Mental exam set for man who shot at White House

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The young man accused of peppering the White House with rifle bullets is spending today in a psychiatric "forensic screening" to determine whether he is competent to understand the charges against him.

The preliminary mental examination of Francisco Martin Duran was ordered Monday by U.S. Magistrate Deborah Robinson. The government announced in court that it was charging Duran with four felonies carrying a maximum sentence of 35 years in prison and a fine of $1 million.

For the examination, the 26-year-old Duran was not taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, the federal mental facility in the District of Columbia where John Hinckley is confined. Instead he was to be examined by a forensic specialist from the D.C. Superior Court.

"It's a forensic screening for mere awareness of time, place, date and that kind of thing," said William H. Griffin III, the chief deputy marshal for the U.S. District Court. He described the examination as "like a Rorschach test," a personality analysis.

Robinson set a hearing for Wednesday afternoon, where she will determine, on the basis of the 24-hour examination, whether to send Duran for a 30-day mental examination or for a preliminary hearing. Prosecutors said a letter taken from Duran's pickup truck "raises questions whether he is competent" to continue in the legal process. The letter was not released.

U.S. Attorney Eric H. Holder Jr. said later the request for the 24-hour psychiatric evaluation was "not an indication that we believe he is incompetent." Nor was it, he said, an indication that prosecutors thought Duran "was at the time of the offense insane."

The magistrate abandoned her normal, tiny courtroom for the high-security chamber used for major drug trials. Spectators and reporters were separated from the well of the court - judge, lawyers and defendant - by thick, bulletproof plastic.

Duran, wearing a black polo shirt and jeans, was not handcuffed when he entered the courtroom for the 15-minute session. He stated his name, raised his right hand and swore to tell the truth. He was not required to say anything else and did not. At his side was a lawyer from the public defender's office, Leigh Denny.

Holder said authorities had recovered two letters - the one in the truck and another Duran was carrying when he was seized outside the White House after the shooting Saturday afternoon.

Also found in the truck, according to prosecutors, was a shotgun, an arsenal of ammunition, a gun magazine, a machete, sleeping bags and a stuffed animal. There also were firing range targets, both used and new.

Officials indicated earlier that one letter dealt with the distribution of Duran's effects in the event of his death.

Getting ready

Checking out ballot-counting equipment in preparation for the general election Tuesday are Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland and deputies, Sue Schroeter, left, and Connie Urbanczyk. Early voting in the election continues through Friday. The number of early voters climbed to 1,072 by Tuesday morning.

Texas Baptists to bypass convention

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Texas Baptists voted Monday to allow local churches to bypass the Southern Baptist Convention with donations to mission and seminary programs.

The vote allows congregations to contribute to projects of their own choosing and have it credited to the Texas Baptist Cooperative Program.

The move came as 6,079 "messengers," or delegates, from Texas Baptist churches gathered at the Amarillo Civic Center for the 109th annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Moderates sought the vote as a way to loosen the grip long maintained on local congregational contributions by the Southern Baptist Convention.

The change will allow each local church to decide where the state convention sends the church's donation, while having the donation still count as part of the Cooperative Program.

Over the decades, the Cooperative Program has funneled millions of dollars into state, national and worldwide missionary efforts.

Last year, Texas Baptist churches donated $63.5 million to the Cooperative Program. About $40.2 million stayed at the state level, and the other $23.3 million went to the Southern Baptist Convention at the national level.

Moderate churches now will be able to withhold money from the conservative-dominated national body and target funds for specific programs, such as the moderate Cooperative Baptist Fellowship, and still have the donations count toward the Cooperative Program.

Many messengers who voted "yes" for the change said they hope it will help unite Texas Baptists, even those who have become disenchanted with the Southern Baptist Convention.

But one messenger said the change would "destroy the greatest missionary delivery system in the history of Christendom."

"The big winners in this will be the Texas convention and the missionaries because that's what Texas Baptists want to support," said Dr. David Currie, San Angelo coordinator for the moderate Texas Baptists Committee.

"It frees churches to support everything that the SBC has done, some of what the SBC has done, and none of what the SBC has done," he said.

It was unclear what repercussions the vote would cause.

Some conservative leaders had announced contingency plans for splitting off from the state convention and forming a new, conservative body if the moderates prevailed.

Two Panhandle Texas pastors, one who voted "yes" and one who voted "no," said the decision would not affect their local churches. They said their congregations would continue to give money to missions.

Airplane crash claims lives of all on board

By NANCY ARMOUR
Associated Press Writer

ROSELAWN, Ind. (AP) - First there was a rumble, then the high-pitched whine of engines at full throttle as the doomed commuter plane plummeted to the ground "like a black streak coming down."

American Eagle Flight 4184 from Indianapolis to Chicago crashed in a driving rainstorm Monday afternoon about 60 miles short of its destination, killing all 64 passengers and four crew members.

Witnesses said wreckage of the twin-engine propjet was scattered across a muddy 40-acre field in northwest Indiana, 30 miles south of Gary. Searchers just shook their heads. "What we did see, we didn't like," said firefighter John Knapp.

Firefighter Jerry Cramer said he talked with emergency workers returning from the crash site. "They said any piece of the plane was small enough it could have been carried out by hand," he said. "There's not one body that's intact."

The full plane took off nearly an hour late because of heavy traffic at Chicago's O'Hare Airport, and was kept in a holding pattern, said

American Eagle spokesman Tim Smith. Neither the airline nor airport officials said how long the plane had been waiting to land.

After being cleared for landing, the plane began a descent from 10,000 to 8,000 feet, then disappeared from radar, Smith said.

At the time, winds were gusting to 49 mph in Gary, the closest reporting station, and about 2 inches of rain fell Monday near the crash site, the National Weather Service said.

Witnesses said there was driving rain when the plane went down.

"It sounded like (the pilot) had it full throttle, like a stunt pilot, like he was going to try to bring it up," said Bob Hilton, who was working under the hood of his truck.

"It came down, almost straight down, not at an angle - just straight down," said Larry Midkiff, who saw the crash as he was driving along a highway. "It didn't look like it had a left wing on it. It just looked like a black streak coming down."

The plane's cockpit voice recorder was recovered and the flight data recorder was being sought, Jim Hall, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said this morning.

Bob Spitzer, director of operations for Indianapolis International Airport, said weather in northwest Indiana at the time of the crash was "moderate" and visibility was about 2 1/2 miles.

"Those don't appear to be horrible conditions," said Spitzer, who also is a private pilot. "It's not a nice clear day but it's certainly the kind of thing that any pilot would typically fly right into. Those kind of conditions are not at all unusual. Pilots fly into those conditions every day."

The plane was an American Eagle Super ATR, a high-wing, twin-engine propjet that began service in March. The pilot had been with the airline seven years and the co-pilot five years. The crew was based in Chicago.

Frightened friends and relatives in Indianapolis and Chicago waited for word on whether their loved ones were on board. JoAnn Hankins, a cashier at a book and candy store in Indianapolis International Airport, said some of the passengers had been worried about the flight before they boarded.

It was the third major plane crash this year.

Demos getting confident, but GOP should still gain

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats are boasting of momentum in the midterm campaign's final week and have reason to cheer in some places, particularly big statehouse contests. But the evidence still suggests major Republican gains in Congress.

The factors Democrats cite in predicting a late comeback are President Clinton's improving poll numbers, the experience and fund-raising advantages of many Democratic incumbents and what they believe are strategic mistakes by Republicans.

"The psychology of this campaign has changed," said White House political adviser Tony Coelho. "Democrats now are feeling there is something to go out and vote for. The Republicans peaked too soon."

That is a line that will be heard over and over this week as Clinton travels the country trying to boost Democratic turnout, and gets some help from other administration officials and new Democratic ads suggesting Republicans would try to cut Social Security if they get control of Congress.

But tough Democratic odds in many of the places Clinton is visiting - and the fact that Democrats are still fighting for the votes of blacks and the elderly so close to Election Day - belies the talk of a dramatic turnaround.

In Pennsylvania on Monday, for example, Clinton campaigned for two Democrats in tough races heading into the final week: Sen. Harris Wofford and Lt. Gov. Mark Singel, who is running for governor. Other Senate candidates on Clinton's dance card this week include Bob Carr in Michigan, Joel Hyatt in Ohio and Ron Sims in Washington state - all trailing.

Where Democrats are justified in feeling a little more confident is in races for governor. Democratic Govs. Mario Cuomo of New York and Lawton Chiles of Florida have opened up narrow leads after weeks of trailing, and the feeling among Democrats in Texas is that Gov. Ann Richards has had rival George W. Bush on the defensive lately. Even in California, Democratic nominee Kathleen Brown has closed the gap on GOP Gov. Pete Wilson, though few Democrats are predicting she will win.

Just by getting closer in California and other statewide contests - the Washington Senate race is another example - Democrats believe turnout will improve enough to save House seats at risk of being caught in a GOP tide. But the flip side is true across much of the Midwest, where GOP governors entered the final week with huge leads and could have coattails for Republican House candidates now slightly behind.

The campaigning of Clinton and other Democrats this week is designed to exhort blacks and other core Democratic voters to cast ballots instead of staying home because they think major races are over.

It is in this final week that the Democrats' $8 million coordinated campaign plan gets its big test: The money is used by state parties, labor unions and other allies to identify Democratic voters and make sure they get to the polls.

Republicans are countering with a get-out-the-vote plan that includes more than $10 million in aid to state parties, in addition to money given directly to GOP campaigns. Already, polling indicates a higher percentage of those likely to vote Tuesday are Republicans.

GOP leaders concede Clinton's numbers have improved a bit and that many major contests have tightened. In addition to the governor's races, House Speaker Thomas Foley of Washington has battled back into a dead heat with his challenger.

Bryant calls for lobbying reform

WASHINGTON (AP) - When Congress reconvenes late in November, it should try again to pass lobbying reform, said a Democratic congressman who says House Republican leader Newt Gingrich "sabotaged" the legislation last time around.

"The entire premise on which the Republicans based their opposition was false," Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas, said at a news conference Monday. His charges are based on a March 4 letter from Gingrich asking for certain changes in the legislation. "He sabotaged the bill," said Bryant, "by opposing the very provision he asked to be in the bill." A final version of the measure passed the House. Republicans in the Senate killed it with a filibuster.

Preparations under way for Hereford High Homecoming

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford High School will celebrate Homecoming this weekend as the Whitefaces take on district foe Pampa.

Activities for Homecoming will be held throughout the day Friday and the public is invited to show its Herd Pride by taking part in the Homecoming Parade or turning out for the Pep Rally.

Linda Lowe of Hereford High said the public has until Thursday to sign up to take part in the parade.

The parade will be held immediately following the pep rally.

A float form is available from Lowe or at the HHS office or by calling her at 363-7658.

Homecoming activities will kick off at 2 p.m. Friday, with the Pep Rally in the high school gymnasium. The Homecoming King and Homecoming Queen will be crowned at the rally.

Immediately following the rally, the parade will begin from the high school, led by the Homecoming royalty.

It will proceed south on Avenue F to Park, west to Main Street, then south to downtown.

The theme of Homecoming is "60s - The Wonder Years."

Action moves to Whiteface Stadium at 7 p.m. for the pre-game festivities.

The Homecoming royalty will be introduced to the audience at that time.

The Herd then takes the field at 7:30 p.m. for the District 1-4A contest against the Pampa Harvesters.

The Herd goes into the contest with a 4-4 record, coming off a 19-0 drubbing on Canyon last weekend.

Following the game, Homecoming will shift back to the high school for the annual Homecoming Dance.

The dance will be held until 1 a.m. and students affected by the curfew will be allowed to stay until the end of the school-sponsored dance, Lowe said.

Cost to attend is $3 per person.

Music will be by Entertainment Plus Dance Machine, which features a variety of music and a 10-foot high diagonal screen.

The community is encouraged to turn out for Homecoming activities and support the Whitefaces this weekend.

For more information on activities, call Lowe.

Homecoming o'lantern

Having two celebrations -- Halloween and Homecoming -- in the same week gave Ester Flores, a fifth-grader at West Central Intermediate School, the opportunity to be creative with her jack o'lantern design. She anticipated homecoming with this two-pumpkin creation decorated like a Hereford High School cheerleader.

Local Roundup

Windy, warmer

Hereford enjoyed a mild 61-degree day Monday and a low Tuesday morning of 40 degrees. The forecast for Tuesday night is for fair skies and a low in the middle 40s. Winds, south to southwest, will blow at 10-20 mph. Partly cloudy, warmer and breezy are on tap for Wednesday. The mercury should climb into the upper 70s and winds will be from the southwest, 15-25 mph and gusty.

Freshmen set supper

The Hereford High School freshman class supper will be held on Friday in the Hereford Junior High School cafeteria. The dinner will be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Cost is $4 for a bowl of chili and all the fixin's. The menu includes chili, cornbread, cole slaw, cheese, dessert and coffee or tea. Carry-out orders also are available for an extra 50 cents.

Kiwanians to cook pancakes

The Hereford Kiwanis Club will hold its annual pancake supper on Tuesday, Nov. 8, in the HHS cafeteria. Cost to attend is $3 per person, with pre-schoolers admitted free. It will be from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. and admission entitles diners to eat all they can. Carry-out orders also are available for an extra 50 cents. Proceeds will go to benefit a variety of Kiwanis activities in Hereford.

School board to meet

The HISD board of trustees will meet at 6 p.m. today with a variety of items to discuss. On the action agenda is the Shirley School construction project, a class size waiver and Textbook committee work. Also to be discussed is the Gun Free Schools Act of 1994 and construction management firms will make presentations to the board. The meeting is open to the public.

Tearful jury prospect excused after telling wartime experience

By LINDA DEUTSCH
 AP Special Correspondent
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — A prospective juror in the O.J. Simpson murder case wept Monday as he revealed how close he came to killing a fellow soldier during the Korean War.

"I have had a very personal and dynamic experience with the will to commit murder," the man volunteered under questioning by Superior Court Judge Lance Ito. "I know what powers can be brought to play."

Asked to explain, he said, "It's a very strong, emotional experience, and I may not be able to get through it."

At the judge's urging, the man launched into perhaps the most dramatic story told yet during the exceedingly personal questioning of prospective Simpson jurors.

The 61-year-old sheet metal worker said he was serving in the Army during the Korean War and endured "a year of harassment" from a fellow soldier.

"Then there was the proverbial straw that broke the camel's back," he said. "There was great anger and fear. I wanted to kill this man."

One night, as he stood guard duty outside the barracks where the man slept, he removed his gun from his shoulder, placed a finger on the trigger and contemplated shooting into the barracks to scare him out into the open so he could shoot him.

"But I thought, 'The minute I pull this trigger, I will be out of control,'" he said. "There were 32 men sleeping in that building. I had two 15-round magnums."

He began to cry. "It took all my strength, physical, emotional and spiritual, just to take my finger off the trigger."

The judge and lawyers conferred at the bench and agreed to dismiss the man. Ito thanked him for his candor.

At day's end, five people were questioned and kept, four were quizzed and dismissed and the final prospect was told to return for more questioning Wednesday. In all, 42 people from the first wave of roughly 84 prospects remain in the jury pool.

The judge planned to give lawyers the day off Tuesday to consider their choices, then let them begin exercising peremptory challenges Wednesday.

Peremptory challenges enable attorneys to remove any prospect without stating a reason. They can't dismiss someone because of race or gender.

Twelve jurors and eight alternates will be selected to hear the case against Simpson, who is on trial for the June 12 slayings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

In other developments: Deputy District Attorney William Hodgman disclosed that his office received a tip that a prospective juror who already has been through the first round of questioning gave opinions about the case at work. The call came from someone who said the prospective juror was a co-worker. The judge said he would take up the matter Wednesday.

Simpson suffered an attack of intestinal problems over the weekend, his attorney said. The judge inquired how he was feeling Monday morning and Simpson replied: "Pretty good."

Longtime politicians draw candidates' fire

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison and Democratic challenger Richard Fisher are lashing out at longtime politicians in Washington.

At a San Antonio Chamber of Commerce luncheon, Mrs. Hutchison promised Monday to fight government regulations on small businesses and said politicians who have been in Washington for decades don't realize the effects of such laws.

"They are well meaning," she said. "They just don't understand the consequences of the taxes and the regulations that are strangling our small businesses."

Fisher, a Dallas businessman, also denounced career politicians as he campaigned Monday in the Rio Grande Valley.

"I doubt many bureaucrats and professional politicians in Washington have actually rolled up their sleeves and worked on the ground level," Fisher said at the End of the Road Ministries in Harlingen.

"Texas communities need leaders who have worked in the real world and understand how to empower individuals rather than entrap them," he said.

Fisher advocated reducing welfare bureaucracy and increasing opportunities for the poor. He's closing out the campaign with a tour of some 50 towns to visit community service programs.

In Raymondville, Fisher told

Richards seeks aid for areas of flood

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards on Monday asked federal officials for more money to help 37 Texas counties rebuild public facilities damaged by this month's floods.

The affected Southeast Texas counties have already been declared disaster areas for the purpose of individual emergency assistance.

Gov. Richards' request Monday seeks funding to help local officials repair damaged roads, bridges, schools and other public buildings and to pay overtime costs associated with the flood.

Jo Schweikhard Moss, spokeswoman for the state division of emergency management, said it's still not certain how much flood damage was sustained by public facilities.

If the request is granted, counties will be able to apply for Federal Emergency Management Agency funds to repair their property. The federal aid would cover 75 percent of any costs, with counties paying the rest.

At least 20 people died in the flooding, which resulted from three days of torrential rains. Ms. Moss said more than 15,000 homes were damaged, but no dollar figure has been attached to the losses.

She said officials anticipate that around 75 percent of total losses in the floods were experienced in Harris, Montgomery and Liberty counties.

The other counties declared disaster areas were: Angelina, Austin, Bastrop, Brazoria, Brazos, Burleson, Chambers, DeWitt, Fayette, Fort Bend, Galveston, Grimes, Hardin, Houston, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Lavaca, Lee, Madison, Matagorda, Nacogdoches, Orange, Polk, San Augustine, San Jacinto, Shelby, Trinity, Tyler, Victoria, Walker, Waller, Washington and Wharton.

senior citizens they need to be assured of affordable health care and an independent Social Security trust fund.

Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican, again stressed her campaign themes of a strong defense and of reforming but not overhauling the health care system.

Mrs. Hutchison spoke confidently about serving a full six-year term in the Senate and said she would stand up as an "independent vote" when she disagrees with President Clinton.

She said she wants the opportunity to finish the work she has started.

"We've got one more week (before the Nov. 8 election). We are in the home stretch, and I'm just glad that it's almost here," she said.

Three decorators omitted from list

Three decorators for the Festival of Trees program were inadvertently omitted from the list published in the Senior Scene section of Sunday's Brand.

West Central School, Hereford Care Center, and the Golden Line Dancers were not included in the listing. The Brand apologizes for these omissions.

Autopsy ordered
 An autopsy was being done Tuesday morning on a Hereford man who died of a gunshot wound at his home Monday night.
 Earl Ray Winters, 70, of 1006 18th St., was found dead in the back room of the home by his wife when she returned home from work Monday, said Deaf Smith Sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Hodges.
 He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine at 6:40 p.m.
 The body was taken to Lubbock, where an autopsy had been scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday.
 An investigation is continuing. Hodges said the wound appeared to be self-inflicted.
 A ruling by Turrentine in the death is pending.

Stevens goes to conference
 Ike Stevens, local investment representative for Edward D. Jones & Co., recently attended a three-day meeting in St. Louis, Mo., where the top seven percent of the company's representatives were invited to a Managing Partners Conference.
 Stevens was one of only 171 of the firm's more than 3,100 investment representatives invited to attend.
 "The conference gives us an opportunity to not only recognize the outstanding efforts of our top representatives, but also to provide a forum for presenting and discussing some major issues relating to our industry," explained John Bachmann, managing principal of the firm.
 The meeting, titled "World of Equities," included presentations by directors of successful corporations such as Colgate, Campbell Soup, Southwestern Bell and Banc One.

Hawkins' execution set for fourth time, Dec. 7

BORGER — Samuel Hawkins, 51, the so-called "traveling rapist," who has gained reprieve from three previous execution dates, is now scheduled to die on Dec. 7.

The newest execution date for Hawkins was set Friday by 84th Judicial District Judge William Smith. Hawkins had been sentenced to die for the May 3, 1977 capital murder of Abbe Rodgers Hamilton of Borger.

Hawkins was also convicted and sentenced to die for killing 12-year-old Rhonda DeAnn Keys of Amarillo in 1976. He also received a life sentence for aggravated rape in the assault and beating of a 21-year-old Hereford housewife in 1976.

Only 2 1/2 hours before Hawkins' last date with death on Feb. 10, the U.S. Supreme Court granted a reprieve. The court ordered the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to consider Hawkins' claim that the jury for his 1978 trial in Lubbock should have been instructed to consider evidence that he suffered chronic physical and emotional abuse from his father.

The appeals court subsequently rejected Hawkins' claim.

Public is invited to attend annual FUMC holiday bazaar

"Christmas Around the World" is the theme of the bazaar sponsored by the First United Methodist Church. The event will be held from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday in the church fellowship hall.

The hall will be filled with booths for food, children's items, Christmas gifts, crafts, candy, and needlework. The "trash and treasurers' booth" will be located in the Stark House south of the church education building.

Hot coffee and baked items will be served for early morning shoppers.

One of the highlights of the bazaar will be the international luncheon served at noon. The menu will feature spaghetti with meat sauce, sauerkraut and sausage, green salad, French bread, apple strudel and French scones. Price per plate will be $5 and $2 for children under six years of age.

A drawing will be held that afternoon for a handmade quilt created by the "Crafty Ladies Group" and for a bride doll and Indian doll made by church members.

Annual bazaar planned

The First United Methodist Church invites the public to attend its bazaar, "Christmas Around the World," from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday in the church fellowship hall. Displaying some of the items that will be sold at the children's booth are Blayre and Seth Hatley. Another highlight of the bazaar will be an international lunch served at noon. Price per plate will be $5 per person and $2 for children under six years of age.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I own a dog, my only pet. I keep "Bozo" in a fenced yard and do not allow her to roam the neighborhood.

One morning, however, Bozo found her way out of my yard. While she was on the loose, she attacked my neighbor's cat. The cat was seriously wounded during what must have been a brutal fight. The vet tried very hard for three days to save her, but unfortunately, all his noble efforts failed, and finally, the cat had to be euthanized.

I felt very bad about this and acknowledged full responsibility. I told the owners to send me the vet's bill and that I would take care of it. A week later, the bill arrived, and I wrote them a check for the full amount.

After I paid the bill, it dawned on me that their cat was roaming loose, the same as my dog. Weren't they equally responsible for this attack? One community just passed a law stating that cats must be controlled when outdoors and kept on a leash, the same as a dog. This is starting to make sense to me. I am going to school full-time, and the bill, while not unreasonable, was most of a month's wages for me.

What do you think, Ann? Should I have offered to share the expense equally with my neighbors instead of paying the whole bill?—Dogged in Colorado

DEAR DOGGED: The facts are: Your dog killed the neighbor's cat. You were very decent about it and paid for the cat's medical treatment. Let this be the end of it.

To try to re-open this case (which you would probably lose) would be costly in terms of time, money and energy, plus losing the goodwill of your neighbor. Forget it. Keep reading for another dog-cat litter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, you ran a letter from a jogger in Albuquerque concerning the city's cat overpopulation problem. I was disappointed by your response defending cats.

You were comparing apples to oranges when you brought dogs into the picture. Dogs have nothing to do with the city's overpopulation of cats. It is abusive and cruel for any owner of a domestic pet, cat or dog, to allow it to roam the streets.

You said cats do not bark and annoy the neighbors, but cats cannot lead a blind person through the streets and return him or her safely home. Cats cannot alert a deaf person to the fact that the phone is ringing, a visitor is at the door of a fire alarm is sounding. Cats cannot detect illegal drugs or predict epileptic seizures. So, please Ann, when you address the issue of careless cat owners, please leave dogs and their owners out of it.

Albuquerque obviously has a problem, but "trapping" the cats is not a viable solution. Spay and neutering laws should be enforced, as well as stricter laws on letting cats roam free off their owners' property. If you are a "cat person" don't let it blind you to the fact that the city has a problem. Encourage city officials to ensure the safety of its feline population.—Canine Public Relations in Minneapolis

DEAR CANINE: Your letter made a great deal of sense. I bow to your superior wisdom. Thanks for writing. Gem of the Day: If opportunity came disguised as temptation, one knock would be enough.

Is that Ann Landers column you clipped years ago yellow with age? For a copy of her most frequently requested poems and essays, send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. CROTON-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. (AP)—He's a welcome guest on Howard Stern's show and a constant source of amusement to David Letterman. But quiet Croton-on-Hudson would prefer that Joey Buttafuoco just go away.

Village officials are threatening to rescind a film permit granted to Cold Grey Entertainment for the movie "Cul-de-Sac" if Buttafuoco comes to town.

"We're a very peaceful, tranquil, quiet, pristine community," village trustee Georgianna Grant said in Friday's New York Times. "I would not invite Joey Buttafuoco into my home. I don't necessarily think he should be invited into our village."

The movie is about two men who witness a murder in a forest. Buttafuoco plays a taxi driver.

Buttafuoco served four months in prison for having sex with an underage Amy Fisher. The teen-ager shot and wounded Buttafuoco's wife.

The film company said it'll stand by Buttafuoco.

"There's a certain kind of working-class honesty about him," said casting director Abigail McGrath. "If you want working class, Mr. Buttafuoco's your man."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Roseanne and Tom Arnold proudly proclaimed themselves "white trash with money." The last part, at least, was a little iffy.

Money magazine says the pair "may have set a record for letting cash slip through their fingers."

The article, based on a study of 100 pages of financial data from Roseanne's divorce action against Arnold, says the two were cash-poor. Ed Rosenson, senior tax manager of the Seattle-based accounting firm Moss Adams, estimates they grossed $20 million to $30 million in 1993. But the magazine reports that they had net liquid assets of only $633,707.

Arnold's spokeswoman declined to comment and Roseanne's publicist did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (SWBT) has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) to restructure the current PLEXAR I and II service offerings. This restructure will significantly change PLEXAR I and II services.

The restructuring of PLEXAR I will, among other things: (1) reduce the maximum line size from 30 to 9; (2) obsolete and grandfather certain optional features; (3) eliminate the requirement to subscribe to Feature Package Two in order to subscribe to certain optional features; (4) reduce the nonrecurring and monthly rates of certain features; and (5) increase the nonrecurring charges for the PLEXAR I System Charge ($2.10 to $8.00), Call Transfer Disconnect feature ($3.00 to $8.00), and Convenience Dialing I feature ($6.35 to $8.00). All current PLEXAR I customers will have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR I service, switching to the new restructured PLEXAR I service, or switching to PLEXAR II service with ten or more lines.

The proposed PLEXAR II restructure will, among other things: (1) change the tariffed offering to serve the market segment of 10-74 stations; (2) create two station pricing structures, one for customers with 10-29 stations, and one for customers with 30-74 stations; (3) reduce the sensitivity for the loop portion of the rate to two price bands 0-2 miles, and beyond 2 miles; (4) offer a PLEXAR II basic station that can be flexibly configured, from a number of standard features, to meet the individual customer requirements; (5) change the way the termination liability is calculated so the customer is responsible for 65% rather than 56% of the present worth of the remaining monthly payments in the contract; (6) create an option that allows month-to-month customers to convert to long term contracts of at least three years and receive a credit or "contract signing bonus"; and (7) establish a System Subsequent Change Charge which applies per serving central office when changes are made that affect the entire system.

Current PLEXAR II customers will also have the option of keeping their current PLEXAR II service, or switching to the new restructured PLEXAR II service. PLEXAR II customers with at least 75 stations also have the option of switching to PLEXAR Custom service in certain situations.

This application has been assigned Docket Number 13210. Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by November 28, 1994. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221 tele-typewriter for the deaf. Spikers clobber Caprock to set up date with Dumas

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team closed the season with a 15-8, 15-5 win over Caprock Saturday in Amarillo.

Hereford closed the regular season at 11-1 in District 1-4A and 26-5 overall.

Dumas also won Saturday, downing Canyon 16-14, 15-4 to run the Demonettes' record to 11-1 in district, 22-6 overall.

Both teams winning sets up a district playoff match at 7 p.m. today at the Amarillo High School Activity Center. The match will determine which of the two will be the district's No. 1 seed in the playoffs.

been set (for the Hereford-Dumas match).

VOLLEYBALL STATS at Caprock

Kills: Heather Hodges, 7; Tarabeth Holmes, 6; Danielle Cornelius, 5; Crystal Kelley, 4; Brooke Bryant, 3.

Staffs: Britney Binder, 2; Cornelius, 2.

Aces: Jessica Evers, 3; Krista Beville, 1.

Digs: Hodges, 6; Evers, 5; Bryant, 3; Aimee Alley, 2; Deanna McCracken, 2; Beville, 2; Holmes, 2; Clarissa Ramirez; Binder, 1.

The Hereford junior varsity team finished a stellar season with a 15-1, 15-1 whipping of Caprock. Julie Rampley served for 26 of the points, including points 1-14 in the second game.

Hereford finished with a 24-3 record.

"They were a great bunch of kids who worked hard, worked at getting better," coach Royce Spies said. "They all improved a lot over the season."

An item in a column in Thursday's Amarillo Daily News pointed out that Amarillo High's volleyball team finished the regular season undefeated and the football team was undefeated with one game left (which the Sandies won). The University Interscholastic League (UIL) does not keep such records, but that may be one of the few times that has happened on any level.

Furthermore, the column said, AHS' other football teams—the JV, sophomore and freshmen teams—all were undefeated, and the JV volleyball team finished 22-1.

That loss was handed to the Lady Sandies by the Hereford JV.

Herd netters fall in regional semis

The Hereford tennis team advanced to the semifinals of the Region I-4A Tennis Tournament in Lubbock before losing to No. 2 seed Big Spring, 10-1, on Saturday.

Hereford got to the semifinals by winning twice on Friday, beating No. 4 seed Cleburne 13-5 in the first round, then defeating Burkburnett 10-3 in the second round.

It was the first semifinal appearance for the Herd tennis program since 1990.

Big Spring went on to fall to No. 1 seed Wichita Falls 11-0 in the finals. Only Wichita Falls will advance to the state tournament.

District 1-4A champion Borger got the No. 3 seed and also made the semifinals, but the Bulldogs lost to Wichita Falls.

The tournament ended up about how Herd coach Ed Coplen expected.

"There were two really good teams there: Big Spring and Wichita Falls," he said. "Borger and we were third and fourth (best) and that's about the way it came out. Everybody else was pretty equal."

Big Spring dominated Hereford's girls, winning eight matches in straight sets. Hereford's boys doubles teams put up a fight, as Tom Jarecki and B.J. Lockmiller provided the Herd's only win in the match, and the other two doubles matches went three games. Big Spring won them, though, and since the team win was assured, the boys' singles matches were not played.

Following are the complete results of the Herd's three matches.

Loerwald, Kalka tie in contest

Ruth Loerwald and Bernadette Kalka tied for first place in this week's Hereford Brand Football Contest, as both missed six of 25 games and both picked Hereford 28, Canyon 7 as the tie-breaker. The actual score was Hereford 19-0.

Loerwald and Kalka will split the combined first- and second-place winnings, so each will receive $20 in Hereford Bucks.

Daniel Edwards was among four others who also missed six games but his tie-breaker selection (Hereford 21-20) was closer than those of Dan Odell, Pete Vargas Sr. and Brian Henrick. Edwards will pick up $10 in Hereford Bucks.

This week is the last chance for contestants to qualify for next week's grand prize contest. Everyone who has finished first, second or third in any week, including this one, will be entered in a separate contest next week. The winner will receive a trip to the game between the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins Nov. 20 in Irving.

Cross country boys take 4th in district

Hereford's boys finished fourth and the girls were sixth at the District 1-4A Cross Country Meet held Saturday in Amarillo.

Canyon won both the boys' and girls' races, while the Caprock boys and the Borger girls were second. All four teams will go on to the Region 1-4A meet.

Canyon won the boys' race with 27 points, followed by Caprock with 40; Borger with 104; Hereford with 110; Pampa with 130; Randall with 142; and Dumas with 160.

Canyon won the girls' race with 34 points, followed by Borger with 74; Randall with 76; Pampa with 87; Caprock with 125; Hereford with 134; and Dumas with 166.

The Hereford boys were led by Tommy Mather, who finished tenth with a time of 17:55 on the three-mile course. He was followed by: Pedro Del Hoyo, 15th in 18:09; Lee Mungia, 18th in 18:25; Miguel Carrillo, 29th in 19:09; Brandon Coleman, 32nd in 19:15; Miguel Huerta, 37th in 20:37; and Sammy Ruiz, 21:55 (he got no place).

"I'm very pleased with the boys' efforts," coach Martha Emerson said. "The boys have done a good job."

Last year, Hereford didn't have enough boys to run a team at the district meet.

"I feel we're on the way back up again," Emerson said. "I had 13 guys running this year and 11 will be back next year."

Emerson wasn't as happy with the girls' showing.

"I think they're capable of more," she said. "That's what disappointed me—they were capable of doing better. If we would have worked harder all year, I think we would have done better. We might not have been second, but we could have been third, like last year."

Jamie Harrison led the Hereford girls, running the two-mile course in 13:50 and finishing 18th. She was followed by: Bethany Townsend, 21st in 13:56; Teresa Lopez, 26th in 14:37; Nora Herrera, 28th in 14:44; Marie Crox, 34th in 15:23; Karon Harder, 35th in 15:41; and Beverly Celaya, 36th in 15:42.

Hereford boys also took third in the junior varsity competition. The JV runners were: Josue Pena, eighth in 19:50; Flavio Cardenas, 11th in 20:03; Justin Criner, 12th in 20:09; Rafael Del Hoyo, 14th in 20:49; Isacio Garcia, 18th in 21:29; Edgar Herrera, 26th in 22:42; and Justin McDowell, 24:24 (he got no place).

Veronica Castillo was eighth in the girls' JV race, but no time was available for her. She was the only Hereford girl in the JV race.

Bonilla, Franco in trouble for threats

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball owners filed an unfair labor charge Monday for alleged threats made last week by three New York players: Bobby Bonilla, John Franco and Scott Kamieniecki.

Franco, a free agent who relieved for the Mets last season, was quoted as saying he would "go after" with his "fists" any player who broke ranks and attempted to play while the union was on strike.

Bonilla, a Mets outfielder, was quoted as saying any player who crossed a picket line would "end up in the East River."

Kamieniecki, a Yankees pitcher, said that after a settlement he might throw at players who broke ranks.

The three are player representatives and members of the union's executive board.

"The above-reference threats and other similar threats made by agents of the union were intended, and reasonably tend, to restrain and coerce major league players," said the charge, which was filed with the regional office of the National League Relations Board.

"Such comments are appalling and serve no practical purpose in a civilized society," management negotiator Richard Ravitch said. "The clubs have every intent to resolve their current labor dispute with the union at the bargaining table. The clubs have made no plans whatsoever to employ replacement players. Nonetheless, we cannot ignore or excuse such virulent behavior."

Bonilla and Franco made the remarks during an appearance to promote a celebrity bowling event.

Under the National Labor

Relations Act, unioned workers are allowed to cross picket lines and continue to work during a strike.

"Comments by anyone that threaten other individuals with harm for exercising their rights are inappropriate and wrong," said Eugene Orza, the union's associate general counsel. "I don't know if the players said what was reported. If they did say those things, players shouldn't say those things."

"Second, I doubt if anyone would find the players' association as an institution has threatened anyone. I also think the filing of the charge has elements of grandstanding in it. The clubs no doubt are hoping to deflect attention away from their own conduct in the course of the bargaining."

On Sept. 6, the union filed an unfair labor practice charge against owners over a $7.8 million pension contribution the owners didn't make Aug. 1. The union claimed the payment was tied to the All-Star game and must be paid.

No negotiations are scheduled but mediator W.J. Usery spent Monday at the union office. Orza wouldn't describe the discussions.

Pack outslogs Bears in soggy Soldier Field

By MIKE NADEL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) - Unable to beat the wind and rain with Brett Favre's arm most of the night, the Green Bay Packers slogged over the soggy Soldier Field turf to earn a victory they had to have. Edgar Bennett scored three touchdowns and Favre had a 36-yard scoring run as the Packers defeated the Chicago Bears 33-6 Monday night. Bryce Paup intercepted two passes for the Packers (4-4), who stayed in the hunt for a playoff spot. The Bears and Detroit Lions also are 4-4, meaning the Minnesota Vikings have a two-game lead in the NFC Central. Favre was 0-for-7 before completing a pass to Sterling Sharpe midway through the third quarter. Finally, after the Packers' running loosened up the Bears' defense, Favre completed four passes on the drive that gave Green Bay a 27-0 lead. He capped the 65-yard march with a 13-yard pass to Bennett, who rushed for 105 yards and two other scores. Favre finished 6-of-15 for 82 yards. But his biggest accomplishment on a 43-degree night that included 36 mph gusts and a steady rain was simply taking care of the football. Favre, who threw an NFL-high 24 interceptions last season and was picked off seven times in this year's first seven games, carefully engineered Green Bay's no-turnover attack Monday. Chicago, meanwhile, had five give-aways. Erik Kramer fell to 1-4 as the Bears' starting quarterback. He fumbled once and was picked off twice by Paup before Steve Walsh replaced him to start the second half. The loss is sure to throw gasoline on the Bears' smoldering quarterback controversy - Walsh won three consecutive starts while Kramer was out with a separated shoulder. The Bears avoided their first shutout since 1989 when Walsh and Jeff Graham connected on a 5-yard touchdown pass with 5:55 to play. Reggie Cobb added a 9-yard scoring run for the Packers with 1:53 left. Chicago won the coin toss and took the wind instead of the ball. But the Bears never got closer than Green Bay's 26-yard line in the opening quarter. Kramer and Lewis Tillman fumbled a handoff exchange on the Bears' first series of the second quarter, giving Green Bay the ball at Chicago's 11. Two plays later, Bennett scored on a 3-yard run. Chicago's Chris Gardocki, who had 56- and 57-yard punts with the wind in the opening quarter, managed only a 19-yarder against the gale in the second. And the Packers immediately took advantage, going 58 yards in four plays.

Seriously injured player buoys Sealy to top in 3A

By JAIME ARON
AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) - His body mangled from head to toe by a gruesome car accident, Sealy linebacker Steve Newsome sat in intensive care and made a vow to coach T.J. Mills. "One of the first things he said was, 'I'll be back,'" Mills said. "I told the kids I didn't expect that. Then he reported (for two-a-days) with everyone else and he didn't miss a day of practice." Buoyed by the emotion of Newsome's return and strengthened by his prowess in the middle of the defense, the Tigers are one of the state's best Class 3A teams. In The Associated Press poll released Monday, Sealy maintained the No. 2 spot they've held since early September. The rest of the poll shifted little heading into the final week of the season. Only two new teams entered the rankings chosen by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters across the state. On Friday, Sealy defeated La Grange 31-3 to hold on to No. 2 behind Cuero, the most entrenched of the five top-ranked teams. Newsome had 21 tackles in the game, helping the Tigers clinch a playoff spot and move into position for their second straight District 23-3A title. "I never expected him to play another down his life," Mills said. "He's a phenomenal kid. What he's overcome is unbelievable." Newsome was named second-team all-state last year as he was in on 187 tackles. But within weeks of Sealy's season-ending loss to Waco Robinson in the regional semifinals, Newsome's life was in jeopardy. He and a friend were driving late one night when the friend's pickup truck swerved off a road and hit a culvert. Few other details are available. Newsome doesn't recall what happened, and his friend was killed. The accident required underwent surgery to stop internal bleeding, another to rebuild his left ankle and a third to place a pin in the upper part of his left leg. These days, the 6-foot-1, 190-pound junior combs his hair down over his face to hide some of the scars and his legs are a painful sight. Yet under a helmet and beneath a uniform, he looks like the same player he's always been. "We don't even talk about it any more," Mills said. "It may come up just among ourselves as coaches because it's so hard to believe. But we never mention it in front of the team." "They know what he went through... It just kind of makes you closer, stronger. When he makes a play, it sparks everybody." The offensive spark for the Tigers is Fred Smith, the school's best running back since NFL great Eric Dickerson. "When things are not going real well, he'll break a tackle or juke somebody," Mills said. "He can excite the team and get the crowd going." Smith has 1,397 yards and 29 touchdowns on 142 carries. He could have even bigger numbers, had Mills not pulled him after fewer than a dozen carries during games when Sealy was winning big. Smith has been a standout the last two seasons, but now he's surrounded by talented players at quarterback and wide receiver. Brad Burttschell has completed 47-of-73 passes for 1,100 yards and 12 touchdowns. He's thrown only one interception.

Surgery knocks out Cowboys' OT

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys know for certain they'll have to win a third consecutive Super Bowl without their star right offensive tackle.

Erik Williams underwent right knee surgery on Monday for injuries suffered in a car accident a week ago and coach Barry Switzer announced "he will be lost for the season." Rookie Larry Allen, a second round pick from Sonoma State, will play Williams position. A hard-earned 23-20 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals on Sunday gave Dallas a 7-1 record at the midway point of Switzer's first season.

"We got hit on big plays we hadn't allowed all season," Switzer said. "But we did what we had to do. We got the win. And it could be an important one later in the season when you get into the playoffs and start talking homefield advantage."

Oilers finish 1st half of year with 1-7 mark

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - What would have been a joke in preseason is no longer a laughing matter for the Houston Oilers.

lose but we played well enough to win. What do we have to do to get over the hump?"

The Oilers fought within three points of the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys but lost 20-17. They were in position to upset Philadelphia before losing 21-6 two weeks ago.

Secondary coach Dave Campo said "Cincinnati did a good job of changing up some of the things they had done. But we adjusted to the new quarterback in the second half. You can count on two hands the number of big plays we've allowed in the last five years. That's what is so upsetting."

After reaching the NFL playoffs seven straight years, the longest current streak in the league, the Oilers have fallen to a 1-7 record over the first half of the season while learning different ways to lose games.

The Oilers have reached the season's mid-point wondering how the next disaster will occur.

Distracted Dallas, worried all week about the traffic wreck that injured Williams, showed just enough to get by the 0-8 Bengals.

The Cowboys lead the Philadelphia Eagles by a game in the NFC East. They host the New York Giants, riding a five-game losing streak, next Monday night.

"I would have laughed if someone said before the season that we'd be 1-7," defensive tackle Ray Childress said Monday. "We're going to win. Losing out (rest of games) is a possibility but it's not going to happen."

The Oilers are hesitant to give guarantees, especially after losing 17-14 Sunday to the Los Angeles Raiders on the final play of the game when Al Del Greco's 52-yard field goal hit the cross bar and bounced back.

"Erik was definitely in the back of our minds," said running back Emmitt Smith. "We wanted to win the game for him."

Then Dallas has a showdown in San Francisco in a game that could be decisive regarding the homefield advantage in the NFC playoffs.

In 11 seasons in the NFL, Del Greco has hit the crossbar twice, both times this season.

"I don't know why we keep going through these trials and tribulations but for some reason things just aren't going our way," coach Jack Pardee said. "That kick just about sums up the way things have gone for us."

The Cowboys had Williams' No. 79 jersey number on their wristbands and helmets. They even had his uniform in a locker in the dressing room at Cincinnati.

"These are the kind of games you have to win on the way to a championship," Switzer said. "The season is a long journey. This is a trip we survived."

Television networks expected the Oilers to provide high drama this season despite the loss of Warren Moon and several other key players to retirement and free agency.

Pardee, in the final year of his contract, isn't thinking of anything but a victory.

"There was no doubt we were thinking about him," said wide receiver Michael Irvin. "We were emotionally drained."

Switzer said it was the first game he had coached where the defense gave up big plays.

Hennessey is named best Toastmasters Club speaker

Susan Hennessey was named best Hereford Toastmasters Club speaker during the organization's meeting Thursday morning at the Ranch House.

Rick Jackson and Margaret Del Toro tied as best evaluators and Jackson was selected as best topic speaker.

Hennessey spoke on "Labels," evaluated by Jackson; Charles Minchew, "Plains Ghost Towns," evaluated by Margaret Del Toro; and Joe Weaver, "Marley Appears to Scrooge," evaluated by Sharon Cramer.

The pledge was led by Ralph Barndt and the invocation was given by Dr. Milton Adams.

Joe Don Cummings presided over the business meeting when two new Toastmasters were presented their Toastmasters pins. The pins are given to the new member after giving the ice breaker speech. Colleen Spright and Hennessey were honored.

Dave Kimmel served as Toastmaster; Linda Minchew, timer; Clark Andrews, "ah" counter; Art Gonzales, grammarian; and Dan Hall, wordmaster. The chosen word for the meeting was "arduous."

Pat Varner served as Topicmaster and topic speakers were Rick Jackson, Jigger Rowland, Joe Don Cummings and Ralph Barndt.

Chris Leonard was general evaluator.

Welcomed as guests were Logan Kimmel and Adolfo Del Toro.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: "Helping Your Child Learn Responsible Behavior" is another booklet in the Helping Your Child series. It lists suggestions for helping your child understand and appreciate acting responsibly, as well as making responsible choices and sticking to them even in difficult situations.

We are not born to act responsibly; we are usually taught by our parents' and teachers' encouragement and example. If parents do not show responsible behavior in everyday life, children don't have good role models to follow. As the booklet says, "Responsible people act the way they should whether or not anyone is watching. They do so because they understand that it's right and because they have the courage and self-control to act decently, even when tempted to do otherwise."

To order, send your request along with 50 cents and your name and complete address to: Consumer Information Center, Dept. H-376A, Pueblo, CO 81009. Please allow three to five weeks for delivery. — Heloise

DAILY MEDICATIONS

Dear Heloise: I have a good hint for people on medication.

List all medications on a recipe card, include the dosage and how often taken. Put this in a plastic sleeve and tape it inside the medicine cabinet. Be sure to include any over-the-counter medications.

If you have to call an ambulance, you can't always remember. — Nena Jondahl, Glasgow, Mont.

Make an extra copy for your wallet and give one to each doctor you see! — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: Our family recently had a good laugh when Arthur, our 6-year-old grandson, gazed in awe at the enormous pickle jar which contained, in addition to pickles, some boiled eggs his mother wanted to preserve. When he asked, "What are those?" she answered simply, "eggs."

But she couldn't understand the astonished look on his face until his next question: "You mean pickles have babies?"

Hope this will be a day-brightener for you also! — Betty Goolsby, Temple, Texas

Send Heloise or time-saving hint to Heloise, PO Box 795000, San Antonio TX 78279-5000 or fax it to 210-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Get most color impact when you redecorate

By JAMES E. WALTERS
For AP Special Features
Color is such a personal thing that there is no wrong choice if it pleases you, says landscape designer Connie Cross of Cutchogue, N.Y.

However, she adds, certain basics still should be followed to get the most-pleasing color impact.

"Reaction to color is individual and subjective," agrees Leatrice Eiseman, director of the Pantone Color Institute in Carlstadt, N.J. "The colors that surround us definitely have an effect on our moods and even our health."

Their comments come in documents from the Netherlands Flower Bulb Information Center of Brooklyn, specifically directed at how to plant bulbs this fall for spring color. But the color comments are timeless and applicable to most flower plantings.

For example, they contend the close association of color with emotions can make it seem as if each color has its own personality.

"We generally say that yellow evokes a cheerful response and red makes the heart pound harder," says Eiseman. "However, if a particular color reminds a certain individual of a traumatic childhood experience, then obviously they're going to re-evaluate its meaning."

Professional landscape designers use plants the way an artist uses paints on a canvas. By mixing and matching, adding a splash of color here and a more subtle effect there, they use the plants to craft a work of natural beauty.

A color wheel can be a useful tool. Available at most art supply stores, it divides colors into two main groups - warm colors and cool colors - and helps you understand colors as warm, cool, complementary, harmonious or contrasting.

The farther apart colors are on the wheel, the more contrast there is between them. Blue paired with orange is an example. Harmonious colors are adjacent and blend into each other.

Here are Eiseman's suggestions for tulip gardens to plant this fall, based on personality types and their color preferences (the tulip selections are from Frans Roozen of the International Flower Bulb Center in Holland).

A kid's garden: "There's a reason why most kid's toys are red, yellow or blue. Kids gravitate to those bright, primary colors." Select from Murillo hybrids, Apeldoorn or Olympic Flame.

Sociable types: choose mainly gregarious colors - orange, red and yellow. Select from Charles, Princess Irene, Monte Carlo, Van der Neer, Sorbet, Apeldoorn or Ballade.

Laid-back types: choose lighter blues, greens, purples and pinks, leavened with whites and pastels. Select from Sweetheart, Purissima, Attila, Hibernia, Dreaming Maid, Queen of Night or Shirley.

Romantic types: choose pinks, peaches, violets and rose tones. Select from Apricot Beauty, Peach Blossom, Pink Impression, Angelique, Spring Green, Greenland or Apricot Parrot.

Type-A intense personality: choose intense yellows, reds, purples or bi-colors. Select from Big Chief, Daydream, Negrita, Cream Jewel, President Kennedy, General Eisenhower or Dutch Fair.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a faithful reader of your articles. But never do we read about the importance of water. It seems that most people do not understand its importance. Instead, they talk about pop and fruit juice or milk. Young parents won't ever offer water to children. Could you explain why this is? Water is so easily obtained and at less expense than other drinks. Perhaps if it is in print, more people might begin to understand the need. — Mrs. A.M.M.

ANSWER: Water could use a good public-relations campaign. It never has generated great popular appeal, going back to its primordial heyday.

A lack of uniform quality during industrial growth and an age of burgeoning population might have brought this about. There are areas, I'm told, where household tap water resembles a thin mineralized soup, for safety reasons. That accounts for much of the anti-water complaints you hear.

But not to worry — medically. We overfill our daily need for fluids — right around 2½ quarts a day. We get a quart and a half in drinkable forms and the other quart in solid food content.

Juices and pops are mostly water, as is beer. Milk contains on average 85 percent water.

Still, I agree with you. Water is a cheap, harmless source of fluid for the body, and it adds no needless calories to a diet. Water, exercisers will tell you, is about the cheapest and most efficient source of hydration during grueling events. And it's great for showers.

Some people take your concern for water to unhealthy extremes. I am thinking of those who feel they need enormous amounts daily to "flush" their systems of poisons. That odd view of the human body can actually lead to problems, such as leeching out of vital minerals.

Now, I am getting thirsty! I plan to drop by the next farm I pass, some pleasant oasis in a warm afternoon, and drink a glass of clear, cold water drawn direct from a cavernous crystal aquifer far below.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am disappointed in your advice to M.S. about lowering cholesterol. Yes, diet is important, but exercise is, too. My boyfriend has been dieting to reduce his cholesterol for four years. All he succeeded in doing is making himself miserable. Why didn't his doctor tell him to exercise? Otherwise, I enjoy your column. — J.D.B.

ANSWER: Exercise is one way to help lower cholesterol. It also lowers triglycerides. Weight loss accomplishes much in general, whether by diet or exercise. And there is much to be said for a specific low-cholesterol, low-fat diet.

Ideally, your boyfriend should combine all available modes of cholesterol reduction, including the cholesterol-lowering medicines, if needed.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been diagnosed with achalasia. The sphincter muscle between my esophagus and my stomach clamps shut. The control muscles don't work well. My doctor prescribes a medicine that helps in bad times, relaxing the muscle. I want so much to contact others with the problem. Can I form a group? — P.W.N.

ANSWER: Check around. There may well be such a local group in existence. Your doctor might know of one. Otherwise, you probably could form your own locally by utilizing available communication sources. A simple want ad could help.

If I hear of a national organization devoted to your concerns, I will let you know.

IN RESPONSE to reader requests, Dr. Donohue has a complete listing of his pamphlets on various medical problems. Readers who want one should send their request to Dr. Donohue — List, Box 5539, River- ton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I find your column very educational and interesting. I would like to ask a question out of curiosity. What are granulomas, and what is granulomatous disease? I am a senior citizen in good health, but some time ago a chest X-ray showed I had a granuloma spot. My doctor said it might have been something from childhood. I remember having diphtheria as a small child. — D.M.N.

ANSWER: Granulomas — the "gran" refers to graininess — are the remains of certain infection-fighting cells. Thus, granulomas form at the sites of old infections. In one way they are like artifacts archaeologists find at ancient battlegrounds.

Medically, they tell of a long-past battle between a germ or some other invader and a warrior body cell.

In the lungs, granulomas often indicate such an encounter with an old fungus infection. Histoplasmosis is an example of just such a fungal infection, and it is a suspect when encountering granuloma signs in the lungs.

Subsequently, the body laid a protective calcium cover over all; that is what renders granulomas so observable on chest X-rays.

In cases like yours, where an old granuloma or two are seen, and the patient is in apparent good health, such findings can be dismissed as the harmless relics they are.

Diphtheria is a bacterial illness, but it does not leave any granuloma calling card. Only a limited number of infections do that.

Infectious diseases in general are discussed in The Health Letter report No. 127. It can be ordered by writing: Dr. Donohue — SR127, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I recently underwent splenectomy due to the discovery of a non-malignant tumor of the spleen. The surgeon informed me that I could live without a spleen. What effect will the absence of a spleen have on my longevity? I am now 75. — N.K.

ANSWER: There is an army of spleenless people of all ages walking around out there and living normal lives without fear of losing a day of life. You can probably count yourself among them.

That is not to denigrate the importance of the spleen and its roles. The spleen breaks down old red blood cells and removes germs from the blood, for examples. Fortunately, such functions are duplicated by other infection-fighting organs.

I must add that the spleenless person does incur a slightly increased risk during a serious infection. So you would really like to have the full panoply of infection-fighting mechanisms always at your call. That is especially true when the patient is a child.

Those who have had their spleen removed need to be certain to get fully immunized, with the pneumonia vaccine, for example.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was interested in the celiac sprue subject, the gluten reaction problem. I took your tip and found a bunch of good publications in my library, including some good diets for those who have the problem. There are lots of good recipes without gluten grain use. — Mrs. J.O.

ANSWER: Good for you. Most libraries today, especially larger ones with good medical literature sections, should supply such selections.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

Times	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	15	3.00
2 days per word	26	5.20
3 days per word	37	7.40
4 days per word	48	9.60
5 days per word	59	11.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are 4.36 per column inch; 3.65 inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers an additional insertion will be published.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Jane Alexander's been putting a new coat of paint on the National Endowment for the Arts, and she likes the way it looks.

The stage and screen actress became chairman of the federal agency one year ago. Her first goal was to improve the image of the NEA, which has drawn fire in recent years for giving money to artists whose work some considered obscene.

"I set about to turn around that image and I think that I've done a pretty good job," she said Thursday to an audience at the Omaha Community Playhouse.

Alexander said that of the more than 100,000 grants the NEA has awarded since its inception in 1965, fewer than 40 have been controversial.

"That's a pretty successful ratio," she said.

Why a business as big as ours runs a Yellow Page ad as small as this:

HEREFORD BRAND newspr 313 Lee Av 79045 364-2030

When people start reading their Yellow Pages in the evening over dinner, we will increase our ad size.

The Hereford Brand reaches 13,800 residents in this community. Since 1901, we have been a part of their evening menu.

Meanwhile, newspaper advertising continues to be the first place people look each day for news and information.

Where should you invest your advertising dollars? Call us. We'll show you the right place.

Who reads Yellow Pages? Most likely the same people who read a dictionary for entertainment. It is the last option open to anyone looking for timely information.

Costumes on parade

Kindergarten students at Bluebonnet Intermediate School on Monday celebrated Halloween with a costume parade through the school, followed by a trip outside for pictures taken by teachers and parents. Here, fairy princesses and clowns can be seen conversing with Little Rascal Alfalfa.

Bush accuses appointees of pattern of ethical lapses

By JEAN PAGEL
Associated Press Writer
WACO, Texas (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards' appointees have displayed a troubling pattern of ethical lapses, Republican gubernatorial candidate George W. Bush says.

Bush turned appointments into a campaign issue Monday when he distributed copies of a memo from Richards appointee Jack Kyle, chairman of the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles.

On state letterhead last month, Kyle told other board members and staff workers it would be "appropriate" for them to attend a function with Richards on Oct. 11.

The memo told employees and board members what time and where Richards would visit, adding: "If someone doesn't want to go, they can just answer the phones so everyone else can go."

Bush said the memo was designed to coerce employees into showing up at Huntsville's Democratic Headquarters on behalf of the governor.

"It is an ethical violation to be using state time, or state paper in this case, to rally people to a political campaign," Bush said. "This man's job is not to be a precinct coordinator."

Richards said Kyle "should not have done that."

"I think it's totally inappropriate for Jack Kyle to use state stationery,

The first American society for the abolition of slavery was organized in 1775 by Benjamin Franklin and Benjamin Rush.

The term "United States" became official in a 1776 ruling by the Continental Congress.

or anything else, if it was something he felt was political in nature," she said. "And so whatever the cost of that is, I think he ought to reimburse the state."

But Kyle said he sent out the memo only as notification of the scheduled visit.

"I'm not telling them to go. The folks that are here in Huntsville are all Gov. Richards' appointees," he said. "If they wanted to, I wanted to make them aware that it was there."

Kyle said he would do the same for Bush.

"Sure, I'd call it to their attention - if he let us know about it."

Bush fleshed out his point on appointments by bringing up Richards' appointment of Lena Guerrero to the Texas Railroad Commission. Ms. Guerrero acknowledged in 1992 she did not have a degree from the University of Texas as stated on her campaign handouts and resigned later that year.

Bush also mentioned Jane Hickie, director of the Texas Federal-State Relations Office in Washington, D.C., who was criticized by Republicans over her travel records, which she disclosed in June.

Supporters at a Waco rally on Monday applauded Bush's pledge to appoint people who meet higher standards of integrity.

"There has been a repeated pattern of ethical lapses occurring and nothing has happened. I don't believe that's leadership," Bush said. "Part of leadership is not to ignore a problem."

Richards spokesman Chuck McDonald said Bush's remarks are "pretty big talk for a guy who pulled schoolchildren and teachers (out of class) for a political rally for him just last week."

The Corpus Christi Federation of Teachers and the Corpus Christi Education Association, which officials said support Richards, criticized a high school assembly last week that featured Bush's mother and wife. The groups said the assembly was mandatory and that students and teachers who attended were told it was about literacy.

Bush said he didn't think people were misled into attending the assembly.

Richards claims opponent is 'literally lying' about law

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - Democratic Gov. Ann Richards accused GOP challenger George W. Bush of distorting her record Monday and said he's "literally lying" about new criminal justice laws.

"It's time to tell the truth, George," she exhorted, saying he's trying to mislead the public about her record on crime, education, welfare and job creation.

"He says he wants us to take a stand for traditional Texas values. The most traditional Texas value that I was taught as a kid growing up and still holds me in very good stead is telling the truth," Richards told a luncheon crowd of about 250 at the Wichita Falls Activities Center.

Richards said a Bush television advertisement on crime is "the most outrageous piece of conclusion-drawing distortion, deliberate misleading that I've seen."

"He says that crime is up, and I think it's time to tell the truth, George," she said. The crime rate has dropped 25 percent in the last three years, and every category of violent crime is down, she said.

Bush spokesman Reggie Bashur said the facts support the Republican candidate's assessment.

"The governor may not like the facts, but the record is clear, even if her rhetoric is not. Violent juvenile crime has increased 52 percent during her term in office," he said.

Bashur said there have been more than 200,000 violent crimes in Texas over the past 18 months.

Richards took umbrage at Bush's remark that Texas took the first step toward legalizing drugs with a new criminal law package. After her Wichita Falls stop, at a rally of more than 1,000 students at the University of North Texas in Denton, she said he's "literally lying" about the measure.

She said every Republican state senator voted for the package. Along with changing sentencing for drug offenses, it makes many other revisions, including doubling the time violent criminals spend behind bars and imposing the death penalty for murdering children, she said.

Bashur attacked the same penal code for providing automatic probation for individuals dealing in 1 gram or less of crack cocaine, which account for 92 percent of the drug cases in Texas. It also calls for automatic probation for car theft and burglary of a business, he said.

The Republican senators likely voted for the measure because they believed it "was the best they could get under the Richards administration," he said, adding that Bush's crime laws will be "a lot tougher and a lot better."

Richards said her job is not finished. She supports requiring prison inmates to pay for the use of telephones and using the money for crime victims; alcohol and drug intervention; and teen-age curfews and enforcement of truancy laws.

She also said she continues to oppose allowing Texans to carry concealed handguns: "I think suggesting in this violent time where people are afraid that you ought to arm more people is absolutely crazy."

Continuing the refrain that it is "time to tell the truth, George,"

Richards also said Bush has been deceptive about education and welfare under her administration.

State spending on public education has gone up $7 billion over four years, and student test scores are up, she said.

Bashur said the opposite was true. "On (Texas Assessment of Academic Skills) testing, the standards were lowered. Students were exempted from taking the test. Clearly ... the Texas Education Agency politicized the process in an attempt to help the governor in an election year," he said.

The state of Texas currently provides 44 percent of the amount spent on public education and "that is an all-time low." Meanwhile, property taxes have gone up an average of 44 percent statewide during Richards' term, Bashur said.

Richards finished the campaign day by attending a mass barbecue sponsored by a Harris County constable at Houston's Astrohall.

Beforehand, while repeating her message about crime at a news conference, Richards was challenged by a woman to toughen crime prevention in unincorporated areas.

Bettie Haaland, who lives outside Houston and described herself as a Bush supporter, said she is dissatisfied with law enforcement in unincorporated areas.

In 1606, England adopted as its flag the original version of the Union Jack.
