spain said help for the clean-up and homeless would be called in—usually the Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

Deaf Smith County and the Panhandle area share the distinction of recording the highest yearly number of tornadoes with the Gulf Coast—each region reports over 20 tornadoes each year.

Spain said that in a tornado, shelter in basements or the lowest part of homes and in sturdy buildings provides the best protection.

If a tornado was sighted near Hereford, nine city-wide sirens would sound. While there are no designated shelters downtown, people should stay out of their cars and go to the center of buildings.

Persons at home should go to the most protected place in their home or to a tornado shelter if they have one.

Spain warned that tornado season begins in mid-March and runs through July, so procedures for tornado emergencies should be reviewed soon.

Other disasters include hazardous or radioactive materials involved in a train or truck accident.

Spain demonstrated Geiger counters used by firemen to detect the amount of radiation present, and he said any time an accident involves a vehicle carrying unknown materials, firemen break out the radiation detectors.

When asked about the possibility of an accident involving this type waste, Spain said, "We were really lucky in that derailment. Everything in the world goes down that railroad and we'll never know what goes through."

"Where's Pantex? Where's White Sands, New Mexico?" he asked.

"The thing about nuclear weapons is that you might have an explosion involving a weapon, but you still won't have a nuclear explosion," Spain continued.

Ammonia clouds are a danger more present in Hereford than an accident involving any radioactive material, Spain said.

"When ammonia leaks, it makes a cloud that can burn and blister you, he said. "Fire near the cloud is the main concern, Spain added.

Plans for other disasters are on file with Spain, and anyone interested in learning more about Civil Preparedness can contact him at the fire station.

Haig Emphasizes Anti-Terrorism Top Reagan Foreign Policy Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig, sounding a hard line in his public debut as a diplomat, says combating international terrorism rather than promoting human rights will be the top foreign policy concern of the Reagan administration.

Interwoven with that declaration Wednesday was a charge that the Soviet Union's policies "foster, support and expand" international terrorism and a warning that the United States will take that into account in its overall dealings with the Soviets.

"International terrorism will take the place of human rights in our concern because it is the ultimate abuse of human rights," Haig said. "It's time that it be addressed with better clarity and greater effectiveness by western nations and the United States as well."

In his first news conference as secretary of state, the former four-star general put the Soviet Union clearly on notice that any progress toward arms limitation agreements will be firmly linked to all Soviet activity throughout the world.

He said terrorism is "hemorrhaging around the world" and the Soviets have been little help in dealing with it.

"I think it is clear that we have an unprecedented, at least in character and scope, risk-taking mode on the part of the Soviet Union, not just in this hemisphere but in Africa as well," he said. "It is a subject which will be high on the priority of our national security and foreign policy agenda."

"An additional subject related intimately to this in the conduct of Soviet activity — in terms of training, funding and equipping — is international terrorism."

Haig noted that President Reagan has stated repeatedly the United States will not contemplate ratification of arms control agreements "exclusive of consideration of the conduct and activities of the Soviet Union outside the sphere of arms control."

At the same time, Haig said the Reagan administration has not scrapped the Carter administration's quiet policy of abiding by the terms of SALT II even though the arms agreement was not ratified.

He said the new administration is reviewing the question, adding: "I would hope that in the meantime the Soviets would do nothing to exacerbate the kind of mutual restraint that both sides should pursue."

Haig expressed "utmost concern" over continued "exploitation of the Cuban proxy" to achieve Soviet objectives in the third world and said the recent incursion of Libyan troops into Chad is a "grave turn of events."

On other topics Haig said:

—He welcomes an initiative by President Giscard d'Estaing of France to hold an international conference in an attempt to effect the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan.

—"The United States government will fulfill its obligations in accordance with both international law and the accepted norms of domestic legal practice" in carrying out the complex agreements that led to the freeing of the 52 American hostages from Iran. He said the government wants to be sure the Iranians also will abide by the financial obligations they agreed to.

—"There was 'no deal' linking the visit of South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan to see Reagan here next week to the Korean government's decision to commute the death sentence for opposition leader Kim Dae-jung to life imprisonment.

—"He was 'personally' assured by Reagan he would be the administration's chief spokesman on foreign affairs matters. "I intend that the president's mandate to me be carried out, and I'm confident it will be."

—"Reaffirmed support of the Camp David Middle East peace accords and U.S. refusal to recognize or negotiate with the Palestine

Registration Cards

Not Available

HOUSTON (AP) — Saturday is the deadline for aliens to mail in the Immigration and Naturalization Service registration cards, but it is a tough thing to do in Houston simply because there are no cards to mail.

Hundreds of aliens, following instructions, reported to area post offices Wednesday to get the cards.

There were no cards. Postal clerks told the aliens to go to the INS and get the cards.

There were no cards there either. Paul O'Neill, the INS district director, had this helpful bit of advice, "they should pursue it until they get the cards and get it done."

Meanwhile, the aliens were wandering around the federal building, even asking passersby for assistance.

Owen Young, a postal service official, said a memorandum indicated the INS had reduced the availability of cards in an effort to save money.

O'Neill said he couldn't confirm that statement.

The INS has distributed 58,000 forms in Houston.

Ship Collision

Causes Oil Spill

HOUSTON (AP) — Floating booms have been placed across Barbour's Cut, Port Houston's container ship berth, after a tanker and a chemical carrier collided and spilled an estimated 2,000 gallons of oil into the Houston Ship Channel.

The Coast Guard said there were no injuries and no fire in the Wednesday collision.

After the mishap, both the Olympic Glory, an 800-foot Greek registered tanker, and the Lucor Wickliffe, a 365-foot chemical vessel under Liberian registry, took anchor at Barbour's Cut near the channel's entrance to Galveston Bay.

The Olympic Glory had a hole below the waterline. The Lucor Wickliffe was said to have received only minor damage.

The oil spill estimate was made during a Coast Guard helicopter inspection. The floating booms are expected to help contain the spill.

Ship channel traffic was not disrupted.

Attorney:Purchase

Won't Hurt Anyone

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An assistant attorney general says the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals shouldn't "hamstring" officials trying to buy land in Grimes County for a prison, even if the purchase isn't legal.

Jerry Cain told the court Wednesday no injunction should be issued because "even if (the purchase) is illegal, no one will be hurt."

Ten Grimes County residents have sued state officials to stop the proposed $6.7 million purchase of 5,968 acres. The residents are challenging the way the state decided to buy the land. They also contend the prison would harm their community.

A state district court in Austin last week rejected their request for an injunction.

"Don't hamstring elected officials who are trying to do their jobs. If it is illegal, you can fix that later," Cain said.

"At this stage, not anybody's going to be hurt," Cain said. "An injunction is to keep a bad thing from happening, but ain't nothing bad gonna happen."

Attorney Karl Hoppess, representing the Grimes County residents, said failure to immediately halt the acquisition would mean his clients could no longer pursue the case.

"What we are saying is that this acquisition is illegal, and we have the right to prevent it from taking place," Hoppess said. "But once the money has been spent, we won't have that right. The issue will be moot."

"Without an injunction, the issues about use (of the land) will still be pending, but we will have lost most of our case," Hoppess said.

Cain said the issue was preserving the public's property, and that converting a "liquid asset" — money — into "something else" — land — actually changed nothing.

"The taxpayers' interest is preserved," he said.

Ambulance Fund

Drive Nears Goal

PRESIDIO, Texas (AP) — Citizens raising funds to buy an ambulance for this remote Southwest Texas border town say they have raised $18,000 since last fall, with about another $4,500 needed.

Residents here launched the fund drive after a teen-ager hurt in a traffic accident bled to death last September while waiting for an ambulance to arrive from Marfa, 60 miles away.

The victim, Martin Manriquez, 16, was the latest of a string of victims who died before an ambulance could arrive from a distant city.

Another was Rojello Brito, who held out for an hour and 45 minutes before his heart stopped beating on Thanksgiving Day, 1979. His widow is vice president of the fund drive.

The group's president, Mary Louisa Spencer, said the first $15,000 was collected by mid-November, but since then, "it's been very slow."

She said her committee has its eye on a $22,500 ambulance offered by a Duncannon, Texas, dealer, but she said the price is valid only until March 1.

It means the committee must raise $4,500 during the next five weeks to take advantage of the offer. Mrs. Spencer said Wednesday she was not worried.

"We have three quarter-horse races planned in February, and we can count on $800 to $900 each from them, by charging $1 admission and selling burritos. Also, we're going to hit the (international) bridge once again," seeking donations from motorists traveling between here and Ojinaga, Mexico, as they stop to pay the toll.

"We'll be doing some more door-to-door work, and we have other activities planned too," she said. "Besides, if we don't make it by March 1, that's not the only company that sells ambulances."

House Approves Raise

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) —

The House has passed a 5.1 percent emergency pay raise bill, with a minimum salary boost of $75 a month to help state employees catch up with inflation.

Senators expected to vote today on whether to accept the House bill or insist on negotiations toward a compromise with the 6.8 percent pay raise bill they passed Monday.

The House passed its version on Wednesday, 128-9.

"We're getting pretty close. I'm glad the House was able to overcome the threat of a veto by the governor and the persistent opposition of Republicans and come out with a bill that is closer to where we ought to be," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

Clements recommended a 3.4 percent pay raise with a $50-a-month minimum and said he would veto a 6.9 percent bill. He indicated to House leaders he would accept a 5.1 percent bill with a $50 floor, and that is what came out of the House Appropriations Committee.

But a 73-69 vote replaced the $50 minimum with $75, running the risk of a veto.

The governor's bill would add $54 million to this year's state expenditures, the Senate's $110 million and the House's $93.2 million.

Clements' chief legislative liaison, Jim Kaster, said he could not predict how the governor would react to the higher floor set by the House bill.

"I don't know what he will do," Kaster said.

Government workers got a 5.1 percent increase on Sept. 1 and will receive another raise on Sept. 1, 1981.

Rep. Bill Prenal, D-Bryan, chairman of the appropriations committee, repeatedly warned the House that any raise above 5.1 percent with a $50 minimum would risk a veto.

He said a pay raise bill must be passed by the legislature and signed by Clements no later than midnight Saturday if state employees are to get their raises in February.

A veto could throw off that timetable and delay the raise until March, Prenal warned.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said the financial situation of many state employees was critical.

Congress Asked To Raise Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Bowing under the same economic pressure that helped bring down Jimmy Carter, the Reagan administration is asking Congress "with great regret" to raise the national debt limit close to the $1 trillion mark.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Wednesday the national debt probably will surpass the legal limit of $935.1 billion by mid-February and it "has become imperative" that the ceiling be raised to $985 billion.

As of last Monday, the national debt stood at $931.8 billion. Conservative Republicans in Congress, including Reagan administration Budget Director David Stockman, a former representative from Michigan, were highly critical of the Carter administration's periodic requests for increases in the debt ceiling.

But in a statement distributed to reporters, Regan said, "Conditions of the economy and government commitments that we have inherited leave us no choice in this matter."

Since Congress approved the present limit last year, high inflation, high interest rates and various other economic conditions "have touched off a virtual explosion in federal borrowing," Regan said.

In other economic news Wednesday:

The Commerce Department reported that a big increase in oil imports led to a $1.3 billion worsening in the nation's merchandise foreign trade deficit in December. The deficit for all of 1980, however, was down almost $5 billion from the $7.2 billion of 1979.

President Reagan lifted remaining price controls on U.S.-produced crude oil, a move that is sure to raise gasoline and heating oil prices to consumers but which also may cut oil imports and help the nation's trade balance.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said the administration intends to go along with $400 million in new federal loan guarantees to keep the ailing Chrysler Corp. afloat. And he said he will lead a task force trying to find ways to help the rest of the troubled U.S. auto industry as well.

Lost Documents

Can't Stop Benefits

Don't let lost documents prevent you from seeking veterans benefits, Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office, reminded veterans and their dependents.

Coker said, "We have found that some veterans who cannot locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential."

VA will accept a certified statement instead of an original birth or marriage certificate when needed to establish eligibility. In the case of a marriage this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file at VA.

In years past, VA required formal documentation to support claims for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

Now, however, VA will accept a certified statement regarding the birth of a veteran's child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases, Coker said.

Coker urged veterans and their dependents with eligibility questions to contact the nearest VA regional office, veterans county service office, or a representative of one of the national veterans organizations.

Texas Artists Sought For Teaching Youth

The Texas Commission on the Arts is on the lookout for talented, experienced and creative artists interested in teaching Texas young people.

Artists interested in participating in the 1981-82 Artist-in-Residence program may apply to the Commission by March 1, announced Executive Director Allan Longacre today.

Residencies of the Artist-in-

Residence program range in length from one week to nine months. The program places professional artists in elementary and secondary classrooms to enable school children to learn creative self-expression, communication, and skills.

Children of all ages and backgrounds work with the artist in specific areas which might include music, creative writing, visual arts, film, dance, drama or architecture and environment arts.

Artists are selected by a panel based on their artistic excellence and compatibility with the residency concept.

Artists also participate in public arts programs in the community, giving lectures and demonstrations.

The program is sponsored by the Commission, the national Endowment for the Arts and the U.S. Office of Education.

Approximately 50 area schools and arts organizations participate in sponsoring the program, in metropolitan areas as well as rural communities.

The Texas Commission on the Arts serves Texas — its arts organizations and its people — by providing coordination, information and financial aid for art programs.

For information and applications, artists may write to Education Programs, Texas Commission on the Arts, P.O. Box 13406, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 or call toll free 1-800-252-9415.

Joyous Welcome Greets Former Texas Hostages

By The Associated Press

A pair of former hostages are back in their native Texas today after receiving thunderous welcomes in the state's two largest cities that included marching bands, cowboy hats — and a $17,000 Cadillac, wrapped in a yellow ribbon.

William B. Royer — haggard and drawn from a bout with the flu he called "a parting gift from the Ayatollah Khomeini" — jetted into Houston Wednesday just an hour ahead of Marine Sgt. Johnny McKeel Jr., who was treated to a royal reception in Dallas.

"We're proud to be Americans, aren't we?" choked the 49-year-old Royer, whose mother, Virginia, was at his side, as hundreds of people waved American flags and waved to him as he walked off the plane in Houston.

The square-jawed McKeel, 27, stepped from his Braniff flight looking recruiting-poster fresh with his sharply creased uniform, glistening brass and spit-shined shoes.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone here," he told a crowd of about 300 people who had gathered to meet his 6 p.m. flight.

"I cannot tell you how much it means to each one of us in Tehran for the letters and cards and gifts you have sent us."

Both men were handed cowboy hats as they stepped of their planes — and both hats were too large.

McKeel cracked a huge smile as the hat slipped down over his "white-wall" Marine haircut.

Royer told the well-wishers gathered at Houston International Airport it was "mind-boggling to be back home."

"If our ordeal has united this country and has brought out all the warmth of the people I have seen, it was worth it."

The State Department employee had a big surprise waiting for him in his West University Park driveway — a $17,000 1981 Cadillac wrapped in a yellow ribbon.

The car was a gift of Mrs. Roy Hofheinz, widow of a wealthy Houston civic leader, and several other Houston residents who donated the money for its purchase.

He also received a certificate of deposit from a Houston savings company for $444 — one dollar for each day of his captivity in Iran.

McKeel was escorted by an honor guard of six Marines on his flight, and accompanied by his parents, Wynona and Johnny McKeel Sr., of Balch Springs, a Dallas suburb.

As the Boeing 727 that brought him to Dallas-Fort Worth Airport taxied to the terminal, the plane's co-pilot opened his window, leaned out and slapped a huge yellow ribbon on the aircraft's windshield.

Inside, the Kimball High School band, its instruments festooned with yellow ribbons and small American flags, played "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" as McKeel walked into the terminal.

Hand-made signs that read, "Baseball, Hot Dogs, Apple Pie And Welcome Home," "Walkin' Proud, Talkin' Loud, We're American," were carried by members of the crowd.

One attractive blonde woman held up a sign that said, "Chase Me, Johnny," a reference to McKeel's earlier remarks that he was going to "drink beer" and "chase women" when he got home.

As McKeel left the airport for his home, the band began playing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again."

Royer walked between ribbon-bedecked police barricades as he left the airport for his drive home. Thousands of people gathered along the route to wave and shout greetings to him as his car drove by.

In the front yard of his modest brick home, were two bundles of 444 mums and a sign that read: "Welcome Home, Released American William B. Royer Jr. In Tehran, Iran, 444 Damn Days Too Long."

Royer, who arrived in Iran only two weeks before the militants seized the embassy on Nov. 4, 1979, said "all I want to do now is find peace and quiet and have my health restored."

He said he would accept another overseas assignment, even in Iran, but quickly added, "not under the present government (there)."

The teacher with the U.S. International Communications Agency said, "it will be only the simple things that I want to do now and the things I want to see."

When he got out of the car that brought him to his house, he walked to an oak tree and took down a yellow ribbon that his mother had placed there during his captivity.

He then waved and walked inside, and the crowd gathered around his home began singing "God Bless America."

Both men were met by mayors and other dignitaries, but some welcomees came simply because they felt they had to.

"It's the least I can do for him (McKeel)," said Terrell Mayhall, who drove more than 50 miles to the meet McKeel, a man he doesn't know.

"We couldn't do anything for him while he was over there — I've got to do something now."

Told that Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert Englemann, 33, the third former hostage from Texas, would not be returning to nearby Hurst until Saturday, Mayhall said, "then we'll be back out here Saturday."

"These guys are heroes," he added.

Broken Glass Reported

Police investigated two more reports of broken glass in a relatively quiet day yesterday.

Stagner-Orsborn Buick, 142 N. Miles Ave., told police that the front windshield of a 1981 Buick was shot out with a BB gun sometime Wednesday. Damage is estimated at $220.

Melba Hickman, 311 Austin Road, told police that someone broke the front and back windshields out of her pickup.

Karen Arnold, Route 1, reported yesterday that a storage building at 16th and Highway 385 was broken into.

Police said Arnold did not know if anything was missing, because stored items belonged to her parents.

Now, with a new spectrum of psychotropic drugs, emotional instability is being stabilized.

Of three million aged Americans who show symptoms of brain failure — individuals heretofore considered "senile" and left in nursing homes and mental hospitals untreated — at least 20 percent are now responding to treatment and resuming normal lives.

Far and away the greatest single cause of false senility is drug intoxication. Somebody prescribed the wrong drug or the wrong dosage. The most misused prescription drug is the tranquilizer Valium.

Dr. Robert Butler, director of the National Institute on Aging, confirms that "there are indeed irreversible causes of chronic brain syndrome — dementia — such as repeated blood vessel blockages and various brain and nerve diseases." But, he says, "doctors should spend more time examining and testing confused, disoriented or depressed patients for some reversible cause."

He estimates that 10 to 20 percent of supposed senility is not that at all; has a cause that can be remedied.

At Fair Oaks Hospital, Summit, N.J., where they are using the new biochemical approach to diagnosis and treatment, they find at least 7 percent of mental patients have been misdiagnosed — and subjected to treatment which worsened their condition.

The American Schizophrenia Assn. reports much success in treating schizophrenia with large doses of vitamins, especially niacin.

Dr. Linus Pauling believes we could add 25 years of healthy living to our normal life span with proper ingestion of supplemental vitamins and minerals.

Forty percent of the average physician's office time is now devoted to geriatric patients. Many doctors have tended to accept deterioration fatalistically, assuming there's nothing they can do about it. Very often they can now.

Firemen put out two grass fires and responded to a call to a mobile home at 107 S. Ranger yesterday.

A clothes dryer in the home shorted out, and lint in the dryer caught fire, firemen said.

The grass fires were at 238 Ave. J and on the Santa Fe right-of-way.

At Wits End By ERMA BOMBECK

One of the secrets of a happy marriage is knowing what your level of tolerance is for one another.

Some couples can hang wallpaper together and stay married. Others can back up a recreational van as a team. A few can even hang a picture as one.

I personally have never been able to shop with my husband and sleep in the same bed with him that night. I couldn't fit all the hostility in the room if I opened the window.

The problem seems to lie in our motivation for shopping. I shop because we need something and I am in the market to buy it. He shops like a computer that is gathering data for a printout.

We have been thinking about new beds for five years. We have talked about the new beds a lot. We have the money to buy the beds. We know exactly what kind of beds we want.

Outside the store last week, I explained the ground rules. "If these beds are what we want for the price we want, we are going to buy them. Is that understood?"

He nodded.

Inside the store, the salesman made his pitch. They were exactly what we wanted. The price was right. I turned to my husband who nodded and said, "They're perfect! We'll look around a bit more and get back to you."

Outside the store I faced him. "You had no intentions of ever buying beds, do you? It is just something to do on weekends like going to the zoo or watching the planes land at the airport. You were like this with the carpet. How many years did we shop for a carpet? Other women were having babies, going on missions, setting goals, doing important medical research, living life to its fullest. Me? I was shopping for a carpet."

"And the freezer! You devoted more time to buying a freezer than you did to puberty."

"It was more fun," he said.

I know I'm not the only woman around who has the problem. I see husbands like mine all the time. I've seen them wandering around Vegas looking over everyone else's shoulder, their hands in their pockets to make sure the money is still there.

I've seen them at auctions standing near the back watching everyone else bid, and I've seen them at weddings in the back of the church standing there with a handful of rice, unable to throw it.

There's a sign at an upholstery shop I go to that reads: "A HUSBAND SHOPPING FOR MATERIAL MUST HAVE A NOTE FROM HIS WIFE."

They're years ahead of their time.

Project County History Progress Report

The steering committee for the Project County History held a meeting at the E.B. Black House recently.

There were reports from members of the group. Sue Coleman reported that numerous family stories are being submitted. The volunteers helping in the office have been busy typing some of these stories and working on the index of names. Names of relatives and friends who might be interested in the book are still being submitted, so the process of mailing letters, brochure and order blanks is still continuing.

Violet Reinauer and Kathryn Ruga reported that the work of contacting clubs and organizations has started. Every organization or club is encouraged to participate in the county history book thru use of special pages. A member of the committee will be glad to meet with any club or organization to answer any questions regarding these special pages.

To make arrangements for someone to meet with your club call either Violet Reinauer, 289-5505 or

Kathryn Ruga, 364-4375.

A treasurer report was given by Marge Mehlberg regarding monies received from book orders.

Among other items discussed were the choice of the leatherette material for the book cover, the design for the cover and the organization of material and format of the book.

Registration Cards

Not Available

HOUSTON (AP) — Saturday is the deadline for aliens to mail in the Immigration and Naturalization Service registration cards, but it is a tough thing to do in Houston simply because there are no cards to mail.

Hundreds of aliens, following instructions, reported to area post offices Wednesday to get the cards.

There were no cards. Postal clerks told the aliens to go to the INS and get the cards.

There were no cards there either. Paul O'Neill, the INS district director, had this helpful bit of advice, "they should pursue it until they get the cards and get it done."

Meanwhile, the aliens were wandering around the federal building, even asking passersby for assistance.

Owen Young, a postal service official, said a memorandum indicated the INS had reduced the availability of cards in an effort to save money.

O'Neill said he couldn't confirm that statement.

The INS has distributed 58,000 forms in Houston.

Ship Collision

Causes Oil Spill

HOUSTON (AP) — Floating booms have been placed across Barbours Cut, Port Houston's container ship berth, after a tanker and a chemical carrier collided and spilled an estimated 2,000 gallons of oil into the Houston Ship Channel.

The Coast Guard said there were no injuries and no fire in the Wednesday collision.

After the mishap, both the Olympic Glory, an 800-foot Greek registered tanker, and the Lucor Wickliffe, a 365-foot chemical vessel under Liberian registry, took anchor at Barbours Cut near the channel's entrance to Galveston Bay.

The Olympic Glory had a hole below the waterline. The Lucor Wickliffe was said to have received only minor damage.

The oil spill estimate was made during a Coast Guard helicopter inspection. The floating booms are expected to help contain the spill.

Ship channel traffic was not disrupted.

Attorney:Purchase

Won't Hurt Anyone

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An assistant attorney general says the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals shouldn't "hamstring" officials trying to buy land in Grimes County for a prison, even if the purchase isn't legal.

Ten Grimes County residents have sued state officials to stop the proposed $6.7 million purchase of 5,968 acres. The residents are challenging the way the state decided to buy the land. They also contend the prison would harm their community.

A state district court in Austin last week rejected their request for an injunction.

"Don't hamstring elected officials who are trying to do their jobs. If it is illegal, you can fix that later," Cain said.

"At this stage, not anybody's going to be hurt," Cain said. "An injunction is to keep a bad thing from happening, but ain't nothing bad gonna happen."

Attorney Karl Hoppess, representing the Grimes County residents, said failure to immediately halt the acquisition would mean his clients could no longer pursue the case.

"What we are saying is that this acquisition is illegal, and we have the right to prevent it from taking place," Hoppess said. "But once the money has been spent, we won't have that right. The issue will be moot."

"Without an injunction, the issues about use (of the land) will still be pending, but we will have lost most of our case," Hoppess said.

Cain said the issue was preserving the public's property, and that converting a "liquid asset" — money — into "something else" — land — actually changed nothing.

"The taxpayers' interest is preserved," he said.

Ambulance Fund

Drive Nears Goal

PRESIDIO, Texas (AP) — Citizens raising funds to buy an ambulance for this remote Southwest Texas border town say they have raised $18,000 since last fall, with about another $4,500 needed.

Residents here launched the fund drive after a teen-ager hurt in a traffic accident bled to death last September while waiting for an ambulance to arrive from Marfa, 60 miles away.

The victim, Martin Manriquez, 16, was the latest of a string of victims who died before an ambulance could arrive from a distant city.

Another was Rojello Brito, who held out for an hour and 45 minutes before his heart stopped beating on Thanksgiving Day, 1979. His widow is vice president of the fund drive.

The group's president, Mary Louisa Spencer, said the first $15,000 was collected by mid-November, but since then, "it's been very slow."

She said her committee has its eye on a $22,500 ambulance offered by a Duncannon, Texas, dealer, but she said the price is valid only until March 1.

It means the committee must raise $4,500 during the next five weeks to take advantage of the offer. Mrs. Spencer said Wednesday she was not worried.

"We have three quarter-horse races planned in February, and we can count on $800 to $900 each from them, by charging $1 admission and selling burritos. Also, we're going to hit the (international) bridge once again," seeking donations from motorists traveling between here and Ojinaga, Mexico, as they stop to pay the toll.

"We'll be doing some more door-to-door work, and we have other activities planned too," she said. "Besides, if we don't make it by March 1, that's not the only company that sells ambulances."

House Approves Raise

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has passed a 5.1 percent emergency pay raise bill, with a minimum salary boost of $75 a month to help state employees catch up with inflation.

Senators expected to vote today on whether to accept the House bill or insist on negotiations toward a compromise with the 6.8 percent pay raise bill they passed Monday.

The House passed its version on Wednesday, 128-9.

"We're getting pretty close. I'm glad the House was able to overcome the threat of a veto by the governor and the persistent opposition of Republicans and come out with a bill that is closer to where we ought to be," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin. Clements recommended a 3.4 percent pay raise with a $50-a-month minimum and said he would veto a 6.9 percent bill. He indicated to House leaders he would accept a 5.1 percent bill with a $50 floor, and that is what came out of the House Appropriations Committee.

But a 73-69 vote replaced the $50 minimum with $75, running the risk of a veto.

The governor's bill would add $54 million to this year's state expenditures, the Senate's $110 million and the House's $93.2 million.

Clements' chief legislative liaison, Jim Kaster, said he could not predict how the governor would react to the higher floor set by the House bill.

"I don't know what he will do," Kaster said.

Government workers got a 5.1 percent increase on Sept. 1

and will receive another raise on Sept. 1, 1981.

Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan, chairman of the appropriations committee, repeatedly warned the House that any raise above 5.1 percent "with a $50 minimum would risk a veto."

He said a pay raise bill must be passed by the legislature and signed by Clements no later than midnight Saturday if state employees are to get their raises in February.

A veto could throw off that timetable and delay the raise until March, Presnal warned.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said the financial situation of many state employees was critical.

Congress Asked To Raise Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Bowing under the same economic pressure that helped bring down Jimmy Carter, the Reagan administration is asking Congress "with great regret" to raise the national debt limit close to the $1 trillion mark.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Wednesday the national debt probably will surpass the legal limit of $935.1 billion by mid-February and it "has become imperative" that the ceiling be raised to $985 billion.

As of last Monday, the national debt stood at $831.8 billion. Conservative Republicans in Congress, including Reagan administration Budget Director David Stockman, a former representative from Michigan, were highly critical of the Carter administration's periodic requests for increases in the debt ceiling.

But in a statement distributed to reporters, Regan said, "Conditions of the economy and government commitments that we have inherited leave us no choice in this matter."

Since Congress approved the present limit last year, high inflation, high interest rates and various other economic conditions "have touched off a virtual explosion in federal borrowing," Regan said.

In other economic news Wednesday:

—The Commerce Department reported that a big increase in oil imports led to a $1.3 billion worsening in the nation's merchandise foreign trade deficit in December. The deficit for all of 1980, however, was down almost $5 billion from the $37.2 billion of 1979.

—President Reagan lifted remaining price controls on U.S.-produced crude oil, a move that is sure to raise gasoline and heating oil prices to consumers but which also may cut oil imports and help the nation's trade balance.

—Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said the administration intends to go along with $400 million in new federal loan guarantees to keep the ailing Chrysler Corp. afloat. And he said he will lead a task force trying to find ways to help the rest of the troubled U.S. auto industry as well.

Lost Documents

Can't Stop Benefits

Don't let lost documents prevent you from seeking veterans benefits, Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office, reminded veterans and their dependents.

Coker said, "We have found that some veterans who cannot locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential."

VA will accept a certified statement instead of an original birth or marriage certificate when needed to establish eligibility. In the case of a marriage this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file at VA.

In years past, VA required formal documentation to support claims for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

Now, however, VA will accept a certified statement regarding the birth of a veteran's child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases, Coker said.

Coker urged veterans and their dependents with eligibility questions to contact the nearest VA regional office, veterans county service office, or a representative of one of the national veterans organizations.

Texas Artists Sought For Teaching Youth

The Texas Commission on the Arts is on the lookout for talented, experienced and creative artists interested in teaching Texas young people.

Artists interested in participating in the 1981-82 Artist-in-Residence program may apply to the Commission by March 1, announced Executive Director Allan Longacre today.

Residencies of the Artist-in-

Residence program range in length from one week to nine months. The program places professional artists in elementary and secondary classrooms to enable school children to learn creative self-expression, communication, and skills.

Children of all ages and backgrounds work with the artist in specific areas which might include music, creative writing, visual arts, film, dance, drama or architecture and environment arts.

Artists are selected by a panel based on their artistic excellence and compatibility with the residency concept.

Artists also participate in public arts programs in the community, giving lectures and demonstrations.

The program is sponsored by the Commission, the national Endowment for the Arts and the U.S. Office of Education.

Approximately 50 area schools and arts organizations participate in sponsoring the program, in metropolitan areas as well as rural communities.

The Texas Commission on the Arts serves Texas — its arts organizations and its people — by providing coordination, information and financial aid for art programs.

For information and applications, artists may write to Education Programs, Texas Commission on the Arts, P.O. Box 13406, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 or call toll free 1-800-252-9415.

Joyous Welcome Greets Former Texas Hostages

By The Associated Press

A pair of former hostages are back in their native Texas today after receiving thunderous welcomes in the state's two largest cities that included marching bands, cowboy hats — and a $17,000 Cadillac, wrapped in a yellow ribbon.

William B. Royer — haggard and drawn from a bout with the flu he called "a paralyzing gift from the Ayatollah Khomeini" — jetted into Houston Wednesday just an hour ahead of Marine Sgt. Johnny McKeel Jr., who was treated to a royal reception in Dallas.

"We're proud to be Americans, aren't we?" choked the 49-year-old Royer, whose mother, Virginia, was at his side, as hundreds of people waved American flags and waved to him as he walked off the plane in Houston.

The square-jawed McKeel, 27, stepped from his Braniff flight looking recruiting-

poster fresh with his sharply creased uniform, glistening brass and spit-shined shoes.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone here," he told a crowd of about 300 people who had gathered to meet his 6 p.m. flight.

"I cannot tell you how much it's meant to each one of us in Tehran for the letters and cards and gifts you have sent us."

Both men were handed cowboy hats as they stepped of their planes — and both hats were too large.

McKeel cracked a huge smile as the hat slipped down over his "white-wall" Marine haircut.

Royer told the well-wishers gathered at Houston International Airport it was "mind-boggling to be back home."

"If our ordeal has united this country and has brought out all the warmth of the people I have seen, it was worth it."

The State Department employee had a big surprise waiting for him in his West University Park driveway — a $17,000 1981 Cadillac wrapped in a yellow ribbon.

The car was a gift of Mrs. Roy Hofheinz, widow of a wealthy Houston civic leader, and several other Houston residents who donated the money for its purchase.

He also received a certificate of deposit from a Houston savings company for $444 — one dollar for each day of his captivity in Iran.

McKeel was escorted by an honor guard of six Marines on his flight, and accompanied by his parents, Wynona and Johnny McKeel Sr., of Balch Springs, a Dallas suburb.

As the Boeing 727 that brought him to Dallas-Fort Worth Airport taxied to the terminal, the plane's co-pilot opened his window, leaned out and slapped a huge yellow ribbon on the aircraft's windshield.

Inside, the Kimball High School band, its instruments festooned with yellow ribbons and small American flags, played "Tie A Yellow Ribbon" as McKeel walked into the terminal.

Hand-made signs that read, "Baseball, Hot Dogs, Apple Pie And Welcome Home," "Walkin' Proud, Talkin' Loud, We're American," were carried by members of the crowd.

One attractive blonde woman held up a sign that said, "Chase Me, Johnny," a reference to McKeel's earlier remarks that he was going to "drink beer" and "chase women" when he got home.

As McKeel left the airport for his home, the band began playing "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again."

Royer walked between ribbon-bedecked police barricades as he left the airport for his drive home. Thousands of people gathered along the route to wave and shout greetings to him as his car drove by.

In the front yard of his modest brick home, were two bundles of 444 mums and a sign that read: "Welcome Home, Released American William B. Royer Jr. In Tehran, Iran, 444 Damn Days Too Long."

Royer, who arrived in Iran only two weeks before the militants seized the embassy on Nov. 4, 1979, said "all I want to do now is find peace and quiet and have my health restored."

He said he would accept another overseas assignment, even in Iran, but quickly added, "not under the present government (there)."

The teacher with the U.S. International Communications Agency said, "it will be only the simple things that I want to do now and the things I want to see."

When he got out of the car that brought him to his house, he walked to an oak tree and took down a yellow ribbon that his mother had placed there during his captivity.

He then waved and walked inside, and the crowd gathered around his home began singing "God Bless America."

Both men were met by mayors and other dignitaries, but some welcome came simply because they felt they had to.

"It's the least I can do for him (McKeel)," said Terrell Mayhall, who drove more than 50 miles to the meet McKeel, a man he doesn't know.

"We couldn't do anything for him while he was over there — I've got to do something now."

Told that Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert Englemann, 33, the third former hostage from Texas, would not be returning to nearby Hurst until Saturday, Mayhall said, "then we'll be back out here Saturday."

"These guys are heroes," he added.

In lieu of flowers, the family has asked that any gifts be given to the work of Palo Duro Union Presbytery.

Paul Harvey News New Remedies for Old Age

As recently as 10 years ago "old age" was considered an incurable ill.

Arteries were pronounced "hardening," whether they were or not, and the disoriented patient was doped up like a zombie and allowed to sit out his years in a "warehouse" for old people.

There are exciting new remedies for old age.

There is no more inexact science than psychiatry. This has made psychiatrists a choice target for inevitable jealousies within the medical profession.

Broken Glass Reported

Police investigated two more reports of broken glass in a relatively quiet day yesterday.

Stagner-Orsborn Buick, 142 N. Miles Ave., told police that the front windshield of a 1981 Buick was shot out with a BB gun sometime Wednesday. Damage is estimated at $220.

Melba Hickman, 311 Austin Road, told police that someone broke the front and back windshields out of her pickup.

Karen Arnold, Route 1, reported yesterday that a storage building at 16th and Highway 385 was broken into. Police said Arnold did not know if anything was missing, because stored items belonged to her parents.

However ...

With the increasing respect for "holistic medicine" new breed psychiatrists are earning new respect.

No longer do the shrinks just stretch you out on a couch for an extensive, expensive series of interviews about your parents, your fantasies and your sex life.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

One of the secrets of a happy marriage is knowing what your level of tolerance is for one another.

Some couples can hang wallpaper together and stay married. Others can back up a recreational van as a team. A few can even hang a picture as one.

I personally have never been able to shop with my husband and sleep in the same bed with him that night. I couldn't fit all the hostility in the room if I opened the window.

The problem seems to lie in our motivation for shopping. I shop because we need something and I am in the market to buy it. He shops like a computer that is gathering data for a printout.

We have been thinking about new beds for five years. We have talked about the new beds a lot. We have the money to buy the beds. We know exactly what kind of beds we want.

Outside the store last week, I explained the ground rules. "If these beds are what we want for the price we want, we are going to buy them. Is that understood?"

He nodded. Inside the store, the salesman made his pitch. They were exactly what we wanted. The price was right. I turned to my husband who nodded and said, "They're perfect! We'll look around a bit more and get back to you."

Outside the store I faced him. "You had no intentions of ever buying beds, do you? It is just something to do on weekends like going to the zoo or watching the planes land at the airport. You were like this with the carpet. How many years did we shop for a carpet? Other women were having babies, going on missions, setting goals, doing important medical research, living life to its fullest. Me? I was shopping for a carpet."

"And the freezer! You devoted more time to buying a freezer than you did to puberty."

"It was more fun," he said.

I know I'm not the only woman around who has the problem. I see husbands like mine all the time. I've seen them wandering around Vegas looking over everyone else's shoulder, their hands in their pockets to make sure the money is still there.

I've seen them at auctions standing near the back watching everyone else bid, and I've seen them at weddings in the back of the church standing there with a handful of rice, unable to throw it.

There's a sign at an upholstery shop I go to that reads: "A HUSBAND SHOPPING FOR MATERIAL MUST HAVE A NOTE FROM HIS WIFE."

They're years ahead of their time.

Couple Present Program To Hereford Art Guild

The Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday evening in the Community Center with Ruth McBride and Mary Helen Askew presenting a program on "Color Coordination by Wardrobe."

In presenting the program, the two women explained the program with "that is putting articles of clothing together that coordinate, that express one's self with artistic meaning. This could be done in the decor of a home, planning a party, or for any occasion."

The meeting was presided over by Jolene Bledsoe. The Valentine motif was carried out in table decorations and refreshments.

Hostesses for the meeting were Carrie Mae Doak, Sonja Paetzold, and Jean Reinauer. The club's next scheduled meeting will be Feb. 24 at the Community Center at 7 p.m.

Project County History Progress Report

The steering committee for the Project County History held a meeting at the E.B. Black House recently.

There were reports from members of the group. Sue Coleman reported that numerous family stories are being submitted. The volunteers helping in the office have been busy typing some of these stories and working on the index of names. Names of relatives and friends who might be interested in the book are still being submitted, so the process of mailing letters, brochure and order blanks is still continuing.

Violet Reinauer and Kathryn Ruga reported that the work of contacting clubs and organizations has started. Every organization or club is encouraged to participate in the county history book thru use of special pages. A member of the committee will be glad to meet with any club or organization to answer any questions regarding these special pages.

To make arrangements for someone to meet with your club call either Violet Reinauer, 289-5505 or

Kathryn Ruga, 364-4375.

A treasurer report was given by Marge Mehlberg regarding monies received from book orders.

ing from patience, modesty, independence, and the ability to make decisions. Mrs. McGilvery used these characteristics in her poetry.

Following the program, a thank you note from Girlstown USA was read concerning a donation of $25 sent to them from the club.

The next scheduled meeting will be Feb. 9 in the Hereford State Bank Community Room. This meeting will be a party for the women and their husbands. A Mexican dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

DEAR MRS.: Same song. Second verse. Husband a boozier--abusive, mean, domineering. You get kicked out but keep returning. Filed for divorce repeatedly but he talks you out of it. You won't leave him so here goes the broken record some people need to hear 100 times. Join Al-Anon and learn how to live with him. It's in the phone book...phone book...phone book.

DEAR HOPE: What a heart-warming letter! Let's hear it for all the old folks you described today--and for the young folks like you who appreciate them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May we have your opinion? We are mature people, both married to others and in love. The young lady believes that women marry for respectability and support and have sexual relations on the side for "fun" and added personal income.

Ann Landers Expressed Admiration

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 22-year-old graduate student who would like to express my admiration for some people, who have taught me more than all the books I've ever read:

Dear Older American: I want you to know how much you have improved the quality of my life. Today I was driving down the street. You were sauntering uptown, your white hair shining in the sun, a smile on your face. You waved when I went by, though you had no idea who I was.

On my first job as a cashier, I was nervous and scared. The line was long and everyone was impatient. You let the others go first because you didn't mind waiting. When your turn came, you said, "There's no hurry. Take your time. My, but you have pretty eyes." I could have kissed you.

Texas Tour Directors Slate Summer German Heritage Tour

The fifth German Heritage Tour, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Lich of Kerrville, will depart for Europe on July 16.

This year's educational tour, like earlier German Heritage Tours, will afford a special insight into the Germany of today--its way of life, culture, architectural monuments, spectacular geography, agriculture, economy, and the influences which have shaped the modern country. The tour will cover a distance of approximately 2,200 miles in fifteen days, much of it off the beaten track.

The tour directors, both native Texans, are well acquainted with their subject matter. Lich is an assistant professor of English and German at Schreiner College in Kerrville, and he is a consultant for the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio. Mrs. Lich teaches English and history at Ingram High School.

The German Heritage Tours feature group rates on regular airlines and charter buses, excellent hotel accommodations, paid meals featuring the specialties of each region, wine and beer tasting, dancing, cruises on the Rhine River and lake Lucerne, and excursions high into the Swiss Alps and lake country, into Austria, Liechtenstein and France.

In the past, members have enjoyed private castle and village tours, the walled cities of Franconia, and the emphasis on family heritage, genealogy, and rural folkways seldom seen by tourists who visit only the largest cities of German-speaking, central Europe.

These are not tours for people who want to see as many famous places as possible in fifteen days. The tour directors do this once a year, and they like to gather a small, cohesive group of people interested in observing firsthand the authentic and traditional way of life of those countries where German is spoken.

As in the past, the 1981 tour itinerary emphasizes many of the centers of German emigration to Texas, Louisiana, and Missouri in the late 1700s and the 1800s.

Highlights of past tours include a reception given for the group by Prince Philipp Reinhard, a German cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, a foot tour led by the mayor and school-master of a tiny Swiss farming village and a ride up the world's steepest cogwheel railway to the snow-capped summit of Mt. Pilatus in the Alps.

Anyone interested in further details should contact Mr. and Mrs. Glen E. Lich, 718 Jackson Road, Kerrville, Texas 78028 or call 512-257-3439.

Newspaper Bible

WORLD'S MOST NOTORIOUS FRAMEUP
Early in the morning the chief priests, elders and teachers of religion - the entire Supreme Court - met to discuss their next steps. Their decision was to send Jesus under armed guard to Pilate, the Roman governor.

Pilate asked Him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" "Yes," Jesus replied, "it is as you say."

Then the chief priests accused Him of many crimes, and Pilate asked Him, "Why don't you say something? What about all these charges against you?"

But Jesus said no more, much to Pilate's amazement. Now, it was Pilate's custom to release one Jewish prisoner each year at Passover time - any prisoner the people requested.

One of the prisoners at that time was Barabbas, convicted along with others for murder during an insurrection.

Now a mob began to crowd in toward Pilate, asking him to release a prisoner as usual.

"How about giving you the 'King of the Jews?'" Pilate asked. "Is he the one you want released?"

(For he realized by now that this was a frameup, backed by the chief priests because they envied Jesus' popularity.)

But at this point the chief priests whipped up the mob to demand the release of Barabbas instead of Jesus.

"But if I release Barabbas," Pilate asked them, "what shall I do with this man you call your king?"

They shouted back, "Crucify him!"

Then Pilate, afraid of a riot and anxious to please the people, released Barabbas to them. And he ordered Jesus flogged with a leaded whip, and handed Him over to be crucified.

Manual Labor Not for Everyone; Research Program Begins at Tech

LUBBOCK - Manual labor is not for everyone and that includes not just the old and weak but in many instances the young and healthy, too.

Just as some people are not capable of working complex math problems, others are unable to handle certain physical chores.

"We do not all have the same mental aptitudes," said Dr. M.M. Ayoub of Texas Tech University. "Neither do we all have the same physical capacities."

While batteries of standardized tests have been developed over the years to gauge mental aptitudes, comparatively little attention has been given to accurate tests of physical capabilities.

Developing simple but reliable tests of an individual's physical abilities and limitations is the task of Ayoub, Horn Professor of industrial engineering and biomedical engineering. In research funded by the Air Force, Ayoub and his Texas Tech associates are studying the Air Force's 70 most demanding job specialties. "We are trying to translate the demands of these jobs into the physical characteristics necessary to accomplish an individual task," Ayoub said. "Once we do that, we will see if we can devise a suitable test to assess these characteristics."

The various physically demanding components of Air Force jobs are classified into five major areas: lifting, loading, pushing, pulling and carrying. However, the current test enlistment stations use does not evaluate all those factors.

That test requires the enlistee to lift 70 pounds six feet or 40 pounds to elbow height. If the enlistee succeeds, he is listed in the top physical category and, on paper, should be able to perform any Air Force job. But there are problems.

"The 70-pound test is not really adequate because 99 percent of the males pass and only 25 percent of the females pass," said Ayoub. "The test does not discriminate among males very well. In the 40-pound test, 98 percent of the females pass; so it, too, does not discriminate well among the females. The problem is that not this high a percentage of the male and female enlistees can do all the Air Force jobs."

Misjudging an enlistee's physical capabilities can be expensive, requiring retraining of the airman if he is unable to perform the job of his first choice. Since enlistees can choose their job training, they may not recognize their own physical limitations.

"You don't really have much of a problem with the jobs that are most demanding because people don't really try to abuse themselves by getting in situations they cannot handle.

"It's the situations that don't look very demanding and the enlistee thinks he can handle. That's where the problems develop."

In addition to cutting down training costs and increasing individual efficiency, an effective criteria for physical abilities could have a significant legal impact.

"Equal opportunity problems creep up because people say 'I want this job and you are discriminating against me by not letting me have it.' For example, a woman may say she is being discriminated against because she is female which, in reality, may not be the case. She may be discriminated against because she does not have certain physical capabilities.

"But if you reject any individual for a lack of physical ability," Ayoub said, "you should be able to support it."

A more comprehensive set of physical aptitude tests would be a prerequisite for support. It is likely the Air Force might have to prove that the proposed tests, if adopted for use, would work, Ayoub said.

"If the Air Force program is successful," Ayoub said, "the impact would be readily apparent on industry and more likely would be accepted elsewhere because Air Force jobs have similar components to the job demands of the private sector."

Space Technology Responsible For Changes in Food Industry

Accelerated war-time and space technology have been responsible for profound changes in the food industry in this country during the past 40 years. There are fewer but bigger, more mechanized farms, producing more food than ever.

The food industry, always growing, pours out newly developed frozen foods and an endless variety of convenience food items never before imagined--canned foods, baked goods, dry cereals, snack foods and a bewildering array of soft drinks. Chemical research has provided preservatives and additives to prolong the shelf life of many of the thousands of items in supermarkets.

Technology and transportation explosions during the last 40 years have changed even the way people think about eating. Long dependent on seasonal foods, available only close to home or at restaurants, individuals now take for granted year-round fresh milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, and fresh seafood.

Food packaging and processing have become much more sophisticated as a result of developing foods for astronauts. Such space products as compressed food bars, freeze-dried beverages, and frozen vegetables with "flavor cubes" have become an accepted part of the weekly grocery purchases.

Chemists have even developed a "memory ingredient" in freeze dried compressed beef chunks, and meatballs, so that with the addition of water, they will spring back to their original shape.

Pressed food bars and nutrient-containing snack rolls were developed as a result of space life research to create a contingency food, designed to sustain a flight crew sealed within pressure suits. These foods combine high nutrient density and a high proportion of natural foods with low bulk.

"Intermediate moisture products" containing more water than whole foods, yet less than compressed, dehydrated or freeze-dried foods, are still in the development stage, but already have appeared on the market as pet foods and dried fruit, in disposable foil pouches.

Lightweight, air-and moisture-proof pouches may be the cans of the future. Called "flex-canning," this type of packaging is used with foods that have been "thermostabilized," or processed with steam or hot water at about 250 degrees F, then sealed in individually-sized containers.

Airlines are already looking into plastic wine containers to reduce weight and bulk. Another new type of packaging--boxes with plastic bags inside to contain liquids--take up little refrigerator room and are easy to shelve in grocery stores.

A similar boxed liquid, but not needing refrigeration, is a product already popular in Europe and Canada: "ultrahigh temperature" or UHT milk. Though slow to appear on grocery shelves in the U.S. due to extensive modifications needed at dairies to produce it, UHT milk is fairly certain to become a staple on U.S. pantry shelves in the next 10 years.

Six buildings that house 2,256 permanent wholesale showrooms on a 135-acre site makes up the world's largest market in Dallas, Texas.

The area of the Pacific Ocean is nearly 64 million square miles.

Mayor Issues Proclamation Designating Heart Month

Mayor Bartley Dowell issued a proclamation today designating February as American Heart Month and urged Deaf Smith County area residents to support the 1981 campaign to be conducted nationwide.

The proclamation read: "Whereas, heart disease and stroke this year will kill nearly 1,000,000 Americans and 50,000 Texans, a total which exceeds all other causes of death combined, and "Whereas, more than 200,000 of these victims die before retirement age, and "Whereas, the American Heart Association is the only voluntary health agency whose sole mission is to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke, and "Whereas, the Heart

Association's relentless battle against this American epidemic combines a nationwide research program, as well as improving health care in the community through professional and public education, and community service programs.

More than 500 volunteers in the community will join the effort to distribute heart information and collect contributions to support research, education and community service projects Sunday, Feb. 15.

Turning Over Office

Local Aggie Moms Install Officers

Margaret Ann Durham used the theme "Color it You" in installing officers for the Hereford Aggie Mothers Club.

Mrs. Durham presented the club's new President, Pat Clark, with a red ribbon, as red is bold, strong and represents leadership.

She went on to present the following with colored ribbons: Vice President Projects-Helen Eades, pink, a gentle form of red, which indicates support for the president; First Vice President for Membership and Telephone Committee-Betty Koelzer, yellow, the color of intellectuals; Recording Secretary-Nancy Skaggs of Adrian, blue, the color of deliberation, calmness, sincerity and love; Corresponding Secretary-Katie Wright of Dimmitt, turquoise, the color for a fastidious personality; Treasurer-Theresa Artho, green, whose personality is civic minded and reputable, the color of Mother Nature; Reporter-Betty Koelzer, orange, the healthiest of all colors, good natured and friendly; Historian-Helen Rose, brown, the color of Mother Earth, depicting stability and dependability; and Parliamentarian-Charmayne Klett, purple, the most unusual and exclusive of colors, the color of genius and royalty, representing an office of royalty.

The members were then asked to help blend all these colors together in producing a successful year with united talents and strengths. Mrs. Durham concluded with the reminder - "Once an Aggie Mom, always an Aggie Mom."

Attending the noon luncheon meeting Tuesday at the home of outgoing president, Charmayne Klett, were members: Theresa Artho, Margie Ford, Ruth Fish, Mary Lyles, Merle Clark, Opal Blakely, Pat Clark, Margaret Ann Durham, Bette Jean Gallagher, Nancy Skaggs and Betty Koelzer, along with a new member, Dixie West and guest, Bitsy Metcalf, Amarillo, Mrs. Klett's daughter.

Mrs. Manning Doesn't Let Drive Interrupt Perfect Work Record

When Ellen Manning was transferred from Southwestern Bell's Hereford Office to Amarillo she did not let a 50-mile drive stop her from having a perfect work attendance for almost 20 years.

Mrs. Manning, a Traffic Service Position Systems operator, has worked for the telephone company for almost 23 years and was transferred to Amarillo four years ago.

"I've lived in Hereford almost all my life and wanted to stay here, so I decided to commute to work," she said.

One of the challenges she has had to face in getting to work is the sometimes unpredictable weather.

"One morning when I left Hereford, the roads were fine, but about 10 miles out of town I hit solid ice," she said.

"My car turned a complete spin, but all I could do was get back on the road and drive 30 miles-an-hour to work," she explained.

It has become a matter of pride for Mrs. Manning to get to work on time every day.

"When I started accumulating a few years of perfect attendance it became a motivation for me," she said.

Her husband, Harold, who operates his own auto repair shop, said he remembers only one time his wife missed work-when she gave birth to their son.

"When Jackie was born, she took a six-week leave of absence and then she was back at work again," he said.

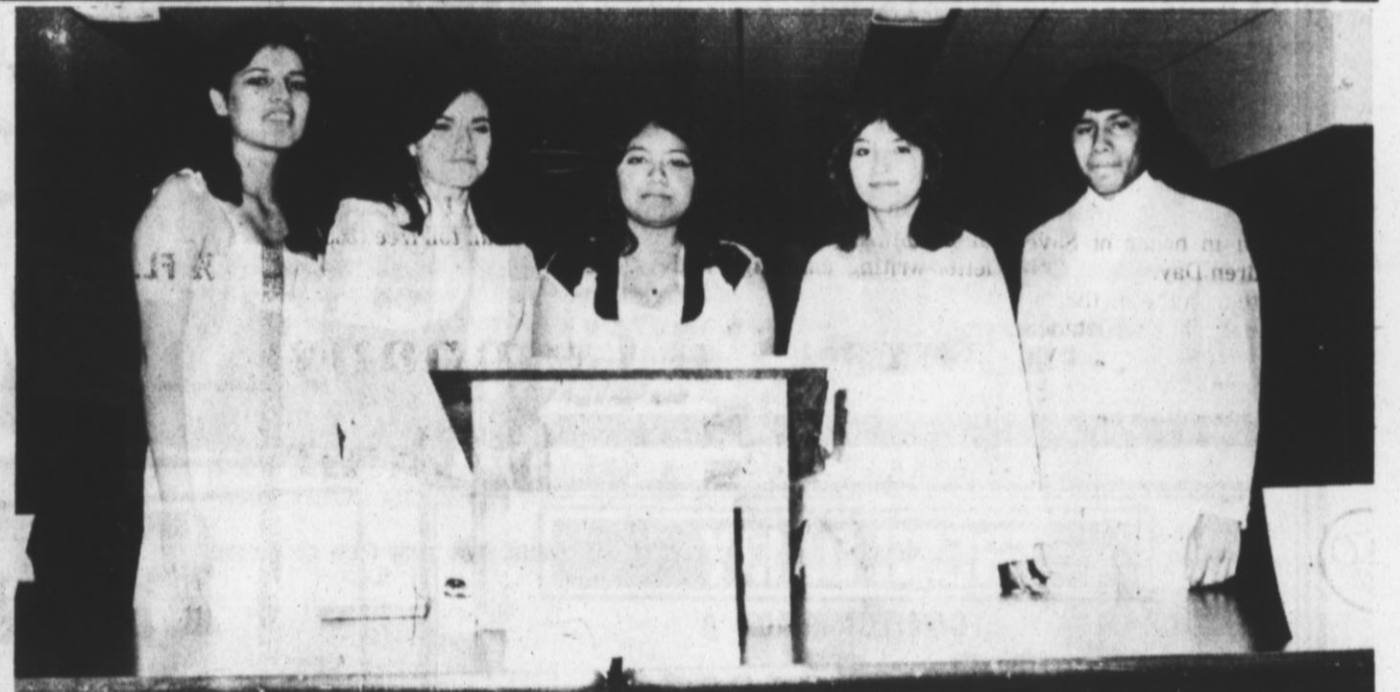

Jackie, now 20-years-old, is married to the former Julie Cavin. He is employed by Ideal Foods and attends West Texas State University.

"I guess the main reason I've made it this far with perfect attendance is because I know people are counting on me to be on the job on time, and I'm not going to let them down," Mrs. Manning stated.

"I have won every argument I have ever had with myself."
 William Feather

In the 1700s, it took a man three months to ride from Massachusetts to South Carolina on horseback.

Sul Ross in Cowboy Country Teaches Cowboys Useful Trades

ALPINE, Texas (AP) — If you want to be a Baptist minister, you could learn it at Baylor University. An aspiring physicist might choose the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. If you decide to study law, they say Harvard has a real fine school.

But if you want to grow up to be a cowboy, hoss, the smallest publicly funded university in the state of Texas may be just the place for you.

Most students at Sul Ross State University come from the surrounding ranchland, grew up in boots and blue jeans and consider the aroma of an open cow pasture that wafts through parts of the school's rambling campus "natural."

University President Bob Richardson says some of that is bound to rub off on the other students, no matter where they come from or what they major in.

"We have a strong geology department, and we're strong in biology and teacher education. But the character of the school has more of a Western flavor than any other school in the state," he declared.

For one thing, Sul Ross has a football team, but the only athletic grants available, funded by local civic leaders, go to rodeo riders.

Also, it is the only university in Texas where students can learn how to make shoes for their horses.

Besides that, students in the school's range animal science program learn how to "break" horses, judge cows, breed hogs and feed goats. There is even an advanced course in making "corrective horseshoes" for those with problem hooves.

"Anybody can go out and just shoe a horse. There is a big difference between that and what we are teaching here," said Dr. Doug Butler, raising his voice over the clanging and pounding of 14 horseshoe-making students in his lab.

"We're aiming at producing a graduate who can shoe the elite of the horse world," and that sometimes means horses needing orthopedic shoes, said Butler, 38, who learned his skills at the side of a blacksmith in his hometown of Lansing, N.Y., and went on to earn a Ph.D. in animal science at Cornell University.

He said if his students stick with it and get good at it they can command salaries of $20,000 to $30,000 by being skilled farriers, "but only about 10 percent of them excel professionally. The rest of them find out what hard work it is and drop out — it's too easy to make a living some other way."

Butler said one advantage to the school's location in the heart of West Texas cattle country was the availability of horses to work on.

"Ranchers bring their work horses in to be shod for free by students. It's kind of like a barber college, except we don't charge anything," he said.

The university's location also attracted Penn State graduate Dave Mattison, a geology professor who described Alpine as one of the nation's most geologically diverse areas.

"This is heaven. We can drive 10 miles and see drastic changes in the rocks. Only 30 million years ago this was a volcanic hot spot," said Mattison, chairman of the geology department.

He and the others agreed the small student body was more of an advantage than a problem. With an enrollment of only 1,605, Sul Ross, named for a 19th century Texas governor, is by far the tiniest of Texas' 24 state-funded, four-year universities. It is located in the state's largest county, Brewster — which covers more territory than Connecticut and Rhode Island combined.

The college boasts an average student-teacher ratio of 18 to one, but school officials acknowledged that Alpine's remote location — the nearest city is Odessa, 150 miles away — discourages some young people from coming here.

"Most of our students march to a different drummer. They don't need the bright lights and the roar of the crowd," Richardson said.

He conceded Sul Ross would like to be a little bigger. After all, the student body, about as big as that of a high school in Dallas or Houston, can wander through more than two dozen buildings scattered over 600 acres.

He said the college was prepared to accommodate up to 3,000 students, "But we don't want so many that it would change the character of the university. It's relaxed. We want to keep it that way."

It's so relaxed in fact that attempts to start a journalism school were abandoned last year for lack of interest, and so while larger universities were having heated political contests to decide who would run their student newspapers, at Sul Ross, official spokesman Lee Sleeper said, "We had to go out on the front steps and say, 'Hey, who wants to be editor?'"

Preparing Food

Members of the 4-H Parent-Leader Association were busy this week preparing food for the concession stand for the Hereford Young Farmers' Junior Livestock Show, which continues until Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Save the Children Letter Campaign Set

Children will explore the problems facing children and their families for Save the Children's fourth annual letter-writing campaign sponsored in honor of Save the Children Day.

Save the Children, the international child-assistance agency, is inviting children from across the country to voice their opinions in letters to the President of the United States.

The letters will be presented, along with oral testimony from children, at a special hearing with government leaders in Washington, D.C., on Save the Children Day, May 1st.

Children participating in this national campaign are being asked to write on the theme: Dear President Reagan: "This is the biggest problem facing families today, and here's what should be done about it..."

The letters are to be mailed to Save the Children Day '81, Westport, CT so that the leading concerns can be tallied and summarized into the 1981 Children's Agenda for Action.

This is the fourth consecutive year Save the Children has invited children to join a national letter-writing campaign as part of the Save the Children Day observance. Last year, more than 20,000 letters from children in almost every state were presented to the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Child and Human Development during a special hearing for children.

Save the Children conducts programs assisting impoverished children in 25 countries around the world including the United States. It is anticipated that governors of every state will declare May 1st. Save the Children

Day and call upon children to make this a special day to help other children.

For an activities booklet describing this national letter-writing campaign and other Save the Children Day activities, write National Coordinator for Save the Children, Dept. P, Westport, CT 06880 or call toll free (800) 243-5075.

Texas Oil Company Endows Tech Chair

LUBBOCK — A gift of $50,000 was presented by Sun Co. Inc. to the Texas Tech University College of Engineering as the first installment of a $150,000 commitment to endow a professorship in the Petroleum Engineering Department.

Texas Tech President Lauro F. Cavazos accepted the donation from Bennie L. Franks, president of Sun Texas Co. in Dallas.

Also present were Engineering Dean John R. Bradford and James T. Smith, chairman of the Petroleum Engineering Department.

"We in petroleum engineering are competing in the highest salary market in the nation," Smith said. "There is no way for us to stay competitive using just state monies. This gift will help us catch up."

The balance of the Sun Co. pledge will be paid over five years.

Sun Co. officials participating in the presentation were: from Sun Gas Co., Harry Allen, district engineering manager, Houston offshore, and Don J. Van Orden, chief project engineer, Dallas; from Sunmark Exploration Co., Lonnie Land, director of human resources and communications, Dallas; from Sun Production Co., Don C. Brown, chief production engineer, Dallas, and Charles Haberthur, project engineering manager, Shreveport; and from Sun Texas Co., Franks and Joe Womack, regional production manager, Midland.

Allen, Haberthur and Womack are graduates of Texas Tech's College of Engineering.

Texas Tech's Petroleum Engineering Department had a fall enrollment of 450 students. The department has four faculty members.

Texas Tech has the only petroleum engineering department in the Permian Basin region, one of the nation's major producers of oil and gas.

Girls' Varsity Meets Gay Hemphill

GAY HEMPHILL GREW out of the sugar and spice and everything nice bit, a long time ago — probably as soon as she became Plainview's all-time leading scorer with 2,028 points over the span of three seasons.

At that point she was no longer sophomore, if indeed, she ever had been.

AREA SPORTS BUFFS dropped her name in an almost casual manner — the mere mention of it denoted etiquette, culture and good upbringing. "Well my favorite basketball player is Gay Hemphill" one businessman would croon to another as the restaurant they frequented fell from busy hub-hub to claustrophobic silence.

State pick as a junior, the league's Most Valuable Player two years in a row, the Amarillo Globe News player of the year and a first team selection to both the Globe News Super Team and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal All-South Plains unit, will take her near single-handed talents into play against Hereford Friday night in Plainview at 6 p.m.

And the upcoming meeting wasn't something HHS coach Larry Sowers relished a great deal. He remembered all the other years Plainview had successfully dominated his team. The Whitefaces had never beaten Plainview on the varsity level.

WHAT, IF ANYTHING, worried him the most about Plainview besides Gay Hemphill?

"What do you mean BESIDES Gay Hemphill," Sower's commically questioned in reference to the Plainview player whom all loop coaches prayed would graduate with honors as a junior a year ago. "She's the MAIN thing you worry about whenever you play Plainview — she, in essence is Plainview."

"It's hard to play them (the Dogettes) because of her. You've got to try and stop her on the inside, but then that leaves other outside avenues open to the rest of the team. You can't let her go untested in there because she will cripple you — anyway you look at it, her presence is felt," he said.

OUT OF THE 58 points Plainview has averaged this season en route to a 21-6 season mark and a 1-1 league ledger (Plainview, like Hereford, dropped its first district match to unbeaten Lubbock Monterey), Hemphill has accounted for an average of 24.6.

Far behind her in the Dogettes' scoring punch are: 5-5 senior guard Pam Williams with an average display of 7.7 points an outing, guard Jami Shores' 6.9 and Donna Williams' 6.3 as the squad's other post player.

"We'll make a few adjustments in our game plan that include being more conscious of Hemphill, but basically we'll play the same type of ball we have been," said Sowers. "We haven't played anybody in a long time that is as good as she is. We'll just have to make her work to get the ball, and try to keep two people on her as much as we can."

BUT SOWERS REMAINED calm enough in facing the Hemphill dilemma. He had a few less renowned legends of his own — and with all added together in a nice neat package, they had topped 21 teams with only two defeats.

Terri Harkins has knocked in 286 points in 22 games for a 13 point average, 5-8 post Louise Mays has also plummeted an average daily balance of 13 points, Cathy Lane has hit an average of nine points a game from her forward position while the sorority's other consistent starter Lori Albracht, has fashioned a 7.9 tally.

"I FEEL LIKE WE can stop Hemphill well enough if we'll just come out and play like we can. We didn't play that way against Coronado here Tuesday, but I think we will against Plainview. And even though we and Plainview are essentially out of the running in the first-half race, we still need a win to establish our game plan for the next round," he said.

Rutledge Accused of Adding Testimony

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Attorneys for former Arizona State University football coach Frank Kush have accused ex-punter Kevin Rutledge of adding testimony since filing a $2.2 million lawsuit two years ago.

Rutledge filed the suit against Kush and others in October 1979, one year after he claims he was punched by the coach during a football game in Seattle, Wash.

Kush's attorney, Warren Platt, asked Rutledge on three occasions Wednesday why his court testimony and a 1980 deposition included information that was not in a 1979 deposition.

Rutledge testified he had a confrontation with Kush during a 1978 session at ASU's preseason training site at Payson.

Platt, reading from an October 1979 deposition, quoted Rutledge as saying he didn't remember any incidents with Kush at the camp.

The attorney then read from a 1980 deposition in which Rutledge described a confrontation with Kush at the camp in 1978.

Kush allegedly cursed Rutledge after the player had tackled quarterback Mark Malone. Malone was injured, and Kush had ordered that he was not to be touched, Rutledge said.

Rutledge said he was positive that Kush called him a liar in front of the football team in early September 1978.

Stanton 7th Grade Wins Tourney

The 7th grade Stanton boy's basketball team swept all three of its games in the Littlefield tournament this past weekend to extend its overall season mark to 14-1.

The squad formerly clinched the Hereford Tournament with straight victories.

Dogie cagers Rodney Torres and Stephen Hacker led the 7th grade crew to an opening round 32-18 victory over Muleshoe after the pounding in respective tallies of 11 and nine points.

The successful squad then toppled Littlefield after Phillip Webster netted 14 points ahead of John Guy Ford's total of eight.

The Dogies then clipped Abernathy in the finals of the tourney 39-32 under the direction of Rodney Torres' 18 point spree and Stephan Hacker's seven point display.

The next scheduled competition for the unit is set for today as it travels to meet Clovis Marshall.

Rodeo Club Profiles

Editor's Note: The following personal profiles on the Hereford High School Rodeo Team are designed to acquaint readers with each of the club member's events and successes in those events thus far in annual competition, and will be run twice a week until the upcoming Hereford Rodeo scheduled for March 7-8.

Rita Ward is the only girl from Hereford to place in the top fifteen standings of the Tri State High School Rodeo Association which covers a four state area including Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

As a junior in Hereford High School she has been a member of the HHS Rodeo Club for three years. She is currently holding the office of reporter for the club this year.

In the standings at the present time, she is tied for 4th and 5th place out of the top fifteen in barrel competition with a total of 10 points.

In pole bending she holds a third place berth with 16 points and she participates in break-a-way roping where she is currently tied for 5th and 6th place with nine points. She also competes in goat tying.

The junior rodeoer is presently in 4th place in the All-Around Cowgirl position with a 35 total points. On her efforts alone, she has helped push the Hereford girls' team into fourth place with a total of 35 points.

Robert Esqueda has been a member of the HHS Rodeo Club for two years. He is a junior at Hereford High School and is serving as secretary of the club.

Like most of the talent on the club this year, he holds a berth as one of the top fifteen competitors in his event, bull riding. He presently retains a 6th place spot with seven points.

REBOUNDING--Cathy Lane bounds in to control the board.

Boston Tops In NBA Ratings

By The Associated Press
It was one of those classic battles in the Boston Garden for which the Celtics and 76ers have become famous. When it was over, the archrivals had swapped positions atop the National Basketball Association standings.

But neither the Celtics nor the 76ers were placing special significance on Boston's 104-101 victory over Philadelphia Wednesday night.

"If this was the last game of the regular season, I'd be happy as heck," said Celtics Coach Bill Fitch after his team won its 13th consecutive game to finally overtake Philly at the head of the Atlantic Division. The Celtics' 43-9 record and .827 percentage not only places them ahead of the Sixers' 44-10 and .815 but also made Boston the only team with fewer than 10 losses in the NBA.

The 76ers reached double figures in the loss column before the Celtics, mainly due to Larry Bird and Robert Parish, who had 24 and 21 points respectively. Parish hit a pair of free throws with nine seconds to go to provide Boston with a three-point lead and Philadelphia could not get off a shot to tie.

The Sixers benefited from a 35-point explosion by Julius Erving, who scored 45 points in the only other meeting this season between the teams, a game Philadelphia won at home in overtime.

At no time in the game were the clubs separated by more than seven points.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Washington topped Phoenix 108-98, Indiana beat Golden State 108-102, Houston took New Jersey 111-109, and Milwaukee downed Seattle 119-110.

Bullets 108, Suns 98
Washington won for the ninth time in 10 games and the fourth straight contest behind Greg Ballard's 20 points. Wes Unseld contributed 14 points and 15 rebounds and Kevin Porter dished out eight assists along with scoring 21 points.

Pacers 108, Warriors 102
Indiana took the lead in the second quarter and held it throughout as James Edwards scored 23 points and George McGinnis had 20 points and 13 rebounds.

Joe Barry Carroll, playing in his first game in Indiana since graduating from Purdue and being selected first in the NBA draft last summer, managed 19 points and 18 rebounds.

Rockets 111, Nets 99
Moses Malone put in 29 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to pace Houston, which built a 16-point lead in the third quarter and coasted.

Baylor Texas Lose Once More

Tech's Meyers Ejected; Rice, TCU Score Upsets

By The Associated Press
It was another topsy turvy night in Southwest Conference basketball as Texas Christian and Rice pulled off the latest upsets in a season filled with surprising upsets.

Texas Christian beat Baylor, 58-50, and Rice upset Texas, 46-40, in overtime in the topsy turvy games. In games with more routine outcomes, Houston beat Texas A&M, 76-71, and Arkansas trounced Texas Tech, 60-35.

Baylor grabbed a 27-21 halftime lead over Texas Christian, but in the second half, TCU's Darrell Browder got hot and Baylor's Terry Teagle got cold.

The loss to the Horned Frogs was the third in a row for Baylor, a team that was atop the SWC roundball standings a week ago with an undefeated record. The Bears are now in a three-way tie with Arkansas and Rice for second place.

Browder had 20 points for TCU and Teagle had 18 for Baylor.

Baylor coach Jim Haller had a simple explanation for the loss. "They just whipped us, that's all I can say," he said.

Teagle started off the game in a normal fashion, hitting 7 of 10 shots, but he couldn't hit a single field goal in the second half. He made 2 of 4 free throw attempts in the final half before fouling out with 13 seconds remaining.

TCU coach Jim Killingsworth was at a loss to explain Teagle's cold streak.

"We really didn't do anything different on Teagle in the second half. We just played him a little tighter and pushed out a little farther," he said.

If there ever was a year for Rice to break a 24-year jinx against the Texas Longhorns it would have to be this year and it happened.

The Owls had not won at Austin since 1957 and had lost 20 straight games to Texas during the past decade. But that all came to an end as Kenny Austin hit two key field goals in overtime to give the Owls a 46-40 victory. Ricky Pierce led Rice scoring with 21 points. LaSalle Thompson, who had averaged 28 points a game for the past three games, was held to only 10 by a tenacious Rice defense.

Texas coach Abe Lemons was upset with the performance turned in by the Longhorns.

"We set basketball back 30 years tonight. That was just lousy," said Lemons.

"I said at the start of this year it was going to be a no-doze league and we both contributed to that tonight," Lemons said, adding that he felt Rice also was "terrible."

Rice coach Mike Schuler disagreed, however. "Some of you guys maybe didn't think so, but I thought it was a helluva game. I think we're the best road team in the league," he said.

Rob Williams had 33 points as the Houston Cougars tightened their grasp on first place with a 76-71 victory over Texas A&M.

Freshman Reggie Roberts had 14 points for the slumping Aggies.

Williams drew high praise from Aggies coach Shelby Metcalf. "Rob had a fantastic night. He put on a clinic out there," he said.

Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers missed the final 1:24 of the game as Arkansas destroyed the Red Raiders, 60-35.

Myers was ejected by drawing three technical fouls in rapid succession. The first came when he stormed onto the court when he thought that U.S. Reed fouled Tech's Bubba Jennings on a steal. The others came as he continued to argue about the incident.

Scott Hastings had 12 points for the Razorbacks and Reed and Darrell Walker had 10 each.

"This had to be one of our better defensive efforts," Hastings said after noting the Razorbacks held Tech to only 15 points in the first half as Arkansas grabbed a 22-15 halftime lead.

"We're down about as low as we can go. Things will get better," Myers said.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Scanty support for C

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've already had my share of colds this winter. One episode was the flu I think. Last year I took a gram of vitamin C every day and I had only two colds but this year I have taken the same amount and it hasn't helped a bit. What can I do to prevent these miserable colds?
DEAR READER - You fell into the trap of assuming that the good year you had in terms of not having colds was because you took vitamin C. You might well have had a good year if you had rubbed snake oil on your nose daily. Your experience this year has taught you not to make unscientific premature conclusions.
The bulk of investigations by reputable scientists have failed to show that vitamin C prevents colds. A few think it may shorten or decrease the severity of symptoms - a view that is not universally accepted either. One of the early investigators who thought vitamin C might be useful, Dr. John Coulehan, writing for Postgraduate Medicine, September 1979, reviewed the published works and stated, "There is no reason to accept (the) contention that use of vitamin C in large doses can prevent most colds in most people or that vitamin C therapy can abort colds."
In any case, I have strong hopes that some of the new antiviral agents such as interferon will be both cheap enough and effective enough eventually to enable people to obtain rapid effective relief from the cold, flu virus groups.
The basic principle is that it is a contagious disease. Avoid crowds and traveling to avoid the germs. Wear gloves to keep the viruses from getting on your hands and wash hands frequently. Don't touch your face or nose area. To prevent flu, the annual flu shots still provide one of the most effective ways of prevention.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I have some extra flesh and loose skin under my chin. Now that I am 69 both have become wrinkled. If I could have this removed, it would help my looks a lot. I asked the county medical association how to contact a surgeon who does this but where we live there isn't one. Can you tell me where I can get this done?

DEAR READER - First, the operation can be done. It is simple and it can improve a person's appearance.
Second, your letter reminds me how often people have difficulty in locating the right kind of physician for a specific problem. You were correct in contacting your county medical society. They should have told you to talk to your family doctor. You should have one who is familiar with your medical status whom you can count on.
The way to find a specialist in another area is to ask your family doctor to refer you to the proper place. After all, he will be the one to look after you when you get home so let him help you. That applies to people needing specialists not available in their community for whatever the problem might be.
DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 67-year-old woman. I have had stomach ulcers for years and about 10 years ago I had surgery and have felt fine until the last two years. I had an X-ray and my doctor said they are showing again. A friend of mine my age takes two teaspoons of Vaseline a day and now he can eat anything. At first he took it with juice but now he takes it without anything. My wonder is if it will do any harm to take it - or any good. I have taken Tagamet but the doctor will only let me take it for six weeks. Tagamet helps but when I'm off it I feel terrible.
DEAR READER - Ugh! I don't think swallowing Vaseline is going to be a very popular treatment for ulcers or acidity. There is certainly no reason to think it will do any good. It might slow down the emptying of the stomach as fat does. And it should act somewhat the same as mineral oil does to soften the stool. Perhaps your friend's complaints were not caused by an ulcer but a colon problem. And perhaps he would have gotten better at that time regardless of what he took.

Ulcers are not constant things. They tend to get better, sometimes in spite of what we do for them rather than because of what we do. There are more attacks in the fall and spring than the rest of the year - so one knows why.
Tagamet has proved useful for the short term treatment of ulcers in many patients. Data for long term treatment is not plentiful yet and that is why your doctor doesn't want you to take it a long time.
DEAR DR. LAMB - My wife recently has had spells of gasping for breath. These seem to come on after resting and one would think there is constriction of the muscles involved. She is 77 and in fairly good health for her age. She takes blood pressure medicine and Lanoxin. She sees her doctor more or less at regular times for blood tests and medicine. Is there something that might be done for her while she is gasping for breath? I feel so helpless when it happens.
DEAR READER - She should return to her doctor right away. Your brief description needs more elaboration but it sounds like she is describing cardiac asthma, a condition caused by the sudden accumulation of fluid in the lungs. The fluid accumulates when the person is resting, rather than the shortness of breath we often see with heart failure that develops with exertion. It does appear like an asthmatic attack and such attacks are particularly apt to occur in people who have high blood pressure and heart failure.
Her doctor is giving her Lanoxin to strengthen her heart but he may want to adjust things or cut down on eliminate her salt.
When she has one of these attacks be sure she sits up, she will be able to breathe better in that position. But you should seek medical attention.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Sticky plastic curtains

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY - I have a pair of plastic curtains that have been in the box they came in for several years. Now I would like to use them, but they feel sticky even though I have washed them with detergent several times and even put some ammonia in the water once. If any of the readers have had this problem, I do wish they would tell me how they solved it. - ALICE
DEAR ALICE - I have not been able to find a definite solution for your problem. Doubtless the box of curtains was stored in a very warm place, as heat must have caused the sticky feeling. I would experiment on a small area. Spread the curtains out flat and go over the surface with a cloth moistened with white vinegar and water, and then rub dry with a terrycloth towel. How about this one, readers? - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - When cubing, slicing or trimming fat off meat, I do it while the meat is still frozen. It does not take as long, and the pieces or slices are more uniform in size. Before doing this, I let the meat stand at room temperature for about half an hour. - NELL
DEAR POLLY - To keep sheer curtains crisp and easier to iron, especially when the curtains are older, I wash and rinse them as usual, then rinse again in a solution made of one cup epsom salts and two gallons of water. They are then dried in the dryer, without heat if possible, or on the line, then pressed. This works very well for me. - JEAN
DEAR POLLY - When painting, put on a cotton glove and dip a finger in the paint, so as to reach those places that are almost impossible to get with a brush.
As an energy saver, we put bales of straw in leaf bags and place them outside our glass doors that are on the windy, cold side of the house. - MARGARET

DEAR POLLY - When you drive an icy and snow-slashed car into an unheated garage and all that mess on the underside of the car falls on the floor, do not hose it out, as ice will form immediately. Throw a few scoops of snow over the black gritty mess and push it around with a broom and then sweep it out. This works like an old fashioned floor cleaner and absorbs all the mess so you have a clean, dry garage. - MRS. K.F.
DEAR POLLY - I no longer use alcohol puffs to keep my bathroom spic and span, since there is always a soiled towel around that has to go in the wash anyway. I first wipe the mirror with it and then the chrome fixtures (with a few drops of water added) and then the black tile caps around the walls. Everything is clean and the towel washes out as usual. - ALICE
DEAR POLLY - I wear sandalfoot nylons and was always dabbing clear nail polish on the tiny nubs that started at the seams in the toes. Now I cover these seams with the clear nail polish after I put on my hose and BEFORE the runs start. I get lots more wear from my nylons by doing this. - MRS. R.H.F.
