

Commissioners axe tax, pay raise

By SAM WALLER
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County commissioners did away with the proposed 7.999 percent tax increase on Monday, cutting $175,000 from the 1990 budget and voting to continue with the current tax rate of $4.697 per $100.

The largest portion of the cut came when a five-percent, across-the-board pay increase for all county employees was stricken from the budget. The measure took care of $106,720.

Other cuts made were $23,000 for new vehicles for the sheriff's department; $5,000 from the appraisal district budget; $20,000 from a machinery fund set up to provide new road equipment for precincts; $6,000 from the juvenile probation budget; $6,000 for salaries of two unfilled part-time positions in the county treasurer and Extension offices; and $3,000 each from the audit budget, salaries for part-time maintenance and the equipment and maintenance budget.

Another area that was proposed for cuts was the hiring of four new jailers at a cost of $96,484. The Texas Commission on Jail Standards had recommended the hiring of 12 new jailers. Commissioners expressed concern that if no jailers were hired, the state board may force the county to hire the recommended number.

The proposed pay raises, which made up about 61 percent of the increase, drew the most fire during discussion.

Cutting raises for all elected officials would have cut $16,555 from the total pay increase figure, according to County Auditor Alex Schroeter, and $6,295 would be saved if only the county judge and commissioners were not given a raise.

County Clerk David Ruland argued that most departments in the courthouse were already understaffed and overworked, and striking the pay increase would lower morale and productivity.

"It takes about two years to train new help," Ruland said. "If we have to replace anyone, it will slow us down."

County Judge Tom Simons traced monies the county has lost in the past few years. He said the county had lost about $250,000 it had been receiving from the federal government through revenue sharing and was getting little help from the state.

"The legislature has left it to the counties to raise the money (lost from revenue sharing)," he said. Simons added that tax breaks such as exempting farm implements and cattle from taxation and a decrease in population further eroded the tax base.

The possibility of spot raises was briefly discussed, but was determined to not be feasible.

Money cut from the sheriff's department came from $28,000 budgeted for new vehicles. It was decided to leave $5,000 in the account for repairs to current vehicles.

Simons said the department put about 85,000 miles each year on patrol cars and they would have close to 120,000 miles on them if used for another year.

"We aren't getting anything on the trade-in of these cars," Simons said, "so we may as well go ahead and keep them another year."

In other business, the commissioners granted permission for crossing a county road with a water line in Precinct 1, voted to advertise for medical health insurance coverage now carried by Blue Cross and called for a study on the amount funded by the county to the Hereford Area Economic Development Council.

Seniors okay expansion plan

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association board of directors will start plans today for an expansion project of the Senior Citizens Center, after members of the association Monday approved the project by a majority vote.

The proposed two-phase building program would add wings to each side of the existing building and, when completed, would almost double the size of the facility. Estimated cost is about $500,000 for the two additions. The association will seek grants and public contributions to help fund the expansion.

Margie Daniels, executive director of the association, said plans were to build the west wing first. This wing would feature an auditorium, exercise room and therapy tub. The auditorium would have a fold-out stage, dressing rooms, a backstage area and an office.

The second phase would add a wing to the east side and would include a garden center, open-air courtyards and special rooms for quilting, ceramics and other activities. The project would make space for additional dining room facilities and additional parking for 110 more cars.

Shirley Garrison, president of the association, said expansion of the dining room was an important part of the plan, pointing to capacity crowds that pack the center for lunch each day.

"We serve between 300 and 400 meals every day for dinner. Our association just keeps growing and that's the way we like it," said Garrison.

"We had about 50 members when I came here in 1978," said Mrs. Daniels, "and today we have something over 1,000." The association also prepares and delivers about 200 freshly-cooked meals to homebound individuals in Hereford. Three vans, manned by two paid drivers and seven volunteers, run the routes.

Although annual dues are only $12.50 per person, most of the center's $300,000 budget is met through donations and funding from state and federal agencies.

Bush, Walesa hold sessions

GDANSK, Poland (AP) - President Bush, in a dramatic windup to his trip to Poland, flew to the birthplace of Solidarity today for talks with Lech Walesa and his independent trade union allies who sparked a political upheaval in this Communist nation.

Bush and his wife, Barbara, arrived from Warsaw where the president unveiled a modest aid program for Poland on Monday, the first day of a 10-day European tour that will include an economic summit of seven industrial democracies in Paris later this week.

Bush may come under pressure from Walesa for a $10 billion package of Western credits and investment guarantees for the beleaguered country.

Bush has ruled out anything that large, and Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Monday no one really expected the president "to show up here with a big wheelbarrow full of dollars."

After a day of talks Monday largely with government leaders in Warsaw, Bush was meeting Walesa in the Baltic Sea city of Gdansk. From there, Bush was traveling to Budapest, Hungary, for another two-day stay.

After a luncheon at the house Walesa shares with his wife Danuta and their eight children at 54 Polanski Street, Bush was accompanying the union leader to the towering Solidarity Workers Monument outside the Lenin Shipyards.

Walesa, in an interview Monday, said Poland is making progress with its political freedoms faster than it is tackling its economic problems.

He said he wants Bush "to help us make this correction" so that financial matters are addressed with the same emphasis as political affairs.

Crowned by three crosses topped with anchors, the Solidarity monument commemorates the first three shipyard workers killed by government security forces during 1970 strikes over food prices that left 45 dead and 2,000 injured.

The president spent more than two hours in talks Monday with Communist Party leader Wojciech Jaruzelski and then met with him again over lunch and again at a state dinner.

Solidarity representatives also attended the luncheon, and one of them, Bronislaw Geremek, the union leader in the House, got the seat of honor at the head table next to Bush. Jaruzelski sat at a separate table with the president's wife, Barbara.

As the president's motorcade arrived at Radziwill Palace for the dinner, demonstrators among 1,000 people outside could be heard shouting "down with communism" and "Jaruzelski must go."

In a toast to Bush, Jaruzelski said, "May our relations always feature mutual respect, confidence and friendly feelings."

Interviewed later on ABC News, Jaruzelski said he spoke with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev about the meeting and added that Bush's visit was positive for future relations.

"I really am heartened that the leaders of the two big powers are guided by the same intentions and I feel that this bodes well for the future," Jaruzelski said.

The general, who imposed martial law in 1981 to crush Solidarity and imprison its leaders, said union representatives now share responsibility with the government for Poland's "destiny, its well-being, its position in Europe and in the world."

Fires rage through West

By ARTHUR ALLEN
Associated Press Writer

Fires ravaged hundreds of acres of Colorado canyons, destroying dozens of homes and threatening 100 others, and a prisoner on a California work crew was killed by a falling tree, the first fatality of this summer's Western blazes.

A second firefighter, struck by lightning, died in Arizona on Monday. More than 11,500 firefighters were on the lines in the Western states, up about 1,500 from Sunday, said Ann Finkelstein of the federal Interagency Fire Center at Boise, Idaho.

Finkelstein said that as of mid-Monday, 44 fires burned uncontrolled, covering about 167,000 acres, an increase of about 50,000 acres from Sunday.

Firefighters battled a half-dozen blazes in the Colorado mountains including a 1,900-acre fire that destroyed at least 49 homes near Boulder and another burning near the ancient Indian cliff dwellings of Mesa Verde National Park.

"It's like a war scene," said Jonathan Trent, whose mountain cabin was destroyed by fire. "It's like someone took a bomb and dropped it on the cabin."

Some residents, evacuated from their threatened homes, were allowed back under escort Monday to get valuables, but forced to flee again when wind turned the fire back on already burned areas.

About 300 firefighters were on the lines, and five 20-person crews from Kentucky were being dispatched, said Dave Steinke, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman. The edge of the fire was six miles west of downtown Boulder.

Sheriff Brad Leach said the fire was started Sunday by a resident.

"We know for sure where the fire started and that it was from somebody's trailer," Leach said. "We're questioning that individual to try and determine whether he knew he did it or whether it was an accident."

At Mesa Verde, site of the ancient Anasazi cliff dwellings, archaeologists flagged ruins so work crews digging fire lines would not damage them.

"We're not going to compromise the archaeology of the area to put a bulldozer line in," said Paul Hefner, a firefighter from the Bureau of Land Management.

The blaze, which had grown to 2,600 acres, was 50 percent contained Monday.

In California's scenic Big Sur wilderness, 120 miles south of San Francisco, a falling tree killed a prison inmate Sunday night and six members of his crew were injured, including two with broken bones, said state forestry department spokeswoman Karen Terrill.

"It's steep and rocky and slick," said forestry department spokesman Bill Jones.

The fire had blackened 2,655 acres and was 50 percent contained Monday night, Jones said.

In Nebraska, firefighters used aerial attacks against fires that burned dry pine trees and grassland over an area 22-by-8 miles in the state's northwest corner.

Up to six planes at a time each dumped 300 gallons of water on the flames.

The blaze, which officials estimated had charred about 50,000 acres since Saturday, was partially contained.

In Arizona, lightning struck and killed Ernie Cachini, a firefighter from New Mexico who was battling a fire in the Tonto National Forest.

Two fires that consumed nearly 2,000 acres near Fremont National Forest in south-central Oregon were largely controlled early today, the U.S. Forest Service said.

Cameron Gulley, a Life Scout in Troop 50, has taken on an ambitious Eagle Scout Service Project and he needs a little help from Hereford citizens. His plan is to honor all persons from Deaf Smith County who died in military service in World War I or II, the Korean War and Vietnam.

After obtaining and verifying the names of those who died in service, Gulley plans to put up a monument or plaque to honor the war dead. Getting the names of these persons was not as easy as might be expected, since there is not a single place to obtain the names.

The 17-year-old Scout has compiled the names, subject to additions or corrections, and now is seeking contributions to pay for the cost of an appropriate plaque or monument. Persons wishing to help on the project can make donations to the "Cameron Gulley War Dead Memorial Fund" at any local financial institution.

Gulley estimates the cost of the monument at about $1,200. When the project is completed, he plans to have a dedication ceremony. For more information, contact Cameron at 364-3410.

Mel Blanc, 81, dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Mel Blanc, "The Man of A Thousand Voices," including the legions of Looney Tune stars such as Porky Pig, Daffy Duck, Tweety Pie, Elmer Fudd and that mischievously silly wabbit Bugs Bunny, has died. He was 81.

The originator of such lines as Bugs' "Eh, what's up, Doc?," Sylvester the Cat's "Thufferin' thuccotash!," and Porky's "Th-th-th-that's all, folks!" died Monday from complications from heart disease and other ailments.

By his own count, Blanc estimated he had mastered at least 900 different accents and dialects during a career spanning more than 50 years.

Working in an age without high-tech sound effects, Blanc was a human synthesizer, a verbal computer. It has been estimated that more than 20 million people hear his voices daily.

He invented the voices of such characters as Woody Woodpecker, Speedy Gonzalez, Pepe Le Pew, Tasmanian Devil, Road Runner, Foghorn Leghorn, Heathcliff the cat, Speed Buggy, Yosemite Sam and that Oscar-winning rabbit Bugs Bunny.

He also did voices for Elmer Fudd, the Roadrunner and numerous other characters he performed on 850 cartoons for Warner Bros.' Looney Tunes and Merrie Melodies.

He was the babbling Barney Rubble and the hyperactive, yammering Dino, Fred Flintstone's pet dinosaur on the popular Hanna-Barbera series; Mr. Spacely on "The Jetsons" and the Frito Bandito.

"Those voices were part of him, and he loved every moment of it," said Blanc's son, Noel. "When the kids would come to the door or in the studio, he became those characters."

His final cartoon contribution came with 1988's popular animation-live action film, "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," in which he did the voices of Daffy, Tweety, Bugs and Sylvester.

Seven arrested over weekend

Seven persons were arrested over the weekend by Hereford police, including a man, 29, on a city warrant for contest of speed; a man, 34, for driving while intoxicated; a man, 28, for public intoxication and two outstanding warrants; two men, ages 31 and 36, and a woman, 32, for public intoxication; and a man, 37, for driving while intoxicated and running a stop sign.

Officers were dispatched over the weekend to the area of Knight and Lake to a fight in progress. Upon arrival, officers did not see a fight but stopped a suspect pickup traveling south on Knight. The vehicle was stopped and several juveniles were questioned about the fight. In the bed of the pickup were several baseball bats and sticks.

Other incidents included a husband who allegedly struck his wife in the face. Later in the day, while the husband was laying on the bed, the wife allegedly struck him in the face with a lamp.

Reports also included the rear window of a car broken out while parked in the 100 block of Country Club; a "jam box" worth $59 taken in the 400 block of Avenue E; theft of beer at a convenience store on South Main; charges of assault and disorderly conduct are being filed against a man and a woman in an incident involving a brother hitting his sister; a license plate stolen from a vehicle in the 300 block of Avenue F; a bicycle stolen in the 300 block of Blevins; harassing phone calls in the 100 block of North Texas; and disorderly conduct by a man, 21.

Police issued 68 citations over the weekend. Hereford volunteer firemen responded to a vehicle fire in the 400 block of Barrett and to a dumpster fire on South Main.

Reports on Monday included an ex-husband following his ex-wife and her boyfriend around; a pickup stolen in the 400 block of Avenue I; theft at a business in the 800 block of West Park; a disturbance in the 600 block of Irving; an unsupervised child case being investigated; a prowler in the 400 block of Avenue H; a lost child in the 600 block of Columbia that was found later Monday evening; criminal mischief in the 400 block of Blevins; and a license plate stolen off of a car in the 700 block of 25 Mile Avenue.

One person, a 34-year-old man, was arrested Monday, on charges of no liability insurance, second offense, and driving while license suspended.

Police issued nine citations on Tuesday and investigated two minor accidents.

Deputies arrest two

Two persons were arrested by the Deaf Smith County sheriff's office, including a man, 26, on a Plainview warrant for violation of probation; and a woman, 27, on a local warrant for violation of probation and several warrants from Randall County.

Reports included two domestic disputes in the San Jose Labor Camp and the theft of some aluminum pipe at a farm near Hereford.

Progressive reunion set Sunday

All friends and former residents of the Progressive Community are invited to attend its 29th reunion Sunday at the Hereford Community Center.

According to President Pete Carmichael, "The doors will be open at 10:30 a.m. but little action is anticipated until eating time. So, bring your basket lunch and join in the fellowship, the music and songs."

CANCER FIGHT

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Scientists at the University of Rochester say they are trying to harness the power of light in the fight against cancer.

David Whitten, Russell Hill and David Barber are developing compounds they hope will, when activated by light, kill cancer cells but leave healthy cells intact. If successful, the compounds could be injected into a patient and the area of the tumor would be irradiated by a low power laser which would kill the tumor.

Patients would be asked to avoid sunlight for a few days after treatment - a minor inconvenience compared to the unpleasant side effects from radiation and chemotherapy.

Abundant Life

A WINNING SPIRIT
By Bob Wear

The living experience is a challenge to each person, and it is a continuing challenge. Reasonable and satisfactory living requires that we develop, maintain and nurture 'a winning spirit.'

This is the spirit which enables us to do the important things, the things that should be done. We see the obstacles, we are realistic, but a winning spirit makes us strong. This doesn't mean that we are invincible, but we are strong. We never give up, if the job needs to be done; we just continue to try.

"The block of granite which is an obstacle in the pathway of the weak, becomes a stepping stone in the pathway of the strong."-Caryle.

A winning spirit must abide in us, as individuals, as families, as groups, and as a community. We must never give up, because giving up is loss by default. We may fail now and then, but we must never stop trying. Without this 'winning spirit', we are like a stove with the fire gone out, or like an engine with the power gone.

It is the spirit of defeatism that really hurts us. When this spirit is accepted, people and communities become insipid. There are many people and communities radiant with life today just because they refused to give up. Within limitations of good judgment, and good sense, we can do what needs to be done and we can be what we should be. This is the realization which is so very essential to meaningful living.

"To think that we are able is almost to be so; to determine upon attainment itself; earnest resolution has often seemed to have about it a savor of omnipotence."-S. Smiles. Of course, there will be some failures, but these do not mean that we are failures. We are not defeated unless we stop trying.

A winning spirit is appropriate to our origin, our purpose for being, and to our eternal destiny.

La Russa tabs Stewart as AL starter

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Even the All-Star Game seems too small a spectacle to showcase Nolan Ryan.

He seems to be reaching a new level of stardom.

Think about it. Ryan is on track to end his career with more than 300 victories and 5,000 strikeouts. To equal that total in a 15-year span, a pitcher would have to win 20 games a season with 333 strikeouts.

He signed as a free agent with Texas this season and seems to be flirting with a no-hitter every other week.

At 42, Ryan still is popping his fastball at 95 mph and doing nasty things with curve balls.

Oakland's Dave Stewart starts tonight's 60th All-Star Game against San Francisco's Rick Reuschel, 40. Ryan was the sentimental choice to start, but Tony La Russa went with his man.

"I thought long and hard about Nolan," La Russa said. "But I think Stewart is having the best season of any pitcher in the American League."

For Ryan, 10-4, it's a homecoming of sorts.

He played for the California Angels from 1972-1979, pitching four no-hitters. In 1981 for Houston, he threw a record fifth no-hitter.

Last Thursday night, Ryan pitched in Anaheim and threw a three-hitter with 12 strikeouts in beating the Angels.

"The other night here was one of those special times in a professional athlete's career," Ryan said. "And it was certainly one of the highlights of my career. It really made me feel good that after 10 years the fans have not forgotten me and that they did appreciate my years here."

There's a lot to appreciate about Ryan's career.

In addition to his five no-hitters, he has 11 one-hitters and 19 two-hitters.

On 189 occasions, he has struck out 10 or more in a game. Against the Angels on Thursday, he pitched his 56th career shutout, tying Bob Gibson for 12th place on the all-time list.

Earlier this season at Toronto, he came within two outs of his sixth no-hitter.

"You never know about those things," Ryan said. "The one in Toronto was the most disappointing one, when you get that close and don't get it. ... But hopefully that opportunity will arise again."

The other All-Stars look at Ryan differently, too.

"I'd like to get his autograph," said Kevin Mitchell, who leads the majors with 31 homers and 81 RBIs.

While La Russa's staff is rested and healthy, Tommy Lasorda may have to go to the bullpen early and often.

Houston's Mike Scott was a late dropout due to a strained hamstring and will be replaced by Chicago's Rick Sutcliffe. Orel Hershiser threw in relief on Sunday at Wrigley Field.

The National League's order: Ozzie Smith, St. Louis, shortstop; Tony Gwynn, San Diego, right field; Will Clark, San Francisco, first base; Kevin Mitchell, San Francisco, left field; Eric Davis, Cincinnati, center field; Howard Johnson, New York Mets, third base; Pedro Guerrero, St. Louis, designated hitter; Ryne Sandberg, Chicago, second base, and Benito Santiago, San Diego, catcher.

Darryl Strawberry of the New York Mets and Jose Canseco of Oakland were elected to the starting teams but will not play because of injuries. Mike Schmidt, who retired in May, was elected as the NL's starting third baseman and has been replaced by Johnson.

Correa rehab continues

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Edwin Correa of the Texas Rangers is going all the way back to the start to find his way back to major league form.

Correa, whose last major league pitch was on July 5, 1987, is headed for the Gulf Coast Rangers, the Rangers' rookie squad in Port Charlotte, Fla.

Plagued with a shoulder problem, Correa will be pitching one or two innings every other day with the squad for about 10 days and is planning to be back with the Rangers by mid-August.

"That's what I'm shooting for," Correa said. "It might take shorter, or it might take longer. It remains to be seen."

Correa has spent most of the past two years trying to find a way around the shoulder problem, which prompted Dr. Frank Jobe to recommend major surgery this winter.

Now Rangers pitcher coach Tom House has sketched out a rehabilitation program for Correa in which he will progressively increase the number of pitches he throws.

House also is putting him on a program of heavy weights to strengthen the muscles around the injured area.

He will get mound work every other day under House's plan, which is designed to go through mid-August.

Team officials say it is possible Correa could be promoted to triple-A Oklahoma City or double-A Tulsa before the program is completed.

"I'm happy my arm is back," Correa said. "I'm happy that I found the right thing for my arm and that Tom House is here. All my prayers have been answered."

49ers' Walsh takes NBC job

NEW YORK (AP) - Bill Walsh, the former coach who led the San Francisco 49ers to three Super Bowl championships, has resigned as the team's executive vice president to become an NBC football analyst.

"It should be a great challenge for Bill, something he seems to be in need of as the 1989 season quickly approaches," team owner Edward J. DeBartolo Jr. said in a statement released by the team Monday night.

"Bill and I have had lengthy discussions on the subject and he leaves the team with all of our blessings and my best wishes," DeBartolo said in the statement. "Simply put, NBC made him an excellent offer in an area of great interest to him."

Walsh couldn't be reached for comment.

Walsh, 57, who led the 49ers to NFL titles in the 1981, 1984 and 1988 seasons, quit as coach last January to move into the front office, leaving the coaching job to George Seifert.

In a statement from the network, NBC Sports president Dick Ebersol and executive producer Terry O'Neil "confirmed that Bill Walsh has resigned as executive vice president of football operations for the San Francisco 49ers to join NBC sports as the No. 1 football analyst, working with play-by-play man Dick Enberg."

NBC wouldn't comment on the status of Merlin Olsen, who has been Enberg's partner on NFL telecasts. Olsen also is an actor and has indicated he might drop his announcing duties to pursue acting fulltime.

The network said further details of the Walsh hiring would be announced Saturday during a news conference at Los Angeles.

"He needs a challenge and misses coaching," Stephen Kay, Walsh's lawyer, said Monday in an interview with KGO-TV of San Francisco.

Walsh's relationship with DeBartolo began to sour in 1987 when Walsh was stripped of his title of team president after San Francisco lost in the first round of the playoffs for the third straight season.

"This is not General Motors, Ford and Chrysler," Walsh said at the time.

"There are 28 competing teams, all mobilized and reasonably well-coached, so you should go to the Super Bowl about once every 14 years. Owners and others have to recognize the fact they can't just, by their own will, demand their team win. ... Just to be in the playoffs, you have survived a war of attrition."

Although DeBartolo never said Walsh's status as coach was in danger, Walsh began feeling the heat when the 49ers slipped to a 6-5 record late last season. The 49ers won four of their last five games and then surged through the playoffs, beating Cincinnati in the final minute of the Super Bowl.

Less than a week later, Walsh resigned as coach, but made sure DeBartolo selected Seifert as his replacement.

"I look forward to my new career," Walsh said when he moved into the front office. "It's been 10 great years. ... It was a 31-year (coaching) career, and there's a time for everybody at some point to step aside."

Now Walsh has completely stepped away from the 49ers. His record with the 49ers was 102-63-1. He also was head coach at Stanford and an assistant coach with the Cincinnati Bengals, Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers.

DeBartolo praised Walsh as "one of the greatest coaches of all time."

Walsh attends workouts as trade talk flies at Valley Ranch

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys maintain they picked quarterback Steve Walsh without a trade in mind, saying they want him to compete with Troy Aikman for the starting job.

Whether possible starter or just prime barter, Walsh said that when he takes the field Tuesday he will forget about the company line, contract negotiations and what city he will play for come September.

The second day of drills in the Cowboys' two-week quarterback school marks the first time that Walsh, the No. 1 pick in the supplemental draft, will practice with Aikman, the top pick in the NFL regular draft.

"There'll be butterflies, I'm sure," Walsh said Monday after a 30-minute workout in which he threw passes to wide receiver Michael Irvin and running back Mike Lowman, also chosen in the July 7 supplemental draft.

"But I'm just going to go out and learn the Cowboys' system," Walsh said. "I think they're going to sign me, possibly by next week."

Walsh will need to be under contract in order for him to attend the Cowboys training camp July 23 in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

"That's really the only way to be fair," Walsh said. "They say they want Troy and me to compete. Then it's got to be on equal terms. And equal terms means getting to camp on time, with a contract."

Walsh said he's seeking a two-year deal with an option for another two years.

Several teams have indicated an interest in Walsh, including Minnesota, Green Bay, Miami and Detroit, all places that Walsh said he would like to play.

But for now, at least, Walsh is a Cowboy. And he's back with coach Jimmy Johnson, whom he played for at the University of Miami. In two years as a starter, Walsh led the Hurricanes to a 23-1 record and a national championship in 1987.

Johnson said that while at least four teams are serious about acquiring Walsh, "we drafted him to be with the Dallas Cowboys."

When asked for how long, Johnson stammered and laughed.

"Funny guy," he said. "Funny guy."

Walsh should catch on quickly, having learned Johnson's offensive system at Miami. "But I wouldn't say anybody has an edge," Johnson said.

"I'd say the job's open."

The Cowboys have five quarterbacks attending the minicamp, including Walsh, Aikman and talented second-year man Scott Secules. But only 37-year-old Danny White and well-traveled Babe Laufenberg have ever taken an NFL snap.

Last year's starter, Steve Pelluer, hasn't signed a contract for the 1989 season and has asked to be traded. Johnson said the Cowboys haven't gotten any calls about Pelluer.

With such an abundance, it seems certain the Cowboys will unload one rookie quarterback. Aikman has a one-year, no-trade clause.

Nuggetts' new owners crack barrier

DENVER (AP) - Bertram Lee and Peter Bynoe, the new owners of the Denver Nuggets, want to be judged on their business acumen and their ability to field a winning product, not on the color of their skin.

But as breakers of new ground - they're the first black owners of a major professional sports franchise - they are aware those judgments may be inseparable.

Previous Nuggets owner Sidney Shlenker on Monday confirmed the transaction to the Chicago-based businessmen for $65 million. The franchise will remain in Denver.

Shlenker, who made a handsome profit on the sale, said Lee and Bynoe were "minorities in a more important way than the color of their skin. They are minorities in their code of ethics and their code of integrity that I wish everyone in this country could have. They'll make Denver a better place for having been here."

Shlenker called the agreement, which is subject to approval by NBA owners, a historic occasion.

Lee, 50, owns television and radio stations in Washington, D.C., Utah and Nebraska and also is chairman of BML Associates Inc., an investment holding company in Boston.

Bynoe, 38, is the $125,000-a-year executive director of the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority, which is responsible for building the new home of the Chicago White Sox.

"We're mindful of what this event means," Lee said. "But color is not an issue we're trying to downplay or play up. We carry a heavy responsibility. We'll probably be looked at more closely than if the circumstances were different. But it's a challenge we accept."

Lee said he disagreed with black sociologist Dr. Harry Edwards, who has warned that blacks should seek ownership of franchises in conjunction with whites to avoid facing the no-win situation of receiving no credit for success and all the blame for failure.

"I don't think the color of our skin will be the standard against which we will be principally measured," he said. "I think this is a positive. The diversity in this country is something we should celebrate. It's something that has made this country great."

Added Bynoe: "It is clear to us when we look in the mirror each morning who we are. But we've never used it as an excuse or carried a chip on our shoulder. If we become role models - if we manage to set a standard for performance - we'll be very satisfied."

Lee said he wants an efficiently run and profitable club, and Bynoe said the surest way to make money was to win a championship. Both acknowledged that some changes with the Nuggets must be made, although coach Doug Moe's job appears safe for the time being.

They announced one change at Monday's press conference, installing former Utah Jazz executive Dave Checketts as the club president in charge of the day-to-day business end of the franchise. Checketts also becomes a minority owner.

Pete Babcock, who had been president and general manager since October 1987, retains his role as general manager with jurisdiction over the basketball operation.

Lee noted that Shlenker bought the franchise in 1985 for $19 million and, less the cost of improvements, approximately doubled his money with the sale to Lee's group.

"The real reason we bought this team is Sidney assured us that Doug (Moe) had doubled what every owner had made from when he bought the team until when he sold it," Lee joked. "I asked Doug if he would continue that tradition and how long would it take. He said it would take a millennium. So we'll be here for a millennium - or until Doug doubles what we paid for it."

Bynoe said he and Lee have three goals in any business venture they jointly pursue. "First, we want to make money," he said. "Second, we want to have fun doing it. Third, we want to have a positive impact on the community."

Bulls hire Phil Jackson as coach

CHICAGO (AP) - Phil Jackson didn't have time to make a list when the Chicago Bulls called him away from a fishing hole to take the coaching job of the club had just stripped from Doug Collins.

But if he had, the downside would be this: Why follow a coach who was highly successful, immensely popular and fired under seemingly unjust circumstances?

Yet, if it turned out to be the only asset on the other side of the ledger, the name Michael Jordan would be enough to make most men do what Jackson did - accept.

"It was easy to make the decision to coach this club. But it was hard to think about the circumstances," Jackson said Monday, two years after becoming an assistant to Collins and three years after being passed over for the Bulls' job in the wake of Stan Albeck's firing.

And the reason it was easy, Jackson explained, was Jordan.

"He's got this almost magical power, and the challenge now is to come up with a way where he doesn't have to use it on every play. ... For him to be strong at the end of the season, when we need him most, we're going to have to come up with some kind of offensive scheme that doesn't put all the weight on his shoulders."

The perception that Collins might have pushed Jordan to the point of diminishing returns - leading the NBA in points scored and minutes played and the Bulls in just about every category - was thought to be in part responsible for his sudden dismissal.

Jackson, who lasted through 13 NBA seasons largely because of his defensive skills and who managed the Bulls' defense for Collins, thinks that's the way to get Jordan more breathing room.

"Defense is the one reliable feature day in and day out. ... We don't need Michael on the defensive board. We've got to get him out of the way of the elbows ... and get him out in front a little more for the easier baskets," Jackson said. "We can do that by extending our defense."

Jordan, asked about the coaching shakeup, wasn't taking any sides.

"There's a little bit of Doug Collins in Phil Jackson," Jordan said. "And, hopefully, Phil can pull it off and give us the leadership we actually deserve and need to take it as far as we want to go."

Jackson's NBA experience as a head coach is limited to one game last December when Collins was ejected. But he spent five seasons guiding the Albany Patroons of the Continental Basketball Association, which named him the top CBA coach in 1985.

He moved into the Bulls' top job four days after Collins, who led the Bulls to within two games of the NBA finals, was fired for what were called "philosophical differences" with owner Jerry Reinsdorf.

Both Reinsdorf and general manager Jerry Krause refused to elaborate on the reason for Collins' dismissal during a news conference on

Knicks pick Stu Jackson to be coach

NEW YORK (AP) - Stu Jackson believes his experience as an assistant coach for the New York Knicks is more important than his lack of experience as an NBA head coach.

Jackson, 33, became the NBA's youngest coach on Monday when the Knicks gave him his first head coaching job at any level.

"I may lack years of experience, but having spent the last two years with this team, I feel I'm experienced enough with this team," Jackson said.

Jackson was a Knicks assistant the last two years under Rick Pitino, who resigned in May to become coach at Kentucky.

"One of the big factors in Stu's favor is that he's been here," general manager Al Bianchi said. "He has as much experience in the pro game as Rick had when he became head coach. It's an easier transition when you take a man who is already here. No one was coming in here that I didn't know. There are going to be no more surprises."

To offset the inexperience factor, Bianchi hired Paul Silas and Ernie Grunfeld as Jackson's assistants.

"We've surrounded Stu with 30 years of NBA experience and if he has a question, all he has to do is ask," Bianchi said.

Silas and Grunfeld played a combined 25 years in the NBA, and Silas was coach of the San Diego Clippers for three years. Grunfeld played for the Knicks for four seasons before becoming their radio analyst two years ago.

"I will rely heavily on Paul's experience and Ernie is well-liked," Jackson said. "I think we will have one of the most outstanding staffs in the NBA."

Jackson said his biggest adjustment

Monday.

But Collins made clear that he bore no grudges against management or Jackson, whom he praised virtually every time an NBA coaching vacancy turned up.

Terms of the deal were not disclosed, but the Chicago Tribune said Jackson will get a four-year contract with the first two years guaranteed. The deal calls for about $275,000 the first year and escalates to about $350,000, the newspaper said, sums similar to those in Collins' contract.

Tips, trends, recipes given for successful barbecues

NEW YORK (AP) - During the summer, the outdoor fun starts early and the sun sets late.

The following suggestions will help you plan a barbecue that will be remembered long after you've packed away your summer outfits:

- Test your barbecue grill before the summer season starts to be sure that everything is working properly. Don't forget to clean the grill thoroughly.

- Take inventory and stock up on supplies you'll use throughout the season, including napkins, plastic forks and knives, paper cups and paper tablecloths.

- Plan your menu several days before the big event. Buffet style is easiest to plan and prepare.

- Don't forget the bug repellent spray. Citronella candles are available in a variety of shapes and sizes and help create ambience. They will also help keep annoying insects away.

- To prevent foods from sticking and to avoid direct contact with the heat source, use heavy-duty aluminum foil to line the grid. Delicate fish fillets especially benefit from this cooking style.

- Salt food when it is done (salt draws out the juices), and don't salt it over the grill because the salt will corrode the metal.

- To prevent burning, soak your wooden or bamboo skewers in water for at least 1 hour prior to cooking.

- If you're using skewers, it's best to parboil some vegetables, like beans, peppers, potatoes and small whole onions, before cooking with meat so that all foods are done at the same time.

EXOTIC BARBECUES

When you're tired of hot dogs and hamburgers, try something more exotic - like Indian, Korean or Caribbean cuisine.

Rich Davis, creator of K.C. Masterpiece barbecue sauce, says Tandoori-inspired fare is easy to prepare on the barbecue grill.

Poultry can be marinated overnight in yogurt spiced with cumin, turmeric, cinnamon, ginger and garlic. If desired, a drop of red food coloring mixed with water can be brushed over the chicken just before grilling to add the traditional fiery hue.

Meaty short ribs take on a Korean accent when brushed with a blend of garlic, ginger, sesame oil and soy sauce before and during the cooking process.

To create tropical Caribbean tastes, marinate beef in coconut milk, rum, ginger and crushed, dried hot red peppers before grilling.

Most vegetables cook quickly on the grill. Many can be grilled over medium-hot heat directly on an oiled grid or in a foil pan. Some, like endives, green beans and squash, are best cooked covered.

For a light dinner, cook an assortment of fresh vegetables brushed with freshly squeezed lemon juice, olive oil and herbs.

Sprinkle the vegetables with freshly grated Parmesan cheese for extra zest. You can also brush tomato-based barbecue sauce over the vegetables during the cooking process. When the vegetables are done, toss with grated Cheddar or Swiss cheese.

COOKING WITH FOIL

Davis says cooking with foil adds a new dimension to backyard barbecues. Foods cook quickly and thoroughly, yet remain moist. "Best of all," he adds, "cleanup is a breeze."

There are two methods for foil cooking on the grill when foods need to be completely covered.

Davis says the "drugstore wrap" is best for foods such as sliced vegetables or meats that need to be turned. Place the food in the center of a large piece of foil. Bring the edges up over the food and fold a few times, allowing some air space. Then fold the ends tightly a few times to avoid leaks.

The "bundle wrap" is for foods like cauliflower or apples that don't need to be turned. The food is centered on a generous piece of foil, and the four corners of the foil are brought together and folded tightly, allowing some air space for steam.

ICED BEVERAGES

Iced tea is a favorite beverage to quench summer thirsts. Blanchard & Blanchard, makers of food products from Vermont, says you can create a unique iced tea by combining several of your favorite types of tea, such as orange, lemon or mint, and letting the mixture brew in the sun on your windowsill.

Another flavorful idea: make iced tea with bottled or sparkling water, for an all-natural, caffeine-free beverage.

MICROWAVE ICED TEA

The following method for making iced tea in the microwave, suggested by the makers of Celestial Seasonings herb teas, offers the taste of brewed iced tea with the convenience of instant. Just be sure the tea bags do not contain staples, which can cause arcing or sparks in the microwave.

Place 1 cup hot water and 4 tea bags in a microwave-safe container. Cook on high for 2 minutes. Remove tea bags from hot tea. Sweeten while hot, if desired. Place 3 cups cold water in a 1-quart pitcher. Add hot tea to pitcher of cold water. Pour over ice to serve.

BARBECUE BOOKS

"Betty Crocker's Best Recipes for Grilling" (Prentice Hall Press, $9.95) features more than 100 recipes, six grilling menus and a special section with tips on grills, starting the fire, grilling safety, and determining when food is done. Recipes for beef, pork, lamb, veal, poultry, fish, seafood, vegetables, breads and desserts are included.

"Gourmet Fish on the Grill" by Phyllis Magida and Barbara Grunes (Contemporary Books, Chicago; $8.95) offers dozens of delicious and elegant ways to grill fish. You'll find information on equipment and techniques, serving suggestions, and ideas for using leftover grilled fish. Charts with buying tips and cooking times are included. More than 90 recipes are featured, including appetizers, side dishes and desserts.

"The Complete Book of Outdoor Cookery" by James Beard and Helen Evans Brown, written in 1955, has now been released in paperback by Harper & Row ($8.95). From the grill, fire and fuel to recipes for all food groups, this cookbook covers it all. You can select from grilling, broiling, roasting, deep fat frying, smoking or skewer cooking.

"Barbecue Recipes: Indoors and Out" is a free booklet with barbecue tips and recipes by the makers of K.C. Masterpiece barbecue sauce. For your copy, send your name and address with 50 cents for postage and handling to: K.C. Masterpiece Barbecue Sauce, Department CC, Box 24305, Oakland, CA 94623.

TERIYAKI FILLETS

1 1/2 pounds cod, haddock or halibut fillets, about 1-inch thick
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed

If fish fillets are large, cut into 8 serving pieces. Mix all ingredients except fish. Pour over fish. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Remove fish, reserving marinade. Cover and grill fish about 4 inches from medium coals, turning once and brushing occasionally with reserved marinade, until fish flakes easily with a fork, 12 to 20 minutes. Garnish with lemon wedges and parsley sprigs if desired. Makes 8 servings.

("Betty Crocker's Best Recipes for Grilling")

K.C.'S BARBECUED CHICKEN

2 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil

2 cloves garlic, pressed
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup barbecue sauce

One 3- to 3 1/2-pound chicken, cut into serving pieces

Combine oil, garlic, salt and pepper; rub evenly over chicken pieces. Place a drip pan in the bottom of the grill and arrange hot briquets around drip pan (about 30 per side). Place dark meat over drip pan; cover grill and barbecue 15 minutes, turning once and basting with barbecue sauce. Add white meat; barbecue 15 minutes longer, turning and basting with sauce. Reposition chicken pieces on grid directly over coals. Grill, uncovered, about 10 minutes longer, turning once or twice and basting with sauce, until skin is lightly crisped. Chicken should be moist and tender. Heat additional barbecue sauce to serve with chicken. Makes 4 servings.

Note: If using chicken quarters, extend barbecue time 5 to 10 minutes as needed.

COGNAC BEANS

1 pound dried white beans
Water
1 clove garlic
1 onion
2 cloves
Bay leaf
Thyme
1 small onion, chopped
1/4 cup butter
2 cups tomato puree
1/4 cup minced parsley
2 teaspoons salt
1-3rd cup Cognac

Soak beans in water to cover. Add garlic, the onion stuck with cloves, bay leaf and a sprig or pinch of thyme. Simmer until beans are tender, drain and reserve the liquid.

Saute the small onion in butter until colored, add tomato puree, parsley, salt, Cognac and 1 cup of the bean liquid. Simmer this mixture 30 minutes, mix with the beans, correct seasoning and reheat in a casserole before serving.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Would it be true that a person having difficulty assimilating fat, as in sprue, would not be at risk for a high cholesterol? What considerations are there for managing sprue?

DEAR READER: Any of the numerous diseases that prevent normal absorption from the intestines is likely to be associated with a low total cholesterol level. Celiac sprue is a classic example. These people have an allergic intolerance to gluten protein found in almost all cereals except corn and rice. They do not absorb fat well and usually have diarrhea. That results in numerous vitamin and mineral deficiencies — particularly deficiencies of the fat-soluble vitamins.

The absorption of fat significantly enhances the absorption of cholesterol. In patients who have a very low cholesterol level, it is wise to look for diseases such as sprue that interfere with absorption.

The best approach to the management of celiac sprue is to avoid all sources of gluten — cereals, flour, prepared foods that contain flour such as cream soups and ice cream and often even candies. But foods can be made with cornstarch, rice flour and soybean flour. Vitamin and mineral supplements may be needed.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Honduras topic of meeting Thursday

Sandi Harkins gave a summary of her missionary work in Northern Honduras when members of the Loyal Baptist Women of First Baptist Church met July 5 in Kinsey Parlor.

Harkins, who grew up in the Frio Community, is the daughter of Earl and Carleta Harkins. She explained that she lives in a primitive place, the village of Colorado Bar which has a population of 450. The only way to reach there is by railway flat car which is hand-operated. She said that the location is so remote that there is no electricity or running water. She told of the schools the missionaries have started and discussed the first aid station. She also presented slides and a video tape.

Theda Seiver, assistant W.M.U. director, presided in the absence of President Bonnie Sublett. A letter of appreciation from Buckner's Children's Home in Lubbock was read expressing thanks for the banquet held in honor of the graduating senior resident students. Also, an offering was taken for Seamen's Bibles.

Marie Stringer brought the Calendar of Prayer.

Those in attendance were Lucy Kirksey, Seiver, Annie DeLozier, Ella Oglesby, Lolita Vinson, Stringer, Leatrus Clark, Leona Sowell, Thelma Auten, Jewell Hargrave, Frances Crume, Gladys Miller, Helen Eades, Margaret Young, Grace Covington, Lillie Stagner and Donnie Owen.

Recognized as special guests were Sandi Harkins, Carleta Harkins and Gabriel Ogan.

Modeling sports togs

The patio of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center was the site of Thursday's quarterly meeting of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. A show of sports styles by the All Star Sports Center was featured, as owner Ron Weishaar emceed. Among the models were Esther Del Toro and Wendy Connally, at right.

Because of sales contests, the price of a new car may be better at the end of each month.

The fastest-moving glacier in the world is the Quarayaq in Greenland which flows 65-80 feet per day.

The ancient Greeks believed the rainbow was placed in the heavens by the gods to foretell war.

Wear it right!

Shoulder belts should be snug. Don't allow more than 1 inch of slack. Never wear the belt behind your back or under your arm. The correct position is over the shoulder, snug across the chest, and low on the lap.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
This may sound like a silly question but it is the cause of an argument in my household. When wrapping an item in aluminum foil for the freezer, does the food go on the shiny side or does the shiny side remain on the outside? — A Reader, Memphis, Tenn.
We called a leading aluminum foil manufacturer to find out the correct response, and guess what? It really doesn't matter which side is out.
Usually the shiny side out looks better, but the food will taste the same either way.

The manufacturer said that when the foil is made, it is rolled and one side of the foil gets shiny because it comes in contact with the heavy roller while the other side doesn't, which makes that side duller. This should settle this issue, and best of all no one was wrong! — Heloise

SEND A GREAT HINT TO:

DIET TIP
Dear Heloise: I hate to think of myself on a diet so I think of it as watching what I eat. You know the saying that you are what you eat!
I found mid-afternoon a great challenge because I would be hungry and ready to eat anything.
To solve this problem, I cut up some carrots and cucumbers and place them in a bowl. I add a few ice cubes to keep them cool and crisp and when I have a snack attack I nibble on these nutritious snacks. Sure has helped me, and the other gals in the office appreciate it as well. We even take turns bringing the veggies. Each person has a favorite so we get a wide range throughout the week. — Ruby M., Flushing, N.Y.

This is good nutritional advice for anybody watching calories. We do the same in our office. I like to use low-calorie salad dressing as a dip. Easy too! — Heloise

Snyder publisher heads press group

Roy McQueen, publisher of the Snyder Daily News, was elected president of the Texas Press Association during the group's annual meeting held in Arlington, June 22-24.

McQueen succeeds Fred Lowe, publisher of the Lampasas Dispatch Record, who becomes chairman of the board.
Founded in 1880, the Texas Press Association includes 518 newspaper members. McQueen, a member of the TPA since 1968, has served as a director of the organization twice, as well as vice president.

McQueen, 44, has been in the newspaper business for 30 years. He began his career as a sports reporter for the Andrews County News in 1959 when he was in the 8th grade. While in high school, he worked for the semi-weekly newspaper and filled the role of news editor his senior year when the news editor resigned to take a position with the Midland Reporter-Telegram.
During those years he was also editor of the high school newspaper, and worked after school at the Andrews County News. Still using hot type production, it was here that McQueen was introduced to hand-set headlines and page make-up.

When he graduated from high school in 1963, McQueen was awarded a journalism scholarship from the West Texas Press Association, a regional press organization of which he later became president. As a freshman, McQueen attended North Texas State University. The following year, he commuted to Odessa College and worked full-time at the Andrews County News.

In 1965, he transferred to Texas Tech University and went to work for O.G. Nieman at the Stanton Stanton. On the weekly newspaper, McQueen handled both news and advertising.

In 1966, McQueen joined the editorial staff of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Most of his stint at the Avalanche-Journal was in sports, both as a reporter and deskman. He also served one year as managing editor of the University Daily and taught the reporting and editing lab for the school's journalism department.

Upon graduation from Texas Tech in 1968, McQueen became publisher of the weekly Seminole Sentinel. In October of that same year, he was drafted into the U.S. Army and took a leave of absence from the newspaper.

In the army, McQueen served as a public information specialist and was editor of the Fort Bliss Monitor. He also spent nine months as an information specialist in Germany.

In 1970, McQueen returned to the Seminole Sentinel. In December of that year, the newspaper was changed to semi-weekly. While in Seminole, he was president of the Industrial Foundation and Seminole Rotary Club.

In 1976, McQueen and associates in Roberts Publishing Co. purchased the Snyder Daily News. During his 13 years as publisher of the 6-day daily, the company has built a new modern facility complete with 6-unit Goss Community press. McQueen also writes a daily front-page column and directs a staff of 21 employees.

In Snyder, he has been active in the chamber's economic development committee. He was active in successful efforts to secure a 1,000-bed state of Texas prison in Snyder which employs approximately 350 persons. The efforts of McQueen and the Snyder Daily News resulted in the newspaper being awarded the Community Service award from the TPA in 1988.

McQueen also is a member of the Snyder Lions Club, and a deacon of the 37th Street Church of Christ. He is a former member of the Snyder school board and is currently a member of the board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Married to Bettie Harmon, also of Andrews, the couple has one son, Marc, who is a sophomore at Texas A&M University. Bettie, a business education graduate of Texas Tech University, is dean of instruction at Western Texas College in Snyder.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, July 11, the 192nd day of 1989. There are 173 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight In History:

On July 11, 1804, Vice President Aaron Burr mortally wounded former Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton in a pistol duel near Weehawken, N.J.

On this date:

In 1533, Pope Clement VII excommunicated England's King Henry VIII.

In 1767, John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, was born in Braintree, Mass.

In 1798, the U.S. Marine Corps was created by an act of Congress.

In 1864, Confederate forces led by Gen. Jubal Early began their invasion of Washington D.C.

In 1934, President Franklin D. Roosevelt became the first chief executive to travel through the Panama Canal, aboard the cruiser Houston.

In 1955, the new U.S. Air Force Academy was dedicated at Lowry Air Base in Colorado.

In 1974, the House Judiciary Committee released volumes of evidence it had gathered in its Watergate inquiry.

In 1977, the Medal of Freedom was awarded posthumously to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. in a White House ceremony.

In 1978, 216 people were killed when a tanker truck overflowed with propylene gas exploded on a coastal highway south of Tarragona, Spain, setting off a fireball that devastated a nearby campsite.

In 1978, the National League downed the American League, 7-3, in the 49th annual All-Star Game.

In 1980, American hostage Richard I. Queen, freed by Iran after eight months of captivity because of poor health, left Tehran for Switzerland.

In 1985, Nolan Ryan of the Houston Astros became the first pitcher in major league baseball to strike out 4,000 batters as he fanned Danny Heep of the New York Mets.

Ten years ago: The abandoned U.S. space station Skylab made a spectacular return to earth, burning up in the atmosphere and showering debris over the Indian Ocean and Australia.

Five years ago: Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole ordered that airbags or automatic seat belts be installed in cars beginning with some 1987 models unless states enacted laws requiring seat-belt use.

One year ago: Nine people were killed when three gunmen launched a gun-and-grenade attack on hundreds of tourists aboard the Greek cruise ship City of Poros, which was steaming toward a marina in suburban Athens.

Birthdays: Actor Tab Hunter is 58. Singer Bonnie Pointer is 38. Boxer Leon Spinks is 36.

Thought for Today: "Oh, what a tangled web do parents weave—When they think their children are naive." — Ogden Nash, American poet and humorist (1902-1971).

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have heard every excuse under the sun for mothers who work ("Band-Aid parenting," I call it) while their children are left in day-care centers or with grandmothers or sitters.

I try to understand but it's awfully hard to applaud a system in which children get 12 minutes a day from mother and seven minutes from father.

Many of the problems that young people face today (not the least of which are gangs, drugs and sexual promiscuity) would be alleviated if mothers stayed at home and built relationships with their children. No institution or person, no matter how competent, can take a mother's place. Yet we see all sorts of programs that are designed to knit the family together. It's like trying to glue together a vase that has been smashed.

The one bright spot is that many professional women are realigning their priorities and staying at home during child-rearing years. This bodes well for the future. I'll sign myself--Billings, Mont., Observer

Tennis wear shown

Andy Lucero and Esther Del Toro modeled the latest in tennis fashions Thursday night at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. The style show was seen by over 50 members and guests of the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce during their quarterly meeting.
