Clinton drops Hillary from health care reform efforts

By RON FOURNIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Foreshad-dowing plans to produce moderate
health care legislation, President Clinton is relieving his wife, Hillary,
and her aide Ira Magaziner from coordinating his health care reform strategy.

There also will be no more task forces, war rooms or delivery rooms - buzz words of the previous health care effort that operated in many ways autonomous from the White House.

Instead, Carol Rasco, who is Clinton's domestic policy adviser,
and Robert Rubin, the head of the National Economic Council, will take the lead in fashioning a new health care package to present to Congress
next year, White House officials said Wednesday.

Rasco and Rubin will coordinate the effort while operating within the normal White House operation.

Even if the swap proves nothing more than cosmetic, aides expect it to offer the White House political cover from Mrs. Clinton's critics.

Mrs. Clinton recommended the change, feeling that the health care
debate has moved to another stage, aides said. The first lady no doubt will be the major force in health care policy, if not as visible as before.
Rasco, a former aide to Clinton in Arkansas, has worked closely with Mrs. Clinton for years.

"She will play a vital part in health care policy and strategy, just as she always has," said the first lady's spokeswoman, Lisa Caputo.
"She'll continue to be the public advocate."

Magaziner "will still be a part of the effort," Rasco said.

Rasco said the first attempt at reform, although unsuccessful,
produced mounds of research,
policy-thinking and number-crunching that does not need to be duplicated in 1995. She and Rubin can coordinate the economic and policy aspects of health care reform, picking up where the old team left off.

"Because there wasn't a massive amount of background work to be done, we thought it was time to move it through the normal policy-making process," Rasco said. "There wasn't a need to have that large group of people working separate from the White House."

Although any decisions on the 1995 health care package will wait until after the midterm elections,
aides said the staffing change signals that Clinton realizes any reforms will be modest.

A senior White House official,
speaking on condition of anonymity,
said the administration will not repeat its mistake and submit a lengthy, complicated bill to Congress.

The administration is more likely to simply present Congress a list of goals, or push for incremental reforms - one bill at a time. Comparing the idea to the successful crime
bill effort, the senior official said Clinton will propose a more moderate plan than last time, risking the loss of some liberal Democrats to gain the support of a few Republicans.

And officials said there will be less focus on health care in 1995: It will be viewed as a major, but not exclusive, goal in the president's portfolio, which includes action on campaign financing, lobbying reform
and welfare reform.

Cold front ends days of record high temperatures

By The Associated Press

A cold front was slowly making its way into West Texas on Wednesday, but not before record high temperatures were broken or tied in Amarillo and Lubbock.

A new record was set in Amarillo,
where the mercury rose to 85 degrees,
topping the mark of 82 set in 1931,
the National Weather Service said.
Lubbock International Airport tied a record of 82 set in 1988.

Ahead of the front, both cloudiness and wind were on the rise. The strongest gust, measuring 96 mph, was through the Guadalupe Pass. No damage was reported, a Culberson County Sheriff's Department

dispatcher said.

High wind warnings were posted
for the western mountain passes,
where winds gusted at 30 mph to 40 mph.

Partly cloudy to cloudy skies dominated the region, where most afternoon temperatures were in the 70s and 80s. Patchy areas of light rain and scattered rain showers had developed in sections of the far west,
the Trans Pecos and into the Edwards Plateau.

On Thursday, conditions should be mostly cloudy and windy across West Texas with a chance of showers
or thunderstorms regionwide
Thursday night.

Sentences meted out in court

Three defendants who entered guilty pleas to charges in 222nd District Court Wednesday were sentenced by Judge David Wesley Gulley. Two of the defendants were charged with drug offenses.

Probations of three other defendants were modified after motions to revoke the probations were heard.

Jeremy Gallardo, 18, entered guilty pleas to two charges of delivery of a controlled substance, cocaine.

Judge Gulley assessed an eight-year prison sentence on each charge and ordered Gallardo to a term in the Special Alternative Incarceration
Program (boot camp). On successful completion of boot camp, Gallardo may apply for probation of his sentence.

On a guilty plea to delivery of a controlled substance, cocaine, Roberto Suarez, 17, received a 10-year probation sentence. The offense occurred before Suarez was 17 years old, but he was certified as an adult to stand trial to the drug charge.

Brian Rodriguez, 20, entered a plea of guilty to burglary of a habitation and was sentenced to 10 years' probation. He also was fined $1,500.

On a motion by the state to revoke
probation of Manuel Mendez, convicted originally of criminal mischief, over $750 and under $20,000, Judge Gulley ordered him
to serve nine years in Texas

Department of Criminal Justice institutional division, beginning with a term in boot camp. He will be eligible to apply for probation after successful completion of that portion of the sentence.

Probation of Jose Javier Davila, originally convicted of sexual assault
and sentenced to 10 years' probation,
was modified by Judge Gulley.
Davila was ordered to participate in a substance abuse program and be subject to intensive supervision for three months.

Esmeralda Rodriguez, serving a 10-year probation term for theft under $20,000, was placed on intensive supervision in modification of her probation.

Montford: State can do without tax hike

By PEGGY FIKAC

Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - State budget leaders say they can get by without a tax increase despite a multibillion-dollar budget shortfall in the upcoming legislative session.

"We simply must contain our growth and live within our means,"
said state Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Montford,
D-Lubbock. But he predicted,
"There's going to be a lot of wailing and gnashing of the teeth. There always is."

Montford estimated Wednesday that the gap between projected spending growth needed in major budget areas and new money available will be about $2.7 billion for the 1996-97 budget period.

That doesn't include any additional cost if juvenile justice reforms are implemented, he told the annual meeting of the business-based Texas Association of Taxpayers.

State Rep. Robert Junell, House Appropriations Committee chairman, said the shortfall could be as high as $3.5 billion. But he added that a tax increase can be avoided when lawmakers meet in regular session in 1995, just as it was in 1993.

"We did it last session. We'll do it again this session," said Junell, D-San Angelo.

Both Junell and Montford said
paying for a public school finance reform law approved last session will take priority, and both said growth in Medicaid costs driven by federal mandates is taking a major toll.

"Medicaid is eating us alive," Junell said.

He said that in cutting costs,
lawmakers will have to look at areas that aren't governed by federal requirements or the Texas Constitution.

"That leaves areas such as higher education, unfortunately, that doesn't get as much money," said Junell.

Although he emphasized that budget proposals still are being reviewed, he also said lawmakers would look at whether costs can be contained in operating prisons and Medicaid can be better managed to save money.

House Speaker Pete Laney,
D-Hale Center, said, "There definitely will have to be a sacrifice somewhere." He said lawmakers would determine spending priorities.

"We're going to do it without raising taxes," he said.

He also noted that Texas ranks at the bottom in spending on state government services, despite campaign advertising that suggests it's "exploding out of control."

"It's very, very effective campaign strategy. It's also hogwash," Laney said. "When the legislative session begins in January,
we'll have to make a budget decision in the real world of state finances and not in the fantasy land that campaign media consultants have created for this election cycle."

Montford said about $4 billion in new state revenue is expected to be available for 1996-97.

The projected need for spending increases totals about $6.7 billion, he said.

That includes $2.2 billion for public schools; $250 million for higher education; $2.4 billion for Medicaid; $140 million for Aid to Families with Dependent Children;
$1.1 billion to operate new prisons;
$100 million for prison debt service;
$500 million for state contributions to government employee and teacher retirement systems; and $35 million for mental health and mental retardation systems.

Junell said lawmakers also want to stop speeded-up collection of some taxes and make payments that were delayed to some state accounts, which he said would bring the shortfall to about $3.5 billion.

Early voting ending; 1,345 ballots marked

Voters who want to avoid standing in line Tuesday have until 5 p.m.
Friday to mark ballots in the early voting period prior to the general election.

A total of 1,345 Deaf Smith County residents had turned out by early Thursday to cast ballots in early voting, which ends Friday at 5 p.m.
The county clerk's office also reported 77 ballots sent by mail to voters.

At the rate early voters have appeared in person to mark ballots,
the number could come close to the 1990 total, 1,633. The 1990 general election featured many of the same races that are contested this year.

Statewide, voters will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general,
comptroller, agriculture commissioner, land commissioner as well as several other positions and judicial seats.

Two races are contested in Deaf Smith County. Incumbent Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine, Democrat, faces Dan Hall, Republican, Precinct 2 Commissioner Lupe Chavez, Democrat, squares off against a GOP challenger, Conny Whitehorn.

Early voting is conducted in the office of County Clerk David Ruland,
in the courthouse.

Survey shows voters prefer GOP in number of issues

WASHINGTON (AP) - Voters
prefer Republicans to deal with crime, taxes, the economy and even as the agents of change - Bill Clinton's credo in 1992 - according to a national poll that suggests GOP voters are more likely to turn out in next week's midterm elections.

Among likely voters, Democrats and Republicans ran dead even - at 47 percent - when respondents were asked in the latest ABC-Washington Post poll which party's candidate they intended to support in their House election Tuesday.

While the Republican number in the poll released Wednesday was down a tad from recent ABC-Washington Post polls, that showing is still the worst for the Democrats since 1950 and suggests substantial GOP gains in the midterm elections.

In the Carter midterm elections in 1978, for example, Democrats had a cumulative 8-point national advantage in House races but still lost 15

seats. And Democrats had a 3-point national edge in 1966 yet lost 47 seats in the midterm elections of the Johnson administration.

In another troubling indicator for Democrats, just 27 percent of respondents said the country was on the right track - while 69 percent said
it was on the wrong track.

The ABC-Post survey found Republicans strongest in the West and South, and benefiting from heavy support among white Protestants, a large voting bloc.

The ABC-Post telephone survey of 1,015 adults nationwide was taken Oct. 27-31 and had a margin of error
of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points.

It showed 48 percent approved of President Clinton's job performance and 49 percent disapproved. Despite steady economic growth, 52 percent disapproved of Clinton's handling of the economy, while 43 percent approved. Fifty-four percent approved of his performance in foreign affairs, while 42 percent disapproved. And 56 percent said Clinton was not a strong leader, while 43 percent said he was.

When voters were asked which issue was most important to their vote
next week, the top five were crime,
the economy, time for a change,
health care and taxes. When asked which party they trusted most to deal with the most important issues,
Democrats had a big edge - 74 percent to 14 percent - among those who cited health care.

But among likely voters, Republicans had a 70 percent to 15 percent edge among those who said taxes, a 49 percent to 37 percent advantage on the economy.

Rogers tabbed for position on WBU board of trustees

Hereford resident Ken Rogers has been named to the board of trustees

Plainview.

Rogers was among 13 people
tabbed for the 39-member panel during Tuesday's closing session of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Amarillo.

Rogers, 55, is owner of Lone Star
Insurance Agency here.

He was appointed to a three-year term ending in 1997.

Freda Provence, secretary to the WBU president, said trustees serve rotating terms, with 13 appointed each year.

Trustees are eligible for three,
three-year terms for a total of nine years service.

Libertarian shocked by endorsement

AUSTIN (AP) - Keary Ehlers,
the Libertarian candidate for governor, says he was shocked that Dallas billionaire and 1992
independent presidential candidate
Ross Perot has endorsed Democrat
Gov. Ann Richards.

Ehlers said Wednesday that he was the only candidate in the race who agreed with Perot and opposed the North American Free Trade Agreement. Both Richards
and Republican George W. Bush supported the pact.

Ehlers said he has received a lot of support from members of United We Stand, the political group that formed from Perot's presidential candidacy. "And one reason for that is that I opposed NAFTA," Ehlers said.

Simpson's image becomes topic of lawyer statements

By LINDA DEUTSCH
AP Special Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (AP) - O.J. Simpson is no "Jekyll and Hyde" personality, his attorneys told potential jurors Wednesday, while a prosecutor implored panelists to resist Simpson's famous image and ignore the "odd-ball theories" about other killers.

The comments set the stage for peremptory challenges, which allow either side to excuse up to 20 prospective jurors without stating a cause.

"There's been a question here of whether ... he's far different off camera than on camera," defense attorney Johnnie Cochran Jr. said. "You understand there is no evidence that O.J. Simpson is a Jekyll and Hyde personality."

Deputy District Attorney Marcia Clark also discussed the image of the actor and former football star. "This is not a popular case for the prosecution to bring," she said.

Clark acknowledged that she laughed when she saw Simpson in the "Naked Gun" movie. She urged prospective jurors to ignore his popularity and focus on evidence.

Simpson is "such a famous guy, he's such a sympathetic guy, there's going to be a real pull to do something different than the law requires," she said.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito said he now wants 12 jurors and 15 alternate for the trial, and he indicated it will take until Dec. 1 to seat a full panel. Questioning of a second pool of about 100 people was to begin Tuesday.

Forty-two people from the first pool made it to this phase of the trial.

State group honors nurse at convention

Shana Brownlee, R.N.C., director of nursing services at Golden Plains Care Center, was honored Tuesday at a statewide health care convention.

Brownlee was one of 26 Certified Gerontological Nurses working in Texas nursing facilities to be honored at the Texas Health Care Association meeting in Dallas.

Gerontological certification is awarded to registered nurses who have two years experience in a setting working with elder adults, who have attended 20 hours of continuing education in the area of gerontological nursing, and who have passed a qualifying test.

"Working with nursing home residents is extremely rewarding but very demanding for the nurse," said Sunny Stout, R.N., chair of the association's Nurse's Council. "Certification in gerontology shows that the nurse is up to date on the latest research and developments in the care of the elderly. Certification is difficult to obtain and illustrates how much long term care nurses care about their residents and their profession."

Brownlee has been director of nursing services at the center since Aug. 1, 1990.

"We are extremely proud of Shana Brownlee," said Daniel Wylie, Golden Plains administrator. "She is a dedicated and caring nurse and we are very pleased to see her recognized for this professional achievement."

and 41 were in court Wednesday, one having called in sick.

Outside the courtroom Wednesday, the sister of Simpson's slain ex-wife went on the syndicated talk show "Geraldo" to read a statement saying that Nicole Brown Simpson had managed to hide from the public and her family the "private hell" she suffered as a battered wife.

The statement was in response to a Tuesday night report on "Dateline NBC," in which Simpson's friends said he wasn't violent toward Ms. Simpson.

"Their assertion that Nicole was not a battered wife is as painful as it is wrong. Yet we understand how they could be so very mistaken," Denise Brown said.

"When my sister was murdered so brutally, there were widespread news accounts alleging that she was a battered woman. I strongly refuted those stories and told the world that my sister was not a typical battered wife," she said. "I know now that I was wrong."

Brown family members haven't said whether they believe Simpson is guilty.

Of the 42 prospects who had passed the first in-depth round of questioning, two were dismissed Wednesday. One admitted he had seen a news report on a controversial book about Simpson's slain ex-wife. The other said she believed Simpson must prove his innocence, though the judge and attorneys said that wasn't correct.

Attorneys ran out of time Wednesday to begin using their peremptory challenges, and are expected to begin them Thursday.

Defense attorney Robert Shapiro asked Simpson to stand and face the potential panelists at one point during the defense presentation.

"If you or someone near or dear to you was accused of first-degree murder," Shapiro said, "would you like to have somebody like yourself on the jury?"

New AF chief scuttles predecessor's uniform

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The new Air Force chief of staff ordered major revisions Wednesday in his predecessor's controversial, stripped-down uniform.

The order restores the silver U.S. insignia to all lapels and allows officers to wear their rank insignia on their shoulders. It should be a morale-booster for service members who complained they'd been mistaken too often for commercial airline pilots or members of foreign military services.

In a statement sent to the Air Force's 420,000 members around the world, Chief of Staff Gen. Ronald Fogleman said he found the new uniform's polyester-wool blend and slim cut a "superb choice" with a "good fit ... good image."

"Notwithstanding these positive features, there are, as with all new programs, some mid-course changes which would enhance the uniform's acceptability, functionality, and appearance," he said. "Our goals are to make the necessary changes as soon as possible and eliminate the uniform as an issue."

Cochran told them that Simpson's lawyers will not be required to "solve" the case as fictional attorneys often do on television.

"If you've heard the evidence and conclude that Mr. Simpson is innocent, will you have the courage to find that, even if we haven't identified the person or three or four people who have been involved?" he asked.

Clark said it isn't the prosecution's job to try to shoot down the rumors that someone else killed Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman on June 12.

"You've heard them," she declared, "that the drug dealers did it, the Mafia did it, the Colombian cartels did it. I've even heard one that Ron and Nicole are not dead. The next thing will be space aliens."

"Do you expect me to shoot down all these odd-ball theories?" she asked. "I'm not going to (prosecute) a trial of People vs. Colombian Cartel or People vs. The Mafia."

The defense warned that prosecutors would attempt to draw sympathy by calling the murder victims "Nicole and Ron."

Clark responded: "Nicole and Ron will be referred to as victims. They lived and they breathed and they walked, and they were human and they had a right to live. They were people, too."

Both sides agreed on one point: Simpson's race is not an issue in the case. They urged the predominantly black panel to put aside thoughts of race, although Cochran, who is black, said, "When you live in America it would be foolhardy not to admit that race plays a role in everything."

He asked jurors not to be biased against Simpson because the black man was once married to a white woman.

Clark told prospects that the courtroom was no place to resolve social issues.

"God forbid one of you thinks that celebrities have had it easy and I'm going to even the score," she said.

Recorder furnishes new data on crash

By NANCY ARMOUR
Associated Press Writer
ROSELAWN, Ind. (AP) - Pilots fought to level a commuter plane after its right wing dipped, but the plane then rolled to the right, flipped upside down and plummeted to the ground, federal officials said.

Using information from the cockpit voice recorder and flight data recorder, investigators reconstructed the final minutes of American Eagle Flight 4184.

The twin-engine turboprop was descending from 10,000 feet to 8,000 feet in a driving rainstorm when pilots were warned the plane was moving too fast to have its flaps extended, said Greg Feith, lead investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

With the plane flying 213 mph at 9,400 feet as the flaps began to retract, the ailerons moved rapidly, making the plane's right wing dip, NTSB Chairman Jim Hall said at a news conference Wednesday. Ailerons are devices near the end of the wings that turn an aircraft.

The pilots attempted to recover, but "the airplane rolled sharply to the right again," Hall said.

"The airplane then rolled over on its back and a recovery was not accomplished," Hall said. All 68 people flying from Indianapolis to Chicago were killed in the crash Monday.

Ailerons are controlled by the pilots, but it was not clear exactly what caused the initial dip.

The cockpit voice recorder showed alarms sounded repeatedly before the plane dived from air controllers' radar screens, NBC reported. Hall said there is conversation on the recorder, but he would not reveal what was said.

Aircraft performance officials were to meet today to study all voice and data reports and compare the accident to others involving similar planes.

The plane's anti-icing device was activated at the time of the crash, but investigators were still trying to determine if ice played a part, Hall said. Ice can build up on the wings and make it hard for planes to maintain their altitude.

"Icing is an issue. There's no way to say at this point if it does become a factor," said NTSB spokesman Ted Lopatiewicz.

Other weather factors, including winds that gusted to 49 mph, also were being considered. The American Eagle flight was the first of 11 placed in a holding pattern because of poor weather conditions at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, and had been circling for 32 minutes.

Meteorologist Allan Morrison of the National Weather Service in Joliet, Ill., said wind shear - sudden changes in wind speed and direction - were reported at the time of the crash.

Hall said the shifting winds had been occurring all day.

"Numerous aircraft were penetrating the (wind) layer with no reports of turbulence," Hall said.

TEXAS LOTTERY

No tickets correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said.

A single winning ticket would have been worth an estimated $10 million.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 7-19-26-33-36-39.

Saturday night's drawing will be worth an estimated $18 million.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You recently printed a letter about a woman who was fired because she had a mustache. You said she should get rid of it. Obviously, you are not aware that it is neither easy nor cheap to remove hair from the face. I know because I have had the problem all my adult life.

Once a week, I went for electrolysis, and after every treatment, my face was a mass of scabs for days. I developed scars on my lips and around my mouth. My mouth was often so swollen that it was difficult to eat or even take a drink of water. On top of all the hell I went through, the facial hair came back again and again.

There are reasons some people do not have electrolysis. The major reason is the cost. It's expensive. Another reason is time. Some people work for a living and aren't able to spend hours going for treatments. The do-it-yourself hair-removal products can cause problems for those who have allergies or sensitive skin. No woman enjoys having a mustache, Ann. The idea that getting rid of facial hair is a simple matter is incorrect. Please set the record straight.—Sacramento, Calif., Reader

DEAR SACRAMENTO READER: Not only do I want to set the record straight, but I wish to apologize for my insensitivity, as well as my ignorance.

After reading hundreds of letters from women who are struggling with mustaches and, yes, beards, for the first time, I have real understanding of the severity of this problem and the grief it can cause.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was delighted to read the letter from "Lucky in Greenwich," who, at age 63, is involved in a passionate love affair. She's not exaggerating. I know. In high school, I passed up a chance to date a sensible, level-headed guy because I thought of "Ty" as a pal.

I foolishly opted to date (and eventually marry) an exciting, charismatic hunk whose bedroom eyes could have charmed the pantaloons off any girl in town. I realized too late that he was shallow and egotistical. He turned out to be a selfish lover, an unfaithful husband and an absentee father.

After 32 years of tolerating his boozing and humiliating affairs, I divorced him and vowed never to become intimately involved again.

Eleven years later, I went to my 45th class reunion and met up with my old pal, Ty. His wife had died two years earlier. Sparks flew, bells rang, and the fireworks began. This warm, gentle, considerate "pal" became my soul mate and stirred up a fire in me that I didn't know existed.

We've been married two years, and it's still the Fourth of July. As best friends, we have an easygoing relationship. As lovers, ours is a relaxed, playful, spontaneous, ongoing love affair that only improves with time.

Who in the world started the myth that sex ends at 60? I am now 65 and having more fun than I did at 20. —No Town; They'd Guess Me in a Minute

DEAR NO TOWN: Four cheers for you, lady. I like your style.

Gem of the Day: Parenthood: The state of being better chaperoned than you were before marriage.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one to talk to? Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Call it His Highness in the 'Hood: Prince Charles came to South Central Los Angeles, making teen-aged girls scream and swoon as if he were a rock star. "He touched my hand, he touched my hand!" shrieked one young woman. "He touched my hair!"

Traveling in a motorcade of Jaguars, the fresh prince's first stop Tuesday was an inner city school, where he dedicated a learning center. His last stop was the Hollywood premiere of "Mary Shelley's Frankenstein." It's his first official Los Angeles visit in 17 years.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - Texas Rangers slugger Juan "Igor" Gonzalez is denying accusations he abandoned his estranged wife for a salsa singer.

"Her allegations not only are injurious to my person, but they constitute a gratuitous offense to third persons," said a statement Gonzalez faxed to the press Tuesday.

Gonzalez married Elaine Lopez, a 22-year-old player for Puerto Rico's national volleyball team, in April. Five months later, he was photographed publicly kissing singer Olga Tanon at a concert in San Juan.

Gonzalez later said he was divorcing Lopez and that he and Tanon were close friends.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: When I flour chicken or other meat I have a terrible time cleaning the floured pan. The flour sticks like glue and I end up scrubbing until doomsday.

There has to be an easier way! Help! — A New Cook, Philadelphia, Pa.

There is! The secret? Rinse or soak the pan and the utensils as soon as you're finished using them. Always use cold or lukewarm water, never hot, because it can actually "cook" the flour mixture into a really gunky mess that makes removal even more difficult. — Heloise

PIE CRUSTS
Dear Heloise: Most store-bought graham crusts have plastic covers pressed into them to keep their shape. You uncrimp the foil to remove the cover.

I've discovered that the plastic, when inverted, can be used as a pie-saver after the pie cools. Just crimp the aluminum back over the edge.

Works great for storage or carrying to social functions. When empty, just recycle. You don't have to worry about forgetting and leaving behind your good kitchenware. Some people may not have this particular problem, but having worked in a church, I know that many do. — Betty W. Chastain, Greenville, Texas

I think it's an apple pie of a hint, and thank you for writing. — Heloise

CHOPPED PARSLEY
Dear Heloise: When a recipe calls for chopped parsley, I wash the parsley and put it in the freezer in a plastic bag.

In an hour or two, just take the bag out and crumble it. The parsley will break up into tiny pieces. If the pieces are not tiny enough, return the bag to freezer. In a little while remove and crush again.

Works like a charm. — Mary Jane Becker, New Orleans, La.

Pampa brings strong D for Herd's Homecoming

Clearing the way

Hereford offensive lineman Michael Medina (72) clears a hole for tailback Marquise Brown (2) during Friday's 19-0 win over Canyon. Harvesters picked by 10 points

Hereford will be a 10-point underdog to Pampa, according to the Harris Rating System, when the Harvesters show up for Hereford's Homecoming at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Whiteface Stadium.

Hereford dropped one spot to 69th in Harris' Class 4A rankings despite the Herd's 19-0 win over Canyon last week. Hereford was an 11-point favorite in that game.

Hereford's power rating went up, though, one point to 185.

The Hereford football team's offensive unit has had quite a bit of success this year, averaging 358 yards per game.

Quarterback Michael Brown is 30 passing yards away from the 1,000-yard mark, and he's rushed for 683 yards and six touchdowns. Tailback Marquise Brown has run for 630 yards and eight TDs, essentially in six games, and tailback Armando Zambrano has added 378 yards and five TDs on the ground. Even a receiver, Marc Haney, has 299 yards and three scores on 12 catches.

On Friday night, they face their toughest test.

The Pampa Harvesters, 3-0-1 in District 1-4A and 6-1-1 overall, come to Whiteface Stadium for a 7:30 p.m. game. It is Homecoming for Hereford (2-2, 4-4). The Harvesters will try to spoil Homecoming with what is by far the district's best defense.

"They're the best defensive team we've played this year," Hereford coach Danny Haney said. "They've given up, on average, 140 yards per game. They've got an outstanding forcing unit, anchored by Donnie Middleton (a 225-pound defensive tackle). Both their defensive ends, Devon Lemons and Keith Stewart, are outstanding players, and they've got standout linebackers in Floyd White and Matt Garvin."

In the secondary, Haney lists J.J. Mathis and Shawn Lewis as outstanding players.

"They're very aggressive and they play very good fundamentals. They don't make very many mistakes. They come at you hard, and they can run well."

The Harvester offense doesn't pass much--its 578 yards is fifth in the district--put it does run well, leading the district with 2,358 yards in eight games.

Matt Arcibald has 857 yards and 10 touchdowns rushing, but it is four-year varsity player Matt Garvin who impresses Haney the most. Garvin, a fullback throughout his career, was

Kay Bailey Hutchison Working For Texas

Reducing Government to Strengthen Families and Small Business.

She's voted against higher taxes every time and for the Balanced Budget Amendment. She strongly opposes unnecessary federal regulations that hurt small business.

And she's proposed a new law so homemakers can save with a tax free retirement account, too.

Changing the Way Washington Works.

Kay cut her own Senate office budget 20% — just as she promised last year. Now she's pushed Congress to slash its budget, reduce government overhead by 10%, and trim $50 billion from 50 programs.

Kay's the sponsor of a bill for a national referendum on term limits and will set an example by only seeking two full terms herself.

Now she's determined to make Congress live under the laws it passes for the rest of America.

Protecting Our Freedom.

On the Armed Services Committee, Kay is fighting for a strong defense and defending our Texas military bases that are so critical to national security.

She's committed to protecting private property rights and other constitutionally protected freedoms.

She's pushing for tough crime laws that protect citizens, not criminals.

Already An Effective Leader.

Though we sent Kay Bailey Hutchison to the Senate just last year, she's already making a difference for Texas.

She passed a bill to make the federal government — for the first time — pay for some costs of its failure to protect our Texas border against illegal immigration.

Our choice this year is to keep this effective, new conservative leader who puts Texas first...or replace her with a Clinton-style "New Democrat."

Cowboys consider Allen to be draft-day bargain

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING, Texas (AP) - If Larry Allen was luck, the Dallas Cowboys will take it. But scouting director Larry Laceywell doesn't think so.

It was draft day and the defending world champions were infatuated with a 330-pound lineman from a small California college. They kept wondering why other teams wouldn't draft him.

"We thought this guy was the best looking offensive lineman on the board but we were bothered that we might have missed something," Laceywell said. "Allen didn't go in the first round so we knew we might have a chance in the second round."

"Hud (offensive line coach Hudson Houck) and I were a little mystified. We decided to find a Senior Bowl film so we could look at him again real quick. We looked at Allen and Hud looked at me and I looked at him. We decided right then Allen was the real thing."

What convinced Houck and Laceywell that Allen of Sonoma State College might be a bluechipper was the way he played in the Senior Bowl and the East-West Shrine games. "You wonder about the competition a player goes against at a small college," Laceywell said. "You can become easily fooled. But we saw what he did against quality players in those two bowl games and we decided we had to have this guy. He held his own and then some."

When Pro Bowler Erik Williams slammed his Mercedes into a concrete wall going 75 miles an hour, the Cowboys' bad luck wasn't so bad because of Allen.

Allen held his own in a 23-20 victory over Cincinnati. Because Williams will be lost for the season with a knee injury, the job is Allen's the rest of the year.

"I have to be honest," said Laceywell. "He's exceeded my wildest expectations. He's been a godsend."

Allen has been bothered by what coach Barry Switzer calls "mentals." "He's missed some plays because of his inexperience," Switzer said. "But he has pass blocked well. He's no Erik Williams, but we're damn fortunate to have him."

Allen keeps trying to hold his poise in a whirl of pressure and publicity he inherits as a starter on a defending Super Bowl champion team.

He got his first try as a starter three weeks ago when he replaced injured Mark Tuinei against Philadelphia. "I keep getting a little better each game. I wasn't as nervous against Cincinnati as I was when I started against Philadelphia," Allen said. "I certainly didn't think I would be a starter for the world champions this quick. But I'm not going to turn it down."

The big man from the small college makes his first appearance on Monday Night Football against the New York Giants.

"I watched Monday Night Football but I wasn't sure I'd ever be there," Allen said.

Warriors get Seikaly from Heat

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - The Golden State Warriors acquired center Rony Seikaly from the Miami Heat for forward Billy Owens and one other player in a trade Wednesday, just two days before the opening of the NBA season.

At 6-foot-11-1/2, Seikaly is the type of center long sought after by Warriors coach Don Nelson, who can now move Chris Webber, a contract holdout, back to power forward.

Seikaly said he jumped at the chance to join a team he considers a contender.

"To say the least, I'm ecstatic about my move to Golden State," Seikaly said. "I'm extremely, extremely happy. I couldn't ask for a better situation. I'll be with a team that has a chance to win the championship."

The Heat also received the rights to 6-foot-6 guard Predrag Danilovic, the Warriors' second round pick in the 1992 draft.

"While it is hard to part company with Billy Owens, one of the most versatile players I have ever coached and a wonderful person, plus Predrag Danilovic, a talented young prospect, we simply could not pass on the opportunity to acquire an established center like Rony Seikaly," Nelson said.

As a rookie, Owens was dealt to the Warriors from the Sacramento Kings on Nov. 1, 1991, the night that NBA season started. In three years with Golden State, he averaged 15 points, 7.9 rebounds and 3.5 assists per game.

"Billy Owens is one of the most versatile players in the league," Heat partner Billy Cunningham said in a statement. "He's one of those special players who makes his teammates better."

Like Owens, Seikaly played at Syracuse before being the ninth player selected in the 1988 draft, the Heat's first. He has averaged 15.4 points, 10.4 rebounds and 1.4 blocks in six years with Miami.

Danilovic currently plays for Buckler Bologna in the Italian League and "is one of the top three players in Europe," Cunningham said.

Also Wednesday, the Heat placed guard-forward Keith Askins on the injured list with tendinitis of his left achilles and released forward-center Alec Kessler to bring the roster to 13 players.

Kessler averaged 5.2 points and 3.6 rebounds in his three years with the Heat.

Tarpley cited for going 92 mph

DALLAS (AP) - Less than an hour before his car was involved in an accident, Roy Tarpley was ticketed on the North Dallas Toll Road for driving nearly 40 mph over the speed limit.

Tarpley was cited at 2:50 a.m. Saturday for going 92 mph in a 55 mph zone, said Mike Cox, a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety. No further details about the traffic stop were available, he said Wednesday night.

Tarpley's black 1986 Mercedes was involved in an accident before 4 a.m. Saturday. It sustained heavy damage to the right front when it hit a utility pole in north Dallas.

Tarpley said Wednesday he was not driving the car at the time of the accident. He had allowed a friend to borrow it, he said.

Dallas police replayed a tape of a 911 call at 3:51 a.m. Saturday in which a man identifying himself as David Rooks said he had an accident while driving Tarpley's car. Seconds later, there was another 911 call from a taxi driver, also reporting the accident.

"We have no way of knowing exactly when the accident occurred or who was behind the wheel," Dallas police spokesman Ed Spencer said Wednesday.

Mavericks officials said Tarpley and his wife were dropped off at their residence shortly after he received the speeding ticket, and it was at that time that Tarpley allowed Rooks to use his car, KDFW reported Wednesday night.

Mavericks officials did not immediately return a call to The Associated Press Wednesday night.

Tarpley spoke with reporters before a team practice Wednesday morning and said he was at the team hotel in north Dallas when his friend called him shortly after the accident to inform him of the accident, KXAS-TV reported.

"I was a little upset at the time, but I was glad he didn't get hurt. I just know not to let anyone use my car anymore," Tarpley told reporters Wednesday morning.

Bagwell named AP player of year

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer
Jeff Bagwell improved in almost every way in 1994 except one - he still couldn't figure how to finish the year with a healthy left hand.

Bagwell, who blossomed into one of baseball's best sluggers this season, was honored Wednesday as major league player of the year by The Associated Press.

Bagwell batted .368 with 39 home runs and a major league-leading 116 RBIs for the Houston Astros. Last month, he became just the third unanimous MVP in NL history.

The 26-year-old first baseman had an 18-game hitting streak when his left hand was broken when he was hit by a pitch from San Diego's Andy Benes on Aug. 10, two days before the players' strike. The injury was expected to sideline him from three to five weeks.

In 1993, when he hit .320 with 20 home runs, his season ended Sept. 12 when he broke another bone in his left hand when he was hit by a pitch from Philadelphia's Ben Rivera.

"I'm becoming an all-pro at breaking my hand," Bagwell said. "I seem to learn things the hard way, but now I'm having a pad put on my batting glove so hopefully this won't happen again."

Bagwell received 31 votes in a nationwide poll of 58 sports writers and broadcasters for the AP award. Chicago White Sox first baseman Frank Thomas, a two-time AL MVP, was runner-up with 16 votes and San Francisco's Matt Williams, who led the majors with 43 home runs, was third with three.

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Your column might be of some help to a dear friend from India. He has been diagnosed with pancreatic calcification. Both my friend and I would be grateful if you could advise. My friend is leaving for home (India) soon. Is there a cure for his problem? He is 44, a non-smoker and a vegetarian. His illness makes him fatigued. Latest tests show "multiple calcifications." He also suffers from a severe diabetes control problem. — S.S.

ANSWER: Pancreatitis lies behind your friend's pancreas calcifications. The body uses calcium deposition as a response to such inflammation.

But the center of concern now is not the calcification so much as it is other problems.

The pancreas's duties include production of digestive enzymes. Without proper pancreas function, food does not get digested properly. Fortunately, artificial digestive enzymes can do the job.

Your friend's drugs, which you listed in an edited portion of your letter, include enzyme preparations.

Your friend's lack of blood sugar control — the diabetes — is of real concern. It reflects the fact that the pancreas's sugar-control insulin cells are nonfunctional. Most often, pancreas inflammation does not lead to a blood-sugar complication, but in your friend's case it has done just that. When it occurs, the diabetes is controlled with traditional medicines.

After re-reading your longer letter, I feel that your friend is getting up-to-date care, which should be bearing fruit soon. His conditions might not be curable, but they are treatable.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am enclosing a copy of your column that appeared recently on the subject of "Arm Exercise Can Help Avert Raynaud's Attacks." Would you advise what kind of exercise you meant? My copy got ripped in two, and I never got the last half. Thanks for the column, which offers a lot of good advice. — J.S.A.

ANSWER: The arm exercise is helpful, but I don't wish to leave the impression that it is a medical breakthrough for Raynaud's phenomenon.

Raynaud's consists of finger blanching and pain in response to coldness.

The exercise does help somewhat, I'm told, in mild cases. It can abort an ongoing episode. What you do is swing the arms in windmill fashion for a minute or two, thus driving blood outward into the hands and fingers.

Do not forget what I said earlier about medicines being available to help Raynaud's patients.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have been experiencing a burning and numbing sensation in my left thigh for about six months or so. It comes and goes with no detectable pattern in the attacks, except that the burning is quite severe sometimes. I need your opinion. — R.S.

ANSWER: Neither of us is going to straighten this out without a hands-on consultation. I'm leaving that up to you to arrange.

You might have meralgia paresthetica, entrapment of the upper-leg nerve that causes severe hip and upper-leg pain. If that is your problem, the answer would be surgical release of the nerve from its stranglehold. Improvement would occur promptly after the surgery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: During our recent trip to England, my husband and three boys came down with gastroenteritis, caused by "rotavirus." They all came down with it at the same time. Can you give me some information on this virus and how it is transmitted? — Mrs. B.H.

ANSWER: Rotaviruses most often attack infants and young children, targeting the stomach and intestines, leading to vomiting, abdominal pain and diarrhea — the gastroenteritis reference. A typical episode lasts three to nine days.

Contamination of food or drink provides the chief mode of transmission of such viruses. In a family setting including tots, as in your own situation, a mini-epidemic can easily take a direct fecal-oral route of transmission.

We have no specific treatment for the infection. Patients should drink plenty of fluids, for dehydration can be rapid, given the vomiting and diarrhea associated with the illness.

While sometimes listed as one of the traveler's illnesses, rotaviruses actually rank low on a list of such tourist hazards. In fact, your family need not have gone all the way to England to be introduced to the virus. It is quite common here in the United States, as it is almost anywhere else in the world.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What's the name of the drug used for Alzheimer's disease? My sister saw it recently in print, but cannot get it confirmed. We want to know about this, since my dad is an Alzheimer's patient. — B.E.L.

ANSWER: The drug is Cognex — tacrine. I have mentioned it, but that was before I added a sizable number of new newspaper readers. Cognex does not work for everyone. It has helped some of the patients who have mild to moderate cases of Alzheimer's disease.

Furthermore, many patients have stopped using the drug because of side effects, which might include nausea, vomiting and an increase in liver enzyme levels in the blood.

We do have other drugs to help people with Alzheimer's. Anti-depressants are examples. They relieve depression, which is often part and parcel of Alzheimer's, often compounding its symptoms.

For a more complete discussion, see the Alzheimer's report I am sending on. Others can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — No. 47, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DOCTOR: My 5-year-old daughter had her prekindergarten physical, and her doctor found a heart murmur. A cardiologist did tests, including an echocardiogram. He found a 2-millimeter hole between the atria of her heart (an ASD). He wants to wait a year to see if it closes or if it needs surgery. Is this common practice? — Mrs. P.A.S.

ANSWER: Two millimeters represents a hole about the size of one of the small letters in this column. In your daughter's case, the hole appears in the wall partition — septum — between her two upper heart chambers, the atria. It is technically an atrial septal defect (ASD).

The doctor's decision on how to proceed depends on the hole size, where it lies in the septum and how much blood is escaping through it.

Small defects can be watched to see how they develop, just as your doctor is suggesting. There is nothing unusual in the advice you are receiving.

Thank goodness we have preschool examinations!

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I've just started serious exercise at age 44. I have always heard that "the legs are the first to go," and I now believe it. Is there something special about leg muscles that make them so vulnerable to age? — F.J.N.

ANSWER: That cliché has taken on the status of conventional wisdom. Like so much conventional wisdom, though, it is less than complete.

Your leg muscles are every bit as durable as the others in your body, albeit subject to more injury over a lifetime.

All things being equal, the real problem begins with an untrained heart and lungs, incapable of satisfying demands of the large leg muscles during intense use. It is that function that declines with age, if anything does.

Those are problems that hold their own correction, for with aerobic exercise, the heart and lungs can be brought up to some semblance of their old capabilities.

People who stay active through life don't face that decline. Their leg vessels remain well-served.

For evidence of the elderly concern about continuing exercise, visit the sign-up tent of a long-distance race. You might find as many runners over 50 as under.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am interested in your items on marathons. I hear it is best to train right up to race time. I used to hear that it is better to back off on training before an event. Which is right? — L.O.K.

ANSWER: Definitely, you should taper your training a week before a competitive distance race. If you want to continue training, run about 15 percent of the accustomed training mileage in the pre-race week.

Now, if your goal is to improve past marathon speeds, take a leaf from the training tips of Dr. Joseph Houlihan. He has his runners speed up by having them run 400 meters all-out instead of longer distances in the week before a marathon.

Please let me know how things work out for you. . . .

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539.

NEW YORK (AP) - A year after a car crash left him on life support, Mike McAlary is walking again - and his career is sprinting.

Simon & Schuster has released the New York Daily News columnist's third police book, called "Good Cop, Bad Cop." It tells the story of a former NYPD Internal Affairs officer, Detective Joseph Trimboli, whose obsessive five-year investigation led to the undoing of the drug-dealing, extortionist - and fellow officer - Michael Dowd.

McAlary, who has worked at every New York City tabloid, broke the story of Dowd's corruption. The accident last year left him in critical condition for weeks before he recovered.

According to Sir Winston Churchill, "The United Nations was set up not to get us to heaven, but only to save us from hell."

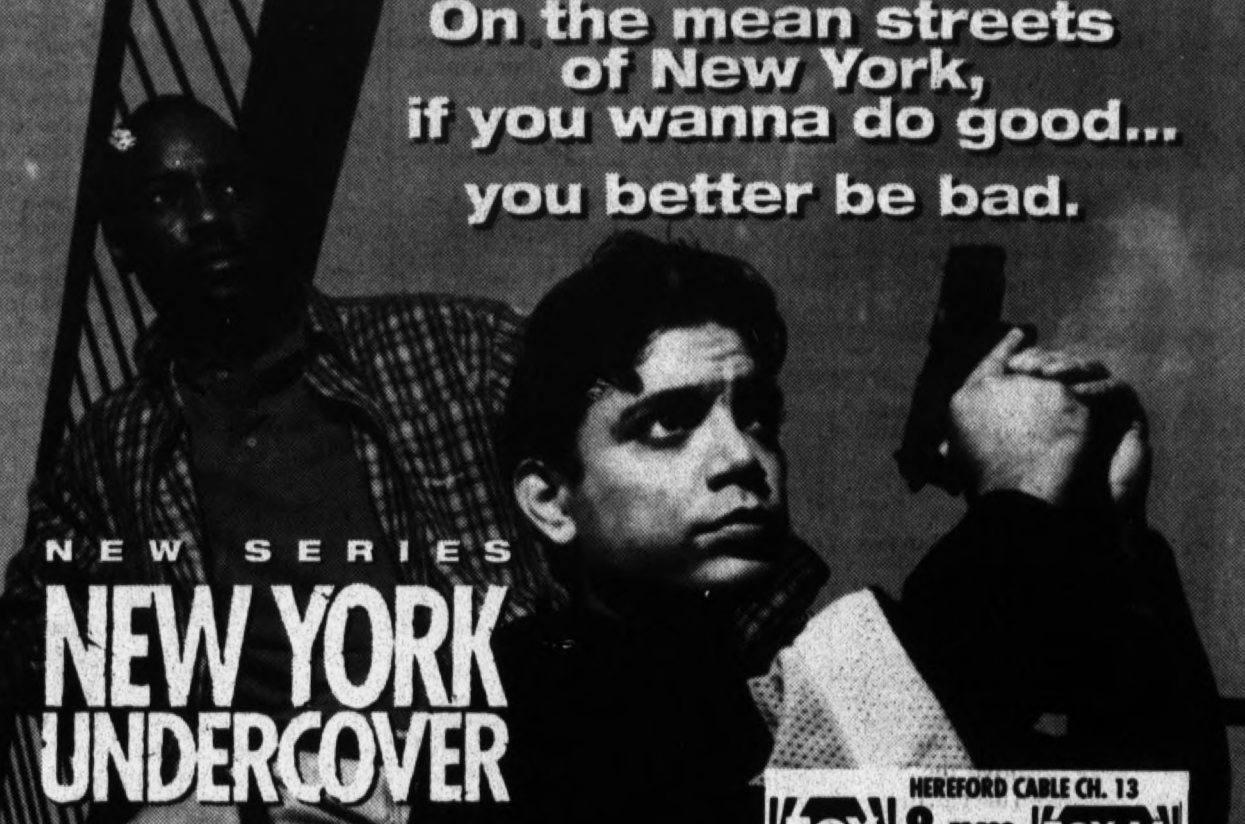

Gen. George Custer's forces were wiped out June 25, 1876, by Sioux and Cheyenne Indians in the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

Hereford aviator honored

Dwain Pittenger of Hereford won the "Best of Show" award when he flew his Bamboo Bomber to the recent Southwest Oklahoma/North Texas Fly-In at Frederick, OK. Pittenger received a red jacket as his prize. The fly-in and show served as a reunion of airmen and civilians who served at Frederick Army Air Field (1942-45). Pittenger told the audience how he obtained the AT17 aircraft and how much work money the project cost.

Haunted house hosts

Hereford FFA members conducted a haunted house project at the Johnny Wall residence with about 300 visitors touring the premises. Members participating were Bric Wall, Zack Wall, Stephanie Wilson, Colby Christie, Tanner Murphey, Lyndsey Ward, Stephen Wheeler, Ty Nall, Nancy Mason, Jeff Kingston, John Haffliger, Jay Wilson, Amy Killingsworth, Tate Head, David Farr, Gregg Kalka, Shawn Malone, Kip Smith and Clint Robison.
